San Francisco, Cal.—Rare French vintages are rare indeed in these troublesome times, and the S. S. Minnesota loads a big cargo of the bombing California wine for the East. Subtitles: This hold resembles a real wine cellar. Plugging up a leaky barrel to save every drop of the precious fluid.

In France—The German asphyxiating cloud no longer holds any terrors for the Allies, who have taken appropriate steps to overcome its effects. Subtitles: Different types of respirators invented by the French to defeat the Teutons' purpose. Troops leaving for the front.

EXHIBITORS!!!

The largest manufacturer of machine parts is going to Fight the Combine!!

Efforts are now being made to form a combination of dealers in motion picture machines, parts and supplies. We are informed the declared object of this move is to obtain higher prices, eliminate competition, dominate the trade and tell exhibitors where they get off.

We think that during the past ten years we have made a larger number and greater variety of parts than the combined output of all other manufacturers and that we are now in a position to take such care of the trade that Exhibitors Will Not Be Throttled!!

Sales have always been made in wholesale quantities only, to manufacturers of machines and dealers, but if any exhibitor cannot now obtain our products from his dealer we will fill his orders direct. Our price on parts for Power No. 6B, Power No. 6A, Power No. 6, Power No. 5, Edison Model "B" and Edison Exhibition machines is:

Discount of 20% from List Prices and with the largest stock ever accumulated under one roof we can fill orders the same day as received.

We carry a complete line of all supplies used in theatres at prices which will make any old combine sit up and take notice. Frequently we will have special sales of various articles good for prompt acceptance only. To start things off, we quote until April 1st, 1917, net cash prices as follows:

Maltese Cross, Finest French Imported Condensers, 4½" diameter, 6½" or 7½" focus. (List Price $1.00)	@ $.70 net
Lens Tubes, quarter size, nickel plated, 3" to 8" focus. (List Price $6.00)	@ $3.00 net
Lens Jackets, quarter size, spiral movement, black enamel finish. (List Price $4.00)	@ $1.85 net
Asbestos covered Wire, No. 6, per foot. (List Price $.10)	@ $.08 net
Two In One Film Cement, per bottle. (List price $.20)	@ $.09 net

Every article sold by us guaranteed absolutely first class, and if not perfectly satisfactory in every detail, fire it back and we will cheerfully refund amount paid.

Send for Catalogue, Get on Our Mailing List. Save Money.

C. R. Baird Company

24 East 23rd Street,

New York

are supplied with gas masks. The civil population in bombarded towns is also provided with these masks.

Chatham, Eng.—Great Britain is training a large Naval Reserve to uphold the traditions of her fleet as the champion of the seas. Subtitles: The new recruits are allowed a day of liberty to visit their homes. Australian volunteers resting during a long practice hike.

Palm Beach, Fla.—Society's little folk, sojourning on these balmy shores, begin early to indulge in their pretty springtime games. Subtitles: The happiest moments of their childhood days. Pleasant recreation.

Chicago, Ill.—Recruiting officers employ a complete artillery squad, equipped with the new army tractor, to stimulate enlistment. Subtitles: The tractor is designed to replace horses in the United States artillery. The kerosene fed steed responds to every tug of the rein just as its predecessor.

Citico, Tenn.—A huge smokestack, the last remaining landmark of the dismantled iron furnaces, falls with a mighty crash. Subtitles: Strolling through the giant funnel.

San Antonio, Tex.—General Frederick Funston (short man), Commander of the Department of the South, whose death the nation mourns. Subtitle: "Fighting Fred," as he was popularly known.

New York City.—Large American liners are held at their piers awaiting the governments' decision on their protection in the barred zone. Subtitles: Fireboats prowling about the crowded dock to prevent possible conflagration. The men are constantly at the nozzle of their powerful streams. Guarding the bridges. Two fleet destroyers, with steam always up, keep watch over the harbor, ready for any emergency.

PATRIA, (No. 6, "Alias Nemesis"—Astra—Two Parts—Feb. 18).—The cast: Patria (Mrs. Vernon Castle); Donald Parr (Milton Sills); Baron Huroki (Warner Oland).

Patria being advised that Huroki's assassins may attempt her life, goes into hiding in a cottage at Sakonett. Meanwhile Elaine, still masquerading as Patria, announces her engagement to Senor De Lima.

Elaine gives a masked ball at the Patria villa with dancing on the lawn by moonlight. Patria, accompanied by Donald, contrives to get in unnoticed, and goes to her room, leaving Donald concealed in the hall. Patria, wearing a mask, sends a maid for Elaine. When Elaine arrives she faces a revolver and is ordered to take off her clothes and change with Patria.

Elaine's manager, Edouard, crazed by drink, and in a jealous rage, climbs into the window, shoots Elaine and disappears. Donald rushes in, advises Patria and goes out another door as Huroki, Senor De Lima and Fanny Adair enter. Pointing to the body of the dancer, Patria, assuming the part of Elaine, tells Huroki Patria is dead and that it is up to him to cover up the murder.

Meanwhile Edouard rushes to the cliff and—PATRIA (No. 8, "Red Night"—Astra—Two Parts—March 4).—The cast: Patria Channing (Mrs. Vernon Castle); Donald Parr (Milton Sills); Baron Huroki (Warner Oland).

Though Patria was successful in averting the explosion, the strike continues. The strikers, furnished with arms by Huroki, make a demonstration against the factory, which is defeated by a few faithful employees under Donald Parr and the Channing officials.

Patria appeals to the Governor for militia, but the wires have been cut by Huroki's men. Patria then goes out and faces the strikers alone. They are taken by surprise, and Patria asks what they demand. The strikers send their leaders to confer with Patria. She at once accedes to their demands on two conditions: First, that the men consent to undergo military training entirely at her, Patria's, expense, and second, that they have no more to do with Huroki, De Lima and their kind. Those gentlemen are flabbergasted when the strikers accept. Spied on by the mob, they start to run, followed by their erstwhile friends and barely escape.

Patria and Don return to New York. The conspirators make arrangements to set fire to the docks at Black Tom, where $7,000,000 worth of munitions await shipment. Huroki sees that Donald and Patria are informed of the plot, feeling sure they will endeavor to prevent the explosion, and expecting that they will perish in it. Donald does go, but refuses to expose Patria to the danger. She persuades Ryley, Donald's chief assistant in the Secret Service, to go with her in the launch. There is a great explosion before Patria reaches Black Tom. Donald has been knocked senseless and is lying between two lines of burning freight cars. Patria and Ryley rescue him and make their way to a schooner. The moorings are cast off, but the schooner catches fire. Donald, with Patria, takes refuge at the top of one of the masts. It, too, is enveloped in flames and finally falls overboard. Donald manages to lay hold of a piece of wreckage and supports Patria until they are picked up by a police patrol boat.

PEARL OF THE ARMY (Episode No. 11, "A Million Volunteers"—Astra—Two Parts—Feb. 11).—The cast: Pearl Dare (Pearl White); T. O. Adams (Ralph Kellard); Major Brent (Theodore Fricbus); the Silent Menace (????).

Pearl begins to feel a fascination for T. O. Adams, who alternately wins her confidence and her distrust. While Major Brent is pressing his suit for her hand, her memory travels back to the time when she and Adams were caught in the watery trap beneath one of Bolero's strongholds. She feels again Adams kiss as the water rose and they both faced death. But hastily brushing sentimental thoughts aside, she turns to Brent and says, "I can't marry anyone until I clear Captain Payne's name. I feel the Silent Menace can prove his innocence. Capture him and bring him to me, then perhaps—"

Adams, learning of Brent's proposal, warns Pearl against him, stating that he can prove the man's perfidy. He brings Bertha to prove it, but Pearl refuses to believe her story and berates Adams.

The Silent Menace enters the house and Pearl gives chase, following him upstairs. Quickly locking them both in the room he threatens to end her interference forever. Adams bursts through the door, overpowers him and leads him, struggling, to the library. Pearl turns to thank Adams, but he has disappeared. Unmasking the Silent Menace, she finds it is—tells Pearl the fact that Major Brent's arm is broken indicates that he is the Silent Menace. Pearl is in doubt and sends Adams away. Bertha Bonn discovers the Silent Menace has quarters in the same building in which she resides. Securing the aid of Adams, they cut a hole in the ceiling and, crawling into the rooms, attempt to gain evidence by going through his papers. While thus engaged they are trapped by him.

PEARL OF THE ARMY (Episode No. 14, "The Flag Despoller"—Astra—Two Parts—March 4).—His innocence established, Adams

Pearl, suspicious of Adams, has followed. Seeing that Adams and Bertha are trapped, she quickly brings the soldiers to the rescue. But the Menace escapes. The Menace has his secret army awaiting his signal, which is the replacing of the American flag by a black one. Pearl has followed, and just as he lowers the American flag, grapples with him. A fight ensues on the flag-mast, but Pearl is the victor and sends the Silent Menace over the edge of the roof to the pavement far below, then raises the American flag. Descending to the ground she unmasks the Silent Menace.

PATHE'S "HER BELOVED ENEMY" (Gold Rooster—Thanhouser—Five parts—Mar. 4).—The cast: Sylvia Leigh (Doris Grey); The Man (Wayne Arey); Sylvia's father (J. H. Gilmour); Dorothy (Gladys Leslie). Directed by Ernest Warde.

Sylvia Leigh's only recollection of her father was a dim memory of a distinguished looking man who brought her to boarding school when she was a youngster. From that time he never came to see her, but letters came from him with foreign postmarks stating that "important business" kept him away. After her graduation an old family servant took her to the home she had never known.

Within a few months her father appeared. Not the parent she had pictured, but a broken old man whose mind seemed haunted by some shadow from the past. One day while they were motoring in the park he suddenly drew a revolver and, aiming it at a passing auto, exclaimed, "That man wrecked my life!" But before he could pull the trigger he fell exhausted from the effort and the other car passed before Sylvia saw his face.

Her father became seriously ill from the excitement. On his death-bed he made her promise to run to earth the man who ruined his life. With no clues or an inkling of what the secret was, she attempted to locate him by an ad in the papers, only to fall into a trap. A roughly clad young man came to her rescue. Some weeks later she was surprised to find this same young man as a guest at a dance given by a girl friend. But this time he was clad in evening dress and perfectly at home among society.

Then came the blow. / incident revealed him to her as the man she had vowed to bring to atonement. She shadowed him, caught him in a compromising position, kept him captive and phoned the police. Then the fact that she still loved him rushed over her. She realized also that her father's secret was still a mystery. What will she do? Keep a death-bed promise and turn him over to the law or obey her heart? Love wins out. As a knock comes on the door she tells him she still loves him and to escape. But he only smiles; opens the door to the officers, who get him familiarly, and then he makes some remarkable disclosures to Sylvia, which bring happiness to her troubled heart.

L EADING theatres throughout the United States and Canada have been using RADIUM GOLD FIBRE SCREENS for years. Many of them find it profitable to advertise to their patrons as frequently and as strongly that they are using a RADIUM screen as they do that they are using some particular film service which they consider of highest quality. This ought to be a convincing argument to the exhibitor who feels that he needs a new projection screen and doesn't know just what kind he wants to buy. And yet, we do not ask you to blindly follow the lead of someone else. We'll assure you that you'll get better pictures on a RADIUM GOLD FIBRE SCREEN with an expenditure of less money than on any other screen made—and if you are unable to prove this by your own experience after you've installed a RADIUM we'll accept our goods in return and send back the money you have paid us. Could anything be fairer?

Canadian Distributors—J. T. Malone Films, Inc., Rialto Theatre Bldg., Montreal; All-features, Ltd., 56 King St., W., Toronto.

Radium Gold Fibre Screen, Inc.

LEON SCHLOSINGER, General Manager

220 W. 42d Street, New York City

Classified Advertisements

NOTE TERMS CAREFULLY

Remittances must accompany all orders for classified advertisements as follows: One dollar per insertion for copy containing twenty words or less. Five cents per word on copy containing over twenty words. Each word to be counted including names and addresses.

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS:—The Publishers expect that all statements made in every advertisement will bear the strictest investigation.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

AS ASSISTANT, publicity or advertising manager for live exhibitor. Photoplay newspaper and advertising experience. Highest references. Address Talbott, care Charles Weise Co., Rockford, Ill.

COMPETENT young organist wants position. Playing pictures preferred. Not under contract at present time. Address Organist, 944 Coward Pl., Memphis, Tenn.

ASSISTANT cameraman, two years' experience; also expert still photographer. Best references. I., care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

TICKET SELLER or typewriter. Am not graduate as typewriter, but make good. Also write and speak German. Go anywhere. Not afraid of work. Thirty-eight years old. Mrs. Easton, Box 154, Youngsville, N. Y.

AT LIBERTY—Capable picture theater manager, twelve years' experience, go anywhere, salary or commission. Address Christian, 30 Covert St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES.

FOR SALE—Motion picture studio and plant. Full equipment, large building and land. At Fairfax, California, one hour from San Francisco. Wonderful climate, beautiful scenery. California, care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

EXPORT—A firm in India with four branches and large selling connections is in the market for films, apparatus, electric accessories and theatrical equipment. Can use second hand films, serials and one and two reel subjects—only must be in good condition, not scratched or damaged. Prefer make arrangement with American buyer in moving picture line. Responsible parties only. All particulars first letter. Wellington Bros., Church Gate St., Bombay, India.

THEATER WANTED.

WILL LEASE picture theater, state population, number seats, rent, what opposition. Address Christian, 30 Covert St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

THEATERS FOR SALE OR RENT.

VAUDEVILLE and moving picture theater located in city of forty thousand. Seating capacity eight hundred. Rent twenty-seven hundred dollars a year, very finest equipment. Receipts eleven hundred to thirteen hundred dollars per week. Price complete six thousand. An exceptional bargain. Hunt, 339 Brisbane Bldg., Buffalo, N. Y.

ILL HEALTH compels sacrifice of property, equipment and business. Established five years, worth $30,000.00. Price, $20,000.00, $8,000.00 cash necessary. V., care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

FOR SALE—Two of the best located theaters in Harrisburg, including properties. One seating over 600, the other 970. Address 5 So. 13th St., Harrisburg, Pa.

FOR SALE or rent beautiful, modern money making picture show, easy terms. Will bear close investigation. T. V. T., care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

MOVING PICTURE THEATER for sale, seats 800, in town of 40,000 near New York. Doing a good business. Partnership disagreement, reasons for selling. Write F., care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

EQUIPMENT WANTED.

WE BUY all makes of moving picture machines. What have you? Monarch Film Service, 228 Union Ave., Memphis, Tenn.

EQUIPMENT FOR SALE.

FOR SALE—Slightly used Simplex projectors, guaranteed perfect and good as new at reasonable prices. Second-hand Motiograph in good condition, cheap. Room 206, 1482 Broadway, N. Y. City.

BARGAINS—Slightly used Simplex, Power's and Motiograph machine. Lowest prices—fully guaranteed. Hallberg, 729 Seventh Ave., N. Y. City.

WHY DOES Richardson recommend "Amberlux" lens filters? Write and find out particulars. Price, with slide, $3.50. W. D. Warner, 8 E. Broad St., Columbus, Ohio.

POWER'S 6B, 6A, 6. Simplex type B and type S. Edison Exhibition model B, model D. Motiograph and three master model standard machines. All in perfect condition, can be obtained at low prices. National Carbons, $\frac{5}{8} \times 12$ in., \$6.00 per hundred, $\frac{3}{4} \times 12$ in., \$7.76 per hundred. Call or write to-day. Picture Theater Equipment Co., 1604 Broadway, N. Y. City.

POWER'S 6A hand drive, $110.00, and Power's 6A motor drive, $150.00. Both excellent condition. Ship collect, privilege examination. J. F. Gatliffe & Co., 231 Main St., Springfield, Mass.

ABSOLUTELY brand new, fully equipped Power's double dissolving stereopticon with Iris diaphragm. Cheap. Carl Gilbert, Box 834 Sioux City, Ia.

BARGAINS in used equipment. (Projecting and Stereo lenses with all machines.) 2 Power's 6As with new lamp and lamphouse, 14" magazines, D. C. motors, just like new, each, $175.00. 2 Power's 6As, first-class condition, 14" magazines, A. C. or D. C. motors, each, $160.00. Power's 6, first-class condition, $125.00. 2 1914 model Motiographs, A. C. or D. C. motors, A-1 condition, each $150.00. 2 1913 model Motiographs A. C. or D. C. motors, A-1 condition, each $125.00, 4-16" Oscillating, bracket type, 110 volt, D. C. Wall fans, used one season, each $10.00. 24" Davidson propeller exhaust fan, 110 volt, D. C., good condition, $50.00. A. C. to D. C., 220 volt, 35 ampere, Fort Wayne Compensarc, A-1 condition, $150.00. 50 Ampere, 110 volt, G. E. Mercury Rectifier, almost new, $175.00. Electric lighting plant, consisting of 1-15 H. P. St. Mary's Engine belted to Lincoln 10 H. P., 125 V. 80 amp, 1,300 R. P. M. Generator. Plant now running and in fair condition. Price, F. O. B., Akron, $400.00. Electric lighting plant, consisting of Reeves vertical 2 cylinder, 40 H. P. engine, directly coupled to a 25 K. W. Western Electric generator, 125 V., 200 amp., 300 R. P. M. switchboard, complete, with circuit breaker and instruments, air starter. A modern plant, used with very light load about two years running evenings only. Especially desirable for moving picture theater. Price, F. O. B., cars Akron, Ohio, $1,600.00. Wuritzer piano with flute pipes and Mandolin attachment. Just overhauled. Good condition. Original cost, $900.00. Price, F. O. B., cars Akron, Ohio, $400.00. All prices F. O. B., Akron, Ohio. Terms to suit purchaser. The Theater Supply Co., 405-7-9 Nantucket Bldg., Akron, Ohio.

OPERA CHAIRS—300 twenty-inch, 65c each. 450 lot, 40c each, splendid shape. 3,000 others, 60c up. Atlas Seating Co., 10 East 43d St., N. Y. City.

CAMERAS, ETC., FOR SALE.

PROFESSIONAL CAMERAS, tripods, perforators, printers, developing outfits, rewinders, Tessars, effects, devices, novelties, experimental workshop, repair, expert film work, titles. Eberhard Schneider, 14th St. & Second Ave., N. Y. City.

SEE OUR FULL PAGE ADVERTISEMENT ON THE INSIDE BACK COVER OF THIS WEEK'S ISSUE. DAVID STERN CO.

SCHNEIDER, 200-foot, 50 MM. Zeiss Tessar F:3.5 lens, round dissolve, trick crank, six magazines, carrying case; heavy tripod, panorama and tilt, $110.00. A Van Collie, Gillespie, Ill.

UNIVERSAL, $300.00; Cines No. 4, with tripod, $250.00; Pittman, $96.00; Kinograph, $60.00; tripods, $20.00 to $55.00. Ray, 326 Fifth Ave., N. Y. City.

FILMS, ETC., WANTED.

"PILGRIM'S PROGRESS," "Parsifal" and other classic films. State condition, lowest price, paper, cuts, photos. Ray, 25 Clinton St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

FILMS, ETC., FOR SALE.

"EAST LYNNE," 6 reels; "The Lure," 5 reels; "An American Gentleman," 5 reels; "For $5,000 a Year," 5 reels, all in first class condition, full line of posters. Bargains, Queen City Feature Film Co., 109 W. Fifth St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

FOR SALE—Over two hundred reels film, good condition; films with and without paper at $3.00 per reel. Liberty Film Renting Co., 958 Penn Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa.

FOR SALE—"Last Days of Pompeii," "Rip Van Winkle," "America" and many others. Send for list. Federal Feature Film Co., 145 West 45th St., N. Y. City.

WINNIPEG—St. Paul 522 Mile Dog Derby. Noted drivers and dog teams. About one-half release ready. Feature Film Co., 27 E. Seventh St., St. Paul, Minn.

SEND FOR list and prices of single, two reel, three reel, four and five reel films with and without posters. Fine condition. Prominent screen stars. Jas. A. Hoon, 225 Fifth Ave., N. Y. City.

HAVE 1,000 reels in 1, 2 and 3 reel subjects. Will buy, sell or exchange. Consolidated Film Service, 211 Columbia Bldg., Cleveland, Ohio.

PENDLETON ROUND-UP—Typical frontier days show. New and used prints. Hauck Feature Film Co., 294 East 56th St., Portland, Oreg.

ADVERTISER has for sale at the biggest bargain ever offered eleven Imperial illustrated song films, brand new, never used. With each film there is a good supply of lithographed—special three and one sheet posters, lobby photographs, music, orchestrations, in fact, all the material to exploit as an illustrated song act or feature. The films are all beautifully tinted and cost me over two thousand dollars cash. This is the chance of a lifetime for picture singers, State rights men or exchanges. The first man to send me two hundred dollars cash gets the entire eleven films and all the accessories that go with them. Terms cash or come here and see them for yourself. Will exchange for good copy of the feature entitled "The End of the World," with supply of paper and photos for same, or will ship single films, one, or as many as you want, for twenty dollars each. No. C. O. D. to any person. I am reliable and refer you to Dominion Express Co. or Imperial Bank. If you want this bargain, come quick, they will not last long at this sacrifice. John C. Green, Temple Theater, Galt, Canada.

MISCELLANEOUS.

WE renew typewriter ribbons for ten cents, providing fabric is good. Satisfaction guaranteed. Ribbon-Re-Nu Co., Box 114, Elwood, Ia.

For Your Little Wants in the Moving Picture Industry the Little Ads in the Classified Department

Will Get You Exceptional Results

Send Your Copy, Accompanied by Remittance—The Rate is 5c. per Word, 20 Words or Less $1.00

INDEX

TO CONTENTS

Abrams Pays Respects to Open Booking...	1584	"Gates of Doom, The" (Universal).....	1589	Photoplaywright, The.....	1562
Action of Industry Fast and Furious....	1500	Glimpse Into the Past, The.....	1527	Photoplay Writing, Then and Now.....	1491
Actor in the Early Days, The.....	1509	Greatest Force in World for Progress.....	1508	Pittsburgh Filmdom Notes.....	1644
Advance in Theater Decoration, The.....	1512	Great Works of Pathe Freres.....	1529	Popular Picture Personalities.....	1571
Advertising for Exhibitors.....	1539	Haslan, Kenneth D., Joins Fine Arts....	1554	"Price She Paid, The" (Selznick).....	1588
"America Is Ready" (M-C.).....	1588	"Hell" Morgan's Girl" (Bluebird).....	1590	"Pride and the Devil" (Art Dramas).....	1590
American's President Talks of Ten Years.	1502	How a Film Exchange Started.....	1534	"Promise, The" (Metro).....	1589
Ascher Brothers Chicago Circuit, The....	1572	How the First "Independent" Started....	1518	Programs of Variety Will Come Back Again	1516
At the Leading Picture Theaters.....	1552	How the World Has Grown.....	1538	Projection Department.....	1563
Australian Note.....	1608	If You See That Film, We'll Tell Your Wife	1649	Projection Light.....	1537
Avoid Suspicion of Graft.....	1542	Independent Production Made Balboa.....	1526	Projection, Past and Present.....	1494
"Back of the Man" (Triangle).....	1587	Industry Owes Much to Good Projection..	1493	Province Uses Shows to Urge Recruiting..	1643
Basic Business Principles Should Govern..	1499	"Intrigue" (Vitagraph).....	1586	Random Shots About Export.....	1545
"Betsy's Burglar" (Triangle).....	1587	Kalem's Achievements As Pioneer.....	1504	"Red Night" (Pathe).....	1585
Besserer, Eugene.....	1549	Kalem Signs Ham and Bud.....	1554	Reminiscences of Pictures Babyhood Days.	1524
Big Profits Ten Years Ago.....	1511	Kansas City Movie Ball Is Shaping Up...	1633	Reviews of Current Productions.....	1585
Boston's Big Community Theater Opens..	1641	King Goes to South America.....	1584	Rockford Has Sunday Shows as Formerly.	1649
Brooklyn Ball a Winner.....	1548	Lindsay, Vachel, on the Photoplay.....	1583	Rocky Mountain Screen Club Rewards
Buffalo, Co-operation Keynote in.....	1646	Looking Back.....	1506	Huffman.....	1655
Calendar of Daily Program Releases.....	1658	Looking Over the Files of the World.....	1484	"Secret of Eve, The" (Metro).....	1589
Canada's First Exhibitor.....	1498	List of Current Film Release Dates.....	1680, 1682, 1684, 1686	Short Story of Large Contracts, A.....	1521
Campbell, Webster, in "Truth Triumphant"	1558	Manufacturers' Advance Notes.....	1595	Showing Pictures Under Fine Conditions..	1496
Censorship Discussed in Lansing.....	1647	Mace, Fred, Dead.....	1550	Signs of Co-operation.....	1650
Censorship Talk in Louisville.....	1648	Miller, Vic., Cinematographer.....	1538	Slim Days in Keystone Beginnings.....	1535
Changes in Ten Years, Some Notable....	1488	"Mirror of Fear, The" (Kalem).....	1588	Small Town Exhibitor. The.....	1531
Chicago News Letter.....	1555	Missouri Censorship Hangs Fire.....	1650	Song Slide, The Little Father of Photo-
Cleveland Exchanges, Changes Among....	1646	Motion Picture Educator.....	1569	drama.....	1520
Comments on the Films.....	1592	Motion Picture Exhibitor.....	1546	Southern Exhibitors Organize.....	1548
Commercialized or Subsidized.....	1541	Motion Picture Photography.....	1567	Southerners Organize Exchange.....	1554
Couldn't Get Film, Opened Exchange.....	1501	Motion Picture Studios of California....	1599	Spokane, Hope for Admission Raise in....	1655
Dallas, Gertrude, With Thanhouser.....	1558	"Moral Code, The" (Art Dramas).....	1587	Story of the Beginning.....	1481
Death Toll for the Decade.....	1528	Music for the Pictures.....	1568	Stories of the Films.....	1660
Days of Worry, Those of a Decade Ago..	1503	"My Fighting Gentleman" (Mutual).....	1589	Sunday Shows Win.....	1550
Decade of Educational Advancement, A...	1536	New Orleans, Distinctive Picture in....	1652	Ten Years of Film Advertising.....	1489
Denver's Newest Downtown Theater Opens	1655	New Theater Will Seat 6,000.....	1642	Ten Years of Film Publicity.....	1530
Development of Exhibition.....	1497	News of Los Angeles and Vicinity.....	1551	Thoughts of a Jellyfish.....	1541
Development of the Gaumont Company....	1532	No Longer Unhonored and Unsung.....	1519	"Tiger-Woman, The" (Fox).....	1535
Directing in Other Days Was No Snap....	1522	No Other Business Would Stand Censorship	1543	Toast to Those Who Made Mistakes.....	1525
"Empress, The" (Pathe).....	1585	Notes of the Trade.....	1640	Toronto, Congestion Troubles Film Men...	1645
Evans, Thomas. An Early Bird.....	1544	Old Cooper-Hewitt Light.....	1574	Turning of the Ways, The.....	1515
Every Year Like Ten, Says Universal Man.	1533	Oklahoma Convention.....	1547	Twelve Years in One Studio.....	1507
Exchange Falls, Ties Up Deposits.....	1542	One Decade of Picture Acting.....	1510	Twenty-four Years in the Picture Business.	1526
Exhibitor's Interesting Ramble.....	1511	"On Record" (Lasky).....	1586	Upstate Man Champions Sunday Shows...	1544
Expressage, Both Ways.....	1651	Optimistic Mechanical Outlook.....	1514	We Are Facing Facts, Not Theories.....	1542
Facts and Comments.....	1539	"Passion" (McClure).....	1586	"Web of Desire, The" (World).....	1585
"Fatty" Arbuckle on Way East.....	1550	Persuading Actors into Pictures.....	1516	We're at the Dawn.....	1540
Filling the Raw Film Demand.....	1513	"Phantom Mine, The" (Kalem).....	1588	What to Say to Your Lawmakers.....	1546
"Fortunes of Fifi, The" (Lasky).....	1590			What Theater Men Are Doing.....	1497
France Is General Manager.....	1552			What the World's Initial Number Contained.	1483
From a Pennsy Barroom to the Rialto....	1512			When the Field Was Fresh.....	1523
From Flickers to Steady-as-a-Rock.....	1495			Wisconsin Senate Passes Option Bill.....	1651

KNOWLEDGE BRINGS SUCCESS

Messrs. Exhibitor, Exchangeman, Operator, and Film Men Everywhere:—The moving picture business is one of the youngest but one of the leading industries of the world to-day. We may well be proud to be connected with it. Are you keeping up? Do you know all about it? It will yield larger returns for an equal amount of work to the men who know. Each weekly issue of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD contains more up-to-date information than you can get from all other sources. Subscribe now if not already on our mailing list. You will get your paper hours earlier than from the newsstand and it costs less.

ONE YEAR.....$3.00
SIX MONTHS.....$1.50

See title page for rates Canada and Foreign

MOVING PICTURE WORLD

17 Madison Avenue, New York

Cut out and mail

Theatre

TO ADVERTISERS

CARBONS AND CARBON ACCESSORIES.

Jones & Cammack.....	1674
National Carbon Co.....	1685
Speer Carbon Co.....	1687

CHAIR AND SEATING MANUFACTURERS.

Steel Furniture Co.....	1668
-------------------------	------

ELECTRICAL & MECHANICAL EQUIP.

American Auto-Arc Co., Inc.....	1689
Amusement Supply Co.....	1578
Baird, C. R., Co.....	1675
Bell & Howell Co.....	1578
Calehuff Supply Co.....	1692
Fulton, E. E.....	1692
Globe Ventilator Co.....	1691
Hallberg, J. H.....	1694
Hertner Electric & Mfg. Co.....	1662
Hommel, Ludwig & Co.....	1690
Lucas Theater Supply Co.....	1668
Northwestern Electric Co.....	1578
Porter, B. F.....	1692
Strelinger, Chas. A.....	1662
Swabb, Lewis M.....	1672
Typhoon Fan Co.....	1672
Wagner Electric Mfg. Co.....	1687

FILM EXCHANGES.

Bradenburgh, G. W.....	1692
------------------------	------

LENS MANUFACTURERS.

Bausch & Lomb Optical Co.....	1691
Gundlach-Manhattan Optical Co.....	1687

MANUFACTURERS OF MOVING PICTURES.

Art Dramas, Inc.....	1468-69
Artcraft Pictures Corp.....	1440-41
Balboa Amusement Producing Corp.,	Colored Insert
Beecroft, Chester.....	1467
Bluebird Photo Plays, Inc.....	Colored Insert
Cardinal Film Corp.....	1439
Chaplin, Benj.....	1430
Christie Film Co.....	1618
Ciune Producing Co.....	1668
Consolidated Film Co.....	1681
Corona Cinema Co.....	1621
Educational Films Corp. of America.....	1435
Enlightenment Photoplay Corp.....	1475
Essanay Film Mfg. Co.....	1431, 1476-77
Fox Film Corp.....	1438
Frieder Film Corp.....	1620
Friedman Enterprises, Inc.....	1448-49
Frohman Amusement Corp.....	1436-37
Gaumont Co.....	1462
General Film Co.....	1479
Gold Medal Photoplayers.....	1471
Goldwyn Pictures Corp.....	1444-45
Grafton Film Publishing Co.....	1668
Grossman, H., Distributing Co.....	1470
Hawk Film Co.....	1460
Horsley, David, Productions.....	1615
Ince, Thos. H.....	1613-14
Ivan Film Productions, Inc.....	1461
Kalem Co.....	1480
La Salle Film Co.....	1474
L-KO Motion Picture Corp.....	1616
Metro Pictures Corp.....	Colored Insert
"Mothers of France".....	1446
Mutual Film Corp—Colored Insert, 1463-65, 1581
National Drama Corp.....	1668
Paragon Films.....	1454-55
Paramount Pictures Corp.....	1442-43

Pathe Exchange, The, Inc.....	Colored Insert
Selig Polyscope Co.....	1478
Selznick, Lewis J., Enterprises.....	1452-53
Superfeatures, Inc.....	1447
Triangle Pictures Corp.....	1456-57
Ultra Pictures Corp.....	1453-59
Universal Film Mfg. Co.....	1432-34
Vogue Films, Inc.....	1466
Wark Producing Corp.....	1472-73
World Film Corp.....	1450-51

MISCELLANEOUS.

All Star Features Dist., Inc.....	1619
American Bioscope Co.....	1580
Automatic Ticket Selling & C. R. Co.....	1688
Bidwell & Larraine.....	1692
Berner, H. S., & Co.....	1689
Bioscope, The.....	1689
Cine Mundial.....	1656
Classified Advertisements.....	1677
Corcoran, A. J.....	1683
Crystal Photoplays Corp.....	1664
Duhem Mot. Pict. Mfg. Co.....	1693
Eastman Kodak Co.....	1691
Erbograph Co.....	1673
Evans Film Mfg. Co.....	1692
Federal Sign System.....	1576
General Film Co.....	1664
Gunby Bros.....	1668
Hamburg.....	1580
Holcomb & Hoke Mfg. Co.....	1685
Il Tirso Cinematografo.....	1692
Indiana State Exhibitors' Association.....	1689
Kraus Mfg. Co.....	1672
Kinematograph Weekly, The.....	1664
Lee, Jos. F.....	1681
Marion, Louise M.....	1690
Moore, Wm. N.....	1668
M. P. Directory Co.....	1693
M. P. Electricity.....	1690
National Ticket Co.....	1670
"Organist," care M. P. World.....	1668
Pacific Tank & Pipe Co.....	1664
Publicity Clock Co.....	1680
Richardson, F. H.....	1689
Richardson's M. P. Handbook.....	1688
Rosenberg, Mr.....	1688
Ross & Co.....	1690
Rothacker Film Mfg. Co.....	1582
Schiller Metal Sign Co.....	1578
Schwartz Films.....	1578
Slipper, J., & Co.....	1693
Solidhed Tack Co.....	1662
Standard M. P. Co.....	1576
Superior Films, Inc.....	1662
Williams, A. F.....	1664
Willis & Inglis.....	1657

MOVING PICTURE CAMERAS.

Burke & James, Inc.....	1580
DeVry Corp., The.....	1576
Gennert, G.....	1683
Stern, David, Co.....	1695

MOVING PICTURE PROFESSIONALS.

Allison, May.....	1635
Apfel, Oscar.....	1633
Barker, Reginald.....	Colored Insert
Bartlett, Lanier.....	1628
Beal, Frank.....	1631
Blystone, Jack & Howell, Alice.....	1629
Bruton, Robert.....	1627
Campbell, Colin.....	1632
Clary, Charles.....	1625

Corbin, "Baby" Virginia.....	1626
Cuneo, Lester.....	1633
Dalton, Dorothy.....	Colored Insert
Dean, Jack.....	1631
Dillon, Edward.....	1636
Edwards, Walter.....	1610
Farnum, Dustin.....	1622
Fawcett, George.....	1632
Galvey, Jack J.....	1631
Green, Alfred E.....	1632
Gunn, Charles.....	1628
Ham Comedies.....	1629
Hart, William S.....	1627
Ince, Thos. H.....	Colored Insert
Irvine, Clarke.....	1633
Jose, Edward.....	1665
Katterjohn, Monte M.....	1611
Lincoln, E. K.....	1663
Livingston, Jack.....	1628
Lloyd, Frank, and Foster, Billy.....	1625
Lockwood, Harold.....	1634
Love, Bessie.....	1636
Lucas, Wilfred.....	1636
Lyons, Eddie and Lee, Norman.....	1630
Mann, Hank & Co.....	1623
McRae, Henry.....	1637
Meredith, Bess.....	1636
Mix, Tom & Co.....	1624
Mong, William V.....	1630
Monogram Films.....	1617
Otto, Henry.....	Colored Insert
Ray, Charles.....	1612
Roach, Joseph Anthony.....	1631
Sloman, Edward.....	1626
Smalley, Phillips & Weber, Lois.....	Colored Insert
Stallings, Chas. T.....	1633
Stanton, Richard.....	1625
Stonehouse, Ruth.....	1631
Stowell, William.....	1637
Swickard, Charles.....	1637
West, Raymond B.....	1609
Willat, Irvin V.....	1628

MUSIC AND MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.

American Photo Player Co.....	1667
Deagan, J. C.....	1579
Sinn, Clarence E.....	1666
Wurlitzer, Rudolph, Co.....	1671

POSTERS AND FRAMES.

Illinois Lithographing Co.....	1578
Menger & Ring.....	1662
Newman Mfg. Co.....	1688

PROJECTION MACHINE MANUFACTURERS.

American Standard M. P. Mch. Co.....	1662
Enterprise Optical Mfg. Co.....	1575
Power, Nicholas Co.....	1696
Precision Mch. Co.....	1659
Stern Mfg. Co.....	1690

PROJECTION SCREEN MANUFACTURERS.

Castle & Rowley.....	1688
Genter, J. H., Co., Inc.....	1693
Gold King Screen Co.....	1669
Minusa Cine Products Co.....	1693
Radium Gold Fibre Screen, Inc.....	1676

STEREOPTICON SLIDES.

Novelty Slide Co.....	1693
-----------------------	------

THEATRICAL ARCHITECTS.

Decorators' Supply Co.....	1577
----------------------------	------

CINE-MUNDIAL

A monthly publication, printed in Spanish and devoted exclusively to the interests of the moving picture industry throughout South America and Spanish-speaking countries.

MORE than 5,000 exhibitors and film buyers in Latin America receive our publication monthly. Is it possible that you are not interested in this new market?

ADVERTISING RATES: $50 A PAGE

CINE-MUNDIAL

17 Madison Avenue

New York

List of Current Film Release Dates

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Page 1658.)

BIOGRAPH.

	(Serial No.)
The Conscience of Hassan Bey (Relissue—Drama)	21543
His Wife's Story (Relissue—Two parts parts—Drama)	21549
Two Men of the Desert (Relissue—Drama)	21571
The Rehearsal (Relissue—Two parts—Drama)	21579

ESSANAY.

Canimated Nooz Pictorial No. 22 (Cartoon Comedy), and Yosemite Valley No. 2 (Scenic)	21621
The Wide, Wrong Way (Fifth of "Is Marriage Sacred?"—Two parts—Drama)	21637-38
The Little Missionary ("Black Cat Feature"—Two parts—Drama)	21640
One on Hlm (Comedy), and Scenic on same reel.	21640
The Sinful Marriage (Sixth of "Is Marriage Sacred?"—Two parts—Drama)	21651-52
What Would You Do? ("Black Cat Feature"—Two parts—Drama)	21660-61
Canimated Nooz Pictorial, No. 23 (Cartoon Comedy), and Alaskan Scenic on same reel.	21663
The Magic Mirror (Seventh of "Is Marriage Sacred?"—Two parts—Dr.)	21671-72
Three Ways Out ("Black Cat Feature"—Two parts—Drama)	21682-83
Mr. Wright in Wrong (Comedy)	21685
Is Marriage Sacred? (No. 8, "Shifting Shadows"—Two parts—Drama)	21696-97
The Hooded Story ("Black Cat Feature"—Two parts—Drama)	21708-7
Canimated Nooz Pictorial No. 24 (Cartoon Comedy)	21709
Alaskan Scenic on Same Reel.	21709
Is Marriage Sacred? (No. 9, "Desertion and Non-Support"—Two parts—Drama)	21715-16
The Lighted Lamp (Black Cat Feature—Two parts—Drama)
All in a Day (Cartoon Comedy), and an Alaskan Scenic on same reel.
Is Marriage Sacred? (No. 10, "Ashes on the Hearthstone"—Two parts—Drama)
A Four-Cent Courtship (Black Cat Feature—Two parts—Drama)
Canimated Nooz Pictorial, No. 25 (Cartoon Comedy), and British Columbia (Scenic)
The Extravagant Bride (No. 11 of "Is Marriage Sacred?"—Two parts—Drama)
The Invisible Web (Black Cat Feature—Two parts—Drama)
Tiny, Slim and Fat (Cartoon Comedy), and British Columbia Scenic on same reel.
Is Marriage Sacred? (No. 12, "The Vanishing Woman"—Two parts—Drama)

FORTUNE PHOTOPLAYS.

Inspiration of Harry Larrabee.
Mentioned in Confidence.

KALEM.

The Fireman's Nemesis (No. 114 of "The Hazards of Helen"—Drama) ..	21632
Cupid's Caddies (Comedy)	21639
The Homesteader's Feud (No. 23 of "The Girl from Frisco"—Two parts—Drama)	21641-42
The Black Circle (No. 14 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama)	21645
The Wrecked Station (No. 115 of "The Hazards of Helen"—Drama)	21653
The Blundering Blacksmiths (Com.) ..	21662
Wolf of Los Alamos (No. 24 of "The Girl from Frisco"—Two parts—Dr.) ..	21664-65
The Violet Ray (No. 15 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama)	21668
The Railroad Claim Intrigue (No. 116 of "The Hazards of Helen"—Dr.) ..	21676
The Safety Pin Smugglers (Comedy) ..	21684
The Dominion of Fernandez (No. 25 of "The Girl from Frisco"—Two parts—Drama)	21686-87
The Net of Intrigue (No. 16 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama)	21693
The Death Siding (No. 117 of "The Hazards of Helen"—Drama)	21700
Ghost Hounds (Comedy)	21708
The Trap (No. 17 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama)	21712
The Prima Donna's Special (Drama) ..	21717
The Model Janitor (Comedy) ..
Winged Diamonds (No. 18 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama) ..
The Sidetracked Sleeper (No. 119 of "The Hazards of Helen"—Drama) ..
A Flyer in Flapjacks (Comedy) ..
The Screened Vault (No. 19 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama) ..
The Black Rider of Tasajara (an episode of "The American Girl"—Two parts—Drama) ..
In the Path of Peril (an episode of "A Daughter of Darling"—Drama) ..

SELIG.

Starring in Western Stuff (Two parts—Comedy-Drama)	21614-15
Selig-Tribune No. 3 (Topical)	21617
Selig-Tribune No. 4 (Topical)	21625
The Making of Bob Mason's Wife (Dr.) ..	21633
Delayed in Transit (Two parts—Com.) ..	21633-34
Selig-Tribune No. 5 (Topical)	21636
Selig-Tribune No. 6 (Topical)	21643
Cupid's Touchdown (Comedy)	21654
On Italy's Firing Line (Three parts—Drama)	21655-56-57
Selig-Tribune No. 7 (Topical)	21659
Selig-Tribune No. 8 (Topical)	21666
The Luck That Jealousy Brought (Dr.) ..	21677
Lost and Found (Two parts—Dr.)	21678-79
Selig-Tribune No. 9 (Topical)	21681
Selig-Tribune No. 10 (Topical)	21688
The Saddle Girth (Drama)	21701

Cupid's Thumb Print (Two parts—Drama)	21702-3
Selig-Tribune No. 11 (Topical)	21705
Selig-Tribune No. 12 (Topical)	21710
A Strang Adventure (Drama)	21718
The Redemption of Red Mullin (Two parts—Drama) ..
Selig-Tribune No. 13 (Topical) ..
Selig-Tribune No. 14 (Topical) ..
For Reward of Service (Comedy—Drama) ..
The Great Treasure (Two parts—Drama) ..
Selig-Tribune No. 15 (Topical) ..
Selig-Tribune No. 16 (Topical) ..
A Brother's Sacrifice (Drama) ..

VIM FEATURE COMEDY.

War Correspondents (Comedy)	21647
The Love Bugs (Comedy)	21667
It's All Wrong (Comedy)	21670
The Other Girl (Comedy)	21689
A Job for Life (Comedy)	21694
Nora Declares War (Comedy) ..
The Newlyweds' Mistake (Comedy) ..
Happy Nat's Dilemma (Comedy) ..
Art and Paint (Comedy) ..
Harry's Pig (Comedy) ..
Seeing Double (Comedy) ..
This Is Not My Room (Comedy) ..
A Deal in Furniture (Comedy) ..
Deep Stuff (Comedy) ..
Willie Walrus Pays Alimony (Comedy) ..

VITAGRAPH.

The Suitor of Slam (No. 5 of "The Dangers of Doris"—Broadway Star Feature—Comedy-Drama)	21714
The Vagabond (Drama)	21658
The Burlesque Blackmalters (6th of "The Dangers of Doris" Comedy) ..
Drama—Broadway Star Feature) ..
His Little Spirit Girl (Comedy)	21669
The Valley of Lost Hope (Three parts—Drama)	21673-74-75
The Gang (No. 7 of "The Dangers of Doris"—Comedy—Drama—Broadway Star Feature)
The Seventh Son (Drama) ..
The Footlight Lure (No. 6 of the "Dangers of Doris"—Comedy—Drama) ..
Missing (Two parts—Drama) ..
The Meeting (Drama) ..
The Gang (No. 7 of the "Dangers of Doris"—Comedy—Drama) ..
Up and Down (No. 8 of "The Dangers of Doris"—Comedy—Drama) ..
Dimple's Baby (Two parts—Comedy-Drama) ..

KNICKERBOCKER STAR FEATURE.

The Room of Mystery (Three parts—Drama)	21648-49-50
Crossed Trail (Three parts—Dr.) ..	21690-91-92
The Beloved Vampires (Three parts—Drama) ..

OFFICIAL WAR FILMS, INC.

February—The War.

PUBLICITY ADVERTISING CLOCK

Pat. No. 1,146,839
Other Patents Pending

Correct time before the eyes of your patrons with advertisements changing automatically every 30 seconds. Keep your screen free from commercial slides.

A necessity and advertising medium combined.

NOW OPERATING IN 50 THEATRES OF GREATER NEW YORK AND OTHERS THROUGHOUT THE

Every Clock Guaranteed.

UNITED STATES AND HAWAII

Write for Particulars.

PUBLICITY CLOCK COMPANY, Inc.

World Tower Building

New York City

If It's Saleable Among Motion Picture People

The Quickest and Easiest Way to Find a Buyer Is to

ADVERTISE IN THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

Circulation Plus the Confidence and Esteem of Those Among Whom It Circulates

Makes the Moving Picture World the Best Advertising "Buy" in Its Field

Rates and Detailed Information Cheerfully Sent Upon Request

MR. STATE RIGHT BUYER

When in doubt of the merit, price or value of film offered on the open market, let me advise or purchase it for you.

Producers of Independent Features

Intending to dispose of their product on the State Right or Open Market basis.—I will negotiate the sales and distribution of your features, thereby giving you the benefit of my expert knowledge of this branch of the industry.

DO YOU NEED CAPITAL?

I am in a position to finance any bona fide motion picture proposition now held back by lack of funds.

I will pay cash for unreleased negatives and cold copies of feature films.

JOSEPH F. LEE

New York Representative for Principal Film Exchanges of United States and Europe

1476-1480 Broadway, Suite 1103, New York

EXHIBITORS IN CALIFORNIA ARIZONA NEVADA

Increase your box office receipts by booking our open market features. All features purchased from the independent market where merit and quality rule.

CONTROLLING EXCLUSIVELY FOR CALIFORNIA, ARIZONA AND NEVADA.

Ditmars Living Book of Nature

Presenting studies in animal life. A novelty which will make your theatre the talk of the town. A feature at the Strand Theatre, New York, each week for the past five months.

Our Educational Scenic and Travel Films are used in all leading theatres in United States. Receive more publicity, cause more talk, create more prestige and standing than many of the so-called features. Can be used with any program. Why not yours?

CONSOLIDATED FILM CORP.

818 South Olive St.,
Los Angeles Cal.

MARION KOHN, Gen. Manager
JOSEPH F. LEE, New York Representative

116 Golden Gate Ave.,
San Francisco, Cal.

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON UNIVERSAL AND MUTUAL PROGRAMS

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Page 1658.)

Universal Film Mfg. Co.

ANIMATED WEEKLY

Feb. 14—Number 59 (Topical).
Feb. 21—Number 60 (Topical).
Feb. 28—Number 61 (Topical).
Mar. 7—Number 62 (Topical).
Mar. 14—Number 63 (Topical).

BIG U.

Feb. 9—The Crimson Arrow (Two parts—Dr.).
Feb. 15—The Half-Breed's Confession (Drama).
Feb. 22—The Man Who Saved the Day (Two Parts—Drama).
Feb. 23—Heroes of the Plains (Drama).
Mar. 2—A Battle of Wits (Two parts—Dr.).
Mar. 4—Buried Alive (Drama).
Mar. 7—A Soldier's Dream (Drama).
Mar. 8—Good for Nothing Gallagher (Drama).
Mar. 15—For Honor's Sake (Drama).
Mar. 18—The Hidden Danger (Two parts—Dr.).

BISON.

Feb. 10—The Outlaw and the Lady (Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 17—John Osborn's Triumph (Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 24—The Come Back (Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 3—The Tornado (Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 10—The Drifter (Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 17—Roped In (Two parts—Drama).

GOLD SEAL.

Feb. 6—Won by Grit (Three parts—Drama).
Feb. 13—The Indian's Lament (Three parts—Drama).
Feb. 20—The Great Torpedo Secret (Three parts—Drama).
Feb. 27—Mary from America (Three parts—Comedy—Drama).
Mar. 6—Desperation (Three parts—Drama).
Mar. 13—The Common Sin (Three parts—Dr.).

IMP.

Feb. 23—The Folly of Fanchette (Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 25—A Dangerous Double (Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 1—An Hour of Terror (Drama).
Mar. 2—Evil Hands (Drama).
Mar. 4—Tangled Threads (Two parts—Dr.).
Mar. 9—The Perils of the Secret Service (Episode No. 1, "The Last Cigarette"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 11—The Man of Mystery (Two parts—Dr.).
Mar. 14—Sins of a Brother (Drama).
Mar. 16—The Perils of the Secret Service (Episode No. 2, "The Clash of Steel"—Two parts—Drama).

JOKER.

Jan. 27—Love Me, Love My Biscuits (Com.).
Feb. 3—His Coming Out Party—Comedy).
Feb. 10—Out for the Dough (Comedy).
Feb. 17—Mule Mates (Comedy).
Feb. 24—Rosie's Rancho (Comedy).
Mar. 3—Passing the Grip (Comedy).
Mar. 10—Wanta Make a Dollar (Comedy).
Mar. 17—Art Aches (Comedy).

LAEMMLE.

Feb. 10—A Studio Cinderella (Drama).
Feb. 16—The Fourth Witness (Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 17—Broken Hearted (Drama).
Feb. 21—Sin Unatoned (Drama).
Mar. 3—Undoing Evil (Drama).
Mar. 8—The Human Flame (Drama).
Mar. 14—Where Glory Waits (Two parts—Dr.).
Mar. 17—Racing Death (Drama).

L-KO.

Jan. 24—The Battle of "Let's Go" (Two parts—Comedy).
Jan. 31—Faking Fakers (Two parts—Com.).
Feb. 7—That Dawgone Dog (Two parts—Dr.).
Feb. 14—The End of a Perfect Day (Comedy).
Feb. 16—Brave Little Waldo (Comedy).
Feb. 21—After the Balled Up Ball (Two parts—Comedy).
Feb. 28—Spike's Bizzy Bike (Two parts—Com.).
Mar. 7—Fatty's Feature Fillum (Two parts—Comedy).
Mar. 14—Summer Boarders (Comedy).
Mar. 16—Love on Crutches (Comedy).

NESTOR.

Jan. 22—A Macaroni Sleuth (Comedy).
Jan. 29—Why Unols (Comedy).
Feb. 5—His Wife's Relatives (Comedy).
Feb. 12—A Hasty Hazing (Comedy).
Feb. 19—Down Went the Key (Comedy).
Feb. 26—A Million in Sight (Comedy).
Mar. 5—A Bundle of Trouble (Comedy).
Mar. 12—Some Specimens (Comedy).

POWERS.

Feb. 18—Mr Fuller Pep—He Does Some Quick Moving (Cartoon Comedy).
—Drama of the Orient (Dorsey Educational).
Feb. 25—A Day in the Life of a Dog (Cartoon—Comedy).
—The Buried Treasures of Ceylon (Dorsey Educational).
Mar. 4—Mr. Fuller Pep—An Old Bird Pays Him a Visit (Cartoon Comedy).
—The Land of Buddha (Dorsey Edu.).
Mar. 11—Mr. Fuller Pep—His Day of Rest (Cartoon Comedy).
—The Mysterious City (Dorsey Educational).
Mar. 18—The Tail of Thomas Kat (Cartoon Comedy) and Foreign Legations in China (Dorsey Educational).

RED FEATHER.

Jan. 22—Heart Strings (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 29—Love Aflame (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 5—Me and M' Pal (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 12—The Terror (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 19—The War of the Tongs (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 26—The Girl and the Crisis (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 5—The Gates of Doom (Five parts—Dr.).
Mar. 12—The Girl Who Lost (Drama) and Border Wolves (Five parts—Dr.).

REX.

Feb. 4—Life's Pendulum (Two Parts—Drama).
Feb. 8—The Melody of Death (Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 11—In the Shadows of Night (Drama).
Feb. 22—The Keeper of the Gate (Drama).
Feb. 25—Lost in the Streets of Paris (Drama).
Mar. 1—The Rented Man (Two parts—Dr.).
—The Funicular Railway of the Niesen (Edu.).
Mar. 8—The Amazing Adventure (Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 11—It Makes a Difference (Drama).

VICTOR.

Feb. 9—The High Cost of Starving (Comedy).
Feb. 13—The Girl of the Hour (Comedy).
Feb. 15—The Losing Winner (Two parts—Dr.).
Feb. 20—The Fireman's Bride (Comedy—Dr.).
Feb. 22—The Heart of Mary Ann (Comedy—Drama).
Feb. 23—A Bare Living (Comedy).
Feb. 27—A Novel Romance (Comedy—Drama).
Mar. 1—They Were Four (Comedy).
Mar. 6—Good Morning Nurse (Comedy).
Mar. 9—The Beauty Doctor (Comedy).
Mar. 13—A Woman in the Case (Comedy).
Mar. 15—Dorothy Dares (Two parts—Comedy).

UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE.

Feb. 16—Number 7.
Mar. 2—Number 8.
Mar. 9—Number 9.
Mar. 16—Issue No. 10 (Educational).

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE.

Feb. 18—Robinson Crusoe (Three parts).
Feb. 18—The Purple Mask (Episode No. 8, "The Secret Adventure"—Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 25—The Purple Mask (Episode No. 9, "A Strange Discovery"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 4—The Purple Mask (Episode 10, "The House of Mystery"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 11—The Purple Mask (Episode No. 11, "The Garden of Surprise"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 18—The Purple Mask (Episode No. 12, "The Vault of Mystery"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 18—The Voice on the Wire (Episode No. 1, "The Oriental Death Punch"—Two parts—Drama).

Mutual Film Corp.

AMERICAN.

Feb. 8—Nature's Calling (Drama).
Feb. 10—The Old Sheriff (Drama).
Feb. 16—Calamity Anne's Legacy (Drama).
Feb. 17—The Hermit's Hoard (Drama).
Mar. 2—Calamity Anne's Protege (Comedy).
Mar. 8—Cupid and a Brick (Comedy—Drama).

COB.

Feb. 1—Jerry and His Pal (Comedy).
Feb. 8—Jerry's Big Raid (Comedy).
Feb. 15—Jerry's Big Mystery (Comedy).
Feb. 22—Jerry's Brilliant Scheme (Comedy).
Mar. 1—Jerry's Romance (Comedy).
Mar. 8—The Flying Target (Comedy).

NIAGARA FILM STUDIOS.

Feb. 14—The Peril of Our Girl Reporters (Episode No. 8 of "Birds of Prey"—Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 21—The Peril of Our Girl Reporters (Episode No. 9, "Misjudged"—Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 28—The Peril of Our Girl Reporters (No. 10, "Taking Chances"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 7—The Peril of Our Girl Reporters (No. 11, "The Meeting"—Two parts—Drama).

GAUMONT.

Feb. 27—Tours Around the World, No. 17 (Subjects on Reel: Vienna; Gota Elf River; Sweden; Toledo, Spain (Travel).
Feb. 28—See America First, No. 77 (Subject on Reel: Battlefields of Chickamauga; Chattanooga (Scenic), and "The Elusive Idea" (Cartoon Comic).
Mar. 4—Reel Life, No. 44 (Subjects on Reel: Industries of an Arab; Conch Artistry; Novel Jewelry from Sea Objects; Will This Cure Cancer? Criminal Cuteness; Making a Rubber Shoe—Mutual Film Magazine).
Mar. 6—Tours Around the World, No. 18 (Subjects on Reel: Munich, Germany; Schonbrunn Castle; Vienna, Rustchuk, Bulgaria—Travel).
Mar. 7—See America First, No. 78 (Subjects on Reel: Oregon's Rocky Coast—Scenic; and "Rastus Runs Amuck"—Cartoon Comic).
Mar. 8—Reel Life, No. 45 (Subjects on Reel: From Trapper to Wearer; Stimulating the Appetite of the Tired Business Man; Artistic Vases; The Pelican Mutual—Film Magazine).

MONOGRAM

Feb. 12—The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton (No. 5, "Shorty Turns Wild Man"—Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 19—The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton, No. 6 (Shorty Promotes His Love Affair—Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 26—The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton (No. 7, "Shorty Hooks a Loan Shark"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 5—The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton (No. 8, "Shorty Traps a Lottery King"—Two parts—Drama).

MUTUAL.

Jan. 26—Uncle Sam's Defenders, No. 4 "Afloat and Ashore" (Topical).
Feb. 2—Scouts of the Sea and Sky (No. 5 of "Uncle Sam's Defenders" (Top.).
Feb. 9—Uncle Sam's Defenders, (No. 6, "Bulldogs of the Deep" (Topical).

MUTUAL WEEKLY.

Feb. 14—Number 111 (Topical).
Feb. 21—Number 112 (Topical).
Feb. 28—Number 113 (Topical).
Mar. 7—Number 114 (Topical).
Mar. 14—Number 115 (Topical).
Mar. 21—Number 116 (Topical).
Mar. 28—Number 117 (Topical).

(Mutual Releases continued on page 1684.)

BEFORE THE WAR

$250.00

Was the price of this Photo Cines Professional Camera which we honestly believe was at that time the best possible value obtainable. As the price has not been advanced, all must agree it is wonderful value now.

The Photo Cines No. 4 Outfit includes Camera, Lens F. 3.5, Diaphragm Dissolve and Tripod with Panorama and Tilting Head, a practical Camera for Topical and Studio work. Truly a marvel of Camera construction.

NO RAISE IN PRICE—$250.00 COMPLETE

For the Amateur:

Also at pre-war prices

The Photo Cines Camera No. 3

No better design ever produced for simplicity of operation. Fitted with an F.2.9 Photo Cines Lens and F.3.5 Zeiss Tessar. Made in two sizes, 100 and 200 ft. capacity.

MR. AMATEUR:—There's Money in News Pictures for the Weeklies.

Prices—$55.00 to $85.00

Marvel Tripods Suitable for Photo Cines Camera No. 3
Panorama and Tilting Head $35.00 Each

G. GENNERT, New York Chicago Los Angeles

LABORATORY INSURANCE CORCORAN TANKS

Why invest your money in expensive chemicals and pay salaries for competent men to mix your developing solutions, in order that your negatives will receive proper chemical attention, but overlook the fact that a cheaply constructed and leaky tank will jeopardize your result? Interest yourself in this statement and send for our circular Number 8.

A. J. CORCORAN, Inc.
PATENTEES AND MANUFACTURERS

INSTALLED BY

Vitagraph Co.	Cosmofotofilm Co.
Thomas A. Edison	Solax Co.
Crystal Film Co.	British-American Film Co.
Sun Film Corporation	United States Government
Gaumont Co.	Thanhouser Film Co.
American Film Mfg. Co.	Universal Film Mfg. Co.
Kinemacolor Co.	Pathe Freres
Mutual Film Corp.	Kalem Co.
American Eclair Co.	Rothacker Film Co.

New York Office: No. 111½ JOHN ST.
Telephone, 3947 Cortlandt

Factory: Jersey City, N. J.—JERSEY AVE. and 13TH ST.
Telephone, 238 Jersey

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON FEATURES AND MISCELLANEOUS PROGRAMS

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Page 1658.)

(Mutual Releases continued from page 1682.)

MUTUAL CHAPLIN.

December—The Rink (Two parts—Comedy).
Jan. 22—Easy Street (Two parts—Comedy).

MUTUAL SPECIAL.

Dec.—Charity (Seven parts—Drama).
Feb. 12—Damaged Goods (American—Revised Edition—Seven parts—Drama).

MUTUAL STAR COMEDY.

Jan. 6—The Girl Who Can Cook (Comedy).
Jan. 13—The Honeymooners (Comedy).

MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTIONS.

Jan. 29—Pardners (Five parts—Drama (No. 167)).
Feb. 5—Where Love Is (Five parts—Drama) (No. 168).
Feb. 19—The Gentle Intruder (American—Five parts—Drama) (No. 170).
Feb. 26—The Greater Woman (Powell—Five parts—Drama) (No. 151).
Mar. 5—The Girl from Rector's (Five parts—Drama—No. 172).

VOGUE.

Feb. 4—Sticky Fingers (Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 11—A Musical Marvel (Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 18—Lured and Cured (Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 25—The Butcher's Nightmare (Two parts—Comedy).
Mar. 4—A Rummy Romance (Two parts—Comedy).
Mar. 10—His Bogus Boast (Two parts—Com.).

Metro Pictures Corporation.

POPULAR PLAYS AND PLAYERS.

Dec. 4—The Black Butterfly (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 1—Vanity (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 29—Bridges Burned (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 26—The Secret of Eve (Five parts—Dr.).

COLUMBIA PICTURES CORP.

Jan. 8—A Wife by Proxy (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 22—Threads of Fate (Five parts—Dr.).
Feb. 5—The End of the Tour (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 12—The Mortal Sin (Five parts—Drama).

ARTHUR JAMES.

Feb. 12—One of the Many (Five parts—Dr.).

YORKE FILM CORP.

Feb. 19—The Promise (Five parts—Drama).

ROLFE.

Dec. 19—The Awakening of Helena Richie (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 15—The White Raven (Five parts—Dr.).
Mar. 5—The Barricade (Five parts—Drama).

SERIAL PRODUCING CO.

Feb. 5—The Great Secret (Episode No. 5—"The Trap"—Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 12—The Great Secret (Episode No. 6—"The Dragon's Den"—Two parts—Dr.).
Feb. 19—The Great Secret (Episode No. 7—"The Yellow Claw"—Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 26—The Great Secret (Episode No. 8—"A Clue from the Klondike (Drama).
Mar. 5—The Great Secret (Episode No. 9, "Cupid's Puzzle"—Two parts—Dr.).

METRO COMEDIES.

Jan. 1—The Matinee Idol (Rolma—Comedy).
Jan. 8—Cave Man's Buff (Drew—Comedy).
Jan. 15—His Perfect Day (Drew Comedy).
Jan. 22—Married But Single (Rolma—Com.).
Jan. 29—The Pest (Drew—Comedy).
Feb. 5—Blackmail (Drew—Comedy).
Feb. 12—Winning an Heiress (Rolma—Comedy).
Feb. 19—Her Obsession (Drew—Comedy).
Feb. 26—Reliable Henry (Drew—Comedy).
Mar. 5—Modern Romance (Rolma—Comedy).
Mar. 12—Locked Out (Drew—Comedy).

Paramount Pictures Corp.

BLACK DIAMOND COMEDY.

Jan. 8—Braving Blazes (Comedy).
Jan. 22—He Did It Himself (Comedy).
Feb. 19—Her Scrambled Ambition (Comedy).
Mar. 5—Speed (Comedy).

FAMOUS PLAYERS.

Jan. 1—The Slave Market (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 8—Great Expectations (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 18—A Girl Like That (Five parts—Dr.).
Feb. 26—The Fortunes of Fifi (Five parts—Drama).

KLEVER COMEDY.

Jan. 1—He Meant Well (Comedy).
Jan. 15—Did It Ever Happen to You (Comedy).
Jan. 29—The Honeyless Honeymoon (Comedy).
Feb. 5—The Sleep Waker (Comedy).
Feb. 12—He Got There After All (Comedy).
Feb. 26—Some Doctor (Comedy).

LASKY.

Feb. 5—Each to His Kind (Five parts—Dr.).
Feb. 12—The Black Wolf (Five parts—Dr.).
Feb. 15—The American Consul (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 19—Winning of Sally Temple (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 22—On Record (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 1—Those Without Sin (Five parts—Dr.).
Mar. 5—Castles for Two (Five parts—Drama).

MOROSCO AND PALLAS.

Jan. 11—The Happiness of Three Women (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 29—His Sweetheart (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 1—The Wax Model (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 8—Her Own People (Five parts—Dr.).
Mar. 8—Out of the Wreck (Five parts—Dr.).

PARAMOUNT-BURTON HOLMES.

Feb. 19—With the Stony Indians (Scenic).
Feb. 26—Exquisite Lake Louise (Scenic).
Mar. 5—The Yoko Valley (Scenic).
Mar. 12—On the Great Glacier (Scenic).

PARAMOUNT-BRAY PICTOGRAPHS.

Feb. 11—54th Release (Educational).
Feb. 18—55th Release (Educational).
Feb. 25—56th Release (Educational).

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

ASTRA.

Feb. 11—Pearl of the Army, No. 11—"A Million Volunteers" (Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 18—Pearl of the Army (Episode No. 12, "The Foreign Alliance"—Two parts—Drama—Astra).
Feb. 25—Pearl of the Army (Episode No. 13—"Modern Buccaneers"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 4—Pearl of the Army (No. 14, "Flag Despoiler"—Two parts—Astra—Dr.).
Mar. 11—Pearl of the Army, No. 15 ("Colonel's Orderly"—Two parts—Drama).

GOLD ROOSTER.

Feb. 11—Sold at Auction (Five parts—Balboa—Drama).
Feb. 18—Her Life and His (Thanhouse—Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 25—Crime and Punishment (Arrow—Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 4—Her Beloved Enemy (Thanhouse—Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 11—The Empress (Popular Plays and Players—Five parts—Drama).

PATHE.

—An Algerian Harem (Educational).
Feb. 11—Florence Rose Fashions, No. 18, "In Anticipation" (Fashion).
—Childish Delights (Edu.).
Feb. 18—Florence Rose Fashions, No. 19 (Fashions—Picturesque Algeria—Province of Constantine (Scenic).
Feb. 25—Florence Rose Fashions, No. 20 (Fashions).
—Bursting Buds (Educational).
Feb. 25—How "Patent" Medicines Are Made (Educational).
Feb. 25—Max's Vacation (Comedy).

Mar. 4—Florence Rose Fashions, No. 21 (Morning Hours) (Fashions).
—Picturesque Catalonia (Spain) (Colored Scenic).
Mar. 11—Florence Rose Fashions, No. 22, "As the Day Wanes" (Fashions), and "Birds of Gay Plumage" (Parakeets) (Colored Educational).

HEARST-PATHE NEWS.

Feb. 24—Number 17 (Topical).
Feb. 28—Number 18 (Topical).
Mar. 3—Number 19 (Topical).
Mar. 7—Number 20 (Topical).
Mar. 10—Number 21 (Topical).
Mar. 14—Number 22 (Topical).
Mar. 17—Number 23 (Topical).

INTERNATIONAL.

Feb. 11—Patricia (Episode No. 5, "The Island that God Forgot"—Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 18—Patricia (Episode No. 6, "Alias Nemesis"—Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 18—Jerry Saves the Navy (Cartoon Com.).
—Old Glory in the Far East (Scenic).
Feb. 25—Patricia No. 7—"Red Fawn" (Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 25—Sharks Is Sharks (Cartoon Comedy).
—Uncle Sam's Wards (Educational).
Mar. 4—Bringing Up Father, "A Hot Time in the Gym" (Cartoon Comedy).
—Winter in Yellowstone Park (Scenic).
Mar. 4—Patricia (Episode No. 8—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 11—Patricia No. 9 (Two parts—Drama).

MITTENTHAL.

Mar. 4—Deep-Dyed Villainy (Comedy).
Mar. 11—Hokey Heroes (Comedy).

ROLIN.

Jan. 28—Drama's Dreadful Deal (Comedy).
Feb. 4—Luke's Trolley Troubles (Comedy).
Feb. 11—Skinny's Love Tangle (Comedy).
—Schemer Skinny's Scandal (Comedy).
Feb. 18—Lonesome Luke—Lawyer (Comedy).
Feb. 25—Luke Wins Ye Ladye Faire (Comedy).

Triangle Film Corporation.

FINE ARTS.

Jan. 28—The Americano (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 4—Jim Bludso (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 11—The Girl of the Timber Claims (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 18—The Bad Boy (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 25—Stage Struck (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 4—Betsy's Burglar (Five parts—Drama).

KAY-BEE.

Jan. 28—Chicken Casey (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 4—The Crab (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 11—The Gunfighter (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 18—A Princess of the Dark (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 25—The Last of the Ingrahams (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 4—Back of the Man (Five parts—Drama).

TRIANGLE KOMEDY.

Feb. 4—The Road Agent (Comedy).
Feb. 11—Won by a Foot (Comedy).
Feb. 11—His Deadly Undertaking (Comedy).
Feb. 18—The Telephone Belle (Comedy).
Feb. 18—When Hearts Collide (Comedy).
Feb. 25—A Bachelor's Flinch (Comedy).
Feb. 25—Done in Oil (Comedy).
Mar. 4—Her Cave Man (Comedy).
Mar. 4—A Film Exposure (Comedy).

MACK-SENNETT KEYSTONES.

Feb. 11—The Nick of Time Baby (Two parts—Comedy).
Feb. 18—Stars and Bars (Two parts—Comedy).
Feb. 25—Maggie's First False Step (Two parts—Comedy).
Mar. 4—Her Circus Knight (Two parts—Com.).
Mar. 11—Villa of the Movies (Two parts—Com.).

SUPERPICTURES, INC.

Feb. 5—Seven Deadly Sins—"Pride" (Five parts—McClure Pictures—Drama).
Feb. 12—Seven Deadly Sins—"Greed" (McClure Pictures—Five parts—Dr.).
Feb. 19—Seven Deadly Sins—"Sloth" (McClure Pictures—Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 26—Seven Deadly Sins—"Passion" (McClure—Five parts—Drama).

Negative Projector Carbon

FOR DIRECT CURRENT

TRIED AND PROVEN

About nine months ago the Silvertip Negative Projector Carbon was announced to the trade. The motion picture industry, always eager to take advantage of improvements in projection, immediately recognized the immense possibilities of this carbon.

The result was that the large demand quickly tried our manufacturing facilities to the utmost, as this carbon was made by a special process. We immediately took steps to increase the output of this Silvertip Projector Carbon, and are now prepared to supply the trade promptly.

THE SILVERTIP PROJECTOR CARBON

This carbon, for direct current, is about half the diameter of the positive carbon. It is plated throughout its length with a heavy metallic coating, known as Silvertip, in order to carry the full amount of current without heating.

The small diameter of the carbon keeps the crater centered at all times and prevents wandering of the arc, spindling, and needling. For improved projection, trim your lamps with a "National" upper and "Silvertip" lower.

Owing to the small diameter of this carbon, a special adaptor is necessary with the "Silvertip." We are furnishing, free of charge, a special bronze adaptor with all initial orders.

Our booklets on "Silvertip" and "National" carbons free on request.

NATIONAL CARBON COMPANY, Cleveland, Ohio

Occupies
Only 2x2 ft.
of Floor Space

"The Horn o' Plenty" FREE

Write Today and Learn How This Machine Makes $600 to $3000 Yearly Profits From a Space 2x2 Feet

This famous Butter-Kist Peanut Toaster is a high-class dignified addition to any theatre or store. Why not make two profits from a big per cent of the people who come to your playhouse?

Men who get this machine are permitted to sell these peanuts in the advertised Butter-Kist "Horn o' Plenty"—the famous cone-shaped bag that holds the usual amount yet looks just twice as big. We control this patented container that is putting all other peanuts in the shade.

Butter-Kist Peanut Toaster

Handsome golden oak cabinet beautifies your theatre. Motion of tumbling toasting peanuts makes people stop and look; appetizing fragrance makes them buy. Toasty flavor brings them back for more.

One man in small town writes, "Peanut sales are double what they used to be." Another—name on request—says, "Sales $1622.50 in eight and one-half months from Butter-Kist Peanut Toaster." Our sensational circular, "The Horn o' Plenty," gives full details and proof of profits.

Exhibitors! Send the Coupon Today!

Motion put the money in the Motion Picture Business and the Butter-Kist Peanut Machine acts on the same principle. Get full details at once—you lose $2 to $10 every day you delay. No obligation—send the coupon now.

HOLCOMB & HOKE MFG. CO.
709-725 Van Buren Street Indianapolis, Ind.

HOLCOMB & HOKE MFG. CO.
709-725 Van Buren St., Indianapolis, Ind.
Send at once your circular "The Horn o' Plenty" with figures that prove what profits I can make from the Butter-Kist Peanut Toaster.

Name

Address

Revolving Toaster has capacity of 95 cents per hour net profit.

Running two hours per day only would mean almost $700 a year profit.

Pays 300 per cent on your investment.

If you made only thirty-eight 5-cent sales a day you would make $87 per square foot of floor space given to machine.

This is only one-tenth of the capacity of the machine for normal working day.

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON FEATURES AND MISCELLANEOUS PROGRAMS

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Page 1658.)

Feature Releases

ART DRAMAS, INC.

- Feb. 8—The Accomplice (Sherrill Feature Corp.—Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 15—The Adventurer (U. S. Amusement Co.—Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 22—The Moral Code (Erhograph—Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 1—Pride and the Devil (Apollo Pictures, Inc.—Drama).
Mar. 8—The Cloud (Van Dyke—Drama).

ARTCRAFT PICTURES CORP.

- Jan. 8—The Pride of The Clan (Drama).
Mar. 5—A Poor Little Rich Girl (Drama).

BIOGRAPH COMPANY.

- Jan.—Her Condoned Sin (Six parts—Drama).

BLUEBIRD PHOTOPLAY, INC.

- Feb. 12—The Reward of the Faithless (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 19—The Man Who Took a Chance (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 26—The Sainly Sinner (Five parts—Dr.).
Mar. 5—The Boy Girl (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 12—Mutiny (Five parts—Drama).

CARDINAL FILM CORP.

- December—Joan, the Woman (Eleven parts).

CHRISTIE FILM CO.

- Feb. 12—Oh! for a Wife (Comedy).
Feb. 19—Hubby's Night Out (Comedy).
Feb. 15—Bride and Gloom (Two parts—Special Release—Comedy).
Feb. 26—Kidding Sister (Comedy).
Mar. 1—Out for the Coin (Two parts—Com.).
Mar. 5—As Luck Would Have It (Comedy).
Mar. 12—His Flirting Ways (Comedy).

DIXIE FILM CORP.

- December—Just a Song at Twilight (Five parts—Drama).
Dec.—Tempest and Sunshine (Five parts—Dr.).
Drama).

EDUCATIONAL FILM CORPORATION.

- Feb. 5—The Living Book of Nature ("The Orang"—Educational).
Feb. 12—The Living Book of Nature ("Mammals of Strange Form"—Edu.).
Feb. 19—The Living Book of Nature ("American Bears"—Educational).
Feb. 26—The Living Book of Nature ("Foreign Deer"—Educational).
Mar. 5—The Living Book of Nature ("The Beaver Prepares for Winter"—Educational).

FOX FILM CORPORATION.

- Jan. 29—One Touch of Sin (Five parts—Dr.).
Feb. 5—The New York Peacock (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 12—The Scarlet Letter (Five parts—Dr.).
Feb. 19—The Tiger Woman (Five parts—Dr.).
Feb. 19—Melting Millions (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 26—A Child of the Wild (Five parts—Dr.).
February—The Honor System (Special Release—Drama).
Mar. 5—Sister Against Sister (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 12—A Tale of Two Cities (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 12—The Siren (Five parts—Drama).

FOXFILM COMEDY.

- Jan. 29—His Ticklish Joh (Two parts).
Feb. 5—The Cloud Puncher (Two parts).
Feb. 12—Chased Into Love (Two parts).
Feb. 19—There's Many a Fool (Two parts).
Feb. 26—A Bon Bon Riot (Two parts—Com.).
Mar. 5—The House of Terrible Scandals (Two parts—Comedy).

GREATER VITAGRAPH (V-L-S-E, INC.).

- Feb. 19—Kitty Mackay (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 19—Cops and Cussedness (Comedy).
Feb. 19—Captain Jink's Cure (Comedy).
Feb. 19—The Secret Kingdom (Episode No. 8—"Rum Cay"—Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 26—Arsene Lupin (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 26—Dubs and Drvoods (Com.).
Feb. 26—Captain Jinks' Explosive Temper (Comedy).

- Feb. 26—The Secret Kingdom (Episode No. 9, "The Swamp Adder"—Two parts—Drama).

- Mar. 5—Intrigue (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 5—Masks and Mishaps (Comedy).
Mar. 5—Captain Jinks' Kids (Comedy).
Mar. 5—The Secret Kingdom (Episode No. 10—"A Goat Without Horns"—Two parts—Drama).

IVAN FILM PRODUCTIONS.

- Dec. 1—Enlighten Thy Daughter (Seven parts—Drama).
February—Two Men and a Woman (Five parts—Drama).

KEEN CARTOON CORP.

- Feb. 19—Dr. Zippy Opens a Sanatorium (Cartoon Comedy).
Feb. 26—The Fighting Blood of Jerry McDuh (Cartoon Comedy).

KLEINE-EDISON-SELIG-ESSANAY.

- Feb. 5—Skinner's Dress Suit (Essanay—Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 12—The Keys (Essanay—Five parts—Dr.).
Feb. 19—The Royal Pauper (Edison—Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 26—The Heart of Texas Ryan (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 5—Burning the Candle (Essanay—Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 12—Little Lost Sister (Selig—Five parts—Drama).

SELZNICK PICTURES.

- January—Panthea (Five parts—Drama).
February—The Argyle Case (Five parts—Dr.).

THE TRIUMPH CORPORATION.

- December—The Libertine (Six parts—Drama).

WORLD PICTURES.

- Feb. 5—The Hungry Heart (Five parts—Dr.).
Feb. 12—The Red Woman (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 19—A Square Deal (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 26—A Girl's Folly (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 5—The Web of Desire (Five parts—Dr.).
Mar. 12—The Dancer's Peril (Five parts—Dr.).

States Right Features

ARGOSY FILM, INC.

- December—The People vs. John Doe (Six parts—Drama).
December—Where Dye Get That Stuff (Five parts—Comedy).

ARROW FILM CORP.

- Jan.—The Deemster (Drama).

BELMONT FILM CO.

- Feb. 26—A Hotel Mix-Up (Comedy).

BIOGRAPH COMPANY.

- December—One Round O'Brien (Comedy).

G. M. BAYNES.

- Nov.—Kitchen's Great Army in the Battle of the Somme (Five parts—Dr.).

CALIFORNIA MOTION PICTURE CORP.

- Nov.—The Woman Who Dared (Seven parts—Drama).
December—The Passion Flower (Drama).

CREATIVE FILM CORP.

- Jan.—The Girl Who Didn't Think (Six parts—Drama).

CLUNE FILM MFG. CO.

- January—The Eyes of the World (Ten parts—Drama).

DEFENSE OR TRIBUTE FILM CO.

- February—Defense or Tribute (Five parts—Drama).

EBONY FILM CORP.

- Feb. 26—A Natural Born Shooter (Drama).

ENLIGHTENMENT PHOTOPLAYS CORP.

- February—Enlighten Thy Daughter (Drama).

EXCLUSIVE FEATURES, INC.

- Dec.—Pamela's Past (Five parts—Drama).

EUROPEAN FILM CO.

- November—Fighting for Verdun (Five parts—Topical).

FRIEDMAN ENTERPRISES.

- February—A Mormon Maid (Five parts—Dr.).

FROHMAN AMUSEMENT CORP.

- December—The Witching Hour (Seven parts—Drama).

GERMANY'S OFFICIAL WAR FILMS INC.

- January—Germany and Its Armies of Today (Topical).

GRAFTON PUB. FILM CO.

- January—Argonauts of California (Ten parts—Historical).

HARPER FILM CORPORATION.

- Nov.—Civilization (Drama).

JOHN W. HEANEY.

- Jan.—The Valley of Fear (Six parts—Drama).

KESSEL & BAUMAN.

- Jan.—Mickey.

KING BAGGOT.

- Dec.—Absinthe (Drama).

LEA-BEL CO.

- February—Modern Mother Goose (Five parts).

LINCOLN M. P. COMPANY.

- Jan.—Trooper of Troop K (Three parts—Dr.).

S. B. LUST, INC.

- Jan.—The Porter (Two parts—Comedy—Drama—All Colored Performers).

MAJOR FILM CORP.

- Feb.—Will You Marry Me (Drama).

B. S. MOSS MOTION PICTURE CORP.

- Oct.—The Power of Evil (Drama).
November—Boots and Saddles (Drama).
January—The Girl Who Doesn't Know (Five parts—Drama).
January—In the Hands of the Law (Drama).

MOORE'S FEATURE FILM CO.

- Jan. 10—Uncle Sam (This Production in One and in Two Reels).

PARAGON FILMS, INC.

- February—The Whip (Eight parts—Drama).

PHAX PICTURES CO.

- December—Race Suicide (Six parts—Drama).

PICTURE PRODUCING CO.

- Feb.—Safari (Educational).

PIONEER FEATURE FILM CORP.

- October—The Soul of a Child (Five parts—Dr.).

ROTHACKER FILM MFG. CO.

- February—Ranch Life in the Big Horn Mountains (Two parts—Descriptive).

WARNER BROS.

- December—Robinson Crusoe (Five parts—Dr.).

SHERMAN ELLIOTT, INC.

- October—The Crisis (Selig—Seven parts—Dr.).

SIGNET FILM CORPORATION.

- Nov.—The Masque of Life (Seven parts—Dr.).

A. STONE.

- February—If We Should Go to War (Two parts).

THE FILM EXCHANGE.

- January—The Golden Rosary (Five parts—Dr.).

THOMPSON FILM CO., INC.

- December—War as It Really Is (Seven Parts—Topical).

ULTRA FILMS, INC.

- Jan.—A Day at West Point (Topical).

UNITY SALES CORP.

- January—Glory (Six parts—Drama).

UNIVERSAL (STATE RIGHTS).

- October—Idle Wives (Seven parts—Drama).
December—The People vs. John Doe (Six parts—Drama).
January—20,000 Leagues Under the Sea (Eight parts).
January—Hell Morgan's Girl (Drama).

EXHIBITORS NOW DEMAND

THAT THE LIGHT BE IMPROVED AND PERFECTED.

OPERATORS CAN READILY PLEASE THEIR EMPLOYERS

BY RECOMMENDING THE USE OF

SPEER CARBONS

Several styles of carbons, including the ordinary solid and cored, are found in the Speer line; however, the "Hold-Arks" are especially recommended as the ideal lower carbon for direct current.

Every Carbon Backed With a Guarantee

For Sale by the Leading Motion Picture Supply Houses.

SPEER CARBON COMPANY

ST. MARYS, PA.

The best theatres in the country are equipped with

Gundlach Projection Lenses

This is in recognition of their superior illuminating power and perfect correction for a sharp, brilliant picture.

Gundlach-Manhattan Optical Co.

808 So. Clinton Ave., Rochester, N. Y.

Poor, Flickering Uncertain Light has spoiled many a perfect picture. It's the ultimate result—the picture on the screen and not what you pay for films—that controls your patronage.

The Wagner WHITE LIGHT Converter

You can have White Light and plenty of it at reasonable current costs with a White Light Converter, and the Wagner Converter is absolutely dependable, Quality-built-in.

Send for Bulletin 10923.

Wagner Electric Manufacturing Company,

Saint Louis, Missouri

"NEWMAN" BRASS FRAMES AND RAILSDO YOU KNOW?

that 90% of all the brass frames used in the moving picture houses throughout the country are "NEWMAN'S"?

WHY?

Because we steadily have refused to cheapen or lower the quality of our goods, even though others have sought to undermine our prestige by underselling with cheapened products. That is one of the reasons why nine out of every ten frames sold bear the name "NEWMAN."

You ought to have our latest catalogue. Write us today.

The Newman Mfg. Company

Frames, Easels, Grilles, Rails, Signs, Choppers, Kick Plates, Door Bars

Established 1882

717-19 Sycamore Street, Cincinnati, O.
68 W. Washington Street, Chicago, Ill.
Canadian Representative—J. T. Malone, Hiale Theatre Bldg., Montreal, Canada.
Pacific Coast—G. A. Metcalfe, San Francisco, Cal.

GOLDENLITE

hasn't a drop of silver in its manufacture. Made with a Mineral. Shines like a mirror without any glare. It's Gold in color. No Flicker, no eye strain. Brings out all the natural colors of the film, saves you Juice and Carbon.

Once up, always up. Unchangeable in color. Not a drop of paint in GOLDENLITE Gold Fibre.

Goldenlite

The Screen De Luxe

Washable
Pliable

Ask the Dealer who has one.
Write us.

CASTLE & ROWLEY

MANUFACTURERS

1113 Chestnut St., St. Louis, Mo.

Have prominent theatre situated on Broadway.
Will rent theatre
or play your picture on percentage.

Apply at 112 West 34th St.,
New York, N. Y.
MR. ROSENBERG

Call between one and three P. M.
Telephone Greeley 6691

RICHARDSON'S

MOTION PICTURE HAND BOOK

FOR MANAGERS and OPERATORS

Published by

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

RICHARDSON'S MOTION PICTURE HAND BOOK is a carefully prepared guide to perfect projection.

It is an invaluable help to every single individual in the trade who has to do with the mechanical handling of motion picture film or the management of a moving picture theatre.

There are over 680 Pages of Text and the illustrations include detail diagrams of all the leading makes of projection machines.

Substantially Bound in Red Cloth $4.00

Sent Postpaid on Receipt of Price by

MOVING PICTURE WORLD, 17 Madison Ave., New York City
MOVING PICTURE WORLD, 917 Schiller Bldg Chicago, Ill
MOVING PICTURE WORLD, 305 Haas Bldg., Los Angeles, Cal.

First Impressions Count

Cater to your patrons by giving them proper box office service. The BEST way is the AUTOMATIC way. Over one billion tickets now sold annually through the AUTOMATICKET REGISTER.

Write at once for full particulars.

Automatic Ticket Selling and Cash Register Company

1737 Broadway
New York

Please send illustrations describing your AUTOMATICKET REGISTER used in Moving Picture Theatres throughout the country. It is understood that this does not obligate me in any way.

Name

Address

Have Perfect Light

Even the most careful operator will sometimes "freeze" the carbons or let them burn apart. Maintain a perfectly regulated arc without a flicker by installing an

AUTO-ARC

Insures perfect, white light. No "freezing"—no burning apart. Soon saves more than enough current to pay its cost. 30 days' trial guaranteed to satisfy you or your money back. PRICE ONLY $60 F. O. B. OWENSBORO, KY.

AMERICAN AUTO-ARC CO., Inc.
407 S. Dearborn St. Chicago, Ill.

NOTICE—Owing to advance in price of materials, the price of the Auto-Arc will be changed on January 1, 1917, from $60.00 to $67.50. Price after February 1, $75.00.

Projection Engineer

Is your screen result unsatisfactory?
Is your projection current costing too much?
Are you planning a new theatre?
Are you contemplating the purchase of new Equipment?

Theatre plans examined and suggestions made as to operating room location. Operating rooms planned, etc., etc. Will personally visit theatres in New York City or within 300 miles thereof. Fees moderate.

(YOU ALL KNOW HIM) F. H. RICHARDSON (YOU ALL KNOW HIM)
Room 1434, 22 E. 17th St., New York City

Telephone: { 2835 } Broad { 4558 }

CABLE ADDRESS
BERNERBRQK

Special Facilities
For Clearing and Forwarding
Films and Accessories
To All Parts of the World

FORWARDERS
CUSTOM HOUSE BROKERS

IMPORT AND EXPORT FREIGHT AGENTS
MARINE INSURANCE BROKERS

H. S. BERNER & CO.
23-25 Beaver St., New York

For the fullest and latest news of the moving picture industry in Great Britain and Europe.

For authoritative articles by leading British technical men.

For brilliant and strictly impartial criticisms of all films, read

THE BIOSCOPE

The Leading British Trade Journal with an International Circulation
American Correspondence by W. Stephen Bush

of
"Moving Picture World"

85 Shaftesbury Avenue, London, W.
Specimen on Application

Victory!

IN INDIANA
MAY MEAN VICTORY IN EVERY OTHER STATE

The bill legalizing the showing of clean pictures on Sunday has passed the Indiana Senate, nineteen to twenty-seven.

Every branch of the industry should throw itself into the breach and bring every influence to bear to insure its complete victory in the Assembly.

HELP!

HELP!!

HELP!!!

FRANK REMBUSCH, President Indiana Exhibitors'
State Association, Shelbyville, Indiana

The STERN PROJECTOR

A MOVING PICTURE MACHINE with qualities not to be found in any of the other makes. Built Substantial, Simple, Strong, Durable, Flickerless and at a reasonable low price—$250.00 with motor, $210.00 less motor, 5% cash.

Why pay money for name plates? They have no value to you. Get information from the following DEALERS who are reliable:

OMAHA FILM EXCHANGE, 108 South 14th St., Omaha, Neb.

B. O. WETMORE, 2 Park Square, Boston, Mass.
CALIFORNIA FILM EXCHANGE, 121 Golden Gate Ave., San Francisco, Cal.

CROWN MOTION PICTURE SUPPLIES, 217 West 42nd St., New York, N. Y.

H. K. BARNETT SUPPLY CO., 1915½ Main St., Dallas, Tex.

CANADIAN THEATRE SUPPLY CO., 295 St. Catherine St. West, Montreal, Que., Canada

DAVIS FILM EXCHANGE, 79 Washington St., Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

AND

The Stern Manufacturing Co., Inc., 1023-25-27 Race Street, Philadelphia, Pa.
FOR 17 YEARS MANUFACTURING MOVING PICTURE SUPPLIES

MOTION PICTURE ELECTRICITY

By J. H. HALLBERG

THIS WORK COVERS

ELECTRICITY
ELECTRIC SERVICE
ELECTRICAL EQUIPMENT
PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS
REFERENCE TABLES, ETC.

An up-to-date treatment of Moving Picture Theater Electric Installation and Projection, by a practical, experienced, electrical expert.

Illustrated and Substantially Bound. 280 Pages.

$2.50 per Copy. Postage Paid.

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
17 Madison Avenue New York

ROSS & COMPANY

RODERICK ROSS

Printers

507 North Clark Street
CHICAGO

If you want printing done, tell me your wants. Forms of every description for the Film Exchanges.

ASK ROSS

Peace Pictures

and

European War Pictures
(Neutral)

New Stereopticon Lectures and Poems presented by
L. M. Marion.

Terms
Moderate

Accompanied by violinist, pianist, operator, lantern, etc. (when desired), for theatres, lyceums and clubs. Music for dances.

LOUISE M. MARION
445 W. 23rd St., New York

Phone, 10396 Chelsea

I do not sell motion pictures.

Everything For Your Playhouse

Whether you want a roll of tickets or a bottle of film cement, floral decorations, electrical equipment, or a Complete Theatre Equipment, you can get it promptly and at fair, honest prices if you ORDER BY MAIL from

The Exhibitors' Mail Order House

We carry all makes of Machines and Repair Parts for all Machines in stock at all times.

Distributors for Minusa Screens

Write for our Bargain List of Used Machines and Accessories

EVERYTHING-FOR-YOUR-PLAYHOUSE

HOMMEL'S
947 PENN AVE.
PITTSBURGH, PA.

The audience is always right.

They want not only a good picture play but a clear picture.

Because of its basic qualities, the clearest pictures are on

Eastman Film

Identifiable by the stencil mark in the margin.

EASTMAN KODAK COMPANY,
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

Clear, Brilliant Pictures Hold Patrons

Flashing signs may draw transient trade, but a permanent, repeating patronage is held only by good films, vividly and clearly projected.

Bausch^{and} Lomb Projection Lenses

insure clear, clean cut images to the very edge of the screen. They put life and brilliancy into the picture impossible with some lenses.

Bausch & Lomb objectives and condensers are considered by leading owners and operators as superior to all others. And justly so—their results prove it.

Regularly supplied with Edison and Nicholas Power machines. They can be procured also through any film exchange.

Bausch & Lomb Optical Co.

ST. PAUL STREET ROCHESTER, N. Y.

New York Washington Chicago San Francisco

Leading American Makers of Photographio and Ophthalmic Lenses, Microscopes, Projection Lanterns (Balopticons), and Other High-Grade Optical Products.

Patented and
Trade-Mark
Reg. U. S. Pat Off.

This little device made it mighty pleasant and comfortable for thousands of Movie Fans Last Summer —

Made money for the Theatres which employed it.

Moving Picture Theatres which installed the famous

"GLOBE" VENTILATORS

last Summer made money because they were cool, comfortable, free from stale and musty odors.

If you want capacity houses during the hot weather, when people stay away because it is so hot and close in the Theatre, invest a few dollars in proper ventilation.

"GLOBE" Ventilators are easy to install; cost nothing to maintain; can't get out of order; are absolutely SILENT and operate efficiently under all weather conditions.

Ask your own Architect or Sheet Metal Worker, or write for information to Department M.

GLOBE VENTILATOR COMPANY

TROY, N. Y.

Film DEVELOPMENT and PRINTING finds its perfection in EVANS' SERVICE

Quality, responsibility and despatch mark every operation. Having helped others make film history, we are competent to help you.

EVANS FILM MANUFACTURING COMPANY

416-24 West 216th Street, New York City

Telephone—Audubon 6881-2

THERE MUST BE A REASON!

Elsewhere in this issue, descriptions will be found of the beautiful theatres controlled by Ascher Bros. of this city. They, like other leading exhibitors in this vicinity, place their projection problems in our hands and invariably contract with Fulcon for projection equipment.

FULCO SERVICE ALWAYS MAKES GOOD

E. E. FULTON CO., 152 West Lake Street, Chicago

MOVING PICTURE EQUIPMENT AND PROJECTION SUPPLIES OF EVERY KIND

BIDWELL & LARRAIN

MANUFACTURERS, EXCHANGEMEN and EXHIBITORS
Owners of the CHILE FILM MFG. COMPANY
Antofagasta La Serena CHILE

Purchasers and Sales Agents of Projection Machines

We rent and distribute films and supplies of every description.
Will accept representation for any line in the Moving Picture business.
We control the principal theatres in Northern Chile.

References: BANCO OF CHILE, Antofagasta Cable Address: BIDLARRAIN

IL TIRSO AL CINEMATOGRAFO

The most important Film Journal in Italy.

Published every Monday at Rome. Excellent staff, special bureau of information. Correspondents in all parts of the world. Yearly subscription for foreign countries: $3.00.

Business Office: Via del Tritone 183, Rome, Italy.

G. W. BRADENBURGH, 802 Vine Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

FEATURES WITH ONE, THREE AND SIX SHEET POSTERS FOR SALE

NAME	NO. OF REELS	STAR	PRICE
Spectro	5	Henry Mason	$115
Sins of Great Cities	4	Ebba Thomsen	75
World, Flesh and the Devil	5	Sensational	100
The Marked Woman	5	Barbara Tennant	100
Uncle Tom's Cabin	5	Irving Cummings	125
Rip Van Winkle	5	Joseph Jefferson	150
In the Land of the Head Hunters	8	Sensational	60
An American Gentleman	5	Wm. Bonnell	100
The Test	2	Clara Kimball Young	25
Mother's Roses	3	Dorothy Kelly	45
Too Much Uncle	2	Anita Stewart	25
Message from Headquarters	3	Anita Stewart	45

BARGAINS IN MACHINES

Twenty-two machines slightly used, first class condition, Simplex, Power's 6 A's, Power's 6's, Edison B's, and Edison D's. Low prices, quick sales.

CHAS. A. CALEHUFF, 1233 Vine Street, Philadelphia

ADVANCED PROJECTION OF INTOLERANCE

D. W. GRIFFITH'S COLOSSAL SPECTACLE at the LIBERTY THEATRE, NEW YORK, introduces NEW IDEAS in the ART of PROJECTION. The WORLD'S BEST PROJECTORS are equipped with SPECIAL SPEED CONTROLS and TIME REGISTERING DEVICES so that the Musical Director has absolute control of the SPEED, thereby SYNCHRONIZING the MUSIC perfectly with the PICTURE. For the WORLD'S BEST PROJECTORS equipped with TIME REGISTERING Devices and Perfect Arc Control Rheostats, consult the Exclusive Distributor

B. F. PORTER, 1482 BROADWAY, AT TIMES SQUARE, NEW YORK

$4.80 A Big Saving Each Year $4.80

On account of the greatly increased cost of paper, engraving, etc., we have been compelled to make the single copy price fifteen cents. For the present direct subscription prices will remain the same. This means a saving of four dollars and eighty cents yearly on direct subscriptions. In addition you get your paper earlier. It will pay you to fill out this blank and mail at once with your remittance.

ONE YEAR.....$3.00
SIX MONTHS.....$1.50

See title page for rates Canada and Foreign

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
17 Madison Avenue, New York

Cut out and mail

Please Fill in the Name of Your Theatre.....

IT'S HERE! FIVE YEARS AHEAD OF ITS TIME

The Only Screen on earth that will Eliminate all Haze, Glare Eye-Strain, Fade-Away and Out-of-Focus Effect, regardless of where picture is viewed from.

Every Seat in Your Theatre Is of Value. Do You Get It?

As the Oldest, the Largest, Manufacturers of Metalized Cloth in the World, we stand back of our claims and are more than ready to substantiate any statement we make.

Why not be guided by the judgment of that great army of 9,836 exhibitors who know and who are using our previous product?

WELL, let us send you our large Free Samples—12"x14"—of our New 1918 Lineal Metalized Surfaced Screen in Pale Gold, Silver Flesh and Silver White.

Let us prove to you with your own eyes and the brains God gave you that we can and will give you Real Projection Contentment by installing the Screen of No Regrets—

MIRROROID

The 1918 Mirroroid Lineal Finish will be sold at 36 cents a square foot—$3.24 a square yard. Let us advise you as to our nearest-to-you dealer. Shipments one hour after order is received.

THE J. H. GENTER COMPANY, INC., NEWBURGH, N. Y.

VISITORS AND EXHIBITORS ALWAYS WELCOME AT OUR FACTORY

PATRIOTIC SLIDES

Beautifully Hand Colored Slides of President Wilson

"Stand by the President"

All the Army Chiefs

All Naval Officials

Every Member of the Cabinet

Special Patriotic Lecture

"Our Modern Navy"

20 "Close-Up" Views of Uncle Sam's Newest Sea Fighters
Unusual Slides of Snap and Action $5.00 the Set

NOVELTY SLIDE COMPANY

115 East 23rd Street

NEW YORK

J. SLIPPER & CO.

728 S. OLIVE STREET
LOS ANGELES, CAL.

Handling Baird, Powers and Simplex Projectors, Rectifiers, Motor Generators and Minusa Gold Fibre Screens

Motion
Picture Machines
and Supplies

Duhem Motion Picture Mfg. Co.

RAW STOCK SUPPLIED
EXPERT LABORATORY
—FINISHING—
DEVELOPING—PRINTING

700 HAYES STREET
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

A Dependable Mailing List Service

Saves you from 30% to 50% in postage, etc. Reaches all or selected list of theatres in any territory. Includes name of exhibitor as well as the theatre in address. A list of publicity mediums desiring motion picture news. Unaffiliated exchanges looking for features. Supply houses that are properly characterized as such. Producers with address of studios, laboratories and offices. Information in advance of theatres being or to be built.

W74.

MOTION PICTURE DIRECTORY COMPANY

86 Fifth Avenue, New York
425 Ashland Block, Chicago

Phone 3227 Chelsea
Phone 2003 Randolph

Addressing Multigraphing Printing Typewriting

A Welcome Visitor Each Week in Every Business Home Where Moving Pictures Are of Interest

The Moving Picture World

Is Admirably Adapted to Carry Any Little Message Which You May Wish to Send

Our Classified Advertisements at Five Cents Per Word

Will Produce Remarkable Results—One Dollar for Twenty Words or Less.

Send Copy, with remittance, to CHALMERS PUBLISHING CO., 17 Madison Avenue, New York City

DIRECT CURRENT FOR YOUR ARC IS NO LONGER A LUXURY

IT IS AN ABSOLUTE NECESSITY FOR GOOD PROJECTION

The better Exhibitors insist upon A. C. being changed into Direct Current or where Direct Current is supplied that it be modified by means of a

HALLBERG 20th CENTURY MOTOR GENERATOR

All users of HALLBERG Motor Generators are Satisfied

UNCLE SAM uses HALLBERG MOTOR GENERATORS

POST EXCHANGE, CAMP GAILLARD
Culebra, Canal Zone

January 22, 1917.

To: J. H. Hallberg,
727 Seventh Avenue, New York.
Subject: Payment of account.

1—Enclosed herewith check for $418.58 in payment for one (1) HALLBERG 20TH CENTURY 110-volt, 25-cycle, 30 to 40-ampere MOTOR GENERATOR.

When the Motor Generator arrived, our electrician soon had it going, and he says it is the best Motor Generator he has ever seen. It is silent—does not heat up a bit and is worth twice its cost.

(Signed) JOHN L. JENKINS,
1st Lieut. 29th Infantry,
Exchange Officer.

HALLBERG 20th Century
Motor Generator

THE HALLBERG 20TH CENTURY MOTOR GENERATOR changes A.C. or D.C. line current to D.C. at just the right voltage for your lamp without the use of rheostats. Automatically adjusts its output to the needs of the arc at all times and cannot be burned out. Gives a perfect change-over with two lamps and plenty of current for dark films. Order NOW !!!

The "HOLD-ARK" Negative Carbons

For Direct Current are now ready for distribution. They are GUARANTEED to hold the arc of any amperage without traveling around the point. Can be used with ANY make Upper Cored Carbon.

7/16x6 "Hold-Ark" for $\frac{3}{4}$ upper carbon, \$50.00 per 1,000	} Plus 10% if ordered in less than 1,000 lots of each size.
1/2x6 "Hold-Ark" for $\frac{7}{8}$ upper carbon, \$52.50 per 1,000
9/16x6 "Hold-Ark" for 1 upper carbon, $55.00 per 1,000

Full Stock of "SPEER" Projector Carbons

Also Imported Carbons, $\frac{5}{8}$ x12 cored, \$10.00 per hundred
Also Imported Carbons, $\frac{3}{4}$ x12 cored, \$15.00 per hundred
Also Imported Carbons, $\frac{7}{8}$ x12 cored, \$20.00 per hundred Complete Stock—Prompt Shipment—All Makes Guaranteed M. P. Machines—Condensers—Lenses—Carbons—Cement—Oil—Carrying Cases—Film Reels and Closets—Fire Extinguishers—and Supplies and M. P. Equipments of every kind.

Richardson's Operators Handbook $4.

Hallberg's "M. P. Electricity" Book $2.50

J. H. HALLBERG, The House of Quality Established 1904 7th Avenue at 49th St., NEW YORK

The Cameras That Cover the Field!

The Universal

Motion-Picture Machine is made almost entirely of metal, the best quality. 200 ft. capacity aluminum magazines, interchangeable in a moment. Take-up direct gear system, forward or reverse, without changing the mechanism. Regular and trick crank. Reflecting focusing device. Outside masking, adjustable frame-line. Interchangeable lens mount. 50 M. M., B. & L. Tessar F.3.5 lens. Automatic dissolve optional. Any focal length of lens may be mounted. Weight 18 lbs.

List price, camera complete, $300.

Universal Panoram and Tilt Tripod, Finest Made.....	$90.00
Universal Automatic Dissolve..	35.00
Extra Magazines, each.....	8.00
Leather Case for Camera.....	20.00
Carrying Case for Tripod.....	12.00
Extra for 75M.M. lens in addition to regular lens.....	34.00

The Cameras That Cover The Field!

Here are two of the finest motion-picture cameras made. The remarkable Universal Camera is acknowledged superior to any machine regardless of price. Perfect for field or studio—ideal for the news film man and built for lasting satisfactory service.

The sturdy little Davsco, the most reliable popular priced motion-picture camera, is standard in every respect. For the exhibitor, advertising film maker and for every commercial use the Davsco Camera has no equal. Light in weight, compact and easy to handle.

Special Proposition to Studios and Camera Men.

We are one of the largest distributors in the country for this famous Universal Camera. Our special prices for studios and camera men will save you money.

Any machine shipped C. O. D. on receipt of 25% deposit for examination privileges. Money returned immediately if not satisfied. Wire deposit with telegraphic orders. Immediate shipments guaranteed. We do Telephoto, Wide Angle and Special Lens mounting—send for prices.

Get This Book Free !

Our 1917 complete camera catalog, the greatest camera bargain list ever issued, is now ready. Write for catalog No. 526 today!

DAVID STERN COMPANY

Everything in Cameras

1047R Madison St., Chicago, Ill.
In Business Since 1885

The Davsco

Has been built to supply a popular priced motion-picture camera of the highest construction, which will give perfect results. 200 ft. capacity. Standard Film round aluminum magazines. Intermittent marvel of accuracy reflecting focusing device, 50M, M.B. & L. Tessar F.3.5 lens in special focusing mount with the Davsco Exposure meter. A great help to the beginner as well as the professional. Reliable in results, and guaranteed for one year. Weight, 10½ lbs.

Camera, complete with lens....	$110.00
Lightweight Panoram and Tilt Tripod, weight 8 lbs.....	25.00
Extra Aluminum Magazines....	6.00
Carrying Case for Camera.....	7.50
Extra for 75M.M. lens in addition to regular lens.....	34.00

"SEVENTEEN YEARS OF KNOWING HOW"

SERVICE IS THE TRUE MEASURE OF WORTH

THE SUPERIOR SERVICE

RENDERED BY

THOUSANDS' OF POWER'S CAMERAGRAPHS
PRACTICALLY SINCE THE BEGINNING OF THE INDUSTRY
Conclusively Determines Worth Without Comparison
IN THE FIELD OF MOTION PICTURE PROJECTION

CATALOG "G" MAILED UPON REQUEST
Write Today

NICHOLAS POWER COMPANY
NINETY GOLD STREET NEW YORK

TENTH ANNIVERSARY NUMBER

MOVING PICTURE WORLD

THE FILM
INDEX

EXHIBITORS' GUIDE

SELZNICK PICTURES

In addition to our noted stars and productions advertised within we have purchased the

NEW YORK STATE RIGHTS

FOR

"20,000 LEAGUES UNDER THE SEA"

GREATER NEW YORK RIGHTS

FOR

"ENLIGHTEN THY DAUGHTER"

BIG PICTURES FOR BIG PROFITS

LEWIS J. SELZNICK

Seventh Avenue, at Forty-Ninth Street, New York City

Post Office Box 226
Madison Square Station

NEW YORK

17 Madison Avenue
Telephone Madison Square 3510

"History Repeats Itself"

56 YEARS AGO

and

TODAY

Abraham Lincoln
Inaugurated first time
East Front of Capitol
Washington, D. C.
March 4th, 3 P. M.
1861

Benjamin Chapin's
Lincoln Cycle of Photoplays
Inaugurated first time in public, at the Belasco Theatre
Washington, D. C.
March 4th, 3 P. M., 1917

Shall We

56 YEARS AGO

OPEN DEFIANCE

People Aroused

War Spirit

Peacemakers

Angry Discussions

Indignant

Suspense

AWAITING

Benjamin Chapin as Lincoln
Taken at the White House
From His Lincoln Cycle of Photoplays

Fight?

and TODAY

OPEN DEFIANCE

People Aroused

War Spirit

Peacemakers

Angry Discussions

Indignant

Suspense

AWAITING

The President's Answer

56 Years Ago and Today

IS ANNOUNCED IN

Benjamin Chapin's Lincoln Cycle of Photoplays

AND HELPS HISTORY REPEAT ITSELF

In it the Question of the Hour is answered by the Man of the Ages, as Conceived, Dramatized and Reproduced by Benjamin Chapin, World-known as "The Lincoln Man," as Abraham Lincoln—

Because he lives and perpetuates the Lincoln life and spirit—"Lincoln's walk," "Lincoln's smile," "Lincoln's twinkle," and all the quaint ways which show Lincoln, the Boy and the Man, the Lawyer and the President, through reel after reel of thrilling events and humorous experiences, flashing back and forth from White House to log cabin in Real "Lincoln Stories"

as told by the President himself. No such popular stories have ever been told in moving pictures. Never again can such a succession of fact and fancy pictures be produced in such a "happy combination."

The first features of the Lincoln Cycle, shown to the public for the first time during Inaugural Week in WASHINGTON, D. C., will be brought to New York and other cities. Dates and theatres to be announced.

THE BENJAMIN CHAPIN STUDIOS

Studios and Executive Offices, RIDGEFIELD PARK, N. J.

Tel. Hackensack 583

MAX LINDER

HAS CONVULSED
A NATION
WITH LAUGHTER
IN HIS FIRST
COMEDY SUCCESS

"Max Comes Across"

Jones, Linick & Schaefer ran this comedy for one week in two of their big Chicago theatres.

Read what Aaron J. Jones, president, says:

"I ran Max Linder's first comedy in both the Rialto and McVicker's theatres. It packed my houses for the entire week. Max kept the audiences in an uproar of laughter. Everyone pleased. I am looking forward to his next release."

BOOK THE ENTIRE SERIES OF 12 NOW

Backed by a Gigantic National Advertising Campaign

See these features at any K. E. S. E. office and ask for particulars on our newspaper advertising campaign.

WE PAY HALF FOR YOU

ESSANAY
GEORGE K. SPOOR, PRESIDENT

1333 Argyle St., Chicago

Read these Pages
Every Week for
Your Own Benefit and Profit

Universal

VOL 1

UNIVERSAL FILM MFG. CO., Carl Laemmle, Pres.

"The Largest Fi

"The Voice on the Wire"

Thrilling Universal Serial of Mystery Now Ready for Release

Ben Wilson

THERE is something new under the sun. It is an idea and a story for a serial photoplay that is so different, so unique, and so original that it is going to take the country by storm. The action of the Universal's latest and greatest super-serial, "The Voice on the Wire," centers about a series of mysterious crimes—each preceded by a warning to the intended victim. The warning comes through the medium of a mysterious "voice on the wire." To John Shirley, criminal investigator, comes the task of solving the double mystery—that of the motive and perpetrator of the crimes and also the identity of the weird, uncanny "voice" of the ghostly warnings. Based on the popular novel of the same name by Eustace Hale Ball, "The Voice on the Wire" will immediately jump into popular favor. Ben Wilson, the well known Universal star, plays the part of John Shirley, and gives the most notable portrayal of his vigorous career. He is supported by beautiful Neva Gerber, the charming Universal Feature star, and a big company. The direction is notable and is in the hands of Stuart Paton, who directed that stupendous production, Jules Verne's "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea." Advance bookings are pouring in at all of the Universal's 73 Exchanges, and with the release date at hand these are sure to be greatly increased.

"The Perils of the Secret Service"

Each Episode Complete in Itself in the Universal's New Eight Part Dramatic Series

Kingsley Benedict

A MOST unusual series is presented in the filming of the celebrated "Yorke Norroy" stories by the famous novelist, George Bronson Howard. Having been read by millions of fans this filmization will be eagerly received—a ready appreciation will be extended. The series is called "The Perils of the Secret Service," and consists of eight two-reel dramas, each bearing a different title and each constituting a complete story in itself. That handsome and energetic Universal feature star, Kingsley Benedict, plays the lead throughout, but is supported by a different woman star in each of the eight parts. The entire series, directed by the author, Mr. Howard, in person, is marked by strong situations, and convincing realism. To the Exhibitor who does not care to run serials this remarkable series affords an opportunity for eight weeks of continuous business—an opportunity already grasped by hundreds of shrewd managers. Bookings or reservations may be made through any Universal Exchange, or through the home office.

UNIVERSAL COMEDIES

Nestor L-KO and Joker Companies Setting a World Pace

HIGHEST IN PUBLIC FAVOR

THERE are real reasons for the rapid rise in public esteem accorded, via the box office, to Universal Comedies. They are funny without being vulgar; they can and do present slap-stick stuff (so-called), that is new and refreshing—never silly, never anything that could offend—just clean.

From the Joker Comedy "Mule Mates" wholesome fun of the unexpected kind that brings the spontaneous and hearty laughter from audiences everywhere. These are the reasons why Nestors, L-KO'S and Jokers, taken from the regular Universal Program are selected by such great houses as the Strand and the Rialto, the biggest moving picture houses on Broadway, New York. These theatres, located in the theatre section of Greater New York, cater to the most blasé and critical audiences in the world. You can get Universal Comedies on the regular Universal Program or you can book them separately through any Universal Exchange.

For further details of the Universal Program see the Moving Picture Weekly.

Bulletin

The FILM NEWS
Printed here will Lead any Exhibitor
to Sure Success

Manufacturing Concern in the Universe."

1600 Broadway, NEW YORK

No. 1

THE UNIVERSAL PROGRAM

Gives Exhibitors Complete Program of 29
Reels a Week or — Their Choice of the Greatest Specialties Ever Filmed

TWO LISTS BELOW COMPRISE COMPLETE "U" PROGRAM

SPECIALS ON THE UNIVERSAL PROGRAM

Include such features as seem best adapted to the theatres which show an open program. Whether you are running short subjects, or a feature house, you will find that from the list given below you can make selections that will strengthen your performance—in many instances put over what, without that Universal selection would be a weak show. Released at a slight advance to cover the cost of individual bookings.

SPECIAL RELEASES ON THE UNIVERSAL PROGRAM FOR THE WEEK OF MARCH 26th, 1917

- RED FEATHER—"THE FIGHTING GRINGO" (Five Reels)—Harry Carey and Claire De Bray.
- NESTOR—"SHOT IN THE WEST" (Comedy)—Eddie Lyons, Edith Roberts and Lee Moran.
- GOLD SEAL—"A STARTLING CLIMAX" (Three-Reel Drama)—Val Paul, Gertrude Aster, Fred Church.
- L-KO—"DIPPY DAN'S DOINGS" (Two-Reel Comedy)—Dan Russell.
- POWERS—"THE GRAND CANYON OF ARIZONA" (One-Reel Scenic—Educational).
- IMP—"THE PERILS OF THE SECRET SERVICE"—No. 4, "THE CRIMSON BLADE" (Two Reels)—Kingsley Benedict.
- UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE—Issue No. 13.
- BISON—"STEEL HEARTS" (Two-Reel Railroad Drama)—Marie Walcamp and Lee Hill.
- JOKER—"WHAT THE —?" (One-Reel Comedy)—Gale Henry and Wm. Franey.
- POWERS—"INBAD, THE SAILOR" (Comedy Cartoon, and Educational—Split Reel).

REGULAR RELEASES on the UNIVERSAL PROGRAM

are those sterling subjects which are constantly making the short subject program the most popular with Exhibitors because most popular with the fans. Here you have real human stories, dramatically presented. Stars of real magnitude; lavish sets, and the finest supporting casts in the world. These too, may be booked separately, through any Universal Exchange.

REGULAR RELEASES ON THE UNIVERSAL PROGRAM FOR THE WEEK OF MARCH 26th, 1917

- VICTOR—"NEVER TOO OLD TO WOO" (One-Reel Comedy)—Marjorie Ellison and Jack Nelson.
- LAEMMLE—"IS MONEY ALL?" (One-Reel Drama)—Irene Hunt.
- UNIVERSAL ANIMATED WEEKLY—No. 65.
- IMP—"DAVID'S IDOL DREAM" (Two-Reel Drama)—Jay Belasco and Madge Kirby.
- BIG U—"THE MASK OF LOVE" (One-Reel Drama)—Pauline Bush and Lon Chaney.
- VICTOR—"PRODIGAL PAPA" (One-Reel Comedy)—Jane Gail.
- REX—"SNOW WHITE" (Three-Reel Drama)—Elsie Alberts.

The two lists above comprise the complete Universal Program of 29 reels—the regular weekly program that has led thousands of Exhibitors to undreamed-of success. For full particulars, write your nearest Universal Exchange, or the Home Office.

If you are not on the mailing list of the Moving Picture Weekly—GET ON!

FIRST ON THE SCREEN

Universal Animated Weekly
Beats 'Em All—First in [the Hearts of the Fans]

JUST because the fans are discriminating; just because they know new news from old; just because they know that they are entitled to the best; just because thousands of Exhibitors have come to realize that the fans do know—the Universal Animated Weekly is the most successful of all the news weeklies now on the market. Week after week the Universal Animated Weekly is first on the screen with the world's most timely and interesting news events. With the mighty Universal organization behind them, Universal Animated Weekly cameramen enjoy unusual opportunities for getting real news pictures.

Uncle Sam Prepares for War.
Universal Animated Weekly.

U. A. W. cameramen to the number of hundreds are stationed in every part of the civilized globe. If you have a dull day in the week, book the U. A. W. for that day and watch business pick up. You can book through any Universal Exchange, or from the Universal Animated Weekly, 1600 Broadway.

UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE

The One Reel Feature That Became Popular Overnight

NOW RELEASED EVERY WEEK

Cooking Lesson from U. Screen Magazine

able anywhere today. Get full particulars from your nearest Universal Exchange, or from the Universal Screen Magazine, 1600 Broadway, New York.

POPULAR demand has compelled the production and release of this great one-reel feature every week. An instantaneous hit—immediately after the first showing, the Universal Exchanges were besieged with letters of suggestion and of demand, not only from Exhibitors, but from patrons as well—"We want the Universal Screen Magazine every week." Covering every variety of subject—something to please every man, woman and child—the Universal Screen Magazine is the greatest one-reel crowd-getter obtainable anywhere today.

Red Feather Photo Plays Have Made Their Mark

THE establishment of the RED FEATHER Brand marked a new era for Exhibitors of feature photoplays. RED FEATHERS proved that it is possible to put out five reels of action, plot development, suspense, lavish sets, superb action and brilliant direction WITHOUT robbing the Exhibitor of all chance to make his legitimate profit.

To specify from its more than sixty releases the plays that stand out strongest would be idle. More to the point is to call attention to the fact that RED FEATHERS are in the front rank as to percentage of big box-office winners.

The thing for you to remember is that RED FEATHERS made their mark IN PROFITS RETURNED TO EXHIBITORS. THAT IS—NET PROFITS THAT ADD TO YOUR BANK ACCOUNT.

Book through any UNIVERSAL
Exchange.

The Verdict of the Supreme Court of Criticism

A few mornings ago there assembled at the Broadway Theatre, New York, the most distinguished audience that ever came together to see a motion picture.

In that audience, which packed the theatre, there were dramatic critics, musical critics, playwrights, theatre owners, publishers, actors, artists, "first-nighters" and a great throng of motion picture producers, distributors and exhibitors.

They came to see a great story greatly produced—a picture which marked a new epoch and set a new standard—the film version of that wonderful romance of Alaskan life.

THE BARRIER

By Rex Beach

The verdict of this audience—the most critical and difficult to satisfy that even New York could produce—was unanimous and enthusiastic.

In conversation, in messages of congratulation, in the newspapers, in the reviews by motion picture magazines, "The Barrier" is hailed as the most remarkable and the most revolutionary motion picture yet produced—a picture destined to enjoy a run which will break all records.

Why? Because "The Barrier" is a wonderful story of life, greatly acted, greatly produced. A story by a man whose virile, red-blooded romances have made him the most popular author America has ever produced—stories which run into editions of hundreds of thousands.

In "The Barrier" they will see the big, strong, vital things of life—love; faith, pain, joy, courage, struggle, sacrifice, clash—a vivid, truthful drama of primitive life told by a great writer who saw it unfold before his own eyes, and himself played a man's part in it.

Directed by Edgar Lewis, produced under the personal supervision of the author.

REX BEACH PICTURES CO., Inc.

440 Fourth Avenue

New York City

THE B. S. MOSS STATE RIGHTS FEATURE SENSATION
AFTER A PRELIMINARY
It's A Startled Cry

"IN THE HANDS"

An Intensely Dramatic Arraignment of Featuring LOIS

More than 300 scenes that sweep observers

Sold:

Rhode Island, Maine, Massachusetts, Vermont
New Hampshire and Connecticut
New York State and New Jersey
Eastern Pennsylvania, Maryland
District of Columbia, Virginia

Ohio, Kentucky and Michigan
Tennessee, South Carolina, North Carolina
Georgia, Alabama, Florida and Mississippi
Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas and Oklahoma
Dominion of Canada and Australia

TRADE SHOWING SHORTLY

THAT SOLD VIRTUALLY OUTRIGHT ON SIGHT
PRIVATE ADVANCE SHOWING

For Prison Reform

OF THE

Conviction on Circumstantial Evidence MEREDITH along irresistably to a thrilling close.

Options Held Offers Invited

Washington, Oregon, Idaho, and Montana, Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia, California, Nevada and Arizona. Utah, Colorado, New Mexico and Wyoming.
Illinois and Indiana.

Kansas, Missouri, Iowa and Nebraska. Minnesota, North and South Dakota and Wisconsin.

We must close out all of above territory before March 18, to clear our shelves for our new big 7 Reel Feature "ONE HOUR"

ADDRESS ALL INQUIRIES

B.S. Moss Motion Picture Corporation

729 7th Ave., New York

WATCH FOR TRADE REVIEWS

WILLIAM FOX
Presents the Preëminent
WILLIAM FARNUM

In A Special Super de Luxe Production of Charles Dickens' Immortal Novel

'A TALE OF TWO CITIES'

The Picturization Of A Man's Supreme Sacrifice
For the Woman He Loved But Could Not Have.

Directed by Frank Lloyd.

THE LURE OF THE WILD—

Overcomes the girl and makes her give up certain success for happiness among the forests

JOAN SAWYER Supported by

In STUART HOLMES
LOVE'S LAW

WRITTEN BY MARY MURILLO

DIRECTED BY TEFFT JOHNSON

Foxfilm Comedy Service

Release for March 12th.

HEARTS and SADDLES

A two-reel comedy of the cactus country featuring
Tom Mix, world's champion cowboy,
Victoria Forde and Victor Potel.

*With
the money gone, what chance has the son of a millionaire?*

This question is solved in the Channing Pollock-Rennold Wolf screen drama

His FATHER'S SON
starring the admirable
LIONEL BARRYMORE and IRENE HOWLEY

Five Acts of METRO quality in this throbbing human story

*Presented by B.A.ROLFE on the METRO Program
MARCH 19th*

A Business Proposition

Wm. Christy Cabanne's master serial sparkling with thrills, love and fine adventure

The Great Secret

WITH

Story by Fred de Gresac

FRANCIS X. BUSHMAN
and BEVERLY BAYNE

is making good with the public is making money for the exhibitor is proving the most satisfying business proposition ever offered in the serial field.

BOOKING THROUGH
M E T R O
EXCHANGES

Produced by SERIAL Producing Co. / Presented by QUALITY Pictures Corp'n

Are you sharing in the profits?

The Critics say -

"Victor Moore in the Klever Komedy, provides many laughs."—N. Y. Sun.
 "To say Moore in Klever Komedies produces laughter, is putting it mildly—they are a joy."—Zit, in New York Eve. Journal. "They are the best single reel comedies produced."—Jolo, in Variety. "They are on a par with the best comedies we have ever had."—Harold Edel, Managing Director, Strand Theatre, N. Y.

Have the Paramount exchange show you the single-reel Klever Komedy released March 12th, entitled

"FLIVVERING"

You will agree that this is one of the best comedies you ever saw and that you can use Klever Komedies every week.

Shown at The Strand Theatre, New York

Produced by

Klever Pictures, Inc.

220 West 42nd Street
 New York City

Para-mounting Receipts

The receipts of Paramount exhibitors have increased over last year because more and more people want to see

Paramount Pictures

They are the pleasing kind of pictures that people want to see again and again.

More people are learning all the time, through a carefully planned advertising and publicity campaign, about the consistent quality of Paramount Pictures.

Not only can you attract more people, by advertising that you show Paramount Pictures, but their consistent quality makes those people your permanent patrons.

Consider the two Paramount Pictures for this week advertised on the opposite page.

Can you show Para-mounting receipts?

Paramount Pictures Corporation
FOUR EIGHTY FIVE FIFTH AVENUE at FORTY FIRST ST.
 NEW YORK, N.Y.

Controlled by FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION

Member of National Association Motion Picture Industry

Paramount Pictures

make Para-mounting receipts.
Consider carefully the "two"
pictures released "this" week

Marie Doro in "Castles for Two"—a quaint romance of old Ireland will make a timely release for St. Patrick's Day. Marie Doro has become tremendously popular since "Oliver Twist" in which she created such a furore. This superb picture is a Lasky production.

Kathlyn Williams in "Out of the Wreck." This is a thrilling story featuring a tremendous drawing card. You will remember the distinct sensation made by Miss Williams in "Redeeming Love." This remarkable picture is a Morosco production.

Pictures with such new- ness, make new patrons

Paramount Pictures Corporation
FOUR EIGHTY FIVE FIFTH AVENUE at FORTY FIRST ST.
NEW YORK, N.Y.

Controlled by FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION

Member of National Association Motion Picture Industry

Unanimous Approval DOUGLAS From These Leading

Court Amusement Club

COURT TH MARKET

C. L. CARR

PRINCESS THEATRE
8100 PENN ST.

H. J. SCHAD

CARR & SCHAD

AMUSEMENTS

MAIN OFFICE, 740 PENN ST. READING PA

EMPIRE THEATRE
730 PENN ST.

VICTOR THEATRE
740 PENN ST.

ELECTRIC CARROUSELL
MINIATURE RAILWAY
EDGEWOOD PARK, SHANSHIN PA

ELECTRIC CARROUSELL
CARBONIA PARK, READING, PA

February 24th, 1917.

Artcraft Pictures Corporation,
729 Seventh Avenue,
New York City.

Dear Sirs:

In response to your inquiry of the 19th. inst., regarding Douglas Fairbanks, it gives us much pleasure to add our commendation for the excellent work of this noted artist.

We run all the big features that are made, in our various houses and find that Mr. Fairbanks is one of the very best attractions we can possibly get.

We always play the Fairbank's releases double time and then repeat them at one of our other houses. Our patrons receive every new Fairbanks feature with as much enthusiasm as the preceding Fairbank's pictures and they all give universal satisfaction.

Assuring you of our high appreciation of Fairbank's Pictures and predicting even greater success, we beg to remain,

Yours respectfully,

H. J. Schad
Sec'y.

L/N

IDENT AND CHIEF MANAGER
RESIDENT

THE CRESCENT T

HIGH CLASS PL

JOHN D. RO

STRAND THEATRE

J. M. ROOT, Lessee and Manager

America's Finest Picture Play House
Best Features; Best Ventilated; Unexcelled Orchest
PASADENA, CALIF

All Of Which Means That Live- DEMAND ALL THE DOUGLAS RELEASED THROUGH ARTCRAFT PICTURES CORP.

ARTCRAFT
PICTURES

of the Irresistible FAIRBANKS Exhibitors of the Country

W. H. SWANSON Pres.-Treas. H. E. Ellison Secy.

AMERICAN THEATRE
The Largest & Handsomest
Exclusive Motion Picture Theatre in World
3,000 Seats
LIBERTY THEATRE
1,000 Seats
REX THEATRE
1,200 Seats
Salt Lake City

Swanson Theatre Circuit

Incorporated
Capital $750,000

MAJESTIC THEATRE
Grand Junction Colo.
GRAND THEATRE
Pueblo, Colo.
REX & STERLING
THEATRES
Greeley Colo.

Salt Lake City, Utah, February 22, 1917.

Artcraft Pictures Corporation,
729 Seventh Avenue,
New York City.

Dear Sir:-

Your favor of the 18th regarding Douglas Fairbanks pictures just received.

Douglas Fairbanks is a big drawing card at this theatre. Our patrons like anything in which he appears. It would be difficult to say which of his pictures was liked the best. I am impressed with the fact that his athletic movements afford the relish in all his pictures.

There isn't much to say more than the above. It might be proper, however, for me to express this opinion; that Mr.
Fairbanks' personality is the strongest of any star which appears in this theatre.

Very truly yours,
H. E. Ellison Secretary

HSE/CP

Wire Exhibitors In Every Community
FAIRBANKS PRODUCTIONS
729 SEVENTH AVE. NEW YORK CITY

Mary Pickford

The Strand, N. Y., and 87 other leading theatres show "A Poor Little Rich Girl" for a full week or more.

Lyric, London	Cameraphone, Pittsburgh, Pa.
Garden, Paterson, N. J.	Strand, Akron, O.
Regent and Gordon,	Walnut, Cincinnati, O.
Rochester, N. Y.	Circle, Indianapolis, Ind.
Strand, Syracuse, N. Y.	Mary Anderson, Louisville, Ky.
Strand, Buffalo, N. Y.	Colonial, Columbus, O.
Park, Worcester, Mass.	Temple, Toledo, O.
Emery, Providence, R. I.	Majestic, Detroit, Mich.
Shea's, Fitchburg, Mass.	Majestic Gardens,
Globe, Boston, Mass.	Grand Rapids, Mich.
Strand, Lynn, Mass.	Liberty, Detroit, Mich.
Merrimac Sq., Lowell, Mass.	Madison, Washington or
Salem, Salem, Mass.	Liberty, Detroit, Mich.
Poli, Hartford, Conn.	La Salle, Chicago, Ill.
Bijou, Bridgeport, Conn.	Bijou Dream, Chicago, Ill.
Modern, Boston, Mass.	Apollo, Peoria, Ill.
Broadway, Springfield, Mass.	Alhambra, Milwaukee, Wis.
Colonial, Pittsfield, Mass.	Boston, Chicago, Ill.
Scollay Sq. and Olympia,	Strand, Minneapolis, Minn.
Boston, Mass.	Strand, St. Paul, Minn.
Keeney's, New Britain, Conn.	Garden, Des Moines, Ia.
Arcadia, Reading, Pa.	Orpheum, St. Joseph, Mo.
Strand, Scranton, Pa.	N. Y. Central, St. Louis, Mo.
Savoy, Wilkes-Barre, Pa.	12th St., Kansas City, Mo.
Stanley, Philadelphia, Pa.	Strand, Omaha, Neb.
Palace, Philadelphia, Pa.	Palace, Des Moines, Ia.
Stanley, Atlantic City, N. J.	Pike, Colorado Springs, Colo.
Belmont, Philadelphia, Pa.	Rialto, Denver, Colo.
Queen, Wilmington, Del.	Paramount, Salt Lake
Parkway, Baltimore, Md.	City, Utah
Columbia, Washington, D. C.	Beauty, Butte, Mont.
Wizard, Baltimore, Md.	Columbia, Portland, Ore.
Fifth Avenue, Nashville, Tenn.	Coliseum, Seattle, Wash.
Criterion, Atlanta, Ga.	Colonial, Tacoma, Wash.
Alcazar, Birmingham, Ala.	Clemmer, Spokane, Wash.
Globe, New Orleans, La.	Clemmer, Seattle, Wash.
Stillman, Cleveland, O.	Rex, Seattle, Wash.
Knickerbocker, Cleveland, O.	Peoples, Portland, Ore.
Regent, East Liberty, Pa.	Parola, San Francisco, Cal.
Doune, Youngstown, O.	Broadway, Los Angeles, Cal.
Garden, Pittsburgh, Pa.	T. & D., Oakland, Cal.
	T. & D., Sacramento, Cal.

Released March 5th.

Jesse L. Lasky

Presents

GERALDINE FARRAR

as Joan of Arc in

Cecil B. de Mille's

cinema masterpiece in eleven parts

"Joan The Woman"

by Jeanie Macpherson

STILL PLAYING TO CAPACITY

at the

44th Street Theatre, New York and the Majestic Theatre, Los Angeles, Cal.

Cardinal Film Corporation
485 Fifth Avenue, New York

WILL ELECTRIFY NOT ONLY UTAH BUT THE WHOLE UNITED STATES

25c. A WEEK. $10.00 A YEAR

VOL. III. NO.

8

THURS.

FEB. 22

1917

THE RECOGNIZED AUTHORITY ON FEATURE FILMS
THE BROADSTREET
OF FILMDOOM

WID'S

IN FORM
A MAGAZINE
IN FACT
A SERVICE

GRIPPING DRAMA, ARTISTICALLY DONE, ATTACKING MORMON POLYGAMY

Mac Murray in "A MORMON MAID" FRIEDMAN-HILLER AND WILK STATE RIGHTS The Box Office Angle

This is a production which should get money anywhere. It has exceptional advertising possibilities because of the attack against the Mormon religion, in which most every one is interested. Since their knowledge of this great force is limited and the fact that the production shows the Mormon guards in the white-robed costume of the clans in "The Birth of a Nation" gives this an added interest.

You can safely promise that this is one of the greatest five-reel melodramas ever produced, and you are entirely safe in stating specifically that it is exceptionally artistic and yet filled with dramatic situations that compel interest and thrills which stir.

If your patrons like action, they should love this. If they like tense drama, they should heartily approve, and certainly the artistic atmosphere will impress any audience.

Since this is being presented as a state rights special, it must be considered as a special. Surely, it is very much better than the average programme release, and, to my mind, the fact that it is in five reels is no reason why it should not take a place along with many of the seven-reel specials which are now offered. By intelligent use of the Mormon guards' costume and properly playing up the curiosity of most folk as to the Mormon faith, you should be able to do a lot of business with this.

STATE
RIGHTS

"A MORMON MAID" PRESENTING MAE MURRAY

"A wonderfully strong plot." - - - - - M. P. News
"Notable spectacularly, an absorbing story." - - - - - M. P. World
"Straighthaway drama of the strongest kind." - - - - - Variety
"This production has the very great advantage of an entirely novel setting." - - - - - Morning Telegraph
"A picture commanding continuous concentrated interest." - - - - - Motography
"Can be booked for theatres, catering to all classes." - - - - - Mirror
"Nothing we have seen in the silent drama equals it." - - - - - Billboard
"A thrilling picture, sensational and artistic." - Exhibitors' Trade Review

CONTROLLED BY
FRIEDMAN ENTERPRISES BENJAMIN FRIEDMAN
President

HILLER & WILK, Selling Agents
SUITE 924
LONGACRE BUILDING, NEW YORK

MUTUAL NEWS

"What's Going On In The Mutual"

WEEKLY NEWS OF THE MUTUAL FILM CORPORATION AND ITS EXCHANGES

MARCH 17, 1917

"RAILROAD RAIDERS" NEW HELEN HOLMES SERIAL BEGINS APRIL 9

THE big, new Helen Holmes photo-novel, "The Railroad Raiders," is now well under way. It is in fifteen absorbing chapters—a new chapter each week for fifteen weeks—each chapter two reels in length. The first chapter is entitled "Circumstantial Evidence." It will be released on Monday, April 9. Exhibitors everywhere are already besieging Mutual Exchanges for first run showings. Helen Holmes is today the most popular serial star in America.

Thrilling Railroad Tales.

Thrilling tales of railroad life in the west form the basis of "The Railroad Raiders." Most of them are actual incidents that have really occurred on certain western lines. For instance, there is the story of the counterfeit tickets—the mystery of the Japanese ambassador—the attempt to steal a carload of gold en route from a government mint to the banks of San Francisco—the incident of the stolen race horse. All of these thrilling railroad adventures—tales from real life—have been fascinatingly woven into this new photo-novel. It is decidedly different from anything of the kind that has ever been previously attempted. Every chapter of the serial is filled with action, punch, thrills!

Big Advertising Campaign.

As an aid to the exhibitor a tremendous national campaign of advertising will be run in newspapers all over the country. Big half-page and quarter-page advertisements—some even larger—will appear at about the time the first chapter is ready for release. The public will be thoroughly informed regarding "The Railroad Raiders." The theatres showing it will be the most popular spots in their neighborhoods. Bookings on "The Railroad Raiders" can be made now at your nearest Mutual Exchange.

Gail Kane at Work On First Picture

Gail Kane, the newest star of the American Film Company, Inc., is well along with her first production for release through Mutual Exchanges. Its title is "Who's Wife?" Rollin Sturgeon, who was recently engaged by American especially to direct Miss Kane, took his company to Los Angeles, from which point the entire company embarked for a short voyage during which many of the sea scenes for the forthcoming feature production were secured.

Mutual Star Productions For March

Week Beginning March 5th.	Lead.
Title.
The Girl From Rector's.....
.....Ruth MacTammany
Week Beginning March 12th.
My Fighting Gentleman.....
.....William Russell
Week Beginning March 19th.
The Painted Lie.....	Crane Wilbur
Week Beginning March 26th.
Motherhood.....	Marjorie Rambeau
Sunny Jane.....	Jackie Saunders

MUTUAL TO RELEASE

"Jimmy Dale, Alias the Grey Seal"—Starring E. K. Lincoln
A DETECTIVE SERIES

Another new series of Mutual Featurettes is ready for release. The new series is entitled "Jimmie Dale, Alias the Grey Seal." It is a thrilling series of detective tales—each complete in itself—each two reels in length. The first of the Jimmie Dale Featurettes will be released on March 23. Fifteen others will follow at weekly intervals, for there are sixteen complete stories in the series. The stories are by that master of fiction—Frank L. Packard. The Jimmie Dale stories in fiction form have been appearing in The People's Magazine, where they have been read by hundreds of thousands of people. They are now assembled in book form, and booksellers all over the United States are offering the bound volume of detective stories. In the films, E. K. Lincoln appears as Jimmie Dale. In the supporting cast are such favorites as Edna Hunter, Doris Mitchell and Paul Panzer. The film productions were staged by the Monmouth Film Corporation, of which Harry McRae Webster is president and Jules Bernstein general manager. Harry McRae Webster directed the productions. All the stories are new. They have never been released before. They offer the exhibitor a most unusual attraction. Fiction publishers have proven that nothing has a stronger appeal for the great American public than mystery stories. Now, in film form, the exhibitor can reach out for this same big audience—can bring the readers of detective fiction to his theatre to see their favorite hero actually performing the deeds of which they have read. "Jimmie Dale, Alias the Grey Seal," is now available at all Mutual Film Exchanges.

WITH "MY FIGHTING GENTLEMAN" RUSSELL STARTS NEW SERIES

WILLIAM RUSSELL, popular American-Mutual star, is this week to appear in the first of a brand new series of American Photoplays, all of which will be released through the exchanges of the Mutual Film Corporation. The first picture is six reels in length. It is entitled "My Fighting Gentleman." Nell Shipman is the author. Edward Sloman, the same man who produced the sequel to "The Diamond From the Sky," directed it. It is a superior production in every way.

Powerful Story of the South.

"My Fighting Gentleman" is a story of the South during the Reconstruction Period. Its heroine wears hoopskirts and its hero is possessed of real Southern chivalry. The utmost care has been taken in depicting with fidelity every detail of the time in which the story is laid. There are no jarring notes. Each "prop," each piece of furniture, each tiny detail of costuming is historically correct. The real South is re-created and lives again on the screen in all the realism of the days immediately following the Civil War. Francelia Billington makes her first appearance opposite Mr. Russell in this production, and the rest of the cast is made up of players specially selected for their peculiar abilities.

Directed by Edward Sloman.

Director Edward Sloman, who has attracted attention everywhere on account of his careful supervision of numerous multiple reel photoplays, has fairly outdone himself in "My Fighting Gentleman." From the standpoint of photography, stage settings, costuming and enactment, this first of the new Russell Series can truly be termed an excellent picture. Theatres everywhere are certain to demand repeat bookings on this subject. Everyone who sees it will want to see it again and will advise friends to see it. Exhibitors can make reservations for the new William Russell series now at any Mutual Film Exchange.

Marjorie Rambeau With All-Star Cast

A real all-star cast supports Marjorie Rambeau in the second of her Mutual appearances. In "Motherhood," from the pen of Frederick Arnold Kummer, Paul Everton, one of Broadway's best known "heavies," has an important role, as have Anne Sutherland, the noted character actress, Aubrey Beattie, and others.

MUTUAL

MUTUAL

Announcement:

E.D. Horkheimer Presents

The Popular Star

Miss

JACKIE SAUNDERS

In a Series of Six Five Reel

MUTUAL PRODUCTIONS

THE Mutual Film Corporation announces the forthcoming presentation of a series of six Mutual Productions featuring the charming star, MISS JACKIE SAUNDERS. Each of these plays is in five reels. Each portrays the exceptional dramatic ability of the star. The first three plays of the series are:

1. "Sunny Jane"
2. "The Wildcat"
3. "The Checkmate"

"Sunny Jane" will be released the week of March 26th through all the exchanges of the Mutual Film Corporation. The others will follow at regular intervals. This series of plays is recommended to exhibitors seeking high class entertainment. The stories are all especially selected to suit the personality of the star. The supporting casts are good. The direction is of the highest standard. The staging throughout is lavish—beautiful. Booking arrangements for the entire series can be made at any Mutual Exchange.

NOW BOOKING AT ALL
MUTUAL EXCHANGES

MUTUAL

Another Great Signal Photo-Novel!

HELEN HOLMES

IN

THE RAILROAD RAIDERS

15 CHAPTERS

FIRST RELEASE APRIL 9th

Beginning Monday, April 9th, we will present the third HELEN HOLMES success — "THE RAILROAD RAIDERS". This new photo-novel is, undoubtedly, the most stupendous of all serials. Thrills — action — punch — in every chapter. A story of railroad life in the great West. Directed by J. P. McGowan. Backed by a tremendous advertising campaign throughout the country.

Another Sensational Helen Holmes Success

"THE RAILROAD RAIDERS" is the third serial success featuring the fearless film star HELEN HOLMES. The first two—"The Girl and the Game" and "A Lass of the Lumberlands"—made BIG money for exhibitors. Now comes "THE RAILROAD RAIDERS"—another sensational Helen Holmes success. This production will be presented in fifteen chapters—a new two-reel chapter each week, beginning Monday, April 9th. If you're seeking big box-office receipts, for fifteen weeks—WIRE YOUR RESERVATION FOR "THE RAILROAD RAIDERS" AT ONCE! Bookings are being made now at all Mutual Exchanges. Wire your nearest Mutual Exchange.

SIGNAL FILM CORPORATION

Samuel S. Hutchinson, President

HELEN HOLMES

NOW Booking At All Mutual Exchanges

MUTUAL: "No, We Didn't Stop to Wash the Dishes"

"Five tickets, girlie, and don't forget that it's the wife with me when you smile. Show your ivories if you want to, but make it a bit impersonal. What! The smile's not for me? What's the big idea? Because I bought five instead of two? Say, I always want five tickets now that you show Gaumont Pictures. The dishes go unwashed the nights you show 'em. We all pile off right after supper because Gaumont Pictures are for all the family circle. There's never anything we don't want the children to see."

Gaumont Co.

FLUSHING, N. Y.

DUANNE
DONALD

MUTUAL

Announcing A New Series of Mutual Featurettes

Beginning March 23rd the Mutual Film Corporation will release for the first time the Startling and Widely Advertised Detective Series

Jimmie Dale

Alias "The Grey Seal"

featuring

E.K. Lincoln Edna Hunter
Doris Mitchell Paul Panzer

A series of 16 Adventures. Each complete, in two reels. A new episode each week, beginning March 23rd. Never before released.
Adapted from the stories by the noted author Frank L. Packard. Now issued in book form everywhere. All new and all complete.
Now booking as Mutual Featurettes at all
Mutual Exchanges.

Produced by

Monmouth Film Corporation

HARRY McRAE WEBSTER President

JULES BERNSTEIN Gen'l Manager

Directed by HARRY McRAE WEBSTER

Booking Now At All
MUTUAL EXCHANGES

E.K. LINCOLN

Released March 15

"JERRY'S TRIPLE ALLIANCE"

a single reel

CUB COMEDY

featuring

George Ovey

This is an animal comedy introducing two elephants which perform comedy feats unlike anything ever seen on the screen.

It is a picture that is made to order for exhibitors requiring novel, wholesome and entertaining comedies. No better choice could be made than "Jerry's Triple Alliance."

*Book through any exchange of
the Mutual Film Corporation*

DAVID HORSLEY PRODUCTIONS

The Greatest Special
Ever Released

Written by Jean Richepin

Directed by
Louis Mercanton

Selected by RIALTO
THEATRE
for New York
first run

SARAH BERNHARDT

in her Greatest Triumph

"Mothers of France"

An official order by cable restricting the State rights sales of this picture, owned in part by the French Government, delays the announcement of the names of the releasing exchanges. This is but temporary, waiting upon further advices. In the meantime, first run houses may communicate with

HENRY J. BROCK,

Tenth Floor, 220 West 42nd Street
New York City

ART DRAMAS

FLORENCE SHORT

EARLE METCALFE

ANNA Q. NILSSON

ALMA HANLON

POPULAR PLAYERS
APPEARING IN ART DRAMAS

THE NEW ONE-A-WEEK
PROGRAM OF QUALITY

JEAN SOTHERN

EDITH HALLOR

EDWARD ELLIS

VIOLA DANA

116 WEST 39TH STREET NEW YORK CITY

ART DRAMAS

AT LAST!— THE SOLUTION

Developing a new idea and making a success of it is no easy task.

Yet the success of Art Dramas came rapidly because of a crying need—an ever-increasing demand for pulling and satisfying pictures of high quality at a price within reason.

Eliminating the $15,000 Star

The Moving Picture World says:

"The exhibitor has it in his own hands to remedy this condition by refusing to pay exorbitant film rental fees, based on unreasonable salaries paid to actors."

The Motion Picture News says:

"Exploitation of super-stars by exhibitors a mistake, says Fait. Cites example of $1000 a week picture which proved no better drawing card than ordinary feature."

The Art Dramas Idea begins with the story and not the star. It depends upon careful, conscientious production and ends with intelligent service of One a Week to the exhibitor at a sane price.

Experienced distributors of Art Dramas in principal cities or address

ART DRAMAS, Inc.

1400 Broadway

NEW YORK

116 W. 39th St.

116 WEST 39TH STREET NEW YORK CITY

ART DRAMAS

GEORGE H. WILEY

PRESENTS A CHARMING ARTISTE
OF GREAT DRAMATIC POWER

JEAN SOTHERN IN "THE CLOUD"

A POWERFUL PHOToplay
OF A WOMAN'S SACRIFICE
FOR HER DAUGHTER
AND THE GIRL'S GREATER SACRIFICE TO PRESERVE
HER MOTHER'S GOOD NAME

PRODUCED BY VAN DYKE
FILM CORP.
DIRECTED BY WILL S. DAVIS

BOOKING AT THESE EXCHANGES

NEW YORK—MODERN FEATURE PHOTOPLAYS, Inc., 729 Seventh Avenue.
BOSTON—BOSTON PHOTOPLAY COMPANY, 205 Pleasant Avenue.
PHILADELPHIA—ELECTRIC THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY, 1321 Vine Street.
PITTSBURGH—LIBERTY FILM RENTING COMPANY, 938 Penn Avenue.
DETROIT—TRI-STATE FILM EXCHANGE, 120 Broadway.
CLEVELAND—TRI-STATE FILM EXCHANGE, Sincere Building.
CINCINNATI—TRI-STATE FILM EXCHANGE, 21 Opera Place.
CHICAGO—ART DRAMAS SERVICE, 207 South Wabash Avenue.
SAN FRANCISCO—DE LUXE FILM LASKY CORPORATION, Humboldt Bank Bldg.
LOS ANGELES—DE LUXE FILM LASKY CORPORATION, Los Angeles Investmt Bldg.
DALLAS—SOUTHERN ART DRAMAS CORPORATION, 1911 Commerce Street.
SALT LAKE CITY—PHOTOPLAY EXCHANGE, 17 East 2nd Street South.
DENVER—PHOTOPLAY EXCHANGE, Welton Street.
KANSAS CITY—STANDARD FILM CORPORATION, 319 Cloyd Building.
ST. LOUIS—STANDARD FILM CORPORATION.
DES MOINES—STANDARD FILM CORPORATION.

116 WEST 39TH STREET NEW YORK CITY

the proof

of the pudding

M anagers of successful theatres like the STRAND-New York, the TRIANGLE-Brooklyn, the WASHINGTON and the REGENT-Detroit, the NEW GARRICK-Minneapolis, the RIALTO-San Francisco, the ALHAMBRA-Los Angeles, and MARCUS LOEW'S CHAIN OF THEATRES all find that it pays them well to book CHRISTIE COMEDIES. CHRISTIE COMEDIES will build business and profits for YOU too. Find the nearest INDEPENDENT EXCHANGE and start booking-NOW!

Christie
Comedies

Regular weekly single-reel release for March 12th,

"HIS FLIRTING WAYS"

Featuring
BILLIE RHODES,
NEAL BURNS
ETHEL LYNNE

Special two-part release for March 15th.
"OUT FOR THE COIN"

- | | |
|---|--|
| 1 San Francisco
Peerless Film Exchange,
100 Golden Gate Ave.
California, Arizona, Nevada. | 11 Sioux City
Globe Film Corp., Successors to Western Film Co.
310 Nebraska St.
Iowa. |
| 2 Los Angeles
Peerless Film Exchange,
224 L. A. Investment Bldg.
California, Arizona, Nevada. | 12 Winnipeg
Famous Players Film Serv., Ltd.
447 Main Street
Canada
Co-operative Film Exchange,
Australia. |
| 3 Minneapolis
Zenith Feature Film Co.,
Produce Exchange Bldg.
Minnesota, North and South Dakota. | 14 Chicago
Celebrated Players Film Co.,
207 S. Wabash Ave.
Illinois, Indiana. |
| 4 Boston
Phoenix Feature Film Exch.,
131 Columbus Ave.
New England States. | 15 Milwaukee
Walter Baier,
3rd Floor Manhattan Bldg.
Wisconsin. |
| 5 Denver
Consolidated Feature Film Exch.
1746 Curtis St.
Colo., Wyo., New Mex., Utah and Mont. | 16 Philadelphia
Metro Film Exchange,
1331 Vine St.
Eastern Pa., Maryland, Virginia, Dist. Col. |
| 6 Dallas
Alliance Film Co.,
1905 1/2 Commerce St.
Texas, Arkansas, Oklahoma. | 17 Brooklyn, N. Y.
K & M. Film Exchange,
587 Fulton St.
New York, Northern New Jersey. |
| 7 Toronto
Famous Players Film Serv., Ltd.,
12 Queen St., East.
Canada. | 18 Pittsburgh
Liberty Film Renting Co.,
938 Penn. Ave.
Western Pennsylvania, West Virginia. |
| 8 Detroit
Superior Features,
120 Broadway
Michigan. | 19 Seattle
Reel-Play Feature Co.
Washington, Idaho, Oregon. |
| 9 Cleveland
Tri-State Film Exchange,
Sincere Bldg.
South Ohio, Kentucky | 20 Birmingham
Queen Features Film Co.,
24-25-26 Potter Bldg.
Southern Territory. |
| 10 Cincinnati
Tri-State Film Exchange,
21-23 Opera Place
North Ohio | 21 Wellington, New Zealand
Co-operative Film Co.,
New Zealand. |

CHRISTIE FILM CO

SUNSET BLVD. AT GOWER ST.

LOS ANGELES • CALIFORNIA
ALE. CHRISTIE • DIRECTOR GENERAL

Goldwyn Pictures

Goldwyn's "Remedies" for Sick Box Offices

GOLDWYN PICTURES are to be the greatest remedies for sick box-offices ever prescribed for the exhibitors of America. Goldwyn, knowing what a tonic its productions will be for all theatres, advises all exhibitors to "take as often as offered":

MAE MARSH The greatest young artist in pictures. Heroine of "The Birth of a Nation," "Intolerance" and the other great masterpieces. A star known to millions.

MARY GARDEN: Grand opera's greatest star. Beautiful and internationally famous. Her drawing power is rivalled only by that of Caruso.

MAXINE ELLIOTT: Gloriously beautiful and a dramatic favorite on two continents. Few women in the entire world have received such remarkable publicity.

JANE COWL: America's most remarkable emotional actress. Heroine of "Within the Law," "Common Clay," and other great plays. Young, lovely—and with an enormous following.

MADGE KENNEDY: The ablest farce comedienne in the world and star of "Fair and Warmer," "Twin Beds," "Over Night" and "Little Miss Brown." She has youth, beauty and the admiration of the nation.

These Most Popular Stars Will Be Presented in Plays by the World's Ablest Authors

ADVISORY BOARD

SAMUEL GOLDFISH
Chairman
EDGAR SELWYN
IRVIN S. COBB
ARTHUR HOPKINS
MARGARET MAYO
ROI COOPER MEGRU
ARCHIBALD SELWYN
CROSBY GAIGE

Goldwyn Pictures Corporation

16 East 42d Street, New York City
Telephone: Vanderbilt 11

MAXINE ELLIOTT

A pre-eminent beauty, a talented and internationally-known artist, who will make her first appearance on the screen as a Goldwyn star. Her loveliness and the charm of her personality have challenged world-wide attention for years.

Hundreds of important newspapers have congratulated Goldwyn on bringing this notable woman into motion pictures. Here you may read a few of their comments:

THE SEATTLE TIMES: "Maxine Elliott...one of the most brilliant of all the stars."

FT. WORTH STAR-TELEGRAM: "Miss Elliott's entry into pictures for Goldwyn is one of the big events of the year."

PITTSBURGH DISPATCH: "Maxine Elliott is one of the most beautiful women of whom the stage can boast. Goldwyn captured her."

BOSTON RECORD: "Miss Elliott will be a great favorite in New England. She is the most beautiful woman New England has ever given to the stage."

CHICAGO JOURNAL: "In bringing Miss Elliott to the screen Goldwyn has discovered a Gold-mine."

CLEVELAND PRESS: "Goldwyn succeeded where others failed. Miss Elliott is a big prize for the picture producers."

PORTLAND OREGONIAN: "Miss Elliott will appeal to a tremendous following."

DETROIT TIMES: "We cannot imagine there is a man or woman who will not hasten to see the beautiful Maxine Elliott on the screen."

Exhibitors will notice that Goldwyn's big stars represent box-office attraction at its highest point of development

Goldwyn Pictures
Corporation

16 EAST 42D ST., NEW YORK CITY

Telephone: Vanderbilt 11

S.R.O.ALL SEATS SOLD

WORLD PICTURES

are trade-marking the S.R.O. sign

WORLD PICTURES BRADY-MADE

S.R.O.

WILLIAM A. BRADY
in association with
WORLD PICTURES
presents

ALICE BRADY

in "The Dancer's Peril" with ALEXIS KOSLOFF of the RUSSIAN IMPERIAL BALLET

BY HARRIET MORRIS

DIRECTED BY TRAVERS VALE

SELZNICK PICTURES

HARRY RAFF
Presents

ROBERT WARWICK

In the Most Absorbing
Detective Romance
Ever Screened • • •

THE ARGYLE CASE

Adapted By Permission of Klaw & Erlanger from the Drama By Harvey J. Offi-gins, Harriet Ford and William J. Burns. • • •

Directed By

RALPH W. INCE

A Picture That Appeals to Every Instinct of Humanity. • • •

SOLE
DISTRIBUTORS

LEWIS J.
SELZNICK
EXCHANGES

BRANCHES
EVERYWHERE

AS TO CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG

In "THE PRICE SHE PAID"

Let us quote from the
New York Tribune
"Miss Young has never done anything better - She Plays with repression and Power.
She is so beautiful that if she just appeared on the screen and did nothing at all she would be forgiven. Indeed one almost resents any motion or emotion on the part of Miss Young. One feels like exclaiming; 'Keep still, I want to look at you!'"

Directed By

CHARLES GIBLYN
Albert Capellani - Director Genl

SELZNICK  PICTURES

HERBERT BRENON
Presents
FLORENCE REED
In
"THE ETERNAL SIN"

THE TREMENDOUS STORY OF THE WICKEDEST WOMAN
IN THE WORLD ♦ ♦ ♦

FOR MARCH
RELEASE

Joseph M. Schenck
Presents
NORMA TALMADGE
In
"THE LAW OF COMPENSATION"

By
Wilson Mizner
(Co-Author With Paul Armstrong of Alias, Jimmy Valentine & The Deep Purple)

WILL WIN NEW LAURELS FOR THIS VERSATILE AND CHARMING STAR NOW MAKING SUCH A BRIL-LIANT SUCCESS IN "PANTHEA"

SOLE
DISTRIBUTORS
+
LEWIS J.
SELZNICK
EXCHANGES
BRANCHES
EVERYWHERE

WM. W. HODKINSON

announces the formation of a new distributing organization to be known as

FORUM FILMS, Inc.
Thomas A Edison

announces he has arranged with Mr.
Hodkinson through the motion picture division of

THOMAS A. EDISON, Inc.

for the distribution through the new organization of

CONQUEST PICTURES*The Open Road to Romance and Knowledge*

PUBLISHED WEEKLY by Thomas A Edison.

"CONQUEST PICTURES" is the name applied to a series of special motion pictures of an inspirational nature released in the form of "locked" programs of five reels in length, with the proper balance as to dramatic, comic, and informative subjects of general interest.

These films will be produced, and the programs assembled for the benefit of the large number in the United States, including parents, social workers, educators, exhibitors, etc., who are interested in solving the problem of better motion pictures for young and old alike.

Territorial franchises for the distribution of these pictures are still available in some localities and offer unusual opportunities for a few persons of character and ability to become associated with Mr. Edison and Mr. Hodkinson in this epoch making step in the development of motion pictures.

Motion picture theatre proprietors desiring to secure the "CONQUEST PICTURES" are invited to communicate with the offices of this company in New York, and they will be advised of the name and address of the distributor supplying their territory.

Forum Films,
Inc.*1905 Times Bldg.
New York City

PATRIA

with

MRS. VERNON CASTLE

The most widely advertised motion picture that has ever been made. That means business for the Exhibitor.

Written by Louis J. Vance

Produced by Wharton, Inc. for

INTERNATIONAL

Released by PATHÉ

Pathé

The new serial MYSTERY OF THE DOUBLE CROSS

Will have in the great Hearst newspapers and magazines the same vast publicity that has made "Patria" a household word.

Stellar cast
with MOLLIE KING
and Leon Bary

Produced by ASTRA
Released March 18

Pathé

MOLLIE KING
in
MYSTERY OF THE DOUBLE CROSS

Pathé

Gladys Hulette

*in the five part play
by Agnes Johnston*

Pots and Pans Peggie

Produced by Thanhouser

*"The Shine Girl," "Prudence the Pirate" and "Her New York" have struck a new note and played to great business.
"Peggy" is the best yet.*

*Released
March 18*

Pathé

"We have showed all the leading serials but I am confident
Pearl of the Army will break all previous records both in interest to our patrons and box office receipts"

Charles Foxworth, Emil Mier
Orpheum & Keith Film Theatres,
Cincinnati, Ind.

Featuring Pearl White

Produced by Astra. Directed by Clarence Jost

Pathé

Lonesome Luke's Lively Life

The first of the Rolin
two reel comedies will be released

March 18

It is an
S. R. O.
attraction!

Harold Lloyd
"Lonesome Luke"

Pathé - Thanhouser present

The Vicar of Wakefield

adapted from Oliver Goldsmith's famous book

The Photoplay League

A National Organization for the rearrangement of the higher forms of Motion Picture Art

ADVISORY COMMITTEE

Mrs. Charles Dues Gibson
Mrs. Fred. Lee Ackerman
Adolph Lawrence
E. H. Siskens
Julia Marlowe
Mrs. Charles H. Whitman
Mrs. Maria M. Marks
Mrs. Schuyler N. Warren
Franklin H. Sargent
J. C. Phelps Stokes
John D. Cronin
John G. Ager
George F. Kunt
John Bates Clark
Frederick C. Howe
Mrs. Philip M. Lydig
Helen Varick Beaswell
Edward T. Devine
Mrs. Potter Palmer
Frederick F. Palmer
Mrs. Willard D. Strough
Lillian D. Wald
Chas. Dues Gibson
Mrs. Roy E. Fletcher
Dr. Stephen S. Wase
Mrs. Howard Case
Henry Fairfield Osborn
Mrs. Simon Ford
Frederick A. Stokes
Mrs. J. Borden Harriman
Mrs. Claude Q. Murphy
Mrs. James Spryer
Frank Lascell
Mrs. Ogden Armour
Isaac N. Seligman
Norman Hapgood
Walter G. Morse
Mrs. Samuel B. Smith
Evert Jaenen Wendell
Mrs. Edward J. Grogan
Caroline Vanderbilt
President:
E. H. Blackfield
Director of the League:
Frank Lascell
General Secretary:
Helen Varick Beaswell
Membership Secretary:
Ernest F. Alleyne
Secretary to Directors:
Charles D. Wade
Accountants: Touche, Niven & Co.
18 Broad Street, New York
Bankers: Empire Trust Co.
340 Fifth Avenue, New York

Office of Administration
665 Fifth Avenue
New York City
Telephone: Wase 3823

February 25, 1917.

Mr. J. A. Beret,
Pathe Exchange, Inc.,
25 West Forty-fifth Street,
New York City.

Dear Sir:

THE PHOTOPLAY LEAGUE takes pleasure in informing you that, after a private view, it has seen fit to recommend the Pathe-Thanhouser picture, "The Vicar of Wakefield" to its members as a motion picture of unusual excellence and one which should have the full support of the members of THE PHOTOPLAY LEAGUE throughout the United States.

It is the intention of THE PHOTOPLAY LEAGUE to recommend only worth while photoplays. There is not the shadow of a doubt that the American public will lend its support to such pictures.

Yours very truly,

Frank Lascell
DIRECTOR OF THE LEAGUE

Starring the eminent actor
Mr. Frederick Warde

Book exclusively through the

The PATHÉ EXCHANGE Inc.

Super-Feature Dept.

EXECUTIVE OFFICES

25 WEST 45th ST. NEW YORK

A sepia-toned historical photograph showing three soldiers in winter uniforms. One soldier is kneeling and aiming a large, wheeled cannon. Two other soldiers stand nearby, one holding a rifle. In the background, the massive steel structure of the Manhattan Bridge dominates the left side of the frame, with its towers visible in the distance. The ground is covered in snow or ice.

The world before your eyes -
The Hearst-Pathé News

it invariably pleases every audience - it invariably increases box office receipts.

Guarding New York's Giant Bridges

TRIANGLE

Let your Patrons
LAUGH AND
Your Cash Box Will GROW FAT

TRIANGLE KOMEDIES

THE ANSWER?

RELEASED WEEK OF MARCH 18TH
"HIS RISE AND TUMBLE"
AND
"A SELF MADE HERO"

TRIANGLE PROGRAM
Two Five Reel Dramas And
TWO
TRIANGLE KOMEDIES
A WEEK

RELEASED ONLY BY TRIANGLE DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

TRIANGLE

MACK SENNETT-KEYSTONE

SUMMED UP

O R G A N I Z A T I . O N
 E X P E R I E N . C E
 K E Y S T O . N E
 P O P U L A R I . T Y
 M A C K S E N N E . T T
 R E P U T A T I . O N
 S U P E R I O R I . T Y
 E Q U I P M E . N T

RESULT C O M E D Y - S U P R E M A . C Y

MARCH RELEASES—March 4th—"Villa of the Movies", Peggy Pearce, Bobby Dunn, Slim Summerville. March 11th—"Dodging His Doom", Chester Conklin, Guy Woodward. March 18th—"Her Circus Knight", Ora Carew, Joe Belmont. March 25th—"Her Fame and Shame", Chas. Murray, Louise Fazenda.

RELEASED ONLY BY TRIANGLE DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

TRIANGLE

FINE ARTS

Released Sunday, March 18th

Bessie Love

in

"A Daughter of the Poor"

An appealing and endearing star in a play of the poor and the rich in which their virtues and faults are dealt with in refreshing humor through five reels of tense situations and rapid-fire action.

A play that is generally alive with humanity.

INCE-KAY BEE

Released Thursday, March 22nd

William Desmond

in

"Blood Will Tell"

A swiftly moving story of love and finance.

Full of sternness and tenderness; human problems, plot and counterplot and the final triumph of a good woman's influence over a man's foibles.

RELEASED ONLY BY TRIANGLE DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

MACK SENNETT

PRESENTS

MISS
MABEL
NORMAND
AND HER OWN COMPANY
"IN"
MICKEY

THE LITTLE GIRL
YOU WILL NEVER FORGET

METHOD AND DATE OF RELEASE LATER
MABEL NORMAND FEATURE FILM

LONGACRE BLDG., NEW YORK CITY.

CINEMA
SERVICE

Get Ready for an Hilarious Week!

Released March 11

Independent Plan

The Newest, Funniest, Most Thrilling

MACK SENNETT KEYSTONE

“Dodging His Doom”

It is a typical Keystone, full of the unexpected, never slow, and it tells a real story in the unique Mack Sennett manner.

Superlative cast of fun makers including

Chester Conklin and Dora Rogers

Let your audiences see the Thrilling Jail Break

Near-Hanging

Big Murder Trial
The Chain Gang

Terrible Mix-Up
Screaming Climax

“DODGING HIS DOOM” is the real
SCREEN SCREAM.

Don't miss the March 4 release

“Villa of the Movies”

It gives you a splendid line on these new two-reel independently released

MACK SENNETT KEYSTONES

REMEMBER!

MACK SENNETT KEYSTONES
ARE DIFFERENT FROM THE REST

Distributed as independent releases through

Triangle Exchanges

Go to the Nearest

No Hazard in Its Booking

THE Photo-Dramatic version of Hall Caine's powerful realistic novel "THE DEEMSTER," starring DERWENT HALL CAINE, a son of the author, in a romantic role, is a feature picture that possesses all the essentials of a Smashing Big Hit.

Every element of success is inherent in it—Author, Story, Star, Players, Production and Anticipatory Interest created by Public Reading of the tale for over a quarter of a century.

All of the thousands of readers of "THE DEEMSTER" desire to see this picture with the son of the author in the heroic character of DAN MYLREA, one of the most striking in fiction.

YOU can see the advertising possibilities in all this in your community, can you not?

Publicity in connection with this picture has been in the making for fully Thirty Years—ever since "THE DEEMSTER" was first published in this country, followed by the author's subsequent successes. At this time Mr. Caine's name appears daily in all the great newspapers in this country in connection with his news articles on the European War.

ALWAYS IN THE PUBLIC EYE! EVERYBODY ADMIRES HIS GENIUS!

HIS NAME ALONE IS A TREMENDOUS ASSET IN PUBLICITY!

All the Exhibitor Need Do Is to Utilize All these Advantages with the Help the Publicity Departments of the Arrow Film Corporation will Extend to Him

WHY NOT TAKE THE COIN? IT'S WAITING

State Rights of Great Value

EVERY novel by Hall Caine translated from book to stage has scored a success and proved a money-maker for all concerned. You know every picture made from a Hall Caine story has been a winner—"The Eternal City"—"The Christian."

And now comes "THE DEEMSTER"—the one best bet in the opinion of the wisest and most conservative States Rights buyers, who are rapidly taking up all open territory.

The story is known and fixed in public knowledge and approbation. Its publication as a picture is of interest to thousands of readers. Such a Photo-Drama is not a speculative attraction in any sense—there is no hazard connected with it.

THE DEEMSTER

A GREAT story widely read, written by a great author universally known, combined with a great and convincing dramatic and pictorial interpretation, cannot fail to draw the money. "THE DEEMSTER" will not only attract Big Money on its initial presentation, but it will prove a wonderful repeater. It will score as a Star Headliner on its first run everywhere books are read. It will repeat, for it possesses all the draught which makes a dramatic production a success in playing return dates.

NOTHING ON EARTH IN THE AMUSEMENT FIELD IS NEARER ABSOLUTE CERTAINTY OF DRAWING REALLY IMPORTANT MONEY

ARROW FILM CORPORATION, 1475 BROADWAY
NEW YORK

KLEINE-EDISON-SELIG-ESSANAY SERVICE

Scene From Chapter Nineteen
GLORIA'S ROMANCE

By Arrangement With F. Ziegfeld, Jr.,
GEORGE KLEINE Presents
The World-Famous Star

MISS BILLIE BURKE IN GLORIA'S ROMANCE

Supported by HENRY KOLKER
A Motion Picture Novel By Mr. & Mrs. RUPERT HUGHES

Capacity houses are the rule at theatres showing this phenomenal photoplay in twenty feature chapters. If you are interested in "standing room only" houses at YOUR theatre write your nearest Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay exchange or

GEORGE KLEINE
80 5th Avenue
New York City

KLEINE-EDISON-SELIG-ESSANAY SERVICE

Beginning Monday, April 2

WILL RELEASE A FEATURE EVERY WEEK

Mr. Exhibitor:

This announcement is important to you because it means added strength to an already strong service.

It means that you may depend upon K.-E.-S.-E. to supply you with money-making-features every week.

It means additional stars, each with a large following and recognized as undoubted successes.

It means that with K.-E.-S.-E. Service you will fill your theatre.

Special Features: Max Linder every month;
Harry Watson, Jr., as Musty Suffer every week.

"Keyes" Service Measures 100 Per Cent

Get in Touch With

KLEINE-EDISON-SELIG-ESSANAY

BRANCHES EVERYWHERE

HENRY B. WALTHALL, America's foremost actor, with Mary Charleson, gives a gripping portrayal of the results of profligacy in "Burning the Candle." Dragged to the depths of depravity by a great weakness, the man faces death, as his only solution. But alone in a prison cell, love for his deserted bride is awakened. Comes repentance, a struggle for self respect, and finally triumph. A thrilling drama by Turner White. Arranged and directed by Harry Beaumont. Screen time, 1 hour, 12 minutes.

ESSANAY
GEORGE K. SPOOR PRESIDENT

1333 Argyle St., Chicago

K-E-S-E

PRODUCERS OF PICTURES FOR THE FAMILY

K-E-S-E

General Film Service

WE DARE YOU

to look at Black Cat features or the series on "Is Marriage Sacred?" You can see these photoplays at any branch of the General Film Co. One look and you will book all and run them regularly. They are the biggest money getters of the period. Listen to this:

Motography says of "Ashes on the Hearthstone," one of the series on "Is Marriage Sacred?"

"This issue in the popular Essanay series is an unusually dramatic short length picture. The action and the story material condensed in the twenty-six minute screen time and the tense, effective method of presenting it are worth praise. Good acting and good direction, with the technical details well handled, combine to make the release satisfactory for any theatre."

The Exhibitor's Herald says.

"Of a refreshing and humorous nature is the latest Black Cat feature. Bryant Washburn is cast in a role which he can handle so well. It is a short subject which will entertain any audience."

WE DARE YOU !

TRADEMARK
Reg. U. S. Pat. 1907

ESSANAY

GEORGE K. SPOOR, PRESIDENT

1333 Argyle St., Chicago

TRADEMARK
Reg. U. S. Pat. 1907

PRODUCERS OF PICTURES FOR THE FAMILY

Quick Success of a Big, New Idea

You are keen for new ideas. So is every other live exhibitor.

This is proved by the remarkable advance booking of Fortune Photo-Plays—the new kind of features with a big, new idea back of them.

The first two Fortune Photo-Plays have been in the hands of the General Film branches only a few days, but it has already been necessary to increase by 20 per cent. the number of prints originally planned.

Three of America's largest exhibitors have booked Fortune Photo-Plays solid in their entire chain of theatres. Others are falling into line every day.

FORTUNE PHOTO-PLAYS

The big idea behind these pictures is a strong story and all action—snap, pep, solid punch from start to finish. No padding—no non-essentials—but the boiled down essence of the greatest short stories ever published, the wonderful romances of adventure and mystery appearing in Ainslee's, Smith's, Popular, People's, Top Notch, and the other Street & Smith Magazines. Five reels condensed to four—one hour screen time.

Every one of these splendid productions is perfectly cast and beautifully produced. Famous stars appear in all of them. In the first release, "The Inspirations of Harry Larabee," Margaret Landis and Clifford Gray play the leads; in the second, "Mentioned in Confidence," Vola Vale and R. Henry Grey; in the third, "The Devil's Bait," Ruth Roland and Henry King.

Fortune Photo-Plays fit perfectly in every program. They are being advertised by the biggest campaign ever used for motion pictures—a $100,000 campaign in all Street & Smith's famous magazines—15,000,000 readers.

Arrange now with your General Film Exchange to see the first two of these big-idea films.

DISTRIBUTED BY GENERAL FILM CO., Inc.

Produced by H. M. & E. D. Horkheimer

General Film Service

SELIG ONE REEL COMEDIES AND DRAMAS

in General Film Service, are proving popular with exhibitors. The reason is, the films are getting the money!

The Selig Company is sparing no effort to make its productions of shorter length excellent in every detail.

he Moving Picture World recently said:

"'For Reward of Service' is distinctly a release of merit. It has a heart grip and a directness of appeal that absorbs."

The Motion Picture News says:

"'For Reward of Service' is a one-reeler with a real star, George Fawcett, an unusual thing in itself. It will fit smoothly into practically any program."

"A Question of Honesty" and "Everybody Was Satisfied" are latest releases in General Film Service. One is a drama, the other a comedy. Book them; they are worthy!

SELIG POLYSCOPE CO.
CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

Co=operation

between AUTHOR and PRODUCER as it is practised at the Kalem Studios means

Better and Better Pictures!

PAUSE a moment before reading the editorials on the opposite page to consider this:

Frederick R. Bechdolt, the brilliant author engaged by Kalem to prepare "The American Girl" series of two-part Western dramas, is actually working with the director and players—riding out to locations with them—suggesting bits of local color—advising—co-operating.

Why?

Because he wants to be sure that the real West, the West that he knows so well, is accurately portrayed on the screen.

What does all this mean to you?

It means that you can boost "The American Girl" to the limit—and it will make good for you.

It means better and better pictures, of course—short-length features that will add a tower of strength to your program week after week.

Best of all, it means that we are constantly seeking new ways to protect your interests.

Hurry to your nearest General Film exchange and see "The American Girl" on the screen; then—judge for yourself!

The author of "The American Girl" Series pointing out a choice location for "The Lost Legion of the Border," a forthcoming episode.

Other Kalem=Made

Productions That Will Create
Good Will and Attract New Patrons.

"A Daughter of Daring"

A Series of Single Part Dramas of the Rails,

featuring

HELEN GIBSON

"Grant, Police Reporter"

A Series of Dramatic Thrills

featuring

GEORGE LARKIN and OLLIE KIRKBY

"HAM" Comedies

featuring

"HAM" and "BUD"

—those funny fellers

Entered at the General Post Office, New York City, as Second Class Matter

J. P. CHALMERS, Founder.

Published Weekly by the

CHALMERS PUBLISHING COMPANY

17 MADISON AVENUE, NEW YORK CITY.

(Telephone, 3510 Madison Square)

J. P. Chalmers, Sr. President
J. F. Chalmers Vice-President
E. J. Chalmers Secretary and Treasurer
John Wylie General Manager

The office of the company is the address of the officers.

CHICAGO OFFICE—Suite 917-919 Schiller Building, 64 West Randolph St., Chicago, Ill. Telephone, Central 5099.

PACIFIC COAST OFFICE—Haas Building, Seventh St. and Broadway, Los Angeles, Cal. Telephone, Broadway 4649.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

United States, Mexico, Hawaii, Porto Rico and
Philippine Islands $3.00 per year
Canada 3.50 per year
Foreign Countries (Postpaid) 4.00 per year

Changes of address should give both old and new addresses in full and be clearly written. Two weeks' time may be required to effect the alteration.

ADVERTISING RATES.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING—One dollar for twenty words or less;
over twenty words, five cents per word.

DISPLAY ADVERTISING RATES made known on application.

NOTE—Address all correspondence, remittances and subscriptions to MOVING PICTURE WORLD, P. O. Box 226, Madison Square Station, New York, and not to individuals.

(Index to this issue will be found on page 1830.)

"CINE-MUNDIAL," the monthly Spanish edition of the Moving Picture World, is published at 17 Madison Avenue by the Chalmers Publishing Company. It reaches the South American market. Yearly subscription, $1.50. Advertising rates on application.

Saturday, March 17, 1917

Facts and Comments

F. H. RICHARDSON, the projection department man of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD, is now well started on his 18,000 mile trip of visitation to the managers and operators of motion picture theaters of the United States. As nearly as it is possible to schedule such undertakings the list of cities and dates of the first section of the tour upon which Mr. Richardson expects to meet and talk to theater men were printed in the Projection Department of the issue of February 24, subject to a few slight amendments which appeared in the issue of March 10. Wherever Mr. Richardson has talked to the motion picture theater men he has been complimented for the manner in which he has presented his subject and has received generous thanks for the information he has imparted to manager and operator alike. From these facts one must conclude that time spent in attending the meetings he will hold on his long tour will be well spent.

Regarding the subject of Mr. Richardson's talks it is hardly necessary to explain its importance here. There is one point, though, that may be overlooked; that his talks are as important to the manager as to the operator. Since most that has been written by Mr. Richardson has been addressed to the man who is directly responsible for good projection there may exist in the mind of many theater managers an impression that all this is not for him. To act upon that conclusion would be a great mistake. To be a competent picture theater manager one should have, at least, sufficient knowledge of projection to enable him to know when the operator is delivering the goods. We conclude, therefore, with the hope that managers will be as numerous at Mr. Richardson's talks as are the operators. Watch for the date for your town. Further dates will appear from time to time.

* * *

A SOUTH DAKOTA exhibitor claims that every time he runs a poor picture it cuts down his receipts for a month after. His suggestion is that it would be more profitable all round if the producers would burn up the negative every time they find that they have got a "flivver." We are very much inclined to agree with him, but the trouble is to find producers, and especially directors, who will admit that they make poor pictures. Even then they try to get their cost back at least, though it gives their name or brand a black eye for months to come.

* * *

A TTEMPTING to put into practice the training and knowledge secured in the office of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD in a campaign to secure subscriptions for their paper is the latest scheme for the National President of the Exhibitors' League and one of his editors. This is being done under the thinly veiled guise of being in the interest of the Exhibitors' Organization. The real purpose of the trip, however, was plainly put by the aforementioned editor when he says in a recent signed article; "I feel, therefore, that to increase the circulation, to add to the influence and prestige of the (mentioning his new paper by name), is to render the highest kind of service to the industry at large." Oh! wonderful Moses! Oh! easy salvation of the Exhibitor (it only costs a dollar). It is to laugh.

* * *

C OME to think of it once more, it is always the MOVING PICTURE WORLD that leads. The trip of Mr. Richardson of our staff in the interest of better projection was being planned and outlined for the past eight or ten months. Of course it is a good thing and will be in the interest of the whole industry. In fact, it is such a good thing that others had to do something like it, hence the trip of the National Exhibitors' League President and his henchman to gather in dollar subscriptions under the cloak of "service to the industry." We do not mind others copying the good things we do, "imitation is the sincerest form of flattery," but, goodness knows we hope that no one will credit the influence of this office with the muck-racking and mud-slinging style of editorial matter of the "New School Trade Journal."

* * *

I T IS unmistakably one of the signs of the times that the Alhambra theater in Minneapolis has not only had its theater license revoked for showing a nude figure picture, "The Garden of Knowledge," but its manager will have to face a jury and has been, it is reported, expelled from the local exhibitors' association. The theater did a booming business for three weeks, but it is empty now.

Says the New York Globe By Louis Reeves Harrison

BRIGHT, animated and interesting, with a following all its own, the New York Globe is representative of something to its readers as a rule, and, all unconsciously, it is representative of a mental peculiarity which has existed since inchoate man reached the stage at which he could think. Almost from the time the germ of reason began to sprout man has solemnly contemplated nearly all that has passed before his eyes from the standpoint of his interests. I say passed before his eyes because the one thing that appealed to him from the first was movement, or activity, a thing he has never until recently been able to picture, to preserve, to perpetuate for the use of future generations.

To paint a semblance of nature in response on canvas is art. To portray an arrested phase of life in pigment or in marble is art. To picture nature in her infinite variety of moods and movement and life in its wondrous activity fails to convey very much to the Globe editor. "Whether," he says, "it can ever become an art is a question still hidden in the mists of the future." "To call it an art now is preposterous." The sincerity of such statements is not to be questioned, but the editor is all too obviously interpreting what he has observed in terms of self.

He asks if pictures will ever be offered which are not an insult to the meanest intelligence. "At least 99% of the stuff, especially of the so-called serials, is the most abject and mischievous rubbish. Mischievous because many people take their ideas of life and conduct from the films, and the ideas therein offered are for the most part beneath contempt."

Here is the utterance of a man who is searching for the truth, and there is no doubt about his sincerity, but he forgets that no art has emerged from the irrational and passed into the rational without accumulating a vast amount of error on the way.

We can look back over long centuries of achievement, select a few illustrious art examples and point with pride to them as mirrors of the soul of man. So, at least, we have been taught. We have been taught realization of Shakespeare and Michael Angelo. We have acquired respect for the arts they mastered. They only mean something to us after our minds have been trained to a point of high receptivity. How much has the press of this country done to enlighten people as to what constitutes true art in motion-picture production? How much has the daily press of this country done to enhance ignorance by publication of those despised serials?

Purely destructive criticism, intended to cauterize a sore spot, is not the best remedy in the case of a baby art like that of picturing dramatic motion and emotion, and such criticism is often a form of reasoning from inadequate data, quite as mischievous in its way as what it is designed to correct. On the other hand, in this column, there has been a steady outpouring every week for many years of suggestive criticism, not always palatable at that, but based on practical experience and adequate data. The great trouble about reasoning from the older arts in formulating the new one lies in our inability to foresee future mental development.

Language itself was not particularly progressive as an art until it came to be written. Even then centuries elapsed before it was used as a means of communicating ideas and transferring knowledge from one mind to many. Learning was for a long time confined to the few because of the laborious task of transcription. Then was evolved the grand art of printing, and literature became the dominant power of the world. It did more than all the other arts of expression combined to improve man and his social condition. Why? It admitted common people to the richest shades of thought and feeling. It transformed periods into centuries, pushed civilization along faster in one year than it had grown in a hundred.

Yet literature has its limitations, those of the language in which it is expressed, and language is so inadequate that not one man in a thousand can now adequately express what he wishes to say. Some of the profoundest thinkers have deplored the medium they were compelled to use because it did not address itself attractively to those most in need of knowledge. Printing was a new art when painting, sculpture and the drama were old, yet it improved the tastes of men interested in the older arts, offered them opportunity for training and instruction, and it thus improved the older arts themselves, but without adequate recognition.

History is repeating itself. The discovery of a new medium which most attractively addresses itself to the hearts and minds of common people without the intervention of words is not recognized as an art. It is from observation that the brain derives its highest and purest pleasure. Acquiring knowledge is a delight to all active brains, and those less active can be affected by the same pleasant sensation if not called upon to struggle with the seemingly unconquerable difficulties of language.

Now comes a medium which addresses itself directly to our powers of observation, which is capable of affording the human mind its highest and purest pleasure, but a great deal thus shown is on a par with the stuff published in the daily papers, trash not worth remembering, containing nothing designed for our improvement as individuals or as a race. Typed every day in the year is a lot of copy that should never be printed, but are we to reason from such premises that literature is not an art?

To the rightly perceiving mind it would appear that the Globe editorial writer is arguing directly against his own good intentions. Many of his readers are among the fifteen millions of people who constitute the daily attendance at picture shows. He is addressing an intelligent class—the unintelligent do not read editorials of any kind—and he fails to convince when he arraigns a medium of expression, an art, because of some unsatisfactory examples he has seen. The joy of progress in any department of human effort is made possible by our imperfections.

An unusual amount of discrimination is demanded in criticising a new art. There is no doubt that it needs criticism, but that of the prejudiced kind is apt to be purely destructive. Go into the studios and note the tremendous efforts being made to reconcile and unify the artistic elements of production. There is a vast amount of sincerity back of the efforts made to hold public interest. There are intricate questions of system, method and treatment there involved. There are complicated scientific and business problems to be solved. The Globe rightly declares that authorship has become the vital equation in the whole problem—there is no gain-saying that fact—but light on the subject is very much more needed than sweeping condemnation.

Stooping to such methods of making money reminds us of the old days of the Midway and Coney Island when the barkers stood outside the holes in the wall and pointed to a sign in flaring letters: "FOR MEN ONLY." Many a time our attention has been called to these signs and to be honest, it was only by exercise of considerable self-control that we withstood the temptations of satisfying our curiosity. One night we waited outside one of these places and watched a couple of Irishmen who were with their wives (or sweethearts) enter, after they had gained the latter's consent on the promise to tell them what they saw. The two men had hardly gone in the entrance when they came out the exit, blushing and laughing with chagrin. We asked them what they saw. They said: "I'm ashamed to tell you." They kept their word to their female companions and we overheard them tell them; "Nothing but an old 'browser' in a 'mother hubbard' running back and forth on a platform." Just one of those games to "gyp" the dimes from the curious. That's what most of the unsavory pictures are and that's what such advertisements as the above mean. The exhibitors who show these pictures in their theaters are turning them into holes in the wall. The people who attend such exhibitions feel very much like the two Irishmen, if they do not feel wholly disgusted with themselves and the management of the theater.

motion pictures and their mission. We do not know whether W. A. Brady is making or losing money in the industry, that is neither here nor there, he is a man with a vision, not blinded by loss or acquisition of dollars.

The Screen to Aid the Government

MOTION PICTURE men are wasting no time in offering to the government such facilities as may be at their disposal for the furthering of the work of the War and Navy Departments. Vice-President J. A. Berst of the Pathe Exchange has written to President Wilson suggesting that motion pictures might be used to advantage in training young men for service in the army and navy. Mr. Berst added that his company would consider it an honor as well as a patriotic duty to co-operate with the government in the event of hostilities. The White House has replied thanking the Pathe company for the offer.

Maurice Rubens, late Chief Yeoman United States Navy, now booking for Rubens' theaters, Joliet, Ill., forwards to the MOVING PICTURE WORLD a copy of a letter he has received from the Navy Department. Mr. Rubens had suggested that the department issue to motion picture theaters a slide designed to aid in the work of recruiting. The Bureau of Navigation, in replying, after expressing appreciation for the action of Mr. Rubens, announced that the plan already was in extensive use throughout the country and added: "The bureau will be gratified to learn that any patriotic motion picture house has offered to run without cost a slide similar to the one you suggest."

In the coming months there probably will be many opportunities for motion picture manufacturers and exhibitors to co-operate with the authorities. The power of the screen in a political way never has been tested. As a medium of quick communication with the people at large it is second only to the daily newspaper. In effectiveness of presentation the screen even has advantages over the printed page. Then again there are few men in any community with the wide personal acquaintance possessed by the exhibitor.

All things considered, the screen as a public factor should loom large in the stern days to come.

Our Exchange Department and Its Editor

EVERYONE who has made a more or less exhaustive study of the moving picture industry for the past few years is compelled to admit that our present methods of distributing and renting of films is the most unbusinesslike, the most wasteful, the most poorly conducted end of the whole business. There never has been anything like the co-operation between the exchanges and the exhibitors that there should be to secure the best results for all concerned, and the breach between the two seems to be widening during the past few months. The producers have had to bear the greater part of the blame by the exhibitors for this lack of harmony and co-operation and increasing cost of film rental, etc. With these conditions pressing for solution, the MOVING PICTURE WORLD begins in this issue a department which will be devoted to securing for exhibitors and exchanges better and more profitable business relations and improvement in every possible way in this most important branch of the business.

With this end in view, we have secured John J. Rotchford to conduct the department, and believe he is exceptionally fitted by actual practical experience to tackle the many problems that will press for solution. Mr. Rotchford received his first business training in law offices, and was cashier for the Motion Picture Patents Company for two years. He was next employed by the General Film Company for four years in positions ranging from accountant and systematizer to branch manager, in which latter capacity he represented it in New York City, Rochester, New York, and Salt Lake City. His next connection was with the Eclectic Film Company as assistant to the General Branch Manager. After this he opened and conducted exchanges for George Kleine at Philadelphia, and for Artcraft at Dallas, Texas. He then was special representative for the Mutual in the South, West and Southwest. We believe the department will benefit exhibitors in many ways, in helping to prevent loss through missed programs, in helping to work out a better understanding of what can and what cannot be done, and in clearing away many of the present sources of friction and loss. In solving these problems, we will be pleased to hear from exhibitors, exchange managers and other employees at all times.

Governor Bilbo Seeks Revenue

THE motion picture exhibitors of Mississippi may have occasion in the near future to regret the absence of a militant state organization—at least, they will have if Governor Bilbo of that state makes good on his proposed censorship bill. The chief executive of the southern state announces that he has another idea for increasing the receipts of the state treasurer's office, one that he thinks would be really creditable to a "business man governor." He talks of the many thousands of Mississippi dollars that go into the coffers of millionaire concerns, and says "I am firmly convinced that Mississippi can come in for some of this 'movie' money without the ultimate consumer having to spend any more than he is spending now by creating a state board of censors."

The governor estimates a good revenue measure would put at least $25,000 to $50,000 in the treasury as well as pay the cost of maintenance of the board. As to the latter item—well! Even a good "business man governor" hardly would be expected to figure on less than $25,000 to distribute among the "faithful"; for even official censors are notoriously disinclined to find full compensation for their public-spirited labors in the tonic-laden ozone of a projection room—they want the "kale."

Let us assume the governor intends to assess $75,000 on the picture men of Mississippi. In that state there are about 100 amusement houses. It is probable that of this number seventy-five are picture theaters. Does Governor Bilbo believe each of these picture houses can be assessed $1,000 a year "without the ultimate consumer having to spend any more than he is spending now"? It is possible the theater owners may have something to say about that. So, too, it is possible the "ultimate consumer" may have something to add to what the exhibitor has to say. If after all these persons, who in numbers may approximate the larger part of the state population, have expressed their opinion of the governor and he still thinks he is a good business man there will be few who will try to alter his opinion.

Governor Bilbo is entitled to large consideration on one phase of his position nevertheless. He comes out flat-footedly on a "tariff for revenue only" platform. He makes no attempt to base his action on moral issues. He may be concerned over the kind of pictures that are shown to his constituents, but he says nothing about it. Frankly, he cares only for the revenue for the state treasury. This simplifies the issue.

Several years ago an attempt was made by exhibitors in Mississippi to organize a state league. This is an opportune time to try again—and to "put it over."

Forum Films to Open Exchanges

Hodkinson-Edison Alliance to Distribute a Locked Five-Reel Program Through Twenty Offices.

DEFINITE plans of the Forum Films, Inc., which has been organized for the purpose of distributing Edison Conquest Pictures, have been announced by Kenneth L. Hodkinson, general manager of the company. Mr. Hodkinson, who has opened offices in the Times Building, New York, will establish exchanges in New York, Buffalo, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Washington, Boston, Portland, Me.; Detroit, Cincinnati, Chicago, Atlanta, New Orleans, Dallas, Kansas City, Salt Lake, Denver, Minneapolis, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Seattle. It is expected these will be ready for business by April 1.

The executive head of the new company will be W. W. Hodkinson, former president of Paramount and one of the most progressive motion picture men in the country. Thomas A. Edison, who has taken a deep interest in the Conquest Pictures, will be vice president. Besides giving what attention he can to the general work of production, Mr. Edison will continue to serve on the advisory board. Raymond Pawley, long and intimately associated with Mr. Hodkinson in Paramount, will be secretary-treasurer.

General Manager Hodkinson said that Forum will release for its opening service a five-reel locked program, which means that the subjects will have to be taken in their entirety. It is designed to have a three or four part feature, supplemented by scientific and comedy subjects; in other words, a complete and balanced program. Already a large number of subjects are completed at the Edison studio, against the day for opening business.

"The principle underlying the work of this company," said the general manager, "is cleaner pictures—altogether doing away with the objectionable. As you are aware, the Edison company always has enjoyed an unusual reputation for giving no concern to censors. It is our intention to make pictures for right-thinking people, subjects which you may take children to see without being bombarded by embarrassing questions. It is our intention later to release more than five reels a week. While we may distribute other than Edison subjects the same controlling principles will apply.

"For a long time Mr. Edison has wanted to do something new in the motion picture business, to contribute something to the industry. He has not been content to rest on his earlier achievements, great and fundamental as those were. He has the largest faith that the Conquest Pictures will do more good in a trade way than anything heretofore done—that they will be worthy not only of his indorsement but of his effort, his attention."

While it is the intention to make Conquest subjects "informational," to appeal to all interested in solving the problem of better pictures for young and old alike, the declaration is made that the pictures will be wholesome, vigorous and far removed from the "sterilized" description. There will be stories of travel and of adventure—of the kind that will appeal to the grown-up as well as to the youth and the child.

Among the subjects to be produced are: "The Lance of Kanana," by H. W. French; "The Young Railroaders," by F. Lovell Coombs; "Gallegher," by Richard Harding Davis; "For the Honor of the School," by Ralph Henry Barbour; "Under the Great Bear," by Kirk Munroe; "Kidnapped," by Robert Louis Stevenson; "The Little Lame Prince," by Dinah Maria Mulock; "Bob Dashaway, Treasure Hunter," by Cyrus Townsend Brady, and "Black Beauty," by Anna Sewell.

"There is a new day just ahead in the motion picture industry," said President W. W. Hodkinson, "when a clean and wholesome film will penetrate the hard shell of precedent. I believe the Edison program of Conquest Pictures to be the entering wedge."

TEXAS TAX BILL KILLED.

Prominent members of the Texas Amusement Managers' Association, upon the call of President E. H. Hulsey, assembled in Austin, Saturday, Feb. 24, and protested against the bill providing for a State tax of two per cent. on gross receipts of theaters, picture shows, etc. The bill also gave the cities and counties option to assess a tax of one per cent. each, making a possible tax of 4 per cent.

The managers from most of the large cities were there with their books and figures and audits for several years, and at the close of the hearing the committee on Revenue and Taxation reported unanimously against the bill. Texas needs tax money very much now, and had it not been for the State organization and the prompt response in their coming to the hearing many of the amusement houses of Texas would have been compelled to close. This bill is now dead, so far as this legislature is concerned.

Salon Habana, Curacao's Best Theater

Island of Dutch West Indies Has House Seating 1,000—Films Shown Are of French, Italian or Spanish Origin.

CURACAO'S only important motion picture house, says U. S. Consul George S. Messersmith, stationed on that island, is an open-air theater with a seating capacity of 1,000. The charge for seats in the boxes on both sides usually is 40 cents, but for some pictures 60 cents a seat is asked. Most of the seats are 20 cents each. Those in the rear, for negroes, cost 10 cents. Notwithstanding the high prices the theater is filled three times a week.

This open-air theater is known as the Salon Habana. The pictures are popular with all classes. For some time the Colonial Government did not allow any films to be shown at the theater, as it was felt that the poor were spending money which should be used for food. As conditions on the island have improved no restriction is placed on the pictures. Those in which love is the central theme are most popular. Romantic films are by far the most common. Few comic pictures are exhibited, and these are very poor. A 5-reel or 6-reel picture, or a shorter one, with one comic film, makes up the usual show.

The films now shown all seem to be of French, Italian or Spanish origin. It is unusual to find an American product. The legends on the pictures are in Spanish because it is the language of the people. Those on long pictures must be in Spanish, but some American comic films, even with the words in English, ought to be popular.

The native tongue of the Curacaos is Papiemento, a patois, but everyone talks Spanish as well, and English is very generally understood among the white population. Most of the pictures used here are obtained from a firm in Caracas, Venezuela. As there is good steamer connection between Curacao and Venezuela, not much time is required for transportation.

American films of adventure and daring, as well as comic subjects, undoubtedly would please the local audiences. As there is only one picture house on the island the business would not be found profitable except in connection with a chain of theaters or an agency in Venezuela.

While the volume of the film business of this island would of course be small, it would probably prove to be steady and profitable. The duty on used and new films is 3 per cent. ad valorem. The Theatro Naar of Curacao has an occasional picture show, but the house is small.

No Additional Tax on Exhibitors

New York State Exhibitors Immune from Any Tax That Might Be Recommended by Wheeler Committee.

FURTHER confirmation of the belief that exhibitors in New York State will not have to pay any additional tax was forthcoming this week when the Wheeler legislative committee, which was appointed to investigate the motion picture industry with a view to ascertaining the industry's taxability, went into executive session at Albany. Members of the committee went into executive session with Harvey D. Hinman, counsel of the committee. These sessions are for the purpose of further examining the mass of testimony that the committee has taken. The report to the Assembly will be made on March 15.

From reliable sources comes the information that the committee will make recommendations to the Assembly that a tax be placed upon the manufacturers and distributors. If the plans of the Wheeler committee are adopted by a vote of the Assembly it is understood that a tax of so much per foot of film will be imposed—a small amount on each print.

It was the generally expressed opinion of members of the committee that if a tax were levied on motion picture theaters a similar tax should be imposed on all other classes of theaters.

There is a rumor current that there may be appointed a State motion picture commissioner. This commissioner will have charge of the licensing of exchanges, and will have the power to revoke licenses if complaint is made by any city officials regarding any special picture that may be deemed unfit to be shown to the public, it is said.

JULIAN LAMOTHE TO WRITE FOR AMERICAN.

Julian Lamothe, whose name as author frequently appeared on many American-Mutual productions, is again a member of that studio's scenario staff. Mr. Lamothe's experience has been gained with the Lubin, Pollard and American companies, and a short period in which he was "free-lancing." The American production by which Mr. Lamothe is best known is "The Inner Struggle."

Kansas City Entertains "Fatty"

Big Doings When Arbuckle Arrives on His Way East—Gets the Keys of the Town.

FATTY" Arbuckle was the hero of a "perfectly grand" reception at Kansas City, Mo., February 25 and 26, that included dinners, society teas, public speech-making and parades; and the passing over of the keys of the city by the Mayor.

Incidentally, it may be mentioned that some of the glory heaped on "Fatty" was made possible by the presence also of Adolph Zukor, president of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation. Mr. Zukor was able to draw out a large attendance of women to a special session of the Athenaeum, Parent Teachers' Association and Collegiate Alumni, where he expressed to them the ideals that have built Paramount.

"Fatty" Arbuckle with Golden Key to Kansas City; Mayor Edwards, in Fedora Hat, at "Fatty's" Left.

The party, traveling from the Coast to New York, consisted of: Adolph Zukor, Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Arbuckle, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. McLean, Lou Anger, business manager; William W. Jefferson, Herbert Warren, Charles Pike (Salt Lake R. R.), Frank D. Williams, cinematographer; James J. Tynan, press representative.

Mr. Zukor spent most of his time, while in Kansas City, on business, chiefly with A. D. Flintom, president of the Kansas City Feature Film Co.

The formal reception took place Monday noon, when Mayor Edwards (who is a brother-in-law of Mr. Flintom) handed to Mr. Arbuckle, on the Union Station Plaza, in the presence of some three thousand enthusiastic patrons of moving pictures, an enormous golden key to the city. Then a parade was held, downtown to the Screen Club, participated in by exhibitors with floats and ornamental motor cars, the police and fire departments, the Motion Picture Operators, the Camera Club and others. Monday evening Mr. Arbuckle made a flying trip around among the Kansas City theaters, making short speeches at ten of them within an hour and a half. In the afternoon he had visited the Roval, the Regent and the Idle Hour. Monday night a banquet was held at the Baltimore, when Mr. Zukor, Mr. Arbuckle, Mr. Flintom and others spoke.

Sunday, however, before Mr. Arbuckle was supposed to be in town, there were many happenings also. Phil R. Toll, proprietor of the Alamo theater, took Mr. Arbuckle to his home, while Mrs. Flintom took the ladies to hers, preparatory to a motor trip to Hillcrest Golf Club, where William M. Beebe, president of the Kansas City Club, was host at a luncheon. Mayor Edwards was also a guest, and posed with Mr. Arbuckle on the links afterward. A reception-tea was held at the home of Mr. Toll, to which the women and children of the church of which Mr. Toll is an officer, and other organizations, had been invited. Mr. Arbuckle spoke to 100 boys at the Boys' Hotel, and to about 150 young men and women at the Linwood Boulevard Christian Church. Sunday evening a reception was held at Mr. Flintom's home.

Perhaps the most significant and valuable of the events was the special meeting at the headquarters of the Athenaeum. Mr. Zukor there explained his ambitions with respect to the moving picture industry, pointing out the increasing tendency of producers and exhibitors to reach a higher standard, and commending the women for their stand in Kansas City for co-operation in support of good pictures.

The party's plans on its trip eastward had been interfered with by snow. The arrangements for Denver had to be canceled.

Arline Pretty Leading Lady to Fairbanks

Popular Screen Star Stars Work Opposite "Doug" in Initial Fairbanks-Artcraft Offering "In and Out."

ARLINE PRETTY, the well-known motion picture star, has been selected to appear opposite Douglas Fairbanks in his first Artcraft offering, "In and Out." Miss Pretty has already commenced work at the Gene Gauntier studio on West 54th street, where the production is being staged under the direction of John Emerson.

One of the most popular actresses of the screen to-day, Miss Pretty has gained wide dramatic experience both on the speaking stage and in motion pictures, covering a period of six years. With the Columbia Players in Washington, D. C., she began her career as an actress, playing ingenue parts and leads. About four years ago she was induced to enter the motion picture world and her immediate success in this work prompted her to select the silent drama as her future field of endeavor.

Her work with various big producing companies resulted in the great national popularity, following her appearance in such productions as "The Dawn of Tomorrow," "The Man From Home," "Green Stockings," "Beverly of Graustark" and many other subjects of similar prominence. Her most recent work was evidenced in the new serial which has been widely exploited, "The Secret Kingdom," upon the completion of which she was immediately engaged to appear opposite the famous athlete of the screen who has on various recent occasions proved himself to be the most popular actor in pictures.

Arline Pretty.

In the part of the Sheriff's daughter in "In and Out," Miss Pretty is cast in a role that is admirably suited to her talents. As leading lady to the smiling Fairbanks she is expected to gain many new friends among the devotees of the screen.

BIG PUBLICITY FOR NEW T & D HOUSE.

William H. Jobelmann, publicity manager of the New T & D. theater of Oakland, Cal., sends to the Moving Picture World a mass of newspaper clippings showing how the new house was advertised in its community. Mr. Jobelmann estimates that in five days the Oakland press devoted $250 worth of space to telling about the visit to the theater and city of Edith Storey, and of her appearance at the Ad-Masque Pageant and Ball as Cleopatra. We know theater managers who willingly would pay considerably more than $250 to get a moderate proportion of the space the Oakland papers devoted to the big occasion.

This journal printed on February 3 an illustrated description of the big Oakland house, with its 3,450 seats and its $48,500 organ. That things are done in a large way in Oakland is apparent. At the ball Miss Storey was greeted by ten thousand persons. On the opening night of the player's personal appearance on the stage of the T & D house a thousand intending patrons were unable to gain admittance. That was on Wednesday and packed houses were the rule for the remainder of the week.

The Motion Picture Exhibitor

WRITE US EARLY AND OFTEN

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD carries the most complete record of Exhibitors' News. This department aims at being the fullest and fairest chronicle of all the important doings in the ranks of organized exhibitors. To keep the department as complete and as useful as it is now we request the secretaries of all organizations to favor us with reports of all the news. Coming events in the ranks of the organized exhibitors are best advertised in this department of the Moving Picture World.

EXHIBITORS' LEAGUE ORGANIZER.

In answer to recent inquiries in regard to the Exhibitors' League Organizations and for the information of exhibitors in any of the States, readers will kindly note that Fred J. Herrington is National Organizer for the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America. All correspondence on the subject may be addressed to him at 402 Knox avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa.

To Prevent Loss of Film

The New York Exhibitors' League and F. I. L. M. Club Co-operate to Insure Against Theft in Transit—A Common Carrier Will Be Decided Upon.

ON TUESDAY, February 27, a special meeting of the New York Motion Picture Exhibitors' League No. 1 was held to discuss in conjunction with the F. I. L. M. Club of New York the problem of a common carrier of films between the exchanges and the exhibitors. This joint meeting was held because of a letter the film men had sent the exhibitors, that after a certain date all deliveries and collections would be made by the Interborough Delivery Company. The exhibitors favored the Prudential Company and they objected to the peremptory tone of the letter.

J. E. Chadwick was the spokesman for the exchangemen and he very clearly stated that the letter had been sent because of recent thefts of films while in transit, and the careless manner in which films were handled by carriers, and the exchanges did not want to intrust them to any carrier unless bonded to insure both exhibitor and exchangemen against loss. The Interborough Company had agreed to furnish a bond to insure against loss and the Prudential had not furnished such a bond. This last statement brought about a contradiction and discussion to the effect that the Prudential would furnish a bond.

At this point a detective who had been employed by the F. I. L. M. Club in connection with recent film thefts said: "Most of the thefts committed were made while the films were in transit from exchanges to exhibitors and vice versa and it was a difficult matter to trace them or hold the boys on the wagons responsible. I heard of a case where the boy on a wagon was bribed to let someone have a picture for a couple of hours so it could be duped and returned to the boy before he got back to the exchange. In another case the carrier was expected to return six reels to the exchange and only returned five, but the boy at the exchange who received them supposing the receipt was O. K. signed it covering the six. It is very important that a responsible carrier be selected, who will be held accountable for such carelessness, or theft, to insure exhibitor and exchange against losses." He also stated that he had been told of fourteen film thefts within the past two weeks.

A motion was made and carried that a committee of four from the exhibitors and four from the F. I. L. M. Club be appointed by the president of the league and an arbitrator be appointed to act in conjunction with them to decide upon a common carrier, who could furnish a bond to cover losses while in transit.

The joint committee meeting was held on Wednesday, February 28, and it was decided that the choice of a common carrier would be left to the league providing such carrier would furnish a sufficient bond to insure against loss and put up a cash indemnity for the immediate payment for films lost while in his possession. Subsequently it was announced that the Prudential Company, having secured a satisfactory bond, was named.

California Exhibitors Busy

Will Work to Secure a Lower License Fee—Striving for More Members.

THE regular meeting of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' Association of California was held in Photoplayer Hall, San Francisco, on Feb. 21, with a good attendance. President H. L. Beach called special attention to the fact that immediate action would be necessary to combat adverse legislation in the State Legislature and gave as his opinion that the most dangerous of the four bills introduced affecting the moving picture industry was the minor bill. He suggested that members instruct the cashiers of their houses to get definite information concerning the number of children under sixteen years of age that visited their houses unaccompanied by parents or guardians.

The license tax in San Francisco was also given attention and plans for reducing this will be discussed at the meeting to be held in four weeks. Although City Attorney Percy V. Long rendered an opinion some time ago that when the censorship act was repealed license fees were automatically abolished the city officials have been collecting licenses as before. A flat rate is paid in this city, the man with a 200-seat house paying the same as the man owing a 3,000 seat house and it is planned to attempt to place this on a sliding scale.

The president appointed W. A. Cory a committee of one to visit exhibitors before the next meeting and to impress upon them the fact that through organized effort it will be possible to secure a change in the present license fees. He called attention to the fact that the Alameda County Association holds its meetings regularly on the third Tuesday of each month at the Hotel St. Marks, Oakland, and tendered an invitation for San Francisco exhibitors to be present at any time they might find it convenient.

EXHIBITORS OF AROOSTOCK ORGANIZE.

Aroostock, Maine, exhibitors are planning to form a moving picture men's league for mutual benefit, and it is possible that they may even arrange to buy films as an organization for distribution among their members. Among the exhibitors interested in the formation of this new organization are Messrs. Seymour of Houlton, P. Powers of Caribou, and John Holmes of Presque Isle.

The Maine Motion Picture Exhibitors' League, formed about five years ago, was once an active and useful organization, but fell into evil days and no longer holds sessions. Aroostock county being an empire in itself, much larger than the state of Massachusetts, is apparently taking into its own hands the association idea and will have one without the assistance of the rest of the state if present plans mature.

NORTHWEST CORPORATION HAS NEW SECRETARY.

The last meeting of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' Corporation of the Northwest eclipsed anything previous this year as far as activity was concerned. Secretary William Koenig presented his resignation for the third time, and after considerable debate it was accepted and the retiring officer given a vote of thanks. Mr. Koenig gave business reasons for his action. Charles H. Hitchcock, Princess theater, Minneapolis, was selected to succeed Mr. Koenig. Mr. Hitchcock resigned as chairman of the grievance committee, and Billy B. Watson was selected his successor. S. M. Kahn was chosen to fill Mr. Watson's place on the committee.

Chairman David G. Rodgers of the convention committee asked the corporation for a loan of $400 so that he might secure the West Hotel for the May convention immediately. He was given a check for the amount desired. Mr. Rodgers also offered an amendment giving the corporation authority to expel any of its members at any time by a majority vote of the executive committee, providing expelled member was paid for his stock at the rate of $1 per share. Upon motion of M. A. Hoppenrath, James McClenaghan of the Alhambra, formerly the Regent, was dropped from the corporation. W. A. Steffes, former secretary of the exhibitors' association, was admitted to membership in the corporation. It was also voted to secure a complete list of exhibitors of the Northwest from postal authorities. The grievance committee reported the case Sarvis vs. V-L-S-E exchange satisfactorily settled.

Colorado and Censorship

Bills With Iniquitous Regulation of Pictures Now Before the Colorado Legislature.

THE following circular letter has been sent out to all exhibitors in Colorado by the Rocky Mountain Screen Club of Denver, through its president, H. T. Nolan. The circular letter bears the date of Feb. 28:

To All Exhibitors in Colorado: Several bills providing for Sunday closing, welfare boards, censorship and the most iniquitous "regulations" against picture shows in the history of the business are before the Colorado Legislature. One of these bills—we have sent you a copy—is the most pernicious possible to imagine, and if it passes in this state, it will be immediately introduced in every other State in the West.

If these bills pass, the opportunities for graft and persecution are almost impossible to imagine. Just think of a "welfare" board responsible to nobody taking immediate possession of hundreds of thousands of dollars raised by the charity organizations so as to have quick funds for any purpose they may see fit to use it. Why, it's almost impossible to conceive of the danger that lurks in that one bill alone.

But they will try to put across censorship measures that will make censorship in other States look like heaven. Now don't kid yourself into thinking that the manufacturers and the exchanges will pay the cost. You, Mr. Exhibitor, will foot the bill—and then some. If a censorship measure passes the Colorado Legislature the price of film will go up to stay up. In other places the exchanges added from 25 cents a reel a flat 25 per cent. increase and the exhibitor had to pay or go without. Stop and think. Every dollar that is taken in by the picture business is collected from the public by the theater owner.

Now is the time to kill these bills. The Legislative Committee of the Rocky Mountain Screen Club has been working night and day—and without a dollar. What we have done has been accomplished on a friendship basis with a number of people in the Legislature with whom we have had pleasant dealings. We have the women with us, God bless them. They have come to the front in every State in the Union. In Missouri and Utah they have won the fight for us. The newspapers are all on our side and against outlanders coming here to build political machines for the benefit of a bunch of Kansans.

Now we need funds. Stop and think that if these bills go through you will pay for them for the rest of your life. If you contribute now and the bills are killed the cost will be trivial. Don't delay. Funds are needed to carry on the work right this minute. Send a check by first mail to Rocky Mountain Screen Club, 1744 Curtis street, Denver. Send as much as you can afford; but send quickly. No fixed amount is suggested; that is up to you. The money will be accounted for and spent in your interest. We will contribute our time and our share. No salaries or tips or payments to anybody. This movement is for our wives and kiddies and our jobs, because, if these bills go through, there will be a lot of vacancies. Who knows? You might lose out yourself.

MARYLAND EXHIBITORS' LEAGUE MEETING.

On Sunday afternoon at 2.30 p. m. on February 25, the usual monthly meeting of the Maryland Exhibitors' League was held at their headquarters in the New theater building, 210 West Lexington street, but it was very disappointing to note that interest in the matters concerning this body seems to have flagged considerably since the last meeting, for only fifteen members, including the officers, were present. The meeting was a very short one and practically the only business which was taken up was that regarding the holding of a dance by the League. Chairman F. C. Weber had nothing definite to report and it is supposed that the committee which had been appointed was too small. Frank A. Hoernig, president of the League, has now been appointed chairman of the Ball Committee, which now numbers ten. Those included are: F. A. Hoernig, chairman; G. Horton Gaffney, Louis Schlichter, Guy L. Wonders, C. E. Sanders, Joseph Brodie, J. Louis Rome, A. E. McCurdy, F. C. Weber and L. A. DeHoff. No definite date, at this writing, has been given out for the next meeting.

Among those present were: F. C. Weber, L. Schlichter, T. D. Goldberg, F. A. Hoernig, J. L. Rome, E. A. McCurdy, W. E. Stumpf, L. A. DeHoff, M. A. Berger, Miss T. D. Marks, B. F. Seligman, H. Marsteen, Wm. Leight, Irvine Levine, J. Goodman.

HEARING OF SUNDAY OPENING BILLS WILL BE HELD AT ALBANY MARCH 21.

The Sunday opening bills will have a joint hearing before the New York State Legislature on Wednesday, March 21.

Indiana Favors Sunday Pictures

Bill Making That Form of Entertainment Legal Likely to Pass the Legislature.

THE McCray bill legalizing the giving of motion picture shows on Sunday, which was passed by the Indiana Senate last week by a vote of 27 to 19, was the cause of a prolonged debate when it was reported in the House for first reading. Two reports on the bill came from the Committee on Criminal Code, the majority report favoring its passage and the minority favoring indefinite postponement. Following the debate the majority report was passed by a vote of 47 to 37, thus advancing the bill to second reading.

The purpose of the measure is to amend the Sunday observance act to permit the exhibition of motion pictures on moral, historical and educational subjects. It probably will not come up in the House for final reading until the latter part of the week.

The committee's report followed a public hearing the night before, at which representatives of the Indiana Motion Picture Exhibitors' League and members of various church organizations argued the question. The hearing, which was held in the hall of the House of Representatives, attracted about 150 men and women, including a number of managers and owners of motion picture shows in Indianapolis.

Senator McCray of Indianapolis, the author of the bill, appeared personally before the committee at the hearing and urged a favorable report on the bill. He encouraged the ministers to co-operate with the motion picture men and make of the picture house a larger influence for religion and morality.

The Rev. Mr. Pearson said that the ministers of the city were not opposed to the moving picture industry, but did object to giving the motion picture men special privileges which other industries did not enjoy, and privileges which would operate to encourage disrespect and irreverence of the Sabbath day.

"The question of Sunday moving picture shows in Indianapolis is not the principal thing on which opposition to this bill is based," he said. "The shows have operated in this city on Sunday for a long time and although I have been personally opposed to such a thing, I have never made any organized effort to stop them. There are, however, hundreds of towns in this state where the sentiment of the people is against Sunday shows and where they do not operate. The passage of this bill would open the way for the operation of shows in these communities where we believe the majority of the people do not want them."

Charles C. Pettijohn, attorney for the motion picture men, said it was the desire of the men connected with the motion picture industry to co-operate with the ministers of the city, and that the managers and owners of motion picture shows desired to present nothing but high class and instructive shows on Sunday and any other day. He declared that all of the theaters were open at any time to any minister who wished to preach at the shows.

The Rev. Mr. Pearson replied that he had no knowledge that any Indianapolis minister had ever been invited to speak at a theater.

"Why, I have a minister preaching at my theater every Sunday," interrupted Frank J. Rembusch, who came down from Shelbyville to attend the hearing.

"You are welcome to preach at the Colonial any time you wish," said Ed Bingham, president of the Indianapolis Amusement Company, owners of the Colonial theater in Indianapolis.

"I'll preach there if you'll stop the show while I'm preaching," answered the Rev. Mr. Pearson.

"All right," said Mr. Bingham, "I'll be glad to have you if you preach the gospel." Mr. Pearson did not say whether or not he would accept the invitation.

The Rev. Mr. Taylor, in answer to Pettijohn, said that the question at issue over the bill was not whether the motion picture shows were up to a certain standard, but whether it was right for them to be legally permitted to operate on Sunday.

After the hearing was over seven members of the committee, Representatives Hyland, McClaskey, Behmer, Dilworth, Mushett, McNagney and Eisterhold, signed a majority report. The minority report was signed by Representatives Krieg and Walker.

ENNIS SUCCEEDS FINEMAN AT ART DRAMAS.

B. P. Fineman has resigned his position of publicity manager of the Art Dramas, Inc., to take a similar position with another company, and Harry Ennis succeeds him. Mr. Ennis was a member of the editorial staff of The Clipper for many years, and was one of the first to write stories about motion pictures.

With the N. A. M. P. I.

Bills at Albany to be Considered—Quarterly Session of Executive Committee March 15.

THERE are five or six bills in number before the New York State Legislature. All amend the Sunday law to read: "This law shall not be considered as applying to performances of motion pictures on Sunday." A hearing on one of these bills, that introduced by Senator Boylan, will be held on March 14th, in Albany.

This has changed the situation regarding Sunday opening, and instead of it being held advisable to push the issue in the courts to a decision before going to the legislature, it seems likely that the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry, which now has the matter in hand, will wait until the legislature is over before presenting it.

A short time ago, Mr. Gompers wrote to the national association inclosing copies of a set of drastic resolutions drawn up by the Allentown, Pa., Central Trades and Labor Council. This resolution stated that the film which was being made by the E. I. S. Motion Picture Company, of which Dixon Boardman is president, presented labor as an unlawful and frightful monster.

The matter was taken up with Mr. Boardman and the National Association, and a projection of the picture was arranged for Thursday, Mr. Gompers coming on from Washington to attend it. With him were Hugh Frayne, general organizer of the American Federation of Labor, and half a dozen other prominent labor men.

The picture, which was called "Trooper 44," was projected, and Mr. Boardman's contention that it had no application whatever to labor was fully borne out.

The Board of Directors of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry will meet for its quarterly session March 15th at 11 A. M. The meetings of the Board of Directors were held monthly up to December, and the March meeting is the first of the quarterly meetings authorized by the constitution.

The following members were elected at the Executive Committee meeting, February 23d., to full membership in their various classes. D. W. Griffith Enterprises, producer, Class A; Corona Cinema Company of Los Angeles, producer Class B; Submarine Film Company, producer Class B; Pathe-scope Company of America, producer Class C. Pathe Exchange, Inc., changed its membership from producer Class A to the distributor class.

ESSANAY PLAYERS WORK FOR ACTORS' FUND.

Essanay stars have donated their services to the benefit performance for the Actors Fund of America, which will be held at the Auditorium theater, Chicago, March 9. George K. Spoor, president of Essanay, has turned over one of his big studios for rehearsals. Under the direction of Alexander Leftwitch, who staged similar benefits of the Fund in Boston and New York, the screen celebrities are now being rehearsed in a comedy skit they will enact at the benefit.

Among the photoplay stars who will take part are Henry B. Walthall, Mary Charleson, Edward Arnold, Marguerite Clayton and Harry Dunkinson. Arthur Berthelet and Harry Beaumont, directors for Essanay, also will appear.

The skit is entitled "The Perils of Power, or How Moving Pictures Are Not Made." It will present a scene in a motion picture studio, revealing the fads and follies of the leading man, the leading woman, the well known "vampire," directors, etc. According to reports from the rehearsals, it will be a scream from start to finish.

Celebrities of the speaking stage also will lend their aid in making the benefit a big financial success for the Actors' Fund.

COMMISSIONER BELL PROTESTS.

To the Editor of The Moving Picture World:

Dear Sir—In your issue of February 23, 1917, there appears an advertisement of the motion picture film "Enlighten Thy Daughter."

The advertisement says, among other things, "Endorsed by Commissioner of Licenses Bell."

I hereby request that you state clearly in the next issue of your paper that I have not endorsed this or any other motion picture film.

Very truly yours,
GEORGE H. BELL,
Commissioner.

Triangle Official Clears "Big T" Situation

Triangle Distributing Corporation Assumes Responsibility for Deposits Made With "Big T."

R. W. FRANCE, general manager of the Triangle Distributing Corporation, made the following statement regarding the "Big T" situation in Brooklyn, New York:

"We were very much surprised to see an article in The Moving Picture World last week creating the impression that there was an unsettled situation among the Brooklyn exhibitors who have been using Triangle service on account of deposits which they had made with the 'Big T' Corporation.

"The article did not correctly state the case. Before the publication of the alleged facts, and as soon as the matter had been brought to our attention for a ruling, the situation had been adjusted with the Brooklyn exhibitors by the Triangle Distributing Corporation assuming responsibility for the deposits which had been made with the 'Big T' Corporation. Neither the Triangle Film Corporation nor the Triangle Distributing Corporation had ever received these deposits from the 'Big T' Corporation, and when the Triangle contract with the 'Big T' Corporation was canceled we could have taken the position, with respect to such contracts as had not been signed by either of the Triangle companies, that the exhibitors would have to look to the 'Big T' and not to us.

"We took the action that we did in this matter because of our desire to co-operate with our exhibitors and to deal with them in the spirit of utmost fairness, and because we appreciated that whatever the technical situation was it would be a hardship on the exhibitors to have to make their deposits for Triangle service twice."

Lillian's Dimples

LISTEN to this. Lillian Walker, she of the dimples, says that for more than a year she has not seen herself upon the screen and does not intend to resume the habit, which, she declares, was always repugnant to her.

Lillian Walker.

Hearken to Miss Walker, who is the star of the General Film Company's "Dimples" series which is being made by the Broadway Star Features:

"Constant watching of oneself upon the screen," dimply declared Miss Walker, "tends to make an actress self-conscious. Small faults which the director should correct are magnified and as a consequence one becomes morbid and fussy with great detriment to one's work. Besides that it is actual physical torture to me to watch myself working."

All of which goes to show that Miss Walker is an individualist at least as far as the latter part of her statement goes, for nobody agrees with her.

And, oh yes—they call Miss Walker "Dimples" in the studio.

NORMA TALMADGE OFF FOR PALM BEACH.

Norma Talmadge and her husband, Joe M. Schenck, left last week for Palm Beach and Jacksonville, Florida, to start work on her new picture, "Poppy." She finished her second picture, produced by Joseph M. Schenck, "The Law of Compensation," a few days ago and started in immediately on the new one. Edward Jose, veteran director, has been engaged by Mr. Schenck to direct Miss Talmadge in "Poppy." He left with the star and a big supporting company, numbering 24 people, in two special cars. Frederick Perry, late star of "On Trial," on the speaking stage, and Eugene O'Brien, of her supporting cast, were also in the party. Scenes will be taken at Jacksonville, and the star will spend two weeks at Palm Beach, taking scenes on the beach and at the great hotels.

At Leading Picture Theaters

Programs for the Week of March 4 at New York's Best Motion Picture Houses.

"A Poor Little Rich Girl" at the Strand.

A TRIPLE feature program was presented at the Strand theater, week of March 4. Mary Pickford in a screen adaptation of Eleanor Gates' play, "A Poor Little Rich Girl," ranked first. The material of the original play is exceptionally well suited for picturization. The second instalment of the Prizma pictures in natural colors were also shown. The subject this week was "Uncle Sam's Troops on the Mexican Border." Victor Moore was seen in a new farce comedy entitled "Flivvering." Another picture of special interest was an educational study showing intimate views of a Sea Lion Rookery in the Northern Pacific. The soloists included Nadine Legot, Torcom Bezazian, Arthur Depew and Ralph Bringham.

"Mutiny" at the Rialto.

"Mutiny," the dramatic feature of the Rialto program, a Bluebird Photoplay, tells a romantic story of the days when big square riggers roamed the seas. Myrtle Gonzalez, Val Paul and George Hernandez are the featured players. Lynn F. Reynolds wrote the story and directed the production. Most of the action takes place out of doors, and there is the smack of the salt sea in every scene.

The first instalment of Dr. Edward A. Salisbury scientific pictures showed duck and goose shooting in Carolina, Smith Island animals, the Everglades, Havana, Bahia, Honda, and a terrific storm on the Caribbean.

A striking feature of the topical digest was some pictures of budding flowers shown in natural colors. The usual cartoons and news events made up the rest of the digest. Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew revealed another chapter from their seemingly endless domestic entanglements.

"The Barrier" at the Broadway.

The Rex Beach picture, "The Barrier," continues its engagement at the Broadway theater. This vigorous story of the Northwest is splendidly acted and produced, and has made a strong impression on Broadway theater patrons.

Eighty-First Street Theater Bill.

At the Eighty-first Street theater four pictures were shown. Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, Constance Talmadge in "Betsy's Burglar," and the Triangle Comedy, "Her Cave Man," were featured. Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Charles Ray and Dorothy Dalton in "Back of the Man," and the Keystone comedy, "Stars and Bars," constituted the picture portion of the bill.

Fight for an American Film

Three South American Managers Come to Blows in the Street Over a Popular Series.

Curityba, Brazil, Feb. 10.

THE managers of the America Cine, the Bijou and the Teuto Brasileiro had a fist argument in the street for possession of "The Adventures of Elaine" ("The Perils of Pauline"). It seems that there was an agreement between the managers to run the film two days in the Bijou, then transfer it to the America, afterward to the Teuto Brasileiro. After a season which proved rather unprofitable with other films, the Bijou was pleased with the drawing power of the American serial, and was not disposed to give it up to the America. The latter had advertised the film, and had to tell patrons that its projection would be postponed.

The manager of the Teuto Brasileiro found his time was being taken without permission, and when the three managers met in the street they went at it hot and heavy. When, later, the film was turned back by the Teuto Brasileiro the America refused to have anything to do with it. In the meantime the Pathe, a new house just opening, stepped in and made arrangements to take the film, and reports a very fine business with it.

Managers are aware of the drawing power of this series, since they ran its predecessor and had big business. Miss Pearl White is a great favorite with the Brazilian public. In the new series she is winning new laurels. Paul Panzer is wicked enough to please the people here, who want a villain to be real, and as the hero, Crane Wilbur is sure to be a winner.

The advertising matter invites the public to "come and palpitate with emotion! Agitate your souls at the hint of the unforeseen! Come and see that which your imagination never conceived! Art! Sensation! Grandeur!"

New York Legislative Hearing

All Bills Will Be Reviewed at Committee Meetings on March 21 at Albany.

ALL of the motion picture bills pending before the New York legislature will be heard by the committees having charge of them on March 21, according to information received. These include chiefly the bills pending on the Sunday opening of motion picture theaters, the taxation measure being delayed until the Wheeler committee can make its report to the legislature.

Practically all of the Sunday bills, with one exception, merely add a clause to the present Sunday observance law, to the effect that "nothing in this law shall be construed to prohibit the exhibition of motion pictures after 12 o'clock noon" on Sundays. The exception places the power of deciding whether or not there shall be motion pictures in the hands of the municipalities.

The National Association is planning to present a strong front in the debate before the committees, and will not only appear in its own behalf, but will be supported by the many social welfare organizations which are in favor of the Sunday motion picture show. The delegation will be headed by William A. Brady, president of the Association. Included in the party, which will go to Albany in a special car, will be not only prominent motion picture men, but also representatives of the National Board of Review, and those charitable and social welfare bodies which have been such strong supporters of the poor man's Sunday recreation as a means for taking care of the workers on their day of rest and furnishing them with the distraction which the students of social conditions consider so important a part of the modern civilized life.

The party will also carry to Albany the great petition which has been signed by the motion picture patrons in practically every theater in the state. These petitions are now being sent to the headquarters in the Times Building and will probably aggregate well over a million signatures.

EDWARD WARREN'S "TRANSGRESSOR" COMPANY.

The picture below shows one of the most carefully selected casts ever assembled for a single picture. It also shows a picked cinematographic staff and stage crew. These people earn more than a million dollars a year.

From left to right, sitting, are: Sheldon Lewis, featured with Pearl White in "The Perils of Pauline," and the "Iron Claw"; Edward Warren, producer and director; Lillian Warren, art director; Marie Shotwell, feature in "Enlighten Thy Daughter" and the "Witching Hour"; Theodore Friebus of the Fox Stock Co., and well known on the stage; Charlotte Ives, a Morosco star recently associated with E. H. Sothern, in the Vitagraph picture, "The Man of Mystery"; Walter Hampden, the recognized interpreter of the Good Samaritan, now starring in "The Wanderer." Standing, from left to right: Louis Plunion, chief property man and papier-mache expert, formerly with Herbert Brenon; Henry Cronjager, formerly with Thanouser, Edison, and responsible for the photography of "The Deemster"; Richardson Holmes Perkins, assistant camera man; Thomas Tremaine, head of the mechanical department; George Fitch, technical director, formerly with Herbert Brenon, responsible for the technical management of "The Daughter of the Gods," "Neptune's Daughter," and "War Brides," and ten or twelve other features released chiefly by Fox and Selznick; Harry Hadfield, Mr. Warren's assistant, formerly with Lasky; Harry Benham, featured with the "Twenty Million Dollar Mystery" after five years associated with Thanouser; and Mary Moore, sister of Tom and Owen Moore. The business management is under the supervision of H. Z. Levine, formerly of Triangle.

The Edward Warren Company.

Reviews of Current Productions

EXCLUSIVELY BY OUR OWN STAFF

"The Dancer's Peril"

Five-Reel World Screen Romance Involving the Russian Imperial Ballet Has Novelty and Good Dramatic Moments—Alice Brady in Dual Role.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

FOR the greater portion of its five reels "The Dancer's Peril," a photoplay written by Harriet Morris and produced by World Pictures, is a well told romance of the stage and the Russian Imperial Ballet. The interest centers around the career of Vasta Mascova, the daughter of a Russian Grand Duke who marries a young girl of the Bohemian set, in Paris, and then is told that the union will not be recognized by his government. Vasta becomes a pupil in the Imperial Ballet School in Petrograd, goes to Paris with the company and makes a sensation. Michael Pavloff, the impresario of the troupe, falls in love with her and, when he attempts to dishonor her, is killed by the girl's mother. At the finish, the Grand Duke and his wife and daughter are united, and Vasta finds that her happiness cannot be complete until she is married to Cecil Fletcher, a handsome young artist.

Scene from "The Dancer's Peril" (World).

A romantic story of such a nature need not be held down too closely to facts, and most of the incidents of "The Dancer's Peril" will be accepted at the author's valuation. The most notable exception is the abduction of Vasta from the stage of the theater, in the middle of a performance; such a thing is highly improbable, to say the least. Two or three other incidents are but little more convincing. To offset this, the novel and effective manner in which the Russian Ballet is introduced into the story, and the merit of the acting and the production, as a whole, make the picture an excellent feature for any program.

Alice Brady appears on the screen as Vasta and also as the girl's mother. Either impersonation alone would be vastly to her credit. She plays the two with equal skill, and keeps the characters separate and distinct. Her dancing with Alexis Kosloff and the other members of the Russian Ballet is a surprise. Not that she exhibits the same degree of skill; but she carries off the dancing given her with a confidence and ease that go far to keep up the illusion she aims to create.

Montagu Love's character study of the amorous old impresario is a careful and well executed bit of acting; and Philip Hunt gives the Grand Duke the necessary air of distinction and sincerity. Jack Drumeir and Auguste Burmeister contribute well balanced performances of Continental types; and Cecil Fletcher, Louis Grisel, Johnny Hines and Sidney Dai-brook are useful members of the cast. Travers Vail directed the picture. Through his efforts and those of Alexis Kosloff and the other members of the Imperial Ballet, "The Dancer's Peril" is unrivaled in one feature at least. No other photoplay ever contained such realistic glimpses of the art of the ensemble dance.

"Burning the Candle"

Henry B. Walthall and Mary Charleson in a Stirring Photodrama by Essanay—The Story Creates Strong and Sympathetic Interest by Exposing the Danger of Indulgence in Strong Drink—Directed by Harry Beaumont.

Reviewed by James S. McQuade.

THE story of "Burning the Candle" is laid in the South and New York City, and all the southern scenes have been made in the South, the Essanay company having proceeded there for the purpose of securing the real atmosphere for the production.

I am not afraid to foretell for this K-E-S-E- release an unusual welcome everywhere. The story has a peculiar appeal that makes me certain of that.

Beautiful Molly Carrington (Mary Charleson), daughter of old Judge Carrington, gives her hand and heart to the keeping of James Maxwell (Henry B. Walthall), a young southern, neighbor who knows cotton from the seed up, and who has just secured an important position in a New York brokerage office. "Jimmie" has never had a desire for anything stronger than water, and contents himself with taking a mere sip of the mint julep offered him by his future father-in-law, after the ordeal of asking the hand of his daughter in marriage has been passed.

The happy and youthful wedded pair proceed to New York, where the treating habit soon arouses the sleeping demon in "Jimmie's" physical and mental make-up. In short, after less than a year we find him in the slums, and his brave little wife back at home in the South, with the sorrow and love that are eating her heart out. Then the latent moral strength and goodness in "Jimmie" assert themselves, and once more he is a pleading suppliant before his father-in-law, and once more takes Mollie to his heart for better or worse, and is restored to his former position in New York.

Mr. Walthall and Miss Charleson are really beyond criticism as Jimmie and Mollie, at least that is my impression. They live the parts, and the weakness and sorrow of their lives affect one just as strongly as if the scenes were taking place in real life. Mr. Walthall's art is conspicuous, as he shows the gradual wearing down of "Jimmie's" moral and manly fibre by alcohol; and Miss Charleson is equally impressive in expressing the horror that grows and grows in Molly's heart and mind as she watches fearfully the quick descent of her once proud husband to the level of a vicious brute.

Scene from "Burning the Candle" (Essanay).

The support is quite capable. Julien Barton and Miss Frankie Raymond are very pleasing as Judge and Mrs. Carrington.

The unsuccessful suitor for Molly's hand, Alfred Lewis, is well sustained by Thurlow Brewer, and the part of Merrit Cole, a bibulous clerk in the New York brokerage office, is in the competent care of Patrick Calhoun. I must commend also the two colored people who appear as household servants in the Carrington home.

If I mistake not, "Burning the Candle"—aside from its popular run in the picture theaters of the land—will be in high demand for the propaganda of those who seek the suppression of the drink evil. It is stronger than any sermon or speech that could be made on the question; for it is as convincing as if one viewed the ravages of the evil in real life.

The release will be made March 5, through K-E-S-E service.

Latest Pathe Pictures

"Pots and Pans Peggy," Five Reel Thanhouser, "The Flag Despoiler," Fourteenth "Pearl of the Army" Episode, "Mystery of the Double Cross," Fifteenth Part Serial and First Three "Lonesome Luke" Two-Reel Comedies.

Review by Edward Weitzel.

THE information that the title of the picture is "Pots and Pans Peggy" and that Agnes G. Johnston wrote it is equivalent to saying that however much of age and long use belong to the material employed, the author has brightened it up with the same youthful energy displayed by Peggy in polishing her cooking utensils. Peggy is a little Irish servant girl of such diversified and unbelievable desirability that, if she were to be found on the books of a New York Employment Office, it would need all the police reserves to keep back the mob of frantic housewives that would storm the place. In spite of the high cost of onions and the still higher cost of good servants, Peggy scorns the call of the Bridgeport ammunition factories and the chance to acquire great wealth, and accepts a position in a family where she performs the offices of a full staff of skilled help, straightens out the love affair of the daughter of the house, and also her own; reforms the son of the family, saves him from disgrace and, incidentally, the United States government from being cheated out of a valuable implement of defense; cooks a nine course dinner, jumps into one of daughter's frocks and impersonates an Irish lady of title at the same dinner, and then slips on an apron and washes up the dishes—and all this for twenty-five dollars a month! Goodness gracious Agnes, are there no bounds to your imagination?

To put it concisely, "Pots and Pans Peggy" is quite as enjoyable as the preceding pictures written by Miss Johnston and acted in by Gladys Hulette, and that's praise enough to bestow upon any two young women. Others that assist in the good work are Director W. Eugene Moore, Wayne Arey, George Marlo, Kathryn Adams, Grace Henderson, Arthur Bauer, and Lord McCaskill.

Scene from "Pots and Pans Peggy" (Pathe).

"The Flag Despoilers."

The well-known slogan "The Kellys Are At It Again" might fittingly adorn the escutcheon of the house of Dare. At any rate, in "The Flag Despoiler," number fourteen of the Pathe serial "Pearl of the Army," the daughter of Colonel Dare has another go with "The Silent Menace" and sends him to the mat in fine style. The mysterious enemy to Uncle Sam is about to give the signal that will start The Silent Army into action, but Pearl grapples with him and, in the struggle, he is thrown from the roof of a high building. The next and last instalment reveals the name of The Silent Menace. The action before this incident moves at double-quick time.

"The Girl in Number 7."

The newest Pathe serial is called "Mystery of the Double Cross," and was made from a story by Gilson Willets. It is to be issued in fifteen parts, the first number to be released March 18. The title of this number is "The Girl in Number 7." Produced by Astra and directed by William Parke, the picture starts off with every indication of being a winner. Most of the scenes take place on board an ocean liner bound for New York. There is an air of mystery and suspense about the two reels, the interest resting principally on a young man passenger, who receives a curious wireless message, and a beautiful young woman, who is marked with a double cross on her right arm. Everything indicates that these two are to find their lives closely intermingled. A realistic panic, caused by the appearance of a submarine, is an incident of the opening number; and the attention is seized and held from the start.

The acting has been intrusted to a superior cast. Mollie King is the beautiful heroine and lives up to the requirements of the part in every way. Leon Bary is the young man who receives the message. He seems to enjoy playing the role of hero for a change. His acting is as virile and authoritative as when impersonating one of his familiar "polished villains." Ralph Stuart and Gladden James are leading members of the support.

Scene from "The Mystery of the Double Cross" (Pathe).

There is a mysterious character called "The Masked Stranger" that will arouse much curiosity. The production is exceedingly well done.

"Lonesome Luke" Two-Reel Comedies.

This new series of Rolin "Lonesome Luke" comedies is to be issued one a month, the first number being released on March 18. The titles of the first three numbers are "Lonesome Luke's Lively Life," "Lonesome Luke on Tin Can Alley" and "Lonesome Luke's Honeymoon." All three belong in the front ranks of knockabout comedies. There is plenty of speed, and the business is done with the surefire touch so essential in farce. They are not remarkably original as to plot, but someone connected with their production has thought up a lot of new tricks, and Harold Lloyd, Harry Pollard and Bebe Daniels execute them with neatness and dispatch. To say that these comedies are a great improvement on the "Lonesome Luke" one-reelers made by the Rolin Company is merely stating a fact. Hal Roach directed the pictures.

"The Money Mill"

Five-Reel Drama Produced by Vitagraph—Dorothy Kelly and Evart Overton Head Good Cast.

Reviewed by Ben H. Grimm.

LIKE the mills of the gods, "The Money Mill," a five-reel Vitagraph Blue Ribbon drama, grinds slowly. But it is not until the latter part of the fourth reel is reached that "The Money Mill" begins to grind exceeding fine. There is a wealth of interest in the last reel, however, and enough story action and suspense to compensate in a large measure for the preceding slowness. The story was written by Roy L. McCordell. Throughout the picture are seen several original touches, and some of the types used as extras are especially fitting and true to life. Interest is at a rather slow ebb during the running of the first three reels because of a tardiness in getting to the real story, and because of a penchant toward using more footage than necessary in registering essential facts.

Dorothy Kelly and Evart Overton head the cast. They keep alive the heart-interest element in a pleasing manner. Both are capable. Edward Elkas and Charles Kent are seen to good advantage in character parts. Other able members of the cast are Gordon Gray, Logan Paul, Mr. McCormack, Mrs. Costello and Mr. Storrer. While no character could be said to dominate the story, the character bits help the picture considerably.

The story, while containing comparatively little drama, contains much interesting material. There is just enough heart-interest mixed with just enough melodramatic material to make of the production an ordinarily good program offering. The story tells of a girl who becomes rich through a mine.

In the city she helps the poor. A young reporter is in love with her, but cannot bring himself to surmount the barrier of her wealth. A fake investing concern conducted by the son of the man who was once a partner of the girl's father obtains her mine. The reporter helps the girl get back her mine. Photography is average. Direction was done by John Robertson. Released March 5.

Scene from "The Money Mill" (Vitagraph).

"Wrath"

The Fifth of "The Seven Deadly Sins" Presents Story of Considerable Power and Features H. B. Warner.

Reviewed by Margaret I. MacDonald.

THE presentation of "Wrath" by Superpictures, Inc., is a satisfying production as regards dramatic values and interesting action. It is artistically staged, the characters are well cast, and we can easily believe that we are in actual contact with the arbitrary Russian aristocrat, with H. B. Warner doing duty in the role of the Grand Duke. He also plays the role of the Grand Duke's son, Feodor, and interprets both characters well. We are not quite certain, however, whether it is merely "wrath" that is depicted in the actions of the Grand Duke, and are inclined to think that bitterness and cruelty are more largely in evidence than anger. It might be held, however, that bitterness and cruelty are often the outcome of anger. At any rate, as before stated, the picture summed up in a general way is a good sample.

The story of the picture tells of the dominating desire of the Grand Duke to marry his son to the daughter of Count Nikolai. Feodor, the son, refuses on the ground that he does not love the young woman, and so incenses his father against him that he immediately opens a campaign to force him to marry the girl. About this time an American archaeologist and his daughter happen along the desert of Kara-Koom, which borders on Russian possessions, and is killed for his pains by a Turk who craves the daughter for his harem, and Feodor, installed by the author as the rescuer of the girl, falls in love with her before he reaches his father's palace. The attachment of the two discovered by the Grand Duke, the girl is turned out of the palace and is followed by Feodor, who marries her, and is about to escape across the border with his bride when he is headed off by his father's agents. The scene later changes to America and finally shifts back to Russia, where a reconciliation of all hands is brought about by the young daughter of Feodor.

Scene from "Wrath" (McClure).

The production is never lacking in interesting incident, and will be found thoroughly enjoyable. Others of the cast are Shirley Mason, George LeGuere, Edith Hallar, Charles Wellesley, Thea Talbott, George Arvine and John Nicholson. Theodore Marston directed the picture.

"The Great Secret"

Chapters Nine and Ten of the Metro Serial Release Featuring Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

"Cupid's Puzzle."

THE brief rest that is granted Strong by the Secret Seven after he rescues Beverly from the Chinese den is broken by the news, at the beginning of Chapter IX, that Detective Ackerton has been murdered. The officer who brings the information has the papers belonging to Beverly. These are restored to her, but, by tapping a telephone wire, one of the Secret Seven gang learns of this fact. They also put through a scheme that causes Strong to lose heavily in Wall Street, and start a strike in a factory belonging to the clubman. Beverly attempts to aid him with her fortune, but a misunderstanding takes place, and the girl believes that Strong does not love her.

The action during these two reels slows up somewhat, but the acting and general production of the chapter are up to the mark.

"The Woman in the Game."

There is no lack of excitement in Chapter X. As the title indicates, the Secret Seven try a well known and generally successful method of trapping a man. Knowing that the key to Beverly's fortune is in Strong's possession, they send a woman to locate the papers. Strong has turned to portrait painting as a means of earning his living, and the female spy sits for her picture. While thus employed she manages to gain the required information. She also succeeds in making Beverly think that Strong is altogether too friendly with her. In the meantime Sears, the detective that brought the papers to Strong, has been captured by the Secret Seven, but escapes from them in a way that would do credit to Sherlock Holmes himself.

Scene from "The Woman" (Metro).

Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne are as spirited and as thorough as they were during the first reel of the serial; the other members of the long cast show the same degree of interest in their work.

Paramount Releases

"Castles for Two," With Marie Doro, and "Those Without Sin," Starring Blanche Sweet, Five-Reel Photoplays Produced by Lasky.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

"Castles for Two."

THERE are Irish fairies and fays in "Castles for Two," a five-reel photoplay produced by Jessy L. Lasky, with Marie Doro the featured player. Not that the entire story is a fairy tale, but much of it must be taken in the same credulous spirit necessary to the full enjoyment of "The Sleeping Beauty" and works of that nature. The plot is simple, and contains no surprises. There is an American heiress of great wealth, who becomes tired of spending money and decides to take a trip to Ireland, in search of the simple life. Her old nurse is a native of the land of Saint Patrick, and the girl has been brought up on tales of the "little people" that also inhabit the soil.

Once on the other side Patricia, the heiress, passes her secretary off as the lady of the dollars, puts on a peasant's frock and goes looking in the woods for the fays. She finds them all right, also a cow, and takes refuge in a tree, from which she is rescued by a poverty-stricken young Irish lord, who is being urged on by his mother and three sisters to marry the American. Patricia pretends to be her own maid, and, as Lord O'Neil refuses to make love to the supposed heiress, the fairies reward him by letting the young man win the real dollar princess.

"The Duchess," of pleasant memory, used to weave stories of this description; excellent little comedies—if one were in the right mood to enjoy them. As the most serious moment in the picture is when Patricia is treed by the cow, and a knockdown fight in which a dozen sons of the old sod are stretched out on the ground is merely an expression of Irish humor, it is easy to understand how far "Castles for Two" is removed from the unlovely phases of life. So, what matters it, if it never happened? Perhaps, like the fairies and the fays, this old world would be all the better if all were true.

Scene from "Castles for Two" (Lasky).

The need of the proper cast to interpret such a story is fully met by Marie Doro and her fellow-players. Miss Doro has the looks and manner of an American princess, and also the touch of elfishness which goes a great way in helping one to believe that she really saw the Irish Robbin Goodfellow and his small brothers. Elliott Dexter is rather stolid for an Irishman, but brightens up in his lovemaking scenes. O'Neill's mother and sisters are well acted by Julia Jackson, Jane Wolff, Harriett Sorenson, and Lillian Leighton. Mayme Kelso is the secretary. Horace B. Carpenter and Billy Elmer are a pair of the regulation stage Irishmen that love a fight and hate a landlord with equal ardor. The production is of the Lasky standard brand.

"Those Without Sin."

The title, "Those Without Sin," applies to a number of men and women of the South, in the days just before the Civil War. The villain of this five-reel Lasky production is a Northerner who is ridden out of town on a rail for insulting the heroine; he returns as a Union army officer, just before the fall of Richmond, and shows that he is still as much of a blackguard as ever. In the large assortment of war dramas written since the late unpleasantness, the hero has almost always been a Union soldier, and the villain a member of the other side. This reversal of form smacks of fair play.

The story is by Harvey Thew. Very little new light is thrown upon the theme. There are the familiar despatches that must be taken through the enemy's lines; and the big scene is when the hero saves his sweetheart from an attack by the drunken Union officer. Other time-tried situations are utilized, some with excellent effect; but Mr. Thew does not always come to the more vital points of his theme with sufficient directness, and the action moves slowly in spite of the hurrying of armed men and the fleeing of non-combatants from the Confederate capital. The story ends before the fall of Richmond.

A praiseworthy endeavor has been made to reproduce the period of the photoplay and give a distinct, artistic touch to the night scenes, of which there are many. The light from the candles and whale oil lamps of the time is counterfeited with skill. The general effect, however, does not tend toward distinctness, and renders it harder to follow the plot.

The acting is of even excellence. Blanche Sweet sounds every stop in the nature of Melaine Landry, and makes her a loyal and lovable little rebel. Tom Forman, as her lover, and Guy Oliver, as the Northern officer, are next in importance. C. H. Geldert, James Neill, Charles Ogle, George Beranger, Mabel Van Buren and Dot Abril complete the efficient cast.

"The Painted Lie" Release Date Changed.

A change has been made in the release date of "The Painted Lie." It is now scheduled for release on March 19 instead of the week of March 26, as originally announced.

"The Painted Lie" is a five-reel David Horsley production starring Crane Wilbur and is the first of a series of six features made by Mr. Horsley with Mr. Wilbur as the star to be released. The Mutual is distributing the series.

"The Gift Girl"

Louise Lovely and Rupert Julian Featured in Moderately Pleasing Five-Reel Bluebird—For Release March 26.

Reviewed by Ben. H. Grimm.

THE five-reel Bluebird photoplay "The Gift Girl," which is to be released March 26, is neither straight drama, comedy nor comedy-drama—it is just a visualized story of moderate interest, given an added charm through the personality of Louise Lovely, who, with Rupert Julian, is featured. Miss Lovely is all that her name implies, although perhaps "cute" is a word that better describes her and her screen endeavors in this picture. Rupert Julian directed the production. He seems to have caught the spirit of the story and as a consequence treated it with only the degree of seriousness that it deserves. The story, which was suggested by H. R. Durant's play, "Marcel's Birthday Present," is one that can be enjoyed only if the mental appetite of the viewer can be satisfied with story-food that is plainly labeled as such.

Miss Lovely appears as an English girl who has been brought up as the daughter of the Persian who rescued her from the jungle when her mother died at child-birth, and when her father was swallowed by lions. She refuses to marry the merchant chosen for her because he is too fat. But she listens to her tutor's proposal that they flee to France. The girl arrives in Paris alone, is injured and is brought to the home of a nobleman, who, a week later, hires her as a companion for his son, who is alluded to as incorrigible by the college faculty. Of course the youth falls in love with the "Gift Girl." But she is found by her Persian tutor, who has followed her, and brings her to a house in the Mohammedan quarter. The son and his student friends stage a fight for the girl with the occupants of the house. The students win, and the girl and youth are made happy.

Scene from "The Gift Girl" (Bluebird).

Rupert Julian's acting is as good as his direction. Emory Johnson makes an efficient hero. Other capable members of the cast are Wadsworth Harris, Frederick Montague, Winter Hall and Rex Roselli. Photography throughout is excellent.

"The Blue Streak" Released March 19.

William Nigh's first Fox production, "The Blue Streak," in which Director Nigh himself plays the picturesque title role, will be released for the week of March 19. Besides making this brisk western feature and co-starring with Violet Palmer, the new Fox find, Mr. Nigh wrote the story for it.

The company spent eight weeks in Chattanooga, Tenn., on "locations" for the drama, and is now in the Tennessee city once more snapping the final scenes.

In support of Mr. Nigh and Miss Palmer there will be Ruth Thorp, Martin Faust, Ned Finley, Edward Roseman, Tom Cameron, Danny Sullivan, Ed. Kennedy, Bert Gudgeon and Marc Robbins.

"The Fighting Gringo"

Five-Reel Red Feather Production Gives Screen Presentation of Henry Wallace Phillips' Well-Known Hero.

Reviewed by Robert C. McElravy.

THIS presentation of "Red Saunders" on the screen, like many other characterizations based on favorite fiction heroes, rather presupposes a previous acquaintance with the individual in question. Harry Carey is an interesting and experienced delineator of Western types, but it would have strengthened this offering greatly if certain of Red's little whimsicalities had been brought out in the introductory scenes—his amiable humor, funny speeches and the like. As it is, we must get our understanding of his special characteristics as the story proceeds.

The opening reels run along with a certain rambling congeniality, depicting the way in which Red meets a pair of quarreling lovers on a steamer bound for Panama. When the boat docks at Caliente, Red finds employment as foreman of a ranch and storehouse. In the course of the story he restores the love of the young couple, Mary Smith and Arthur Saxton, but not until he has quelled a revolution almost single handed, and shown up a corrupt individual known as Dr. Belknap, who desired the girl for himself.

The erratic nature of the plot precludes anything like suspense, and this would not have been expected if the character of Red had been more clearly set forth at the beginning. The subtitles supply considerable humor and have been carefully written. The general atmosphere of the Panama country is adequately suggested and the revolution scenes are well staged. Others in the cast are Claire Du Bray, George Webb, Bill Gettenger, Tot Du Crow, T. D. Crittenden and Rex De Roselli.

Scene from "The Fighting Gringo" (Red Feather).

Two Kalems

"The Fate of Juan Garcia," Episode of "The American Girl" Series, and "In the Web of the Spider," a Number of the "Grant, Police Reporter" Series.

Reviewed by Ben H. Grimm.

THE latest two-reel episode of Kalem's "The American Girl" series, titled "The Fate of Juan Garcia," is a winner. It is a Western that will go good in any house. Frederick R. Bechdolt is the author, and he and James W. Horne, the director, have given us two reels with mystery, suspense and action that keep interest alive throughout. In this number Madge King (Marin Sais) stumbles across a murder mystery in a quite original manner. A photographer who has taken her picture is held up, brought to a house, and forced to photograph something which he is not permitted to see at the time of the exposure of the plate. Accidentally he gives his captors the wrong plate holder. Madge develops what she believes to be her plate. The negative shows a dead man—one of the King ranch hands. It turns out that the ranch hand was the secret agent of Mexican revolutionists and was murdered by the tool of a representative of big mining interests.

Scene from "The Fate of Juan Garcia" (Kalem).

The screen telling of the story entails several thrilling fight scenes, and scenes in which Miss Sais and others prove themselves capable horseback riders. In the cast with Miss Sais are Frank Jonasson, Edward Hearn, Ronald Bradbury and Edward Clisbee.

"In the Web of the Spider."

George Larkin might well be called the human fly for what he has done in the filming of this one-reel episode of the "Grant, Police Reporter" series. He climbs to the top of a building on a jutting brick wall that gives him foothold, and later crawls down the side of a building on a network of drain pipes. The reel is a thriller. The story tells how the reporter solves mysterious thefts of bonds. It is in pursuit of the "Spider" that Mr. Larkin performs his stunts. The story interests and action is fast. In the cast with Mr. Larkin are Ollie Kirkby, Director Robert Ellis, Harry Gordon and A. B. Foreman.

Four Reel Fortune Photoplays

"The Inspirations of, Harry Larrabee" and "Mentioned in Confidence" First Two Numbers of New Releases on General Film Program.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

A NEW series of four-reel dramas under the title "Fortune Photoplays" will be placed on the market this month by the General Film Company. These pictures are based upon stories that have been published in the Street & Smith magazines. The first of the series will be "The Inspirations of Harry Larrabee." Next will follow "Mentioned in Confidence," "The Devil's Bait," "The Yellow Pullet," "Vengeance of the Dead," "Zollenstein," "The Mainspring," "Clean Gun," and other photoplays of the same length. The series is being made by Balboa.

"The Inspirations of Harry Larrabee."

Howard Fielding is the author of this Fortune photoplay, which was directed by Bertram Bracken. It is along the line of the detective story which aims to have something doing every minute and, although serious crime is the foundation of the plot is told in the breezy style of the "Arsene Lupin" school of fiction. The story starts out well, the interest centering around a young playwright and a pretty artist who is robbed of valuable jewels by a French thief known as "The Wolf." The unwinding of the plot makes excellent drama up to the moment when the hero rescues the heroine and the inevitable romance is foreshadowed. Then follow several hundred feet of anti-climax during which the early career of "The Wolf" is shown, information that should have been given in the first part of the story.

Scene from "The Inspiration of Harry Larrabee" (Fortune).

The production meets all demands, and the acting of Clifford Gray, Margaret Landis, Winnifred Greenwood and Frank Brownlee in the four leading roles is spirited and in the right key. William Ehfe, Charles Blaisdell and Tom Morgan lend capable assistance in the remaining parts.

"Mentioned in Confidence."

Edgar Jones directed the second number of the Fortune Photoplay releases. It contains a story within a story, and concerns an innocent man who is accused of murdering his wife and is reprimanded just as he is about to be electrocuted. A realistic death house scene is the big sensation of the play. There is nothing novel in the story or the manner of telling it, but it is a fair example of its grade of fiction. The man who escapes the chair is not the hero of the story, and his blunder in falling in love with an utterly worthless woman weakens the sympathy for him.

Edgar Jones has kept the action moving along at reasonable speed once he gets into the real story. R. Henry Grey and Volva Vale have the youth and skill to portray the lovers, and Melvin Mayo, Frank Brownlee, Leah Gibbs, Bruce Smith and Gordon Sackville do creditable work in other roles.

Triangle Program

"A Love Sublime," Five-Reel Fine Arts, with Wilfred Lucas and "Blood Will Tell," Five-Reel Ince-Kay Bee, with William Desmond.

By Louls Reeves Harrison.

"A LOVE SUBLIME" affords Wilfred Lucas opportunity to portray a character of great sweetness and simple dignity and he suits the role as well as it suits him. Here is that impulse that makes for convincing strength and charm in a visualized story. Though the motive is simple, quite openly that of the divine sentiment which has made our little planet a lovable place to live in, the story's development is one of many structural difficulties. It opens with some glimpses of the life of a man who loves so deeply that his entire existence is dominated by the intensity of his feeling. He believes she has died in a hospital where he was told that she failed to survive an operation. He plays the flageolet every night before the window of the hospital room where he last saw her, and he preserves her room, opposite his own, as it was when she lived there.

Scene from "A Love Sublime" (Triangle).

Rather abruptly the spectator is asked to go back to the scenes and incidents leading up to this strange conduct. The new line of interest is, however, quickly started, and we are carried through the simple courtship of the lover, a young Greek working in a rolling mill, and a very simple-hearted waitress in a cheap restaurant. His tender dignity and her affectionate response are very winning. When it is discovered that she must undergo a dangerous operation at the hospital, he makes one manly sacrifice after another for her sake with no attempt at the heroic, but from the natural dictates of his noble heart. His love is faithful to death and beyond. He is half crazed by the announcement made by a hospital attendant that she is dead and is sent to jail for his acts of violence. When he is released he is the eccentric lover to whom we are introduced in the opening scenes, a structure of doubtful value in a story of this kind.

The girl is not dead. The attendant made a tragic mistake. She survives the operation and is convalescent, though believing that her lover has gone to Greece. The reunion is brought about through a large number of minor characters, who weaken rather than strengthen the main line of interest, but that central line is naturally strong and made both effective and affecting by the remarkably fine impersonations of Mr. Lucas and Miss Carmel Myers. These two flawless characterizations give the story its power."

"Blood Will Tell."

"Blood Will Tell" is a superbly presented story of a son regarded as a weakling by a father rendered bigoted and ultra-egotistical because of great wealth won in Wall Street. The father, Samson Oakley II, has greatly increased a fortune inherited from Samson Oakley I, and he hopes that his son, Samson III, will continue in the same lines, but Samson III gets into difficulties at college, is led into dissipated associations and winds up by marrying a really good little chorus girl. He is cast off by his father and compelled to earn a living. It is not much of a living, as his little wife nearly starves to death. She is so weakened by lack of proper nourishment that Samson III is led to utilize a special talent he has for opening combination locks in order to obtain money to properly provide for his sick wife. He has both an acute sense of touch and of hearing which enables him to open almost any safe.

This peculiarity restores him to parental confidence, at an acute moment in "The Street," when his father has been lured away from immediate contact with his business affairs. There is a raid in the holdings of Samson II. Samson III comes to the rescue by opening the parental safe and saving the parental fortune. He is then restored to his wife and parental favor. Just exactly how blood tells through ability to open combination locks is not clearly indicated unless it is delicately conveyed that Samson II had a fine sense of touch in opening the safes of those trading with him. William Desmond is manly and attractive in the leading role, and the entire company responds finely to every possible opportunity offered by the play. Capably handled in every department of production, the story alone is to blame if the release is not a success. It does not compare with the treatment it receives because it is not convincing in either purpose or structure.

"Melting Millions"

George Walsh, the Athletic Hero of a Fox Five-Reel Photoplay, Which Is Evidently Out for the Speed Record.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

IN "Melting Millions," a five-reel Fox photoplay, George Walsh sees Douglas Fairbanks' speed record and endeavors to go him one better. He also attempts to outdo the sprightly "Dug's" list of athletic feats, and succeeds in proving that he is gifted with histrionic talent of no mean order, when it comes to leaping over high walls, climbing the sides of a building, and bowling over the villains so expertly that they find it more difficult to set themselves up again; said actions being accomplished without diminishing one ray of the sunny smile that never leaves the faces of such superior beings in moments of deadly peril.

The stunts George Walsh goes through in "Melting Millions" will make the ladies adore him, and turn all the male spectators green with envy. The minor details in this order of photodrama, such as story, acting and production, have been looked after with care. The plot furnished by Joseph A. Roach contains a train holdup, a prize fight and a long list of quick moving incidents that are cunningly calculated to give George Walsh the opportunities for proving that a star actor may also be a superman. Otis Turner has directed the production in full sympathy with its spirit and tempo, and the Fox management has provided every necessary material equipment.

The moments devoted by the cast to plain acting are not lost. George Walsh has the personality and the ability to portray the character of Jack Balentine, as the author conceived him, and Anna Luther is an attractive Jane Billon. Velma Whitman, Frank Alexander, Sydney Deane, Cecil Holland and Charles Girard were wisely chosen for the remaining parts.

Scene from "Melting Millions" (Fox).

"A Poor Little Rich Girl"

Mary Pickford in Entertaining Six-Reel Screen Version of Eleanor Gates' Stage Play Adds Humor to the Title Role—Released by Artcraft Pictures.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

IT may be as well to start off with the statement that these who remember the heroine of the stage play when they see the screen version of Eleanor Gates' "A Poor Little Rich Girl" will be introduced to an entirely different Gwendolyn in the person of Mary Pickford. The writer of the scenario has used the utmost freedom in departing from the original work, and Miss Pickford has followed the scenarioist's example. The Gwendolyn of the play was a somewhat top-lofty little miss who seemed born to the purple and never forgot her station in life. Her airs and graces appeared to harmonize with the rather artificial story and its many touches of symbolism; the moving picture star's Gwendolyn is a very human, lovable child who is just aching to break away from all restraint and play in the dirt with the street children.

The wisdom of these deviations admits of no dispute. As a stage play "A Poor Little Rich Girl" harped too long on one key, and there was altogether too much made of the delirium scenes. These points have been judiciously shortened and the additional matter is along the comedy lines that Mary Pickford does so well. The biggest laughs in the picture occur in the new material and are the results of such dependable bits of comic business as leaky plumbing, a mud-throwing contest—in which the gardener is obliged to turn the hose on his young mistress before he can recognize her—and the seating of a priggish young lady on a plate of chocolate cake. Other and more original bits are sprinkled all through the screen play, and little Miss Pickford extracts the last ounce of fun from them with that deft touch of hers which knows just how far to go, and never lacks the saving grace of a sure sense of humor.

A separate paragraph is due the star for her portrayal of this eleven-year-old girl. Entirely free from the stock tricks of the ordinary child impersonator, she looks the part amazingly well, especially in the close-ups, and acts it with a skillful blending of her own personality and that of a bright and winsome "kiddie" that makes the illusion perfect. Her Gwendolyn will rank as one of her best screen creations.

As aids to such a pleasing achievement Miss Pickford has been surrounded by a company excellent in every respect, of which Charles Wellesley, Frank McGlynn, Emile LaCroix, Charles Craig, Frank Andrews, Madeline Traverse, Marcia Harris and Maxine Hicks are members. Artistic direction has been given the entire production by Maurice Tourneur, and every adjunct in the way of appropriate settings has been provided by the Artcraft Pictures Corporation.

"The Girl Who Lost"—"Border Wolves"

First Red Feather Double Number Presents Two Well-Constructed Stories, in Three Reels and Two Reels, Respectively.

Reviewed by Robert C. McElravy.

WITH this offering the Red Feather Company varies its usual practice of telling its story in five reels. It presents instead two separate tales, the first in three reels and the second in two. These productions are both carefully constructed and considerably stronger than average program features.

"The Girl Who Lost," written by Calder Johnstone and produced by George Cochrane, features Cleo Madison, Roberta Wilson, Lydia Yeamans Titus, Jack Nelson, Molly Malone and Daniel Leighton. The plot, which is strongly presented, concerns two sisters, one an experienced actress and the other a younger girl with aspirations to see life. Isabel goes on a road tour and during her absence Frances, the younger girl, seeks employment with a business man as stenographer. The latter, Andrew Van Holt, ruins the innocent girl. Isabel returns and learns her sister's story. She plans to revenge herself on Van Holt and succeeds in luring his son, Hayden Van Holt, away from his sweetheart. Later, when the father marries the girl he had ruined, Isabel relents and restores Hayden to his sweetheart. Good photography and excellent work by a pleasing cast do much to make this a good subject.

"Border Wolves," written and directed by George Marshall, features Neal Hart as a hobo who drops off in a bad Western town. He saves Tina, the daughter of the local gambling king, from a railway accident. Later he rescues the girl from the clutches of a bandit gang. The number is full of exciting action, with some interesting riding and shooting scenes toward the close. Others in the cast are Joe Rickson, Janet Eastman, L. M. Wells and a live bunch of cowboys represented by Bud Osborne, Pedro Leon, Jack Walters, Tom Grimes and Bill Gillis.

"A Trip Through China"

China Film Company Presents Ten Reels of Remarkable Travel Pictures Covering Historic China, Her People and Customs.

Reviewed by Margaret I. MacDonald.

ONE of the most interesting groups of travel pictures that have reached America thus far is contained in "A Trip Through China," including the cities of Hong Kong, Shanghai, Canton, Hanchow, Kowloon, Macao, Soochow, Wusih, Nanking, Tientsin, Aberdeen, Peking and the Forbidden City of wonderful palaces dating to a period before Christ, and opened only on rare occasions to privileged individuals. These pictures have been gathered by Benjamin Brodsky, who has spent a portion of the last five years in making this collection in addition to keeping an eye on the eighty-one moving picture theaters of which he is manager in China. The pictures are being handled here by the China Film Company, with Herbert Sallinger president, and D. S. Markowitz secretary, whose intention it is to exhibit them shortly at the Carnegie Lyceum, New York City. They have already been exhibited in the University of California, and will be placed before the attention of the various educational institutions and Boards of Education throughout the country.

In viewing these pictures one is impressed with the fact that little of an informational character with regard to the daily life and superstitions of China has been omitted, and that they contain much that is of historical value. They give an excellent idea of the primitive methods in vogue in China; they teach us that the Chinese coolie is little more than a beast of burden, and they give us some idea of what the struggle for existence means to the large majority of China's four hundred millions of people. We see the coolies at work at the docks of that remarkable commercial center, Hong Kong, and marvel at the loads they are able to carry. We learn that even the coaling of the vessels is done by these coolies who carry the coal in huge baskets to the holds. In the streets we see teams of human beings hauling great loads on two-wheeled trucks, which makes the wheeling of a rickshaw seem child's play. A floating city where the poorer classes live in house boats and have done so for generations, with only planks running between for streets, is interesting; and a sad, yet interesting sight, shows us a typhoon under way with the streets of the city in the daytime almost as dark as if it were night, the aftermath of uprooted trees, demolished houses, and the frightful ruin of the floating city.

The primitive methods of irrigation employed by the Chinese is an interesting item of the picture, and also a scene showing long term prisoners chained together in groups of seven and eight hauling heavy truck loads of stone under the supervision of Hindoo guards. A Chinese wedding procession with explanations of the customs followed on such occasions, and a Chinese funeral with a view of the cemetery showing how the coffins containing the corpses are left for forty days above ground previous to burial, also interest. The Ming tombs, the temples and pagodas, and the wonderful palaces of by-gone days are among the attractive sights. Then there are the horse races at Peking, a review of Chinese soldiery, an exhibit of Chinese skill in an athletic contest held by the Y. M. C. A., and also animated pictures of the Chinese royal family. The great wall of China is of unusual interest, and other walls and moats about the important cities. An especially fine illustration is given of fishing with cormorants.

"The Barricade"

Mabel Taliaferro Starred in Five-Reel Drama, Produced by Rolfe Photoplays for Release by Metro.

Reviewed by Ben H. Grimm.

CHIEF interest in "The Barricade," a five-reel drama produced by Rolfe Photoplays, Inc., for release by Metro, centers about Mabel Taliaferro, who is starred. Upon her shoulders falls most heavily the task of making dramatically interesting a story that would have fallen down many degrees in its power to convince had it been in the hands of a less capable actress. Miss Taliaferro is ably supported by Clifford Bruce, Frank Currier and Robert Rendell in a picture that brings into being on the screen a sort of "refined vampire"—a woman who permits a man to believe that she loves him in order that, after marriage, she might accomplish his ruin, because she is given to believe he brought about her father's ruin.

There is much more mental than physical action in this production, and the psychological struggles of the leading characters take up much footage.

Despite the fact that two of the characters drawn by June Scene from "The Barricade" (Rolfe).

Mathis, from whose story the picture was made, are not characters that would ordinarily compel the spectator's sympathy with them, Miss Taliaferro has succeeded in putting much sympathy into her role. She is seen as the daughter of an old Wall street operator whose defalcations are about to become known. At the point of suicide the old man lies to his daughter, informing her that he was made the laughing stock of the street through the machinations of the man who is to supplant him. She vows to ruin the man. He falls in love with her and she allows him to believe that the feeling is mutual. After marriage she accomplishes his ruin, only to learn from her father, who has been away, that the man had proved himself to be her father's best friend. The wife breaks down and tells her husband that she has been fighting her real love for him.

In addition to those named there are in the cast Emil Collins, Lorna Volara and Mary Doyle. The picture was directed by Edwin Carewe and photographed by John Arnold. Released March 5.

The Eternal Search for Something New

In "The American Girl," a Kalem Series of Two-Part Western Dramas, It Finds Expression in Picturesque Locations.

WHEN a producing company has been confined to one locality for a period of time extending over several years, it might be expected that the available locations for its exterior scenes would soon be exhausted, and that in later pictures there would be a repetition of the natural backgrounds that add so much to the beauty of the productions.

Hence there has grown up a demand for a "location" man and he is usually the busiest man around the studios.

Kalem's plan is somewhat different, although quite as effective. At Glendale, California, where "The American Girl" series has succeeded "The Girl from Frisco," and the new Railroad series, "A Daughter of Daring," has supplanted the "Hazards of Helen," every member of the several producing units constitute a committee of the whole, whose duty it is to report on hitherto unused locations. Between scenes the directors visit these spots, accompanied by the cameramen, who take notes regarding the light conditions. Interest in this work waxes keen and a spirit of good natured rivalry has grown up among the personnel of the Kalem forces to see who will score the highest number of picturesque "finds" for outdoor "shots."

Marlin Sais, the vivacious heroine of "The American Girl" series, was leading the field at last reports. Her lead is closely contested by Frank Jonasson, the popular "Roger King" of the series. Both of these sterling players prefer to do their exploring by horseback, with the result that they discovered some highly artistic backgrounds in the mountains back of Glendale that would never have been projected upon any screen had they proceeded by auto. To Miss Sais belongs the credit for the superb locations used in "The Golden Eagle Trail," a forthcoming episode of "The American Girl," which are said to have been obtained under perfect photographic conditions. In this production Miss Sais does a thrilling hand-over-hand climb on a rope stretched across a chasm four hundred feet deep. She also came up smiling from a fall down a steep hillside that would test the nerve of an experienced acrobat; indeed, it was so realistic that Frederick R. Bechdolt, the author of the series, who was assisting in the direction of the picture, started forward in alarm as Miss Sais bounced and rolled from one clump of brush to another.

Location hunting is more or less simplified for Helen Gibson, who is starring in "A Daughter of Daring," due to the fact that for a majority of her scenes she must confine her searching to some railroad right of way. In "The College Boys' Special" though there are some new locations that should appeal to every lover of the Great Outdoors and Director Scott Sidney has made the most of them.

In producing the further adventures of "Stingaree," with True Boardman in the title role, Paul C. Hurst is obliged to select locations that resemble intimately the wild bush country of Australia. Hurst was the famous "Howie" of the original series and is back in his old role and also directing the new stories written for Kalem by E. W. Hornung, the English author famous for his "Raffles." Hurst has the added advantage of knowing Australia well, so that all of his locations are true to the atmosphere of the stories.

Even Ham and Bud have taken an interest in the contest for new exteriors, and they are using new ones in each succeeding "Ham" comedy directed by Al Santell.

Mystery Dominates Unusual Scenario

"The Voice on the Wire" Replete with Baffling Circumstances—First Release March 12.

DURING the week of March 12 the Universal Film Manufacturing Company will release the new serial, "The Voice on the Wire," which is founded on the novel of the same title by Eustace Hale Ball. The screen story was written by J. Grubb Alexander and the production was directed by Stuart Paton, director of the Universal's great undersea drama, "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea." The leading roles are played by Neva Gerber and Ben Wilson.

Mystery is the dominant note of this new serial and not since the days of Edgar Allan Poe has there been written such a baffling story of crime. Three men meet their death in "The Voice on the Wire," in a manner which mystifies the entire detective force assigned to run down the guilty criminals. In each case three clues are furnished the detectives. The first clue is a mysterious telephone call informing the police that a murder is soon to be committed and the name of the victim is given. When the call is investigated it is found to come from a disconnected wire from a deserted building where the outside telephone wires had been tapped.

A muffled figure seen in the vicinity of the victim's home shortly before the crime furnishes another clue, but attempts to capture the man in the black cloak always prove futile. The third clue is the method employed by the murderer, who disposes of his victims by means of the Sen Si Yae or Japanese death punch. In each case the mark of a thumb is found directly over the heart of the victim.

A curious feature of the story is that all the men are murdered while in the company of a chorus girl named Polly Marion, played by Neva Gerber. Miss Gerber's delineation of this difficult role stamps her as an emotional screen actress of the highest rank. Her part is one that easily could be overacted by a less experienced player, but never does she lose her sense of the limitations of the role and always acts with skill and repression.

Ben Wilson, as John Shirley, the criminologist, has never in his long screen career appeared to such excellent advantage as he does in "The Voice on the Wire." His work at all times is forceful and his characterization perfect. The other members of the cast are well chosen.

Pathe for March 18

List of Releases Includes Gladys Hulette Feature, First Episode of New Mystery Serial, First Two-Reel Lonesome Luke Comedy and First Combitone Scenic.

THE Pathe program for the week of March 18, 1917, is one of the best that the company has ever released, including as it does "Pots-and-Pans Peggie," a Gladys Hulette feature by Agnes C. Johnston; the first episode of "Mystery of the Double Cross," the first two-reel "Lonesome Luke" comedy and the first of beautiful combitone scenic.

"Pots-and-Pans Peggie" is one of the best features ever released on any program. It probably excels Gladys Hulette's other Pathe Gold Rooster plays, "The Shine Girl," "Prudence the Pirate" and "Her New York." Like them, it was written by Agnes C. Johnston. It is a wonderful human interest story of a little Irish girl who has to support her brothers and sisters by "working out." It has laughs, tears and thrills, and the splendid cast supporting Gladys Hulette includes Wayne Arey as the Chauffeur, George Marlo and Kathryn Adams. The picture was produced by the Thanhouser Film Corporation under the direction of Eugene Moore.

"The Lady in No. 7" is the title of the first episode of "Mystery of the Double Cross." It is stated that it is the best mystery story ever produced on the screen and that the character of the Masked Stranger is the best serial character ever created. The Astra Film Corporation is the producer of this serial, which was made under the direction of William Parke, with Molly King as the star, supported by Leon Barry.

The tenth chapter of "Patria" is entitled "War in the Door-yard." It features Mrs. Vernon Castle, the best known, best dressed woman in America. The episode is characterized by action all the way.

"Lonesome Luke's Lively Life" is the title of the first two-reel Luke Comedy. This picture is hailed as a knock-out, but it isn't the best of the five bombshells of joy already produced and accepted for release. In "Lonesome Luke's Lively Life" Harold Lloyd is coat boy in a White Light Cafe, with Beebe Daniels, Harry Pollard and Bud Jamison supporting him. There is a laugh in every foot. There is a staircase which affords a great deal of amusement and Luke's exhibition dance with Beebe Daniels as his partner and the bouncer-like proprietor trying to "reach" him will have them rocking in their seats.

The twenty-third release of the Florence Rose Fashions, announced for an important place in this program, is entitled "Early Styles." This release shows thirteen beautiful advanced styles which are nevertheless in the reach of every American woman. The photography and staging are as usual, high class.

In "Nomads of the North—Lapland," released on the same reel with the fashion picture, there are intimate views of the natives of Lapland and impressive scenes of a herd of reindeer rushing into the icy waters of the fjord.

"Know America, the Land We Love," is the title of the Combitone scenic picture released in one reel. This is the first of these pictures made by Westgard and Hochstetter under the auspices of the National Highway Association with the cooperation of the Department of the Interior. This release contains some wonderful scenes of Arizona and New Mexico, where the spectator is shown the oldest house in the United States, the sacred ceremonial chamber of the ancient cliff dwellers and many of the wonders of nature. These scenes are typical of those to be made under the Combitone process.

There is also an International Cartoon and Scenic, split-reel, and Hearst-Pathe News Nos. 24 and 25 complete the program.

"ENLIGHTEN THY DAUGHTER" FOR NEW ENGLAND.

Gordon Brothers, New England exchange men, Saturday, March 3, consummated a deal with Henry J. Brock, president of the Enlightenment Photoplays Corporation, whereby the rights in this territory to the feature film, "Enlighten Thy Daughter" was secured. The figures entering into the transaction were not given, but it was said to be quite a substantial sum. The picture will be handled through the Globe Feature Film Company of Boston.

Advertising for Exhibitors

Conducted by EPES WINTHROP SARGENT

Week Runs.

SEVERAL of the big houses are going over to week runs. The Rowland and Clark houses, Pittsburgh, announce this policy where the picture warrants, and the Majestic, Columbus, Ohio, in its handsome monthly issue, takes up the same matter. In the course of a page story it says:

Week stands are the ideal length from the standpoint of both the manager and the patron. It gives the one an opportunity to present a worth while play for a time corresponding with its merit and it gives the patron ample opportunity to see the feature which he is either delayed in viewing or which his neighbor happens to tell him, on Wednesday or Thursday, is remaining through the week. Paramount creations are helping us to realize this ideal.

Of course the week stand in the city is the three-day run in the smaller towns, but the run system is going to help a lot, both in cutting down the overproduction of poor pictures and the making of better stories. To run a week they must be worth the week, and the longer a film runs, the larger the number of prints sold, or else the greater the revenue from each print. Either will make for better production. From the manager's viewpoint the scheme is still more advantageous in that it permits him to make a better advertising campaign.

And the same issue of the Majestic Monthly bears these encouraging words:

Not long ago a correspondent of the Evening Dispatch declared that it was only the sensational photoplay that attracted great crowds to the theater. The experience of the Majestic has been quite to the contrary. The cleaner the picture; the sweeter the sentiment; the more crystal-clear the morals of the principal, the greater the crowds, as, for example, "Snow White" and "Cinderella."

Of course, a picture must be interesting as well as clean, but the real heart-interest story is the biggest money maker in the long run, no matter if The Slop of the Sewers does hold the high mark for one day in a cheap locality.

Here is a heart interest story from the Monthly, for that matter. The writer is speaking of the anniversary, which, as he has been told, was marked by a series of free morning performances to those generally unable to attend. One morning was given the newsboys and another to the mutes. Of a third the Monthly "Office Boy" says:

On another morning during the week we had a lot of fine old ladies from the Home for the Aged. When they were coming out of the theater one old lady seemed to be the very life of the party. She was laughin' and havin' a swell time. I asked her how she liked the picture and the lady that had hold of her arm said, "Why she's blind, she couldn't see the picture." Then the blind lady said, "No, I didn't see the picture, but I heard the music and had a mighty good time. The girls will tell me all about it when we git home." And she went out chatterin' like a school girl. Folks, take it from me, I'll not fergit that old lady. With the sunlight gone from her for ever, her falterin' step and her frail body, she don't moan and be-wail her fate, but steps lightly among human hearts and brings good cheer to them about her. Here's hopin' that if a great misfortune ever comes to you or me, we'll be as good and game a sport as the little gray lady who come to the picture show and saw nothin' an went away with a smile on her lips and a song in her heart.

An N. B.

W. W. O. Fenety, of the Galety, Frederickton, N. B., sends in some odd little vest pocket cards 2x3½ inches, rounded corners. Apparently one side is printed up in quantities with this copy:

GAILETY THEATER

Frederickton, N. B. - - - - Phone 377-41

HOUSE OF EXCLUSIVE FEATURES

Paramount Pictures
Galety Concert Orchestra

In order to keep Galety theater patrons informed of coming attractions, the management have made arrangements to have these little cards distributed each week. The list of next week's productions will be found on the reverse side.

The other side is printed weekly with the list of attractions. There is not very much space, but the house uses only three changes and so it is easy to get a good display with dated days in the oblong, and the card is so handy that it can be tucked away and kept for reference. They are given out at the ticket window, and Mr. Fenety says they find so few on the floor he is certain most of them stick with the patrons. This is one of the chief advantages of the V. P., and a V. P. card is even better than a folder. By having one side printed up in quantities the expense is considerably reduced for a double printing, and the cards can be held until used. Even where a larger program is supplied, these can be used to advantage, in addition.

Good Night!

The Third Street theater, Easton, Pa., has this advertisement in a recent program:

We want to make use of a small, live mouse, and we will give ten tickets to the first person that brings a LIVE ONE to us. Please have it in a box or trap.

Will the Third Street please write and tell us what effect the advertisement had upon the feminine attendance?

And this is from the same program:

A few days ago the writer was told by a well known Eastonian that he had just returned from Pittsburgh and while there he saw some "great" pictures and followed it up with this remark, "You never can see such pictures in Easton." The writer was willing to wager this Eastonian $100 that Easton sees the same pictures as Pittsburgh and very often before Pittsburgh. But—that party could not be convinced he was wrong. Don't let anyone tell you that Pittsburgh shows any different pictures than Easton, because they DON'T. In any part of the United States you will see the very same pictures as you do in Easton; sometimes we are before anyone else and sometimes after other cities, BUT you see the same pictures here as you would in any other city.

This is something that can be hammered home anywhere. The neighborhood houses can use it in the cities, and the towns can put in the name of the nearest city. It is one of the beauties of the motion picture than even the cross-roads hamlet, and the junction town can get precisely the same acting as the cities. There are no No. 2 companies on the film. Some of the New York successes eventually reach "the tanks" with a company costing less than the salary of the star in the original production, but in film the whole world sees the same acting. This is one of the things which has hurt the road companies. It is no longer possible to interest the one-night stands with poor acting. The inhabitants have been educated to the best. "East Lynne" and "Ten Nights in a Barroom" no longer serve as the gauge of dramatic appreciation. The Tom actor and the "turkey" are no longer with us to any appreciable extent because even the country people know what good acting is, and can get it for a small investment. Hammer home this fact if you live in a small town. "St. Elmo" companies with a $35 leading lady and "35 cents top" are things of the past.

In Panama.

A friend sends in the advertisement of the Wilcox Film Company, operating houses at Colon in the Canal Zone, and in Panama City. It is a 26-inch space merely listing the bookings for the first four months of 1917, Triangle, Paramount, Fox and Mutual. There are 134 titles running from one to six reels. Dates are not given, as there are four houses served and it probably is not practicable to route them so far ahead. We think a four-month advertisement is the record.

Educational.

Claude E. Linstruth, of Carthage, N. Y., wants to see theater advertising made more instructive. He writes:

Some four or five years have passed since I mailed you matter for criticism. Fact is, I haven't been preparing copy. However, I have always been interested in the advertising department. I have confined my ravings to Bro. Richardson's department, as I classify there.

I have always nursed a pet theory concerning picture theater advertising, and haven't as yet seen the idea set forth in your department. What I have in mind is as follows:

I believe the whole industry would be greatly benefited if the public was taught how to check up the proper presentation of moving pictures.

What a world of information we have that would put dynamite in the ad.; but for some reason or other is withheld. We find that Big Business is making its ad. instructive and educational; must be it pays or they wouldn't do it. Enclosed clipping is an insert in a half-page ad. taken in a local paper.

The public has other means of getting, in this case, the population of the United States, but the public has no way of getting the information of which I speak, which, of course, makes it all the more valuable; such information would require the combined efforts of the operator, musical director, live wire apparently not a part of the theater advertisements and yet right alongside the regular Lyric announcement. This also runs about twenty-eight column inches. This sort of thing must be well done. The pseudo attack must be striking and direct and yet it must be so handled that there is no come-back, legal or otherwise. Properly done, it is even better than pure reading matter, since there is the added advantage of display. And it is worthy of remark that these twenty-seven inch spaces do the film more real good than the full page Kellermann displays.

Spreading Out.

Eugene A. Upstill, of Long Pine, Neb., has taken over the Opera House at Bassett and will run it in connection with the Long Pine house, apparently for two days a week; at least the opening program lists but two days, the program of the day before being sent over from Long Pine. The new house has a one-sheet notice, printed on one side, in the usual Upstill style. In place of a lot of gorgeous lies he simply says:

I am new to most people of Bassett, as this is my first real business dealings with the people of Bassett. I have come to entertain you with the highest class of motion picture shows. The opening program is not a bit better than the following shows will be, as I have never opened a house with a higher class attraction than I have been able to keep in them. Before I will cut the class of the program I will cut the show entirely.

Here is hoping that you and I can become friends and my class of pictures will be what you are looking for. I am here to entertain you with motion pictures.

This is better than glowing promises which are not kept nor intended to be kept. We like Mr. Upstill's way of doing business. It is clean-cut and honest. He makes no glittering promises, but he keeps faith and that is more important. The Bassett programs are the same as he regularly runs at Long Pine, and he simply lifts the matter from one program to the other. He does not even clip his program stuff, but tells it in his own way, fairly and honestly, taking no chances of saying what he cannot prove. More aggressive methods would be required in larger towns, but he suits his program to his public. Here's hoping he has a chain of houses before long, for he deserves his success.

Straightened Out.

The Royal, Calumet, Mich., has its Royal News pretty well fixed up now with a program on Page 3 that looks like the real thing, and a lot of gossip chat that will read because it interests. In between are some good suggestions like this:

Did you ever stop to think that you can do your shopping and come over to THE ROYAL ANY DAY and see a splendid Paramount picture at 2:30? For we have a matinee every day.

Play up your matinees in connection with the shopping. If you are in the downtown district, suggest that shoppers drop in to rest up before they go home. If the town is too small for that merely tell how a trip to your house will make a fine climax for the afternoon in the stores. If you find that some of the stores circularize prospective patrons, try and get a mention on the enclosure or print a card to be slipped in that reads:

After you've profited by The Wonderful Bargains
At March's,
Come to the Dreamland,
And you'll be even happier when you go home.
Matinee every day at half past two. Full program.

That sort of thing will get you so intimately connected with a shopping tour that you'll become an inseparable part of the trip.

A Gentle Hint.

We have not seen a program of the Censor theater for a long time.

Various.

The Coronado, Las Vegas, N. M., has been experimenting with programs. The opening bill, last October, was provided with a Hennegan cover; later they used a Kleine cover, and have also imprinted the program on the cover of the Metro house organ. For Christmas they used a Santa Claus colored cover. There is a certain lack of definiteness to some of their house stuff, as, for example, when they state that a rest room has been provided for the ladies, but fail to give the location. Perhaps the room is self-evident, but even at that "at the right of the entrance," "on the balcony floor," or whatever it is should have been added, for some may see the program before they enter the house and a definite statement will help. On the other hand, this is decidedly good:

CO-OPERATION—The management will endeavor to do its share toward giving its patrons always a delightful evening's entertainment with high-class music. However, in order that the pleasure of all may be as near complete as is possible, the management asks your co-operation. WILL YOU HELP? You'll find the result a greater benefit to yourself and your friends than to the management after all. Don't forget that persons near you doubtless come to enjoy the pictures and music, and do not appreciate loud talking; that they would prefer to assimilate the impressions made by the picture at first hand than hear the story told by someone who had seen it previously. Tell the children what the sub-titles say—they want to know—but please don't read them loud enough for everybody around you to hear. If your baby is fretting or your boy or girl is restless, see if a little judicious coaxing will not make them quieter and everybody else happier. And, ladies, don't forget to take off your hat; it's a big accommodation for those behind you. If you can see well, don't change your position unnecessarily; it may tend to spoil the view of some one else.

Something like this should be run frequently by every house, not ostentatiously, but emphatically, for all patrons are entitled to see the performance in comfort, and conversation and title-reading do not conduce to the comfort of others.

Ambiguous.

The Putnam, Marietta, Ohio, sends in a novelty card in two colors showing one of those Chaplin vignettes in which he is kicking his double. The text reads:

Don't kick yourself.

Go to

The Putnam,
Marietta's Best Theater.

Polite Vaudeville - - - Feature Pictures

Whether you will be kicked there or not does not appear from the text, which might be changed with profit to read that you should not kick yourself unless you fail to attend the theater. That would mean something; not much, but more than the present text. The value of such a card is found in its aptness. This card has no apparent point.

In Keeping.

The Des Moines Bluebird Exchange sends in a booklet that seems to be for general use. If they prepared it in the local office it shows unusual hustle, for it is well done at all points. It is titled:

HUNTER'S GUIDE
For Exhibitors Hunting
Excellent Features.

Below is a space for the recipient's name, and below this the address of the exchange. Inside there is the advice "If you're out gunning, take a shot at Bluebirds—the choicest birds to be had." There follows a complete listing of the Bluebird features with press comments on each. It is one of the soundest and most permanent pieces of feature advertising we have seen in some time and a credit to whoever prepared it. The cover is blue on blue with blue on white for the inside pages.

Kid Shows.

Paramount Pep, the Kansas City organ of the local exchange, reports that the Garden, Des Moines, Ia., not only gives one but two kid matinees every Saturday, issuing a coupon ticket for ten performances which have been sold for them by the societies interested in the movement. From the report of J. L. Shipley, their publicity man, we take these lines:

The finest class of people in Des Moines bring their kiddies down to the show, and we have found that the entire project has given us excellent publicity and cemented the support of the clubs. Of course we open the box office at these special performances (in addition to the coupon tickets), charging five cents for the little folks and ten cents for adults. We buy additional advertising space on each Juvenile program and find that it brings more than adequate returns for the amount expended. Put the shows over just as the regular programs are handled.

The Saturday morning performance is the best thing that can happen to a house, and any exhibitor can swing the idea who has the nerve to talk it up to a few women's clubs and get them interested. Des Moines does not split with the clubs, and yet they sold nearly 700 course tickets. That alone is $35 a show, not counting what comes in at the ticket window.

Pro Patria.

Howard S. Clemmer, of Spokane, launched "Patria" at a special showing of two episodes of the film at the Davenport Hotel, making something of a social function of the display.

A NEW HELP FOR MANAGERS

Picture Theatre Advertising

By EPES WINTHROP SARGENT (Conductor of Advertising for Exhibitors in the Moving Picture World)

A TEXT BOOK AND A HAND BOOK, a compendium and a guide. It tells all about advertising, about type and type-setting, printing and paper, how to run a house program, how to frame your newspaper advertisements, how to write form letters, posters or throwaways, how to make your house an advertisement, how to get matinee business, special schemes for hot weather and rainy days. All practical because it has helped others. It will help you. By mail, postpaid, $2.00. Order from nearest office.

Moving Picture World, 17 Madison Ave., New York

Schiller Building
Chicago, Ill.

Haas Building
Los Angeles, Cal.

The Photoplaywright

Conducted by EPES WINTHROP SARGENT

INQUIRIES.

Questions concerning photoplay writing addressed to this department will be replied to by mail if a fully addressed and stamped envelope accompanies the letter, which should be addressed to this department. Questions should be stated clearly and should be typewritten or written with pen and ink. Under no circumstances will manuscripts or synopses be criticised, whether or not a fee is sent therefor.

A list of companies will be sent if the request is made to the paper direct and not to this department, and a return stamped envelope is inclosed.

Anent Footage.

JOHN WILLIAM KELLETTE contributes some really practical material to "how many scenes will make five reels." He gets down to the usual "Two hundred scenes" can be made (not will make) five reels, but he gives the how and why. He writes:

"How many scenes are necessary for a five-reel feature?" has been asked innumerable times and nary an answer has been found, so I'm going to try to give an approximate answer, and I haven't seen it in print.

It all depends upon the "tempo" of your action. A slowly played scene takes more time than rapid-fire action. For instance:

Beneath shady tree with log-seat—Jack and May discovered sitting—Jack reading from book—Feels May inattentive—Looks at her—She's day dreaming—He sighs and tells her she must listen—She protests—He hands her book and compels her to study—She reads—He day dreams and she catches him—Reprimands him—Both smile and sigh—He breaks it up and tells her she must learn—She says she doesn't want to and lays her head on his shoulder—He thinks—Looks at her—Impulse to kiss seizes him—She looks up and smiles and her lips appear to invite him—He almost kisses her and draws away—She pouts and her hand grips his arm—He suddenly seizes her and draws her into embrace, kissing her—Sudden onslaught frightens her and she appears angered and breaks away—He looks after her—Looks back—Becomes sore at himself—Sighs—Looks back—Straightens body—Hurriedly exits.

This scene will easily run 180 feet without closeups. No closeups are needed. The way it is timed it is not draggy. A title is not necessary, because the action is very plain. All scenes could not be 180 feet long, therefore, the author must answer his own question by approximately timing the tempo of his scenes. He might even make it a shade faster or slower than the director who interprets the script. Take the above scene. Play it as comedy and the footage would be cut down at least one-third. Put in a few closeups and a title and it will bring the footage to 200 feet if played as drama.

But it is seldom that a "five reel feature" will run 5,000 feet. The ideal footage is about 900 feet to the reel, or 4,500 for the feature. That doesn't mean 450 ten foot scenes. There are the titles to consider. A word of seven letters will take a foot of film. "Will be at" will take a foot. Such words as "San Francisco," "Manhattan," "St. Augustine," and hundreds of others as well known to the ordinary school child, quickly read, requires less footage than "Phthisis" and words like "exotic," "thermos," "saileylate," and those less frequently used and sometime required in sub-titles.

The next time you view a five-reeler, take the time to sit through two showings and count the sub-titles and leaders used. You might be surprised to find about 100 or more. That cuts down your footage of scenes a great deal, yet many scripts I've seen have as many as 450 scenes and more than one hundred titles, and to produce as written would require not less than 8,000 feet of film. When one considers "following that script" and having in mind that the finished feature, leaders and all, must be crowded into approximately 4,500 feet, it is no surprise that something had to be left out.

Try to keep your story within 200 scenes. The director will add 100 more in closeups, etc., because the average author, not knowing the camera, will write a scene that must be cut up into several, and what he might write as one scene, and "think" will go into 30 feet, finds, when it reaches the screen, the director has made five or more out of it, and each will average 10 to 15 feet, he will find his figuring has been knocked galley west.

Always have your star in the first scene, or, as Director John G. Adolfi pictured it, in the last one I wrote, dissolve into it.

"A Child of the Wild" (Fox) begins by circling into a beautiful stretch of mountainous country, showing slopes on the frame edges, with a river between. This dissolves out and into June Caprice coming into a V-shaped rock opening and as she comes to the foreground, her introductory title comes—after which, she exits, and another sub-title says "And into this wilderness Frank Trent came to teach." Then it introduces the lead, dissolving from the exterior of a school into an almost filled class-room with Trent dismissing his class.

If you don't get your leads into the beginning of the picture, the director will re-write it, and this will lead him to keep re-writing all the way to the end, and your story will be there, but you won't recognize it.

Send a full synopsis with your script. The synopsis will be read and if it shows promise the script will get a reading. But, if your synopsis is weak, good night script!

As a rule, directors are more anxious to find a good story that will fit the people he handles than you are to sell him one. But you can't write a script in two days. A script must be built. It must be viewed from several angles before you send it out. Forget that you wrote it after you've taken the last sheet from your "mill," and look at it from the standpoint of the audience. Ask yourself frankly if you've written something new. If it's new, is it worth while? Has it a message to give? Is there a problem and do you present the solution? Is it a theme that will pass the board of censors? There is a market for scripts. You can make your own market. You can sell to a firm that is continually turning you down, by sending it something worth while that will force them to grab it and buy it for fear you might send it to a competitor. I know that to be a fact, for I forced recognition in a studio that didn't buy scripts and when the editor's attention was called to my work he "bought 'em by the bale." By all means stick to technique. But don't use it if you haven't got anything to hang on it. You must have technique to write continuity, the great big royal flush in the photoplay game today.

Plain Lies.

The Producers League, handling a mail order instruction business from St. Louis, has lately put out a circular that is worse than anything yet printed—which is saying a lot. The circular letter reads in part:

The Producers are fighting desperately to secure sufficient new material, offering fabulous cash prizes IN ADDITION TO THE LIBERAL SCALE OF PRICES paid for plays. Heretofore they have been content to simply write us asking for plays; now, however, their representative CALLS AT OUR OFFICE in person, in an effort to enlist our support and help them to secure new ideas to supply the ever-increasing demand for plays.

We would like to know who is the "representative" of "the Producers" in St. Louis. It also states that the Saturday Evening Post states that one hundred million dollars has been contracted for to pay for the photoplays. Such statements as this are liable to interest the Post Office Inspectors. There is no great demand for stories at the moment, producers are not pestering correspondence and mail order schemes for scripts and one hundred million dollars will pay for all the scripts purchased for many years to come. The Producers' League must be getting desperate.

Some years ago a man by the name of Watt advertised in the Motion Picture Story Magazine that certain editors, among others, were writing him for the work of his pupils. One editor, Horace G. Piumpton, of Edison, said, over the telephone that this was not true and that same day the Federal Grand Jury found a true bill.

Comedy Triangles.

Most comedy today must be written for a triangle; not the domestic triangle of husband, wife and the other person, but for three persons whose style of work must be borne in mind. This is largely because Keystone has a series of triangles, and others pattern after Keystone. Personally, we think that a single star would be a novelty and certainly it would make for a greater variety in production, but if you will look over the field you will find that a large percentage of stories must fit three persons. Take the Ham and Bud comedies, for example. But two players are named, but there must be a third part for Miss Teare. Since no two triangles are similarly constituted, it makes it difficult for writers to turn out generally useful stuff, but if you wish to sell you must bear the triangle fad in mind. Keystone itself does not buy, but you must follow this plan of work for others "like Keystone."

Same Thing.

Some people are "just crazy" to write photoplays and some are crazy because they do.

Keep Off.

Don't ask an editor what he wants. Experiment.

The THIRD Edition of Technique of the Photoplay IS NOW READY

This is virtually a new book under the old title. More than double the text and with an arrangement especially adapting it for the student. The most complete book ever written on the subject of scenario or photoplay construction.

By Mail, Postpaid

Three Dollars

Address all orders direct to nearest office

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

17 Madison Ave., New York City

Schiller Building,
Chicago, Ill.

Haas Building,
Los Angeles, Cal.

Projection Department

Conducted by F. H. RICHARDSON

Manufacturers' Notice.

IT IS an established rule of this department that no apparatus or other goods will be endorsed or recommended editorially until the excellence of such articles has been demonstrated to its editor.

Important Notice.

Owing to the mass of matter awaiting publication, it is impossible to reply through the department in less than two to three weeks. In order to give prompt service, those sending four cents, stamps (less than actual cost), will receive carbon copy of the department reply, by mail, without delay. Special replies by mail on matters which cannot be replied to in the department, one dollar.

Both the first and second set of questions are now ready and printed in neat booklet form, the second half being seventy-six in number. Either booklet may be had by remitting 25 cents, money or stamps, to the editor, or both for 40 cents. Cannot use Canadian stamps. Every live, progressive operator should get a copy of these questions. You may be surprised at the number you cannot answer without a lot of study.

Roll of Honor on Question No. 170.

The Roll of Honor on question 170 is as follows: C. E. Lindstruth, Carthage, N. Y.; Michall Capohianco, Roseto, Pa.; Wm. J. Dorey, Victoria, B. C.; G. A. Yager, Vernon, Texas

I rather admire the nerve of the man who would tackle the answering of a question of this kind. I am sure I would myself hesitate to do it, because it involves quite some several large and weighty problems.

I have concluded to publish the reply of Brother Linstruth, together with some more or less humble comments of my own, and let it go at that.

Reply to Question No. 170.

By C. E. Linstruth, Carthage, N. Y.

The Question:

What, in your opinion, ought to be the limit of the number of reels used in an ordinary program for a five-cent house, and for a ten-cent house?

The Answer:

I am going to take liberties with this question, and betcha there will be no editorial frown. I do not believe in putting a money value on the number of reels shown. I do, however, most emphatically believe in placing a money value on the excellence of presentation. By "excellence of presentation" I mean to include everything from the sidewalk to the rear exits, and then some, the "then some" being explained later. The "five cent ticket chap" served his purpose to woo the curious when the motion picture was a mere infant, but as said infant grew into short skirts, curiosity fell down the coal chute and b'gosh I think Mr. Five Cent ought to join him in a long game of pinochle at the foot of the chute.

The average program, I believe, consists at the present time of a feature, a "news" reel, or a single or double reel comedy. Few of our good theaters give less, and many give more. Such a program is well balanced, and is acceptable to the general public, and ten cents is a bit too small to ask for such a round of entertainment, when it is properly prepared and properly served. To my way of reasoning it cheapens the whole industry to sell such a quantity of such goods for a jitney. The "some" referred to goes a bit into theater advertising, and would therefore perhaps be out of place here. However, I shall send you a copy of the matter covering that phase of it when I mail it to Mr. Sargent's department.

Well, that is an answer to question 170 and it is not, but it nevertheless sets forth a lot of good, hard, rock bottom sense in a few words. Brother Linstruth is absolutely correct when he says that it is more a matter of presentation than of the number of reels. I personally believe there is no longer any proper place for a five cent show, although I know there are plenty of good honest minds that will dissent from that opinion, particularly as applied to small towns. The usual argument advanced for the five cent show is that at "five a throw" the workman can take his whole family to the "movies" at least once, and perhaps two or three times a week, which he could not do if it were ten cents.

I fully realize the potency of an argument of that kind, but I still maintain that there is the "everlasting eternal fitness of things" and that five cents for even so much as five reels of our modern, magnificent photoplays is not at all in keeping with the value delivered, always provided that, as Brother Linstruth says, these reels be properly served. However, coming back to question 170, if we insist on the five cent show, my own view is that three reels, or at the very most four ought to be the absolute limit for the five cent show, and that seven reels certainly is good and plenty for the ten center.

On the whole, however, I am rather sorry I asked question 170, because it is one upon which there is such a wide difference of honest opinion, and one with which it can properly be claimed that local conditions have a great deal to do.

Evansville, Ind., Lecture.

I am requested by Moving Picture Machine Operators' Local Union No. 307, Evansville, Ind., to, through the department, invite all operators and managers in the territory surrounding that city to attend the lecture which I will deliver in Evansville, Friday, March 23rd, presumably at midnight.

Operators and managers in surrounding towns who desire to attend will kindly communicate with S. C. Ruschmeyer, Chairman Reception Committee, 218 Walnut Street, Evansville, Ind.

I personally would urge managers and operators who are within "reaching distance" of Evansville to be present, because, whether you think so or not, the message I have to deliver is of vital interest to you either as a manager or as an operator, as well as to the moving picture industry as a whole. Many managers and operators have come to my lecture in the past in an extremely skeptical frame of mind and have gone away not only convinced but enthusiastic. Perhaps it will be the same with you.

Concretely, Brother Operator, what I do for you is to point out to you certain vital errors you are committing and tell you how to avoid them, illustrating the thing either on the screen or by means of enlarged photographs. I show you how to avoid unnecessary damage to the valuable property placed in your possession, and how to put a better picture on the screen for less money.

As to you, Mr. Manager, I also point out to you certain errors you are committing which have directly to do with the results on your screen, and tell and show you how to avoid them, the net result being the possibility of placing on your screen as good or better picture for a great deal less money.

The lecture also is designed to bring about a better understanding between the operator and the manager. And, mind you, I don't deal in hot air. I will be right there on the job and you will be at liberty to question any statement I may make, or to ask me any reasonable question you may desire. All I ask of you is to be present, because the whole aim of this expensive and fearfully trying trip is to benefit you and the local industry in the various cities.

Louisville, Ky., Lecture.

The editor will arrive in Louisville, Ky., 2:45 P. M. Thursday, March 22nd, via L. & N. Railroad, and will leave 8:35 A. M. Friday, March 23rd. He will lecture in the Orpheum Theater at midnight, Thursday, March 22nd.

Now, gentlemen of Louisville, this matter of the lecture is one of huge interest to me, whether you think so or not. There is a waste of at least $50,000 per day (I think I could make it $100,000, huge as the sum seems, and prove it to your satisfaction) which is chargeable directly to mistakes in the operating rooms and theater manager's office, all of which you, Mr. Theater Manager, have to pay. I would, therefore, urge all Louisville theater managers and operators to be present. It won't cost you one red cent. I don't ask for your approval, or anything else except that you come to the Orpheum Theater, and hear what I have to say.

The lecture has been arranged by the Central Film Service Company of Indianapolis, Evansville, and Louisville. I venture the assertion that after it is done and over with you who attend will agree that you owe the Central Film Service Company your most sincere thanks.

New Lens Chart.

Copyrighted by John Griffiths, Ansonia, Conn.

Brother John Griffiths, Ansonia, Conn., is in with a chart which he says carries the lens matching as far as it can be carried so long as we retain the present type of condenser. He says:

One of the best ways I can think of to explain the use of the chart is to give several examples. In selecting the condenser system there are two known quantities, viz.: the number of amperes, which will be in accordance with the size of the picture, kind of screen, etc., and the type of condensers to be used, which in turn is to be judged by the back focus and diameter of objective. If the diameter and back focus of the projection lens calls for a long distance from the center of the condenser to the aperture, then the meniscus-bi-convex type should be chosen. The meniscus-bi-convex will also be best if the amperage is high. Knowing the amperage to be used, and the type of condenser, by consulting the amperage table to the right of chart we get two of the lines, viz.: the oblique and the horizontal, which are the two known quantities. In using the table, however, if the amperage is more than 60 call it 60, and if less than 25 then call it 25.

Example No. 1. Amperage 40 D. C. Condensers plano-convex, By consulting the table at the right of the chart, we find, opposite 40 amperes head of plano-convex the horizontal line Now this means horizontal line to the left of the this line until it line coming down D. C. in the table chart. The best

CONDENSER COMBINATION
6 1/2	6 3/4	7 1/2	7 3/4	8 1/2

es and under the convex condensers, to be 4 inches. that you select marked No. 4 at chart, and follow meets the oblique from 40 amperes at the right of the way to do this is to lay a straight edge on the 4-inch line. By doing this we find that the oblique line from 40 amperes meets line No. 4 at a point between vertical line 19 and 20, which indicates a vertical line 19 1/4 and the curved line passing nearest to the intersection of line No. 4, and the 40 ampere oblique line runs up to the 6 1/2-6 3/4 condenser combination in the little table at the top, so that we thus see we will require not less than 19 1/4 inches between the center of the condenser and the aperture plate, using two 6 1/2 convex condensers, which same will give a 1 3/4 inch spot.

Example No. 2. Amperage 40 D. C. Condensers meniscus-bi-convex. Looking in the table at the right of the chart, opposite 40 amperes D. C., under meniscus-bi-convex, we find 4 1/2, which indicates that, in this instance, we must take the horizontal line midway between 4 and 5 at the left of the chart, and follow it until it meets the same oblique line as in the former example. In this instance it meets at the 22 inch vertical line, and the curve nearest the intersection points to a 7 1/2-7 3/4 combination, which means a 7 1/2 meniscus and a 7 3/4 bi-convex, with which we will still get a 1 3/4 inch spot, but we will get a little narrower beam beyond the aperture than in example No. 1, and also collect a slightly larger amount of light from the arc.

Example No. 3. Sixty amperes D. C. Condensers plano-convex. Looking at the table to the right we find this calls for 4 1/2 inch horizontal line, which meets the oblique line coming from 60 amperes at vertical line 15 3/4, and the curve passing nearest this intersection calls for one 6 1/2 and one 7 1/2 inch plano-convex lens. We therefore need 15 3/4 inches between the center of the condensers to the aperture plate, with one 6 1/2 and one 7 1/2 inch plano-convex in order to get a 1 3/4 inch spot.

Example No. 4. Sixty amperes D. C. Meniscus-bi-convex condensers. In the table to the right we find this calls for the 5 inch horizontal line instead of the 4 1/2 inch, where the plano-convex was used. We find that the oblique and horizontal lines meet at about 17 3/4, and that the nearest curved line to the intersection points to one 7 1/2 and one 8 1/2 inch condenser, meaning a 7 1/2 inch meniscus and an 8 1/2 inch bi-convex. We shall therefore want 17 3/4 inches between aperture plate and center of condensers with the 7 1/2 inch meniscus and 8 1/2 inch bi-convex, and thus any desired combination can be worked out by the use of this table.

Brother Griffiths explains his reason for using the 1 3/4 inch spot instead of the 1 1/2 inch as follows:

My reasons for choosing a 1 3/4 inch spot instead of a 1 1/2 inch spot are these. The intensity of the light at the spot diminishes rapidly toward the edges of the spot. See chart, page 227, January 13th issue. In this case the center of the spot was not in the center of the aperture plate. The spot was a 'little too low down and to the left of the aperture, hence the center of illumination at the screen is to the right of center and a little too high. Nevertheless the chart serves to show that the intensity of the light decreases from the center outward, and the decrease is fairly uniform except for foreign particles in the carbons that do not reach so high an incandescent state as the general composition of the carbons. This being the case, it is reasonable to assume that the 1 1/2 inch spot, which has only a margin of 3/16 of an inch over the corners of the aperture plate, allows the corners of the screen to be poorly illuminated. Moreover the smaller spot does not always mean that there is a greater concentration of light, because, everything else considered, it means a greater distance between crater and condenser, so that the apparent gain is offset by the loss in light collected by the rear condenser.

North Carolina.

The editor recently, in response to an invitation from the North Carolina Branch of the Exhibitors' League of America, journey to the Southland, intent upon attending the semi-annual convention of that body. The experience was both instructive and interesting. The exhibitors of North Carolina are warm-hearted, well intentioned and receptive, but they are not nearly so progressive as one would wish.

Taking Charlotte for example. It is a charming little city of 50,000,

TABLE

AMPS D.C.	AMPS A.C.	HORIZONTAL LINE TO CHOOSE FOR PLANO-CONVEX	HORIZONTAL LINE TO CHOOSE FOR MENISCUS-BI-CONVEX
60		4 1/2	5
55		4 3/8	4 7/8
50		4 1/4	4 3/4
45		4 1/8	4 3/8
40	60	4	4 1/4
35		3 3/4	4 1/8
30	40	3 3/8	4 1/4
25		3 3/8	4 1/8

with well paved and remarkably well lighted streets. It is very decidedly progressive in nearly all ways, yet it is a surprising fact that the city only has four theaters—one vaudeville and three moving picture theaters only two are in operation, and all of them are, by comparison, small houses, the largest, the Broadway, seating possibly 500. The Broadway is, as I said, the largest house, but is in need of considerable careful, intelligent attention from its manager, Mr. R. D. Craver, who is, by the way, not only a good fellow, but one of the most energetic exhibitors in the state. The screen of the Broadway is at the front (entrance) end of the house, a plan which has been tried out very thoroughly in many sections of the country, and almost universally rejected as unsatisfactory. The lighting of the auditorium is, in its general arrangement, not bad, but it needs attention as to detail. The two ceiling lights next the screen should be extinguished while the picture is on, and I believe the next two might be dispensed with. Reflected light from the screen, plus light from the remaining ceiling lights would be ample, and thus remove considerable eye strain, as well as improve the picture by strengthening its high-lights and shadows. On the front wall, to the left of the picture, is a clock, illuminated by an incandescent light, which same also illuminates at least four feet of the surrounding wall. Bad! Very, very bad! Shade that light, Brother Craver, so that no ray falls outside the dial of the clock. Never, NEVER, NEVER have any unnecessary white light near the screen. It is worse than bad. It strains the eyes and detracts from the picture.

The operating room equipment consists of Power's Six As, taking current through a motor generator set. The light was brilliant, but very poorly handled, due, I was told, to the fact that the operator was obliged to rewind and thread while running the picture, which might account for a portion, but not all, of the fault. The operator will do well to try 3/4 inch carbons above, instead of 5/8, assuming that he always uses the amperage I found him using. Amperage in excess of carbon capacity makes for excessive flaming and unsteadiness of the arc. I also found incandescent lamps burning in the operating room, which is bad. The objective lenses had very large diameters and should be stopped down to the diameter of the effective ray. There was slight travel ghost down, which shows the shutters were slightly "out" and needed setting. The stopping down of the lens would sharpen the definition, improve the value of the blacks and whites, and probably reduce the tendency to travel ghost. The shutters were right up close to the lens, which is bad, but cannot well be avoided under the local conditions. The interior of the room is NOT painted black.

Now I am told the Broadway is very considerably better than the average North Carolina theater, and that the conditions therein are considerably better than those found in the average North Carolina theater. If this is true it would seem to be up to exhibitors of that state to get real busy, and do it without delay.

The other Charlotte motion picture theater, on Tryon street, is a long, narrow house. Its picture was not at all brilliantly illuminated, but I did not notice any white lights near it. Its operating room equipment consists of two Power's Six As, current supplied through a Westinghouse motor generator set. The operating room was of fair size, painted very dark green inside, and had observation ports of ample width. The only criticism was the incandescent lamps burning full blast, which makes for poor work on the screen and unnecessary strain to the operator's eyes. Unfortunately I have lost my notes containing the operator's and manager's names.

Brother Craver will please understand that if I have criticised the Broadway it is only done for the benefit of all concerned, including other North Carolina managers and operators who are committing the same errors.

I am told, both by managers and by operators, that eighteen dollars per week represents the very top notch of operators' wages in that state, and that the great bulk of men work for ten to twelve dollars, with a large number working for the absolutely absurd and ridiculous sum of six dollars per week. This latter sounds almost incredible, but is, nevertheless, absurd as it seems, the fact, and I would ask you if it spells common sense to base the income of your theater on the work of a man who only receives six dollars a week. Either the man is worth no more, in which event he certainly cannot be expected to produce high class work, or he is worth more and you are therefore not treating him fairly. In either event there surely is small incentive to a man receiving such a wage to study and improve his knowledge and his work.

Honestly, Brother North Carolina Exhibitor, don't the combination of a ten thousand or twenty thousand, or even a two thousand dollar photoplay and a six dollar a week operator seem just a little bit out of proportion? Also do you really believe you can get competency at even the huge sum of twelve dollars? Cannot you understand the simple proposition that if you want competency in the operating room you must pay enough money to induce competency, and that WITHOUT COMPETENCY IN THE OPERATING ROOM YOU WILL NOT GET THE FINANCIAL RETURN AT THE BOX OFFICE YOU OUGHT TO GET?

Kinemacolor.

R. Wasmuth, Dayton, Ohio, says:

Have been a reader of the department for the past five years, hence feel that I am entitled to butt in with some questions, as follows: First: Does the Precision Machine Company put a Kinemacolor machine on the market? Second: Can you run black and white film with a Kinemacolor machine without having a racy picture? Third: Is there a special attachment for a black and white machine with which you can run Kinemacolor? I claim you cannot run Kinemacolor on an ordinary projector, even by the use of an attachment. Am I right or wrong?

First: Several years ago the Precision Machine Company manufactured Kinemacolor mechanisms, very similar to the Simplex machines, for use by the Kinemacolor Company of America. Second: Huh! What do you mean, man? Assuming your meaning to not be such as the question suggests, the Kinemacolor mechanism was provided with a two pin geneva movement, in consequence of which the period of rest was too short for black and white projection. Third: I know of no attachment which will enable you to run Kinemacolor on an ordinary projector. The Power Company made an attachment for their machine which enabled the ordinary Power's Six mechanism to project Kinemacolor fairly well, but this attachment could only be put on at the factory, and I don't think you could even get it done there now, except at high cost.

Official Report.

The report of the first convention of the Society of Motion Picture Engineers held at Hotel Astor has reached our desk. Its price is 25 cents, and I would advise all operators to send that sum to C. Francis Jenkins, 712 Eleventh Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., for a copy. I think you will find the paper of Don J. Bell on "Motion Picture Film Perforation" alone is worth that sum. There is also an article on "Condensers, Their Contour, Size, Location and Support," by C. Francis Jenkins. This particular paper contains some data of value, but shows a rather lamentable lack of knowledge as to the experiments which have been already made covering that particular subject.

However, the statement contained therein that the proper location for the shutter is at the dissolving point of the light ray is apt to be decidedly misleading, unless followed by the reasons for so locating it. The mere setting of the shutter at that point would have no effect whatever, unless that action be followed by another. In other words, if you have your shutter set close to the lens and move it out to the dissolving point of the light ray there will be absolutely no change of any kind whatsoever, so far as the screen result be concerned. The beneficial result will come from doing the logical thing, namely, reducing the width of the main blade of the shutter. Another thing: Friend Jenkins refers to this as the "narrowest point of the light ray." This, I think, is not necessarily true, because with long focal length lenses measurements have proven the light ray to have at least, to all intents and purposes, an equal diameter for several inches in front of the lens. The dissolving point, however, is only found at one particular place, and that is the point for the shutter, due to the fact, as has been often pointed out in this department, that at this point one not only gets the benefit of the narrowest point of the light beam, but one gains one-half of its diameter. In other words, the picture may start to move when the shutter covers only one-half the light beam, and may continue to move until one-half of the light beam is uncovered. Of course, this presumes a machine with either a retarded shutter or without lost motion in the gear trains.

One thing I do like in Jenkins' paper, and that is, he calls the lens next the arc the "arc lens." I believe that this name should be adopted without question, and hereafter the rear lens of the condenser combination will be termed the "arc lens."

In his treatment of the condenser proposition Jenkins takes no account of the tremendous loss of light due to divergence of the light ray beyond the aperture, although this loss amounts to, in extreme cases, fully 50 per cent.

Another error into which Friend Jenkins falls is that, while he very ably sets forth the reason why condensers break when there is uneven contact with the metal holder, he fails to call attention to the fact that an even contact with the lens is entirely practicable, and moreover provides a heat reservoir which practically entirely eliminates condenser breakage. Jenkins claims that the lens will not break, no matter how hot it gets, if it is insulated from the holder. This sounds very good. The only trouble is, it don't work in practice, as thousands of operators can testify. I myself have thoroughly insulated my condensers from the holders with heavy sheet asbestos, only to have them snap again and again. The explanation for this is easy. The thick center of the lens heats up very slowly by comparison with the thin outer edge. Of course, we grant that the greater amount of light passes through the center of the lens, hence, if the whole lens were of the same thickness throughout the center would get hot quickest, but the edge of the lens being approximately one-eighth inch thick and the center six or seven times that thickness, it follows that the heating is uneven. But this is not the worst of it, because, when it comes to cooling down, the edge of the lens cools much more rapidly, particularly in cool weather or where a draught of air strikes the glass. Brother Jenkins' theory sounds very good, but in this department we have often found that theory must give place to the hard-boiled facts brought out by actual practice and the experience of literally thousands of operators.

Friend Jenkins says: "The optical system of the motion picture machine is a make-shift, and I hope that some of us will undertake a systematic investigation of it, looking to a more definite knowledge and resultant improvement." Well, what do you think of that? I was under the impression that after spending months in costly experiments, and more than two years in investigation, it might be conceded that something had been done in that direction. It seems, however, that Jenkins thinks not.

But notwithstanding these things the Jenkins paper is interesting, and has value. My advice to operators is to invest the sum of 25 cents and secure one of the reports.

No Dead Ones.

I recently received a letter from Sherman, Texas, informing me that the Sherman and Dennison men have secured a divorce, and that in future the Sherman men would sail under the name, Sherman, Texas, Local 468, I. A. T. S. E. Inasmuch as the Sherman-Dennison local had been one of the unions which welcomed my coming visit enthusiastically, I wrote asking what change that would make in the matter, to which inquiry the following reply is just received:

The formation of the new local will not have any effect whatever on your intended trip to Sherman, unless it be to make it even better than it would have otherwise been. I read your communication to the local, and all were much pleased with what you were saying in the department, the only correction being that it is also the stage employes as well as the operators who have withdrawn. The entire local wishes you success. When you mention live wires you hit the nail square on the head, because we are always looking for some method of improving our work. I am right in behind the two operators of this city who have not yet ordered the third edition of the Handbook, and they say they will certainly do so just as soon as they get the required amount together.

Comment is, I think, unnecessary. Locals composed of such men as this cannot but, in the very nature of things, succeed. They believe in better conditions and better financial reward for their work, BUT they also believe in BETTER WORK—in improving their technical knowledge to the end that they not only be able to put a good picture on the screen but put it on at the least possible cost.

The correspondence made necessary by the coming trip has been something in the nature of a surprise. I really did not know I had so many friends, or that so many locals looked kindly upon the work of the department. On the other hand there have been three locals which have been a surprise in the other direction, not, however, so far as I am able to learn, because they disapprove of my work. There have been, up to date, three locals which have turned the lecture down on a proposition which, under all the conditions, is purely foolish. I am not going to name the locals because I presume they thought they were acting right, and inasmuch as there have been, up to date, a little more than seventy organizations who have accepted, and many of them have accepted enthusiastically, I don't see why I should worry about the three. But I think after it is all over everybody will agree they were the losers.

The forthcoming trip is going to be a tremendous stunt. In order to fill the engagements already made will require between three and four months, and inasmuch as I will have to travel from fifty to three and four hundred miles in a day, delivering a two hour lecture at midnight, keep up the work of the department, keep up the work of the Cine Mundial (Spanish) projection department, and answer letters, I think you will all agree that it is not going to be anything in the nature of a picnic. My only hope is that if I succeed in living through it I will have accomplished a great deal of good for the projection end of the industry which is supplying us all our daily bread, and which I believe we all really, in our various fashions, love and are loyal to.

When You're in Trouble

RICHARDSON'S MOTION PICTURE HANDBOOK FOR MANAGERS AND OPERATORS

Is the Doctor That Can Unfailingly Prescribe
for Your Ailments.

There isn't an operator's booth in the universe in which this carefully compiled book will not save ten times its purchase price each month.

BUY IT TODAY! $4.00 THE COPY, POSTPAID

Your bookseller can supply you or the nearest Moving Picture
World office will promptly fill your orders.

MOVING PICTURE WORLD

Schiller Bldg.
Chicago, Ill.

17 Madison Ave.,
New York City.

Haas Bldg.
Los Angeles, Cal.

Motion Picture Photography*

Conducted by CARL LOUIS GREGORY, F. R. P. S.

Inquiries.

QUESTIONS in cinematography addressed to this department will receive carbon copy of the department's reply by mail when four cents in stamps are inclosed. Special replies by mail on matters which cannot be replied to in this department, $1.

Manufacturers' Notice.

It is an established rule of this department that no apparatus or other goods will be endorsed or recommended editorially until the excellence of such articles has been demonstrated to its editor.

The Simplex Precision Motion Picture Camera.

ONE of the latest of the lower priced professional cameras to be placed on the market is the Simplex Precision Motion Picture Camera.

It is made entirely of metal and is therefore not only absolutely rigid, but it is also altogether free of susceptibility to climatic changes of any kind. All parts are made of high tempered steel accurately machined and fitted by experienced workmen. The case is handsomely finished in black with trimmings of bright aluminum. The door is hinged and when open is held in a horizontal position by a bracket. It is supplied with a spring lock which can be opened or closed instantly without the use of a screwdriver or other instrument. It is very compact, being only 8x5½x4¼ inches and weighing but 13¾ pounds.

The camera is supplied with detachable film magazines which fit on to the outside of the camera case and can be removed in an instant, a feature heretofore supplied with only the highest priced cameras. Various sized film magazines are supplied, thus enabling you to carry film in any length from 50 to 1,000 feet. Magazines are listed and furnished separately. The camera used in the illustrations was equipped with 200-foot magazines. The film magazines are detachable from the camera, but joined together en bloc; the film end can therefore be inserted into the receiving magazine and the cover closed before the magazines are placed on the camera at all. Two thumb screws hold the retorts securely in position on the case. Being made of reinforced metal of great strength they are not liable to leak light or become bent out of alignment by any ordinary usage. The take-up is operated by a spring belt which is in plain view at all times so that there is no possibility of the take-up slipping and causing buckling without being detected immediately.

When the camera door is open the opening of the film magazines are closed tightly, thus preventing any possibility of light leaking through and striking the film. But when the door is closed it automatically releases the catches of the film magazines, thus leaving the film an open and free passage into the camera. This contributes in a material degree to the extremely smooth running of the camera.

A feature of this camera is its free bearings which contribute greatly to its being the smoothest running camera made; in fact, its running is more free when the camera contains the film than most cameras are when entirely empty.

A single large sprocket serves both as a feed and take-up sprocket and free running idler rollers which touch the film only at the edges keep the sprocket teeth in positive engagement with the perforations in the film. Instead of the usual film gate and aperture plate the film runs in front of a pressure plate in the focal plane. There is practically no way of scratching the film as the emulsion does not come into contact with any part except at the edges of the film and as the film touches nothing stationary except a small part of the pressure plate which is the exact size of the focal plane. This part is highly polished and held against the film with two delicate springs which keep the film perfectly flat while it is being exposed but do not obstruct its free passage in any way.

The movement is of the crank and arc or Williamson type, all parts being made of hardened tool steel with the greatest possible precision.

Focusing is very much simplified. The camera is furnished with an exterior focusing tube which is in direct alignment with the lens tube proper and when most accurate focusing is desired it is merely necessary to remove the lens itself from its natural setting over on to the focusing tube and when proper focus has been obtained it is returned to its own setting, thus insuring absolute accuracy of focus without opening the camera for this or any other purpose.

Loading is very quickly performed, the outer end of the film being threaded to the take-up spool and the cover fastened down before leaving the dark room makes it only a matter of pulling out a short loop of film from the magazine. It is then only necessary to insert in the camera the film loop thus formed, place it around the sprocket and over the pressure plate, which can be done with one hand, lock these and close the camera. The whole operation takes but a few seconds; there is no "threading" whatsoever to do. (See Fig. 3).

The camera is equipped with a film marker enabling the operator to register the beginning and end of each scene before the film is developed, thus making it possible to give the various scenes individual treatment best suited to their exposures. This marker is situated directly below the lens. When pressed it punches a hole 3-16 of an inch wide through the film at that point. This can be easily felt when winding the film in the dark.

The camera is so made that it can be operated either backwards or forwards. This is very useful in making freak pictures or reversing the order of moving pictures. Such instances as the taking of a photograph from the back platform of a moving train can be reversed so as to appear as though they were taken from the front of the engine. By a very simple device the camera can also be used for the taking of single pictures one at a time for animated cartoon work or for the taking of individual "still" pictures to be enlarged, the only preparation for reversing the camera being to transfer the spring belt from the take-up pulley to the pulley on the feed retort.

Figure 1 shows the operation of the camera and Figure 2 shows the opening of the door.

The Simplex Precision Camera is supplied complete with Bausch & Lomb Zeiss Tessar F3.5 lens, separate finder and 200-foot magazines, lens hood and focusing mount.

A notable feature is the focusing lever, which is in plain view from the back of the camera. It may be operated while the camera is in motion as an object advances or retreats from the camera. This device is shown in Figure 4.

Fig. 1.

Fig. 2.

Fig. 3.

Fig. 4.

Music for the Picture

Conducted by CLARENCE E. SINN and NORMAN STUCKEY.

THE design of this department is to diffuse among musicians and exhibitors correct information on all important subjects pertaining to music for the film, to improve the quality of playing and to raise the standard of music in motion picture theaters.

Any question concerning music; suitable instrumentation; questions relating to the organ and mechanical players; in fact, any queries, criticisms or suggestions dealing with the musical interpretation for moving pictures will be answered through this department.

Improvising. (Part II.)

By Clarence E. Sinn.

IT HAS been repeatedly said here that in improvising for pictures one should use at least one principal theme to run through the story. Usually this can be given to one of the leading characters and will be recognized as that character's music. It is best to play this theme in such a manner that it can be recognized when used in the dominant scenes. It may be altered in such a way as to merely hint at the theme, yet still be recognizable. Often this is very effective, particularly if the scene works up so as to permit of a musical climax. In orchestra work it is easy to make differences in effect by giving the theme to different instruments in turn, and thus portray emotional variations by the tonal coloring of different instruments.

Ex. 7.

Ex. 8.

A theme played softly on muted violin has one effect. On the 'cello

Ex. 9.

another. On the oboe, flute or clarinet it expresses a different emotion, while the same theme played fortissimo by the brass section, accompanied by the full orchestra, conveys an idea entirely opposite to the others. The organ can follow along the same lines to a very great degree; the piano not at all. With this instrument the differences must be marked by changes of expression and of tempo. But alterations of the theme itself are often useful as well as effective, as has been argued before in our department. A few examples are included in this article showing a theme in the overture "The Beautiful Galatea" by Von Suppe. Example 7 is the opening to the second movement in the overture. The theme in question is given in the left hand (lower staff) in Ex. 7. As given it is really in the key of F sharp major modulating to the key of A flat. In the repetition (5th and 6th measures) a minor 6th occurs (E flat to F flat) which distinguishes it from the major 6th (C sharp to D sharp) as shown in the first measure. This same theme occurs throughout the movement

Ex. 10.

(2d movement in the overture) with but little variation, except that it may start in different parts of the measure. (See Fig. 8.)

A development of the theme is shown in the 4th movement of the overture—a waltz movement. (See Ex. 9.)

Ex. 11.

This same variant is shown in the finale of the overture, where it is given to the basses, fortissimo, and vivace. (See Ex. 10.)

A hint or slight suggestion of the subject of the theme may be found also in the 3d movement of the overture (the 6/8 in G minor). See Ex. 11 and notice the dotted lines running from the accented notes in the melody (a) to those in the skeleton of the theme (b). You will there find a very pronounced suggestion of the original subject as shown in other examples.

A Lobby Musical Program.

"Most beautiful houses west of the Mississippi" is the rather high claim printed on the letterheads of the Royal and Regent theaters of Kansas City. Frank L. Newman, president and manager; T. H. Cochrane, vice-president and treasurer, and W. P. Fullerton, secretary. A mammoth pipe organ and a ten-piece orchestra indicate the attention given to the musical side of the program. Mr. Cecil Summers, house manager for President Newman, sends the accompanying illustration of frame used in their lobby to stimulate interest in the musical part of the program and the selections given by the orchestra from week to week. The frame is 14x22 inches and the management has been surprised at the interest it has created. The names of selections are neatly printed with pen and ink on white cardboard, with a few underscored lines in a blue ink. A good effect is obtained by using ruling pens of different sizes for both the lettering and rules and simple border designs. The idea is an excellent one. The program in the illustration was given with the Fox feature "Darling of Paris."

Motion Picture Educator

Conducted by REV. W. H. JACKSON and MARGARET I. MACDONALD

Interesting Educationals

Four Industrial Subjects, Two Zoological, Three Topical, and Two Scenic.

Reviewed by Margaret I. MacDonald.

"Making Dainty Perfumes" (Mutual-Gaumont).

THE manufacture of perfumes is an industry of which practically little is known to the ordinary individual, but in "Reel Life No. 43" we learn how one of the daintiest perfumes is made, namely, violet perfume. We see the fragrant blossoms gathered in astonishingly large quantities and taken to the manufactory, where they are placed immediately in a concoction of certain greasy substances and thoroughly mixed, after which the mixture is put in spirits of wine, which is later filtered and concentrated. The method by which violet essence is extracted is also briefly illustrated.

"Making Bottles at Home" (Mutual-Gaumont).

The manufacture of sanitary bottles is illustrated clearly in "Reel Life No. 43." These bottles are made of paper, are much lighter in weight than the glass bottle and are expected to replace the latter in the realm of the dairy. We are shown the shaping of pieces of cardboard into bottles by machinery, and the suggestion is thrown out that the dairyman may purchase these cardboard blanks and shape them into bottles himself at a smaller expense than the extra express charges on glass bottles will cost him.

"Logging in Louisiana" (Mutual-Gaumont).

This attractive and instructional subject is nicely illustrated in "Reel Life No. 43," where we are taken into the yellow pine forests of Louisiana to watch the felling of the trees, in the conveying of the logs from the forest on movable tracks, the skidding of the logs and the storing of them in the river previous to floating them to the saw mills as required. We learn that oxen are used for hauling logs in this vicinity and that the pine knots are saved and used for fuel.

"An Industrial Paradise" (Paramount-Bray).

A series of interesting scenes shown in the Paramount-Bray-Pictograph No. 57 takes us through the Roycroft community at East Aurora, N. Y., which was established some years ago by Elbert Hubbard, and is being perpetuated by his son, Elbert Hubbard the second. Here we see how the beautiful Roycroft products in hammered brass and silver are made, and also the remarkable hand tooling of leather, and printing and illuminating of the Roycroft books.

"Foreign Deer" (Educational Films Corporation of America).

Prof. Raymond L. Ditmars has given us in this animal study a delightful sample of photography. After giving considerable information regarding deer and the parts of the world inhabited by them he shows us various species of the deer family, beautiful fawns and antlered stags, and tiny baby deer. In one scene we see a young deer hiding in a pile of leaves behind a shed. The keeper is seen to lift it struggling from its hiding place, and after exhibiting the little animal for the camera's benefit, try to put it back to bed, an operation which is strongly resented by the baby. This is a beautiful and instructive subject.

"A Birdland Romance" (Paramount-Bray).

The Paramount-Bray-Pictograph No. 57 contains a fascinating bird study in which a canvas-back duck, her newest "flame" and her former husband figure. The duck has built her nest among the rushes and is very much occupied with the hatching of a family when her former mate enters the scene, only to be cruelly snubbed, the fickle female having formed an affection for a handsome Mallard drake. This little romance in duck life will be found very amusing. The picture also shows the actual hatching out of some of the eggs which Mrs. Duck had tended so faithfully, and also the full brood toddling about after the completion of the hatch.

"The Austrian Ski School" (Educational Films Corporation of America).

This is a remarkable picture showing how the Austrian government school of skiing, which is situated in the Linderthaler Alps, is conducted. The camp accommodates 450 men, who remain there under training for a period of ten days, when they are accounted ready for ski service in the army. They are taken to a height in the mountains, marching up the mountain side in zig-zag lines, and upon reaching a certain point which serves well the object of the tramp, they commence their skiing exercises. The final scenes show them 405 strong making the descent with varying degrees of success.

"Fitting Heads to Hats" (Paramount-Bray).

A distinctly original idea is presented in the Paramount-Bray-Pictograph No. 57, which is attributed to Miss Stevens, who is shown in her studio applying her art. The art consists of the modeling of papier-mache heads after the likeness of a given female subject who is desirous of purchasing a becoming piece of head gear. The head is touched up to look exactly like the person posing, and is then taken by the model to a millinery shop, where she is able to fit a hat on the likeness of her own head without the inconvenience of disturbing her equilibrium.

"Teaching Children to Swim" (Mutual-Gaumont).

This is a highly instructional series of scenes which will be found in "Reel Life No. 43." It shows a number of children at the edge of a large swimming pool receiving pointers in the art of swimming, and putting the instructors' suggestions into practice. In the practice of the leg and arm movements as they lie stretched on their stomachs on the edge of the pool it is easy to gather helpful hints in one of the most necessary arts. We also see the children trying their skill in the water at close enough range to enable us to discern the movements of their limbs.

"Vicksburg, Mississippi."

"See America First No. 76" presents a number of interesting views of Vicksburg, Mississippi, and vicinity. Explanation of its situation on the Mississippi and Yazoo rivers, and the important part played by the town during the Civil War is given in subtitle and visual illustration. We are shown the old Court House erected by slaves in 1858, the National Cemetery, where are the graves of 16,892 Federal soldiers, 12,769 of whom are unknown, and the National Military Park, in which are erected memorials by various states. This picture is interesting in an historical way.

"The Ascent of the Matterhorn" (Educational Films Corporation of America).

This interesting subject presents some remarkable studies in mountain climbing, showing the dangers attendant on the ascent of the famous Swiss mountain peak, which is some 14,705 feet in height. Thrilling moments show the passing over snowy heights where a slip of the foot would mean death; and as we watch these mountain climbers they trudge onward and upward until they reach the lofty peak of the Matterhorn.

Revival of Color Film

Attractive Selection of Color Films Exhibited at the Strand Theater, New York, Suggests the Use of the Prizma Film in Educational Work.

SOME little time ago the Prizma method of color photography and projection was reviewed in the columns of The Moving Picture World, with full explanation of facts concerning this renewed effort to produce a natural color film with the defects of the older methods eliminated. An exhibition of these films at the Strand Theater, New York, was followed by an acceptance of the films on the regular program of that theater.

This color process is especially well adapted for the production of educational or instructional films. The effects produced on a four color basis are soft toned and the illusion is perfect enough to suggest the use of the Prizma, Inc., method in all lines of educational photography. One of the most remarkable of the studies thus far exhibited is a close-up of a soap bubble with the dainty iridescent tints and reflections that we remember from our own soap bubble days. The rainbow at Niagara is also worthy of mention; and also the giant star fish as it glides off the rocks into the clearest of waters. Let us hope that the educational film will continue to receive the benefit of the realism that color adds to pictures of this character.

New York Teachers and Child Problem

Plan on Foot Whereby Teachers Will Agree to Recommend Moving Picture Programs to Pupils, Providing They Agree with Certain High Standards.

A THEME that has been causing more or less ferment throughout the country, namely that of the relation of the moving picture to the child, was the object of a meeting which was held in the Russell Sage Foundation assembly room on Feb. 16 at 4.15 p. m. The fact that the meeting was called by the Committee on School Work and the Committee on Children's Interest of the New York City Teachers' Association added special importance to the occasion for the reason that a representative body of New York school teachers represent more power in straightening out the matter of the clean program than any other body of individuals in the city. We say this from the fact that it is in their hands to supply audiences for the exhibitor in support of a clean program, if he has a mind to provide it, by commending the theaters at which these programs can be found, to the pupils who in turn carry this recommendation into their homes.

The meeting which, by the way, was sparsely attended, was opened by the chairman, Van Evrie Kilpatrick, who explained its object and entered a protest against certain types of film that are frequently met with in the moving picture theater. He protested most vigorously against the depiction of crime stating that crime, no matter how it is placed before children becomes more or less idealized by them. With regard to the censoring of moving pictures, Mr. Kilpatrick said, "Censoring is un-American—it is European. In America we strive to maintain the voluntary element in the community. The people in America love to do, and they are better for doing largely as they wish. That is fundamentally American." He also stated that a set of tentative standards had been outlined, which it was proposed to follow as nearly as possible in selecting programs; and in reply to a question put by Orrin G. Cocks of the National Board of Review, said that clean entertainment is the end to be sought, treating the educational feature as an entirely secondary matter, and that the family is to be catered to rather than the child.

Following Chairman Kilpatrick, Mr. Cocks delivered a brief address on the subject that is worth repetition. We believe that it contains useful information to readers who may be working along these lines. Mr. Cocks said, referring to the plan under discussion, "All of us are interested in seeing something of this sort come to pass all over the country. Most of us have felt that a different type of picture was needed for the young people than for the adult; many of the pictures which are fine for adults, as the chairman has outlined, may be personally unsatisfactory to many of us and yet if you are going to keep the freedom of the screen we must of necessity have a number of subjects discussed which appeal to others, but not to ourselves.

"However, all through the country, and especially here in New York, I think the young people have gone indiscriminately to the motion pictures that are designed for the adults and very few plans have been offered in a city like New York, which are practical; which will make it possible for young people to go on certain nights in the week to see entertainments which are entertaining and then make it possible for careful parents to keep them from going to see other pictures which are designed for adults.

"There are a great many more pictures than some of us realize now, for instance in just this group I was running through the other day of a list of pictures, made from fine bits of literature. For instance, there is 'The Crisis'; there is 'Robinson Crusoe'; the 'Vicar of Wakefield' and one taken from the 'Christmas Carol' called the 'Right to Be Happy.' Then that fine picture with Marguerite Clark as 'Snow White'; and 'Oliver Twist' has been made, and there are possibly a dozen or fifteen more in the list that, to my mind, ought to be entirely satisfactory to this group, and there are besides 80 or 100 others that undoubtedly the teachers would put in that class.

"The films exist; it is largely a question of distribution, and then a question of getting attendance. I am satisfied that even here in New York City, if we had some method for getting attendance and for keeping the exhibitors from losing money—helping them to make money on certain family nights, that this whole situation would be solved. Many of the plans which have been worked out in some sections of the city or for certain theaters have been idealistic and theoretical. Persons have gone to exhibitors and said, 'We can deliver certain audiences to you if you will have certain types of pictures' and as a matter of fact they could not.

"Out at Columbia the other day, the Horace Mann group said that they could furnish audiences for eighteen picture houses in the region of Columbia. I asked them how they were going to do this. Their plan was to send out information through the children of the Horace Mann school and post bulletins in Columbia and in Union Seminary and in Teachers College and Barnard and possibly in some of the other schools—but that isn't delivering audiences to eighteen theaters, something more definite must be accomplished.

"If a plan can be worked out by the teachers which will carry facts to families and in a way which will not drive them away from the theaters, then I believe, here, in New York, we can have what you may call select entertainment, family entertainment, splendid films or first class A No. 1 films—we can have them; it is largely a question, it seems to me, of a group who can furnish the audiences.

"This subject should be discussed, it seems to me quite frankly with the teachers, and then back of them with the Board of Education, for, as I understand it, often exhibitors are anxious to furnish the highest types of entertainment in some sections of the city and have been absolutely unable to go into the schools and get the cooperation of the teachers and the principals in advertising such entertainments. There may be a rule by the Board of Education prohibiting it. If that is true, there is an earnest desire on the part of the exhibitors to meet the situation, and there certainly should be a concession on the part of the teachers and the Board of Education to see that this plan goes through. This is a very practical matter, but I maintain that a great deal of pressure will have to be brought to bear upon the Board and upon the Superintendents to have them forego their rule against advertising any form of entertainment for pay. That is the practical difficulty in the way.

"I am quite certain, however, Mr. Chairman, if a plan is worked out for delivering audiences that pay, the great majority of exhibitors as well as the exchange men and manufacturers will go more than half way to meet the situation. They don't want to be continually criticised as blocking the wheels of progress; they realize there are large groups of individuals like yourselves who go with their children to see pictures meant for adults and decide that they will not go to the moving picture at all, and as keen business men they want to capture that audience. Now a plan should be worked out on a sensible basis if possible to advertise the finest types of films in the homes of the school children. There is the practical difficulty of contracts which the exhibitors have to draw up with their producing groups and exchange groups, so it will not always be possible on a Friday or a Wednesday or any other night to have the films wanted. It may, however, be possible to have one night a week where exhibitors will play absolutely fair with the parents, teachers and children of the neighborhood."

Others who responded to the call for suggestions were Mrs. Elizabeth Richie Dessez, who in answer to one of Mr. Cocks' remarks with regard to there being a difficulty in getting the exact films desired on any given night, said: "The Exhibitors can make new contracts. They may have to wait until some of their present contracts expire, but they can then make new contracts or buy in the open market. They are showing some disposition to do so, which was not evident last year." Readers may be reminded that Mrs. Dessez, in association with Mrs. Philip Speed, worked earnestly during the past year on behalf of the establishment of the children's theater, and knows whereof she speaks.

Principal Laughlin of the Bronx High School deplored the lack of good scenarios, and stated that it seemed to him that the people who were writing scenarios were running around in circles. He also spoke of the wonderful progress of the moving picture on the artistic side and of the steady advance it had made along certain lines. He voiced the belief of earlier speakers that if some plan could be worked out whereby the exhibitor could be assured of profitable audiences there would be little to fear in the matter of good clean programs.

It was learned from Mr. Bogart during the discussion that Dr. Wile of the Board of Education, who is also chairman of the National Juvenile Moving Picture Bureau, Dr. Straubemiller, and ex-President Churchill, have indorsed the movement for the improvement of moving picture programs and have sanctioned the distribution of coupons in schools by the National Juvenile Moving Picture Bureau, advertising certain good films or programs being exhibited in their immediate neighborhood.

Van Cortlandt Van Deusen related his discouraging experience in trying to interest prominent citizens and educators in the Clean Picture and Play League; Miss Louise Connolly of Newark referred in her humorous fashion to the suspicions that are bound to accrue in the development of any reform; and Miss Helen Duey of the Woman's Home Companion offered a few words of encouragement, and urged those who were interested to keep on working. The meeting closed following a motion offered by Mr. Cocks which was duly seconded and unanimously carried, to the effect that the Committee representing the New York Teachers' Association be requested to continue the development of the plan for enlisting the teachers and Board of Education in the service of the uplift of the moving picture.

Religious Film to be Reality

Bible Film Company of Las Vegas, New Mexico, to Be in the Market by Fall.

AFTER the fashion of wants that demand to be heard, the church's necessity for films that suit their purpose and serve as fit illustrations of the religious truths which they endeavor to teach, has been taken up on a commercial basis by an organization consummated in December, 1916, known as the Bible Film Company, and capitalized at $1,000,000. Las Vegas, New Mexico, has been chosen as the headquarters of this concern for the reason that the topography of the country in this vicinity resembles that of Palestine. The climatic conditions about Las Vegas are also said to be ideal for picture making. The studio site is situated about six miles north of Las Vegas on the Montezuma Hot Springs property, in the heart of a beautiful scenic district.

Dr. A. L. Andrews.

The present plans of the Bible Film Company aim at actively entering the market in the fall. They expect to start producing in the course of a few months, and their first subjects, which will be purely biblical, will later on be interspersed with biblical fiction and allegory. It is also planned to have all films produced by this company censored by an inter-denominational board of censors, composed of eminent clergymen. This policy is expected to cover any doubts in connection with the sacred treatment, historical and chronological correctness of chosen themes. The fact that a clergyman, Dr. A. L. Andrews, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Fort Worth, Texas, is the president of the organization also adds a feeling of security. Other officers of the company are Harry C. Grigsby, formerly associated with the Singletary Bros., bankers, of San Jose, Cal.; Roger Topp of Los Angeles, Cal., secretary and treasurer; and Phil H. LeNoir, for ten years in Y. M. C. A. and Chamber of Commerce work, director of publicity and scenario editor.

There is doubtless a large field for the output of the Bible Film Company, providing that what they offer is carefully and authentically prepared. The time is ripe for a venture of this sort judging from the numerous inquiries on the subject that from time to time reach the Moving Picture World; and we wish the company a permanent success in undertaking to supply a much needed product.

Looking Backward

Resume of What the Film Market Has Offered in Bible Stories Since the First Appearance of the Commercial Film.

THE present moment holds numerous peculiarities with regard to moving picture production; one of them is the fact that after many years of film producing in which fifty-five adaptations of Bible stories have been made we are on the eve of having special attention paid to this line of the work. At least two moving picture producing companies under way of organization, and of which we will be able to say something more definite a little later on, have stated that they are going to pay special attention to the filming of Bible stories, and the illustrating of the International Sunday School lessons. As every effect must have a cause, we would infer that the entry of the Bible story into the world of film as a commercial asset is based on the awakening of the churches to the educational uses of the moving picture, and also on the necessity to which the church has been aroused of keeping up with the times in the matter of visualizing her instruction. The fact remains that where there is a demand of sufficient commercial magnitude it will be followed up by a proper supply to satisfy that demand.

The following list of Bible stories, filmed between 1908 and the present date, will be found of interest. It will be noticed that within the past three or four years very few Bible subjects have appeared, with the exception of one or two reissues. It must not be inferred that many of these films are still available. On the contrary, only a very few can be had.

List of Bible Stories Produced in Film.

Abraham's Sacrifice—C. G. P. C.—1912 (1 reel).
 Athallah—Pathe (991 feet).
 Belshazzar—Gaumont (950 feet).
 Birth of Christ, The—Pathe (508 feet).
 Birth of Moses, The (1 reel) (in possession of Educational Film Corporation of America).
 Blind Man of Jerusalem, The (1 reel) (in possession of Educational Film Corporation of America).
 Cain and Abel—Gaumont—1910 (279 feet).
 Cain and Abel—C. G. P. C.—1911 (600 feet).
 Childhood of Christ, The—Pathe (541 feet).
 David and Saul—C. G. P. C.—1912 (1 reel).
 Daniel—Vitagraph—1913 (2 parts).
 Deluge, The—Vitagraph—1911 (978 feet).
 Elisha and the Shunammite—Gaumont (890 feet).
 Esther—Eclectic—1914 (3 parts).
 Esther and Mordecai (2 parts) (in possession of Beseler Educational Film Co., Inc.).
 Exodus, The—Gaumont (1,400 feet).
 First Christmas, The—Edison (1 reel).
 Herod and the New Born King—Gaumont—1910 (965 feet).
 Infancy of Moses, The—C. G. P. C.—1911 (1 reel).
 Jephtha's Daughter—Vitagraph—1909 (605 feet).
 Jephtha's Daughter, The Vow or—Gaumont—1910 (868 feet).
 Joseph in Egypt (1 reel) (in possession of Educational Film Corporation of America).
 Joseph and His Brethren—Pathe (754 feet).
 Joseph and His Coat of Many Colors—Sawyer—1914 (6 parts).
 Joseph in the Land of Egypt—Thanhouser—1914 (4 parts).
 Joseph's Trials in Egypt—Eclectic—1914 (3 parts).
 Judas, The Kiss of—Pathe (676 feet).
 Judith and Holofernes—Gaumont (1,050 feet).
 Life of Christ, The—Gaumont (2,170 feet).
 Life of Our Saviour, The—Pathe—1914 (7 parts) (reissued 1915-1916).
 Lord's Prayer, The—Gaumont—1910 (470 feet).
 Macabees, The (1 reel) (in possession of Beseler Educational Film Co., Inc.).
 Manger to the Cross, From the—Kalem—1912 (reissued 1915-1916) (4 parts).
 Mary Magdalene—Kennedy—1914 (4 parts).
 Miracles of Christ, The—Pathe (705 feet).
 Moses and the Children of Israel (2 parts) (in possession of Educational Film Corp of America).
 Moses Before Pharaoh—Gaumont (1 reel).
 Moses, The Life of—General Film.
 Nativity, The—Gaumont (991 feet).
 Passion Play—Pathe (3,144 feet).
 Pharaoh or Israel in Egypt—Gaumont—1910 (1,050 feet).
 Prince of Israel, A—C. G. P. C.—1912.
 Prodigal Son, The—Pathe—1908 (705 feet).
 Prodigal Son, The—Williams, Browne & Earle—1908 (696 feet).
 Prodigal Son, The—Great Northern—1910.
 Prodigal Son, The—Eclair—1911.
 Salome—Lubin—1908 (400 feet).
 Salome—Gaumont (525 feet).
 Samson and Delilah—Universal—1914 (6 parts).
 Samson's Betrayal—Gaumont—1910 (509 feet).
 Saul and David—Vitagraph—1909 (1,000 feet).
 Saul and David—Gaumont—1911 (128 feet).
 Saul, The Death of—C. G. P. C.—1912 (1 reel).
 St. Paul and the Centurion (1 reel) (in possession of Educational Film Corp. of America).
 Woman of Samaria, The—Pathe—1910 (902 feet).

The list tells its own story of dates and footage; and in some instances neither date nor maker has been recorded. Copies of several of the films listed are to be found on the shelves of the Educational Films Corporation of America, 729 Seventh avenue, New York City, and the Beseler Educational Film Co., Inc., 71 West 23rd street, New York City.

Spokes from the Hub

By Marion Howard,
Reel Editor of Boston Budget.

WASHINGTON'S Birthday was celebrated by the Exeter Street Theater in the christening of its new organ, one of the best in the country. There has been a transformation, too, in the screen setting and stage, which has been deepened, and the seating capacity enlarged thereby. The color scheme is pale yellow and brown, rich in effect, and the lighting is much improved. Jarvis Jocelyn, the house musician, renders high class music for his solo number and for the five-reelers. For the comedies and lighter pictures he uses the piano, as he is not an advocate of "rag time" for the organ such as we are too often inflicted with. At this theater we had during last week "The Glory of Yolanda," with Anita Stewart, who was also here in "The Girl Philippa," at the Modern theater for a run of two weeks, and which Mrs. Ayer is to give us next week.

For a play fit for man and child commend me to "Twin Kiddies," the Pathe picture featuring Marie Osborne and that dependable actor, Henry King. Here was a human story of exceptional interest, with a mere baby playing double and ably illustrating two distinct types of child life, the pampered and the seamy. I should think this might be put on for a run as clean-cut, wholesome and with a bit of a lesson on the art of radiating cheer even when close to the gutter. We had not seen Raymond Hitchcock in "The Wonderful Wager," so a party of us went prepared to enjoy the comedian to the limit. It was some stunt he had cut out for him! Remember the circus scene when he was trying to catch a nap among the various animals and a camel walked over him? Well, a woman across the aisle had hysteria and had to be removed. This is a good thriller from the Lubins. Another offering that evening was "The Happiness of Three Women," introducing House Peters and Myrtle Stedman for the first time together under the Paramount banner. It proved most entertaining, and they seem a dandy pair, worthy of a stronger play. There were some funny inconsistencies around the burly watchman who robbed the bank, and the plot was a bit moth-eaten, yet the acting saved it and there was good photography.

Hubites had a genuine treat in Sothorn's work in "A Man of Mystery," put on by Stanley Sumner at the effete Fenway, our handsomest theater here, and doing fine business. Here we had atmosphere to the queen's taste. Some folks prefer Sothorn in picturesque attire doing the heroics, but the majority, I am sure, who saw this play agree that it is his best for the screen. Fred Thompson showed skill in directing this.

Ethel Barrymore has quite a social following here, so it was natural that the Back Bay set should turn out to see "The White Raven," which, next to "The Awakening of Helena Ritchie," is the best yet. One staid old lady of the "Chippendale" set said she thought it quite out of place to have dear Ethel dance in such a short gown and in a cheap place, but I caught her furtively wiping away some tears as the play progressed with its intensely human touches. Capacity houses were the rule at the large theaters running this Metro picture.

Well, for genuine merit and thrills of a sane nature "The Argyle case" certainly fills the bill, and it strikes me that Robert Warwick is doing his best work here. We were given a private view of this by the Boston Photoplay company, releasing the Selznick outputs, and it shows that Warwick made no mistake in organizing his own company under that banner. The Hub is strong for Elaine Hammerstein, who was a bit new for us on the screen. There were some big moments, the suspense held to the close, with none of the oldtime detective tricks either.

We have an unusual company of gifted players here at our little theater named the Copley and under the directorship of Henry Jewett. It has established a following most noteworthy, the house being sold out in advance. In the coterie of players is a screen star, Leon Gordon, whom I saw last night for the first time in "Pardners," with winsome Charlotte Walker, who grows startlingly like Ellen Terry as time goes on. This is noticeable right in this picture. Well, young Gordon is so popular in the speaking play that scores went over to the Fenway to watch his pantomimic work. He is some villain and made a good foil for Richard Tucker, who is doing splendid work in this. It is a red blood play and the scenes are not at all far fetched in the wild and woolly country. The kid episodes went well. This ought to go strong anywhere.

On the same program at this theater was "Easy Street," with Chaplin as an amateur policeman. A friend told me that I might like this, as it was free from vulgarity, so I sat it through. Maybe so, but there is the same sort of slapstick stuff which sets folks howling. Perhaps such pictures have their place and, after all, it does one good to laugh. A philosophical friend of mine says that if people laughed more nine-tenths of the doctors would have to go out of business, so there you are, in defence of C. C.!

Marie Doro and her "hubby," Elliott Dexter, are good drawing cards most anywhere, so we all went to see "Lost and Won" and were—as T. R. says—"de-lighted." The newsgirl evolving as the ward of a rich young man to "society" life showed Doro's versatility. There were some good detective stunts well done. The plot is far from new, and we had it rather better worked out by the Metros in "The Eternal Question," with Petrova going through the paces from street to drawing room.

"Panthea," done by Miss Talmadge, was a sore disappointment, maybe owing to the fact that it followed "The Argyle Case" on the same program at the private view, but a friend near me said: "We are sick of so much Russian stuff." Anyhow, it went along very well until the finale, when we got the hero and heroine in a lighted trench en route to Siberia looking as if they had just stepped out of the Astor. It was funny and the house wore a smile. Earle Fox, who seems to be drifting a bit, was excellent and all struggled to put the picture over.

There have been many screen players in town of late who are at theaters, like Edward Martindel, who has been shown much attention and was a guest at a function of the Professional Women's Club; Hilda Spong, Faversham, Frank McIntyre, still here in "Springtime;" Emily Stevens, who has returned to Metro for some more pictures; Charles Ruggles, Richard Carle, Charles Cherry, Madge Kennedy, to enter the pictures; Valli Valli, and now the imperishable Bernhard, who will be a special guest of the Film Club at a reception March 9.

Other good pictures seen of late: "Blind Justice," with Benjamin Christie, the hero of "Sealed Orders," which we will never forget. It is good to know that the Dansk Biograf Company of Copenhagen now has a branch office in New York city. Give us more of such plays, Mr. Christie. "Golden Fetters" was rather weak but saved by the acting of "Wally" Reid and a good company. There was nothing new in plot or finale.

"Three of Many" was exceptionally good and splendidly cast with Clara Williams, George Fisher and other dependable players. I liked the idea in plot and working out. While war was the theme in causing trouble, there were no scenes of bloodshed, though the last reels took us to the Italian border. It was a study in war emotions and left a good taste in the mouth. "Bridges Burned" was rather a disappointment, for we expect much from Petrova and a Metro picture. Here we had the late Arthur Hoops in a somewhat pathetic part, and I hear it was his last picture.

George Beban has repeated his personal success in "His Sweetheart," a play you have doubtless seen ere this. It did not seem that he could approach his work in "Pasquale," but here we have all that and more. It is quite unusual for a house to applaud any picture in this conservative village, not that we are not appreciative, but we get the habit of a silent house. However, this picture aroused intense interest and applause at the close. As one of the critics said: Helen Jerome Eddy actually looked like a veritable girl of Italy and not like a character in a Verdi opera. Such atmosphere one rarely finds, but when we learn that Beban wrote the play and doubtless arranged the detail all is explained.

Everyone here who has seen "The Scarlet Letter" put on at the Boston theater is enthusiastic over it, especially its ending—a departure from Hawthorne. I did not get in, owing to lack of time, but we will have it elsewhere ere long. A local critic deplored the fact that following this literary offering compelling the closest attention the management thrust a Chaplin riot upon the house.

Country's Theaters Classified as to Capacity.

By John J. Rotchford.

State	Under 250 Seats	251 to 500 Seats	501 to 800 Seats	Over 800 Seats	Total
Maine	96	61	37	28	222
New Hampshire	46	68	29	21	164
Vermont	51	33	21	12	117
Massachusetts	39	146	161	186	532
Rhode Island	10	17	10	28	65
Connecticut	22	82	44	62	210
New York	380	745	306	376	1,807
New Jersey	76	213	123	120	532
Pennsylvania	489	623	188	206	1,506
Ohio	517	408	122	110	1,157
Indiana	405	233	100	56	794
Illinois	560	660	243	149	1,612
Michigan	332	282	72	78	764
Wisconsin	331	246	83	62	722
Minnesota	368	203	50	37	658
Iowa	602	329	77	33	1,041
Missouri	330	244	128	115	817
North Dakota	173	41	3	8	225
South Dakota	178	45	12	6	241
Nebraska	387	155	29	24	595
Kansas	306	158	40	24	528
Delaware	11	11	2	4	28
Maryland	84	124	26	28	262
Dist. of Columbia	23	56	9	21	109
Virginia	102	72	22	20	216
West Virginia	197	86	24	19	326
North Carolina	137	63	15	10	225
South Carolina	89	36	11	2	138
Georgia	111	42	17	17	187
Florida	79	66	24	8	177
Kentucky	175	85	28	19	307
Tennessee	127	59	24	13	223
Alabama	117	48	12	7	184
Mississippi	65	28	7	7	107
Arkansas	124	54	24	9	211
Louisiana	141	102	28	21	292
Oklahoma	222	162	28	18	430
Texas	561	310	79	48	998
Montana	72	46	10	8	136
Idaho	71	49	11	1	132
Wyoming	50	27	9	3	89
Colorado	164	105	24	31	324
New Mexico	49	24	8	1	82
Arizona	44	34	17	7	97
Utah	50	43	10	10	113
Nevada	26	2	1	1	30
Washington	189	97	22	31	339
Oregon	131	52	18	13	214
California	250	339	145	106	840
Grand total	9,159	7,214	2,533	2,219	21,125
Percentage	.433	.341	.119	.105

EMPIRE-MUTUAL STUDIO AT GLENDALE.

The Empire All Star Corporation, recently organized by President John R. Freuler, president of the Mutual Film Corporation, and Alf Hayman, representative of the Charles Frohman company interests, to produce the stage successes of Charles Frohman with, in so far as possible, the original casts, for release through the Mutual, has acquired studios at Glendale, Long Island, and has installed a technical staff of men of wide experience both in the theater and in the motion picture field.

Frank Beresford has been engaged as studio manager and technical director. Arthur Englander has been appointed scenic artist. Arthur Peck has been made chief carpenter. Harry Redmond has been made the Empire's chief electrician.

NEW COMPANY AT WORCESTER, MASS.

A new motion picture concern named The Winner Photoplay Co., has just been incorporated under the laws of Massachusetts, with offices and studio at Worcester, Mass., to produce comedies and comedy-dramas. The officers of the company consist of president, Franklin E. Raymond; secretary-treasurer, J. R. de Russey, and vice-president, Roy W. Yeaton, all of Worcester.

"The Flashlight Girl" is the title of a five-reel production being filmed at Universal City. It features Dorothy Phillips and Lon Chaney with William H. Stowell as principal support. The story is by Albert M. Treynor, and appeared in the All-Story Weekly Magazine.

British Notes

J. D. TIPPETT, managing director of the Transatlantic Film Co., the European distributing agents for Universal, gave evidence before the Kinema Commission at Westminster on Monday. He summarized the reason for lack of enterprise in the educational field of moving pictures in accordance with the average showman's idea that there is no money in it. It was a long standing puzzle to many that all attempts to organize an efficient service of moving picture films for schools had proved abortive. Millions of feet of suitable subjects were lying idle on the shelves of the companies and he thought it largely a question of organization and transport. Whereas between 200 and 300 companies provided films for the 5,000 odd moving picture theaters, the number of schools that could be supplied was probably more than twice as great. Mr. Tippet referred briefly to censorship, of which he is strongly in sympathy, but he gave it his own definition, sound and simple. "The real crux of censorship," he said, "lies in discriminating as to the effect a picture will have upon all kinds of audiences, old and young, and whether the methods of presentation employed are such as not to offend the canons of good taste or to present life from such an angle as to glorify crime or wrongdoing."

* * *

I mentioned in my last letter that there had been one or two mutterings in the trade at the drastic cutting by the new voluntary censor of photoplays, T. P. O'Connor, of scenes from crook and sex plays. These objections, I am informed, have been brought to the notice of Mr. O'Connor and he again openly declares no half measures for strong scenes of these types. If the trade—which anomalously appointed him—is not satisfied with his judgment he offers as the only alternative his resignation.

* * *

Raymond K. Bartlett is in London, staying at the Savoy, until he has disposed of the British rights of the Ince immensity, "Civilization," which has not been sold up to the time of writing. The edition for the English market will be ten reels in length and different in a few obvious respects to the American version.

* * *

Gerald Ames, a former player of the London Film Co., was knocked down by a motor omnibus in London last week and is at present in Guy's Hospital suffering from severe injuries.

* * *

Henry Winik (Triangle) and J. D. Tippet (Transatlantic) are interesting themselves in the popularization of the new war loan issue along novel lines. Films leaving Universal House bear a short tail-piece advertising the issue.

* * *

Horace Biss, publicity manager of the Fox Film Co., Ltd., since the inception of the company in England, has resigned and has been succeeded by Herbert Engolm, scenario editor of the Samaelion Film Co.

* * *

A three-reel Chaplin comedy, entitled "Charlie's Preparedness," has been purchased for the United Kingdom by the Western Film Service of Manchester.

* * *

The first copy of the Fox pageant, "A Daughter of the Gods," arrived here a few days ago and will probably be shown to the trade and press within the next two weeks. It is most likely that the first public presentation of the film will be at one of the West End "legit" theaters.

J. B. SUTCLIFFE.

YALE BOSS IN A FIVE REELER.

Yale Boss, one of the most distinguished of the younger film artists, prides himself on having been in pictures longer than the average star of today. Yale's invasion of the screen dates back eight years, a time when Mary Pickford, Blanche Sweet, Henry Walthall, Clara Kimball Young, Dorothy and Lillian Gish and Shirley Mason were only in the making. Yale has many old stills in which these present day stars were playing child parts with him, and he keeps them most sacred. He is about to be featured in five reel productions, most of them to be released by the General Film, and he is actively engaged at the Edison studio at present. His first release will be "The Half-Back," in which he plays the leading role.

Popular Picture Personalities

WHO'S WHO IN THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

COMPILED BY THE STATISTICAL DEPARTMENT

ANDERSON, Mary. Born in Brooklyn, N. Y. American parentage. Is four feet eleven inches and weighs 105 pounds. Her hair is a reddish blond and her eyes are blue. Miss Anderson has had no stage experience, making her first appearance in pictures in June, 1914, in a bit in Vitagraph's The Lost Millionaire; at least she was told that she was in the picture, though she never could find herself in the film. Her best picture, to her way of thinking, was Bill Peters' Kid, playing an ingenue lead, but she has appeared in many Vitagraphs, for she has remained with her first studio ever since and is now working at their west coast studio. Miss Anderson is an all-round athlete, for she is an expert autoist, rides horses like a cow-girl, is at home on skis and snowshoes and can swim without yelling each time a wave slaps her, but best of all she loves her Airedales, of which she has a kennel.

Mary Anderson

BARRISCALE, Bessie. Born in New York City. English-Irish parentage. Is five feet two inches and weighs 116 pounds. Blond hair, brown eyes, fair complexion. Miss Barriscale made her debut as a baby in Shore Acres and has been on the stage practically ever since. She was a favorite in the old Proctor stock company, was Madge in In Old Kentucky, and scored successes in the original Bird of Paradise company and as Lovey Mary in Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch. She made her picture debut in August, 1914, in Lasky's The Rose of the Rancho, and is at present with the Ince-Triangle company at Culver City. Some of her best known appearances are in The Cup of Life, The Reward, The Mating, Just Plain Jane, Bullets and Brown Eyes and A Corner in Colleens. Is a great reader and is fond of outdoor sports. She is considering several offers to head her own company of players.

Bessie Barriscale

BOSWORTH, Hobart Van Zandt. Born in Marietta, Ohio. American parentage. Is six feet, one inch tall and weighs 208 pounds. Blond and gray hair, blue eyes. Mr. Bosworth made his stage debut June 30, 1885, and was a member of the Augustin Daly company for ten years at a time the Daly company most justly deserved its fame. He has also been the leading support for Julia Marlowe, Henrietta Crosman, Amelia Bingham and Mrs. Fiske and was starred by Harrison Grey Fiske. May 8, 1909, he made his camera debut as a member of the Selig forces, appearing in In the Power of the Sultan, the first picture, by the way, to be made in Los Angeles. He left Selig to form Hobart Bosworth, Inc.; has been with Universal and is now with Lasky. He wrote the stage version of Faust used by Lewis Morris son for so many years, as co-author with George Wessels and William A. Brady staged it.

Hobart Bosworth

ARLING, Charles. Born in Toronto, of English-Scotch parentage. Is five feet eleven inches and weighs 195 pounds. Brown hair and blue-gray eyes. Mr. Arling is a well-known comedian of the speaking stage and was a member of the famous all-star cast for the revival of Erminie, with Francis Wilson. He has played in the Savage productions with Lulu Glaser and has won renown in stock. He made his picture debut with Pathe, his first picture being Saved by Telegraphy. In their Memories he won unusually favorable comment for his playing of an old man of eighty. Other notable parts were in The Elusive Kiss, An Exciting Honeymoon, Crooked to the End and other Keystones. He was for four years with Pathe and then for a year with the Keystone. He is now being featured in Foxfilm Comedies, his initial bow in this series being in The Social Pirates. Is fond of music and singing.

Charles Arling

PAYTON, Gloria. Born in New York City. French parentage. Is five feet two inches tall and weighs 118 pounds. Has an olive complexion, black hair and brown eyes. Miss Payton made her stage debut in 1906 as a child actress, playing Oliver in Oliver Twist and Little Lord Fauntleroy. She has also appeared in vaudeville and had one year in Shakespearean repertoire: an invaluable experience for any player. She joined the Balboa forces in May, 1915. Though born in New York City, Miss Payton was educated in Texas at the Dallas High School and at St. Ignatius Academy, Fort Worth. In addition to belonging to the Shelley-Little-Lord-Fauntleroy Club, she is also entitled to membership in that organization of child players of the Princes in the Tower in Richard III, so that her record as a child actress is complete. She is best known from her work in In the Grip of Evil, and The Yellow Bullet.

Gloria Payton

GOODRICH, Katherine (Mrs. Thomas G. Lingham). English ancestry. Is five feet five inches. Weighs 126 pounds. Dark brown hair. Gray eyes. Made her stage debut in 1900 with the Savage Opera company. Has also played under Col. Thompson, Grau and others, and in dramatic work with the Russell Brothers, Billy Single Clifford, etc. Somehow the Kalem company seems to get the pick of the singers and it was natural that she should make her camera debut with that company in October, 1914, The Apartment House Mystery being the first picture in which she was seen. When the Signal company was formed, she went to that organization with her husband and is now playing Mrs. Holmes in The Lass o' the Lumberlands. She spends considerable of her leisure time in keeping up her music, though she has no expectation of resuming her musical career, as she prefers pictures.

Katherine Goodrich

Exchange Efficiency

Conducted by John J. Rotchford

THIS department aims to discuss and, thereby, remedy some of the difficulties experienced by exhibitors in their dealings with exchanges. It is believed that progressives among the latter have devised methods benefiting their end of the business and they will take advantage of this channel to promote its general welfare.

Make Lot Shipments!

Considerable annoyance and financial drain is imposed upon exhibitors by shipping clerks failing to make a lot shipment of two or more packages forwarded upon the same day. This burden is particularly severe upon small exhibitors, who must necessarily watch every expense item if they are to make a success of their undertaking.

Program exchanges should be most careful in this respect. With their regular service, several serials, features and extra special releases, together with the posters for all these, the chances of unthinkingly adding to their customers' costs are amazing. Hundreds of exhibitors have had to pay charges on three or four articles received the same day, when the use of a little foresight on the part of the shipper would have reduced the item by more than one-half. Conversely, it is the duty of the exhibitor to make a lot shipment of his returns whenever possible. Lot shipment labels are supplied free by all express companies. Exchanges and exhibitors should lay in a supply and use them regularly.

There are vast possibilities of co-operation between the different exchanges to affect still further savings in expressage for exhibitors. How simple it would be, for example, for an exchange having a comedy and a topical booked to a theater to carry these to the exchange which is sending a feature to the same theater and have all the reels go forward in one container.

Circuiting.

An exchange's duty does not cease when an exhibitor is instructed to ship a film direct to another customer. The second customer should be notified whence the show will come. Very often the latter will, upon his own initiative, telephone on the evening the shipment is to be made and remind the first exhibitor of his instructions.

Abuse of C. O. D. Privilege.

The right to make a C. O. D. shipment is sometimes seized upon by an irate exhibitor to reimburse himself for a grievance. This practice should be discouraged, for, while it might inconvenience the exchange a little, the chances are greater that it will cause a heavy loss to a fellow-exhibitor because of failure to receive an advertised subject. To paraphrase an old saying, when tempted to return a film C. O. D. count nine, but if the occasion seems to be particularly aggravating, count ninety-nine.

Notifying Exhibitors of Roadman's Visit.

Exhibitors would undoubtedly be glad to receive notice of a roadman's intended visit provided he appeared somewhere near the time advised. It would enable them for one thing to formulate an idea as to whether they would be likely to be interested and in the event they could not be present would enable them to leave a message for the solicitor. Since it is almost impossible for a film salesman to travel on a fixed schedule it would probably be best to allow the roadman to do his own notifying by means of printed postal cards to be mailed not more than a couple of days ahead.

A simple form along the following lines will be found satisfactory:

Original Film Co. _____, 1917.

Dear Sir:—

Our Mr. Smith is visiting the trade in your section. He will take pleasure in calling upon you next _____, about _____ o'clock.

Very truly yours,

H. JONES,
Manager.

Service.

Lapses will always occur in exchange work, which will result in the exhibitor missing his show or in a very narrow escape from same. On such occasions it is the duty of all employees to leave no stone unturned to effect the delivery of the reels. Very often calm deliberation will enable a way to be found, even though it at first appeared a hopeless proposition.

Several years ago an exchange manager carried reels from Denver to Cheyenne (107 miles) in his auto. More recently a New England manager used a motorcycle to make delivery of a feature. The wisdom of always seeking a way out is illustrated by the manner in which a show was delivered in Ophir, Utah, from Salt Lake, for use on a Saturday. The reels were overlooked on Friday, and there would not be another train until Monday. Examination of time-cards disclosed a Special Saturday train to Tooele, so a messenger was dispatched with the reels and instructed to hire a carriage. The trip over the mountain was made in good time and the house instead of being dark was merely a little late in opening.

Substituted Bookings.

Exhibitors are continually suffering losses because of the failure of an advertised subject to arrive on time. Often it is merely a matinee's receipts and sometimes it is the value of lost admissions because of substitution. Time and time again, however, the house is forced to remain dark and the good-will of the exhibitor suffers beyond the amount lost at the box office. The vast majority of these disappointments are caused by mistakes made by booking clerks. The latter as a rule have many things to attend to, and it is only natural that mistakes should creep into their work.

In an attempt to reduce these errors it has been suggested that the block numbers given in the official Express Directory might be made a part of each entry in the booking book, and that this would tend to prevent bookers from counting on impossible jumps.

It will be remembered that the Commerce Commission divided the country into numbered blocks, the extent of each being one degree of latitude by one degree of longitude. These blocks are numbered consecutively from west to east, but the difference in numbers between one particular block and that immediately north or south of it is always 100. Each block is subdivided into sixteen sections, lettered from A to Q, J being omitted. The diagram below illustrates this method.

The depth of each block is constant (about 69 miles) while the width varies with the latitude, from about 45 miles in the extreme north to about 65 miles in the extreme south. The

728	729				730
828	A	B	C	D	830
	E	F	G	H
	I	K	L	M
	N	O	P	Q
928	929				930

dimensions of the sub-blocks, therefore, are from about 11 to about 16 miles wide by about 17 miles deep. As an example: These notations would tend to prevent booking a feature in North Platte, Neb. (825 N), one day, and on the following day in Rockford, Iowa (633 N), since the block numbers would indicate a distance of at least 500 miles. On the other hand they would show the feasibility of booking Red Oak, Iowa (830 Q), immediately after Ashland, Neb. (829 P).

Chicago News Letter

By JAS. S. McQUADE

State Censorship Again Menaces Illinois

The Proposed Bill Must Be Vigorously Fought and Defeated by Producers and Exhibitors.

STATE censorship of moving pictures is again to the front in Illinois. A bill already prepared by the Political Equality League, or at least favored by its members, will be introduced shortly in the Illinois Legislature at Springfield.

The proposed bill provides for one censor, who is to be appointed by the Governor, under the department of education and registration, in the new state code established by Governor Lowden. This censor would be invested with all necessary power, and he could call for as many assistants as he deemed necessary. His salary would be fixed at not more than $3,500.

In the bill a provision is made aiming towards a congress of state censors, which it is expected would result finally in national censorship.

A little over a year ago it was attempted to establish a state censor board in Illinois. A bill with that object was passed through both houses of the legislature and awaited the signature of Governor Dunne to make it law. But the Governor vetoed it.

Regarding his action in the matter Governor Dunne, in a speech delivered before the convention of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America, held in Chicago in July, 1916, spoke as follows:

"I made careful inquiry at the time as to the need and the necessity for such a law. I found that the city of Chicago had established a board of censorship, and that motion pictures shown in that great city were censored by this board.

"I was informed that most of the pictures so censored in Chicago were exhibited throughout the state, and upon inquiry I found throughout the state no serious complaint against the moving picture men in reference to the pictures exhibited by them. I found no serious demand for the creation of the board of censorship, and such being the situation I vetoed the bill creating such a board.

"I vetoed the bill because I was convinced that exhibitors in Illinois were conducting their business on clean, respectable lines. Conduct your business as conducted in the State of Illinois and you will have no censorship.

"I congratulate you men in the moving picture industry in this State upon having so managed your business as to justify me in my veto of the censorship bill."

On that occasion Secretary of State Stevenson followed the Governor in a brief speech, in which he informed the convention why he had recommended that Governor Dunne should veto the state censor bill, which he himself had been instrumental in passing through both houses of the legislature.

Mr. Stevenson declared that within ten days after the bill had passed his office had been deluged by applications, to the number of 200, while there were only three positions to be filled. He said that he had carefully studied the fitness of these applicants eager to become censors of the people's chief amusement, and concluded that not one of them had the qualifications necessary. And he closed his address as follows:

"If the matter of state censorship should ever come up again I will oppose it, as the men who came forward then were so utterly unequal to the task."

Happily Mr. Stevenson was the people's choice to succeed himself in the late general election. He is still Secretary of State for Illinois, and if the present attempt to foist a state censor board on the people of Illinois should be serious enough to require his influence and experience to frustrate it, the exhibitors of the State will look to him for fulfillment of his pledge.

The Chicago board of censorship is sufficient for all present needs, and we eagerly look for the time when the business will become such a law unto itself that there will be no need even for it.

We must defeat state censorship in Illinois in order to keep the moving picture business out of politics. In the present case everyone must do his bit to bury the bill.

By the time this appears in print the bill will have been introduced in the legislature.

Roscoe Arbuckle Showered With Honors on His Trans-Continental Trip.

Roscoe Arbuckle arrived in the city from his last stopping place, Kansas City, Mo., on Tuesday, February 27. He was accompanied by Adolph Zukor, president of the Famous Players Film Service; Joseph M. Schenck, associated with Mr. Arbuckle; Herbert Warren and Wm. Winter Jefferson, son of the famous actor, Joseph Jefferson, all of whom came on with him from Los Angeles, the starting point. James Steele of the Famous Players Film Service arrived during the day from New York to join the party.

Mr. Arbuckle is making a tour of the country and meeting exhibitors at every place stopped at to emphasize his association henceforth as a comedy star with Paramount.

Mr. Arbuckle was the honored guest at an informal and complimentary banquet given by the Famous Players Film Service, in the Louis XVI Room, Hotel Sherman, Tuesday evening. Letters of invitation had been sent out broadcast to exhibitors in Chicago and in the States of Illinois and Indiana, and over 200 of those invited attended the banquet.

Joseph Hopp, president of the Chicago Local, was toastmaster on the occasion and presided very happily. Speeches were made by Adolph Zukor, Mr. Arbuckle and the other members of the party from Los Angeles, followed by Mrs. Alfred Hamburger, A. Sigfried, a prominent exhibitor from Decatur, Ill., and an old timer in the business, and the representatives of the daily and trade press.

Mr. Arbuckle was busy every moment of the day while here. He held a reception at the Chicago office of Famous Players, where Frank Rutledge, the manager, had prepared everything for his coming.

Mr. Arbuckle, after his strenuous visit in Kansas City, Mo., was obliged to attend the hospital while here to have his foot dressed. He was suffering from an attack of blood poisoning in that member, but it is steadily improving.

A number of downtown theaters were next visited by him, where he was presented and made a short speech in each instance. Following this a procession, headed by Mr. Arbuckle in his auto, marched through the "Loop." The Newsboys' Band escorted him to the Hotel Sherman, where the banquet was opened shortly after 7 o'clock.

At 11.55 p. m. the Arbuckle party left for Cincinnati, which is the next stopping place on the itinerary, on their way to New York.

Kansas City (Mo.) Reception.

From all accounts the reception given Mr. Arbuckle at Kansas City, Mo., was most impressive. Sunday noon on February 25, until the following Monday night at 11 o'clock, Mr. Arbuckle had not a moment's rest.

Sunday was given over to a series of informal receptions, following a dinner at the Hillcrest Country Club, at which President Wm. M. Beebe acted as host. After this Mr. Arbuckle staged a comedy golf picture, in which Mayor Edwards of Kansas City participated. Another reception was given in his honor by Phil R. Toll, a retired capitalist of Kansas City, and Mrs. Toll, who were assisted in receiving by the Comedy Club of Kansas City. At this gathering the elite of Kansas City were present to grasp the hand of the jolly comedian.

After Mr. Toll's reception, Mr. Arbuckle was taken to the Linwood Boulevard Christian Church by A. D. Flintom, Paramount manager for Kansas City, where the comedian was asked to make a short address to the congregation from the pulpit. This flabbergasted the big fun-maker for a few moments, but he pulled himself together and neatly expressed his appreciation of the honor conferred upon him, promising his listeners that he would never produce a picture that would in any way offend the nice sensibilities of anyone.

Monday was just as busy a day, one of the chief honors conferred upon Mr. Arbuckle being the bestowal of a golden key to the city by Mayor Edwards.

Lunch was taken at the Screen Club, where Frank Newman, the leading exhibitor of Kansas City, acted as toastmaster. Then followed visits to a number of theaters, after which Mr. Arbuckle was given a banquet at the Hotel Moelbach, which was largely attended by prominent exhibitors of Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri.

Chicago Film Brevities.

The headquarters of the Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay Service will move to new quarters in the Chicago Business College Building, 207 S. Wabash avenue, this city, Monday, March 5. The staff will occupy the entire seventh floor of the building, which is centrally located for the trade.

The Kleine Optical Co. will remain at the old quarters, 166 N. State street, where it has been located since Mr. Kleine entered the business.

Gorge Kleine announces the postponement of the release of "The Trufflers" (Essanay), booked for March 5, through K-E-S-E, and has substituted "Burning the Candle" (Essanay) for that date. "The Devil's Side Door," another Essanay feature, in which Mary Charleson plays the lead, supported by Webster Campbell and a strong cast, will be released March 19 through K-E-S-E.

"Beware of Strangers," which has had an exceptionally popular run of three weeks, will be forced to make way at the La Salle for Nora Bayes and her New York vaudeville company, which will open March 4.

W. R. Rothacker, president of the Rothacker Film Manufacturing Co., who has been engaged in strenuous work for some time past, left for Hot Springs, Ark., Sunday evening, February 25, where he will spend a week or two in resting. During his absence the advertising department of the company will be in charge of E. F. Lessner.

Alfred Hamburger's Ziegfeld theater will have as its main attraction the coming week "Kitty Mackay" (Vitagraph), with Lillian Walker in the lead.

Mr. Hamburger has booked, through Mr. Brockell of the Selznick organization, all of Clara Kimball Young's pictures, past and future, also Norma Talmadge in "Panthea" and her succeeding productions, and the Robert Warwick photoplays, beginning with "The Argyle Case."

Albert W. Hale, assistant general manager of Famous Stars Pictures Corporation, stopped over in Chicago for a few days on his way to the Los Angeles studio. He left February 26 for the Coast.

Max Goldsteine, manager of the Chicago office of Arcraft Pictures Corporation, has engaged the Auditorium, the largest theater in America, for Mary Pickford's "A Poor Little Rich Girl." Saturday, March 10, has been fixed for the opening date. Admissions will be 25 and 50 cents during the run. A large and well trained orchestra of Chicago's leading musicians will play the accompanying music.

The Ascher Bros. added the twelfth house to their fine moving picture theater chain on February 24, when the Milford theater, Milwaukee and Crawford avenues, was opened. The Milford seats 1,235 people, and 5 and 10 cents admission will be charged. The programs will be selected from Triangle, Metro, Paramount, V-L-S-E and other makes. Robert Warwick in "The Argyle Case" (Selznick) was the feature on the opening night. The manager of the Milford is Walter Dietz.

Ruth Roland stopped over in Chicago one day last week on her way from Los Angeles to New York City. She announced that she had severed her connections with the Horkheimer Bros. of the Balboa Amusement & Producing Co., Long Beach, Cal., but it is said that she will be sued by that company for alleged breach of contract, in the sum of $50,000. Miss Roland said she was not worried about the outcome of the suit, as she had stayed with the company eight weeks after her contract had expired.

The annual benefit in aid of the Actors' Fund of America will be held in Chicago, Friday afternoon, March 9, at the Auditorium. Chicago has always been munificent in its support of this worthy object, and the dramatic, vaudeville and moving picture talent now engaged in the city will turn out en masse to make the event worthy of Chicago's past record. Essanay has already announced that Henry B. Walthall and an all-star cast of Essanay players will appear in a comedy skit, "The Perils of Power," or "How Moving Pictures Are Not Made." Mary Charleson, Edward Arnold, Marguerite Clayton, Harry Dunkinson and Director Arthur Berthelet are the names of the other Essanay people who will appear.

A band of safeblowers are again on the rampage in Chicago. They paid the Century theater, 1421 W. Madison street, a visit early Monday morning, February 26. When Manager Glassner arrived at the theater later in the day he found that the outer door of the safe had been blown off and the inner door pried open with a jimmy. The money which had been placed in the safe, amounting to $240, was missing. The Century theater is owned by the Schaefer Theater Co.

Louella O. Parsons, photoplay editor of the Chicago Herald, was able to coax David Wark Griffith to admit, during a recent interview, that the suffrage film, the production of which was recently requested by a committee of prominent ladies of Chicago, would soon be a reality. Mr. Griffith stated that he expected to put the suffrage cause on the screen for the ladies as soon as he could get to work.

"The women themselves do not know this, and this is the first public statement I have made of my plans," said Mr. Griffith to Miss Parsons.

The production will be in the nature of a great spectacle, which will show the struggle by women made in this and other countries for equal rights.

The sinking of the great Cunarder, Laconia, brought bad news to Essanay last week. The first 50 prints of Max Linder's first comedy for Essanay, "Max Comes Across," went down with the steamer. The prints were destined for the British Isles, where many moving picture fans were eagerly looking for their appearance, as well as thousands of entente soldiers in the trenches in France.

On Saturday, February 24, Louis H. Frank filed a bill of injunction in the Circuit Court against Lee A. Ochs, W. J. Sweeney and Ludwig Schindler to restrain them from interfering with his management of the National Exposition of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America at the Coliseum this year. Messrs. Ochs, Sweeney and Schindler were notified to appear in court before Judge Baldwin on Monday, February 26, to answer the injunction proceedings. Mr. Ochs was absent, but Messrs. Sweeney and Schindler were present. When the case came up Judge Baldwin refused to issue an injunction, but continued the case until March 10, to give the defendants time to prepare their case.

The meeting of the National Executive Committee of the M. P. E. L. of America, set for March 2, has been postponed until Friday, March 9. Notice was sent out to members of the committee on February 26 to attend the meeting.

The Selig Polyscope Co. has received word from Robert Lieber, owner and manager of the Circle theater, Indianapolis, that "The Crisis" had broken all records for admissions at that house by at least 20,000 in one week.

The big photoplay recently opened at Jackson, Miss., and the local press devoted columns of space to its merits. It will be remembered that most of the spectacular war scenes were filmed at Vicksburg, so that it was only to be expected that people from all the surrounding towns came in to see the big show. One and all pronounced it one of the greatest film dramas of the day.

Two stock companies are now busily engaged at Selig's Chicago studios on productions that will be released through General Film Service. Several farce comedies and a series of two-reel dramas are at present being produced under the direction of Otis B. Thayer.

"Caleb Conover," the famous stage play and novel by Alfred Payson Terhune, will be produced by William N. Selig in the near future. George Fawcett, who originated the title role and starred for a number of seasons in the stage production, will be seen on the screen as the iron-willed Caleb. Colin Campbell, who will direct the production, will follow closely the story of the play and the novel. Tom Santschi, Fritz Brunette, Eugenie Besserer and Harry Lonsdale are some of the leading people in the support.

News of Los Angeles and Vicinity

By G. P. VON HARLEMAN

Marshall Farnum Dead

Well Known Director Passes Away on February 18th.

MARSHALL PERKINS FARNUM, one of the best liked men in the motion picture industry, died on February 18th in a private sanitarium at Prescott, Ariz. His brothers, William and Dustin Farnum, were with him when the end came.

Mr. Farnum was 36 years old and was noted for his directorial ability, having been a director for both the World and Fox Film Corporations, as well as several other companies.

The funeral took place from the chapel of the Los Angeles crematory on Wednesday, the 22d, and most of the prominent people in the Los Angeles industry attended. The pall bearers were Willard Louis, William Burress, Milton Sills, Thomas Santschi, George Fawcett and George Clark.

The Los Angeles office of the Moving Picture World wishes to extend its sincere sympathy to his brothers, William and Dustin Farnum, in the hour of their great bereavement.

William Fox Arrives in Los Angeles

First Visit of the Film Magnate to His Western Studio.

WILLIAM FOX, accompanied by his wife and daughter, arrived in Los Angeles on Friday, the 23d of February, for his first visit to the western headquarter of his film enterprises. Abraham Carlos, general representative of the Fox Film Corporation; William and Dustin Farnum, both Fox stars; R. A. Walsh, director of "The Honor System"; Harry Leonhardt, western district manager, and James Marcus, assistant to Mr. Walsh, met Mr. Fox at the train.

About three hundred feet of film was taken of his arrival, although he himself was unconscious of it. When Mr. Fox walked into the studio projection room that afternoon, the strip of film was run off upon the screen. This was the first time that the man who has caused thousands of others to be photographed was caught himself by the camera.

Mr. Fox found practically all of his western companies at work. William Farnum had just begun a new productoin under the directorship of Frank Lloyd. R. A. Walsh was doing his first day's work on the picture which will star Miriam Cooper, Richard Stanton was completing a new Gladys Brockwell story, and George Walsh was more than half finished with his latest feature, directed by Otis Turner.

William Fox, Miss Fox and William Farnum at the Los Angeles Depot.

In the comedy field one production was having its final day of work. Hank Mann was in his second week of another comedy feature, and Charles Parrott was shooting the initial scenes of another. Mr. Fox expressed himself as decidedly pleased with his reception and the outlook of his west coast studio.

In the following illustration our very good friend, Richard Stanton, is seen seated in an automobile directing Gladys Brockwell in a forthcoming William Fox production. Dick is noted for his ability in putting punch into any story that comes under his directorial hands. As witness, his Fox productions of "The Beast," "The Love Thief," "One Touch of Sin," etc. This picture features, from left to right, Bertram Grasby, Gladys Brockwell, Richard Stanton, J. D. Jennings, cameraman, and Clifford Elfelt, assistant director.

Stanton Directing Gladys Brockwell.

Ince-Triangle Stars on Ice

Thomas H. Ince Gives Skating Party at Los Angeles Ice Palace.

WE WERE the recipient this week of an invitation from our old friend, Ken O'Hara, director of publicity for Thomas H. Ince, to attend an ice skating party given by Mr. Ince for his stars and their friends at the Palace Rink. Among those who attended were William S. Hart, Enid Bennett, Louise Glaum, Sylvia Bremer, Margaret Thompson, Mabel Condon, Charles Ray, Robert McKim, J. Barney Sherry, Jack Livingston, Raymond B. West, Monte M. Katterjohn, Lanier Bartlett, William Parker, Roy Neil, E. H. Allen and ourselves.

We were witnesses to the fact that several fair charmers, whom we will not mention by name, failed for the first time in their public career to conquer the "first reel ice" of their support. Raymond B. West was all right, so he said, but his skates were dull, and our old friend Bill Hart as usual tried to gallop through the scene and nearly went through the ice. However, it was some party.

Shorty Hamilton at Clune Comedy Theater.

Manager D. C. McCarty, of Clune's Comedy Theater, on Broadway, Los Angeles, arranged an effective stunt featuring Shorty Hamilton on the occasion of the first run of the new series of Shorty Hamilton comedy-dramas, written by W. H. Clifford, and produced by the Monogram Film company for the Mutual program. Shorty Hamilton, accompanied by a band of cowboys and girls, opened the show by riding on the stage mounted on his famous horse, Beauty, which appears in all the series of pictures.

Los Angeles Film Brevities.

Ford Sterling, one of the original "Big Four" of the Keystone Company, has left that organization and is en route to New York, relative to a new film affiliation.

* * *

Through an inadvertent report by a new stenographer in the offices of the Clune Theater Company we printed in the issue of February 10th the statement that J. W. Anderson had resigned the managership of Clune's Broadway theater. We hereby take this means of correcting the statement in justice to our very good friend, Jimmy Anderson. The facts of the case are Mr. Anderson was away on a vacation.

* * *

James Slipper, of J. Slipper & Company, motion picture supplies, announces that he has just sold a new Simplex machine to the Continental Producing Company of Los Angeles.

* * *

We recently had the pleasure of seeing "Melting Millions," one of the most recent pictures of Joseph Anthony Roach, photoplaywright, formerly of Chicago and New York, and a Fox production featuring George Walsh, at Manager Fred Miller's Alhambra theater. The story is a comedy-drama, and drew an unusually cordial reception from the audience.

A seven-reel picturization of Wycliffe A. Hill's story, "The Curse of Eve," now being produced by the Corona Cinema Company, is another of Roach's stories soon to be released.

Fairbanks Begins Work

Takes Over Gauntier Studio—"In and Out" Title of First Artcraft Subject by Anita Loos Under Direction of John Emerson.

AFTER eight weeks of absence from the studio, Douglas Fairbanks early last week commenced activities on his initial photoplay to be released by the Artcraft Picture Corporation under the agreement recently signed by the popular screen star and the well known distributing organization, which also handles the Mary Pickford and George M. Cohan productions.

The Gene Gauntier studios on West 54th street, New York City, have been taken over by the Fairbanks company, and quite a few scenes have already been "shot." This plant offers every facility for modern photoplay production, and will be used until such time as the company leaves New York for other locales.

The scenario by Anita Loos, the youthful authoress of various Fairbanks screen hits, who immediately became part of his new organization upon its formation recently, is entitled "In and Out." The story presents an unusual satire on life in peaceful New Jersey, and has already caused great enthusiasm among all those connected with the production of the picture, it being readily felt that this offering will immediately prove the athletic screen star's greatest triumph.

The matter of the temporary injunction restraining John Emerson from acting as director for Mr. Fairbanks, under the new arrangements with Artcraft, has been settled out of court, and Mr. Emerson is now again at the helm of the Fairbanks producing staff. The filing of Justice Newburger's order in the County Clerk's office last week gave the first intimation that the disagreement between the Majestic company, as plaintiff, and Fairbanks and Emerson, as defendants, had been agreeably settled to all concerned outside of court. After receiving the motion from both parties, Justice Newburger granted permission to discontinue the action against Emerson, brought by the Majestic Company, without costs to either party, and then vacated and set aside the injunction against Emerson, granted by Justice Hotchkiss recently. Following Justice Newburger's action, it was learned that attorneys representing the plaintiff and the two defendants had reached an adjustment and that the entire matter had been settled.

In connection with his return to the studio, the energetic "Doug." said: "Gee whiz, it feels great to be at work again. Would you believe it, I actually felt nervous when I put on my war paint for the first scene of 'In and Out.' It's been so long since I've been before the camera, that I felt just as if I were about to face a first-night after a long lay-off. But it did not take me long to get back into stride again, and if my first Artcraft release doesn't prove the biggest thing I have ever done on the screen, I will—well, just watch for it."

MUTUAL WEEKLY STRENGTHENS PACIFIC COAST ORGANIZATION.

E. W. Castle, who has been with the Mutual Weekly for the past four years, most of the time with headquarters in San Francisco, has been transferred to the Los Angeles territory as a part of the plan for strengthening its representation on the Pacific Coast. In addition to his duties as photographer, Mr. Castle will make arrangements there to co-operate more closely with the newspapers, a plan that has been followed with much success here.

During his stay in San Francisco Mr. Castle has covered a wide variety of news and is known as one of the best photographers in the business, having been selected last year to make important pictures for the "See America First" series. He was detailed here throughout the Exposition of 1915 and frequently a large part of the Mutual Weekly was given over to his work. When Lincoln Beachey met his tragic death Mr. Castle was on the ground within ten minutes and covered everything except the actual fall. He has many "scoops" to his credit and it is expected that the southern part of the State will receive better representation on the Mutual Weekly than has been the case in the past.

Gladys Leslie, the Girl With the Million Dollar Smile

THE Girl with the Million Dollar Smile" has smiled her way into stardom. In other words, Gladys Leslie will be featured by the Thanhouser Film Corporation, in a new five-act feature, the name of which is not announced. It is stated, however, that the leading role is one for which she is exceptionally suited.

Miss Leslie's nickname was given to her by the critic of the New York Herald when he reviewed "The Vicar of Wakefield," now playing at the Rialto Theater. In this classic the young actress appeared as Sophia, the younger daughter of the Vicar. Her work was so excellent that Edwin Thanhouser, president of the company that bears his name, decided she was worthy to play leading roles. And during the negotiations that followed, Miss Leslie smiled happily. Miss Leslie's smile is attractive, because it is a natural one. She is the kind of a girl who always looks on the bright side of life, and her smiles are never forced. They come easily because they are spontaneous.

The new star's first screen experience was gained at the Edison Studio, she leaving there to come to Thanhouser, where she appeared in a number of features. And almost every new release was followed by a flood of letters asking "Who is the girl with the beautiful smile?"

Gladys Leslie.

Apparently the theatergoing public yearns for stars who regard the world as a beautiful place. If this is so, Miss Leslie is assured of a joyous welcome, for she considers this life as one worth while, and the happy creature who is seen upon the screen is simply a correct photo reproduction of the real girl "with the Million Dollar Smile."

MARY PICKFORD HAS NEW HOME.

Mary Pickford, who has just arrived in California, following the completion of "A Poor Little Rich Girl," has taken over the beautiful estate at Hollywood, California, formerly occupied by Geraldine Farrar during the production of "Joan the Woman."

MONTAGU LOVE RE-ENGAGED BY BRADY.

Montagu Love has been re-engaged by William A. Brady for the World Film Corporation for another year, during which his name will be "featured" in the announcements of all photoplays embracing his services. The actor has played an unusual variety of roles since joining the World forces a few months ago. In "Bought and Paid For" he was cast for the multimillionaire, Stafford. The current release, "The Dancer's Peril," with Alice Brady as its star, finds Mr. Love once more personating a tremulous old European scamp.

K-E-S-E-Feature Every Week

Increase Service Will Begin April 2—Kleine Promises High Class Subjects.

WHAT may very properly be regarded as an important announcement comes from K-E-S-E this week. In a nutshell it adds to the K-E-S-E Service twelve additional features each year. Beginning April 2, K-E-S-E will release a feature every week. Heretofore their releases numbered forty each year with an occasional super-feature. This organization announces that contracts on the new basis will be accepted and sought immediately.

George Kleine, discussing this advanced departure of his organization, dwelt particularly upon the high-class product now being released through K-E-S-E and remarked incidentally about the noteworthy increase in expense about to be incurred with the production of these twelve extra features:

"We aim," said Mr. Kleine, "to give exhibitors a service that assures them of being able to present money-making, money-earning pictures every day in the year without a break or skip. An exhibitor, under our plan of increased product, may sign for a year's production and his worry, at least so far as booking features, is at an end for a year at least.

"Exhibitors will quickly realize that under our new plan they will get in our regular service twelve super-features each year, or, in other words, we have decided to put twelve super-features at the disposal of exhibitors at regular service prices. There will be nothing under five reels, but if to properly produce a worthy picture it is found desirable to increase the footage this additional expense will be borne by our manufacturers and not charged to exhibitors.

"We would prefer, of course, that exhibitors arrange for yearly K-E-S-E Service, but where they are not situated so as to be able to take advantage of our new plan we will be glad to take care of them until a time as they can accept the yearly service. No matter if an exhibitor signs for one or fifty-two K-E-S-E features, he will be assured of quality first, last and all the time."

METRO COMPANIES RETURN FROM SOUTH.

The winter studios of Metro Pictures Corporation at Jacksonville, Fla., have been closed for the season, and the companies under the management of Rolfe Photoplays, Inc., and Columbia Pictures Corporation are on their way to New York. B. A. Rolfe, president of Rolfe Photoplays, Inc., returned in advance of the various companies, having superintended their activities at Jacksonville for the last two months.

The Metro-Columbia and Metro-Rolfe companies have completed the exteriors of six photoplays during their sojourn at the winter studios. These are "The Call of Her People," the great seven-act special release with Ethel Barrymore as star, directed by John W. Noble, a picture version of Edward Sheldon's play, "Egypt"; "The Duchess of Doubt," starring Emmy Wehlen, a five-part photoplay written by Charles A. Logue and John Clymer and directed by George D. Baker; "Sowers and Reapers," with the same star, the story contrived and directed by Mr. Baker; "God's Law and Man's," starring Viola Dana and directed by John H. Collins, a picturization of Paul Trent's novel, "A Wife by Purchase"; "Lady Barnacle," with the same star and the same director, a screen version of Edgar Franklyn's story of the same name, which will be published in the All Story Weekly simultaneously with the release on the Metro program; and "A Magdalene of the Hills," with Mabel Taliaferro as star and John W. Noble as director.

FRED J. BALSHOFER IN NEW YORK.

Fred J. Balshofer, president and general manager of the York Film Corporation, has arrived in New York from Los Angeles. Mr. Balshofer came East to attend the annual directors' meeting of Metro Pictures Corporation.

Mr. Balshofer stated that the future plans of the Yorke corporation included the immediate erection of a new studio at Hollywood, Cal.; the general enlargement of the Hollywood plant, and the starring of Lockwood and Allison in a seven-reel feature adapted from "The Yellow Dove," the great novel of the war in Europe by George Gibbs. This feature will be one of Metro's special releases. An unusually fine cast will be chosen to support the stars, and it will include screen players of prominence.

Mr. Balshofer was accompanied east by Richard V. Spencer, the Yorke scenario writer, and Mason Hopper, director.

Triangle Takes Over Producing Interests

Absorbs New York Motion Picture Corporation as Well as Majestic and Reliance Companies.

As indicated in the issue of the Moving Picture World of February 17, when it was stated that "most satisfactory arrangements had been completed between the New York Motion Picture Company and the Triangle," the sale of the New York company as well as the Majestic and Reliance companies to the Triangle has been completed. As announced a month ago, Mr. Baumann has retired, but Mr. Kessel retains a substantial interest and will continue to participate in the councils of the Triangle.

Mr. Kessel, Harry Aitken and C. M. Parker will constitute the executive committee of the board of directors of Triangle and will be charged with the active management of the corporation. Charles Kessel, who has been associated with Kessel & Baumann in the conduct of the New York Motion Picture Corporation, is also one of the new directors of Triangle. Mr. Baumann and Charles Kessel have just returned from a short visit to the coast.

"Nothing much has happened," said Ad Kessel in his office last week. "Everything is going on as before. We simply have amalgamated in order that we may cut down a lot of unnecessary expenses."

NICHOLAS POWER EMPLOYEES HOLD ANNUAL BALL.

At Arcadia Hall, Saturday evening, March 3, the Camera-graph Club held its annual ball. The club is composed principally of the employees of the Nicholas Power Company. The officers are Theodore Uhlemann, president; Bennett Goldsmith, vice-president; Bert Elsbek, sergeant-at-arms; S. S. Cassard, Leonard A. Ruess, Joe Abrams, William Ellwood, reception committee. The floor committee were Jack Ornstein, James Stillman; entertainment committee, Louis M. Erkin, Ray Dengel, Charles Wickersheimer, August Kerzman, Hector McKinnon; honorary members, Nicholas Power, John F. Skerritt, Edward Earle and Will C. Smith; publicity manager, Arthur J. Lang. Among the moving picture stars who participated in the grand march were Gertrude McCoy, Florence Turner, Frankie Mann, Sidney Mason, Donald Hall and Sydney Bracey. About three thousand persons attended and dancing lasted until three o'clock the morning of Inauguration Day.

SOL LESSER TACKLES ANOTHER BIG JOB.

In the face of most spirited competition in California, Sol Lesser, president of the All-Star Features Distributors, Inc., of San Francisco, has closed for Universal's "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea." The feature of the purchasing of this production was the fact that not less than eight independent California buyers were in active competition to secure this production, and it is reported Mr. Lesser paid one of the largest prices ever paid for a feature production for the territory of California, Arizona and Nevada.

In glancing over the list of productions now controlled by him, including "Civilization," "The Garden of Allah," "War Brides," the Clara Kimball-Young super-productions and all the Selznick releases, one must come to the conclusion that Mr. Lesser is determined to uphold his reputation as one of the big independent buyers of the country.

Mr. Lesser is now in New York City on a most important business mission.

BERTRAM GRASSBY TO PLAY OPPOSITE GLADYS BROCKWELL.

Bertram Grassby, for many years a familiar figure in stock and in the legitimate drama, has been engaged by William Fox to support Gladys Brockwell in her forthcoming production. Mr. Grassby's acquisition makes another addition to the British colony in the Fox studios in Hollywood, Cal. His compatriots under the big glass roof are Winifred Kingston, Frank Lloyd, William D. Taylor and Charles Girard. This quartet reached out welcoming hands when Mr. Grassby enrolled with the Richard Stanton company, of which Miss Brockwell is the star.

MESEREAU AND VAN LOAN TO LEAD MARCH.

Violet Mesereau, Universal star, and H. H. Van Loan, director of publicity for Universal, will lead the grand march at the ball to be held by the Brooklyn Mutual Aid Society, at the Labor Lyceum on April 8.

Fifteen "Brady-Mades"

Shelves of the World Film Are Well Stocked With Subjects for Release.

THE World Film Corporation now has fifteen Brady-made motion pictures completed and ready for release upon a few hours' notice if that were desirable—which of course it is not. In the regular line the last of these photoplays will not reach the public until June 11, three months hence.

The list includes "The Dancer's Peril," with Alice Brady as its star and Alexis Kosloff's Russian corps de ballet as a novel feature; "The Social Leper," of which Carlyle Blackwell is the star, while June Elvidge, Evelyn Greeley and Arthur Ashley are seen in the other important roles; "As Man Made Her," with Gail Kane starred and Edward Langford, Frank Mills and Gerda Holmes featured; "The House Cat," starring Ethel Clayton and featuring Rockliffe Fellowes; "Forget-Me-Not," with Kitty Gordon as star and Montagu Love as featured player; "Maternity," starring Alice Brady; "The Page of Mystery," with Carlyle Blackwell in the star personation and June Elvidge and Arthur Ashley in the leading parts; "The Family Honor," starring Robert Warwick and providing strong roles for June Elvidge and Henry Hull; "The Wit of a Woman," with Muriel Ostriche as the star, assisted by Arthur Ashley, Johnny Hines and Alec Francis; Alice Brady in "Darkest Russia," Carlyle Blackwell, associated with June Elvidge in "The Price of Pride," Robert Warwick and Gail Kane in "The Moral Code," and Ethel Clayton and Montagu Love in "Pretty Polly Pollard."

The names of several of these pictures will be changed before final release, in accord with Mr. Brady's frequently exercised practice of making leisurely substitution of title when he feels that such a course will be of benefit.

This is one of the reasons why Director General William A. Brady some months ago began pushing the resources of the World Film's Peerless studio at Fort Lee to their utmost, at one time having as many as five productions simultaneously under way inside the spacious structure.

To Open Studio in Month

Sanger Picture Plays Corporation Has Completed Work of Remodeling Building and Will Soon Begin Work.

IN a month the much heralded studio of the Sanger Picture Plays Corporation will be open and the actual work of making pictures will begin. The building, a spacious two-story brick structure, situated on the southwest corner of Park avenue and 134th street, has been converted from what was formerly Young's Casino, the scene of many a stag and prize ring bout, and at one time a haunt of the plotters in the Rosenthal murder, into a most perfectly equipped motion picture studio in the East today.

The office of the business staff occupy the front of the building, on the Park avenue side. The big arena will be used entirely for the staging of scenes. Under the balcony on either side has been built a big property room and carpenter shop, also a developing room. The balconies themselves, which are of unusual width, have been converted into dressing rooms and shower baths, on the one side those for the stars and principals, on the other those for the extra people. The space, also a wide one, between the dressing rooms and the balcony railing, is given over to the green rooms, as in the case of the dressing rooms, the left side for the principals, the right for the extras, and furnished with comfortable chairs and the little tables holding magazines and newspapers or for the serving of luncheons. The projection room, built downstairs, is another notable feature, for instead of the usual hole in the wall it has the spaciousness and comfort of a small auditorium. Extra dressing rooms have also been provided below stairs, as also are the store rooms, and the vault for the films.

SALISBURY-BEACH PICTURES FOR RIALTO.

The Salisbury-Rex Beach pictures of Central and South America, which are being distributed on states rights by the Grand Feature Film Company of 220 West 42nd street, are to be shown in the Rialto Theater for a period of eight weeks, beginning March 4. This engagement constitutes a record run for the big New York showhouse. As already has been set forth at length in the Moving Picture World, these pictures were taken by Captain Edward Salisbury and Rex Beach in a ten-thousand-mile trip. Mr. Beach is seen in many of the pictures.

The subjects will be released under the titles of "Rex Beach on the Spanish Main," "Rex Beach in Pirate Haunts" and "Rex Beach in the Footsteps of Captain Kidd."

Cherie Coleman

Clever Actress Who Has a Leading Part in "Crime and Punishment," Pathe-Arrow Feature.

THE discovery of a new type is an event in the film industry. In Cherie Coleman, who plays one of the three leading parts in the big Pathe-Arrow feature, "Crime and Punishment," the screen has found a girl absolutely "different," a most unusual, old-fashioned type, aristocratic and self-willed, yet wistfully sweet. She is a trained actress, whose success on the stage in "Little Women" and many other plays is such that her appearance in a photoplay is a happening worth recording.

Miss Coleman made her stage debut with Christie McDonald in "The Spring Maid," the Victor Herbert operetta which captivated Broadway and ran for eight months at the Liberty Theater. She was also seen in "The Rose Maid," a tuneful operetta which played to big houses throughout the country, and in James Montgomery's rapid-fire farce, "Ready Money." Then came the engagement as "Beth" in "Little Women," after which she demonstrated her ability as a versatile actress by playing the lead with Victor Morley in the musical play, "My Best Girl."

Cherie Coleman.

In the Arrow Film Corporation's production of Fedor Dostoevsky's famous book, "Crime and Punishment," Miss Coleman plays the important part of Dounia, sister of Rodion, the student, in which part Derwent Hall Caine is seen to such advantage. Dostoevsky's book has been translated into every language and has created a sensation in every civilized country of the globe.

"In creating the part of Dounia in the film version," says Miss Coleman, "I made a careful study not only of the scenario, written especially by Charles A. Taylor, the famous author of 'Yosemite' and other plays, but I also took care to read the book itself and get clearly in my mind the spirit of the character which Dostoevsky portrays."

COLLINS OF M'CLURE'S GOES TO COAST.

Frederick L. Collins, president of McClure Pictures, producer of "Seven Deadly Sins," left New York Saturday, March 3, for Los Angeles, where he will investigate motion picture conditions. On his tour he will stop in many cities to discuss motion picture conditions with exhibitors. Mr. Collins is rapidly completing his plans for the next McClure series of five reel features that will follow "Seven Deadly Sins." While in Los Angeles he will perhaps make arrangements for taking three of his next series of five reel features on the Coast. If conditions are favorable for opening a studio in Los Angeles, Mr. Collins will remain there until work is under way.

When he returns to New York, Mr. Collins expects to bring with him contracts with several big stars and perhaps with one of the best known directors in motion pictures.

The new McClure series of five reel features will be ready for release as soon as "Seven Deadly Sins" completes its run.

ESSANAY FILM ON LACONIA.

Fifty prints of "Max Comes Across," Max Linder's first Essanay comedy, went down with the steamship Laconia when the Cunarder was torpedoed by a U-boat off the English coast. The prints were destined to London and were an installment of a shipment of the "Max Comes Across" films designed to be distributed throughout England, Wales, Scotland and Ireland. News of the loss was received in a cable from Essanay's London office, with a request for an immediate duplication of the shipment.

This is, perhaps, the first instance wherein an American manufacturer of motion pictures has been effected by the submarine warfare.

Horkheimer to Make Mutual Series

Will Produce Six Five-Part Subjects Featuring Jackie Saunders.

A SERIES of six five-part productions featuring Jackie Saunders will be released by the Mutual Film Corporation beginning March 26. This announcement comes from the Chicago offices of the Mutual Film Corporation, where E. D. Horkheimer, the manufacturer controlling the services of Miss Saunders, closed a contract for the distribution of the pictures. The first release—that scheduled for March 26—is entitled "Sunny Jane." Already completed are two others, "The Checkmate" and "The Wild Cat."

These dramas are of the lighter type, cheerful, sprightly and snappy—vehicles chosen for their atmosphere in the presentation of the graces of Miss Saunders. "I have chosen these plays for Miss Saunders," observed Mr. Horkheimer, "with an eye on what the exhibitor seems to need right now. There is a flood of heavy stories, war story pictures, soggy, morbid drama. I have a notion, and a lot of exhibitors agree with me, that the motion picture audience is rather fond of amusement, that the average picture patron goes to the theater to be amused rather than to be confronted with a problem play and something to worry about."

"The great success of Charles Chaplin's pictures with every type of audience and with every measure of man is because he takes the curse off of worry. There is nothing to worry about and a lot of amusement in what he does. There is a lesson for the motion picture industry in this success."

"The plays in which Miss Saunders will be seen in Mutual releases are of the pleasant character, with plenty of thrills to be sure, plenty of stuff for the patron who wants to get out on the edge of the seat and hold his breath—but at the same time nothing morbid and unhealthy in the story presented. The plots stick pretty close to realism, the drama of the life of every day, presented with plenty of pep and color. Jackie Saunders is the healthy type."

"I would like, too, to ask the exhibitors' attention for one mighty big and important factor in these Jackie Saunders-Mutual pictures. They are clean. Just as clean as clean can be."

"I am no friend of censorship, but I am very much in favor of not giving censorship without going into the mire. Jackie Saunders herself is a good deal of a guaranty of this sort of quality. She knows, and our studio mail out at Long Beach proves, that her biggest following is among the young people, the kids and the adolescents. Youngsters of this age are the cleanest minded folks in the world. Jackie tries to present on the screen the kind of a girl they most admire."

The Jackie Saunders pictures will go out from Mutual with no "self-competition," since the last motion picture featuring Miss Saunders was released about one year ago.

Selznick Buys State Rights

Gets Rights to "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea" for New York State.

THE New York state rights to the Universal production, "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea," were bought outright last week by Lewis J. Selznick. The disposal of this successful film spectacle was immediately placed in the hands of the Selznick New York Exchange, in the Godfrey Building, 729 Seventh avenue.

Sol J. Berman, manager of the exchange, at once engaged a special sales staff to handle this production in Greater New York and up-state. Houses desiring to play the picture for one week or longer will be dealt with first.

"Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea" has provided a veritable bonanza, not only for the Universal Company, but for the exhibitors who have shown this extraordinary submarine picture. It has just closed a nine weeks engagement at the Broadway Theater, New York, where, at prices of 25 cents to $1, it played to $75,000 gross. In an eight weeks' run in Chicago the gross was $51,000, at lower prices than at the Broadway, while in three weeks in Detroit the picture drew in an even $20,000. These figures have been attested.

JAMES CRUZE WITH FOX.

James Cruze, known wherever a motion picture screen is to be found, is the newest of prominent photoplayers to join the still rapidly growing William Fox forces. Millions of silent drama fans will remember Mr. Cruze as the intrepid reporter, the star character in the big serial, "The Million Dollar Mystery." This part came as a fitting reward for his seven years in the films. From 1909 to 1916 he was allied at various times with Thanouser, Pathe, Kinemacolor, Metro, Kimberley and Lasky.

General Films New Series

"The Inspiration of Harry Larrabee" First of the Fortune Photoplays.

IN connection with the issuance of "The Inspirations of Harry Larrabee," the initial offering of the General Film Company's new Fortune Photo Plays, the first weekly four-reel feature service, by the way, the most comprehensive advertising campaign through the media of magazines will be inaugurated in connection with an aggressive and widely conducted newspaper propaganda. The General Film Company has secured screen rights, past, present and future, to all of the stories published in Street & Smith's famous magazines, among them being novels and stories that have caused international comment and aroused interest everywhere. Each one of the Street & Smith publications will carry weekly or monthly, as the case may be, a page devoted to the Fortune Photo Plays, with results that cannot help but make this series of four-reel features the biggest thing that has come the exhibitors' way for a long time.

The General Film Company feels that inasmuch as the Street & Smith output reaches every grade of society, readers of every age and condition of being, there could not be found a more powerful aid to show-men than the advertising arranged for in conjunction with the general campaign. Among the publications carrying this weekly page are Ainslee's, Smith's, The Popular, People's, Top Notch, Detective Stories and Picture Play Magazine. According to the publishers their output reaches more than 15,000,000 people a month, the actual circulation figures reaching above 3,000,000 copies. This huge production ratifies the belief that upon the screen the picturization of these popular stories by the best known of the world's authors will be a record-breaking success.

Following the first release, "The Inspirations of Harry Larrabee," by Howard Fielding, and which features such well-known screen names as Clifford Gray, Margaret Landis, Winifred Greenwood, Frank Brownlee, William Ede, Charles Blaisdell, Tom Morgan and others, will come "Mentioned in Confidence," "The Clean Gun," "The Best Man," "The Mainspring," and a long succession of equally interesting cinema masterpieces. The pictures are being made at the Balboa studios at Long Beach, Cal., and heading the staff of directors are Bertram Bracken, Edgar Jones, Harry Harvey and Henry King.

THREE FOX COMPANIES IN SOUTH.

With thirty-five players in St. Augustine, Fla., already under the direction of J. Gordon Edwards, William Fox established what is probably a record when two more companies starring Valeska Suratt and Violet Palmer also departed for Dixieland last week. This means that three of the six Eastern companies will be working in the South simultaneously. Further than that, June Caprice recently returned from Tennessee and Virginia Pearson leaves shortly for the Danish West Indies. Stuart Holmes is thus the only Fox star who has been, and according to the present outlook will continue to be, marooned in New Jersey.

The Suratt delegation will proceed straight to Tampa, Fla., to take exteriors for the picturization of the world-famous novel in charge of director Kenean Buel. After a fortnight around Tampa the members go to Cuba, place unselected as yet, to build an Egyptian village. The entire trip is planned for five to six weeks. Besides Miss Suratt and Director Buel, these persons are included in the party: Ben L. Taggart, chief in support of the Empress of Fashion; Miriam Fouche, Vigney Percyval, Tom Burrough, assistant director and camera man.

CREIGHTON HALE SIGNED FOR PATHE PICTURES.

Creighton Hale, famous as "Jameson," the reporter in "The Exploits of Elaine" and featured in many past Pathe productions, has been signed by the Astra for a long period to appear in Pathe pictures. It is fitting that Mr. Hale, who first achieved screen fame under the sign of the rooster, should now return to that program. Three years ago he was playing in "Indian Summer," a Charles Frohman production, when he was tendered an engagement by a Pathe director. From that time until about a year ago he worked continuously in Pathe pictures.

Mr. Hale has a great following among the screen fans, so much so that his name in connection with a picture gives it a distinct added value to the exhibitor. His engagement illustrates the policy being followed by J. A. Berst, Vice President and General Manager of Pathe, of having real stars only on the Pathe program—those having a definite and pronounced box office value.

Comments on the Films

EXCLUSIVELY BY OUR OWN STAFF

General Film Company.

A BROTHER'S SACRIFICE (Selig).—A one-reel drama with a limited power to interest. There is a fair thrill during a railroad scene. The story tells of how one brother sacrifices himself so that he may watch over a wayward brother. A sweetheart helps the human interest a little. The brother is injured when he averts a train wreck, and his injury brings the wayward brother to a realization of his wrong. The cast includes Lillian Hayward, Charles Wheelock Lafayette McKee and Edith Johnson.

NO PLACE LIKE HOME (Selig).—Chief interest in this farce-comedy reel centers about little Lillian Wade, a child actress who has some ability. The little girl puts glue in her sister's atomizer and sprays it over every one in the household, with many complicating and laughable results. A fair comedy reel. Besides little Miss Wade, the cast is composed of John Lancaster, Lillian Leighton, Elsie Greeson, Lillian Hayward and Sidney Smith.

IN THE WEB OF THE SPIDER (Kalem).—A unit of the "Grant, Police Reporter" series. George Larkin becomes a human fly in this reel and gets over several thrills when he climbs to the roof of a building on a jutting wall, and later when he climbs down from a window on a network of drain pipes. The story tells how the reporter solves mysterious thefts of bonds, and it is in pursuit of the man who is indirectly the thief that Mr. Larkin performs his stunts. Reviewed in another column.

BULLS OR BULLETS? (Kalem).—A comedy reel with Ham and Bud in the roles of bull fighters. They get over quite a number of laughs, and the reel is a fair one. Ethel Teare and Henry Murdoch help the chief funmakers. The bull-fighting scenes in especial ought to get a few laughs and chuckles. The bull is a "bully" bull.

THE VEILED THUNDERBOLT (Kalem).—In this one-reel number of the "Grant, Police Reporter," series the reporter solves a murder mystery. George Larkin's stunt in this reel consists of his climbing up the side of a house on a drain pipe. In this manner he gets into the room where a man was found dead in a bathtub. He discovers that the man was electrocuted. There are several especially good fight scenes in this reel. In the cast with Mr. Larkin are Ollie Kirkby, Director Robert Ellis, Harry Gordon, Cyril Courtney and Mary Taylor-Ross.

General Film Company Specials.

AN ACTRESS' ROMANCE (Selig).—A two-reel drama with little to commend it. The picture is by no means up to present-day standards. The release is a back number direction, story and acting. The story is made up of a series of coincidences, through which an opera singer learns that a prisoner is the son of her fiancé, and that he is engaged to her sister. She obtains his release. The cast includes Casson Ferguson, Barbara Gordon, Cressy Gotschalk, Fred Eckhart and M. von Betz.

THE INVISIBLE WEB (Essanay).—A two-reel detective drama of considerable interest and action. Mabel Bardine and William Burns are the leading players. A famous woman detective is sent after a band of crooks. She becomes acquainted with two high-class lawbreakers and brings them into her home. The pair open the vault in the house and discover the woman detective and her husband inside waiting for them.

THE BORROWED ENGINE (Kalem).—The only worth-while thing in this reel—an episode of the "A Daughter of Daring" series—is Helen Gibson's stunt, and even that is not up to her high standard. The story is disconnected, the direction is poor, and as a whole the reel falls flat. Miss Gibson's stunt consists of a leap from a speeding automobile to a fast-moving train. She and an engineer take possession of the locomotive and drive it to their own railroad. With it they replace an engine attached to a test train. The one engine cannot be used because a water tank has been emptied through a leak.

THE INSPIRATIONS OF HARRY LARRABEE (Fortune Photoplay).—The first issue of a new series of four-reel dramas released by the General Film, this picture is an interesting detective story and is very well acted. A longer review is printed on another page of this issue.

MENTIONED IN CONFIDENCE (Fortune Photoplay).—The plot of this five-reel picture involves a story within a story, and has an electrocution scene for its climax. It is along conventional lines and is fairly well acted. It is given a longer review on another page of this issue.

THE GREAT TREASURE (Selig).—A two-reel drama that holds the interest fairly. The story tells of a youth who is led to break a safe by a man who has borrowed money on securities entrusted to him. To save himself the man gets the youth to obtain the securities. Following a meeting in a settlement house, the youth falls in love with the man's daughter. The man denounces the youth as a thief. The girl later finds that the youth has been shielding her father, and love is his. The cast is composed of Gasson Ferguson, Fred Eckert, Maybelle Spaulding, F. Hamilton and M. von Betz.

THE FATE OF JUAN GARCIA (Kalem).—An episode of "The American Girl" series. These two reels form a Western that will go in any house. Suspense, mystery and action help keep interest on the qui vive throughout. The story tells of a murder and of its solution by Madge King (Marin Sais). The murdered man was a revolution leader. Madge discovers that his murderer is the tool of the secret agent of big mining interests. There are a number of thrilling fight scenes. A very good Western. A review can be found on another page of this issue.

Artcraft Pictures Corporation.

A POOR LITTLE RICH GIRL (Artcraft), March 5.—Mary Pickford is the star of this six-reel screen version of Eleanor Gates' stage play. Miss Pickford is seen at her best in a vastly entertaining picture. A longer review is printed on another page of this issue.

Bluebird Photoplays, Inc.

THE GIFT GIRL (Bluebird), March 26.—A fairly pleasing five-reeler with Louise Lovely in the leading role. Miss Lovely adds a certain charm through her personality. The film is neither straight drama, comedy nor comedy drama—it is just a visualized story of moderate interest. It tells of a girl who was sent to a student as a birthday present, and who was to be his companion. A longer review is printed in the review columns.

Fox Film Corporation.

MELTING MILLIONS (Feb. 19).—George Walsh is the athletic hero of this five-reel drama and does a number of lively stunts in a picture filled with action. A longer review is printed on another page of this issue.

Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay.

BURNING THE CANDLE (Essanay), March 5.—A powerful story showing the dangers of indulgence in strong liquors, as illustrated in the early married life of two young people, of good family. The young man who goes wrong is impersonated most realistically by Henry B. Walthall; his wife, who vainly attempts to stay him in his downward course, is represented by Mary Charleson to the life. The support is excellent. The young man—unlike so many others in similar cases—comes back, which makes the story all the more likeable.

Greater Vitaphon

THE MONEY MILL, March 5.—An ordinarily good five-reel drama featuring Dorothy Kelly and Evart Overton. Interest is at rather low ebb for the first half of the picture, but there is enough interest and suspense in the last reel to compensate for the preceding slowness. The story, by Roy L. McCardell, contains quite a few original touches. A longer review is printed on another page of this issue.

Metro Pictures Corporation

THE GREAT SECRET (March 12).—Chapters IX and X of this serial, starring Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne, hold the interest of the story up to its former pitch. The pictures are reviewed on another page of this issue.

Mutual Film Corporation

MUTUAL TOURS, NO. 17 (Gaumont), Feb. 27.—"Through Vienna, Austria," "The Gota Elf River, Sweden" and "Toledo, Spain," are the subjects covered in this number. The greatest fault to be found with this reel is that the photography is not good. The subjects are well covered, interesting and instructive.

MUTUAL WEEKLY, NO. 113 (Gaumont), Feb. 28.—This number of the Weekly is an unusually interesting one and contains among other things the launching of a floating dry dock at San Francisco, winter sports in Christiania, Norway, and the Atlantic fleet in its winter rendezvous in Guantanamo Bay, showing various scenes in connection with the jackies' daily life such as boat racing, scrubbing the decks, dancing, boxing, etc.

SEE AMERICA FIRST, NO. 77 (Gaumont), Feb. 28.—"The Battlefields of Chickamauga, Ga., and Chattanooga, Tenn.," are shown in this number, among them Viniard field, Poe field, Kelly field, Brotherton house, Orchard Knob, Lookout Mountain and others. An interesting historical study.

JERRY'S ROMANCE (Cub), March 1.—A rather coarse number in which Jerry's rival marries the woman whom Jerry adores. At the church with Jerry officiating as best man an accident occurs in which by stepping on the lady's train he is the cause of pulling off the lower part of her dress. The result leaves the large and rather cumbersome bride skirtless, with short petticoats and ribbed stockings much in evidence. Whether this sort of thing is or is not amusing is a matter of taste. The rest of the picture is on a par with what we have mentioned, the comedy being accelerated for the gross minded by various "sitting on pin" incidents, kickings, etc.

A RUMMY ROMANCE (Vogue), March 4.—In spite of the rakish title with which this two-part comedy has been saddled, it will not be found an unpleasant one, and is well suited to the ordinary audience. It contains plenty of action, and little that could be called vulgar. It also contains noticeably good types. The story, what there is of it, centers about the daughter of a moonshiner and her two lovers, and involves an attempt on the part of the authorities to arrest the moonshiners. A dog makes considerable fun by keeping a tight grip on the seat of the trousers of the ill-favored lover after he has been turned on him by the girl.

REEL LIFE, NO. 44 (Gaumont), March 4.—This opens with views of the Arabs making bowls, weaving mantles, carpets, and engaged in other interesting industrial pursuits. Next comes a pleasing study of "conc-artistry," which means making all sorts of useful and ornamental things out of shells. Making a vegetable serum for cancer cure is shown, and also the way rubber overshoes are manufactured. A good number.

SHORTY TRAPS A LOTTERY KING (Monogram), March 5.—In number eight of "The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton" we find considerable amusement in a comedy way, and plenty of interesting action. Shorty and Anita are instrumental in rounding a lottery gang who have taken the life of one of the government officials. Previous to this Anita has told Shorty that their marriage cannot take place until they have rounded up the gang. The wedding has not taken place and the story of Shorty's love affair is still to be continued.

Paramount Pictures Corporation

THOSE WITHOUT SIN (Lasky), March 1.—A civil war photoplay with a Southern heroine, played by Blanche Sweet, this five-reel picture has considerable dramatic strength. It is reviewed at length on another page of this issue.

CASTLES FOR TWO (Lasky), March 5.—Marie Doro is the star of this five-reel photoplay and plays an American heiress who goes over to Ireland and marries an Irish lord. The story is treated in a comedy way and is well produced. A longer review is printed on another page of this issue.

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

BRINGING UP FATHER (Int.), March 4.—A George McManus cartoon showing the humorous side of physical training, the reel also contains interesting scenes of Yellowstone National Park in winter.

THE FLAG DESPOILER (Astra), March 4.—The fourteenth episode of the "Pearl of the Army" serial, this number contains plenty of excitement and leaves the spectator anxious for the finishing instalment. Pearl White has a struggle for the honor of the flag and wins. The number is given a longer review on another page of this issue.

MYSTERY OF THE DOUBLE CROSS (Astra), March 18.—The new Pathe serial opens up in a very promising manner. Cast, production and direction are all excellent. A longer review is printed on another page of this issue.

LONESOME LUKE COMEDIES (Rolin), March 18.—A new series of Lonesome Luke comedies, these pictures are two reels in length and the first two numbers are filled with lively comic doings. They are given a longer review on another page of this issue.

FLORENCE ROSE FASHIONS, No. 23 (Pathe), March 18.—"Early Styles" is the title of this number, a hint which will interest the ladies. On the same reel is "Nomads of the North," a remarkable series of scenes in Lapland, showing the method of herding reindeer.

CLIFF DWELLERS OF NEW MEXICO (Pathe), March 25.—This one-reel picture is the second number of a series of educational reels to be released under the title of Pathe Combitone Series. The number is a fine example of photography and shows, among other features, the Fort Defiance Indian School and life at the pueblos. Every state in the Union is to be treated, with special reference to industrial, archeological and ethnological features.

Universal Film Mfg. Company

ANIMATED WEEKLY, No. 61 (Universal), February 28.—American war preparations are featured in this number. Scenes along the border of Mexico, a school fire in Ohio, Mardi Gras at New Orleans, submarine manoeuvres and other entertaining features are included.

A WOMAN IN THE CASE (Victor), March 13.—This is an amusing domestic comedy, by W. Warren Schoene, featuring Eileen Sedgwick and Ralph McComas. The wife's cooking is hard on the husband's digestion, and some laughable scenes occur. Later she becomes jealous and pursues her spouse, who has gone to call on his mother. This is slight in plot but so carefully handled and well acted that it gets over effectively.

ART ACHES (Joker), March 17.—A comedy number, by Jack Cunningham, featuring Gale Henry, Wm. Franey and others. This is broad burlesque of a rather risqué sort. Gale poses as "December Afternoon" in her union suit, with trimmings. This would be vulgar if the observer had a chance to think about it, but the action is too funny to permit worry on the subject. This will delight audiences that are not very particular, but is too broad for select houses.

Universal Film Mfg. Co. Specials

THE COMMON SIN (Gold Seal), March 13.—Charles L. Gaskill, featuring Helen Gardner. She plays a gypsy girl, betrayed by a stranger, who deserts herself and child. The mother dies and the child grows up, seeking vengeance upon the father. The latter marries and has a son, whom the gypsy girl uses for her purposes. The father is killed at the close and the girl goes back to her gypsy lover. The settings in this are picturesque, but the construction is jerky and much of the acting amateurish. It is apparently an old subject and lacks effective handling.

SUMMER BOARDERS (L-KO), March 14.—A one-reel comic, featuring Phil Dunham, Merta Sterling, Lucille Hutton and others. The former appears as a paperbanger, engaged to work in a boarding house. He flirts with the girl across the hall and the usual knockabout scenes occur. There is not a great deal to the plot and the subject is only fairly successful as a whole.

WHERE GLORY WAITS (Laemmle), March 14.—An excellent two-reel subject, by E. M. Ingleton, featuring Allen J. Holubar, Thomas Jefferson, Wadsworth Harris, Roberta Wilson and Trilxy Ridgway. The story concerns a young prince, suddenly called home from an American college to ascend the throne. As king he is made unhappy by the memory of a love affair in college. He meets a peasant girl whose love of country restores him to a happier frame of mind. This contains good feeling, and is cleverly acted. The subtitles are exceptionally effective also. A good offering.

THE CLASH OF STEEL, March 16.—No. 2 of "The Perils of the Secret Service" series, featuring Kingsley Benedict as a society detective. This adventure occurs in one of the provinces of France, and some attractive foreign settings were used in the production. The plot centers about a designing prince, who plans to divorce his wife, in order to marry another. The detective in the case saves the good name of the princess. The instalment is very well constructed and the action is strong and effective. Jean Hersholt, L. C. Shumway and Jay Belasco also appear.

ROPED IN (Bison), March 17.—A ranch comedy, by George Marshall, featuring a bunch of cowboys and the new ranch boss. The latter is a woman of the mannish type, who wears divided skirts and wants to run things. After bullying everyone around the place, she practically forces a long, lanky individual to marry her. This character possesses a good deal of quiet humor and the manner in which he turns the tables on his wife and the boys is very amusing in a quiet way. The number was shown in three reels, but will probably be cut to two; the speeding up will strengthen it considerably.

ORIENTAL DEATH PUNCH (No 1 of "The Voice on the Wire" Series), March 18.—This two-reel offering is the first of a short series by J. Grubb Alexander. Ben Wilson, Neva Gerber, Frank MacQuarrie, Ernie Shield, Howard Crampton and Joseph Girard appear. The mystery opens well and a good series is promised. An old man, riding in a taxi with a chorus girl, is murdered. The case baffles the police, but the young criminologist determines that he was killed by "Sen Si Yao," or the Japanese death punch. The first number is absorbing and well presented.

World Pictures.

THE DANCER'S PERIL (World), March 12.—Alice Brady and the Russian Ballet figure in this five-reel photoplay, a highly romantic story of Paris and Petrograd. The star plays a dual role with good effect and the ballet is worked into the plot with skill. The picture is reviewed at length on another page of this issue.

REALISM IN "IN THE HANDS OF THE LAW."

When B. S. Moss undertook to produce "In the Hands of the Law," with Lois Meredith in the leading role, the entire company of players was detailed to St. Augustine, Fla., in order that realism would be attained in the settings, which were originally laid in St. Augustine, in William O. Hurst's famous novel, from which the screen version is taken. Mr. Moss, fully alive to the fact that realism is the order of the day, not only cast his outdoor scenes in St. Augustine, but most of the interior scenes as well were taken from the real subject.

The action of "In the Hands of the Law," calling for a setting in a palatial mansion, permission was granted to stage this particular scene in the home of D. Ramsey Moore, the retired cotton king. Actual scenes from the Federal Prison, in Atlanta, were also incorporated into the picture. Prominent in the prison scene in "In the Hands of the Law," is a vivid and realistic picture of the "Tailor Shop" in the prison.

MISSOURI CENSORSHIP BILLS KILLED.

Missouri exhibitors have succeeded in killing two censorship bills that were before the state legislature. The bills were known as censorship bills No. 913 and No. 857. The quashing of these proposed measures means that unless something unforeseen happens Missouri exhibitors will be free from censorship for the next two years.

Much credit for the defeat of the bills is due the committee of the Theater Managers and Motion Picture Exhibitors' Association of St. Louis. Members of this committee worked indefatigably toward killing the censorship bills. The body that went to Jefferson City to fight the proposed measures was composed of Joe Mogler, Mogler's theater; R. C. Cropper, Universal, Kansas City; Ed Dustin, Pathe, St. Louis; Barney Rosenthal, Universal, St. Louis; Hector M. E. Pasmezoglu, Congress theater, St. Louis; M. E. Williams, Universal, Kansas City; S. J. Baker, Blue Bird, St. Louis, and Miss Sarah Edwards, of St. Louis.

Manufacturers' Advance Notes

Bringing the World to Your Town

Gaumont's "Tours Around the World" Making Known to Americans the Customs and Peoples of Other Lands.

THE wonderful possibilities of the motion picture in developing a cosmopolitan spirit in America are well illustrated by the Gaumont scenic series called "Tours Around the World." These bring to every town in the United States pictures of other lands and other peoples, impress upon spectators that the way here may not be the only way a thing can be well done, and broaden them generally into a sympathetic understanding of the aims and ideals of other nations. An example of this is found in "Tours" No. 20. This is a reel of pictures of England's Channel Island of Guernsey, Cintra, a popular summer resort of Portugal, and Cettinge, the capital of Montenegro.

Scene from "Tours Around the World" (Gaumont).

So much has been written of the patriotic fervor of the natives of the little mountain kingdom that Americans are interested in knowing just what it is these people have to love. The Gaumont pictures make it plain that devotion to country may not mean devotion to a happy, smiling land, but ready willingness to lay down one's life for a bleak and barren country. This makes much clearer to those who dwell in a land of plenty how much more they should be willing to make sacrifices in appreciation of what their country has given them in the way of abundance of worldly goods.

Four Metro Comedies

Released by Metro in March—One With Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew as Stars Deals With Food Prices.

FOUR one-act comedies will be released by Metro Pictures Corporation in March. Three of these will star Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew. The fourth is a clever Metro-Rolfe playlet, with those popular players Max Figman and Lonta Robertson as its principal attractions.

The human note that is sounded in all Drew comedies is again found in "Handy Henry," a picture farce by S. M. Gardenshire, in which Mr. and Mrs. Drew are the stars. Released March 5. March 12 is the date announced for the release of "The High Cost of Living," a one-act play written by Bertie Badgers Meyers.

The third Drew comedy of the month will be shown March 26. This will be "The Awakening of Helena Minor," by Helena Laughton.

"A Modern Romance," which will be released March 19, a Metro-Rolma comedy starring Max Figman and Lolita Robertson, deals with the high-flown, romantic notions of a very up-to-date girl, who wants the age of chivalry transplanted to everyday Americanism. Subsequent events bring considerably more excitement than she had bargained for.

TRIANGLE MARCH 25TH RELEASE.

Seena Owen and William S. Hart are the stars of the Triangle feature releases for March 25. Miss Owen, after a long absence from the screen, will reappear in a strong Fine Arts drama, entitled "A Woman's Awakening," written by Frank E. Woods and directed by Chester Withey. William S. Hart will be shown in an effective "thriller," known as "The Square Deal Man," written by J. G. Hawks and directed by Hart, under the supervision of Thomas H. Ince.

As Paula Letchworth in "A Woman's Awakening," Seena Owen takes the part of a beautiful girl, who comes from a family where the women are protected from the hard realities of life. A clever young lawyer loves her, but she listens, instead to the suit of Lawrence Topham, who tells her of the joy of the real world, where men and women mix on a plane of equality. Paula marries Topham, but instead of realizing the happiness she had anticipated, she finds that her husband is only interested in her money. Allen Cotter, her former admirer, comes to her assistance, but circumstances make it appear that Paula is only using Allen for selfish ends, and he turns against her. When he returns to listen to her explanation, Topham is preparing to desert Paula. But before he can do this, he is shot dead by a hand that reaches through the curtains of his room. Allen enters the house as the shot rings out, and Paula comes on the scene from an opposite door. Each thinks the other has fired the revolver, and a scene of great tenseness ensues. The incidents connected with the clearing up of the mystery, and the bringing together of the estranged lovers combine to make a play of unusual grip.

"The Square Deal Man" is a vivid story of the old West, in which William S. Hart takes the part of a gambler who abandons the roulette wheel to care for a rancho he had won at the game. Later on, when the beautiful daughter of the former owner arrives home from school, complications arise that lend a unique dramatic interest to the story. Hart, of course, has the title role and invests it with all the virility and glamour of which he is master.

BIG THEME IN "THE PAINTED LIE" (Horsley).

Circumstantial evidence is the theme of "The Painted Lie," a feature photodrama produced by David Horsley and starring Crane Wilbur, which will be released March 19 through the Mutual as the first of the series of six features starring Mr. Wilbur.

Through circumstantial evidence, Lieutenant Greyton, the principal character, nearly loses his liberty and his wife-to-be.

Scene from "The Painted Lie" (Horsley).

The drama reaches deep and intense situations and has one of the strongest climaxes ever attained in a film drama. Throughout fine human comedy touches are introduced with splendid effect.

Crane Wilbur is supported by a splendid cast including Mae Gaston, Marrison Ingraham, Ida Lewis and Marie Corteaux, and the production has been made on a scale thoroughly in keeping with the subject.

Essanay's New Series

"Do Children Count?" Master Title of Series to Follow "Is Marriage Sacred?"—First Release Early in April.

WHERE IS My Mother?" is to be the title of the first unit of Essanay's new dramatic series, "Do Children Count?" A child, awaking in its cheerless nursery, casts its sleepy eyes about the empty room and asks the question. The answer—separated parents—presents a problem which strikes at the foundation of the home.

There will be twelve units in this series. Each one will present some complication in the home, arising out of the advent of the stork. There will be no exaggeration in the situations presented. These will be adapted to the screen from every day life—from any and every home. Some of them are actually the records of the Juvenile Court. Others have been culled from newspaper reports of destroyed homes. It is these stories of real life that are to provide the pictured dramas in "Do Children Count?"

Every effort is being made to present the actual causes of delinquency among children. The mother's overindulgence in her social ambitions, or club work; the father's lack of interest in his home—these are some of the causes that will be shown. The results of improper training of children also will play an important part in these photodramas.

"The Little White Girl" will be the second of the series. The titles of the remaining units are as follows:

"Steps to Somewhere," "The Yellow Umbrella," "A Place in the Sun," "The Wonderful Event," "The Guiding Hand," "When Sorrow Weeps," "The Uneven Road," "The Season of Childhood," "The Bride of Fancy," and "The Kingdom of Hope."

This series will be inaugurated early in April, following the conclusion of the "Is Marriage Sacred?" cycle. It has been conceived to meet the popular demand which the Marriage films has created among exhibitors and photoplay patrons alike. One unit will be released each week.

Charles Mortimer Peck, author of the "Is Marriage Sacred?" dramas, is preparing the forthcoming series for the screen. Mr. Peck, formerly a metropolitan newspaper editor, has had in this capacity unlimited opportunity for a study of the conditions of which he is writing. He promises more grippingly lifelike portrayals of home-destroying conditions, even than he presented in his series now being concluded.

The units of "Do Children Count?" will have a screen time approximately of thirty minutes. Each unit will be a complete production in itself, presenting a separate plot. Baby Mary McAlister, Essanay's child star, will be featured in these photodramas.

The General Film Service will handle the releases.

"THE CALL OF HER PEOPLE" (Metro).

Ethel Barrymore has completed her work in "The Call of Her People," a seven-act screen version of Edward Sheldon's play, "Egypt." This production is the first of attraction pictures of great size and lavishness which will be put out by Metro Pictures Corporation during the present year as special releases.

After the interiors for the production had been made in New York, Miss Barrymore went to Florida with her entire company, and there magnificent exteriors were made. The gypsy caravan and the gypsy camp were reproduced faithfully under Southern skies, and the many fascinating details of gypsy life, with all its ceremonies and traditions, were transferred to the screen.

Scene from "The Call of Her People" (Metro).

Egypt, Miss Barrymore's part in the Edward Sheldon play, which was adapted by June Mathis, is sent to live among the "Gorgios" (the gypsy name for those not of the tribe). The magnificent Florida home of Henry M. Flagler was chosen to represent the Lindsay mansion to which Egypt is sent, and the exteriors of the Lindsay home are all "shots" of the Flagler residence.

The company supporting the star in "The Call of Her People" is a distinguished one. Robert Whittier plays Young Faro, Egypt's gypsy bridegroom. Mr. Whittier has a notable career, both in Europe and in America. William B. Davidson has the part of Nicholas Van Kleet. William Mandeville plays Gordon Lindsay. Frank Montgomery is the Faro Black of the production. Mrs. Allan Walker is seen as an aged gypsy crone, Hugh Joffrey as the sheriff and Helen Arnold as Mary Van Kleet.

"The President's Answer"

Evolved By the Lincoln Cycle From Identical Conditions Two Generations Ago.

THE daily newspapers everywhere are devoting front pages in startling proof of the saying, "History repeats itself," for the world stood aghast fifty-six years ago—as to-day—waiting for "The President's Answer."

On the 4th of March, 1861, Abraham Lincoln was first inaugurated President. He found a distracted and divided country, confronted with the question of war and the greatest struggle of the ages—up to that time. The present President was inaugurated Monday, compelled to stand face to face with almost the same problems, and deal with the same fundamental emotions which President Lincoln had to meet in the same crisis. This is all in illustration of Lincoln's oft-repeated assertion that "human nature will not change."

Realizing that in every national crisis, past, present or future, the same human nature is brought into play, Benjamin Chapin has dramatized and produced the life of Abraham Lincoln in his Lincoln Cycle of Photoplays. Also because he has wisely observed that, "Shall we fight?" practically resolves itself into "What would Lincoln do?"

This transformation of the question is recognized by emperors, chancellors, prime ministers and editors—all the world leaders in thought and action. The best way to discover what Lincoln would do in the present crisis is to see what he did two generations ago in a similar juncture. It is not necessary to give one's self over to historical research, through great volumes and biographies, for nowadays one has only to go and see the Lincoln Cycle of Moving Pictures to be enlightened, not only upon the thrilling Sumter episode, with which the Cycle opens, but upon the events and experiences in the striking career of the Emancipator.

Therefore it is more than a mere coincidence that the great Lincoln Cycle should be inaugurated in Washington to-day at 3 p. m., exactly fifty-six years from the hour in which Abraham Lincoln was first inaugurated President of the United States. Just as he, the Man of the Hour, became the Man of the Ages, so the Lincoln Cycle, a recognized "new departure" in motion pictures, is doubtless ushering in a new era in portraying history and fiction, fact and fancy, by weaving together in a fascinating and convincing way Lincoln's and History's version of what Benjamin Chapin is pleased to entitle "The President's Answer."

A word should be added about Mr. Chapin's "Lincoln." It is natural, inherent and spontaneous. He not only looks like Lincoln, but he is like Lincoln. Among "Lincolns" tall and "Lincolns" short, "Lincolns" fat and "Lincolns" lean, who resort to putty, grease-paint, wigs and beards to make up for Lincoln, it is refreshing to see "the Lincoln Man" who those who knew Lincoln—even William O. Stoddard, his living private secretary—say, after witnessing Mr. Chapin's impersonation, "I don't see how it could be improved—he is Lincoln!"

GAUMONT PICTURES WEEK OF MARCH 18.

Gaumont ushers in the "featurette" releases for the week of March 18 with "Tours Around the World," No. 20, released through Mutual March 20. Three nations are represented on this reel—the tiny kingdom of Montenegro, Britain's Island of Guernsey, and Cintra, Portugal. The first is shown before the war, with interesting views of Cettingie, the capital, King Nicholas and the sturdy natives. St. Peterport, Guernsey, is where Victor Hugo spent his years of exile. His home is shown, and also the room in which some of his immortal books were written. There are pictures of the town and the breakwater built by Edward I. Cintra is a favorite summer resort, and it was here that the queen mother was residing when she received news of the deposition of her son, King Manuel.

The Mutual Weekly, No. 116, will be issued March 21. Because of its foreign connections through the Societe des Etablissements Gaumont, the Gaumont Company is able to supply this reel at the earliest possible date with important news pictures from all over the world.

"Making Food Cheaper" is an important section of "Reel Life," No. 47, issued March 22. It demonstrates the new method by which the water is removed from vegetables before they are shipped. On the same reel are "Artificial Exercise," "A Snail Race Under Water," "Growing Pineapples Under Glass," and "A Winter Outdoor Pageant in California."

Bluebirds in Reserve

A Goodly Number of Excellent Features Ready for Release.

WITH three attractions scheduled for April, the stock upon which Bluebird may draw to compile the list for that month comprises many excellent features, including plays in which Ella Hall, Dorothy Phillips, Myrtle Gonzalez, Mary MacLaren and Franklyn Farnum will be featured.

Mary MacLaren has been directed by Charles Swickard in "The Plow Woman," a feature based on a story written by Eleanor Gates, dealing with life among the Dakota homesteaders. Harry De More, L. C. Shumway and Clara Horton will be principals in Miss MacLaren's support.

Aaron Hoffman's story, "The Clock," prepared for the screen by Maie B. Havey, has been directed by Wm. Worthington, with Franklyn Farnum and Agnes Vernon playing the leading roles. "Flowers of Doom," a Rex Ingram production, featuring Wedgewood Nowell and Sien Far, is ready to be scheduled. Sien Far is a clever Chinese actress, very pretty, and lending a link of correctness to the Chinese atmosphere of the attraction.

Jack Conway has directed Ella Hall, in "Pawned," a five-reeler based on a story by Constance Crawley and Arthur Meade. Maie B. Havey prepared the scenario. Antrim Short, clever impersonator of juvenile characters, Walter Belasco, Marshall Mackaye, George Pearce and Jack Conolly will be Miss Hall's principal supporters.

Lynn F. Reynolds, who produced "Mutiny," the Bluebird current at the New York Rialto, has prepared another feature of the "near to nature" sort entitled "The Code of the Klondyke," in which Myrtle Gonzalez, Val Paul and George Hernandez will be the featured players.

From these attractions a selection will be made to complete the April program for Bluebird, following Violet Mersereau, in "Susan's Gentleman," April 2; Wedgewood Nowell and Gypsy Harte, in "The Pulse of Life," April 9, and Dorothy Phillips in "The Girl in the Checkered Coat," April 16.

"HEART'S DESIRE" FOR MARIE DORO IN APRIL.

Marie Doro's next screen appearance following "Castles for Two," which is scheduled for release by Paramount on March 8, will be "Heart's Desire," which was prepared for the screen by Eve Unsell.

Miss Unsell has contributed several notable scripts and stories to Famous Players-Lasky releases. She is the author of "The Long Trail," in which Lou Tellegen appears with Mary Fuller. Among her most recent adaptations for the screen are "The Dummy," by Harvey J. O'Higgins and Harriet Ford, in which Jack Pickford is the star; "The Fortunes of Fin," a Molly Elliott Seawell play starring Marguerite Clark, and "Heart's Desire," which is scheduled for release by Paramount on April 12.

"CASTLES FOR TWO" SHOWS MARIE DORO.

"CASTLES FOR TWO," which was written especially for Marie Doro by Beatrice De Mille and Leighton Osmun, gives the popular Lasky-Paramount star an unusual opportunity, as it presents her in the role of a wealthy American girl of Irish descent.

This delightful romance is rendered all the more effective by engaging a number of children to play the roles of fairies, and by the employment of an interior decorator to design all the interior settings for this production. Although the interior decorator has been permanently engaged by the Lasky company, this is the first production in which his art will be displayed upon the screen.

Scene from "Castles for Two" (Lasky).

Director Frank Reicher chose as supporting cast for Miss Doro a number of prominent players, among them being Elliott Dextor, Mayme Kelso, Horace B. Carpenter, Billy Elmer, Jane Wolff, Harriet Sorenson, Lillian Leighton and Julia Jackson.

"ENVIRONMENT" (Mutual).

James Kirkwood, author and director of the newest Mary Miles Minter production for Mutual, "Environment," is interpolating an abundance of human interest atmosphere.

"Environment" is a New England romance, and one street scene with the little village church at the end looks as if it had been lifted bodily from the green hills of New Hampshire.

There is also some clever "small town stuff" introduced in views of a street merchant selling magic soap and proving its value by shampooing the head of a street urchin for the benefit of his prospective buyers. There is also a friendly game of "pitchin' horseshoes" between the village champion and his rival, and the funny capers of the village "cut-up" will furnish many a laugh.

Scene from "Environment" (Mutual).

LUCAS COMPANY ISSUES 1917 CATALOGUE.

The Lucas Theater Supply Company of 158 Marietta street, Atlanta, Ga., has issued its 1917 catalogue. The book is well printed on good paper, is freely illustrated and contains 150 pages. In stock are Simplex and Power projectors, Power's road equipment, Motiograph and traveler's equipment as well as Edison Kinetoscope D. Listed are full lines of projection-room accessories, including the Speedco Arc Controller and the Auto Arc. A most complete index contains a record of all the devices that may be required by the up-to-date exhibitor.

CUB ISSUES ANIMAL COMEDY.

"Jerry's Triple Alliance," the Cub Comedy scheduled for release through the Mutual on March 15, is an animal comedy, embodying a new line of thought in productions of this kind. It is a type of picture that has appeal for all people, and one in which children, in particular, will find much to interest them.

Scene from "Jerry's Triple Alliance" (Cub).

The story revolves around Jerry, played by George Ovey, who is madly in love with Tiny. She reciprocates his affections, but father steps in and tells her she must marry Bill, who, unknown to him, is a bad man.

The efforts of the elephants are a novelty and unusually interesting and amusing, and because of this fact and the general excellence of the subject, it is expected that this picture will be much in demand.

Selznick Makes Quick Deal

In Five-Minute Transaction He Buys Greater New York Rights to "Enlighten Thy Daughter."

QUITE a new departure was instituted in the way of buying an independently exploited film production this week when Lewis J. Selznick purchased, at a price said to exceed $35,000, the rights in Greater New York for the film play "Enlighten Thy Daughter." The transaction was consummated with one interchange of letters between Henry J. Brock, president of The Enlightenment Photoplays Corporation, and Mr. Selznick.

Mr. Selznick, through his field staff, learned that almost every exhibitor approached was open to a booking on "Enlighten Thy Daughter," and had unquestionably fortified himself thoroughly in the matter of learning the sentiment toward this picture before arranging to secure same.

At the conclusion of the engagement of the picture at the Park theater, Mr. Brock was offered no less than twelve weeks of week stands for the picture and extremely high rentals, even for New York City, and it is intimated that Mr. Selznick's field men covered the Greater New York territory and were tentatively offered over three hundred days' bookings and exceptional rentals and that upon the reports of the men Mr. Selznick met Mr. Brock for luncheon at the Astor and closed the deal within five minutes.

"Enlighten Thy Daughter," during its runs at the Park theater, attracted sufficient attention in the way of patronage to require police reserves upon several occasions.

The picture has been indorsed by the General Federation of Women's Clubs through Harriet Holt Dey, editor of the Federation organ. This organization has two million and a half members and it is understood that each member will be advised of the fact that the Abramson picture has been so indorsed.

Release announcements from the Selznick offices will be made next week.

"THE QUACKY DOODLES' FOOD CRISIS" (Paramount).

Does the high cost of living affect Duckland? It certainly does! Proof of this is given in the 58th edition of the Paramount-Bray-Pictographs, the magazine on the screen.

Think of the responsibility of having to supply food for the mouths of two such voracious eaters as little Doodles and little Daddles! Imagine the grief of a fond father when he comes to his table and finds there his little family assembled, expecting to satisfy the appetites of childhood, and find instead nothing but the implements which are customarily used to transfer food from plate to mouth, but not a morsel of food to be transferred.

Mother Doodles, that sterling example of perfect motherhood, is beside herself to think that her darlings should go one minute beyond their accustomed time to dine, without their dinner and poor old Danny Doodles is the recipient of a most terrific tirade for his neglect to support the family board, and especially his wife, accustomed as she was in her single days to the luxuries accorded to the daughter of the famous, not to say wealthy, ex-Mayor of Duckville.

In righteous wrath Mother Doodles turns her husband out of doors with the admonition that no longer will the comforts of home be his until he brings back with him the proper sustenance for his family. With empty purse, but undaunted heart, our hero wends his weary way in search of food. Neither the butcher, the baker, nor the candle stick maker will extend any further credit and the elusive succulent worm is not to be found.

And yet—the tried and true Danny Doodles, who has a will, finds a way!

"THE DEEMSTER" POPULAR WITH STATE RIGHTS.

"The Deemster" bids fair to prove one of the best and quickest action state rights propositions. Dr. Shallenberger, president of the Arrow Film Corporation, the producer, states that he is very much gratified over the interest shown in the picture. Important territory has been taken, which will be shortly announced. New York State has been purchased by Lewis J. Selznick, who states that he considers "The Deemster" an ideal special feature proposition and will give it a great exploitation in this state. Dr. Shallenberger's plan to help exhibitors in the local exploitation of the picture by placing his publicity department at their command for co-operative work is attracting not a little attention among territorial magnates and exhibitors.

FAIRBANKS LUNCHEONS STUDIO ASSOCIATES.

The opening of the new Douglas Fairbanks-Artcraft studio on West Fifty-fourth street, New York, was celebrated by a luncheon to the studio employes, given by the ever-smiling screen star. The luncheon was served by the steward of the Friars' Club in the Fairbanks' dressing room. Among those who helped to dispose of the food were Arline Pretty, Anita Loos, Albert Parker, Director John Emerson, Frank Lalor, Business Manager John Fairbanks, Jack Scott, Glen MacWilliams, Cameraman Victor Fleming, Pete Schmid, Artcraft Publicity Manager, and Bennie Zeidman, special representative for Mr. Fairbanks.

"THE PALLID DAWN" (Essanay).

Here is a short production which brings forth a distinctly original idea. The profligate son of a millionaire weds a chorus girl. Instead of the girl dragging the youth further into the mire of dissipation, however, she makes a man of him. This photodrama is a unit of Essanay's "Is Marriage Sacred?" series. The Essanay stock company, including Marguerite Clayton, Edward Arnold, Sydney Ainsworth, Lillian Drew and Ernest Scene from "The Pallid Dawn" (Essanay).

Maupain, heads the cast. The scenes are laid principally in lobster palaces where the gayety of bright light life is revealed under full steam. There is rapid fire action from start to finish. The photography is excellent. This production has a screen time of twenty-nine minutes, and is released through the General Film Service.

"LITTLE LOST SISTER," K-E-S-E RELEASE.

"Little Lost Sister," a Selig Red Seal play, adapted by Gilson Willets from Virginia Brooks' world-famous book and stage play of the same name, is the latest release announced in K-E-S-E service. The Selig production is said to present a vital question in an impressive yet inoffensive manner. What becomes of little lost sisters? How can they again be safely guided into the straight and narrow way? What action can be taken so that there will be no little lost sisters? These and other absorbing questions, it is said, are handled in an impressive way.

Among the stars who appear in "Little Lost Sister" can be named Vivian Reed, George Fawcett, Bessie Eyton, Eugenie Besserer, Will Machin, Al. W. Filson and others.

The Selig Company states that every mother should see to it that her daughters view the production, "Little Lost Sister." The K-E-S-E exchanges report that many exhibitors are making inquiries regarding the production and that it promises to become a very popular production.

SEVENTH SIN IN SEVEN REELS.

Because of the enormous size of the production, McClure Pictures has decided to release "The Seventh Sin," last of Seven Deadly Sins, the series of features, in seven reels instead of five.

Ann Murdock, Holbrook Blinn, Nance O'Neill, Charlotte Walker, Shirley Mason, H. B. Warner and George Le Guere are presented in this photo-spectacle, which tells a complete story of a young girl's life, from girlhood to motherhood.

The story of "The Seventh Sin" is a mystery and the secret will be kept until the first showing of the drama. McClure Pictures divulges only the fact that it is the biggest of all Seven Deadly Sins and brings the series to an end with a feature of tremendous drawing power and appeal.

JOHNS-MANVILLE MOVES INTO NEW QUARTERS AT LOUISVILLE.

After March 15 the Louisville branch of the H. W. Johns-Manville Co. will be located at the corner of Fourth avenue and Guthrie street, Louisville, Ky., in the new building erected by the Speed Realty Co.

This building provides a frontage on Guthrie street which is in the very centre of the retail district of Louisville.

Mr. A. H. Voigt will be in charge of this office and will have under him a corps of salesmen who in these new and large quarters will be able to give even bigger and better Johns-Manville service to the buying public of Louisville and surrounding country.

Two Features on Paramount Pictures

Pauline Frederick as "Sapho" and Wallace Reid and Myrtle Stedman in "The Prison Without Walls" for the Week of March 12th.

THE long heralded photodramatic production of the famous play "Sapho" will be presented to motion picture lovers by Paramount as the chief feature of their program for the week of March 12th. Pauline Frederick, whose fame of characterizations of this type is without parallel, will play the title role. The production was made by the Famous Players. The other feature to be released the same week will be "The Prison Without Walls," in which Wallace Reid and Myrtle Stedman co-star.

"Sapho" is Miss Frederick's greatest character interpretation since she adopted the screen for her histrionic work, and in the making of this photoplay, Director Hugh Ford carefully avoided the darker side of the tale, which is from one of the best known works of the famous French author, Alphonse Daudet, and has taken care to introduce a bit of humor to lighten some of the dramatic parts of the picture. Miss Frederick's characterization will linger in the minds of the people as one of the very greatest of screen achievements.

In support of Miss Frederick there will be the following cast, including Frank Losee as Caoudal, John Sainpolis as Dejoie, Pedro de Cordoba as Flamant, and Thomas Meighan as Jean Gaussin.

"The Prison Without Walls" is one of the most exceptional Lasky productions that has ever been given to photoplay lovers, and is a wonderful starring vehicle for Wallace Reid and Myrtle Stedman, who are surrounded by a cast of exceptional players including William Conklin, James Neill, Billy Elmer and Camille Ankerwich. The picture was directed by E. Mason Hopper, the scenario written by Beulah Marie Dix from the story by Robert E. MacAlarney. This production gives both Mr. Reid and Miss Stedman a wonderful opportunity for the displaying of their inimitable talents.

The program for this week is surrounded by three exceptional short reel features, including the 57th edition of the Paramount-Bray Pictographs, the magazine-on-the-screen, in which there are four unique subjects; the 58th of the series of "Weekly Trips Around the World," personally conducted by Burton Holmes, the world's greatest traveler, in which he takes his fellow-journeymen to the Great Glacier in Canada, and a Klever Comedy entitled "Flivvering," in which Victor Moore is starred.

In this edition of the magazine-on-the-screen, there is also pictured the industrial Paradise that has been made possible by the late Elbert Hubbard, and whose work is now being carried on by his son, Elbert Hubbard, Second. This picture takes the audience through the little Roycroft community in East Aurora, N. Y., and is one of the brightest places in the United States, and shows how the remarkable products turned out are made, picturizing the beautiful products in hammered brass and silver, the remarkable hand-tooling leather, their printing shop, and what spirit prevails to make it an ideal industrial community.

Bobby Bumps, in the Pictographs, adopts for himself a turtle, and furnishes a very good laugh, adding materially to the value of the release in which there is also found a bird-land romance, a remarkable picture of the eternal triangle in bird-land, and which was obtained by accident by the Pictograph camera man.

Burton Holmes, in his travels last Summer secured some of the most wonderful pictures of Canada, one of which is now conceded to be a remarkable picturization of the Canadian Great Glacier. It was while obtaining these pictures that Mr. Holmes nearly lost his life by slipping on some snow and falling into a ravine, only being saved by the timely efforts of his associates.

"Flivvering" is Victor Moore's latest comedy. That is the decision of all the people who have so far seen this subject, giving him an opportunity of doing some of the cleverest work he has ever done on the screen.

"INTOLERANCE" OPENINGS.

The St. Louis engagement of D. W. Griffith's "Intolerance" commenced most auspiciously at the Garrick theater, Sunday night, by opening to a crowded house seconded by an advance sale that indicated that vacant seats would be at a premium during the first week.

Mr. Griffith, who went on there for the opening, was greeted on his arrival by Mayor Kiel, who entertained him at dinner Sunday. On Monday, Mayor Kiel put aside his official cares to personally show Mr. Griffith the points of interest in and about St. Louis. Governor Gardner, of Missouri, was one of the many notables present at the opening performance.

The London season of "Intolerance" is officially scheduled to commence April 7, at the Drury Lane theater.

In May, the rapidly becoming famous spectacle will be shown in Buenos Aires, Argentine.

The second Australian organization opened its season at the Theater Royal, Melbourne, last Saturday night.

Chaplin Takes and Makes "The Cure."

The title of Charles Chaplin's next production, which is No. 10 of the series he is producing for Mutual, was announced as "The Health Resort." The title has been changed to "The Cure."

"A, PEARL OF GREATER PRICE" (Selig).

"A Pearl of Greater Price" is the latest of the Selig feature films to be released in regular service of General Film Company. It is a gripping drama of social life, produced by Otis B. Thayer, from the story written by Arthur Leeds. The play is enacted by the new Selig stock company, and carries an absorbing mystery, which is unrevealed until the end of the story. Beautiful sets, a capable cast of players, a strong story replete with exciting episodes, good photography and unusual lighting effects leave nothing to be desired.

Scene from "A Pearl of Greater Price" (Selig).

"Over the Garden Wall" is the second of a group of comedies being released in General Film program by the Selig Polyscope Company. It tells the story of John Jones, a widower, and his son, Tom, and of a stone wall that separates his garden from that of his neighbor, Mary Brown, a maiden lady, and her niece, Alice. It is a case of love at first sight for Tom and Alice, and John Jones and Mary Brown also succumb to the love magic seemingly circulated by the garden wall. There is an all-star cast of well known laugh makers in this comedy, including such artists as John Lancaster, Lillian Leighton, Wm. Scott and Elsie Greenson.

SUPER FEATURES, LTD., PURCHASE CANADIAN RIGHTS TO "THE WHIP."

The largest sum ever paid for the Canadian rights to a feature picture, it is said, was paid to the Paragon Films, Inc., by the Super Features, Ltd., for the rights to "The Whip" in Canada. The price paid is $25,000. The transaction was closed in record breaking time by General Manager L. C. Stevens, of the Super Features, Ltd., and William A. Brady, who acted for the Paragon Films, Inc.

The Super Features, Ltd., plan the most extensive advertising campaign ever laid out for a picture in the Dominion, and unlimited bookings have been made for "The Whip" in Toronto, Montreal, Winnipeg and Vancouver.

The fact that "The Whip" was played throughout the Dominion in the major cities has only caused an unusually heavy demand on the part of Canadian exhibitors in the smaller cities where the play was never seen. It is very likely that Super Features, Ltd., may organize several touring organizations to present "The Whip."

MUTUAL TO RELEASE "JIMMY DALE" SERIES.

"Jimmy Dale, alias the Grey Seal," a series of sixteen two-reel detective story pictures, each complete, is to be released by the Mutual Film Corporation, beginning March 23. The announcement comes from the Chicago offices of President John R. Freuler of the Mutual following a series of conferences and negotiations between the Mutual and Jules Bernstein, vice-president of the Monmouth Film Corporation, which produced the Jimmy Dale series.

The star is E. K. Kincoln, who appears in the title role, together with Paul Panzer, Edna Hunter and Doris Mitchell. The stories, now being published in book form, are by Frank L. Packard, a celebrated Canadian author.

The series will be released, a two-reel story a week for sixteen weeks, beginning March 23. A full line of exhibitors' aids will be issued by the service departments of the Mutual.

Fox Releases "A Tale of Two Cities."

"A Tale of Two Cities," a superb screen adaptation of Charles Dickens' wonderful novel, will be released by Fox Film Corporation as a super de luxe production for the week of March 12.

William Farnum, in the double role of the soft-spoken, aristocratic Charles Darnay and the devil-may-care, dissolute English barrister, Sidney Carton, has never done such masterly acting in his entire career in the spoken or silent drama.

Frank Lloyd, who directed Mr. Farnum's first super play, "The Price of Silence," was in charge of filming the Dickens' story.

Russell Heads Mutual Program

"My Fighting Gentleman" Features Him in a Southern Story
—Other Good Subjects for Week of March 12.

WILLIAM RUSSELL gets the spot light in the productions of the Mutual Film Corporation announced for release the week of March 12. "My Fighting Gentleman" is the play in which Mr. Russell is starred. The plot of the story is written around the stirring days of the Reconstruction period of the South, when the impoverished scions of the ante-bellum splendor were in conflict with avaricious "carpetbaggers" and the newly-enfranchised negroes. William Russell, as the son of the landowner, takes a prominent part in the regeneration of that part of the South which is his home.

The photoplay is replete with amusing sidelines and "atmosphere." Human interest bits are found in the negro characters incidental to the play, while the suggestion of the South of fifty years ago is admirably carried out in full, not only in furnishings, but in the characters themselves.

Edward Sloman, who directed the picture, has succeeded in obtaining some very unusual scenes. Prominent among these are the chase through a swamp with bloodhounds on the trail of a fugitive and a glimpse of the main street of a Southern village on election night.

Francelia Billington makes her first appearance under the American banner in "My Fighting Gentleman," in which she plays the leading role opposite Mr. Russell. Jack Vosburgh plays the "heavy," while Lucille Ward, Clarence Burton, Harry Von Meter, William Carroll and Sid Algier furnish strong support.

No. 9 of the "Adventures of Shorty Hamilton" series, "Shorty Trails the Moonshiners," will also come to the screen on March 12. The story is laid in the mountains of Kentucky. The moonshiners operate in a roadhouse, where their whisky is concealed in what appear to be gas pipes, and they carry on a big business under a sign which announces that they dispense soda water and soft drinks. There is a very ingenious trap set for revenue officers who come sneaking about, which drops them into an aqueduct leading into a reservoir from which there is no outlet. Shorty and Anita manage to evade this trap and succeed in bringing the moonshiners to justice.

"Outwitted" is the title of the "Girl Reporter" story to be released this week. The story is a warning to young men on several points. First, if you have to be married on a certain date, do not forget the date. Second, if you want to get married, there are lots of easier ways than putting an advertisement for a wife in the newspapers and having all the married females in the country descend upon you. Third, if you must advertise, don't make the request for a wife "under urgent circumstances," or you will also be bombarded with reporters out after a good story.

The regular weekly offering of "Mutual Tours Around the World" comes on Tuesday, March 13. A sharp contrast is shown in the scenes depicting Koursk, a Siberian frontier village, and the oasis of Gabes on the edge of the Desert of Sahara.

It will come as a surprise to those who regard Siberia as a land of ice and snow, squalor and convict misery, to find the citizens of Koursk well dressed and the town itself evidently very prosperous. In Koursk will be found camels harnessed and doing the work of horses. A picture is also shown of the fishing rod market at Ouralsk, a small Siberian village.

The village and oasis of Gabes is one of the most interesting places in all Tunis. The pictures show the typical industries of the natives, raising millet and dates, making urns and weaving cloth.

Wednesday, March 14, brings the Mutual Weekly, in the compilation of which all corners of the world are searched by Mutual-Gaumont cameramen.

"See America First" is also ready on this day. This week a trip is made up the Mississippi River from New Orleans to Baton Rouge.

On the same reel is a Gaumont Kartoon Komic, animated for the screen by Harry Palmer. It is called "They Say Pigs Is Pigs." This is a picture of the humorous adventures of a string of sausages which are stolen from a butcher shop by a dog, purloined from the canine by a cat, and eventually turned into pigs in a miraculous fashion.

The Cub Comedy for Thursday is "Jerry's Triple Alliance." This marks the seventy-third Cub Comedy in which George Ovey has appeared. A number of lions and tigers are numbered among the props in this comedy and assist Ovey in producing the big laughs.

On this day also is released "Reel Life" No. 46, which shows the new police club-rifle, a weapon of deadly precision almost instantly contrived from the officer's revolver and a special club. "Making the Cactus Useful" illustrates how this plant can be utilized for fodder for cattle, making rubber gum, candy, phonograph needles and the Mexican intoxicating drinks. "The Fluid of Life" gives some wonderful microscopic studies of the blood. "Gold Mining in Alaska" shows the various methods used in the far North—beach mining in a "rocker," sluice method, dredging and hydraulic mining.

The American Company contributes two one-reel dramas, ready Friday, March 16. The first of these is "A Ram-Bunctious Endeavor," starring Wallace Reid and Vivian Rich, and the second is "The Lonesome Mariner," in which Ed Cöxen plays the principal role.

The Vogue comedy scheduled for March 17 is "A Matrimonial Shock." In this two-reeler Lillian Hamilton, who has long supported Ben Turpin and Paddy McQuire, is featured for the first time. The locale is in and about a very exclusive summer resort hotel at which Lillian Hamilton is staying, accompanied by her colored maid. The fun is found in the many complications arising from the checkered love affairs of both Lillian and the maid. Owen Evans, Larry Bowes and John Oaker help the fun along in this comedy.

Cohan's First Picture Finished

Famous Star Completes Work on "Broadway Jones"—Director Joe Kaufman Making Final Preparations for Public Presentation.

WITH the staging of several exteriors in and about Times Square last week, George M. Cohan finished his activities in connection with the initial Cohan photoplay to be released by the Artcraft Pictures Corporation. The work of cutting and assembling the film is now being supervised by Director Joe Kaufman, and it is expected that the entire production will be completed and ready for exhibition in a week, although it will not be released until March 25, following Mary Pickford in "A Poor Little Rich Girl," which will be publicly shown commencing March 5.

Mr. Cohan's selection of "Broadway Jones" from his many stage hits as his initial screen vehicle immediately evidenced the seriousness with which he took up his new work. His greatest of all stage successes, "Broadway Jones," offers an admirable screen subject with its rapid-fire theme, its many humorous situations of the George M. Cohan variety and its continuous action. A delightful story of a young man tired of the small village is effectively presented, displaying in it a moral that is readily apparent, although it is anything but a sermon. As described by one of the first nighters, "It is like sweet medicine; it does good and tastes good."

Everyone who has seen the work of the star is most enthusiastic over the production and that "Broadway Jones" as a photoplay will easily register a greater success than even the original play and book is freely predicted.

NORMA TALMADGE IN "THE LAW OF COMPENSATION."

Norma Talmadge's next Selznick-Picture, "The Law of Compensation," is a tremendous drama of modern American life, striking right at the heart of the restless, nervous core of social conditions. The story, written especially for Miss Talmadge by Wilson Mizner, deals with problems and circumstances that are brought forcibly to public attention, day after day, in newspaper stories and divorce court records. The basis of the drama is the failure of many women to understand the demands made by the strenuous business world upon their husbands, and the failure of the husbands at the same time to realize the inevitable result of neglecting their homes.

In "The Law of Compensation" Miss Talmadge is seen as the wife of a business man, considerably her senior, who becomes infatuated with his younger business associate. The husband discovers the truth and demands that the wife make a final choice between them. She chooses her lover, leaving her husband and child to go with him. After a divorce, the wife marries Trevor, only to find his affection suddenly waning, as the law of compensation takes effect, and he finds his ambitions served by engaging in an affair with another woman. There is a dramatic scene, and Trevor deserts his wife, just as she is about to become the mother of his child. In despair she writes to her first husband of her predicament, and he hurries to her, reaching her side just before she dies. Enraged, the husband seeks out Trevor, and after a fight kills him. He tells the court his story and is acquitted.

Joseph M. Schenck has spared no expense to make this picture a worthy companion to "Panthéa," and has provided an excellent cast and luxurious settings for the production, which will be ready for release in a few weeks.

SELIG PICTURES ON G. F. PROGRAM.

William N. Selig has announced his two latest releases in General Film Company's regular service. They are entitled "A Question of Honesty" and "Everybody Was Satisfied." "A Question of Honesty" is a multiple reel drama that convincingly proves honesty is the best policy. There is an exceptional cast of players, and the story abounds in exciting episodes and a succession of gripping climaxes it is said. The Selig Company also says the photography and scenic effects are away above the ordinary.

Another of the Selig one reel comedies is announced, with the title "Everybody Was Satisfied." The comedy is said to be distinctive, presenting a bonafide plot and merry action. Included in the cast are such laugh makers as John Lancaster, Lillian Leighton, Irene Wallace and William Scott.

The Selig Company has been releasing a series of good one reel farce comedies, for it is said the supply of comedies is not large. The exhibitors are said to be booking these comedies, thus proving the assertion that good comedies of shorter length are longed for. The story of "Everybody Was Satisfied" has to do with an eccentric bachelor possessing millions, who out of charity gives a hobo a suit of clothes. The hobo is mistaken for the millionaire, and then things happen. There is a double love affair running through the comedy.

Art Dramas' Releases for Two Months

Jean Sothern, Alma Hanlon, Edwards Ellis, Anna Q. Nilsson, Walter Hitchcock, Edith Hallor, and Leslie Austin Featured in Forthcoming Productions.

FOLLOWING the election of new executive officers and the closer association of the producing factors of the program, Art Dramas, Incorporated, has announced its releases for two months, beginning with the company's policy of quality productions, based on unusually interesting and dramatic stories and acted by capable casts, will be strictly adhered to. The forthcoming productions include the picturizations of two well known books, a Broadway success of the legitimate stage, and five original stories. Emile Zola, the eminent French author, Ashley Miller, Lawrence McCloskey, Louis Reeves Harrison and other authors of equal note are responsible for the stories that are to be picturized by Art Dramas. The releases are: March 1, "Pride and the Devil," featuring Alma Hanlon; "The Cloud," featuring Jean Sothern; March 8, "A Man and the Woman," featuring Edith Hallor and Leslie Austin; March 15, "The Law That Failed," featuring Alma Hanlon and Edward Ellis; March 22, "The Dragon Fly," featuring Anna Q. Nilsson; March 29, "Whose Hand?" featuring Alma Hanlon and Edward Ellis; April 5, "The Fraud," featuring Jean Sothern; April 12, "Without the Law," featuring Edith Hallor; April 19, "The Swinging Gates," featuring Anna Q. Nilsson.

"Pride and the Devil," by Lawrence McCloskey, is an Apollo production, directed by Richard Ridgely, with Pamela Vale, Leo Delaney and Bigelow Cooper in the principal supporting parts. Alma Hanlon, the star of the production, is given an unusually fine opportunity to display her ability in a part that requires a most exacting characterization.

"The Cloud" was directed by Will S. Davis, the former Fox director, and will be released by the Van Dyke Film Corporation. Supporting Jean Sothern, the star of the picture, will be seen Ogden Crane, Richard Tucker, Arthur Housman and Franklyn Hanna. The story tells of the sacrifice a woman makes for the sake of her daughter's well-being, and the still greater sacrifice the girl makes for her mother's name.

"A Man and the Woman," the next release, is a picturization of Emile Zola's famous novel, "Nantas," which Madame Blache adapted for the screen. Madame Blache is also the director of the production which featured Edith Hallor, a famous beauty and splendid actress, and Leslie Austin. Miss Hallor is one of the world renowned beauties of the Ziegfeld-Dillingham "Cocoanut Grove," at the Century theater, in New York City. "A Man and the Woman" is a U. S. Amusement Corporation production.

"The Law That Failed," by Louis Reeves Harrison, is an Apollo picture, and is the next release following "A Man and the Woman." Edward Ellis, the noted star from the legitimate stage, makes his debut on the screen in this production, sharing the stellar honors with Alma Hanlon. This picture contains a most unusual plot, with a mystery that is sustained until the end, it is said.

"The Dragon Fly" will have an all star cast in support of Miss Nilsson, the leading player. Ashley Miller is the director of the production, which was made at the Erbograp studios. Some unusual effects surrounding a rather common plot, and a surprise ending are the outstanding features of this production. Another mystery photodrama, "Whose Hand?" featuring Alma Hanlon and Edward Ellis, will be the next Art Dramas. This picture will also be directed by Richard Ridgely, and Pamela Vall will be the leading supporting player. The picture is an Apollo production. The Van Dyke Film Company makes the next release, "The Fraud," with Jean Sothern in the leading part. Will S. Davis will also produce this picture, which will be similar in type to those other Sothern productions which have been so successful in the past, an admixture of light comedy situations and heavier drama. The story is said to be quite different, however, from any previous Southern vehicle.

The U. S. Amusement Corporation makes the next release, "Without the Law," which is being directed by Madame Blache. Edith Hallor is featured alone in this picture, which describes the lives of two people who live without the pale of man-made laws. A radical theme is introduced in "Without the Law" that should attract widespread attention. "The Swinging Gates," an Erbograp production, with Anna Q. Nilsson and a strong cast, follows on the Art Dramas program. The story appeared originally as a serial novel in one of the leading fiction magazines, and was a "best seller" when it was published in novel form. Ashley Miller will direct the production of the photoplay.

UNIVERSAL SERIAL FOUNDED ON FACTS.

"The Voice on the Wire," the new Universal serial, directed by Stuart Paton, which starts in the week of March 12, is based upon a novel published some years ago, and written from his actual experience as a New York police reporter, by Eustace Hale Ball. Every once in a while we have to take out the old bromide, "Truth is stranger than fiction," blow the dust off it and put it into active service again, and this is one of the times when nothing else will do. The mystery plot of the new serial is absolutely impenetrable; it is bullet-proof, shell-proof and bomb-proof. It defies investigation. Yet, according to Mr. Ball, it is founded upon facts which he picked up during his experience in New York dailies, and is only the first of a series all of which had their basis in real events.

"SUSAN'S GENTLEMAN" (Bluebird).

Violet Mersereau will be the star of Bluebird's release for April 2, appearing in John C. Brownell's screen version of Kate Jordan's story, "Susan's Gentleman." Besides furnishing the scenario Mr. Brownell assisted Edwin Stevens in the direction and also acted in the picture. This subject was produced at Bluebird's Leonia (N. J.) studio, where Miss Mersereau had previously created two productions, and she will remain there for some time to come preparing features for the program. "Susan's Gentleman" is a romantic drama, with its earlier scenes and finale located in England, but the major part of the story deals with American life. Sidney Mason is Miss Mersereau's leading man, others in the company being James O'Neill, Beverly Barker, Wm. O'Neill and Robert Congston.

Scene from "Susan's Gentleman" (Bluebird).

"THE OUTCAST" FOR ANN MURDOCK.

"The Outcast" has been chosen as the first vehicle for Ann Murdock, under her contract with the Empire All Star Corporation, the purpose of which is to produce Charles Frohman stage successes with Frohman casts into motion pictures for release through the Mutual Film Corporation.

Miss Murdock, who was the first Frohman star to have been signed by the Empire All Star Corporation and by President John R. Freuler of the Mutual, has already started work on this production at the recently acquired Empire-Mutual studios at Glendale, Long Island. This begins the Empire All Star Corporation's actual producing activities.

"The Outcast" is the work of Hubert Henry Davies, the noted English playwright.

The story of "The Outcast" deals with the gradual evolution of a street waif to a woman of distinction and polish through her love for a man. This "gem of characterization," as the play was called by one of New York's critics, offers exceptional opportunity to the naive capriciousness and yet the poise of Miss Murdock.

Dell Henderson, for many years a stage director, has been appointed Miss Murdock's director. He will supervise the production of the entire Murdock-Mutual series.

HOUSE PETERS AND MYRTLE STEDMAN AGAIN CO-STAR.

House Peters and Myrtle Stedman, who scored such a tremendous success in the Pallas-Paramount picture "The Happiness of Three Women," are to be again co-starred by that company in "As Men Love"—a society drama written especially for them by Lois Zellner, author of several big Paramount successes. Though this popular pair are sufficient unto themselves as an attraction, the producers have added Jack W. Johnston and Helen Jerome Eddy to the supporting cast, thus making one of the strongest aggregations that have been presented on the screen.

E. Mason Hopper, who has directed many of the most successful Pallas-Morosco pictures, staged the production which is scheduled for release March 29.

Numerous scenes occur in the luxurious cafes which abound in New York. For the purpose of constructing these scenes at the Pallas studio, photographs were taken of one of New York's most gilded palaces, and these were used as a basis for the settings which appear in the production.

BROCKWELL CAST ANNOUNCED.

The cast of the latest Gladys Brockwell photoplay, which Richard Stanton is directing at the Fox studios in Hollywood, Cal., includes, besides the star, Bertram Grassby, Ralph Lewis, Beatrice Burnham and Carrie Clark Ward. This will be the first Fox picture in which Mr. Grassby worked. Miss Ward played in "One Touch of Sin." The story has a psychic theme.

Dual Subject on Universal Program

Two Western Dramas Head the List for Week of March 12—
Other Releases Scheduled.

THE Universal Film Manufacturing Company offers on the program of the week of March 12, a decidedly novel and entertaining release which may have wide influence in the arrangement of the weekly programs. Instead of the customary five-reel Red Feather production, a double attraction is presented under this brand consisting of a three-reel, heart-interest drama, "The Girl Who Lost," and a two-part Western drama, "Border Wolves," with the scenes laid in the Southwest.

This constitutes a five-reel combination of two separate and distinct photodramas by different authors and enacted by different casts. The first part could, without difficulty, have been stretched to five reels, and the second part to three reels, but rather than pad out the stories with unnecessary detail and atmosphere, the Universal officials have hit upon the plan of offering both subjects in five reels, giving the exhibitor and the public eight reels of entertainment in five.

"The Girl Who Lost" was written by Calder Johnston, put in scenario form by Bess Meredyth, and produced by George Cochran with Cleo Madison in the leading role, supported by Roberta Wilson, Molly Malone, Jack Nelson, Daniel Leighton and Lydia Titus. "Border Wolves," the biggest western picture ever filmed in two reels, was written and produced by George Marshall, from the scenario by Karl Coolidge. The cast includes such well known artists as Neal Hart, Janet Eastman, Joe Rickson and L. M. Wells.

The Red Feather double attraction will be released Monday, March 12. On the same day will appear the Nestor comedy, "Some Specimens," with Eddie Lyons, Lee Moran and Edith Roberts furnishing the bulk of the laughs.

Second in importance to the Red Feather double attraction is the announcement of the release of the first episode of "The Voice on the Wire," the new Universal serial, founded on the novel by Eustace Hale Ball and directed by Stuart Payton, with Neva Gerber and Ben Wilson in the leading roles. This is an entirely new type of motion picture serial, and promises to be one of the most popular and mystifying serials ever released.

The title of the first episode is the "Oriental Death Punch," and the two entire reels is cramful of genuine thrills and absorbing mystery.

The chief offering for Tuesday, March 13, is the Gold Seal three-act drama of human frailty, written and directed by Charles L. Gaskill, with Helen Gardner in the leading role, supported by an exceptional cast. The other release of this date is the Victor comedy, "A Woman in the Case," written by Warren Schoene and produced by Allen Curtis. The leading roles are played by Eileen Sedgwick, Ralph McComas and Milton Sims.

Herbert Brenon will appear in the leading role in the Imp drama, "Sins of a Brother," which will appear on Wednesday, March 14. He is supported by William Shay and other noted players. The Laemmle drama in two acts, "Where Glory Waits," with Allen Holubar and Roberta Wilson in the principal roles; the L-KO comedy, "Summer Boarders," featuring Hank Mann; and the Universal Animated Weekly, are the other Wednesday releases.

"Dorothy Dares," a Victor two-part comedy, written and produced by Ruth Stonehouse, who also plays the leading role, is the feature offering for Thursday, March 15. The other release of this date is the Big U drama, "For Honor's Sake."

The second of the George Bronson Howard series, "The Perils of the Secret Service," entitled "The Clash of Steel," featuring Kingsley Benedict, will appear Friday, March 16. The Universal Screen Magazine No. 10, and the L-KO comedy, "Love on Crutches," with Hank Mann, will also appear on Friday.

The Bison reel Western comedy drama, "Roped In," written and produced by George Marshall, scenario by W. B. Pearson, with Neal Hart in the principal role, is the feature release of Saturday, March 17. Others in the cast are Countess Du Cello, Tom Grimes, Bud Osborne, Bill Gillis. The Joker comedy, "Art Aches," featuring Gale Henry and William Franey and the Laemmle drama, "Racing Death," with Robert Leonard in the leading role, are other Saturday offerings.

On Sunday, March 18, will appear the Big U two-part Indian drama, "The Hidden Danger," with Mona Darkfeather, and the Powers split reel, "The Mystery of the Forbidden City," a Dorsey educational.

"The Vault of Mystery," the twelfth episode of "The Purple Mask," with Grace Cunard and Francis Ford, will be released during the week.

ZOLA'S "NANTAS" CHANGED TO "A MAN AND THE WOMAN."

"Nantas," the famous novel written by Emile Zola, is being picturized by Madam Blache, of the U. S. Amusement Corporation, for release on the Art Dramas program under the name "A Man and the Woman." The change was made because of the prejudice against productions bearing proper names, and also because the original title had no particular meaning except to those who have read the book. Edith Hallor and Leslie Austin have been engaged to portray the leading characters in the picture.

Leslie Austin, who is to be co-starred with Miss Hallor in "A Man and the Woman," is well known to theatergoers of both the spoken and the silent drama. He was featured for a long time in Lubin productions, and more recently on Broadway in a legitimate production.

"THE MEETING" (Mutual).

In "The Meeting," the eleventh story of the Mutual-Niagara series, "The Perils of Our Girl Reporters," Zena Keefe, as the newspaper woman, portrays a type which is quite familiar in the business world—that of a woman who finds her marriage a failure and attempts to support herself and regain her self-respect and happiness by plunging into business.

The story revolves around an Enoch Arden plot of the woman, who, hearing of her husband's death, marries again, and just when she has at last found the happiness she sought, is confronted by the man she believed dead.

W. H. Turner, who has played the villain all through the "Girl Reporter" stories, has a double characterization in this picture. First he appears as the gentleman crook, suave, well-dressed and, to all outward appearances, an upright citizen and a perfect gentleman, but in reality gaining his livelihood by burglary. Later, a victim of drink, he becomes the ragged, bedraggled tramp, with no spark of manhood left in him. Mr. Turner's extraordinary facility in facial expression is remarkably well demonstrated in these characterizations. Apparently using only his eyelids to convey the impressions he wishes to create, he runs the gamut of villainous emotions in complete and convincing fashion.

Arthur Matthews, who is usually the hero, also plays a crook's part in "The Meeting," and makes a most uncanny and convincing villain. He is a blackmailer, and not only wields his power over the woman who has at last found contentment in a second marriage, but also threatens the husband with an unknown power which he claims to hold over the wife.

GENERAL FILM'S THIRD "WAR" RELEASE.

The third part of "The Battle of the Somme," the first episode of General Film Company's great series of Official Government pictures of "The War," is even more thrilling than the first two parts. Under the hottest fire an intrepid soldier is shown attempting to rescue a wounded comrade. Shrapnel is bursting everywhere and the soldier darts out under a withering fire from German machine guns. He has not gone far when he falls, a victim of the Teutons. Another hero rushes out, reaches his fallen comrade, raises him to his shoulder and dashes back to the trench safely. For this act of superb heroism he is later awarded the Victoria Cross. British engineers are depicted mining a German trench. They place a charge of five tons of dynamite. Then a picture is shown of the explosion. Hundreds of tons of earth, men and trench equipment are hurled into the air, some falling perilously near the camera. After the explosion nothing is left but the crater of the explosion, a great hole more than forty feet deep.

WARWICK'S NEXT "THE SILENT MASTER."

"The Silent Master" has been chosen as the title for Robert Warwick's second Selznick picture offering now nearing completion under the direction of the famous Frenchman, Leonce Perret. This is an adaptation of E. Phillips Oppenheim's bizarre novel of adventure, "The Court of St. Simon."

The story of "The Silent Master" concerns the adventures of an eccentric young man of wealth who affiliates himself with a band of Apaches of the Parisian underworld for the purpose of righting the wrongs overlooked by the courts of law. This secret tribunal is known as "The Court of St. Simon" and the offenders brought before it are tried and punished with the lash.

Among those in the cast are Miss Olive Tell, who has often been spoken of as the most beautiful woman on the American stage; Miss Anna Little, the former American and Triangle favorite; Donald Galaher, Valentine Petit, George Clarke, Juliette Moore and Henri Valbel.

Electric Current
for THEATERS
PORTABLE UNITS
for
Traveling Circuit Shows
Write for Bulletin M10
Storage Batteries not required

Progressive Agents Wanted

LANGSTADT-MEYER CO., Appleton, Wis., U. S. A.

GOLD TEN DAYS
FREE TRIAL
KING
ARE BEST
SCREENS
GOLD KING SCREEN CO., ALBUQUERQUE, N.M.

Trade News of the Week

GATHERED BY OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS

Author Manages Theater Chain

Boston Newspaper Woman to Manage a Chain of Twelve Picture and Vaudeville Theaters—Mildred Champagne, Radcliff Graduate and Author in Several Different Fields, Is Also Business Woman of Ability.

From J. J. Phillips, Photoplay Editor, Boston Journal.

BOSTON, MASS.—Miss Mildred Champagne, the brilliant and versatile young author, playwright and newspaper woman, has recently become the manager of a chain of twelve moving picture and vaudeville theaters all over New England, of which the Scenic Temple, at Berkeley street and Warren avenue, is the Boston house.

The Scenic Temple will henceforth be known as the Mildred Champagne theater, as will the other New England houses.

Miss Champagne is a Radcliffe girl, and since her graduation has traveled extensively. She is an expert linguist and musician and has written popular songs, musical comedies, as well as philosophical books, magazine articles and travel sketches. She has written four plays, all of which have appeared on the local stage, and are now touring the country. These are to appear later on the screen. Miss Champagne created the popular "Talks on Love and Sentiment" in the Boston Post, and has conducted the column for some time.

Miss Champagne is familiar with the theater, as playwright, producer and manager, and her talent and originality will be applied to her series of theaters.

In addition her work at the theater Miss Champagne finds time to devote to a music publishing house which she owns and a chain of the most fashionable dancing schools, and her "Love and Sentiment" talks are syndicated to forty newspapers.

"I want, as far as possible," said Miss Champagne recently, "to get in personal touch with my audiences. I intend to appear upon the stage of my theaters from time to time, to have confidential chats with my patrons, to find out what sort of entertainment they really desire, and I want every one of my theaters to assume something of the aspect of a neighborhood club."

Every picture shown at Miss Champagne's theaters will be personally selected, and the best and highest priced stars in moving pictures will be shown.

In connection with the Mildred Champagne theaters Miss Champagne is training a select number of players to appear in one act plays, musical comedies, and excerpts from operas. They will be known as the Mildred Champagne players and will appear every week in Boston and then be sent upon the New England circuit. Miss Champagne believes in New England talent and has recently organized the Mildred Champagne Dramatic School, where she plans to give it a chance to develop.

Frances Nelson Entertained at Park.

Boston, Mass.—Frances Nelson, the Metro star, paid a visit to Boston, Tuesday, and was entertained by Manager Soriero of the Park theater where he is showing "One of Many," in which Miss Nelson has the leading role. Miss Nelson is a Boston girl and has a host of admirers here. The novelty overtures at the Park are the sensation of Boston, this week Manager Soriero has arranged an electrical overture in which the diminutive Anna Farney, the nine year old society dancer, has an important part. Manager Soriero says that business is great despite the h. c. l., the war and Lent.

Harry Jewel with State Rights People.

Boston, Mass.—Harry Jewel is now on the road for the Eastern feature film company of Boston, selling "Satan," "Glory," "Defense or Tribute," "Are Passions Inherited," "Ireland a Nation," and other features distributed by this company. Mr. Jewel was formerly with the Union film company of this city.

Globe Features Buys War Film Right.

Boston, Mass.—A private run of the war films photographed by Donald Thompson of the staff of Leslie's Weekly were given at the Park theater, Tuesday morning, February 15, by the Globe feature film company of Boston. Manager Segal of the Globe has bought the state rights of these films for New England.

Fanny Mittenenthal's Booking System.

Boston, Mass.—Miss Fanny Mittenenthal of the Boston Metro office, known to over one thousand New England exhibitors, has probably the most complicated booker's job of any girl in Boston, for she books over ten different kinds of films from this office together with answering and directing all correspondence with regard to bookings. She has evolved a key number system that simplifies her work and she is able at all times to tell when an exhibitor has an open date when his contract expires and, in fact, anything that an exhibitor may want to know about concerning the films booked from this exchange. Many of the exhibitors do not know that Miss Mittenenthal is a woman and she has to stand for a lot of good natured funmaking in the office as some of the letters and telegrams come addressed to her as Mr. F. Mittenenthal. She has been a booker for the Metro office for the last three years and prior to that she had a number of years' experience in the film exchanges of Boston.

Louis B. Mayer Buys "Whip" Right.

Boston, Mass.—It is rumored that Louis B. Mayer of Metro has secured the New England rights for "The Whip" at an enormous figure. This production of that wonderful melodrama will be awaited with pleasure by exhibitors and theater goers at large, as it was a wonderful success and played to crowded houses in Boston and New England when on the legitimate stage.

S. A. Shirley New General Sales Manager.

Boston, Mass.—S. A. Shirley has been appointed sales manager of the New England General Film office and started to work in that capacity on Monday, Feb. 26. Mr. Shirley will have charge of the distribution of the General Films in this territory and is to have a large and increased staff of salesmen to assist him in this work. Shirley has been with the General ever since its inception, serving in about every capacity from booker to branch manager and sales manager. He started with the General at the Wilkes-barre office and comes to Boston from the branch manager's office in Pittsburgh, Pa. He has had a wide experience in the film business and is a strong believer in newspaper advertising, having successfully conducted many of the General's sales campaigns in various parts of Pennsylvania with the assistance of the newspapers. The present moment the General Film contemplates large advertising campaigns on many of their features among which are, "Is Marriage Sacred," the serial, "The American Girl," and others.

J. D. Levine Made Manager of General Office.

Boston, Mass.—J. D. Levine, who for the past year has been serving in the capacity of assistant manager of the Boston General Film office, has been promoted to the position of office manager. He has been with the General Film for the past five years, having come into the film business shortly after leaving college. He has many friends in the New England territory and is well known, for it has been his business to see every exhibitor in some part of the distribution of the General's product in this field. Mr. Levine was born in Newark, N. J., and lived for a number of years in New Orleans, where he was employed in the General Film office there.

New Famous Players Office Opens.

Boston, Mass.—The informal opening of the new general offices of the Famous Players Film Company of New England took place Tuesday, February 27, from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. These new quarters are located at 8 Shawmut street, Boston, in the heart of the film district, and Manager Harry Asher was busy all day receiving his many friends among the host of Boston and New England exhibitors.

Fatty Arbuckle, the latest Paramount acquisition is expected in the Hub on the 5th of March and the local office is planning to give him a grand banquet at the Copley Plaza hotel, to which will be invited many state and city officials, including Mayor Curley. The entire press of Boston is to be invited and undoubtedly this monster merrymaker will have the time of his gay young life.

Maritime News Letter

By Frederick F. Sully, The La Tour, St. John, N. B.

Isadore Surkes Heads Local Fox.

ST. JOHN, N. B.—Carl N. Crawford, for the past three years manager of the St. John branch of the Fox film service, has been transferred to the Montreal office of the company, and is succeeded here by Isadore Surkes, formerly manager of the Mid-Way theater in Montreal, and for the past year road man for the Fox forces. Mr. Crawford opened the Fox office here three years ago, and during his stay in the Maritime Province has made a host of friends who regret his departure, and yet congratulate him on his well-merited promotion to a post of greater importance.

Mr. Crawford began his career 11 years ago with Walter E. Green, now president of the Artcraft Pictures Corporation. Crawford and Green as partners went on the road with a small motion picture show, with the latter acting as operator, and Mr. Crawford singing for the illustrated songs. More recently he became a member of the office staff of the Fox exchange in Toronto, and eventually established and assumed control of the office here. He has built up a good, progressive policy for his firm in this section, and even those outside of the picture fraternity regret in no small measure his departure for Montreal, the managing office for Canada of the Fox exchanges.

Fred Winters Visits St. John.

Moncton, N. B.—Fred Winters, manager of the Grand opera house and Empress theater, Moncton, was a recent visitor in the city, and while here closed negotiations for the screening in Moncton in the near future of the Fox "Romeo and Juliet." The Grand has been closed during the past two months, but will open especially for the two days' run of the special feature.

Hood's Theater Adding New Features.

Joggins' Mines, N. B.—In a recent issue of the World it was stated that Hood's theater had withdrawn from the motion picture field in this town, but instead Ambrose Wood, the proprietor, is adding new features to his bill, and has recently signed up for the "Purple Mask" serial.

Improvements at St. John's Opera House.

St. John, N. B.—At a recent meeting of the board of directors of the St. John opera house it was voted to install a fire sprinkler system and a water curtain at a cost that will be in the neighborhood of $2,000. The house, which is now leased by J. M. Franklin, is playing to good business with a policy of vaudeville and pictures. It was recently renovated at a cost of several thousand dollars. The system and curtain will, it is said, be the only equipment of its kind in a theater or picture house in the provinces.

Manager Golding's Stage Set.

St. John, N. B.—One of the most elaborate stage settings seen in this city has been made a special attraction for the Lenten season at the Imperial theater by Manager W. H. Golding. The setting is supposed to represent a section of the Astor house roof garden at New York, and includes the stages, which forms a background for the screen. The orchestra of a dozen pieces is seated in mass of floral decorations on the main stage. The lighting effects are unique.

Baltimore News Letter

J. M. Shellman, 1902 Mt. Royal Terrace, Baltimore, Md.

H. P. Moorehead Leases Plaza.

Baltimore, Md.—It is announced that H. P. Moorehead, who is now managing the Clover theater, 414-16 East Baltimore street, has leased the Plaza theater at Broadway and Gay streets and will manage this house in conjunction with the Clover. The Plaza seats 300. Mr. Moorehead has been in the film business in Baltimore for about six years, and in that time has had good experience as a manager, having handled the affairs of the Grand and the Pell Mell.

Arcade Theater Leased.

Salisbury, Md.—A five-year lease has been signed by Harry B. Hearnese for the Arcade theater, and the house will be managed and the pictures booked by him. Mr. Hearnese is now looking over the field preparatory to getting pictures suitable to his clientele.

W. O. Baker Leaves Peabody.

Baltimore, Md.—S. M. Buckman, owner of the Peabody theater, 11 East North avenue, is again managing this house due to the fact that W. O. Baker, who has been acting in that capacity, has returned to Union Bridge, Md., to again take charge of his picture theater in that city. While in this city, Mr. Baker conducted his business affairs in a live-wire method and made many friends. He was elected a member of the board of directors of the recently-formed exhibitors' League, and it is supposed that he will represent Carroll county as a delegate. Mr. Baker recently stated to this writer that when the Moving Picture World comes each week to him, it is like seeing an old friend of the family.

Operator Attends Cleveland Convention.

Baltimore, Md.—In view of the fact that G. Kingston Howard, president of the Operators' Union, Local 181, has not entirely recovered from an operation which he recently had to undergo for appendicitis, he was not able to go to the bi-annual convention of the I. A. T. S. E. in Cleveland. He was selected as a delegate at the annual election of officers, held in January. However, Samuel Isaacson, vice-president of the union and a prominent member, left on Sunday night, February 25, to attend the convention in his stead and represent the Baltimore organization.

Goldberg Buys the Walbrook.

Baltimore, Md.—Now comes the rumor from many sources which states that Thomas D. Goldberg, a prominent figure in the film circles of Baltimore, and owner of the Goldberg theater and heavy shareholder in the Gordon, has purchased the Walbrook theater, located at North avenue and Rosedale street. It is understood that Mr. Goldberg will manage the house himself and probably close the Goldberg, which is located just across the street. In acquiring the Walbrook theater, Mr. Goldberg has come into possession of one of the most beautiful playhouses in Baltimore, which was only opened to the public on May 29, 1916. A description of this house was published in this paper in the August 5 issue.

Garden Entertains Fifth Regiment.

Baltimore, Md.—A very elaborate entertainment was tendered to the members of the Fifth Maryland Regiment on Sunday night, February 25, at the Garden theater, Lexington street and Park avenue, by the owners and L. A. DeHoff, who arranged the picture exhibition. It is estimated that about 3,000 people attended. The house was lavishly decorated with flags, banners and bunting of the national colors, and many of the officers who were seated in the boxes were in uniform. The affair was held under the auspices of the Women's Board of the Fifth. These men have just returned from the Mexican border, and when the Mutual releases, "Our Boys at the Border," "U. S. Defenders" and Selig's "Following the Flag," were shown on the screen, the throng was very enthusiastic in its applause. Sacred and National music was rendered very beautifully by E. V. Cupero's stringed band.

Tennessee News Letter

By J. L. Ray, 1014 Stahlman Building, Nashville, Tenn.

Cleveland Theater Changes Hands.

CLEVELAND, TENN.—The Moneta theater a Thirty-second street moving picture house, has been sold by George N. Shorey of Knoxville to Fillaur Brothers, a Cleveland concern. The deal was consummated on February 15. A number of improvements will be made, and the house placed in good running order for the spring and summer seasons.

Mr. Shorey, who operates the Gay and Queen theaters of Knoxville, two leading houses of that city, obtained the Moneta last September at public auction, in connection with the Ocoee theater. The Moneta has been operating under the management of Haven Stevenson, who will retain charge. The equipment of the Ocoee theater was removed by Mr. Shorey to Mascot, Tenn., and placed in the Strand theater at that point shortly after the purchase.

Chattanooga Lyric Becomes Auditorium.

Chattanooga, Tenn.—The city of Chattanooga has obtained possession of the Lyric theater on a two year lease for use as an auditorium. The Lyric has for a number of years been a leading house of Chattanooga, both for road shows and moving pictures, and was selected for auditorium purposes mainly because of its spaciousness and adequate stage.

Strand Attendance Record Smashed.

Nashville, Tenn.—According to the statement of Manager Carson Bradford, all attendance records at the Strand theater were broken during the run of the Allison-Lockwood feature, "Pidgin Island." Throughout the entire engagement the crowds were kept chained off, and the lobby was packed from the opening hour until the last show.

Orpheum Runs Free Children's Show.

Memphis, Tenn.—Through arrangement with the Orpheum theater and one of the Memphis dailies a free show was given at that house to children on Saturday morning, February 17, in charge of Bert Levy, the noted vaudeville artist. Entertainment of a varied nature, including exhibition of a number of special children's films, was included. The Orpheum was obtained free of charge through the courtesy of Manager Arthur Lane, representing Martin Beck, managing director of the Orpheum circuit.

Remodel Star at Lexington.

Lexington, Tenn.—A complete remodeling of the Star theater at Lexington is now under way, which will include an entire new front. Work was begun on February 17, and the plans call for completion of repairs by April 1. The Congleton Lumber Company of Lexington is in charge of the alterations.

To Improve Nashville Strand.

Nashville, Tenn.—Extensive alterations, including the installation of a balcony, will be undergone by the Strand theater within the next few months, according to a recent announcement. This will provide a large number of additional seats, and judging from the manner in which the Strand has been packing 'em in of late they will serve in good stead for next fall's business.

Tennessee News Topics.

Knoxville Tenn.—"Civilization" enjoyed a most successful three days' run at the Gay theater, largely attributable to a whole page advertisement in the Knoxville papers. The picture was booked February 21-22-23, at prices ranging from 25 cents to $1.

Nashville, Tenn.—Beginning February 27 noon-day Lenten services will be held in the Vendome theater, through the courtesy of Manager Sheetz.

Pine Tree State News Letter

By John P. Flanagan, 151 Park View Ave., Bangor, Me.

Sam Stern Is Best Nutured Man.

BANGOR, Me.—Sam Stern, assistant manager of Universal film exchange at Bangor, is said to be the best-natured man in Maine, and if an investigation is ordered to see if this is really so, the Moving Picture World correspondent is willing to take the stand and swear that it is so to the best of his knowledge. He's always cheerful, and the only time that he forgets to chuckle is when his brother, Charley, is away on a trip. When Charley is in town, the two are as inseparable as the Siamese twins, and they are always accompanied by their high-bred French bulldog, which is some dog.

Says Serials Are Good in Lent.

Bangor, Me.—Manager Grafton Corbett of the Bangor branch of the Pathe Co. says that he has been telling Maine exhibitors that one way to make people attend the moving picture theaters more during the Lenten season is to start a good serial just before Lent opens, and the interest engendered is sure to keep them coming. He says that his eloquence seems to have been wasted on the exhibitors, though, as they did not respond to any great extent, and tell him that Lenten dullness is inevitable, and it's time for exhibitors to relax their efforts somewhat in entertaining the public. Lent is cutting into the profits of Maine moving picture houses; of that there is no doubt.

Bangor Exchange Jottings.

Bangor, Me.—A. L. Ehrsgott, formerly manager of the General Film, Bangor branch, is now New England manager for McClure, with headquarters at Boston.

Arthur Allen, who has been assistant manager of the Bangor Mutual exchange, which recently closed, is now traveling through Maine for the Mutual. He makes his headquarters in Bangor.

The Graphic theater is the first in Eastern Maine to try the five-reel Chaplin revue, which the Bangor General office is boosting just now.

It is rumored that the Metro Co. is about to open a branch in Bangor.

David Dow, formerly associated with the Bangor office of the United, is representing "Civilization" at present and was in Bangor recently after a trip through Aroostook County.

"Patria," with Mrs. Vernon Castle, recently at the Park theater in Bangor, is having a second run at the Nickel.

Pending a reorganization of the Unicorn Co., Miss Margaret Griffin of Bangor has been in charge of the Bangor branch of the company since last September. The last regular manager was Daniel Leader, well-known Portland moving picture man.

Charles Landers has taken a position as inspector and shipper with the Bangor office of Pathe.

Paul P. Peakes of the Chic theater, Milo, who was in town this week, reports that business is rather quiet. He has booked "Patria" from the Bangor Pathe office.

Pearl Crockett, of Brooks, and the moving picture magnate of that town, was a visitor to Bangor this week. Mr. Crockett's busy season is in the summer, when hundreds of summer visitors go to his town.

John Curran is one of the familiar and well liked figures in the Maine moving picture world. He has been connected with the Bangor office of the General Film as assistant to the manager for the past three years and enjoys a rare popularity among the exhibitors.

Among the Aroostook county theaters that have taken on General Film Service from Manager Harry Smith of Bangor are Bijou of Houlton, Hussey's of Mars Hill and Opera House at Ashland, Powers of Caribou and Dreamland of Van Buren. The last three houses use General service four days a week; the other two days are feature days.

Pittsburgh News Letter, Week of March 1st.

Local Universal's New Manager Is L. Baum—Metro Begins a New Serial Department—Arbuckle Passes Through—Other Local Notes of Interest.

From Pittsburgh News Service, 6016 Jenkins Arcade, Pittsburgh, Pa.

L. Baum to Manage Independent Exchange.

PITTSBURGH, PA.—L. Baum, formerly manager of the Philadelphia office of the Selznick pictures, has become manager of the Independent film exchange, the Universal branch, 938-940 Penn avenue, Pittsburgh. He succeeds M. C. Hughes, who has assumed charge of the new office of the Metro at Montreal, Can. Mr. Baum is one of the best-known and most able managers in the trade, and his appointment to head the Independent here meets with great approval. His long connection with the film business has been marked with much success. Previously to representing the Selznick interests in Philadelphia, Mr. Baum was manager of the Bluebird office in Indianapolis, and for a number of years prior to that was connected with the exchange of the General Film in that city. No change in the forces of the Independent are contemplated, Mr. Baum states, as the local organization is recognized as one of the strongest and most efficient in the country.

Metro's New Serial Department.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—The Pittsburgh office of the Metro, Film Exchange building, has installed an important new department in charge of J. H. Alexander. On account of the tremendous increase in the business of the exchange, the department was created for handling the two Metro serials now on the market and the special features controlled by the company in this territory. Mr. Alexander is especially well fitted to handle the work, having been formerly bookkeeper of the company ever since the exchange was established. The subjects now in the new department are "The Crimson Stain Mystery" and "The Great Secret"; "Romeo and Juliet," "Tillie's Punctured Romance," the Drew comedies, Metro travelogues, etc., all of which will be handled with greater efficiency than ever before. The regular feature releases will be handled by J. E. Davis, manager of the exchange.

Arbuckle Passes Day in Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Roscoe Arbuckle, affectionately known to filmdom as "Fatty," who recently joined the Famous Players, was tendered a brilliant and enthusiastic reception by Pittsburgh on Thursday, March 1. He arrived at the Union Station in his private Pullman, "Elysian," at 9:30 a. m., where he was met by a big gathering of fans and several cameramen. At noon he, with Adolph Zukor, were honor guests at a luncheon tendered the exhibitors of this section by the Famous Players Film Service at the Fort Pitt hotel, about 200 being present. During the afternoon and evening "Fatty" was the center of a mammoth moving picture party at Exposition hall. Entertainment designed for the children, and enjoyed immensely by all, was provided by Arbuckle, and the Paramount picture, "Snow White," was shown throughout the day.

"Crime and Punishment" Showing on March 11.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—The Pittsburgh Pathe office has announced a private showing of the notable film production, "Crime and Punishment," featuring Derwent Hall Caine, to be given at the Olympic theater, Fifth avenue, March 11. Invitations have been issued by the exchange to the exhibitors, members of literary societies and other organizations of the Pittsburgh district, and a big attendance is expected. The picture will be shown at the Olympic four days the following week.

Changes in Local Pathe Office.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—A number of changes the Pathe offices, and Manager Fuller says that his organization is now about as near perfect as it is possible to make it. S. F. Clark, formerly of the New York office of Pathe and assistant to Manager Berger of the late International office there, has been secured as booker. He succeeds A. R. Cole, now connected with the General. Leo Adler, cashier at the exchange for the past year, has been transferred to the San Francisco office of Pathe. His successor is F. J. Burns, formerly assistant cashier.

Miss E. L. Ross Handling Art Dramas.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—The Liberty film renting company, 938-940 Penn avenue, Pittsburgh, has placed Miss E. L. Ross, formerly booker of the Greater Vitagraph exchange here, in charge of the Art Dramas subjects. Miss Ross is well known among exhibitors, having been with the Vitagraph a year and a half, and her return to the film business is welcomed by her many friends.

Western Pennsylvania Theater Changes.

Brownsville, Pa.—The Rex theater, Brownsville, has been purchased by the Wright Amusement Company from James Lackey. The Wright company conducts the Bison theater in Brownsville, and will operate both houses hereafter with high-class feature pictures. The Rex is a modern and attractive theater and has a seating capacity of over 600.

Olympic Theater Changes Hands.

Millvale, Pa.—The Olympic theater, Millvale, has been sold by Charles Krisel to C. M. Roush, who contemplates making a number of improvements in the house. Mr. Kreisel has another theater in the Pittsburgh district under consideration.

MORE PHILADELPHIA ITEMS.Warren Kerrigan Appeared at the Overbrook.

Philadelphia, Pa.—J. Warren Kerrigan appeared in person at the Overbrook theater on the evening of February 23 to the delight of an immense throng. Max Brown, the manager, made elaborate arrangements for his reception. Mr. Kerrigan spoke at each performance about his future plans.

William Sachemmaier at Hot Springs.

Philadelphia, Pa.—William Sachemmaier, of the Interstat Films Corporation, left last Saturday for Hot Springs, Va., where he will remain for three weeks having his rheumatism "boiled out."

Philadelphia Business Jottings.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Bob Lynch, manager of the Bluebird Exchange, boasts of seventy active contracts for Bluebird features. He is offering a prize of $100 in gold for the theater having the best advertising display on Bluebirds.

Manager Jacobs Adds an Organ.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Manager Walter Jacobs, of the Imperial theater, Sixtieth and Walnut streets, has practically completed the installation of a mastertype of the Kimball orchestral organ. In addition to the organ the orchestra which is at present furnishing the music at the house, will be retained.

Mr. Jacobs is a manager of no mean ability and has met with considerable success since his return to this theater.

Philadelphia, Pa.—John "Metro" Clark is well entitled to his name. The flourishing condition of the Metro exchange under his efforts warrants the title.

Will Have Auto Pick Up Films

Washington, D. C., Post Office Will Agree to Send Pick-Up Auto to Exchanges Five Times a Day—Will Deliver at the Same Time—Deposit Proposed to Cover the Return Charges in Case Film Is Not Delivered.

Clarence L. Linz, 622 Riggs Building, Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Exhibitors in the territory served by the Washington offices of the various film distributing companies may look for better service, according to statements made at the dinner meeting of the Washington Exchange Managers' Association. On this occasion the managers had as their guest H. W. Klotz, superintendent of the F street station of the city post office, within whose territory the film exchanges are.

Mr. Klotz told the moving picture men that the post office had placed in service on February 26 an automobile truck which is to make five trips daily to each of the exchanges, to pick up such shipments as they may care to make through the mails. The machine will leave the city post office, near the Union station, at eight and eleven a. m., and three, five and eleven p. m. Deliveries will be made at the same time as the outgoing shipments are picked up.

Those present at the meeting were very much interested in what this postal official had to say to them concerning the service to be rendered. President Butner, on behalf of the others, expressed the appreciation of the exchange managers of the efforts being made by the Post Office to meet their requirements. The one difficulty, he said, lies in the fact that the government will not permit of the shipments going forward with transportation charges collect or of their being returned when acceptance is refused by the consignee until the exchange has gone to the trouble and delay necessary to transmit stamps to cover return charges.

Proposes a Deposit to Cover Return Postage.

Mr. Milliman suggested that arrangements be entered with the city postmaster whereby each exchange manager could make a deposit of $5 or $10 to be held as a guarantee of return charges, and that deductions be made whenever necessary. Upon notification from the city postmaster that deductions had been made in the fund the exchange manager so addressed would pay in a sufficient amount to bring the deposit to the agreed on level.

Mail Service on Holidays.

During the course of the evening complaint was made of the action "arbitrarily taken" by the city postmaster in suspending the delivery of mail on holidays. The managers told Mr. Klotz that this would be a big bar to their turning over their business to the postal service. Mr. Klotz assured them that deliveries and pick-ups of films would be made on holidays as on all other days, and that possibly arrangements could be made whereby the first-class mail could be sorted out at the post office and delivered to the exchanges when called for by a messenger.

The meeting was closed with a discussion of matters of purely local interest and it was agreed that the next regular meeting of the association be called for March 12.

H. C. Wales Promoted.

Washington, D. C.—While congratulating him upon a well-deserved promotion, exhibitors and exchange managers alike are voicing their regrets at parting company with H. C. Wales, who, for nearly a year, has presided over the destinies of the local branch of the World Film, and who goes to New York to take up his new duties as special representative of his company, traveling throughout the country, with headquarters in the great metropolis.

Although very youthful in appearance, Mr. Wales was one of the oldest film men in point of experience at the head of a Washington exchange. His first work was in connection with the "legitimate," and he was manager of a vaudeville theater in Canada when the moving picture boom hit the Dominion. It was in 1905 that he opened the Montreal, Canada, exchange for the George Kleine Optical Company, and he assumed charge of all of the film business of that concern in the Dominion, opening branches in St. John, N. B., and Toronto, Ont., and arranging for the distribution of films through Western Canada from Winnipeg and Vancouver.

H. C. Wales.

Mr. Wales remained with the Kleine interests for about two years, when he joined the Crystal Palace film exchange. He opened the Montreal office and continued as its manager for about two years.

This concern is now out of the business, and will be remembered perhaps by only the older members of the business. His next step was to go with the General Film Company, for whom he put in a year in Canada and later staying four years in Albany as manager of that office. He left the General to go into business for himself, opening a motion picture supply house in Albany. He closed this business out early in 1916, whereupon he joined the World Film Corporation and was assigned to the Washington branch, succeeding Clarence W. Bunn, who went to Chicago for another concern.

Despite the fact that he was located in Washington for less than a year, Mr. Wales has made a host of friends. He has a very pleasing personality and always shows a disposition to meet the other fellow half way and help him out wherever possible. He has taken a more or less active part in the work of the Washington Exchange Managers' Association and was one of its most popular members. It is a foregone conclusion that he will make good in his new undertaking, and this is the substance of the best wishes of all of the exhibitors in this territory with whom he has done business and the exchange managers as well.

Mr. Wales will continue to call Washington "home," for his family will maintain a residence here, at least for the time being.

Sidney B. Lust's Invitation to Exhibitors

Washington D. C.—Sidney B. Lust, who is marketing the Lewis J. Selznick productions in this territory, sent an invitation to the exhibitors in Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, and other nearby states, to make his office at 903 E street, northwest, their headquarters during the Inaugural ceremonies, March 4 and 5.

Atlanta News Letter

A. M. Beatty, 43 Copenhill Ave., Atlanta, Ga.

Robert Harron Guest of Joe Marentette.

ATLANTA, Ga.—Robert Harron, of the Triangle forces in Atlanta, making a scene for one of his forthcoming features, was a guest of Joe Marentette, at the Reel Fellows' family dinner Tuesday.

New Film Exchange at Tampa, Fla.

Tampa, Fla.—On account of cancellation of the circuit system of supplying films to moving picture theaters in Florida, the Tampa film exchange has been organized to meet the demand for films at reasonable rental rates, to be supplied on the regular daily plans as formerly done.

It has a lot of comedies, westerns, dramas, two and three reel thrillers with plenty of clean, showy posters for each reel, and is well prepared to furnish a daily program of four reels, including posters at extremely reasonable rates.

Criterion Amusement Buys Right to "Conquest of Canaan."

Atlanta, Ga.—The Criterion amusement company have secured the state right to the Frohman production of "The Conquest of Canaan," and will begin at once to book it throughout Georgia.

N. L. Royster Managing "Civilization."

Atlanta, Ga.—Nat L. Royster, formerly with Pathe, Consolidated and Greater Viagraph in Atlanta, is now head of Thos. H. Ince's famous "Civilization." Mr. Royster has devoted the last twelve years in the South to the moving picture business, and his friends are legions which he won by honesty in his business dealings. Mr. Royster is in Atlanta, his home town, this week, making preparations for an early showing of "Civilization."

S. A. Lynch Visits.

Atlanta, Ga.—S. A. Lynch, head of the Southern Paramount and the Southern Triangle, was in Atlanta Feb. 21. Mr. Lynch has just returned South from New York, where he reports that the big releasing interests have about reached a settled basis and predicts a wonderful stride forward in pictures from this date. Mr. Lynch returned to Asheville, his home.

New Theater in Thomasville.

Thomasville, Ga.—Plans for converting a portion of the old Mitchell house into a theater have been made, and the owners state that work on it will soon begin. This property was recently purchased by a company and one of the first things to be done by them will be to give Thomasville an up-to-date theater.

No Sunday Benefit for Hero.

Atlanta, Ga.—The Alamo No. 2 and Savoy theaters were to be open Sunday, February 25, for the benefit of Atlanta's hero fund for the widow and four children of Rev. Gaston R. Buford, killed in attempting to rescue helpless women from a madman.

George and W. L. Schmidt, managers of the two houses, had agreed to donate Sunday's proceeds to the Buford fund; but when such an announcement was made, Dr. A. R. Holderby, Dr. Dunbar Ogden and other Presbyterian ministers requested that the benefit be canceled, stating that Mr. Buford had opposed Sunday movies while he was alive.

Philadelphia Notes

Lenni Amusement Hall Reopens.

Lenni, Pa.—C. Vogler of the Pastime theater in Media recently acquired the Lenni hall here, which he opened to the public on February 26th. Leading feature productions, including Paramount Pictures, will be included on his program.

J. C. Fox Gets Catawissa Theater.

Catawissa, Pa.—J. C. Fox will take possession of the opera house here as the new owner on March 5. The opening attraction will be Mary Pickford in "Cinderella."

Features Past and to Come.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Among the new feature photoplays which will have premier showing here will be "The Barrier," Rex Beach's red-blooded story of Alaskan life. This production will be presented beginning the week of March 6 at the Chestnut Street opera house where it will remain for an indefinite period.

During the week of February 26 Marguerite Clark was seen at the Stanley in "The Fortunes of Fifi," the entire week supplemented by the British official war pictures.

At the Arcadia Bryant Washburne and Hazel Daly in "Skinner's Dress Suit" played a six days engagement.

The Palace divided the week between Vivian Martin in "The Wax Model" and Sessue Hayakawa in "Each to His Kind," with British war pictures as an added attraction.

The Victoria introduced Earle Williams in "Arsene Lupin," a greater Vitagraph feature, which shared honors with the latest Metro feature, "The Promise," featuring Harold Lockwood and May Allison. Max Linder in his latest comedy, "Max Comes Across," was an extra feature for the first three days.

At the Regent June Caprice in "A Child of the Wilds" played two days and Frances Nelson in "One of Many."

The Locust showed "Envy," the first of McClure's "Seven Deadly Sins," for two days.

Something to Read With Meals.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa.—Donald Allen, has traveling representative of Paramount, has sent 500 copies of Paramount Picture Progress to the Fort Durkee hotel here. The proprietor wanted to have his menu printed on the back and to give them to his guests as souvenirs.

Edward J. O'Keefe's New Organ.

Atlantic City, N. J.—Edward J. O'Keefe, of the City Square theater, Atlantic City, paid a visit to the Stanley offices in Philadelphia last week and reports that he has installed a special type of rope-Jones unit orchestral organ at his theater.

Arbuckle Warmly Received in Philadelphia

Banquet at Bellevue Stratford for the Popular Comedian—Many Prominent Film People Present—Fat Actor Came in Special Car.

By F. V. Armato 144 N. Safford St., Philadelphia, Pa.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—In honor of the visit of Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle, well known film comedian, to this city on Saturday, March 3, William E. Smith, president of the Famous Players Exchange, gave a banquet at the Bellevue Stratford, in the evening of that day, to which several hundred exhibitors, newspapermen and friends had been invited. Among the guests were some of the most prominent men in the film industry.

Arbuckle is on the last lap of a trans-continental journey from San Francisco to New York; "Going home to Broadway," as he calls it. He has been winned and dined in every city where there is a Paramount exchange. He arrived at Broad Street station here at 10 on the morning of the 3rd and was greeted by a delegation of exhibitors. Motion pictures were taken in the station. From there he was escorted to Independence hall, where he placed a wreath on the Liberty Bell. It will be remembered that the Liberty Bell was taken to the coast and back, and while at the coast several well known film stars placed a wreath on it, but Mr. Arbuckle was one of those who was in the East at the time, and is therefore taking the opportunity of his visit to carry out the ceremony. Motion pictures were also taken in Independence square about eleven o'clock. He left here the same evening about 11.30 for Buffalo.

Arbuckle, who made himself popular by his work in Keystone comedies, is now with Paramount, and upon his arrival in New York will immediately begin making two reels.

Arbuckle is a perfect mountain of a man, in fact, so big that it was necessary to secure the private car "Elysian" for him, as no berth or compartment is large enough to accommodate him comfortably. His trip East was delayed two weeks on this account, as he tried it from Los Angeles to San Francisco and found that it would be impossible for him to come all the way in a berth. He lives aboard the car, which has been fitted up in wonderful style.

Herbert C. Hustler Takes Over Keystone

Philadelphia, Pa.—Herbert C. Hustler, formerly manager for John F. McMahon, one of the pioneers in this city, has taken over the Keystone theater, 2543-45 East Dauphin street. Up to the present time he has met with success, despite the handicap of antique furniture and one machine as his equipment. He has arranged a contest to stimulate interest in "The Lass of the Lumberlands" whereby the winner will receive a season pass good at every showing of the serial.

C. H. Goodwin to Select Film for Two Houses.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Charles H. Goodwin, secretary of the Philadelphia Exhibitors' League, has been given personal supervision over the booking of the Ridge theater, 25th and Kidge avenue, and the Cayuga theater, at Germantown avenue and Cayuga street.

Manager Conway Improves the Drury.

Philadelphia, Pa.—James G. Conway, of the Drury theater at 13th street and Germantown avenue, has renovated and completely redecorated the house. A victrola has been installed to render vocal selections and supplement the orchestra.

Exhibitors Welcome Proposed Excise Law

Buffalo Picture Theaters Would Probably Reap Benefit if the Proposed Brown Bill Is Made Into Law—Fewer Saloons, More Patrons.

By Joseph McGuire, 5 Lewis Block, Buffalo, N. Y.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—The Brown bill to amend the state excise law, which was introduced in the Senate on Friday, would indirectly help the moving picture business in the Buffalo territory, according to local exhibitors and exchange men.

Hundreds of saloons in this section will be closed if the bill becomes law. It is said the measure is sure to be put on the state statute books. It is therefore figured that the closing of these drinking places would tend to lessen the temptation for men to patronize saloons in general. Another logical conclusion is that many good citizens, when they see the bars go speeding along "the bone-dry route," would more frequently seek entertainment with their families in the moving picture theaters. In this way a small army of casual devotees of the screen would be recruited into the ranks of the regular film fans. In Lackawanna, a suburb of Buffalo, the number of saloons would be cut from 132 to 32. Other towns would be similarly affected.

"I am not a temperance crank," said one exhibitor in this territory, "but for the good of the moving picture game, I shall request the assemblyman and senator of my district to vote for the Brown bill."

"Fatty" Arbuckle in Buffalo.

Buffalo, N. Y.—"Fatty" Arbuckle was in Buffalo on Sunday and Monday. He found he had many personal friends in this city, having been the star attraction at the Buffalo Screen Club's first annual ball last year. A trip to Niagara Falls was one of the features of his visit. Daniel Savago, manager of the William L. Sherry Features, Buffalo, gave a dinner at the Iroquois hotel in honor of Mr. Arbuckle. Several film and newspaper men were present. A reception committee appointed to show "Fatty" the time of his life, included J. H. Michael, Earl S. Crabb, Ira Mosher, Harold B. Franklin, Edward Hyman, Harry Marsey and George H. Christoffers, president of the Screen club.

C. Lou Snyder to Manage Lyric Theater.

Buffalo, N. Y.—C. Lou Snyder has been appointed manager of the Lyric theater, Buffalo, to succeed Harold B. Franklin, who became manager of Shea's Hippodrome. Mr. Snyder formerly managed the Princess theater, Windsor, Ont. Under the professional name of Lou Flash he had an electrical act in vaudeville for several seasons. He was also a music publisher. The Lyric plays vaudeville and Pathe, Universal, Fox and General pictures. The house is conducted by the Olympic Amusement Co.

Buffalo Cheers Home Coming Border Boys.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Local exhibitors, with other film men, have been requested to help provide positions for some of the members of the 74th Regiment, National Guard, who have returned to this city from the Mexican border. Some moving picture operators are included in the ranks. All the theaters were decorated in honor of the return of the regiment.

Casting Up Accounts with February.

Buffalo, N. Y.—February has closed with a checkered career, so far as the moving picture business in Buffalo is concerned. The exhibitors were kept guessing for a few days on account of the coldest weather this city has had in thirty years. The downtown theaters lost considerable business for several evenings on account of inadequate street car service, which kept many people at their homes. The month finished strong, however, despite numerous handicaps. The advantages which the exhibitors found in February, on the other hand, included a full measure of industrial prosperity in this city, and the circulation of plenty of money, much of which found its way to the box offices when the weather was favorable.

The film industry here received a decided shock the day President Wilson severed diplomatic relations with Germany, but quickly rallied and now shows a healthy tone.

Manager Hyman, of the Victoria theater, Buffalo, received plenty of first-page publicity when he recently played "The Press and the Spoilsman." This film was produced by the Buffalo Evening News, which saw that nothing was left undone in the way of complete write-ups. The News ran pictures of its high-browed editorial staff and other features relating to the story.

Manager Franklin, of Shea's Hippodrome, showed special pictures of the homecoming of the 74th Regiment. Other houses displayed similar enterprise. The guardsmen were paid several thousand dollars after their arrival, and the share of this which the theaters received was given the warm hand of welcome.

Henry Carr, manager of Shea's vaudeville theater, Buffalo, was on the sick list for several days. He is now back at his post.

Despite the handicap of being located near several large moving picture houses which charge ten cents or more, the Happy Hour theater, Buffalo, continues to draw its share of patronage from the downtown shoppers, transients, etc. J. W. Morris was recently appointed manager of this house.

I. A. T. S. E. Meets in Cleveland

Bi-Annual Convention of International Alliance of Stage Employes and Moving Picture Operators Assembles—Discussion of a Possible Amalgamation with the White Rats—Waitresses' Union Entertains With Ball.

By M. A. Malaney, 218 Columbia Bldg., Cleveland, O.

CLEVELAND, O.—More than 500 delegates to the convention of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes and Moving Picture Operators assembled at the Statler hotel, in Cleveland, this week. This organization holds its convention every two years.

An amalgamation of actors, musicians, stage employes and moving picture machine operators was the principal topic of consideration among the delegates at the opening of the convention. Harry Mountford, president of the White Rats, was on hand making a strenuous effort to get the operators and stage hands to back the strike of actors which he called several weeks ago.

The address of welcome was made by Public Utilities Director Farrell, representing the Mayor of Cleveland. J. Watne Hart, president of the Cleveland Federation of Labor, followed with greetings from the unions, and the response was made by Charles C. Shay, of New York, international president of the alliance, who presided.

Notes of the Convention.

Norman Moss and E. C. Scobey, of the Indianapolis operators' organization, were busy telling the boys all about what Indiana will do when she goes dry.

The Waitresses' Union, of Cleveland, arranged a dance for the delegates at Druids' Hall, Monday night.

Owen Miller, secretary of the American Federation of Musicians, was in attendance.

Oscar Scheck, of Cleveland, international vice-president, was chairman of the entertainment committee.

Screen Club Dances March 16.

Cleveland, O.—The Cleveland Screen club is making arrangements for a midnight dance and supper to be given the night of March 16.

It will be called a "Shamrock Party" in honor of the Irish film men in the club. The committee named to get up this Irish party, includes M. A. Lebensburger, chairman; Joseph Grossman, J. M. Greenbaum, Max Schachtel, David Adler, G. T. Sharpe, George Erdmann and M. A. Malaney. It will start at midnight, just as St. Patrick's Day arrives.

In view of the large number of Sons of Erin on the committee, the members of the club look for a genuine affair, with pea soup, mint drinks, green onions and Shamrock favors.

Burton Garret Becomes Paramount Representative.

Cleveland, O.—Burton Garret, for the last year assistant manager of the Mutual Cleveland branch, has resigned to become northern Ohio representative for the Pittsburgh Paramount exchange.

Burton Garret.

Mr. Garret has had years of experience in the film business, his start dating back to the days of the Sales Co. program, when he was in the home office of that concern.

His headquarters will be in Cleveland, where the Paramount may establish a depot in the near future.

Incorporators of Superior Photoplays Co.

Cleveland, O.—The Superior photoplays company was incorporated at Columbus last week, with capital stock of $10,000.

The incorporators are W. H. Grafton, Samuel R. Brodsky, M. E. Beckwith, Ben Finiger and Joe Epstein, all of Cleveland.

Messrs. Brodsky and Beckwith were formerly connected with the Reserve photoplays company, which made the Johnny Ray comedies.

Miles Books "Sins."

Cleveland, O.—The Miles theater, a vaudeville house, has booked the "Seven Deadly Sins" series from the local McClure branch, which is in charge of Frank H. Marshall.

The first one will be shown the week of March 11.

The Duplex Mall to Open.

Cleveland, O.—The upper deck of the Mall theater, a duplex house, will open March 11. Mall has two separate and distinct auditoriums, one on top of the other, connected only by a wide stairway. The lower theater has an entrance on Superior avenue, while the upper one has its entrance on Euclid avenue, the level of the streets being nearly a story in difference.

Louisville News Letter

Ohio Valley News Service, 1404 Starks Building, Louisville, Ky.

Colored Theaters Too Numerous.

LOUISVILLE, KY.—Colored theaters have grown in numbers more rapidly than the colored population or the desire for pictures, the result being that the real estate firm of Mueller & Martin has been endeavoring for some time to rent the Ruby theater, 914 West Walnut street, formerly operated as a negro theater by Joseph Clark, Jr., manager of the Ruby Theater Co. During the past year two modern negro theaters opened in the same district, driving the Ruby to closing its doors.

Taxation for Theaters Selling Alcohol.

Louisville, Ky.—A bill taxing theaters serving drinks to audiences at a rate of $1,000 per year has been introduced into the special taxation session of the Kentucky Legislature by Senator Bishop S. Huntsman, of Bowling Green, Ky. This bill is aimed directly at the Buckingham theater of Louisville, the only theater in the state which sells alcoholic liquors during performances, and then on only six days in the week. The Buckingham is one of the old line burlesque theaters. The Legislature has been in special session since February 14, for the purpose of remodeling the entire taxation situation in the state.

Admission by Trading Stamps.

Frankfort, Ky.—The Capital theater, operated by the Broadway Amusement interests of Louisville, is now giving away three trading stamps with each five-cent ticket, and 6 stamps with each ten-cent ticket. The stamps may be redeemed for admission at the rate of 20 stamps for a five-cent ticket, or 40 stamps for a ten-cent admission.

Roanoke Theater Suffers Fire Damage.

Roanoke, Va.—A recent fire in the interior of the Roanoke theater damaged the building's interior to an estimated extent of $15,000. The entire damage to the building and equipment has not been fully ascertained, but the management is fully insured.

Boughman Obtains Control of Gem.

Maysville, Ky.—Walter Boughman, of Circleville, O., who operates a theater in that city, has closed a deal whereby he takes over the Gem theater of Maysville, which was recently cleared after bankruptcy proceedings lasting several months. Mr. Boughman has announced that he will remodel the building, make a number of improvements, install a new fire-proof booth, and two new motor driven machines. An electrical piano will also be installed. It is planned to open the theater about March 30 or 31. Mr. Boughman at one time was manager of the Washington theater of Maysville, and knows conditions and the people of the city.

Dixie at Somerset Opens.

Somerset, Ky.—Garval Burton, who recently secured control of the Dixie theater, has completed improvements, and has placed the theater in operation. He has arranged to show Metro, Triangle and World pictures.

Regulations Carried Out.

Winchester, Ky.—Under the new regulations of the Kentucky state fire marshal, a number of theaters in the state will be forced to make certain changes to comply with the ruling. The Winchester opera house has started work on installing new fire escapes in compliance with the law.

Prices Raised for Performance.

Louisville, Ky.—The Strand theater advanced prices to ten and twenty cents during the recent showing of Charles Chaplin in "Easy Street," in connection with the eight reel Vitagraph picture of Anita Stewart in "The Girl Philippa." The Strand announced that the Chaplin picture would not be shown in any other theater in the city for at least sixty days. Some of the smaller houses had been advertising Chaplins at five cents, stating that it was foolish to pay ten cents to see them when they could be seen for five a few days later. However, it is a full sixty days before "Easy Street" will be shown in a nickel house.

Publicity Campaign for Keith.

Louisville, Ky.—The Mary Anderson and Strand theaters are among a number of local concerns which are advertising in a big publicity and selling campaign with full page advertisements and $5,000 worth of cash prizes, merchandise, etc., which will be given away to boys and girls getting the greatest number of votes in the contest, each company entered offering so many votes with sales slips, wrappers, etc. The two theaters are making the most liberal offer of the lot, offering a coupon good for 1,000 votes with each book of five ten-cent tickets, good for admission at either of the photoplay houses.

Children's Show at the Walnut.

Louisville, Ky.—A total of 3,000 toy balloons were secured by the Walnut theater and distributed with each ticket purchased for special children's performance on two mornings of last week. Incidentally the entire 3,000 balloons were given away. The special picture was Robert Harron in "The Bad Boy," a play of the American boy and his family.

Louisville, Ky.—George Hackett, manager of the Sun theater, who for several years was connected with the Central film service, is now giving his entire attention to the management of the Sun. J. H. Hackett, his brother, has succeeded him as assistant to Manager A. C. Farrell. The latter has just booked

Red Feather feature service with the Star and Cozy theaters. J. J. Schnitzer, manager of the Indianapolis office, was due in the city last week, but has been home for two weeks with a severe attack of grip.

Columbia, Ky.—Neill & Son have sold their picture house to the Paramount Company, operating the Paramount theater, and taken a third interest in that organization. Instead of two theaters operating at five cents there will be one ten cent house in the future.

Cincinnati News Letter

By Kenneth C. Crain, 610 First National Bank Bldg., Cincinnati, O.

Convention of Local Paramount Exhibitors.

CINCINNATI, O.—The big event of the week of February 26 in moving picture circles was the first annual convention of Paramount exhibitors of the Cincinnati territory, including Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana, attended by several score moving picture men from various parts of all three states. W. C. Bachmeyer, manager of the Famous Players exchange in Cincinnati, and president of the Associated Film Exchange of the Chamber of Commerce, presided over the meeting, held on Wednesday, February 28, and directed the business and entertainment features of the gathering, acting as chairman of the reception and entertainment committee. Special interest was lent to the occasion from the standpoint of Cincinnati exhibitors and the public as well by the presence in his own ample person of "Fatty" Arbuckle. He appeared on Wednesday at the Strand, the Orpheum, the Plaza, the Forest, the Nordland Plaza and the Liberty, thus proving that large bodies do not necessarily move slowly, and the total number who saw and heard him mounted into the thousands. The convention was a pronounced success from every angle.

McMahan & Jackson Get Rights to "Purity."

Cincinnati, O.—As far as box office value is concerned, the latest film added to the state-rights string of McMahan & Jackson is perhaps one of the most valuable of the lot, judging from its success in Cincinnati in that respect. The firm has secured the Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana rights to "Purity," the Audrey Munson film which showed for two weeks at the Walnut theater, creating considerable controversy among the authorities during the entire period.

Ask for Fairer License Fees in Lima.

Lima, O.—Lima exhibitors have for some time complained of the license charge made against them by the city, on the ground that it was much in excess of that fixed by other cities, and that additional charges were also made which should be included in one fee. A committee headed by Manager G. O. Dupuis appeared before the city council to secure some relief from the situation. A flat fee of $75 has been charged, with additional license charges as well, and the exhibitors propose instead a minimum total charge of $25 and a maximum of $75 a year.

Ohio Theater Notes.

Paulding, O.—The Paulding Amusement Co., incorporated recently with a capital stock of $2,500, will operate a moving picture house, which is to be constructed at once. Those interested include Orson Dotterer, J. P. Miller, N. H. Travis, R. D. Burch and E. E. Hardesty.

Basil, O.—Several local men, including E. E. Kumler and others, are planning to build a new theater for the exhibition of pictures exclusively. The Aurora Theater Company has been organized for the purpose, and arrangements are being made for the construction of a small house.

Ontario Ticket Tax Nets Half Million

Each Picture Theater in the Province Paid Last Year an Average of $234—Pictures Showing War Views to Be More Closely Censored.

By W. M. Gladish, 1263 Gerrard St., Toronto, Ont.

TORONTO, Ontario.—In presenting his statement of public accounts for the Province for 1916, Hon. T. W. McGarry, provincial treasurer, gave figures showing the revenue from the moving picture business of Ontario. The statistics, which were announced on February 23, show that the sum of $81,952 was collected from theaters and exchanges during the past year. Incidentally, there are less than twenty exchanges in business in Ontario while the number of film theaters is approximately 350. Thus, an average of $234 was collected from each theater during 1916 for licenses and censors' fees, etc.

Hon. T. W. McGarry also showed that no less than $243,910 was collected in five months from the patrons of theaters within the Province in the shape of an amusement war tax. The provincial treasurer estimated the revenue from the war tax during the whole of 1917 at $500,000. Last year the war tax revenue was devoted to the relief of Belgians, Serbians, Poles, etc., maintenance of Canadian military hospitals, grants for recruiting work, gifts to British navy, etc.

In connection with government matters, it has been intimated that the powers that be intend to be far more strict in the censoring of war views, official and otherwise. Dead body scenes will probably be eliminated while gruesome subjects which would have a tendency to hurt recruiting will be toned down. This action will be taken as a result of word from Ottawa. Incidentally, gruesome pictures in the newspaper advertisements for official or unofficial war releases will also be prohibited, it is declared.

Toronto exchange men anticipate that censors' tags for passed reels will soon be eliminated. These certificates are easily lost or misplaced, partly owing to the great number of hands through which they must pass in the exchanges and at theaters throughout the Province, and they soon become dirty and illegible. It is understood that the tags will be done away with, although the Province will continue to charge 50 cents per reel for the censor board's stamp of approval.

Three New Exchanges.

Toronto, Ont.—Toronto has two more film exchanges and the prospects are for the establishment of still another film booking office in the near future.

Charles Stevens, formerly Eastern representative of the Canadian Universal, has opened an office at 59 Victoria street, Toronto, where he is handling several state right propositions.

Bert Applegath, owner of the Red Mill and His Majesty's theaters, Toronto, has also gone into the exchange business it is announced.

The announcement has also been made that Metro picture service, now handling Metro releases throughout the Dominion, will shortly open a branch exchange in Toronto. An office has already been opened in Montreal by this company. This is at 8 McGill College avenue.

An Idea to Boost Business.

Toronto, Ont.—The suggestion has been made to the Ontario Motion Picture Protective Association that all exhibitors and exchangers throughout Ontario co-operate for the holding of a special week during which every man, woman and child would be urged to spend one evening at least at a picture show. Newspapers, billboards and other facilities would be utilized before and during the chosen period to arouse interest in the various attractions. It is proposed to adopt a slogan for general use which would arouse comment and enthusiasm. All theaters would be decorated for the occasion and, in fact, every step would be taken to get the people out to the shows. The idea is receiving the serious consideration of officers of the new association in this Province.

Local Exchange Notes.

The Strand theater, Toronto, has arranged to take the first run of the Canadian Topical Review which is produced by R. S. Marvin, who recently opened an exchange office and studio at 259½ Yonge street, Toronto.

D. Cooper, representing Kleine and K-E-S-E interests in the Dominion of Canada, has arranged for the establishment of a private projection room at his new Toronto headquarters on Adelaide street West.

Toronto.—No less than twenty-three Toronto theaters have booked Vitagraph's "Secret Kingdom." The first run of this serial has been taken by the Regent theater.

M. Bernstein Heads Montreal Famous Players.

Montreal, Que.—Announcement is made that Harry Kaufman, manager of the Montreal office of the Famous Players, has resigned and is being replaced by M. Bernstein, manager of the company's St. John office. Phil Kauffman, Ontario manager for Famous Players, made a trip to Montreal at the time of the resignation of the Montreal manager.

George Lennon to Travel for Universal.

Toronto, Ont.—The Canadian Universal reports that George Lennon, superintendent of the company's headquarters at Toronto has been made a traveling representative of the company.

Gerald Barry to Manage Canada's Biggest House.

Montreal, Que.—Of interest to the whole Canadian industry is the fact that a change in management of the St. Denis theater, Montreal, the largest theater in all Canada, has been made. The theater recently passed into the hands of receivers who have appointed Gerald Barry, president of the Montreal Exhibitors' League, to the position of manager of the house, in succession to Mr. Perry, who has taken charge of the Riverside theater, New York.

United Gets "Self Defense."

Toronto, Ont.—United Photoplays, Limited, 37 Yonge street, Toronto, has taken over the Canadian military feature, "Self Defense," which was made at Galt, Ontario. Manager Fischer of the United has already secured several good bookings for this picture in which thousands of Canadian soldiers now fighting in France were used to depict the defense of Canada from an imaginary invasion of the country.

A Traveling Representatives' Ass'n.

Toronto, Ont.—Not to be outdone by the exhibitors and the exchange managers of this Province, the traveling representatives of the many Toronto exchanges have organized an association of their own, with W. Culliton of the Specialty Film Import, Limited, Pathe distributors, at its head.

Indianapolis Alhambra to Seat 1,400 Persons

Barton and Olson to Spend $30,000 to Make One of Their Houses Second to None But the Circle—No Change in the Policy of the Theater.

From the Indiana Trade News Service, 861 State Life Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.—The theatrical firm of Barton & Olson, owners of the Alhambra and a string of other motion picture theaters in this city, has announced that work will be started within the next sixty days on a new building which will be added to the Alhambra. The firm has just closed a long-time lease on the Griffith property, adjoining the Alhambra and intends to spend about $30,000 on the new building.

When completed the Alhambra will have a seating capacity of approximately 1,400. With the exception of the Circle, it will be the largest theater in the city devoted exclusively to motion pictures. The new addition will conform in appearance with the present Alhambra and will be fireproof throughout. A woman's rest room, a smoking room and a recreation room for employees will be the new features.

While the construction work is in progress the Alhambra picture program will be transferred to one of Barton & Olson's other motion picture theaters. The firm announces that there will be no change in the policy of the theater.

An Interesting Question for Decision.

Huntington, Ind.—According to a decision handed down in the circuit court here, a moving picture show and a daily newspaper are entirely different institutions.

T. Guy Perfect and Elmer Fouse, proprietors of a local photoplay house, were each fined for operating a motion picture show on Sunday. Mr. Perfect contended he displayed films of news events like the Sunday newspapers, and that therefore he was immune from the operation of the Sunday closing law.

After a short deliberation the jury decided that he was operating a moving picture show in violation of the law, and not a newspaper. Perfect appealed the case.

Attack on Richmond's Sunday Shows.

Richmond, Ind.—The Sunday-closing problem, which has not troubled the authorities in Richmond for several years, bobbed up again last week when representatives of the church organizations of the city petitioned Prosecutor Strayer to take a hand in closing the motion picture shows on Sunday. The prosecutor did not say whether or not he would take any action regarding their requests.

All moving picture theaters in Richmond operate on Sunday, and have been enjoying this immunity for four years. Several previous attempts have been made to convict the theater owners for violating the Sunday closing law, but in each instance juries have acquitted them. The theater owners declare that the shows are conducted on Sunday for the benefit of charity, as a portion of the receipts are given to various charitable institutions.

Gets German War Film Rights.

Gary, Ind.—U. V. Young, manager of several of Gary's leading theaters, has announced that he has purchased the state rights on an eight-reel war picture called "Germany and Her Armies of Today." This picture is said to be the only original film that has crossed the ocean since the war started. It had its first showing at the Strand theater, New York City, where it played to capacity houses for four weeks. It will be shown in Gary soon.

Washington, Ind., Sabbatarians Hold Meeting.

Washington, Ind.—A committee, the membership of which is made up from the different churches of the city, met at the Presbyterian church Sunday evening to discuss further the movement to place a ban on the Sunday picture shows. The committee did not announce the result of the meeting but it is said that some action will be taken soon. A similar agitation was started about two years ago, when the church representatives petitioned Mayor McCarty to put a stop to the shows. The mayor, however, told them he saw no harm in the Sunday shows and that he would not stop them as long as they are conducted properly.

Ambia, Ind.—The Princess theater, of this place, has been sold to Otto Pholes, of Wheatland. Mr. Pholes will assume charge about the first of the month.

Indianapolis, Ind.—The Equitable motion pictures corporation, of Richmond, Va., has filed notice with the secretary of state announcing that it has withdrawn its agencies from the state of Indiana. No cause for the withdrawal is given.

St. Louis News Letter

By A. H. Giebler, 4123 Westminster Pl., St. Louis, Mo.

Another Theater Added to Cornelius String.

ST. LOUIS, MO.—The Delmar theater, 4936 Demar avenue, which passed from the control of B. P. Stromberg to Mrs. J. W. Cornelius, has been reopened after two weeks of darkness, during which time the place was overhauled throughout and redecorated. The lobby space was enlarged by doing away with the office, formerly situated at the west end of the lobby, which improves the looks of the place very much.

New ceiling lights were installed in the lobby and a new lighting system to the house proper, and the entire place has been brought up to the Cornelius standard of decoration.

The Delmar, one of the houses that was promoted by the late O. T. Crawford, and the last one to pass out of his possession. B. P. Stromberg, a wealthy trunk manufacturer, took over the place from the Crawford interests more than a year ago and built up a high class of patronage, and conducted the house successfully until he disposed of it to the Cornelius enterprises.

The Delmar makes the fourth house now being operated by Mrs. Cornelius and her son, James, all of which are of the highest type in management and program. The Sixth street Lyric, the Royal, and the West End Lyric, which is but a stone's throw from the Delmar, are the other houses controlled by the Cornelius interests.

D. W. Griffith Comes With "Intolerance"

St. Louis.—"Intolerance" began an indefinite run at the Shubert-Garrick theater in St. Louis on February 25. The production is being shown on an elaborate scale; a thirty piece orchestra, a chorus, a lobby orchestra of five pieces, and two girls garbed in the manner in vogue in Belshazzar's day, were stationed at the door to give out programs.

The newspapers gave the film much space and they were all in favorable tone and spoke most highly of the great spectacle.

D. W. Griffith came on to St. Louis in person to see to the preliminary arrangements and made a curtain speech on the opening night.

Changes on St. Louis Film Row.

St. Louis, Mo.—Charles S. Goetz has been appointed manager of the General Film exchange at 3610 Olive street, to succeed manager Miller, who assumed charge of of the offices temporarily when H. P. Wolfberg resigned a few months ago. Mr. Goetz comes from Cleveland, where he was manager of the International offices prior to their being merged with Pathe.

Mr. Goetz has had a long and varied career in the film business. He started out with Warner Brothers as a salesman six years ago in Cleveland. After that he opened and managed the Detroit branch of Warner's, and then became district manager. He left Charles Goetz.

Warners to go with the World Film as Central division manager, from which position he worked up to general sales manager of all branches of the United States and Canada. He opened up branches for the Fox company at Pittsburgh and Cleveland, and about a year afterward he went to New York and managed the Gene Gautier studio for two years. After this he was with the New York Bluebird exchange.

When the Artcraft Pictures started up he was made manager of the New York branch, where he stayed until November, 1916, when he became affiliated with the International.

Rockford's Mayor Wants No Sunday Shows

Calls Referendum Probably Illegal—Says Exhibitors Have Broken Faith—Thinks Sabbath Shows Between One and Six P. M. Are Sufficient.

By Frank H. Madison, 628 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago.

ROCKFORD, ILL.—No Sunday evening picture shows! Mayor Bennett vetoed the ordinance allowing them to open.

Mayor Bennett was profuse in his explanations. For one thing he expressed his doubt as to whether submission of the vote of Sunday moving picture shows was legal. Another thing he said that many of the exhibitors had broken faith and had not shown pictures of the class that had been promised. Again he believed that the ordinance as it now stands allowing the houses to run from 1 to 6 p. m. is sufficient. This bars the houses from Sunday shows. The excuses of the mayor have prompted several questions. His criticisms of the pictures which have been seen in Rockford brought out the question, "Why did he permit it?" He has the power to stop any picture that is injurious to a community. The most objections are those which protest against him, as an executive, assuming a judicial function and reading into the referendum proposition a meaning not intended, when there was no question but that the people decided to express their sentiments for and against Sunday shows.

Will Send List of the Better Films.

Springfield, Ill.—The Illinois Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teachers Association has sent out a list of several hundred "better films" which it has endorsed. This list is not confined to industrial nor scenic but includes a great many productions put out by some of the larger producing companies.

What Galesburg Censors Think of "Unborn."

Galesburg, Ill.—The censorship committee of the Galesburg Woman's club apparently wants authority to make cuts in moving pictures. Mayor J. L. Conger has assured the committee that any ruling they might make would be enforced, but so far the committee has not asked that any film be prohibited. The situation was created by the committee issuing an official statement after viewing "The Unborn."

"While the committee concedes that motion pictures are of educational value to all classes of people and an important factor in the life of the community it was unanimously decided by the committee that while the picture 'The Unborn' had a moral, it was of no particular educational value."

Quincy, Ill., Exhibitors Praised.

Quincy, Ill.—Local exhibitors are declared above the average in their line and described as co-operating to the fullest with the local board of censors. In an address by Mrs. Lillian Brown, a member of the Quincy board, to the Parent-Teachers Association of Webster school, the Quincy problem, she said, is not to educate, but to keep the quality of the films from falling below a set standard. Merely because a certain film has undesirable features does not indicate that the industry is going backward because she feels that as a whole it is moving forward strongly. Legal censorship is not a good thing from the standpoint of the film manufacturing of the public. She showed that state censorship was an evil because politics enters into it.

Illinois Theater Changes.

Alton, Ill.—Certificate of a lease of the Princess theater to James T. Reilly has been filed.

Thomasboro, Ill.—"Rusty" Matthews, formerly connected with the Fischer and Palace theaters at Danville, has opened a moving picture theater here.

Mt. Sterling, Ill.—Harry Meyers has sold the Majestic theater to Richard Davis, proprietor of the opera house, who closed the Majestic theater because the town is not large enough to support two moving picture houses.

Showmanship Snapshots.

Shawneetown, Ill.—Manager Joseph May of the Grand theater gave a benefit performance for the baseball club.

Quincy, Ill.—Pinkelmann & Sheets entertained fifty carriers of the Quincy Journal at both the Gem and Savoy.

Farmington, Ill.—The Princess theater allowed the Pythian Sisters to put on "The Battle Cry of Peace," to replenish the lodge treasury.

Monmouth, Ill.—High School Glee clubs profited through a benefit given by the Alamo theater.

Robinson, Ill.—Manager Roscoe Cochran of the Strand theater had produced for his house a home talent picture entitled "Robinson Adopts a Baby."

Rockford, Ill.—Moving picture theaters of Rockford assisted in the campaign to raise $60,000 for club house for the Boys' club.

New Michigan Theaters—Changes.

Pickford, Mich.—Dr. J. A. Cameron has leased the Grand theater to Lee Young.

Lansing, Mich.—The Monclair Theater company of St. Clair Heights has been incorporated with capital stock of $1,000.

St. Joseph, Mich.—Bookings for the Caldwell theater in this city and Bijou and Princess in Benton Harbor which recently were merged under the management of William C. Mellanson will be in connection with the Fitzpatrick-McElroy company circuit. Oscar Hanson, who has been manager of the Caldwell, will remain in charge. The Caldwell will install a new pipe organ.

St. Louis, Mich.—The Liberty theater, seating 550, has been opened.

Michigan Censorship Has Second Hearing

Eaton Bill Still Being Discussed—Michigan Is Shy of Censorship on Its Record, But Exhibitors Have to Keep Busy or They'll Pay.

By Jacob Smith, 503 Free Press Bldg., Detroit, Mich.

DETROIT MICH.—Another hearing on the Eaton state censorship bill was held before the State Affairs Committee last Tuesday evening at Lansing. Among those who appeared were many club-women from various parts of the state, some for and others against the bill. Also appearing was George W. Trendle of Detroit, who spoke vigorously against the bill. Mr. Trendle represented the John H. Kunsky interests. Chairman Newkirk of the State Affairs Committee is non-committal on the attitude of the committee, although it is understood that he personally does not believe in a state censor board, contending that local censorship is better. The strong argument against censorship in Michigan is the result of state censorship in other sections, for instance, Ohio and Pennsylvania, where there has been untold trouble to both exhibitors, exchanges and producers. Also that there is sufficient police power in every community to stop objectionable pictures.

However, Michigan exhibitors can afford to take no chances and should not give up the fight. Let them continue to send letters to the committee and their congressmen showing that they do not favor the bill as well as to send letters from their patrons.

C. W. Perry to Manage Detroit Pathe.

General Manager Seelye, of the Pathe, was in Detroit last Sunday, February 25, and announced the appointment of C. W. Perry as manager of the Detroit exchange to succeed C. A. Mead, who will be transferred to another part of the country. Mr. Mead was appointed Detroit manager about six weeks ago and during the time he had the office he showed an increase of approximately 100 per cent. Now that the office is running smoothly with a big volume of business he will be transferred to some other exchange that needs doctoring. Before coming with Pathe Mr. Mead was district manager at Cleveland for the Vitagraph-V-S-L-E. His successor, Mr. Perry, has been with Pathe for over a year and is a real salesman. He came from New England, where he was both an exhibitor and film salesman.

New Madison to Open March 5.

Detroit, Mich.—The opening of the New Madison theater, Detroit, will positively take place Monday, March 5, unless something unforeseen happens meanwhile. It is the largest of the John H. Kunsky theaters. It was planned to hold the opening this week, but this was impossible to do.

State Film Co. Picture Opens.

Detroit, Mich.—"Civilization" started an indefinite engagement at the Washington theater, Detroit, on Sunday, March 4. This picture is controlled in Michigan by the State Film Co., of which Col. W. S. Butterfield is president.

The State Film Co. now control besides "Civilization" "A Conquest of Canaan," "A Mormon Maid," "Ramona," "Liber-tine," "Robinson Crusoe," and negotiations are now pending for other big features.

Two Wrongs Do Not Make a Right, But—

Detroit, Mich.—There are two sides to every question, and there are two sides to that of the deposit question. The World correspondent was in a local exchange the other day when the manager and an exhibitor were having an argument because the latter had canceled his service, although he had no deposit up. "Of course, we'll have to accept your cancellation because we have nothing to hold you," said the exchange manager. "But you know very well that if you had a deposit up with us you would not do such a trick." This particular exchange does not ask exhibitors for deposits. The manager then stepped to the writer and said: "You see what happens when you don't ask for deposits. These exhibitors will contract for a picture and when they want to cancel they won't even give you a decent notice, but instead will come in the last day or two and cancel when it is too late for us to get another booking for that particular day. Just this sort of thing compels most exchanges to demand of the exhibitors a deposit as a guarantee that they will fulfill their contract."

King Baggott Appearing in Michigan.

Detroit, Mich.—King Baggott is personally appearing in Michigan and is to be here for two or three weeks in connection with his five-reel picture "Absinthe," the state rights for which he sold to Dave Klein. After Michigan he expects to spend a few weeks in Ohio appearing with the picture and delivering a lecture prior to the showing of the film.

B. Barnett to Book "Joan the Woman."

Detroit, Mich.—B. Barnett has opened offices in the Peter Smith building, Detroit, from where he is making bookings on "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea," and later will take bookings on "Joan the Woman." It is understood that the latter picture will later be shown at the Washington theater.

Union Operators Carry No Films.

Detroit, Mich.—Local union moving picture operators are not carrying any film in accordance with their ultimatum which went into effect Feb. 26. As a result several cartage companies are being organized to do the delivering. It is expected that the charge for delivering and calling for the film will be around $3 per week to the exhibitors.

Loss Due to Careless Handling Grows.

Detroit, Mich.—Many complaints are being made by local film exchanges relative to the careless way film is being handled by operators particularly in the smaller cities. Not one but at least a half dozen exchanges have informed the World correspondent that in the past six weeks the amount of damaged film would run into hundreds of dollars. Exhibitors should be careful regarding film and should instruct their operators to be more careful. As film is leased only, it should have the same careful attention by exhibitors and operators as if they owned it themselves.

Michigan Theater Notes.

Flint, Mich.—Carl A. Cleaver, connected with the Strand theater since its erection is manager of the Della theater.

Hubbell, Mich.—An addition to the Majestic theater, to be completed next spring, will double the seating capacity.

St. Joseph, Mich.—A merger of three of the five moving picture shows in St. Joseph and Benton Harbor, twin cities, was consummated. W. C. Mellensen now controls the Princess, Bijou and Caldwell theaters.

Among the big features booked for the Washington theater, Detroit, are "The Honor System," re-engagement of "The Crisis," and "Joan the Woman."

The new Lincoln theater in Owosso, Mich., will open about March 10th.

Frank St. Ongie is having plans prepared for a new theater in Houghton, Mich.

Educational Pictures in the Regular Shows

Time Not Ripe to Turn Theaters Into Schools—Exhibitors Should Encourage Demand for Good, Wholesome Pictures as Good Business.

By Frank H. Madison, 628 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—The time is now ripe for moving picture theaters to make radical departures in giving educational pictures, according to D. K. Niles of Boston, former exhibitor and now working in conjunction with organizations seeking "better films" programs. "Motion picture theaters are not schools nor are the managers philanthropists or social workers. They are sound business men trying to give the Milwaukee public what they think Milwaukee citizens want. We must help develop the tastes of the motion picture fan by these carefully selected programs. The social center is the place to do this and as the tastes of the theatergoer improve so will the type of motion picture. Nothing can be done by merely talking about it and taking the stand that exhibitors must show only certain pictures passed by a censorship board. We must prove to the exhibitors that it is profitable to show any pictures that are not beyond reproach. They'll be glad to cooperate. We must prove to them however that that is what Milwaukee people want by showing them how well the motion pictures are supported in the social centers.

"If the various women's clubs and parent-teachers' associations do not endorse and support these pictures when presented in their school buildings, how can they expect the theater managers to give them this type of pictures."

Mr. Niles, who was an exhibitor for eight years, came to Milwaukee to assist Supervisor H. O. Berg in the work of selecting and promoting motion pictures in social centers. He finds that there is a lack of co-operation from the civic bodies which should support these social center moving picture shows. He also says that Women's clubs and parent-teachers' associations which are complaining against the character of moving pictures shown in some theaters do not understand the attitude of theater managers.

Bryant Washburn for Clean Films.

Milwaukee, Wis.—"The photoplay should be produced for the enter family, not for 'men only,' or 'women only,'" declared Bryant Washburn, Essanay star at a dinner given for him by Manager Ellis Bostick of the Merrill theater in the Badger room of the Hotel Wisconsin. "An actor who does not make it a point to appear in only the cleanest of photoplays is doing himself an injustice." At the dinner which was given for newspaper men Washburn spoke intimately of his work.

Notes Across the State.

Stevens Point, Wis.—The Della theater which has been under the management of P. J. Bresnahan has been taken over by J. T. Hardy.

Wausau, Wis.—The Majestic theater is now under the management of T. O. Troyer.

Iola, Wis.—A new moving picture theater has been opened here

Prairie State News Letter

By Frank H. Madison, 623 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

North Dakota Nullifies Blue Laws.

BISMARCK, N. D.—A hopeful sign for the bill in the North Dakota Legislature which would permit the operation of moving picture shows on Sunday was the passage by both houses and approval by Governor Frazier of a measure which nullifies some of the old blue laws of the state. The laws which have been partially voided are relics.

Some in South Dakota Want Blue Laws.

Pierre, S. D.—The passage of a state law prohibiting the operation of moving picture theaters on Sunday as well as other amusements on that day is to be asked by the Federation of Churches in South Dakota. This was decided upon at a meeting of the legislative committee of that body in this city.

Odd Fellows Film on Tour.

Lincoln, Neb.—"The Highway to Happiness," a film in which Lincoln people took all the parts, was shown at the Oliver theater. The play was produced for the Odd Fellows lodge of Nebraska and it will be sent on tour to secure funds for the lodge's orphans home at York. The production was directed by H. F. Chenoweth of Lincoln.

Jule Rachman Goes to General Film.

Omaha, Neb.—Business at the offices of the General Film company of Omaha has been increased and Manager Taylor has called in the assistance of Jule Rachman, manager of the Grand theater.

C. E. Holah Comes to Omaha.

Omaha, Neb.—C. E. Holah has been appointed manager of the local exchange of the Pathe to succeed J. E. Kirk, who resigned. If Manager Holah finds as many friends in Omaha as he made in Cincinnati, and no doubt he will, the city will find him a worth-while acquisition.

Charles Murray in Omaha.

Omaha, Neb.—Charles Murray, comedian for the Triangle Moving Picture Company, was a recent visitor in Omaha where he was the guest of Manager Thomas of the Strand theater.

Stromsburg, Neb.—J. E. Kneer has taken over the control of the opera house here.

Syracuse, Neb.—D. C. Beyette and Frank Wilk have opened a moving picture show in the opera house.

Anamoose, N. D.—L. M. Mitchell has sold his moving picture theater to S. F. Isaak.

Linton, N. D.—H. N. Turner has sold his moving picture business to Adam Thomas.

Kansas City News Letter

By Kansas City News Service, 205 Corn Belt Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.

Roy Burford's Children's Night Liked.

ARKANSAS CITY, KAN.—Roy Burford, Arkansas City, is making a great success of Children's Night. He has the co-operation of the superintendent of public schools, who not only assists in selecting the films, but lends his moral support to the show by helping to sell tickets.

G. P. Walker Does Yeoman Service with Film.

Jefferson City, Mo.—G. P. Walker, manager of the Jefferson theater, Jefferson City, Mo., in conjunction with the Imperial Feature Film company, Kansas City, presented the "Unwritten Law" to the Missouri legislators, supreme and county judges, and all the city officials. It met with such success that it is thought it will have a bearing on the censorship bill pending. In fact, after the showing of the film several legislators who acknowledged that they had been opposed to "movies," had had their opinions radically changed. Mr. Arthur Marawits, manager of the Imperial Feature Film, spoke before the legislators on censorship.

In a Land of Milk and Honey—No, It's Oil.

Kansas City, Mo.—P. H. Goldstone, Federal Film Co., has just returned from Dallas, Tex. He also visited in Oklahoma. Mr. Goldstone says that business is booming, due, of course, to the general prosperity. Mr. Goldstone was in the oil country. He says that every exhibitor had a Pierce Arrow or a Packard. He adds that, of course, as the population is so wealthy, exhibitors can charge almost any price and "get by with it." For instance, when the Majestic theater in Ardmore, Okla., was opened, $1 admission was charged and the house was packed. Mr. Goldstone also said that foodstuffs are cheap and everything is so plentiful that Texas and Oklahoma are good states for exhibitors.

"I'll Paint Your Barn."

C. A. (Red) Jones, a popular traveler for the Universal Company, uses the phrase, "I'll paint your barn to get your contract." This expression originated in a rather novel manner. In a small town which Mr. Jones was making an exhibitor was engaged in the occupation of painting his barn and refused to talk about films for his theater. "Red," nothing daunted, stepped up beside him on the scaffold and worked with him painting the barn. During the conversation he hauled down a contract from the exhibitor. "Red" is always pulling off a stunt like this.

Pathe Salesmen Hold Convention.

Kansas City, Mo.—The salesmen of the Pathe exchange recently had a convention. Plans for better advertising, better co-operation with the exhibitors, etc., were discussed. Those present were: Fred Pickrel, Wichita, Kan.; Geo. Meek, Tulsa, Okla.; H. M. Hempel, Kansas City; J. Foland, Kansas City, and Ed. Heller and J. L. Parkhurst, also of Kansas City.

Getting Film Stars to Shine Among Dancers.

Kansas City, Mo.—P. L. Ryan, manager of the Standard exchange, and Frank Newman, manager of the Royal and Regent theaters, recently went to Chicago to make arrangements with film stars for their appearance at the Kansas City Movie Ball.

W. B. Emrich with Standard Film.

Kansas City, Mo.—W. B. Emrich, formerly manager of the Bluebird, has resigned to take a position as special representative of the Standard Film Co.

G. H. Charne New General Film Salesman.

Kansas City, Mo.—Geo. H. Charne is a new salesman with the General Film. Mr. Charne was formerly advertising solicitor with the Kansas City Post.

Local Exchange Notes.

Kansas City, Mo.—J. H. Gilinsky, Essanay Co., has returned from a trip to Omaha, Neb. Mr. Gilinsky says that business is splendid in that territory.

F. A. Larson, Essanay traveling representative, was in Kansas City recently and declares that the success of the Max Linder comedies is remarkable in Nebraska. M. Ladeux, Empress theater, Omaha, has contracted for the Max Linder, the Rialto, Kansas City.

Fort Smith, Ark.—The New Jole theater, Fort Smith, opened with "War's Women," which went big.

McPherson, Kan.—C. G. Oelrich, McPherson, is building a new theater with a seating capacity of 650. The features of the building will be a smoking room and ladies' rest room.

Chanute, Kan.—L. R. Sommers, Chanute, Kan., has opened a new theater.

Kansas City, Mo.—Fred Savage and Chris Glamman, well known Kansas exhibitors, are planning to build a large theater.

Imperial Feature Film Co. Makes Headway.

Kansas City, Mo.—The Imperial feature film company, in Kansas City but a few months, is making rapid headway. Their showing of the "Unwritten Law" has been short of phenomenal. Arthur Merowitz, owner of the company, has as his very able business partner his wife, who was assistant manager of the Mutual in Omaha, Neb.

Teachers Like "War Brides."

Hutchinson, Kan.—Fred Savage, Hutchinson, showed "War Brides" to a convention of teachers. He handled the program as a representative of the Commercial Club. The film met with such an enthusiastic reception that Mr. Savage has obtained a return date.

Recent Kansas City Visitors.

Visitors in Kansas City recently were: J. R. Buford, Rex theater, Arkansas City, Kan.; J. E. Jones, Tucker theater, Pleasant Hill, Mo.; V. L. Wagner, Bildorf, Independence, Kan.; Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Canary, Wareham theater, Manhattan, Kan.; Gus Kubach, Lyric theater, Abilene, Kan.; Beidler, Newton, Kan.; Fred Savage, Hutchinson, Kan.; Chris Glamm, president Kansas Exhibitors' League, Wellington, Kan.; R. B. Christian, Excelsior Springs, Orpheus theater; G. R. Kubaugh, Lyric theater, Abilene, Kan.; W. Hubbel, Trenton, Mo.; Percy Jones, Unionsville, Mo.; Chas. Townsend, Leavenworth, Kan.

Kansas Theater Notes.

Beloit, Kan.—The Electric theater will be reopened under the management of L. K. Nos. Mr. Nos owns moving picture houses at Herington, Kan., and four in other towns near there.

Blue Mound, Kan.—Jean and Lawrence Arnold have purchased the moving picture theater from Oscar Gambill.

Hamilton, Kan.—A. F. Dove is now sole owner of the Star theater, having bought the interests of Messrs. Herrman, Clemans & Winegar.

Luray, Kan.—Hickman Brothers are building a new opera house.

Sabetha, Kan.—Charley Robinson has sold the Savetha picture show to Herman Koch.

Stafford, Kan.—E. C. Long has purchased the interest of B. L. Ingersoll in the Gem theater.

New Theaters in Neighboring States.

Marshall, Mo.—R. L. Sanford and Cricket Hearn have purchased the Wonderland from Elmer Featheringill and will move to the opera house.

Ardmore, Okla.—The Princess theater building, constructed at the cost of $50,000, was recently opened. It has a seating capacity of 1,250.

Erick, Okla.—R. V. Mayes and J. H. Southmayd have had plans drawn for a new theater. The building will be 40x125 feet and will cost over $5,000.

Pine Bluff, Ark.—The Best Theater company has surrendered its charter.

Yellville, Ark.—Fred Berry and Clyde Hudson have bought the Electric theater.

Colony, Okla.—Colony is soon to have a new up-to-date picture house.

Mangum, Okla.—Slaten & Trammel will place a first class motion picture show in this city.

Guymen, Okla.—C. M. Fun, manager of the Dime theater, is erecting a new picture theater, with a seating capacity of 672.

Tulsa, Okla.—Tulsa will soon have a new high class moving picture show. Mrs. J. C. Johnson has purchased lots and will build a $15,000 theater.

Oklahoma City, Okla.—In the amusement park which is to be built in Oklahoma City, a moving picture building is to be included among other attractions.

Two New Texas Amusement Bills

Lower Chamber Engrosses Parks Bill to Give Cities and Towns Local Option in Matter of Sunday Shows—A Gross Receipts Tax Bill—There Is a Big Demand for Money at This Time—Exhibitors Not Worrying as Yet.

By N. E. Flanagan, 516 North Ervay St., Dallas, Tex.

AUSTIN, TEX.—Following a big debate and discussion of the morals of Dallas by the legislators at Austin, Feb. 19, the House engrossed by a vote of 65 to 59, the Parks bill, allowing towns and cities to regulate or prohibit Sunday amusements by ordinance or charter amendment.

Barry Miller, legislator from Dallas, defended the bill vigorously. He said that Dallas has as high a morale citizenship as can be found anywhere on earth. But there are thousands of workers in Dallas who can not go to places of amusement except on Sunday. There are thousands of girls in boarding houses who can not receive callers because they have no place to receive them. But they have youth's inclinations and youth's right to amusement. He told of seeing thrashing machines at work in the black land counties on Sunday and of road workers on the county road ten miles from the Capitol.

Effect of Wholesome Amusements.

Legislator Florer from Dallas declared that no city has a higher strength than Dallas, and that it is largely attributable to the fact that Dallas does have wholesome amusements which take the people away from the vicious side of things.

A Gross Receipts Tax Bill.

A bill has been introduced in the legislature to levy and collect a gross receipts tax upon theaters, menageries, acrobatic performances, moving picture shows, etc., authorizing commissioners' courts to levy and collect a tax equal to one-half of that levied and collected for the State, and authorizing cities and towns to levy and collect a tax equal to that levied and collected by the commissioners' court. It repeals Section 36 of Article 7355, which required an annual occupation tax of $25.

"The fact that Texas and the various counties and cities of this state are not receiving a sufficient tax from circuses, shows, menageries, theaters, moving picture shows, and etc., creates and emergency and imperative public necessity requiring that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three separate days be suspended and the act take effect after its passage," was a clause of the bill.

Pressing Need of Money.

The fact that the general appropriation bill of the Senate will be a record-breaking one, is significant to amusement promoters. The total for the ensuing two fiscal years will be close to $15,000,000, while special appropriations already passed by the present session are estimated at about $4,000,000.

"Money had to be raised for the large appropriation," said Albert Walker, attorney for Interstate Amusement company. "Judging from the box receipts of the moving picture shows, some people imagine that there is immense profit in the business. They don't consider the expenses of films, salaries for actors, orchestras, heating and lighting, etc. Two committee hearings were held Thursday night though and when we explained things to the legislators they began to change their ideas."

The bill has the sanction of the governor and the revenue department. E. H. Hulsey, manager of the Old Mill and Queen theaters in Dallas and a big chain of others in the state, left for Austin last night. He was hopeful and said the film men considered the outlook bright. That the bill will be killed is the general opinion.

Old Mill Theater Burns.

Dallas, Tex.—The Old Mill theater, one of the biggest moving picture theaters in Texas, burned at Dallas, Saturday night, February 24.

The building, valued at $80,000, was partially destroyed. Damages were estimated at about $30,000. The $1,500 pipe organ and the picture screen, one of the largest in the world, are as good as new. The canary birds, "Jack" and "Billie," which have made the Old Mill famous, are singing today at the Hippodrome, where the Old Mill management has taken temporary headquarters.

The handling of the audience in the theater when the fire broke out is conceded by Dallas people to be the most remarkable and successful ever known.

"Nobody hurt. Emptied in one minute. Come to Hippodrome Today" was the sign in front of the uninjured brick exterior, Sunday.

The operator stayed in his cage until the last person was out, while the fire blazed 10 ft. below him. The organist played till the last auditor had left.

Herschel Stuart Will Help Manage Hulsey Theaters.

Dallas, Tex.—Herschel Stuart, well known in Dallas, has been appointed assistant manager of a the Husey theaters.

Waco Queen Theater to Be Rebuilt.

Waco, Tex.—Coke Horn, who has been running the Queen theater at Waco for the past several months, has sold out to a local company. Following Horn's plans they will increase the capacity of the theater from 450 to 2,000 seats, making it the largest theater in Texas. Work on the new building will start immediately.

Dallas Metro Film Company Changes Hands.

Dallas, Tex.—Albert Russell and Dave Reed, managers of the Metro Film company, Dallas, have sold out to Leroy Bickle of Waco and Oklahoma City. Bickle was one of the former Paramount managers in Dallas.

Theater Jottings Across Texas.

Garland, Tex.—H. R. Rogers has purchased the Lyric theater at Garland.

Bonham, Tex.—Aldredge & Watson have purchased the Best theater from G. M. Rhodes at Bonham.

Waco, Tex.—The Rex theater, Waco, has been purchased by W. S. Sonneman, who owned the Nickel theater for years.

Dalhart, Tex.—J. E. Cary has sold his interest in the Texas Grand theater to his partner, W. L. Hamilton.

Sweetwater, Tex.—Hamp Snell will open a new picture show in the new building Campbell & Snell are building.

Pittsburg, Tex.—Frank Holmsley, formerly of Ozena, has purchased a picture show here. He has sold his home in Ozena and will take active charge of the business.

Seguin, Tex.—H. Bartholomae has bought the Palace theater, fixtures, etc., from Harrison & Son, and took possession Feb. 15th. Roy Kintz will be the active manager.

Loraine, Tex.—Costephens Bros. are remodeling and enlarging the stage at their theater.

Waco, Tex.—A number of prominent Waco business men are planning for the erection of a new downtown picture house. The structure will probably cost about $100,000, with a seating capacity of 1,000.

Cuero, Tex.—Mr. Denton, of Houston, has bought the Royal Picture theater.

Higher Rates Get as Good Houses

Minneapolis Proves Again That People Are Willing to Pay Reasonably for the Right Kind of Entertainment—More Houses to Raise Prices—Film Business Is Good—Dangers of Risque Films—Other Notes.

By John L. Johnston, 604 Film Exchange Building Minneapolis, Minn.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.—Despite the fact that several bread trains have left here to keep the East from starving to death or to aid the starving Belgians et al, there is plenty left hereabouts—anyway the local film land is busy. If Minneapolis were New York or Boston or Philadelphia, the people here might hold their breath until the week's run of David Wark Griffith's latest, "Intolerance," showed at the local Metropolitan. Sunday, March 4, is announced as the coming of the big production, but it has not caused a sensation. Undoubtedly "Intolerance" will have a good week here, but it is not expected that any box office records will be broken. Minneapolis has ceased to grow excited over "mammoth" productions.

However, the public is gradually being worked into the habit of paying fifteen cents to see "pix" as Terry Ramsaye would say, and it looks now as if a small advance in price at down-town theaters will "get away" all right. The Strand has charged fifteen cents for almost every production shown within the last month, and the New Garrick has done likewise and it cannot be noticed that these theaters have lost any of their patrons. The Lyric has not suffered from charging big prices for big features, and when the Elliott-Sherman house returns to program features March 4 it is believed 15 cents admission can be charged for any picture shown.

In St. Paul several theaters have increased admission prices at various times and enjoyed a good business.

Showing Banned Pictures Cost Manager Dear.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Because he insisted on running "The Garden of Knowledge" film feature displaying numerous nude feminine figures despite objections of several clubs and argued with the Minneapolis Journal over its severe criticism of his methods, Manager James McClenaghan of the Alhambra has got into trouble. He has been arrested and is scheduled to appear before the grand jury February 26, and his theater license has been revoked and his doors closed. Also Mr. McClenaghan has been expelled from the Exhibitors' Corp. and his film seized, according to reports. The Alhambra did a good business for about three weeks while "The Garden of Knowledge" was running, but it is not expected that the theater will do very much business in the near future. This case has proved a big help to organizations which have sought to convince exhibitors that displaying "risque" pictures is "risky."

Prosper Schwie Goes to American Maid Film.

Prosper Schwie has resigned as roadman for the Artercraft exchange and gone out on a tour of Southern Minnesota for the American Maid Film Company.

Elks Give R. E. Bradford Pleasant Surprise.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Ralph E. Bradford, new Universal manager, was surprised, pleasantly, when he came to work the first morning last week to find a large floral horse shoe upon his desk. The floral piece was a gift from Lodge No. 44, B. P. O. E.

F. A. Burke to Manage Westcott Film Office.

Minneapolis, Minn.—F. A. Burke, formerly with the local Fox exchange, has been appointed manager of the Westcott Film Corp.'s local office, President E. A. Westcott having decided to spend most of his future time at newly-opened branch offices in Des Moines, Omaha and St. Louis. R. H. Chandler of Kansas City has also been added to the Westcott offices as a special representative. Mr. Chandler was formerly with the Federal and Bluebird exchanges at Kansas City and also exploited his own features for a time.

Special Showings and State Right Films.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Green & Steffes gave a special showing of their late acquisition, "Ignorance," at The Strand, Minneapolis, Thursday morning, February 22, at which over three hundred people were present. "Ignorance" is scheduled to be shown for the first time at a downtown theater here within a few weeks.

H. R. Brandt has received many inquiries about his two war features, "Guarding Old Glory" and "Germany on the Firing Line." Mr. Brandt recently opened an exchange at 700-02 Film Exchange building.

W. H. Lawrence Goes to Local Fox.

Minneapolis, Minn.—W. H. Lawrence has been added to the sales force of the local Fox exchange and he will cover the Iowa and Southern Minnesota territory.

F. W. Bauer Now Road Man for Paramount.

Minneapolis, Minn.—F. W. Bauer has been appointed Paramount's road man for the Dakotas to succeed H. C. Remington, now stationed at Milwaukee.

F. I. L. M. Club Dinner Feb. 26.

Minneapolis, Minn.—The F. I. L. M. Club of Minneapolis will hold its first annual get-together dinner Tuesday evening, February 26, at the Dyckman hotel here. Covers will be laid for over a hundred film men and, according to Myron Conhaim, one of the leading ticket salesmen, it may be necessary to lengthen the tables a little in order to accommodate the hungry crowd. The F. I. L. M. Club, one month old, has developed into a big success to date, and if its present standard is maintained it is expected that this body will be one of the strongest organizations in the entire West within a few months.

The club has been asked by the Exhibitors' Corp. of the Northwest to assist in making the May convention of exhibitors a success by raising $1,500 for a real trade showing at the time of the gathering. The club has promised the exhibitors its support.

Features Booked or Running.

St. Paul, Minn.—Manager Maitland of The Strand here has announced a week's run of "War Brides," featuring Nazimova beginning Sunday, March 4, at advanced prices. This will be the first presentation of "War Brides" in the Twin Cities.

Minneapolis, Minn.—The Lyric has extended its run of "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea" one week, and is expected to return to its former policy of program releases March 4 with "The Girl Philippa," featuring Anita Stewart. Metro features will follow.

Minneapolis Exchange Notes.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Manager W. K. Howard of the Vitagraph has returned to his desk after being confined to his bed for a week with la grippe.

Manager Harry Graham of the K-E-S-E exchange has had local scenes taken by the Lochren Film Corp. for insertion in "Skinner's Dress Suit" when that feature is displayed at The Strand theaters of St. Paul and Minneapolis this week. Bryant Washburn will open at the St. Paul Strand, in person.

Manager L. V. Calvert of the New Garrick had added a singer to his program this week. This is the third week Mr. Calvert had had added features to his program. Manager Sprague Green of the New Garden has also added a singer to his program of pictures.

Manager Al Steffes of the Northern theater here returned from a shopping tour last Friday afternoon to find his theater partially destroyed by fire. Mr. Steffes has already begun remodeling the theater and predicts an early opening.

"Daddy" Hoyt, jovial Metro salesman, with headquarters at Milwaukee, visited Manager Otto N. Davies at Metro headquarters here last week. "Dad" stated he found Mr. Davies was keeping the exchange in splendid shape.

P. N. Branch, special representative from the New York Triangle offices, is in charge of affairs at the local Triangle exchange while efforts are being made to secure a suitable successor to Ralph E. Bradford, who resigned recently to become manager of the local Universal exchange.

Manager P. H. Carey of the Zenith exchange has booked his Christie comedies in the New Garrick, Minneapolis, and New Palace, St. Paul.

Minneapolis, Minn.—The Strand has begun something new in local film circles. Friday evening, February 23, the Powers Mercantile Company staged a fashion show in connection with The Strand's regular program, living models wearing the latest in fashions. This feature will be added to The Strand's bill each succeeding week hereafter.

Minneapolis, Minn.—"Patria" is proving a good addition to the local Orpheum's bill of high-class vaudeville, and "The Great Secret" has added much to the patronage at the New Grand.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Theda Bara in "The Tiger Woman" proved an unusual business getter at The Blue Mouse, St. Paul, last week.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Manager George Granstrom, of the Franklin theater, Minneapolis, staged a special matinee for children, Saturday, February 24, at the request of women's clubs. "Rip Van Winkle" was his feature offering.

MORE KANSAS NEWS ITEMS.

Start Picture Show to Boost Town and Make Money.

Gardner, Kan.—H. C. Bigelow, banker, and T. D. Goresline, manager of the Johnson County Telephone company, looking for ways to help their community to greater expansion and upbuilding, decided on a moving picture show. They bought a local theater, the Royal, and in six months their enterprise, based purely on business loyalty to their town, has proved to be a money-maker in itself. The town has 514 people—one of the smallest towns in the state having a picture house. The theater seats 225, the regular charge being 10 cents. Recently, when "Snow White" was shown, the price was raised to 20 cents—though they say they might as well have charged 25 cents.

"We are only 30 miles from Kansas City," said Mr. Bigelow, the banker. "Our people come up to the city frequently, and see the good shows here. They had been getting dissatisfied with their own town, feeling that they were in the backwoods. But one of the most potent influences to change their spirit has been the good pictures we are showing. We know that the young people are going to be better contented at home now. Our town is improving in many respects—brick buildings, well oiled roads, and generally a higher standard of living. The people come together at the moving picture exhibition, they boast of the show and of their town—and we are on the high road to the perfectly harmonious co-operation of community upbuilding which means prosperity and continued growth." Mr. Bigelow looks after the advertising and the financial affairs of the theater, Mr. Gorseline managing it. They installed a new machine and employ good operators.

Gets Value from Eppes Sargent's Stuff, and Likes the Whole Paper.

Aurora, Neb.—A former newspaper man, a printer, and now a successful moving picture exhibitor—it is natural that J. E. Schoonover, of Aurora, Neb., should pick out the advertising department of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD as the most valuable to him.

"I wouldn't want any department eliminated, though," he said. "I couldn't do business without it—I know well enough that my business would commence to drop back."

Mr. Schoonover's practical experience in setting advertisements and running a newspaper and printing office, enables him to judge technically the value of the department—he knows how good that department is.

Southwest Notes.

Ardmore, Okla. — The Mid-Western Amusement Company was chartered with a capital stock of $25,000 by Harry Lowenstein and others, all of Ardmore.

Little Rock, Ark.—The Palace Amusement Company was chartered with a capital stock of $10,000 by L. S. Schorthz, T. R. Fox and Se. Gans.

PACIFIC COAST NOTES.

San Francisco Newslets.

Martinez & Moore have taken over the Winters theater on Mission road.

Robert Abraham manager of the new Mission theater of the Kahn & Greenfield circuit, is the proud father of a husky boy.

The Fairyland theater on Devisadero street, owned for several years by Cory Bros., but of late conducted by Charles Goodwin, of the Larkin theater, has been sold to Sid Martenstein, who also has the Halcyon theater two blocks away.

The Peerless Film Service has purchased an Overland automobile for delivery purposes. E. L. Emmick, of this concern, is again in Los Angeles, and is now dividing his time between that city and the San Francisco headquarters.

California Briefs.

Oakland, Cal.—A. E. King, of the Gem theater, has taken over the Hellman theater on Broadway, near Seventh and has renamed it the Crown. As daily changes are made at both houses and five reels constitute a program, Mr. King is called upon to book seventy reels of film a week.

Manteca, Cal.—Stark & Hodges, who conduct the Tokay theater at Lodi, have opened a new house here.

Guernerville, Cal.—The new theater of L. S. Murphy is to be opened soon, the initial attraction to be the new de luxe edition of "The Spoilers." The house is an unusually fine one for a town of the size of this one.

Fruitvale, Cal.—Another projection machine is to be added to the equipment of the operating room.

Stockton, Cal.—Messrs. Lagorio, Triolo and Caletini are to erect a moving picture house for Japanese.

Santa Cruz, Cal.—The Princess theater has been taken over by Fred Fitch and will be opened as soon as necessary alterations can be made.

Producer Leaves for the Orient.

San Francisco, Cal.—Ben Brodsky, who has been in this country for several months with moving pictures taken in China, sailed from this city for Hongkong on February 21 and plans to make a number of pictures before returning, which will be in about five or six months.

More Seats in San Francisco

New Fillmore Theater Will Be Enlarged to Seat 2,500—A New Building with the Same Entrance—Cost Will Be Quarter of a Million—There Are Already Many Fine Theaters in This District.

From T. A. Church, 1507 North Street, Berkeley, Cal.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.—The New Fillmore theater on Fillmore street, near Eddy, which was opened less than two years ago by the Kahn & Greenfield circuit, and which is one of the best appointed moving picture houses in the city, has already proved to be too small and is to be remodeled and transformed into a house with a seating capacity of about 2,500, or more than double the capacity of the present one. The long lobby of the theater now in operation will serve as an entrance to the new house, which will be a separate structure from the one now in use.

The present theater will be transformed into an assembly hall for dances and public meetings, with entrances on Eddy street, as well as through the theater lobby. The new building will be erected just beyond and parallel to the present one and will be reached by an extension of the present entrance. It is the intention of Kahn & Greenfield to make this the finest district theater in San Francisco, surpassing even the new Mission theater, which is so much admired, and the architects will be Reid Bros., who have designed so many beautiful buildings in this city. J. R. Hanify, who erected the New Fillmore theater for Kahn & Greenfield, will erect the big addition, so confident is he of the future of the moving picture business and of the success of this firm. When the new building is in a completed form his investment will be in the neighborhood of $250,000.

This action on the part of the Kahn & Greenfield circuit is especially interesting, since the Fillmore street district probably has more and larger houses in it than are to be found in any other similar residence district in the world. Following the fire of 1906 the owners of such downtown theaters as the Orpheum, the Alcazar, and other legitimate houses, erected large theaters in the Fillmore street district, and a dozen moving picture houses sprang up here. There are three houses in the neighborhood, each with a seating capacity of almost 2,000, that could be secured at a comparatively modest rental, but the Kahn & Greenfield circuit has decided that it is better to erect a theater especially for moving pictures than to attempt to remodel an old one. Work is to be commenced at once on the new building and the opening date has already been set for September 20.

Another House for Market Street.

San Francisco, Cal.—The recent announcement of the Turner & Dahnken circuit that work would be started shortly on the erection of a moving picture theater at Eighth and Market streets, with a seating capacity of 6,000, has been followed by that of Mr. Gibbs, of the Empire theater, to the effect that he has secured a lease on a lot between this site and the Rialto theater for a house to have a seating capacity of about 1,000. The prospects are that within a year this section of Market street, formerly used chiefly by occasional tented attractions, will become a moving picture center of unequalled magnitude.

All Star Distributors' New Quarters.

San Francisco, Cal.—The All Star Feature Distributors, Inc., of which Sol L. Lesser is president, has arranged to take over the corner location in the fine fireproof film exchange building now practically completed at Leavenworth and Golden Gate avenue, and will move from 234 Eddy street some time in March, or as soon as the new quarters can be fitted up. The new location is in the heart of Film Row and the improved facilities will enable this concern to handle its large productions in a more effective manner.

Mutual District Manager Visits.

San Francisco, Cal.—J. S. Woody, district manager for the Mutual Film in the Pacific Northwest, was a recent visitor here for a stay of a few days and has since left for Chicago. He noted many changes since his last trip here, but found many friends in the trade.

Sol L. Lesser Secures Big Productions.

San Francisco, Cal.—The All Star Feature Distributors, Inc., headed by Sol L. Lesser, has purchased the California, Arizona and Nevada rights to the Universal production, "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea." He has arranged a first run booking at the Cort theater, one of the finest downtown houses here, where 25, 50 and 75 cent prices will prevail. The second run booking has been obtained by Sheehan & Lurie for the Savoy, this engagement to start on the last day of the run at the Court theater, making it the first time that a stellar moving picture production has been shown in two big downtown houses in this city at the same time.

The California, Arizona and Nevada rights to the "People, Versus John Doe" have also been secured and this production has been booked by Manager Eugene Roth of the Portola theater for the week of March 4.

Empress a Straight Picture House.

San Francisco, Cal.—A large Wurlitzer unit organ is being installed in the Empress theater and this house will be transformed from a vaudeville to a moving picture theater at an early date. This theater, which has a seating capacity of about 2,000, is very centrally located on Market street and is one of the handsomest houses in the downtown district. The present plans include opening it as a picture house with Clara Kimball Young in "The Price She Paid." Manager Sid Grauman has selected a capable assistant in M. Zar, who has had wide experience with the presentation of moving pictures, having been with the Turner & Dahnken circuit, the Berkeley theater and the Edison theater.

Greater Vitagraph Moves.

San Francisco, Cal.—The local branch of the Greater Vitagraph has removed from the quarters on Market street occupied by it for the past two years to the fifth floor of the Easton building at 935 Market street, where more than five thousand square feet of floor space is occupied.

Union Official Visits East.

San Francisco, Cal.—L. G. Dolliver, business agent of the local moving picture operators' union, is making another Eastern business trip and during his absence his duties are being attended to by Anthony Noriega.

Mark Lasky Looking for Features.

San Francisco, Cal.—Mark A. Lasky, head of the De Luxe Film-Lasky Co., left recently for Los Angeles to look over some open market productions. This firm is well settled in its new quarters on Golden Gate avenue and a representative is on hand to attend to bookings during the absence of Mr. Lasky.

Two Bits Admission in Sight

In Portland, Ore., Indications Are That Big, First Run Houses Must Soon Charge Twenty-five Cents Admission—Change Will Probably Be Gradual With Increased Charges for Special Attractions—Film Cost Is the Reason.

By Abraham Nelson, 601 Journal Bldg., Portland, Ore.

PORTLAND, ORE.—The trend of moving picture production toward the so-called super-feature and the continual struggle between the first run downtown exhibitors to buy the biggest and most stupendous pictures is bound to result in a raise of admission price to 25 cents unless all signs fail. How will the public receive it?

Two years ago downtown houses were charging ten cents. Edwin James, then at the Majestic, inaugurated the change to fifteen cents for night shows. The advisability of his step was at first questioned by the rest of Portland's exhibitors, but the public evidently saw added values in films about that time and took kindly to the change when all the first run theaters raised to fifteen cents.

Mr. James now advertises "War Brides" at his house, the James' Broadway, at 25 cents admission. W. M. Rogers, director of publicity, stated that whenever a super-feature was offered at the big theater the 25-cent price would prevail. He said only pictures that were worth the extra money would be classed as super-features, however.

It has been the practice in first run theaters to buy regular service on contract and alleged super-features to bolster this regular program. The regular program is laid on the shelf while a super-feature is running. This practice, due to conditions into which the business has worked itself, makes an extra expense which must be borne in the end by the theater patron.

Will the patron stand for the raise that is necessary because the theater must pay for two shows when it only uses one? The admission to big theaters should be raised when the raise is commensurate with their worth, but the public will soon "get wise" if the raise in admission is merely to cover waste caused by having a show on the shelf.

M. H. Hoffman, general manager for Universal, is quoted in the Portland press as follows on the admission question:

"Three things originally made moving pictures popular—price of admission, diversity of program and convenience in time of attending. The long, special feature plays have taken away these features. Prices have gone up, there is no diversity of program that will appeal in some part to each member of a family, and a good many people do not like to go into the theater in the middle of a long play. Perhaps the long picture play accounts for the fact that last season was the best in vaudeville during the last eight years. The people want diversity.

"It is noticeable that admission prices are going up all over the country. I do not know that I personally approve of this. It in effect takes away the poor man's entertainment. I do not stand for cheap entertainments, but I do stand for good entertainment that will be within the reach of everyone."

Pendleton House Sold.

Pendleton, Ore.—The Temple theater, one of the large photoplay theaters here, was sold by James B. Welch to L. E. Cooper. Mr. Cooper is an old-time showman and formerly conducted the Alta theater. This is the second time the Temple has changed hands in the past two months.

Haas Again With Artcraft.

Portland, Ore.—Norvin Haas, formerly manager of the Crystal theater at Astoria, and later traveling for Artcraft, is back with the Seattle company and has been working in Portland territory. It is rumored that Mr. Haas has had an attractive managerial proposition offered to him, which he may accept.

Woodlawn Theater Opens.

Portland, Ore.—The Woodlawn theater, one of the city's pretty suburban houses, has been reopened by E. H. Brodder. This theater has had several owners recently. Mr. Brodder opened with General service.

Manager Becomes Actor.

Stayton, Ore.—Friends of Jack Waltheimer, former owner of the Star theater, have received word that he is now in Los Angeles working as an actor with a producing company. The Star has been purchased by C. E. Taylor and the other house, the Stayton theater, has been closed.

A New Feature Company.

Portland, Ore.—A new feature company has been formed here with office at Highland Court. It is the Pallay Features company, of which M. Pallay is president and D. N. Pallay is general manager. The Pallays were formerly engaged in the men's furnishing business here and have lived in Portland for many years.

Their first feature is Griffith's "Her Condoned Sin," for which they have the rights in the Pacific Northwest. This picture has been booked to run at the People's.

Heard on Film Row.

Goldendale, Wash.—J. B. Leadbetter has purchased the Star theater from Camplin & Brooks.

Portland, Ore.—Vernon Schubach, cashier of the Universal exchange, has traded places with Mr. Weil, who has a similar position in Seattle.

Nez Perce, Ida.—J. B. Caldwell has sold the Arctic theater and is now looking for a new location. He recently went to Grant's Pass, Ore., to inspect one of the theaters there.

Portland, Ore.—The lot and building housing the Gay theater has been sold, the consideration being reported as $16,000 cash.

Portland, Ore.—Film Row's three supply houses, the Service film company, the Reliable film service and Pete Sabo, all report big sales in equipment, and the sale of ten machines in a week.

Clemmer Theater Celebrates Its Birthday

Dr. H. S. Clemmer Has Made His House Famous in Two Years—A Leader with Children's Shows—Believes in Good Music.

By S. Clark Patchin, E. 1811 Eleventh Avenue, Spokane, Wash.

SPOKANE, WASH.—With capacity audiences at practically every performance the Clemmer theater celebrated its second birthday anniversary, the week of February 18, and Dr. H. S. Clemmer had as the feature Anita Stewart in "The Girl Philippa."

Mrs. Vernon Castle in an instalment of "Patria" was also shown the first three days of the week and "The Silk Industry," the latter part of the week. The Spokane and Eastern quartet sang each afternoon and evening during the week.

A screen novelty, prepared exclusively for the Clemmer anniversary, was the closeups of many of the leading Lasky stars speaking a word of greeting to Clemmer patrons as they smiled their felicitations on the screen.

The Artcraft corporation gave a similar closeup and message from Mary Pickford. Little Mary opened the Clemmer two years ago in "Mistress Nell" and has been seen there exclusively since.

"We are more than pleased with the results gained in the two years the Clemmer theater has been open to the public," said Manager Clemmer.

The Clemmer in two years has achieved a national reputation among picture theaters. It was the third house in the United States to inaugurate a special program for the children, every Saturday morning throughout the year, and its Klemmerkink hour is nationally known. The average attendance, since the special hour was set apart, has been 700. At this time special programs are presented, excepting when the regular screen attraction is one with special appeal for the kiddies.

The Clemmer is much more than a picture theater, just as its owner and manager determined when it was opened. Its organ is making it a musical center. Special recitals have been given by leading organists of the country, among them Clarence Eddy, W. H. Donley, who dedicated the instrument, and John H. McLellan, organist of the Salt Lake Mormon tabernacle. Charles Wakefield Cadman, composer of Indian songs, will appear at the Clemmer in the near future.

The Clemmer has had but two organists, L. C. Yeamans of Chicago, and Jesse J. Crawford the present organist. Mrs. Evangeline Langley has been relief organist since the theater opened. The Washington State University glee club was presented for an extended engagement at the Clemmer a year ago.

Ralph Ruffner Gets Keystones.

Spokane, Wash.—C. F. Hill, Seattle manager of the Triangle, dropped in on Spokane exhibitors and went home with a Liberty contract for Mack Sennett Keystone. These Keystones are now released independent of other Triangle attractions and Ralph Ruffner, manager of the Liberty, which has always handled Sennett's offerings in Spokane, decided not to let them slip.

Pleasing His Clients.

Cheney, Wash.—When G. R. McIntyre took charge of "Twilight" show in Cheney, Wash., a few months ago he faced the opposition and boycott of the Washington State Normal School students and faculty as well as the ministers of the town. Mr. McIntyre, immediately decided to run only clean pictures, according to his own statement to the "Moving Picture World" correspondent, and at the present time is not only receiving the co-operation of these persons, but they are actually urging that his place be supported in the class room and in the pulpit.

During the week of February 11 to 17 the three Protestant churches of the town, held union revival services and despite this McIntyre reports that it was the best week he has had since entering the town. He runs a 10 and 15 cent show nights and occasionally gives matinees for the benefit of the students at 5 and 10 cents. "Patria" is shown each Monday afternoon and the students are crowding the place.

Seattle News Letter

By J. S. Anderson, East Seattle, Wash.

Manager of Seattle General Office Back.

SEATTLE, WASH.—Frank L. Hudson, General Film Seattle manager, has just returned from an extended trip to Chicago. The cause of the extension of the trip was the heavy snow in South Dakota. Mr. Hudson says that his train spent five days going back and forth on a fifty mile stretch of track out of a small Dakota town, and that if he'd had any idea about the depth and breadth of that snow he'd have gone on to New York from Chicago and made a real journey out of it. He's glad to be back home, however, and tells with a deeply mysterious air of startling announcements that will soon be made from General's head office concerning their new releases. Twenty-four of General's managers attended the conference at Chicago.

Seattle De Luxe Manager Returns from New York.

Seattle, Wash.—Mike Rosenberg, manager of the De Luxe features, made the trip from New York to Seattle in less time than it took Mr. Hudson of General to come from Chicago here. But then the snows were kinder to the former. Mr. Rosenberg has been for the past two months in the metropolis, buying new films and studying the eastern methods of exploiting states rights pictures. He is expecting great business from his new features, "War Brides," "The Garden of Allah," and "Vera, the Medium."

Greater Theaters Signs New Contracts.

Seattle, Wash.—The Greater theaters company of Seattle has signed with C. J. Kerr, Northwest Metro manager, for Metro service at their Liberty theater in Seattle, the Columbia in Portland, and their Rialto in Butte.

New Supply House Making Good Start.

Seattle, Wash.—Waring & Fink, Seattle's new supply house opened last November, report an unusually good beginning for February, with several big sales already made and many good prospects ahead. He also announces that he will soon have a big shipment in from the Motiograph factory, accompanied by a demonstrator.

Visitors on Film Row.

Seattle, Wash.—Important exhibitor's who are in Seattle this week are: A. E. Lathrop owner of a string of theaters in Alaska; Ed. James, James Broadway and Majestic theaters, Portland; I. L. Williams, Orpheum, Snohomish; Herman Brown, Princess theater, Boise, Idaho; Carl McKee, Orpheum, Everett; E. L. Armstrong, Star theater, Everett; H. T. Moore, Colonial, Tacoma.

SCATTERED SNAP SHOTS.

By Kansas City News Service.

In Dakotas.

Linton, N. D.—Adam Thomas has purchased the controlling interest in the Opera house and also purchased the moving picture business from H. N. Turner.

Anamoose, N. D.—S. L. Isaak has bought the moving picture show from L. M. Mitchell.

New Iowa Theaters.

Estherville, Ia.—Frank King, manager of the King theater, is organizing a stock company for the erection of a new theater building to cost about $40,000.

Orient, Ia.—G. E. Joneson has bought a half interest in the moving picture business of Lawrence Garrett.

Lime Springs, Ia.—J. J. Williams and Richard Farrar will open the Star theater about March 1.

Interesting Nebraska Theater Jottings.

Central City, Neb.—The Donelson theater has recently installed an advertising machine.

Fremont, Neb.—Robert B. Wall has taken over the management of the Larson theater.

Fairbury, Neb.—Wiltz Bros. have sold the Rex show to Mont Barnes and Ernest Bonawiltz.

Gandy, Neb.—The Pat theater was sold at auction recently by the owners of the building and was purchased by J. T. Norton, of Hastings.

H. Lubin Conferring With Metro Head Office

Head of Standard Film, Ltd., of Vancouver Now in New York—Stole March for Chance to Negotiate for Return of Films Now Withheld.

By E. C. Thomas, 821 Rogers Bldg., Vancouver, B. C.

VANCOUVER, B. C.—C. W. Craig of Craig & Parkes, attorneys for Metro Pictures Limited and the Metro Picture Corporation of New York, in their actions to recover the Metro pictures held and concealed by the Standard Film Service, Ltd., recently informed the correspondent of the Moving Picture World that although the distributing franchise held by the Canadian Metro Company had been cancelled by the head office in New York, Metro Pictures Limited would in all probability be forced to continue its fight against the Standard, as its Canadian franchise provides that at its expiration all Metro films are to be returned to the New York company. The disappearance of the films having made this impossible it seems to be up to Metro Pictures Limited to locate and recover them.

Only an error committed by an employee of Craig & Parkes prevented the service of a summons on Herbert Lubin, head of the Standard Film Service, which would have prevented his recent departure from the city, and necessitated his appearance for examination as to the whereabouts of the missing films. Instead of serving Mr. Lubin personally, the lawyer's clerk took the document to the offices of Mr. Lubin's counsel, Russell, Macdonald & McGeer. Stating that they could not accept service on behalf of their client without his consent, they telephoned him in regard to the matter, and Mr. Lubin, thus advised of the impending action, promptly left town. A telegram received from him this week states that he is in New York negotiating with the Metro heads, and that matters are progressing favorably.

Not Satisfied with Winnipeg Censoring.

Winnipeg, Man.—The Winnipeg Methodist Ministerial Association recently made complaint against the showing of the Johnson-Willard prize fight pictures, exhibited for an entire week at the Bijou theater, at a flat 25-cent admission.

Before the adjournment of their meeting, the ministerial organization went on record as being strongly opposed to the showing of prize fight pictures of any kind in Manitoba, and in favor of a more rigid censorship on other pictures, from the standpoint of morals. The arguments presented at the meeting took the form of a general protest against several films which have been passed within the past few months, either by the board of censors or the appeal board. The ministers stated that some of the pictures passed since the establishment of the Manitoba board of censors were such that they should not be allowed in any Canadian city, and while it was admitted that some of these had originally been condemned by the censors, they were afterward passed by the board of appeal. The association announced itself as in favor of the enlargement of the latter body. A more strict censorship of vaudeville was also discussed, and a recommendation will be submitted to the general Ministerial Association.

W. P. Nichols and Associates Are Conducting the Columbia.

Vancouver, B. C.—A bit of carelessness caused us to say last week that the Columbia theater is being conducted by W. P. Dewees and associates. It should read "W. P. Nichols and associates."

Dominion Film Incorporators.

Victoria, B. C.—The Manitoba Gazette announces the incorporation of the Dominion Film Corporation, Ltd., in British Columbia, with the following directors: Frank Higgins, A. Gonnason, A. E. Hanes, Guy S. Brown, R. W. Holland and J. Arthur Nelson.

Many War Films Coming.

Vancouver, B. C.—This city is just on the eve of a big drive of war films, which are now swarming over western Canada on their way to the coast. First to visit this city since "The Battle of the Somme" is "Fighting with the Allies," which has opened at the Maple Leaf theater for a week's run at twenty-five cents with all profits donated to the local branch of the Red Cross Society. This film is controlled by the Astral Film Corporation of Calgary. The following week the Rex is due to show "The Canadian Army in Action and the Advance of the Tanks," for which the Canadian rights are held by the Famous Players Film Service. Also headed this way is Donald Thompson's "War As It Really Is," controlled by Regal Films, and the second installment of "Canada's Fighting Forces," taken by Lieut. Dwyer of Victoria, and exhibited under the auspices of the Dominion government. Frederick Palmer is also drawing near, lecturing and exhibiting films of the war.

Some Noteworthy Hits.

Vancouver, B. C.—"Youth's Endearing Charm," starring Mary Miles Minter, and the first of the Mutual's "Big Star" pictures to be shown here, played an engagement at the Globe theater recently, and was an unqualified success from a business standpoint. Several hundred photographs of the star were given away to patrons, and before the engagement two hundred feet selected from the film were run off in connection with the performances given during the previous half-week. Considerable interest has been aroused among local managers by the success of this picture.

Edmonton, Alberta.—Mutual's "Damaged Goods," recently exhibited privately before the convention of the Moral Reform Association here, was enthusiastically endorsed by the entire membership, and has accordingly been passed by the Alberta censors. Manager Marshall of the Mutual office in Calgary is now busily engaged arranging bookings of the feature.

TO EXHIBITORS

If you are doing something new and interesting at your theatre let our correspondent know about it. It may help others and help you as well.

Helpfully yours,

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD.

Business Jottings.

Vancouver, B. C.—Ben Soskin, of the local Famous Players office, has just returned from a trip to Powell River, where he visited Manager R. H. Scanlon of the Patricia theater, and incidentally booked him for an exclusive Paramount service.

Canmore, Alta.—The Opera House here has reopened, under the management of T. Lowdon.

Vancouver, B. C.—James M. Maxwell, in charge of publicity for the Rex theater, is putting out some especially attractive advertising for the house, which is attracting a great deal of comment. The novel newspaper advertisements do not appear in the theatrical columns, but are placed on the last page of the leading local daily, and follow the "K. C. B." style of arrangement. The ads are slangy and funny, and run one column wide, with the depth varying according to the copy. Each ad is headed with a large question mark, and many local people immediately turn to the last page on getting the paper, to see what the funny Rex ad man has to say.

FROM

PAID FOR

"ENLIGHTEN THY DAUGHTER"

BY LEWIS J. SELZNICK

(CONSIDERED ONE OF THE SHREWDEST BUSINESS MINDS IN THE FILM INDUSTRY)

FOR THE RIGHTS TO THE CITY OF GREATER NEW YORK ALONE HIS REASON WHY

LEWIS J. SELZNICK

NEW YORK

March 1st, 1917.

Mr. Henry J. Brock, Pres.
Enlightment Photoplays Corporation,
220 West 42nd Street, New York City,

Dear Sir:

In answer to your query as to why I closed the deal for the Greater New York rights to your feature picture, "ENLIGHTEN THY DAUGHTER", so quickly, I will say that I was guided by my conviction that in this production the exhibitor has one of the biggest money making propositions ever produced for the screen.

The unprecedented demand for this picture among the exhibitors speaks for itself. If any other evidence were needed, the unsolicited endorsements you have shown me from several hundred ministers, Mrs. Day of the Federation of Women's Clubs and the notices from the daily and trade press would convince the most skeptical that "ENLIGHTEN THY DAUGHTER" is a production of universal appeal.

Sincerely yours,

Lewis J. Selznick

OTHER UNSOLD TERRITORY NOW SELLING-ADDRESS

ENLIGHTMENT PHOTOPPLAYS CORP'N.

220 WEST 42nd ST., PHONE BRYANT 7812

SUITE 1005

HENRY J. BROCK, President

Calendar of Daily Program Releases

Releases for Weeks Ending March 17 and March 24

(For Extended Table of Current Releases See Pages 1832, 1834, 1836, 1838.)

Universal Film Mfg. Company

SUNDAY, MARCH 11, 1917.

REX—It Makes a Difference (Drama)..... 02234
 POWERS—Mr. Fuller Pep—His Day of Rest (Cartoon-Comedy), and The Mysterious City (Dorsey Edu.) 02235
 IMP—The Man of Mystery (Two parts—Drama).... 02236
 UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE—The Purple Mask (Episode No. 11, "The Gard n of Surprise") (Two parts—Drama) 02237

MONDAY, MARCH 12, 1917.

RED FEATHER—The Girl Who Lost (Drama), and Border Wolves (Drama) (Five parts)..... 02238
 NESTOR—Some Specimens (Comedy)..... 02239

TUESDAY, MARCH 13, 1917.

GOLD SEAL—The Common Sin (Three parts—Dr.). 02240
 VICTOR—A Woman in the Case (Comedy)..... 02241

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 14, 1917.

LAEMMLE—When Glory Waits (Two parts—Dr.).. 02242
 L-KO—Summer Boarders (Comedy)..... 02243
 UNIVERSAL—Animated Weekly No. 63 (Topical).. 02244
 IMP—Sins of a Brother (Drama)..... 02245

THURSDAY, MARCH 15, 1917.

VICTOR—Dorothy Dares (Two parts—comedy).... 02246
 BIG U—For Honor's Sake (Drama)..... 02247

FRIDAY, MARCH 16, 1917.

IMP—The Perils of the Secret Service (Episode No. 2, "The Clash of Steel") (Two parts—Drama).. 02248
 L-KO—Love On Crutches (Comedy)..... 02249
 UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE—Issue No. 10 (Educational) 02250

SATURDAY, MARCH 17, 1917.

BISON—Roped In (Two parts—Comedy—Drama).... 02251
 JOKER—Art Aches (Comedy)..... 02252
 LAEMMLE—Racing Death (Drama)..... 02253

SUNDAY, MARCH 18, 1917.

POWERS—The Mystery of the Noiseless Soup (Comedy) and "Palaces of the Forbidden City (Dorsey Edu.) 02254
 BIG U—The Hidden Danger (Two Parts—Drama).. 02255
 UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE—The Purple Mask (Episode No. 12), The Vault of Mystery (Two Parts—Drama) 02256
 UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE—The Voice on the Wire (Episode No. 1) The Oriental Death Punch (Two Parts—Drama) 02257

MONDAY, MARCH 19, 1917.

RED FEATHER—The Scarlet Crystal (Five Parts—Drama) 02258
 NESTOR—When the Cat's Away (Comedy)..... 02259

TUESDAY, MARCH 20, 1917.

GOLD SEAL—The Raid (Three Parts—Drama).... 02260
 VICTOR—Black Magic (Comedy) 02261

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 21, 1917.

L-KO—Defective Detectives (Two Parts—Comedy) 02262
 UNIVERSAL—Animated Weekly No. 64 (Topical).. 02263
 LAEMMLE—Old Faithful (Drama)..... 02264

THURSDAY, MARCH 22, 1917.

VICTOR—The Hash House Mystery (Two Parts—Comedy) 02265
 POWERS—The Strangest Army in the World (War Special) 02266

FRIDAY, MARCH 23, 1917.

IMP—The Perils of the Secret Service (Episode No. 3) "The Dreaded Tube" (Two Parts—Drama) 02267
 UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE—Issue No. 11 (Educational) 02268
 NESTOR—In Again, Out Again (Comedy)..... 02269

SATURDAY, MARCH 24, 1917.

BISON—Goin' Straight (Two Parts—Drama)..... 02270
 JOKER—Whose Baby? (Comedy) 02271
 REX—The Boyhood He Forgot (Drama)..... 02272

Mutual Film Corporation

MONDAY, MARCH 12, 1917.

MONOGRAM—"The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton" (No. 9, "Shorty Trails the Moonshiners") (Two parts—Drama) 05367-68
 MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTION—My Fighting Gentleman (Five Parts—Drama).....

TUESDAY, MARCH 13, 1917.

GAUMONT—Tours Around the World (No. 19)—Subjects on Reel: The Oasis of Gabes, Sahara Desert: Korrsk, Siberia (Travel)..... 05369

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 14, 1917.

MUTUAL—Mutual Weekly No. 115 (Topical)..... 05370

GAUMONT—See America First, No. 79 (Subjects on Reel: On the Mississippi River from New Orleans to Baton Rouge (Scenic), and "They Say Pigs Is Pigs" (Kartoon Komic)..... 05371

NIAGARA FILM STUDIOS—"The Perils of Our Girl Reporters" (No. 12, "Outwitted") (Two parts—Drama)

THURSDAY, MARCH 15, 1917.

CUB—Jerry's Triple Alliance (Comedy)..... 05372

GAUMONT—Reel Life No. 46 (Subjects on Reel: A Club-Rifle for the Police; The Fluid of Life (blood under microscope); Making the Cactus Useful; Gold Mining in Alaska; Sprites of the Moonlight (Dance) 05373

FRIDAY, MARCH 16, 1917.

AMERICAN—The Lonesome Mariner (Drama)..... 05374

AMERICAN—A Ram-Bunctious Endeavor (Comedy) 05375

SATURDAY, MARCH 17, 1917.

VOGUE—A Matrimonial Shock (Two parts—Com.). 05376-77

MONDAY, MARCH 19, 1917.

MONOGRAM—The Adventures of Shorty (No. 10, "Shorty Bags the Bullion Thieves") (Two parts—Drama) 05678-79

MUTUAL SPECIAL—The Cure (Two parts—Com.)

TUESDAY, MARCH 20, 1917.

GAUMONT—Tours Around the World, No. 20 (Subjects on Reel: Montenegro, Island of Guernsey, Cintra, Portland) (Travel) 05680

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 21, 1917.

MUTUAL—Mutual Weekly No. 116 (Topical)..... 05681
 AMERICAN—Cupid and a Button (Comedy)..... 05682

NIAGARA FILM STUDIOS—The Perils of Our Girl Reporters (No. 13, "The Schemers") (Two parts—Drama)

THURSDAY, MARCH 22, 1917.

CUB—Minding Baby (Comedy) 05683

GAUMONT—Reel Life No. 47 (Subjects on Reel: Making Food Cheaper; A Home-Made Motor Sled; Artificial Exercises; A Winter Pageant; Pineapples Under Glass; A Small Race Under Water (Mutual Film Magazine)..... 05684

FRIDAY, MARCH 23, 1917.

MONMOUTH—Jimmy Dale, Alias the "Grey Seal" (Chapter One—Two parts—Drama)..... 05685-86

SATURDAY, MARCH 24, 1917.

VOGUE—A Studio Stampede (Two Parts—Comedy). 05687-88

LEWIS J. SELZNICK

Has Purchased New York & Greater New York STATE RIGHTS

On That Stupendous UNIVERSAL Production

"20000 Leagues UNDER THE SEA"

HERE'S 1 of 1000 Reasons

COPY OF TELEGRAM
UNIVERSAL FILM MFG. CO 1600 BROADWAY NEW YORK
TWENTY THOUSAND LEAGUES UNDER THE SEA OPENED AT LIBERTY THEATRE
HERE SUNDAY MORE PEOPLE ATTENDED THE LIBERTY SUNDAY THAN EVER BEFORE ATTENDED A THEATRE HERE IN ANY ONE DAY LIBERTY SEATS
TWENTYONE HUNDRED PACKED FROM TEN AM TILL ELEVEN PM
GEO H BELMAN
SEATTLE TIMES PHOTOPLAY EDITOR

The Universal Film
Mfg. Co. is now ready to receive offers for bookings on its stupendous spectacular attraction "20,000 Leagues Under The Sea" in the Unsold State Rights Territory as listed below.

Prompted by the immense number of requests for bookings on its extraordinary production, Jules Verne's "20,000 LEAGUES UNDER THE SEA," the Universal Film Manufacturing Co. is now ready to receive offers for bookings in the unsold State Rights territory.

Already the following States have been sold: California, Nevada, Wyoming, Utah, Arizona, New Mexico, Colorado, Texas, Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia, Florida, South Carolina, Michigan, Ohio, New York, Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island.

The following States are those in which we will receive offers for bookings: Washington, Oregon, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Iowa, Missouri, Indiana, Kentucky, West Virginia, North Carolina, Virginia, Pennsylvania, Maryland, New Jersey, Delaware, Idaho. Be advised that "20,000 LEAGUES UNDER THE SEA" played to over $1,300 in ONE DAY in Portland, Ore., with Eight Competitive Feature Productions—outdrew them all for crowds and outplayed them all for money taken in.

"20,000 LEAGUES UNDER THE SEA" is the biggest money getter on the World's Market. Nothing begins to even compare with it as a House Packer. Communications will be given attention in order of their receipt. Communicate direct with the State Rights Department of the UNIVERSAL FILM MANUFACTURING CO. (Carl Laemmle, President), "The Largest Film Manufacturing Concern in the Universe," 1600 Broadway, New York.

BLUEBIRD PHOTOPLAYS^{INC.}

Present

VIOLET MERSEUR

in

"THE BOY GIRL"

The Romantic Life
Story of a Tomboy

By JOHN C. BROWNELL

DIRECTED

by

EDWIN STEVENS

BLUEBIRDS HAVE ARRIVED

BLUEBIRD PHOTOPLAYS (Inc.)

We have told millions of people of the really delightful entertainment in every Bluebird play. We have told them that Bluebirds champion "The Play" first, last and all the time. We have told them that "If it's a Bluebird it's got to be good." Thus the number who are now seeking for each Bluebird play as it is released in hundreds of the best theatres is growing at a tremendous rate. Hundreds of Exhibitors are reaping the growing rewards of the exhibition of Bluebirds. Are you? Bluebird photo plays are today the first choice of the Nation. Bluebirds have arrived and are coming faster and faster.

If you can see the handwriting on the wall, you'll negotiate immediately for BLUEBIRDS in your territory. Book releases shown here thru your nearest BLUEBIRD Exchange or BLUEBIRD Photo-Plays (Inc.), 1600 Broadway, New York City.

Current Release

RUPERT JULIAN

in

"THE GIFT GIRL"

with
Louise Lovely and Emory Johnston

A Drama of Parisian Life

Directed by
RUPERT JULIAN

"HELL MORGAN'S GIRL"

[PURCHASED OUTRIGHT BY
BLUEBIRD Photoplays (Inc.)

Hell Morgan's Girl was intended for a State Rights picture. It was advertised as such and much territory was sold. Then the Bluebird executives saw it and purchased it outright, all State Rights money was returned and further negotiations were called off.

That is how "Hell Morgan's Girl" stands in the estimation of Bluebird. It is the sort of a picture that will pack your house for more than a single day's run. If you want to get in on the real money this picture is making write today for bookings.

"EAGLE'S WINGS"

A BLUEBIRD Extraordinary

The greatest patriotic picture on the market. The picture that will enable you to take advantage of the wave of patriotism that is sweeping over the country. The picture that is so far ahead of the flag-waving, sham battle "feature" you have been accustomed to that there is no comparison. "Eagle's Wings" is one of the sensations of the year. We cannot do it justice in this space. Write for descriptive booklet. This is a rare opportunity.

We Serve Film Men The World Over

The Moving Picture World

The supremacy of THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD in North America needs no proof. In its chosen field it has no equal. Its zealous and conscientious service, its fund of information, the fullness and fairness of its news columns, the soundness of its editorial policy are a matter of common knowledge wherever film men are found on the North American continent. It also goes weekly to almost every corner of the Earth.

"Cine-Mundial"

"Cine-Mundial" is the monthly Spanish edition of THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD. "Cine-Mundial" serves the Southern half of our Western Hemisphere as well as Spain and Portugal and their colonies with all the untiring faithfulness typical of The Moving Picture World. It meets the need of the Latin-American and Spanish speaking film men; the staff of "Cine-Mundial" being composed of experts in newspaper work, experts in film knowledge possessed of a thorough and sympathetic understanding of Latin-American men and conditions.

It is the only publication today that is popularizing our American made films in these countries.

NORTH—AMERICA—SOUTH

THE LEADING FILM PAPERS OF TWO CONTINENTS

Stories of the Films

SELIG.

SELIG-TRIBUNE No. 16.

Santa Rosa, Cal.—Luther Burbank presents Frank Leach, representing the Oakland Chamber of Commerce, with the bulb of the largest dahlia ever produced.

New Orleans, La.—This city boasts of the first submarine ever built.

San Francisco, Cal.—Twenty-one students go to France to operate the Stanford Ambulance Corps.

New Orleans, La.—Society women shine shoes at $1.00 per shine, money to go to the Red Cross.

San Francisco, Cal.—The U. S. torpedo boat Hopkins guards interned German vessels.

New Orleans, La.—The Country Club becomes the demonstrating school for women interested in Red Cross first aid work.

El Paso, Texas.—Fire sweeps through a section of this city, destroying over thirty carloads of supplies.

Houston, Texas.—Owing to the shortage of print paper, children of the public schools inaugurate a waste paper saving campaign.

El Paso, Texas.—Colorado artillery boys in bivouac find solace for their inability to shoot Mexicans by shooting dice.

Palm Beach, Fla.—"Red bug" racing becomes the fad of well known society women of New York and Philadelphia.

Governor's Island, N. Y.—Zero weather does not deter these wealthy young business men from receiving military training at Governor's Island every Saturday and holiday.

New York, N. Y.—The S. S. Frederick VIII, sailing under the Allies' guarantee of safe conduct, leaves for Europe bearing Count von Bernstoff and his party.

New York, N. Y.—After reaching the very edge of the German submarine area, the S. S. Ryndam is recalled from her eastward voyage and reaches the port safely.

SELIG-TRIBUNE No. 17.

Palm Beach, Fla.—Leaders in the world's society take daily dips in the surf.

Jackson, N. H.—Wildcat Valley in the White Mountains is stripped of its last big cut of timber, when 6,000,000 feet of spruce is skidded down the mountain sides.

North Conway, N. H.—A member of the Alpine Club takes his plunge in an icy mountain pool with a temperature of five below zero.

Portland, Ore.—This lone vessel flying the flag of Emperor William, is moored in Portland's harbor.

Oakland, Cal.—As part of the annual advertising pageant a company of Grecian dancers disport on the green.

Portland, Ore.—Linking Oregon and Washington with bands of steel, the great interstate bridge, spanning the Columbia River and costing $1,750,000 is officially opened.

Verdun, France.—Endless columns of tired fighters are constantly being sent to the rear for recuperation.

New York, N. Y.—The French steamship Guyane arrives after having sunk a German submarine in a 40-minute battle off the coast of France.

Miami, Fla.—The third Miami regatta for motor boats brings to this resort the speediest crafts in the United States.

Portland, Ore.—Mrs. Constance Meyer, Portland's water nymph who will attempt to bring home the National swimming championship next June.

Ilachita, N. M.—Impressive ceremonies mark the funeral of three American cowboys, murdered and mutilated by Mexicans immediately after our troops were recalled.

AN ACTRESS' ROMANCE (Two parts).—The cast: Frank Wade (Casson Ferguson); Carol Loring (Barbara Gordon); Ann Loring (Cressy Gotschalk); Rich Wade (Fred Eckard); John Palmer (M. Von Betz). Written by Daisy Slocum. Directed by Otis B. Thayer.

Frank Wade quarrels with his father, a banker and leaves home. He meets and learns to love Ann Loring, sister of an opera singer, Carol Loring. Becoming involved in a struggle between two thugs, in order to save his father the disgrace of such publicity, Frank disappears. He is later caught and, though innocent, is convicted of crime in connection with the fight of the two thugs.

A mutilated body is found in the river; also Frank's suitcase. The body is identified as that of Frank. Ann Loring sees the article in the paper, with Frank's picture, and she is struck by the resemblance. Meanwhile, Frank is convicted of crime and sentenced to a long term in prison.

Two years elapse, in which time Frank's father has become engaged to Carol Loring, the opera singer. She sings for the prisoners of the state penitentiary. Her sister, Ann, who accompanies her, notices Frank Wade, and is again startled by the resemblance to the man she had loved and thought dead.

Ann interests her sister in attempting to help the mysterious prisoner. In turn, the singer enlists the services of the man she is engaged to marry, who sees the governor and asks for a pardon for Frank. Later, a criminal confesses that he is responsible for the crime for which Frank Wade has been imprisoned and there is a reunion between Frank and his father. In time Frank makes known to Ann his love for her.

FORTUNE PHOTOPLAYS.

THE INSPIRATIONS OF HARRY LARRABEE (Four Parts).—Harry Larrabee, a young playwright, lives in the same studio apartment house with Carolyn Vaughn, a painter of miniatures, with whom he falls in love. "The Wolf," a famous criminal, supposed to be dead, returns and communicates with his wife, a friend of Carolyn's. He forces his wife and her brother to aid him in a plot to rob Carolyn of her valuable jewels. Harry, by one of his famous "inspirations," discovers that a crime is being committed, rescues Carolyn and bears her away in a taxicab. He is himself suspected of the crime, but, undisturbed by the web of circumstance by which he is entangled, his wonderful inspirations give him the key to the conspiracy which led up to the crime. In an unusual and powerful finale the guilty parties fight among themselves and justice triumphs in an exciting climax.

ESSANAY.

THE INVISIBLE WEB (Black Cat Feature—Two Parts).—The cast: Helen Delaine (Mabel Bardine); Eddie Martin (William Burns); "Diamond" Flora (Florence Oberle); Jack Delaine (Royal Douglas).

Helen Delaine, a noted woman detective, is assigned to run down a gang of robbers. She trails "Diamond" Flora and Eddie "Frisco" Martin, two of its members, to a Canadian hotel. Posing as Ruth Dayton, an heiress, she gets acquainted with the crooks and invites them to visit her. Flora and Eddie arrive at the Dayton home, and there Helen, with the aid of Jack Delaine, her husband, lay their trap. They show the crooks the safe where "Ruth" keeps her jewels, and even give them the combination. That night Helen and Jack hide in the vault room. Flora and Eddie appear after midnight and blow open the safe's door. Out step the detective and her husband with drawn revolvers. A fight ensues but the crooks finally are overpowered.

TINY, SLIM AND FAT.—Tiny is the object of the attentions of Slim and Fat, two friends, who have become bitter foes because of their affection for the little lady. They engage in a battle, which is speedily ended when both are tossed off the lot by the young lady's mother, who is anything but tiny.

The reel is shared by beautiful scenic, showing the famous Nakimu Caves of British Columbia.

IS MARRIAGE SACRED? (No. 12, "The Vanishing Woman"—Two Parts).—The cast: Helen Wheeler (Marguerite Clayton); Conrad Carson (Edward Arnold); Hector Dufrane (Sydney Ainsworth).

A college education has made Helen Wheeler dissatisfied with her old-fashioned parents and her staid, steady-going suitor, Conrad Carson. She harkens to the siren of Hector Dufrane, an "up-to-date, twentieth century" stock broker, and weds him. Dufrane "unloads" worthless stock on Jonathan, taking the old man's entire fortune. The money he squanders on a cabaret singer. The stock fraud is discovered, and Carson protects Dufrane and the singer from a mob which storms his office, until the police rescue him. Helen realizes her waywardness has been responsible, not alone for her father's ruin, but the disaster to her happiness. She divorces Dufrane and marries Carson.

THE FIVE DOLLAR BILL (Black Cat Feature—Two Parts).—The cast: Thomas Dibby (Webster Campbell); Mrs. Dibby (Anna Mae Walthall).

Thomas Dibby, commuter and underpaid clerk, craves a watch which a tobacco company offers for 2,000 coupons. He needs only 100 more coupons to get it. Thomas finds an envelope which contains fifty $1,000 bills. Joy runs riot in the Dibby home. But gloom comes next morning. The loser of the fortune plays a ruse. He advertises that the bills are counterfeit and that anybody who cashes them will be arrested. Dejected, Thomas returns the fortune to its owner, innocent of its real value. He is rewarded with a $5 bill. It happens that $5 worth of tobacco will just get the much needed 100 coupons. Thomas rushes to the cigar store and comes out with the watch. He is just as happy as if he had the $50,000.

CANIMATED NOOZ PICTORIAL No. 26 (Cartoon Comedy).—Great Spanish and Mexican athletes are caught by the Animated Nooz camera in celebration of Hottamale day at Garliple, Spain. Salveo, the great, slings the cow's husband, Oscar, of ebony hue, eats eighteen chicken pies, Spanish style, in three minutes. In Washington, D. C., the arrival of Prince Gobuvink, ambassador from Umphumph, and his charming frau is shown. The prince, according to report, is here to coner with the President on the ear muff shortage in Africa. Forgetting his mission, however, the prince engages the ambassador from Afghanistan in a little game of his national pastime. There is trouble when prince endeavors to "sneak one" while his opponent is not looking. A study in high flying concludes the Animated program.

How freight cars and great locomotives are built, from beginning to end, forms the other half of the reel.

THE PULSE OF MADNESS ("Is Marriage Sacred?"—Two Parts).—The cast: Isobel Franklin (Marguerite Clayton); Wesley Westbrook (Edward Arnold); Stanley Simmonds (Sydney Ainsworth).

If Wesley Westbrook, a struggling young architect, can get his plans accepted for a big office building, his future will be assured, he will be able to marry Isobel Franklin and send her father to a milder climate for his health. The decision on the plans rests with Stanley Simmonds, a wealthy builder, in whose office Isobel is employed. Simmonds proposes to Isobel, but she tells him she loves Wesley.

Rev. Franklin is stricken and must go south. Isobel decides to sacrifice her happiness and weds Simmonds to save her father's life. She tells the builder she will wed him, and explains the reason for her change of mind. Simmonds, however, proves himself a man by accepting Westbrook's plans, and enabling true love to run its course.

VIM.

THIS IS NOT MY ROOM.—(March 1).—"The thoughtful husband" decides wife needs a vacation and sends her to a quiet hotel. Her hand baggage is placed in the wrong room by a "dime-novel crazed" bellboy, who also places another guest's baggage in her room. The similarity of the numbers "66" and "99" cause the error, and when Ethel, a newlywed, arrives and is escorted to her husband's room she is astonished to find a woman's wearing apparel thrown about.

Ethel decides to make trouble and therefore removes the lingerie and places it in room 99, where it is discovered by "the thoughtful husband," who has also arrived in response to wife's telegram. In the small hours of the morning "the cabaret rouser" returns to the hotel, and when he attempts to retire in Ethel's room a general mixup ensues, which ends satisfactorily.

A DEAL IN FURNITURE.—Stooge, manager and truck-driver, of the Fall-a-Part Furniture Company, is successful in selling the complete furnishings for Mr. Groucho's new flat, and arranges to make immediate delivery. Stooge experiences considerable difficulty in loading all the furniture bought. Finally it is placed on the truck and Stooge starts for his destination. Upon arrival at the flat he is met by Mr. Groucho and his wife. The latter insists upon giving instructions and in attempting to follow these instructions Stooge becomes tangled up in the furniture and the carpets. Groucho and his wife, assisted by the landlady, attempt to adjust matters by holding on to one end, but they only make matters worse, for a tug-o-war ensues and Stooge is knocked out of a window and falls into a garbage can below. In falling he upsets the can and rolls away from the trouble.

DEEP STUFF.—Dud and Bert are enjoying a stay at a fashionable summer resort. Realizing that in order to continue they will have to raise funds, Dud secures a position as life guard. His wife sees him surrounded by a number of beauties and chases him into the briny, she after him. She forgets she is unable to swim until she is over her head. Dud rescues her and receives a reward of $5,000 for bravery. His pal, Bert, feels that he is entitled to a share of the reward and when it isn't forthcoming he threatens to blow up Dud. Bert places a bomb in Dud's home and Dud enters just in time to plant the bomb behind Bert, who is making his retreat. The bomb explodes and Bert takes a flying trip through the clouds and when he returns his wife receives him with wide open arms.

WILLIE WALRUS PAYS ALIMONY.—Willie Walrus, a baker, is ordered by the court to pay alimony, but this Willie refuses to do, as he thinks his wife can earn her own living. Wife, however, imbued with the militant spirit, decides to force him to pay her and visits the bake shop where Willie juggles the dough. Willie, assisted by his fellow bakers, succeed in getting wife out of the shop. Knowing she will return again, he decides to poison her by placing rat poison in some candy. His friends see an opportunity to play a practical joke and instead of sending the poisoned candy to Willie's wife, they send her a box of good candy and the poisoned candy is replaced with castor oil nuggets which Willie presents to the cashier. Explanations are now in order, and a reconciliation takes place between Willie and his wife.

Universal Film Mfg. Co.

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURES.

THE PURPLE MASK (Episode No. 12—"The Vault of Mystery"—Two Parts—March 18).—The cast: Patricia Montez (Grace Cunard); Detective Phil Kelly (Francis Ford); His Assistant, Pete Gerald (Jerry Ash); Pat's Aunt (Jean Hathaway). Written and Produced by Grace Cunard and Francis Ford.

Phil Kelly goes to "The House of Mystery" and gains entrance, with one of his assistants, by climbing a tree which gives access to a window on the second floor. Pat, having been advised of the presence of the detectives, is prepared to receive them. Kelly discovers Pat seated in a chair, the only piece of furniture in the room. When he approaches her, she pushes a button and is surrounded by partitions.

Kelly and his man are dumfounded when suddenly they are dropped through a trap into a packing case that shuts and makes them prisoners. The box starts on a journey down a chute and is shot onto a motor truck waiting to receive it. The truck finally dumps Kelly and his man onto the ground far out in the country.

Some time later Pat reads of Johnson, a wealthy man, who has constructed a submerged vault that can be surrounded by water, making it burglar proof. Pat has her men investigate the source of Johnson's income and learns he is the head of a vice syndicate.

Johnson has seen strange men prowling around his grounds and calls in Kelly to investigate. By strategy Pat's Apaches capture Johnson's private secretary and "make up" to resemble him. This man traps Kelly and his assistant in a room, when they call to consult Johnson. Pat's men dig their way until they are directly beneath the submerged vault. With drills and other appliances they break through the floor. With two of her men Pat sneaks up behind Johnson, while he is counting the day's haul of the vice syndicate, and throw over his head a purple cloak, while her men pinion his arms, rendering him helpless.

THE VOICE ON THE WIRE (Episode No. 1—"The Oriental Death Punch"—Two Parts—March 18). The cast: Howard Van Cleft (Ernest Shields); John Shirley (Ben Wilson); Professor Montague (L. M. Wells); Polly Marion (Neva Gerber); Alvin Van Cleft (Frank McQuarrie); Captain Cronin (Howard Crampton); Dr. Reynolds (Joseph Girard). Scenario by J. G. Alexander. Produced by Stuart Paton.

Alvin Van Cleft has a penchant for chorus girls, particularly Polly Marion. One night they leave a cafe and enter a taxi, closely watched by two muffled figures. As Van Cleft and the girl are riding through the park Van Cleft falls into a stupor, a mysterious hand which seems to have no attachment to a body, enters the cab and kills Van Cleft. Later Howard, his son, is notified by a mysterious voice that his father has been murdered and is the third victim—two others interested in chorus girls having preceded him.

Howard notifies John Shirley, interested in criminology, and Professor Montague, a prominent physician, and they, together with Cronin, head of a detective agency, start working on the case.

Shirley arrives at the conclusion that Van Cleft was murdered by the Japanese death punch, Sen Si Yao; as he is telling this to his friends he receives a telephone message that Cronin is in Bellevue Hospital with a crushed skull and that Montague may be the fourth victim. Shirley visits Cronin, who tells how he was beaten by two chaps who had been in the same taxi with him. Shirley then receives a message that he will be the next victim if he does not stop meddling in others' affairs.

The professor, to the surprise of Howard, disguises himself and goes out the back way; as he jumps over the wall he is attacked by two thugs, whom he overpowers and marches to the police station.

RED FEATHER.

BORDER WOLVES (Two Parts—March 12).—The cast: The "Bum" (Neal Hart); Tina (Janet Eastman); Mexican Joe (Joe Rickson); McGowan (L. M. Wells); Cowboys (Bud Osborne, Pedro Leon, Jack Walters, Tom Grimes and Bill Gillis).

In the town of Snakehead, close to the Mexican border, McGowan, owner of the "Open House" dance hall, makes arrangements with "Mex" Joe to run some guns across the border. All plans are made. The guns are cached at Hell-Hole, but more men are needed. Joe tries to make love to McGowan's daughter, Tina, but McGowan fiercely commands him to keep away from her. Joe is angry and determines to get even.

The "Bum" arrives at Snakehead, and while in the saloon becomes friendly with "Mex" Joe, who hires him to join in the gun-running. Tina, while walking near the station, has caught her foot between the tracks. The "Bum" rushes to her and carries her from the tracks just in time to escape a train.

That evening Joe approaches Tina and embraces her. The girl struggles and her father rushes out. He tears Joe from Tina and knocks him down, telling him that after that they will part company for good. Joe tells the other men that McGowan is going to double-cross them. He advises them to make a rush for Hell-Hole. The boys are easily persuaded. Late that night they make a dash into McGowan's saloon, and, forcing every one to hold up their hands, begin to rob them. Joe fires at McGowan, killing him instantly. The runners jump on their horses and Joe abducts Tina.

Some of the men, while examining McGowan, find a message urging them to summon the Rangers encamped at Little Creek, and saying that the gun runners would be at Hell-Hole. They decide to notify the Rangers. Joe tells his men to stay at Hell-Hole for half an hour. The "Bum" sees Joe approach Tina and determines to help her escape. He slips off in the opposite direction and fires a shot, causing the men to think the Rangers are after them. During the confusion he unties Tina and the two of them dash down the road on their horses.

Joe discovers they have disappeared and starts after them. The "Bum" tells Tina to ride on, that he will hold the pursuers. The girl meets the Rangers and gives them directions. After a fierce struggle the Rangers succeed in capturing the bandits. They discover that the "Bum" is the best Ranger in the service.

THE GIRL WHO LOST (Three Parts—March 12).—The cast: Mary (Cleo Madison); Frances (Roberta Wilson); Millicent (Molly Malone); Hayden Van Holt (Jack Nelson); Andrew Van Holt (Daniel Leighton); Landlady (Lydia Y. Titus).

Although Mary belonged in the chorus, still she did not belong to the gay night life which is supposed to be synonymous with theatrical work. Instead she hurried home to her younger sister, Frances, whose one ambition was to go on the stage. At length the season closes and Mary has to go "on the road," leaving her sister with the good natured landlady.

Frances becomes dissatisfied and seeks work, entering the employment of Andrew Van Holt, and ere long has sacrificed her honor. When Mary returns she learns that her young sister is about to become a mother and determines to avenge her.

Chance makes her acquainted with Hayden, the son of Van Holt, who is engaged to Millicent. Insidiously, Mary wins his affections, until he is willing to throw Millicent aside. She sends word to Van Holt that his son is in the hands of an unscrupulous chorus girl, and to Millicent that her sweetheart is paying attention to another woman.

Millicent, heart-broken, determines to see "this woman," and beg her to give up Hayden. Van Holt accompanies her to Mary's apartment, where the two see Hayden beseeching Mary to marry him.

Mary delivers the ultimatum to Andrew Van Holt—either he will marry her sister or she will marry Hayden. Andrew decides he will right the wrong. Mary has learned to love Hayden, and now has to give him up that her sister may be happy.

IMP.

SINS OF A BROTHER (March 14).—Will, a detective, has a younger brother, who is becoming a crook. Will sees him sneaking away from a saloon, follows him home and catches him hiding jewelry. He makes him confess that he took it from a peddler in the saloon. Will thinks that the best thing for John would be a prison sentence to bring him to his senses. He handcuffs John and sends for the police. Their mother begs Will to give his brother another chance. Just as the police are about to enter, Will puts a chair through the window, takes the handcuffs off his brother and tells the officers that the burglar has made a getaway through the window. John promises to go straight.

PERILS OF THE SECRET SERVICE (Adventure No. 2—"The Clash of Steel"—Two Parts—March 16).—The cast: Yorke Norroy (Kingsley Benedict); Carson Huntley (Jay Belasco); Princess Seraphina (Claire Du Bray); Count Stefan (L. C. Shumway); Prince Feodor (Jean Hersholt); Prince Paul (Francis Marion). Written and Produced by George Bronson Howard.

Princess Seraphina, taking her small son, Paul, flees from Yulania to the village of Champ Fleury in Normandy, because of the debauchery of her husband, Prince Feodor. The agent of Saxonia, Count Stefan, calls to convince Feodor he should divorce his wife and marry Princess Sofia Anoria with her fifty million francs, for Saxonia needs Yulania as a buffer state in case of war. Prince Feodor consents and agrees to the conspiracy of the agent to gain reason for divorce.

Champ Fleury is the rendezvous of Yorke Norroy and Carson Huntley. Huntley has become acquainted with Princess Seraphina.

Count Stefan follows the Princess and watches the growing friendship between her and Huntley. He wires Prince Feodor to hasten to the village.

Yorke Norroy is on his way to Camp Fleury. He passes the prince, and wonders what can have brought him, incognito, so far from his court.

Meanwhile, Stefan and Gregor, his assistant, have kidnaped Prince Paul and enticed Seraphina to Huntley's rooms. Stefan enters and accuses her of having left her husband for Huntley. He holds them prisoners while awaiting the coming of Feodor.

Norroy arrives shortly before the prince, and, scenting trouble, enters Huntley's house with drawn revolver. As Stefan points a revolver at the head of the princess, Norroy realizes that they are at a deadlock and suggests fighting with raplers.

Stefan is one of the best swordsmen in Europe. Soon Norroy is apparently exhausted. He staggers against the table and overturns the candelabra. Then he grasps the wrist of Stefan with one hand and with his other sweeps the candelabra from the mantle, leaving the room in darkness.

Huntley and the princess escape, while Norroy, covering Stefan, forces him to disclose the hiding place of Paul. When Prince Feodor arrives he realizes his folly and pleads forgiveness. The princess pardons him because of their son.

GOLD SEAL.

THE COMMON SIN (Three Parts—March 13).

Sheba, a beautiful gypsy woman, is betrothed by her father to Carlo, a member of the tribe. Later she meets and falls in love with George Lattimer. She protests against her father's wish but he pays no attention and preparations for the ceremony go on. George is engaged to be married to a girl of his own town, but he keeps Sheba in ignorance and when he asks her to go away with him she consents. She is forced to submit to the marriage with Carlo, but steals away after the ceremony and meets George. Her awakening comes soon, for he tires of her and leaves her, and she returns heartbroken to the tribe, to bear her child. She dedicates the little girl with her last breath to the task of vengeance.

Sheba's daughter, Eldora, grows into a beautiful woman. Lattimer and his wife visit the woods on a vacation. They meet Eldora, and her old grandmother recognizes the man, and tells the girl the story of her mother. Pretending not to know him, Eldora begs the wife to take her to the city, and Mrs. Lattimer does so. Eldora takes with her a bundle containing the clothes worn by her mother when she first met Lattimer. Eldora becomes a social favorite and has many suitors, including Lattimer's son. But she still dreams of the gypsy boy, David, with whom she has grown up. He, in the meantime, is nearly distracted with grief at losing her. The old grandmother perceives this, and giving him the girl's ragged gown and a knife, tells him to go to her, make her return with him or kill her. He sets out for the city.

Lattimer one day makes open love to Eldora. She tells him that his words are an insult not only to her, but to his wife. Mrs. Lattimer comes in with her son, while the girl is struggling in Lattimer's arms. She manages to clear herself by pretending that she loves the son. Then, that night, she writes him that she is returning to her mountains, and that he is to try to think well of her. She has led Lattimer to think that she is going to leave home with him. She dresses in the gypsy gown of her mother, and reveals herself to Lattimer as the child of Sheba, whom he wronged. He is terrified. Just at that moment her gypsy lover, David, breaks in. He throws at her the rags she has worn in the forest and says "Put these on; you are coming with me!" He stabs Lattimer and drags Eldora away with him.

Later we see them restored to happiness in the depths of the forest.

LAEMMLE.

WHERE GLORY WAITS (Two Parts—March 14).—The cast: King (Allen Holubar); Scylla (Fritzi Ridgway); Prime Minister (Wadsworth Harris); Professor (Thomas Jefferson); His Daughter (Roberta Wilson); Court Chamberlain (George Pearce).

The young King was dreaming of the happy days gone by when cares of state were unknown. His reveries were broken by the coming of the learned counselors and the last of his boyhood's visions vanished as he was told that a marriage of state had been arranged for him with a princess.

The counselors handed him her portrait. As he looked at the cold, passionless features his thoughts reverted to the laughing face of a sunny, curly-haired girl, the daughter of the university president. He rebelled at the hard, stern responsibilities before him, and abruptly left the palace to wander in the forest.

Following the sound of blows, he discovered a ragged, bare-footed peasant girl wielding an axe. Thinking him but an ordinary man, she mockingly addressed him: "Well! Want some work?"

The King sprang forward, took the axe from her hands and sent the chips flying. He learned that her name was "Scylla," that she was the sole support of a bedridden mother and four little hungry brothers and sisters. Once she had had a sweetheart, but they had never married, for she was forced to look after her family. Later he went to war and gave his life for the king.

Upon learning that Scylla did not quarrel with her fate, but unselfishly regarded it all as a sacred duty, the young King looked at her in amazement, for an ignorant peasant girl had taught him a lesson. Some days later Scylla received a purse of gold and a message from the King, which she never forgot. Later, when the King was loved and honored for his good deeds and his marriage to the haughty princess was an old story, a baby girl was born to them and the King insisted that they call her "Princess Scylla."

RACING DEATH (March 17).—The child of a mechanic is stricken with a malady which may require an operation at a moment's notice. He has to accompany his master, a racer, in a big auto race for a large prize, to run from their town to Los Angeles, fifty miles away. On the day of the race the child becomes worse. The parents know that an operation is necessary. The doctor cannot be reached. The mechanic takes the child, jumps into the car, and though he is the last to start in the race, he drives with such reckless speed that he comes in first and is awarded the prize. When he reaches Los Angeles, instead of stopping for congratulations from the crowd, he drives to the hospital. The child's life is saved.

JOKER.

"ART ACHES (March 17).—The cast: The Artist (William Franey); The Patroness of Art (Gale Henry); Her Husband (Milburn Moranti); Her Maid (Lillian Peacock); Butler (John Cook); Footman (Bobby Mack). Scenario by Jack Cunningham. Produced by W. W. Beauchamp.

Gale is a patroness of art, and the only one who receives Bill, a vendor of pictures. She declares that he must paint her as "December Afternoon." She gets ready to pose, with her feet in a basin of water for realism, and Bill has to make good his bluff of being an artist. He enlists the aid of Lillian, the maid. She snaps the model, and goes out to have the plate developed and enlarged. As revenge upon her mistress, who has found fault with her, Lillian changes the enlarged portrait for that of a donkey.

A reception is held for the ceremony of unveiling the picture, and consternation reigns when the substitution is discovered. Bill is kicked out, and Gale gives up the patronage of art.

NESTOR.

SOME SPECIMENS (March 12).—The cast: Wallie Montgomery (Eddie Lyons); Mrs. Montgomery (Margaret Whistler); Percy Willoughby (Lee Moran); Bess Willoughby (Edith Roberts); Mrs. Willoughby (Mrs. Witting); Nance La Belle (Gertrude Aster); Chorus Girl (Hazel Page).

At a card party, Mrs. Montgomery meets Mrs. Willoughby and her daughter, Bess. They decide to have their sons, Walter and Percy, meet. Wallie is a student of mineralogy and Percy of botany.

Meanwhile Percy and Wallie are having troubles of their own. They both wait for Nance La Belle, an actress, outside the stage door. She chooses Percy, and Wallie picks up a chorus girl and follows them. At a cafe Nance flirts with Wallie and finally the two boys begin to fight.

The following morning both boys have black eyes and tell their mothers it was caused by trying to save a girl in an automobile accident. That afternoon the boys are introduced. Percy shows Wallie his specimens and displays a collection of drinks. Their mothers want to see the specimens, so Percy goes to the garden and pulls up various vegetables. Wallie loads himself with pieces of brick, cobblestones, slag and coke, and joins Percy. The boys give a fake lecture and their mothers think their knowledge amazing.

L-KO.

SUMMER BOARDERS (March 14).—In the summer hotel there is a call for a decorator. One of the boarders wants her room repapered. The boss paperhanger arrives with Phil, his assistant. The proprietor's wife is of a flirtatious disposition, and her husband is jealous. He suspects her of flirting with the boss paperhanger. Phil is hard at work cutting out scraps of paper and pasting them on the desk, the sofa pillows and everywhere else where wallpaper does not belong. The proprietor starts a chase in which several people become covered with paste, but Phil, as usual, is the chief sufferer.

LOVE ON CRUTCHES (March 16).—Bill gets into a fight with a young interne. They have a scrap over a nurse, and the interne leaves Bill for dead. He and the nurse hurry to the hospital. Bill is found by policemen and carried into the hospital. In the ward an anarchist offers to stand treat. Bill steals his bottle, but the nurse catches him with it. The nurse is sweet to Bill and this arouses the ire of the anarchist, who puts a bomb under Bill's bed. The nurse sits on the bed and the anarchist tries to get her away. Then the bomb is discovered and the entire hospital force tries to get rid of it. In the end both the anarchist and Bill are blown away by the explosion.

BIG U.

FOR HONOR'S SAKE (March 15).—Harry and Joseph are hunting together and both fire at a rabbit the same instant. The rabbit falls and both claim it. They quarrel and Joseph knocks Harry down at his gate. Thinking he has killed him, he rushes into the woods. Gertie, Harry's wife, finds her husband and revives him. He tells her the story of the blow. Anna, Joe's wife, hears of it, and goes into the woods to hunt for her husband. She finally comes upon him, exhausted. She tells him that Harry is not dead and he returns to the house with her and begs forgiveness.

THE HIDDEN DANGER (Two Parts—March 18).—The Apache Indians are on the rampage and the Americans go out against them. They capture all the Indian squaws. Then the braves attack the Americans, to rescue the women, and especially Minato. They dig holes in the ground at night and hide in them, hoping to get the Americans by this ambush. By chance the soldiers see that the ground has been tampered with. But the Indians jump out and attack them. There is great loss of life, but they are finally repulsed.

VICTOR.

A WOMAN IN THE CASE (March 13).—The cast: Eileen (Eileen Sedgwick); Ralph (Ralph McComas); The Kid (Milton Sims). Written by W. Warren Schoene. Produced by Allen Curtis.

Eileen told every one she would never marry a man who had a mother living, but a wise guy fell in love with her and, when he said he had no mother, she married him. Eileen was a most abominable cook.

Eileen found an envelope addressed in a woman's handwriting in Ralph's pocket and forced the messenger to lead her to the house from which he received the letter.

Through the window she saw her husband and a woman in close embrace. She climbed in and began to beat Ralph. The woman fainted and Ralph climbed up the chimney. Eileen sent the kid to the roof with a long pole with which to poke Ralph. Ralph fell down into the grate, where Eileen had lighted a fire. The woman had revived and came to the rescue. Finally Eileen's husband told her that the woman was his mother, who had invited him to her house for dinner.

BISON.

ROPED IN (Two Parts—March 17).—The cast: Skeeters (Neal Hart); Raz (Tom Grimes); Sleeper (Bud Osborne); Beauty (Pedro Leon); Hi Pockets (Bill Gillis); Lady (Countess Du Cello).

All the boys on the ranch clean up for the arrival of their new boss, only to find that it is a woman. She is dignified. The new owner is introduced to the foreman, and then goes into the house and finds the table covered with cigar butts.

Next day she makes the boys clean up the place. At the end of the week the house looks fine, but the grounds have not been touched and the cattle are straying. The boys decide that one of them must propose to her so the others can work the ranch. They draw matches and "Skeeters," the foreman, wins. He takes a drink and starts into the room where the boss is drinking tea. She asks him what he wants and all he can stammer is something about the day's work. She orders him out of the house.

Next day another one of the boys, "Hi Pockets," suggests that he can turn the trick, because she has always liked him. He is picked out. The boss finds him under a tree. It occurs to him that if he marries her he can be boss of the ranch and have all the boys working for him. He proposes and is accepted. The wedding takes place and the bridegroom beats it for town. The boys think he is running away and pursue. He buys a gown and starts back. He throws the gown at his wife, saying that it is a scrubbing outfit and that she is to get to work at once. He puts his feet on the table, lights a large cigar and orders the boys to work when they come in. They see it is useless to protest.

POWERS.

THE TAIL OF THOMAS CAT" (Animated Cartoon—March 18).—The cat is rocking in a chair, and his tail is through a knothole in the fence. A chicken grabs it in its beak and pulls it out till it snaps. The cat goes through the fence to settle with the chicken. They fight and the cat leaves the chicken for dead. But he wakes up, comes through the fence, and pulls the cat's tail right out. The cat cries. Along comes a dog and laughs at the cat. Then a boy ties a tin can to the dog's tail, and the cat is consoled, for it sees that tails are no good, after all.

FOREIGN LEGATIONS IN CHINA (Dorsey Educational on Same Reel).—We see first the Imperial Palace, now the residence of the president of China, and then the foreign quarter, with the legations of various countries. The Japanese, Dutch, German, Belgian, British and American legations are seen. The Russian legation and bank and the French cathedral. At the American legation the Marine Guard is being reviewed.

UNIVERSAL.

UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE (Issue No. 10—March 16).—The Government Weather Bureau at Washington, D. C., is the first subject in this reel. Then comes an interesting study of the armadillo, the little creature of the cactus country, which is chiefly used as a pet. A domestic science lesson by Mrs. A. Louise Andrea follows, and shows us how to make our own chocolate creams. A timely subject is the testing of Government torpedoes, which cost $10,000 apiece. A few minutes of animated sculpture with Willie Hopkins closes the reel.

UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE No. 11 (March 23).

What we eat.—The peanuts you eat, like potatoes, peanuts are dug, not picked, at harvest. In the northern cities comparatively few persons know that peanuts are tubers. Subtitle: A Virginia field which yields fifty bushels of "goobers" to the acre. After harvesting, the vines are placed on long poles for drying, a giant shocking machine, separating the nuts from the vines. Pickers sorting; some of the peanuts are selected for seedlings, while the others are classed in three different grades. Roasters preparing the kernels for candy manufacturers. Then we get 'em at five a bag.

Nature Studies.—Our friends of the Zoo. "Bill" Snyder, veteran head keeper of New York's Central Park Zoo, whose love for animals makes him known the world over. Subtitle: Feeding his baby mountain sheep. Zebra. He won't make friends. Bear cubs. The Zebu—Father, mother and baby. Old, but still on the bottle. Fallow deer. Camera shy. American elk. A true American—The Bison. Pals.

Manufacturing.—A locomotive in the making.

SWAAB
Complete
Picture Theatre Equipment
CARBONS AND SUPPLIES
Dept. M., 1327 Vine Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

The intricate mechanism of the rails is assembled with incredible rapidity by the skilled workers of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, Philadelphia, Pa. Subtitles: The boiler is first set. A sheath of asbestos for the huge boiler. The ponderous wheels are placed. Mounting the superstructure. The piston rod connected. Riveting the engineer's cab in position. Heavy steel plates encase the body of the engine. Ready for a trial run. Finishing touches are applied; painters and decorators at work. The finished product.

Art.—Animated sculpture. A few minutes with Willie Hopkins, world famous sculptor.

ANIMATED WEEKLY No. 61 (Feb. 28).

After 3 Weeks' Drill.—Naval recruits manoeuvre to show wonderful progress in short training.—Naval training station, Lake Bluff, Ill. Subtitles: On parade ground. Hats off to the flag! Ready for sham battle. U. S. Sailors in trenches. Firing 3-inch guns.

Out of U-Boat Zone.—American liner "Philadelphia" arrives after dash through restricted waters bringing survivors of sunken ship.—New York Harbor, N. Y. Subtitles: Passengers who braved barred zone. Crews of the sunken ships, "Japanese Prince," and "Housatonic." Mate Robert Ferguson who, with two companions, received $25,000 from Britain for saving tug "Vigilant" at sea.

Fled From Villa.—Refugees driven from homes by bandit camp where Uncle Sam keeps watch.—near Columbus, New Mexico. Subtitles: Camp barber. A little music. Animated cameraman in Army aeroplane photographs return of General Pershing's force from Mexico.—On border near Columbus, New Mexico. How it looked from half mile up. Moving groups are Pershing's soldiers. The Army camp.

Flames Destroy School.—Cincinnati firemen aid in fighting blaze that leaves $75,000 building in ruins, Norwood, Ohio.

King Momus Resigns at New Orleans.—Hundreds of thousands of visitors attend the annual Mardi Gras ceremonies in Southern City. Subtitles: Rex arrives in his royal yacht and ascends his moving throne. Some of the gaily decorated floats. The keys of the city presented to his majesty, Rex.

Mothers Clamor for Food.—Carrying their half-starved babies, women of lower East Side call upon Mayor Mitchell to use his influence in lowering prohibitive prices.—New York City. Subtitles: "Our babies need milk!" Bystander advises against rioting. The committee to which Mayor Mitchell pledged his aid.

Former Prices. Present Prices.

2 lbs. of onions	.06	.40
4 lbs. of potatoes	.08	.28
1 lb. of cabbage	.02	.20

Remember the Maine.—Veterans, inmates of Soldier's Home, unveil tablet in memory of sailor dead.—Sawtelle, Cal. Subtitles: The tablet, made of one of the destroyed battleship's armored plates.

Submarine Manoeuvres.—Uncle Sam's sea fighters, both bristling with menace for foe.—New London, Conn. Subtitles: The submarine is ready. A ride on the bow. Here she comes.

President Decorates Schoolboy.—Harold F. Stose, Washington High School pupil, wins medal offered for best patriotic essay written by an American boy or girl.—Washington, D. C. Subtitles: President and Mrs. Wilson arrive for the ceremony. "Hal" Stose, the winner.

Giant Hydroplane for Denmark.—Giant twin machine is tested for neutral government, which is preparing to defend rights.—Newport News, Va.

Fashions.—Made in America.—Manikins display newest styles in gowns.—New York City. (Solon of Harry Collins). Subtitles: A blue and black bugle embroidered net robe over black meteor. Sport suit of carnival faille and blue satine. Navy and black charmeuse with Chinese embroidered panels. Trantricotone and taffeta with blue soutache embroidery.

Cartoons by Hy. Mayer.

MENGER & RING, Inc.

MANUFACTURERS OF
Poster and Lobby
Display Frames

104-6 W. 42d St., NEW YORK

Phone: Bryant 6621-22

AMERICAN Fotoplayer

(Trade Mark Registered)

The Musical Marvel Write for Catalogue
AMERICAN PHOTO PLAYER CO.
62 West 45th St. New York City

Operators:

Do you know exhibitors who have STANDARD motion picture machines? It does not matter what model they possess or whether the STANDARDS are in use or discarded. Send the names of STANDARD owners to address below and you will receive in return a useful souvenir.

AMERICAN STANDARD M. P. M. CO.

110 West 40th Street, New York

PAINTINGS

OF

FILM STARS

And Feature Lobby Displays
for State Right Buyers
That are works of art.

PAINTED BY

M. KASSEL

ARTIST

220 West 42nd St., New York

ROLL TICKETS

SAVE MONEY

on Special and Stock
Tickets by Ordering from

KEYSTONE TICKET CO.

SHAMOKIN, PA.

Our Samples and Prices Tell the Story

Willis & Inglis

Wright and Callender Building
LOS ANGELES, CAL.

AFFILIATIONS

Roehm & Richards, Strand Bldg., New York
Edward A. Wheeler, Schiller Bldg., Chicago
Lyall Willis, London, England

MANAGEMENT
ENGAGEMENTS
FINANCING
BOOKS AND PLAYS
STUDIO LIGHTING
PUBLICITY

The "M. P. World" carries more classified ads than all other trade papers combined—WHY?

Mutual Film Corporation MUTUAL.

MUTUAL WEEKLY (No. 114—Mar. 7).

San Antonio, Tex.—Body of General Funston rests in Alamo, prior to removal to San Francisco for burial.

New Orleans, La.—Annual Mardi Gras. King Rex rules over gay carnival.

Galveston, Texas.—This city also celebrates Mardi Gras. King K. K. K. receives key to city.

New London, Conn.—Off for home. Spanish submarine, American built, sails for home port.

New York City.—Food problem is real to East Side's poor. Their protest meeting in Madison Square.

Copenhagen, Denmark.—Danish troops preparing for an emergency. They endure winter's hardships in mountain camp to keep in trim. Subtitles: Training war horses to charge through liquid fire attack. Testing swords and swordsmanship: Thin strips of paper floating in the air must be cut with an accurate hand and a keen blade.

Seattle, Wash.—Ocean-going motorship is launched. The "Oregon" is the first full-powered motorship built in the U. S.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Special flour trains start East. Will run on passenger train schedule, under Federal supervision, to relieve food shortage in eastern markets.

New York City.—Bell boys learning to become soldiers. Raw recruits have first drill on Hotel Biltmore roof.

Paris, France.—Newest tailor costumes by Wingrove.

Seattle, Wash.—New submarine for Uncle Sam. The N-3 is launched amid cheers of crowd.

Norfolk, Va.—Danish Navy buys seaplane here. Giant flyer passes final tests.

Oakland, Cal.—Attacking the high cost of living. Society girls will raise vegetables in backyards.

Olympia, Wash.—Gov. Lister welcomes troops. Soldiers from border are guests at State Capitol.

AMERICAN.

THE TELL-TALE ARM (March 9).—The cast: Ben Hart (Wallace Reid); Mabel Whitaker (Vivian Rich).

Ben Hart, a youthful mining expert, arrives in the mining town and promptly seeks out Mabel Whitaker and her mother, who have a map purporting to lead to a gold deposit. They determine to look at the deposit, but are warned by Jim Halliday, a bad man. That night Mabel sees a hand steal through the window and grasp for the map. She plunges a knife through the arm and it is hastily withdrawn. The next day Ben sees Jim Halliday near the gold mine and sees that he is nursing a wounded arm. Ben overcomes the bandit and has him jailed.

MY FIGHTING GENTLEMAN (Five Parts—March 12).—The cast: Frank Carlisle (William Russell); Virginia Leighton (Francella Billington); Huntley Thornton (Jack Vosburgh); Issiah Gore (Clarence Burton); Judge Tenbroke (Harry Von Meter); Colonel Carlisle (Charles Newton); Jubilee (William Carroll); Jim (Sid Alger). Directed by Edward Sloman.

Frank Carlisle, a southerner, educated at West Point, in love with Virginia Leighton, a southern belle, fights for the union army when the civil war breaks out. Virginia is angered by Carlisle's devotion to the union and breaks off their engagement. Carlisle returns to his ruined estate, after the war, a social outcast among his people. Issiah Gore, carpetbag politician and negro cultivator, plots against Carlisle, arousing hostility among the freedmen. Carlisle subdues the hostility among his people and is nominated for state senator against Gore. In a riot which follows Carlisle is injured and is nursed by Virginia, who forgets the trouble and a reconciliation is affected. Gore and his gang are put to rout.

Get acquainted with the
ERBOGRAPH WAY
of Developing and Printing
ERBOGRAPH COMPANY
203-11 West 146th St., New York City

Have you ever stopped to consider the many advantages to be found in EVANS' SERVICE, Mr. Producer?

We are convinced no one turns out a better quality of DEVELOPING and PRINTING than EVANS turns out and a trial will convince you if you have any doubt.

We are also convinced we can meet all reasonable demands when it comes to delivery.

EVANS FILM MFG. CO., 416-24 West 216th St., N. Y. City.

Telephone
Audubon 6381-2

THE LONESOME MARINER (March 16).—An old sailor tells his young companion the tale of his life. He tells of a party of tourists visiting the fishing village. He falls in love with one of the girls, but her parents refuse to let them wed. The girl pines away and finally becomes delirious. She calls for the fisherman, but he arrives too late and she dies in his arms calling his name.

A RAM-BUNCTIOUS ENDEAVOR (March 16).—The cast: Jim (Wallace Reid); Marjie (Vivian Rich).

Jim has been away for a long time. Marjie heard that he was returning from college and so dressed up for the occasion. Jim dons his cowboy outfit, however. The boys decided to give him a party. This was the inspiration of Chick, who tells his sweetheart Polly about it. Jim, in his exuberant spirits, kissed Polly and was seen by Chick. A riot follows and Chick was thrown into a corral with a vicious ram.

CUB.

JERRY'S TRIPLE ALLIANCE (March 15).—The cast: Jerry (George Ovey); Tiny, the Girl (Claire Alexander); The Housekeeper (Helen Gilmore).

Jerry is in love with Tiny, whose father prefers Bill, who, unknown to him, is a bad man. Tiny is captured by Bill and placed in a deserted cabin. She manages to let Jerry know of her predicament and he determines to use his pet elephants, Ena and Lulu, to rescue the girl. Tiny climbs on the back of one of the elephants, while Jerry gets on the back of the other. They ride into a restaurant, where the elephants start in to do the tango, and then they sit down to their dinner.

NIAGARA FILMS CORP.

THE PERILS OF OUR GIRL REPORTERS (No. 12 "Outwitted"—Two Parts—March 12).—Jim Adams, son and heir of a wealthy New Yorker, is left a fortune in a will, providing that he is married before a certain date. He wakes the morning of the fatal day and realizes that he has forgotten to get married. He advertises in the papers for a wife and is besieged. Beth Alden, a young newspaper reporter, is sent to cover the case, and when she arrives Jim will not listen to her story. He thinks that she has come in answer to the advertisement and so carries her off to the minister's, where they are married, and he gets his fortune.

MONOGRAM.

THE ADVENTURES OF SHORTY HAMILTON (No. 9—Two Parts—March 12).—"Shorty Trails the Moonshiners"—Shorty is called upon by Anita to come into the mountains of Kentucky to break up a band of moonshiners. Anita is trapped by the moonshiners, who are running a roadhouse, where the signs tell the traveler that soda water and ice cream are sold within. She is imprisoned in the cellar, which is just over an aqueduct leading to a deep reservoir. Shorty arrives in the mountains just in time to save the moonshiner's daughter from a band of incensed people and she is the means of rescuing Anita from the hands of her father. The moonshiners are captured and Shorty takes Anita into his arms.

VOGUE.

A MATRIMONIAL SHOCK (Two Parts—March 17).—Lillian Hamilton is the young heiress, who, with her colored maid, goes to a fashionable summer resort. There she is seen and admired by John and Owen, who set out to win her. She is locked out of her room one night and so dons her brother's clothes. She is seen by John, who, thinking she is a boy, plans a trick on Owen. John goes up to Lillian's room and there he sees Lillian's maid, heavily veiled and dressed in Lillian's clothes. Thinking it is Lillian he drags her downstairs and there is astounded when she unveils. Meanwhile Owen marries Lillian.

GAUMONT.

TOURS AROUND THE WORLD, NO. 20 (March 20).—So much has been written about the tiny kingdom of Montenegro that pictures of this diminutive realm will have instant welcome when released. First come pictures of the zigzag climb through the mountain passes between Dalmatia and Montenegro, passing finally through a high valley to Cettinge, capital of Montenegro. With only 4,000 inhabitants, the town is little more than a cluster of whitewashed cottages and plain public buildings.

Most of the men are soldiers, ever fearful (before the war) of invasion, while the toilsome tasks are performed by women. His majesty, King Nicholas, is seen among his people, going about with that democratic simplicity which has always characterized him.

Guernsey is one of England's Channel Islands. Here Victor Hugo passed many years of his exile from France. His house is shown, as well as the room in which the great man of letters worked. St. Peterport, the principal town, dates from the twelfth century, the harbor being protected by breakwaters built by Edward I. Many pretty spots along the Guernsey coast are shown in this section.

Cintra is one of the better known summer resorts of Portugal. Situated near Lisbon, it joins nearness to the capital to a wonderful climate in making its bid for the summer visitor. The royal palace shown in this section was occupied by Queen Amelie when she learned that her son, King Emanuel, had lost his crown and had been exiled. During the Moorish occupation Cintra was a stronghold of that nation, extensive fortifications having been built. Their ruins are shown in the pictures.

CONDENSER
BREAKAGE STOPPED
by using the Preddey Mount:
fits any lamp in a moment.
Very simple and rugged. Pays for itself in a week. Lasts forever.
Get circular. Positively
stops breaking. Price $4.50.
Used everywhere. Condenser expenses ended or money back.

W. G. PREDEY
669 Halght Street
San Francisco, Cal.

For Perfect Laboratory Results INSTALL CORCORAN TANKS

A. J. CORCORAN, Inc. 11½ JOHN STREET
NEW YORK CITY

THE CATALOGUE OF

Brush Electric Lighting Sets

contains much that is valuable about electric lighting in general, and moving picture work in particular. Send for it.

THE CHAS. A. STRELINGER CO.,
Box MP-2, Detroit, Mich., U. S. A.

Dependable Terminals

at a reasonable price. At your exchange—or write the manufacturers.

Bell & Howell Co.
1801 Larchmont Ave.
Chicago, Ill.

New Improvements of The Motion Picture Camera

Send postal. Know how Universal Motion Picture Camera gives greater Permanence, Speed, Accuracy, Light Weight, Results. A dozen great advantages. Address Burke & James, Inc., 240 E. Ontario St., Chicago. Sole Wholesale Agents.

Write for Announcement

HIGHEST GRADE Developing and Printing

FILM TITLES

We guarantee all work, give prompt delivery, at lowest prices. Can furnish Expert Camera Man on short notice.
STANDARD MOTION PICTURE COMPANY
R. 1620, 5 S. Wabash Ave. Chicago
Phone: Randolph 6692

REEL LIFE, NO. 47 (March 22).—"Making Food Cheaper," by removing its water content before transporting, is shown in this release of "Reel Life." As fruits and vegetables are 90 per cent water, the saving in bulk and in freight and express charges can readily be understood. Air currents remove the water, the original flavor being retained. The vegetable is shredded before being dried. In preparing to cook, all that is necessary is to soak the dried shreds in water.

"Artificial Exercise" brings to the screen special machines for those unable or disinclined to exercise. All that one does is to place himself in the proper position. The machine does the rest.

"A Snail Race Under Water" presents a number of these fresh-water gastropods in a leisurely contest with a lettuce leaf as the reward for the winner. The pictures serve as an opportunity to present Japanese, Singapore, Danish and Trinidad snails. In addition, there are views of snail eggs in clusters and a picture of a microscopic X-ray of an egg just before hatching.

"Pineapples Under Glass" acquaints spectators with the fact that the tropical pineapple is now being grown in hot-houses because of the high prices obtained for these delicacies. The fruit is not gathered until a year after the plant is set out.

A fifth section of this reel is a graceful series of outdoor dances by California girls. They appear in a winter pageant—although "winter" is just a name to these nymphs, who are clad in the flimsiest of costumes that leave bare arms and legs. The dances were features of the "Ad Masque" held at Oakland, Cal., by the local advertising fraternity affiliated with the International Advertising Clubs of the World.

Miscellaneous Subjects

ARTCRAFT PICTURES CORP.

A POOR LITTLE RICH GIRL (March 5).—The cast: Gwendolyn (Mary Pickford); her mother (Madeline Traverser); her father (Charles Wellesley); Jane, the nurse (Gladys Fairbank); the plumber (Frank McGlynn); the organ grinder (Emile LaCroix); Miss Royle, the governess (Marcia Harris); Thomas, the footman (Charles Craig); Potter, the butler (Frank Andrews); the doctor (Herbert Prior); Johnny Blake (George Gernon); Susie May Squoggs (Maxine Hicks).

Gwendolyn, the "poor little rich girl," is so called for her wealth of material comforts and her poverty in the happiness and affection she craves. Surrounded by everything that money can purchase, she longs for the maternal love and care that her mother's social duties leave no time for. Wall street so occupies her father's attention that he neglects to show affection.

Each morning the tutors instruct her in the schoolroom under the guidance of Miss Royle, the governess, and each fine afternoon, Jane, her nurse, accompanies her for a ride through

The Original and Leading Moving Picture
Journal in Europe

The Kinematograph Weekly

The reliable Trade organ of Great Britain; covering the whole of the British Film market, including the American imported films. Read by everyone in the industry. Specialist writers for Finance, Technical Matters, Legal, Musical, Foreign Trading (correspondents throughout the world)—and every section devoted to the Kinematograph. Specimen copy on application to:—

The Kinematograph Weekly, Ltd

6-11 Tottenham Street, London, W., Eng.

PORTER EQUIPS BIG THEATRE FOR CRISIS

PORTER installs Two TYPE S SIMPLEX PROJECTORS and Special Accessories at the PARK THEATRE, Broadway, for the Premiere Presentation of Selig's Big Photo-Spectacle, "The Crisis." Porter leads all for Big Installations—"The Birth of a Nation," "Intolerance," "The Fall of a Nation," "Civilization," and "The Crisis."

B. F. PORTER, - - 1482 BROADWAY, AT TIMES SQUARE, - - NEW YORK

the park in her limousine, guarded by liveried footman and chauffeur. At sundown a hurried kiss dismisses her from the parents, who must hurry off to some social function or to a business conference.

On her eleventh birthday her mother finds the anniversary an excuse to invite a number of guests to celebrate the event, but excludes Gwendolyn, who is sent to bed in charge of her nurse. Jane has already arranged with Thomas, the footman, to see the latest feature at a neighboring theater and her vigil grows monotonous.

To dispose quickly of her charge, the nurse gives Gwen a dose of sleeping potion. Gwen falls into a delirium as she tries, in her last semi-consciousness, to reach her mother. As she passes from the scene of her childish tribulations, she awakens in the Tell-tale Forest, where things appear "as they are."

Here she meets those she knows as they have impressed her innocent mind. Jane, the nurse, appears as the "two-faced thing," wearing a replica of her own countenance upon the back of her head. Miss Royle, the governess, glides into her dream as the "snake in the grass." Potter, the butler, cavorts as the "silly ass" and Thomas, who is suspected of being "all ears," pursues her with aural appendages that equal his head in size.

Accompanied by a friendly plumber, who has recently been to the house to fix the pipes and who she pictures as "The Piper," and Mr. Grinder, who is her dream conception of a kindly old philosopher that turns the crank of a hand organ for a livelihood, she journeys on, pursued by Big Ears, Silly Ass, et al.

From the Tell-tale Forest she wanders to the Land of Lights. Here she meets her mother with the Social Bee in her bonnet. Her father gallops in, "riding his hobby," and dressed in an armor of coins which is the result of being "made of money."

Thus her delirious brain carries her around "Robin Hood's Barn," where the society peacocks squawk at her and the crocodiles shed tears into the Lily Pond. Fierce bears growl in Wall street, while her father and his associates beat upon the gates at the head of the street for admission.

The symbolism of Gwen's dream has its sequel at the bedside, where those she pictures are gathered to urge the doctor to bring her back. Her childish talk of what she sees impresses upon the parents the terrible neglect they have been guilty of. Grief and remorse seizes them, and when the vigil of the night is broken at dawn by the child's gradual recovery, they, too, see things "as they are," and she greets with a smile her reconstructed father and mother.

The doctor's prescription of plenty of play, to be taken in a gingham dress is immediately acted upon, and love leads three loving hearts over the hill of shadow into the valley of sunshine.

CHRISTIE FILM CORP.

AS LUCK WOULD HAVE IT (March 5).—The cast: Mrs. Newlywed (Betty Compton); Mr. Newlywed (Harry Ham); His Friend (Eddie Barry). Scenario by Epes Winthrop Sargent. Directed by Al. E. Christie.

Mrs. Newlywed has all the money, so Newlywed can not be as firm as he would like to be in discouraging her fads. Her latest one is Red Cross nursing, and she practices bandaging on Hubby. She wants him to distinguish himself, and when she reads that an auto-racing driver has gotten promotion in the aero-corps, she decides to break her Hubby in that way. She orders a racing car and enters it in the coming race. Newlywed bewails his fate to his friend, Eddie, who sends for Chantelot, the racing driver. Chantelot agrees to drive the car without letting Mrs. Newlywed know of the substitution.

Harry bravely bids his wife good-by, but Chantelot faces the starter's flag. The race is thrilling when—Look! No. 13 is in the ditch! Eddie rushes Newlywed to the hospital and bribes the doctor to bandage him up. Chantelot, slightly hurt, is brought to the same hospital. Mrs. N. goes remorsefully to her husband. But insists upon renewing the bandage and discovers his deception. It angers her and she threatens to cast him off. Eddie has an inspiration and takes her to see the injured Chantelot, saying,

CLUNE FILM PRODUCING COMPANY

Los Angeles, California

Producers of "RAMONA" (10 reels) and "THE EYES OF THE WORLD" (10 reels)

Harold Bell Wright's famous love story of adventure, of which nearly 2,000,000 copies have been sold, magnificently reproduced. Available for state rights.

"ARGONAUTS OF CALIFORNIA"

DAYS OF '49

A Thrilling Historical Masterpiece in 10 Reels

Grafton Publishing Film Company

LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA

STATE RIGHTS NOW SELLING.

NATIONAL DRAMA CORP.

1465 BROADWAY

NEW YORK CITY

Are You Tired

of playing waltzes and popular songs for all your pictures? Try "bringing out" the dramatic scenes with dramatic music. The

Orpheum Collection

contains the best music of this kind published. Issued in Three Series:

No. 1, No. 2 and No. 3.

Piano (24 pages each), 58 cts. for each series; $1.15 for any two; $1.70 for all three. Violin, 40 cts. each; 75 cts. for any two; $1.05 for all three. Cornet, 35 cts. each; 65 cts. any two; 95 cts. all three. First and second series have parts for Cello, Flute, Clarinet, Trombone and Drums. Practical for Piano alone, or in combination with any above instruments. Discounts on orders for four or more parts. Send for free sample pages. Note new address.

CLARENCE E. SINN

1103 Grace Street

Chicago, Ill.

FOR SALE

Mailing Lists MOVING PICTURE THEATRES

Every State — Total 24,000

Price, $3.50 per M.

1400 Film Exchanges..... $4.00

206 Manufacturers and Studios..... $1.50

235 Picture Machine and Supply

Dealers..... $1.50

Particulars

A. F. WILLIAMS, 166 W. Adams St., Chicago

"This might have been your husband." This brings another revulsion of feeling, in which Mrs. Newlywed sees her folly and asks Hubby's forgiveness.

METRO PICTURES CORP.

THE MORTAL SIN" (Columbia Pictures Corp.—Five Parts—March 12.)—The cast: Jane Anderson (Viola Dana); George Anderson (Robert Walker); Emmet Standish (Augustus Phillips); Flora, his stenographer (Lady Thompson); Jean Rambeau (Henry Leone); The Doctor (Louis B. Foley); The Landlady (Ritica Allen). Written and directed by John H. Collins.

George Anderson, a struggling author, works in the daytime as a clerk in the office of Emmet Standish, the publisher, and at night writes on his novel, "The Mortal Sin." "The Mortal Sin" deals with a wife's sacrifice of her honor in order to enable her sick husband to go to a western sanitarium to ward off the tuberculosis which threatens him. The husband, returning unexpectedly, learns the truth, but forgives his wife when he realizes that her sacrifice was made for him.

Anderson plods on at his writing. His wife worries over his weakened condition. The doctor tells him that a trip to the West is the only thing that will save him. Worrying over this, he continues to work feverishly, but he collapses, and is obliged to leave at once. In order to make both ends meet, since he has saved only enough to pay his railroad fare, Jane goes to take her husband's place in Standish's office. The publisher is considerate of her, and she is encouraged to show him her husband's novel and ask him to publish it. Standish says that it is untrue to life, since no man would forgive his wife for having been unfaithful to him, no matter what her motive.

Standish refuses to publish the novel, but tells Jane that she need not depend on the sale of her husband's book for money. In anger she leaves his employ. She tries to place the novel with other publishers, but fails, and poses for Rambeau, the artist, for his painting of the Madonna. When the work is over she takes refuge in a cheap lodging house, where Standish finds her. Letters from her husband indicate that he is in actual need. He is too ill to do any work, and thinking that Jane is still in Standish's employ, he appeals to her for money.

She makes a bargain with Standish. She will go with him to his home if he will accept her husband's novel. He accepts and Jane changes the ending of the book in order to make it saleable. The husband of the story, returning, kills his unfaithful wife. The book is printed and has a phenomenal sale, and Jane sends regular remittances to her husband.

Another publishing house makes Anderson an offer for his next novel, and having regained his health he decides to return east and give his wife a surprise. He goes to the address she has given and asks for Mrs. Anderson. The maid says she knows no Mrs. Anderson, but that Mrs. Standish is at home. Suspicious, Anderson hides and watches developments. Standish returns from his club to escort Jane to a party, but she asks to be excused. He rebukes her and leaves the room angrily.

Anderson leaps from his hiding place and upbraids his wife for her infidelity. She tells him that her desire to aid him has been her only motive, and that she still loves him. Anderson will not listen to her pleadings, but rushes forward, grapples with her and deliberately chokes her to death in cold blood.

Anderson is led away to a cell, tried and sentenced to die. As he is being led to the death house the chaplain shakes and arouses him, and Anderson, waking up, sees his wife bending over him. He has been asleep and incidents connected with "The Mortal Sin" have woven themselves into his dreams. He puts away the novel, promising Jane to conserve his health in the future so that no such events as those contained in his dream can come to pass.

FOX FILM CORP.

THE HOUSE OF TERRIBLE SCANDALS (Two Parts—Foxfilm—March 5).—The cast: A Society Individual (Henry Lehrman); Another Society Individual (Billie Ritchie); A Debu-

BOYLAN
EVEN-TENSION
REEL

SEE THE DOUBLE HUB

It slips when it ought to slip and saves wear or tear and losing the lower loop. Lock your tension and forget tension troubles.

ENDORSED BY EXPERTS

F. H. Richardson writes: "Is going to save many thousands of dollars. After tests, I find it works, and works fine." Write at once for prices and particulars.

Automatic Reel Co., 303 5th Ave., N. Y.

tante (Gertrude Selby); Mistress of Ceremonics (Dot Farley).

Henry Lehrman and Billie Ritchie, as the result of a gay night, are visited by a joint nightmare which shows them the horrors of their present life. First, a cat knocked a birdcage down upon them and then chased a mouse into the yawning face of Henry. Then both Henry and Billie sought to take a bath at the same time in the one bath their hotel boasted. Then Billie found himself on the end of a ladder, balanced over a railing eighteen stories above the street. All of a sudden, the bath overflowed and washed everything in the hotel out into the street.

Then the two woke up just in time to attend a reception given in honor of the young woman Billie was to wed. Just to queer the affair, Henry held a lighted match in front of Billie's mouth and the breath therefrom, being inflammable because of the previous night's indulgence in firewater, burst into flame.

At the luncheon table Henry sat next to a lady who ate her soup aloud. He put a carnation in his ear as a sort of silence, but the lady removed it. Then he placed before her a copy of the song, "I Hear You Calling Me," and she ate in time with the music, while he marked time with a fork. Finally, he captured the end of a piece of spaghetti which was being inhaled by one of the diners and inserted it in the noisy soup. In a flash the soup disappeared up the spaghetti tube and the noise was stopped.

Then the house caught fire and Henry rushed out to summon aid. He found a hose lying loose in the street and carried it into the burning building, proceeding to play its contents on the flames. The hose was connected with the traveling equipment of a gasoline vender and what Henry thought was water was gasoline, so that didn't help put out the fire very much.

The fire and police departments were called and they ran over each other trying to get to the fire. The fire department finally got there, but the police department fell through the street into a sewer. Everybody was rescued. The building was burned to the ground, a runaway locomotive crashed through a string of box cars and that's about all.

LOVE'S LAW (Five Parts—March 12).—Innocent, after being cast off by her wealthy uncle, wanders into the forest and is found by Andre, the guiding force of a roving band. The man takes her prisoner against her will, but she is liberated by Rosella, who loves Andre herself.

In escaping, Innocent meets Standish Driscoll, son of her wealthy uncle, who immediately falls in love with her. But Andre overtakes her and brings her back to the camp. It is there that she gives the first evidence of her marvelous dancing abilities.

Another escape brings Innocent to the city. There she cultivates her talents and soon, under the name of Moner Moyer, she achieves fame. Standish Driscoll still loves her and wants to marry her, but the girl finally realizes that she loves the big gypsy of the forests.

So she forsakes her career and returns to the hills.

GREATER VITAGRAPH.

THE MONEY MILL (Five Parts—March 5).—The cast: Helen Ogden (Dorothy Kelly); Jack Burton (Ewart Overton); Richard Drake (Gordon Gray); Gregory Drake (Edward Elkas); Rev. Dr. Granger (Charles Kent); Thomas Ogden (Logan Paul); John King (Mr. McCormack); Mrs. King (Mrs. Costello); Carter McGee (Mr. Sterner). Directed by John Robertson.

Having sold his share in a mine, Gregory Drake blows it up in pique when it turns out to be good, and disappears, leaving Helen Ogden sole owner, as her father was killed in the mine.

Later, in New York, Helen is much sought because of her money. Dr. Granger, a worker among the poor, induces her to see his "family," as he calls the many in want. Helen becomes interested and is loved by the poor for her good deeds among them. She buys a pin from Jack Burton on the bread line. Later Dr. Granger secures him employment as a reporter. Jack loves Helen, and she begins to feel affection for him, but he realizes that her money stands between them.

Richard Drake, Gregory's son, is operating a get-rich-quick investment scheme in New York when his father turns up. By changing the names on the old sales document Gregory has

FAC-SIMILE PAINTING

In a beautiful gilt 3-inch width frame—size over all 25x22 inches. Pictures are painted in oils and water colors of every popular player, all made from poses to appropriately fit this style of frame. Complete with brass name plate$5.00 each

New Colored
Catalogue
Now
Ready

New Colored
Catalogue
Now
Ready

LARGE HAND COLORED PICTURES

Size 22x28 inches. Every prominent player 75c. each

FAC-SIMILE OIL PAINTINGS, all sizes, from $2.50 to $35 framed. Quotations submitted on any size, framed or unframed.

THE SEMI-PHOTO POST CARDS, $3.00 per thousand, of over 600 players. Made by a process that has the appearance of a real photograph. The indispensable article for your mailing list.

PHOTOGRAPHS, size 8x10, of all the prominent players, 600 different names, 20c. each.

LARGE PICTURES, HAND COLORED, size 11x14, all the prominent players, 20c.; in aluminum frames, 50c. each.

GRAVURE FOLDER, containing pictures of the prominent players, including stars from the stage, $10 per thousand.

SINGLE COLUMN CUTS of every prominent player, 50c. each.

KRAUS MFG. CO.

220 West 42nd Street, NEW YORK

12th Floor, Candler Building

Send for Catalogue of over 600 players and samples, free. Write us, giving details of your dull nights, and we will send you a remedy.

STATE RIGHTS

Bought—Sold—Released

California and Arizona

ROBERT A. BRACKETT

Knickerbocker Bldg.

LOS ANGELES

Have you submitted your Advertising Copy for the Tenth Anniversary Number of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD?

preserved, the swindlers are able to steal the mine from Helen. She feels that now she and Jack are on a plane, but Dr. Granger convinces her that they must both work to recover the mine. This Helen does by becoming a stenographer at the "Money Mill" and after many adventures she and Jack are united through Dr. Granger.

THE SECRET KINGDOM (Episode No. 12—"Shark's Nest"—March 19).—Phillip, Juan and Julia reach Havana, they are followed by Ramon and Savatz. A telegram from Simond, warning of disaster to themselves if Phillip is not killed, excites them to push their attempts against Phillip. Without funds Phillip's party is denied lodging, but Julia raises cash on some rings. She gives Juan the remainder of the jewels with instructions to sell them and then finds a priest to marry her and Phillip. Juan advises Julia not to marry until she is aware of the contents of the sealed packet which she has in her possession. This is read and for the first time Phillip knows he is king of Alania, and Julia knows that the blood of the parents of the man she loves is upon her father's head.

Savatz meets Captain Romero, a Cuban, who presents her with a diamond brooch, which she and Ramon recognize as Julia's, and they trace her to the hotel. Romero, believing Ramon is the Madame's brother, agrees to help her. He shows them "Shark's Nest"—a pool infested with man-eaters. Julia and Phillip are attacked and while Julia is carried off and placed aboard a steamer Phillip is put into a cab which is unhorsed and started rolling down hill toward Shark's Nest. Throwing himself against the door, Phillip breaks out of the cab just as it is about to plunge into the pool. Captain Romero tries to throw Phillip into the pool, but is himself thrown to the mercy of the sharks by Juan. Phillip and Juan reach the waterfront in time to see the steamer with Julia aboard fading into the distance.

METRO PICTURES CORP.

THE GREAT SECRET (Chapter No. 10—"The Woman and the Game"—Two parts—Mar. 12).—Although he is now a ruined man, Strong determines to begin all over again. He is an excellent portrait painter, and he opens a studio. Detective Sears visits him. They see from a window a number of thugs kidnap the chauffeur who drove Sears to Strong's home, and placed one of their own men in charge of the taxi. Sears tells Strong not to worry; that he will play the game with them and will probably find the murderer of Detective Ackerton, and with the papers in Strong's hands they have little to fear. Sears enters the taxi, and is driven to one of the haunts of the Secret Seven and imprisoned. Dr. Zulph brings the news of the capture of Sears to the Great Master. Zulph orders a servant to bring all the food for Sears to him/first. Fearing the food is poisoned, Sears refuses to eat. The jailer leaves and Sears takes from the band of his hat some pellets of condensed food. The servant reports to The Great Master, who tells him to sample the food himself to show Sears it is not poisoned. The servant returns and, picking up a portion of the food, does as ordered. But Sears has in the meantime anticipated this and has drugged the food. After eating, the servant collapses and Sears strips him of his clothing and escapes.

Meantime Dr. Zulph instructs Sara Loring, an adventuress, to visit Strong and under guise of having her portrait painted, find the securities. This she does. While she is posing, Strong and Wee See leave the room. Miss Loring seizes the opportunity to open Strong's desk and locate the papers. Strong returns and she begs to use the telephone in another room. Her message is to Dr. Zulph, telling him of her discovery. He suggests a plan by which he can obtain possession of them. She pretends to faint and Strong carries her to a couch, sending Wee See out for medicine. He tries vainly to revive her.

In her new and palatial home Beverly is in deep thought and wondering how she can restore Strong's shattered fortune. She feels that in some measure she is to blame for much of his misfortune. She tries, with the aid of her mother, to concoct some scheme to overcome Strong's pride and re-establish him in business. Mother and daughter talk it over and decide to visit Strong in his studio, and make a proposition to him.

They arrive at Strong's studio and find the outer room vacant. Beverly, her heart full

COMMERCIAL WORK AND ANIMATED ADVERTISING

The unexcelled facilities of our Studios and the efficiency of our staff insure best results in developing, printing and coloring. They are a guarantee of satisfaction.

AMERICAN BIOSCOPE COMPANY, INC., 6242 Broadway, Chicago
J. E. WILLIS, Vice-President and General Manager

The services of our trained organization and the use of a fully equipped Modern Studio is yours. WE ARE SPECIALISTS. We are prepared to do Animation and Commercial Work RIGHT. Our Studios can be rented by the day, week or job.

TANKS and RACKS

that give satisfaction
Write for Folder No. 14

Pacific Tank & Pipe Co.
Los Angeles—San Francisco, Ca

of newfound love, starts for his work room to find him. As she opens the door she sees Strong trying to revive Miss Loring from her pretended faint. She closes the door noiselessly and sadly departs, believing the man she loves is false.

PATHE EXCHANGE, INC.

HEARST-PATHE NEWS No. 17 (February 24).

New Orleans, La.—The reign of frivolity holds sway once more as his Majesty Rex arrives aboard the U. S. S. Comanche to open the Mardi Gras Carnival. Subtitles: He receives the keys to the city and then leads the parade of elaborate floats. A large crowd throngs the course of the procession.

Laredo, Mex.—A contingent of Carranza's troops is on hand to guard America's new ambassador, H. F. Fletcher, upon his arrival. Subtitle: The Envoy (second from left) is greeted by prominent officials and General Garcia.

Boston, Mass.—Fast and skillful playing marks the contest between Andover and Exeter for the hockey leadership. Subtitle: Andover wins by the score of 2 to 0.

Erzerum, Asia.—The important Turkish city captured by the Russians after a vigorous campaign over the snow covered Caucasian hills. Subtitles: Much valuable booty is taken by the victorious armies. A large number of prisoners also fall into their hands. The mountains around Erzerum which could not deter the Russians' advance.

Canton, China.—Quaint methods are still employed by the Chinese for transportation on their many narrow streams. Subtitle: Hundreds of little junks line the wharves of the ancient city.

New York City.—The large liner St. Louis of the American line, which is being held in port for possible use as an auxiliary cruiser. Subtitles: The S. S. Philadelphia of the same line which may serve the government. Fears of submarines do not trouble the passengers of the S. S. Chicago, who have full faith in the vessel's gun.

Norfolk, Va.—A non-capsizable lifeboat, which can defy the roughest seas, is tested for use on ships visiting U-boat zone. Subtitle: The boat is operated from the interior.

Columbus, N. M.—The aviators who risked their lives in the treacherous air currents of the Mexican deserts are now prepared to guard against further raids. Subtitles: They make frequent flights over the border territory to watch for the advance of any handits. The desolate nature of the country in which the American troops operated is seen from the aeroplane.

New York City.—Hundreds of women gather at the City Hall to complain against the enormous increase in the cost of necessities. Subtitles: The leaders urge a peaceful but vigorous campaign. Even pushcart purchases cannot reduce the high cost.

HEARST'S PATHE NEWS NO. 18 (Feb. 28).—

New Orleans, La.—A gorgeous array of floats, depicting Nature's bounteous gifts to the State, is a feature of the Carnival. Subtitle: His Majesty Rex, King of Joy and mirth, bids success to the fair visitors.

New York City.—The four-masted schooner Dustin G. Cressy is overturned in the busy harbor by collision with a freighter. Subtitle: Wrecking crews soon set to work to right the vessel.

In the Balkans.—The Entente powers organize for a strong counter-offensive against the Teutons, whose advance has been halted. Subtitles: The men are now accustomed to the precipitous mountain passes. A large contingent of British troops recently arrived to augment the ever-increasing armies.

Salonica, Greece.—The Allied Fleet maintains a vigilant watch over the armies ashore to prevent any secret attack that may be plotted. Subtitles: Wig-wagging instructions from the flagship. The destroyers often plow through heavy seas in the performance of their scout duties.

San Antonio, Tex.—The body of Major-General Frederick Funston, whose untimely death is a sad loss to the country, is taken for interment at Presidio. Subtitles: His favorite charger follows the caisson. A military guard meets the funeral train as it passes through El Paso on its way to the coast. Generals

Non-Break-
able and Sanitary STEEL

HIGH Quality

LOW
Price and CAST
IRON

Opera Chairs

immediate shipment on many styles; Second Hand Chairs; out-of-door seating. Send measurements for FREE SEATING PLAN. Mention this paper.

STEEL FURNITURE CO.

Grand Rapids, Mich.; New York, 150 Fifth Ave.

ADJUSTABLE OPERA CHAIR

Can be changed from adult's chair to child's chair by pressing catch and raising. Write for booklet Family Opera Chair St. Louis, Mo.

EVERYTHING FOR YOUR PLAYHOUSE MACHINES SUPPLIES—REPAIR PARTS

All makes of machines carried in stock. We equip theatres completely.

"The Exhibitors
Mail Order House"

HOMMEL'S

947 PENN AVE.

PITTSBURGH, PA.

PATENTS

Manufacturers want me to send them patents on useful inventions. Send me at once drawing and description of your invention and I will give you an honest report as to securing a patent and whether I can assist you in selling the patent. Highest references. Established 25 years. Personal attention in all cases. WM. N. MOORE, Loan and Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

NOW READY!

MOTION PICTURE
ACCESSORIES

Our new 1917 illustrated supply catalogue. 150 pages. The most complete, elaborate and up to date ever issued by any concern. It's FREE on receipt of ten cents covering parcel post.

Pershing (left), Bell and Mirlin, who attended the services in honor of the departed hero.

Boston, Mass.—A new type of torpedo calculated to outdo the havoc of the U-boat weapon, is completed for the U. S. Navy. Subtitles: Vibrator discs are fitted to the head to direct the deadly missile towards the ship.

New York City.—Threatened with starvation in the midst of plenty and prosperity, thousands of families unite their efforts to stop the bounding cost of foodstuffs. Subtitles: Types of the famine-stricken people who find it difficult to make both ends meet. Large numbers of freight cars made idle in Western terminals by the U-boat campaign, are being rushed east. Governor Charles S. Whitman, who promises relief from the greedy food speculators. Egg cartoon.

PATRIA No. 9 ("Cat's Paw and Scapegoat"—Astra—March 11.)—The cast: Patria (Mrs. Vernon Castle); Donald (Milton Sills); Baron Huroki (Warren Oland.)

Patria and Donald are rescued from the horrors of the Black Tom disaster and go to the latter's apartment, where Anne ministers to their comfort. Rodney Wrenn, the son of Patria's chaperon, and in love with her, visits his apartment and discovers Patria there. Driven wild with jealousy, he insults Donald and flaunts out of the house in a rage. Huroki persuades Rodney to aid Iris Mayne (an adventuress in Huroki's employ) in a scheme to compromise Donald.

Donald is lured to Iris' apartment and Rodney brings Patria to the house so that she may see with her own eyes the unfaithfulness of her lover. But Donald in a masterful way escapes from the trap and walks out as Patria is coming in, free from suspicion. Donald obtains warrants for the arrest of Huroki, De Lima and the rest, charging them with having caused the Black Tom explosion.

Huroki is informed and makes hurried preparations for flight. He causes his house to be dismantled and plants a bomb in the secret passageway he uses to make his escape, so anyone attempting to follow him will be destroyed. Senor De Lima, also in fear of arrest, goes to the house and finds it dismantled with some agents patrolling the street. In his efforts to escape by the secret passageway, the bomb is exploded and the house is wrecked. Donald and the Secret Service men are about to break down the door when the explosion occurs.

MYSTERY OF THE DOUBLE CROSS (No. 1—Two Parts—March 18—Astra Film Corp.)—The cast: Phillipa Brewster (Mollie King); Peter Hale (Leon Barry); Bridget Bentley (Ralph Stuart); Dick Annesley (Gladden James); The Masked Stranger (???).

Peter Hale, a wealthy young man of leisure, returning to America, received a puzzling wireless: "If you have not as yet received the sign of 'The Double Cross' come at once upon your arrival in New York to the Hotel Astor, and there read your father's will."

Peter was surprised. On board among the passengers was "The Mysterious Lady in No. 7." She was not listed and appeared always in a heavy veil and coat, so as to make recognition impossible. Returning unexpectedly from dinner, the evening on which his peculiar wireless arrived, Peter heard a noise in his room. Bursting in he discovered the Mysterious Lady. She restrained him from switching on the lights and dropped her handkerchief on the floor. Bending down to pick it up, Peter found the rug pulled out from under him, sending him sprawling on the floor, while the lady dashed to her own room.

In the meantime, up on deck a panic had been started by the cry of "Submarine." In the excitement that followed Peter, assisting the Mysterious Lady, suddenly discovered the mark of the Double Cross on her right arm. Before he could question her she had fled and he was left as mystified as before. Who was this Mysterious Lady and what was the mark of the Double Cross?

PARAMOUNT PICTURES CORP.

PARAMOUNT-BRAY PICTOGRAPHS (56th Edition—Feb. 25).

How Foundations Under New York Skyscrapers Are Made.—To the hundreds of thousands of New Yorkers daily rushing through the streets of lower Manhattan, the fact that they are literally walking over the heads of hundreds of men busily engaged in digging the newest of New York subways is not realized, but as a

TransVerteR

Automatically supplies only such voltage as is required. No waste of current in ballast.
HERTNER ELECTRIC & MFG. CO.
331 Prospect Ave., Cleveland Ohio U. S. A.

We Have Made Our Name Both a Trade Mark and a Grade Mark
Perfect Developing and Printing
CHICAGO, U. S. A.

Rothacker
FILM MFG. CO. CHICAGO, ILL.

matter of fact a little world of its own exists far below the street level.

In this edition of the Paramount-Bray Pictographs a thrilling exposition of this momentous work is shown. You are taken into the depths of the subway excavations and shown the titanic undertaking which has confronted the engineers in building this subway.

Physical Experiments—A spectacular and highly interesting subject illustrating the remarkable effects produced by rays of light thrown through various kinds of lenses is shown.

Zoological Antics—There are elephants big and small, elephants good and elephants bad, elephants smart and elephants dull, but the smallest, kindest and most intelligent elephant that has condescended to pose for motion pictures is shown in a series of interesting zoological antics in this release.

"Colonel Heeza Liar, Detective," a Bray Cartoon.—Our dear old friend, "Col. Heeza Liar," that little fellow of unending attainments, has set out to be a regular detective, and his experiences along that line of endeavor will be told in this release.

OUT OF THE WRECK (Morosco—Five Parts—March 8).—James Aldrich, honest and respected, is a candidate for United States senator, and his home life is a happy one. The Clarion, a newspaper of opposite politics, casts about for something with which to "get" him. His own life is clean, so it is suggested that they try to learn something of his wife. The services of Ruby Sheldon, whom newspaper work has made into a cynic, are engaged. She goes to a reception given by Agnes, James Aldrich's wife, and recognizes her as Josephine Dargie, who was tried for murder. Agnes also recognizes Ruby as the one unkind face in the court room.

Duncan, managing editor of The Clarion, tells Aldrich he must quit—revealing to him the identity of his wife. Agnes overhears the statement, admits her identity, and tells her story to Aldrich, Duncan and Ruby—of the loss of her parents, of meeting Steve O'Brien, who through kindness wins her love, and how, after their marriage, his incessant drinking plunges them into poverty; how Steve finally attempts to force her into the streets and in a drunken rage tells her he has a wife.

She places a pistol under her pillow and as Steve attempts to kill her she shoots him. She is acquitted at the trial and goes into mission work. It is here that she meets Aldrich. Duncan, Ruby and Aldrich listen, spell-bound, to her story, and Duncan reports to the rival politician that they can find nothing against Agnes Aldrich. The revelation of her life's story only increases the great love of Aldrich for his wife.

FLIVVERING (Kleever Comedy—March 12).—Victor Moore starts out to purchase an automobile. He is confronted by a salesman who offers him a dilapidated "flivver" for $99.99. Vic is enthused, but cannot see his way clear to spend such a vast amount of money. He therefore reverses the card so that the figures become $99.99.

Vic, elated over the happiness he has brought to his family, proceeds homeward to show them his purchase. Mrs. Moore, followed by a group of little Moores, crowds out to view this "new" toy. They glory in anticipation of coming pleasures, while their neighbors, green with envy, sneer at the car and ridicule it.

Having foreseen the necessity of a garage, Vic has already had one built, and, deciding that it is time to store the car for the night, he backs it into the garage, only to find it is not large enough, and in consequence the hood of the flivver projects over the front of the garage. With the conviction that he should have bought a smaller car, and having no alternative, he chains the car to the garage.

The next morning Vic spends $6.66 on accessories, which include an automobile map, and outlines a trip that extends over 300 miles. Even little baby Moore has been supplied with an auto duster and goggles, and they are ready to start.

Vic proceeds to get the car out of the garage. He cranks the car and it starts toward him, taking garage and all. His neighbors rejoice at his plight. He finally succeeds in untangling himself and ushers his family into the car. No sooner seated comfortably than he discovers the horn is out of order and rushes into the house and comes back with the "family parrot." "Friend wify" discovers she has forgotten to take the baby's milk, which is boiling on the gas stove, and Vic rushes to get it. He finds the milk boiling over and in trying to save it gets his fingers scalded.

He again gets into the car. He starts the machine and has not gone over six feet when it stalls, and he is compelled to "get out and get under." He gets a cinder in his eye, which forces him to shut both eyes, and one of the little Moores starts the car accidentally.

Vic is unaware that the car is no longer over him. A rag man coming down the street stations himself over Vic's body. Vic succeeds in

STAR CARBONS

MADE IN FRANCE

The carbons you have been looking for

THE following letter was recently received from a theatre using Star Carbons:—

"Carbons received from you work fine and wish you would send by express 50 ½x12 plain cored.

"As soon as I get my theatre started at Ahoskie I will have to have some more of the same kind."

The following dealers stock Star Carbons and you can obtain from them the carbons you have been looking for. Try them with a trial order.

- S. B. LELAND,
97 State St., Montpelier, Vt.
- M. P. MACHINE CO.,
129 Pleasant St., Boston, Mass.
- STERN MFG. CO.,
1023 Race St., Philadelphia, Pa.
- PALMORE & HOMAND,
412 E. Lexington St., Baltimore, Md.
- A. N. FELDSTEIN,
294 Theodore St., Detroit, Mich.
- THE H. LIEBER CO.,
24 W. Washington St., Indianapolis, Ind.
- KANSAS CITY MACHINE & SUPPLY CO.,
813 Walnut St., Kansas City, Mo.
- SWANSON & NOLAN SUPPLY CO.,
1744 Curtis St., Denver, Colo.
- WARING & FINCK,
1014 Third Ave., Seattle, Wash.
- BRECK PHOTOPLAY SUPPLY CO.,
79 Turk St., San Francisco, Cal.
- EASTERN NEW MEXICO THEATRE SUPPLY CO.,
Clovis, New Mexiko.
- QUEEN FEATURE SERVICE,
Potter Bldg., Birmingham, Alabama.

If you cannot obtain sizes you desire from these dealers, send us your order direct, and we will ship you trial order in lots of not less than fifty to a size, by express, C.O.D. All prices f.o.b. New York.

1"x12 plain cored.....Prices on application
¾"x12 plain cored.....Prices on application
¾"x12 plain cored.....$11.00 per 100
¾"x12 plain cored.....$8.40 per 100

JONES & CAMMACK

SOLE IMPORTERS
Cor. Bridge and Whitehall Sts.
New York City

getting the cinder out of his eye. Through a hole in the rag man's wagon Vic pulls out old shoes and clothes and begins to realize what he imagines is the matter with his automobile. The rag man starts again and comes into contact with Vic's body.

Vic gets up, sees his family far down the road, and starts after the blivver. He catches up with it just as the engine stalls. Vic decides he has had enough of automobiling and orders his family to assist in "pushmobiling" home.

CASTLES FOR TWO (Lasky—Five Parts—March 15).—The cast: Patricia Calhoun (Marie Doro); Brian O'Neil (Elliott Dexter); Patricia's Secretary (Mamye Kelso); Brian's Sisters (Jane Wolff, Harriett Sorenson and Lillian Leighton); Brian's Mother (Julia Jackson); Neough (Horace B. Carpenter); Callahan (Billy Elmer); Nanny (Marie Mills).

Brian O'Neil, a poor Irish lord, has recently come into the title and lands of Kileuddy, and his sisters decide that he must marry for money to save the estates. Patricia Calhoun, a wealthy American heiress, tiring of the butterfly life which her position forces her to lead, leaves suddenly for Ireland with her Irish nurse. She conceives the idea of changing places with her secretary. She hears from Lord Brian O'Neil's tenants tales of poverty caused by his high rents, and gives them money, forming a great dislike for the man who is supposed to be so oppressive.

Nagged continually by his sisters, Brian endeavors to propose to the supposed heiress, but fails dismally. In the meantime, he rescues Patricia from a tree where she has taken refuge from a cow. She airs her views of Lord O'Neil's methods, and he finally discloses his identity. However, Patricia and the secretary keep up the deception and the innocent Brian falls into the snare of the roughish Patricia, and also in love with her, still believing her to be only a menial. In a burst of confidence Brian tells Patricia that he must marry the rich American to save his estates.

Patricia plans a party for the O'Neils. Brian steals a few moments with her alone, then presents himself at the front door and is admitted with all due formality by Patricia herself in maid's costume. Excusing himself a little later, he again seeks out Patricia, or Clutie, as she is known to him, tells her he wants to marry her, goes back and breaks the news to his mother and sisters, who are horrified. Patricia hurriedly slips into a beautiful evening gown and jewels, enters the room with great dignity, and Brian, taking in the situation, withdraws his offer of marriage. Patricia takes Brian's mother into her arms and tells him that she and his mother will decide the matter.

SELZNIC PICTURES.

THE PRICE SHE PAID (February).—The cast: Mildred Gower (Clara Kimball Young); Mrs. Gower (Louise Beaudet); Frank Gower (Cecil Fletcher); Presbury (Charles Bowser); General Siddall (Snitz Edwards); Stanley Baird (Alan Hale); Donald Keith (David Powell).

At the death of John Gower, his widow and daughter, Mildred, find themselves with only a few thousand dollars, as the family lived almost up to the limit of Gower's income. Mildred's mother tells her it is necessary that she marry money. Mildred is fond of Stanley Baird, but her hopes in this direction are shattered by the announcement of his engagement to another woman. Mrs. Gower marries Presbury, an elderly man who thinks she is wealthy, and when he learns the truth he begins taunting Mildred until she is willing to do anything to escape from her humiliating position.

Presbury arranges a marriage between Mildred and a multimillionaire, General Siddall. The bride soon discovers that while her husband will buy anything for her she wants, so that he can make an impression upon the world with her beauty, he will not give her any money. This forces her to realize that she is hardly more than a piece of furniture in the General's establishment. She leaves him, and meeting Baird learns that he and his wife have separated. He undertakes to furnish her with funds for the cultivation of her voice for an operatic career, with the hope that one day they will be free to marry.

Mildred makes slow progress. Her voice is good but uncertain. She meets a young lawyer, Donald Keith, who tells her that she will never succeed because she is too fond of luxury and ease.

Meanwhile she discovers through Keith's investigation that she was not legally married to General Siddall, as his first wife was still living, confined in an insane asylum. The General has made many attempts to get her to come back to him, but she refuses. Finally she declines to take any more money from Baird, and by economy, self denial and hard work succeeds in her musical ambition. Having achieved her independence she is now free to choose between Stanley Baird and Donald Keith, to both of whom she owes a debt of gratitude. Her choice is a happy one, and leaves the story of the life of this typical American girl perfectly rounded out.

TRIANGLE FILM CORP.

SEVEN DEADLY SINS NO. 6 ("Wrath"—Five parts—McClure—Mar. 5).—The cast: Grand Duke and Feodor (H. B. Warner); Evo Leslie (Shirley Mason); Adam Moore (George Le Guere); Evelyn Burnham (Edith Hallar); John Burnham (Charles Wellesley); Olga, his daughter (Thea Talbott); Count Nikolai (George Arvine); Ashraf Abdallah (John Nicholson). Directed by Theodore Marston.

The Grand Duke is governor of Transcaspia, a Russian province, bordering the desert of Kara-Koom. His son Feodor, spurning Count Nikolai's daughter, Olga, loves Evelyn Burnham, an American girl whom he rescues from Abdallah, a Turk, who has kidnapped her. Evelyn and Feodor are married and, trying to escape, are captured. Feodor is sent to prison for trying to desert his post and Evelyn is sent to New York, where a child is born to her.

Sixteen years later the great war is on. Feodor believes his wife is dead. He is sent to New York to buy ammunition and there meets Eve Leslie and Adam Moore. Eve has just learned that all her fortune comes from the manufacture of munitions. She does not believe in war and shuts down her enormous plant, depriving the Russians of one of their chief sources of supply.

Feodor returns to Russia. While he was in the United States his wife, who had been told he was dead, had seen him with Olga and believed he had married Olga.

Eve hears of Evelyn and of the child. She and Adam have heard from Feodor his story. All messages to Feodor are intercepted and Eve and Adam, with Evelyn, go to find him in Transcaspia.

There exciting events occur. Feodor is about to wed Olga. Eve learns that Evelyn is her own mother. The Turks attack the Russians. Eve is near death, but Adam and Feodor, coming to the rescue in an armored motor with machine guns, save the day, and in the end love triumphs over wrath.

VILLA OF THE MOVIES (Mack Sennett—Two Parts—March 11).—Peggy and Bobby are preparing breakfast for Slim, the star boarder. Slim tries to make love to Peggy and her husband becomes jealous. The landlord calls and threatens to throw them out next day if the rent is not paid. Peggy and Bob have words over Slim and the latter runs away. He meets a messenger from Villa's army, who shows him where he has some powder cached under a tree. Just as Slim is preparing to deliver the powder two guards approach and the messenger hurries across the boundary.

Bob catches up with Slim and asks him for the money for the rent. Slim tells Bob that the powder in the box is lace, and if he will carry it across the border he will get the rent money. Bob takes the box and is arrested as a smuggler. Bob goes to Villa's camp and is made an officer; Slim gets into camp, and the epaulettes are removed from Bob's shoulders and placed on Slim's. Peggy is captured and brought into the camp, but makes her escape.

Bob is scheduled to be shot at sunrise and Slim desires to do the shooting. Peggy is on her way with the rescue party. Slim misses Bob, who sails away on the cannon toward the rescuers. Villa is disgusted with Slim's marksmanship and shoots at him; the powder explodes and Slim takes refuge in the corner where the powder has been hidden. Slim goes across the line, where the United States sheriff arrests him as a smuggler. On one side is Villa with epaulettes begging him to accept a commission, and on the other is the sheriff with handcuffs waiting to arrest him. Slim looks at Villa, bids him good-by and turns toward the United States.

A LOVE SUBLIME (Fine Arts—Five Parts—March 11).—The cast: Philip (Wilfred Lucas); the girl (Carmel Myers); the professor (Fred Turner); the sculptress (Alice Rae); her husband (George Beranger); Piney the rat (Jack Brammall); the policeman (James O'Shea); the little red doctor (Bert Woodruff).

Philip, a Greek, works in a rolling mill. Near at hand is a small restaurant where Philip and other mill hands eat. They are waited on by a little French waitress with whom Philip falls in love. Being in poor health, however, she refuses to accept him. She leaves a note for Philip and goes to the home of a girl friend in a nearby city.

Philip follows, finds his love and, seeing she is too ill to work, engages rooms for her and himself in a neat rooming house. He gets work on the docks, when a sculptress, having seen and admired his strength, gets him to pose for her.

At the studio he comes in contact with the husband and friends of the sculptress, among them "The Little Red Doctor," who asks why a big, strong man like Philip does not get suitable work, instead of posing. Philip tells of his sweetheart and the doctor insists upon seeing her. He tells Philip it is imperative the girl go to a hospital, and she is taken to one.

Philip calls each day to see her.

A gangster, injured in a fight, makes trouble one day in the hospital because he cannot get cigarettes. Philip gets some and has his sweetheart's nurse smuggle them to the gangster. Later the gangster learns who it is that is smuggling in the smokes and never loses his interest in the girl.

Philip and the girl had seen "La Boheme" together. So every midnight he steals beneath her window and plays softly on his flageolet. Going to the hospital one morning, Philip is informed that his sweetheart died during the night. The big Greek starts in to mussy up the hospital, is arrested and sent to jail for two months.

Released from jail, Philip hurries to his old rooming house and takes both the rooms he and the girl occupied, hoping some day she may come back to him. He also continues his nightly playing in the park. An old professor of languages, seeing him one night, learns his story. The professor recalls the story of "Orpheus," who lured his sweetheart from Hades by his playing.

Some gangsters, headed by Piney the Rat, attack the policeman one night, but he beats them off with Philip's aid. Later one of the gang recognizes Philip, the gang is called, and Philip is attacked. Friends of the sculptress, the doctor one of them, hearing the row, hasten to the rescue. The battle ends with the police in control and Philip and Piney badly hurt. The doctor attends the wounded men and takes the Rat to his house.

The Rat plans to stab Philip as the one who beat him up. He asks for a cigarette, gets one like those the girl used to slip him and becomes Philip's friend. The sculptress, having gone to the hospital to find the girl, learns she really recovered. The girl and sculptress by appointment meet the Rat that evening and the gangster recognizes her as the one who got him those nice smokes. The girl, being told that Philip had returned to Greece, became a probation nurse at the hospital. The professor sends for Philip and when he comes he is told the girl is living. The two are reunited.

THE LITTLE BROTHER (Kay Bee—Five Parts—March 11).—The cast: Jerry Rose (Enid Bennett); Frank Girard (William Garwood); Janet Girard (Josephine Headley); Dulcie Hayes (Dorcas Matthews); Dillon (Carl Ullman).

Jerry Ross, bright, lovable daughter of the East Side tenements, is "little mother" and homemaker for her Uncle Dan Burke and his boys, Ben and Tony. Jerry is about fourteen and the boys are near the same age. Uncle Dan is a sailor, and during his long cruises the children have to shuffle for themselves.

Jerry not only looks after the boys, but "little mothers" half the waifs of the tenement. The few pennies that support her charitable enterprise are earned by selling papers on the street. Even these are hard to gain and Jerry recognizes that in a rough and tumble struggle for life skirts are a handicap. So one day she trims her curls and sallies forth in the discarded vest and pants of Tony. This departure does not bring immediate success, as poor Jerry is chased from the street corners by jealous competitors. In a free for all fight with other newsies a window is smashed and Jerry is hauled up before the magistrate in the Children's Court.

In this court Jerry is paroled in charge of a "Big Brother," Frank Girard, who promises to do all he can do to help the promising lad. The "big brother" lives up to his word, and takes Jerry to his country house and proceeds to make a man of her. Girard is an expert on mineralogy and is engaged in a series of experiments for extracting opals by a chemical process from their native rock. The work in the laboratory fascinates Jerry, who in her worship of the big brother does everything in her power to aid him in his research.

And then a great blow falls. Girard is summoned to Mexico to take up his experimental work at the mines. He provides handsomely for Jerry by sending her—or him, as he supposes—to a leading co-educational college. Arriving at the college Jerry's well kept secret leaks out and she is transferred to the girls' side of the institution. As years go on, Jerry, with the thought of the big brother ever present, works with all her might on special branches of mineralogy and obtains the highest honors in the gift of the college.

In the meantime, Frank's work is being held up by successive failures in experiments at the mines, and hearing of Jerry's great achievement wires for his protegee to join him. Jerry sets out for Mexico and Frank, who is anxiously waiting, is greeted at the depot by a fascinating young girl, who explains to the bewildered big brother that she is not a little brother but a little sister.

Frank's experiments have brought him to the verge of ruin and the story has to deal with the exploits of the watchful Jerry, who saves the big brother from ruin, discovers the long lost formula for extracting the opals from the matrix, foils a burglar and a matrimonial adventuress and repays a debt of gratitude by entering into a life partnership with the big brother.

You Buy a Projection Screen Plus

When You Purchase a RADIUM Gold Fibre Screen

The "Plus," or extra value, is represented by the service we give you, the guarantee that accompanies our goods, and the assurance you are bound to have that our product will give complete satisfaction.

The RADIUM GOLD FIBRE SCREEN is the most widely advertised of all motion picture projection surfaces. It has a reputation to sustain. It is manufactured and sold by a company solidly financed—a company able and willing to make good on every business promise it makes.

Perhaps you're one of the many who feel the need of a new screen but regard it as too much trouble to make the change. Let us show you how easy it is. Send us the dimensions of your theatre, the length of the throw and let us do the worrying for you.

RADIUM GOLD FIBRE SCREEN, Inc., 220 West 42d St., New York

Canadian Distributors—J. T. MALONE FILMS, Inc., Rialto Theatre Bldg., Montreal; ALLFEATURES, Ltd., 56 King St., W., Toronto.

Classified Advertisements

NOTE TERMS CAREFULLY

Remittances must accompany all orders for classified advertisements as follows: One dollar per insertion for copy containing twenty words or less. Five cents per word on copy containing over twenty words. Each word to be counted including names and addresses.

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS:—The Publishers expect that all statements made in every advertisement will bear the strictest investigation.

HELP WANTED.

WANTED—First-class piano player in Paramount house. Give references, experience and salary. Six hours' work daily. Royal Theater, Calumet, Mich.

MANAGER wanted for theater with best clientele. Must be up to the minute in every detail; only such need apply. Carr & Shad, Inc., Reading, Pa.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES.

FOR SALE—Motion picture studio and plant. Full equipment, large building and land. At Fairfax, California, one hour from San Francisco. Wonderful climate, beautiful scenery. California, care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

THEATERS FOR SALE OR RENT.

FOR SALE—Movie picture theater, Princeton, Indiana, town ten thousand, brick building, 27x110 feet, two story, two machines, fully equipped. Only picture show in town. Situated Public Square; rent $75.00 month; will sell cheap. Jno. O. Sprowl, care The May Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

LA RAY THEATER in Salem, New Jersey, at public sale, in front of Court House at Salem, New Jersey, at 3 P. M., March 17, 1917. LaRay is a modern, fireproof moving picture theater, of five hundred and eighty seats, all in first floor, mirror screen, one Simplex and one Power's 6A, both motor drive, motor generator set; nicely equipped with electric fans, toilets, etc. Town of over seven thousand people and connected with the DuPont Powder Works at Carney's Point by new trolley road. Sale is made to close partnership and will be positive. Wm. S. Ray.

MOVIE—A wonderful opportunity, Utica, N. Y., one of the fastest growing towns in New York State. Population nearly ninety thousand. This is a residential house, with a seating capacity of eight hundred. Magnificently equipped, immense population to draw from. This theater is now conducted entirely by hired help. Under personal management the profits should run from one hundred to one hundred fifty week. We offer this five-year lease for five thousand. Might consider a partner with three thousand. Lewis, Movie Broker, 580 Ellicott Sq., Buffalo, N. Y.

EQUIPMENT WANTED.

WE BUY all makes of moving picture machines. What have you? Monarch Film Service, 223 Union Ave., Memphis, Tenn.

EQUIPMENT FOR SALE.

FOR SALE—Slightly used Simplex projectors, guaranteed perfect and good as new, at reasonable prices. Second-hand Motiograph in good condition, cheap. Room 206, 1482 Broadway, N. Y. City.

BARGAINS—Slightly used Simplex, Power's and Motiograph machine. Lowest prices—fully guaranteed. Hallberg, 729 Seventh Ave., N. Y. City.

WHY DOES Richardson recommend "Amberlux" lens filters? Write and find out particulars. Price, with slide, $3.50. W. D. Warner, 8 E. Broad St., Columbus, Ohio.

POWER'S 6B, 6A, 6. Simplex type B and type S. Edison Exhibition model B, model D. Motiograph and three master model standard machines. All in perfect condition, can be obtained at low prices. National Carbons, 6x12 in., $6.00 per hundred; 3x12 in., $7.76 per hundred. Call or write to-day. Picture Theater Equipment Co., 1604 Broadway, N. Y. City.

POWER'S 6A hand drive, $110.00, and Power's 6A motor drive, $150.00. Both excellent condition. Ship collect, privilege examination. J. F. Gattelle & Co., 231 Main St., Springfield, Mass.

OPERA CHAIRS—300 twenty-inch, 65c each. 450 lot, 40c each, splendid shape. 3,000 others, 60c up. Atlas Seating Co., 10 East 43d St., N. Y. City.

3,000 OPERA CHAIRS, steel and cast frames, 60c. up. All serviceable goods, cut prices on new chairs. Six standard asbestos booths. Send for weekly list of close outs and save half. J. P. Redington, Scranton, Pa.

FOR SALE—476 green colored, veneered, picture show chairs with ball-bearing hinge. Cost $2.75 each. Will sell for $1.00 each. Also ozone machine and side light fixtures. J. B. Elliott, Mgr., Strand Theater, Lexington, Ky.

FOR SALE—Two Power's picture machines, first-class condition, model 6. Bargains. Cash. Sbyer, Ninth St., Chattanooga, Tenn.

1,600 FOLDING CHAIRS, all wood, all or any portion at 35c each. 400 steel frame folding chairs, veneered seat and back, at 60c each. 2 moving picture Power's 6A machines, used one year, one fully equipped, $150.00; one head only, $50.00. Delthe Theater, 1361 Mack Ave., Detroit, Mich.

REAL BARGAINS in used projectors. Motiograph, complete outfit, fine lamp house rheostat and lens. Cast iron stand, our price $110.00. Peerless portable projector. Complete outfit with lens and rheostat, price $35.00. Latest type Victor Animatograph, motor or hand driven. Motor attached, fireproof and very new. Extremely portable, price $110.00. Each machine guaranteed. David Stern Co., 1047 S. Madison St., Chicago, Ill.

CAMERAS, ETC., WANTED.

WANTED to trade Ithaca double shot gun, $125.00 grade, for moving picture camera. Correspondence exchanged; or will buy second camera. Address Amateur Plays, Box 6, Atlanta, Ga.

CAMERAS, ETC., FOR SALE.

PROFESSIONAL CAMERAS, tripods, perforators, printers, developing outfits, rewinders, Tessars, effects, devices, novelties, experimental workshop, repair, expert film work, titles. Eberhard Schneider, 14th St. & Second Ave., N. Y.

PATHE PROFESSIONAL, six magazines, two leather carrying cases, Veeder counter, metal fittings, genuine bargain. 1007 Times Bldg., N. Y. City.

KINOGRAPH, 150 foot, F:3.5 lens, only $60.00. Panorama tripod and tilt, $20.00. Projector, $30.00. Ray, 326 Fifth Ave., N. Y. City.

KINOGRAPH, 200 foot enclosed magazines, F:3.5 lens, heavy tripod with panorama and tilt. Watkins exposure meter, set Power's rewinders. Price, $90.00, $45.00 cash, balance privilege examination. Funda, 452 S. Warren, Syracuse, N. Y.

FOR SALE—Pathe professional outside magazine camera, Heliar 4-5 lens, metal fittings throughout, two extra magazines, Goerz outside diaphragm, shutter dissolve, adjustable frame line, POSITIVELY NO STATIC. Perfect condition, nearly new. $625.00. V. K. Walker, 2858 Race St., Denver, Col.

ALAMO moving picture camera, tripod, hooded view finder, two extra magazines, almost new. Price, $40.00. Wm. Leucht, Jr., 2405 So. 6th, St. Joseph, Mo.

BE PREPARED! NOW IS THE TIME TO GET YOUR MOTION PICTURE CAMERA. DAVID STERN COMPANY OFFER BEST VALUES, SERVICE AND VARIETY. EVERY STYLE FROM 100 FT. MODELS TO STUDIO CAMERAS. TRADE IN YOUR OLD CAMERA

FOR THE NEWEST MODEL. A PARTIAL LIST OF CAMERAS ON HAND—ENSIGN CINEMATOGRAPH, 100 FT. CAPACITY, CARL ZEISS TESSAR F:3.5 lens, Panoramic and tilting top tripod, and two extra magazines. PRICE COMPLETE, $72.50—VISTA M. P. CAMERA, 150 ft. capacity, Zeiss Tessar lens, Reflecting focusing device, two extra magazines. PRICE COMPLETE, $60.00—ERNEMANN M. P. CAMERA, ERNON F:3.5 lens, PRODUCES FINE NEGATIVES. PRICE, $57.50—PATHE, 400 ft. capacity, old model, HELIAR F:4.5 lens, fine mechanism, two extra magazines. PRICE COMPLETE, $85.00—EBERHARD SCHNEIDER M. P. CAMERA, 200 ft. capacity, Zeiss Tessar lens, F:3.5. PRICE, $95.00—U. S. CINEMATOGRAPH M. P. CAMERA, 400 ft. capacity, all adjustments, ideal for studio work, tricks and illusions. Zeiss Tessar lens, and extra magazines. PRICE COMPLETE, $250.00—LATEST MODEL PATHE NO. 2, INSIDE MAGAZINES, TESSAR LENS F:3.5, two extra magazines. PRICE, $150.00—LATEST MODEL UNIVERSAL. THE CAMERA FOR ALL PURPOSES. LIST, $300.00. WRITE FOR SPECIAL PROPOSITION ON THE UNIVERSAL—THE LATEST MODEL, DAVSCO, 200 ft. capacity, standard film, weight 10½ lbs., MECHANISM EQUAL TO ANY CAMERA, TESSAR LENS F:3.5, ALUMINUM MAGAZINES. PRICE, $110.00—$375.00, U. S. ELECTRIC PRINTER, COMPLETE, OUR PRICE, $150.00—TALBOT'S PRACTICAL CINEMATOGRAPHY: THE HANDBOOK for the beginner. Postpaid, $1.35—ADVERTISING BY MOTION PICTURES: full of money-making ideas. Postpaid, $1.60. ANY CAMERA SHIPPED C. O. D. PRIVILEGE OF EXAMINATION ON RECEIPT OF $10.00 DEPOSIT. YOUR MONEY REFUNDED IN FULL IF NOT SATISFACTORY. TELEGRAPHIC ORDERS SHIPPED SAME DAY IF DEPOSIT IS WIRED. WRITE FOR OUR COMPLETE CATALOG. JUST OFF THE PRESS. YOURS FOR THE ASKING. DAVID STERN COMPANY, "EVERYTHING IN CAMERAS," 1047 R. MADISON ST., CHICAGO, ILL.

FILMS, ETC., WANTED.

"PILGRIM'S PROGRESS," "Parsifal" and other classic films. State condition, lowest price, paper, cuts, photos. Ray, 25 Clinton St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

WANTED—Posters all sizes, photos and slides for "Satan" and "Salambo." Also good copy "Passion Play," with plenty paper. Alarcon & Mejia Borja, 508 So. El Paso St., El Paso, Tex.

CAPTURE of a Wildcat, Otter studies and animal films wanted. State condition and lowest price. C. C. Johnston, 25 Howard St., Augusta, Me.

FILMS, ETC., FOR SALE.

"EAST LYNNE," 6 reels; "The Lure," 5 reels; "An American Gentleman," 5 reels; "For $5,000 a Year," 5 reels, all in first class condition, full line of posters. Bargains. Queen City Feature Film Co., 109 W. Fifth St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

SEND FOR list and prices of single, two reel, three reel, four and five reel films with and without posters. Fine condition. Prominent screen stars. Jas. A. Hoon, 225 Fifth Ave., N. Y. City.

PENDLETON ROUND-UP—Typical frontier days show. New and used prints. Hauck Feature Film Co., 294 East 56th St., Portland, Ore.

FOR SALE—One thousand reels, singles and features, sacrificed prices. Peerless Feature Attractions, Seattle, Wash.

FOR SALE 200 reels, $2.00 and up, also Chaplins. Wichita Film Supply Co., Wichita, Kans.

This is what a classified advertisement in the Moving Picture World did for one firm: "Our reason for asking you to discontinue our classified ad is due to the fact we thought we were still running in your magazine on account of the many inquiries we had been receiving up to the last few days." Advertisement had not appeared for over three weeks when they wrote the above.

INDEX

TO CONTENTS

Advertising for Exhibitors.....	1763	General Films' New Series.....	1786	New York Legislative Hearing.....	1754
Amusement Statistics.....	1776	"Gift Girl, The" (Bluebird).....	1758	No Additional Tax on Exhibitors.....	1749
Arbuckle Warmly Received in Philadelphia.....	1801	"Girl in Number 7, The" (Pathe).....	1756	Ontario Ticket Tax Nets Half Million.....	1803
At Leading Picture Theaters.....	1754	"Girl Who Lost, The" (Red Feather).....	1761	Our Exchange Department and Its Editor.....	1748
Author Manages Theater Chain.....	1797	Higher Rates Get as Good Houses.....	1808	Photoplaywright, The.....	1766
"Barricade, The" (Rofe).....	1761	Horkheimer to Make Mutual Series.....	1786	Pittsburgh News Letter, Week of March 1.....	1799
Bilbo, Governor, Seeks Revenue.....	1748	I. A. T. S. E. Meets in Cleveland.....	1802	"Poor Little Rich Girl," (Artcraft).....	1760
"Blood Will Tell" (Triangle).....	1760	Indiana Favors Sunday Pictures.....	1752	Popular Pictures Personalities.....	1778
"Border Wolves" (Red Feather).....	1761	Indianapolis Alhambra to Seat 1,400.....	1804	Portland, Ore., Two Bits Admission in.....	1810
British Notes.....	1777	"Inspirations of Harry Larrabee, The" (Fortune).....	1759	"Pots and Pans Peggy" (Pathe).....	1756
"Burning the Candle" (Essanay).....	1755	"In the Web of the Spider, The" (Kalem).....	1759	Pretty, Arline, Leading Lady to Fairbanks.....	1750
Calendar of Daily Program Releases.....	1814	Kansas City Entertains "Fatty".....	1750	Prevent Loss of Film, To.....	1751
California Exhibitors Busy.....	1751	K-E-S-E Feature Every Week.....	1784	Projection Department.....	1767
"Castles for Two" (Lasky).....	1757	Leslie, Gladys, The Girl With the Million Dollar Smile.....	1783	Rockford's Mayor Wants No Sunday Shows.....	1804
Chicago News Letter.....	1780	Lillian Dimples.....	1753	Salon Habana, Curaco's Best Theater.....	1749
Clenner Theater Celebrates Birthday.....	1810	List of Current Film Release Dates 1832, 1834, 1836, 1838.....	1756	San Francisco, More Seats in.....	1809
Coleman, Cherie.....	1785	"Lonesome Luke" (Pathe).....	1760	Says the New York Globe.....	1746
Colorado and Censorship.....	1752	"Love Sublime, A" (Triangle).....	1760	Screen to Aid the Government, The.....	1748
Comments on the Films.....	1787	Manufacturers' Advance Notes.....	1789	Seiznick Buys State Rights.....	1786
"Cupid's Puzzle" (Metro).....	1757	"Melting Millions" (Fox).....	1760	Spoken from the Hub.....	1775
"Dancer's Peril, The" (World).....	1755	"Mentioned in Confidence" (Fortune).....	1759	Stories of the Films.....	1819
Dreams and Visions.....	1747	Metro Films Concealed in Canada.....	1811	Taking a Chance.....	1747
Educational Pictures in Regular Shows.....	1806	Michigan Censorship, Second Hearing on.....	1805	Texas Amusement Bliis, Two New.....	1806
Educational Efficiency.....	1779	"Money Mill, The" (Pathe).....	1756	"Those Without Sin" (Lasky).....	1757
Excise Law, Buffalo Exhibitors Welcome.....	1801	Motion Picture Educator.....	1772	To Open Studio in Month.....	1785
Facts and Comments.....	1745	Motion Picture Exhibitor, The.....	1751	Triangle Official Clears "Big T" Situation.....	1753
Fairbanks Begins Work.....	1783	Motion Picture Photography.....	1770	Triangle Takes Over Producing Interests.....	1784
"Fate of Juan Garcia, The" (Kalem).....	1759	Music for the Picture.....	1771	"Trip Through China, A" (China Film).....	1761
Fifteen "Brady-Mades".....	1785	News of Los Angeles and Vicinity.....	1782	Will Have Auto Pick Up Films.....	1800
"Fighting Gringo, The" (Red Feather).....	1758			With the N. A. M. P. I.....	1753
Flight For an American Film.....	1754			"Woman in the Game, The" (Metro).....	1757
"Flag Despoiler, The" (Pathe).....	1756			"Wrath" (McClure).....	1757
Forum Films to Open Exchanges.....	1749

TO ADVERTISERS

CARBONS AND CARBON ACCESSORIES.		Forum Films, Inc.....	1730	Kinematograph Weekly, The.....	1823
Jones & Cammack.....	1827	Fox Film Corp.....	1706	Kraus Mfg. Co.....	1825
Speer Carbon Co.....	1841	Friedman Enterprises, Inc.....	1714	Moore, Wm. N.....	1826
CHAIR AND SEATING MANUFACTURERS.		Gaumont Co.....	1715	Motion Picture Directory Co.....	1839
Foco Chair Co.....	1826	General Film Co.....	1742	M. P. Electricity.....	1837
Steel Furniture Co.....	1826	Goldwyn Pictures Corp.....	1724-25	National Ticket Co.....	1840
ELECTRICAL & MECHANICAL EQUIP.		Grafton Film Publishing Co.....	1824	"Organist," c/o M. P. World.....	1839
Amusement Supply Co.....	1840	Horsley, David, Productions.....	1718	Pacific Tank & Pipe Co.....	1825
Bel & Howell Co.....	1823	Kalem Co.....	1744	Preddey, W. G.....	1823
Calehuff Supply Co.....	1840	K-E-S-E, Inc.....	1739	Rialto Theatre Supply Co.....	1835
Erker Bros.....	1837	Kleine, George.....	1738	Richardson, F. H.....	1839
Fulton, E. E.....	1839	Klever Pictures, Inc.....	1707	Richardson's M. P. Handbook.....	1840
Hallberg, J. H.....	1842	Mabel Normand Feature Film Co.....	1734	Rothacker Film Mfg. Co.....	1826
Hertner Electric & Mfg. Co.....	1826	Mack Sennett-Keystones.....	1735	Standard M. P. Co.....	—
Hommel, Ludwig, & Co.....	1826	Metro Pictures Corp.....	Colored Insert	Superior Films Co.....	1825
Langstadt-Meyer Co.....	1796	Moss, B. S., Motion Pictures Corp.....	1704-05	Williams, A. F.....	1824
Lucas Theatre Supply Co.....	1826	"Mothers of France".....	1719	Willis & Ingalls.....	1822
Porter, B. F.....	1823	Mutual Film Corp...Colored Inserts (2), 1716-7		MOVING PICTURE CAMERAS.
Strellinger, Chas. A.....	1823	National Drama Corp.....	1824	Burke & James, Inc.....	1823
Swaab, Lewis M.....	1821	Pathe Exchange, Inc., The.....	Colored Insert	MUSIC AND MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.
Typhoon Fan Co.....	1840	Paramount Pictures Corp.....	1707-09	American Photo Player Co.....	1822
Universal Motor Works.....	1839	Rex Beach Pictures Co., Inc.....	1703	Deagan, J. C.....	1843
Wagner Electric Mfg. Co.....	1835	Selig Polyscope Co.....	1743	Schirmer, G., Inc.....	1851
Westinghouse Electric & Mfg. Co.....	1833	Seiznick, Lewis J., Enterprises.....	1728-29	Sinn, Clarence E.....	1824
FILM EXCHANGES.		Triangle Film Corp.....	1731-33	POSTERS AND FRAMES.
Bradenburgh, G. W.....	1840	Universal Film Mfg. Co.....	1700-02, 1815	Menger & Ring.....	1822
LENS MANUFACTURERS.		World Film Corp.....	1726-27	PROJECTION MACHINE MANUFACTURERS.
Crown Optical Co.....	1835	MISCELLANEOUS.		American Standard M. P. Mch. Co.....	1822
MANUFACTURERS OF MOVING PICTURES.		American Bioscope Co.....	1825	Enterprise Optical Mfg. Co.....	1831
Arrow Film Corp.....	1736-37	Automatic T. S. & C. R. Co.....	1835	Power, Nicholas, Co.....	1844
Artcraft Pictures Corp.....	1710-12	Automatic Reel Co.....	1824	Precision Mch. Co.....	1833
Art Dramas, Inc.....	1720-22	Bioscope, The.....	1840	PROJECTION SCREEN MANUFACTURERS.
Benjamin Chapin Studios.....	1698	Cahill-Igoe Co.....	1840	Castle & Rowley.....	1837
Bluebird Photoplays, Inc.....	1816-17	Cine Mundial.....	1841	Genter, J. H., Co., Inc.....	1841
Cardinal Film Corp.....	1713	Classified Advertisements.....	1829	Gold King Screen Co.....	1796
Christie Film Co.....	1723	Corcoran, A. J.....	1823	Minusa Cine Products Co.....	1839
Ciune Producing Co.....	1724	Duhem Motion Picture Mfg. Co.....	1839	Radium Gold Fibre Screen, Inc.....	1828
Essanay Film Mfg. Co.....	1699, 1740-41	Eastman Kodak Co.....	1837	THEATRICAL ARCHITECTS.
Enlightenment Photoplays Corp.....	1812-13	Erbograph Co.....	1822	Decorators' Supply Co.....	1841
		Evans Film Mfg. Co.....	1822
		Gunhy Bros.....	1839
		Il Tirso Cinematografo.....	1839
		Kassel, M.....	1822
		Keystone Ticket Co.....	1822

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

To Exhibitors and Moving Picture Musicians:

On January 22nd the Supreme Court of the United States handed down a decision making it unlawful to publicly perform for profit a copyrighted musical composition without payment of a performing fee to the owner of the copyright.

In response to numerous inquiries regarding our attitude in this matter we have decided and do hereby announce that we shall not exact an additional fee for the public performance of our publications, but that payment of the purchase price shall be considered to include the performing fee. In other words, possession of a G. Schirmer publication implies a license to perform it anywhere, at any time, as often as desired without any further liability.

3 East 43rd Street,
New York.

G. SCHIRMER (INC.)

Music Publishers.

Ask the Men Who Know

If you have tried a thing under exacting conditions and FOUND IT STOOD THE TEST, then you know what you are talking about.

Read what the Bronx Amusement Co. says about the MOTIOGRAPH—

THE BRONX AMUSEMENT CO.

Cleveland, O., Feb. 13, 1917.

Enterprise Optical Mfg. Co.,
Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen:

It is with extreme pleasure that I take this opportunity of advising you of the exceptional results and satisfaction which we have received from the two Motiograph machines which we installed in our Bronx Theatre over eighteen months ago.

Altho our theatre opens at eight o'clock in the morning and runs continuously till eleven at night, being reputed to be the hardest grind in the city, yet we have not had a particle of trouble of any nature with your machines and they have never failed to produce perfect results in a most satisfactory manner.

Thanking you for the many courtesies extended us, we are,

Yours very truly,

BRONX AMUSEMENT CO.

By A. K. Trakas, Pres.

This is only one of the many endorsements of the IMPROVED MODEL MOTIOGRAPH.

Then profit by the experience of others by saving several hundred dollars on the original cost and at the same time get a perfect projector.

The Enterprise Optical Mfg. Co.

574 W. Randolph St., CHICAGO, ILL.

Western Office: 833 Market St., San Francisco, Cal.

Hand-driven
Equipment
$255.00

Motor-driven
Equipment
$305.00

List of Current Film Release Dates

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Page 1814.)

BIOGRAPH.

	(Serial No.)
The Conscience of Hassan Bey (Re-issue—Drama)	21545
His Wife's Story (Reissue—Two parts—Drama)	21549
Two Men of the Desert (Reissue—Drama)	21571
The Rehearsal (Reissue—Two parts—Drama)	21579

ESSANAY.

The Little Missionary ("Black Cat Feature"—Two parts—Drama).....	21637-38
One on Him (Comedy), and Scenic on same reel	21640
The Sinful Marriage (Sixth of "Is Marriage Sacred?"—Two parts—Drama)	21651-52
What Would You Do? "Black Cat Feature"—Two parts—Drama).....	21660-61
Animated Nooz Pictorial, No. 23 (Cartoon Comedy), and Alaskan Scenic on same reel	21663
The Magic Mirror (Seventh of "Is Marriage Sacred?"—Two parts—Dr.)....	21671-72
Three Ways Out ("Black Cat Feature"—Two parts—Drama)	21682-83
Mr. Wright in Wrong (Comedy).....	21685
Is Marriage Sacred? (No. 8, "Shifting Shadows"—Two parts—Drama).....	21696-97
The Hooded Story ("Black Cat Feature"—Two parts—Drama)	21706-7
Animated Nooz Pictorial No. 24 (Cartoon Comedy)	21709
Alaskan Scenic on Same Reel.....	21709
Is Marriage Sacred? (No. 9, "Desertion and Non-Support"—Two parts—Drama)	21715-16
The Lighted Lamp (Black Cat Feature—Two parts—Drama).....
All in a Day (Cartoon Comedy), and an Alaskan Scenic on same reel
Is Marriage Sacred? (No. 10, "Ashes on the Hearthstone"—Two parts—Drama).....
A Four-Cent Courtship (Black Cat Feature—Two parts—Drama).....
Animated Nooz Pictorial, No. 25 (Cartoon Comedy), and British Columbia (Scenic).....
The Extravagant Bride (No. 11 of "Is Marriage Sacred?"—Two parts—Drama).....
The Invisible Web (Black Cat Feature—Two parts—Drama).....
Tiny, Slim and Fat (Cartoon Comedy), and British Columbia Scenic on same reel
Is Marriage Sacred? (No. 12, "The Vanishing Woman"—Two parts—Drama).....
The Five Dollar Bill (Black Cat Feature—Two parts—Drama).....
Animated Nooz Pictorial No. 26 (Cartoon Comedy) and Educational on same reel
The Pulse of Madness (No. 13 of "Is Marriage Sacred?"—Two parts—Drama).....

FORTUNE PHOTOPLAYS.

"Inspiration of Harry Larrabee" (Four parts—Drama).

"Mentioned in Confidence" (Four parts—Dr.).

KALEM.

The Homesteader's Feud (No. 23 of "The Girl from Frisco"—Two parts—Drama)	21641-42
The Black Circle (No. 14 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama)	21645
The Wrecked Station (No. 115 of "The Hazards of Helen"—Drama).....	21653
The Blundering Blacksmiths (Com.)..	21662
Wolf of Los Alamos (No. 24 of "The Girl from Frisco"—Two parts—Dr.)	21664-65
The Violet Ray (No. 15 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama)	21668
The Railroad Claim Intrigue (No. 116 of "The Hazards of Helen"—Dr.)....	21676
The Safety Pin Smugglers (Comedy) ..	21684
The Dominion of Fernandez (No. 25 of "The Girl from Frisco"—Two parts—Drama)	21686-87
The Net of Intrigue (No. 16 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama)	21693
The Death Siding (No. 117 of "The Hazards of Helen"—Drama).....	21700
Ghost Hounds (Comedy).....	21708
The Trap (No. 17 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama)	21712
The Prima Donna's Special (Drama)...	21717
The Model Janitor (Comedy).....
Winged Diamonds (No. 18 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama).....
The Sidetracked Sleeper (No. 119 of "The Hazards of Helen"—Drama).....
A Flyer in Flapjacks (Comedy).....
The Screened Vault (No. 19 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama).....
The Black Rider of Tasajara (an episode of "The American Girl"—Two parts—Drama).....
In the Path of Peril (an episode of "A Daughter of Daring"—Drama).....
The Mirror of Fear (an episode of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama).....
Efficiency Experts (Comedy).....

SELIG.

The Making of Bob Mason's Wife (Dr.)	21633
Delayed in Transit (Two parts—Com.)	21633-34
Selig-Tribune No. 5 (Topical).....	21636
Selig-Tribune No. 6 (Topical).....	21643
Cupid's Touchdown (Comedy).....	21654
On Italy's Firing Line (Three parts—Drama)	21655-56-57
Selig-Tribune No. 7 (Topical).....	21659
Selig-Tribune No. 8 (Topical).....	21666
The Luck That Jealousy Brought (Dr.)	21677
Lost and Found (Two parts—Dr.)....	21678-79
Selig-Tribune No. 9 (Topical).....	21681
Selig-Tribune No. 10 (Topical).....	21688
The Saddle Girl (Drama).....	21701
Cupid's Thumb Print (Two parts—Drama)	21702-3
Selig-Tribune No. 11 (Topical).....	21705
Selig-Tribune No. 12 (Topical).....	21710

A Strang Adventure (Drama).....	21718
The Redemption of Red Mullin (Two parts—Drama).....
Selig-Tribune No. 13 (Topical).....
Selig-Tribune No. 14 (Topical).....
For Reward of Service (Comedy—Drama).....
The Great Treasure (Two parts—Drama).....
Selig-Tribune No. 15 (Topical).....
Selig-Tribune No. 16 (Topical).....
A Brother's Sacrifice (Drama).....
Selig-Tribune No. 16 (Topical).....
Selig-Tribune No. 17 (Topical).....
An Actress' Romance (Two parts—Drama).....
No Place Like Home (Comedy).....

VIM FEATURE COMEDY.

It's All Wrong (Comedy).....	21670
The Other Girl (Comedy).....	21689
A Job for Life (Comedy).....	21694
Nora Declares War (Comedy).....
The Newlyweds' Mistake (Comedy).....
Happy Nat's Dilemma (Comedy).....
Art and Paint (Comedy).....
Harry's Pig (Comedy).....
Seeing Double (Comedy).....
This Is Not My Room (Comedy).....
A Deal in Furniture (Comedy).....
Deep Stuff (Comedy).....
Willie Walrus Pays Alimony (Comedy).....
In Stump Land (Comedy).....
Wanted, a Bad Man (Comedy).....

VITAGRAPH.

The Burlesque Blackmalters (6th of "The Dangers of Doris" Comedy Drama—Broadway Star Feature)....
His Little Spirit Girl (Comedy).....	21699
The Valley of Lost Hope (Three parts—Drama)	21673-74-75
The Gang (No. 7 of "The Dangers of Doris"—Comedy—Drama—Broadway Star Feature)
The Seventh Son (Drama).....
The Footlight Lure (No. 6 of the "Dangers of Doris"—Comedy—Drama).....
Missing (Two parts—Drama).....
The Meeting (Drama).....
The Gang (No. 7 of the "Dangers of Doris"—Comedy—Drama).....
Up and Down (No. 8 of "The Dangers of Doris"—Comedy—Drama).....
Dimple's Baby (Two parts—Comedy—Drama).....

BROADWAY STAR FEATURE.

The Dangers of Doris (No. 9, "The Old Fourth Ward"—Comedy—Drama).....
Dimples, the Diplomat (Two parts—Drama).....

KNICKERBOCKER STAR FEATURE.

The Room of Mystery (Three parts—Drama)	21648-49-50
Crossed Trails (Three parts—Dr.)....	21690-91-92
The Beloved Vampires (Three parts—Drama).....

OFFICIAL WAR FILMS, INC.

February—The War.

KNOWLEDGE BRINGS SUCCESS

Messrs. Exhibitor, Exchangeman, Operator, and Film Men Everywhere:—The moving picture business is one of the youngest but one of the leading industries of the world to-day. We may well be proud to be connected with it. Are you keeping up? Do you know all about it? It will yield larger returns for an equal amount of work to the men who know. Each weekly issue of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD contains more up-to-date information than you can get from all other sources. Subscribe now if not already on our mailing list. You will get your paper hours earlier than from the newsstand and it costs less.

ONE YEAR.....$3.00
SIX MONTHS.....$1.50

See title page for rates Canada and Foreign

MOVING PICTURE WORLD

17 Madison Avenue, New York

Cut out and mail

Theatre

ONE OF THE MANY ACCOMPLISHMENTS OF

Simplex PROJECTORS

At least Seventy-five Per Cent. of the Installations of SIMPLEX PROJECTORS during the last five years have replaced other makes of motion picture machines.

THINK what this MEANS as an ASSURANCE of the SUPERIORITY of

Simplex Projectors

This is CONCLUSIVE EVIDENCE of MERIT and clearly shows that

Simplex Projectors

are winning on points, uniting all the elements of perfect projection.

BE YOUR OWN JUDGE.

WE INVITE COMPARISON.

Put a SIMPLEX alongside of your present machine and you will see why SIMPLEX attained such remarkable results.

THE PRECISION MACHINE CO. INC.

317 East 34th St. New York

Westinghouse

NEW MISSION THEATRE - SAN FRANCISCO

Overheard
in the Lobby

"I prefer to come here because the pictures don't flicker and glare." This is said of every house that uses

Westinghouse Motion Picture Equipment

It changes the alternating current into the direct current you need to produce superior pictures.

Our engineers will be glad to assist in the solution of your electrical problems.

Westinghouse Electric & Mfg. Company

East Pittsburgh,
Pa.

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON UNIVERSAL AND MUTUAL PROGRAMS

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Page 1814.)

Universal Film Mfg. Co.

ANIMATED WEEKLY

Feb. 21—Number 60 (Topical).
Feb. 28—Number 61 (Topical).
Mar. 7—Number 62 (Topical).
Mar. 14—Number 63 (Topical).
Mar. 21—Number 64 (Topical).

BIG U.

Feb. 15—The Half-Breed's Confession (Drama).
Feb. 22—The Man Who Saved the Day (Two Parts—Drama).
Feb. 23—Heroes of the Plains (Drama).
Mar. 2—A Battle of Wits (Two parts—Dr.).
Mar. 4—Buried Alive (Drama).
Mar. 7—A Soldier's Dream (Drama).
Mar. 8—Good for Nothing Gallagher (Drama).
Mar. 15—For Honor's Sake (Drama).
Mar. 18—The Hidden Danger (Two parts—Dr.).
Mar. 25—The Rebel's Net (Drama).

BISON.

Feb. 17—John Osborn's Triumph (Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 24—The Come Back (Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 3—The Tornado (Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 10—The Drifter (Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 17—Roped In (Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 24—Goin' Straight (Two parts—Drama).

GOLD SEAL.

Feb. 13—The Indian's Lament (Three parts—Drama).
Feb. 20—The Great Torpedo Secret (Three parts—Drama).
Feb. 27—Mary from America (Three parts—Comedy—Drama).
Mar. 6—Desperation (Three parts—Drama).
Mar. 13—The Common Sin (Three parts—Dr.).
Mar. 20—The Raid (Three parts—Drama).

IMP.

Mar. 1—An Hour of Terror (Drama).
Mar. 2—Evil Hands (Drama).
Mar. 4—Tangled Threads (Two parts—Dr.).
Mar. 9—The Perils of the Secret Service (Episode No. 1, "The Last Cigarette"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 11—The Man of Mystery (Two parts—Dr.).
Mar. 14—Sins of a Brother (Drama).
Mar. 16—The Perils of the Secret Service (Episode No. 2, "The Clash of Steel"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 23—The Perils of the Secret Service (No. 3, "The Dreaded Tube,"—Two parts—Drama).

JOKER.

Feb. 3—His Coming Out Party—Comedy).
Feb. 10—Out for the Dough (Comedy).
Feb. 17—Mule Mates (Comedy).
Feb. 24—Rosie's Rancho (Comedy).
Mar. 3—Passing the Grip (Comedy).
Mar. 10—Wanta Make a Dollar (Comedy).
Mar. 17—Art Aches (Comedy).
Mar. 24—Whose Baby? (Comedy).

LAEMMLE.

Feb. 17—Broken Hearted (Drama).
Feb. 21—Sin Unatoned (Drama).
Mar. 3—Undoing Evil (Drama).
Mar. 8—The Human Flame (Drama).
Mar. 14—Where Glory Waits (Two parts—Dr.).
Mar. 17—Racing Death (Drama).
Mar. 21—Old Faithful (Drama).

L-KO.

Jan. 24—The Battle of "Let's Go" (Two parts—Comedy).
Jan. 31—Faking Fakers (Two parts—Com.).
Feb. 7—That Dawgone Dog (Two parts—Dr.).
Feb. 14—The End of a Perfect Day (Comedy).
Feb. 16—Brave Little Waldo (Comedy).
Feb. 21—After the Balled Up Ball (Two parts—Comedy).
Feb. 28—Spike's Blizzy Bike (Two parts—Com.).
Mar. 7—Fatty's Feature Fillum (Two parts—Comedy).
Mar. 14—Summer Boarders (Comedy).
Mar. 16—Love on Crutches (Comedy).
Mar. 21—Defective Detectives (Two parts—Comedy).

NESTOR.

Feb. 5—His Wife's Relatives (Comedy).
Feb. 12—A Hasty Hazing (Comedy).
Feb. 19—Down Went the Key (Comedy).
Feb. 26—A Million in Sight (Comedy).
Mar. 5—A Bundle of Trouble (Comedy).
Mar. 12—Some Specimens (Comedy).
Mar. 19—When the Cat's Away (Comedy).
Mar. 23—In Again, Out Again (Comedy).

POWERS.

Feb. 25—A Day in the Life of a Dog (Cartoon—Comedy).
—The Buried Treasures of Ceylon (Dorsey Educational).
Mar. 4—Mr. Fuller Pep—An Old Bird Pays Him a Visit (Cartoon Comedy).
—The Land of Buddha (Dorsey Edu.).
Mar. 11—Mr. Fuller Pep—His Day of Rest (Cartoon Comedy).
—The Mysterious City (Dorsey Educational).
Mar. 18—The Tail of Thomas Kat (Cartoon Comedy) and Foreign Legations in China (Dorsey Educational).
Mar. 22—The Strangest Army in the World (War Special).
Mar. 25—The Love Affair of Ima Knutt (Cartoon—Comedy), and Artistic China and Japan (Dorsey Educational).

RED FEATHER.

Jan. 20—Love Adame (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 5—Me and M' Pal (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 12—The Terror (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 19—The War of the Tongs (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 26—The Girl and the Crisis (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 5—The Gates of Doom (Five parts—Dr.).
Mar. 12—The Girl Who Lost (Drama) and Border Wolves (Five parts—Dr.).
Mar. 19—The Scarlet Crystal (Five parts—Dr.).

REX.

Feb. 11—In the Shadows of Night (Drama).
Feb. 22—The Keeper of the Gate (Drama).
Feb. 25—Lost in the Streets of Paris (Drama).
Mar. 1—The Rented Man (Two parts—Dr.).
—The Funicular Railway of the Niesen (Edu.).
Mar. 8—The Amazing Adventure (Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 11—It Makes a Difference (Drama).
Mar. 24—The Boyhood He Forgot (Drama).
Mar. 25—The Grudge (Two parts—Drama).

VICTOR.

Feb. 22—The Heart of Mary Ann (Comedy—Drama).
Feb. 23—A Bare Living (Comedy).
Feb. 27—A Novel Romance (Comedy—Drama).
Mar. 1—They Were Four (Comedy).
Mar. 6—Good Morning Nurse (Comedy).
Mar. 9—The Beauty Doctor (Comedy).
Mar. 13—A Woman in the Case (Comedy).
Mar. 15—Dorothy Dares (Two parts—Comedy).
Mar. 20—Black Magic (Comedy), and Landmarks of France (Scenic).
Mar. 22—The Hash House Mystery (Two parts—Comedy).

UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE.

Mar. 2—Number 8.
Mar. 9—Number 9.
Mar. 16—Issue No. 10 (Educational).
Mar. 23—Issue No. 11 (Educational).

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE.

Feb. 25—The Purple Mask (Episode No. 9, "A Strange Discovery"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 4—The Purple Mask (Episode 10, "The House of Mystery"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 11—The Purple Mask (Episode No. 11, "The Garden of Surprise"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 18—The Purple Mask (Episode No. 12, "The Vault of Mystery"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 18—The Voice on the Wire (Episode No. 1, "The Oriental Death Punch"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 25—The Purple Mask (Episode No. 13, "The Leap"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 25—The Voice on the Wire (Episode No. 2, "The Mysterious Man in Black"—Two parts—Drama).

Mutual Film Corp.

AMERICAN.

Mar. 2—Calamity Anne's Protege (Comedy).
Mar. 3—Cupid and a Brick (Comedy—Drama).
Mar. 10—The Tell Tale Arm (Drama).
Mar. 10—The Homicide's Weapon (Drama).
Mar. 17—The Lonesome Mariner (Drama).
Mar. 17—A Ram-Bunctious Endeavor (Comedy).

CUB.

Feb. 8—Jerry's Big Raid (Comedy).
Feb. 15—Jerry's Big Mystery (Comedy).
Feb. 22—Jerry's Brilliant Scheme (Comedy).
Mar. 1—Jerry's Romance (Comedy).
Mar. 8—The Flying Target (Comedy).
Mar. 15—Jerry's Triple Alliance (Comedy).

NIAGARA FILM STUDIOS.

Feb. 21—The Peril of Our Girl Reporters (Episode No. 9, "Misjudged"—Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 28—The Peril of Our Girl Reporters (No. 10, "Taking Chances"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 7—The Peril of Our Girl Reporters (No. 11, "The Meeting"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 14—The Perils of Our Girl Reporters (No. 12, "Outwitted"—Two parts—Dr.).

GAUMONT.

Mar. 6—Tours Around the World, No. 18 (Subjects on reel: Munich, Germany; Schonbrunn Castle; Vienna, Russia; Bulgaria—Travel).
Mar. 7—See America First, No. 78 (Subjects on reel: Oregon's Rocky Coast—Scenic; and "Rastus Runs Amuck"—Cartoon Comic).
Mar. 8—Reel Life, No. 45 (Subjects on reel: From Trapper to Ueater; Stimulating the Appetite of the Tired Business Man; Artistic Vases; The Pelican Mutual—Film Magazine).
Mar. 13—Tours Around the World, No. 19 (Subjects on reel: The Oasis of Gades, Sahara Desert; Koursk, Siberia—Travel).
Mar. 14—See America First, No. 80 (Subjects on reel: On the Mississippi River from New Orleans to Baton Rouge (Scenic), and "They Say Pigs is Pigs" (Cartoon Comic).
Mar. 15—Reel Life, No. 46 (Subjects on reel: A Club-Rifle for the Police; The Fluid of Life (blood under microscope); Making the Cactus Useful; Gold Mining in Alaska; Sprites of the Moonlight (Dance).

MONOGRAM

Feb. 19—The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton, No. 6 (Shorty Promotes His Love Affair—Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 26—The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton (No. 7, "Shorty Hooks a Loan Shark"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 5—The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton (No. 8, "Shorty Traps a Lottery King"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 12—The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton (No. 9, "Shorty Trails the Moon-shiners"—Two parts—Drama).

MUTUAL.

Jan. 26—Uncle Sam's Defenders, No. 4 "Afloat and Ashore" (Topical).
Feb. 2—Scouts of the Sea and Sky (No. 5 of "Uncle Sam's Defenders" (Top.).
Feb. 9—Uncle Sam's Defenders, (No. 6, "Bulldogs of the Deep" (Topical).

MUTUAL WEEKLY.

Feb. 14—Number 111 (Topical).
Feb. 21—Number 112 (Topical).
Feb. 28—Number 113 (Topical).
Mar. 7—Number 114 (Topical).
Mar. 14—Number 115 (Topical).
Mar. 21—Number 116 (Topical).
Mar. 28—Number 117 (Topical).

(Mutual Releases continued on page 1836.)

Are You Consistent?

You are using better projection machines than it was possible to obtain a few years ago, but are you using better projection lenses?

A projector is no better than its lens, and for a new, modern machine you should have a lens, which, both in its optical and mechanical features, represents the very latest progress in the science of projection.

Marlux

The Marlux combines extreme brilliancy and sharpness of definition with ease and accuracy in focusing, and requires but a minimum of attention from the operator.

See your Dealer or write direct to

CROWN OPTICAL COMPANY
Rochester, N. Y.

Want More Patrons?

You had better look to your projection—direct current—white light—apparatus your operator can get the best results from, that's what brings patrons and keeps them coming.

Talk this over with your operator. Ask him about the advantages of direct current, more and better light for less money.

Then ask your lighting company about the simplicity of the white light converter and about Wagner Quality apparatus.

Send for Bulletin 10923.

Wagner Electric
Manufacturing Company, St. Louis, Mo.

381

MR. EXCHANGE MAN—

We manufacture the famous

HILL FILM SHIPPING CASE

Over 250 exchanges in the United States are using them,

ARE YOU?

This is what the Minneapolis Postmaster thinks of it:

January 18, 1917.

Rialto Theatre Supply Company,
731 Hennepin Avenue,
Minneapolis, Minn.

Gentlemen: I have examined the container for motion picture films which you have shown me and believe it to fulfill the specifications of the Department for use in shipping such films by parcel post.

Very truly yours,
E. A. PURDY,
Postmaster.

They come in 8 sizes to take care of shipments of from 1 to 8 reels.

RIALTO THEATRE SUPPLY CO.

Distributors to the Northwest

S. A. LOUIS

731-733 Hennepin Avenue, Minneapolis, Minn.
N. W. Nicollet 1868

First Impressions Count

Cater to your patrons by giving them proper box office service. The BEST way is the AUTOMATIC way. Over one billion tickets now sold annually through the AUTOMATICKET REGISTER.

Write at once for full particulars.

Automatic Ticket Selling and Cash Register Company

1737 Broadway
New York

Please send illustrations describing your AUTOMATICKET REGISTER used in Moving Picture Theatres throughout the country. It is understood that this does not obligate me in any way.

Name

.....

Address

.....

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON FEATURES AND MISCELLANEOUS PROGRAMS

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Page 1814.)

(Mutual Releases continued from page 1834.)

MUTUAL CHAPLIN.

December—The Rink (Two parts—Comedy).
Jan. 22—Easy Street (Two parts—Comedy).

MUTUAL SPECIAL.

Dec.—Charity (Seven parts—Drama).
Feb. 12—Damaged Goods (American—Revised Edition—Seven parts—Drama).

MUTUAL STAR COMEDY.

Jan. 6—The Girl Who Can Cook (Comedy).
Jan. 13—The Honeymooners (Comedy).

MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTIONS.

Feb. 5—Where Love Is (Five parts—Drama) (No. 168).
Feb. 19—The Gentle Intruder (American—Five parts—Drama) (No. 170).
Feb. 26—The Greater Woman (Powell—Five parts—Drama) (No. 151).
Mar. 5—The Girl from Rector's (Five parts—Drama—No. 172).
Mar. 12—My Fighting Gentleman (Five parts—Drama).

VOGUE.

Feb. 18—Lured and Cured (Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 25—The Butcher's Nightmare (Two parts—Comedy).
Mar. 4—A Rummy Romance (Two parts—Comedy).
Mar. 10—His Bogus Boast (Two parts—Com.).
Mar. 17—A Matrimonial Shock (Two parts—Comedy).

Metro Pictures Corporation.

POPULAR PLAYS AND PLAYERS.

Jan. 29—Bridges Burned (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 26—The Secret of Eve (Five parts—Dr.).

COLUMBIA PICTURES CORP.

Jan. 8—A Wife by Proxy (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 22—Threads of Fate (Five parts—Dr.).
Feb. 5—The End of the Tour (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 12—The Mortal Sin (Five parts—Drama).

ARTHUR JAMES.

Feb. 12—One of the Many (Five parts—Dr.).

YORKE FILM CORP.

Mar. 19—The Hidden Children (Five parts—Drama).

ROLFE.

Dec. 15—The Awakening of Helena Richie (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 15—The White Raven (Five parts—Dr.).
Mar. 5—The Barricade (Five parts—Drama).

SERIAL PRODUCING CO.

Feb. 12—The Great Secret (Episode No. 6—"The Dragon's Den"—Two parts—Dr.).
Feb. 19—The Great Secret (Episode No. 7—"The Yellow Claw"—Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 26—The Great Secret (Episode No. 8—"A Clue from the Klondike" (Drama)).
Mar. 5—The Great Secret (Episode No. 9, "Cupid's Puzzle"—Two parts—Dr.).
Mar. 12—The Great Secret (Episode, No. 10—Two parts—Drama).

METRO COMEDIES.

Feb. 12—Winning an Hellress (Rolma—Comedy).
Feb. 19—Her Obsession (Drew—Comedy).
Feb. 26—Reliable Henry (Drew—Comedy).
Mar. 5—Modern Romance (Rolma—Comedy).
Mar. 12—Locked Out (Drew—Comedy).
Mar. 19—The High Cost of Living (Drew Comedy).

Paramount Pictures Corp.

BLACK DIAMOND COMEDY.

Jan. 8—Braving Blazes (Comedy).
Jan. 22—He Did It Himself (Comedy).
Feb. 19—Her Scrambled Ambition (Comedy).
Mar. 5—Speed (Comedy).

FAMOUS PLAYERS.

Jan. 18—A Girl Like That (Five parts—Dr.).
Feb. 26—The Fortunes of Fia (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 12—Sapho (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 19—The Dummy (Five parts—Drama).

KLEVER COMEDY.

Jan. 1—He Meant Well (Comedy).
Jan. 15—Did It Ever Happen to You (Comedy).
Jan. 29—The Honeymoon Honeymoon (Comedy).
Feb. 5—The Sleep Walker (Comedy).
Feb. 12—He Got There After All (Comedy).
Feb. 26—Some Doctor (Comedy).

LASKY.

Feb. 15—The American Consul (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 19—Winning of Sally Temple (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 22—On Record (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 1—Those Without Sin (Five parts—Dr.).
Mar. 5—Castles for Two (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 15—The Prison Without Walls (Five parts—Drama).

MOROSCO AND PALLAS.

Jan. 11—The Happiness of Three Women (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 29—His Sweetheart (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 1—The Wax Model (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 8—Her Own People (Five parts—Dr.).
Mar. 8—Out of the Wreck (Five parts—Dr.).

PARAMOUNT-BURTON HOLMES.

Feb. 26—Exquisite Lake Louise (Scenic).
Mar. 5—The Yoko Valley (Scenic).
Mar. 12—On the Great Glacier (Scenic).
Mar. 19—Through Canadian Canyons (Scenic).

PARAMOUNT-BRAY PICTOGRAPHS.

Feb. 26—56th Edition (Subjects on reel: Colonel Heeza Liar, Detective—Cartoon Comedy); Swapping Foundations Under Sky-Scrapers; Experiments With Light Rays (Educational).
Mar. 5—57th Edition (Subjects on reel: Bobby Bumps Adopts a Turtle—Cartoon Comedy); Industrial Paradise; Flitting Heads to Hats; Birdland Romance (Educational).

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

ASTRA.

Feb. 18—Pearl of the Army (Episode No. 12, "The Foreign Alliance"—Two parts—Drama—Astra).
Feb. 25—Pearl of the Army (Episode No. 13—"Modern Buccaneers"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 4—Pearl of the Army (No. 14, "Flag Despoiler"—Two parts—Astra—Dr.).
Mar. 11—Pearl of the Army, No. 15 ("Colonel's Orderly"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 18—The Mystery of the Double Cross (Episode No. 1, "The Lady in No. 7"—Two parts—Drama).

GOLD ROOSTER.

Feb. 18—Her Life and His (Thanbouser—Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 25—Crime and Punishment (Arrow—Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 4—Her Beloved Enemy (Thanbouser—Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 11—The Empress (Popular Plays and Players—Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 18—Pots and Pans, Peggie (Thanbouser—Five parts—Drama).

PATHE.

Feb. 18—Florence Rose Fashions, No. 19 (Fashions—Picturesque Algeria—Province of Constantine (Scenic)).
Feb. 25—Florence Rose Fashions, No. 20 (Fashions).
—Bursting Buds (Educational).
Feb. 25—How "Patent" Medicines Are Made (Educational).
Feb. 25—Max's Vacation (Comedy).
Mar. 4—Florence Rose Fashions, No. 21 (Morning Hours) (Fashions).
—Picturesque Catalonia (Spain) (Colored Scenic).

Mar. 11—Florence Rose Fashions, No. 22, "As the Day Wanes" (Fashions), and "Birds of Gay Plumage" (Parakeets) (Colored Educational).
Mar. 18—Florence Rose Fashions, No. 23 (Fashions), and Nomads of the North (Lapland) (Educational).

COMBITONE.

Mar. 18—Know America, the Land We Love—Southern California (Scenic).

HEARST-PATHE NEWS.

Mar. 10—Number 21 (Topical).
Mar. 14—Number 22 (Topical).
Mar. 17—Number 23 (Topical).
Mar. 24—Number 24 (Topical).
Mar. 25—Number 25 (Topical).

INTERNATIONAL.

Feb. 18—Jerry Saves the Navy (Cartoon Com.).
—Old Glory in the Far East (Scenic).
Feb. 25—Patria No. 7—"Red Fawn" (Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 25—Sbarks Is Sharks (Cartoon Comedy).
—Uncle Sam's Wards (Educational).
Mar. 4—Bringing Up Father, "A Hot Time in the Gym" (Cartoon Comedy).
—Winter in Yellowstone Park (Scenic).
Mar. 4—Patria (Episode No. 8—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 11—Patria No. 9 (Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 18—Patria (Episode No. 10, "War in the Dooryard"—Two parts—Drama).

MITTENTHAL.

Mar. 4—Deep-Dyed Villainy (Comedy).
Mar. 11—Hokey Heroes (Comedy).

ROLIN.

Feb. 11—Skinny's Love Tangle (Comedy).
—Schemer Skinny's Scandal (Comedy).
Feb. 18—Lonesome Luke—Lawyer (Comedy).
Feb. 25—Luke Wins Ye Lady Faire (Comedy).
Mar. 18—Lonesome Luke's Lively Life (Two parts—Comedy).

Triangle Film Corporation.

FINE ARTS.

Feb. 4—Jim Bludso (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 11—The Girl of the Timber Claims (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 18—The Bad Boy (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 25—Stage Struck (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 4—Betsy's Burglar (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 11—A Love Sublime (Five parts—Drama).

KAY-BEE.

Feb. 4—The Crab (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 11—The Gunfighter (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 18—A Princess of the Dark (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 25—The Last of the Ingrabams (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 4—Back of the Man (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 11—The Little Brother (Five parts—Dr.).

TRIANGLE KOMEDY.

Feb. 11—His Deadly Undertaking (Comedy).
Feb. 18—The Telephone Belle (Comedy).
Feb. 18—When Hearts Collide (Comedy).
Feb. 25—A Bachelor's Finish (Comedy).
Feb. 25—Done in Oil (Comedy).
Mar. 4—Her Cave Man (Comedy).
Mar. 4—A Film Exposure (Comedy).
Mar. 11—Caught With the Goods (Comedy).
Mar. 11—Hobbled Hearts (Comedy).

MACK-SENNETT KEYSTONES.

Feb. 18—Stars and Bars (Two parts—Comedy).
Feb. 25—Maggie's First False Step (Two parts—Comedy).
Mar. 4—Her Circus Knight (Two parts—Com.).
Mar. 11—Villa of the Movies (Two parts—Com.).
Mar. 18—Dodging His Doom (Two parts—Com.).

SUPERPICTURES, INC.

Feb. 5—Seven Deadly Sins—"Pride" (Five parts—McClure Pictures—Drama).
Feb. 12—Seven Deadly Sins—"Greed" (McClure Pictures—Five parts—Dr.).
Feb. 19—Seven Deadly Sins—"Sloth" (McClure Pictures—Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 26—Seven Deadly Sins, "Passion" (McClure—Five parts—Drama).

The audience is always right.

They want not only a good picture play but a clear picture.

Because of its basic qualities, the clearest pictures are on

Eastman Film

Identifiable by the stencil mark in the margin.

EASTMAN KODAK COMPANY,
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

MOTION PICTURE ELECTRICITY

By J. H. HALLBERG

THIS WORK COVERS

ELECTRICITY
ELECTRIC SERVICE
ELECTRICAL EQUIPMENT
PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS
REFERENCE TABLES, ETC.

An up-to-date treatment of Moving Picture Theater Electric Installation and Projection, by a practical, experienced, electrical expert.

Illustrated and Substantially Bound. 280 Pages.
$2.50 per Copy. Postage Paid.

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
17 Madison Avenue New York

SPEER CARBONS

1/2 x 12 Solid, per 100.....	$3.50
5/8 x 12 Solid, per 100.....	4.20
5/8 x 12 Cored, per 100.....	4.50
3/4 x 12 Cored, per 100.....	6.00

TERMS: CASH WITH ORDER

ERKER BROS. OPTICAL CO.
608 Olive Street, St. Louis, Mo.
SEND FOR THEATRE SUPPLY CATALOG

GOLDENLITE

hasn't a drop of silver in its manufacture. Made with a Mineral. Shines like a mirror without any glare. It's Gold in color. No Flicker, no eye strain. Brings out all the natural colors of the film, saves you Juice and Carbon.

Once up, always up. Unchangeable in color. Not a drop of paint in GOLDENLITE Gold Fibre.

Goldenlite

*The Screen
De Luxe*

Washable
Pliable

Ask the Dealer who has one. Write us.

CASTLE & ROWLEY
MANUFACTURERS
1113 Chestnut St., St. Louis, Mo.

$4.80 A Big Saving Each Year $4.80

On account of the greatly increased cost of paper, engraving, etc., we have been compelled to make the single copy price fifteen cents. For the present direct subscription prices will remain the same. This means a saving of four dollars and eighty cents yearly on direct subscriptions. In addition you get your paper earlier. It will pay you to fill out this blank and mail at once with your remittance.

ONE YEAR.....	$3.00
SIX MONTHS.....	$1.50

See title page for rates Canada and Foreign

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
17 Madison Avenue, New York

Cut out and mail

Please Fill in the Name of Your Theatre.....

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON FEATURES AND MISCELLANEOUS PROGRAMS

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Page 1814.)

Feature Releases

ART DRAMAS, INC.

Feb. 15—The Adventurer (U. S. Amusement Co.—Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 22—The Moral Code (Erbograph—Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 1—Pride and the Devil (Apollo Pictures, Inc.—Drama).
Mar. 8—The Cloud (Van Dyke—Drama).

ARTCRAFT PICTURES CORP.

Mar. 5—A Poor Little Rich Girl (Drama).

BIOGRAPH COMPANY.

Jan.—Her Condoned Sin (Six parts—Drama).

BLUEBIRD PHOTOPLAY, INC.

Feb. 19—The Man Who Took a Chance (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 26—The Saintly Sinner (Five parts—Dr.).
Mar. 5—The Boy Girl (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 5—Hell Morgan's Girl (Five parts—Drama—Special Release).
Mar. 12—Mutiny (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 19—Polly Redhead (Five parts—Drama).

CARDINAL FILM CORP.

December—Joan, the Woman (Eleven parts).

CHRISTIE FILM CO.

Feb. 19—Hubby's Night Out (Comedy).
Feb. 15—Bride and Gloom (Two parts—Special Release—Comedy).
Feb. 26—Kidding Sister (Comedy).
Mar. 1—Out for the Coin (Two parts—Com.).
Mar. 5—As Luck Would Have It (Comedy).
Mar. 12—His Flirting Ways (Comedy).
Mar. 19—Sauce for the Goose (Comedy).

DIXIE FILM CORP.

December—Just a Song at Twilight (Five parts—Drama).
Dec.—Tempest and Sunshine (Five parts—Dr.).
Drama).

EDUCATIONAL FILM CORPORATION.

Feb. 19—The Living Book of Nature ("American Bears"—Educational).
Feb. 26—The Living Book of Nature ("Foreign Deer"—Educational).
Mar. 5—The Living Book of Nature ("The Beaver Prepares for Winter"—Educational).
Mar. 12—The Living Book of Nature ("Jungle Vaudeville"—Educational).

FOX FILM CORPORATION.

Feb. 12—The Scarlet Letter (Five parts—Dr.).
Feb. 19—The Tiger Woman (Five parts—Dr.).
Feb. 19—Melting Millions (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 26—A Child of the Wild (Five parts—Dr.).
February—The Honor System (Special Release—Drama).
Mar. 5—Sister Against Sister (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 12—A Tale of Two Cities (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 12—Love's Law (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 19—The Blue Streak (Five parts—Drama).

FOXFILM COMEDY.

Feb. 12—Chased Into Love (Two parts).
Feb. 19—There's Many a Fool (Two parts).
Feb. 26—A Bon Bon Riot (Two parts—Com.).
Mar. 5—The House of Terrible Scandals (Two parts—Comedy).
Mar. 12—Her Father's Station (Two parts—Comedy).

GREATER VITAGRAPH (V-L-S-E, INC.).

Feb. 26—Arsene Lupin (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 26—Dubs and Drygoods (Com.).
Feb. 26—Captain Jinks' Explosive Temper (Comedy).
Feb. 26—The Secret Kingdom (Episode No. 9, "The Swamp Adder"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 5—Intrigue (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 5—Masks and Mishaps (Comedy).
Mar. 5—Captain Jinks' Kids (Comedy).
Mar. 5—The Secret Kingdom (Episode No. 10—"A Goat Without Horns"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 12—Arsene Lupin (Six parts—Drama).
Mar. 12—Footlights and Fakers (Comedy).
Mar. 12—Captain Jinks' Alibi (Comedy).
Mar. 12—The Secret Kingdom (Episode No. 11, "The White Witch"—Two parts—Drama).

IVAN FILM PRODUCTIONS.

Dec. 1—Enlighten Thy Daughter (Seven parts—Drama).
February—Two Men and a Woman (Five parts—Drama).

KEEN CARTOON CORP.

Feb. 19—Dr. Zippy Opens a Sanatorium (Cartoon Comedy).
Feb. 26—The Fighting Blood of Jerry McDub (Cartoon Comedy).

KLEINE-EDISON-SELIG-ESSANAY.

Feb. 19—The Royal Pauper (Edison—Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 26—The Heart of Texas Ryan (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 5—Burning the Candle (Essanay—Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 12—Little Lost Sister (Selig—Five parts—Drama).

SELZNICK PICTURES.

January—Panthea (Five parts—Drama).
February—The Argyle Case (Five parts—Dr.).

THE TRIUMPH CORPORATION.

December—The Libertine (Six parts—Drama).

WORLD PICTURES.

Feb. 12—The Red Woman (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 19—A Square Deal (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 26—A Girl's Folly (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 5—The Web of Desire (Five parts—Dr.).
Mar. 12—The Dancer's Peril (Five parts—Dr.).
Mar. 19—The Social Leper (Five parts—Drama).

States Right Features

ARGOSY FILM, INC.

December—The People vs. John Doe (Six parts—Drama).
December—Where Dye Get That Stuff (Five parts—Comedy).

ARROW FILM CORP.

Jan.—The Deemster (Drama).

BELMONT FILM CO.

Feb. 26—A Hotel Mix-Up (Comedy).

BIOGRAPH COMPANY.

December—One Round O'Brien (Comedy).

G. M. BAYNES.

Nov.—Kitchener's Great Army in the Battle of the Somme (Five parts—Dr.).

CALIFORNIA MOTION PICTURE CORP.

Nov.—The Woman Who Dared (Seven parts—Drama).
December—The Passion Flower (Drama).

CORONA CINEMA CO.

April—The Curse of Eve (Seven parts—Drama).

CREATIVE FILM CORP.

Jan.—The Girl Who Didn't Think (Six parts—Drama).

CLUNE FILM MFG. CO.

January—The Eyes of the World (Ten parts—Drama).

DEFENSE OR TRIBUTE FILM CO.

February—Defense or Tribute (Five parts—Drama).

EBONY FILM CORP.

Feb. 26—A Natural Born Shooter (Drama).

ENLIGHTENMENT PHOTOPLAYS CORP.

February—Enlighten Thy Daughter (Drama).

EXCLUSIVE FEATURES, INC.

Dec.—Pamela's Past (Five parts—Drama).

EUROPEAN FILM CO.

November—Fighting for Verdun (Five parts—Topical).

FRIEDMAN ENTERPRISES.

February—A Mormon Maid (Five parts—Dr.).

FROHMAN AMUSEMENT CORP.

March—God's Man (Nine parts—Drama).

GERMANY'S OFFICIAL WAR FILMS, INC.

January—Germany and Its Armies of Today (Topical).

GOLD MEDAL PHOTOPLAYERS.

March—The Web of Life (Five parts—Drama).

GRAFTON PUB. FILM CO.

January—Argonauts of California (Ten parts—Historical).

HARPER FILM CORPORATION.

Nov.—Civilization (Drama).

HAWK FILM COMPANY.

March—The Monster of Fate (Drama).

JOHN W. HEANEY.

Jan.—The Valley of Fear (Six parts—Drama).

KESSEL & DAUMAN.

Jan.—Mickey.

KING BAGGOT.

Dec.—Absinthe (Drama).

LEA-BEL CO.

February—Modern Mother Goose (Five parts).

LINCOLN M. P. COMPANY.

Jan.—Trooper of Troop K (Three parts—Dr.).

S. B. JUST, INC.

Jan.—The Porter (Two parts—Comedy—Drama—All Colored Performers).

MAJOR FILM CORP.

Feb.—Will You Marry Me (Drama).

M-C FILM CO.

March—America Is Ready (Five parts—Top.).

B. S. MOSS MOTION PICTURE CORP.

January—The Girl Who Doesn't Know (Five parts—Drama).
January—In the Hands of the Law (Drama).

MOORE'S FEATURE FILM CO.

Jan. 10—Uncle Sam (This Production in One and in Two Reels).

PARAGON FILMS, INC.

February—The Whipl (Eight parts—Drama).

PHAX PICTURES CO.

December—Race Suicide (Six parts—Drama).

PICTURE PRODUCING CO.

Feb.—Safari (Educational).

PIONEER FEATURE FILM CORP.

October—The Soul of a Child (Five parts—Dr.).

ROTHACKER FILM MFG. CO.

February—Ranch Life in the Big Horn Mountains (Two parts—Descriptive).

WARNER BROS.

December—Robinson Crusoe (Five parts—Dr.).

SHERMAN ELLIOTT, INC.

October—The Crisis (Selig—Seven parts—Dr.).

SIGNET FILM CORPORATION.

Nov.—The Masque of Life (Seven parts—Dr.).

A. STONE.

February—If We Should Go to War (Two parts).

THE FILM EXCHANGE.

January—The Golden Rosary (Five Parts—Dr.).

THOMPSON FILM CO., INC.

December—War as It Really Is (Seven Parts—Topical).

ULTRA PICTURES CORP.

March—The Woman Who Dared (Seven parts—Drama).

UNITY SALES CORP.

January—Glory (Six parts—Drama).

UNIVERSAL (STATE RIGHTS).

December—The People vs. John Doe (Six parts—Drama).

January—20,000 Leagues Under the Sea (Eight Parts).

January—Hell Morgan's Girl (Drama).

WARRENTON PHOTOPLAYS.

Mar. 15—The Birds' Christmas Carol.

UNIVERSAL ELECTRIC GENERATOR SET

4 K.W., 60 or 110 Volt. Dependable and Efficient. Smooth, Direct Current, and consequent Flickerless Light. Direct connected to 4 Cylinder, 4 Cycle Engine of unquestioned reliability. By all odds the best for Moving or Permanent Picture work.

Write for Bulletin 20.
UNIVERSAL MOTOR CO.
Oshkosh, Wis.

Duhem Motion Picture Mfg. Co.

RAW STOCK SUPPLIED
EXPERT LABORATORY
—FINISHING—
DEVELOPING—PRINTING

700 HAYES STREET
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

A Dependable Mailing List Service

Saves you from 30% to 50% in postage, etc. Reaches all or selected list of theatres in any territory. Includes name of exhibitor as well as the theatre in address. A list of publicity mediums desiring motion picture news. Unaffiliated exchanges looking for features. Supply houses that are properly characterized as such. Producers with address of studios, laboratories and offices. Information in advance of theatres being or to be built.

W74.

MOTION PICTURE DIRECTORY COMPANY
80 Fifth Avenue, New York Phone 3227 Chelsea
425 Ashland Block, Chicago Phone 2033 Randolph

Addressing Multigraphing Printing Typewriting

Talk frequently to your patrons by means of your screen.

Have something of interest to announce to your patrons each day; it is proof of your interest in them. For making announcements quickly and neatly nothing surpasses FULCOPAQUE. Complete outfit as shown only 59c. Write for circular with details of a novel plan of advertising by means of FULCOPAQUE. We want to tell you also about another specialty of ours—the FULCO SLIDE WRITER.

E. E. FULTON CO., 152 W. Lake St., Chicago, Ill.
Exhibitors' Supplies and Equipment

ORGANIST

A competent organist is available for two or three evenings a week, including Sunday afternoon and Sunday evening. New York City or immediate vicinity only. Address "Organist," care of Moving Picture World, 17 Madison Avenue, New York City.

IL TIRSO AL CINEMATOGRAFO

The most important Film Journal in Italy. Published every Monday at Rome. Excellent staff, special bureau of information. Correspondents in all parts of the world. Yearly subscription for foreign countries: $3.00.

Business Office: Via del Tritone 183, Rome, Italy.

Perfect Developing and Printing

Negatives Developed. 1c ft. TITLES in any language complete 5c per foot

Positive Printing . . . 4c ft. Cards Free Tinting Free satisfaction guaranteed by our fifteen years' experience Special price on quantity order

GUNBY BROS., Inc., 145 West 45th Street, New York City

Projection Engineer

Is your screen result unsatisfactory?
Is your projection current costing too much?
Are you planning a new theatre?
Are you contemplating the purchase of new Equipment?

Theatre plans examined and suggestions made as to operating room location. Operating rooms planned, etc., etc. Will personally visit theatres in New York City or within 300 miles thereof. Fees moderate.

(YOU ALL KNOW HIM) F. H. RICHARDSON (YOU ALL KNOW HIM)
Room 1434, 22 E. 17th St., New York City

"SCREEN LIGHT THAT NEVER FAILS"

The "ORIGINAL GOLD FIBRE SCREEN"—Perfected.

MINUSA CINÉ PRODUCTS COMPANY
SAINT LOUIS CHICAGO PITTSBURGH NEW YORK
BIRMINGHAM CLEVELAND PHOENIX

SCREENS BUILT BY BRAINS

A Welcome Visitor Each Week in Every Business Home Where Moving Pictures Are of Interest

The Moving Picture World

Is Admirably Adapted to Carry Any Little Message Which You May Wish to Send

Our Classified Advertisements at Five Cents Per Word

Will Produce Remarkable Results—One Dollar for Twenty Words or Less.

Send Copy, with remittance, to CHALMERS PUBLISHING CO., 17 Madison Avenue, New York City

SPECIAL ROLL TICKETS

PRICES	Five Thousand.....	$1.25
	Ten Thousand.....	2.50
	Fifteen Thousand.....	3.75
	Twenty-five Thousand.....	5.50
	Fifty Thousand.....	7.50
	One Hundred Thousand.....	10.00

Your own special Ticket, any printing, any colors, accurately numbered; every roll guaranteed. Coupon tickets for Fine Drawings, 5,000 $2.50. Prompt shipments. Cash with the order. Get the sample. Send diagram for Reserved Seat Coupon Tickets, serial or dated. Stock tickets 5,000 to 25,000 fifteen cents per thousand, 50,000 ten cents, 100,000 nine cents.

NATIONAL TICKET CO.
Shamokin, Pa.

G. W. BRADENBURGH, 802 Vine Street Philadelphia, Pa., U. S. A.

NAME	REELS	MAKE	PRICE	ADVERTISING
Rip Van Winkle	5	World	$150	1/3/6 heralds and sheets
Uncle Tom's Cabin	5	World	125	1/3/6 heralds and sheets
Prisoner of Zenda	4	J. K. Hackett	100	1/3/6 heralds and sheets
The Butterfly	5	Barbara Tennant	100	1/3/6 heralds
In the Land of the Head Hunters	6	S. Curtess	60	1/3/8 heralds
Chicago Tribune Allied War Films	3	Chicago Tribune	75	1/3/6 photos
Spectro	5	Lucky Film Co.	100	1/3/6 heralds and photos
Arizona	6	Cyril Scott	100	1/3/6
Mixup	4	Charlie Chaplin	50	1/3/6 photos

Specials featuring Clara Kimball Young, Norma Talmadge, Gladys Hulette, Flora Finch, Anita Stewart, Edith Storey, Charlie Chaplin, Billy, etc. Write for lists of Spring Bargains.

BARGAINS IN MACHINES

Twenty-two machines slightly used, first class condition, Simplex, Power's 6 A's, Power's 6's, Edison B's, and Edison D's. Low prices, quick sales.

CHAS. A. CALEHUFF, 1233 Vine Street, Philadelphia

Don't Let the Appointments of Your Theatre Laugh at Your Program

If your theatre is one of class or enjoys a distinctive patronage, business sense and common sense dictate the use of our

4-Page Program De Luxe

a program of class for good picture houses. The De Luxe comes in a series of twelve artistic designs and is printed in three colors. A full week's program may be printed on its two inside pages. It is too beautiful for any patron to throw away. Because of its intrinsic value it will build trade and hold it. And it from the start. The good business houses in your neighborhood will be glad to advertise on its back page. We guarantee you territorial protection. Be the first served and the first to serve this valuable feature. Send for samples today.

Will Pay for Itself

Cahill-Igoe Company

"Direct Advertising Specialists"
117 W. Harrison Street Chicago, Ill.

S. O. S.

Do you need a NEW MACHINE, but do not feel able to spend the money?

We are able to HELP you by selling you any Standard Make Moving Picture Machine on Small Monthly payments.

Write us today for our liberal terms. Catalog free on request.

Amusement Supply Company

Largest Exclusive Dealers to the Moving Picture Trade
Dealers in Motograph, Simplex, Powers, Edison and Standard Machines, Transverters, Motor Generators, Rectifiers and Everything pertaining to the Moving Picture Theatres.

3d Floor, Maller's Building

Cor. Madison St. and Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.
WE SELL ON THE INSTALMENT PLAN

For the fullest and latest news of the moving picture industry in Great Britain and Europe.

For authoritative articles by leading British technical men.

For brilliant and strictly impartial criticisms of all films, read

THE BIOSCOPE

The Leading British Trade Journal with an International Circulation
American Correspondence by W. Stephen Bush

of
"Moving Picture World"

85 Shaftesbury Avenue, London, W.

Specimen on Application

RICHARDSON'S

MOTION PICTURE

HAND BOOK

FOR MANAGERS and OPERATORS

Published by

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

RICHARDSON'S MOTION PICTURE HAND BOOK is a carefully prepared guide to perfect projection.

It is an invaluable help to every single individual in the trade who has to do with the mechanical handling of motion picture film or the management of a moving picture theatre.

There are over 680 Pages of Text and the illustrations include detail diagrams of all the leading makes of projection machines.

Substantially Bound in Red Cloth $4.00

Sent Postpaid on Receipt of Price by

MOVING PICTURE WORLD, 17 Madison Ave., New York City

MOVING PICTURE WORLD, 917 Schiller Bldg Chicago, Ill.

MOVING PICTURE WORLD, 305 Haas Bldg., Los Angeles, Cal.

TYPHOONS COOL & VENTILATE

TYPHOON FAN COMPANY 1544 B'WAY NEW YORK CITY

EXHIBITORS
NOW DEMAND
 THAT THE LIGHT BE IMPROVED AND PERFECTED.
 OPERATORS CAN READILY PLEASE
 THEIR EMPLOYERS
 BY RECOMMENDING THE USE OF
SPEER CARBONS

Several styles of carbons, including the ordinary solid and cored, are found in the Speer line; however, the "Hold-Arks" are especially recommended as the ideal lower carbon for direct current.

Every Carbon Backed With a Guarantee

For Sale by the Leading Motion Picture Supply Houses.

SPEER CARBON COMPANY
 ST. MARYS, PA.

Ornamental
 Theatres

Plaster Relief Decorations

Theatres Designed Everywhere

Write for Illustrated Theatre Catalog. Send Us Sizes of Theatre for Special Designs

THE DECORATORS SUPPLY CO.

Archer Avenue and Leo Street
 CHICAGO, ILL.

IT'S HERE! FIVE YEARS AHEAD OF ITS TIME

The Only Screen on earth that will Eliminate all Haze, Glare Eye-Strain, Fade-Away and Out-of-Focus Effect, regardless of where picture is viewed from.

Every Seat in Your Theatre Is of Value. Do You Get It?

As the Oldest, the Largest, Manufacturers of Metalized Cloth in the World, we stand back of our claims and are more than ready to substantiate any statement we make.

Why not be guided by the judgment of that great army of 9,836 exhibitors who know and who are using our previous product?

WELL, let us send you our large Free Samples—12"x14"—of our New 1918 Lineal Metalized Surfaced Screen in Pale Gold, Silver Flesh and Silver White.

Let us prove to you with your own eyes and the brains God gave you that we can and will give you Real Projection Contentment by installing the Screen of No Regrets—

MIRROROID

The 1918 Mirroroid Lineal Finish will be sold at 36 cents a square foot—$3.24 a square yard. Let us advise you as to our nearest-to-you dealer. Shipments one hour after order is received.

THE J. H. GENTER COMPANY, INC., NEWBURGH, N. Y.

VISITORS AND EXHIBITORS ALWAYS WELCOME AT OUR FACTORY

CINE-MUNDIAL

A monthly publication, printed in Spanish and devoted exclusively to the interests of the moving picture industry throughout South America and Spanish-speaking countries.

MORE than 5,000 exhibitors and film buyers in Latin America receive our publication monthly. Is it possible that you are not interested in this new market?

ADVERTISING RATES: $50 A PAGE

CINE-MUNDIAL

17 Madison Avenue

New York

HALLBERG PICTURE THEATRE EQUIPMENTS

Include Everything You Require for Perfect Projection

HALLBERG 20th CENTURY MOTOR-GENERATOR

changes A. C. or D. C. line current to D. C. at just the right voltage for your lamp without the use of rheostats. Automatically adjusts its output to the needs of the arc at all times and cannot be burned out. Gives a perfect change-over with two lamps and plenty of current for dark films. Order NOW !!!

USED BY THE BETTER M. P. THEATRES—COSTS LEAST TO RUN!

ALL MAKES M. P. PROJECTORS and PARTS

THE NEW HALLBERG ADJUSTABLE A.C. ECONOMIZER

IMPORTED and DOMESTIC GUARANTEED CARBONS

GUNDLACH, B. & L. and IMPORTED LENSES and CONDENSERS

SPEEDCO ARC CONTROLLER FEEDS YOUR ARC LAMP AUTOMATICALLY
SAVES CARBONS, CURRENT and TIME

THE SILENT USHER FLASHES THE NUMBER OF VACANT SEATS DURING THE SHOW BY AN ELECTRIC ILLUMINATED NUMBER ($4.00 @). ONE REQUIRED FOR EACH USHER.

SCREENS OF ALL KINDS AND SURFACES TO SUIT EVERYBODY

TICKETS—CHOPPERS—BOXES AND HOLDERS, ETC.

FILM CEMENT—FILM WASH—FILM MENDERS AND CLEANERS

ASBESTOS COVERED CABLE—LUGS—OIL—GRAPHITE—GREASE, ETC.

PYRENE AND OTHER FIRE EXTINGUISHERS—AXES—POLES AND SUPPLIES

FIRE PROOF REWINDERS WITH MAGAZINES—CUT YOUR INSURANCE

HALLBERG CARBON SAVER $1.50 EACH—SAVES 20% ON YOUR CARBON BILL

PRIVATE ELECTRIC LIGHT PLANTS—CUT CURRENT BILLS

“MAZDA” INCANDESCENT LAMPS—ALL SIZES AND STYLES.

HALLBERG'S “M. P. ELECTRICITY” BOOK, $2.50.

RICHARDSON'S “OPERATOR'S HANDBOOK,” $4.00.

J. H. HALLBERG, The House of Quality
Established 1904 7th Avenue at 49th St., NEW YORK

Advertise Your Film Attractions

WITH

Deagan Electric Una-fon

In Banner Bearing Automobile

It is the greatest business booster, crowd getter and musical attraction in the world.

The Una-Fon pays for itself in added box office receipts within a few days. It will make everybody in town talk about YOUR theatre.

Una-Fon No. 2310. Three octaves chromatic. 31 inches wide, 36 inches high, 10 inches deep; weight, 125 pounds. PRICE, $270.00.

It can be heard four blocks.

Fits loose in tonneau of any car.

Your regular pianist plays it.

All piano music can be played on it.

Tone quality is gloriously rich, brilliant, clear and exhilarating.

It lasts a lifetime and is Always in tune and impervious to climatic conditions

Expressions box with pedal controlled shutters may be added at any time, or Una-Fon may be connected to and played from organ manual, making it a superb pit attraction—two instruments in one.

J. C. DEAGAN

Musical Bells, Inc.

1776 Berteau Avenue
Chicago, Ill.

TRIAL OFFER COUPON

J. C. DEAGAN:

You may ship me Una-Fon No. 2310, to apply on which I enclose a deposit of twenty-five dollars, as evidence of good faith. Price, $270.00. Terms—This Una-Fon is to be shipped to me subject to two days' trial and service in my own business either for street or pit use.

I agree to use it conscientiously and have a pianist play it. If after trial I decide to keep it, I will let express agent forward the balance of the price C.O.D. If for any reason whatsoever I decide not to keep it, I will return it to you charges prepaid and you are then at once to return my deposit in full.

Name

Ship by { Express Freight

Street

City State

"SEVENTEEN YEARS OF KNOWING HOW"

What Is Your Answer?

ARE YOU GOING TO ACCEPT PROJECTION TROUBLES
AS NECESSARY EVILS

OR

ARE YOU GOING TO BE ONE OF THE GREAT MAJORITY OF EXHIBITORS WHO USE

POWER'S CAMERAGRAPH

WRITE FOR THE NAME OF OUR DEALER IN YOUR TERRITORY

ASK HIM TO SHOW YOU
OUR INTERMITTENT MOVEMENT
OUR LOOP SETTER
OUR TAKE-UP

THESE EXCLUSIVE DEVICES WERE DESIGNED TO ELIMINATE YOUR TROUBLES

CATALOG "G" MAILED UPON REQUEST

NICHOLAS POWER COMPANY
NINETY GOLD STREET NEW YORK

H. C. HOFFMAN

MOVING PICTURE WORLD

THE FILM
INDEX

EXHIBITORS' GUIDE

WORLD PICTURES BRADY-MADE

The mark of
DEPENDABLE
PICTURES

WORLD FILM CORPORATION

Post Office Box 226
Madison Square Station

NEW YORK

17 Madison Avenue
Telephone Madison Square 3510

The Benjamin Chapin
Lincoln Cycle is not simply one big feature;
it is a series, or cycle,
of great features.

The Benjamin Chapin Studios and Executive Offices:
Ridgefield Park, N. J. Tel.: Hackensack 583

Section of crowds besieging McVicker's theatre, Chicago, to see Max Linder in "Max Comes Across."

DON'T MISS
MAX LINDER'S
 Second American-Made Comedy
"Max Wants a Divorce"

His first comedy, "Max Comes Across," is making the hit of the year. It is packing every theatre playing it. Here is just a sample of what all the exhibitors think:

Rochester, Minn., March 1, 1917.

Mr. George K. Spoor,
 President Essanay Film Mfg. Company,
 Chicago, Ill.

Max Linder in "Max Comes Across" positively a knockout. Played to capacity today. Audience absolutely in convulsion. Will have to have an ambulance corps for next release.

Beyerstedt Bros.
 Garden Theatre.

TRADEMARK
 Reg. U. S. Pat. 1907

ESSANAY
 GEORGE K. SPOOR, PRESIDENT

1333 Argyle St., Chicago

TRADEMARK
 Reg. U. S. Pat. 1907

K-E-S-E

K-E-S-E

K-E-S-E

Read these Pages
Every Week for
Your Own [Benefit and Profit

Universal

VOL 1

UNIVERSAL FILM MFG. CO., Carl Laemmle, Pres.

"The Largest"

A Serial Sensation!

"The Voice on the Wire"--the Universal's Latest and Greatest Serial a Huge Success

SELDOM in the history of films has a serial been accorded the splendid appreciation that has marked the showing of the first episode of "The Voice on the Wire." From theatres all over the country come enthusiastic reports of the genuine ovation given to this remarkable screen drama. Based on the popular novel of the same name, written by the brilliant author, Eustace Hale Ball, this lavish production marks a new era in serials. Directed by Stuart Paton, who so successfully produced that remarkable Broadway sensation, the Universal's filmization of Jules Verne's "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea," "The Voice on the Wire" is a genuine novelty, crowded with action, imbued with an air and atmosphere of mystery, and carrying through to the end a love story that fascinates all who see it. The leading male role is in the capable hands of Ben Wilson, the popular Universal star, whose vigorous and energetic methods have won him admirers by the million. Opposite, in a charming and sympathetic role, is beautiful Neva Gerber, the young Universal film star, who has achieved a large following by the brilliance of her acting and her gracious and captivating manner. Closely following the huge success of the first release, bookings have been pouring in to all of the 73 Universal Exchanges, and again the mighty Universal has demonstrated that in the matter of serials, as well as in all other lines, it has no real competition. Exhibitors who want a consistent crowd-getter should write or wire their nearest Universal Exchange for booking or reservation on "The Voice on the Wire," without delay.

episode. Kingsley Benedict, the popular Universal star, plays the lead, a remarkable character, that of an internationally famous secret service operative. The leading woman is different in each release, and the various parts are assigned to eight of the Universal's cleverest woman stars. Universal Exchanges report heavy bookings on "The Perils of the Secret Service," which proves that Exhibitors are quick to appreciate the efforts of the Universal on their behalf.

THERE WITH A PUNCH

Universal Comedies—Nestor—
L-KO and Joker—Have Established a New Standard in Screen Fun

POPULAR WITH EVERY FAN

EVERY week in thousands of theatres throughout the country millions of film fans revel in the delightful entertainments afforded by Universal Comedies. They keenly enjoy Eddie Lyons, Lee Moran and dainty Edith Roberts in the refined comedies of the Nestor brand; they laugh till the tears come at the antics of Phil Dunham, Fatty Voss and the big group of L-KO comedians; and they have spasms of delight whenever Gale Henry, William Franey and that

Gale Henry and Wm. Franey in Joker Comedies.

merry Joker bunch appear on the screen. Universal Comedies are different from all other brands of film fun. They are never coarse, never suggestive, never vulgar. If of the slap-stick variety, there is reason—reasons of fun—for the horse play. It is more common to see the highest type of burlesque and travesty in Universal Comedies than any other kind of humor, and that this fact is appreciated by the moving picture patrons is evidenced by the constantly increasing number of bookings reported by the 73 Universal Exchanges. Universal Comedies are released on the regular Universal Program, but they may be booked through any Universal Exchange separately, if desired.

A Screen Innovation

"The Perils of the Secret Service," the Universal's Remarkable Series of Dramas, Gratifies Exhibitors

Kingsley Benedict.

ALWAYS in the lead in the matter of catering to the Exhibitor's needs, the Universal again scores a decided hit with its remarkable series of eight two-reel dramas, released under the general title of "The Perils of the Secret Service." These two act plays, each complete in itself, are screen adaptations of the famous and popular stories published under the name of "Yorke Norroy—Diplomatic Agent." Their author, George Bronson Howard, is one of America's best-known and most widely read novelists, and the stories in their printed form have been eagerly read and enjoyed by millions. Moving picture lovers who have read these fascinating stories may be sure of a real treat when they see the pictures, for the direction was personally made by Mr. Howard. The resources of the mighty Universal at Universal City, California, were placed at Mr. Howard's disposal, and the productions are markedly lavish for short subjects. The opportunity is afforded Exhibitors who do not care to book or show serial photo-plays, to give their patrons this supreme novelty for eight straight weeks, with the assurance that the stories, being complete in each two-reel release, they will miss no connecting link from episode to

For further details of the Universal Program see the Moving Picture Weekly.

Bulletin

The FILM NEWS
Printed here will Lead any Exhibitor
to Sure Success

Manufacturing Concern in the Universe."

1600 Broadway, NEW YORK

No. 2

THE UNIVERSAL PROGRAM

Twenty-nine Reels of Superior Screen Entertainment Every Week--Greater Quantity and Quality than in all Competition Combined are listed below. They include all such novel features as appeal to the Exhibitor who shows an "open" programme. They are thus arranged to give him an opportunity to see at a glance the Universal's wonderful array of specialties and distinct novelties that will add lustre to any sort of program he cares to offer his patrons.

SPECIALS ON THE UNIVERSAL PROGRAM

SPECIAL RELEASES ON THE UNIVERSAL PROGRAM FOR THE WEEK OF APRIL 2nd, 1917

- RED FEATHER—"THE BRONZE BRIDE" (Five-Reel Drama)—Claire McDowell, Charles Mailles and Eddie Polo.
NESTOR—"MIXED MATRIMONY" (One-Reel Comedy)—Eddie Lyons, Lee Moran and Edith Roberts.
LAEMMLE—"THE STAR WITNESS" (Two-Reel Human Interest Drama)—Lee Hill, Lena Baskett and Elizabeth Janes.
L-KO—"NABbing A NOBLE" (One-Reel Comedy)—Phil Dunham.
IMP—"THE PERILS OF THE SECRET SERVICE"—No. 5, "THE MAN IN THE TRUNK" (Two Reels)—Kingsley Benedict.
UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE—Issue No. 13.
JOKER—"A BOOB FOR LUCK" (One-Reel Comedy)—William Franey and Gale Henry.
POWERS—"PHOOL PHAN PHILMS" (Comedy Cartoon), and Educational (title not decided)—Split Reel.
L-KO—"CROOKS AND CROCODILES" (One-Reel Comedy)—Fatty Voss.

REGULAR RELEASES on the UNIVERSAL PROGRAM

may also be booked separately. They are the highest standard of short subjects in the world. Great stories and great stars under the ablest direction are the basic foundation of the marvelous dramatic releases listed below. Whenever you see a Universal three-reel subject, you may rest assured that it has all the punch of the average five-reeler; a two-reel Universal subject has the power of the average three, and the Universal one-reel subject is in a class by itself.

REGULAR RELEASES ON THE UNIVERSAL PROGRAM FOR THE WEEK OF APRIL 2nd, 1917

- GOLD SEAL—"THE MAGPIE" (Three-Reel Drama)—Tina Marshall.
VICTOR—"THE $1,000 DROP" (One-Reel Comedy)—Eileen Sedgwick, Ralph McComas and Milton Sims.
UNIVERSAL ANIMATED WEEKLY—Weekly No. 66.
VICTOR—"SOMEBODY LIED" (Two-Reel Comedy-Drama)—Priscilla Dean and Harry Carter.
POWERS—"HAGENBECK'S WILD ANIMALS" (One-Reel Educational).
BIG U—"THE DAWN OF DECENCY" (One-Reel Drama).
VICTOR—"PLEASE BE MY WIFE" (One-Reel Comedy)—Bob Leonard.
BISON—"THE BURNING SILENCE" (Two-Reel Western Drama)—George Pearce, Jane Bernoudy.
LAEMMLE—"THE BLUE PRINT MYSTERY" (One-Reel Drama)—King Baggot.
BIG U—"THE TERRORS OF WAR" (Two-Reel War Drama)—Grace Cunard.

The most successful Exhibitors in the world today are those who book and show the complete Universal Program of twenty-nine reels. The two lists given above, when combined, constitute the complete Universal Program. Write your nearest Universal Exchange for full particulars today.

If you are not on the mailing list of the Moving Picture Weekly—GET ON!

SCORES ANOTHER BEAT

Presidential Inauguration First Shown
In Leading Broadway Theaters by Universal Animated Weekly

PROVEN BY MANAGER'S STATEMENT

RUNNING true to form the great, unequalled Universal Animated Weekly scored another beat over all competitors by showing the first moving pictures of the official ceremonies attendant upon the inauguration of President Wilson, at Washington, D. C., Monday, March 5, in all leading Broadway, New York theatres. Every week since its inception the Universal Animated Weekly has "been first on the screen with moving pictures of the world's leading news events." In this latest great scoop the resources and facilities of the Animated were again proven more effective than those of its competitors. Proof positive of the statement made here may be obtained from statements of the managers of the house where the inauguration picture was shown. (Names on request.) Shown on the regular Universal Program, the Animated may also be booked separately from any Universal Exchange or the UNIVERSAL ANIMATED WEEKLY, 1600 Broadway, New York.

NOW--RELEASED EVERY WEEK

Universal Screen Magazine Released
Weekly to Meet Overwhelming Popular Demand

ORIGINALLY planned for an every other week release, the Universal Screen Magazine is now released weekly to meet the demand of Exhibitors and their patrons. Including as it does subjects that are of interest to every man, woman and child, it is not strange that this remarkable one-reel became a notable feature for any program immediately upon its first release. It is to the great popular magazines what the Animated Weekly is to a great newspaper, and its appeal is equally wide. The Exhibitor who is looking for a distinct and popular novelty in a short subject should get in touch with his nearest Universal Exchange at once and get full particulars about this screen favorite. Book now before your competitor beats you to it, either through your Exchange or direct from the UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE, 1600 Broadway, New York.

*Willie Hopkins Animated Sculpture
Universal Screen Magazine.*

RED FEATHER
PHOTO PLAYS Present:
HARRY CAREY
IN
"The FIGHTING GRINGO"

BASED ON THE FAMOUS
"RED SAUNDERS" STORIES
BY THE CELEBRATED NOVELIST
HENRY W. PHILLIPS.
DIRECTED BY FRED. KELSEY
BOOK THROUGH ANY
UNIVERSAL
EXCHANGE

RED FEATHER
PHOTOPLAYS

BLUEBIRD PHOTOPLAYS, (INC)

Current Release

VIOLET MERSEREAU
IN

"Susan's Gentleman"

A Delightful Story of a Bowery Waif and the Surprising Effect of a London Inheritance

Directed by EDWIN STEVENS

"Hell Morgan's Girl"

Purchased Outright by

BLUEBIRD PHOTOPLAYS, Inc.

In other advertisements we have announced the purchase of all State Rights for America on "HELL MORGAN'S GIRL," by Bluebird Photo Plays (Inc.). Shrewd exhibitors who have witnessed its presentation pronounce it one of the most unusual and remarkable screen productions of the decade, with a Box Office value that compels the attention of all who seek large and certain financial rewards. No salesmanship is required with those who view the production. See it at your nearest Bluebird Exchange, or Bluebird Photo Plays (Inc.), New York City.

"The Eagle's Wings"

"THE EAGLE'S WINGS"—the tremendous BLUEBIRD preparedness drama of the hour, has the backing of the entire 1,500 Chapters of the Daughters of the American Revolution, represented in almost every city and town throughout the United States. This backing was won on the merits of the production and means more than all the sales talk we could write for a month of Sundays. In 5 reels it tells a brilliant story of unusual dramatic power, with a suspense and action guaranteed to grip any audience, while affording magnificent entertainment in every foot of the picture. It is a repeater and should be booked for from 3 to 7 days. Book thru your nearest BLUEBIRD EXCHANGE or BLUEBIRD PHOTOPLAYS (INC.), 1600 Broadway, New York City.

Goldwyn Pictures

The Value of Being Somebody Instead of Nobody

GOLDWYN'S partners are all men of big achievements in stage and screen production. Their careers have been marked by ability, stability and business honor. They have now set out to build a new kind of motion picture company and a vastly improved type of productions.

Goldwyn's stars are the greatest artists of this day and generation—Mae Marsh, Mary Garden, Maxine Elliott, Jane Cowl and Madge Kennedy. There is magic in their names.

The Goldwyn organization and its stars are not persons to whom small accomplishments appeal. In pictures, as in life itself, it is the Somebodies who achieve the big things, who possess the highest values, who attract the greatest followings.

Behind its stars, in plays by the world's ablest authors, Goldwyn inaugurates a tremendous advertising and publicity campaign covering the entire world.

And, of still greater importance, Goldwyn has devised methods of exhibitor co-operation and service that have never before been attempted in the picture industry.

ADVISORY BOARD

SAMUEL GOLDFISH
Chairman
EDGAR SELWYN
IRVIN S. COBB
ARTHUR HOPKINS
MARGARET MAYO
ROI COOPER MEGRUE
ARCHIBALD SELWYN
CROSBY GAIGE

Goldwyn Pictures Corporation

16 East 42d Street, New York City
Telephone: Vanderbilt 11

MADGE KENNEDY

She has youth, freshness and beauty. Her smile has won the friendship of a nation. She is the finest and ablest farce comedienne in the entire world of the theatre and is to be starred exclusively in Goldwyn Pictures. These are some of the things the critics have said about Miss Kennedy:

CLEVELAND PLAIN DEALER: Goldwyn can well afford to announce Madge Kennedy as "the girl who makes friends."

JACKSON, MICH., PATRIOT: Madge Kennedy is a noteworthy addition to the Goldwyn collection of stars.

BOSTON JOURNAL: Madge Kennedy has had the most sensational success of any of the younger actresses. . . . If there is anyone quite like her we know three managers who will give a fortune for her services. . . . Madge Kennedy is matchless.

CHICAGO EXAMINER: All hail Madge Kennedy of Goldwyn Pictures. She is the greatest popular favorite among comedienues and the only one of her type.

PHILADELPHIA LEDGER: And now Goldwyn has captured Madge Kennedy, a star of immense appeal and nation-wide popularity. Who next?

SAN FRANCISCO EXAMINER: Madge Kennedy is a California native daughter and the ranking comedienne of the American stage.

N. Y. MORNING TELEGRAPH: Goldwyn has robbed the stage of another great favorite by signing Madge Kennedy.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN NEWS: Goldwyn is fortunate in signing Madge Kennedy. . . . No other comedienne can touch her.

NEW YORK WORLD: Madge Kennedy is considered the best farce actress in America.

ATLANTA AMERICAN: Madge Kennedy has been starred in "Over Night," "Little Miss Brown," "Twin Beds" and "Fair and Warmer"—the last two being America's greatest farces.

In every Exchange Zone on the motion picture map this new star has been welcomed by the great newspapers and the public

Goldwyn Pictures Corporation

16 EAST 42D ST., NEW YORK CITY

Telephone: Vanderbilt 11

J. Frank Brockliss
of London Engl. announces that he exclusively controls the world's rights (United States excepted)
of the film interpretation of
HALL CAINE'S stupendous drama

HALL CAINE
The Author of
THE DEEMSTER,
The Christian
The Eternal City.
The Woman thou
gavest me etc.-

DERWENT HALL CAINE
in the great romantic role of
DAN MYLREA

9 reels of thrilling production which will compel the enthusiasm and admiration of
The World's
Theatre-going Public

WILL FOREIGN BUYERS

KINDLY

Communicate immediately with

J. Frank Brockliss

New York Office -
729 Seventh Ave., New York
Room 705 • Phone, Bryant 8296

*Released on the Metro Program
March 26th*

YORKE
FILM CORPORATION
presents

HAROLD LOCKWOOD and MAY ALLISON

in the Metro wonderplay de Luxe
HIDDEN CHILDREN

Five Acts of strength, beauty and romance. Contrived and directed by Oscar Apfel from the sublime story by Robert W. Chambers
America's greatest writer

Exhibitors are making money

with
Wm. Christy Cabanne's master serial of genuine thrills

The Great Secret

Story by Fred de Gresac

with the box office magnets
FRANCIS X. BUSHMAN and BEVERLY BAYNE

What more need we add?

Produced by SERIAL Producing Co.

Presented by QUALITY Pictures Corp'n

BOOKING
THROUGH
METRO EXCHANGES

? Are your Comedies ? UNIFORMLY GOOD ?

ARE YOU EXHIBITING a brand of comedies you CAN DEPEND UPON to satisfy your patrons and show pleasing profits? Or are you gambling with your box-office receipts, booking comedies that are sometimes money-makers, sometimes money-losers, and often indifferent—COMMONPLACE!

CHRISTIE COMEDIES

are UNIFORMLY GOOD COMEDIES because their merit is not due to CHANCE but to the fact that they are produced by successful, experienced comedy stars and directors.

Last week's issue of this magazine contains a list of independent exchanges from whom you can obtain CHRISTIE COMEDIES. Start running CHRISTIE COMEDIES this week—book the latest release—

"SAUCE FOR THE GOOSE"

Open Market Release for Week of March 19th.

An original plot, with real action, real acting and real comedy, featuring
Betty Compson and Neal Burns

BETTY COMPSON

NEAL BURNS

CHRISTIE FILM CO.

AL.E. CHRISTIE • DIRECTOR GENERAL
SUNSET BLVD. AT GOWER ST.
LOS ANGELES • CALIFORNIA

Coming Releases—
"CLOTHES AND THE MAN"
"SUSPENDED SENTENCE"

Paramount Pictures

are the kind of pictures that will build a reputation for You

Pauline Frederick in "Sapho"

Thousands of Paramount exhibitors requested a production of Alphonse Daudet's famous story—as only Pauline Frederick could interpret it. "Sapho"—although arranged to avoid the objectionable and emphasize the human element of the story—gives Pauline Frederick an exceptional opportunity to display her great dramatic power, and is another Famous Players contribution to photoplay history.

Wallace Reid and Myrtle Stedman in "The Prison Without Walls" is a thrilling prison reform story, written from the story by Robert Emmett MacAlarney, well known to magazine readers, and prepared for the screen by the novelist, Beulah Marie Dix. There is real punch to this exceptional story in the form of three "knock down and drag out" fights. This production has the usual Lasky perfection of detail and presentation.

How many Paramount Days are you going to have?

Paramount Pictures Corporation
FOUR EIGHTY FIVE FIFTH AVENUE at FORTY FIRST ST.
NEW YORK, N.Y.

Controlled by FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION

Member of National Association Motion Picture Industry

Pinning Bubbles on the Wall

It might be done—but it wouldn't be worth trying.

You might build up a reputation for your theatre with a half dozen kinds of pictures, but it would take you a long time if you could do it at all.

That's one reason Paramount made up a "short reel program" for you.

Keep the number of brands down. Keep the standard of quality up.

Let the unsurpassed productions of Famous Players, Lasky, Morosco and Pallas, who produce be your standard. Have your short reels as good as the "features."

Paramount Pictures

Keep your theatre and method of presentation up to the Paramount standard, and "nothing can stop you."

Don't try to pin a bubble on the wall—make as many days as possible Paramount Days.

Paramount Pictures Corporation
FOUR EIGHTY FIVE FIFTH AVENUE at FORTY FIRST ST.
NEW YORK, N.Y.

Controlled by FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION

Member of National Association Motion Picture Industry

World's Greatest Newspapers Acclaim Mary Pickford's "A POOR LITTLE RICH GIRL"

NEW YORK TELEGRAPH said:

"The production is a genuine credit to Mary Pickford, Maurice Tourneur and its authors, and the work of a well-chosen cast also deserves comment. The lavish settings, fine photography, lighting and tinting effects, combined with a story that is novel, full of humor and pathos and subtly instructive, make it one of Mary Pickford's best—perhaps the most satisfactory picture, every detail considered, in which she has ever appeared."

NEW YORK HERALD said:

"... Needless to say, Gwen is a typical 'Little Mary' role, giving every opportunity for the Pickford pout, smiles, curls and cute mannerisms. Miss Pickford's playing of the appealing role has much charm, and the Artcraft Film Corporation evidently spared no pains to give it an artistic production."

NEW YORK EVENING SUN said:

"'Little Mary' Pickford is pre-eminently qualified to interpret sympathetically the woes of 'A Poor Little Rich Girl,' and she did so to the entire satisfaction of her most ardent admirers yesterday at the Strand."

"The settings for the photoplay are elaborate. There are many amusing moments of real comedy in the picture. There seems to be no limit to the illusion of extreme youth which Miss Pickford is capable of producing and the 'Poor Little Rich Girl' no doubt will be better liked than any of Mary Pickford's recent pictures."

NEW YORK TIMES said:

"The fact that Mary Pickford acted the title role in the 'Poor Little Rich Girl' added to the interest of the translation into movie form of one of the most imaginative plays the American stage has produced."

Released by

ARTCRAFT PICTURES CORPORATION
729 Seventh Ave. New York City

A Big Day in Film History

1917 MARCH 1917

SUN MON T

More than eighty of America's Biggest Theatres, including the Strand Theatre in New York, will show George M. Cohan in "Broadway Jones" for a week or more, commencing March 26th.

WHEN WILL YOU
SHOW IT?

4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23 24 25 26 27 28 29 30 31

The Release Date For The
George M. Cohan

Production of

"BROADWAY JONES"

ARTCRAFT
PICTURES

ARTCRAFT PICTURES CORPORATION
729 Seventh Ave. New York City

ARTCRAFT
PICTURES

MEER

LEWIS J. SELZNICK
NEW YORK CITY
FRANK HALL
NEW JERSEY

JOHN H.
DETROIT
N. H.
BOSTON

THE SIX MOST IMPORTANT FACTORS
COMB
IN THEIR OPINION OF
IVAN ABRAMSON'S EIGHT

⁶⁶
ENLIGHTEN

AND BACKED THEIR COMBINED OPINIONS

LEWIS J. SELZNICK NEW YORK CITY
GLOBE FEATURE FILM CO. NEW ENGLAND
CIVILIZATION CO. NEW JERSEY

OTHER TERRITORY

ENLIGHTMENT PHOTO

220 WEST 42ND ST. N.Y.C.

GER

KUNSKY
MICH.
GORDON
MASS.

JOS. M. GAITES
PHILADELPHIA PA.
WILLIAM SEIVERS
MISSOURI

IN THE INDEPENDENT FIELD

INED

THE FORCEFULNESS OF ACT DRAMATIC SPECTACE

THEY DAUGHTER

BY PURCHASING THE FOLLOWING TERRITORY

JOHN H. KUNSKY MICHIGAN
FONTANA FILM CO. PENNSYLVANIA
WILLIAM SEIVERS MISSOURI

NOW SELLING ADDRESS

PLAYS CORPORATION

HENRY J. BROCK PRESIDENT

WEAVING INDIAN BLANKETS

SWEDISH
GYMNASTICS

THE PULMOTOR—
A MACHINE FOR ARTIFICIAL RES-
PIRATION.

MUTUAL

“O Boy, It’s a Goat-Getter”

Didja ever have a pernickety cuss switch up to your box-office and say, “I declare to goodness, I’d come real often if you had a little variety”?

Didja?

And didja ever stop to consider that with Gaumont Single-Reels you get that much-hankered-after variety, that “something doing all the time, good peepul” that makes a country fair a hum-dinger of an entertainment?

If you didn’t, we don’t ask, “Why didn’tja?” We merely follow the bubbles to the surface and stick our head out of the water long enough to remark, “For a goat-getter when the crab sidles up, just spring a Gaumont Single-Reel going on inside.” You deport his money and put it to work for you—and you get him to come back.

Gaze along the side lines at “Reel Life” No. 48. Angels could do no more.

Gaumont Co.

FLUSHING, N. Y.

THE FAMOUS HERALD
CLOCK

WINTER SPORTS
IN FLORIDA—

MUTUAL NEWS

"What's Going On In The Mutual"

WEEKLY NEWS OF THE MUTUAL FILM CORPORATION AND ITS EXCHANGES

MARCH 24, 1917

JACKIE SAUNDERS TO BE STARRED IN SIX MUTUAL PICTURES

A SERIES of six five-part Mutual Pictures, starring Jackie Saunders, will be released by the Mutual Film Corporation beginning March 26. This new series will be presented by E. D. Horkheimer. Miss Saunders is known to photoplay fans everywhere and has been starred in countless productions. She has a tremendous following and is winning new admirers with each new release.

"Sunny Jane" the First.

"Sunny Jane" is the title of the first of the new Jackie Saunders series of Mutual Pictures. It is in five reels. It tells a clean, wholesome little story that should interest every photoplay patron. It has plenty of thrills, plenty of action, a lot of excellent acting and photography that is all that can be desired. It is a drama of every-day life.

Dramas of Lighter Type.

"The Checkmate" and "The Wild Cat" are two of the next offerings of this new series. They, too, are dramas of the lighter type. They are cheerful, sprightly and snappy. They display to advantage the graces of Miss Saunders. The three other releases of the Jackie Saunders series will be announced shortly. All of them are to be feature offerings of the highest class. All of them will be suitable for showing in the highest class theaters in America. Reservations for the entire Jackie Saunders series of Mutual Pictures can be made now at Mutual Exchanges. Prices, press matter, posters, publicity helps, etc., will be cheerfully supplied by any Mutual Exchange.

Circulation of the Blood Shown In Film

Reel Life No. 46, released through Mutual Exchanges the week of March 11, offers exhibitors of the country an unusual opportunity for attracting the so-called "high brows" to their theatres. That issue of the Mutual magazine contains a bit of film showing the actual circulation of blood in the human body. It is most unusual—a positively marvelous bit of motion photography. Exhibitors, by playing it up, can attract patrons who never ordinarily attend a motion picture theatre.

Good old-fashioned "back home" atmosphere abounds in the next Mary Miles Minter offering through Mutual Exchanges. "Environment" is its title. It is a New England romance that will set all your patrons to talking. April 9 is the tentative date of its release. Make reservations now at any Mutual Exchange.

Mutual Star Productions For March

Week Beginning March 5th.

Title.	Lead.
--------	-------

The Girl From Rector's.....	Ruth MacTammany
-----------------------------	-----------------

Week Beginning March 12th.

My Fighting Gentleman.....	William Russell
----------------------------	-----------------

Week Beginning March 19th.

The Painted Lie.....	Crane Wilbur
----------------------	--------------

Week Beginning March 26th.

Motherhood.....	Marjorie Rambeau
Sunny Jane.....	Jackie Saunders

ANN MURDOCK AT WORK IN "THE OUTCAST" FOR EMPIRE-MUTUAL

Modern, perfectly equipped studios of the newly organized Empire All-Star Corporation, formed by John R. Freuler, president of the Mutual, and Alf Hayman of the Charles Frohman organization, to present the successes of Charles Frohman in motion pictures, for release through Mutual Exchanges, have been opened at Glendale, L. I. Floor space sufficiently ample to accommodate twelve big sets at one time, marks the new studios as among the largest in the country. There are dozens of elaborate dressing rooms for the principal players and other quarters sufficiently large to accommodate two hundred or more supernumeraries. Every modern bit of apparatus and paraphernalia that will tend to improve the making of the films has been installed and a large and remarkably competent technical staff has been assembled. Frank Beresford, who was a prominent member of the Maude Adams Company for several seasons, is technical director and studio manager. Arthur Englander, who has spent some sixteen years in theatrical work, is chief scene artist. Arthur Peck, of the staff of the Metropolitan Opera House for five years, is in charge of the erection of stage settings, and Harry Redmond, for ten years building electrician of the Metropolitan, is the electrical engineer of Empire All-Star. Miss Ann Murdock, the first of the Frohman stars to appear in Empire productions, is already at work in the Glendale plant on "The Outcast," one of the big Frohman successes, from the pen of Hubert Henry Davis, who wrote "Cousin Kate" and "The Mollusc."

Many exhibitors have already made reservations at Mutual Exchanges for the entire series of Ann Murdock Empire-Mutual Pictures.

"THE PAINTED LIE" WITH CRANE WILBUR STARTS NEW SERIES

THIS week the Mutual Film Corporation releases the first of the Crane Wilbur series of Horsley-Mutual Pictures. "The Painted Lie" is the title of the first production. It is in five acts. It is released the week of March 19. In it Mr. Wilbur has some splendid chances for the display of his abilities. An all-star supporting cast assists the star.

Six Five-Reel Productions.

In all there will be six productions in the Crane Wilbur series. Each will be five reels in length. Each will present the star in a different sort of story. "The Single Code" is one of the next releases in the series. "Love Everlasting" will follow it. "The Eye of Envy" is now in production. Assisting Mr. Wilbur in the staging of these photoplays is Harrish Ingraham, who is widely known for his abilities as a director. Bookings on the Crane Wilbur series of Horsley-Mutual Pictures can be made now at any Mutual Exchange.

New Helen Holmes Serial in Demand

Exhibitors everywhere have already begun to clamor for the new Helen Holmes chapterplay, "The Railroad Raiders." This is the new photo-novel of railroad life which is being made at the studios of the Signal Film Corporation. It is complete in fifteen chapters. Frank Hamilton Spearman, one of America's foremost authors of railroad novels, is writing the fiction version. A nation-wide campaign of advertising is informing the public through the biggest newspapers of the country of the new serial. Exhibitors running the picture are sure to profit. In fact from present indications "The Railroad Raiders" should break all previous box office records for Helen Holmes successes. Reservations can be made now at Mutual Exchanges. April 9 is the release date of the first chapter.

"Jimmie Dale" Mystery Featurettes Ready

"The Grey Seal" is the title of the first of the new series of Mutual Featurettes entitled "Jimmie Dale, Alias the Grey Seal." The stories are crammed with action, suspense, mystery and romance. They have been widely advertised but have never before been released. Exhibitors who have seen the first two or three are agreed that they are going to "go like wildfire." E. K. Lincoln is the star. March 23 is the release date of the first Jimmie Dale Featurette.

MUTUAL

MUTUAL

David Horsley Presents

The Well-Known Screen Star

CRANE WILBUR

In A Series of Six, Five-Act

MUTUAL PICTURES

A new series of photodramas featuring Crane Wilbur will be released through the exchanges of the Mutual Film Corporation, beginning March 19th. This series comprises six productions written especially for CRANE WILBUR and produced by David Horsley. Each production will be in five acts. The first two subjects of the series are:

1. The Painted Lie (Released March 19th)
2. The Single Code

The titles and release dates of the additional four subjects that complete the series, will be announced later. These productions will be released at regular intervals through Mutual Exchanges everywhere.

For complete details wire or write your nearest Mutual Exchange at once.

Produced by Distributed by DAVID HORSLEY MUTUAL FILM CORPORATION

MUTUAL FILM CORPORATION

Presents

CHARLIE CHAPLIN

In the latest MUTUAL-CHAPLIN Special

"The CURE"

*Illustrating one instance in which The Old
Oaken Bucket "Wins Out" over Demon Rum.
Tenth of the Mutual-Chaplin Specials. °*

Release Date to be Announced Shortly

Now Playing:

"THE FLOORWALKER" - "THE FIREMAN" - "ONE A. M."
"THE VAGABOND" - "THE COUNT" - "THE PAWN SHOP"
"BEHIND THE SCREEN" - "THE RINK" - "EASY STREET"

Booking NOW At All MUTUAL EXCHANGES

MUTUAL

MUTUAL FILM CORPORATION

Presents

"SHORTY TRAILS the MOONSHINERS"

Ninth of "The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton" Featurettes

In the Kentucky mountains "Shorty" is made prisoner by the moonshiners.
Anita Keller, his sweetheart, has already been put out of the way. ° °

° How "Shorty" faces death in a subterranean trap and is rescued just in the nick of time, forms one of the most exciting of this series of two-reel Featurettes. ° °

RELEASED MARCH 12th

Produced by
MONOGRAM FILMS

Distributed Thru
MUTUAL EXCHANGES

MUTUAL

First Release April 9th

THE

RAILROAD RAIDERS

Featuring Fearless

HELEN HOLMES

A New And Spectacular Photo-Novel
Of Railroad Life. 15 Chapters!
SPEED! ACTION! THRILLS!
-in Every Chapter.

Get in Early! Wire your nearest Mutual Exchange AT ONCE for this third big Helen Holmes success.

DIRECTED BY J.P. MCGOWAN

Produced by

SIGNAL FILM CORPORATION

SAMUEL S. HUTCHINSON, President.

Distributed Through

MUTUAL EXCHANGES

MUTUAL

CHAPTER TITLES OF
"The Railroad Raiders"

Circumstantial Evidence
A Double Steal
Inside Treachery
A Watery Grave
The Car of Gold
A Race for Wealth
The Yellow Peril
The Millionaire's Special
The Fight for the Pass
The Great Tunnel Disaster
The Mystery of the Counterfeit Tickets
Total Paralysis
The Road Wreckers
The Trap
Hearts Are Trumps

MUTUAL VOGUE COMEDIES

VOGUE FILMS, Inc., Presents—

"A MATRIMONIAL SHOCK"

TWO REELS

RELEASED MARCH 17th

FEATURING LILLIAN HAMILTON

A FASHIONABLE seaside resort—teeming with pretty girls in snappy bathing suits, stately grand dames of haughty mien, and gay gallants, both old and young—furnishes the locale of this uproarious comedy. Lillian and her colored maid, in their endeavor to befuddle the fair Lillian's host of admirers, succeed in twisting the plot into a hopeless tangle—but it all ends happily. Directed by James D. Davis. Distributed exclusively in America through Mutual Film Exchanges.

VOGUE FILMS, Incorporated

General Offices : 6225 Broadway

Chicago, Illinois

MUTUAL

*Monmouth Film Corporation
Presents*

The new and widely advertised detective series—released for the first time beginning March 23rd—as Mutual Featurettes

Jimmie Dale

Alias "The Grey Seal"

featuring

E·K·LINCOLN EDNA HUNTER
PAUL PANZER DORIS MITCHELL

Action-Snap-Pep-Mystery! That describes this new series of sixteen Mutual Featurettes—each complete in two reels. Big stars! Thrilling stories!
Never before released. Adapted from the novel by Frank L. Packard.

First Episode "THE GREY SEAL"

Released March 23rd.

BOOKING NOW AT ALL
MUTUAL EXCHANGES

Produced by
Monmouth Film Corporation
HARRY McRAE WEBSTER, President
JULES BERNSTEIN, Gen'l Manager
Directed by HARRY McRAE WEBSTER

We do not claim that Cub Comedies will "knock 'em out of their seats" or throw an audience into "paroxysms of laughter," but we do say that Cub Comedies will put your patrons in a happy frame of mind and cause them to remark to one another as they leave your theatre: "Dandy comedy, wasn't it?"

Which is what we believe every exhibitor wants to hear his patrons say.

If you are looking for such subjects and if you are not already running Cub Comedies begin with

Minding the Baby

featuring

George OveyReleased March 22

This is a one-reel subject in which Jerry gets the babies mixed but after a great deal of trouble gets everything satisfactorily adjusted.

*Book through any exchange of
the Mutual Film Corporation*

DAVID HORSLEY PRODUCTIONS

A BANDIT and A GIRL

Are the center of a new photo-play of the great west—full of thrills and the daring of danger

William Fox

PRESENTS TWO NEW STARS

WILLIAM NIGH

AND

VIOLET PALMER

IN

The BLUE STREAK

WRITTEN AND DIRECTED BY WILLIAM NIGH

FOXFILM COMEDY SERVICE

On March 19th William Fox Presents
Henry Lehrman's Master Comedy—

The HOUSE OF TERRIBLE SCANDALS

FEATURING HENRY LEHRMAN AND BILLIE RITCHIE

A riot of laughter, stunts and surprises never approached on the screen — Foxfilm Comedies are released weekly

INDEPENDENT OF REGULAR FOX PROGRAM

*WM.A.BRADY in association with WORLD PICTURES
presents*

CARLYLE BLACKWELL

assisted by

JUNE ELVIDGE

ARTHUR ASHLEY

EVELYN GREELEY

in "The Social Leper"

Directed by HARLEY KNOLES Story by FLORENCE C. BOLLES

Thomas H. Ince
William S. Hart
The Square-deal Man

A new Triangle
Ray-Bee
P. I. & V.
Released
March
25th

They called Jack O'Diamonds
"The Square-deal Man"

because he never cheated..
But, even at that, he threw down his cards and started anew, because a sky - pilot called him a parasite - -
Then came "the little lady" and the crisis in Jack's eventful life.

Ince Studios
Calif.

RANDALL

MACK SENNETT-KEYSTONE

MACK SENNETT
KEYSTONE
COMEDIES

OPEN TO ALL
EXHIBITORS

SEPARATELY
FROM PROGRAM

SHOOT THE PEPPER

RELEASED ONLY BY TRIANGLE DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

TRIANGLE

As We Said Before

Two a week on
The TRIANGLE Program
One with each
Drama Release

RELEASED ONLY BY TRIANGLE DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

TRIANGLE

Releases for week of March 18th.

WILLIAM S. HART.

"THE SQUARE DEAL MAN."
INCE. KAY BEE

SEENA OWEN.

"A WOMANS AWAKENING."
FINE ARTS

Two Triangle
Komedies

RELEASED ONLY BY TRIANGLE DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

MACK SENNETT

P R E S E N T S

MISS
MABEL
NORMAND
AND HER OWN COMPANY
" IN " MICKEY

THE LITTLE GIRL
YOU WILL NEVER
F O R G E T

METHOD AND DATE OF RELEASE LATER
MABEL NORMAND FEATURE FILM

L O N G A C R E B L D G., NEW YORK CITY.

CINEMA
SERVICE

Released March 18th

Big Spectacular Comedy

"Her Circus Knight"

Don't miss this fascinating story of the sawdust ring and the White Tops.

The Newest, Most Amazing, Most Amusing
Mack Sennett - Keystone

A Great Story Featuring
ORA CAREW

See the Balloon Ascension

See the Sensational Parachute Jump

Laugh at the Funny Clowns

Released Independently Through TRIANGLE EXCHANGES

NOW SHOWING

RELEASED MARCH 11

Get a line on these new Mack Sennett-Keystones
by seeing

CHESTER CONKLIN and GREAT CAST in the screen scream

"DODGING HIS DOOM"

Get your Mack Sennett-Keystones from the nearest TRIANGLE EXCHANGE RELEASED INDEPENDENTLY

WHY? I MADE BETTY BRICE THE STAR

BECAUSE she has YOUTH, BEAUTY, ABILITY and EXPERIENCE coupled with a VERSATILITY that has carried her through all types of leading roles with tremendous success. My judgment is fully backed by such critics as "Hal" of the New York Clipper, who openly avows that:

"Miss Brice's performance of Mary Strickland in 'ON TRIAL' completely overshadows that of the creator of the role, Mary Ryan." Grewe, of the Dramatic Mirror, has this to say:

"In Jerry Miss Brice possesses all the piquant and hoydenish charms metropolitan audiences delight in associating with Billie Burke."

The Dispatch does not hesitate to proclaim that "Miss Brice's performance as Camille was the best the writer has ever seen."

WHY I Selected "WHO KNOWS" for My First Story

BECAUSE it is a "Big" story of Red Blooded love.

BECAUSE it has thrilling situations that are not forced.

BECAUSE the millions of readers who were carried away with it when it ran as a serial in Munsey's ALL STORY Magazine will welcome it as a picture.

BECAUSE of the tremendous advertising it had through this very popular magazine.

BECAUSE it will NOT DEPEND UPON ANY PREARRANGED PAID POLICE INTERFERENCE to gain cheap notoriety, but will be a tremendous success ON ITS OWN MERITS.

BECAUSE it blends in wonderful contrasts the picturesque beauties of the Western outdoors with the gorgeous settings depicting the wealth of society.

BECAUSE it makes one of the best five reel features on the open market today.

BECAUSE it is a picture for the MASSES as well as for the CLASSES.

BECAUSE it has every qualification that will go to make a picture for the CLEAR MINDED MILLIONS.

Sincerely,

I. BERNSTEIN.

STATE RIGHTS NOW BEING SOLD

BERNSTEIN FILM PRODUCTIONS

BOYLE AND STEVENSON AVENUES

LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA

ISADORE BERNSTEIN

INTRODUCES

THE SUBLIME
EMOTIONAL ACTRESS

BETTY
BRICE

IN

WHO KNOWS?

FROM THE SERIAL

BY

ETHEL & JAMES DORRANCE

IN

MUNSEYS "ALL STORY" MAGAZINE

Adapted by ROSALIE ASHTON and BEATRICE MORSE Direction JACK PRATT

TRADE

MARK

PICTURES
FOR THE CLEAN-MINDED

FOLLOWED BY

THE SEVEN
CARDINAL VIRTUES

SEVEN POWERFUL PRODUCTIONS

DEPICTING LIFE
IN ALL ITS BETTER PHASES

Supervision ISADORE BERNSTEIN

MADE IN AMERICA'S MOST BEAUTIFUL STUDIO

BERNSTEIN FILM PRODUCTIONS

BOYLE & STEVENSON AVE'S. - LOS ANGELES.

The Success
Special

Showing at
New York Rialto
Week of March 11

Sarah Bernhardt
IN

"MOTHERS OF FRANCE"

Written by Jean Richepin
Member of French Academy

Directed by Louis Mercanton

WRITE

or

WIRE

FOR BOOKINGS TO

Henry J. Brock

TENTH FLOOR 220 WEST 42ND ST., NEW YORK CITY

The World's Greatest Actress

IN

Her Greatest Triumph

Pathé

Announcing the phenomenal child
Little Mary Sunshine

(Baby Helen Marie Osborne)
in the five part Gold Rooster Play

Told at Twilight

Produced by Balboa

Released March 25

"After showing Baby Osborne in 'Shadows and Sunshine' to a very pleased audience, I want to tell you that it is as good a feature as I have ever seen. At least a hundred persons told me it was the best picture they had ever seen."

STRAND THEATRE, FLINT, MICH.

Pathé

You have learned to expect the best in Pathé serials.

MYSTERY OF THE DOUBLE CROSS

Is so good in story, so good in cast, so good in direction that each two reel episode is a feature in itself!

An adaptation from an original story
by Gilson Willetts

featuring

Mollie King

and

Leon Bary

Advertised in the great Hearst and other papers everywhere.

Produced by Astra

Released March 18

Pathé

Mollie King
in

Pathé's

MYSTERY OF THE DOUBLE CROSS

"Our Alamo Theatre played to 20,000 people in 4 days on one episode alone of

PATRIA
with
MRS. VERNON CASTLE!"

Fred J. Dolle, Pres't
Broadway Amusement Enterprises,
Louisville, Ky.

Written by Louis J. Vance
Produced by Wharton, Inc. for INTERNATIONAL
Released by Pathé

Pathé

"Lonesome Luke Comedies

give better satisfaction than any we have played and we play them all."

Rae Theatre Co.
Ann Arbor,
Michigan.

Two reel comedies only
Beginning
March 18

Produced by
Rolin

Harold Lloyd
star of the Luke Comedies

Pathé

Gladys Hulette

*in the five part play
by Agnes Johnston*

Pots and Pans Peggie

Produced by Thanhouser

*"The Shine Girl", "Prudence the Pirate" and "Her New York"
have struck a new note and
played to great business.
"Peggy" is the best yet.*

*Released
March 18*

Pathe-Thanhouser

presents

Mr. Frederick Warde

in a remarkable picturization of Oliver Goldsmith's world famous book

The Vicar of Wakefield

"A motion picture of unusual excellence."—Frank Lascelles, Director of the Photoplay League

Book exclusively through the

Super-Feature Department

of the

Pathe Exchange

25 West Forty-fifth Street, New York

*If it's interesting it's in
The Hearst-Pathé News*

Over eight years experience in making news films taught Pathé how to make them so everybody would like them. Now, in alliance with the greatest news-gathering organization in the world, the result is the most interesting motion picture -

"The only one reel feature"

With the Allies at Salonica

First Screen Appearance

of the most celebrated and picturesque mounted force in the world, the "Black Hussars" of Pennsylvania.

Five Smashing, Vibrant Parts,
Each Bristling With Action

A ROMANTIC STORY OF LOVE AND PERIL

ENTITLED

"TROOPER 44"

with

George Soule Spencer
June Daye
Roy Gahris

Walter P. Lewis
W. W. Black
Roy Sheldon

and 150 others

and two entire companies of dashing, dare-devil troopers in vivid, breath-catching action.

Produced by the

E. I. S. MOTION PICTURE CORPORATION

Under the personal supervision of

Dixon Boardman, President

Scenario by Garfield Thompson

The Picture They'll Talk About

PUNCHES!

The fight in the forest.

The wild night ride of the troopers.

A girl's fight for her honor.

The big fight and roundup of the outlaws.

For franchises
Write, wire or telephone

E. I. S. Motion Picture Corporation

203 W. 40th St., New York City
Telephone Bryant 8155 or its sales agent

JOSEPH R. MILES
220 W. 42nd St., New York City

POINTS!

Wonderful publicity
chances, striking paper, heralds, press sheets.

We'll tell you how to boost it.

Watch for Announcements of Future Releases

THE W H I P

in motion pictures is a combination of the MASTER MINDS of the Movie and the Stage

“THE

Originally created by Raleigh and Hamilton of the Drury Lane, London, with the masterly direction of Arthur Collins. It was prepared for American production by William A. Brady, and when selected for picturization on the screen it was given to that genius, Maurice Tourneur, who has turned out what at private showings has been classed by brainy people as a photoplay that will interest the world.

BUYERS COMMUNICATE NOW WITH

WHIP

It is modern. It is about people of today. It has a thrill in every reel. It is clean—you need fear no censor.

All men, women and children with red blood in their veins will want to see it.

It is cast with movie favorites that you all know.

It has six stars—not one.

All in all it has everything necessary to please, to thrill, to educate the young and old.

Offers from all parts of the world are pouring in—by cable, wire, letter and phone. So the early bird will be the one who will thrive by securing

The World's Greatest Motion Picture

THE WHIP

PARAGON FILMS Inc. 924 Longacre Bldg. N.Y.C.

IF YOU WISH TO ENTHRALL YOUR PATRONS LET THEM
SEE REX BEACH AND HIS FELLOW EXPLORERS

YOU'D BETTER FIRST APPEARANCE IN PICTURES OF
AND MARY ROBERTS
RINEHART

THE NOTED SHORT STORY AND DESCRIPTIVE WRITER

Battling with the Giant
Tarpon of the Chagres,
Harpooning Monster
Turtles,
Roping Mountain Lions
in the Jungle,
Photographing a Total
Eclipse of the Sun from the Crater of Mt. Turialaba,
Weathering a Terrific
Storm on the Spanish Main,
Capturing Colossal
Crocodiles,
Visiting the Stronghold of Morgan, the Buccaneer,
and
Invading the Islands of the Isolated and Unfriendly
San Blas Indians.

THREE 5 REEL THRILLERS

"REX BEACH ON THE SPANISH MAIN
"REX BEACH IN PIRATE HAUNT
"REX BEACH IN
THE FOOTSTEP
OF CAPT.
KIDD"

S. L. ROTHAPFEL

Acknowledged as the most discriminating judge of pictures in the business, is presenting this feature to capacity houses at

THE RIALTO, NEW YORK CITY

for an eight weeks' showing, the longest continuous run ever given a picture in this theatre, and paid a record price to secure it.

GRAB THIS NOW !!

BEACH THE NOVELIST

DOING THE KIND OF THINGS HE WRITES ABOUT A SUPERB PICTORIAL RECORD OF
Dr. EDWARD A. SALISBURY'S
2,000 MILE EXPLORING EXPEDITION TO CENTRAL AND SOUTH AMERICA.
THE ISLANDS OF THE CARIBBEAN, and THE FORBIDDEN RETREATS of the SAN BLAS INDIANS

Rex Beach

Take advantage of the free advertising you will get from the articles about this trip, written by Rex Beach and Mary Roberts Rinehart, in The Cosmopolitan and The Metropolitan Magazines.

STATE RIGHTS SELLING FAST

Wire or write to

GRAND FEATURE FILM COMPANY

Candler Building, 220 West 42nd Street

NEW YORK CITY

Cosmofotofilm Co

"Where the Real Features Come From"

ADVISES THAT

Manx Cats Have No Tails

They come from the Isle of Man

"THE MANX-MAN"

By

HALL CAINE

also comes from the Isle of Man

BUT—!!!

"The Manx-Man" Has a Wonderful Tale

A Super Feature Film

Running Time—Two Hours

Superbly Produced by

GEORGE LOANE TUCKER

Who produced the Box Office winner

"THE MIDDLEMAN"

and the English and European films of

"THE CHRISTIAN" "THE PRISONER OF ZENDA"

"ARSENE LUPIN," etc., etc.

The Government of the Isle of Man
The English Home Office
The British Board of Admiralty

For the First Time in History Gave an American Producer and Photographer Full Co-operation in the Production of a Film

HOLIDAYS WERE DECLARED on the Island and the Press urged the Entire Population to make

This First Film Taken on the Isle of Man
A Huge Success

9,000 "Manx-Men" Appear in the Crowd Scenes

This extraordinary co-operation was given because

"THERE IS BUT ONE HALL CAINE AND GEORGE LOANE TUCKER IS HIS PROPHET!"—*The London Cinema

The Author of
"THE CHRISTIAN"

"THE ETERNAL CITY"

"THE WOMAN THOU GAVEST ME"

AND

"THE MANX-MAN"

IS THE MOST READ—MOST POPULAR—
MOST FAMOUS NOVELIST NOW LIVING

He writes for and touches the hearts of THE MASSES OF THE PUBLIC as no other living author has succeeded in doing

"THE MANX-MAN"

Is HALL CAINE'S Most Human Story

IT IS MODERN

NOT IN COSTUME

COSMOFOTOFILM CO., 110 West 40th Street, New York City

GOLD MEDAL PHOTO-PLAYERS

STATE RIGHTS NOW SELLING!

'THE WEB OF LIFE'

IN 5 PARTS

Featuring JAMES CRUZE

In a Characterization Demanding Great Courage, Compelling Him to Face the Fury of a Madman, Finally Meeting Death Itself—All to Protect the Girl He Loves—Though the Wife of Another.

A Drama of Intense Action, with Sustained Interest Throughout and a Gripping Climax, Sure to Please the People.

New York State Rights Purchased by Pioneer Feature Film Co.
Nathan Hirsh, Pres.

Apply for Unsold Territory to

GOLD MEDAL PHOTOPLAYERS

729 Seventh Avenue
New York City

896 INQUIRIES

In One Week

FROM

Buyers, Bookers and Exhibitors

Throughout the Country

ON STATE RIGHTS FOR

"A Mormon Maid"

PRESENTING

MAE MURRAY

IN A SIX-PART DRAMA OF EARLY MORMON DAYS

NAMES OF BUYERS AND TERRITORIES

TO BE ANNOUNCED IN FUTURE ISSUE

CONTROLLED BY

FRIEDMAN ENTERPRISES, Inc.

BENJAMIN FRIEDMAN, President

HILLER & WILK, Selling Agents

SUITE 924

LONGACRE BUILDING, NEW YORK

SELZNICK LJS PICTURES

READ WHAT THE CRITICS SAY ABOUT

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG

In
"THE PRICE SHE PAID"

By David Graham Phillips

"Will be considered a classic one hundred years from now"

M.P. News.
"Fascinating... Miss Young wins a triumph."

Exhibitor's Trade Review.
"Admirable all around."

N. Y. American.
"Scored her greatest triumph"

N. Y. Eve. Journal.
"Takes high rank"

M. P. World.
"A financial cleanup anywhere"

Wid's Magazine.
One of the best screen adaptations ever presented.

Variety.
Directed By
CHARLES GIBLYN
ALBERT CAPELLANI - Director Gen'l

STILL ANOTHER BOOST FOR HARRY RAPF'S
Presentation of

ROBERT WARWICK

In
"THE ARGYLE CASE"

"There are big moments all the time in 'The Argyle Case'. Stirring situations follow one another...
The picture is not only the best in which Mr. Warwick has appeared but it is one which every exhibitor should find a valuable box-office medium." N.Y. Telegraph.

Adapted by Arrangement with Klaw
& Erlanger from the Detective Drama
By Harvey J. O'Higgins, Harriet Ford and William J. Burns.

Directed By
RALPH W. INCE

JOSEPH M. SCHENCK
Presents

NORMA TALMADGE

IN A POWERFUL DRAMA
OF MODERN LIFE

"THE LAW OF COMPENSATION"

By
Wilson Mizner

OFFERING THIS TREMENDOUSLY
POPULAR YOUNG STAR AN OPPORTUNITY TO MAKE FULL
USE OF HER VERSATILE DRAMATIC GIFTS.

SOLE
DISTRIBUTORS

LEWIS J SELZNICK EXCHANGES

BRANCHES
EVERYWHERE

SELZNICK'S PICTURES

HERBERT
BRENON'S

LATEST SCREEN ACHIEVEMENT
PRESENTING

FLORENCE REED
In
"THE ETERNAL SIN"

WILL OPEN A TWO-WEEKS ENGAGEMENT
AT THE BROADWAY THEATRE, SUNDAY
MARCH 18, AT ONE DOLLAR PRICES.

WATCH FOR THE COMMENTS OF
THE NEW YORK PRESS
ON THIS WONDERFUL
PRODUCTION.

MORE COMPELLINGLY DRAMATIC THAN "WAR BRIDES"

SOLE
DISTRIBUTORS

LEWIS J. SELZNICK EXCHANGES

BRANCHES
EVERYWHERE

IVAN

TO THE TRADE

NEW DISTRIBUTION PLAN

Inaugurated by

IVAN FILM PRODUCTIONS^{INC.}

All productions are made under the General Direction of Mr. Ivan
Abramson, author and director of
"ENLIGHTEN THY DAUGHTER"
Exchangemen—

Correspondence invited For Details of new distribution system and Distributor's Contract.

IVAN FILM PRODUCTIONS^{INC.}

126 West 46th Street, New York.

MEMBER OF NATIONAL ASSOCIATION MOTION PICTURE INDUSTRY

ART DRAMAS

Herbert Blaché
Presents

A superior picturization of EMILE ZOLA'S celebrated masterpiece "NANTAS" or

"A Man and The Woman"

with

Edith Hallor
Leslie Austen
& Kirke Brown

*A modern problem play of absorbing interest and tense situations adapted  for the screen by ***
Mme. Alice Blaché*

*Produced by U.S. Amusement
Corporation*

Art Dramas Program

116 WEST 39TH STREET NEW YORK CITY

ART DRAMAS

The Box Office Tells the Story

AN INTELLIGENT COMPARISON OF THE box office returns on the so-called star picture and the type of consistently entertaining screen productions released every week on the ART DRAMAS Program will quickly convince the thoughtful exhibitor of the fallacy of further supporting the profitless stage star system with its ridiculous film rental charges.

ART DRAMAS aptly exemplify the truth of the accepted axiom "The Play's the Thing." Produced in perfectly equipped studios under the painstaking direction of experts ART DRAMAS have achieved an enviable reputation in a remarkably short period of time.

The unusual grade of stories presented, supplemented by the proven box office value of the popular picture players appearing in ART DRAMAS, has established this new program as an unqualified success.

For full details regarding ART DRAMAS service of ONE A WEEK get in touch with any of the following exchanges:

NEW YORK—MODERN FEATURE PHOTOPLAYS, Inc., 729 Seventh Avenue.
 BOSTON—BOSTON PHOTOPLAY COMPANY, 205 Pleasant Avenue.
 PHILADELPHIA—ELECTRIC THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY, 1321 Vine Street.
 PITTSBURGH—LIBERTY FILM RENTING COMPANY, 938 Penn Avenue.
 DETROIT—TRI-STATE FILM EXCHANGE, 120 Broadway.
 CLEVELAND—TRI-STATE FILM EXCHANGE, Sincere Building.
 CINCINNATI—TRI-STATE FILM EXCHANGE, 23 Opera Place.
 CHICAGO—ART DRAMAS SERVICE, 207 South Wabash Avenue.
 DALLAS—SOUTHERN ART DRAMAS CORPORATION, 1911 Commerce Street.
 SALT LAKE CITY—PHOTOPLAY EXCHANGE, 137 East 2nd Street South.
 DENVER—PHOTOPLAY EXCHANGE, Welton Street.
 KANSAS CITY—STANDARD FILM CORPORATION, 1305 Walnut Street.
 ST. LOUIS—STANDARD FILM CORPORATION, 304 Empress Theatre Building.
 DES MOINES—STANDARD FILM CORPORATION.

or address

Art Dramas Incorporated

116 WEST 39TH STREET NEW YORK CITY

ART DRAMAS

The Consensus of Opinion

as expressed below by the leading trade journals indisputably proves the truth of our contention that ART DRAMAS is the logical program for every exhibitor.

THE MORAL CODE (Erbograph)

"The acting of the entire cast is worthy of every praise. The action and interest are both well maintained until the final reel."—Exhibitors' Trade Review.

HER GOOD NAME (Van Dyke Film Corp.)

"The company of players is a competent one. The human interest element is given a strong play. Jean Sothern heads the cast and shows ability. She has a certain charm."—Moving Picture World.

PRIDE AND THE DEVIL (Apollo)

"Alma Hanlon has a most difficult role to portray, but she does it with consummate art. This Apollo production will fill the bill."—Morning Telegraph.

ROSIE O'GRADY (Apollo)

"Excellent vehicle for Viola Dana. The story takes a hold on the interest from the beginning and capably holds it until the very last. A thoroughly entertaining play."—Exhibitors' Trade Review.

WHOSO FINDETH A WIFE (U. S. Amusement Corp.)

"This five-reel photoplay from the novel by J. Wesley Putnam is very well acted. In the cast may be found names that stand for honorable achievement in connection with the screen."—Moving Picture World.

THE LASH OF DESTINY (Van Dyke Film Corp.)

"The Lash of Destiny' will be profitable to exhibitors and appeal to all audiences. Shows throughout a laudable dependence of old situations and effects. The direction is exceptionally good."—Motion Picture News.

GOD OF LITTLE CHILDREN (Apollo)

"Alma Hanlon of sweet and engaging personality is given her first opportunity to shine under the direction of Richard Ridgely. Strong support. Capable handling. Good story."—Moving Picture World.

THE ADVENTURER (U. S. Amusement Corp.)

"The Adventurer' is indeed a gripping photoplay from start to finish. It is ably acted and capably directed. The Adventurer' consists of a story of thrills, pathos, suspense, action and mystery ably blended."—Exhibitors' Trade Review.

Art Dramas Incorporated

(116 WEST 39TH STREET NEW YORK CITY)

"THE WOMAN WHO DARED"

An Adaptation of the Novel by A. N. & C. N. Williamson
with

Beatriz Michelena

NOW BOOKING IN AMERICA'S BEST PLAYHOUSES

Produced by the

California Motion Picture Corporation

Grasp Opportunity When it Presents Itself
Twelve Opportunities Presented Yearly
A Better Than Program Feature Released Monthly
Every Production a Patronage Builder
Nothing But Money Getters

"BETTER THAN PROGRAM"

Ultra Pictures Corporation

729 7th Avenue

New York City

The La Salle Film Co.

announces

LAFCO COMEDIES

will soon be offered to the exhibitor through the offices of the leading Independent Exchanges throughout the country. Fourteen single reel subjects have been completed to date and will be released one each week.

LAFCO COMEDIES mark a distinct departure from the present comedy market surfeited as it is with the "slapstick," vulgar and risque.

LAFCO stands for—

LAVISH-ARTISTIC-FUNNY-CLEAN-OMNIPOTENT

—the qualities that go to make LAFCO the COMEDY DE LUXE.

Humor abounds—Vulgarity is noticeably absent

Territorial Rights Now Selling

STUDIOS { Los Angeles,
California

EXECUTIVE OFFICES { Harris Trust Bldg.,
Chicago, Illinois

•LAFCO COMEDIES•

CONQUEST PICTURES*The Open Road to Romance and Knowledge*PUBLISHED WEEKLY by Thomas A. Edison.THOMAS A. EDISON says:

"We have all heard a great deal during the past few years about the growing demand for better films for motion picture patrons of all ages. I have felt from the very start that little would be accomplished toward meeting this demand seriously until some responsible producer thought more of the future good of the business than the present gain. I have assumed the investment necessary to produce a better grade of clean and wholesome films, with full confidence that the American people will support 'EDISON CONQUEST PICTURES' so that they may ultimately produce a fair return on their original cost. These pictures are free from all features which have made the motion picture objectionable to many people and may be viewed by the entire family."

"THEY ARE NOW READY."

WM. W. HODKINSON says:

"I believe with MR. EDISON that a new day is ahead of us in the motion picture industry, that clean and wholesome films, entirely devoid of objectionable features, will receive just recognition from producers, distributors, exhibitors, and the public. I consider 'EDISON CONQUEST PICTURES' the first shot in a campaign for a better future condition, and I shall not be contented until they and similar films are displayed regularly in a representative motion picture theatre in every community."

EDISON CONQUEST PICTURES have been in preparation for the past eight months, when the first announcement was made. Ever since then there has been an incessant amount of correspondence requesting booking throughout the country on these productions. Exchanges are now rapidly being established in every important distributing point in the United States to take care of requests which have been received and which we will receive daily for these pictures. Watch for announcement in this publication of the EXCHANGES that will supply the territory in which you are located, also a list of forthcoming productions.

FORUM FILMS, INC.

1905 TIMES BUILDING

NEW YORK CITY

"Satan's Private Door"

presenting

MARY CHARLESON

and

Webster Campbell

Satan built a House of Jangling Discord, but it was turned into a House of Good Will and Love by a beautiful young girl.

By Sam W. Small, Jr.

Directed by J. Charles Haydon

Screen time 1 hour, 10 minutes

K-E-S-E

TRADE MARK
Reg. U. S. Pat. 1907

ESSANAY
GEORGE K. SPOOR, PRESIDENT

1333 Argyle St., Chicago

TRADE MARK
Reg. U. S. Pat. 1907

K-E-S-E

PRODUCERS OF PICTURES FOR THE FAMILY

K-E-S-E

(THIRD SERIES)

THE MISHAPS of MUSTY SUFFER

One Reel Comedies that Stood the Acid Test—and Will Stand It

Featuring

HARRY WATSON, Jr.

High class fun.

Box office tonic of proven merit.

Release dates

April 1. Spliced and Iced.

April 8. The Soda Jerker.

April 15. Wet and Dry.

April 22. Truly Rural.

April 29. The Ladder of Fame.

May 6. Pure and Simple.

May 13. The Fried Egg Hero.

May 20. Starlight Sleep.

May 27. Musty B. Young.

June 3. Musty's Vacation.

Mr. Exhibitor:

The first series (10) of these comedies made money for 3100 theatres

The second series (10) of these comedies made money for 3900 theatres

The third series (10) of these comedies will make money for 5500 theatres

Box office proof—not mere statements—tell the tale.

Communicate at once with

KLEINE-EDISON-SELIG-ESSANAY

80 Fifth Avenue, New York City

Branches Everywhere

52 FEATURES

52 WEEKS

Beginning Monday, April 2.

K. E. S. E. (Keys Service)

Will release

A FEATURE EVERY WEEK

Exhibitors Can Book Solid for a Year

52 Weeks of Box Office Sunshine
For K.-E.-S.-E. Service Patrons

Max Linder Will Make More Money For Exhibitors Than Any Other Film Comedian

"MAX COMES ACROSS" made a big hit

"MAX WANTS A DIVORCE" will make a bigger hit

Harry Watson, Jr., in
"Mishaps of Musty Suffer"

BILLIE BURKE

in

"Gloria's Romance"

KLEINE-EDISON-SELIG-ESSANAY

80 Fifth Avenue, New York City

Branches Everywhere

SELIG

OFFERS

"LITTLE LOST SISTER"

Every mother should urge her daughters to see the SELIG RED SEAL PLAY, "Little Lost Sister," pictured by Gilson Willets from VIRGINIA BROOKS' World-famous book and play of the same name. "Little Lost Sister" presents a problem that is centuries old and yet is ever new. How shall we reclaim "Little Lost Sisters"? The production presents a gripping love story and an impressive lesson. Vivian Reed, Bessie Eyton, George Fawcett, Eugenie Besserer and others are featured.

"He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at her."—John 8-7.

SELIG POLYSCOPE CO.

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

K-E-S-E

K-E-S-E

K-E-S-E

K-E-S-E

The Verdict of the Supreme Court of Criticism

A few mornings ago there assembled at the Broadway Theatre, New York, the most distinguished audience that ever came together to see a motion picture.

In that audience, which packed the theatre, there were dramatic critics, musical critics, playwrights, theatre owners, publishers, actors, artists, "first-nighters" and a great throng of motion picture producers, distributors and exhibitors.

They came to see a great story greatly produced—a picture which marked a new epoch and set a new standard—the film version of that wonderful romance of Alaskan life.

THE BARRIER

By Rex Beach

The verdict of this audience—the most critical and difficult to satisfy that even New York could produce—was unanimous and enthusiastic.

In conversation, in messages of congratulation, in the newspapers, in the reviews by motion picture magazines, "The Barrier" is hailed as the most remarkable and the most revolutionary motion picture yet produced—a picture destined to enjoy a run which will break all records.

Why? Because "The Barrier" is a wonderful story of life, greatly acted, greatly produced. A story by a man whose virile, red-blooded romances have made him the most popular author America has ever produced—stories which run into editions of hundreds of thousands.

In "The Barrier" they will see the big, strong, vital things of life—love, faith, pain, joy, courage, struggle, sacrifice, clash—a vivid, truthful drama of primitive life told by a great writer who saw it unfold before his own eyes, and himself played a man's part in it.

Directed by Edgar Lewis, produced under the personal supervision of the author.

REX BEACH PICTURES CO., Inc.

440 Fourth Avenue

New York City

We are shipping quantities of this striking three sheet—the originals are in four colors—to all of the General Film Exchanges. Order direct from the one nearest to you.

If you want to get the box office angle on Kalem's sensational SERIES—"The American Girl"—be sure to read the criticisms published weekly in this and other trade journals.

Grimm, in the
MOVING PICTURE WORLD

"The Fate of Juan Garcia," the latest two-reel episode of Kalem's "The American Girl," is a winner. It is a Western that will go good in any house.

Worts, in the MOTION PICTURE NEWS

"The American Girl" Stories run true to form, and they stay on the track. Kalem's two-reel pictures have a greater week-to-week consistency than is attained only with difficulty by the five-reelers.

Two splendid examples of the way this popular SERIES is impressing the Motion picture critics.

An Advertising Campaign in Your Local Newspapers, Carrying the Name of Your Theatre, Is Being Waged by the General Film Co. to Help You Get Bigger Returns from Kalem Pictures. Look Into It.

RECOMMENDED MONEY-MAKERS IN SERIES FORM

"A Daughter of Daring" "Grant, Police Reporter"

Featuring

HELEN GIBSON

The Railroad Series Supreme
Directed by Scott Sidney

Featuring

GEORGE LARKIN and
OLLIE KIRKBY

Stories by Robert Welles Ritchie
Directed by Robert Ellis

LLOYD V.
HAMILTON

"HAM COMEDIES"

The Funniest Rapid-Fire Singles Ever Filmed
Directed by Al Santell

A. E.
DUNCAN

*All Kalem Productions Can Now Be Booked Independently of the Other
Releases on the General Film Program*

KALEM COMPANY

235 WEST 23rd STREET

NEW YORK CITY

KALEM'S BIBLICAL MASTERPIECE

From

The Manger
On
The Cross

Only a limited number of prints are available for
the

Easter Season

You are urged to make your reservations at once to avoid a possible disappointment.

One, three and eight sheet posters,
many styles, a 24-
sheet stand, slides and two kinds of couriers.

BOOK DIRECT!

Entered at the General Post Office, New York City, as Second Class Matter

J. P. CHALMERS, Founder.

Published Weekly by the

CHALMERS PUBLISHING COMPANY

17 MADISON AVENUE, NEW YORK CITY.

(Telephone, 3510 Madison Square)

J. P. Chalmers, Sr. President
J. F. Chalmers. Vice-President
E. J. Chalmers. Secretary and Treasurer
John Wylie. General Manager

The office of the company is the address of the officers.

CHICAGO OFFICE—Suite 917-919 Schiller Building, 64 West Randolph St., Chicago, Ill. Telephone, Central 5099.

PACIFIC COAST OFFICE—Haas Building, Seventh St. and Broadway, Los Angeles, Cal. Telephone, Broadway 4649.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

United States, Mexico, Hawaii, Porto Rico and

Philippine Islands $3.00 per year

Canada 3.50 per year

Foreign Countries (Postpaid) 4.00 per year

Changes of address should give both old and new addresses in full and be clearly written. Two weeks' time may be required to effect the alteration.

ADVERTISING RATES.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING—One dollar for twenty words or less; over twenty words, five cents per word.

DISPLAY ADVERTISING RATES made known on application.

NOTE—Address all correspondence, remittances and subscriptions to MOVING PICTURE WORLD, P. O. Box 226, Madison Square Station, New York, and not to individuals.

(Index to this issue will be found on page 1994.)

"CINE-MUNDIAL," the monthly Spanish edition of the Moving Picture World, is published at 17 Madison Avenue by the Chalmers Publishing Company. It reaches the South American market. Yearly subscription, $1.50. Advertising rates on application.

Saturday, March 24, 1917

Facts and Comments

"I AM through putting up deposits, I am booking on the open market, no more yearly contracts for me." These statements conclude the letter of a theater manager in Illinois. Along with his letter he inclosed the letter of a branch exchange manager, to whom he had overpaid by mistake about nine dollars. Rather than refund this by check without question as any common sense business man would have done, the so-called branch manager made the ridiculous excuse that the system of bookkeeping carried out with the home office will not permit of a refund and forced the exhibitor to take another picture, although his program was already arranged for. Further comment is unnecessary.

Still another exhibitor writes from Kentucky and says: "I have had several deposit contracts and have as yet not had a single one that has been satisfactory. As far as my knowledge goes this is one of the greatest drawbacks in the business. We are doing our part to eliminate the bad system, as we will not put up a deposit with any of them and yet we get good service and satisfaction from all our exchanges." The MOVING PICTURE WORLD believes that any system which causes so much antagonism must be fundamentally wrong. That there are evils to be corrected goes without saying, but the deposit system is evidently not the cure.

* * *

PRODUCERS of motion pictures will find much to interest them in the issue of the Bulletin of the Author's League of America for the month of February. The relation of the author to the picture producer is discussed separately by several authors and then a committee of authors, representing the organization, presents a rather stinging indictment of the methods of producers in dealing with authors who have tried to write for motion pictures. While the faults complained of are serious and, unfortunately, have existence, the committee blames authors themselves for falling so easily into the "traps set for the unwary."

*

This view of the situation is further emphasized by Ellis Parker Butler, who says that his experience has led him to conclude that the short story writer has no business trying to write scenarios. He said that scenario writing is a highly specialized occupation—quite different from short story writing, which, too, was a business in itself; that the short story writer who thought he could dash off a few scenarios in his idle moments had an entirely mistaken idea of the requirements, or words to that effect, and finally advised short story writers to let the scenario alone unless they could afford to quit the short story field. He cited his own experience as being very unsatisfactory.

*

It is unfortunate that capable writers, such as are banded together in the Authors' League, should so soon deny the motion picture their valued services. The time is propitious for their participation in this greatest of all amusement enterprises. The need of good stories is a present one, and who should be better fitted to write them than the men who are writing contemporary fiction?

* * *

EDWIN H. BLASHFIELD, an artist by profession and president of the Advisory Committee of the Photoplay League, one of our leading "uplift" societies, contributed a rather interesting article on motion pictures which was published in the New York Times Magazine of March 4. Prefacing his observations with a full admission of the importance of the picture as an entertainment, he dwells at some length upon the importance of the picture as an educator, putting it first in the category of the various means of transmitting thought. "No written or spoken sentence can reach the mind as swiftly and concentratedly as the thing seen" is one of the most potent statements. Continuing, Mr. Bashfield contends that the importance of the picture will grow with its improvement, and, while admitting that it will be no easy enterprise, he declares that "making the good film more attractive than the bad one would seem to be the only certain way of succeeding." And so it would seem.

* * *

THE City of Seattle, Washington, has just passed two regulations that well might be copied by every self-respecting community in America. One of these new rules forbids the use of the American flag by performers for the purpose of drawing applause and the other prohibits the playing of the "Star-Spangled Banner" in medley. There's a shining star in the western borders of our flag and it intends to keep the luster of the bright name it bears.

We Are Just Beginning ☐ ☐ ☐ ☐ ☐ ☐ ☐ By Louis Reeves Harrison

OUTSIDE of the studios, very few people know why really fine stories are so seldom exhibited on the screen, but the number of good ones is on the increase—we are growing—the big question seems to be: "How can we accelerate that growth?" Tremendous activity in every department of visualization is natural because visualization comes directly under managerial supervision. There is even an honest attempt made to build up a staff of capable writers, such as that of a newspaper or trade journal, but such expedients are exhaustive and temporary. Real creative ability cannot work on a salary, nor in a busy office.

Knowledge of studio and screen requirements is confined to a mere handful of capable writers, and responsibility for this condition is divided. It may be true, as Channing Pollock describes wittily in relating his personal experiences, that producers adopt a lofty tone in dealing with authors, but the authors themselves are largely to blame. They are not doing much to inspire respect. They imagine that their stock of rejected scripts furnishes material good enough for the "movies"—they are under-estimating the new medium of expression quite as much as they are personally and artistically undervalued by producers.

It is almost as difficult to make natural-born writers of stories understand that they are dealing with an entirely new and forceful medium, one of great power and beauty, yet one which must be studied with care, as it is to convince producers that they cannot long obtain new and attractive stories by present-day methods. This art does not fail because the common people love it. Then it is young and vigorous. It is bound to grow, but no necessity exists for its growing up like "Topsy."

With novelists and stage dramatists assuming a lofty attitude toward the "movies," with producers assuming a lofty attitude toward authorship, how many people really capable of solving our most urgent problem are giving the matter unselfish study? The purely selfish attitude is injurious to all concerned. If Mr. A. produces a splendid photodrama, he is benefiting, not rivaling, Mr. B., his competitor. Every fine contribution to the exhibitor's program enhances more than the value of that one exhibition—it fosters confidence in exhibitions to come, faith in the art itself.

Level-headed exhibitors aim to satisfy their customers, the best advertisement in the world, but their position has been like that of the audience—they have made the best of what is produced and shown, but that attitude may not long be maintained. Already are producing concerns being organized by exhibitors, concerns assured of a certain amount of financial support from the start. Squeezed between such organizations on one side and companies controlled by leading stars on the other, it is possible that producers of ability will realize that something has been going on in these columns for years aiming at a balance of artistic elements.

There has been advocated on this page of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD for many years a unity of necessary elements in motion picture production. What chance has a fine actor in a badly handled play of no opportunity? What chance has a good story badly directed and interpreted? How can a director make a success of an outworn tale and a poor company? There is a question of balance involved, just as in a painted picture, a carved statue, a stage play or a printed novel. Absolutely essential to success in all arts of design is harmonious adjustment of proportion.

An impartial survey of the whole field will reveal that the leading department has been that of interpretation. Actors have been sincere, patient and devoted to a specialty. Rarely, and not to their personal advantage, have they gone beyond the limitations of their specialty, that of representing dramatic characters and giving personal significance to a role. The exceptional instances are those where they found release for some better expression of themselves as authors or as directors. The best of these few have merely changed from one department to another.

There are many cases where actors have made fine directors, largely because they understand the needs and sensibilities of the people they handle. Their weakness lies in an adherence to traditional "situations" and conventional methods. They adapt themselves more readily to motion picture style of presentation than to story form and structure. They are quick to see and utilize advantageous incidents and picture effects in detail, but they do not so readily grasp the necessity of a whole impression, the massed effect of several hundred scenes, the mood of a story. But there are some splendid artists among directors, men who have really blazed the way to artistic production.

In the natural course of things, some comment should follow on authors, but where are they? The few who understand screen requirements are busy enough—they are too busy—there ought to be a thousand of them—but there are not enough of such men to be spoken of as a class. We have some skillful adapters, some of them headed for true authorship, and there are a few million amateurs still pegging away cheerfully, nearly all of them without natural qualification and headed straight for oblivion. It may, however, be justly said of the few who have measured up to screen requirements that they make wretched directors and worse actors.

One or two notable exceptions may be found, but the very nature of an author's work, requiring that concentration of mind ordinarily impossible where there are disturbing influences, unfits him for the intimate personal contact going on almost constantly between director and interpreter in the studios. The real author must be left alone to create a new world from his imagination, or to shadow forth some new phase of the life we already know. To hold the mood of his story, to keep in mind from start to finish the big impression, necessarily spreads a mantle of solitude over his work beyond assault until it is finished.

Just like children, we reflect images first presented to our minds. We are doing a great deal of make believe, but we can train this young art the way it should go. The Italians have a saying: "Little children with headaches, great children with worse headaches," but there is a way up to sound and sage maturity. That way seems to be through consideration of the relative importance of all three departments of artistic production, gauging their relative values, arranging and adjusting them, until symmetry and equipoise are attained.

Will This Merger Ever Come to Pass? By Sam Spedon

THESE is such a wide range and so many angles to the motion picture industry that it is impossible to ascribe one single reason to explain conditions as they exist today. The industry is undergoing a process of evolution, elimination of waste and the concentration of effort. It is merely a repetition of what other industries have gone through arriving at a systematized and organized basis of business operation.

The first problem that confronts us is the satisfying of the public, supplying the demand for a great variety of stories, and pictures to appease a great diversity of tastes or preferences. The effort to meet this demand naturally brings into existence a thousand and one producing companies, some of whom try to produce everything and anything that the public demands. This effort seems to have been the cause for the failure of many of the old line manufacturers to keep pace with some of the more recent producing companies that have come upon the motion picture map; companies who have specialized in one or two kinds of pictures, and concentrated their energies on making the best of those kinds. Stars are now forming their own companies to produce pictures they believe are best suited to their ability and furnish the best mediums for exploiting their talents. To the organization of companies and the making of pictures there seems to be no end. In addition to plays, the educational and industrial pictures are fast making their appearance to appease the increasing demand.

The next and most vital of all questions which now presents itself is how can all these pictures be distributed at the least possible cost and through the most direct channel. This question has led to mergers and rumors of still greater mergers. This question is a very important one, and a centralized and concentrated mart in a specially erected building in every film center seems to be inevitable and the only solution—one great market or exchange under one supervising head, where the exhibitor may secure such pictures as his patrons want and his needs suggest, without the necessity of running all over town and creation to find what he wants. By this means the general managers and assistant managers of each individual company's exchange, as now conducted, might be done away with and the overhead be brought down to a minimum.

There seems to be a general tendency toward this centralizing of distribution. We read every now and then of exchanges doing away with purchasing the pictures outright and releasing on percentage, which appears to be another indication pointing toward a big merger.

The advantage of such a merger of exchanges is the estimated reduction of overhead, meaning a greater revenue to the producers and a reduction in cost of distribution to the exhibitors. It would not necessarily mean that the producer would not retain his own method of rental. He might continue the program plan, deposit or open booking system. It would mean, however, an elimination of all unnecessary trouble and expense in getting what you want.

This centralization under one great roof may not be realized today, but it does seem probable in the evolution of the industry when it reaches an established basis of business procedure and co-operation.

Miss Champagne, Exhibitor Extraordinary By George Blaisdell

THAT is a remarkable woman whose activities were last week described in our correspondence from Boston. It is announced that Miss Mildred Champagne has taken over the management of a chain of twelve motion picture and vaudeville theaters. Who will deny that, after all, there is something in a name; that here is the suggestion of boundless energy, of sparkling wit, of bubbling, perennial youth; that it has a sound like unto that of tumbling waters or yet of gold clinking in the box office till? Miss Champagne, it seems, has written four plays, which have been produced in the Center of Culture and are now on tour through the Outer Cultural Demesne, as the circumjacent New England terrain is known to the descendants of the ten thousand and one voyagers of the Mayflower; later these four plays are to be adapted for the screen.

The new manageress is a Radcliffe graduate and a traveler of wide experience. She is a linguist, a musician and a creator of popular songs and musical comedies—how could they be other than popular and musical—as well as a writer of philosophical books, magazine articles and travel sketches. It is even declared Miss Champagne finds time (who said time was made for slaves?) to devote to a music publishing house which she owns and to a chain of the most fashionable dancing schools; and her "Love and Sentiment" Talks are syndicated in forty newspapers.

It is set forth in this story the origin of which in any city other than Boston would have been unthinkable that Miss Champagne is training a select number of performers to appear in one-act plays, musical comedies and excerpts from operas and that these players are to be seen in Boston and New England. Our correspondent naively states that Miss Champagne believes in New England talent. Believes in it? Who does not, after reading this record of achievement, also believe in it? Miss Champagne would convert the world to it if it were not already converted. Why should the rest of us, even those of us 'way, 'way out here in New York, be denied the privilege of sitting under the bottomless spell of the histrionically illustrious pupils of the Mildred Champagne Dramatic School? But Pshaw! Pupils they are not, they cannot be. Stars is the word. Stars they were born.

Miss Champagne announces that, so far as possible—and seemingly with her nothing is impossible—she wants to get in personal touch with her audiences. "I intend to appear upon the stage of my theaters from time to time," she says, "to have confidential chats with my patrons, to find out what sort of entertainment they really desire, and I want every one of my theaters to assume something of the nature of a neighborhood club." Above and beyond that, every motion picture shown at Miss Champagne's theaters will be personally selected by her—at just which hour of the year our hitherto veracious Boston deponent sayeth not.

It would seem that the days and a good part of the nights of Miss Champagne will be busy. We commend all these enumerated accomplishments and ideas outlined for execution to those poor adult males who would deny the ballot to woman on the ipse dixit that she is lacking in brain capacity. Let them attempt to memorize the major details of Miss Champagne's day's work; and then forever hold their peace.

We extend to Miss Champagne our best wishes on her entrance into the ranks of New England exhibitors. We are sure she will be a power in her community and among her fellows. We have a feeling that that grizzled veteran, that pioneer of Yankee film men, Frank John Howard, will have to gird on his armor and look to his laurels. We think perchance even that grim Howardian smile may fade.

Well may the sacred Codfish on the State House take on new luster.

Is the Public Educated to Expect Too Much

BY SAM SPEDON.

MANY times in days gone by we have heard the lament that the public was not educated up to an appreciation of the higher art of motion pictures, and now we hear murmurings that it is educated to expect too much, and its demand for the higher standards of motion pictures is putting the producers to the test.

Not so many years ago the portable snapshot camera was unknown. We recall the time when the tourist and the newspaper correspondent who could not sketch were obliged to purchase photographs from the local photographer. The newspapers had to telegraph him for his photographs of happenings and scenes in his vicinity for publication, entailing considerable delays and expense. The advent of the snapshot camera made it possible for an almost endless chain of communication with all parts of the world, and almost everybody now days has a photographed record of everything associated with his life and travels. The camera and its mechanism is no longer a mystery and a novelty.

Only a few years ago motion pictures were a novelty, a mystery, people looked upon them as something marvelous and unfathomable. The players were creatures of fairyland, myths of some unknown world. Today they are robbed of much of the mystery and conjectures of the early days. The press agent is responsible for divulging the secrets and mechanism of motion pictures; they have explained them all, and publicity has done much to strip the players of the ideals with which the public clothed them.

The public has become so familiar with motion pictures that it is educated up to an analytical and critical viewpoint. It values them only as they amuse, entertain and instruct, and extols them only on their dramatic and intrinsic merits. Anything and everything will not do. Pictures suffer by comparison, and the public knows the qualities that go to make the good, bad and indifferent. Motion pictures have advanced faster than counted on, and the public has caught up with them. As we become connoisseurs our tastes become more sensitive and we demand luxuries—the question is how we can serve these luxuries at popular prices and satisfy the tastes we have created.

Indiana Legalizes Sunday Picture Shows

WHEN Governor Goodrich of Indiana defied the Sabbatarians of that State and affixed his signature of approval to the McCray Bill a great step toward the freedom of the screen was taken. The occasion was a momentous one; it was the first time that the motion picture, standing before a State Legislature, has won a distinct victory on its merits. Consequently there is great rejoicing among the picture theater men of Indiana, likewise among the great amusement loving public of that state, which may now enjoy its favorite form of recreation upon all seven days of the week.

It was a clean-cut fight in which clean pictures won against bigotry and misrepresentation. All the "blue law" fanatics, all the Sabbath observance societies and the religious organizations which seek to compel society to observe one day in the week after the tenets of Mosaic law, employed every means within their grasp to prevent the passage of the McCray bill. But the supporters of that measure were able to meet their every objection, to refute every false statement and to prove to the satisfaction of an overwhelming majority of Indiana's lawmakers in both Senate and Assembly, and finally to Governor Goodrich, that motion pictures were a harmless, wholesome form of amusement and in no wise a desecration of the Christian Sabbath.

So much for that phase of the bill.

To accomplish so much against the formidable opposition to the exhibition of pictures on Sunday the supporters of the McCray bill found it advisable to submit to a mild form of censorship in the provision for a Motion Picture Commission composed of three persons who shall have power to investigate complaints against pictures.

To have opposed this provision of the McCray bill at this time would have laid the supporters of the bill open to considerable, and possibly effective, criticism from those who contested its passage. The supervision by the commissioners does not approach the power of censorship that is placed in the hands of the boards of censors of Ohio and Pennsylvania, which laws compel the submission of all pictures and the payment of a fee of so much per reel on all pictures passed before they can be exhibited in the State.

Another provision in the McCray bill is for a State license tax varying according to the size of the city in which the theater is located. It is expected that this tax will pay the expenses of the Commission.

As against the very material gain in being able to exhibit pictures on Sunday these concessions are nominal in character and a trifling price is to be paid for the greater privilege.

The great prize was the acceptance of the principle by the Indiana State Legislature that motion picture exhibitions are a proper form of amusement for Sunday, the enactment of a law recognizing that principle, and the setting of the final seal of approval upon that action by Governor Goodrich.

It is the belief of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD, which belief is supported by excellent legal authority, that Indiana is the first State to enact a law which gives in specific terms to motion picture exhibitors the right to operate on Sunday. The only possible exception is the Idaho statute, adopted in 1911, which gave to cities and towns the right to say whether or not motion picture exhibitions should be given on Sunday—a local option law for pictures. The Indiana law is statewide and became operative upon the affixing of the signature of the Governor on March 8.

New York May Have Film Commission ☞ ☞ ☞ ☞ ☞

Possibility of State Regulation of Pictures Made Evident When Wheeler Committee Resumed Hearings

NEW YORK State may have a commissioner or commission for the "regulation" of motion pictures whose powers will be much the same in the state as are those of Commissioner of Licenses George H. Bell in the City of New York.

Such was the possibility indicated by the trend of questions asked when the Wheeler legislative committee, which has been investigating the motion picture industry in an endeavor to learn if the industry is a fit subject for taxation, resumed hearings on Thursday, March 8, at the Murray Hill Hotel, New York. The questions along this line followed the testimony of Commissioner Bell, who told the committee that he believed the public was in favor of treating indecent pictures in the manner that he had been treating them.

Mr. Bell's ideas are favored by men high up in the industry, testimonial approval having been given the Wheeler committee by Benjamin B. Hampton, president of the General Film Company; Walter W. Irwin, general manager of Vitagraph-V-L-S-E, and William A. Brady, president of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry and general manager of the World Film Corporation.

In the course of his testimony on Thursday Commissioner Bell said that he strongly favored the passage of a law whereby operators of projection machines would be forced to pass more than a merely perfunctory examination, and whereby they would be compelled to serve a probationary period before filling positions. Senator Walker told Mr. Bell that there was such a bill now pending at Albany.

The witness also went on record as being in favor of the governing of New York's restaurants and cabarets by the License Department.

He went into great detail on the question of objectionable pictures, stating that he believed the public backs his department against them. In this connection he said he had recently stopped five pictures that were considered indecent, and that the Exhibitors' League of Brooklyn and other organizations had sent congratulatory messages as a result.

Large manufacturers, the witness testified, are producing better pictures than they were three years ago. He said that there was still trouble with the small house managers. The penal provision which forbids the admission of children without a parent or guardian is often violated, he stated.

Mr. Bell gave it as his belief that there should be at least one day's rest in a week, particularly for moving picture operators. For that reason, he testified, he believed in the Sunday observance, although he thought it was foolish to permit certain shows on Sunday and prohibit others.

Commissioner Bell submitted to the committee lists of figures as to the number of licenses issued in New York City. He gave it as his guess that the daily average attendance in the city was about 600,000. He thought 50 per cent. of the afternoon audiences consisted of children, and that about 10 per cent. of the evening crowds were children.

Figures were submitted by Mr. Bell showing that there are at present in New York City 864 licensed theaters, exclusive of the circus houses, with a total seating capacity of 630,266. Of these 421 are motion picture theaters, 209 open air, and 65 common show houses.

In 1916 there were 1,036 licensed theaters, and in 1915 there were 1,169.

Benjamin B. Hampton followed Mr. Bell on the stand. He strongly indorsed the idea of having in every state a commission based on the ideas of Commissioner Bell. He expressed the opinion that all amusements and sports should come under the same control if the plan could be properly worked out.

Mr. Hampton told the committee how, in days past, men had made fortunes by being swept along with the tide of public approval and not knowing how it really happened. But the producer and distributor are not making money now, he stated, because there is an overproduction of feature films. He placed the percentage of those in the business who are at present making money at about 5 per cent. He added that he believed the industry was slowly getting on a sound business basis.

Of the high salaries paid some stars, the witness said:

"It is utter idiocy, utter folly, to pay such enormous salaries. Charlie Chaplin and Mary Pickford are worth three-quarters of a million dollars a year, but to pay $100,000 a year to those actors who on the legitimate stage received $20,000 is beyond any defense."

Referring to the project of copying in the state some regulatory commission, such as is exercised by Commissioner Bell, the witness insisted that all men of the higher type in the business favored such a supervision, and believed that in the final analysis enough would be saved the producer, distributor and exhibitor to more than pay for any tax, providing this was not too heavy.

"At present the industry suffers more from censorship—more often ridiculous than helpful—than from any other cause," said Mr. Hampton, "and each state has a different method."

Care must be exercised before any tax is imposed, declared the witness, not to further burden the exhibitor, particularly the small exhibitor, because he is a necessity to the public and to the producer. What is needed, he added, is a state machinery imposing a small tax which will keep the industry clean and drive out the unwholesome picture. He stated he believed that the short-length picture, crowded out by a surfeit of features, would soon return to its own.

Mr. Hampton told the committee of the losses in the business due to thefts. He said that thieving was done by a clever duplicating machine, by stealing sections of films and by other petit larceny methods. Other losses are incurred, he said, through the mutilation of film by inexperienced operators. The witness stated that he thought this loss could in a large measure be prevented by legislation.

Marion Would Purge Industry.

George F. Marion, president of the Kalem Company, declared that he was going to quit the industry if it was not purged of its iniquity.

"I for one," he said, "am going to get out of the business for shame in facing my family if something is not done to eradicate the filthy side of the industry."

The old nickel-in-the-slot machine which used to flourish, he said, had perished because the entertainment they offered was too salacious. He gave it as his opinion that the same fate awaits motion pictures unless they reform.

"The Board of Review," he said, "is a failure. Indecent pictures frequently have as their backers people who quote moral lessons, the Bible and education as their excuses. It needs one man, not seven, with a little red blood in his veins, to handle the proposition, just as Commissioner Bell has."

Walter W. Irwin was called as the first witness on Saturday. He told the committee that he was in favor of a regulating board such as described by Mr. Hampton. He also stated that the public can be relied upon to take care of the producer of the unwholesome picture. He said that the swing of the pendulum was in the direction of clean pictures and that the public at large would support no others.

Answering Senator Hinman's question Mr. Irwin stated that the losses resulting from theft were "substantial," and further agreed with the Senator that if every film were stamped ineradicably with the mark of the owner thefts would be considerably fewer.

Mr. Irwin testified that he favored state regulation of motion pictures "if it permitted a man his day in court, and if the fee was not prohibitive."

Mr. Irwin pointed out to the committee the fact that the motion picture industry had no objection to paying its share of a state tax if that tax was placed on all other forms of amusements also. He heartily indorsed Commissioner Bell's administration and referred to Mr. Bell as a man beyond reproach.

J. H. Hallberg, a projection expert, was next called. He told the legislators in great detail of projection affairs, and explained to them the manner in which film is often rendered useless through lack of experience on the part of the operator, worn sprocket teeth, and various other causes. He was very much in favor of unifying the operators all over the country. He said that the salaries paid some of the men were shameful, pointing out that a poor operator can make a poor showing of the best film ever produced.

Brady Strong for the Bell Idea.

William A. Brady was the next to testify. He said that he and practically every other officer and member of the National Association were in favor of extending Commissioner Bell's system throughout the state and country. He said that it was the most effectual method of censorship, and was a method that was favored by the public and the majority of the producers. As to the method's efficiency he cited the case of a certain picture that had been circulated in various states, and that enjoyed a particularly long run in Chicago. He said that when Commissioner Bell learned that steps had been taken to bring the picture to New York, the Commissioner immediately sent a letter to every theater in the city, instructing them that if they ran the film their license would be forfeited. "As a consequence," Mr. Brady said, "the film has not as yet been publicly shown in this city."

Mr. Brady made general statements to the committee more than giving any particular testimony. He was speaking as president of the National Association of the Motion Picture industry. He said that a few days before several other men and himself had held a meeting during which the tax question was discussed.

"Our industry feels that if we are to be taxed," he said, "that all other species of amusements should also be taxed. If you are considering the big salaries paid in the motion picture business, consider the salaries paid, for instance, at the Metropolitan Opera House. Those are high salaries, too, and most of them are being paid people who catch the first possible boat to Europe. They do not even spend their money in this state or country. Consider the price of opera seats, and the profits, too."

"Then there are the cabarets, the high-priced restaurants, the hotels, baseball and other sports—all of which are the means of bringing in great revenue. If we are to be taxed, tax them also."

"Legitimate theaters and motion picture theaters seem to have been discriminated against in the matter of laws, too. Why, when I built the Playhouse I had to have alleyways and had to use up space that represented $80,000 in real estate—all this to care for the safety of the nine hundred persons that the theater seats. Last night I was at a dinner on the eighteenth floor of a hotel and there were more than nine hundred persons in a room that didn't have an exit much larger than that! (indicating the door of the room—an ordinary-sized single door). And that was on the eighteenth floor!"

"The motion picture industry is not at present in a condition that would stand taxation. I can prove that almost 80 per cent. of the men in it are not making any money. But I want you gentlemen to understand that the industry is willing to stand any tax that you may see fit to recommend to the Assembly if the other amusements are taxed also." Mr. Brady submitted for the consideration of the committee figures regarding the lessening of the number of theaters in twenty big cities. Submitted by Mr. Brady for the National Association was the following:

Figures From Twenty Cities.

"New York, Philadelphia and Chicago show a most decided decrease, and in Chicago, where there are exact statistics, the decrease in seating capacity totals 29,000, and in the theaters 83, indicating that while the number of theaters is decreasing the size of those remaining is, contrary to the general impression, also decreasing. In New York there are 140 theaters less than last year. New Orleans shows increase in seating capacity over last year of 3,552. The National Association claims that not only is the number of small theaters falling off, but the total seating capacity, representing more accurately the business done in each city, is also on the decline."

The following figures show the increase and decrease in the number of theaters in these cities:

	1914	1915	1916	1917
Buffalo	80	87	83	74
Albany	18	20	..	..
Utica	9	12	13	14
Syracuse	..	44	41	38
Rochester	44	42	40	34
St. Louis	194	150	157	139
Minneapolis	..	..	61	64
Portland	..	..	52	52
Washington, D. C.	76	76	68	..
Kansas City (est)	116	101	111	120
Philadelphia	259	234	197	167
Cincinnati	..	..	75	72
Cleveland	..	164	167	..
Detroit	154	141	126	..
Boston	..	..	60	61
Portland, Ore.	275	237	..	..
New Orleans	89	83	80	47
San Francisco	87	90	81	..

It is understood that Saturday's session ended the hearings. The committee must make its report to the Assembly on March 15, and will until then go over the mass of evidence it has been collecting.

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY BUYS COMPLETE LUMBER YARD.

Because of the great amount of lumber which is consumed in the building of settings at the Lasky, Morosco and Pallas studios in Hollywood and Los Angeles, respectively, the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation has purchased the entire plant of the Native Lumber Company of Los Angeles.

The plant includes a lumber mill at Hoquiem, Washington, two lumber carrying vessels, docking facilities at San Pedro, the nearest port to Los Angeles, and a big lumber yard in Hollywood, near the Lasky studio.

CAMERAGRAPH BALL.

We did not have the accompanying photo last week of the grand march of the Cameragraph Ball given at Arcadia Hall, Halsey street and Broadway, Brooklyn, New York, Saturday night, March 3. The march was led by Miss Frankie Mann, the well-known motion picture star, who received an ovation, and Edward Earl, vice-president and treasurer of the Nicholas Power Company. Marceline, the great Hippodrome clown; Freddie Carr, the vaudeville headliner; Donald Hall, Sydney Bracey and Sidney Mason, the popular motion picture favorites, were also accorded a great reception. The entire affair was under the personal direction of Arthur J. Lang, of the Power organization.

Grand March, Cameragraph Club Ball, at Arcadia Hall, March 3, 1917.

Richardson Has Tussle With Jupiter Pluvius ☼ ☼ ☼

World's Projection Man Makes First Leg of Grand Tour Under Adverse Weather Conditions

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 28.—Well, at last I'm off. Accompanied by the good wife I shook the dust of Gotham ("dust" is good; it was snowing and sloppy), from my brogans at 9:30 P. M., stopping one day in Washington to examine the National Museum of Natural History and see that they were taking proper care of it.

Leaving Mrs. R. to look after the inauguration of President Wilson, I departed for the first real stop—Richmond, Va., only to find the glad hand of welcome conspicuous by its absence, it later developing that brother J. R. Kitchen, president M. P. M. Local Union 370, I. A., had misunderstood and was waiting our coming at another depot; so, while the rain came drizzling down, I proceeded to locate a hotel and start something.

Manager H. Bernstein, Colonial theater, who was primarily responsible for our visit to Richmond was soon discovered as was also President Kitchen, who had given up his vigil, and several theaters and operating rooms were visited. After four calls, however, I inquired whether or not the rooms I had seen were fairly representative ones, and was told they were, whereupon I call a prompt halt. It was not my wish to go further because I did not care to deal out a series of continual individual roasts.

The operators I met were, without exception, bright, wide-awake looking men, but, also without exception, they need to study the technical end of their business. On the other hand, there is a great and crying need for an immediate remodeling of Richmond operating rooms. Many of them are inadequate as to size, and some are very, very cramped. For one the operator enters via the ticket office (in which one cannot stand erect), and literally crawls up into a "coop" through a trap door located between the projectors. The left machine is jammed right up against the wall, and the right one is so close to the wall that one must edge in sideways to get on the operating side at all. The ports (knot-holes), are 7 inches wide by 4.5 inches high and are placed too low and too close to the machines. The walls are light in color. The equipment consists of two rather old Power's six A's.

Now, Mr. Manager, how in the name of the commonest kind of common sense do you expect to get high class results on your screen with such utterly impossible conditions as that? Of course I know the building is unsuited to be used as a theater, and you cannot get really good operating room conditions, but you can cut those observation ports out to a half way decent size and locate them much nearer to where they should be located, thus at least giving your operator a chance to see his picture without making his neck into a corkscrew; also you can paint the interior of that room—no, pardon me, coop—black and require the operator to keep his incandescent lamps switched off when not in actual use, thus easing the strain on the operator's eyes and enabling him, at least, to see the picture he is projecting. It will pay you, Mr. Manager, to do these things, and pay you big in improved results on your screen.

And you, Mr. Operator, should keep those incandescent lamps switched off every minute they are not in use, and thus accomplish a double purpose, viz., save your eyes and enable you to see the faint shadows on your screen. Also you should close in your lens ports until they only pass the actual, effective ray. You should also learn how to match up the optical system of your projector and place the revolving shutter where it belongs, or as nearly where it belongs as you can get it. You owe these things to yourself, to your Union and to your employers; also you owe it to the moving picture industry.

Most of the equipment I saw was fairly up-to-date, though I am told one small house still uses two Edison exhibition model machines.

Richmond is a beautiful southern city. Her people are, I am told, progressive and wide-awake, but both theater managers and operators stand in genuine need of a good shaking and waking up, for the good of the industry and their own pocket-books.

The Isis has an operating room of ample size, but the floor is very poor and the observation ports, circular in shape, are (imagine it) five inches in diameter. And the absurd part is that fifteen or twenty minutes' work with a keyhole saw would make them a foot square, which the law does not forbid; also the iron port shutters would easily cover a twelve-inch square opening. Brother Stephens' screen results leaves things to be desired—well, what else could one expect. The projectors are very old, remodeled Simplexes. There is a Fort Wayne motor generator set.

The Bluebird, 620 East Broad street, just opened and managed by Walter J. Coulter, a manager with ideas, is a pretty little house with a really excellent operating room and new Power's 6B projectors taking current through an A. C. to D. C. Fort Wayne compensarc. The only criticism on the Bluebird operating room is that the walls are light; also the operator had three big incandescents blazing away full blast. There is a wash basin, with running water. In the auditorium Manager Coulter had installed an odd and very pretty thing. The ceiling is flat, but joins the walls in a graceful curve, at the bottom of which, about three feet below the ceiling, is a cove and in this cove are concealed lights one about every three feet, alternately red, green and white. The lights send up a pointed flare of light on the curve and the effect is decidedly good. The auditorium is long and narrow. Music is by a Wurlitzer piano. The house is a pretty one, but the front rows of seats are entirely too close to the screen. Patrons occupying any of the first three or four rows of seats will strain their eyes severely. Aside from this there is very little to criticise and much to praise in the Bluebird.

Richmond, Virginia, Managers and Operators.

At 11.30 P. M. the managers and operators of Richmond foregathered at Murphy's Hotel, one of the best in the South, and partook of a most excellent banquet, at the end of which your humble servant talked until 2.45 A. M. on the subject of practical projection. After the affair was over, many operators and managers expressed the belief that great good had been accomplished. Let us hope it is so. I gave both the managers and operators some pretty hard rubs, but it was all accepted in the right spirit and, as President Kitchen afterwards remarked, "A lot of that soaked in, and will do the boys good—I know it is that way with me."

I hope to meet the Richmond men again, for while, as I said, they need waking up, they are, I am convinced, the right sort, and the kind of timber from which the high class article can be made.

Raleigh, N. C.

At Raleigh, the capital city of North Carolina, I was met at the depot by Warren H. Booker, chief of the Bureau of Engineering and Education of the State Board of Health, who had interested himself, in the absence of an operators' organization and any considerable degree of interest on the part of Raleigh exhibitors, and made the arrangements for the lecture. Mr. Booker is a live wire carrying lots of high voltage current. He is a specimen of that all too rare thing, a competent, energetic, public official.

Mr. Booker was accompanied by C. W. Rogers, chief operator at the Superba. Thus far the weather has been beastly—an alternation of rain, drizzle and sputter, with constant leaden skies. The men from Durham, N. C., twenty-six miles away, had planned to come over to the lecture in a machine, but days of rain had produced oceans of mud and they doubtless concluded that discretion was the better part of valor. There was one Durham operator present, however, he came on the day train. I was told about fifty other small town managers and operators were expected, but—the weather!

Raleigh has but two moving picture theaters and one combination vaudeville picture house now running. Projection in the picture houses is, judging by what I saw, distinctly good, both at the Superba, R. G. Allen, manager, C. W. Rogers and E. W. Hawkins, operators, and the Almo, O. R. Brown, manager, Harry Williams, operator. The picture was brilliant, evenly illuminated, free from any trace of shadow and run at correct speed. The Superba seats almost seven hundred and has a sixteen-foot picture properly bordered with black. The operating room is small, but clean and well ventilated. It has dark walls and there were no incandescents burning. The observation ports are 13 inches wide by 10 inches high and well located. Equipment: two Power's six A machines and a Fort Wayne A. C. to D. C. motor generator set. Screen results good.

The Almo is owned by O. R. Brown and B. S. Aronson, both experienced showmen, who also own the Strand, now closed and being remodeled prior to opening as a vaudeville-picture house. The Strand is a really pretty theater, tastefully decorated and equipped with leather upholstered chairs, but it is on a side street and could not obtain the necessary patronage with pictures alone. The Almo makes the stranger rub his eyes when he first enters, wondering if he is "seeing things." The house is long and narrow, with an arched ceiling. But it is the floor which sets one guessing. From the entrance it slopes downward, making a drop of six and one half feet in eighty. It then runs level for twenty feet and then slopes sharply upward for thirty feet, from which point it is level to the screen, a distance of probably twenty feet. In other words the floor is shaped like a giant bow. There are seats on the front slope and the view of the screen from them is excellent. The reason for this front slope is to avoid the necessity for steps leading to the exits beside the screen.

The Almo operating room is small, but well ventilated. There were no incandescents burning, but the walls were light-colored, which is not good. The observation ports are excellent, 12 inches wide by 16 inches high and well located. Two Simplexes and a Western Electric A. C. to D. C. motor generator are the main items of equipment.

At 11.30 o'clock we, in company with Mr. Booker, all the Raleigh operators, Brother Vesey of Durham, and our Raleigh manager, sat down to a really good midnight dinner at the Hotel Bland, Raleigh's best hotel. That out-of-town managers would be absent was to be expected, considering the utterly wretched weather conditions, but it is worthy of note that only one of the Raleigh managers was there and that the Raleigh Film Exchange was not represented at all, although exchange men are vitally interested in this matter. And you, friend manager, would sit up all night, conferring, if the operators of your city demanded an increase of two or three dollars per week, but when I come to tell and show you how to put on a better picture for several dollars less per week you leave it to the State Board of Health, which seems to be more enterprising than you, to attend to the matter, and do not even put in an appearance. Is that good business, gentlemen? You missed the opportunity of learning where and how your operator is making mistakes which are costing you actual money every minute you run, and it is an opportunity which is not likely to come again in a hurry. After the banquet (for it was all of that) the writer talked until 2.20 A. M., which left only ten minutes to catch the train for Greensboro, and then he was obliged to omit much valuable matter. I had intended leaving for Winston-Salem at 8.30 A. M., but friend Booker wanted me to go to Greensboro that night and examine the State Board of Health projection car next day, to which I, of course, assented.

State Board of Health Work.

At Greensboro we found the Studebaker truck which the Health Board has, through Mr. Booker, caused to be fitted up for projection work. It had been brought to Greensboro especially for our inspection. The outfit is a very complete one, also its fitting up gives evidence of considerable ingenuity. The truck is a light, inclosed Studebaker, in which is mounted a Universal engine-dynamo light plant, which develops sixty volts and supplies thirty-five amperes. Mr. Booker is quite enthusiastic. He said: "It weighs a little more than six hundred pounds, but it's a good six hundred for it certainly does deliver the goods. The projection machine is a Power's six head and lamphouse on the old Power's six wooden table—a model outfit for the purpose, as it combines high grade results with minimum weight. The outfit is in direct charge of Roy Tatum, operator and a lecturer and H. E. Hamilton, mechanic and chauffeur.

In this connection be it noted that T. W. Bickett, governor of North Carolina, has recommended to the legislature the appropriation of fifty thousand dollars for motion picture work in rural communities. It is proposed to use this sum to assist the various counties to procure motion picture outfits somewhat similar to the one described, and films on domestic science, agriculture, public health, etc., all of which shows which way the wind is blowing and seems to indicate the early opening up of a new and very large field of usefulness for the moving picture.

At 1.15 o'clock we took our seat in the coach (still raining) to journey twenty-odd miles to Winston-Salem, where we were "billed" to speak that night, but no sooner were we settled than a procession marched into the car, single file. It proved to be the Greensboro operators in search of the writer. According to the published itinerary we were due in Greensboro at 12.10 o'clock and they had been on the job at the depot, with intent to at least shake hands. But the change of plans had caused us to miss connections, and there was only time to say "hello and goodbye." But the Greensboro men assured me that rain or no rain, if an automobile could get through they would be in Winston-Salem for the lecture.

Brother M. M. Murray of Salisbury, North Carolina, on his way to the lecture joined me and we had a very pleasant visit on the way over. At Winston-Salem a whole flock of operators met us at the depot and we motored to a hotel—still raining.

It was Sunday and no shows are opened on the day of rest in North Carolina, so, the weather being depressing and your scribe weary, we begged of the boys that they let us rest, to which assent was given. At 8 P. M., in the union hall, we preached the gospel of better projection to an attentive audience. Vile as was the weather there were operators present from both Greensboro and Salisbury, each about twenty-five miles distant. The men have very nice headquarters and up-to-date. The managers and the union have been on very friendly terms. Let us hope it may continue thus. After the lecture we all adjourned to the "Princess," where two sons of Ham served to us a dinner consisting of what appeared to be three planked whales, but which proved to be shad, together with the various things accompanying them. Incidentally it was proved conclusively that while North Carolina is "dry" (note, I do not refer to the weather), it is quite moist in spots. The wreck of the festal board was abandoned at midnight—still raining.

F. H. RICHARDSON.

Advertising for Exhibitors

Conducted by EPES WINTHROP SARGENT

Preparedness.

PREPAREDNESS is the vital topic of the day. Applying the word to photoplay exhibition, just what preparation have you made against the coming encroachment of the enemy? One reason Germany has withstood so long is because she avoided the encroachment on her own territory. The fighting has been done on neutral or hostile ground. Have you, personally, so planned your own strategy that the fighting when it comes to you shall be fought outside your territory? Are you, personally, secure against the invasion of your domain? Give the matter some thought. For several years manufacturers, with singular blindness, have turned their backs to the story and the story writer. Plays are becoming deadly dull because there are, comparatively speaking, no new plays. Vaudeville is slowly but gradually coming back to its own in many places. How about your own territory? Do you stick to a single program, or do you make a choice? Do you play stars or stories? It is all right to play stars, if you have the stories to back them up with, as in the early vaudeville days the "dramatic headliner" was backed by a better than usual vaudeville entertainment, but you cannot permanently profit from the stars unless you back them up with photoplays which make good for the dullness of the star. This is a scheme well known to the vaudeville manager. We recall one time that Percy Williams booked the Kilties Band at his Orpheum theater in Brooklyn. He did not expect the band to make good. He knew in advance that they could not hold the stage for a half program and satisfy his vaudeville patrons and still draw the crowd that would come to hear the Kilties. Instead of cutting down his advance booking to let out the big attractions, he retained these and let out the smaller acts, that those who came to hear the Kilties would be given the best idea of the vaudeville bill and come back the following week when the Kilties would not be there. It cost him money, but as events proved, it made him money. It is the same way with photoplays. You are getting some mighty poor stories with some important stars. Take particular pains that your ones and twos are not merely fillers, but so unusually good that the public goes away content even if the star picture was poor. In time you can go back to the cheaper one reels—cheaper because they need not support the extravagant salaries of the stars—and still draw good patronage. Get ready now. Be prepared. The invasion is close at hand whether or not you yet see signs.

Paramount Pointers.

Through the courtesy of Charles E. Moyer, of the Paramount, we are permitted to reproduce some of the cuts from recent issues of Paramount Progress. The first of these is a cut for a company advertisement of "A Day With the West Point Cadet." If you are a Paramount Exhibitor you saw this first, but we are not trying to advertise this further. Gordon H. Fullerton, of Seattle, recently spoke of "atmosphere" advertising. Other well-known live wires have used it without giving it a name, but the essential is some sketch or cut matter that will give atmosphere; that will suggest the subject even before the text is read; that, in fact, pulls attention to the text. A cut of a soldier and tents will attract anyone's attention right now. It may cost too much to have an original drawing made, but if you have this subject booked, get your local photographer to photograph this cut. Have him enlarge it considerably on bromide paper. Don't let him tell you he cannot make a good cut because the screen will show. Tell him you know he can't and that you want to ink it in, and he'll understand. You will get a large reproduction, though the negative does not have to be very large. Ink in the lines you want to retain with Higgins' or some other good drawing ink. With a little practice you will find that you can get good shading as well as the chief lines. Have the photograph faded out with any good bleach—the photographer can tell you what to use—and you have not a photograph, but a line drawing all ready to send over to your engraver to be made into a line cut. It will cost you a little time and a couple of dollars against $25 for as good an original drawing. If you have no photographer, or if you have a little time or a clever usher, do the work yourself. If you do not know how, ask the supply store in the nearest large town. You can make your own outfit very cheaply and you can even build up a business in work for others at a pinch.

The remainder of the cuts are taken from a double page display of advertisements from different theaters. The first is from the Wizard, Baltimore. Possibly you will think this is a single column advertise-

PARAMOUNT
PICTURES

WIZARD

RETURN ENGAGEMENT,
Mon., Tues. and Wed.
The Wonderful Production

The Cheat

With the Celebrated Actress,
FANNIE WARD.
And the Great Japanese Actor,
SUSSUE HAYAKAWA.

Thurs., Fri. and Sat.,

John Barrymore

In the Screeningly Funny and Entertaining Play,
"NEARLY A KING"
His Best Production.

WIZARD Ten Years Since the Wizard First Presented
Founded 1906. BALTIMORE'S BEST PICTURES

ment, but in reality it is a half-page layout, because the good half page shows up more or less as an enlarged single or double column. It is because the house makes so good a display that this cut was selected from the lot. In half a page you can run about 2,000 words or more, but you'll have more read if you say little and say it large. For this reason the example is unusually good. Incidentally it shows how a distinctive house cut will mark down the advertisement, but the major point is that this half page will be read by ten times as many

LAST DAY
MARGUERITE CLARK
—IN—
SNOW WHITE

COMING—KATHLYN WILLIAMS in
"REDEEMING LOVE." SECOND SERIES OF THE WONDERFUL PICCADILLY CLOSE-UP PICTURES OF THE GREAT WAR.

Piccadilly

persons as would puzzle over a half page closely set with 8 or 10-point type. The best form of half-page advertising is merely an enlargement of a single column advertisement, made large that it may stand out and be more easily read. We would like to see dated days even if the current date does show in the running head. The head may be torn off. The third example, from the Picadilly, Rochester, looks even more like a single column advertisement; indeed, it looks almost too

Haas Building
Los Angeles, Cal.

The Photoplaywright

Conducted by EPES WINTHROP SARGENT

INQUIRIES.

Questions concerning photoplay writing addressed to this department will be replied to by mail if a fully addressed and stamped envelope accompanies the letter, which should be addressed to this department. Questions should be stated clearly and should be typewritten or written with pen and ink. Under no circumstances will manuscripts or synopses be criticised, whether or not a fee is sent therefor.

A list of companies will be sent if the request is made to the paper direct and not to this department, and a return stamped envelope is inclosed.

Synopsis Again.

ONE unusually clever student writes that a recent story on the synopsis only has given her the idea of synopsis writing. As she sees it we recommend a continuity in continuous form stripped of the connection scenes. This is not what we had in mind. The synopsis only is generally best told as a running story, but without slavish adherence to the chronology if lifting a fact to somewhere else gives a better and clearer meaning to the situation. This is the great difference between the synopsis and the continuity of action. The script of action must be oriented as to time. The synopsis must tell all the facts, but can tell them in such order as will make the idea most clear. You do not, for instance, find it necessary to say that Jennie goes to college. That her father gets married. That she comes back from school. You can say it more briefly and more intelligently by writing that while Jennie is at college her father marries again and she comes home to find a step-mother in charge. This gives the same facts, but gives them with greater force. The thing to remember is that fact and not business is wanted in the synopsis. From the facts the studio writer will evolve his own business. For this reason it is a waste of time to suggest leaders or scenes. The scenes will suggest themselves if the facts are given clearly, and then the scenes will suggest the necessary leaders, but it is absolutely impossible to write the scenes to fit your leaders or to pre-determine just what leaders or even what main leaders are needed, just as it is confusing, as a rule, to change from the narrative to the dramatic style in describing what you desire to have shown. In the same way you cannot send a scene plot, because you do not know what the scenes will be, and if you send a cast only the three or four leading characters need be named. It might help to say that your leading players are

CAST.

Jack Jones, a young business man.
Mary Smith, his sweetheart.
Her mother.
Dr. Green, her family physician.

But to tell all of the people who might take part is to waste space, for the cast may be materially changed in the studio reconstruction. Until there comes a demand for the full script, do not attempt to write any part of the script. Simply tell clearly and concisely what your story is. Tell it in chronological order, save when some other arrangement offers a better presentation of the facts, and do not try to tell the story in all its details, but rather give all of the details from which a story can be constructed. There is a difference.

And after you know all about writing synopses, practice and practice alone will give you the skill to write a fluent, interesting synopsis that is apt to sell.

A Plot Catalogue.

Henry Albert Phillips' the Universal Plot Catalogue went astray when the review copies were sent out, and he sends another for comment. Properly, the Catalogue is a complement to his plot file and collector, the physical realization of his system of cataloguing, but, as he has pointed out, this file is not necessary since a file can be made of envelopes or other containers. Practically all authorities, and certainly all real authorities on creative work, recommend that some form of catalogue be used for plot suggestion and even for fragments of plot, from the combination of which new plots may be originated, and Mr. Phillips' work merely suggests, in its last reduction, the form in which these may be kept, and offers a proper and well considered classification. He joins with others in the warning that the full grown plot is too apt to be the work of another to be safe in using, shows how two or more fragments may be welded into a new whole, and then suggests a classification by subjects. His listing gives one hundred grand divisions, subdivided into twice as many subject classifications, which we are inclined to think rather too many for the average writer. It would be better to use a more compact system, at least at the start, but this is possible by starting with the ten general heads into which the catalogue is divided. The Universal Plot Catalogue is not a book which teaches how to write photoplays. It is a handbook on the orderly classification of ideas from which photoplays, fiction and other plots may be formed through com-ination. Used intelligently the book will guide the student. Used without intelligence, it will serve merely to confuse. For this reason it will be better to start with a few general classifications and work gradually to the more minute subdivision which Mr. Phillips eventually leads the author to. With two hundred folders, each taking ten or more sub-titles, the catalogue will eventually resolve itself into a collection of some 2,000 headings, but by gradually enlarging the scheme in accordance with the suggestions, it should be possible to form a catalogue that shall grow from ten divisions to the greater number, keeping pace with the author's progress in his work. An index of plot subjects makes it possible accurately to classify any material. The book is published by the Stanhope-Dodge Co., Larchmont, N. Y.

As a Text Book.

Numerous schools and college courses have used the second edition of Technique of the Photoplay as a study book, but the arrangement of that volume did not lend itself to direct study in class. With the advent of the third edition, which was laid out with special reference to systematic study, this difficulty has been overcome. Columbia University now uses the book in both the first and second terms of its course, and Marquette University, Milwaukee, also uses it as a direct text book. Columbia also uses Archer's Play Making and the books of Munsterberg and Lindsay.

Lindsay Explains.

Vachel Lindsay has a new definition of the Photoplay. He declares it to be "a conversation between two places or periods." This sounds rather cryptic until he explains just what he means, but his recent tribute to Hugo Munsterberg in the New Republic gives a hint of his meaning when he writes:

People have spoken of Griffith's alleged "sheer sensationalism" in his plot, in which he shows four periods of time conversing with one another. But jumping back and forth over barriers of time is the most accepted thing in the photoplay hurdle-race. You have seen films where the hero has visions of his childhood to urge him on to doughty deeds. Three scenes of the past alternate with three scenes of today in his thoughts, that the comparison may be rousing. The heroine has visions of her two possible futures if she chooses the prunes on the one hand or the peaches on the other. And as to jumping over geographical spaces, the photoplay dialogue that technically replaces the old stage interchange of words is a conversation between places, not individuals. In a moonshiner drama that I saw last week, the director alternated the cabin in the field, the revenue detectives on the road and the still on the hillside. We were given a conversation between these units. One picture, guns, horses, detectives and all seemed to be calling "We are coming." Another picture, the still, the bushes and the hillside seemed to be answering "We are hiding yet." The picture of the cabin, the field and the young moonshiners seemed to say "We suspect nothing, but are on guard on general principles." Round and round this conversation progresses as the pictures alternate, till the still is finally destroyed, and the cabin besieged and taken.

But this really is only one phase of photoplay. To accept Mr. Lindsay's definition we must suppose cutting back to be an essential to the photoplay, instead of merely an aid. Undoubtedly the ability to see many places and periods in rapid rotation is one of the most valuable assets of the photoplay, but it is by no means the fundamental. It is possible to produce a play without any cut-backs whatever, and still have a good play. Mr. Lindsay will have to enlarge his definition to cover the field.

Typewriters.

There is one machine that gives you not one type face, but as many as you desire to purchase. Two faces are carried on the machine at the same time. It is fascinating, but don't buy one and use it. Keep it to look at, but you can't sell samples of type, so get one good face and stick to it.

Selling.

Don't ask an editor what he wants. Find out. If he doesn't know what he wants and tries to tell you you are worse off than ever.

The THIRD Edition of Technique of the Photoplay

IS NOW READY

This is virtually a new book under the old title. More than double the text and with an arrangement especially adapting it for the student. The most complete book ever written on the subject of scenario or photoplay construction.

By Mail, Postpaid

Three Dollars

Address all orders direct to nearest office.

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

17 Madison Ave., New York City

Behrler Building,
Chicago, Ill.

Haas Building,
Los Angeles, Cal.

Projection Department

Conducted by F. H. RICHARDSON

Manufacturers' Notice.

IT IS an established rule of this department that no apparatus or other goods will be endorsed or recommended editorially until the excellence of such articles has been demonstrated to its editor.

Important Notice.

Owing to the mass of matter awaiting publication, it is impossible to reply through the department in less than two to three weeks. In order to give prompt service, those sending four cents, stamps (less than actual cost), will receive carbon copy of the department reply, by mail, without delay. Special replies by mail on matters which cannot be replied to in the department, one dollar.

Both the first and second set of questions are now ready and printed in neat booklet form, the second half being seventy-six in number. Either booklet may be had by remitting 25 cents, money or stamps, to the editor, or both for 40 cents. Cannot use Canadian stamps. Every live, progressive operator should get a copy of these questions. You may be surprised at the number you cannot answer without a lot of study.

Roll of Honor on Question No. 171.

The Roll of Honor on question 171 consists of only two, viz: C. E. Linstruth, Carthage, N. Y., and Michael Capobianco, Roseto, Pa.

Brother Capobianco's answer is excellent, but again I think Friend Linstruth's has a little the best of it, therefore his reply is selected for publication.

Reply to Question No. 171.

By C. E. Linstruth, Carthage, N. Y.

The Question:

What do you think ought to be the attitude of the local operators' organization with regard to over-speeding the films?

The Answer:

As to the attitude of operators' organization with regard to over-speeding the film, in my opinion, if the over-speeding is due to orders from the management, then the management has its reasons, which are doubtless to be found in the program being run according to schedule. If, however, the operator is at fault, I believe the first offense, if proven, should bring forth a reprimand from the local, and for second offense, if proven, he should pay a fine. I believe that over-speeding should be considered as detrimental to the best interests of operators, whether organized or not organized. I also believe the manager should be informed that over-speeding is not countenanced by locals. However, if the managers demand it, no great harm will result, as the over-speeding managers are comparatively few.

Which, Friend Linstruth, is wrong. The over-speeding run-to-schedule manager is very numerous indeed, and, in my judgment, he ought to be sat down on and sat down on good and plenty. In over-speeding he not only compels the operator to appear in a bad light before the public, which does not know that the jumping-jack performance is not the fault of the operator, but of the manager, but in addition to this he works serious injury to the sprocket holes of the film, which same will operate to injure the show of other managers who use the films thereafter. I agree with Brother Capobianco, who says: "A chain is no stronger than its weakest link, and the over-speeding operator is a weak link. I believe operators' organizations should take a stand against over-speeding the film. If the members themselves voluntarily over-speed they should be suspended from the organization as a punishment. If the operator is not willing to over-speed the film, but the solid ivory top manager forces him to do so, then the house should be treated as unfair."

This, of course, seems radical, but over-speeding the films is doing a world of damage to the moving picture industry, and the pitiful part of it is that some of the very worst examples of over-speeding are found in theaters which claim to be the ne plus ultra of photoplay palaces—which claim to be the very finest houses, and, in these cases it is not due to the desire of the operator to over-speed, but to the manager, who compels his operator to work damage to the films and to the art of the shadow actresses and actors on the screen. In my opinion the matter of the speed of projection should not be left to the manager, who usually is not an operator, and probably knows little or nothing about practical projection. The manager employs an operator, presumably because he knows how to put the picture on the screen, and then turns around and undertakes to tell him, the operator, how to do it, all of which is rather absurd on the face of it.

Is It Flicker?

J. W. Page, Sigourney, Iowa, says:

Have been a reader of the World ever since I have been an exhibitor, and this is the first time I have had to call on the projection department for help. I am using a 1912 Motiograph, which is giving excellent results. Recently I had the mechanism overhauled and all worn gears, bushings and shafts were replaced. But I still have a little flicker which I don't seem able to get rid of. Can you suggest some method by which I can do away with this trouble, as it is the only fault I can find with our projection. Would it be possible that it comes from the light itself? I use A. C. with a Fort Wayne compensarc. At present am using two 7½ inch condensers. Have a 90 foot throw with a 12 foot picture, projecting to a mirror screen.

Now, I wonder if Brother Page has not gotten his dates mixed. If it is a flicker, why using a brilliant light and a mirror screen you must expect some slight tendency in that direction when using a two-wing inside shutter, which I take it your machine has, as you have not mentioned having had the outside shutter installed. It is, however, possible that you really mean "travel ghost," which is white streamers either up or down or in both directions from white objects in the film, or from white letters of a black title. If it is a flicker I do not believe you can do anything with it with that old type machine, unless you speed up your projection. If it is travel ghost, then either your shutter needs setting or it is a trifle too narrow. There used to be considerable trouble with the earlier type of Motiograph inside cone shutters. They gave about the best possible result, as to flicker, that an inside shutter is capable of, but the Enterprise Optical Company made them very close, and my experience was that whereas they gave a minimum of flicker for inside shutters, it was mighty hard to get rid of the travel ghost. No, you would not perceive the flicker due to the alterations unless you are using very low cycle current. If you are, by any chance, using 25 cycle current, why then, yes, you will probably perceive the flicker caused by the alternations, and the only remedy is to install a motor generator set.

From an Authority.

Nicholas Sabo, whom I have every reason to know is an expert optician and the manufacturer of an improved projection lens of great merit, which will, I hope, soon be placed on the market, says:

I hope it will not be unwelcome to you that I answer Mr. Kirner's questions, page 1936, issue December 30, of the Moving Picture World. What he calls a problem is really no problem at all, but just a natural symptom, easily to be recognized and explained. Yes, it is possible that the condensers may effect the sharpness of the picture, though of course the fault is not alone in the condensers; part of it lies in the objective lens. Mr. Kirner says that he gets a sharp picture when the spot on the aperture is three times as large as it should be, consequently it is only a question of getting the proper condensers in order to obtain the same result with a spot 1½ inches in diameter.

Let us examine the facts as Mr. Kirner points them out. A. Arc is at the right optical point from back condenser; spot at aperture normal. Result: picture out of focus. B. Arc is 6 to 7 inches from back condenser; spot three times larger than normal. Result: poor light, but a sharp picture.

Figure 1 and Figure 2 show the approximate shape of the rays in both cases. At Figure 1 the arc is at the right optical point, one portion of the light ray diverging on account of spherical aberration, and the other portion converging toward the lens. Using short focus condensers the ray will reach the point of convergence, either before reaching the lens, or within the lens itself, and the objective then gives the rays the proper direction toward the screen. At Figure 2 the crossing point will be farther away, which means that it is beyond the lens. Now we can understand why the picture in the first case was out of focus. In the first case the converging rays pass the lens, as per Figure 3, and the entire, or nearly the entire, diameter of the objective is utilized. In the second case only the center of the objective is utilized, as per Figure 4. We see that the focus of the lens at the center was not identical with the focus at the edges. Using such objectives we should select a condenser system which renders it possible to use only the center of the lenses. It is easy enough to find out whether or not this is correct.

When the picture is sharp (arc distance 6 to 7 inches from back condenser), blow some cigarette smoke into the light coming from the lens, whereupon the crossing of the converging rays will be seen at one or two inches in front of the objective lens, and there will be a weak light in the rest of the diameter of the lens, due to spherical aberration. Now place at the crossing point of the light ray a diaphragm, the opening of which is equal to the diameter of the ray at the crossing point, and the whole picture will be visible on the screen. Next set the arc at the right optical point from the back condenser, and place the same diaphragm at the same point as before, and in this case only the center of the picture will be visible, which proves that in the case in which the out of focus effect was observed, the larger part of the objective was used, including the imperfect portions of the lens, whereas in the other case only the sharp focus was observed when the center, which is the most perfect portion of the lens, was utilized.

Now take condensers of longer focal length, as, for instance, a 6 1/2 and 8 inch, or two 7 1/2 inch condensers, with a 6 inch E. F. objective lens. Place the arc 3 1/2 to 3 3/4 inches from the back condenser and when the light spot at the aperture is at its best and about 1 1/2 inches in diameter, then the crossing point will be about the same place as compared with the short focus condensers, with an arc distance of from 6 to 7 inches, and the result will be a good, sharp focus, and good illumination.

I am any time at your service, and will gladly answer similar questions when they come up in the future.

I thoroughly appreciate the kindly spirit in which Friend Sabo's offer is made. Also I fully realize the cast-iron nature of my nerve when I presume, as I am going to, to take issue with him on certain points, because, as I said in the beginning, Sabo is a thorough optician, as well as a lens manufacturer.

The main point upon which he and I differ is where he says that a portion of the beam is divergent in Figures 1 and 2 because of spherical aberration. All my experiments, and all the experiments of Griffiths, Martin, and others prove that is not correct. The ray is divergent for the very simple reason that the spot is made up of millions of cones of light coming from every portion of the condenser. This being true it follows, even as the night follows the day, that the divergence beyond the aperture is purely a matter of angles, and the closer the condenser is to the aperture the greater will be the divergence; also the greater the loss of light if the light ray, due to divergence, has greater diameter than the objective at the point at which the objective meets it. I cannot see by what process of reasoning Mr. Sabo can back up his statement that the divergence beyond the aperture is due to spherical aberration. It is, however, a well known fact that the center of a lens is the best portion of the lens, but I submit that there are literally thousands of objective lenses producing sharp pictures with the entire rear aperture of the lens covered by the light ray. This is known to be an absolute fact. I would suggest also that the substitution of longer focal length lenses, while it places the condenser farther away from the aperture, also places the arc farther from the lens, which makes for heavy light loss. As to the diaphragm experiment, why that merely proves that the crossing point (dissolving point I call it, because when the shutter cuts the ray at that point the whole screen becomes dark by a sort of dissolving process) has been moved ahead or back by moving the arc—a thing which, of course, does occur, as we all know. I will be glad to hear from friend Sabo further on this matter.

Arc Trouble.

Chicago, Ill., comes in with the following:

I am writing to you for information, the use of which I hope will correct the trouble I have experienced during the past few months. At the time this trouble started I was using two mercury arc rectifiers, pulling about 50 amperes on each machine, the current passing through two 75 amps ammeters located on the wall of the operating room. Under these conditions the action of the arc was peculiar. I would have it burning nicely, with a good crater on the positive carbon, and a good spot covering the aperture, when the arc would suddenly jump away from the center of the lower carbon, burn around its edge, toward the front or rear, just, apparently, as it happened. I would finally coax Mr. Arc back to its happy home in the center of the lower carbon, only to have the same thing happen again in a short time. The carbons were 3/4 inch Speer above and a 5/8 inch Plania below. I tried different carbons, using a 3/4 inch Bio and 5/8 inch Bio with different results. With this combination the arc burned steadily enough, but the amperage would rise from 50 to 75, the limit of the ammeters. At the same time the upper carbon would look as though there were thread like cracks running from the edge of the crater upward for about 1 1/2 inches. The amperage would stay at 75 (it may have been more, but that was all the ammeter would register) for five or six seconds, or longer, with a very poor light at the spot, although the arc was burning steadily. Gradually the amperage would fall back to about 50, with the light getting better at the same time. The cracks in the side of the carbon also faded away when the amperage went down to normal.

Recently the management has installed a 7 1/2 K. W. Martin rotary converter, off which I am using 60 amperes on each machine, the converter registering about 83 volts. The same condition still exists. I have often watched the voltmeter when the amperage and arc started getting funny, but the voltage never varies.

I will now tell you some of the things I have done in an effort to discover the seat of the trouble. I have looked for loose connections and found none. Have cleaned and brightened all electrical contacts on ammeters converter and machines. I have used different kinds of carbons, and have found that with the 5/8 inch Bio, or Silver Tip 9/16 inch below, I can hold a steady arc, but the amperage acts the same. Here is an example: I am finishing up on machine No. 1. I light up machine No. 2 and have both ammeters registering about 50. I start machine No. 2 and shut off No. 1, whereupon the amperage on No. 2 gradually rises until it cannot go any farther—meaning until the ammeter reaches its capacity. How much it goes beyond that I don't know. According to the electric service man here, I am pulling 244 volts at my main power switch. Is that about right?

This problem presents decided peculiarities. Answering the last question first, I don't quite understand you, Chicago. You don't "pull" voltage. Voltage represents pressure. If you have 244 volts at the point of input, why I presume you are connected across the 120-240 volt three-wire system which is running about 4 volts high. The 4 volts would not affect anything very much, because if your motor generator set is made to run on 240 volts it ought to perform properly on anything from 235 to 245.

You say there are hair-like threads running upward on the upper carbon for about 1 1/2 inches, and that these are only visible at the point of high amperage. I think, Chicago, that these are merely the longitudinal cracks often present in well made, well haked carbons, which show by reason of the fact that the carbon is overloaded. This seems to be proven by the fact that they disappear when the current drops back to normal. I do not think this phase of the matter amounts to anything, one way or the other.

The really puzzling point is, however, why does the amperage act as it does, and the only explanation I can see is that there is heating somewhere, either in the motor-generator or in the wires, which offers considerable added resistance, and thus brings the current back to normal. In other words, when your apparatus is cold the circuit does not, of course, offer as much resistance as it would if the wires become quite warm. Examine your wires and apparatus, both on the intake and output, after the amperage has settled back to normal, and see if there is not abnormal heating somewhere. Trace this clear back, if necessary, to the outside transformer. It might be possible that the trouble is located in the outside transformer itself. The thing, however, which seems to knock out this explanation is that with both arcs burning, machine No. 2, which is cold, does not run up its amperage.

This seems to present something of a problem, and I will refer it to our readers, asking their opinion as to its solution. Where you say the "voltmeter on the converter registers about 83 volts," I don't quite get you. If you mean you are pulling an 83 volt arc, why that is too much. An 83 volt arc is a very long arc, particularly when you are using a solid carbon. I would like to hear from our readers on this problem. It is interesting.

Polarity Indicator.

J. A. Merklein, Jersey City, N. J., says:

This is the third of a series of ideas upon which I would like to have your opinion. I believe it would be of great assistance to the traveling operator as well as to the man who stays home.

The idea Friend Merklein advances is that of the salt water polarity indicator. Now, I do not know whether this is original with Merklein or not, but if so it is the duplicate of something I have seen published in an electrical magazine recently, though he may, himself, have supplied it to the other paper.

It is made from a burned out 60 ampere cartridge fuse, a small glass tube and two corks and some bits of copper wire. The glass tube should fit snugly within the fibre cartridge, and is cut the same length as the cartridge. I believe one of the glass tubes which M. Q. photographic developer comes in would be just the thing, or if that is too large you could get a proper size vial from any drug store and cut its bottom off. A slot is then cut in the fibre on both sides, as shown in drawing, and short lengths of copper wire, about No. 10 B & S gauge, are forced through holes bored in the corks, with which both ends of the vial is stopped. These corks and wires must fit tightly. The glass tube must be filled with a diluted solution of salt and water, after which the tube is placed within the cartridge. The ends of the wires within the tube should be about $\frac{1}{4}$ inch apart for each 110 volts of pressure. When the wires are connected to the terminals of direct current, bubbles will form on one of the copper plugs, and that one is the negative. The fibre cartridge is merely intended to protect the glass tube.

Trace the Light Ray.

H. W. Griggs, Milwaukee, Wis., writes:

It begins to look as if we were getting right back to where we started from on the objective and condenser matter, both theoretically and experimentally. The basic course of a ray of light through any medium can be positively traced, when the refractive index of the medium is known, both by the "pin hole" method, by using a refractometer such as I sent you last year, which you finally said would be published, which will show you the course of the ray. Trace the ray of light through the glass, and then we can tell precisely where it is going to land, and have a curvature made to fit it, expensive as it may be. Use the refractometer for the light the same as you would use an ammeter for the current, or a T square for the drawing board.

And now one more thing, which I trust you will excuse because it is at least well meant. Some three years ago a man in Russia said, in the department, that too much of it was taken up with union matters. Lately the department has contained a good deal of union matter, which, while laudable in itself, is occupying space that in a trade journal should, I think, be devoted to technical or scientific matters of which there are none too much. I am myself a railroader, and have been for the past forty-three years, but have gotten along without being a member of the union. Now don't misunderstand me. If properly conducted, unions are all right, but we do read of some instances where unions are not so conducted, witness a certain large city not far distant from Milwaukee. Last January when you wrote me about coming to Milwaukee I tried my best to interest the men, but frequently was met with the remark, foolish as it seems: "We don't care any thing about projection departments." When union men can exhibit better results on the screen than non-union men than I am for the union. However it is to your credit that you have often said that many union operators as well as non-union have much to learn. Don't you think it would be better all around to cut down a great deal on the union end of it in the department? You are big enough to do it—go to it.

Nope, Friend Griggs, I don't. I do devote considerable of the department to matters pertaining to unions, because, whereas the paper has an Exhibitors' Union (League) Department, devoted exclusively to the Exhibitors' Union (League), all the Operators' Union has are those things which are said in this department. Moreover, I am a firm, absolute believer in unions, no matter by what name they may be called. Organization is for the best interest of the moving picture industry. It is for the best interest of the industry, as a whole, and it is for the best interest of the branches covered by the particular union, in this case the operators.

You say you have for forty years been a railroader, and have not been a member of either of the railroad Brotherhoods. I do not know what branch you are in, Friend Griggs, but I tell you flatly if you are eligible to any of the Brotherhoods and have not joined them, that fact is not to your credit. If you are a railroader you owe a goodly portion of the salary you now receive to the efforts the Brotherhoods have made. In other words, if there had never been any railroad organizations your salary would not now be what it is, and I think you pretty well know that to be a fact. Why not then, Neighbor Griggs, get into the organization and do your part? I, too, was for many years a railroader, and I got into the Brotherhood at the very earliest possible moment; also I stayed in until I quit railroading for good and all. Of course, I cannot devote an excessive amount of space to unions, but I do not think I am. I believe the operators have just as good a right to have their organization reasonably well represented in the standard trade journal as does the exhibitor.

As to the refractometer, why the only reason I have not published it is that it would be practically impossible for operators to use it. In the first place they would have no means of knowing the refractive index of the glass of any particular lens. It might be of use to Griffiths, Martin and two or three others, but beyond that I doubt its being of any particular value to operators. This, however, does not mean that it is not a thoroughly good instrument for the purpose intended—not by any means, but it is an instrument which could only be successfully used by the professional or semi-professional man, who was able to obtain the refractive index of the particular piece of glass to be measured, and that puts it beyond the average M. P. M. O.

Itinerary (Continued).

From Memphis, Tenn., I will continue as follows:
 Arrive Little Rock, Ark., 1.15 p. m., Monday, April 2, via Iron Mountain Ry. Leave 2 p. m. Tuesday, April 3, via Iron Mountain Ry.
 Arrive Hot Springs, Ark., 3.05 p. m. Wednesday, April 4, via Iron Mountain Ry. Leave 6.15 a. m. Thursday, April 5, via Iron Mountain Ry.
 Arrive Fort Smith, Ark., 3.50 p. m. Thursday, April 5, via Iron Mountain Ry. Leave 7.30 a. m. Friday, April 6, via Midland Valley Ry.
 Arrive Muskogee, Okla., 11.45 a. m. Friday, April 6, via Midland Valley Ry. Leave 1.05 p. m. Saturday, April 7, via M., K. & T. Ry.
 Arrive Springfield, Mo., 11.30 p. m. Saturday, April 7, via Frisco Lines. Leave 8.00 a. m. Sunday, April 8, via Frisco Lines.
 Arrive Joplin, Mo., 11.50 a. m. Sunday, April 8, via Frisco Lines. Leave 5.30 a. m. Monday, April 9, via M., K. & T. Ry.
 Arrive Parsons, Kan., 7.30 a. m. Monday, April 9, via M., K. & T. Ry. Leave 7.20 a. m. Tuesday, April 10, via M., K. & T. Ry.
 Arrive Fort Scott, Kan., 8.55 a. m. Tuesday, April 10, via M., K. & T. Ry. Leave 8.15 a. m. Wednesday, April 11, via Missouri Pacific.
 Arrive Wichita, Kan., 3.50 p. m. Wednesday, April 11, via Missouri Pacific Ry. Leave 5.20 p. m. Thursday, April 12, via Santa Fe Ry.
 Arrive Guthrie, Okla., 10.40 p. m. Thursday, April 12, via Santa Fe Ry. Leave 10.50 a. m. Friday, April 13, via Santa Fe Ry.
 Arrive Oklahoma City, Okla., 12.12 p. m. Friday, April 13, via Santa Fe Ry. Leave Oklahoma City 9 a. m. Saturday, April 14, via Santa Fe Ry.
 Arrive Fort Worth, Tex., 5 p. m. Saturday, April 14, via Santa Fe Ry. Leave 9.30 a. m. Monday, April 16, via Frisco Lines.
 Arrive Sherman, Tex., 1.20 p. m. Monday, April 16, via Frisco Lines. Leave for Dallas next morning. Time of arrival in Dallas, and name of railway, will be communicated to Dallas local later. Leave Dallas 12.40 p. m. Wednesday, April 18, via M. K. & T. Ry.
 Arrive Waco, Tex., 3.05 p. m. Wednesday, April 18, via M. K. & T. Ry. Leave 10.47 a. m. Thursday, April 19, via I. & G. N. Ry.
 Arrive Palestine, Tex., 5.10 p. m. Thursday, April 19, via I. & G. N. Ry. Leave 10.35 p. m. Friday, April 20, via I. & G. N. Ry.
 Arrive Galveston, Tex., 8.25 a. m. Saturday, April 21, via I. & G. N. Ry. Leave 10.45 a. m. Sunday, April 22, via I. & G. N. Ry.
 Arrive Houston, Tex., 12.20 p. m. Sunday, April 22, via I. & G. N. Ry. Leave 10.15 a. m. Monday, April 23, via Southern Pacific Ry.
 Arrive Austin, Tex., 4.40 p. m. Monday, April 23, via Southern Pacific Ry. Leave 3.00 p. m. Tuesday, April 24, via I. & G. N. Ry.
 Arrive San Antonio, Tex., 6.00 p. m. Tuesday, April 24, via I. & G. N. Ry. Leave 8.50 p. m. Wednesday, April 25, via Southern Pacific Ry.
 Arrive El Paso, Tex., 6.30 p. m., Thursday, April 26, via Southern Pacific Ry. Leave 10.15 p. m. Friday, April 27, via Southern Pacific Ry.
 Arrive Tucson, Ariz., 7.26 a. m. Saturday, April 28, via Southern Pacific Ry. Leave 7.42 a. m. Sunday, April 29, via Southern Pacific Ry.
 Arrive San Diego, Cal., 11.30 a. m. Monday, April 30, via Santa Fe Ry. Leave 12.50 p. m. Tuesday, May 1, via Santa Fe Ry.
 Arrive Santa Ana, Cal., 3.40 p. m. Tuesday, May 1, via Santa Fe Ry. Leave 5.45 a. m. Wednesday, May 2, via Santa Fe Ry.
 Arrive Los Angeles, Cal., 7.15 a. m. Wednesday, May 2, via Santa Fe Ry. Leave 9.45 p. m. Friday, May 4, via Southern Pacific.
 Arrive Fresno, Cal., 9.03 a. m. Saturday, May 5, via Southern Pacific Ry. Leave 9.10 Sunday, May 6, via Southern Pacific Ry.
 Arrive Stockton, Cal., 12.40 p. m. Sunday, May 6, via Southern Pacific Ry. Leave 9.30 a. m. Monday, May 7, via Southern Pacific Ry.
 Arrive Sacramento, Cal., 11.20 a. m. Monday, May 7, via Southern Pacific Ry. Leave 8.10 a. m. Tuesday, May 8, via Southern Pacific Ry.
 Arrive Placerville, Cal., 11.15 a. m. Tuesday, May 8, via Southern Pacific Ry. Leave 7.30 a. m. Wednesday, May 9, via Southern Pacific Ry.

NOTE.—Time of arrival and departure in various cities subject to changes in train schedules.

(To be continued about April 15.)

When You're in Trouble

RICHARDSON'S MOTION PICTURE HANDBOOK FOR MANAGERS AND OPERATORS

Is the Doctor That Can Unfailingly Prescribe
for Your Ailments.

There isn't an operator's booth in the universe in which this carefully compiled book will not save ten times its purchase price each month.

BUY IT TODAY! $4.00 THE COPY, POSTPAID

Your bookseller can supply you or the nearest Moving Picture World office will promptly fill your orders.

MOVING PICTURE WORLD

Schiller Bldg.
Chicago, Ill.

17 Madison Ave.,
New York City.

Haas Bldg.
Los Angeles, Cal.

This paper has never been published except in a Union shop, so it makes no difference whether we print the Union Label or not, but at the request of a few of our readers to the editor of this department it is printed herewith.

Motion Picture Photography*

Conducted by CARL LOUIS GREGORY, F. R. P. S.

Inquiries.

QUESTIONS in cinematography addressed to this department will receive carbon copy of the department's reply by mail when four cents in stamps are inclosed. Special replies by mail on matters which cannot be replied to in this department, $1.

Manufacturers' Notice.

It is an established rule of this department that no apparatus or other goods will be endorsed or recommended editorially until the excellence of such articles has been demonstrated to its editor.

Recent Motion Picture Patents.

(U. S. Patents—Continued from issue of March 10.)

1196066. F. Alberini
A motion picture machine for taking wide angle views (as of 100 degrees instead of the usual 45 degrees), comprising a machine for intermittently moving the film in a curved position in front of an optical device rotating concentrically with the curve of the film.
1197568. F. W. Weeks.
A motion picture target apparatus for shooting-galleries. When the bullet hits the screen, the motion picture machine stops and special electrical devices insure that the shutter will be in the open position.
1194753. P. F. Krug.
A motion picture machine provided with mechanism designed to intermittently feed the film across the picture aperture noiselessly and without danger of tearing.
1196063. E. M. Wooden.
A motion picture machine which automatically forms loops between the intermittent driving mechanism and the sprockets.
- 14174, Re-issue. W. A. Dietze
A magazine for motion picture machines so constructed as to prevent the operation of the film when the doors of the magazine are open, thereby preventing fire.
1194982. C. C. Fay.
A film winding device for motion picture machines in which the film is wound up from the outside inwardly.
1196812. J. Roeder.
A receiving reel for motion picture apparatus, in which the exhibited film is coiled up from the outside inwardly.
1196709. A. J. R. MacDougall.
A swinging fire shield for motion picture machines.
1195175. E. M. Bendheim.
A film repairing apparatus comprises a table upon which accurately aligned cutter blades, scraping tools, and clamping devices are mounted, so that a damaged film may be quickly and accurately cut, emulsion removed from a portion to be cemented, cement applied and clamped until repaired, without danger of the repaired film having incorrect spacing between the apertures for sprocket wheels.
1195785. H. B. Cunningham.
A device for rewinding motion picture films.
1198534. J. R. Grahert and P. J. Friedrichs.
A container in which motion picture film may be shipped.
1196799. G. W. Miles, assigned to E. K. Co.
A process for recovering cellulose from worn-out photographic films.
1198599. C. L. Sudmann and W. D. Hopkins.
A process of producing motion pictures from plastic materials.
- 1198598 and 1198600. C. L. Sudmann
Process of and means for producing animated cartoon motion picture films.
1199395. W. G. Lindsay.
Plastic composition of the celluloid type.
1199733. P. Dietz.
Projecting apparatus for successively displaying images printed on perforated film of the motion picture type.
1199460. W. B. Featherstone.
An arrangement for avoiding the "key-stone" distortion when projecting motion pictures.
1197696. H. E. Webb.
An apparatus for projecting motion pictures from an opaque film.
1197732. A. F. Gall.
A motion-picture-printing apparatus in which the projection principle instead of the contact method is used.
1197734. J. R. Grahert and P. J. Friedrichs.
A machine for developing motion picture films.
1198168. J. Thaison.
A splicer for broken motion picture film.
1202724. E. M. Taylor.
An improvement in two-color motion picture photography. A pair of red and green exposures are made one after the other, but as near together as possible. A relatively long interval takes place when a similar pair of exposures is made, another interval takes place and so on. The purpose is to minimize color fringes in rapidly moving objects.

1203681. E. Zollinger and S. Mischonsniky.
A motion picture color filter.
1200819. G. Douhet and E. Zollinger.
A motion picture camera for use on aircraft.
1202945. M. J. Wohl.
A diffusing screen for use in connection with the lighting apparatus in studios.
1202021. W. Biellecke.
A telephoto photographic objective of the non-variable focus type.
1202675. W. J. Crothers.
An adjustable view finder for cameras.
1203097. E. L. Burket
A distance finder for cameras.
1202231. E. Schneider.
A relatively simple motion picture camera.
1203238. O. W. Motley and D. J. Zelen.
A variable speed transmission for connecting a motor with a motion picture machine.
1202107. G. Schmid.
A film feeding apparatus for motion picture cameras.
1199221. L. E. Taylor.
An intermittent feeding mechanism for motion picture cameras.
1205223. H. E. Kock.
An apparatus for coating sensitive emulsions on films.
1207527. W. F. Fox, assigned to Kinemacolor Co., of America.
Ceramic method of producing color screen plate. For the preparation of the screen the color elements are obtained in spherical granules of a transparent and fusible substance, such as glass, by running a fine stream of the powdered material into a hot-air blast which heats the granules to the melting point, when they become spherical by the action of surface tension, while the separating action of the blast prevents coalescence. The spherical granules are sifted to uniform size and then mixed in the desired proportion of the colors.
1207527. W. F. Fox, assigned to Kinemacolor Co. of America
A process of color photography. Two negative images are made, one taken through a green filter and one through a red filter. One of these is printed upon positive material and toned to a color complementary to that of the screen through which the corresponding negative was taken. Next the other negative is printed on the positive material in registry with the toned image thereon and the second positive image is dyed a color complementary to that of the screen through which its negative was taken. The patentee states that the method may be used either where the two positive images are upon the same side of the positive film stock or where they are formed upon opposite sides. The second negative is printed over the first positive image on the previously exposed positive emulsion without first developing and resensitizing.
1207042. F. W. Hochstetter, assigned to H. P. Patents and Process Company, Inc.
A combined developer and fixer adapted to be absorbed by a strip of felt, which is wound up with motion picture film immediately after exposure so as to develop and fix the film in the shortest possible time after the pictures are taken.
1205367. J. A. McBride.
A motion picture film provided at its marginal portions, just inside the usual perforations, with a series of spaced projections forced out of the film body so that when the film is coiled up the various convolutions will be spaced, thereby avoiding abrasion.
1205822. A. P. H. Trivelli.
A motion picture film which has been renovated and the scratches therein eliminated by vanishing with a mixture of cellulose, ether, drying oil and salts of a resin acid.
1206984. A. C. R. Bloom.
A projection apparatus for successively exhibiting the pictures on a strip of ordinary positive film, the apparatus being a relatively simple one for use in store windows.
1206357. G. W. Nushaum.
An arrangement for preventing the generation of static electricity in motion picture apparatus. The idea is to make the film guiding surfaces, rollers, etc., out of the same material as the film, for example, out of pyroxylin.
1204585. F. Norte.
An apparatus for projecting reading matter line by line at appropriate times during the exhibition of motion pictures. It is particularly intended to project translation of reading matter accompanying foreign films.
1205427. J. W. Billings.
An attachment for motion picture machines whereby items of descriptive matter are thrown on the screen in timed relation to the motion pictures.

Music for the Picture

Conducted by CLARENCE E SINN and NORMAN STUCKEY.

THE design of this department is to diffuse among musicians and exhibitors correct information on all important subjects pertaining to music for the film, to improve the quality of playing and to raise the standard of music in motion picture theaters.

Any question concerning music; suitable instrumentation; questions relating to the organ and mechanical players; in fact, any queries, criticisms or suggestions dealing with the musical interpretation for moving pictures will be answered through this department.

Supreme Court Decision That May Eventually Affect Theaters.

The Supreme Court of the United States recently rendered a decision that will probably affect theaters using copyrighted music.

In a decision rendered January 22, 1917, Victor Herbert et al. vs. The Shanley Company, Mr. Justice Holmes found that the playing or singing of copyrighted songs and other musical numbers in a restaurant, hotel, cabaret, etc., without permission of the copyright owner, subjects the proprietor of such establishment to very serious penalties.

This decision has the support of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, organized to protect composers, authors and publishers against such playing of their compositions, and for the purpose of licensing the public performance of the works of its members, who comprise most of the well-known authors, composers and publishers of America, England, Italy and Austria.

Just how this law will affect the many moving picture theaters in this country is a point yet to be decided by the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, but it is likely that a small fee, or license, will entitle the musician, or theater owner, to use and play such musical compositions as he wishes; that is, all compositions, published or written by the members of this society. It is probable that the size of the house will be considered and the license fee regulated according to the seating capacity.

Mr. Justice Holmes delivered the opinion of the Court:

These two cases (Victor Herbert, Harry E. Smith, et al., vs. The Shanley Company. The John Church Company vs. Hilliard Hotel Company) present the same question: whether the performance of a copyrighted musical composition in a restaurant or hotel without charge for admission to hear it infringes the exclusive right of the owner of the copyright to perform the work publicly for profit. Act of March 4, 1909, c. No. 1 (e), 35 Sta. 1075. The last case was decided before the other and may be stated first. The plaintiff owns the copyright of a lyric comedy in which is a march called "From Maine to Georgia." It took out a separate copyright for the march and published it separately. The defendant hotel company caused this march to be performed in the dining room of the Vanderbilt Hotel for the entertainment of guests during meal times, in a way common, by an orchestra employed and paid by this company. It was held by the Circuit Court of Appeals, reversing the decision of the District Court, that this was not a performance within the meaning of the Act 221 Fed. Rep. 229, 136 C. C. A. 639.

The other case is similar so far as the present discussion is concerned. The plaintiffs were the composers and owners of a comic opera entitled "Sweethearts," containing a song of the same title as a leading feature in the performance. There is a copyright for the opera and also one for the song, which is published and sold separately. This the Shanley Company caused to be sung by professional singers, upon a stage in its restaurant on Broadway, accompanied by an orchestra. The District Court, after holding that by the separate publication of the plaintiff's rights were limited to those conferred by the separate copyright, a matter that it will not be necessary to discuss, followed the decision 221 Fed. Rep. 229, as to public performance for profit. 222 Fed. Rep. 344. The decree was affirmed by the Circuit Court of Appeals, 229 Fed. Rep. 340, 143 C. C. A. 460.

If the rights under the copyright law are infringed only by performances where money is taken at the door, they are very imperfectly protected. Performances not different in kind from those of the defendants could be given that might compete with and even destroy the success of the monopoly that the law intends the plaintiffs to have. It is enough to say that there is no need to construe the statute so narrowly. The defendants' performances are not eleemosynary. They are part of a total for which the public pays, and the fact that the price of the whole is attributed to a particular item which those present are expected to order is not important. It is true that the music is not the sole object, but neither is the food, which probably could be got cheaper elsewhere. The object is a repast in surroundings that people having limited powers of conversation or disliking the rival noise give a luxurious pleasure not to be had from eating a silent meal. If music did not pay it would be given up. If it pays it pays out of the public's pocket. Whether it pays or not, the purpose of employing it is profit, and that is enough.

The extracts from the Copyright Law relating to the public performance and rendition of musical works are as follows:

"Section 25. That if any person shall infringe the copyright in any work protected under the copyright law of the United States such person is liable:

"(a) To an injunction restraining such infringement.

"(b) To pay to the copyright proprietor such damages as the copyright proprietor may have suffered due to the infringement, as well as all the profits which the infringer shall have made from such an infringement * * * or in lieu of actual damages and profits such damages, the Court may, in its discretion, allow the amounts as hereinafter stated, and such damages shall not exceed the sum of five thousand dollars, nor be less than two hundred and fifty dollars, and shall not be regarded as a penalty; * * *

"Fourth: In the case of dramatic or dramatic-musical or a choral or orchestral composition, one hundred dollars for the first and fifty dollars for every subsequent infringing performance; in the case of other musical compositions, ten dollars for every infringing performance.

"Section 28. That any person who wilfully and for profit shall infringe any copyright secured by this Act, or who shall knowingly and wilfully aid or abet such infringement, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment for not exceeding one year or by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars, or both, in the discretion of the Court; provided, however, that nothing in this Act shall be so construed as to prevent the performance of religious or secular works, such as oratorios, cantatas, masses or octavo choruses by public schools, church choirs or vocal societies, rented, borrowed or obtained from some public library, public school, church choir, school choir, or vocal society, provided the performance is given for charitable or educational purposes and not for profit."

(Further questions dealing with this copyright law will be dealt with through this department.—ED.)

Classic Melodies for the Organists' Use.

It is interesting to think of a list of great andante melodies fitting for plaintive scenes. It is perhaps a little like the list of the hundred best books, and, to be sure, it is somewhat a personal matter, one of individual experience. But in spite of the lack of applause, there is no difficulty in the test. The organist is sure to know when he has touched his hearers.

First of all, it seems, come the andantes from the great sonatas and symphonies—chiefly of Beethoven. The symphonies are a less fruitful field than the sonatas. Of the former, there are the slow movements, in particular of the Sixth, the Seventh and the Second symphonies. Of the sonatas there are the Andante of the Pathétique, of Opus 26; the Menuetto in Opus 31, No. 3, and the Andante in the Sonata Appassionata. To these may be added the Largo of Opus 2, No. 2. These have always seemed to us in the essence of the most beautiful andante music.

But while Beethoven's melody is the familiar type, his are not the only examples. The Andante of Mozart's Symphony in E flat is equal in beauty and earlier in the time of its creation. In Beethoven's violin sonata there is also the great theme of the Kreutzer Sonata and the Adagio of No. 7. The Andante of the 10th Trio, Opus 97, is also a melody wonderfully suited to the organ. Handel's Largo, and the Harmonious Blacksmith hardly need a reminder. In Bach's works there are very few examples that may be used for this special purpose; the best is probably the melody known as the Air for the G Strings.

In Haydn's symphonies there is here and there a slow melody well suited to the organ. An example is the Andante in G, from the Symphony in D No. 2 (B. & H. edition).

Of Schubert's music, the first part of the Impromptu in A flat, No. 142, is an ideal melody for the organ. The beautiful "Rosamunde" air (in both its verses) is also suitable. A perfect organ melody is the theme of Schubert's song, "Death and the Maiden." The Andante melodies of both the great symphonies of Schubert are effective on the organ. The second movement of the "Unfinished" may be played throughout, but it should be played from the score for the true effect, and this requires due preparation. As we leave the group of classic masters, we find less of this simple kind of melody. Schumann's "Traumerei," to be sure, needs a long rest from overwork, and other of his melodies—the "Nachstück" or "Warum"—are graceful on the organ.

Mendelssohn's "Songs Without Words" afford an example here and there; and the andante theme from the Italian symphony or from the violin concerto, and the Notturmo from the "Midsummer Night's Dream" music may be played with effect.

All these melodies have a splendid place during plaintive scenes, and the organist who interprets properly the above-mentioned music will raise the standard of his playing high above the usual organ music heard in the picture theater.

Exchange Efficiency

Conducted by John J. Rotchford

THIS department aims to discuss and, thereby, remedy some of the difficulties experienced by exhibitors in their dealings with exchanges. It is believed that progressives among the latter have devised methods benefiting their end of the business and they will take advantage of this channel to promote its general welfare.

Block Outs.

DISTRIBUTORS of feature subjects do not seem to hold block-out records in the same high regard that regular program exchanges do. There are scores of branches throughout the country where, in order to find a subject clear in a specified town, one has to wade through ledger accounts, booking sheets and even express receipt books.

Situations often arise in an exchange when it is desired to quickly obtain a subject about which there is no doubt as to its not being a repeater and the haphazard methods mentioned above will never answer on these occasions. Furthermore, from the exchange point of view, there is no better suggester of renting possibilities than a compact block-out record.

A simple and effective way to provide for this is to purchase a stock blankbook known as a "Roll Book" and which is used by teachers, lodges, etc., to keep attendance records. By listing all the towns in a territory in this and running the names of the subjects across the pages, an exchange will have a block-out that will rival the most expensive specially-prepared one ever devised.

By filling in the amount received from each subject, the total amount earned by the latter can easily be obtained and if advance bookings be written in, in pencil, the possibility of booking the same subject twice or to a competitor will be eliminated.

Wall Maps of Uniform Scale.

A good large scale map of his territory mounted upon suitable material is a prime necessity of every branch manager. Properly kept up-to-date, with route tacks, etc., it will constantly keep in the fore important matters (such as easily formed circuits and prominent prospects) which if attended to will react to the benefit of both his customers and his employers.

Manager Kiltz of Kansas City has been a firm believer in such a map and has made the one he has doubly effective by means of varied colored circles of different sizes which he has drawn around every town having a moving picture theater.

Unfortunately, it is almost impossible to obtain a standard commercial map of any two states drawn upon the same scale. And, very often, the heavy coloring used to distinguish the different counties operates against obtaining the full benefit of its use.

Both of these difficulties may be avoided by purchasing the maps described in the following circular issued by the United States Geological Survey, Washington, D. C.

State Maps (In Black and White).

Scale, 1 to 500,000.

Base maps of the following states, in black and white, except as otherwise noted, have been printed. These maps have been prepared in connection with the work done on the great international map of the world and are published on the scale of 1 to 500,000. They show in accurate position all the principal cities, towns, villages, streams and railroads and the main political sub-divisions. The dimensions and prices of these maps are indicated below:

	Size	Price
Alabama	30 by 46 ins.	$0.20
Arkansas	34 " 38 "	.20
Delaware	11 " 18 "	.10
Georgia	34 " 41 "	.25
Indiana	24 " 36 "	.15
Iowa	29 " 41 "	.20
Kentucky	26 " 56 "	.25
Maryland	22 " 37 "	.15
Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut	21 " 27 "	.15
Michigan	30 " 61 "	.45
Minnesota	46 " 52 "	.40
Mississippi	29 " 48 "	.20
Missouri	44 " 47 "	.35
Montana	42 " 72 "	.45
New Hampshire and Vermont	20 " 26 "	.15
New Jersey	15 " 25 "	.10
New York	44 " 60 "	.35
North Carolina	29 " 70 "	.30
Ohio (two colors)	33 " 35 "	.40
Oregon	39 " 52 "	.35
Pennsylvania	13 " 39 "	.20
South Carolina	32 " 39 "	.20
Tennessee	33 " 37 "	.20
Vermont	15 " 24 "	.10
Virginia	30 " 64 "	.30
Washington (two colors)	32 " 48 "	.25
West Virginia	33 " 38 "	.20
Wisconsin	39 " 42 "	.30
Wyoming	36 " 42 "	.30

It will be seen that the scale of these maps is uniformly eight miles to the inch.

As the circular quoted above was issued about two years ago, it is possible that several of the missing states may be available at the present time.

Indexing Theaters Located in Large Cities.

There are two standard methods of indexing theaters in a city, namely, alphabetically according to the name of the street upon which they are situated, or, alphabetically as to the name of the house.

In both cases it is a difficult proposition in large cities, first, to route solicitors so that they can visit the greatest number of houses in the shortest time, and, secondly, to keep records showing advance bookings in a locality which will prevent booking opposition houses and also to indicate possibilities of further business in sections having a large number of theaters.

All of these problems may be solved by a system of listing houses according to zones. This method can best be explained by outlining the successive steps one would take to accomplish this in a given city. We will take for example Manhattan Borough and presume that the available record cards arranged according to the names of the streets on which the houses are located.

We would first number the cards consecutively in small figures, placed in the upper right-hand corner. This will aid us in reassembling them after the work is completed.

Then taking a standard map of the city, say Rand-McNally's inch to the mile map. We will draw vertical and horizontal lines covering the map with squares about one inch in size.

These squares are numbered consecutively from west to east, starting from the southwest corner. The second line starts with 11 and the third line 21, etc. The object of this is to have a difference of 10 between all zones running north and south. For example, zone 35 will be immediately south of 45, and 55 will be directly north of it.

Mentally we sub-divide each zone into four parts, calling the north-west quarter A, the northeast B, the southwest C and the southeast D.

With the aid of a street directory we now ascertain in just what zone and sub-division each theater is located and mark the card in large figures and letters.

When this is completed the cards are arranged numerically, according to zones, and all in the same sub-division are placed together.

The list is now typewritten and it will begin as follows:

Zone 5, sub B, 22 Washington street, near Battery place, Syrian theater, owner unknown; zone 26, sub C, 31 Park Row, near Spruce street, Park Row theater, Jos. Weinstein; zone 27, sub B, 76 Catharine street, near Hamilton street, New Catharine theater, Fred Garone, etc., etc.

When this is completed the cards are again put in the original alphabetical order so that the location may be easily found.

The manner in which this would aid the solicitor may be illustrated by showing how he would use such a list if he were instructed to visit the East Side from about Fourteenth street and Third avenue to Forty-second street.

He would see by the list that his starting point was in zone 66B, in which are located:

The Jefferson, 214 East Fourteenth street.
Academy of Music, Irving place and Fourteenth street.
The City, 114 East Fourteenth street.
Variety, 112 Third avenue.
Star, 136 Third avenue.

Immediately south would be "The Comet," 100 Third avenue (66D). To the east (67A) "New Fourteenth Street," 235 East Fourteenth street.

To the north (76D) "The Avenue," 145 Third avenue, and "The Dreamland," 249 Third avenue, then (76B) "Photoplay Theatre," 298 Third avenue.

Further north (86D) three houses on Third avenue and (86B) two houses on Third avenue and "The Thirty-fourth Street," "162 East Thirty-fourth Street." To the east of the latter (87C) "The Rosehill," 472 Second avenue, etc., etc.

The booking record mentioned can be made by listing the theaters in this order in a "Roll Book" along the lines suggested in these columns for block-outs.

This method will provide solicitors with a compact list of theaters arranged in a workable manner and will save the time consumed daily in referring to maps, guides and cards. In addition it will enable roadmen not perfectly familiar with a city to be utilized in emergencies after very short training.

In some cities the difference between the zones that are not numbered consecutively will have to be greater than 10. In Brooklyn, for instance, it is necessary to make the difference 30. Any round number will answer the purpose.

Picture Situation in Germany

War Increased Manufacture of Productions—Exchanges Obtain Films by Submitting Offers to Producers—Competition Avoided by Theaters in Large Cities Forming Circuits

AN article on the motion picture business in Germany published in "Commerce Reports" and written by U. S. Vice Consul Francis R. Stewart, stationed at Hamburg, tells us that the general policy pursued in the motion picture business in that country is not very different from that which prevails in the United States. In that country the shows are about 2½ hours long. They never include vaudeville, nor is the singer of illustrated songs to be found. As in the United States, these theaters are in the residential districts as well as in the business sections of the cities.

The policy of having a continuous performance from noon until midnight is not followed there. The usual exhibition hours are from 6 to 11 p. m. Two shows are given nightly, and on Sunday two extra performances with programs arranged especially for children are added, starting at 3 p. m. The time needed in order to give four shows is gained by running the films more rapidly. Children are not allowed to attend the evening performances.

The price of admission to the better class of motion-picture theaters ranges from .11 for front parquet seats near the screen to .36 for seats in loges and boxes. Every theater provides music of some kind. The program in a first-class theater usually consists of two dramatic pictures, 3 to 5 reels in length, in most instances first-run films; a one-reel weekly pictorial report from the various battle fronts, and a single reel of a comic nature.

The business has grown during the war period. Prior to August, 1914, the majority of the pictures were of foreign origin, with considerable quantities from Great Britain, France and Italy. The amounts from the United States were not of sufficient importance to warrant their mention in official statistics, but it is quite likely that many of those imported from Great Britain and France were reproductions of films originating in America.

High Standard Reached by Domestic Product.

A perceptible increase in the manufacture of German films has taken place, and today several high-grade producing firms in that country are making pictures which compare favorably with any in the world. The most important studios are in Berlin.

German producers devote their energies almost entirely to drama and light comedies. Some feature films have been made, with the scenarios written around special events in early German history or legends of the early centuries. Such pictures have been very successful, but the most popular today are detective stories, of which several series are now being widely shown.

The best comedy pictures seen in Germany come from the United States, and these are always pleasing to the audiences, as are also the American wild west films. The manufacture of natural-history pictures, in which the French producers have been so successful, has not been attempted there.

Method of Distributing New Films.

The system of releasing new films that has been perfected in this country is not in force in Germany, although the reels are generally disposed of through an agency or film exchange, which in many instances is at the same time the owner of several theaters. Numerous film exchanges which are distributed through the large cities serve not only their own theaters but also others in their immediate sections. When a new film is ready a date is set for its initial showing, and the exchanges and agents are notified in order that their agents may be present and, after seeing the picture, submit their offers for it. The right to produce or license is sold chiefly with a monopoly for certain sections of the country, but also at times for the whole of Germany and occasionally for the entire world, the purchaser then being obliged to look after the further sale. Display printing matter and other advertisements are supplied by the producing firms, but not on such a lavish scale as in the United States.

Each new film requires the approval of the Government censor, and after being censored is exhibited as soon as possible. A specified time for the first performance or general release of a film is seldom fixed, and first performances may take place in different theaters and cities at different times, but each exchange always endeavors to have the first exhibition of a new film in the large cities of its district at the earliest possible date.

Hamburg Favored With New Productions.

Every exchange has one or two theaters of a better class where new pictures are first shown, after which the smaller theaters in the same city obtain the reels, and then only are they shown in the smaller towns in the neighborhood. In Hamburg new films are generally shown during the first week they are released and remain in that city up to the eighth week, in some instances before exhibition is permitted in neighboring towns.

In the larger cities of Germany the best theaters change their programs but once each week or at the most twice. In the small towns exhibitions are given on only three or four days of each week, and the same program runs the entire time. The theaters are supplied bi-weekly by the film exchanges with lists from which they make up their programs.

Picture theaters in the large cities have been combined into circuits, which take care of their mutual interests. There are 62 houses in Hamburg-Altona, and these are combined into three circuits, each having 15 to 20 members. Protection of territory is their chief purpose, and no theater is accepted as a member if the location is such as to interfere with other members of a circuit. A member must give one month's notice of intention to withdraw. The funds of the circuit are employed in procuring new films, especially those of a feature nature, for the members.

Avoid Competition in Selecting Theaters.

When a new film is produced it may be exhibited in five to eight theaters of the circuit at the same time and on the same day, but members must choose the theaters according to location so that competition between them is avoided. Generally every circuit purchases the reels outright from an exchange, or direct from the producer. Arrangements have been made among the various circuits by which pictures of one circuit are never shown by other circuits. An exception to this rule is made only in the case of the weekly pictorial reports.

Prices for films vary greatly. The film exchanges are paying to the producers .34 to .36 per meter (3.28 feet) for good films of ordinary types. In some instances a price of $1.07 per meter is obtained. If the purchasers demand any monopolies, special amounts are charged according to the extent of the license. The purchasing price of a film of medium sort with a monopoly for northern Germany, 3,280 to 3,937 feet in length, amounts to about $952 to $1,428.

Rate for Weekly Service Established.

Motion-picture theaters do not generally pay prices per meter, but, as in the United States, are charged a rate for their weekly service with two changes, the cost being fixed according to the weekly run of the film, whether first week, second week, etc. If, apart from the program that the agent offers, special features come into consideration, the rental charge is fixed according to film age and value and depends also upon the time it takes to produce it.

The charge for a weekly program of 8,202 feet to 9,186 feet, with changes Tuesdays and Fridays, for a theater in the central part of Hamburg, located on a main street, amounts to $143 to $167 for first week's run; $119 to $143 for second week's run and $71.40 to $95.20 for third week's run. Older films, up to the eighth week, are exhibited only in the suburbs.

Contracts Between Exchanges and Theaters.

The service contracts are made directly between the film exchanges and the theaters, if the latter are not members of a circuit, and are in force only for a specified period. Independent of service agreements, every motion-picture theater has the right to obtain reels, according to choice, from other agents.

The charges for service usually are paid by the theaters before the reels are delivered, and only in rare cases are exceptions made to this rule. When reels have become useless they must be returned to the exchanges. The theaters can insure themselves against any losses in this regard up to 30 per cent. of the film value, but must bear the balance. New copies of reels cost .24 to .36 per meter. Such copies are made partly by the producer and partly by special firms doing this work. Agents who have purchased films with a monopoly for certain districts have the right to manufacture their own copies.

Almost all picture theaters and others interested in the business in Germany are members of the Association for Protection of Mutual Interests of the Cinematography and Related Branches, having its headquarters in Berlin. The film exchanges are associated in the German Film Renting Co. (Ltd.) in Berlin.

Methods of Censoring Motion Pictures.

New regulations for censoring films are being formulated in the General War Department of the Prussian Ministry of War. Permission may be granted for limited imports from various countries. The censoring, which is now exercised by the military commandant, is strict and includes not only the films themselves but lately the advertising matter also.

British Notes

THE Universal production, "The Campbells Are Coming," recently purchased as an exclusive by a Scottish renting exchange has been withdrawn from exhibition at the request of the Government.

The topic of the week in cinematographic and every other commercial circle has been the issue of the new war loan. Of a long list of American enterprises taking up holdings of the stock that of Henry Winik (Triangle) comes foremost with £25,000, but there are many evidences that this will be eclipsed before its withdrawal in a fortnight's time. The efforts of the home trade to back up the issue would form a chapter of the triumph of resource and ingenuity, for apart from several noteworthy individual contributions a scheme is before the council of the Exhibitors' Association to devote the entire takings of every member during the three days, Feb. 12-14.

The Fox general manager, Winfield Sheehan, is again in London, coming specially for the presentation of the film phantasy, "A Daughter of the Gods." The trade show has not yet been announced, but a private viewing to a few privileged viewers and pressmen is announced for next Thursday at the Marble Rock Pavilion. Other multi-reel features awaiting disposal upon the London market are Dixon's "Fall of a Nation," D. W. Griffith's "Intolerance," and Thos. Ince's "Civilization."

"I consider it the best type of film to show to young people," says the principal of a Roman Catholic college in London speaking of the Essanay film, "Temper," starring Henry B. Walthall.

The Home Office scheme for the establishment of an official central censorship of moving-picture films has been left in abeyance until that department is in a better position to deal with the matter by legislation. Following definite refusals by the Kinematograph Trade Council to support any system of censorship even if embodying finality of decision without adequate trade control of the Advisory Board the following letter was received from the Home Office and clearly explains the position up to date:

January 24, 1917.

To the Chairman of the Kinematograph Trade Council:

The Secretary of State has had under consideration your letter of the 11th inst. and understands from it that the Council definitely declines to accept the scheme proposed for a central censorship of films by official censors appointed by the Home Office. The Secretary of State regrets this decision, which will render abortive a proposal, which while protecting the public would have relieved local authorities and the kinematograph trade from the burden of successive inspections of the same film in different districts, with the possibility of divergent conclusions. The regret is the greater as the negotiations for an agreed scheme have now been proceeding for a long time, and have been successful in securing the adhesions of all the licensing authorities in England and Wales, with the exception of two County Councils in Wales, which have not sent in definite replies. As it is evident from your letter that no useful result would be achieved by further discussion, the Home Secretary (Sir Geo. Cave) will not proceed with the scheme, but will postpone the question of a central censorship until there is opportunity for dealing with the matter by legislation. Meanwhile the Secretary of State, while sincerely hoping that an improvement in the character of the films represented will result from the action of the Board of Film Censors appointed by the trade (this refers to the appointment of T. P. O'Connor), is, of course, unable to recognize their decisions as taking the place of a public censorship, and accordingly he proposes to inform the local licensing authorities of the withdrawal for the present of the scheme for a central censorship, and to recommend them to exercise to the full extent the powers of control which they possess under the Cinematograph Act of 1909. I am, sir,

Your obedient servant,

EDWARD THROUP.

Under Secretary of State for the Home Office.

The Ministry of Munitions has ordered a census to be made of all anastigmatic photographic lenses in the country. The return applies only to anastigmats and practically does not affect the moving-picture lens.

"The Country That God Forgot," the newest Selig-Red Seal feature to arrive in this country and incidentally the first multi-reel production to be distributed through the recently inaugurated Selig Rental Service received a promising send-off at the West End Cinema the other day.

A recent Monday saw the fourth meeting of the Kinema Commission sitting at Central Hall, Westminster. F. R. Goodwin (of the Exhibitors' Association) again gave evidence, this time in reference to recent allegations from press and platform of impropriety and misconduct in moving-picture theaters. These, contended the speaker, upon investigation, usually turned out to be nothing more than privileged manifestations of affection between the sexes. Under the strongest as well as under diminished systems of lighting, unmarried couples would usually sit in close proximity, holding hands or linking arms, or even an occasional arm would be found round the waist. But, emphasized Mr. Goodwin, the kinema is not the abode of indecency and visits by women vigilance workers to 250 halls failed to establish a single case of indecency. Speaking at some length upon the detection of women of evil character who frequented the kinema theaters in the West End of London, he advised, on the recommendation of the Exhibition Association, a system of registering all women above the age of 14 years with identity cards, which could be examined by theater managers and that the record thereon of the holder be noted.

Interesting advice and evidence was given to the Commissioners apropos the effect of moving-pictures upon the eye-sight—another overworked fetish of the anti-kinema crusaders—by Dr. Bishop Harman, senior optical surgeon at the West London and the Belgrave hospitals. The principal effects upon both adults and children were from flicker, glare of light, rapidity of motion, concentration of attention and the duration of the exhibition. The newer machines and films greatly minimized these effects, but they were still evident in colored films. Better protection for children would be secured by the following precautions: Reasonable illumination of all parts of auditorium; improved projectors to reduce flickers; withdrawal of damaged films; improvements in taking pictures to make the rate of motion more natural; more intervals at each show; reservation of children's seats in center of auditorium and the limitation of children's shows to one hour.

"The canon that what is good enough for the stage is good enough for the film, that anything that is permissible on the stage must necessarily and inevitably be permissible on the film, is not true. I do not say that any subject that can be treated in the drama cannot be treated on the film, but I do say that you cannot treat them in quite the same way, and having seen some of the stage productions in the last few weeks I should be very sorry for myself if I allowed them to be reproduced on the film."—T. P. O'Connor, M. P. (President of the British Board of Film Censors) at a dinner given to him by a theatrical journal. J. B. SUTCLIFFE.

I. A. T. S. E. OFFICERS.

Ottawa, Ontario, was chosen for the next international convention of the International Association of Stage Employes, which just closed its meeting in Cleveland. The picture theater operators are affiliated with this organization, which elected the following officers:

President, Charles C. Shay, New York; vice presidents, W. G. Rusk, San Francisco; W. F. Canavan, St. Louis; Charles Malloy, Butte, Mont., and Louis Krause, Philadelphia; secretary-treasurer, Frank G. Lemaster, Denver.

The proposition to join the strike of "White Rats," which came before the meeting was not acted upon, it being the opinion of delegates that the stage employes and operators could gain nothing by being affiliated with the actors.

DURANT AND KELLY EMPIRE-MUTUAL EDITORS.

The scenario department of the Empire All Star Corporation, recently formed by President John R. Freuler of the Mutual Film Corporation and Alf Hayman, representative of the Charles Frohman interests, to produce Charles Frohman stage successes into pictures for release through the Mutual, has been put into the hands of the two noted writers, H. R. Durant and Anthony P. Kelly.

Crimes Committed in Name of Morality

Grenville S. McFarland Outlines the Corrupt Origin of Censorship and Evil Purposes to Which It Has Been Put

BEFORE the New York Republican Club on Saturday afternoon, Feb. 24, Grenville S. MacFarland of Boston discussed the topic, "To What Extent Should Public Speech, the Press and Public Entertainment Be Censored and Restricted?" Mr. MacFarland, who, it will be recalled, accompanied a delegation of film men to Washington last year in antagonism to the Hughes bill and forcefully addressed the Education Committee, spoke in part as follows:

It is a historical fact that pre-publicity censorship, whether of the printed or spoken word, whether of literature or of public speaking, or of theatrical performances, had its origin everywhere in a motive, not to promote morals, but to protect from public criticism somebody or something clothed with the public interest. It is also a historical fact that when establishing a censorship the real motive was never given, but always the pretense of public morality. Public morality rivals liberty in the crimes committed in its name.

In England censorship had not only the motive of protecting unpopular men and institutions from the power of public opinion, but it had the additional motive of vulgar graft. The present English censor began darkly somewhere in the fifteenth century under the title of "Master of the Revels," an officer of the king's household, a purveyor of royal entertainment. To him fell the task of organizing the king's amusement, attending to the decorations of the palace, and performing those duties at the royal functions that now fall to a modern caterer, with the difference at first that the early Master of the Revels paid for these functions out of his own pocket. The Earl of Leicester, as Master of the Revels, gave a play to Queen Elizabeth that lasted seventeen days and cost his private purse $5,000 a day.

This progenitor of the censor originally did not undertake to interfere with plays, amusements or literature. He could summon players before him in order to select the best for the royal entertainment, but never to condemn the worst. His powers extended only to the providing of amusement for the royal household. But these powers were gradually enlarged by the schemes of the master himself for the fees and perquisites which increased as his censorial powers grew.

In 1623 one Sir Henry Herbert, who would have made a splendid modern "captain of industry," looked over the fees of the office and made an offer to the then incumbent for his job. The offer was accepted and Herbert immediately began such a steady enlargement of his powers as would make his speculation pay. A study of the extension by Herbert of the censorship over plays and writings is worth anybody's while who wants to get a sidelight on the times and on the skillful method of pursuing graft under the guise of protecting the public morals.

Stage Censorship of Corrupt Origin.

Of equally corrupt origin is the present censorship of the English stage. It was established in the middle of the eighteenth century during Walpole's administration for the purpose of protecting that notorious regime from public contempt and ridicule to which history has exposed it, and to which it was then in the process of being exposed by a contemporaneous play. In his public and private morals Walpole was the most corrupt politician of note which England has produced in several centuries. He held his office by the most notorious bribery, which took the grossest forms. He was personally licentious in speech and act.

A play appeared in London which attacked Walpole's corruption. It had instant popularity. It was played throughout England to Walpole's chagrin and alarm. So great was its success that its author set about writing another play exposing and ridiculing still further the wretched Walpole and his hirelings in Parliament. But Walpole determined to stop it. He first supported a law which gave the Lord Chamberlain power to suppress plays in his discretion. This bill was defeated. Then he caused to be prepared a lewd, impossible play never intended to be staged, which he read to Parliament, urging the passing of a law to enable its suppression. This time he attained his object—and the play against which he was really making his drive never appeared, though nobody ever thought that it would be immoral, and though the author's first play was absolutely unobjectionable on the score of morals. By Walpole's law the censorial powers were vested in the Lord Chamberlain, where they still remain.

With what result? It has not tended to protect the public morals. The morals of the English stage reflect the state of contemporary public opinion; France, too, had a censor with equal powers until several years ago, when it was abandoned as unnecessary. But the manners of the English and French stage are as far apart as the manners of London and Paris.

Censorship Stunted the English Drama.

A revolt against English censorship was led by all the distinguished writers of England in 1909. An investigation by a parliamentary committee into the whole subject showed that censorship of the English stage had stunted English drama and deprived it of its highest attribute—the power to stir the public mind in matters of public importance. The work of the censor has been highly political. He has prevented plays which had political significance, particularly if the politics of the play differed from the politics of the censor. When Disraeli, in 1845, brought out his novel, "Coningsby," the censor refused to permit it to be staged because it exhibited "a sort of contrast between the manufacturers and lower classes." That distinguished contemporary writer, Bernard Shaw, wrote a political play which passed the censor. This play ridiculed certain Liberal statesmen. Encouraged by his success, Mr. Shaw prepared another play which ridiculed the Conservative statesmen. The play was condemned by the censor. In his indignation Mr. Shaw said:

"The objection is clearly to my politics and not to my personalities. The fact is that I have to ascertain what the censor's politics are before I know whether the play will pass."

The result of parliamentary investigation was to establish the following facts:

(1) Prepublicity censorship "tends to hinder the growth of a great and serious drama" by discouraging distinguished authors whose time is valuable from jeopardizing their time by writing plays which might be destroyed by the whimsical opinion of a censor.

(2) It fails to prevent the production of immoral plays.

(3) It atrophies the exercise of the local police power over local production of immoral plays because they have been licensed by the national censorship authority.

(4) The censorship authority falls under the influence of the large theater interests and tends to exercise its censorial powers with undue consideration for box-office receipts.

(5) The large theater interests favor the continuance of the censorship bureau because it gives questionable productions immunity from prosecution by the local authorities.

(6) The great literary lights of England are almost unanimous against prepublicity censorship.

These considerations led the special parliamentary committee to recommend the abolition of prepublicity censorship in Great Britain. The committee, after elaborate hearings, reached this conclusion:

"Censorship of the stage can only be reasonably supported by one prepared to say that books, sermons, speeches, newspaper articles and lectures should be censored, as well as plays. The effect of the censorship is to coerce into conformity with conventional standards. But conventional standards are not absolute. It is axiomatic that only through toleration of what one age thinks an error can the next age progress further in the pursuit of truth. In view of the danger that official control over plays before their production may hinder the growth of a great and serious national drama, we conclude that the licensing authority should not have the power to impose a veto on the production of plays."

Freedom of Expression All-Important.

Whether the absence of censorship loses to the world some weak character, whose morals might have been saved by the suppression of a play, or a moving picture, or a hook which seduced him, is of little moment compared with the importance of free speech and the freedom of all the media of information and propaganda. In every country controlled by public opinion this has always been the important principle, recognized by the practice in all such countries and guaranteed against passing danger by the Constitution of the United States and of several States of our Union.

But the time is at hand when the necessity for preserving free speech and free literature, and the freedom of everything that has power to criticize, to excite thought and to convey information to the public, is more than ever necessary.

The demands of the times are requiring of the governments of the world a greater and greater extension of their functions. The State is becoming more and more socialistic—whether we like it or do not. No longer are modern governments merely the guardians of the peace. The Manchester school of political economy, with its "laissez faire" doctrine, has been entirely overthrown, even in England, its chief apostle. Germany, Australia and New Zealand, on opposite parts of the globe, and under exactly opposite political, economic and social conditions, have repudiated long ago the old restricted theory of government and the Smith and Mill economic theories. Within the past decade England has been forced to follow. Already the great nations own and operate their railroads, telephone and telegraph companies, administer all kinds of insurance and banking, educational, agricultural and industrial institutions. The great war has precipitated the tendency towards the socializing of institutions once left to individual enterprise. The inexorable competition after the war will require a continuance of the mobilization of their national resources to maintain the present highest pitch of national efficiency.

America cannot lag behind—whether the change is wise or not, it is the drift of the whole world. We are already feeling the power of the tide in the world's fluid conditions. We are already beginning to move with it. Consider what extension of governmental functions in State and nation the last four years have witnessed, and consider what has yet to come before we have caught up with the other nations.

This all means an enormous increase in the power of government, of bureaucracy—a great transfer of power from the bottom toward the top. And this also means that we must keep all our hallast and increase it if we can.

What is the hallast and the protection of a free people against the top-heavy powers of government? Is it not the right and the power to criticize government? Is it not the preservation of all the means of criticizing and of conveying information and thought, of awakening the public consciousness, of stirring a lethargic public mind?

Pictures Should Be Free to Stir the People.

Under the old conditions, when our government restricted its scope within the narrowest limits, we found absolute freedom of the press was a fundamental necessity for the preservation of the rights of a free people. Should we not cherish it with increasing jealousy as the necessity for it grows? Should we not welcome every new means of conveying intelligence and criticism which the advance of the arts and sciences have given us? Should we not hail with profound satisfaction the advent of the moving picture, with its already revealed power of propaganda—and its vast, unsurveyed possibilities of reinforcing the press, the rostrum and pulpit by awakening, informing and stirring the people. With providential timeliness it seems to have come to us, not only when we need more power for criticism, but when, with the increasing diversions of the day, it is becoming more necessary to reach the public, as well through its pleasures as in its serious moments.

Should we throw away this timely aid by permitting the bureaucratic, censorial control of the moving picture, a control over the means of informing and influencing twenty million people every day, to be added to the impending great swelling of the powers of government? Should we not resolutely throw around it constitutional guarantees of the freedom of the press, and then defend the freedom of all these agencies by which our public affairs are intelligently controlled—public speech, the press, public entertainments—from bureaucratic control with renewed determination born of the imminence of a greater need for them?

Australian Showman Visits Seattle

H. D. Williams, of Sydney, N. S. W., on a Tour of the U. S. to Study Industry—In Seattle to Look at Big Photoplay Houses.

H. D. WILLIAMS, of Sydney, Australia, is making a tour of the big film centers of America, studying the motion picture industry from every angle. He has been for the past six weeks in Los Angeles, acquainting himself with the producing end, and from there he came immediately to Seattle. Incidentally, Mr. Williams is getting ideas for a string of big houses, which he intends to build when he returns to Australia after the war, and judging from his present impressions one or two of them may follow the designs of some of Seattle's houses.

Mr. Williams, who at one time lived in Seattle, then in Spokane and Vancouver, B. C., operating five motion picture houses in the last named city, fathered a $3,000,000 amusement company in Australia, known as the H. D. Williams company. He has been running the Crystal Palace combination resort in Sydney and a string of motion picture theaters through the Antipodes; and is a loyal booster of the cause of the British Empire.

As soon as the war is over Mr. Williams expects to return to Australia to start in the business again with new and live ideas. He is going to New Orleans and will probably remain there about two months and still longer in New York, with shorter stops at other cities. After completing his tour of the East, North and South, he will return to Seattle.

"American films," says Mr. Williams, "are practically the only ones known in Australia, and those plays that go well here are almost sure to go well there, with the exception of dramas produced at the psychological moment to meet some special American condition or crisis, such as white slave pictures and those treating of American politics. Society drama and polite comedy are the favorites, with Westerns holding a close second. Mary Pickford and Clara Kimball Young are possibly the greatest favorites among the stars.

"The exhibiting end of the industry," he continued, "stands today in very much the same position that it occupies in America, but it has arrived at that position from just the opposite direction. Where American motion picture houses first catered to the lower classes with five cent admission prices, the Australian exhibitor catered first to the wealthier classes with an admission price of a shilling (25 cts.) or two shillings (50 cts.), and since then the development has been in just opposite ways. The American prices have been gradually raised to 15, 20, or 25 cents, with still higher prices for special features, while in Australia the prices have been gradually lowered to sixpence and in a few cases to threepence. This does not mean that the 'best people' do not still attend the motion picture theaters; for, as I said, motion pictures occupy practically the same position there that they do here—everybody both high and low goes to see them. The lowering of the prices has not lowered the class of our patronage. It has had the same effect that raising them in America has had—it has simply widened the class of patronage.

"Immediately after the war things will be pretty quiet in Australia for awhile. Taxes will be very heavy, and it will be years before business is back to normal. But the country is young, and the reconstruction will not take so long as in the older countries involved. After that is past there will be a great chance for the men who are ready to 'make good' in Australia."

NEW PICTURE THEATER ON HOUSTON STREET.

At a cost of $225,000 (not computed in press agent figures), and modeled along the latest approved lines of similar theaters on Broadway, the New Houston Street Theater, on East Houston street, New York City, is now in course of construction, with a seating capacity of 1,600. Charles Steiner, who operates the New Fourteenth Street Theater, will operate the new theater, which will open on or about May 1st. The new house will be devoted to photoplays exclusively, embellished with soloists and an imported pipe organ of the latest design, as well as an augmented orchestra of superior musicians.

PATHE CLUB HOLDS BEEFSTEAK DINNER.

The Pathe Club held on the night of February 21st a very successful beefsteak dinner at Reisenweber's Restaurant, New York. Some seventy members were present, and with an excellent dinner, good music, and an interesting cabaret, the affair was voted a complete success. This was the sixth affair of the kind which the club has held during the last twelve months.

Unique Making Films for Catholics

Will Be Specially Adapted for Exhibition in Catholic Churches—Under Careful Supervision.

NORMAN W. McLEOD, president of the Unique Film Corporation, 1402 Broadway, is authority for the announcement that his concern is starting productions of a series to be called the "Catholic Truth Films," immediately upon the arrival of Signor J. Camiller, the chief director, who has just sailed for this country. Signor Camiller, formerly of the Italia Films, Turin, Italy, produced, among other spectacles, "The Fall of Rome," "La Tosca," and has for years been closely associated with Catholic authorities at the Vatican and throughout Italy, where he had arranged many religious pageants.

Mr. McLeod states that he has been working on the Catholic film plan for many weeks, and has received most enthusiastic support from leading ecclesiastical authorities. The first production will be called "A Dream of Empire," based on happenings between the Emperor Napoleon and Pope Pius VII. As will be the rule in all these Catholic productions, the author is a prelate—His Lordship, the Right Reverend Bishop Joseph G. Anderson, auxiliary to His Eminence, Cardinal O'Connell of Boston, who will personally supervise the details of ceremonials, pageantry and costuming of the production. As will be the case in each of the series, the story is one with strong moral features, and inspirational in nature.

The second production will be an eight reeler, to be called "Christianity." The author is the Right Reverend Monsignor Francis C. Kelly, D. D., LL. D., president of the Catholic Church Extension Society of the United States of America, and editor of "Extension Society Magazine," which has half a million Catholic readers.

Monsignor Kelley is well known as a Catholic author, and his scenario is said to be a tremendously vital one—thought out in the past few years during which he has been sure of the motion picture as a means of spiritual teaching.

The distribution of the films will be always in connection with Catholic Churches in each diocese, and the larger territories will be handled directly by the corporation, as will some of the foreign countries. When states' rights are sold, the various church arrangements entered into for exhibition will be turned over as part of the rights buyer's contract.

All subsequent films, during production, will in addition to the prelate author's assistance, be directly supervised by an officially appointed censor, under the control of the Archdiocese of New York. Approval of the plan for the Catholic Truth Films, and official censoring arrangements, were made with His Lordship, Bishop Hayes, auxiliary to His Eminence, John, Cardinal Farley, and the Very Reverend Monsignor Dunn, Chancellor of the Archdiocese of New York and head of the Society for the Propagation of Faith, through the good offices of Monsignor Kelly of the Chicago Archdiocese.

PNEUMONIA THREATENS TYRONE POWER.

Tyrone Power, one of the most forceful and dramatic actors of either the screen or stage, is hovering on the verge of pneumonia and is under the care of two physicians at his Santa Monica home as the result of two days' work in storm scenes in the production of the Nevada Motion Picture Corporation's big 12-reel feature, "The Planter." Although Mr. Power is an extremely robust man, his two days' strenuous work and the drenching which he received in carrying out the part of the celebrated character, "Hertzer," was such that he has been confined to his home ever since, and his physicians are fearful of developments.

The big storm scenes were among the first to be taken after the return of the company from Guatemala. They were staged in the big Hertzer Plantation set which the company has built near the Arroyo Seco, in Pasadena, and the effect obtained required such a downpour of water that Mr. Power for practically two solid days worked in nothing but a most drenching deluge.

MUTUAL SHOOTS 20,000 FEET A DAY.

Approximately 20,000 feet of negative a day is being taken in the nine picture studios contributing to the Mutual Film Corporation's releasing schedule now, and productions announced and in the planning will shortly bring this total up to nearly 30,000 feet.

The footage total presented here is perhaps a trifle conservative in view of the fact that on a number of especially expensive productions as many as three cameras are constantly in service—as for instance at the Chaplin studios, where "A," "B" and "C" negatives are made on every scene.

Pictures for Children

Committee From Churches to Confer With Producers' Committee on Question of Suitable Subjects.

WHILE many of the "truly good" are busy in various states of the Union agitating for the closing of the motion picture theaters on Sunday, for censorship and the exclusion of children from motion picture shows, one group of ministers and Sunday school workers has been busily putting in the winter in New York figuring out ways to improve the quality of motion pictures by arranging an immense audience of more than 5,000,000 Sunday school children of which the producers will have to take notice, with obvious results in the class of pictures they manufacture.

At the head of this Committee of Seven is the Rev. Christian Reisner, pastor of Grace Methodist Episcopal Church, New York City, the pioneer pastor to use motion pictures in his Sunday night services. Dr. Reisner last week conferred with the church leaders of many Protestant churches, and now heads a committee authorized to confer with the Children's Program Committee of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry with a view to offering and receiving the co-operation of the producers in the work which his committee has laid out for itself.

The National Association has one of its strongest committees assigned to this subject of children's programs. At its head is Jesse L. Lasky, Vice-President of the Famous Players-Lasky Corp., with John R. Freuler, president of the Mutual Film Corporation, and David Wark Griffith. A meeting will be arranged with this committee and Dr. Reisner's committee, and the whole subject will be thrashed out. Dr. Reisner feels that the producers are ready to take the question up seriously, and to a large degree through his instrumentality and example it is undoubtedly true that many thousands of the ministers of the country are now ready to take this positive way of solving the motion picture problem, instead of clinging to the idea of postponing its solution by the negative means of censorship, Sunday closing and juvenile attendance legislation.

"We want to discuss three things with the committee of producers," said Dr. Reisner in talking things over with the National Association officers. "First, a plan looking toward an ultimate system of recommending certain pictures submitted to a board, for use in Sunday schools. Second, some way of encouraging, through the concerted support of our Sunday Schools and their 5,000,000 children, the production of pictures especially suitable for our work. Third, the establishment of some system of exchange of information about suitable films, and arrangements by which these films, after they have served their time in the theaters, can be made available, at moderate rentals, for church and Sunday school exhibitions."

Dr. Reisner is thoroughly conversant with the distribution system of the film companies, and the National Association expects to be able to work out, through him, some "approach to the solution of the problems of the churches which will be of mutual advantage."

Children's Matinees

New York Exhibitors Co-operating With Juvenile Motion Picture Board to Promote Entertainment for the Kiddies.

MANY of the exhibitors of New York City are giving matinee performances on Saturdays for children in co-operation with the National Juvenile Motion Picture Board. These showings are indorsed by the Board of Education when given under the auspices of the National Juvenile Board. The regular admission price is charged and the Board asks no part of the receipts for promoting these exhibitions. The only conditions they stipulate are that the exhibitors shall use the pictures the Board approves of and it be allowed to chaperone the children when unaccompanied by their parents, which it does by having some of its representatives present at each matinee.

The board stimulates these showings by circularizing all the neighborhood schools. Each circular has a coupon attached which is signed by the parents and presented by the children at the door of the theater with a nickel. The exhibitor holds the performances in the forenoon so that they do not interfere with his regular performances. Sam Trigger says he has given two of these showings to capacity houses. They have paid him and have proved an excellent advertisement for his house.

In addition to the revenue received it is one of the strongest evidences that the exhibitors are willing to co-operate for the right kind of pictures for children and proves that they are in thorough accord with those who have the best interests of the industry at heart. Sydney Ascher and Wm. Haring have arranged to inaugurate these matinees in their theaters.

The Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of the Bronx passed a resolution at its last meeting indorsing them. The National Board, as its name suggests, is of national character, with branches all over the United States.

Status of Business in Tropical Regions

African Films Trust Control Practically All Photoplay Houses in South Africa.

IN "Commerce Reports," U. S. Consul John P. Bray at Johannesburg, The Transvaal, writes that in the Union of South Africa and Rhodesia approximately 275 motion-picture houses are maintained. Of this number at least 100 give two performances nightly, with matinees on Wednesdays and Saturdays. The others in most instances show only once, twice, or three times per week, with no afternoon performances. The seating capacity of the average theater is about 600. Part of them have balconies and some are equipped with boxes. The seats are of wood with iron legs.

The admission fee ranges from 6 to 12 cents in the cheaper theaters. In the better picture shows the entrance charge is 24, 36, and 48 cents. There are also theaters in which no charge is made, but in which hot and cold drinks and food are served.

On the average program one feature film, usually of four reels or more, is shown. Three pictures in all are ordinarily given, one of which is of a comic nature. The remainder of the program includes scenic and war pictures. As a rule about 6,000 feet of film are exhibited. No particular style of picture is preferred by the majority of theater goers. Their interest is equally distributed among tragic, melodramatic, comic, or scenic subjects. Recent interest, however, in pictures dealing with American and English family and political life has been marked.

Prevailing Prices and Customs Charges.

The price usually paid for new films is from 8 to 12 cents per foot. Second-hand films are not imported to any extent into South Africa. Films are classified under item 22, class 1, special rates of the customs tariff, and a duty of $1.21 per 100 feet is assessed upon both new and used films.

The business in South Africa is largely in the hands of the African Films Trust (Ltd.), which is a subsidiary of the African Theaters Trust (Ltd.), formed in 1914 through an amalgamation of approximately all the leading theaters and picture shows in the country.

The African Films Trust (Ltd.) is the only company that imports substantial quantities of pictures. It is represented in London by the International Variety and Theatrical Agency (Ltd.). It imports weekly through London and New York a certain number of films the majority of which are of American production. These are first shown in its principal theaters, and then are rented to the independent houses. It is stated that the average rental charge is far below the price paid in the United States or in England. After the first few runs are over the films are rented out for a nominal amount.

Films of South African Life and History.

Another subsidiary of the African Theaters Trust (Ltd.) is the African Film Productions (Ltd.), which recently has been formed for the purpose of producing films. It is giving special attention to the various interesting incidents of South African life and history, and also makes scenic pictures. The company has produced various plays dealing with historic events, and intends to place them on the English and American markets.

WALTER C. ROBINSON WITH FOX.

The list of stars with whom Walter C. Robinson, the newest Fox player, has worked reads like a "Who's Who in the Movies." Robinson was for fourteen years in the pugilistic ring and won the appellation of "Spike."

He began work in the pictures in 1910 with D. W. Griffith at Biograph studios, and was with the same company for six years on the Coast, playing Western and Indian roles.

Robinson has appeared during that time in support of Henry Walthall, Lillian Gish, Dorothy Gish, Blanche Sweet, Mae Marsh, Arthur Johnson, Lionel Barrymore, Dorothy Bernard, Florence Lawrence, Edwin August, Florence LaBadie, Vivian Prescott, Harry Carey, Mabel Normand, Wilfred Lucas, Charles Murray, Fred Mace, Mack Sennett, Ford Sterling, Owen Moore—but white paper is getting too costly. Now he's with Stuart Holmes.

Motion Picture Educator

Conducted by REV. W. H. JACKSON and MARGARET I. MacDONALD

Interesting Educationals

Five Travel Subjects, Two Zoological, Eight Industrial, One Topical, One Medical and One Botanical Subject.

Reviewed by Margaret I. MacDonald.

"Vienna, Austria" (Mutual-Gaumont).

THE interest which centers about Vienna, Austria, at the present time makes it an especially well chosen subject for "Mutual Tours Around the World No. 17." Among the attractive sights included in these views of Austria's capital are the Grand Opera House, the House of Parliament, Emperor Franz Joseph's Votive Church, the Schwarzenberg Palace, the Hochstrahlbrunnen Fountain, which, by the way, is one of the most beautiful in the world, the Cake Market, where the famous Vienna cake can still be had, the flower market, with its various types of saleswomen, the monument erected to the Empress Marie Theresa and the City Park.

"Gota Elf River, Sweden" (Mutual-Gaumont).

The beautiful Gota Elf River of Sweden, we are told in subtitle in the "Mutual Tours Around the World No. 17," connects the lakes of Venern and Kattegat. The scenes presented give some excellent close-ups of its rapids, and of the locks which make it possible for boats to pass around the falls of Tro'hattan. It is a pity that the photography in this number is not clearer; but on the other hand, we are indeed fortunate to have these views of European scenes at the present unsettled moment. We are also shown the island of Hissingen, at which point the river forks, and attention is drawn to the fact that the water from the rapids is used as motive power for the mills.

"Toledo, Spain" (Mutual-Gaumont).

Views of the mediaeval city of Spain, Toledo, in "Mutual Tours Around the World No. 17." It is situated on a rugged promontory on the Tagus River, and contains many points of interest which are noted in the film. We are shown the graceful fortified bridge of Alcantara which spans the Tagus River, the magnificent Gothic cathedral, which contains no less than 750 stained glass windows, the orange-colored citadel of Alcazar, the former hospital of Santa Cruz, which now does duty as a library and museum, St. Martin's Bridge, a typical street scene and the baths of Caba. In addition to this, we are also shown scenes along the Tagus River on the outskirts of Toledo, with attention drawn to the place where the wonderful sword blades are made.

"Battlefields of Chickamauga and Chattanooga" (Mutual-Gaumont).

The historical value of these scenes recorded in "See America First No. 77" will no doubt be appreciated by educational institutions, as well as theater audiences. In this number we are shown the various fields where battles were fought in the vicinity of Chickamauga, Ga., and Chattanooga, Tenn., with their various relics of the battles, and memorial monuments. Among them are Viniard field, Poe field, Kelly field, Brotherton House, Snodgrass hill and house, Orchard Knob, Lookout Mountain and Missionary Ridge. The spot where the "Battle Above the Clouds" was fought, with a distant view of Chattanooga and the Tennessee River are also shown, and the Wisconsin Cavalry Memorial, and the Second Minnesota Monument.

"A Trip Through China" (China Film Company).

Ten reels of film comprise this remarkable collection of scenes, photographed in China by Benjamin Brodsky. A period of five years, it is said, covered the actual collecting of the pictures. Through them we learn much about the Chinese, their customs and superstitions, and the primitive methods of work still in vogue in China. The cities which we visit in the film are Hong Kong, Aberdeen, Hangchow, Kowloon, Macao, Canton, Shanghai, Soochow, Wusih, Nanking, Tientsin and Peking. The Forbidden City of ancient palaces, the Great Wall of China, and Chinese celebrities, such as members of the royal family, are also seen in these films. We are shown some well-illustrated views of comorant fishing, and one of the most interesting sights is a floating city, which might be termed the slums of one of the great Chinese cities, where poor people have lived for generations in small house boats with only planks between to serve as streets. These and many other remarkable sights with much of historical value can be seen in these films, a full review of which will be found in the review department of our issue of March 17.

"Our Friends of the Zoo" (Universal).

This interesting zoological subject is found in the Universal Screen Magazine No. 11. In it we see "Bill" Snyder, the veteran head keeper of New York's Central Park Zoo, feeding his baby mountain sheep, a zebra who scorns the friendliest of advances, and some entertaining bear cubs. We also see the father, mother and baby zebus, the camera shy fallow deer, the American elk and the bison.

"The Beaver Prepares for Winter" (Educational Films Corporation of America).

We are indebted to Raymond L. Ditmars for this especially interesting subject, the photographing of which must have required unlimited patience. In this picture we see the beaver at close range, swim to the edge of the stream, emerge from the water, seize in his mouth a stick of wood, sometimes a branch, and once in the course of the picture a six-foot sapling, and swim to his winter home. The food of the beaver consists of the bark of trees, which explains his reason for securing the sapling and various pieces of bark, which we see him bring home and hide away underneath the water. The sticks, he uses for repairing the dam which he has built for the purpose of keeping his mud house submerged. Various interesting facts regarding the beaver are given in subtitle. The picture closes with a view of his home after winter has set in, and we realize that we have been taught a fine lesson in preparedness; not a sign of life do we see, but we know from what we have learned in the picture that Mr. Beaver is living as snug as can be in his house under the ice, and with a full larder.

"Farming for Feathers" (Paramount-Bray).

In the Paramount-Bray Pictograph No. 58 will be found an unusually well-illustrated study of the ostrich. The scenes of this picture were photographed on an ostrich farm near Los Angeles, on which five hundred of the birds are kept. Through this film we learn that, although the ostrich has a fondness for oranges, it is obliged to swallow them whole, and that its principal article of food is alfalfa meal. We learn also that its powerful legs are its weapons of defense, and that ostrich eggs, weighing about five pounds each, can be hatched in an incubator, that the incubating period covers forty-two days, and that the average life of an ostrich is seventy-five years. Attention is also drawn to the fact that the beautiful ostrich plumes displayed in the stores are the tail and wing feathers, and that they are clipped and not plucked, after which they quickly grow again. These and many other facts concerning the ostrich can be learned from this picture.

"Reviving the Weaver's Craft" (Paramount-Bray).

Another interesting subject to be found in the Paramount-Bray Pictograph No. 58 shows us how the ancient art of weaving tapestry by hand has been revived in the studio of Lorenz Kleiser, not so very far from New York City. The picture gives a clear illustration of the work from the dyeing of the yarn with vegetable dyes to the finished product. We learn that the design laid out by an artist is stretched over the loom, and that the weaver works over this, following the design with vari-colored yarns, which have been previously threaded into bobbins. An interesting point about the weaving of tapestry by hand is that the weaver works on the wrong side of the tapestry; the top side on the loom is, when removed, the reverse side of the picture.

"Strange Industries of the Arabs" (Mutual-Gaumont).

"Reel Life No. 44" contains an interesting study of the industries of the Arabs. We see them at work making wooden bowls, weaving loose mantles and the beautiful Kairouan carpets. An interesting sight is a knife grinder turning the grindstone with his foot. The interior of a cafe is also shown, with attention drawn to the tiny individual coffee pots with long handles which are used. The most startling scene in the picture is a butcher stall, in which the meat is covered with flies. From this latter we learn that the Arab is in need of advice on sanitation.

"Making a Rubber Shoe" (Mutual-Gaumont).

The making of the ordinary rubber shoe is illustrated in minute detail in "Reel Life No. 44." A lining is first stretched on a last, after which the insole and joining strip are attached. The making of the rubber shoe is conducted along set lines, and the worker, taking each part in its turn from a complete set, which is fastened to a flat holder hung at her side fits it in place on the last, carefully smoothing it so that no part of the gummed portion is left insecure.

"Conch-Artistry" (Mutual-Gaumont).

This interesting subject, showing the many beautiful articles made from sea objects, and how they are made, will be found in "Reel Life No. 44." The Carl Schon studio at Baltimore, Md., is responsible for the beautiful shell articles shown in the film. The sea horse, the star fish and various other varieties are used in the construction of articles, both useful and ornamental. Various varieties of substantial shells are used in the fashioning articles for the dining table, dressing table, etc. The silversmithing of shells is also an interesting part of the picture.

"The Peanuts We Eat" (Universal).

The Universal Screen Magazine No. 11 gives an excellent idea of the peanut industry. It opens with a view in a Virginia field, which averages fifty bushels to the acre. The pictures show us that the peanut, like the potato, matures under the ground, and that the vines after harvesting are placed on long poles to dry. We also see the separating of the nuts from the vines, and the pickers sorting them, selecting some for seedlings and others for the three different grades into which they are classed. Lastly, we are shown the roasters preparing the kernels for the candy manufacturer.

"A Locomotive in the Making" (Universal).

A well-illustrated explanation of how the locomotive is made will be found in the Universal Screen Magazine No. 11. The pictures were photographed at the Baldwin Locomotive Works, Philadelphia, Pa., and show the rapid assembling of the various parts. First, the boiler is set, after which a sheath of asbestos is placed over it, the wheels are placed and the superstructure mounted. The piston rod is then connected and the engineer's cab is riveted in position, and the body of the engine is encased in heavy steel plates; and after it has made a trial run the painters and decorators put on the finishing touches.

"Fishing Off Sandy Hook Banks" (Educational Films Corporation of America).

The fishing industry, as practiced off the Sandy Hook banks, is given an excellent illustration in this picture. We see the fishermen starting off for the fishing grounds, and later we see them at close range getting out the nets. We see also the setting of the trawl nets, and later the inhauling filled with fish of many varieties, which are sorted and the inedible fish, such as dogfish, catfish and skate, are thrown back into the sea. An intensely interesting and well-photographed number. The preparation of scallops is also shown.

"Safeguarding the City's Health" (Paramount-Bray).

From this picture, which is contained in the Paramount-Bray Pictograph No. 58, we learn that the eight billion oysters consumed by New York City are carefully examined by the Board of Health. Samples from every oyster cargo that enters the city are examined and subjected to severe chemical tests. In some instances typhoid germs have been found, of which a microscopic illustration is given. In other instances, the oysters have been found to contain copper and other dangerous foreign substances. All contaminated oysters are sprayed with kerosene and dumped into the river.

"Will This Cure Cancer?" (Mutual-Gaumont).

In this subject, contained in "Reel Life No. 44," we learn of a vegetable protein called autolysin, which is presented as a cure for cancer. We learn in the film that there are 150,000 deaths from cancer each year in the United States, and other facts concerning this dread disease. We also see the preparation of the serum for use, which includes the mixing of it electrically with hot air, after which it is put in ampules preparatory to its being injected possibly in the arm of the patient.

"Bursting Buds" (Pathe).

This is a beautiful colored study of the development of various kinds of blossoms. The cyclamen is seen to grow and mature before our eyes; likewise the yellow jonquil, and the lovely hepatica, one of the most delicate and beautiful of spring flowers. The subtitles of this subject give interesting facts regarding the flowers.

Salisbury-Beach Pictures at Rialto

First Installment of Pictures Presents Scenes Enroute from New York to the Swann Islands.

There are two things that interest outside the quality of the Salisbury-Beach pictures which in their entirety cover thousands of feet of film and illustrate phases of life in South and Central America: these have reference to the fame of the makers of the pictures, Dr. Edward A. Salisbury, a hunter of big game, and Rex Beach, novelist. The first installment of the series shown at the Rialto theater, New York, the week of March 4 include the commencement of the journey from New York's harbor in their small craft "Wisdom," giving an unusually clear picture of her sky lines, and ends just before they reach the Swann Islands.

During the trip down the coast we are introduced to a family of young skunks and their daddy; we learn considerable about duck shooting from a sink box, and of the use of live geese as decoys in the shooting of wild geese. We are given a passing glimpse of Norfolk, Va., Charleston, S. C., old Fort Sumter and Miami, Fla. As they near the tropics we become alive to the fact that the "Wisdom" is being storm-tossed to a considerable degree. Other interesting sights are the old fortress of Cabana, Morro Castle, Havana, showing the Malecon, Havana's water front lined with handsome residences, and the dungeon whose doors are on a line with the water, giving some idea of what the inside of these dark prison places must be.

One of the most attractive features of the pictures is the showing of the organisms of the tropical waters, among them the peculiar Physalia Atlantica. The pictures are well subtitled and give much valuable information. The photography throughout is of good quality considering the fact that the negatives had to stand the strain of being brought from the tropics. The journey was made by the films in a thermos box, which doubtless is responsible for their being of a clearer quality than others we have seen.

"The Vicar of Wakefield"

Screen Version of Goldsmith's Masterpiece Excellently Done by Thanhouser—A Pathe Release.

Reviewed by Rev. W. H. Jackson.

THIS beautiful picture, for such it must be called, serves to fittingly emphasize the noble work of Oliver Goldsmith, whose classic novel is the story which has now enriched the screen. One of the most worthy writers, Goldsmith, could never have dreamed that whatever ambitions he may have had for his book, for which he received sixty dollars to keep him out of the debtors' prison, that a most valuable picture scenario, would after one hundred and fifty years, give to the world one of the most charmingly entertaining and instructive pictures yet placed upon the living screen.

Truly, such men as Goldsmith, even with the scant opportunities of those days, have given us words and works which today cannot be surpassed. Doubtless the deliberate method of living and working gave time for more thoroughness of detail with a deeper insight into the human nature of the times. There is a joy in studying the calm manner of living in the days of a century and a half ago, without the rush and speed of this fast and mechanical age. The pastoral and subdued manner of life, with surroundings serene and restful; the very poetry of life is seen in such charming naturalness that one almost wishes that, for a vacation at least, he might be amid such quaint customs. Surely the appeal in a picture is one of its first successes, and, without doubt, in "The Vicar of Wakefield" the appeal is very strong; indeed, strong enough to draw a most responsive yearning. Such, indeed, is the quality of the book and the picture.

That this picture is such a success is, of course, largely due to the splendid portrayal of the characters. As the Vicar of Wakefield, Frederick Warde is perfection itself. Nowhere did it seem possible to imagine any change or improvement.

Those vicissitudes of life through which the Vicar's family have to pass are borne with characteristic fortitude, in which each member of the cast bears an equal part of both the responsibility and praise. Both knight and squire, as played by Thomas A. Curran and Robert Vaughn, respectively, are worthily portrayed, even as if "to the manor born," for as lords of the manor they fully convey the English characteristics required of them. The entire English surroundings are wonderfully appropriate. We are not made acquainted with the locality in which the pictures were taken, but wherever it may have been the results are most satisfactory. Some of the scenes, true to their requirements, were very beautiful, while always very pleasing.

The photography of this picture is another of its strong features. For uniformity of good work, it is an example of the best kind, and greatly adds to an already attractive subject. Mention also must be made of the "close up" pictures, of which there are quite a number, as if both actor and photographer were conscious that they were working on a superior subject, with a measure of success.

In the schools all students of English ought to see this picture in conjunction with the reading of the book. Goldsmith is known as one of the choicest of English authors; his works are classics, and after one hundred and fifty years they increase in value.

This picture is going to influence, educationally, every one who sees it. The story cannot be given in review, the richness of its life portrayals cannot be properly described, it must be seen to be appreciated, and we have no doubt but that the appreciation will be thorough and full.

New Express Rules

Agreement Reached Between Transportation Companies and Producers That Simplifies Shipment.

AS A RESULT of a conference held March 6 between the traffic managers of the big express companies and the transportation committee of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry, it is announced that the Adams and Wells Fargo Companies will put into immediate effect the same method of handling shipments of films which has been in use by the American Express Co. for some time. This is a system which keeps a full record of every transfer of the package from the time it leaves the shipper until it is delivered to the consignee. Heretofore, except in the case of the American, film shipments were not recorded from the time they left the shipper's office until it was delivered at the other end, and if lost, there was no way of tracing it. This method of handling shipments of film has heretofore been applied only to valuables; the practice will now be universal.

Another important improvement which will be considered is the collection of all the films from one exchange by one wagon, to be separated for shipment of the various express companies after collection. This will apply particularly to New York City, Chicago, and other large exchange centers.

It is probable that hereafter it will be possible for the exchanges to replevin films held during disputes over charges and collections, as is now the practice. This has resulted in many cases in the exchanges paying disputed charges in order to avoid losing bookings of considerable more value than the sum in dispute. This will be taken up at once by the various express companies.

The attention of the exchange, men and exhibitors was called to the fact that the color of the labels on the packages indicated whether or not charges had been paid, white indicating "Collect" and yellow meaning "Prepaid."

BURGLARS INVADE KALEM STUDIO.

All filmland, or that part of it near the Kalem studios in Glendale, California, is enjoying the rather neat joke perpetrated on Scott Sidney, who is directing Helen Gibson in her new series, "A Daughter of Daring," by two bold robbers, undoubtedly amateurs of the first water.

When Sidney arrived at the "Lone Point" station used in this series of railroad dramas, one day last week, to begin work on a new episode, he discovered that the baggage room, used for storing props, had been systematically burgled of its movable contents. Even the station safe, which is never locked, gave evidence that it had been tampered with and Helen's motorcycle was also missing.

Fairbanks Announces Future Plans

After Making Two Subjects in New York Player Probably Will Take Company to the West.

AT THE offices of the Arcraft Pictures Corporation last week Douglas Fairbanks announced his plans for the immediate future, which involve trips to Wyoming, California and possibly to Honolulu. The title of the initial Fairbanks release now being staged at the temporary studio on West 54th street, New York City, has been changed to "In Again, Out Again." The scenes of this production are located in and about New York and New Jersey, and present a story dealing with the romantic and spectacular career of a young New Yorker who goes through many trials and tribulations to win the girl of his choice, portrayed in the typical Fairbanks style. There are several twists to the story which are being kept secret, in order to effect the desired surprises when displayed on the screen.

Work on the first subject is now well advanced and it is planned to release the picture the middle of April, following George M. Cohan's initial screen play, "Broadway Jones," which will be first given its public showing on March 26.

John Emerson will supervise the production of the forthcoming Fairbanks-Arcraft pictures. Anita Loos, the authoress of "In Again, Out Again" and many other Fairbanks hits, will be responsible for all the stories. The Fairbanks-Emerson-Loos trio offers one of the strongest producing organizations ever assembled and embodies a co-operative method of writing, molding and staging a story which accounts for various past triumphs.

Mr. Fairbanks, in connection with his future plans, said: "We are making good headway on our first Arcraft release, and upon its completion will stage another subject in the East. It has always been my contention that to get the best results the story has to be secured first and the matter of staging it given secondary thought. As soon as we decide that we have a good subject we go ahead and stage it in its proper locale, and this is why we will do considerable traveling for many months to come, taking our entire executive organization with us. Instead of going to California and then trying to write a story of that locale, we take good ideas, build them into a story and then go to Honolulu, if necessary, to stage it—and that is just what we are going to do."

COMPLIMENTARY DINNER TO H. H. BUXBAUM.

H. H. Buxbaum, recently appointed comptroller of the General Film exchanges, was tendered a complimentary dinner by some of his friends at Healey's, New York City, on Wednesday evening, March 7. The table was set for twenty-five and every chair was filled. Taken all in all, it was one of conviviality and good fellowship. Everybody was in accord with the guest of honor and had nothing but the best wishes for his success in his larger field of endeavor. Those present were: W. E. Raynor, K-E-S-E; J. D. Hampton, General Film; John D. Dacey, George Kleine; Foster Moore, Mammoth Film Co.; W. T. Rodgers, General Film Co.; Jos. S. Minkoff, General Film Co.; Steve Graham, General Film Co.; E. H. Bell, General Film Co.; Bert Saaford, General Film Co.; Weed Dickinson, Morning Telegraph; H. E. Friedman, World Corp.; G. J. Schaefer, World Corp.; Harry A. Semwick, Merit Feature Co.; John T. Cronin, Hoy Service; Sam Spedon, Moving Picture World; H. F. Harwood, Sam Zierler and Jas. T. Hammell, General Film Co.; A. S. Abeles, Pathe; J. E. Chadwick, Ivan; H. Harris, Newark General Film; Jake Fisher, New York General Film; Jack Brown, New York General Film; J. Magsamen, New York General Film, and Sam Trigger, who was selected as toastmaster.

During the progress of the dinner some of the guests displayed a remarkable talent for Hawaiian music and others for vocal harmony in popular songs played by the orchestra, which furnished the music.

HUNTER BENNETT IN NEW YORK.

Hunter Bennett, exchange supervisor of the Mutual Film Corporation, has been spending the past month in New York City effecting a general reorganization of the two New York branches of his company, located at 71 West 23d street and 126 West 46th street. H. C. Hancock is supervising manager of the New York offices, also New Haven and Newark. A. J. Pincus is assistant manager of the 23d street branch and Miss Mohnblatt, assistant manager of the 46th street branch. M. Goldstein is manager of the New Haven branch and F. H. Vogt, manager of the Newark branch. The New York sales force consists of L. Jacoby, G. Hallett, J. Davis, M. Beier, F. Goldfarb, J. Goldstein, W. Hopkins, R. Hummell, A. H. Westfall, S. J. Rich and S. Ross. Mr. Bennett left New York for Philadelphia, Washington and Atlanta.

Popular Picture Personalities

WHO'S WHO IN THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

COMPILED BY THE STATISTICAL DEPARTMENT

TALMADGE, Norma M. Born in Niagara Falls. Her father was English and her mother of Spanish descent. Is five feet two inches tall and weighs 105 pounds. Has brown hair and eyes and an olive complexion. Miss Talmadge has had no stage experience, but made her debut with the Vitagraph, playing in The Dixie Mother, her first play, in 1911. She remained with that company for an extended period and has appeared in many notable Vitagraph productions, including The Battle Cry of Peace. Other notable plays have been Fifty-Fifty and Going Straight. Following her Vitagraph connection she joined the Fine Arts section of the Triangle, playing under the direction of David W. Griffith, but she left about a year ago to form her own company and now heads the Norma Talmadge company, the first production of which was Panthea, with The Law of Compensation following. Miss Talmadge is too busy at present to have fads.

Norma Talmadge

BURNS, Neal. Born in Bristol, Pa. Scotch-Irish parentage. Five feet five and one-half inches tall and weighs 136 pounds. Light hair, brown eyes. Mr. Burns made his stage debut in August, 1907, and has played mostly in such light comedies as The Girl of My Dreams, A Winsome Widow and The Girl in the Taxi. Lately, through the courtesy of his management, he was permitted to play with the Morosco company in Los Angeles in Forty-five Minutes From Broadway and The Yankee Prince, a double duty that had its reward in two weekly checks. He made his picture debut with the Horsley brand of the Universal, his first play being Nellie, the Pride of the Fire House, done in December, 1914. He changed to the Christie comedies on the formation of that company. Some of his hits have been from his own manuscripts.

Neal Burns

DU BREY, Claire. Born in Vienna, Austria. Her father was an Austrian and her mother of Irish birth. Her height is five feet seven inches and she weighs 135 pounds. Auburn hair and brown eyes. Miss Du Brey began her stage career with William Desmond, playing ingenues in his productions. In April, 1914, she made her camera debut, playing Marie in the Billie Burke Peggy. She was rapidly advanced to leads and had the chief roles in Two Women, Plain Mary Smith, His Way, and The Drifter, among others. From her first connection with Ince-Triangle she moved to the Universal and will be seen opposite Henry Carey, the first of the pictures to be released in March. Miss DuBrey drives her own car for outdoor exercise. Indoors she gives her attention to the piano and is considerable of a book worm, preferring books on history and philosophy to the lighter forms of fictional literature.

Claire DuBrey

HERSHOLT, Jean. Born in Copenhagen, Denmark. French-Danish parentage. Is five feet ten and one-half inches and weighs 168 pounds. Light complexion, brown hair and blue eyes. Mr. Hersholt made his stage debut in 1903 as Oswald in Ibsen's Ghosts, but this was merely his formal debut. He had been occasionally appearing since the age of four. He was a member of the cast of the first motion picture play ever made in Denmark and for five years was one of the Great Northern company, following about twelve years on the stage in leading Danish theaters. His American appearances have been confined to the Universal and some well known parts have been King Ferdinand in Fighting for Love, Reginald in Love Affaire, the Agent in The Saintly Sinner, and Jim the Dope in The Terror, all Red Feather productions. Mr. Hersholt holds a degree in painting in oils from the Royal Academy, Copenhagen. Is fond of boxing and swimming.

Jean Hersholt

LEWIS, Katherine. Born in Newark, N. J. American parentage of English-Scotch descent. Is five feet six inches tall and weighs 120 pounds. Light complexion, blond hair and dark blue eyes. Miss Lewis has had no stage experience, but turned directly to pictures, making her debut in May, 1915, in the Vitagraph stock in Heredity. She has had no other studio affiliations. She has played steadily since that time, some of her successes being Mr. Jack, the Motorman, Captain Jinks, the Doctor, Indiscretion, The Soul Master, and The More Excellent Way—a considerable range of characterizations, running from the Frank Daniels comedies to the heights of serious drama, but she has acquitted herself creditably in comedy and drama alike. Is fond of riding, tennis, motoring and swimming and is a devotee of the dance, as many prizes will prove.

Katherine Lewis

EARLE, Edward. Born in Toronto, Canada. Is not a six-footer by a scant half inch and weighs 160 pounds. Fair complexion, light brown hair and blue eyes. Is at present connected with the Frohman Amusement Co., but has also played with Metro, Famous Players and was two and one half years with Edison. On the stage he has played in many notable productions including engagements with De Wolf Hopper in The Matinee Idol; Marie Cahill in The Boys and Betty; The Quaker Girl, and with Henrietta Crosman in Sweet Kitty Bellairs. He made his picture debut in 1914 in The Unopened Letter, and has played Ranson in Ranson's Folly and in The Innocence of Ruth, The Land of Adventure, The Light of Happiness and The Gates of Eden. His present engagement with the Frohman forces is to appear with H. B. Warner in God's Man.

Edward Earle

Arbuckle Finishes Transcontinental Trip

Comedian Eats and Wades His Way Across Stormbound Country—Many Receptions by Exhibitors

AFTER a strenuous fourteen-day trip across the continent, Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle arrived in New York on the afternoon of March 7. The big comedian, who is to appear shortly on the Paramount program, had been the recipient of a large amount of attention throughout the journey. In the party, which left Los Angeles in a private car, were Mrs. Arbuckle (Minta Durfee), Adolph Zukor, president of the Famous Players-Lasky; Lou Anger, William Winter Jefferson, Herbert Warren, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. MacLean, Frank D. Williams, cameraman, and James J. Tynan.

The travelers were hardly out of California before they ran into snowdrifts. At Milford, Utah, the train was stalled and a visit was made to the local opera house, where Mr. Arbuckle held a reception. Short stops were made at Salt Lake and Denver. In Kansas City, Chicago, Cincinnati, Pittsburg, Washington, Philadelphia, Buffalo and Boston there were banquets and big doings.

To meet Mr. Arbuckle on his arrival in New York were many film men who had been marshaled by William L. Sherry, the Paramount distributor for New York. Among these were Mr. Zukor, Jesse Lasky, Hiram Abrams, Walter E. Green, Marcus Loew, Joseph Schenck, Benjamin P. Schulberg and Carl Pierce. Motion pictures were taken of the comedian and his friends, following which Mr. Arbuckle was driven to his hotel for a good rest after a busy fortnight.

Philadelphia Not Slow, Big Fellow Learns.

Paramount Pictures owned Philadelphia Saturday, March 3, and promptly turned it over to its guest, Roscoe Arbuckle, who reached there on that date in the course of his coast to coast pilgrimage. The portly one spent a strenuous day, and if he ever cherished a delusion that Philadelphia is slow he knows better now. He reached the city about 10 A. M. and found a large and enthusiastic reception committee and a band to meet him. The party, which was transported in twenty-five automobiles, proceeded to Independence Hall, where Mr. Arbuckle placed a huge wreath on the Liberty Bell. Oscar Morgan, the local publicity man, had done his part well and the streets on the line of march were lined with admirers of the film star. Excellent police protection was given the party at the hall and a detail of mounted police formed a part of the procession. After the placing of the wreath had been duly attended to and the event recorded by the cameramen, Mr. Arbuckle turned band master for a few moments and led the band through the measures of "America."

The return was made to the Paramount offices, and here "Fatty" held an informal reception. Later William E. Smith, president of the Famous Players Exchange, entertained Mr. Arbuckle and his party, which consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Arbuckle, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. McLean, Adolph Zukor, James Steel, James J. Jefferson, Herbert Warren, Frank Williams, Lou Anger and J. J. Tynan, at luncheon at the Bellevue-Stratford and afterward at a theater party.

The crowning event of the day was a banquet, for which 150 covers were laid, at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel. Tables were arranged in the form of a huge "A" in honor of Mr. Arbuckle. Men prominent in motion picture affairs, city and state officials and representatives of the daily press and the trade papers were among the guests. The speakers of the evening were Stanley V. Mastbaum, who also acted as toastmaster; William E. Smith, President of the Famous Players Exchange, who gave the dinner; Mr. Arbuckle, Adolph Zukor, Jesse Lasky, James Steele, Joseph J. McCready, president of the Stanley Exhibitors' Association; Hiram Abrams, president of Paramount; Lou Anger and Siegmund Lubin. One of the surprises of the evening was the presentation of a huge pie, some five feet square, to Mr. Arbuckle.

Those who attended the dinner were:

Donald E. Allen, W. L. Allen, George Ames, Ray Anderson, Lou Anger, F. V. Armato, Jules E. Aronson, Richard J. Bemish, Irving Berlin, George L. Bittenbender, J. Louis, Breitinger, James Brennan, W. H. Brooks, Vito M. Baldi, Wm. W. Bethell, C. H. Bonte, Morris Boney, Oscar F. Bower, A. R. Boyd, Henry Brock, Albert E. Brown, Francis Shunk Brown, E. D. Brown, Frank W. Buhler, H. H. Buxbaum, J. W. Camac, H. L. Campbell, V. R. Carrick, Jules Catsiff, John D. Clark, William J. Clark, H. B. Cohen, Clement H. Congdon, John H. Cook, William Connor, Boyd Cunningham, Harvey Day, Jack Delmar, George F. Dembow, Herman L. Dieck, Bushnell Dimond, William P. Donnelly, Herbert Effinger, Abe L. Einstein, Harry Ertle, John S. Evans, M. Eugene Felt, Fred. Dooner Felt, A. D. Ferris, Nathan D. B. Fish, Harrington Fitzgerald, Earle M. Forte, David Fuhrman, Jacob Ginsburg, Herbert G. Given, C. H. Goodwin, Abe Greenberg, Albert Greenfield, M. Greenwald, E. J. Goldman, William C. Haslett, W. J. Heenan, J. E. Hennessey, Wm. Herchenrider, C. G. Hexter, J. R. Hoffman, Robert Hutchinson, Elwood R. Jacobus, Claude S. Jarvis, William Jefferson, William Katz, Al Kaufman, Jesse L. Lasky, Robert W. Kincaid, George Kline, Harry Knapp, Joseph L. Kun, Wm. H. Leslie, Siegmund Lubin, R. Lynch, Kenneth MacGowan, Sidney Marcus, Jacob Marcus, Stanley V. Mastbaum, Joseph Mastbaum, Jules Mastbaum, Jay Banquet to "Fatty" Arbuckle at Bellvue Stratford, Philadelphia, March 3, 1917.

Mastbaum, George W. Metzel, Max Milder, William W. Miller, Oscar A. Morgan, G. P. Morris, Lieut. Harry L. Myers, Capt. David McCoach, Joseph M. McCready, Charles A. McCullough, H. B. McLean.

M. J. Norton, Alvin R. Plough, Dr. J. B. Potsdamer, Julius Proehl, Harold Quicksail, Ben K. Raleigh, W. L. Rettig, Henry Starr Richardson, Julius Robinson, Harold Rodner, Milton Roasner, Jesse Jay Schamberg, Joseph Schenck, Harry Schwalbe, Charles Segall, Lewis J. Selznick, W. Shugart, Charles K. Smith, Jr., John Smith, William E. Smith, E. Warren Smith, Allen G. Snyder, J. S. Solomon, Sr., Maurice J. Speiser, Columbus Stamper, M. Stiel, Walter Stumphg, Adam Suelke, K. Suelke, Lewis M. Swaab, J. S. Thomas, B. F. Tickner, James Tirrell, J. J. Tynan, A. V. Van Dyke, Frank R. Van Houten, William Voltz, Charles F. Wagner, Herbert Warren, Frederick Whitney, F. P. Whitney, Frank Wiener, Frank Williams, Morris Wolt, M. Zineman, E. Zisak, Adolph Zukor.

Comedian Meets Prominent Bostonians.

In Boston Mr. Arbuckle was tendered an informal banquet in the grillroom of the Copley Plaza Hotel by Famous Players Film Company of New England, Tuesday evening, March 6. Over three hundred Boston and New England exhibitors and film men were present. The festivities started a little late due to the delay of "Fatty's" train, which had been stormbound, but this did not lessen the enthusiasm of the assembled guests. Toastmaster Levins was kept busy during the entire evening.

Everybody who was anybody in the Paramount Film Corporation was present. Among the invited guests were Harry Atwell, the Attorney General of Massachusetts; Charles H. Wright from Pittsfield, member of the Governors' Council; Henry G. Wells, president of the Massachusetts Senate; Edward Slattery, secretary to Mayor Curley of Boston; John H. Casey, the censor of Boston, and Marcus Loew of the Loew Amusement Circuit.

Prominent among those seated at the head table besides President Abrams were Adolph Zukor, Jesse Lasky, Harry Asher, Emil Ludwick and Lou Engle, Mr. Arbuckle's personal representative, and last but not least was the honored guest of the evening, who was accompanied by his wife and her sister.

After many of the speakers were introduced, Sam Goldstein of Springfield presented to Harry Asher, the New England Famous Player manager, a platinum watch, a gift from the exhibitors of New England. Another watch was presented to Ed Barry, the booker of the Boston office, this gift again coming from the New England Exhibitors.

Marcus Loew announced he would book all of the Arbuckle pictures for his Boston and New England theaters. Adolph Zukor in his speech explained the Paramount policy and accentuated the fact that this company was making pictures at which no one could take offence. Jesse Lasky talked of the producing of Paramount pictures and stated that he had two schools where writers for the screen were trained in this form of writing. President Abrams complimented Attorney-General Atwell for his stand regarding censorship, Mr. Atwell stating that censorship should not apply to the pictures unless it applied also to the public press. "Fatty" Arbuckle finished the evening with a funny speech that called for many rounds of applause. Between courses vaudeville acts from Keith's and the Loew circuit were given, being accompanied by a ten-piece orchestra, which furnished music the entire evening.

W. A. BRADY ATTENDS INAUGURATION.

William A. Brady, director general of the World Film Corporation, was one of the guests at the inauguration ceremonies in Washington, the object of his visit having been twofold. In the first place, Mr. Brady is a personal friend of Mr. Wilson's, and has been one of his most consistent and influential supporters from the moment he began to be talked of as a presidential possibility. Mr. Brady took with him to Washington five of the World corporation's most expert cameramen, and under his personal direction they assembled what is without doubt the most complete of all photographic records of the impressive occasion.

"It occurred to me," he said, in referring to the object of this action, "that at a time like the present there must be a tremendous interest—far greater than ever before—in the seating of the chief executive of the United States of America, and this, of course, extends far beyond the thousands who found it possible to be in the capital personally.

"Of the millions of citizens who must gain their knowledge of the proceedings at second hand through the newspapers, there surely is an immense percentage to whom an intimate pictorial reproduction of the inauguration will be of the most intense interest.

"These in large measure would doubtless be drawn to see our Washington photographs merely as a series of illustrations, but I aim to give them a greater value to the public by employing them as the background of one of our strong dramatic plays of the moment, the story of which is laid in Washington."

Australian Notes

"CIVILIZATION" is now in Sydney, though it is very improbable that it will be screened until after the war.

"A Daughter of the Gods" begins its fourth week at the Hippodrome, Sydney, today.

* * *

An important decision was made at the last meeting of the Federated Showmen's Association. Some time ago the association passed a resolution that the system of playing special pictures on a percentage basis should be done away with. It was thought at the time that the matter was unfair for the exhibitor who existed on program pictures year in and year out, without making any great profits, who had to give away most of the takings to an outsider when he ran an exceptionally good drawing card. It has been found, however, that the new order of things did not run too well, and so the original motion was rescinded and another put in its place.

The new rule allows showmen to play on percentage, but insists that the working expenses shall be deducted first of all. This means that the showman can split up his net profits instead of his gross takings, as heretofore.

* * *

S. Cook, one of Australia's pioneer showmen, has opened a new theater in Clayfield, Queensland, in spite of the fact that the council refuses to give him a license. Mr. Cook has opened in spite of them, and no doubt an opinion will be given by our courts as to whether a council has the right to refuse a license if the place is built according to its by-laws.

* * *

Four hundred thousand pounds (two million dollars) is the sum that certain American photoplay producers are prepared to spend in Sydney annually, provided they can obtain certain minor concessions, and can steer clear of labor troubles, according to the statement made by Alec Lorimore, representing Paramount and Arcraft, who is at present in this city.

Mr. Lorimore arrived here by the last American boat, being sent to look over the Australian field and report on conditions in this country. Under the auspices of the Australian branch, Lorimore will make a complete survey of Australia, New Zealand, and Tasmania, meeting as many exhibitors as possible, and carrying to them the personal greetings of the company he represents.

THOS. S. IMRIE.

Sydney, N. S. W. Australia, January 10, 1917.

T. & D. THEATERS CREATE NEW DEPARTMENT

Compelled by the tremendous increase of business in the string of Turner and Dahnken circuit of theaters in California, the largest chain of theaters on the Pacific Coast have appointed William H. Joblemann publicity director. The chain of theaters comprise the T. & D. Tivoli Opera House, of San Francisco; the New T. & D. Theater, of Oakland, Cal.; The T. & D. Richmond Theater, of Richmond, Cal.; the T. & D. Theater, of San Jose, Cal.; the T. & D. Theater, of Sacramento, Cal.; the T. & D. Theater, of Berkley, Cal.; the T. & D. Theater, of Watsonville, Cal.; the T. & D. Oakland Photo Theater, of Oakland, Cal.; the T. & D. Theater, of Reno, Nev.; the T. & D. Theater, of Stockton, Cal., and the T. & D. Theater, of Portland, Ore.

The department of publicity for this string of theaters was recently established, and Mr. Joblemann, who had done similar work for one of the theaters, was placed in charge of the whole circuit.

NEWSPAPER EDITOR JOINS PARAMOUNT.

E. T. Crozier, formerly the Assistant City Editor of the Kansas City Star, of Kansas City, Mo., has been appointed assistant director of publicity and theatre doctor of Paramount's Kansas City Exchange. Mr. Crozier will assist L. D. Balsley, the present director, who has been inaugurating a large number of plans for the assisting of exhibitors in his district to "put-across" his show in a bigger manner than ever before. Special attention will be given by this new department to exhibitors' aids that have been distributed free to exhibitors by Paramount.

The Motion Picture Exhibitor

WRITE US EARLY AND OFTEN

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD carries the most complete record of Exhibitors' News. This department aims at being the fullest and fairest chronicle of all the important doings in the ranks of organized exhibitors. To keep the department as complete and as useful as it is now we request the secretaries of all organizations to favor us with reports of all the news. Coming events in the ranks of the organized exhibitors are best advertised in this department of the Moving Picture World.

EXHIBITORS' LEAGUE ORGANIZER.

In answer to recent inquiries in regard to the Exhibitors' League Organizations and for the information of exhibitors in any of the States, readers will kindly note that Fred J. Herrington is National Organizer for the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America. All correspondence on the subject may be addressed to him at 402 Knox avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa.

New Officers of Chicago Local Installed

All Forms of Film Censorship Denounced as Unconstitutional—Illinois Convention to Be Held in Chicago, April 6.

THE installation of the officers of the exhibitors' Chicago local who were elected at the election on Feb. 7 took place at the headquarters of the organization in the Masonic Temple Friday, March 2. Outgoing President Henry occupied the chair.

Following the reading of the minutes Secretary Smith made a statement of the financial standing of the local. Louis H. Frank then gained the floor and asked President Henry whether he was to infer from the minutes just read that they were to be considered as an auditing report of the books of the local organization called for in a resolution, about four months ago, offered by Pete J. Schaefer.

Mr. Henry replied, as did also Secretary Smith, that the minutes were not to be taken as an auditing report of the books, owing to the fact that an auditing committee had been appointed through Mr. Schaefer's resolution for that purpose at the time, and that no other committee could undertake the work. The committee appointed by Mr. Schaefer included George Henry, Nathan Ascher, Alfred Hamburger, F. H. Franke and Pete J. Schaefer.

Mr. Frank then advocated that before the installation of the new officers the outgoing officers should receive a clean bill, and that this could not be done unless the auditing committee appointed for the purpose had rendered its report, which should be read before the meeting.

A motion was then made to suspend the rules so that the immediate installation of officers could take place, without waiting for the auditing report. It was held that a motion of this kind is always in order. The motion was carried and the installation of the new officers was made by President Henry.

The attendance of members in good standing was pronounced the largest in the history of the organization, with the exception of the attendance at the election on Feb. 7.

President Hopp expressed himself as being highly pleased with the harmony that prevailed during the meeting, which shows that the Chicago organization can have its family spats, yet still remain united.

The next order of the day was the appointment of committees by the new president. These committees are nine in number, and cover political action, deposits on films, neighborhood alliance for the controlling of business and regulating it, the increase of membership, entertainment, insurance, operators, league headquarters and auditing.

Following are the members of the various committees:

Political Action—Fred W. Schaefer, William E. Heaney, Paul Sittner, Harry C. Miller, D. L. Schwartz, Sam Katz, Julius Alcock, Adolph Powell and Walter Johnson.

Deposits on Films—Joseph Trinz, W. E. Burford, George Moore, Andrew Karzas, I. E. Berkson, Sam Gold and Charles Schaefer.

Neighborhood Alliance for the Controlling of Business and Regulating It—Nathan Ascher, Sam Levin (Orchard theater), Mrs. M. McFadden, Charles Abrams, Harry Lubliner, Jacob Cooper, W. H. Bell, P. S. Seelig, Rudolph Von Meeteren, H. L. Gumbiner, A. W. Wesolow, V. T. Lynch, Arthur Oppenheimer and A. L. Christie.

Increase of Membership—Louis Zahler, George V. Booth, John Bobeng, Harry Goldson, Max Jesselson, Harold Hill, F. L. Dittmar and Charles O'Connor.

Entertainment—J. G. Haag, Fred Hartmann, Abe Balaban, Henry E. Newell, Joseph Pilgrim, E. B. Rose and Con Foster.

Insurance—F. H. Franke.

Operators—The entire executive committee of the Chicago local.

On League Headquarters—Joseph Hopp, president; William J. Sweeney, treasurer, and Sidney Smith, secretary.

Auditing—Charles Stuart, A. C. Krebs and Miss Anna Kesner.

The auditing committee was instructed to examine the books every three months and make a report.

The proposed state censorship bill which was introduced in the Legislature at Springfield on February 28 by Representative Guy Guernsey was discussed by some of the prominent exhibitors present. After the talk had been continued for some time President Hopp declared that, in his opinion, the passage of a state censorship bill would not do away with the Chicago censor board, and drew attention to the evil of having a multiplicity of censorship boards throughout the state. The discussion was concluded by the unanimous declaration of all present (which was announced by the chair) that the exhibitors of Chicago and of the state of Illinois were emphatically against all forms of censorship for motion pictures as being unconstitutional, and depriving the motion picture of its just rights as a potent power of expression.

There were also present at the meeting G. M. Luttrell, of Jacksonville, president of the Illinois state league, and W. W. Watts, Springfield, treasurer. At the close of the meeting the executive committee of the state branch and the executive committee of the local branch held a consultation and decided to hold the next state convention in Chicago at the Masonic Temple, immediately following the meeting of the Chicago local on April 6.

Legislative Fund

New York State Exhibitors Asked to Contribute in Letter From Committee of State Branch of Exhibitors' League.

CONTRIBUTIONS to the fund with which to carry on the active campaign to obtain legislation favorable to exhibitors in New York state are earnestly solicited in a letter sent to every exhibitor in the state by the Legislative Committee of the New York State Branch of the Exhibitors' League. The letter, whose message should be brought forcefully home to every exhibitor with immediate result, follows:

"Are you aware that bills are in the Senate and Assembly at Albany affecting vital interests of all exhibitors? You may be closed on Sunday and taxed. This confronts you. What are you going to do about it?"

"At the Albany Convention, in January, leading exhibitors of the State of New York passed a resolution assessing each theater $10 as dues to aid our Legislation Committee and for a fund, so that we could go into the different localities and, with your help, and the help of voters in favor of Motion Pictures, call upon respective Senators and Assemblymen to get their aid to pass bills favorable to us. There is also a fund of three cents on each seat to pay for legal talent to fight the Bender Case, which comes up in the Court of Appeals, March 7, and from every indication, if the decision goes against us, we will be closed up.

"A Local Option Bill, excluding New York City and Buffalo, was introduced, giving Local Option to smaller towns. Petty graft in many localities would prevail, where to-day pictures on Sunday are showing would in that event be closed. We are absolutely for open Sunday and want every exhibitor in the State to enjoy this. Our own bill was therefore introduced. How can we pass this if you don't help finance the expenses needed for propaganda to get this Blue Law changed?"

"What does $10 or $50 mean to you, against being closed up fifty-two of the best days in the year, and also taxing your daily receipts for 365 days each year? Can you hesitate under the circumstances? You don't know how serious this is, but we who have the interest of the exhibitors at large feel the necessity for quick action, and implore you for your own sake to sit right down now and mail us check for $10 or as much more as you think you can afford to contribute for the purpose as stated above. Make all checks payable to the treasurer of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League."

Maryland League Ball a Certainty

All Arrangements Made for the Event Which Is to Be Held April 28.

SINCE Thursday, March 1, when a special meeting of the officers and directors of the Maryland Exhibitors' League was held, things have been humming toward the completion of plans for the "Dance of the Motion Picture Stars," which is now an assured thing, the date of which has been set for Saturday night, April 28. Over $500 has already been subscribed for the initial expenses and the tickets will be 50 cents. The Lyric has been selected as the most suitable place to hold the affair.

No effort is being spared to make this event one of the most elaborate and entertaining affairs ever held in this city. One of the unique things about it is that the league will have the public select by vote the stars they wish to be present. A slide has been prepared which reads "Who do you want to meet at the 'Dance of the Motion Picture Stars?' Write the manager of this theater." This slide will be run by many theaters throughout the city.

The members of the league are anxious that the holding of the dance may become an annual custom, as it is in many cities. The following members of committees have been named: General Ball Committee, Frederick Clement Weber, chairman; J. Louis Rome, secretary; Finance, Frank Hornig, Louis Schlichter and L. A. DeHoff; Hall, Louis Schlichter; Publicity, L. A. DeHoff; program, G. Horton Gaffney, Joseph Brodie, vice-chairman; Reception, J. Louis Rome; Hotel, E. B. McCurdy; Players, F. C. Weber. It is understood that the players invited will lead the grand march. After this is over a chance will be given all to meet personally the screen stars, and general dancing will follow.

Toronto Exhibitors Meet

Question of Annual Dues and Other Matters of Importance Disposed of.

A BIG executive meeting of the Ontario Motion Picture Protective Association was held in the association headquarters, Mary Pickford theater, Queen and Spadina avenues, Toronto, on Tuesday, February 28, when several matters of prime importance were discussed. The executive committee reached a unanimous decision with regard to the annual membership fees. It was decided to charge the Toronto members of the association $10 per year and the outside exhibitors $6 per year, as it was felt that the Toronto picture men would receive more direct benefit from the organization than those of outside centers where the effects of some issues are not felt at all.

The association's executive committee also decided to meet the Toronto Exchange Managers' Club to take up the matter of the advance deposit system which is used by only one Canadian booking company handling a well-known line of features. The exhibitors claim that this system works a severe hardship on them and that they have a real grievance in the matter. The subject, of course, has nothing to do with the present cash system of all Toronto exchanges which has proved acceptable to all parties concerned.

The representation at the meeting was very large, including the Toronto officers and Mr. Burnside of Collingwood, Mr. Roenick of Lindsay, P. J. Nolan of Ottawa, H. Guest of Hamilton and other outside officials.

Satisfaction was expressed on all sides at the general progress made by the association since its recent reorganization into a real Province-wide body.

NORTHWEST EXHIBITORS' CORPORATION GROWING.

Slowly but surely exhibitors of the Northwest are coming into the fold of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' Corporation of the Northwest and the outlook for the biggest gathering of exhibitors on record May 1, 2 and 3, seems bright. Secretary Hitchcock has begun a new drive to secure additional members before convention time and efforts are also being made to raise funds to assist in making the convention a "record breaker." A midnight show will be given at the Pantages theatre here March 27 for the benefit of the corporation's convention fund and local theatres have promised to donate vaudeville acts and films to make the bill worth every cent of the fifty to be charged for the entertainment.

At the last meeting of the corporation on Feb. 27, several bills were voted paid, D. G. Rodgers' amendment to the constitution was carried by vote and plans for the forthcoming gathering of exhibitors discussed at length.

Secretary Hitchcock was instructed to thank the city council for revoking the license of the Alhambra theatre which refused to stop displaying risque pictures and the secretary was also given authority to select new headquarters for the organization. It was also suggested at the meeting that members of the body appear before the film review board in the near future.

At Leading Picture Theaters

Programs for the Week of March 11 at New York's Best Motion Picture Houses.

"Sapho" at the Strand.

"SAPHO," an adaptation of Alphonse Daudet's immortal story, in which Pauline Frederick played the title role before the camera, was the leading attraction at the Strand the week of March 11. The part is one of Miss Frederick's notable screen achievements, and she has been surrounded by an excellent cast, including Frank Losee, John Sainpolis, Pedro de Cordoba and Thomas Meighan. A great deal of humor has been introduced to lighten the extreme dramatic parts of the picture. The third edition of the wonderful "Prizma" pictures in natural colors contained some beautiful and interesting views of the Grand Canyon. French war pictures taken on the Western front were also shown. These pictures were obtained by Manager Edel through arrangements with M. Jean Janvier, special representative of the French Government. Raymond L. Ditmars, curator of the N. Y. Zoological Society, presented a real monkey comedy which he has entitled "Orangon as Plumber." The Strand Topical Review showed American and European news pictures.

The soloists were Nadine Legot, Knud Dalgaard, Emerson Williams, Arthur Depew and Ralph Brigham.

Sarah Bernhardt at the Rialto.

Mme. Sarah Bernhardt's appearance in "Mothers of France" at The Rialto was a noteworthy event. The timeliness of its message from the mothers of France to the mothers of America, the fact that it was written for Bernhardt by Jean Richopin, and the further fact that the French Government retains an interest in it, are points which serve to set this picture apart from the average film production. Added interest was lent to the occasion by Mr. Rothapfel's arrangement with Jesse L. Lasky, whereby excerpts from Geraldine Farrar's portrayal of "Joan of Arc" were superimposed on the Bernhardt picture by the double projection system.

Rex Beach, Dr. Salisbury and their party of scientists appeared in the second installment of their experiences on the Spanish Main. Harold Lloyd in "Lonesome Luke's Lively Life," and the topical-digest were also on the program. M. De Frere and Mme. Jean Manbourg were the soloists.

"The Barrier" at the Broadway.

The Rex Beach picture, "The Barrier," is in the last week of its run at the Broadway theater. It will be followed by Florence Bird in "The Eternal Sin."

MARGUERITE CLARK TO STAR IN MARY ROBERTS RINEHART CHARACTER.

Another distinguished American writer was added to the list of those who have contributed to the motion picture screen when arrangements were completed by which Marguerite Clark is to be starred by the Famous Players Film Company in an adaptation of the celebrated "Sub-Debutante" stories written by Mary Roberts Rinehart and now current in the Saturday Evening Post. Mrs. Rinehart is one of the few successful American authors who has thus far refused to permit any of her works to appear on the screen.

Indiana May Have Sunday Pictures

Legislature Passes and Governor Goodrich Signs a Bill Legalizing Such Exhibitions—Limited Censorship and a License Tax Goes With It—Effective Immediately.

THE McCray bill legalizing the operation of motion picture shows on Sunday was passed by both houses of the Indiana legislature during the closing hours of the 1917 session and was signed by Governor Goodrich on Thursday, March 8.

Although the Sunday motion picture shows would be legalized throughout the state, this feature remaining intact, provisions have been added to the bill which are said to make it more acceptable to the forces that looked on it with suspicion.

The chief change is the one providing for a commission to regulate the showing of pictures. The motion picture men fought the censorship idea from the beginning of the legislative session and succeeded in killing three bills designed to create such a commission. To obtain the Sunday law, however, they were forced to accept a censorship commission.

The bill as finally passed provides for a commission of three members, not more than two of the same political party, to be appointed by the governor and each to receive a salary of $1,000 a year. It provides that an office at Indianapolis be furnished for the commission, and that it meet as often as the duties imposed require. Authority was also given the commission to appoint a secretary at a salary of $900 a year.

The members of the commission are to have power to investigate either on their own motion or on complaint, any picture shown in any theater to the end that no immoral or indecent pictures be shown at any of the theaters. They were also to have power, on finding pictures regarded by them as immoral or improper, to revoke the license of the owner of the theater showing them. It was provided that a fine of $25 a day be the penalty for each day of operation of a theater without a license.

The bill was amended to provide that a theater showing pictures in cities of the first class pay an annual license fee of $25; in cities of the second class, $20; in cities of the third class, $15; in cities of the fourth class, $10, and in cities of the fifth class, including towns or townships, $5. The bill as amended provided that a moving picture commission collect the license fees and that the money be paid to the state treasury as a fund out of which to pay the expenses of the commission, and the unexpected balance to revert back to the general fund.

There are more than 600 exhibitors in the state of Indiana and it is estimated that the receipts will more than pay the expense of the commission.

May Tax Film Distributors

Wheeler Committee Said to Favor Such Plan—No Tax on Theaters.

MOTION picture exhibitors are not to be taxed under the provisions of a report which the Wheeler Investigating Committee will make to the New York Legislature at Albany on or about March 15. The committee has come to an understanding on that point. Producers will also be exempt from any taxation. A tax, however, will be recommended on distributors on so much a foot of positive film. Just how great a tax that will be is still to be decided.

When the report is handed up in both houses, there will be no mention of the committee's attitude on Sunday pictures. Some regulative measures, however, will be suggested along the lines of censorship, but these will be solely to secure the elimination of pictures that may border on the indecent or suggestive.

So far as any general censorship measure, Assemblyman Wheeler, father of a similar measure a year ago, is now against such legislation, being of the belief that the motion picture business has made so great an advance in the last twelve months that there is absolutely no need of any restriction, such as would seriously harass and delay rather than promote and encourage the industry.

Assemblyman Wheeler takes the stand that the producers themselves, feeling the pulse of the amusement loving public, fully recognize that the present day demand is for the finest of pictures and that they themselves are fully capable of handling matters in a way that would simply make censorship an expense to the taxpayers of the State and an entirely unnecessary burden to the producers themselves.

The committee will hold no further hearings despite the fact that it was the original intention of having meetings in Buffalo, Rochester and Syracuse, following New York City. The committee has been able, however, to gather considerable information on up-State conditions and this reason is given for a discontinuance of hearings.

On account of the illness of Senator Hinman's son, requiring the presence of the committee's counsel in Binghamton, no executive meetings were held this week.

"When we make our report to the legislature on March 15, we will recommend the taxation of the distributor or the middleman," said Assemblyman Wheeler. "The exhibitor will not be taxed. Neither will the producer. We believe that the distributor should pay a tax figured on the footage of positive film.

"We will have nothing to suggest or recommend on the Sunday movie proposition. As for the censorship of film, it is quite positive that there may be some regulative measure recommended, but it will be such as will meet with the approval of ninety-nine out of every one hundred men in the business. The hearings have convinced me that the representative men in the business are with the committee in this respect.

"It is positive that we will make no recommendations, such as will serve to harass the industry. I am frank in saying that the censorship bill of mine of a year ago would in no way fit into methods of today.

"Whether the Cottey bill, which puts a tax on all forms of amusements, will be pushed or allowed to die in committee, following the report of the Wheeler committee, still remains a question, although there now seems to be a prevailing sentiment toward the adoption of the Wheeler report as being the better one, representing as it does an exhaustive study in the details of the motion picture business at a considerable expense to the state."

G. L. GRANT.

Jaxon Film Corporation Enters Field

To Distribute Features on Open Market—"Strife," First Production, Starring George LaGuere, Ready for Release.

THE Jaxon Film Corporation, a new company, will distribute its productions through the independent exchanges, according to an announcement given out by the company at its New York offices in the Candler Building. The first production is a five-reel picture starring George LaGuere. The picture which is to be released under the terse title of "Strife," was produced at the Jaxon studios in Florida, under the direction of Lambert Hillyer. Supporting George LaGuere in the production is a cast of well-known players that includes Jean Stuart, Herbert Bostwick, Dean Raymond, Martha Burlingham, Alfred Swenson, Malachi Keiley, Katharine Patch and Frank Andrews.

Speaking of the entrance of the Jaxon Film Corporation into the film industry, one of the officials of the company made the following statement:

"The only new thing about our company is the name. Our organization is composed entirely of experienced people, each one a specialist in his or her particular branch of the business. We have systematized every branch of the production of pictures in our studios so far as it is possible to systematize artistic endeavor, and we believe that we obtain the maximum of result with the minimum of effort.

"It will be the policy of our company to take the greatest care in the selection of stories. Popular players, whose names mean something at the box office, will be featured in Jaxon films, which will be distributed on the open market, through the medium of independent exchanges.

"It is possible the Jaxon Film Corporation will have a further statement to make to the industry in the near future with regard to short-length subjects."

KUTLER TO EDIT APOLLO SCENARIOS.

Benjamin S. Kutler has been engaged by Harry Raver, president of Apollo Pictures, Inc., as scenario editor for that company, which releases its productions on the Art Dramas program. Mr. Kutler is a photoplaywright of many years' standing, and has adapted for the screen many original stories and plays from the legitimate stage. He is also the author of a number of original scenarios, which have been produced by various manufacturers.

RUBE MILLER TO DIRECT VOGUE.

Rube Miller and Paddy McQuire, two absentees from the Vogue-Mutual studios the past few weeks, have returned. Mr. Miller will hereafter confine his efforts to directing comedies, and will not play in them himself. He insists that he can turn out a much better grade of picture when he doesn't have to worry about his own acting as well as that of the rest of the company. It was Mr. McQuire's first visit to the studio since he was hurt during the filming of a comedy some five weeks ago.

Kansas City Screen Club Ball

Big Function a Success—Presence of Favorite Players Draws Record Crowd.

THE screen ball of Kansas City, planned and managed by the Kansas City Screen Club, proved again that the public is intensely interested in moving pictures, and wants to get into closer touch with the industry. It proved, too, that it is keen on seeing screen stars, and wants to get as close to them as possible.

The ball had been widely exploited, chiefly through the exhibitors of Kansas City and the neighboring towns. The newspapers gave liberal notices also. The whole country knew that something big was coming off at Convention Hall the night of March 6. And it was big. The floor had been cleared, and a stage erected in the middle thereof, on which the two bands were placed, and where a vaudeville performance was given to open the entertainment. Following the program, the moving picture stars were introduced. Among them were Rose Tapley, Mary Miles Minter, Nell Craig, Vivian Rich, Richard C. Travers, Mr. and Mrs. Bryant Washburn and Crane Wilbur. They also took part in the grand march, and danced with their friends, new or old.

Many contests had been arranged to increase interest, chief of which was that for the "most beautiful girl," the winner being crowned queen of the ball, and given a ticket to Universal City, where Carl Laemmle had promised a tryout. This contest was won by Miss Ivy Fuller, of Manhattan, Kansas.

An impersonation contest had two features, prizes being given for the best impersonation of a woman actor, and also for the best impersonation of a man well-known on the screen.

That the ball was a success is putting it mildly. It was a triumphant success. There were 6,000 people in the balconies and galleries, looking on. And there were probably 4,000 who occupied boxes and 2,000 spent their entire evening on the floor.

The celebration—for it was in fact a "Screen Day" for Kansas City—started in the morning, when the streets were filled with people, and the boys and girls, men and women, who were entering the various contests, appeared. A parade was held about noon, in which the floats entered by the exchanges were marks set for such things that would be hard for anybody else to reach. Many exchanges had gone to large expense for these floats. Dozens of Kansas City exhibitors also had floats. There were automobiles filled with girls who had entered the beauty contest, and many machines with exchange men and exhibitors. The police and fire departments were well represented. The comic feature of the parade was supplied by boys and girls who impersonated comedians of the moving picture. D. O. Reese, assistant manager of the Universal at Kansas City, was grand marshal of the parade.

Exhibitors and moving picture patrons, as well as exchange men, of a territory extending several hundred miles, came to the ball. St. Louis sent a carload. A special train came from St. Joseph with 500 persons. Wichita, Olathe and other towns near and far, sent special interurban cars or special cars on the railroads.

GOLDFISH RECOVERS FROM ACCIDENT.

Samuel Goldfish, president of Goldwyn Pictures Corporation, is recovering rapidly from his recent accident, which resulted in the fracturing of the bones of his right ankle, and in a few days will be back at the Goldwyn offices. His injury, while most painful, has not interfered with his operation of Goldwyn Pictures, or in any way interfered with his organization of the Goldwyn distribution.

While playing handball at the City Athletic Club Mr. Goldfish turned abruptly and his ankle gave way. After medical treatment at the club he was taken to his home, and a few days later his leg was encased in plaster. His physicians assure him that in a few days he can go out.

During his confinement, both distributors and exhibitors from all sections of the United States, have had conferences with him at home, and the Goldwyn plans were so far advanced that his injury has not caused any postponements of the many pending Goldwyn negotiations.

JACK MULHALL APPEARS IN COMEDY DRAMA FEATURE FILM.

Once again Jack Mulhall, one of the featured juveniles at Universal City, has been given a photoplay which will be produced by his director, Raymond Wells, with Mulhall in a role which exactly suits him. It is a comedy-drama with western atmosphere and a great deal of rapid fire action. Millard K. Wilson has an important part, among others, in the large supporting cast.

Kerrigan Blows Into New York

Borne on the Wings of a Young March Blizzard Well-Known Player Sees Big Town for First Time in Seven Years.

J. WARREN KERRIGAN, accompanied by Fenton A. Meredith, his manager, came into New York on Sunday, March 4. He met up with a regular snowstorm, one of the best of the winter. It was not the first he had seen during the season, as he had collided with a fall of the "beautiful" in Atlanta a week or two before. But not even snow and ice and slush could dim the charm of the big town to a man who had not seen it in seven years—and that's the time Mr. Kerrigan had been away from it.

The former Universal star has reached the half way point on a long trip. He is making personal appearances at theaters in all the larger cities—"bucking the line," as it were. Photoplayers have been glad to see him. He doesn't have to tell you that. All you have to do is to look at his hands—the evidence is there. He will tell you they are better now. The skin is growing back on them and he is feeling easier in his mind. It is a fact, though, that for a while he was wondering just what particular untoward manifestation would be assumed by the well-squeezed hands.

Mr. Kerrigan left Los Angeles the first of the year. He traveled through Texas and along the east coast to New York. He showed in Will Winch's Wigwam in El Paso and in Bill Lytle's big and handsome Empire in "San Antonio." He visited the Old Mill in Dallas and the Hippodrome and Strand in Fort Worth. In New Orleans he appeared at the Globe, in Atlanta at the Alamo.

The player said he intended to make a nine-day trip through Virginia and North Carolina and then return to New York City, following which he will take a journey through New York State. His itinerary from that point will include New England, Canada, down through the Middle States as far as Nashville, up to Duluth, back to Kansas City, then on to St. Louis, Denver, Salt Lake City, Spokane and down the west coast, arriving back in Los Angeles about June 1.

On his return to the coast Mr. Kerrigan will begin work in his own studio, which he said he expected would be situated in Hollywood. Negotiations are now in progress for securing the original Universal ranch, a big tract in behind Griffith Park, up in the hills. The player said his subjects would be in six or seven-reel lengths, and in the main it was designed to base them on novels.

Mr. Kerrigan is looking in the best of health. The keen, bracing New York weather provided him an opportunity for pulling the same old California stuff—"No other place in the world, you know"—but really he seemed to mean it.

EMMETT CAMPBELL HALL JOINS GOLDWYN.

Emmett Campbell Hall, one of the best known scenario men in motion pictures, has joined the Goldwyn Pictures scenario staff, as an aid to Edith Ellis and the play-readers of that organization. Mr. Hall is a Georgian, who was educated in Washington and studied law at the National Law School. In the field of the photoplay, to which he has devoted himself exclusively since 1910, he has become the author of more than seven hundred produced pictures, including two serials, "The Beloved Adventurer" and "The Road O'Strife," for the Lubin Company, with which organization he was associated for three years.

Mr. Hall was the first to novelize and publish in book form the story of a photoplay. This work, incidentally, sold in excess of 100,000 copies. His scripts have won him an excellent reputation for their thoroughness and attention to detail.

SAM ZIERLER GETS BIRTHDAY SURPRISE.

Old Father Time just clicked off another year in the life of Sam Zierler, the much-thought-of manager of the Universal Film Exchange of 23d street, New York City. On the same day—or rather night—the aforesaid Sam Zierler received the surprise of his life.

After being a guest of his pal, Charlie Moses, at theater, he was enveigled on some pretense down to his daytime haunt, the 23d street office. There he was greeted by a great host of his employees in the night and day force, those in the night force in the majority.

Upon his arrival, an elaborate meal was uncovered, but sad to say (for the meal) it disappeared in a short time, sure proof of its deliciousness. Mr. Zierler made a speech of thanks, in which he expressed his gratefulness for the honor so unexpectedly bestowed on him.

Zukor Back From Trip to Coast

Famous Players-Lasky Chief Talks With Exhibitors in Large Cities—Finds Picturegoers United Against Censorship.

THE censorship agitation has aroused a country-wide interest on the part of motion picture fans in behalf of the producer, declares Adolph Zukor, president of the Famous Players-Lasky Company, who has just returned from a six weeks' tour of the country. During the course of his journey, Mr. Zukor visited many of the principal cities and consulted with a great many exhibitors.

It was the unanimous opinion of the exhibitors with whom Mr. Zukor talked that the insistent agitation of the self-constituted reformers and professional guardians of the public morals on behalf of motion picture censorship had had the effect of uniting the great body of photoplay fans in a firm stand against censorship.

"Everywhere that any sort of straw vote had been taken by the exhibitors or any other means of ascertaining the attitude of the public on this vitally important question had been employed," said Mr. Zukor, "it had been the inevitable result that the people lined up solidly against censorship. The problems of the producer are being followed with more and more interest by the public as a whole and that interest is being quickened as the insincerity and selfish aims of the reformers are becoming more and more self-evident.

"Though it is the consensus of opinion that not every motion picture which is produced is of the highest type, the fact is becoming more and more firmly realized that the vast majority of producers are sincerely endeavoring to place upon the screen photoplays that are essentially wholesome and of a clean and high type. It is universally understood that the best element among the producers absolutely repudiates the salacious productions and the fans incline to avoid penalizing the many for the sins of the few—which would be the inevitable result of the adoption of any form of national censorship.

"As one fan expressed it, once having obtained a fat and easy job the official censor would be very reluctant to give it up. He would therefore make work for himself, and the only way in which he could create work would be by waxing captious over the productions of really sincere and well-intentioned producers.

"The weight of public opinion as expressed in box office receipts is the best way to put an end to the unclean production," continued Mr. Zukor. "It has been my observation that the salacious picture is short-lived and we have seen several producers who endeavored to operate on the basis of giving the public a sex thrill go to the wall. But, on the other hand, the motion picture men who have devoted their time to the building up of a reputation for clean and wholesome pictures are reaping a harvest in public confidence, as it is expressed in steadily increasing business and in a great activity along the line of re-booking.

"As for business conditions in general, it was a pleasant surprise to find that, despite censorship agitation, the uncertainty attending the war situation and the frightful high prices prevailing with all foodstuffs, the business of the motion picture theaters throughout the country is excellent.

"While on the west coast I had the pleasure of seeing Margaret Illington begin work on her first motion picture at the Lasky studio, an adaptation of Basil King's 'The Inner Shrine.' I am very sure that the Paramount Program is going to be a big winner by the acquisition of this talented actress.

"At the Lasky and Morosco studios, Cecil B. De Mille and Frank Garbutt are hard at work increasing the mechanical facilities of the two plants. Both establishments have been more than doubled since they were built and many big improvements have been in progress at the Lasky studio during the year. The new administration building was completed and most of the officers had moved into their new quarters by the time I left for the East."

Mr. Zukor made the eastward-bound half of his journey in the private car which brought Roscoe Arbuckle to New York for the purpose of beginning work on the production of two-reel comedies for Paramount. These pictures will be booked by Paramount irrespective of the "feature program" and are open to all exhibitors.

With Mr. Zukor there came one of the most unique figures in the amusement world—Charles D. Pike, who holds the distinction of being the only theatrical agent for a great railway company in America. Mr. Pike makes a specialty of providing trains for picture scenes in and around Los Angeles, where he has his office. He has five special train crews which he calls his "movie crews" and he has from three to five crews working every day in motion picture scenes.

Actors' Fund Fair May 12 to 21

Donations Solicited for Carrying on Worthy Work—Everyone Should Contribute.

FOLLOWING its custom of holding a bazaar every five years, the Actors' Fund of America announce that the Actors' Fund Fair will be held this year in the Grand Central Palace, New York, from May 12 to May 21. It is hoped that this year's bazaar will go far toward replenishing the treasury of the Fund, which is used in carrying on one of the most worthy of charities—caring for the sick and needy folk of the stage.

Thirty-six years ago the great men of the theatrical profession, such as Edwin Booth, Joseph Jefferson, Lester Wallack, A. M. Palmer, Louis Aldrich, Edward Harrigan, Harry C. Miner, as well as the present chief officer of the Actors' Fund, met on the stage of Wallack's Theater and organized what they called the Actors' Fund of America.

The object of this organization was to take care of and assist and support the sick and disabled members of the theatrical profession. This charity, begun with so much affection and helpfulness, was proposed to cover all the needs and demands imposed upon it, as expenses were then from twelve to fifteen thousand dollars a year. But the profession has grown to such great proportions, and demands upon the slender resources have become so great and constant that the Fund now disburses over $70,000 a year in relief.

The Fund is now being maintained with great difficulty. It has no financial stability, and no endowment; and the work so splendidly executed, and begun thirty-six years ago, has become a heritage to the representatives of the theatrical profession. Hence strong efforts are now being made to maintain its splendid activities. It has been hoped to secure enough money in the way of donations and subscriptions to establish a million dollar endowment, so that the interest from this could be utilized; but, pending that consummation, benefits and fairs are held from time to time, the proceeds of which added to donations and membership fees have enabled the Fund to continue its splendid relief work. Now, it has very little money left in its treasury owing to the great demands being made upon it.

The theater is one of the greatest institutions for the betterment of mankind in existence; but the actors' profession is a precarious one. Their engagements, except in the case of the great stars, are of uncertain length. As the summers are unproductive, money has to be saved for that idle period and for emergencies, such as illness, etc. Hence when the actor is confronted with these brief engagements, and he or his family are rendered helpless by sickness, or other disabilities, the Actors' Fund helps him, and so it is now that the people of the United States who give so generously to every cause should not hesitate to aid the propaganda it has for its object. In addition to succoring the sick and needy, the Fund also maintains a Staten Island Home, wherein the indigent and retired male and female performers of the stage live in homelike and cheerful surroundings. No payment is exacted for admittance and no toll is ever taken from the guests.

THE KINEMATOGRAPH YEAR BOOK.

We beg to acknowledge receipt of a finely bound copy of the Kinematograph Year Book, Program, Diary and Directory for 1917. The book contains 540 pages, and is well printed on an excellent quality of paper. The volume is a year book in fact, containing a mass of information for the motion picture man, and of interest to the American as well as to the Englishman. Among the departments of the book are business information, digest of acts and regulations affecting the industry, lens statistics, film trade marks, important law cases of the year, importing and exporting figures, knotty points digested, mortgages and charges, new companies registered during 1916, personal sketches of players and directors, new postal information, new theaters opened in 1916, and the Kinematograph Directory. The book is a credit to its publishers and to the trade.

LOU-TELLEGEN QUILTS SCREEN TO BECOME A DIRECTOR.

Lou-Tellegen, internationally celebrated stage and screen star, who has appeared recently in numerous Lasky-Paramount productions, will hereafter change his relations with the camera and forsake the screen to become a director. The announcement comes from Jesse L. Lasky that the action was taken at the suggestion of Mr. Tellegen, who has long desired to take up directing on this side of the water.

Goldwyn's World Wide Publicity

Placing Information Regarding Its List of Star Players in All Civilized Countries—Comprehensive Campaign.

GOLDWYN Pictures Corporation has launched simultaneously in every part of the world and in all languages a comprehensive promotion campaign for its group of stars and coming productions. This advertising and publicity campaign is not confined to America alone, or focussed upon certain picture zones of the United States, but is under way in duplicate in every nation of importance at the same moment.

Pictorial campaigns for all of the Goldwyn stars are being made in the publications of Great Britain and throughout British colonial possessions. In London, Manchester, Leeds, Birmingham, England; in Adelaide, Sydney, Victoria, Wellington, Brisbane, Australia; Christchurch, N. Z., and Pretoria and Johannesburg, S. A., as well as in the principal cities of Canada, the great population centers are being told of the Goldwyn celebrities and of the Goldwyn plans for them.

Out in the East the campaign is under way in Manila, Honolulu, Tokio, Shanghai, Peking, and in the greater and lesser cities of the East, both the English language publications and native press are co-operating with the Goldwyn organization.

All of the Spanish-speaking countries are being reached through the Cine Mundial and Barcelona journals, and the Italian publications of Turin, Milan and Rome have paved the way for Goldwyn Pictures in Southern Europe.

In South America, Argentine, Chile, Brazil and neighboring countries are being reached through the Portuguese and Spanish language journals, and through Cine Mundial and other Spanish language publications printed in the United States for circulation in the southern lands. Mexico is being covered through the publications of the picture industry in Mexico City and Yucatan.

Even in Germany, now well cut off from the rest of the world, the Goldwyn promotion campaign has penetrated the Llockade and the picture publications and general pictorials of Munich, Hamburg, Berlin, Dusseldorf and Bremen are paving the way for the later invasion of the Central Powers territories by Mae Marsh, Mary Garden, Maxine Elliott, Jane Cowl and Madge Kennedy. This campaign, the Goldwyn people claim, eclipses in extent anything of its kind ever attempted by a picture producing company in the past.

Goldwyn's task of introducing its stars and announcing its plans to the world at large is made easier by virtue of the fact that the motion picture industry has created a set of influential trade journals in every part of the universe.

In London are to be found the greatest film journals, outside of those on the North American continent, nearly all of which are published in New York. London's important journals being used by Goldwyn to make the acquaintance of the people of the British empire are the Bioscope, the Kinematograph and the Cinema. The German publications are Erste Internationale Film Zeitung, of Berlin; Die Lichtbildbuehne and Der Kinematograph, of Dusseldorf; Bild und Film of Munich; Film und Lichtbild, of Stuttgart. In Italy, La Vita Cinematografica and La Cinematografica, of Turin. In Spain, La Vida Grafica, El Mundo Cinematografico, Art y Cinematografia and El Cine, of Barcelona, and L'Illustrazione Cinematografica of Madrid. The France exhibitors and public are meeting the Goldwyn stars through Cine-Journal, L'Ecran and Hebdo-Film, the Parisian publications.

In faraway Japan Goldwyn's announcements are made through the Kinema Record of Tokio; in Argentine Republic through L'Illustrazione Cinematografia and Cines of Buenos Ayres; Mexico is covered through Revista Del Cinema of Yucatan and Semana Cinematografica of Mexico City. Cuba's public is taught through Cuba Cinematografica of Havana, and in the South African Republic, Stage and Kinema of Johannesburg is the Goldwyn medium of expression. Holland and Scandinavia are reached through De Kinematograaf of Amsterdam.

The Goldwyn idea has been to make its stars known simultaneously everywhere and be ready when its productions are released to have the public in all countries thoroughly familiar with its pictures at the time of their original release.

BUGIE WITH MAMMOTH FILM.

H. A. Bugie, for three years with George Kleine, handling New Jersey, and the Cincinnati and Philadelphia branches, has severed his connections with the K-E-S-E exchange, to take charge of the State of New Jersey for the Mammoth Film Corporation. He will personally tour this territory, and states that he shall be delighted to meet his old friends and customers again.

William Park

WILLIAM PARKE, who produced "The Shine Girl" and "Prudence, the Pirate" at the Thanhouser studios, is responsible for the production of the new mystery serial, "Mystery of the Double Cross," which Pathe expects to break all records. After years of experience as stage manager for E. H. Sothern, Richard Mansfield and Arnold Daly, Mr. Parke finished rehearsing seven companies of "Potash and Perlmutter" at the same time, and joined the Thanhouser Film Corporation as director. His work attracted the attention of J. A. Berst, Vice-President and General Manager of Pathe, who requested that Parke be allowed to direct the big new serial starring Molly King, on which the Astra Film Corporation was about to start work. Louis J. Gasnier, President of Astra, made arrangements to have him do so.

Mr. Parke's career is interesting as a sidelight on a man who has learned his art from the ground up. He was a stock actor and, later, assistant stage manager at the Girard Avenue Theater in Philadelphia. From Philadelphia he went to New York, where he staged a revival of "The Sporting Duchess," with which he toured the country.

William Parke.

He returned to the Girard Avenue Theater, then went to Sale Lake City, where he played in a stock company in the Grand Opera House, and also acted as assistant director.

After varied experiences, Mr. Parke returned to New York and joined E. H. Sothern. He was with Mr. Sothern for six years. Next he went with Richard Mansfield, and during his engagement with the famous actor put on and directed the original production of "Peer Gynt."

Mr. Parke left Mr. Mansfield to join Arnold Daly. With Mr. Daly and Miss Helen Ware, he headlined in vaudeville. He then went to the Castle Square Theater in Boston as stage director. After four seasons there he took up a venture of his own in Pittsfield, Mass., the William Parke Stock Company. Such a dramatic authority as Walter Pritchard Eaton was enthusiastic in his praise of Mr. Parke's company and led a campaign to give municipal support to the venture.

Mr. Parke's methods on the stage characterize his way of doing things for the screen. His success shows the type of man chosen by Mr. Berst to direct the film production of Gilson Willets' original story, which the Pathe officials consider the best screen mystery story ever written.

"Mystery of the Double Cross" reveals the hand of this master-artist in every scene and it is predicted that William Parke will be generally recognized as one of the really great directors in the motion picture field.

WARREN TAKES COMPANY SOUTH.

Edward Warren, with a company of over one hundred players, will start for the south this week by a specially chartered train to finish his exterior scenes of his production, now known by the working title as the "Transgressor." Mr. Warren has been on this picture for the last eight weeks. He finished his elaborate interior scenes at the Herbert Brenon studios a few days ago. Because of the unusual and rather extraordinary character of the story, great care, time and large sums of money have been spent in the preparation and handling of the production. All the scenery, properties and sets were especially built, and each member of the cast was engaged because of his peculiar fitness, type and reputation.

FILM SALESMEN HOUSE WARMING.

The Film Salesmen Association extend an open invitation to all their friends and expect to greet them at the F. S. A.'s house warming in their new club rooms at 145 West 44th street on Saturday night, March 17, 1917, at 8 p. m. Plenty of entertaining and refreshments.

Sheehan Escapes U-Boats

Fox's General Manager Returns Safely to This Port After Visit to England and France.

WINFIELD R. SHEEHAN, General Manager of the Fox Film Corporation, after a five weeks' trip to England, returned on the Carmania, which, after eluding a cordon of German U-boats around Great Britain, arrived safely without incident. Mr. Sheehan went abroad to inspect the foreign offices of the corporation, and to introduce to the British exhibitors "A Daughter of the Gods," with Annette Kellermann.

"A Daughter of the Gods" was most enthusiastically received in London," said Mr. Sheehan. "The trade and newspaper press praised the production most highly, and the London Times for the first time in its history devoted space to a review of a cinema production. The Kellermann production will be shown in a theater near Piccadilly about May 1.

"Motion pictures are rapidly growing in favor throughout Great Britain. Attendance in all theaters is large, and it now appears to be the chief form of entertainment. Owing to the reduction in train service, and the increased rates of fare on all British railroads, the touring companies have abandoned routes, and as a result the larger theaters are filling in with film dramas. William Fox pictures are firmly established. In France the motion picture business is not so good as in England. Because of the necessity for utilizing electricity in the manufacture of munitions the motion picture houses are only allowed to open three nights a week.

"The committee in charge of the celebration at Stratford-upon-Avon of the anniversary of Shakespeare's birth, April 23, 1564, viewed all motion picture productions of his plays and selected the William Fox production of 'Romeo and Juliet,' with Theda Bara, as the most excellent. In this production Miss Theda Bara plays the part of 'Juliet.' It will be shown in the Shakespeare Cinema during the celebration.

"Their selection of 'Romeo and Juliet' is not only a great compliment to the Fox Corporation, but also to Director J. Gordon Edwards. The entire production was made in the Fox Studios at Fort Lee, New Jersey, yet the committee found that in accuracy of detail it was not approached by any other pictures of a Shakespearean play.

"The Fox production of 'Carmen,' with Theda Bara, is to be shown in Madrid and Saville, during the coming season.

"There were just 31 passengers returning on the Carmania, and in consequence each passenger had about 750 tons of ship to themselves. Conditions in the dining room were reversed. Ordinarily there are seven passengers to each officer at table, but on this trip there were seven officers to each passenger.

EDNA GOODRICH IN "REPUTATION."

Edna Goodrich, who was recently signed by President John R. Freuler of the Mutual Film Corporation as a star of Mutual productions, will start work on her first Mutual picture early in March. Miss Goodrich will work for the present, at least, at the Empire All Star Corporation studios at Glendale, Long Island, which is only twenty minutes from Times Square.

Two months' diligent search for a vehicle perfectly adapted to Miss Goodrich's queenly beauty and talent has resulted in the acquisition of a play from the pen of the successful writer, John Clymer, entitled "Reputation."

John B. O'Brien's association with the photoplay for a number of years has given him a fearless directness, a disregard for unnecessary detail, which, combined with delicacy of imagination and constructive artistic vision, makes him a director of rare ability.

LASKY ENGAGES TOURNEUR FOR ONE YEAR.

One of the most important directorial acquisitions made by any member of the Paramount group was announced today when it became known that Jesse L. Lasky has engaged Maurice Tourneur, the celebrated French director, for at least one year. Mr. Tourneur's first picture for Paramount will have Mme. Petrova as its star and he will also direct the famous Russian actress's second Lasky production. Mr. Tourneur will direct nine pictures during the year for Lasky, work on the Petrova photoplay beginning within the next two weeks.

PARAMOUNT'S G. M. OFF THE SICK LIST.

Benjamin P. Schulberg, general manager of Paramount Pictures Corporation, is back at his desk after a ten days' indisposition which confined him to his bed. His recovery is complete.

Walter Macnamara Off for Keystoneville

Popular Photoplaywright and Director Joins Hampton Del Ruth's Idea Factory at Mack Sennett Studio.

WALTER MACNAMARA, well-known photoplaywright, has left for Los Angeles, where he will become a member of producing forces of Mack Sennett's Keystone studio. Mr. Macnamara said at the Screen Club on the eve of his departure that he would be a member of Hampton del Ruth's "idea" forces.

Mr. Macnamara has had a lot of experience picturewise, and especially in comedies. During his connection with the Universal's Imp studio he fathered many of these. Those who best know him and understand his qualifications undoubtedly will agree that he is going to the one establishment where his talent should count most heavily. He is a thoroughbred Celt, with a large fund of native wit and a capacity for getting out of a given situation its full measure of humor.

Two years ago Mr. Macnamara took a company to Ireland for the making of a national subject. The result was "Ireland a Nation," which aroused a great deal of attention in Irish circles throughout the country. Before that he had written one of the screen's best melodramas and biggest moneymakers, "Traffic in Souls," produced by George Tucker.

Mr. Macnamara takes high rank as an entertainer and story teller. He will be missed at the Screen Club, where since its organization he has been one of the foremost members and at its festivities one of the most dependable laugh-makers. The best wishes of a host of friends will go with him to his new home.

President Hodkinson on Tour

To Visit All Triangle Exchanges from Chicago to Coast and Also Confer With Exhibitors Regarding Distribution Methods.

PRESIDENT W. W. HODKINSON of the Triangle Distributing Corporation, left New York the first of last week on a tour which will take in all the big cities of the West. Mr. Hodkinson's first stop was Chicago, and from there on he will visit all of the Triangle Western exchanges, and most of the important exhibitors using Triangle pictures. It is his intention to take up matters of vital interest to the development of Triangle service along original and progressive lines, and to inculcate a spirit of co-operation in the various branches.

Mr. Hodkinson first came into prominence as an exhibitor in Utah, Idaho and California, and no figure in the industry is better known or better liked in that part of the country. It was Mr. Hodkinson who made it possible to show the first big features on the Pacific Coast at a standard price, and any movement for the betterment of conditions and the improvement of film service, as a whole, that bears the stamp of his inception will be sure to gain an impetus that will insure its success.

Chicago Muddle Cleared

Frank Resigns Management of Exposition and Will Discontinue Suit—Ludwig Schindler Chosen to Fill Vacancy.

AT THE meeting of the National Executive Committee held in Chicago on Friday and Saturday, March 9 and 10, the matter of the chairmanship of the Exposition Committee was disposed of by the formal reinstatement and resignation of Louis M. Frank and an agreement to withdraw the suit brought against the National Committee by him on account of the committee's previous action in removing him from the position as chairman. Ludwig Schindler was appointed to fill the vacancy.

The National Committee adopted a resolution opposing the tax of $60 per year on motion picture theaters proposed by the Music Authors' League. The deposit system was also condemned by resolution and organized exhibitors were called upon to resist it.

All members of the National Committee were present and the session lasted from Friday morning until early Saturday morning.

SOL LESSER TAKES FULL CONTROL OF "NE'ER DO WELL."

Last week Sol Lesser withdrew the "Ne'er Do Well" from the V-L-S-E, whose contract for booking that picture had expired, and will hereafter book it himself from his new offices at 523 Longacre Building, New York City.

Chicago News Letter

By JAS. S. McQUADE

The Illinois State Censorship Bill

EXHIBITORS throughout the state of Illinois, whether members of the League or not, should unite in a strenuous campaign against the passage of the proposed state censorship bill for moving pictures, at Springfield. There is no more reason now than there was a year ago for the passage of such a bill, except that political jobs are much scarcer, on account of the improved state code established by Governor Lowden since his election.

Since the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry is unable to act in the matter, owing to the lack of funds, exhibitors must shoulder the burden themselves. If they do not, they will assuredly bear the increased burden in one form or another, and a state censorship board, when once established, it is almost impossible to oust.

This proposed state censorship of moving pictures does not guarantee that a national and a municipal censorship shall not also operate concurrently. The police power of a city, town or village may always be invoked when it is sought to protect public morals, irrespective of a state and national censorship.

It is hoped that Chicago exhibitors will forget their differences at the present time and throw their whole weight against this state censorship movement. The holding of a national exposition every year, while desirable, is not the most important thing in the interests of the business.

This state censorship bill must be defeated, if exhibitors in Illinois are not blind to their interests and to the future of the business in this state.

The Evil of "Speeding Up" Still With Us.

Certain "Loop" theaters in Chicago still seem to be afflicted with the speed mania. Nor is the evil confined to the "Loop"; for in some fine northside theaters it confronts one at times with startling effect, because it is so unexpected.

Overspeeding the film is a common occurrence in the "Loop," and it is not unusual to see 1,000 feet of film run off in six minutes! It is more usual to see the same length given nine or ten minutes, which seems to be the speed desired by the managers who desire "snappy action."

An expert tells me that he has seen a seven-reel program run off in 50 minutes, even when two of the reels were given a slower speed, because the action of the photoplays would not permit the faster pace. These were comedy reels, in which the action was lively enough through the use of stop action.

Essanay's effort to get the films better treatment, by printing the approximate time of projection on their posters, is being nullified by pasting a strip of paper over the line which specifies the time of projection. This, of course, prevents complaints; but the practice not only cheats patrons, but it cheats the producer of the merits of his product. Not only this: the pernicious evil of "speeding up" films deprives the moving picture business of the progress it has made in the past ten years.

To even up things, the manager guilty of "speeding up" should be made to pay twice or three times the rental paid by the manager who is honest with his patrons and the producers, and who is loyal to the business.

Will it not pay producers to hire expert spotters, in order to bring the evil home to offenders? The honest manager must be protected from his nearby, dishonest competitor.

Chicago Film Brevities.

Sol L. Lesser arrived in the city from the Coast Saturday, March 3, and remained until the following Tuesday, when he departed for Pittsburgh and New York in the interests of "The Ne'er Do Well."

* * *

The Rialto, the largest moving picture theater in Kewanee, Ill., will be opened about the middle of this month. It will be operated by Chris C. Taylor, who owns it and also the Dreamland, of Kewanee. The interior decorations are described as modern and artistic. All the latest improvements, both for comfort and safety, have been installed. The building was designed and directed under the supervision of Architect Wm. T. Braun, who makes a specialty of the construction of moving picture theaters.

* * *

Manager C. E. Smith, of Metro's Chicago branch, informs me that the Ascher Bros. have contracted with his company for an additional year's service, for their Lane Court, Calo, Lakeside, Cosmopolitan, Columbus, Frolic, Oakland Square, Chateau, Milford and Terminal theaters.

* * *

T. E. Mortensen, business manager of Amusements in Minneapolis, made a pleasant call at this office March 5. He had just finished a tour through Middle Western territory, stopping over at St. Louis, Kansas City, Omaha and Des Moines, in the interests of his paper. He found business conditions in Kansas and Missouri very good, while in Nebraska and Iowa exchangemen were doing a brisk business. He reported that Selznick and Arcraft productions seem to be in high favor in the territory covered, with Paramount a solid asset. He left for Minneapolis the same date, making a stop-over at Milwaukee on the way.

* * *

W. R. Rothacker, president of the Rothacker Film Manufacturing Co., wrote this office last week from Hot Springs, Ark., where he is resting up. He is fast resuming his former fettle and sends congratulations on the World's tenth anniversary number, which he pronounces "great."

* * *

"Arsene Lupin" (Vitagraph) will be the leading attraction at the Ziegfeld theater for the week commencing Saturday, March 10. The latest chapter of "The Secret Kingdom" serial is also on the bill, and the Charlotte Steindel orchestra is furnishing the music.

* * *

Bert M. Graham, formerly assistant manager of the Detroit exchange of the Universal Film Manufacturing Co., was a Chicago visitor last week. Mr. Graham made a pleasant call at the office of the World, and stated that he has been engaged to manage the new Palace theater in Saginaw, Mich., which will have its formal opening on Sunday, March 18. The Palace has a seating capacity of 1,100, and feature programs will be exhibited daily. A Kimball organ has been installed, and in addition an orchestra of four pieces will assist in furnishing the musical accompaniment. The house is owned by the Saginaw Hippodrome Amusement Co., and cost about $150,000. It is the intention of Manager Graham to open the house with either "The Birth of a Nation" or "Intolerance," and his visit to Chicago was primarily to secure either production.

* * *

B. F. Lewis, general manager of the La Salle Film Co., returned to this city from a trip through the East on Friday, March 2. He visited all the principal cities there and reports good prospects for the Laico Comedies, which are being manufactured and released by his company. Fourteen of these comedies have been completed up to the present time, and are being marketed on the state rights basis.

* * *

The next meeting of the Reel Fellows Club has been announced to take place on Friday evening, March 16, at the club's new headquarters, 207 S. Wabash avenue. President Ralph O. Proctor announces that a number of prominent speakers will be present, the names of whom will be given later.

* * *

A fine scenic picture produced for the Burlington Route by the Rothacker Film Manufacturing Co. was viewed by the Advertising Association of Chicago last week. The films covered the route from Cody, Wyo., to the Yellowstone National Park, and the fine scenery was much enjoyed by all present.

The first subject in the "Seeing Western America" series of the Burlington films was recently shown to about 250 members of the Chicago Advertising Club. This beautiful series has been made by the Rothacker Film Manufacturing Co. The members of the club were so pleased that they requested (by a rising vote) T. T. Maxey, advertising agent of the Burlington, to permit the Industrial Movies Committee to view the remainder of the films in the near future. The films are beautifully colored and the series is now being shown in several moving picture theaters in the East and in the South.

* * *

Max Goldstine, Chicago manager of Artcraft, has engaged E. Q. Cordner to supervise the presentation of Mary Pickford's "A Poor Little Rich Girl" at the Auditorium. Mr. Cordner made quite a reputation for himself by his artistic management of Orchestra Hall during the season it was leased by the Strand Theater Co. for their special picture programs. It is said that he is planning some delightful surprises for the coming event at the Auditorium, in the way of electrical effects, stage settings and orchestral accompaniment. "A Poor Little Rich Girl" opens Saturday, March 10.

* * *

Lubliner & Trinz have purchased the rights to "Ramona," the Clune feature, for Cook County, Ill. Beginning Monday, March 21, it will be shown in the eight theaters on their circuit, and its bookings in other houses in the country will be in charge of H. W. Willard, whose headquarters are in the Lubliner & Trinz offices, in the Westminster Building, 110 South Dearborn street. This is the first venture of Lubliner & Trinz in the purchase of territorial rights for a feature film.

* * *

After a most successful run of ten weeks at the Studebaker, "A Daughter of the Gods" will close its engagement at that house Saturday night, March 10. It will be followed by "The Price She Paid" (Selznick), featuring Clara Kimball Young.

* * *

"Mothers of France," Sarah Bernhardt's new war picture, which shows stirring scenes in France, in the early days of the war, and Madame Bernhardt going into the first line trenches under fire and visiting hospitals and stricken homes, had its premier showing in America Sunday evening, March 4, at the South Shore Country Club, this city.

* * *

Max Linder and his leading lady, Miss Martha Erlich, and retinue, left Chicago Tuesday evening, March 6, for California, where his future comedies will be made. Mr. Linder will work in the Tom Ince studio in Culver City, which has been chosen for the purpose, by Essanay.

* * *

The patronage list for the Actors' Fund benefit performance at the Auditorium theater, Friday afternoon, March 9, is one of the largest in the history of this great benefaction. The first rehearsal of the all-star cast was called Tuesday, March 6, and was under the supervision of Alexander Leftwich, Daniel Frohman's representative. The advance sale of seats, which are on sale in all the "Loop" theatres, is reported as being unusually large.

* * *

A series of three lectures on "Wild Birds and Their Haunts" are being given in this city under the auspices of the Illinois Audubon Society. These lectures are illustrated by moving pictures which show birds in their native wilds. The first of these lectures, "Nature's Children in Moving Pictures," was given by Wm. L. Finley, state biologist of Oregon, who is known as one of the world's greatest photographers of wild life. The second lecture of the series, which will be given Saturday, March 24, is entitled "Wild Birds and How to Attract Them," and will be given by Ernest Harold Baynes. The third, "American Birds in Motion Pictures," will be given on Saturday, April 14, by Norman McClintock. O. M. Schantz, 10 S. La Salle street, will furnish tickets or information on application.

* * *

President Wilson and his guests had a private viewing of "The Crisis" at the White House, Tuesday evening, March 6, according to a telegram received by Wm. N. Selig, president of the Selig Polyscope Co. Members of the Cabinet and distinguished visitors who had come on for the inauguration were included in the select gathering. It is said that President Wilson and all present were cordial in their praise of the big feature.

The attorney general of the United States and thirty-five members of the Department of Justice viewed Selig's "Beware of Strangers," Saturday evening, March 3, in the Capitol laboratory. The play was shown in the Capitol through the courtesy of Elliott Wood, superintendent of the U. S. Capitol Grounds. The entire committee having charge of the inauguration of President Wilson also viewed the same feature on Friday evening, March 2. It is reported that the attorney-general and others who viewed the picture were unanimous in their praises of the production and of the lesson it conveyed.

* * *

A recent dispatch from Washington, D. C., brought the information that the staff members of the Selig-Tribune news had been honored by being appointed official photographers for President Wilson's inauguration. Copies of the Selig-Tribune film, with the inauguration scenes, have been requested by the United States Senate for its archives. Mrs. Woodrow Wilson will also be presented with a copy of the inauguration issue.

* * *

"Heroic France" is the title of some remarkable moving pictures taken in the French front line trenches by Merl LaVoy, a Chicagoan. These pictures will be given their first showing at the Strand theater, at Wabash avenue and Seventh street, during the week of March 18. The object of the showing of the pictures is both charitable and educational, as the receipts, after expenses have been deducted, will be devoted to the American Fund for the Relief of the French Wounded.

Mrs. Russell Tyson, chairman of the local branch of the American Fund, says regarding the pictures: "We hope not only to be able to secure a considerable amount of money to be devoted to war relief, but also to assist in educating the public to the need of preparedness. Seventy-five per cent of the net proceeds will be divided among the following organizations: The American Relief Clearing House of Paris, the Children of the Frontier in France and Belgium, the American Ambulance Field Service and the American Fund for French Wounded."

Several prominent business men of Chicago financed the expedition headed by Merl LaVoy.

* * *

Selig's latest spectacular subject, "Who Shall Take My Life," arrived recently from Los Angeles. The production was directed by Colin Campbell, and the story was written by Miss Maibelle Heikes Justice, the well known authoress.

In order to gain the required atmosphere for the writing of this story, Miss Justice was the guest of the warden of the state prison for some time, and studied prison detail thoroughly.

"Who Shall Take My Life" is a virile romance of American life, presenting strong arguments against the infliction of capital punishment.

Industry Responding to Charity Ball Appeals

William Wright of Kalem Is Chairman of Committee and William A. Brady Treasurer.

THE committee in charge of the Movie Charity Ball, to be held at Terrace Garden on Monday evening, April 16, reports a hearty response by all branches of the motion picture industry to the circular letter sent out, appealing for donations to the Movie Charity Fund. This fund will be created from the profits of the ball and these donations will be under the control of a permanent committee of manufacturers and exhibitors. William Wright of the Kalem Company has been chosen as chairman of the Movie Charity Fund, and William A. Brady of the World Film Company is treasurer.

Many prominent people of the city, who are well known for their activities in social and charitable affairs, are taking a lively interest in this ball, and have promised the committee all possible aid to make it a social as well as financial success. Several of them have already signified their intention of purchasing boxes for the occasion.

Arrangements have already been completed for a number of motion picture actresses to canvass the business section of the city selling tickets for the ball, and later on a committee composed of the most famous screen stars will invade the financial district, including the Stock Exchange and all the other exchanges.

The committee having in charge the arrangements for the ball is headed by Sidney Ascher, chairman; Samuel H. Tringer, treasurer, and Harold W. Rosenthal, manager.

News of Los Angeles and Vicinity

By G. P. VON HARLEMAN and CLARKE IRVINE

New Picture Theater Planned

Ten Year Lease of Mercantile Place Property Sought by New York and San Francisco Amusement Promoters.

THE Los Angeles Board of Education, owning the Mercantile Place property, between Fifth and Sixth on Broadway and Spring, has been offered $840,000 for a ten-year lease, by San Francisco and New York capital, to build a large motion picture theater, store and office building fronting on Broadway. The proposed frontage on Broadway to be 118 feet with 120 feet on Spring street. The prospective lessors propose to erect at once a reinforced concrete theater, store and office building on the property, to cost not less than $100,000, and which shall revert to the Board upon the expiration of the lease, according to the terms made public Friday, this week.

The Mercantile Place property has been unofficially appraised at the value of approximately $1,000,000.

The capitalists back of the project plan, if the board decides to grant the lease, to immediately tear down all structures now lining both sides of the street on Mercantile Place, close the street, and erect a new building, which, on the Broadway frontage, will be a motion picture theater with a seating capacity of 3,400 and with a stage that may be used for other than picture purposes.

The Spring street front is to be devoted to stores, with offices or lofts above. Under the terms of the proposed lease, the cost of the structure will not be less than $100,000, but as a matter of fact plans already drawn call for a building which will represent an investment of practically twice that sum.

The prospective lessors, according to the contract, agree to pay for the leasehold $7,000 monthly. They agree to pay in advance $42,000 on the day the lease is signed, and to provide, at the same time, a bond for $25,000 guaranteeing the prompt erection of the building.

The Board of Education has no legal right to sell the property, nor can it be leased for a longer term than ten years. Gross rentals paid by tenants last month amounted to about $6,500.

Seymour & Batchelder, Consolidated Realty Building, are agents for the outside interests involved in the projected deal.

"The Curse of Eve" Nears Completion

Corona Cinema Company Will Soon Release Its First Production.

THE Corona Cinema Company announces that its seven reel feature, "The Curse of Eve," which has been in the course of production for several months, is about completed and will be ready for release about April first.

The author, Wycliffe A. Hill, has taken for the foundation of his story the 16th verse of the 3rd chapter of Genesis, wherein the curse is placed upon the first woman for her disobedience in the Garden of Eden. The prologue shows the creation of the world, its spectacular volcanic eruptions, earthquakes, land slides and upheavals as they are supposed to have happened during this period.

The creation scenes are followed by the showing of the first man and woman as well as the Avenging Angel and the Serpent in the Garden of Eden. The story as told in the film follows as closely as possible that outlined in the first three chapters of Genesis, up to the time that Adam and Eve are expelled from the Garden of Eden for their disobedience. Several weeks were spent on Santa Cruz Islands in making the Garden of Eden scenes, which are said to be some of the most beautiful natural settings that were ever shown on the screen.

There is a unique connection between the prologue and the modern story; out of Eve is dissolved the girl Eva Stanley in the modern story; out of Adam, John Bilbert, the hero; out of the Serpent, Leo Spencer, the villain; and the Avenging Angel is reincarnated in the minister, who plays a strong part. With the exception of the Avenging Angel a different cast is used in the modern story from that which was used in the prologue.

Enid Markey, Edward Coxen, Clarissa Selwynne, Jack Standing, Marion Warner, Elsie Greeson, Wm. Quinn and Arthur Allardt are the principals in the modern story. Frank Beal, formerly with Selig, is directing the production. William C. Thompson, well known cameraman, has charge of the photography and laboratory work.

The story was scenarioized by Joseph Anthony Roach.

One of the scenes in this production was filmed last week, an elaborate Japanese set with expensive props secured from a local Japanese art collector. A troupe of fifteen Japanese Geisha Girls took part in one of the scenes, under directorship of Madame Turoi, formerly of the Imperial Theater in Tokio. George Kuwa, the Japanese actor, formerly with the Lasky Company, and who played the leading part in "The Yellow Pawn," has been specially engaged by the Corona Cinema Company to take a part in this production.

Deseret Film Company's Plan

Extensive Campaign for "The Eyes of the World" to Be Inaugurated.

THE Deseret Film Company, of Salt Lake City, which has purchased the rights for the states of Colorado, Utah, Montana, Idaho, Wyoming and Nevada from W. H. Clune for "The Eyes of the World," is planning an extensive campaign with this elaborate film reproduction. The Deseret Company will exploit the picture in the largest cities of its territory in the same novel and costly manner in which it was exhibited in Clune's Auditorium in Los Angeles, with an introductory stage setting of dissolving views winding up with a gorgeous cyclorama drop.

The Deseret Company has purchased from Mr. Clune the rights to use this scenic feature, which had much to do with the remarkable successful run at the Auditorium for seven weeks with a total attendance of nearly 90,000. "The Eyes of the World" will be shown in Denver, Salt Lake, Cheyenne, Boise, Reno, Ogden, Butte, etc., in the legitimate houses with a large orchestra to play the especially prepared music.

In the smaller cities and towns of the Deseret Company's territory "The Eyes of the World" will be shown in the regular motion picture theaters. The buyers of this territory are mapping out a campaign that will have its real beginning about April first in Idaho and Montana and reach its highest point in the resort cities of Colorado in midsummer.

W. H. Clune is exploiting "The Eyes of the World" in California, Arizona and New Mexico through his film exchange and it is said to be doing a remarkable business. We are informed that "The Eyes of the World" was immediately rebooked after prosperous initial showings at the Cabrillo Theater, San Diego, the Columbia Theater, Phoenix, the Opera House, San Bernardino, and the Opera House at Tucson, Arizona. In three of these houses the Clune picture broke all records.

"THE DAUGHTER OF THE GODS" OPENS IN LOS ANGELES.

Monday, February 26, Los Angeles got its first glimpse of William Fox's mammoth spectacle, "The Daughter of the Gods." The audience went into raptures over the wonderful exterior views and the perfectly "mooded" music written especially for the picture by Robert Hood Bowers. William Fox, the producer, was present the opening night, as well as many other prominent people of the motion picture industry, among whom we noted William and Dustin Farnum, Frank Lloyd, Agnes Parsons, Scenario Editress of the Fox Company, Jack J. Glavey, George Fawcett, Reginald Barker and many others. It is the first big picture presented in Los Angeles in some time that did not use a stage setting to convey the atmosphere of the story. Thanks for those fine seats, friend Lathrop.

Shorty's Screen Speech.

The following cut shows Shorty Hamilton on his horse in the lobby of Clune's Comedy theater, and Manager McCarty, the second figure from the right-hand side of the picture. Instead of making a speech after he was introduced, Shorty stood by his horse while the screen showed him going through the motion of speech making, which was abruptly ended by the horse boosting him out of the scene. "Even the horse wouldn't stand my speech at the rehearsal," Shorty Hamilton at Clune's Comedy.

said Shorty in conclusion, "so why should I inflict it on you?" At the end of the stunt the cowboys rode down through the aisles of the theater. Manager McCarty declared himself satisfied with the reception given the first showing of the new Mutual featurettes. The first of the series, "Shorty Breaks the Yellow Ring," is to be followed at Clune's by one two-reeler each week.

Static Club Banquet.

Many prominent members of the industry were present upon the occasion of the Static Club banquet for the Motion Picture Directors' Association of Los Angeles on the evening of February 15th, at which Charles Rosher, president of the Static Club, was toastmaster, later turning over the arduous duties of that office to Otis Turner. Douglas Gerrard made a very witty speech on the topic of efficiency, and Raymond

B. West was called upon to present the compliments of the Directors' Association to the Static Club. Then James Crosby, founder of the Static Club, gave several interesting sidelights upon the early history of that organization. Hobart Bosworth came next with a résumé on the camera club. Buck Massie delighted the guests with drawings of his studio, and Fred J. Balshofer lauded cameramen in general, and his own, Tony Gaudio, in particular. Eddie Ullman, another pioneer of the club, gave an interesting speech, as well as Alvin Wyckoff, whose topic was "The Directors." Taken all in all it was one of the most interesting banquets that the writer had the pleasure to attend.

Los Angeles Film Brevities.

Oscar Apfel has resigned the directorship at the local Yorke-Metro studios and leaves for New York on Saturday, March 24th. E. Mason Hopper, the former Universal and Morosco director, has been engaged by Fred J. Balshofer to take Mr. Apfel's place as director for the Harold Lockwood-May Allison productions. Mr. Balshofer was due at New York February 23d for an important meeting of the board of directors of the Metro Company. The last we heard of him was that he was stalled somewhere this side of Salt Lake in a snowstorm.

* * *

Edith Storey, after five years' association with the Vitagraph Company, has severed her connection with them this week, and, it is rumored, will be seen in future Lasky productions.

* * *

Director William Taylor, who has produced many notable Dustin Farnum productions, has surprised his many friends by resigning from the Fox Film Company, after producing one feature for them and has gone to Arrowhead Springs for a well earned vacation.

* * *

Jack J. McDermott, one of the youngest directors in the business and a former Universalite, has been signed to direct for the Morosco Company. Jack has been in pictures less than a year and a half.

* * *

"A Match in Quarantine" is the title of the sixteenth single reel comedy feature just completed by the La Salle Film Company, under the Lafco brand of comedies. The company is releasing its productions through the open market. Director M. De La Parelle is noted for his development of submerged talent. The company consists of Marion De La Parelle, director general; King W. Vidor, assistant director; Robert L. Peck, cinematographer; Jean Otto, leads; Zasu Static Club Banquet at Angelus Grill, Los Angeles, February 15, 1917.

Pitts, comedienne; John Allard, juvenile; Matie Connolly, ingenue; Eddie Boland, comedian, and Roy Jones, technical director.

* * *

Hector Dion, well known in eastern motion picture circles for his work as the first Vitagraph leading man as well as for his connection with the Thanhouser Company, has come to Los Angeles and expects to shortly sign with one of the prominent local companies.

* * *

We had a chat with Jack Glavey, the genial manager of comedy production for the Fox Film Company the other night. Jack was considerably elated over the fact that one of his comedies featuring Hank Mann had just concluded a most successful run of two weeks' duration at Miller's theater. This is the first comedy ever run more than one week at Manager's Miller's house.

* * *

Despite all reports to the contrary, Francis Ford and Grace Cunard are still on the L-Ko lot turning out their usual excellent productions.

* * *

Joseph Anthony Roach, one of the veteran photoplaywrights of the industry, has recently shaken the dust of New York and Chicago and is now wielding his trusty typewriter in Los Angeles. Mr. Roach's most recent release has been "Melting Millions," a Foxfilm production starring George Walsh. The story was shown at Miller's Alhambra theater, of this city, and made quite a hit with Manager Miller's patrons. At the present time the Corona Cinema Company is engaged in the production of an eight-reel feature entitled "The Curse of Eve," which was scenariorized by Roach from Wycliffe A. Hill's story.

* * *

C. M. Simmons, the Western Division Manager of Artcraft, has, at last, a car as speedy as himself. The car in question is a new roadster, which enables Friend Simmons to visit about twelve towns a day.

* * *

C. F. Glimm, the enterprising manager of the Garrick Theater of this city, is this week showing the Ince-Triangle production "Between Men."

* * *

John Klock and Harry Dial have leased the Williams Opera House of Williams, Arizona, and will open, on March first, a new motion picture theater at that location.

* * *

A. E. Copeland, the manager of the Crescent Theater, of Colton, California, has leased the Banning Opera House from W. G. Mattjtscheck. Mr. Copeland is at present supervising extensive alterations prior to the opening of his new motion picture theater.

* * *

C. C. Corwin has started the erection of a $10,000 structure at San Dimas, California, which will house, upon completion, a motion picture theater.

* * *

Adolph Schutz and associates, of the Princess Theater, Silver City, New Mexico, will be the lessees of a new theater.

* * *

William Martin of Hemet, California, will shortly reopen the Perris theater, at Perris, Cal.

* * *

It is reported that Thomas Carmody, owner of the Star theater at Elsinore, California, has sold that house to John Penphraser, a well known Arizona exhibitor.

* * *

Johan Johansson, the proprietor of the Yuma and Casino theaters of Yuma, Arizona, and the Somerton Theater in Somerton, has consummated a deal whereby he becomes the owner of two theaters in Imperial, Cal.

* * *

From Bisbee, Arizona, comes the news that the new Lyric theater of that place has opened for business with John Diamos as manager.

* * *

C. A. Hubert, of the Culver City Realty Company, is shortly to reopen the picture theater at Culver City, Cal.

* * *

John A. Morgan is rapidly completing construction on his theater at Alhambra, Cal.

* * *

E. P. Gardner, of El Paso, Texas, has purchased of Rodolfo Cruze the Alhambra Theater of that city.

* * *

William Marcus, the owner and manager of the Mission and Portola theaters of Santa Barbara, arrived in Los Angeles this week, on business relative to the booking of feature films for his attractive house.

Mary Garden in "Thais"

Goldwyn Announces Famous Opera Star in Her Favorite Role for First Picture Production.

MARY GARDEN is to do a spectacular version of "Thais" as her first Goldwyn picture. This announcement is made by the Goldwyn organization following a tabulation of thousands of letters received from motion picture patrons and theater owners in every section of the United States and Canada, and from South American and British exhibitors.

Coupled with this announcement is the statement that Goldwyn, after negotiations by cable and with his agents in New York, has bought the complete world rights to "Thais" from Anatole France, the famous French author.

Having created the role of "Thais," Miss Garden made both the opera and its title role sensationally famous throughout the world. When produced, "Thais" was the sensation of two continents and it helped make this famous woman one of the most talked about stars in the entire realms of music and drama.

For the first time in the history of the industry a company held a referendum "election" and permitted the public that makes picture successes possible to name the picture for one of the world's greatest stars.

Screen fans throughout the country have flooded the motion picture editors with letters of advice for Miss Garden, and these have attained such an immense volume that the newspapers in forwarding the letters to Goldwyn no longer trusted to the United States mails, but sent these letters in great boxes by express. One Cleveland newspaper in a period of ten days sent Goldwyn more than 2,000 letters it had received and three Chicago papers forwarded more than 1,000 letters each.

"Thais" was not selected without competition from the other famous operatic vehicles in which Miss Garden has appeared. The pathos and beauty of "The Jugglers of Notre Dame" appealed to hundreds of persons who cast their vote for it. "Salome" came third in the voting, but as Miss Garden said a few moments before sailing for Europe: "I think that there are many more who would prefer to see me in 'Salome' but who would be perhaps too embarrassed to sign their names to their request for it."

At the time of sailing, Miss Garden realized that the drift of the voting was all in favor of "Thais" and she then told a New York editor who was seeing her off that she would, while in Paris, evolve a sensational new dance for her production of "Thais" which would be one of the most astounding things ever done in pictures.

BROOKLYN'S TRIANGLE SHIFTS TO PARAMOUNT.

Change in Program Follows Ousting of William H. Kemble from Control of Theater.

BEGINNING Monday, March 12, the Triangle theater of Brooklyn began showing Paramount service. W. N. Holde, manager and director of the big central house, declared it to be the intention of the Brooklyn Triangle Theater Corporation to conduct the Triangle as nearly as possible on the plan of the Strand theater in Manhattan.

The new corporation, which is composed of William H. Hickin, David R. Beach and Albert Zimmerman, took over the management and conduct of the theater for the protection of the Casualty Company of America, which was on the bond of the William H. Kemble Theaters Corporation, for the payment of the rent. After Kemble was ousted from the corporation, which bore his name, the concern struggled along. The Kemble company could not assign its lease, so the dispossess proceedings were instituted and the owners turned the building over to the new corporation. It is expected that the new company will continue for the year and a half the lease has to run and then take advantage of the five years' renewal clause.

TWO BROOKLYN THEATERS CLOSE.

Within a radius of five blocks in the Flatbush section of Brooklyn, N. Y., there were until recently three motion picture theaters—the Clarendon and Cortelyou, each seating three hundred, and the Rialto, seating 1,800. Within the past week the two small houses closed their doors.

LEVINO WITH ROLFE.

A. S. LeVino, recently in charge of the publicity of the V-L-S-E, has joined the Rolfe producing organization and will work with Max Karger in the script department.

Anti-Censorship Slides

Moving Picture World Offers an Excellent Group of Arguments for Screen Purposes.

THE continued agitation of the censorship question in so many different states is causing exhibitors and the trade in general a lot of annoyance. The politicians are turning to this industry more and more as a source of revenue and to censorship as a means of providing fat and easy berths for the "faithful." We only need to refer to recent articles in these columns showing that in the latest proposed censorship bill for the small state of West Virginia provision was made for a yearly salary list of around thirteen thousand dollars, and in the bill introduced to the Missouri legislators in January last a total appropriation of almost three times that amount was outlined for salaries alone, not to mention other necessary expenses. In our issue of February 10 we gave a list of twenty states that were considering censorship bills of more or less drastic form and adding hundreds of thousands of dollars to the present heavy burden of moving picture taxation.

Slide Number 4.

Slide Number 3.

How shall all this be met? One of the most effective ways, both for the present and the future, is to educate public sentiment. To do this no more effective method could be conceived than through announcements on the screens of all the picture theaters by means of stereopticon slides. The Moving Picture World has advocated this plan many times already and has just prepared a new set of nine slides for this purpose. The illustrations herewith are reproductions of four of the slides and following are the texts of the complete set, which has been made up by the Novelty Slide Company, of this city.

1. The people of this country do not want salaried politicians as censors of their amusements. Why hamper moving pictures with censorship?
2. Censorship of moving pictures places a brand on the industry that is unjust, discriminating and against the spirit of our free institutions.
3. Keep the pictures clean and keep them out of politics. We do not believe the American people want censorship. We will not show objectionable films in this theater.
4. We protest against censorship of moving pictures. The press is free; pictures should enjoy the same freedom. Americans are the best judges of their own amusements.
5. The same regulations now controlling the press are sufficient

Slide Number 6.

Slide Number 7.

for moving pictures. Censorship is un-American and results in higher taxes.

6. Censorship places the moving picture industry and the people's amusement at the mercy of cranks and politicians. Use your influence against it!

7. The sound common sense of the American public is the only necessary censorship of moving pictures. Present laws give ample protection.

8. Present laws are sufficient to deal with objectionable pictures. Censorship is an unnecessary burden upon taxpayers. Vote against it!

9. The management of this theater desires the co-operation of its patrons in providing good clean entertainment. We want no "legalized" censorship of moving pictures.

The slides will show on the screen exactly as in the illustration, viz.: clear white letters on a black background. Decoration, coloring or fancy lettering to detract from the message has been avoided in order to make them as clear and readable as possible. Complete sets, carefully packed and postage prepaid, will be furnished at net cost of one dollar.

Some exhibitors may make their own or have them made up by a local slide man, but every exhibitor should use them on his screen steadily and persistently for months and perhaps years to come. The result cannot fail to be a crystallization of public opinion against the idea of compulsory censorship, either Federal, State or municipal.

Al. Woods Forms Picture Company

Will Do All His Stage Successes in Pictures—Capitalized for One Million Dollars.

A. H. WOODS announces the formation of the A. H. Woods Motion Picture Company, for the purpose of picturizing the A. H. Woods successes of the past, present and future. The company has been incorporated at Albany with a capital of $1,000,000. The location of the eastern studio will be announced later. A western studio will also be built.

The formation of the A. H. Woods Motion Picture Company opens for presentation on the screen the splendid repertoire of stage successes owned exclusively by Mr. Woods, and specially adapted for picturization. These include such notable successes as "Common Clay," "The Yellow Ticket," "Cheating Cheaters," "Innocent" and others. These screen versions will feature the most important dramatic stars and the most notable casts available, and will be produced under Mr. Woods' personal supervision.

A. H. Woods.

All of Mr. Woods' future theatrical productions will be presented in the Eltinge and Republic theaters, which he controls in New York, and in his new theater in Chicago, which will be ready for occupancy next season. Then, instead of sending on tour throughout the country, second, third and fourth companies, Mr. Woods will present to the public outside of New York, Chicago and the big cities perfect screen versions of each play, with the original casts wherever possible, to be exhibited in the best picture theaters, with the assurance that a spoken version will not be presented in any city where the screen version is shown. Screen versions will be made only of those plays that have had a minimum run of eight weeks in New York or Chicago. Mr. Woods has already enlisted the services of the best authors, actors and directors available. A list of these will be announced later.

MOSS COMPANY GOES TO JACKSONVILLE.

After a month's sojourn at Lake Saranac taking snow "stuff" for the forthcoming B. S. Moss "One Hour," the company of players has returned and is now at work with Director Paul McAllister at the Biograph Studio. On the 10th the company will pack up again and depart for Jacksonville, Fla., where the picture will be completed in three weeks. The cast includes Zena Keefe and Alan Hale as co-stars, Ina Brooks, Warren Cook, William Marion, Henry W. Pemberton and D. J. Flanagan. Mons. Barlatier, the famous French camera expert, is in charge of the photographic end, following the success of his work with the "Argyle Case" picture.

DORIS KENYON WITH WHARTON.

Miss Doris Kenyon has been recently engaged by Wharton, Inc., of Ithaca, N. Y., to star in their first super-feature production, "The Great White Trail." The company is now at Saranac Lake taking some of the winter scenes. Leo D. Wharton is personally directing the work, assisted by a picked staff from the Wharton studios. "The Great White Trail" will be the first of releases of the Whartons under their policy of one super-feature each month. Miss Kenyon will have exceptional support in Thomas Holding and Paul Gordon. About two weeks will be required to finish the work at Saranac Lake and then the company will return to Ithaca to complete the picture at the studios.

Reviews of Current Productions

EXCLUSIVELY BY OUR OWN STAFF

Pauline Frederick Shines in "Sapho"

Gives Strong Performance in Famous Players Adaptation of Alphonse Daudet's Drama.

Reviewed by George Blaisdell.

THE outstanding factor in the Famous Players adaptation of "Sapho" is the individual work of Pauline Frederick in the name role. Her interpretation of the famous heroine of Alphonse Daudet's classic is a thing of life. She has the fire, the abandon, the coquettish art of the young Frenchwoman who finds life pleasant, who makes what she believes to be love consecutively to the sculptor, the poet and the young man about town. And she possesses the depth of feeling to reveal to us the soul of the woman who comes in contact with the one man who in her world towers above all others, for whom she casts aside the luxuries bestowed by former favored suitors and elects to share with him a cottage in the country.

"Sapho" is not a Sunday school tale. It is a psychological study of a type of womankind, a searching out of the heart of a woman. Sapho holds our attention if she does not win our sympathy as she transfers her affections even as she might change her garb, but there can be no question of her domination following the moment she finds herself. It is a worthy portrayal of an unworthy woman who turns straight.

Scene from "Sapho" (Famous Players).

Frank Losee is Caoudal, the sculptor, who in the flower girl discovers more than the model he seeks. John Sainpolis is Dejoie, the poet of untender years who finds no difficulty in persuading Sapho to change her address. Pedro De Cordoba is Flamant, who for the love of Sapho commits forgery and loses his liberty and his mistress at the same time. Thomas Meighan is Jean Gaussin, the youth from the country, who not too late discovers he has loved unwisely and transfers back to the sweetheart of his childhood the affection that for a time had gone afield. It is a fine cast.

Hugh Ford has splendidly staged the production. He has reproduced the atmosphere of Paris of the period of today rather than of the time of the story. Mr. Ford has been at pains to bring out the lighter side of the drama, to leave covered as much as may be the sordid side; but he has banked strong on the dramatic situations of the denouement. It is all well done.

Harry B. Harris, cameraman, has joined Director Burton L. King, of the Metro-Popular Plays and Players' forces. Among his important pictures have been "Capt. Macklin" with Lillian Gish, "The Outcast" and "The Shattered Idol" with Mae Marsh, and more recently "Vanity," the Metro production starring Emmy Wehlen.

"The Social Leper"

Arthur Ashley Does Strong Acting in Five-Reel Peerless Photoplay Which Is Partly Told in Narrative Form —Released by World Film Corporation.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

THE subject matter of "The Social Leper" has considerable dramatic strength; its effectiveness is weakened by telling part of the story in narrative form. This five-reel photoplay, from a story by Florence Bolles, was produced by Peerless. A young man who has married a worthless woman and divorced her discovers that a friend of his has fallen in love with his ex-wife; he thereupon sits down at a restaurant table with his friend and tells him about it, the action being several times flashed ahead to this restaurant scene in order to remind the spectator that what he is seeing has already taken place. This narration corresponds to the old-fashioned prologue of the spoken drama—and will, eventually, become as obsolete.

The remaining reels follow the career of the divorced woman, who manages to hold her position in society. Finding that her former husband is in love with another woman, she blackmails him. She also plays the friend false and is choked to death by him, the unlucky ex-husband arriving on the scene in time to be arrested for the murder. Matters are cleared up by the finding of a telltale button torn from the coat of the real murderer, during the struggle. With skillful handling, the material employed might have been constructed into a fair quality of middle class drama. The difference between the narrative and the dramatic form of playwriting is the same as the difference between being told of some moving phase of life and being a beholder of the event. Why disturb the illusion by continually reminding the spectator that what he is looking at is not the actual occurrence, but something that is being told to him?

The directing of the scenario has been well done by Harley Knoles, and the entire production meets the demands of the script. Carlyle Blackwell and June Elvidge are starred, but the strongest acting part falls to Arthur Ashley. His scenes as the fear-crazed murderer are realistic to a startling degree. Carlyle Blackwell makes the most of rather negative opportunities, and June Elvidge plays a vampire, and permits one to believe that such a woman existed in real life. Evelyn Freeley, Mrs. Eugenie Woodward, George MacQuarrie, Isabelle Berwin and Edna Whistler are to be commended for their work.

Scene from "The Social Leper" (World).

Director George E. Marshall is filming at Universal City, "The Foreman of Circle W.," a three-reel Western drama, which was written by himself. Many of the well known Universal cowboys enact the principal roles in the photoplay, in which there is much fast riding and numerous thrilling incidents.

"Susan's Gentleman"

Violet Mesereau at Home in Romantic Five-Reel Bluebird Comedy-Drama—Directed by Edwin Stevens.

Reviewed by Ben H. Grimm.

BLUEBIRD'S release for April 2, "Susan's Gentleman," a romantic five-reel comedy drama, is a typical Violet Mesereau vehicle. Miss Mesereau is given plenty of opportunity to be cute in this picture, and she goes at her work with a knowledge of the requirements of the story and with an ability that results in a pleasing screening of her efforts. In this release we see much of Miss Mesereau in a knee-long, ragged dress. The combination of ragged raiment and tousled blonde hair is not a losing one. The general tone of this picture is light and, in a sense, frivolous. This rather lessens the weight of the more serious moments. Many of the subtitles contain a certain amount of humor.

The story visualized in the film is the kind that we might expect to find in those paper-covered books that we can buy at any bookstore for ten cents—the kind that are most dear to the hearts of those who want their romance dealt out in large slices, unseasoned by logicity or anything else so long as the hero gets the girl in the end. It was written by Kate Jordan and scenarioized by John C. Brownell. In the story the daughter of an English nobleman—who of course has a big estate—elopes to America with the handsome groom. The groom is a drunkard. His wife dies when Susan is born. Next we see Susan as a child of the tenements. She is an avid reader of one of those same paper-covered novels, and always puts herself in the heroine's place. The nephew of a nobleman, who was once a suitor of the English girl, is forced to flee to America, and "by rare chance," according to the synopsis, becomes a roomer in Susan's flat. Of course he is "Susan's gentleman," and in the end they return to England and everything is straightened out to the "and they lived happily ever after."

Scene from "Susan's Gentleman" (Bluebird).

Supporting Miss Mesereau are Maud Cooling, Sidney Mason, James O'Neill, William O'Neill and Bradley Barker, all of whom are capable.

The production details are fully up to Bluebird's standard. Photographed by Lewis Ostland.

"Little Lost Sister"

Five-Reel Selig Production Based on Story by Virginia Brooks and Play of Same Name—Directed by Al. Green, Adapted by Gilson Willets.

Reviewed by James S. McQuade.

DIRECTOR Al. Green is to be complimented on the nice judgment and skill displayed in the screen version of this well-known story. He has kept in fine restraint any desire that might have arisen to bring into greater prominence the downfall of the character for which the story is named, and without doing so he has succeeded in giving the spectator a powerful object lesson on the wiles of the underworld and on the dangers that menace poorly-paid girls, whose home life is bereft of all that makes life worth living.

In the Cafe Sinister, where underworld gaiety disports itself in a way that defies police interference because of its seeming respectability, Mr. Green furnishes a most realistic scene which finds its climax in a raid by the police and the arrest of the proprietors, who are only the tools of the man higher up—who, by the way, is an honored pillar of the church.

This man, John Boland, the president of a great corporation, is impersonated by George Fawcett, and his masterly characterization will add to the laurels he has already won before the camera. The cast of countenance worn by Mr. Fawcett in this instance is one of almost bulldog ferocity, when he seeks to depict the man as he really exists; but when John Boland assumes the character of a church member, what a change in the Fawcett face. It fairly beams with goodness, and the eyes light up with a warmth that is all convincing of the saintliness of the soul within.

Mary Randall, the nemesis of John Boland and the fearless leader of the crusade against vice in the community in which he lives, is a part ably played by Bessie Eyton. Vivian Reed appears as Elsie Welcome, the titular role, and one is always impressed by the realism of her acting.

The arch villain of the story, Martin Druce, has been assigned to Joseph Singleton, whose virile acting makes the part one of the strongest in the cast. Will Machin's Harry Boland (son of John Boland and his heir), and Al. W. Filson's Grogan (a henchman of the man higher up), are well drawn. Two excellent characterizations are those of Patience Welcome and Mrs. Welcome (her mother) by Marion Warner and Eugenie. The release date is March 12, through the K-E-S-E service.

Scene from "Little Lost Sister" (Selig).

"The Cloud"

Jean Sothorn Featured in Five-Reel Drama Produced by Van Dyke Corporation for Art Dramas Program.

Reviewed by Ben H. Grimm.

FIVE reels are used in dispelling "The Cloud," a photodrama produced by the Van Dyke Film Corporation for the Art Dramas program. There are several other clouds than that referred to in the title to be found in the production, but viewed as a whole the picture is more blue sky of dramatic interest than cloud. Thickest of the clouds is the lack of continuity, which particularly characterizes the early reels.

Scene from "The Cloud" (Van Dyke).

That the production is not much better than average is due in a large measure to this lack of continuity. Better continuity would have brought to life latent screen possibilities in the story, which has several original features, and which is somewhat off the beaten track.

Jean Sothorn is seen in a trifle different and more dramatic role than she has appeared in recently, and she is distinctly not the loser by her latest screen appearance. She has a very sympathetic role and makes the most of it. She is cast as a girl who sacrifices a fortune and suffers humiliations to protect her mother's good name which, it later develops, was unsmirched in the first place. There are several loose ends to the complicated story, some of which are gathered up in an anti-climax. The picture takes its title from the cloud hovering over the girl due to her and others' belief in the wrongdoing of her mother. But the cloud is finally dispelled and the girl, escaping the consequences of a mock marriage to a man she thought she loved, comes to the realization that she really loves the lawyer who has been her main help and advisor.

Chief in support of Miss Sothorn is Richard Tucker, who deserves especial commendation for his efficient acting in the role of the lawyer. Two capable young villains are Arthur Housman and Walter Miller. Included in the cast are Franklyn Hanna, Mae Melvin, Ogden Crane and Mrs. Charles Willard. Directed by Will S. Davis.

"Out of the Wreck"

Kathlyn Williams Finely Portrays Emotional Role in a Moving Morosco Production.

Reviewed by George Blaisdell.

MOROSCO gives us a good story in "Out of the Wreck," released on the Paramount program on March 8. It is a story of politics and newspapers, of intrigue and struggle. Maud E. Corsan has written a script said to be based on an actual happening. It may well have been. It rings true more than generally speaking. More than that, it has the quality of deep interest and of real drama.

Kathlyn Williams has the role of Agnes Aldrich, the wife of a successful politician, a candidate for the Senate. In the search for a vulnerable point of attack in Aldrich's candidacy it is discovered his wife has a past. The wife's frank revelation of her early sorrows provides genuine dramatic material. She is at all times the center of interest and of sympathy. Miss Williams feelingly portrays the woman against whom luck seemed always to turn in early life.

William Clifford is Steve O'Brien, the friend of Agnes, who helps her in the beginning and meets death at her hands later. Mr. Clifford gives a good performance of a character that is out of the usual. When the acquaintance is formed between the two and until the time of the supposed marriage Steve is a man of honorable demeanor in suite of his fast companions. It is his singular reversion to the role of a bigamist and gutter drunkard, so completely at odds with all that had been forecast as to his character, that provides a phase of the story not altogether explicable.

William Conklin is Aldrich, the candidate. It is a good role and he makes much of it—as he fills it. Stella Razeto is Ruby, the cynical newspaper woman who starts an expose and when she learns the inside of the tragedy she has uncovered has not the heart to carry it further. William Jefferson is the newspaper editor and superior of Ruby who aids and abets her. The work of these two contributes materially to the success of the story, to the drama and also to the comedy relief.

"Out of the Wreck" will rank as a good picture. The production is lavish in its staging; the story contains strong contrasts of high life and low life. There is running through it a strong vein of real human interest. It bears, in fact, the earmarks of a popular subject.

Scene from "Out of the Wreck" (Morosco).

A production of Robert Louis Stevenson's "Kidnapped" has just been completed at the studios of Thomas A. Edison, Inc., and will be released under the Conquest Pictures brand.

Two Kalems

"The Lost Legion of the Border," an Episode of "The American Girl" Series, and "The College Boys' Special," a Number of the "A Daughter of Daring" Series.

Reviewed by Ben H. Grimm.

IN KALEM'S next two-reel release of "The American Girl" series, titled "The Lost Legion of the Border," Madge King (Marin Sais) becomes the central figure in a western story that has many strong points and one weak one. But there is enough action, enough stirring horsemanship, enough sustained interest and enough of the other elements that go toward making a good Western in the film to overlook the point in Frederick R. Bechdolt's story in which the girl fights an arranged gun duel with a bad man. As a whole the release is a good one.

Scene from "The Lost Legion of the Border" (Kalem).

The story tells of the plan of the "squarest" highwayman in the West to form a republic of his own, whose inhabitants shall be all the old bandits west of the Rockies. But we do not learn what the "square" bandit's plans are until we have been brought through a screened story of considerable interest, and much action. Director James Horne is to be complimented on the real western atmosphere he has gotten into this and other releases of the series.

Besides Miss Sais, we see on the screen Frank Jonasson, Edward Hearn, Ronald Bradbury and Edward Clisbee.

"The College Boys' Special."

This one-reel episode of the "A Daughter of Daring" series is the best yet. Helen Gibson, besides furnishing her usual thrills, shows us that she has histrionic ability as well. The story, too, is better than usual, and contains more interesting material than have any of the preceding releases. Besides seeing Helen Gibson's stunt of leaping to a wild freight car from her horse, we are given several minor thrills by other members of the cast. The story tells of the pranks of a bunch of college boys, and of how Helen finally brings them to terms when, through her daring, she manages to sidetrack a freight car which they are in just in time to avert a collision with the limited. With Miss Gibson in the cast are L. T. Whitlock and G. A. Williams. Directed by Scott Sidney.

"Sister Against Sister"

Virginia Pearson Has Dual Role in Five-Reel Fox Photoplay That Belongs to the Popular Price Melodrama of a Past Generation.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

THE crying need in the moving picture industry is the proper classification of its product, such as exists in the clothing business, the grocery business, and existed in the spoken drama ten years ago, when there were three distinct grades of theaters throughout the land, charging distinct prices of admission, and that which was an excellent article for the money at one theater and satisfied its patrons, would have proved a different proposition at a higher grade of house.

If the same conditions existed in the moving pictures, three distinct grades of houses catering to as many separate grades of intelligence, the task of reviewing photoplays would be a much simpler matter. There are any number of good but artless souls that care nothing for the higher drama, to see life as it really exists. To hold their attention the playwright must use broad strokes, without shading, and make his appeal solely to the emotions. The complex blending of the good and the bad that constitutes the nature of the average human being is too subtle for their understanding. The dramatist must so divide the goats from the lambs among his characters that no analysis is necessary to determine the truth or falsity of their actions; one set representing incarnate virtue, the other incarnate vice.

Of this school were the writings of Theodore Kramer and

Owen Davis, in the days when the melodrama was king and Al. Woods shared the profits. Mary Murillo, the author of "Sister Against Sister," the five-reel Fox photoplay starring Virginia Pearson, is a legitimate successor to the pair of prolific playwrights just mentioned. Her method of depicting humanity is as obvious as theirs and follows the same line of construction. She even employs the same comic relief, the stout cook, in her latest drama, checking her flow of tears upon a batch of bread dough after she has been upset and sprawled on the kitchen floor. All of which belongs to this grade of playmaking, and stamps "Sister Against Sister" as a worthy specimen of its particular class.

Scene from "Sister Against Sister" (Fox).

The production has not been slighted in any department, and the cast truthfully reflects the spirit of the story and its intellectual requirements. Virginia Pearson acts two sisters, one a siren, the other a saint. She follows faithfully the author's conception of both characters. The same may be written of the work of Walter Law, Irving Cummings, Maud Hill and the other members of the cast. James Vincent directed the picture.

"The Voice on the Wire"

Ben Wilson and Neva Gerber Featured in New Serial Which Presents Clever Combination of Mystery and Thrills.

Reviewed by Robert C. McElravy.

THE first half dozen two-reel instalments of this new serial introduce a story of strong melodramatic interest, in the best sense of the word. The series of inexplicable murders, all following warnings imparted by a mysterious voice over the telephone, present a mystery that intensifies as the story proceeds. The hero-detective, Shirley, makes repeated efforts to break up the series of crimes, but is baffled in each attempt. The observer is equally baffled, for the mystery is well protected.

Scene from "The Voice on the Wire" (Universal).

The story was adapted by J. G. Alexander from a book by Eustace Hale Ball and produced by Stuart Paton. The construction is excellent in the opening installments, the action being well-timed and carrying the interest along with a strong sweep. Ben Wilson appears as Shirley, who attempts to unravel the series of crimes, and makes good use of his opportunities in this interesting role. Neva Gerber is also pleasing as Polly Marion, the young actress who becomes involved in the various crimes. Others who have important parts are L. M. Wells, Frank McQuarrie, Howard Crampton, Joseph Girard and Ernest Shields.

An element of improbability hovers over the main conception, which gives an amusing turn to the production. This relieves the situations from the horror and unpleasantness they might otherwise arouse. Each of the murders is committed by what is termed the "oriental death punch," traces of which are found above the heart of each victim.

The series is to comprise fifteen installments.

Pathe Releases

"Told at Twilight," Featuring "Little Marie Sunshine," and the Latest Installment of "Mystery of the Double Cross."

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

THERE are bits of the unconscious humor of childhood in "Told at Twilight," the five-reel "Little Marie Sunshine" photoplay, produced by Balboa, that will delight the admirers of that remarkable youngster, Baby Marie Osborne. The attempt to weave a dramatic interest into the plot has not been accomplished very successfully. But that is of small moment! The situation where the father of the little heroine comes to rob the man who has befriended him and is confronted by his own child is not particularly novel and is less convincing. Fortunately, this serious element has very little bearing on the merits of the picture.

In "Told at Twilight" little Mary's adventures with a forbidden playmate, a little colored boy named Piggy, are the sources of most of the fun; although, her reliable friend, the wealthy, but lonely old gentleman next door, again has a hand in the doings. From a comedy point of view, "Told at Twilight" is the best of the Little Marie Sunshine series.

Scene from "Told at Twilight" (Pathe).

It is hardly necessary to add that the young star possesses all of her old charm and maintains her position as the leading child actress of the screen. The ratio of her personality in relation to her size is but one of her amazing gifts. Henry King continues to direct little Miss Osborne's pictures and to act as her principal support.

"THE MASKED STRANGER."

The second number of the latest Pathe serial, "Mystery of the Double Cross," produced by Astra, will prove quite as puzzling to the spectator as do the efforts of Peter Hale to identify the woman with the mark on her shoulder. Hale is invited to the country home of the Brewsters and meets a mysterious young woman who claims to be Philippa. He attempts to make love to her, but she repulses him and he tries to discover if she is branded with the double cross. A masked stranger prevents him, and the installment leaves him on the verge of a new adventure. Mollie King, Leon Bary and Ralph Stuart lead the cast.

"The Mortal Sin"

Viola Dana Starred in Five-Reel Drama, Written and Directed by John Collins—Produced by Columbia for Metro.

Reviewed by Ben H. Grimm.

A RATHER conventional and more or less hackneyed plot has been given an extenuating "punch" in "The Mortal Sin," a five-reel drama, in which Viola Dana is the star, and which was produced for Metro by the Columbia Pictures Corporation. The "punch" is registered by a quite powerful climax—a climax dramatically interesting enough in its entirety to make the viewer forget and forgive the fact that he was, in the earlier reels, offered much screen material not necessary to the telling of the story. John Collins, who wrote the story and directed the picture, evidently was first inspired with the climax, and proceeded to build a story around it that fitted it. Many of the subtitles are quite preachy in tone.

Mr. Collins has very wisely permitted Viola Dana to dominate the production, for it is because of the ability and personality of Miss Dana that the picture ranks at all above the average. The little actress has the ability to make her scenes convincing, and, cast in the role of the wife of a poor author, who sells herself so that her husband might live, she easily enrolls and maintains the spectator's sympathy. Her support is capable. Robert Walker and Augustus Phillips are particularly adequate. Others in the cast are Lady Thompson, Henry Leone, Louis B. Foley and Ricca Allen.

The story tells of a poor clerk in a publishing house who is writing a novel. He becomes ill and his wife takes his job. The publisher covets the girl, and she, in order to obtain funds to insure her husband's health, listens to the publisher's proposal. Returning from the west, where he has gone for his health, the husband discovers his wife's unfaithfulness. He condemns her and later kills her. The husband wakes up to find that he has been dreaming, and that the dream, while just the opposite of what he has been writing, will fit well between the covers of his novel, which started the nightmare.

Photographically, the picture is not all that could be desired. Production details are adequate. Released March 12.

Triangle Program

Two Fine Five-Reel Features, "A Daughter of the Poor," Fine Arts With Bessie Love, and "The Square Deal Man," Ince Kay Bee With William S. Hart.

Reviewed by Louis Reeves Harrison.

"A DAUGHTER of the Poor," by Anifa Loos, directed by Edward Dillon, is beautifully constructed, admirably handled and presented by a fine company in flawless shape. Bessie Love is ideal in her title role, her best interpretation thus far. In that there is a definite purpose, however, lies a great element of success. No great necessity for submerging the theme exists in a story so direct and simple, so it is permitted to shine in action and subtitle. It is social and therefore vital, the old cry from the depths of the less fortunate part of humanity and a generous response from people of wealth who acquire a wider consciousness of their duty through the unexpected contact with a very winning and aggressive little daughter of the poor and through a story about her written by a poor author who loves her dearly.

The theme is big enough for thousands of live stories, but it is too often presented with disagreeable spectacles of martyrdom, and it is not easy to handle under any circumstances. It is very sweetly and delicately put in this instance. There is nothing theatrical about the director's work. He is visualizing a motion-picture story and he does it convincingly by motion-picture methods. Several of the characters beside that assumed by Miss Love stand out with cameo-like distinctness, notable that of her socialist and utterly incapable uncle impersonated by Max Davidson. Carl Stockdale, as the publisher, is decidedly convincing, and George Beranger, as the socialist writer, is very effective. The story is admirably typed throughout, a well-balanced composition dealing with subject matter of live interest, hence the release will undoubtedly meet with approval almost universal.

"The Square Deal Man," by J. G. Hawks, presents William outcast, existing by contemptible means of getting his living, for there is no meaner and more despicable creature on earth than the professional gambler. This particular gambler has never before had it brought to his attention that the suffering he causes reaches out to innocent women and children—he was under the impression that he was fleecing a certain class of men "born every minute." The tragic death of a man who had lost his entire possessions at the game, leaving penniless a petted daughter in the east for whom he expected to provide.

A tremendous and perfectly logical conversion of character follows and the gambler decides to be a real man. He goes to the border ranch he now owns and restores order among Mexican cow punchers with a distinct purpose of handing over the property to the rightful owner when she arrives. Her appearance on the scene as the supposed owner sets up a very interesting situation not sufficiently developed or thrust aside for some mock heroics, but the story holds in spite of its lack of love interest at this stage, possibly because of superb treatment. Ranch life is so adequately pictured that the "atmosphere" of this release is deeply impressive—it is pure artistry. With such artistry of presentation, fine acting by Hart, when he keeps within the limits of human experience and vigorous subject matter, "The Square Deal Man" should prove an attraction on any program.

"Aladdin from Broadway"

Five-Reel Vitagraph Blue Ribbon Feature Adapted From Novel by F. S. Isham Is Full of Interest and Color.

Reviewed by Edward Weltzel.

ARABIAN Nights tale "Aladdin from Broadway," by F. S. Isham, has been made into a Vitagraph Blue Ribbon Feature with excellent results. It is an adventure story that readily lends itself to screen presentation, and its romantic plot, picturesque settings and abundant life and color are utilized with skill in the picture version. The exploits of the young American who starts for Mecca after a Bible and returns with a wife are told in a straightforward, quick moving manner that goes far to engender belief in their accomplishment.

Perils there are in plenty, and many moments when the hero's life hangs in the balance, but the light-hearted mood which is habitual to this nephew of Uncle Sam reacts on the entire drama and causes the spectator to view the proceedings in the guise of pleasant entertainment, and not give a rap about its plausibility.

With New York, Mecca, Damascus and the desert as a background, the producer has been able to fill the drama with animated and diversified phases of life in the new and in the old world. Most of the oriental scenes are exteriors and their reproduction carries the stamp of truth. Director William Wolbert has caught the spirit of the book and transferred its atmosphere to the screen with commendable fidelity.

The featured players of the cast are Antonio Moreno and Edith Storey. Both contribute largely to the success of "Aladdin from Broadway." Antonio Moreno has the mental alertness and physical force called for by the character of Jack Stanton, in addition to his unflinching sense of humor. Edith Storey has a dual role and plays both parts with equal skill. As the Armenian wife of an English antiquarian, and, later, as the daughter of the couple, she finds a wide range for the expression of her talents, and is particularly apt in investing both her impersonations with the flavor of the Far East. William Duncan, Laura Winston, Otto Lederer and George Holt are prominent in a thoroughly adequate supporting cast.

Heavy Bookings Reported on Kalem Series

With a Few Exchanges Still to Be Heard From It Appears to Be One of General Film's Big Successes.

THE oft-raised question, "Do the majority of exhibitors want two-part productions?" seems to be conclusively answered in the affirmative by the eagerness with which all the available prints of Kalem's two-part "American Girl" pictures are being booked. The extraordinary demand for this series has resulted in an increased order from the General Film exchanges for prints. And the Kalem Company is certain that there will be a further revision upward in the very near future, or as soon as all of the exchanges are heard from.

A concentrated selling campaign, backed up by local newspaper advertising which has not cost the exhibitor one cent, reinforced by Kalem's trade paper advertising and circularizing, has been going on for some time. That it is bearing fruit is evident.

The Kalem Company and the exchange managers have implicit confidence in the pictures they are selling because hundreds of exhibitors have been invited to see several episodes screened at their exchanges, and the results have been immense. It is equally certain that Kalem did not overestimate the drawing power of the author's name—Frederick R. Bech-dolt—who is known to all classes of magazine fiction readers for his vivid, colorful stories of the rugged West. The star of "The American Girl," Marin Sais, also constitutes a big drawing card wherever Kalem pictures have been shown.

Men like John H. Kunsky, of Detroit, who have achieved success as exhibitors with short length pictures, have booked "The American Girl" series for their houses, and their congratulations, by letter and by wire, are pouring into the Kalem office in increasing quantities.

Scene from "The Square Deal Man" (Triangle).

S. Hart in a role of finer character than many he has assumed in the past and more powerfully presents the complexity of human nature as opposed to the worn-out theatrical idea of one-sided personality. The story also strikes a vigorous note when a fearless clergyman in a rough border town dares tell the "square" gambler, impersonated by Hart, that he is nothing more than a "parasite," a degraded human

Comments on the Films

EXCLUSIVELY BY OUR OWN STAFF

General Film Company.

THE BOGUS BRIDE (Kalem).—Much improvement is seen in this one-reel Ham and Bud comedy. The film is a better comedy than these two have appeared in in some time. This is due in a large measure to the direction and story. The use of close-ups has been resorted to with laughable effect. Ham and Budd, aided by Henry Murdoch are seen in a more or less original comedy story. Because of presents offered newlyweds, Ham makes Bud his bride. The following complications brings forth several laughs and numerous chuckles.

CANIMATED NOOZ PICTORIAL, NO. 26 (Essanay).—A split-reel combining about five hundred feet of animated cartoon burlesques on topical subjects and about five hundred feet of educational. The cartoon comics register a few laughs. The educational is good. It shows bow freight cars and modern locomotives are built.

THE NEWLYWEDS' MISTAKE (Vim).—A comedy reel with George Larkin and Irene Wallace playing the leads. The newlyweds each mistake someone else for their marital mate. Each gives chase to the wrong party and funny complications follow. An average comedy number.

DIMPLES' BABY (Vitagraph).—A rather old story has been utilized in the making of this two-reel drama, but the film is made acceptable by the fact that Lillian Walker is the chief figure of interest. The story tells of a girl who loves babies, and who finds one in the tonneau of her automobile. She brings the baby home and cares for it. It develops that the baby's mother is an actress who was over-friendly with one of the girl's suitors. But everything is adjusted happily.

THE COLLEGE BOYS' SPECIAL (Kalem).—A number of the "A Daughter of Daring" railroad series. This is the best reel thus far. The story is better than usual, the direction is better, and we get several minor thrills besides Helen Gibson's stunt of leaping to a speeding freight car from the back of her galloping horse. Miss Gibson shows that she has considerable acting ability in this reel. Reviewed in another column.

THE SELIG-TRIBUNE, NO. 19, 1917 (Selig).—N. Y. Giants leave for Texas; push ball contest, Waverly, Mass.; Steamer Santanky ashore, New Bedford, Mass.; Society water sports and mid-winter field day, Palm Beach; Chief Bender wins clay pigeon shoot, Camden, N. J.; Scenes during sugar workers' strike, Philadelphia; American liner Philadelphia reaches New York; Ten thousand school children take part in drill, San Francisco; General Funston's body en route and General Funston's funeral; El Paso and San Francisco; Sculptor finishes bust of President Wilson, New York.

General Film Company Specials.

THE FIVE-DOLLAR BILL (Essanay).—One of the "Black Cat" features. This two-reel release contains much piquant and subtle humor, and is a worthy short-length subject. An underpaid commuting clerk is saving coupons for a watch that he much desires. He finds a bunch of money, but the owner of the money advertises that the money is counterfeit. The clerk brings the money back and receives a reward of $5. With this he buys just enough tobacco to get the coupons that will obtain the watch for him. This is a human and understandable story, well produced. The leading characters are Webster Campbell and Anna Mae Walthall.

THE VANISHING WOMAN (Essanay).—No. 12 of the "Is Marriage Sacred?" series. This two-reel unit of the series is an interesting drama, telling on the screen of a college girl, dissatisfied with her home, who marries the man she believes can give her the life she craves. The man proves himself unworthy. The girl divorces him and turns to her former and more worthy suitor. Marguerite Clayton, Sydney Ainsworth and Edward Arnold head the cast.

THE LOST LEGION OF THE BORDER (Kalem).—An episode of "The American Girl" series. This two-reel release is a good Western, which would have been much better but for one weak point in the story. As a whole it is an acceptable film. This time Madge King (Marin Sals) becomes the central figure in a "square" bandit's plans to form a republic in Mexico which shall be inhabited by all the old highwaymen west of the Rockies. Despite fights with the sheriff's posses, the bad band is allowed to proceed out of the country. Reviewed at length in another column of this issue.

Art Dramas, Inc.

THE CLOUD (Van Dyke), March 8.—Jean Sothern is the featured player in this five-reel drama. The picture is an average program offering. The story tells of a girl who sacrifices a fortune and suffers humiliation because of a supposed cloud over her mothers' and her name. A fuller review will be found on another page of this issue.

Bluebird Photoplays, Inc.

POLLY RED HEAD (Bluebird), March 19.—A five-reel feature, directed by Jack Conway and based on one of the well-known "Pollyooly" stories by Edgar Jepson. This is light and humorous in treatment throughout. The plot is stretched slightly to make it over five reels, but the gaps are filled in by pleasing comedy touches. Ella Hall appears in a double role of Polly and Marion, the latter niece of the English gentleman for whom Polly keeps house. The situations are entertaining and well handled. Some good double exposure photography is shown. Others in the cast are Gertrude Astor, Charles Mailles, Gretchen Lederer, Helen Wright, George Webb and Dick La Reno.

Fox Film Corporation.

SISTER AGAINST SISTER (Fox), March 5.—Virginia Pearson heads the cast of this five-reel melodrama which follows the popular price school of play-making. The star plays a dual role effectively and is given good support by the other members of the cast. A longer review is printed on another page of this issue.

Greater Vitagraph, Inc.

ALADDIN FROM BROADWAY (Blue Ribbon), March 19.—A five-reel screen version of the novel by F. S. Sborn, this picture is full of life and color and is excellently produced and played. The cast is headed by Antonio Morreno and Edith Storey. A longer review is printed on another page of this issue.

Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay, Inc.

LITTLE LOST SISTER (Selig), March 12.—An adaptation of the story by Virginia Brooks and the play of the same name, treating of the downfall of an innocent girl, and of her recovery by means of a crusade against the underworld by a leader of the upper set. A strong story ably told in pictures, without the customary sensational appeal. George Fawcett, Bessie Eyton, Vivian Reed, Eugene Bessener and Joseph Singleton in the cast. Directed by Al. Green with exceptional merit. An extended review will be found elsewhere in this issue.

Metro Pictures Corporation

THE MORTAL SIN (Columbia), March 12.—A rather hackneyed story has been given an extenuating "punch" in this five-reel drama, in which Viola Dana is starred. John Collins wrote the story and directed the production. The story tells of a poor young author who writes a novel in which the husband forgives the erring wife. His wife, when he becomes ill, sells herself for funds to bring him back to health. He condemns and kills her. He awakes to find that it was a dream. A longer review is printed in the review columns.

THE HIGH COST OF LIVING (Metro—Drew), March 12.—This is an entertaining one-reel burlesque on the high cost of living, with Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew indulging in considerable humorous stuff. Mr. Drew is especially laugh-provoking. The main thread of the story is the anxiety of the newlyweds over the safety of food rather than valuables when burglars enter the house.

Mutual Film Corporation

MUTUAL HOURS AROUND THE WORLD NO. 18 (Gaumont), March 6.—In this number we are shown the city of Munich, Germany, Schonbrunn Castle, the summer home of the Austrian Royal family near Vienna, and Rustchuk, Bulgaria. An interesting number which will be reviewed in the educational department of March 31.

SEE AMERICA FIRST NO. 78 (Gaumont), March 7.—"Oregon's Rocky Coast" is the subject of this number. Many beautiful scenes on the coast of Oregon, including surf scenes, are shown. The reel ends with an animated cartoon entitled "Rastus Runs Amuck."

MUTUAL WEEKLY NO. 114 (Gaumont), March 7.—Interesting items of this issue are the funeral of General Funston at San Antonio, Texas; a Spanish submarine, American built, starting for home; Danish troops preparing for an emergency, learning to endure the winter's hardships, skiing, training horses to charge through liquid fire, and testing swords and swordsmanship, the launching of the first ocean-going motorship at Seattle, Wash., and other important happenings.

REEL LIFE, NO. 45 (Gaumont), March 8.—The subjects covered in this number of Reel Life are "Furs, from Trapper to Wearer," "Stimulating Appetite of a Tired Business Man," "Artistic Vases," "The Wonderful Pelican" and "Charlie's Wobbly Walk." The latter is the picture of a trousered rooster whose walk really resembles that of the immortal "Charlie."

THE FLYING TARGET (Cub), March 8.—This is rather an amusing number of the George Ovey comedies. Jerry, in the course of trying to outdistance his pursuers, is overtaken by a bandit known as "The Flying Target," so named for his horse, which has a bull's eye of white on its face. A lively chase and much shooting, after which the bandit is caught, will be found amusing to many.

Mutual Film Corporation Specials.

HIS BOGUS BOAST (Vogue), March 10.—This is a moderately entertaining two-part farce comedy in which the comedy man undertakes to entertain a party of ladies by telling them a wonderful story about his own bravery and adventures in the wild west. At the close of the story, which forms a large part of the picture, a trap is set for him by some acquaintances, who send the negro chef into the room in the guise of a bear. The story teller makes an undignified exit.

ADVENTURES OF SHORTY HAMILTON NO. 9 (Monogram), March 12.—In this number of the series Shorty undertakes to trail some moonshiners and in doing so has some thrilling experiences. Among them he barely escapes being drowned when he is thrown into a room in which the floor is arranged so that the victim can be dropped through into the water by manipulation from without. Some of the incidents are amusing, and Shorty, appearing on the scene at the opportune moment, is able to prove the guilt of the moonshiners by showing that whisky can be procured through the gas fixtures.

Paramount Pictures Corporation

PARAMOUNT-BRAY-PICTOGRAPH NO. 57, March 5.—This number of the Pictographs contains "A Birdland Romance," being the amusing romance of a canvas-back duck; "Fitting Heads to Hats," which illustrates an original method of supervising the fitting of your own millinery by use of a papier-mache likeness of your own head, and "An Industrial Paradise," giving a number of interesting views at East Aurora, N. Y., in the domain of the late Elbert Hubbard, showing the manufacture of the various Roycroft articles. The reel finishes with a pleasing animated cartoon entitled "Bobby Bumps Adopts a Turtle."

OUT OF THE WRECK (Moresco), March 8.—A strong picture of political and newspaper intrigue. Kathryn Williams is featured, supported by William Clifford, William Conklin, Stella Razeto, William Winter Jefferson and Don Bailey. It is reviewed at length on another page.

SAPHO (Famous Players), March 12.—Pauline Frederick dominates this fine adaptation of the Daudet classic, well produced by Hugh Ford. The picture is reviewed on another page.

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

KRAZY KAT CARTOON (International), March 11.—A short scene, showing beautiful watercolors in California; shares the reel with the Krazy Kat cartoon. As usual, Krazy tries conclusions with Ignatz and comes out second best. Plenty of fun in the half reel.

POTS AND PANS PEGGY (Thanhouser), March 18.—Another of the Alice C. Johnston five-reel stories for Gladys Hulette, this photoplay has the freshness of treatment and entertaining qualities that distinguished the former writings of the author. Miss Hulette is well suited to the title role. A longer review is printed on another page of this issue.

FLORENCE ROSE FASHIONS, NO. 24 (Pathe), March 25.—"Off to the Ball Game" furnishes the fashion expert of the serial an opportunity to display a number of striking spring frocks for outdoor wear. On the same reel is a colored educational, "The Gardener's Feathered Friends." This study of bird life is both beautiful and instructive.

MAX'S FEET ARE PINCHED (Pathe), March 25.—A Max Linder comedy made in Paris, this picture shows the amount of humor that may be found in a pair of tight shoes when they are on the other fellow. "Skinny Gets a Goat," a knock-about farce of the Rolin brand, is on the same reel. It has speed and a variety of comic but strenuous activities.

TOLD AT TWILIGHT (Balboa), March 25.—Another five-reel Little Mary Sunshine picture, with some of the best comedy situations yet invented for the little star, this photoplay is bound to please. It is reviewed at length on another page of this issue.

Universal Film Mfg. Company

ANIMATED WEEKLY, NO. 62 (Universal), March 7.—Train wreck at Mount Union, Pa., wrecking big building in San Francisco, funeral of "Fighting Fred" Funston, Inauguration ceremonies and other entertaining features are included in this number.

WHEN THE CAT'S AWAY (Nestor), March 19.—A familiar comedy subject, touched up entertainingly. Eddis goes to his aunt's home while she is away. Being out of funds, he poses as "Dr. Trimmer, Specialist," assisted by Les Moran as the butler. They get a string of laughable patients. This brings many laughs.

WHOSE BABY? (Joker), March 24.—A one-reel comedy by Jack Cunningham, featuring Wm. Franey, Gals Henry, Lillian Peacock, Milburn Moranti and a number of lively infants. Two babies are checked at a baby shop. They become mixed up and a lively chase ensues. The babies are banded a little roughly at times, but, fortunately, not enough to destroy the humor. This number is an entertaining one.

SHOT IN THE WEST (Nestor), March 26.—An exceptional comedy subject, by C. B. Hoadley, featuring Eddie Lyons, Lee Moran, Edith Roberts and others. A young Boston novelist visits a dead Western town to get "atmosphere." The citizens learn of her coming and pull off all sorts of shooting affairs and a robbery and a hanging for her benefit. Extremely laughable.

Universal Film Mfg. Company Special

THE SCARLET CRYSTAL (Red Feather), March 19.—This five-reel number has been revised and considerably improved since it was first reviewed. The story now follows clearly and the production is stronger than when previously shown. At the same time the plot itself does not hold the interest strongly and the offering is hardly up to the average. The attention is drawn first to one situation and then another, without any compelling reason. There is nothing to offend in the dream scenes at present, though they are still sordid in character. The cast itself is pleasing. It includes Herbert Rawlinson, Betty Schade, Gertrude Astor, Dorothy Davenport and others.

THE PURPLE MASK, NO. 13 (Universal Special), March 19.—This begins with the final scenes in the affairs of Philip Johnson, millionaire white slaver. Patsy gets away with Johnson's wealth and is pursued by Kelly. She overbears a plot to raid New York City with dirigibles. Kelly and his assistants again meet the Apaches and some interesting fights occur. Patsy at the close is seen fleeing in her aeroplane to stop the dirigible raid. A characteristic number.

THE RAID (Gold Seal), March 20.—A three-reel story of the Mexican border country, by George Marshall, featuring Neal Hart, Joe Rickson and Janet Eastman. The plot is slow in action and not particularly new, though it has a number of entertaining moments. The ranch foreman falls in love with the owner's daughter, from the East. She refuses him, but later he rescues her from a Mexican band, and wins her heart. The rescue scenes are well handled and quite exciting. The third reel is like the beginning of a new story. The good photography and pleasing settings do much to strengthen this rather slow production.

DEFECTIVE DETECTIVES (L-KO), March 21.—A two-reel number, featuring Phil Dunham, Lucille Hutton and others. The first reel is given up to some quite amusing scenes in the office of the Star Detective agency, where two rube sleuths operate. Sliding doors and a number of tricks prove interesting. The action is swifter in the second reel, where the detectives are employed in a hotel. Scrambling over the roof tops and across telegraph wires are included in the action, which becomes quite amusing in places.

A HASH HOUSE MYSTERY (Victor), March 22.—A two-reel number, by John Clymer, featuring Harry C. Myers and Rosemary Theby. The former appears as an eccentric loafer who falls heir to an old boarding house. He hires the girl as cook and poses as a fortune teller in order to sell the place at a big figure. The scheme works and they flee with the money. Some of the low comedy in this is amusing and there is some originality in the plot. The night shirt parade is rather frank in treatment. Though not strong, this is quite entertaining in numerous scenes.

THE DREADED TUBE (No. 3 of "Perils of the Secret Service"—Imp), March 23.—No. 5 of the Yorke Norroy series, featuring Kingsley Benedict as a society detective. In this number he investigates a diplomatic situation of an exciting type, though there is a regrettable vagueness in the construction at times. Elsie Jane Wilson appears as a girl stenographer addicted to opium smoking; L. C. Shumway appears as the leader of an anarchistic band. There is plenty of action and atmosphere in this instalment, but it does not get over as clearly as have previous numbers.

GOIN' STRAIGHT (Bison), March 24.—A two-reel subject, by Harry Carey and Fred Kelsey. The former appears as "Cheyenne" Harry. He and Vester Pegg are government officers engaged in rounding up some opium smugglers. Harry's brother is mixed up with the gang, but the latter saves him at the last and puts him on the straight road. This is well constructed and makes quite a pleasing offering, though the plot is not exceptional.

THE GRUDGE (Rex), March 25.—A two-reel subject, by Harvey Gates, featuring Wm. V. Mong, Irene Hunt, Nillard Wayne and Zoe Rae. The irascible old man's niece marries secretly. She and her husband become separated and the girl leaves her child on the old man's doorstep. It is adopted as a foundling. Later the husband appears and a general reconciliation follows. The turkey dinner at the close lends a holiday atmosphere. The number has no particular dramatic strength, but is timely and entertaining.

THE MYSTERIOUS MAN IN BLACK (Universal Special), March 25.—No. 2 of "The Voice on the Wire" series. In this exciting instalment, the young criminologist substitutes himself for an old man whose life has been threatened. He cleverly seeks to outwit the would-be criminal. Ben Wilson uses an unusually good makeup in this part. Later, however, he returns to find that Mr. Grimby has met with a mysterious death in spite of his efforts. The series is unusually well constructed and holds the attention closely as the story proceeds.

Triangle Film Corporation

THE LITTLE BROTHER (Ince-Kay Bee), March 11.—The romantic adventures of a poor young girl who sought and found fortune well dressed as a boy. Miss Enid Bennet, in the title role, is very attractive, but not convincing in male attire.

A LOVE SUBLIME (Fine Arts), March 11.—A story of the intense love of a simple and dignified character admirably portrayed by Wilfred Lucas, with more than one touch of deep pathos in its development.

A DAUGHTER OF THE POOR (Fine Arts), March 18.—An exceptionally good presentation of a subject just now uppermost in the public mind, well handled, well balanced and acted with unusual skill, especially by Bessie Love in the title role.

BLOOD WILL TELL (Ince-Kay Bee), March 18.—The story of a supposed prodigal son who made good in the end, with William Desmond in the leading role.

World Pictures.

THE SOCIAL LEPER, March 19.—Carlyle Blackwell and June Eividge are the featured players in this five-reel photoplay which follows the career of a vampire lady and permits Arthur Ashley to do some strong acting as her victim. The picture is reviewed at length on another page of this issue.

Miscellaneous

A TRIP THROUGH CHINA (China Film Company), March.—This series of scenes in and about some of the most important cities of China is presented in ten reels, and is one of the most interesting and historically important series that we have seen. They cover the customs and the superstitions of the Chinese, and illustrate in impressive style the primitive methods employed in that country. A full review of pictures will be found in our issue of March 17.

Universal Program

Week of March 19 Produces a Five-Reel Red Feather and Many More of Merit.

H EADING the program of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company for the week of March 19 is the Red Feather five-act feature, "The Scarlet Crystal," a powerful drama of human frailty replete with stirring situations enacted by a strong cast, in which Herbert Rawlinson plays the leading role. "The Scarlet Crystal" was written by J. Grubb Alexander and produced by Charles Swickard. The photography and settings are up to the high standard demanded of Red Feather productions. In the cast supporting Mr. Rawlinson are such noted screen players as Betty Schade, Dorothy Davenport, Raymond Whitaker, Richard Ryan, Marie Hazelton and Gertrude Astor.

"The Scarlet Crystal" will be released Monday, March 19. On the same day will appear the Nestor Comedy, "When the Cat's Away," with those inimitable funmakers, Eddie Lyons, Lee Moran and Edith Roberts in the leading roles.

The chief offering for Tuesday, March 20, is the Gold Seal three-part western drama, "The Raid," written and produced by George Marshall, with Neal Hart as the star. This is an unusually strong program offering, and the lovers of the West with all its rugged romance will find this an exceptional picture. The other Tuesday release is the Victor split reel, "Black Magic," a comedy, and "Landmarks of France," a scenic.

Wednesday, March 21, the L-Ko comedy, "Defective Detectives," a two-part uproarious farce, directed by J. A. Howe with Phil Dunham, Lucille Hutton, Charles Inslee and Merta Sterling furnishing the laughs, will be released. The Laemmle one-act drama of the sea, "Old Faithful," featuring Leah Baird and William Shay, and the regular issue of the Universal Animated Weekly, will also appear on this date.

An interesting and novel feature is offered for Thursday, March 22, entitled, "The Strangest Army in the World," which will be presented under the Powers brand. It shows the famous ski army which patrols the mountain fastnesses between Italy and Austria. The skill of these soldiers in ascending and descending the icy mountain walls is vividly depicted, as are all the strange maneuvers they are called upon to perform. The other Thursday release is the Victor two-part comedy, "The Hash House Mystery," with Harry Myers and Rosemary Theby.

"The Dreaded Tube," the third episode of "The Perils of the Secret Service," will be released Friday, March 23. The Nestor comedy, "In Again, Out Again," with Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran, and issue No. 11 of the Universal Screen Magazine, are the other releases of this date.

Harry Carey is the star in the Bison two-reel Western drama, "Goin' straight," which will appear Saturday, March 24. The Joker comedy, "Whose Baby?" with Gale Henry and William Franey, and the Rex drama, "The Boyhood He Forgot," with Phillips Smalley and Antrim Short, will also be released Saturday.

The leading release for Sunday, March 25, is the two-part human interest drama, "The Grudge," featuring William V. Mong, Irene Hunt and Zoe Rae, presented under the Rex brand. The Big U drama, "The Rebel's Net," with Grace Cunard and Francis Ford, and the Powers split reel, "The Love Affair of Ima Knutt," a comedy cartoon, and the educational travelogue, "Artistic China and Japan," complete the week's program.

"The Leap," the thirteenth episode of the Grace Cunard-Francis Ford serial, "The Purple Mask," and the second episode of "The Voice on the Wire," entitled "The Mysterious Man in Black," starring Ben Wilson and Neva Gerber, will also be released during the week.

LOUISE DUPRE TO PLAY IN SOUTH.

A new producing company that will operate in the vicinity of San Antonio, Texas, backed by Rochester, N. Y., capital, has just made itself known through an offer made Louise Du Pre to star the ingenue vampire in its features.

The first picture to be made will be a big production that will require about twenty weeks to complete. It will be made under the supervision of A. W. Shaw, who is known as a stage manager and producer of theatrical attractions.

BATTLE SCENES IN CLOSING "PATRIA" EPISODES.

While Mrs. Vernon Castle is now in Europe some of the scenes of the later episodes of "Patria," the International's serial, have just been completed under the direction of Jacques Jaccard in California. These scenes are contained in the last three episodes of "Patria," and are ones in which Mrs. Castle does not participate.

Mr. Jaccard just finished his work and in a telegram to the International says:

"I believe the battle scenes in the concluding episodes of 'Patria' are the greatest ever filmed, not excepting scenes from real battlefields in Europe. I have had assisting me a staff of half a dozen United States army officers. They not only share this opinion, but authorize the statement that the scenes carry out in the most minute detail the actual action in the course of a battle. In bringing about these results we have used every known appliance of modern warfare, including tanks, dirigibles, machine guns, gas bombs, gas masks, modern trenches, barbed wire entanglements, batteries of artillery, etc., in addition to more than one thousand regularly enlisted cavalrymen and twice that number of Mexicans, Japanese and cowboys. Many of the Mexicans employed in these battle scenes until very recently were fighting under the banner of Villa, while others were Carranzistas."

"THE DEEMSTER" ATTRACTING STATE RIGHTERS

Dr. W. E. Shallenberger will shortly make announcements of release dates for "The Deemster." This production has attracted great attention among state rights buyers, who have been quick to realize that this photodrama will possess exceptional drawing power from the fact that it is a picture version of a novel that has been read by people throughout the country during the past thirty years.

The Arrow Company has made a wonderfully artistic production of "The Deemster," and in the interpretation of its leading character presents Derwent Hall Caine, an actor who in youth and personality and in dramatic interpretation completely fulfills the conception of the character gained by the reading of the book. As the son of the author of the story his acting of the character of Dan possesses additional interest.

Exhibitors are displaying a great deal of interest in this picture, and not a day passes but that many inquiries reach the Arrow office asking when and from whom bookings can be made. A statement as to these points in connection with territorial rights will not be made until the entire country has been disposed of, and then every exhibitor will receive direct information from whom to book "The Deemster" for his city or town.

PRIZMA COLOR PICTURES AROUSE INTEREST.

A lively interest in natural color photography has been aroused since the advent of Prizma Pictures at the Strand theater, New York.

The knowledge of most critics on this subject does not antedate the presentation of Kinemacolor in 1907. Kinemacolor, an English process, was virtually the first to produce pictures in the United States that were classified as natural color work. Since that time Gaumont, in 1913, has been the only company to employ a natural color process in public exhibition, with the exception of Prizma, Incorporated.

Prizma pictures differ widely from the processes that have preceded them in that every visible color is assimilated by their cameras. Still a greater departure is the fact that these pictures are projected with a standard projector. The fact that specially built projectors were requisite in other processes, no doubt handicapped them in any general distribution of their pictures. In preparing film containing latent color values, that may be run upon any projector, Prizma pictures have surmounted the greatest difficulty in their particular science.

Alice Brady in "Darkest Russia," picturized from the well known stage play of that name, will be released by World-Brady April 23. In this photoplay the luxury of high Russian life is sharply contrasted with the squalid misery of Siberia.

Ethel Clayton's next picture play for World-Brady is now titled "Man's Woman" in place of "The House Cat." The change was made by Director General William A. Brady to eliminate speculation to the effect that the play might be a dramatized domestic zoo. In reality it is a powerful drama in which the loving wife is sidetracked in favor of business until she finally revolts. Rockliffe Fellowes is "featured" in the cast.

Shirley Mason has one of the leading roles in "The Law of the North," a five-reel production of the studios of Thomas A. Edson, Inc., that will be released April 2.

With Ella Hall as the star, Director Jack Conway is making rapid progress toward the completion of "The Little Belgian," written by H. O. Davis, vice-president of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company, especially for Miss Hall. Conway, in addition to directing, also plays opposite the star in this five-act production.

Manufacturers' Advance Notes

FIRST O. HENRY PICTURE.

Much interest has been created by the General Film Company's announcement of the first of the O. Henry series of photo-dramas, "Past One at Rooney's," a photoplay based upon one of the most famous of this most famous author's stories. Made by the Broadway Star Features Company, it details the adventures of one "Cork" McManus, a gangster, who is falsely accused of attempt to murder. Then he meets a girl who is the most wonderful being on earth to him. "Cork's" regeneration follows, but not till the course of the screen drama has led through an inextricable chain of plot, counter-plot and sudden surprises such as one always expects in O. Henry stories.

Scene from "Past One at Rooney's" (General Film).

In the cast are seen, besides Gordon Gray and Mildred Manning, players of the huge popularity of William Martin, James Stanley and Wally Clarke. Not the least important feature in connection with the O. Henry screen plays is the fact that the titles are taken direct from the books, thus embodying all the author's whimsical and original touches of wit and pathos, and also the scenes pictured have been, whenever possible, photographed on the original locations whether on Fifth Avenue or The Bowery.

Following "Past One at Rooney's," "Friends at San Rosario," "The Third Ingredient," "Gifts of the Haji" and "The Marionettes," will be screened, and the ensuing numbers of the series will be devoted to picturizations of equally famous stories of the man whom Henry James pronounced to be "The American Kipling."

A THIRD MUSTY SUFFER SERIES.

Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay announce that beginning Saturday, March 24, a third series of ten pictures, one reel each, "The Mishaps of Musty Suffer," will be offered the trade. Harry Watson, Jr., is featured in these comedies, which, since George Kleine first put them on the market almost two years ago, have been in constant demand. These pictures are released one each week.

The entertainment in "The Mishaps of Musty Suffer" lies chiefly in the fact that Watson has an original film mannerism that defies duplication and is of a character that provides amusement for adults as well as juveniles.

The first series of ten one-reel pictures of "The Mishaps of Musty Suffer" found instant favor with exhibitors, and Mr. Kleine had no hesitancy in producing a second series of the same number of pictures. This series, too, achieved such success that Mr. Kleine determined to offer the series which is to begin March 24. Five of the pictures in this series were made at the George Kleine studio and five at the Essanay studio in Chicago. Watson, himself, says that his work in them represents the climax of his career before the camera.

Watson has splendid support in Della Connor, H. H. McCollum, Maxfield Morse, Dan Crimmins of Crimmins & Gore, and Wm. Thomas, Jr.

ABRAMSON COMPLETES STORY FOR NEXT SUPER-FEATURE.

Ivan Abramson, author and director of the sensational screen success, "Enlighten Thy Daughter," which has just completed a long run at the Park theater in New York, has been busily occupied since the completion of this last-named play in the writing of what it is declared by those fortunate enough to have seen the script, "will create a new era in screendom."

"One Law for Both," the title of Mr. Abramson's next production, deals with a topic of universal interest and of a theme dear to the heart of every woman. Mr. Abramson has taken for his subject the question of "the single standard," and in this next production will present the question squarely and attempt to solve the problem of whether or not the same moral law should hold alike for both sexes.

A cast of artists is being assembled by Director Abramson, each one of whom has been starred in his own name, to enact the ten principal roles in the new play. The personnel of these performers and the high calibre of their ability in the screen world will warrant the statement that the cost of "One Law for Both" will rank with that of the greatest ever made.

PEACOCKE LAUDS "THE WOMAN WHO DARED."

Leslie T. Peacocke, one of the foremost scenario writers of the present era, states that "The Woman Who Dared," the first release of the Ultra Pictures Corporation, is an ideal story for the screen. "It is gripping from the start," he says, "healthy in tone, offensive to none, and far removed from any of the hackneyed plots with which the film market has been and is still being flooded. It is full of what we call 'punches,' of the right sort, which appeal to old and young alike."

Beatrice Michelena, who is starred in the production, runs the gamut of emotions; far excelling her work in other film productions in which she has appeared and showing in a logical way why a beautiful girl is privileged to change her mind."

"A QUESTION OF HONESTY" (Selig).

J. Edward Hungerford never wrote a better story than "A Question of Honesty," released as a multiple reel drama by the Selig Polyscope Co., in General Film service. This is the latest of the General Film dramas, and is pronounced a drawing card for exhibitors.

The plot has to do with the search for work of a young married man, and of how he is made the victim of the plotting of a clerk in the office of the man who employs him. How right always triumphs over wrong, and how the young man is vindicated and the plotter punished, are but details in a production which is unusually interesting. The photography and scenic effects are above the average.

Scene from "A Question of Honesty" (Selig).

"Everybody Was Satisfied" is the latest Selig farce comedy to be released during the same week, in General Film Service. The cast of laugh-makers includes such talent as John Lancaster, Wm. Scott, Irene Wallace and Lyllian Leighton. Every situation in this comedy carries a laugh, and not only this, but there is a well-defined plot.

Pickford and Martin Head Paramount

Youth to the Front in Big Program for Week of March 19 in "The Dummy" and "The Spirit of Romance."

THE two features on the Paramount program for the week of March 19, the Famous Players production of "The Dummy," in which Jack Pickford is starred, and the Pallas production of "The Spirit of Romance," in which Vivian Martin plays the leading role, are particularly attractive. The production of "The Dummy" marks Jack Pickford's first appearance in a Famous Players-Paramount Picture as star in his own right, he previously having co-starred in all his pictures with Louise Huff. "The Dummy" comes from the pens of Harvey J. O'Higgins and Harriet Ford, and enjoyed a record breaking run in New York two years ago.

In "The Dummy" Mr. Pickford creates a part that is "different" and that will appeal to boys and girls of all ages. From seven years old to seventy years young, for there is not any of them who has not been thrilled by Nick Carter, Jesse James and Diamond Dick, and Mr. Pickford has drawn a typical American boy with a too great fondness for these heroes, which, however, when turned into the right channels, develops unexpected talent on his part. Jack Pickford is "The Dummy," Frank Losee the detective, and the rest of the cast includes Edwin Stanley, Helene Greene, Ruby Hoffman and the child actress, Ethelmarty Oakland.

"The Spirit of Romance," an original scenario by George Hopkins, is an excellent vehicle for Vivian Martin. The production was directed by E. Mason Hopper, and Miss Martin is supported by Herbert Standing, Colin Chase, Elinor Hancock, George Fisher, Percy Challenger, Daisy Robinson, Beatrice Burnham, Dr. H. F. Crane and John Burton.

The story tells of Abby Lou, who is the niece of the crabbed old antique dealer, Richard Cobb. Abby relieves the hard drudgery of keeping the stock of antiques dusted and in order by her love for the wonderful characters who live in fairy books. Abby's chosen comrade is a shadowy make-believe spirit named Romance.

Surrounding the program for this week are three uniquely clever single reel features, the fifty-eighth edition of Paramount-Bray-Pictographs, the magazine-on-the-screen; the fifty-ninth of the series of weekly trips around the world conducted personally by Burton Holmes, and a Black Diamond Comedy.

The fifty-eighth edition of the Paramount Pictographs, the magazine-on-the-screen, contains four very interesting subjects, including "Farming for Feathers," in which there is shown there is no need for women any longer to worry where they will get their plumes for their hats; "The Reviving of the Weaver's Craft," showing that in New York City there still exists a little studio where the weaving of tapestry is still conducted; "Safeguarding the City's Health," visualizing how the watchful eye of the Health Department of the city of New York can keep millions of people from being poisoned by the food they eat, and a very clever comedy entitled "The Quacky Doodles Food Crisis," in which Quacky Doodles decries the high cost of food.

Probably the most remarkable and decidedly the most beautiful of the many thousands of feet of scenic pictures that Burton Holmes secured last summer on his trip through Canada, are those contained in the fifty-ninth of his weekly trips around the world, in which he takes his fellow travelers on a personally conducted tour through the Canadian Canyons. These remarkable little journeys that Mr. Holmes has been responsible for have created a wonderful amount of widespread interest, and are being used in thousands of theaters every week throughout the country.

Rounding out the program for this week there will be another Black Diamond Comedy filled with wonderful trick photography, plenty of action, and the exceptional material that has helped to make these pictures uniquely popular.

"MYSTERY OF DOUBLE CROSS" CAMPAIGN TO REACH 32,000,000.

It is estimated by Pathe that the comprehensive advertising campaign in connection with "Mystery of the Double Cross," the Feature Serial of love, thrills and perils, will reach thirty-two millions of the American public. This campaign has been underway for the past month in all of the leading cities of the country.

The national advertising campaign which is being arranged by the International will include sixty of the leading newspapers of the country, including the Hearst dailies in New York, Boston, Chicago, Atlanta, San Francisco, Los Angeles. This campaign will be supplemented by special advertising in the way of pictures and feature stories in the Cosmopolitan, Harper's Bazaar, Good Housekeeping and Hearst. On the Sunday before the release of the pictures, the great Hearst newspaper magazines will carry a special feature page on "Mystery of the Double Cross."

The complete line of exhibitors' helps includes novelties, a series of advance slides, tack cards for the first four episodes, Pathe art-portrait of Mollie King, posters, heralds, banners, campaign books, a plate of theater ads, the story in plate form, cuts of scenes and stars, lobby displays for each episode.

There is a series of three advance slides which have been prepared with a view to create an anticipatory interest in the story. These slides play up the mystery end of the serial as do the tack cards which will be issued for the first four episodes. Through the liberal use of these slides and the tack cards, it is pointed out by Pathe that exhibitors will be able to directly tie up their theaters with the great national advertising campaign in the newspapers.

Linder Goes to Coast

Essanay's Comedian Will Have Studio All to Himself—Second Picture Ready.

THE Thomas H. Ince studio at Culver City, Cal., has been obtained and Max Linder will start production on his third comedy immediately upon his arrival there.

Max and his company got away from Chicago in a blaze of glory. He took with him not only his entire supporting company which appeared in "Max Comes Across" and "Max Wants a Divorce," but also complete staffs of stage mechanics, electricians and two camera men. The party occupied three private cars which were tied on to the rear of the transcontinental train.

A flock of Chicago newspaper men went down to the train to see Max off. Their chief interest centered in discovering whether Max's departure from Chicago was a knock to that city as a motion picture producing center.

Max was emphatic in his explanations to the contrary. Through two interpreters, Max addressed the gentlemen of the press from the rear platform of his train.

"I have found," said he, "that Chicago and the vicinity affords as good facilities as could be desired for photoplay productions. Climatic conditions and exterior scenics are excellent. I grieve to leave Chicago."

The real reason for Max's departure was pressure for floor space at the Chicago studio. Since Max has been at the Chicago plant one of the three big studios there has been held solely for his use. This left but two other studios available for other producing activities at Essanay, which is putting out two or three features and twelve short productions each month in addition to the Max Linder comedies.

Plans were launched a month ago for the selection of another studio exclusively for Linder's use. Max therefore will step from his Chicago studio into his California studio with the loss of but a few days to make the transcontinental trip.

Along with Max went his forty-six trunks of sartorial embellishments—with eight more containing American-tailored designs which caught the comedian's fancy. It required a private baggage car to carry Max's clothes, his wooden-legged war dog, "Wah," and motor car.

"Max Wants a Divorce" is being given trade showings at all branch offices of the Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay Service, and, according to reports, is as good if not a better comedy than "Max Comes Across." Advanced bookings on the Linder films have been enormous—assuring its success before it even strikes the screen. This comedy has a screen time of approximately thirty minutes. It will be released March 26.

MAYER GETS NEW ENGLAND RIGHTS TO "THE WHIP."

Rights for the New England States to "The Whip" have been purchased by Louis Mayer, who also controls "The Birth of a Nation" in that territory. The deal was closed by William A. Brady, acting for the Paragon Films, who control the world rights to "The Whip."

Mr. Mayer plans to hold back the first New England showing of the feature until he can obtain a downtown Boston theater. He intends to give it a long run in a Boston theater before he exploits it thoroughly through his territory.

Negotiations for the purchase of "The Whip" rights for almost every territory in this and other countries are already pending. It is expected that "The Whip" will be given a run at one of Broadway's theaters.

"THE SILENT MASTER" WARWICK'S NEXT.

"The Silent Master" has been chosen as the title for Robert Warwick's second Selznick-Picture, which is nearing completion under the direction of Leonce Perret. This is an adaptation of E. Phillips Oppenheim's bizarre novel of adventure, "The Court of St. Simon."

An extraordinary production may be looked for, both because of the unique character of the story and the fact that Director Perret, with 308 French feature productions to his credit, is determined to make his first American picture a real sensation. Harry Rapf, president of the Robert Warwick Film Corporation, gave his new director carte blanche in the matter of expense, with the result that a series of magnificent settings have been made for the picture and a cast of distinguished photoplayers was engaged.

ULTRA'S METHOD OF ADVERTISING.

The innovation which Mr. A. J. Cobe, president of the Ultra Pictures Corp., announced would be introduced in connection with the Ultra releases has caused quite a little comment in the trade. Both exchangemen and exhibitors are unanimous in declaring that this new method of advertising a picture is a most advantageous one for all concerned. The exchange man is assured of a continuance of his advertising for some time after the picture is received. In the majority of cases the advertising stops with the sale of the most important or valuable territory and the late buyers are practically left high and dry so far as trade advertising is concerned, which naturally is detrimental to their interests.

Although the list of exchanges handling Ultra releases is almost complete the trade advertising will continue for quite some time, an almost invaluable asset to the exchange man and exhibitor handling the productions.

Mutual Features Wilbur

Program for the Week of March 19 is Headed by "The Painted Lie."

CRANE WILBUR will make his reappearance as a star in the Mutual array during the week of March 19. The vehicle selected for his return is "The Painted Lie." The exhibitor who knows that Crane Wilbur has a strong following among the patrons of his theater can make capital of the fact that this is entirely a Crane Wilbur feature and is marked by his personality from every angle. The scenario was written by Mr. Wilbur; he directed the production and also is the starred player.

"The Painted Lie" deals with a subject which always starts an argument pro and con wherever mentioned—circumstantial evidence. It shows the great wrong that can be done and how lives are wrecked through too hasty condemnation of a person with no proof of their guilt.

Appearing with Mr. Wilbur in "The Painted Lie" are Harish Ingraham, Mae Gaston, Marie Cortaux and Ida Lewis.

No. 10 of the Mutual "Adventures of Shorty Hamilton" series, "Shorty Bags the Bullion Thieves," is a two-reeler will appeal to every amateur detective and boy in the town as well as the older people. There is a fascination for almost everyone in watching a mystery unravelled by the secret service and having the clever methods of thieves explained to them.

The idea of getting behind the scenes and seeing how things are really done always appeals and one reason for the great success which has been attending "The Perils of Our Girl Reporters" series is that the audience like to find out how the stories which they read in a newspaper are really obtained. Story No. 13 of this series, "The Schemers," not only gives inside information of adventures which befall the newspaper woman when she starts out to get information which will help in the campaign for the elimination of crooked politics, but also some of the schemes which are hatched by these political gangs in the lower wards of the cities.

Zena Keefe as the newspaper woman, Earl Metcalfe as a reform politician and William H. Turner as the corrupt politician, have the leading roles in this story.

The first of a new series "Jimmie Dale alias the Grey Seal," will be released on March 23rd. This series consists of sixteen two-reel detective story pictures, each complete. These pictures are an adaptation of the stories written by Frank L. Packard and now appearing in "People's Magazine" under the title of "The Professional Adventures of Jimmie Dale." An all star cast plays in this series. E. K. Lincoln has the role of Jimmie Dale, supported by Edna Hunter, Paul Panzer and Doris Mitchell.

People come to the motion picture theater to be amused and comedies make them laugh and give them the relaxation they seek. At least one comedy should be included in each evening's entertainment. Mutual's two weekly comedy releases fill this need. The Cub Comedy, featuring George Ovey, will be released on March 22. The title of this "funny" is "Minding the Baby."

The Vogue comedy for the week, ready March 24, is "A Studio Stampede," and Ben Turpin is the principal laugh manufacturer.

On March 20 comes "Mutual Tours Around the World" giving views of three nations. The tiny kingdom of Montenegro is shown first before the war, with interesting views of Gettine, the capital, King Nicholas and the sturdy natives; next comes Britain's Island of Guernsey and St. Peterport where Victor Hugo spent his years of exile. His home is shown and also the room in which some of his immortal books were written; this is followed by Cintra, Portugal, a favorite summer resort, and it was here that the queen mother was residing when she received news of the deposition of her son, King Emanuel.

Mutual Weekly No. 116, the news reel, comes to the screen on March 21. Because of its foreign connections through the Societe des Etablissements Gaumont, the Gaumont Company is able to supply this reel at the earliest possible date with important news pictures from all over the world.

Reel life, the magazine of the screen, ready March 22 is made up of five subjects—"Making Food Cheaper" by removing its water content before transporting and showing how air currents remove the water without cooking, the original flavor being retained; "Artificial Exercise" illustrating special machines for those unable or disinclined to exercise, the person simply placing himself in the proper position and the machine doing the rest; "A Snail Race Under Water" presenting a number of these fresh water gastropods in a leisurely contest and in addition views of snail eggs in clusters and a microscopic X-ray view of an egg just before hatching; "Pineapples Under Glass" showing how the tropical fruit is being grown in hothouses; and "A Winter Outdoor Pageant in California" giving a graceful series of outdoor dances which were a feature of the "Ad Masque" held at Oklahoma, Cal.

"MAX'S FEET ARE PINCHED" (Pathe).

The trials and tribulations of a man who, in a weak moment, buys a pair of shoes that are too small, are portrayed in an excruciatingly funny manner by Max Linder in "Max's Feet Are Pinched," the third of the Pathe-Max Linder Comedies which have been chosen as the best work of this famous comedian. The picture is announced for release the week of March 25. Max has a terrible time with his tight shoes, and when at last he finds comfort, his joy is all too brief. Pathe Exchanges report a big demand for these Max Linder comedies and have laid in a good supply of new advertising matter, the feature of which is a stock three-sheet and a one-sheet for each release.

"HIS FATHER'S SON" (Metro).

"His Father's Son," by Channing Pollock and Rennold Wolf, will be the March 19 release of Metro Pictures Corporation, with Lionel Barrymore and Irene Howley as stars.

This fascinating comedy-drama of the screen in the best vein of the well known authors was adapted by June Mathis and directed by George D. Baker for Rolfe Photoplays, Inc. John Arnold handled the photographic work.

"His Father's Son" is a photoplay of cheerfulness. Adam Barron, wealthy father of J. Dabney Barron (Lionel Barrymore) tells his son he is worthless, and bets him $6,000 he cannot hold a $60-a-month job 30 days. J. Dabney cheerfully accepts the terms of the bet. Taking his valet and his racing automobile, he goes to live in a hall bedroom and look for work. He finds it, also a pretty girl and a jewel mystery. The girl, Betty Arden (Irene Howley) is the same one whom J. Dabney has assisted and with whom he has fallen in love during an accident to her machine in the park.

Lionel Barrymore and Irene Howley were co-starred in the popular Metro wonderplay, "A Yellow Streak." Mr. Barrymore's pictures on the Metro program have included "The End of the Tour," "The Brand of Cowardice," "The Upheaval," "The Quitter," and "Dorian's Divorce." Miss Howley has been co-starred with William Nigh in "Life's Shadows," and with Ralph Herz in "The Purple Lady," in addition to her appearance in "A Yellow Streak."

A great cast supports the two stars in "His Father's Son." Frank Currier plays Joan Arden. Charles Eldridge is the Adam Barron of the production. The part of Perkins, the valet, has been entrusted to George A. Wright. Walter Horton plays "London Larry" and Phil Sanford is Jim Foley, the detective.

AUDIENCES EAGER FOR "PATRIA," EXHIBITORS SAY.

"I find that my patrons are eager for its continuation," writes Edwin S. James, owner and manager of the Broadway Theatre, Portland, Ore., which is showing "Patria," the International serial romance of society and preparedness starring Mrs. Vernon Castle.

In a letter to the Pathe Portland branch Mr. James says: "It having been my good fortune to secure for this theater your excellent production, 'Patria,' I take this opportunity of expressing to you my appreciation of the merits combined in this extraordinary photoplay. I have just closed a successful week's showing of this exceptionally interesting and thrilling Serial Supreme."

RUTH ROLAND IN THIRD "FORTUNE PHOTOPLAY."

Ruth Roland, who has few peers for popularity upon the screen, stars in the General Film Company's third "Fortune Photoplay," "The Devil's Bait." The scenario of this striking photo-dramatic presentation of the ruby mines of India and the drawing rooms of modern society was written from the original story by Will M. Ritchey, chief of staff of the Balboa Scene from "The Devil's Bait" (Fortune).

Company's scenario department. Miss Roland plays the character of Doris Sheldon, a beautiful young girl who inherits a passion for jewels (the Devil's bait), which almost wrecks her life. It affords her a splendid opportunity to display her marked emotional gifts in a portrayal that is strikingly powerful and convincing.

In Miss Roland's support appear William Conklin, Edward J. Brady, Lucy Blake, Henry King, Myrtle Reeves, Gordon Sackville, Lucille Serwill, Zada Mario and Charles Dudley.

Keystone Open Booking Plan

General Manager France Explains That Sennett's Famous Comedies are Tied up to Triangle Program.

R. W. FRANCE, general manager of the Triangle Distributing Corporation, has the following statement to make regarding the relation between the Triangle Program and the Keystone Comedies:

"There seems to have been a misapprehension in the minds of some exhibitors to the effect that they cannot book the Mack Sennett Keystone Comedies except in connection with the Triangle Program. We desire to make the situation clear so that every exhibitor may understand that he is entirely free to book the Keystone Comedies irrespective of whether he uses the entire Triangle Program or not. We are satisfied that both the Triangle Program and the Keystone Comedies will stand alone on their own merits. We believe that we are supplying in our Triangle Program the best balanced and most acceptable program which it is possible to obtain. The Ince-Kay Bee and Fine Arts features have won a reputation which speaks for itself, and the success which has attended our business is a clear indication to us that the exhibitors appreciate the quality of our Program product. In addition to the five-reel features, we are supplying two one-reel comedies each week to complete our program.

"The Keystone Comedies, however, are quite distinct from our Program and can be booked separately by any exhibitor without reference to whether he books the Triangle Program or not. These Keystone Comedies have attained a unique reputation for themselves. They are the premier feature comedies that have set the standard in the industry, and exhibitors throughout the country are booking them with great rapidity to feature them as they deserve.

"Our plan of distribution on these comedies is so regulated that any exhibitor can ultimately get them at a price which will fit the conditions of his theater and his pocketbook.

"We had an interesting indication of the great popular demand for these comedies during the past week. A circular containing a return postal card went out to a list of about 17,500 exhibitors. Within three days from the time that the circular letter left our office over a thousand replies had been received, and they are still pouring in daily.

"Triangle Program releases and Keystone Comedies are distinct from each other, and we believe that in its line each holds a unique supremacy."

GAUMONT OFFERS ONLY SINGLE REELS.

For the time being the Gaumont company is centering all its attention upon its single-reel releases, a field in which it holds a pre-eminent position. The first April release is "Tours Around the World" No. 22, undoubtedly one of the most timely pictures upon the screen. The reel is devoted to our new West Indian possessions, pictures of St. Croix and St. Thomas. These are two most important islands of the group we purchased from Denmark. St. Thomas has an impregnable harbor, destined to be an important naval base for our Atlantic squadron. St. Croix is the largest and the wealthiest of the islands. Sending a cameraman to photograph our new possessions is only one instance of the Gaumont promptness in giving motion picture patrons the timeliest material possible.

The Mutual Magazine in Film, "Reel Life" No. 49, will be released April 5. Its two principal subjects are "Magnetism" and "Making Bread the Modern Way." The former explains in an untechnical manner just what a layman wishes to know, about the mysterious property of attraction. There are a number of simple experiments which are highly enlightening. The bread-making picture shows how a modern bakery is conducted. Another important section is an animated exposition of how the one-man submarine would work. It is what has been derisively called a "stick on the end of a pillbox," yet its effectiveness is to be tested thoroughly.

The third single-reel of the week is the Mutual Weekly which is made at the Gaumont studios. As its news is only edited the day the reel is printed, no forecast of its program is possible.

"THE RAILROAD RAIDERS" (Mutual).

The first chapter of the new Helen Holmes photoplay, "The Railroad Raiders," will go to the public on April 9. Each of the fifteen chapters will be in two parts and will be released weekly through Mutual.

J. P. McGowan is directing this production which promises to even surpass "A Lass of the Lumberlands," the last Mutual-Signal serial which has been bringing crowded houses wherever shown and meeting the demands of the public in every respect.

"The Railroad Raiders" deals with the operations of two separate gangs of crooks each acting independently of the other, and each thinking it is getting away with the haul. It is a cast of "Greek meeting Greek," and offers many comedy as well as dramatic situations.

The cast of "The Railroad Raiders" is practically the same as that which supported Helen Holmes in "A Lass of the Lumberlands." It includes Thomas G. Lingham, Leo D. Maloney, Paul C. Hurst, William Buhler, William Brunton, Will Chapman, G. H. Wischusen, Florence Holmes, F. L. Hemphill and Katherine Goodrich.

"THE HAM THAT WAS" (Essanay).

Abigail, a trained pig, is introduced in this short production and provides a novel comedy situation in the hard luck of two "ham" vaudevillians. It is a Black Cat feature with Harry Dunkinson in the lead. Pathos is mingled with the humorous in the picturization of life on the "kerosine" circuit. There is plenty of action from start to finish. A typical "ham" show is shown in full swing with several fights in the rear of the theater; a circus sideshow also is screened with the fat lady, Scene from "The Ham What Was" (Essanay).

the human skeleton, the tattooed and bearded ladies, etc. This picture has a screen time of approximately thirty minutes. The General Film Company is handling its release.

"THE BARRIER" A SUCCESS WITHOUT A BIG STAR.

Putting over a photoplay without a star in these days is about as safe as grooving the plate with Home Run Baker at the bat. However, regardless of possible impending danger, the Rex Beach Pictures Company, realizing the strength and popularity of Rex Beach as an author, and "The Barrier" as a literary magnet, left it to the judgment of Director Edgar Lewis to produce "The Barrier" without a central orbit. That the judgment of those in authority in the Rex Beach Company was well founded is proved in the fact that on the private showing for the reviewers, not an adverse criticism was registered, while the reviewers in the daily papers were lavish in their praise after the public opening. Its success in the Broadway theater and its big first week at the Chestnut Street opera house in Philadelphia, justifies the prediction that as "good wine needs no brush" neither does a good play need a star. In all probability the statement made by the members of the New York State Board of Review, after the showing made for them, to the effect that they could not suggest a change in picture or titles and that they recommend it highly for young persons and children, has had much to do with the large attendance by young folks at matinees.

HEARST-PATHE NEWS ASKED TO SOLVE MYSTERY.

District Attorney Swann of New York has asked the Hearst-Pathe News to help solve the mystery of the disappearance of Ruth Cruger, the Bronx schoolgirl. To this end a picture of Miss Cruger appears in a current Hearst-Pathe News reel.

Practically every motion picture theater of importance in the United States displays the Hearst-Pathe News Pictorial and twenty million people or one-fifth of the population of the United States will see Miss Cruger's picture in this way. Accompanying the picture of Miss Cruger in the Hearst-Pathe News is all important information regarding her and the time of her disappearance.

BIG THEATERS WANT "VICAR OF WAKEFIELD."

Following the very successful engagement of the Pathe-Thanhouser special feature, "The Vicar of Wakefield" at the Rialto theater, New York, big theaters throughout the country have applied to Pathe's new super-feature department for bookings. Tom North, manager of this department, has been kept busy travelling from one city to another and special showings have been arranged in a number of places.

The first following the New York engagement will probably be at the big Stillman theater in Cleveland for which Mr. North has agreed to arrange an advertising campaign of large magnitude. A telegram from him to the home office states that the Stillman will put the picture over in a big way and that he has been requested to conduct the campaign personally.

Pathe Program

Baby Star, Two Serials, Max Linder, Combitone Scenic and Fashion Film for Week of March 25.

A BABY Marie Osborne picture, episodes of "Mystery of the Double Cross," "Patria," a Max Linder comedy, a combitone scenic, and a Florence Rose Fashion Film share the honors on Pathe's program released the week of March 25.

Successful exhibitors throughout the country report that Baby Marie Osborne plays to as big business as any star in motion pictures. Any who have played "Little Mary Sunshine," "Sunshine and Shadows," "Joy and the Dragon" and "Twin Kiddies" will lose no time in booking "Told at Twilight," the latest photoplay starring this captivating five year old wonder.

"Told at Twilight" is a delightful story full of laughter and tears with a thrill at the end. It is a clean, beautiful picture and an attraction for every day of the week. The cast supporting Baby Marie Osborne includes Daniel Gilfether and Henry King.

The advertising matter includes one and six and two styles of three sheets, a banner, window card, lobby display, heralds. The picture was produced by Balboa.

"The Masked Stranger" is the title of the second episode of "Mystery of the Double Cross," starring Molly King, supported by Leon Bary and Ralph Stuart. "Mystery of the Double Cross" has been greeted as the greatest mystery story ever filmed. Backed by the reputation of Pathe and an advertising campaign of unprecedented magnitude in important newspapers and the great Hearst magazines, and a splendid line of advertising matter, this picture is regarded as a big opportunity for live exhibitors. In this episode, Peter Hale, the hero, incurs the enmity of Bridgey Bentley, social gangster, who learns of the provision in the will of Peter's father, that to inherit his millions, he must find and win the girl of the Double Cross.

The eleventh episode of "Patria" is entitled "Sunset Falls." As an indication of the 100 per cent. average that this picture is hitting, ten out of ten houses in Binghamton, N. Y., have booked it.

This episode is probably the best yet, containing some wonderful riding and fight scenes, produced under the direction of Jacques Jaccard in California. It marks the appearance in the cast of Marie Walcamp in support of Mrs. Vernon Castle.

The third of the Max Linder Pathe comedies, entitled "Max's Feet are Pinched" is released on the same reel with "Skinney Gets a Goat," the comedy produced by Rolin Film Company containing a laugh for every pound of Skinney's two hundred weight.

The Max Linder picture, a persuasive man in the store makes Max take a pair of shoes that are too small. He has a terrible time and at last he finds comfort. But, alas, his joy is all too brief.

The second of the splendid Combitone scenic pictures is released under the title of "Know America, the Land We Love." Splendid scenes of Arizona and New Mexico are shown. These pictures have booked worth the big price Pathe is paying for them.

The twenty-fourth release of the Florence Rose Fashion films is entitled "Fads and Fancies," showing beautiful girls and beautiful clothes at a baseball game and is released on the same reel with "The Gardener's Feathered Friends," a Pathe colored picture of beautiful views of unusual birds.

An International Cartoon and Scenic release in split reel and Hearst-Pathe News No. 26 and No. 27 complete the program.

"WHERE IS MY MOTHER" (Essanay).

"Where Is My Mother?" is to be the title of the first production of Essanay's forthcoming series, "Do Children Count?" A little girl, standing in the ruins of a shattered home, asks the question. The father cannot answer it. He has misconstrued his wife's attitude toward another man and driven her from his home.

These dramatic qualities are what Essanay promises for every unit of this series. There will be twelve of these photodramas in all, one to be released every Saturday. They will take the place of the "Is Marriage Sacred?" series, which is soon to conclude.

"The Little White Girl" will be the second release. "Steps to Somewhere" and "The Yellow Umbrella" will be the titles of the next two to follow.

Little Mary McAlister, Essanay's child star, who is to be featured in these productions, has had ample training. Although only five years old, the child has won praise for her appearances in several of Henry B. Walthall's photodramas and other productions. She is well known throughout the country. She has been supplied with a capable supporting company, which will appear in all of her photoplays.

ART DRAMAS ADDS TWO NEW EXCHANGES.

Due to an ever-increasing volume of booking on Art Dramas the Standard Film Corporation of Kansas City, distributors of the new program throughout Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri and Kansas, announces the opening of additional exchanges in St. Louis and Des Moines. The St. Louis exchange of the Standard is already established in the Empress theater building in that city, and the Des Moines exchange will be installed in a central part of the town in a few days. While arranging for permanent quarters in Des Moines the Standard Film Corporation is doing a record business in its temporary offices.

"THE PULSE OF LIFE" (Bluebird).

Rex Ingram has made another Bluebird, this time from a story by E. Magnus Ingleton, entitled "The Pulse of Life." Wedgewood Nowell, who has been leading man in Mr. Ingram's recent pictures, is advanced by Bluebird to a featured position in the advertising. Gypsy Harte, who plays the distressed heroine of the occasion, is making her first Bluebird appearance in this attraction, being also given prominence in the billing.

Nicholas Dunaew, the Russian screen-player, recently added

Scene from "The Pulse of Life" (Bluebird).

to Bluebird's stock forces; Seymour Hastings, Edward Brown Albert McQuarrie, Millard K. Wilson, Dorothy Barrett and Molly Malone will also appear. There are many sensational episodes promised for "fans" who like excitement, in the unfolding of a plot that carries twice across the Atlantic from its beginning and ending in Italy. Scenes in the artists' quarter, centering around Washington Square, New York, will occupy the greater part of the American locale.

BELL & HOWELL COMPANY EXPANDING.

Increasing business has made necessary a fifty per cent addition to the manufacturing facilities of the Bell & Howell Company, Chicago. The building in which the plant is housed is at present undergoing extensive alterations which, when completed, will enable the firm to meet the extraordinary pressure of increasing demand for the Bell & Howell product.

The Bell & Howell Company has always put special emphasis upon the importance of designing and building for the maximum of efficiency. It follows as a natural development from that policy that machines should not only be built, but also maintained at the highest possible efficiency. And so, a few months ago, they opened an office display room, and service department in the Candler Building, 220 West Forty-second street, New York City; and only recently opened a similar place at 6522 Hollywood Boulevard, Los Angeles, California. Both places will be conducted, primarily, as a convenience to their customers and this is not only in the matter of machine maintenance, but also of acquainting them with new machines and changes in design as improvements are perfected and new utilities are developed. The action of the company in opening these branches has met with the hearty approval on the part of its customers, and has resulted in a marked increase in its sales.

"LAW THAT FAILED" COMPLETED.

The Apollo production of Louis Reeves Harrison's original photodrama, "The Law That Failed," has been completed and will be released shortly on the Art Dramas program. The story of "The Law That Failed" is of the mystery variety and contains several plot twists new to the screen. Alma Hanlon and Edward Ellis are the principal players in the story. A cast of notable screen artists supplements their efforts.

"The Crandall Kin," from the pen of Willard Mack, is under production at Universal City by Director Allen J. Holubar. In this photodrama, which is being made in three acts, Holubar and Louise Lovely play the leads.

Sally Crute presents a powerful characterization of a half-breed Indian girl in "The Law of the North," a five-reel production of the studios of Thomas A. Edison, Inc., that will be released on April 2.

COBE PLACES "THE WOMAN WHO DARED."

A. J. Cobe, president of the Ultra Pictures Corporation, the Better than Program Distributing Company, returned last Sunday from a trip through the country closing contracts with the leading exchanges for feature productions to be released by the Ultra.

The first release will be the California Motion Picture Company production, "The Woman Who Dared," featuring the Scene from "The Woman Who Dared" (Ultra).

well known prima donna and dramatic star, Beatriz Michelena. This picture was shown to the trade some time ago and received much favorable comment.

BIG BUSINESS FOR "BURNING THE CANDLE."

Henry B. Walthall's latest Essanay feature, "Burning the Candle," was released March 5. Revealing a phase of life in which the entire nation is vitally interested, and endowed with the proven money-getting power of Henry B. Walthall's name, this production has launched into an immediate success. Reports from the Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay headquarters indicate big booking business.

While the predominating aim in "Burning the Candle" has been to provide exhibitors with a high class entertainment—a good show that will bring photoplay patrons back—still to those who chose to look further, there is revealed a powerful preachment on the nation's one great vice—intemperance.

Mr. Walthall appears in another highly emotional role—that of an inebriate. He has duplicated his strong characterization in "The Truant Soul" only under a new guise and in an entirely different phase of life. It is safe to say that admirers of Walthall in the one role will find him equally fascinating, if not more so, in the other. Mary Charleson again appears as Mr. Walthall's leading woman. She will be happily remembered by photoplay patrons as the dauntless little nurse in "The Truant Soul" and other recent Walthall productions. In "Burning the Candle" she portrays the role of the inebriate's bride.

FIRST MAE MARSH PICTURE VIRTUALLY COMPLETED.

Goldwyn Pictures Corporation is making fine headway with its initial productions. The first Mae Marsh picture, written by Irvin S. Cobb and directed by Ralph W. Ince, will be completed within ten days, and work of assembling and titling it will then get under way. Both the second and third Mae Marsh pictures have been selected and the work of making the sets and costumes for them started.

Maxine Elliott's first Goldwyn picture is now entering on its third week of production at the Goldwyn studios under the direction of Allan Dwan. As Dwan in his previous work has made several big productions in record-breaking time, it is to be assumed that his Goldwyn picture of Miss Elliott will be completed around the middle of March.

UNIVERSAL'S PSYCHIC SCENARIO?

The first psychic scenario is now on the stocks at the Universal studio at Fort Lee, and within a few weeks the public will be able to witness a production made from a scenario which was never written by an author but which traveled over twelve hundred miles, through space, on psychic waves to Violet Mersereau a few days ago, while the star, surrounded by thirty newspaper men, was seated in Churchill's restaurant.

The plot is psychological in the extreme, and the man whose powers have baffled scientists is Edgar Cayce, who, while he was physically asleep down in Selma, Alabama, sent his mysterious, spiritual and uncanny "thought self" to Violet with a five-reel scenario, entitled, "Through the Subliminal."

This plot has been turned over to John Brownell, of the Universal's scenario department in the East, and he is now putting it into shape for production. He says that it offers great opportunities and that, taking into consideration the fact that the plot was delivered spiritually and that Mr. Cayce has never attempted to write a scenario in his life, the result is truly remarkable. Not only should it interest those who study psychology, self-suggestion, psycho-analysis and spiritualism but it should attract scenario writers.

TRADE-SHOWING TOUR FOR "A MORMON MAID."

Benjamin Friedman, of the Friedman Enterprises, has planned an extended tour on behalf of his company, which is in control of the Mae Murray feature, "A Mormon Maid," which is being marketed through the offices of Hiller & Wilk, Inc. The tour embraces trade showings of the feature in Chicago, Minneapolis, Denver and San Francisco, so that the open market buyers of the various districts will have an opportunity to see the merits of this widely discussed picture without having to come to New York to do so. A showing took place at the Strand Theater, New York, recently, and within a fortnight a goodly portion of the available territory had been disposed of and negotiations are pending for the remainder.

The high-class methods of presentation that have been adopted by the marketers have caused most favorable comment on the part of those who are in intimate touch with the open market and its needs. They say that the advertising and publicity are of the finest grade and in keeping with the quality of the picture. There has been no attempt at sensationalism and the door has been closed to the tainted appeal, which panders to the depraved tastes of the few.

FOOD RIOTS PICTURED IN MUTUAL WEEKLY NO. 114.

Among the interesting pictures in Mutual Weekly No. 114 are intimate views of the food riots which recently stirred New York as a protest against the prevailing high prices. Several Gaumont cameramen were "on the job" to picture the disturbance from every angle. New York City is responsible also for another unusual picture in this issue: hotel bell-boys drilling as a preparedness measure on the roof of a leading hostelry. It is the intention of these martial young men to volunteer as a company in case there is a call for volunteers.

From the Pacific coast come pictures of a launching at Seattle, Wash., and of society girls of Oakland, Cal., preparing to till garden plots in vacant lots to cut the high cost of living. San Antonio sends pictures of the funeral of Gen. Funston.

Denmark is represented in this issue by the purchase of a seaplane at Norfolk, Va., and also by pictures of Danish troops at Copenhagen undergoing intensive training for a national emergency.

"THE PLANTER" EXPOSES PLANTATION BRUTALITY.

Evidently, from early developments, the Nevada Motion Picture Corporation are not going to have entirely clear sailing in their 12-reel production of Herman Whitaker's famous book, "The Planter," in which Tyrone Power is starred. One theme of the book is the brutal slavery of the rubber plantations, exposing the fraudulent methods of promotion and the extreme brutality of operation. In fact, the production has reached such a point that enormous rubber interests have already started work in an attempt to suppress the film. This developed about a month ago, when the first real publicity of "The Planter" began to appear. On account of the storm aroused in the production of the book, some space was given to its picturization in a number of the more prominent magazines, and quiet influences were immediately put to work in an effort to suppress the production or buy it out. Both failed, however, so other methods are being resorted to.

PATHE ADOPTS POLICY OF BOX OFFICE STARS.

Only actors and actresses who have been established as "box office stars" will be featured in the future on Pathe's Gold Rooster and Serial programs. Rumors which have been in circulation for some time past to the effect that Pathe was negotiating with a number of the important stars were partially confirmed this week by the announcement of J. A. Berst, vice-president and general manager, that several important additions will be made to the list of permanent stars in the near future.

The stars appearing at the present time on Pathe's program are Pearl White, Mollie King, Gladys Hulette, Florence LaBadie, Baby Marie Osborne, better known as Little Mary Sunshine; Frederick Warde, Harold Lloyd (Lonesome Luke). The latest recruit is Creighton Hale, who won fame as one of the leading juvenile actors of the day in "The Exploits of Elaine" and "The Iron Claw." Mr. Hale has just been signed by the Astra for a long term.

A Week With Fox

As Usual It Was a Busy One—Companies Working Everywhere.

Dustin Farnum's first picture since the famous star of stage and screen enrolled under the William Fox standard, will be released for the week of March 26. Probably the most appealing character that Mr. Farnum has presented in his entire photoplay career is "Roaring Bill" Wagstaff, the hero of "North of Fifty-Three," his premiere Fox feature.

Bertrand W. Sinclair's romantic novel of the great northwest has gained, not lost, through being put into the films. The snowy landscapes around Truckee, Cal., never showed to better advantage than in this screen drama. Homer Scott was the photographer in charge.

Chief in support of Mr. Farnum is the petite Winifred Kingston, who also makes her debut as a Fox player. In the supporting cast are: William Conklin, Edward Alexander, Rex Downs, Frank Lanning and Jode Mullally. The story tells how "Roaring Bill" clears away the gossip concerning the girl from the East whom he has married, and of his winning fight to gain her love.

George Walsh's new subject is well under way in the Western studios. William Marr has been added to the cast of the photodrama. He has been in motion pictures for the last year, associated mainly with the Lasky and Universal companies. Previously, he played with the Alcazar Stock Company in San Francisco, where he received his original training for a dramatic career.

Because of the pressure of work, director Turner was forced to decline a trip to Salt Lake City recently, to represent the film-makers of California in their fight against the Utah censorship bill.

Virginia Pearson and a party of twenty, under the direction of James Vincent, left for "somewhere in Florida" for exteriors of a forthcoming production. The present international crisis forced a change in the plans which called for a trip to the Danish West Indies.

The trip to Jamaica and back is not the only travelling which Jane and Katherine Lee, the famous Fox kiddies, have done in connection with "A Daughter of the Gods," the million-dollar Kellermann spectacle. The children spent three days in Chicago last week as an added attraction for the screen fantasy, which is at the Studebaker. Recently they were in Boston on the same mission.

Olive Trevor, who has been with Universal, Gaumont and Vitagraph, has been cast for a part in the new Stuart Holmes photoplay. Miss Trevor is a native of New Orleans, but admits that New York City has its good points.

A change in the schedule of Fox Film Corporation's March releases results in the issuance of "Love's Law," on the twelfth of the month, with "A Tale of Two Cities," the special super production.

"Love's Law," featuring Joan Sawyer and Stuart Holmes, is substituted for "The Siren," a Valeska Suratt film.

"SWEETHEART OF THE DOOMED" (Triangle).

Louise Glaum will be shown on the Triangle program shortly in a new Kay Bee drama entitled "Sweetheart of the Doomed," written by Jerome N. Wilson and pictured by Monte M. Katterjohn. The production was directed by Reginald Barker, under the personal supervision of Thomas H. Ince.

This will be Miss Glaum's third starring vehicle since joining the Ince forces. Her previous plays were "The Wolf Woman" and "Somewhere in France," both of which are still popular. It will also be recalled by many that Louise Glaum appeared in "The Iron Strain," the first Ince production released on the Triangle program.

In "Sweetheart of the Doomed" Miss Glaum has perhaps the best part that has yet been written for her. She is seen as Honore Zonlay, a Parisian adventuress, who because of the treachery dealt her in her youth, lives to make all men pay.

Jerome N. Wilson, author of the story, is a native of Savannah and followed the sea for many years as a marine engineer. After visiting all of the seven seas, and most of the great seaports, from Liverpool to Hong Kong, Wilson settled down in New York as an author of short stories, vaudeville acts and screen plays. He has written other photoplays for Thomas H. Ince which are said to be as strong in theme as "Sweetheart of the Doomed."

"SATAN'S PRIVATE DOOR" (Essanay).

The curse of wealth, when improperly used, is the theme of "Satan's Private Door," an Essanay feature to be released March 19. This feature was previously heralded under the title of "Truth Triumphant." Alterations in the original scenario, creating a far more powerful theme, prompted the change in titles. It will be released through the Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay Service.

Mary Charleson, for the first time under Essanay's banner, will be featured in "Satan's Private Door." This little star won her laurels in support of Henry B. Walthall in many of the great actor's recent successes. Notably in "The Truant Soul," Miss Charleson won nation-wide praise for her portrayal of the emotional role of "Joan Wentworth," the nurse. Other Walthall successes in which she did more than creditable work were "Burning the Candle," and "Little Shoes."

"THE ETERNAL SIN" FOR BROADWAY.

"The Eternal Sin," Herbert Brenon's second Selznick picture will be shown at the Broadway theater, New York, for two weeks, beginning Sunday, March 18. In this magnificent photodrama the star is Miss Florence Reed, who has created a furore in New York this season by her acting in the spectacular production "The Wanderer." The Broadway run of Scene from "The Eternal Sin" (Selznick).

"The Eternal Sin" has been limited because of previous bookings for that house. The dollar scale of prices which has ruled at the Broadway ever since the Selznick-Brenon-Laemmle regime began, will continue for this engagement as well.

This is the first production by Herbert Brenon since his sensationally successful "War Brides," which is now being shown to big business in all parts of the country. In the course of the creation of the spectacle Mr. Brenon was stricken with typhoid fever, and lost several weeks. Even before his physicians gave their consent to his return to work, he was "back on the job," and in record time completed his work.

"MINDING THE BABY" (Cub).

The idea of switched babies is used as the basis for the plot of the Cub comedy "Minding the Baby" featuring George Ovey and released March 22 through the Mutual Film Corporation, but it is treated in a new way and as a result offers a thousand feet of ingeniously contrived farce comedy.

Of course George Ovey, as Jerry, is the central figure of the action and becomes involved in numerous difficulties, which begin when he is asked by a mother to take care of her child for only a few moments. The moments stretch themselves until Jerry becomes tired of his job and as a means of renouncing it he places the baby in a basket which a pair of yeggmen have placed beside him. The yeggs come for their basket and take it with them.

When the mother calls for her child Jerry turns a colored baby, which has also been left in his care, over to her. The mother does not notice the switch until after she has arrived home and then trouble brews ominously for Jerry. The colored woman, finding Jerry gone with her child, also creates a disturbance, with the result that she, together with the parents of the other child and Jerry gather in the police station where matters are finally adjusted with the aid of the yeggs, who return the mite of humanity they had unsuspectingly carried away.

Scene from "Minding the Baby" (Cub).

"MY FIGHTING GENTLEMAN" (Mutual).

The atmosphere of the South fifty years ago is most carefully carried out in "My Fighting Gentleman," the latest Mutual-American production in which William Russell is starred. The plot of the story is laid in the South during the Reconstruction period following the Civil War and the furnishings of the old southern homes combined with the costumes of the period make the film a thing of beauty.

Clever comedy scenes are introduced showing the life of the Scene from "My Fighting Gentleman" (Mutual).

care-free, happy negroes with their dances and music and ready laughter. There is a strong contrast drawn between these negroes as they were before the war, happy-go-lucky and merry, and as they became, sullen, insolent and aggressive, when newly enfranchised and instigated to revolt by the carpet baggers whose unlimited supply of "nigger-gin" made the negroes their tools.

William Russell is afforded a splendid opportunity to show his ability as a fighter when he stands alone against a mob of angry negroes urged on by the carpet baggers. Led to believe he has killed one of their number on no provocation they are clamoring for his death, but he manages to keep them at bay until his arm is shattered by a bullet.

The same mob figures in a very exciting scene when, evading his pursuers, the bloodhounds are brought out to try to trail Russell, and a spectacular chase through the swamp ensues.

BRIEF STORIES OF TRIANGLE 1st RELEASES.

"Her Father's Keeper," with Irene Howley and Frank Currier, and Dorothy Dalton in "The Dark Road," are the Triangle feature releases for April 1. "Her Father's Keeper" is accredited to Robert Shirley, author of "Fifty-Fifty." Dorothy Dalton will be shown in a Kay Bee drama entitled "The Dark Road," by John Lynch and J. G. Hawks, directed by Charles Miller. This play, personally supervised by Thomas H. Ince, is said to mark the high tide of Dorothy Dalton's powers.

"Her Father's Keeper" is a presentation of modern problems facing a girl of great wealth who desires to make her own place in the world, despite the opposition of her father. In the end she not only makes a place for herself in the field of business, but saves her father from overstepping the bounds of law, when the headstrong old financier sets out to frame an unsavory deal for the purpose of venting his spleen against the man his daughter had engaged herself to without his consent.

Dorothy Dalton has one of the strongest vehicles that has yet been prepared for her in "The Dark Road." She takes the part of Cleo Murison, a London butterfly of doubtful parentage but dazzling beauty, who exerts her charms over men while her husband is absent at the front, until she meets Carlos Costa, who proves to be her master—and in the end the cause of her death. Costa passes himself off in England as a titled Spaniard, interested in art, but is in reality a spy in the pay of the Prussian intelligence bureau.

KEEN COMPETITION FOR "A MORMON MAID."

Keen competition among the leading state rights buyers of New York State has been on for the past three weeks to sign up "A Mormon Maid," the five-reel expose of early Mormon practices, which is controlled and being sold on the state rights basis by the Friedman Enterprises, Inc., and also through Hiller & Wilk, Longacre Building, New York.

The initial showing of the feature in the Strand theater, New York was the occasion for launching a most heated fight for the right to exhibit to the people of New York state what the trade papers were unanimous in stamping one of the best feature films of its kind.

Competition is nearly as keen in various other sections of the country, fully one quarter of the available territory of the United States having already been sold as the result of the first showing. Numerous deals for the remainder of the country are pending.

The entire state of Michigan, as well as Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana, were sold soon after the initial showing. In fact, so anxious was the buyer in the last four named states to get ahead of his Southwestern competitors that he purchased the sole rights to this territory without even taking time to view the film.

Benjamin Friedman, president of the Friedman Enterprises, Inc., has planned a tour for trade showings which will embrace Chicago, Minneapolis, San Francisco, Denver and other cities, so that the open market buyers may have the opportunity to see the merits of "A Mormon Maid" without being forced to come to New York.

THRILLS IN "KALEM SERIES."

Kalem's formula for producing one-reel thrillers is so entirely different that it is worth looking into from the exhibitors' viewpoint. When this company decided to inaugurate a series of weekly single reel adventures, dealing with the life of a police reporter, their first move was to secure Robert Welles Ritchie to write the stories based on his own experiences as a newspaper man. Their second move was to assign the direction of the productions to Robert Ellis, a Kalem director, who has come up from the player ranks, and to cast about for a star who could act, as well as execute the thrills Mr. Ritchie's stories called for.

George Larkin proved to be the acceptable candidate. He co-stars with Ollie Kirkby, who achieved success in earlier Kalem pictures. Larkin has more than made good and the succession of stunts he has introduced into this series has aroused the picture-theatergoing public as few other series or serials have.

"THE BOTTLE IMP" (Lasky).

The Jesse L. Lasky Feature Play Company's adaptation of Robert Louis Stevenson's "The Bottle Imp" is declared by that company to be its most remarkable production for Paramount since the adaptation of "Oliver Twist" in which Marie Doro starred.

"The Bottle Imp," which has Sessue Hayakawa, the celebrated Japanese actor, in the stellar role, is a remarkable combination of romance, drama which is impelled by the occult, mysticism and all the weirdness with which the mid-Pacific islands are endowed.

The scenario was prepared for the screen by Charles Maigne. Stevenson placed the greater part of the action of the original story in Hawaii, and the Lasky company accordingly sent its players to Hawaii under the direction of Marshall Neilan, who staged the production.

The story relates the adventures of an impoverished fisherman, Lopaka, who desires to marry a girl of royal blood. The enchanted bottle which plays so important a part in the action grants every wish of its possessor but holds a terrible menace, for if one dies with it in his possession he is eternally doomed to perdition. It is also a rule that the bottle must be disposed of at a lower price than that which the owner has paid for it. The story is an exceptionally tense one in its dramatic moments because of the supernatural terror inspired by the enchanted bottle.

Scene from "The Bottle Imp" (Lasky).

Through all this weirdness there runs the story of a romance between this fisherman and the girl of royal blood whose devotion to each other is superior even to supernatural powers.

Scenically, "The Bottle Imp" has few, if any, equals, and it can safely be said that its natural settings are rivaled by few which have ever appeared on any program.

"PLAY BALL!" IN MUTUAL WEEKLY.

A sure sign of spring is the appearance of baseball idols on the screen as they warm up for the season at the spring training camps. The Mutual Weekly, which is as steady as the calendar itself in picturing pastimes, comes to bat in its current issue with views of the Chicago Cubs being put through their pre-season paces at Pasadena, Cal. Interest in baseball is so widespread that the wise exhibitor is he who caters to this interest and makes it an asset for his house. The Mutual Weekly from now until the last man is put out in the World's Series next October will devote ample space to the heroes of the diamond.

Scene from "Play Ball" (Mutual).

Left to Right, Douglas, Hendricks and Vaughn of Cubs.

The advantage of showing the Mutual Weekly regularly is that it builds up patronage for a certain day in the week upon which the exhibitor can depend. Because it is edited by the Gaumont company with its unequalled foreign connections, the reel has news for the screen from all the world at the earliest possible day. Its foreign section is without a peer for war news and fashions. Paris is still the world's style center, and from Paris the Gaumont company receives its popular and authoritative fashions in colors.

A feature of the current issue, Mutual Weekly No. 115, is the series of views of the re-inauguration of President Wilson. These would make this reel an excellent one for an exhibitor to use in introducing the Mutual Weekly to his patrons. It is filled with the proper patriotic fervor, and is calculated to make spectators watch for it the following week with equal interest.

"TROOPER 44" (E. I. S.).

Dixon Boardman, president of the E. I. S. Motion Picture Corporation, announces that "Trooper 44," the five-part feature, about which there has been much speculation, is now complete and is offered to state rights buyers. Much emphasis is laid by E. I. S. on the exceptional advertising values of "Trooper

Scene from "Trooper 44" (E. I. S.).

44," inasmuch as it is the first time the "Black Hussars," or Pennsylvania State Mounted Police, have been pictured in their various activities before the motion picture camera. Mr. Boardman, after much effort, succeeded in inducing Major John C. Groome, superintendent and originator of the force, to allow his troopers to form the background of this thrilling screen drama. In consequence, the spectators are able to see every phase of the work of the "Black Hussars," in addition to a sensational and thrilling story, which, to be trite, carries "a punch in every foot."

"Trooper 44" has an exceptionally strong cast, comprising George Soule Spencer in the title role, June Daye as Ruth Moreland, the Mountain Girl; W. W. Black, Walter P. Lewis, Roy Gahriss, Roy Sheldon and several others equally well known. The big scenes of the picture show the troopers riding their horses into a dance hall to rescue Ruth, the burning of Moreland's home, a desperate fight between Trooper Jack and the men who have kidnapped Ruth, and a sensational scene in which Ruth battles for her honor while the troopers are desperately spurring to her rescue.

It is rumored, by the way, that the E. I. S. Motion Picture Corp. intends shortly to announce a series of stories featuring the Pennsylvania Mounted, to whose services Mr. Boardman has acquired exclusive rights. Captain Adams, who plays one of the principal parts in "Trooper 44," has helped to write many of the scenarios, based on actual records of the force he commands.

Notes of the Trade

EDWARD SMALL and Herman Becker are the heads and organizers of a new picture firm to be known as the Master Drama Features, Inc., for the purpose of producing photo dramas. The initial production will be a powerful and vivid drama by Willard Mack entitled "Who's Your Neighbor?" S. Rankin Drew is directing the picture, the first part of which is already under way.

* * *

The Universal Joker Company, directed by W. W. Beaudine, is nearing the completion of the filming of "The Souper Waiters," a one-act comedy, featuring Gale Henry and William Franey, with Milburn Moranti. Many laughable situations occur in the kitchen of a cafe and in the cafe itself.

* * *

It is announced by the Thanhouser Film Corporation that the next picture in which Frederick Warde will appear is "Hinton's Double." In the supporting cast are Wayne Arey, Kathryn Adams, Charles Mussett and baby Eldean Steuart.

* * *

Mme. Cora Blaeslee, who has recently been appointed head of the costume department of the Metro Rolfe-Columbia studios, has had valuable experience in both dramatic and motion picture work. Before coming to Metro she was associated with the costume and designing departments of the International and Universal companies, and she toured the country with Wright Lorimer's stage production of "The Shepherd King."

* * *

Carlyle Blackwell will appear at the end of April in the new World-Brady picture, "The Page Mystery"—title to be changed. June Elvidge and Arthur Ashley will head Mr. Blackwell's associates in the company.

* * *

"Saving the Child," a one-act comedy, is being filmed at Universal City by Director Louis Chaudet. It features Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran, with Edith Roberts as the ingenue.

* * *

Frank Reicher will direct Fannie Ward in her next Lasky-Paramount picture. Margaret Illington, who has completed her first motion picture, "The Inner Shrine," under the direction of Mr. Reicher, will make her next picture under the guidance of George Melford, who has just completed Fannie Ward's last production.

* * *

William S. Hart and his "horse-opera" troupe returned this week from the Mexican border, where they had been filming some scenes from the current Triangle-Kay Bee play, in which Thomas H. Ince will present Hart as star. They are now at work at Inceville, using a large setting depicting the interior of a western gambling hall. Margery Wilson is appearing as Hart's leading woman in this subject.

G. W. BRADENBURGH, 802 Vine Street Philadelphia, Pa., U. S. A.

NAME	REELS	MAKE	PRICE	ADVERTISING
Rip Van Winkle	5	World	$150	1/3/6 heralds and sheets
Uncle Tom's Cabin	5	World	125	1/3/6 heralds and sheets
Prisoner of Zenda	4	J. K. Hackett	100	1/3/6 heralds and sheets
The Butterfly	5	Barbara Tennant	100	1/3/6 heralds
In the Land of the Head Hunters	6	S. Curtess	60	1/3/8 heralds
Chicago Tribune Allied War Films	3	Chicago Tribune	75	1/3/6 photos
Spectro	5	Lucky Film Co.	100	1/3/6 heralds and photos
Arizona	6	Cyril Scott	100	1/3/6
Mixup	4	Charlie Chaplin	50	1/3/6 photos

Specials featuring Clara Kimball Young, Norma Talmadge, Gladys Hulette, Flora Finch, Anita Stewart, Edith Storey, Charlie Chaplin, Billy, etc. Write for lists of Spring Bargains.

Trade News of the Week

GATHERED BY OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS

Pine Tree State Filmdom News Last Week

J. P. McConville Will Take Charge of Maine Theaters, Inc., Publicity—Nathan Ross Will Represent Selznick in Maine—Other Notes.

From John P. Flanagan, 151 Park View Avenue, Bangor, Maine.

PORTLAND, ME.—John P. McConville of Portland, who, for the past two years has been secretary to Gov. Oakley C. Curtis, whose term expired Dec. 31, has accepted the position of publicity agent for the Maine theaters, Incorporated, which controls a chain of moving picture theaters in Maine, New Hampshire and Massachusetts. A. S. Black of Rockland, is the president of the company. Mr. McConville is an exceptionally capable and conscientious newspaper man, and through his unfailing courtesy and ability proved to be a most efficient aid to the governor. As the home office of the Maine theaters is at Rockland, Mr. McConville will locate in that city.

Nathan Ross Becomes Maine Agent of Paramount.

Bangor, Me.—Nathan Ross of Boston, has resigned from the Paramount company to take a position as Maine agent for the Selznick Company, and has been placing Nazimova film, "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea," Clara Kimball Young in "The Price She Paid," "The Common Law," and other productions in this state. Among the theater men that have taken one or more of these big pictures are P. Powers, Caribou, Wilbur Shea at Eastport and Calais, Managers Seymour at Houlton, and Hone, of the Presque Isle opera house.

Proprietor Joe Emery, of the Star theater, Bar Harbor, turned people away with these features, and the Belfast opera house reaped $136 from a single performance.

Mr. Ross says that it is useless to try to sell mediocre films to Maine exhibitors, even those in the small towns. Their patrons want the best, he says, and only those agents will succeed who give them the choicest the market affords. This he intends to do.

Business Notes from Bangor.

Bangor, Me.—Manager Grafton Corbett, of the Bangor branch of the Pathe company returned last week from a trip to Boston, where he attended an office conference of the Pathe force, and witnessed a run-off of the new Pathe serial, "The Mystery of the Double Cross." He says that numerous exhibitors who saw the run off declared that it looked mighty good to them. It will be released March 18, and thereafter, will be furnished to the exhibitors at the rate of two reels a week for 15 weeks. The first Maine theater to book this serial is the Millinocket opera house, C. J. Rush, proprietor.

Manager Holtz, of Danforth, proprietor of the town's biggest and only moving picture theater, was a visitor to Bangor this week, and while here, arranged for a showing of five reel Pathe features at his house.

Howard W. Smiley, manager of the Pastime theater, Madison, Me., has taken on the Pathe pictures, "Patria," "Iron Claw" and "Who Pays."

The first Aircraft picture to be shown in Bangor, adorable Mary Pickford in "The Poor Little Rich Girl," showed at the Bijou, Stephen Boggett, proprietor, all last week, to fairly large houses, considering that it is the Lenten season. It is highly popular with patrons.

Rumors persist that the Metro, Triangle and Paramount companies are to open exchanges in Bangor, but there is nothing definite to them as yet, and film exchange men as a rule say that there are enough exchanges here now. There are four in all, General, Universal, Unicorn and Pathe.

Charles McAloon, who has been in the employ of the Pathe exchange in Bangor, has gone to Boston to take a position with the same firm.

Boston News Letter

By J. J. Phillips Photoplay Editor, Boston Journal.

No Sunday Shows in Haverhill.

HAVERHILL, MASS.—Beginning Sunday, March 5, there will be no more Sunday vaudeville at the theatres in Haverhill, Mass. This measure went to effect after much agitation and protest from the local showmen. It is rumored that the White Rats were in part responsible for the No Sunday Vaudeville here.

"Joan the Woman" Opens at Colonial.

Boston, Mass.—"Joan the Woman," with Geraldine Farrar, will open at the Colonial theater, Boston, on March 19. The Cardinal film company has already started the propaganda advertising in all Boston newspapers on this film.

"Poor Little Rich Girl" Pleasing in Boston.

Boston, Mass.—"The Poor Little Rich Girl" opened Monday, March 5, at the Modern theater, Boston, and is playing to capacity. Mary Pickford in the leading role is most pleasing. Many say that the part was made for her. Manager Pinanski will run this picture for two weeks as is his custom with the Pickford Aircraft productions.

Manager Soriero's Electric Effects Approved.

Alice Brady in the "Dancer's Peril," at the Park theater, is seen to good advantage. The beautiful electric effects that Manager Soriero is running at this house are still meeting with favor with the patrons.

"Seven Deadly Sins" Is Making a Hit.

McClure's "Seven Deadly Sins," playing at both Gordon houses, the Scollay Sq. Olympia and Gordon's Olympia, are attracting great audiences. Nathan Gordon, the president and general manager of these theaters, is more than pleased with the results that these pictures are showing.

Kellard Gets Ovation in Bridgeport.

Bridgeport, Conn.—Ralph Kellard, the Pathe star, appeared in person at the Liberty theater, Bridgeport, Conn., last Saturday. A special program was arranged in appreciation of Mr. Kellard's appearance, which was called "The Quadruple Kellard Day"; it included the showing of "The Precious Packet," in which Mr. Kellard is starred; the final chapter of "The Shielding Shadow," and the current chapter of "Pearl of the Army," the two Pathe serials, in which Mr. Kellard is the co-star. This was Mr. Kellard's first personal appearance in any theater since his debut in motion pictures, and the packed houses which greeted him, and the ovations he received, spoke volumes.

Loew's South End Theater Burns.

Boston, Mass.—The old Columbia theater, at the corner of Washington and Way streets, Boston, was burned out Wednesday night, February 21. I was one of the largest theaters in Boston and prior to its having been converted into a motion picture theater by the Loew interests it was for a number of years a great stock and melodrama house and for a time played many of the prominent road shows of a high class that came to Boston during the last 25 years. The name was changed to Loew's South End theater about two years ago and it had a seating capacity of over two thousand. The theater was in the process of reconstruction when it caught fire. The cause is attributed to a careless workman throwing a lighted match in some shavings or debris. The loss is estimated to be about $200,000.

Maritime News Letter

By F. F. Sully, La Tour, St. John, N. B.

Regal Films Enter Maritime Field.

ST. JOHN, N. B.—The new branch of the Regal Film, Ltd., has opened at 19 Market square, to enter the field in the Maritime Provinces. William J. Reid has been appointed resident manager. Mr. Reid was formerly manager of the Toronto office of the company. Previous to affiliating with his present employers he was associated with the Toronto office of the Famous Players. For three years he filled the position of assistant manager, a position which he held for three years previous with the General Film Co.

Although but established here a short time, the Regal is making new friends, and the booking prospects are said to be good. Charlie Burman, special representative, has been in the city working in conjunction with Mr. Reid in opening the new office. Roy Kerr, for six years shipper with the local Mutual forces, resigned to accept the post of booking clerk and shipper with Mr. Reid. Miss Alice Dustin, for some time at the Royal hotel news counter as public stenographer, is also a member of the office staff.

Artcraft and Monarch Films Coming.

St. John, N. B.—Harry Price, of Toronto, representing the Monarch and Artcraft films, was in the city last week, and closed negotiations with Walter Golding, manager of the Imperial, for a three-day run of the Clara Kimball Young picture, "The Common Law." This is the first Clara Kimball Young subject to come into this territory since the formation of the new company, and it is probable that Mary Pickford subjects, which have likewise not been seen here, will be introduced with a screening in the near future of "The Pride of the Clan." Both stars have many admirers in St. John, and their return to a local picture house should draw large crowds.

Rates at Strand in Truro Go Up.

Truro, N. S.—H. A. Walker, proprietor and manager of the Strand, has raised the general admission charges from five and ten cents to ten and fifteen. These prices will prevail at all performances except matinees.

Bert Silberstein Transferred to Montreal.

St. John, N. B.—Bert Silberstein, formerly of the Toronto office of the Famous Players, and for past six months road man for the local branch, has been transferred to the Montreal exchange, and will cover the Quebec territory for the remainder of the season. During his trips through the provinces "Bert" made many friends among the exhibitors, who found him a capable, energetic salesman.

Dartmouth, N. S.—H. R. Walker, manager and proprietor of the Gem theater, is making arrangements for a thorough interior and exterior remodeling of the building, and expects to have all improvements and alterations completed at the expiration of Lent. Mr. Walker is not running two Paramount features a week.

Digby, N. S.—James Cripps, proprietor of the Cripps Theaters, Limited, has just returned from a business trip across the bay to St. John, and has contracted for several of the Paramount features.

St. John, N. B.—R. G. March, St. John manager for the Specialty Film, has just returned from a trip through Nova Scotia, and reports that 16 different houses in the same number of towns have signed contracts for the Pathe serial, "Pearl of the Army."

Newark News Letter

By Jacob Kalter.

Hatch Film Buys State Rights.

NEWARK, N. J.—The Hatch Film Company, of which J. Frank Hatch, one of the "old-timers" in film circles here, is president, has purchased the state rights to both the "Garden of Allah" and "Beware of Strangers." The offices of the Hatch film are located at 284 Market street. At present the quarters are being entirely overhauled and renovated.

Orange Strand Incorporated.

Orange, N. J.—With Frederick H. Mertens, of 250 Jackson avenue, Jersey City, as registered agent, the Orange Strand theater company has been incorporated with a capital of $5,000. The incorporators are Fred H. Mertens, M. P. Gross, and Hattie G. Mertens, who will conduct a theater.

Floyd Vogt Heads Local Mutual.

Newark, N. J.—Floyd Vogt is the new manager of the Newark Mutual branch. He succeeds C. J. Fitch, who resigned to accept the position of manager of the comedy department of Paramount's entire New York territory. Mr. Vogt's rise in the picture field has been quick. Beginning as a salesman with the World Film at Newark and finally securing the position of manager of the Newark branch.

Ted Cottrell, who had charge of the film at the Mutual, has left that concern and is now with the Civilization Film corporation, 118 Market street. Paul M. Connors succeeds Mr. Cottrell at the Mutual.

Camden Amusement Incorporation.

Camden, N. J.—The Effinger Amusement Company, with registered agent New Jersey Guarantee & Trust Company, has been incorporated here with an authorized cap-

Pennsylvania Censors Give Data

Big Decrease in Amount of Film Submitted—State Takes in $102,000 in 18 Months and Spends $80,000 on Censorship—With Fees and Fines Earnings Were $44,000—Failure of Appeals—Educational.

•From Pittsburgh News Service, 6016 Jenkins Arcade, Pittsburgh, Pa.

PITTSBURGH, Pa.—Some amazing data for the exhibitors and the film trade in Pennsylvania, and also for those in other states that are afflicted or threatened with censorship, is found in the report just issued by the Pennsylvania Board of Censors, covering its activities from December 1, 1915, to December 1, 1916—a summary that shows in figures the adverse effect of the law upon the moving picture industry and the actual burdens imposed.

Nearly 2,000,000 feet less of moving picture film was shown in the state during the period of a year covered by the report, than in the previous year. The discrepancy, which totals 1,913 reels of an average length of 1,000 feet each, is attributed by the board to "trade conditions" and to the quarantine placed upon moving picture houses resulting from an epidemic of infantile paralysis, which had a tendency to restrict business.

The report, which contains the detailed workings of the board, as required by an act approved May 15, 1915, states further that the fines and fees paid by the board to the state treasurer during the period of 18 months, from June 1, 1915, to December 1, 1916, was $102,334.75. The amount appropriated by the state for the operation of the board was $80,920. According to these figures there is a balance of appropriations of $22,708.55, the amount collected in fees and fines exceeds the amount of the state appropriations by $21,414.75, and there was a total net earning of $44,122.30 for the period of 18 months.

The report says that the board examined physically 17,020 reels during the year. The number of duplicate reels certified to was 28,412, making in all 45,432,000 lineal feet of film released for use in the state. The total number of subjects condemned during the year was 89, one less than during the preceding year. The total amount of fines collected from May 31, 1915, to December 1, 1916, was $9,300, the report shows.

The board states that about 10 per cent of the films submitted for examination are educational, including travelogue and current event pictures. In making an analysis of the kinds of pictures exhibited, the board suggests to the governor that "an effort be made to enact legislation whereby motion pictures might play the part they really deserve in the scheme of education." The report emphasizes that it is a well-known fact that scenes depicted upon the screen are permanently fixed in the minds of children. Certain branches of studies could be fittingly arranged and graphically portrayed, which could produce results well worth the effort.

The report is concluded with the statement that appeals from the decisions of ital of $12,000. The incorporators are J. H. and L. Effinger.

Miss Perle Burger at General.

Newark, N. J.—An item of interest to Jersey exhibitors, and one that will be welcome news to a goodly percentage of them, is that Miss Perle Burger just returned to the employ of the General Film. Miss Burger was with the General some time ago, but left to join the office force of Newark Pathe. H. Harris is the manager of the local branch of the General, which is located at 16 Beaver street.

S. P. Whiting With Civilization.

Newark, N. J.—S. P. Whiting has again joined the Civilization Film Corporation. Mr. Whiting has been placed in charge of the percentage rentals. Mr. Whiting the board of censors by manufacturers and exchanges have met with no success. Of 12 cases appealed 10 were dismissed and the board sustained. Two appeals were withdrawn.

Phillipsburg to Have New 1,500-Seat House.

Phillipsburg, Pa.—A large and handsome moving picture theater is being erected at Phillipsburg by A. J. Flickenstein, a well-known exhibitor. The construction work is going forward rapidly and indications are that the house will be ready for opening about May 1. The building, which is fire-proof, and of imposing architectural design, will cost $125,000. The seating capacity of the theater will be 1,500. Mr. Flickenstein is embodying in the project many unique and modern ideas that have been formulated from an experience covering many years in the business. Among the commendable features is a large projection booth of solid concrete. Equipment, furnishings and decorations will be of the latest type and the best procurable. Mr. Flickenstein formerly conducted the Majestic theater in Phillipsburg, destroyed by fire about a year and a half ago. His enviable reputation for providing the highest grade of moving picture entertainment promises to make the new theater a great success.

L. J. Marks to Run Victoria Theater.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—The Victoria theater, Center avenue, Pittsburgh, will be discontinued by Mark Browarsky, of the Enterprise amusement company upon the expiration of his lease on March 20. The house is to be closed for extensive remodeling, after which it will be continued by L. J. Marks, owner of the theater. Among the improvements to be made in the Victoria will be a new front, new lighting system and much up-to-date equipment and furniture. A $4,500 organ will also be installed by Mr. Marks. The house will be managed by Morris Finkel, formerly of the Colonial theater, South Side. The Victoria will show high-class feature pictures exclusively.

Latest Pickford Makes Big Hit.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—The Liberty theater, Penn avenue at Shady, Pittsburgh, one of the largest and finest of the Rowland and Clark houses, ran to capacity business the notable Mary Pickford production, "A Poor Little Rich Girl," the week of March 5. Continuing its policy of first-run pictures in Pittsburgh, "The Masque of Life" will be shown the entire week of March 12. The new arrangement is meeting with phenomenal success, Manager Casper reports, and will be permanent.

has been previously connected with the picture.

Triangle Appoints J. N. Naulty.

Fort Lee, N. J.—The Triangle film corporation, incorporated under the laws of Virginia, have appointed James M. Naulty, of Main street, as their New Jersey agent.

Ampere Theater Incorporated.

East Orange, N. J.—The Ampere theater corporation, with an authorized capital of $125,000, has been incorporated here with registered office at 380 Main street. The incorporators are Henry C. Brown, James Tyrell, and William E. Grimsey, all of that address. The shares of stock are $100 each, and Mr. Brown holds eight, and the others one each.

Capital's New Building Rules

Exchanges and Theater Booths and the Storing and Handling of Film Taken Up in Regulations Proposed by Fire Marshal Nicholson—District Commissioners Will Grant Hearing—Permits, Limits to Amount of Film, Etc.

By Clarence L. Linz, 622 Riggs Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Each of the exchange managers in the District of Columbia is to be furnished with a copy of the proposed amendments to the police regulations, governing the storage, handling and manufacture of inflammable motion picture films. These are the regulations prepared by Fire Marshal Nicholson, regarding which the district commissioners will shortly hold hearings that all interested parties may state their views.

Permits for Handling or Storing Film.

The proposed regulations provide that no person or persons shall keep, store, handle or manufacture in any building in the District of Columbia, any inflammable motion picture film without first obtaining a permit from the fire marshal. All applications must be made in writing on blanks furnished by the fire marshal's office.

No permit will be issued for any building occupied in any way for dwelling purposes, or which is artificially lighted by any other means than electricity, or which is of wood construction, or which does not contain one or more separate rooms used exclusively for the storage and handling of the films.

It is further provided that the store of inflammable motion picture films shall be in vaults or rooms of fireproof construction, in buildings defined as second class in the building code, having self-supporting brick or cement walls, the former to be not less than thirteen inches thick, laid in cement and extending from the ground, the latter to be not less than ten inches thick and also extending from the ground. The top and bottom of such vaults or rooms must be waterproof and made of brick or concrete arches not less than six inches thick, and no wood top floorings may be used. The size of the vaults cannot exceed 1,500 cubic feet. Openings into the vaults or rooms must be protected on the outer side of the wall with approved iron doors at least 3-16 inches thick, and made fireproof by closing against a rabbet at the top, bottom and side.

Provision is also made for such vaults in fireproof buildings, the walls must be not less than nine inches thick, of brick or concrete.

All Fixtures, Shelving and Furniture of Metal.

One of the clauses very much opposed by the exchange managers is that which requires that all fixtures, shelving and furniture in the vaults or rooms used for the storage of films, and in rooms for the repairing and rewinding of films, and in rooms used for the storage of posters shall be of metal or other non-combustible material.

No lights other than stationary incandescent electric lamps, enclosed in vapor-proof globes and protected by an approved guard will be permitted, and no switch or other appliance which may cause an arc can be used. The control of the lights must be installed outside of the vaults or rooms, each provided with a pilot light or other specially approved indicator. In the repair and rewinding rooms similar provisions are made, and no switch or other appliance which may cause an arc can be installed within five feet of any point where a film is being repaired or rewound. Electric lamps protected by approved guards are provided for the poster room.

No heat of any kind is to be permitted in any vault or room used for storage of inflammable films. The examining and repairing of films must be in a room having outside ventilation and separated from the rest of the building by fireproof partitions with self-closing doors and used for no other purpose; the partition and doors are to contain no glass other than wire glass.

Limit to Film in Theater Booths or in Examination Room.

Another feature not approved by the exchange managers is the requirement that not more than ten reels nor more than ten thousand feet in the aggregate of films shall be under examination or repair at any one time, and each reel of film must be kept in a tightly closed metal box when not being repaired or examined. Not more than one exposed reel shall be in the hands of any one person at any one time. Not more than ten reels or ten thousand feet of film will be permitted to be kept in the booth of any motion picture theater or theater using films, and these when not being used for exhibition on a screen must be kept in approved metal boxes with self closing tops or covers.

A metal can must be provided for the receipt of waste parts and scraps of films being repaired. These must be kept covered with water and removed daily and safely disposed of. Separate receptacles must be provided for waste paper and refuse of other kinds.

The repair and rewinding rooms may be heated only with hot air, hot water, or steam, and a metal shield or screen must be provided to prevent the films from coming in contact with radiators or heated pipes. No hot air floor registers will be permitted.

All storage, manufacturing, repairing and examination of films must be under the direct supervision of one or more persons who shall demonstrate their fitness for the position to the satisfaction of the chief engineer and fire marshal.

No collodion, amyl-acetate or other similar inflammable cement or liquid in quantities greater than one quart will be permitted to be kept in a room where inflammable films are stored or repaired. Premises where such films are stored, manufactured, repaired or examined must be equipped with the number of buckets of water, sand and fire extinguishers as approved by the chief engineer and fire marshal.

In all rooms used for the storage of posters, an aisle space not less than three feet wide and one or more openings to the outside air, easily accessible in the event of fire, must be provided. Smoking or the use of matches will be prohibited in every room where films are handled, stored or kept, including poster rooms. No torch, forge, fire or open flame or sparking device shall be kept, used or manufactured, and no volatile or inflammable fluids will be permitted to be kept or used in any building where films are kept.

Exhibition rooms, accommodating not more than 25 persons, will be permitted for use for the purpose of sale, exchange or renting of films, in a building containing an exchange, provided the room is of fireproof construction and has a fireproof booth. Public exhibitions may not be given unless other "necessary fire prevention appliances are installed as required in Article 16, of the Police Regulations, applying to motion picture theaters."

Regulating Film Transportation.

Of interest to exchange managers and theater managers alike is Section 14-K, which states that no person shall transport or carry inflammable motion picture films on any street, avenue, alley, parking or public space, nor on any street car or other conveyance of any kind in the District of Columbia, unless each reel of film shall be separately enclosed in a tightly-closed metal box, properly reinforced at the joints and corners fastened with metal, subject to the approval of the chief engineer and fire marshal. All motion picture films are to be deemed to be in transit when they are not in a room used for the storage, handling, manufacturing or the exhibition of such films. Not more than 12 reels so enclosed shall be carried or transported by any one person at any one time. Metal reels are required.

Any person, firm or corporation violating any of the provisions above referred to, or refusing, failing or neglecting to comply with any of them, will be fined not less than $5 nor more than $100 for each offense, and a separate offense shall be regarded as having been committed for each day during which the violation shall continue, and upon a second conviction for violation of any of the provisions, subject to the approval of the District Commissioners, the permit issued will be revoked.

Baltimore News Letter

J. M. Shellman, 1902 Mt. Royal Ter., Baltimore, Md.

Nat Glasser Back in Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, MD.—It is reported that Nat Glasser is coming back to Baltimore to handle this territory for Sidney B. Lust, of Washington. Mr. Glasser spent many months here, working for the greater Vitagraph and recently he was transferred to handle the North Carolina territory from the Washington exchange. This work will now be taken over by "Bob" North, a live wire from this city, who has had quite a good deal of experience in the film game having successfully managed the New Pickwick for four years when owned by J. Howard Bennett.

F. P. Bratton in Baltimore.

Pocomoke City, Md.—Frank P. Bratton, who owns and manages the New Empire theater in Pocomoke City, Md., was in Baltimore on Tuesday, March 6, and paid some visits. He looked very prosperous in a big fur coat and a brand new Ford. He took in the inauguration at Washington and after a short time in Baltimore continued to Frederick. He stated business is very brisk and that he will shortly screen "Civilization" with prices from 25 cents to $1.

Clearfield Opera House Burns.

Clearfield, Pa.—On Tuesday, February 27, the opera house in this city was practically demolished by flames. Other structures in the immediate vicinity were swept by the fire, which is understood to have started in the theater. The estimated loss is $125,000.

Pathe Pictures at Penitentiary.

Baltimore, Md.—Through the activities of Frank B. Spurrier, Baltimore representative of Pathe, it has been decided that the pictures of this company will be used exclusively for the inmates of the Maryland penitentiary.

Potato Matinee at Majestic.

Harrisburg, Pa.—N. Fagan, of this city, staged a morning matinee at the Majestic theater here on Saturday March 3 for the school children. The price of admission being two spuds per child. The Associated Aid Societies received the gross receipts.

Irish Booth Benefit at New Theater.

Baltimore, Md.—Through the courtesy of L. A. DeHoff, manager of the New theater, 210 West Lexington street, this house was turned over to the committee in charge of the Irish booth of the Allied Bazaar, on Sunday night, March 4, for a sacred concert, which was held for the benefit of the widows and orphans of the Irish killed on the battlefronts.

Depkin "Shoots" Inauguration.

Baltimore, Md.—Bernard Depkin, Jr., manager of the Parkway theater, 3-9 West North avenue, got up bright and early on Monday morning, March 5, and taking with him his camera man and suitable paraphernalia, he proceeded to Washington and hustled from place to place, taking pictures of the inauguration. He succeeded in getting several hundred feet, which were screened at the Parkway the rest of the week. Special attention was given to Marylanders.

Beauty Contest at Nixon-Victoria.

Baltimore, Md.—Manager Charles E. Thropp, of the Nixon-Victoria theater, 415 East Baltimore street, is now holding a beauty contest in which there will be 16 entries. All applications for entering are being written and left with the box office. March 8, 15 and 22 are the dates. On each of the first two dates eight entries will be selected and the finals will be run on the last date. Those who win the first three prizes in the preliminary contests will be eligible for the finals. At this writing it is also announced that a vegetable matinee will soon be held at this house at which the price of admission will be a vegetable. After this is held the Federated Charities will designate the distribution of the food.

Sacred Concert at Grand.

Baltimore, Md.—Through the courtesy of Charles E. Anderson, manager of the Grand theater in Highlandtown, a sacred concert was held in this house on Sunday, March 11, for the benefit of the J. F. Wiessner Orphan Asylum. The affair was held under the auspices of the Eichenkranz Singing Society.

Mellenger Brothers Donate Theater.

Cumberland, Md.—Through the courtesy of the Mellenger Brothers, proprietors of the Maryland theater in this city, a sacred concert was given in this house on Sunday night, March 4. One hundred and seventy-five boys from Allegheny county attended.

Philadelphia News Letter

By F. O. Armato, 144 N. Salford St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Features That Made Talk.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—Manager J. J. McSweeney, of the Chestnut Street opera house, terminated on March 3 the highly successful engagement of D. W. Griffith's "Intolerance." The picture played to capacity to the last and was succeeded on March 5 by the feature made from Rex Beach's novel, "The Barrister." The latter got off to a good start. Mary Pickford in "The Poor Little Rich Girl," received enthusiastic reviews from practically every newspaper critic and capacity houses have been the rule. The first presentation of Robert Warwick in "The Argyle Case," produced by the World Film, attracted much patronage at the Arcadia. At the Victoria Virginia Pearson in "Sister Against Sister" was booked for three days and Dorothy Phillips in "Hell Morgan's Girl" closed the week.

Local Notes and Chit-Chat.

Philadelphia, Pa.—H. Ernest, special officer of the Fairmount Amusement company, has an enviable record also as manager. He was one of the pioneers here and has recently inaugurated several innovations in the presentation of photographs.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Louis Krause, business manager of Local 307, M. P. U., was elected vice-president of the I. A. T. S. E. at the recent convention held in Cleveland.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Manager William Sachsmaier of the Universal is spending

Can Picture Shows Use Community Song?

Buffalo Picture Fan Thinks It Would Be Worth While for Some Exhibitor to Consider the Delight of Singing in Chorus.

By Joseph A. McGuire, 152 North Elmwood Ave., Buffalo, N. Y.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—Buffalo moving picture men are watching with interest the community singing craze which has hit this city. Once a week hundreds of men, women and children go to the Hutchinson High School and sing songs, classical and popular, under the direction of Harry H. Barnhart, a specialist, who has toured the country as a conductor of community choruses.

"The first Buffalo exhibitor who swings these singers to his theater by providing the very kind of program and director offered at the Hutchinson high school, will not only 'delight the multitude' and make money, but will get a lot of advertising for his enterprise."

This is the statement made by a Buffalo moving picture fan, who also is "head over heels in love" with community singing.

"The scheme could be advertised as extensively as the city advertises the free community chorus," continued the fan. "The innovation would please everybody in the audience, because everybody at least thinks he can sing and likes to join in a chorus, under an able director. Think how many people would put up their dimes to see a good moving picture show, with the added attraction of singing to their hearts' content for even a few minutes in a well-directed chorus."

"The singing feature would not have to consume much time, but it would have to be handled with the proper showmanship," said the man with the suggestion. "Just now, when the public's mind is engrossed with thoughts of filibusters, armed neutrality and similar ideas that concern the nation, national airs could be played up strongly. Sunday would be a good day for a try-out. Non-sectarian hymns could also be featured. Many who now oppose Sunday shows would attend these Sunday performances."

Many local picture men are meditating over the remarks of Conductor Barnhart, who leads the city's community chorus, that this singing raises the standard of citizenship and develops patriotism. He says, when he came to Buffalo, half the people didn't know two verses of "America" and only one out of 200 persons knew a single verse of "The Star Spangled Banner." It has been suggested that in the Buffalo theaters, which have large orchestras and pipe organs, the national airs could be played and sung with intense enthusiasm. It is believed, however, that an experienced singing director would be "the power behind the throne" in assuring the success of the feature. Whether the community chorus as a big extra attraction will be taken up by some enterprising Buffalo exhibitor remains to be seen.

The Arbuckle Buffalo Banquet.

Buffalo, N. Y.—The Buffalo newspapers gave considerable space to the recent visit his annual vacation at Hot Springs, Arkansas. William J. Zellner, of the Interstate, is acting manager during Mr. Sachsmaier's absence.

Joel A. Levy, Jr., Comes.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Joel A. Levy, of the Wilkes-Barre, (Pa.) Bluebird branch, announces the release of a new "Bluebird" put on the market February 16th. The title of the new feature, which is short and lively, is "Joel A. Levy, Jr." He weighs eight pounds and he and his mother are doing well.

F. W. Buehler Attends Inaugural.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Frank W. Buehler, general manager of the Central Market street amusement company, accompanied of "Fatty" Arbuckle to this city. Reference to his coming has already been made in these columns. Mr. Arbuckle visited some of the leading theaters and addressed the audiences on film and other subjects. John Sayles, secretary to Mayor Fuhrmann of Buffalo, was toastmaster at the banquet given at the Iroquois hotel in honor of the popular film star. Among the speakers were: Joseph Steele, Lou Anger, Joseph Schuchert, William Jefferson, William L. Sherry and Mr. Arbuckle. Irving Berlin, the song writer, and members of his "Stop, Look and Listen" show, playing at the Star theater this city, were also present.

"Where Is the Money Coming From?"

Buffalo, N. Y.—This is the striking question which appears on each of several thousand envelopes distributed by Edwin O. Weinberg, manager of the Elmwood moving picture theater, Buffalo. Below these words is printed the command: "Open the envelope and find out." Curiosity prompted nearly all the recipients of the envelopes to obey the command. Inside each envelope is found a sheet of paper, which, to anybody who has seen money lately, suggests a crisp five dollar bill. On one side of the bill is the announcement that "money saved is money made." Advice is also given in so many words that those who wish to join in a "nation-wide thrift campaign" can get a world of suggestions by seeing Lillian Walker in "The Dollar and the Law" at the Elmwood on a certain date.

Sending out the announcements just at a time when potatoes are edging their way into the luxury class and when father's money must have considerable elasticity to insure "making both ends meet," Manager Weinberg's "stage money" made a decided hit and drew crowded houses to "The Dollar and the Law." The people of his neighborhood are all prosperous, but they showed by their presence at the performance that in the matter of family financing they were all open for suggestions.

So far as dollars are really concerned, Mr. Weinberg is consistent in giving his audiences a real run for their money. His latest program for a week shows these attractions: Clara Kimball Young in "The Common Law," Douglas Fairbanks in "The Habit of Happiness," Marie Doro in "Lost and Won," Ralph Herz in "Winning an Heiress," Antonio Moreno and Peggy Hyland in "Rose of the South," Fanny Ward in "Betty to the Rescue," Hughie Mack in "Walls and Wallops," Emmy Wehlen in "Vanity," Margarita Fischer and Robert Leonard in "Robinson Crusoe," Charles Richman and Dorothy Kelly in "Carriage Call No. 101," Mary Miles Minter in "The Innocence of Lizette," William Courtenay and Lucille Stewart in "Ninety and Nine," etc.

by Mrs. Buehler, attended the inauguration ceremonies of President Wilson. Mr. Buehler besides being an enthusiastic admirer of the President, is also a personal friend and a graduate of Princeton. He received a special invitation to call at the White House after the inauguration and enjoyed a brief chat with the chief executive.

Philadelphia, Pa.—The Kimball organ which the Imperial theater at 60th and Walnut streets has just installed was played for the public the first time on Monday evening, Mar. 3. The organist is William C. Lovett. He has been musical director and organist of several important churches here and in New Jersey, and for two years he played the organ at the Garrick theater, one of the important legitimate theaters.

Form Exchange Club Like Cincinnati's

Cleveland Managers Discussed a F. I. L. M. Club, But Concluded That the Cincinnati Idea Would Fit Conditions Better.

By M. A. Malaney, 218 Columbia Bldg., Cleveland, O.

CLEVELAND, O.—Exchange managers of Cleveland are attempting to organize an Exchange Men's Association along similar lines to that in Cincinnati.

It will be affiliated with the Chamber of Commerce, whose secretary, Munson Havens, is working with a committee of managers headed by E. A. Eschmann, of the World Film Corp.

The object of the association is to handle all problems that confront the exchanges. The by-laws are simple and broad in scope, nothing special in the way of limiting the association's activities being included. It is the purpose of the organizers to have an association without any objectionable features. These men studied the F. I. L. M. club idea, but decided that between this and the Cincinnati proposition the latter was more to their advantage.

Tri-State Takes on Two Roadmen.

Cleveland, O.—Manager Jossey, of the Cleveland Tri-State office, reports business picking up fine. He has added two more roadmen, Charles B. Burton and Sydney Rosenthal.

Fox "Civil Service" Policy at Work.

Cleveland, O.—One of the new exchange policies which is being watched eagerly by the entire film industry is the "civil service" idea of the Fox film corporation, especially as it has been handled in this territory by P. C. Mooney, the district manager.

All of the managers under his control have secured their jobs by advancement and meritorious service.

Joe Kaliski, Cincinnati manager, formerly was a road man out of Boston. Recently he was transferred from Cleveland to Cincinnati, where he is doing good work advancing the interests of that office.

C. G. Kingsley formerly was road man out of Cincinnati, and now is the manager at Detroit.

C. A. Browne, new manager at Cleveland, was promoted from the position of road man out of that office.

The St. Louis office is in charge of Sam Shurman, who was elevated to that position from a road man's job.

Even P. C. himself has undergone the same experience. He started with the Fox people when the company was organized as manager of the Cleveland office.

Leon D. Netter Boosting "Libertine."

Cleveland, O.—Leon D. Netter, of the Masterpiece attractions, was in Elyria, Lorain and Sandusky last week boosting "The Libertine" and "Purity." George Schade, of Schade's theater, Sandusky, treated him to a real ice-caught white fish dinner on Friday.

Toronto News Letter

By W. M. Gladish, 1263 Gerrard St. E., Toronto, Ont.

Strand Theater Affairs in Court.

TORONTO, ONT.—Much surprise was occasioned in Canadian film circles on March 2 when Justice Middleton of the Ontario Civil Assizes granted an order for the winding up of the Strand theater, Toronto, one of the best-known theaters in the Dominion. The company operating the Strand went into voluntary liquidation a few days before with Osler Wade, Toronto, acting as assignee. The company was incorporated in 1911, with a capital of $100,000, of which $66,600 was paid up. The theater has not been closed and it is understood that the controlling interests will be reorganized to resume the operation of the house.

Will Use Films in Toronto Schools.

Toronto, Ont.—The management committee of the Toronto Board of Education has made provision for the adoption of moving pictures as a form of study in Toronto public schools. On the motion of Trustee Dr. Noble, the committee prepared to spend $1,000 as a start for the installation of the necessary equipment. It is intended to teach geography and other subjects by means of moving pictures. Since the announcement of the decision of the committee a considerable quantity of literature has been received from various companies and exchanges concerning equipment and educational films, so that the picture folks seem to be well abreast of the game in all its angles.

Charlie Stevens Organizes State Rights Company.

Toronto, Ont.—Charlie Stevens, formerly with the Universal in Canada, has organized Super-Pictures, Ltd., with headquarters at 59 Victoria street, Toronto, to handle various state-rights pictures, together with several requisites, such as the products of the Krouse Mfg. Co., whom he will represent in the whole of Canada with the exception of the Province of Quebec. As his first attraction Stevens has secured the Canadian rights for the eight-reel production, "The Whip."

The offices of the company, which are located on the ground floor of the above address, are large, light and roomy.

Mr. Exhibitor:—You will get more helpful information by carefully reading one trade paper weekly than by skimming over three or four. The MOVING PICTURE WORLD is the one paper you need.

Interesting Toronto Personals.

Toronto, Ont.—F. L. Brick, formerly manager of the Garden theater, Toronto, and first manager of the new Regent theater here, has returned to Toronto from Philadelphia and will probably take charge of a local house. Mr. Brick is well known in film circles in the Dominion and he has been negotiating for several propositions locally.

Manager Brady of the Madison theater, Toronto, one of Toronto's pioneer exhibitors, has decided to retire from business and has arranged to lease his house for a term of months. The Madison is one of the best theaters in the city.

Harry Pomeroy has also announced that he is disposing of his interest in the Belmont theater, which is located in the north end of Toronto.

Business in Hamilton Warrants More Seats.

Hamilton, Ont.—The moving picture theaters in Hamilton are doing big business. In fact, more theaters are contemplated and several exhibitors have arranged for the enlargement of present houses. H. Guest, owner and manager of the Queen's theater, Barton and Ottawa streets, has decided to spend $15,000 to enlarge the house, after which he will present a mixed program of pictures and vaudeville.

J. M. Peregrine, 74 Queen street south, has also decided to tear down a part of his present premises on Barton street east and build a new picture theater to cost $75,000.

Toronto, Ont.—Manager Roberts of the Regent theater secured a fine drawing card for his theater during the week of March 5 in the person of Arthur George, the Toronto baritone, who has been singing for several years in New York.

Cincinnati News Letter

By Kenneth C. Crain, 307 First National Bank Bldg., Cincinnati.

Grand Expects Big Business With "Nation" Film.

CINCINNATI, O.—It has been definitely announced that the premier showing of "The Birth of a Nation" in Cincinnati will be at the Grand opera house, beginning on March 19. There will be two performances a day excepting on Sunday, at the highest average admission price yet charged in Cincinnati for a moving picture production. The refusal of the Ohio censors to admit the picture to exhibition up to a few weeks ago and the widespread discussion of it elsewhere have excited interest in Cincinnati to a point where it is certain that the picture will draw even more heavily than elsewhere.

Adolph Zukor and "Fatty" Arbuckle Please Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, O.—The success of the visit paid to Cincinnati by Adolph Zukor, the famous president of the Famous Players-Lasky Company, and Roscoe ("Fatty") Arbuckle, the equally famous star, newly connected with the Paramount organization, deserves extended comment. Both the executive and the actor received a warm reception at the several points where they appeared, especially at the luncheon held at the Hotel Gibson, where 75 exhibitors of Paramount pictures were the guests, and where Mr. Zukor made an address on the value of clean pictures, which went far toward explaining the success of his company and his pictures. Mr. Arbuckle was widely interviewed by reporters and others, and his unfailing good humor in the face of the bombardment of curious questions and eyes made him even more popular than his film fame has done. The party came to Cincinnati in Mr. Arbuckle's private car, and were accompanied by William Jefferson, Mrs. Arbuckle and her sister, and others well known in film circles.

Suit Ties Up "Civilization" Earnings.

Youngstown, O.—J. D. Kelly has filed another attachment suit to tie up the proceeds of the exhibition of "Civilization," the great Ince film, at the Strand theater, in connection with his claim for damages against the A. G. Fontana Productions. Mr. Kelly declares that he had a contract for the exhibition of the picture at the Hazelton Dome theater, and that he has sustained heavy damage by the alleged preference given to the Strand by the owners of the picture. His statement of money is of course not directed at the Strand, but against the Fontana company, through the funds due it from the Strand, and earned by the picture.

Nation Film at the "Victoria" Dayton.

Dayton, O.—The long-awaited date of the exhibition of "The Birth of a Nation" in Dayton has been announced. The plum has fallen to the Victoria, whose management has been exceedingly alert in seizing the big things of filmdom; and the engagement begins on March 16.

Geo. Chenet and D. M. Thomas, New Faces at Fox Offices.

Cincinnati, O.—Manager Joseph Kaliski, of the Fox exchange, is to have the benefit of the services of Geo. Chenet, Fox special representative, who has been working out of Detroit, and who will cover this territory for a time. D. M. Thomas is another new man in the Cincinnati Fox office, coming from the St. Louis office.

E. J. Dauman Covering Kentucky for Tri-State.

Cincinnati, O.—E. J. Dauman will cover the Kentucky territory hereafter for Manager Ralph E. Peckham, of the Tri-State exchange. Among the recent releases of the Tri-State which have done well among the exhibitors is "Her Good Name."

New Bill Would Censor Ads.

Illinois Legislature Has a Bill Providing for Censorship of Films and Show Advertising—Allows Appeal from Decisions of Board—Viewing Charge Will Be $1 a Reel and 25 Cents for Duplicates—Recall of Permits.

By Frank H. Madison, 623 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

SPRINGFIELD, ILL. — Advertising of motion pictures would be liable to censorship in Illinois if House Bill No. 467, introduced by Representative Guernsey into the Illinois legislature, becomes a law. It provides for a copy of all banners and posters intended for advertising purposes should be submitted to the censors. This measure provides for a censor who is to be employed by and be subject to the director of education and registration. It is left to the director of education to adopt "reasonable rules and regulations." The text of the bill follows:

The director of education and registration upon the taking effect of this Act shall, from time to time, employ a competent person who is well qualified by education and experience to act as censor of motion pictures under this Act. Such employee shall be known as the official motion picture censor. The censor shall be paid a salary to be fixed by the director of education and registration, with the approval of the Governor, not to exceed three thousand five hundred dollars ($3,500) per annum, and shall execute a bond in the penal sum of five thousand dollars ($5,000) for the faithful performance of the duties of the censor. The director of education and registration, with the approval of the Governor, shall also employ such assistants and clerical help as shall, from time to time, be necessary to carry out the provisions of this Act, and fix their compensation.

An office for the transaction of the business of the motion picture censorship shall be maintained in Chicago and at such other points in the State as shall be deemed necessary. Such office shall consist of suitable rooms and equipment for office and projection purposes.

All motion picture films intended to be exhibited or displayed in the State of Illinois shall be submitted to the official censor and shall be publicly exhibited or displayed only upon the approval of the official censor, except where the decision of the official censor is reversed or modified upon appeal as provided herein, and in such other cases as are herein expressly excepted.

When a film has been censored, a certificate showing the approval or rejection of such film shall be issued to the party submitting the same. When the film is approved by the official censor such film shall be given an approval number which shall be shown on the certificate issued by the official censor, to the person submitting the film. Such certificate shall also show the title of such film and all eliminations, if any, ordered from such film.

For each film so approved there shall also be issued by the official censor an official leader or stamp of approval of not less than five (5) feet in length, bearing the words "approved by the official motion picture censor of the State of Illinois," and the number as assigned to such film, in the certificate of approval, together with such design engraved thereon as the official censor may prescribe.

Provides for Recall of Permits.

The official censor is authorized to recall any film for recensoring or to revoke any certificate permitting the exhibition of any film in the State of Illinois, whenever, in his judgment, the public welfare requires it.

From and after ninety (90) days after this Act shall take effect, no film may be publicly shown or exhibited within the State of Illinois unless approved by the official censor and numbered and endorsed as herein provided. No fee shall be charged for examining any film which has been given an unrestricted and unconditional permit by any municipal board of censors existing in Illinois prior to July 1, 1917, if in the discretion of the official censor hereby created it shall become necessary or desirable to again examine such film, and when any film is given an unrestricted and unqualified approval by the official censor, such film shall not be subject to any further censorship in any county, city, village or town in this state.

Fees for Censoring.

A fee of one dollar ($1.00) for each reel of film to be censored, which does not exceed one thousand (1,000) lineal feet, and one dollar ($1.00) for each additional one thousand (1,000) lineal feet or fractional part thereof, shall be collected by the official censor for censoring each original film, and for copies or duplicates thereof twenty-five cents (25 cents) for each reel of film to be censored which does not exceed one thousand (1,000) lineal feet, and twenty-five cents (25 cents) for each additional one thousand (1,000) lineal feet or fractional part thereof.

The official censor and any assistant or employee of the censorship office may enter any place where films, reels or views are exhibited and shall have power to prevent the display or exhibition of any film, reel or view which has not been duly approved by the official censor.

It shall be unlawful for any person to hinder or interfere in any manner with the official censor or any assistant or employee of the censorship office while performing any duty under the provisions of this Act.

The official censor shall keep a record of all examinations of films, reels or views and note on the record all films, reels or views which have been approved, and all such films, reels or views as have been disapproved, together with the reason for such disapproval.

The official censor may work in conjunction with any censor board or boards of legal status in other states as a censor congress, and the action of such congress in approving or rejecting films may be approved by the Illinois official motion picture censor, and all films passed, approved, stamped and numbered by such congress, may be approved when the fees therefor have been paid to the Illinois official censor, without being again exhibited.

Censorship for Advertising Matter.

No banner, poster, or other like advertising matter used to announce or advertise any motion picture or the exhibition thereof, shall contain anything that is immoral or improper. A copy of all banners and posters intended for such advertising purposes shall be submitted to the official censor and no such banner or poster shall be used unless approved by the official censor.

Any person aggrieved by any order or decision of the official censor may, within three (3) days appeal to the director of education and registration, who may in his discretion reverse or modify any order or decision of the official censor.

The circuit court may review any decision of the director of education and registration, upholding the official censor, by writ of certiorari. Such writ shall be issued by the clerk of such court upon praecipe. . . . It shall be competent for the Supreme Court to require by certiorari or otherwise any such case, after final decision in the circuit court, to be certified to the Supreme Court for its review and determination.

Sixth: Such further information as shall be requested by the Governor.

Penalties for Infraction of Law.

Any person, or any agent, employee or officer of a firm, corporation, or association, who shall publicly exhibit or show any motion picture in the State of Illinois, which has not been passed and approved by the official censor, or shall publicly exhibit or show any motion picture within the State of Illinois without first having projected upon the screen the design of the official leader, or stamp of approval, of not less than five (5) feet in length and the number assigned to such film, as shown by the certificate issued by the official censor, or who shall counterfeited any leader, or stamp of approval, provided for herein, or shall have in his possession such a counterfeit leader, or any design, not issued by the official censor, or shall publicly exhibit or show any motion picture within the State of Illinois that contains parts or sections that have been ordered eliminated by the official censor, or shall loan, rent or lease any film, or films, to any exhibitor or other person, for public exhibition within the State of Illinois before the eliminations ordered by the official censor have been made, or shall advertise any part, or parts, or any motion picture after the same has been censored and disapproved by the official censor, or shall rent, loan or lease such motion picture containing any part, or parts, added after such motion picture has been censored and approved by the official censor, or shall use or post any banner, poster or other like advertising matter, to announce or advertise any motion picture, or the exhibition thereof, containing anything improper or immoral and which has not been approved by the official censor, or who shall hinder or interfere in any manner with the official censor, or any assistant or employee of the censorship office, while performing any duty under the provisions of this Act, or shall violate any rule or regulation made in accordance with the provisions of this Act, shall, upon conviction thereof, be punished by fine of not less than twenty-five dollars ($25) nor more than three hundred dollars ($300), or imprisoned in the county jail for not less than thirty (30) days nor more than one (1) year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court, for each offense.

Does Not Apply to Educational Films.

The provisions of this Act shall not apply to any exhibition or use of films, reels or views for purely educational or religious purposes by any religious association, fraternal society, library, clinic, museum, public or private school or institution of learning.

The several sections and provisions of this Act are hereby declared to be independent of each other, and it is the legislative intent that if any of said sections of provisions be declared unconstitutional, such sections or provisions shall not affect any other portion of this Act.

Pay Barker-Swan Film Co. Creditors.

Peoria, Ill.—Creditors of the Barker-Swan Film company received a dividend of 75 per cent. of their claims and as arrangements have been made for a second final dividend of 25 per cent. of May 24, all creditors will receive 100 cents on the dollar. The situation was cleared by the men who had purchased the company taking up at face value about $50,000 of the claims and waving them in the course of the settlement.

Indicted for Failing to Pay Special Tax.

Freeport, Ill.—Robert S. Hopper, former exhibitor, appeared before United States Commissioner Vance and gave bonds of $500 for his appearance in the United States Court at Madison, Wis. He was indicted on a charge of unlawfully conducting a theater at Janesville, Wis., without paying the special tax. Hopper declared he knew nothing of the indictment and would return to Janesville to determine what was the trouble.

Illinois Theater Notes and Changes.

Lewistown, Ill.—Don Elliott is managing the Gem theater here.

Taylorville, Ill.—Manager Joseph R. McCarthy has been making plans to remodel the Empress theater into a two-story theater seating over 500 persons. The changes will be made in the course of the summer months.

Taylorville, Ill.—James Grieg has sold the lease on the Grand theater to Charles Vance, who is known for his connection with the Dawn theater at Streator. The new manager will use an orchestra.

Kewanee, Ill.—The "Rialto" will be the name of the handsome new theater which Chris Taylor is erecting.

Salem, Ill.—Harry Williams is again in charge of the projection at the Lyric theater.

Paxton, Ill.—The Crystal theater is giving a series of benefits for the Paxton band.

Wyoming, Ill.—Manager L. A. Castle of the Lyceum theater has changed its operating schedule, eliminating Monday and Friday evenings.

Waukegan, Ill.—Manager Walter Spoor of the Academy theater has installed a mammoth bursting sky-rocket electric sign in front of his theater.

Decatur, Ill.—Byrant Washburn, Essanay star, appeared at the Avan theater in person with his remarkably successful picture, "Skinner's Dress Suit."

Kewanee, Ill.—Moving pictures have been introduced into Kewanee schools.

Atlanta News Letter

By A. M. Beatty, 43 Copenhill Avenue, Atlanta, Ga.

Manager Homer George Entertains Guy Crosswell Smith.

ATLANTA, GA.—Atlanta newspaper men were guests Sunday night of Homer George, manager of the Atlanta theater, at a delightful dinner in the Piedmont hotel, in honor of Guy Crosswell Smith, manager of the "Intolerance" producing company and a lieutenant of David W. Griffith. He is visiting the city to attend the opening of this great film at the Atlanta theater to-night.

The guests were Guy Crosswell Smith, J. J. Garrity, of the "Intolerance" company; F. Webb, Dudley Glass, of the Georgian; Ned McIntosh, of "The Constitution"; Quimby Melton, of "The Constitution"; Ward Moorehouse, of "The Journal," and Britt Craig, of "The Constitution."

"Intolerance" was the attraction at the Atlanta theater commencing Monday, March 5. During this engagement of one week, with matinees daily, every seat was reserved.

"Panthea" Fills Criterion Theater.

Atlanta, Ga.—Norma Talmadge, in her own feature production "Panthea," was shown to capacity houses at the Criterion theater Wednesday and Thursday.

This is the first appearance here of Miss Talmadge, former Triangle star, since she became the head of her own producing company, and her first release gives her a favorable introduction to Atlanta.

Interesting Local Personal.

Atlanta, Ga.—Angel Soteropoulos and Ralph DeBruler, of Macon, were in Atlanta Tuesday, getting a line on some new features.

E. J. Sparks, general manager of the Lynch interests in Jacksonville, Fla., was in Atlanta this week.

C. A. Crute, manager of the Elks theater, Huntsville, Ala., spent Tuesday in Atlanta, looking for features.

Henry Hury, manager of the Champion, Birmingham, visited Exchange Row.

C. E. Tandy, vice-president of Southern Paramount, has gone to New York in the interest of the Southern Triangle, in which he is also interested.

Newest Kunsky Theater Opens

Detroit's Madison, at Broadway and Grand Circus Park, Is Filled by an Invited Audience on March 6—Formal Opening Next Day—Has 2,500 Seats on Two Levels—Will Be Conducted by M. Harlan Starr—Some Points of Interest.

By Jacob Smith, 503 Free Press Bldg., Detroit, Mich.

DETROIT, MICH.—John H. Kunsky's latest, largest and finest moving picture theater—The Madison, at Broadway and Grand Circus park—was opened privately Tuesday evening, March 6, to a capacity audience, consisting of exhibitors, newspapermen, city officials and friends. The public opening took place at noon the following day. Mary Pickford in "A Poor Little Rich Girl"; Max Linder in "Max Comes Across"; Pathe Hearst News, and a Pathe travel picture, soloist, and orchestra selections, comprises the opening program which will continue until Saturday, March 17.

The New Madison seats about 2,500 people, all on two floors. The policy of the Madison theater will be six shows daily, running continuously from noon daily until eleven at night. The prices are 10, 15 and 25 cents for matinees, and 15, 25 and 50 cents at night.

M. Harlan Starr is the house manager. He has been with the Kunsky enterprises for several years and formerly managed the Washington theater. Previously he was manager of the Empire theater for A. J. Gilligham.

Mr. Kunsky is president of the Madison theater company, and George W. Trendle, secretary. The latter is an attorney who has been associated with Mr. Kunsky from the very start. Mr. Trendle was largely responsible for the new theater because it was due to his clever handling of the financing end that the Madison became a realization after Mr. Kunsky had conceived it. The Madison theater company is not a stock proposition, none of the stock being offered to the public. It was financed by bonding the building, after Mr. Kunsky had taken a long lease of the property. When the bonding debt is paid off—which it will be inside of a few years—Mr. Kunsky and Mr. Trendle will be the sole owners of the entire proposition—and it will then be worth a great deal of money.

The decorative scheme is from the Italian Renaissance. Tapestry panels cover the walls, and a color scheme of green gold and ivory is carried out in every bit of the decoration.

An innovation is the orchestra pit, which is in three elevations, which is absolutely different than anything in the United States.

We could fill a page without any trouble if we were to enumerate all of the good points and descriptions of the New Madison, but we are going to leave this for a later article which will appear in the Moving Picture World just as soon as pictures are available.

Flowers and floral offerings from hundreds of friends decorated the lobbies and foyer of the New Madison at the opening performance.

Censorship Bill Must Be Fought.

Lansing, Mich.—The Eaton censorship bill covering motion pictures, which has been in the hands of the State Affairs committee has been reported out with the recommendation that it pass. The bill provides for the appointment of three censors by the governor who are authorized and required to inspect all motion picture films before they are exhibited in Michigan.

Another censorship bill has been introduced at Lansing—this time in the Senate. It is practically the same as the Eaton bill except that it would have the Censor Board travel from city to city; it also provides for larger salaries.

Now is when exhibitors must put up a real fight.

Barnett Film Attractions Opens Office.

Detroit, Mich.—The Barnett film attractions have established offices at 311 Peter Smith building, Detroit, and the Sincere building, Cleveland. This concern owns "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea" and "Joan the Woman" for both states.

Metro Manager Resigns.

Detroit, Mich.—Art Richardson, booking manager of the Metro exchange, Detroit, has tendered his resignation, and will shortly make an announcement of a new connection.

Joseph Friedman Joins State Film.

Detroit, Mich.—Joseph Friedman has joined the staff of the State Film Company, Detroit, and will handle sales. "The Conquest of Canaan," controlled by this firm, will have its Detroit premier at the Drury Lane and Regent theaters, March 11.

Maurice Geiger Leaves for Pittsburgh.

Detroit, Mich.—Maurice Geiger, formerly with the Broadway feature film company, and the World Film, has resigned to become road salesman out of the Pittsburgh office of the Artcraft. Joe Klein, formerly of Detroit, was recently appointed manager of the Artcraft-Pittsburgh office.

Exhibitors' Notes.

Coldwater, Mich.—George Prior, who formerly operated a theater at Tecumseh, has leased the Happy Hour theater at Coldwater. He now calls it the Strand.

Howell, Mich.—A. J. Moeller, of Howell, who runs the Temple theater there, has accepted the position of manager of the Franklin theater in Saginaw. Mrs. Moeller will look after the management of the Temple. Mr. Moeller is secretary of the Michigan State Exhibitors League and kindly requests that all official communications on league matters be sent to him at that address.

Michigan Business Notes.

F. M. Brockwell, managing director of the Lewis J. Selznick Productions, Inc., of Chicago, was in Detroit last week looking for a state rights buyer in Michigan on "The Masque of Life."

John H. Kunsky, of Detroit, has bought the Michigan rights to "Dante's Inferno."

N. Palley, Campau building, Detroit, is back from New York and announces having purchased the Michigan rights to Milo comedies, and a number of other comedies and features.

"The Girl Phillipa" will be the second attraction at the Madison theater, Detroit.

The New Oakland theater, Pontiac, will open the last week in March without fail, says Harry Goldstein, general manager.

Jimmy Grainger, of the Harper film company, of New York, owners of "Civilization," breezed into Detroit on his way through to California. This picture, by the way, is doing a big business at the Washington theater, Detroit, where it is on a long run.

Tom North, of the Pathe de luxe department, was in Detroit and gave a private screening to John H. Kunsky and his managers of "The Vicar of Wakefield." This big feature will appear shortly at the Madison.

Arthur D. Baehr, manager of the Crystal theater, Detroit, packed his theater recently when he had as a special attraction Claire Anderson, a Keystone actress. She is a Detroit girl and appeared personally at the Crystal because of her long friendship with Manager Baehr.

Tennessee News Letter

By J. L. Ray, 1014 Stahlman Building,
Nashville, Tenn.

Majestic Opened at Clarksville.

CLARKSVILLE, TENN.—The Majestic, new Third street moving picture house, was opened to the public on March 1. The Majestic was constructed by the Crescent Amusement Company of Nashville, but President Tony Sudekum recently transferred the property to the Lillian Theater Company, a local corporation, of which Joe Goldberg is general manager. The house is being operated under a ten-year lease.

The initial program consisted of Douglas Fairbanks in "The Matrimaniac," and a Keystone comedy, starring Roscoe Arbuckle. Manager Goldberg recently returned from a trip to various exchanges, where he lined up a high-class program service to be used at his new house. The Majestic policy will be to offer only the best pictures obtainable, and the public may be assured of high-class entertainment under the capable management of Mr. Goldberg.

Signal Company Continues Building.

Chattanooga, Tenn.—Construction activities have again been resumed by the Signal amusement company, and work has already begun on the extensive changes to be accorded the two houses operated by the Signal company. Enlargements to the Alcazar are to be made. General Manager Frank H. Dowler, Jr., recently stated that the Alcazar's seating capacity will be approximately 1,200. The change will further adapt this theater for the high-class features which will comprise its programs in the future, including the large spectacles of the screen at high prices.

Howell Graham Leases Lyric.

Chattanooga, Tenn.—A contract for the sub-lease of the Lyric theater by the city to Howell Graham has been signed by Mr. Graham and commissioner Ed Herron. The time of the contract dates from May 1, 1917, to April 30, 1919, a period of two years. It was stipulated in the agreement that the lease may be canceled by the owners, the Chattanooga trust company, the city, or Mr. Graham, upon six months' written notice. It was originally intended that the Lyric be used exclusively for an auditorium, but later the terms were amended to allow the theater people three days of each week when the building was not in use by the city.

Building Inspector After Operators.

Nashville, Tenn.—James H. Yeaman, city supervisor of buildings, has been engaged during the past few weeks in rounding up delinquent operators who have failed to renew their licenses, in accordance with the provisions of the municipal building code of this city. The fees were due on January 1, and as late as two months after that date the city was compelled to serve warnings on fifty-two operators. A limited grace period was then allowed the men, with the promise of arrest and trial in the city court if any of their number failed to comply with the law within that time.

To Remodel Bijou for Loew Chain.

Birmingham, Ala.—E. A. Schiller, of the Schiller amusement company, and Marcus Loew, of the Loew vaudeville circuit, will in the near future let contracts to remodel the Bijou theater, which will include the changing of the theater front, a new addition, remodeled lobby, additional fire escapes, rest rooms on each floor for ladies, lounging and reading rooms, etc. The house will be redecorated throughout, a new ventilating system and additional seats installed, and additional stage equipment provided, with a screen of modern design for moving pictures.

Five Cent Houses in Louisville Grow Fewer

In Downtown District There Are Now Only Two Nickel Theaters—Smaller Houses Are Raising Prices or Closing Out.

By Ohio Valley News Service, 1404 Starke Bldg., Louisville, Ky.

LOUISVILLE, KY.—The five-cent theater is almost a thing of the past in Louisville, there being but three five-cent houses left, two of which are in the downtown district, and one of which charges ten cents on Saturdays and Sundays. The high cost of films and other operating expenses have made it impossible to longer operate five-cent theaters profitably, unless they have a very large seating capacity, and here the rental eats up the profit if the theater is on a good street. During the past few weeks the Crystal and the Olympic, two five-cent theaters on Market street, closed their doors.

The Star, Orpheum and Casino theaters, three five-cent houses near the corner of Fourth and Jefferson streets, have raised their ante to ten cents. This leaves the Rex and Hippodrome theaters at five cents in the downtown district. The Knickerbocker, an outskirts house at Eighteenth and Market streets, is charging five cents during the week and ten cents on Saturday and Sunday, and managing to make a little money. The Orpheum and Casino are running stage attractions in connection with pictures, the Casino having 12 persons in a musical comedy bill booked during the week of March 5. The Orpheum is using vaudeville in connection with its pictures. The Star has gone over to features, using Triangle two days each week; Fox two days and Vitagraph for three days. A comedy is run with each of the features, Keystone being used every other day. The price of films has advanced to a point where the five-cent house with a small seating capacity could no longer secure a class of films which would attract, having to use very poor stuff or very old material, in most instances.

Heat Plant Lets Down During Blizzard.

Louisville, Ky.—The steam plant in the John C. Lewis building, which furnishes steam for the Alamo theater, located in the old annex of the Lewis building, blew up from a gas back-fire on Sunday, March 4, putting the plant out of commission, and injuring two men. People in the theater heard the explosion, but did not take it seriously, and no excitement prevailed. However, the theater was without steam during a blizzard and snowstorm. A large force of workmen were put on the job, changing the furnaces so that coal could be burned instead of gas, and the furnace was in working order again by night.

Calnay Cinema Corporation Blows Up.

Louisville, Ky.—Attachment proceedings have been filed against property of the Calnay Cinema Corporation, of Louisville, incorporated. The attachments are filed by the owners of the Republic building, with claims for rental; and furniture concerns which supplied the luxurious furniture with which the suite of eleven rooms was furnished. James Calnay, president and promotor of the company, has resigned his position and left the city.

Several months ago the Dixie film corporation was organized by Calnay and associates at Nashville, Tenn., where some pictures were actually produced. Shortly thereafter the promoters came to Louisville, organizing the local company, Jas. Calnay and O. G. Fairchild being the principals. The Nashville concern was incorporated with a capital of $5,000. About a month ago the Gateway motion picture company, a subsidiary company, was incorporated by W. W. Dickerson and others.

The company's troubles started several weeks ago when Mrs. Elizabeth Hawkins, with whom Mr. and Mrs. Calnay boarded, threatened to file receivership proceedings if Calnay did not resign. Mrs. Hawkins is a widow, and purchased 2,000 shares of stock in the organization which she alleged was being mismanaged by Calnay. At that time Calnay turned over to Mrs. Hawkins an additional amount of stock, consisting of 2,204 shares of stock which he held, no purchase being made, this taking place after the capital had been increased.

C. E. Foye, of Louisville, the second largest stockholder, stated that Calnay resigned when stockholders suggested that his salary be cut. He had been drawing $250 per week. According to Foye there was but one other stockholder. Olsen G. Fairchild and Walter Harrison, both of Nashville, secretary and treasurer, respectively, are said to have left the city. Mrs. Calnay is said to have returned to Birmingham. About $700 is due for rental, furniture, etc., some of which is protected by chattels. Mrs. Hawkins and Mr. Foye are endeavoring to reorganize the company, but from the present outlook its affairs will be liquidated, and its charter surrendered.

Ten Per Cent. on Gross State License Tax Proposed.

Louisville, Ky.—Representative T. A. Dover, of Jefferson County, Ky., has completed the tentative draft of a bill providing for a license tax of ten per cent. of the gross gate receipts of theaters, picture theaters, shows, dance halls, race tracks, ball parks, boxing and wrestling matches and all other forms of entertainment or amusement where a fee or charge of any kind is made for admission. This bill has been drafted in connection with the present session of the legislature, which has been called for the sole purpose of remodeling the present state taxation laws. The revenue from such a tax would prove enormous, and a heavy drain on all moving picture theaters. Louis Dittmar, president of the Majestic Amusement Co., of Louisville; The Kentucky Exhibitors League, and one of the leading exhibitors, has stated that in case the bill is introduced as an amendment to the proposed taxation bill, the moving picture men will warmly contest it. Mr. Dittmar hardly believes that such a drastic bill would receive much consideration at the hands of the legislative body.

Kentucky Theater Notes.

Louisville, Ky.—The heavy snows of last week caused a damage of about $150 to the glass marquee at the front of the Walnut theater, the weight becoming so great that the glass broke away, bending the metal also.

Louisville, Ky.—The Louisville Gayety theater company has filed an intervening petition in Chancery Court, requesting that the lease of the building to the Adger Amusement Company be canceled, and the building turned over to the owners, alleging that Hanly C. Ragan, receiver for the Adger Amusement Company, appointed by Judge Kirby, after Adger closed the house, has not paid the rent. Following Wall Adger's throwing up the sponge, Ragan re-opened the house, and has been operating for several weeks.

Murray, Ky.—The Dixie theater is installing a private lighting plant, and will no longer be at the mercy of the utility company.

Irvine, Ky.—Ground has been broken for a new building for the Irvine Amusement Company, which lost its house a few weeks ago in a fire.

Campbellsville, Ky.—W. I. Meador, owner of the Alhambra theater, recently tendered a free performance to school children, showing Mary Pickford in "The Fondling."

R. C. Cropper Heads Standard

Kansas City Exchange Exploiting Art Dramas in Missouri, Kansas, Iowa and Nebraska Will Be Run by Well Known Local Film Man—Has Shown Organizing Business Ability—Some of His Aids.

By Kansas City News Service, 205 Corn Belt Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.

ONE of the most important changes in the Kansas City district is contained in the announcement that R. C. Cropper has been made president and general manager of the Standard film corporation, distributors of art dramas, in Missouri, Kansas, Iowa and Nebraska. Mr. Cropper took over his new duties March 1. No exchange man is better known in the trade than is R. C. Cropper, and none stands higher. He is particularly noted for his fine executive work in connection with the Universal office in the past four years, during which the business of that office has grown very largely, and the scope of the Kansas City work has been extended to cover a large district. Exchange men know that he has put into effect in the Universal offices, rather radical ideas in moving picture distribution. He is a business man; and he has put his merchandising of films on the same basis as any other commodity handled through a jobber. He analyzes sales, shows where the business should come from, what was the matter with it and how it could be helped.

The Standard film corporation has also got other representatives from the Universal. Marty Williams, the oldest exchange man in Kansas City, formerly manager of the Mutual and Metro offices in Kansas City, and for the past year serial manager of the Universal, has been made manager of the Des Moines office.

W. B. Emrich, formerly manager of the Bluebird at Kansas City, and who previously had been with the Fox company at Kansas City, has been made special representative of the Standard.

J. Erwin Dodson, formerly manager of the World of Kansas City, recently of Missouri, has been made manager of the St. Louis office of the Standard.

W. Parsons, formerly traveling for Bluebird, is Standard road representative in Nebraska.

Joe Fieldman, formerly serial manager of the Universal at Chicago, is now traveling Iowa.

P. L. Ryan, formerly sales manager of the Universal at Kansas City, is handling the sales and advertising of the Standard.

Vitagraph Promotes F. F. Nine.

Kansas City, Mo.—W. C. Gookin, since December 1, manager of the Greater Vitagraph at Kansas City, resigned, taking effect March 1, to become general sales manager of an eastern corporation, leaving the moving picture business.

F. F. Nine, who had been with the Vitagraph since it was opened, March, 1915, has been made manager. Mr. Nine was road man for Pathe and later assistant manager. Previously, he had been with the General as road man. He entered the Vitagraph as booker and became assistant manager when Mr. Gookin came.

A. W. Day, shipper, has been promoted to booker.

Educational Institutions Buy Projectors.

Kansas City, Mo.—The National Educational Association, which met in Kansas City recently, had many representatives who inquired into the cost of installing motion picture machines and cost of operating same. Among those installing machines were: Prof. Geo. S. Dick, president State Normal, Kearney, Neb.; Prof. Lather and Prof. Cook, Emporia Normal and Emporia High School; Prof. Richer, West High School, Des Moines, Ia.; Prof. J. W. Perry, Iowa State College, Ames, Ia., and Prof. W. S. Cleary, Syracuse, Kan. The last three already have their machines installed and are showing such features as the Burton Holmes pictures, South American Travel, etc.; these are paying expenses and a profit besides.

Also machines have been installed in the Asylum for the Deaf and Dumb, Olathe, Kan.; the Asylum for the Feeble-minded, Winfield, Kan.; the Rolla School of Mines, Rolla, Mo., and the Neosho, Mo., High School. Two big churches of Kansas City, viz., the First Presbyterian and the Jewish Temple, are also showing educational pictures.

More Kansas City Notes.

Beloit, Kan.—The Dreamland theater recently opened to the public. Mr. Noe is manager.

Cottonwood Falls, Kan.—R. H. Cross, Wichita, Kan., has purchased the theater building of Mrs. Jabin Johnson and will operate a moving picture show there.

Girard, Kan.—Thomas Miller has sold his interest in the Bluebird theater to Ed. Griffin and Frank Davidson, who now have charge.

Hartford, Kan.—Warren J. Musch has rented the Ackly building and is having it remodeled to be used for his moving picture shows. The seating capacity will be 200.

Mulvane, Kan.—F. L. Smith has sold his picture business here and at Belle Plains to R. P. Wright of Winfield, who took charge at once.

Kinsley, Kan.—Contract has been let for the construction of the new theater to be built by W. M. Harwood at the corner of Sixth and Niles avenue.

Kinsley, Kan.—The R. E. Edwards building is to be remodeled into a picture show, under the management of R. E. Crabtree. The seating capacity will be about 300.

Ottawa, Kan.—Fire, February 26, caused a damage of $2,000 in the Crystal theater.

Preston, Kan.—Preston is soon to have a new opera house and picture show. Dr. W. E. Long will operate the show.

Wichita, Kan.—Plans are complete for the proposed new theater at 308 and 310 East Douglas avenue. They are for a two-story building costing about $50,000, with stucco front and provision for a drug store or soda fountain at one side of the entrance. The plans call for a main floor seating capacity of 750 and for a balcony seating 400.

Mazda Theater Grows.

Aurora, Neb.—J. E. Schoonover, Aurora, Neb., is planning enlargement of his theater, the Mazda, to take care of greater patronage following a careful program of better pictures and intensive advertising. The theater has 250 seats now. It will have 400 when the length is extended.

Mr. Schoonover has many advantages as an exhibitor. He was in newspaper work 20 years, recently selling his interest in the Aurora paper to his partners. He retained the privilege of entering the printing office, setting up his own advertising matter and running it off on the press—and he uses that privilege.

Further, he frequently sets up the larger and more important advertisements that are to appear in the newspaper.

Incidentally, it may be mentioned that Mr. Schoonover studies the Moving Picture World carefully, and is therefore the more particular about the way his advertisements are set.

Mr. Schoonover's family is helpful in the theater—Mrs. Schoonover selling tickets, a daughter playing the piano, one son taking tickets, and another son being a competent operator, though a regular operator is employed.

Besides operating this moving picture house, Mr. Schoonover is secretary of a building and loan association, and is a member of the city council. He is also manager of the opera house—where occasionally road shows appear, and where the larger features in moving pictures are shown.

At the Mazda one show is given in the afternoon, two at night. It is perhaps the only town in the state of its size—2,500—that has an afternoon show. Admission is 15 cents, 5 cents for children.

Manager of Metro Invents Slide Shipping Case.

SAFETY FIRST!—with a Safety Slide Shipping Case.

When a glass slide is shipped, it is 10 to 1 that it won't reach its destination safely, or, if it does, the exhibitor falls to properly repack for return shipment and the slide is broken.

A Kansas City man, who has managed a film exchange for years, has found a remedy for the difficulty in a simple little invention, which he calls the safety slide shipping case. It is saving his exchange hundreds of dollars.

Charles Harden, manager of the Kansas City Metro exchange, is the originator. He has been in film work all his life, having been with the Mutual, Thanhouser and Fox companies. Mr. Harden was born in Parkenburg, Va.

INDIANA NEWS LETTER.

By Indiana Trade News Service.

Thumb Crushed in Operating Machine.

Elkhart, Ind.—Hugh McLaughlin, motion picture operator employed at the Family theater, suffered painful injuries last Sunday evening when his left thumb was caught in the operating machine. The member was crushed so badly that physicians advised that it be amputated.

Two Hartford Theaters Change Hands.

Hartford City, Ind.—Deals affecting two motion picture theaters of this city were completed last week. In one, A. W. Rosenbush, proprietor of the Royal theater, purchased the Palace theater from Mrs. A. A. Bowman and son, Russell Bowman, and in the other, John Burke, former local grocer, and Joseph Day, a Muncie real estate man, bought the Star theater. The considerations in the deals were not made public.

Mr. Rosenbush will assume charge of the Palace some time next week. He plans extensive improvements in the Royal theater and during the improvements will close the theater and conduct only the Palace. After the reopening of the Royal, the Palace will be closed for similar repairs and improvements. No announcement has been made regarding how soon the Star theater will be reopened.

Patent Device to Warn Operator.

Greencastle, Ind.—Oscar Day, of this city, has invented a device for use on a moving picture machine that promises to be valuable. It is an automatic affair which warns the operator when the end of a film is near. It works by electricity and rings a bell. Mr. Day received his patent a few days ago and has one working on a local machine. He has been perfecting the device for nearly a year.

Northwestern Items

Heard at State Rights Exchanges.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Samuel D. Friedman has secured the features formerly controlled by the E. L. K. Film Company, film exchange building, and is now booking them throughout the Northwest.

Guy Crandall has purchased the right to exploit "Defense or Tribute" in the Northwest, and is putting the feature out with a singer.

John A. Bachman of the Norway Film company, left for Duluth, March 4, to begin bookings for the second print of "A Trip to Norway."

Manager P. H. Carey of the Zenith exchange, has secured the right to distribute "Silver Threads Among the Gold" in Iowa and Nebraska, and he is now booking the feature in that territory with a tenor soloist as an added feature.

The B-B Film Producing Company of Winona, Minn., is booking "War As It Really Is," the Donald C. Thompson feature in Minnesota, according to an announcement by Manager W. P. Tearse.

Clarence Cuthbert, manager of his own firm, The Victory Film Company, has removed his offices to 351 Loeb Arcade.

R. E. Bishop Goes to Triangle.

Minneapolis, Minn.—R. E. Bishop has resigned as manager of the local Mutual exchange to become manager of the Triangle exchange, succeeding Ralph E. Bradford. Mr. Bishop is succeeded at the Mutual by George Law, formerly his assistant manager. Mr. Bishop became manager of the Mutual exchange last September, coming to Minneapolis from northern Michigan. George Law joined the Mutual forces the same month as Mr. Bishop. He was formerly manager of the General exchange at Winnipeg, Man.

Releasing Exchange Jottings.

Minneapolis, Minn.—C. E. Loeb, representative of the New York offices, visited Manager R. C. Fox at the Artercraft exchange the first half of the week of February 25.

Manager Harry Graham of the K-E-S-E exchange has booked Max Linder comedies in The Strand, Minneapolis.

Manager Sherrick of the McClure exchange has booked "Seven Deadly Sins" in The Alhambra, St. Paul, for first run. The Alhambra will run "Envy" within a week or ten days.

J. G. Bodine, Jr., to Manage American Theater.

Washington, D. C.—Joel G. Bodine has just taken over the management of the American theater in this city. Manager Bodine is one of the popular young exhibitors of the Capital City. He has been connected with the Stanto theater, from which he went to the Empire theater on H street. He has the good wishes of the trade and patrons generally.

Among Northwest Exhibitors.

Minneapolis, Minn.—The New Home theater here has been opened under the management of William Lanzen and Harold Asp.

Meaderville, Mont.—John Holmes has sold the Grand theater here to A. Olson.

Butte, Mont.—The decorations on the People's theater here have been completed and the handsome new house will be opened to the public within a few weeks.

Hecla, S. D.—Work of erecting a $6,000 picture theater here has been started. The theater will be of fireproof construction.

Stevens Point, Wis.—The Ideal theater here was closed last week when the management failed to pay its account with the Wisconsin Valley Electric Company.

Stevens Point, Wis.—A. N. Sprafka has offered for sale his Empire theater here.

Boyceville, Wis.—The new opera house here was opened to the public recently.

Rochester, Minn.—Beyerstadt Brothers have reported a big success with Max Linder's "Max Comes Across," at their Garden theater.

Rochester, Minn.—William Pierce has secured "Seven Deadly Sins" for showing at his local Princess theater.

Algona, Ia.—Manager William Stewart of the Magic theater has purchased the Princess theater here.

Minneapolis' F.I.L.M. Club's Big Banquet

Almost a Hundred Exchange Managers and Representatives Get Together at McCormick's for First Annual Dinner—Those Present.

By John L. Johnston, 604 Tel. Exchange Building, Minneapolis, Minn.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.—While exhibitors of the Northwest are planning their annual convention and "get-together," members of the F. I. L. M. Club brought out more film exchange men than ever had sat down to one table at one time before in the history of Minneapolis' film row, Tuesday evening, February 27, at McCormick's cafe.

The occasion was the first annual banquet of the F. I. L. M. Club, and with the publicity acquired from the initial "feast" next year's "doings" should require a much larger restaurant to accommodate the crowd.

About a hundred film exchangemen, including representatives and managers of almost every exchange in the city, were present, and the festivities commenced at six thirty and lasted until—later than that, or earlier, as you please. President W. K. Howard of the club, and Toastmaster Thomas Jacob Hamlin reigned at the banquet, and every man at the table was called upon for a short speech, joke or excuse, and every one responded. Some insisted upon being called on twice or thrice and some "went so big" that they had to give an encore. Cabaret entertainers were tired out, but the film men insisted on hearing from comrades of the ranks. Attorney Goldman won first honors for endurance in speech making, and Judge Frank Fox shared with several others the honor of getting "the biggest hand." Only 29 Ford jokes were told. Three were new.

Among those who attended were: W. K. Howard, manager of the Greater Vitagraph; J. Verhalen, publicity manager of the Famous Players Star Feature; L. H. Coen, roadman for the Famous Players Star Feature; Ernest Hill, of the Unicorn; Frank J. Hoy, of the Hoy reporting service; Samuel MacIntyre, roadman for the Fox Film; S. A. Louis, manager of the Rialto theater supply company; D. O. Hoyer, of the Laemmle (Universal); S. N. Robinson, manager of the Fox Film; A. J. Huesman, of the Fox Film; H. D. Graham, manager of the K. E. S. E.; F. C. Heusler, of K. E. S. E.; W. C. Lestic, of the K. E. S. E.

J. A. Schloss, of the Favorite; L. H. Francis, of the Theater equipment company; E. J. Frye, of the Lochren; H. F. Hawkins, of the Lochren; David Gruenberg, manager of the XL slide; G. Carroll Johnston, of the Lochren; Thomas E. Goldrick, of the Lochren; Frank D. Fox, of the Lochren; Earle C. Sly, of the Lochren; N. P. Eberley, of the Mutual; Geo. F. Law, manager of the Mutual; P. N. Brinch, special representative for the Triangle; R. E. Bishop, manager of the Triangle; T. A. Burke, manager of the Westcott; E. A. Westcott, president of the Westcott; Harry E. Hillwig, of the Laemmle (Universal).

O. MacConnell, of the World Film; R. E. Bradford, manager of the Laemmle; H. Rathner, manager of the Supreme Feature; Lee A. Horn, manager of the Selznick; H. R. Brandt, manager of the Brandt Film; A. S. Dworsky, manager of the Twin City Film Renovating company; M. R. Dick, of the M. R. Dick Features; J. W. Boyd, P. F. Schwie, roadmen for the American Maid Film; T. Stuart Kipling, of the American Maid Film; F. York Elliott, of the Elliott-Sherman Film; M. H. Conhaim, of the Supreme Feature Film; C. L. Booth, roadman for the Greater Vitagraph; E. S. Flynn, roadman for the Greater Vitagraph; Julius Bernheim, manager of the Bluebird; Jos. E. Swartzbein, manager of the Pathe, Inc.; A. A. Hixon, of the Metro; Benjamin Goldman, attorney for the film exchanges; Thomas J. Hamlin, of "Amusements."

Local Features and Bills.

St. Paul, Minn.—"The Masque of Life," controlled in this territory by the Westcott Film Corp., Minneapolis, began a week's run at the Majestic here March 4.

The Strand began a week's run of Nazimova in "War Brides," at twenty-five cents, Sunday, March 4. The Strand has also booked "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea" for the near future, and Max Linder comedies.

"The Blue Mouse" began a four-day showing of "Blind Justice," Sunday, March 4.

The Metropolitan has secured "Intolerance" for a week's run beginning March 11.

Minneapolis, Minn.—"Intolerance" much advertised and considerably commended opened a week's run at the Metropolitan opera house here Sunday, March 4, to a fair business. The film has been lauded by local papers, which claim it is superior to anything that has been seen before.

The Lyric returned to its policy of program releases, Sunday, March 4, with Anita Stewart in "The Girl Phillipa," and the S. R. O. sign was in evidence most of the day. The theater's special 25-piece orchestra has been retained, as have the dozen young lady ushers, and the feature is being put on in an admirable way.

The Strand had to call for police to keep the crowds in order Saturday, March 3, when Bryant Washburn appeared in person in connection with the showing of "Skinner's Dress Suit." From eleven o'clock in the morning (before Washburn arrived) until eleven at night (when he left) the crowd outside of the theater was too large to accommodate. Mr. Washburn shook hands and smiled until his face and hands were sorely tired. The Strand's second weekly fashion show also brought out two capacity houses. The theater began a week's run of "The Poor Little Rich Girl," March 4.

The New Garrick began a four-day showing of Blanche Sweet in "Those Who Sin," March 4, to capacity business. A concert cellist was an added attraction and proved worthy of his selection.

The New Garlen presented Ruth Stonehouse in "The Saintly Sinner" March 6 and 7, and an entertainer was also added to this program by Manager Sprague Green.

Film Salesmen May Organize.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Various film salesmen of Minneapolis were scheduled to hold a meeting at room 803, Lumber exchange, Sunday, March 4, for the purposes of organizing a body to represent them. The slogan "in union there is strength" is being followed by every branch of the film industry around this village and the film inspectors and film "toters" may organize in the near future.

New Company in Lansing, Mich.

Lansing, Mich.—The secretary of state has issued a certificate of incorporation to the J. R. Dennison Theater company of Monroe, with capital stock $55,000.

New Theaters and Changes in Michigan.

Reed City, Mich.—Thomas J. Berry and Clyde C. Keer have taken a five-year lease on a part of the Stoddard block and opened the Princess theater. In addition to the regular program one educational feature will be given each week.

Hancock, Mich.—Frank Ongle, manager of the Savoy theater, has purchased a site for the erection of a new theater.

Manistique, Mich.—The Princess theater has been sold to H. W. Blackwell, who will move the equipment to Stambaugh, Mich.

Saenger Company Opens Lafayette Theater

Triangle Pictures Shown in Temporarily Occupied Theater While the Strand Is Being Completed—Harron Appears With "The Bad Boy."

By N. E. Thatcher, 3801 Canal St., New Orleans, La.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.—On February 18 the Saenger Amusement company took over the Triangle Film service for New Orleans, intending to make this service the feature for the new Strand theater, under course of completion. The Triangle pictures have been run for some time in the Triangle theater, of which Ernst Boehringer is the manager and in his theater they were given marked prominence and made exceptionally popular. With the readjustment of motion picture affairs in this city the Triangle service passed to the Saenger interests and Manager Boehringer took over the Paramount service. Delays incident to building prevented the opening of the Strand theater as soon as had been contemplated, and for the time being the Saenger Amusement company rented the Lafayette theater and commenced the regular presentation of their program.

Bobby Herron Appears at the Lafayette.

The first showing was made on February 18 with "The Bad Boy" as the feature production. Robert Herron is the star in this picture and by a fortunate circumstance this young man with his director and a company of players was in the city taking scenes for a forthcoming release. In the party were "Bobbie" Harron, Lloyd Ingraham, director; Herbert Hadly, David Dominguez, Frank Urson and Adele Clifton. Upon the completion of their work here it was the intention to go to New York at once, but they were prevailed upon to remain over for the Lafayette opening and Harron made a personal appearance at each presentation of "The Bad Boy."

He acted the part—not that he showed anything bad, but because he unconsciously played the part of a boy who is thrown into prominence and he refused to consider it as a compliment. Nevertheless, he made nice little speeches in a sort of a awkward way that captivated the audience and he became immensely popular. The entire party was introduced to the odd and famous restaurants of the city at numerous luncheons and dinners and they appeared to enjoy the novelty. Their presence added to the opening of the Lafayette, and the musical accompaniment to the pictures by a fifteen-piece orchestra under the direction of Don Philippi of New York made the event a notable one and one that put the temporary picture house on the local map.

New Orleans Exchange Men Join Association

Preliminary Meeting Elects T. O. Tuttle of Local General Film as President, Harry Owens Vice-President and Karl Bugbee Secretary-Treasurer.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.—After repeated and indifferent attempts to effect an organization that would be worthy of the name, the film exchange managers of New Orleans have become affiliated with the Film Industry Local Managers and already feel the good effects of membership in an association that appears to have about it the quality of stability.

J. C. Hoy, of the Hoy reporting agency, has been in the city for some time and on February 26 the first step toward a permanent organization was taken. At a preliminary meeting T. O. Tuttle, of the General Film, was elected president of the local association; Harry Owens, of the Triangle exchange, vice-president, and Karl A. Bugbee, of the Southern Metro, was named as secretary and treasurer.

The organization starts off with enthusiasm and already one or two matters have Contractor Landrum-Becomes Exhibitor.

JACKSON, MISS.—When J. C. Landrum, then a contractor of Jackson, Miss., four or five years ago read the history of the Istrione, the ancient people who migrated from the land of the Itrius, at the head of the Adriatic Sea, to Rome, and were compelled to act in pantomime because there were none who understood their language, he concluded that this was the first authentic record of the "silent drama." Mr. Landrum is methodical. He wrote the name and filed it away.

In the course of time he was employed to plan a proposed motion picture theater. He drew the plans for a dandy theater and presented them to the projectors with much enthusiasm. They hesitated, feared the expenditure, and feared that motion pictures would go into decline.

"Oh, well, if you fellows have no nerve," observed the contractor, "I am almost tempted to build a photoplay theater myself."

The next morning Landrum took the first step toward becoming a real manager. He already had the word Istrione, and here was a chance to make use of it. He eased around among the real estate men and got a long lease on a tract across the street from the theater for which he had drawn the plans, for he was convinced that the projectors had no intention of going forward with the work. Here he erected a fine $15,000 show house and he proved that he had made an excellent investment. The Istrione at Jackson, Miss., is perhaps the only theater of that name in the country. Leastwise it is the only theater that can boast of its inception and its completion upon the mere suggestion of a word.

Manager Landrum watches every detail of the business. It is no wonder that he has scored a remarkable success. He has won the confidence of the people because he has deserved it, and he has proven to them that it has never been misplaced. No new appliance that will contribute to the pleasure of the patrons is omitted from the house. One of the latest innovations is the installation of a regular orchestra in the Istrione.

Manager Landrum is in touch with the latest releases and frequently makes trips to New Orleans that he may be present at the trade showings. He knows pictures as well, if not better, than the most of the exchange managers, and woe betide the manager or salesman who attempts to sell a bad picture for showing in the Istrione.

Among Gulf State Exhibitors.

Yazoo City, Miss.—Mrs. J. B. Devoto, one of the successful women managers of motion picture theaters in the South, has reopened the Star theater at Yazoo City, Miss., and will run only feature pictures. She has booked the World, Metro, K-E-S-E and other services. The first showing was made on February 5.

Abbyville, La.—Nelson & Clark of Abbyville, La., have just completed and opened an air dome which will seat 600 persons. Everything about the new house is of the best, and the proprietors look forward to a most prosperous season.

Pearce Will Boost Independent Program

Will Organize Exchange on New Lines and Takes Larger Offices Over Tudor Theater—To Distribute Attractive Film Service.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.—A business move which has more behind it than the mere transfer of office furniture and forces is being made by the Pearce amusement syndicate to new quarters over the Tudor theater. For years the affairs of the Pearce interests have been conducted in offices over the Trianon theater in Canal street. The business of the local Pearce houses has been testing the capacity of all the theaters owned by them and the demands of the film industry in this section have convinced these old-time exhibitors that conservative branching out is desirable, therefore the change of office location is made in order that more commodious quarters may be at hand for the development of interests along new lines as well as to care in a more satisfactory manner for the affairs that require immediate attention. The new offices over the Tudor theater are to be models of completeness and convenience. Every appliance for the conduct of a modern motion picture establishment is being installed. There is to be a modern projecting room and a storage vault for films.

In conjunction with other capitalists, the Pearce interests have noted the growing demand among exhibitors for independent programs and it is no longer a secret that a new and powerful independent film exchange is to be opened for the purpose of furnishing exhibitors in this territory with a dependable and attractive film service.

The new Pearce offices are to occupy the entire third floor of the Tudor theater building and it is the expectation to have them fully occupied and in smooth running order early in March.

Plaquemine's New Theater Begun.

Plaquemine, La.—The foundations for the new $40,000 motion picture theater have been laid and work is being pushed upon the building as rapidly as is consistent with good building. One of the largest lumber companies in the state is behind the enterprise and the building is situated in the center of the business district. The lot upon which it stands was rather narrow for the proper construction of sidewalks and the Texas & Pacific railroad showed its interest in the project to the extent of donating enough of its right of way to allow a suitable sidewalk to be built.

Jack Auslet's Chain of Theaters.

New Orleans, La.—Jack Auslet, of this city, has formed a circuit of motion picture theaters in Mississippi and is now operating the Strand at Laurel; the Princess at Boonville; the Lyric at Louisville; the Alamo at Houston; the Hippodrome at Philadelphia, and the Opera House at Baldwin, Miss. The main office will be at Booneville.

Clarksdale, Miss.—R. N. McWilliams, Clarksdale, Miss., has let a contract to Nicol, Langford & Johnston, Louisville, Ky., for the construction of a $72,000 photoplay theater in Clarksdale. Plans call for a seating capacity of 1,000.

Local Film Notes of Interest.

New Orleans, La.—A. O. Landry of the Victory theater at Abbeville, La., has been in New Orleans, contracting for new and complete appliances for his theater.

Nearly all of the downtown and suburban theaters have been drawing exceptional crowds by the exhibition of moving pictures of the recent carnival parades. The carnival is about the biggest thing in the South and this year over 500,000 people watched the spectacle. A notable unit of the parade was the motion picture section in which Manager Frank Davis of the Magic theater did the honors. A very beautiful float represented the motion picture industry and the various theaters and exchanges were represented by floats or couriers.

Greenville, Miss.—Arrangements are being completed for the erection of a combination opera house and motion picture theater at Greenville, Miss. The project is backed by exhibitors of experience and the outlook is very inviting.

New Orleans, La.—J. A. Buesson assumed charge of the Esplanade theater on March 1 and is starting on a good business. The Esplanade is one of the most desirable of the suburban houses and should make money. It is protected from opposition by the recently passed building ordinances and it makes the business almost exclusive. The theater is in the center of a high-class neighborhood and has a regular clientele.

Protest Against Colorado Censor Bill

Parent-Teacher and Mother Organizations Publish Vigorous Statement—Methods of Reformer Hansen and His Bills.

By E. C. Day, Denver Correspondent.

DENVER, COLO.—Thirty-five branches of the Parent-Teachers association of Colorado have gone on record as opposed to the moving picture censorship and public welfare bills now pending in the Colorado state legislature. The women who represent these organizations are among the most prominent social workers in the state. They met Wednesday February 28 and prepared the following statement for publication in the daily press and moving picture trade journals:

"By a unanimous vote of the representatives of thirty-five Parent-Teachers associations, at a meeting, it was agreed to abide by the decision of the Denver district committee in its disapproval of the public welfare bill and the state censorship bill, being advocated by Theodore Hanson of Kansas City and his associates, who are supporting this legislation.

Bills Might Thwart Betterment Work.

"The committee has spent much time and effort in the investigation and consideration of these bills and feels that it is justified in advising the Mothers' congress and Parent Teachers' association of Denver against them because of certain political possibilities contained in them, which may thwart much good work their organization is striving to do for the community.

"While the committee agrees that Mr. Hanson's sentiments—as expressed before many civic bodies—are such as any association with the good of the people in view might approve, yet they feel that the proposed bills fail to measure up to the sentiments expressed by the gentlemen who advocate them.

"Furthermore, they believe that there are several clauses in the bill, the passage of which might bring disastrous re-

Denver, Colo.—Still another theater is to grace Denver's great White Way. This city of 300,000 population, with six first class photoplay houses, all within a radius of two city blocks, is already recognized as the biggest and best, figured on a per capita basis, amusement town in the United States. Now it is to be placed far and away in the lead of municipalities of her size by the addition of a 3,500 seat theater.

The new playhouse is to be known as The Colorado. It is to be built on Curtis street, between 15th and 16th streets.

L. B. Brown and A. F. Megahan, who at present own and operate the Strand and Rialto theaters, are back of the new project. Plans have already been drawn and work probably will be started as soon as weather permits. It is planned to have the theater ready for opening by November of this year.

The Colorado will cost $165,000. It will be equivalent in height to a six story building and will be equipped so as to permit the staging of big traveling shows as well as moving pictures. It will be constructed with a disappearing stage, 60 feet wide, and worked by hydraulic lifts. When the stage is removed there will be space for extra seats. There will be 1,700 seats on the main floor, 1,000 in the first balcony and 800 in the second balcony. The theater will occupy a floor space 100 by 125 feet.

In outside and inside finish the Colorado will be elaborately decorated and in keeping with the size and general elegance of the theater. The exterior finish will be of buff terra cotta and it will be illuminated by 10,000 electric lights, or four times the number now used to light up any other building in the city.

sults to the causes for which the philanthropic and civic bodies of Denver stand and which would seriously involve the welfare of the city and the state.

"The committee feels it their duty to make this statement publicly because of a mistaken impression which has gone abroad that the association is indorsing these bills, created, possibly, by the fact that the names of two prominent members were mentioned publicly, but erroneously, as being on the original committee behind these bills.

"It was further agreed at this meeting that Mr. Hanson and his associates should not be permitted to appear before the Parent-Teachers' associations, whose representatives were present."

None of the five bills relating to moving pictures had been reported out of committee on March 5. Inasmuch as the legislature has agreed to adjourn March 24 and the last twelve days of the session are by law reserved for the consideration of only house bills in the senate and only senate bills in the house it is unlikely that any of the censorship or so-called welfare measures will be passed.

Theodore Hanson, the Kansas minister, who is agitating censorship in Colorado, has announced that if the bills fail of passage in the legislature he will make a campaign in all the cities and towns in the state in an effort to have each municipality establish a welfare board.

He appeared before the Ministerial Alliance at its regular weekly meeting Monday, March 5, and made a bitter attack on the Mothers congress and Parent-Teachers' association because the members of these organizations not only refused to endorse his campaign, but have come out openly in opposition to censorship.

Denver to Have a New 3,500 Seat Theater

Brown and Megahan to Build Big Theater to Be Called the Colorado—Will Cost $165,000—Disappearing Stage a Feature.

By Ohio Valley News Service, 1404 Starkes Bldg., Louisville, Ky.

Robert Willison, is the architect who has drawn the plans and will superintend the construction of the new playhouse. He designed the city auditorium and also the Strand and Rialto theaters. Brown and Megahan will continue to operate the Strand and Rialto. The new enterprise, they declare, will be financed solely and entirely by themselves and no outside capital will be employed.

TO EXHIBITORS.

If you are doing something new and interesting at your theatre let our correspondent know about it. It may help others and help you as well.
Helpfully yours,
THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD.

Cardinal Attractions Buys "Joan" Rights.

Denver, Colo.—The Cardinal attractions company has purchased state rights on "Joan the Woman," and is making elaborate plans for its showing in Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, Idaho and Montana. Lou Marcus, president of the Notable feature film company is also head of the Cardinal company. The picture will be shown in Denver and Salt Lake City early in April.

Edward Armstrong to Manage Local Universal.

Denver, Colo.—F. Y. Langtree, who was Denver manager for Universal and Bluebird until Edward Armstrong came here to take charge of the Rocky Mountain district, has severed his connection with the local film world and has returned to New York, his old home. Langtree left Denver March 1.

Mr. Armstrong, before assuming complete charge of Universal distribution in this section, was manager of the Salt Lake exchange. He now directs the work of the Denver, Salt Lake and Butte offices. Altho comparatively new in the territory he has won many friends among the exhibitors.

Three House Merger in Victor.

Victor, Colo.—A merger of the three theaters in Victor was completed March 1. The Victor opera house company was formed and took over the three houses. As a result the Isis has been closed while the Fox is being operated only on Saturdays and Sundays. The opera house shows a daily program of pictures except when an occasional road show is allowed to hold the boards for a night.

W. S. Rand Opening Salt Lake Exchange.

Denver, Colo.—W. S. Rand, manager of the Triangle exchange in this city, is in Salt Lake supervising the opening of a branch office to handle the business of the western end of the Rocky Mountain territory. Miss Catherin Mealy, head bookkeeper in the Denver office, also has gone to Salt Lake to open a new set of books for the Utah branch.

Mart Cohn Appointed Booker for Paramount.

Denver, Colo.—Mart Cohn, brother of Milton H. Cohn, manager of the local Paramount exchange, has been appointed head booker for Paramount. He succeeds John Hayden, who probably will enter the exhibiting branch of the moving picture industry.

Geo. Brown Will Assist Manager Glasser.

Denver, Colo.—W. B. Glasser, manager of the local McClure office, has announced the appointment of George Brown, formerly of Triangle, as assistant manager of the McClure exchange.

Working For Higher Admissions

Des Moines Exhibitors Running Smaller Theaters Are Trying to Get Together for Better Prices—Albert Schrag a Booster for the New Scheme—Local Exchange Men Are Helping the Good Work Along.

By Dorothy Day, Register-Tribune, Des Moines, Ia.

DES MOINES, IA.—The small exhibitors—the managers of the five-cent houses and the suburban theaters—are attempting to get together on the admission price proposition. With the exception of two hard headed exhibitors the entire circle of Des Moines exhibitors are ready to live up to the newly-made rule—10 cents for more than three reels. This new rule, of course, does not touch the big downtown houses, but it does touch the smaller downtown program houses, all of which up to this time have been showing five to seven reels for five cents. The suburban houses have been varying their prices with the kind of pictures they were showing—five cents for program, and ten and fifteen for features according to their worth. The case is well put by Albert E. Schrag, whose theater is typical.

Mr. Schrag has been in the motion picture business for four years. He owns the ground, the building and everything connected with his theater, the Ideal, a suburban house located at East 25th and Walnut streets. Mr. Schrag, with so many advantages over the ordinary exhibitor who has rent to meet in addition to his other expenses, says that he can not meet his living expenses and film rental and charge but five cents admission, and at the same time book the kind of pictures that he feels will satisfy his patrons. His competitor charges only a nickel most of the time, and Mr. Schrag is one of the biggest boosters for the new rule.

The exchanges are standing behind the exhibitors in their fight for higher admission prices, feeling that the new rule has everything in its favor—that they can give the exhibitor better pictures—pictures that the patrons will feel are worth going to see. With the exception of a few every four or five reel program produced today is worth ten cents.

Few Changes Over the State This Week.

Newton, Ia.—H. P. Lemon, owner of the Lyric in Newton, is having plans drawn up for a new theater in the spring.

Grinnell, Ia.—C. E. Budd, of Grinnell, is another manager planning a new theater for the better spring business. Budd is planning tearing down the Electric theater and building a more modern and larger house on the same site.

Fredreka, Ia.—Charles Costello has purchased the moving picture show in Fredreka from the Upham Brothers.

Cedar Rapids, Ia.—Wm. Griffin, who formerly operated the Lyric in Columbus Junction, has purchased the Ideal theater in Cedar Rapids, where he will show the General program.

Mount Pleasant, Ia.—C. Stith, who operated the Auditorium in Mount Pleasant four years ago, has again secured a lease on that theater. He will open on the 22d of April. Mr. Stith was in Des Moines arranging with the Mid West corporation for Triangle service.

Iowa City, Ia.—T. A. Brown, of the Strand theater, is probably the most consistent booster for Triangle in the state, having been running the Triangle pictures for eighteen months. Two weeks ago he ran "His Picture in the Paper," with Douglas Fairbanks, for the sixth return date, and reports that Sunday as one of the best in the history of his house. It was the Sunday after his big fire on Saturday. The fire had not proved as damaging as it was first believed, and although fearfully water-soaked after a big morning's work he opened the Strand at two o'clock in the afternoon.

Waterloo, Ia.—W. L. Myers, of the Palace theater, was ill with the gripe the past week, and during his confinement to his home, his daughter, Grace, operated the Palace. Miss Grace is a businesslike young woman of eighteen years, and is reported as "one fine manageress."

Carlisle, Ia.—Manager Keeney, of the Carlisle theater in Carlisle, is contemplating the addition of a big balcony to his theater that will increase his seating capacity 300 seats.

Cherokee, Ia.—F. W. Groen bought the Happy Hour theater of A. G. Ferris, in Cherokee.

Independence, Ia.—The big International Serial, "Patria," was firmly launched in Independence last week when the Isis gave a potato Matinee for the kiddies. The admission was one potato, with a substantial prize for the largest. The manager had three bushels of the expensive tubers when the matinee was over. When the potatoes are but $3.60 a bushel, the matinee was not to be sneezed at.

Lake City, Ia.—R. L. Johnson has purchased the Isis theater in Lake City from Geo. Williams.

Green, Ia.—I. E. Gates has purchased the Crystal theater from S. P. Lyman.

Julius Singer Drops In.

Des Moines, Ia.—Julius Singer, former manager of an Independent film exchange in this city and at present the New York representative of the L-Ko comedies, was in Des Moines. Des Moines is the last lap of a big trip that Singer has been making, which included St. Louis, Kansas City, Des Moines, Chicago and the big Eastern cities. Singer is most popular in this territory, and his many friends were more than glad to see him.

Will Open Standard Film Exchange.

Des Moines, Ia.—M. E. (Marty) Williams, of Kansas City, was given a luncheon at the Commercial Club, Saturday the 3d of March, by Dan Lederman, manager of the local Laemmle exchange. All the managers of the local exchanges were guests, and the purpose was to get acquainted with Mr. Williams, who is here to open an exchange for the Standard film company for the releasing of the Art Dramas. Mr. Williams has not yet rented an office here, but is expecting to locate one early in the next week. Williams was with the Universal people in Kansas City prior to his affiliation with the Standard.

Long Runs at Garden Theater Profitable.

Des Moines, Ia.—The Garden theater is rapidly becoming a shining example of the advantages of the long run. A. H. Blank, the manager, is a firm believer in the policy, and here are a few of the lengthy dates to come in the next couple of weeks or so. Last week "The Argyle Case" ran for four days in big houses; last week also marked a return of Clara Kimball Young in "The Common Law." The latter picture enjoyed a full seven days run here in October, and when it was brought back for two days, packed houses were the rule. Marguerite Clark will be shown for five days in "The Fortunes of FiFi," Clara Kimball Young in "The Price She Paid" will be shown five days, Pauline Frederick in "Sapho" will run four days—and no picture is shown at the Garden for less than two days.

Mortenson Makes a Lot of Calls.

Des Moines, Ia.—T. E. Mortenson, business manager of "Amusements," the live little trade journal edited in Minneapolis, was in Des Moines Wednesday of last week on his way back home. He had been to Sioux City, Des Moines, Omaha, Kansas City and St. Louis, and after a stop in Chicago will make for Minneapolis. He paid a visit to all the exchanges, and was warmly received all around.

Paul LeMarquand, of the Fontanelle feature films in Omaha, was in Des Moines at the opening of "The Witching Hour" at the Majestic theater. He reports that "The Witching Hour" is booked away into May.

Harry Heirstiener Buys "Ignorance" Rights.

Des Moines, Ia.—Harry Heirstiener, formerly road man out of the serial department of the local Mutual, has purchased the rights for "Ignorance" in Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri and Kansas. He is located in an office in the Cohan building.

Fine Theater Makes Good in Village.

Maquoketa, Ia.—W. M. Weber, owner of the Pastime theater, Maquoketa, Iowa, has found it profitable to give the patrons available in that town of 3,500, the very best in theater equipment and pictures. His theater seats 530, and is perhaps one of the best equipped in the state in any city of that size. There is steam heat, even in the lobby. He runs a five-piece orchestra most of the time; at other times a harp, violin and piano. He charges five and ten cents, but raises to 25 cents on big features. Among all his means of maintaining and building patronage, his best, he believes, is the mailing list. This list has been made from the names of people who visit the show, and from telephone books and other sources. The names of casual patrons, however, seem to yield the best returns. A regular piece of mail to these is the weekly program, printed usually on the backs of pictures of stars.

Local Exchange Jottings—Visitors.

Abe Kahn, traveling salesman out of the Kansas City Triangle distributing office for the McClure's "Seven Deadly Sins," is making Des Moines his headquarters, and covering Eastern Iowa with the "Deadlies" and the Keystone comedies.

T. A. Brown, of the Strand theater in Iowa City, was in Des Moines last week.

J. D. Williamson, one of the big amusement men of Australia, who owns a big chain of Motion Picture houses in Australia, paid a personal visit to A. H. Blank on his way across the continent last week.

Frank Woskie, of the Favorite feature film in Minneapolis, was in Des Moines last week on the road home to Minneapolis. He has just concluded a successful tour of Iowa, placing his picture, "The Libertine," which was shown in Des Moines some weeks ago.

Sam Greenbaum, partner of A. H. Blank in the ownership of the Casino and Garden theaters in Davenport, was in Des Moines two days last week. Greenbaum is one of the most successful exhibitors in the Eastern part of Iowa.

Work on the Royal theater is progressing rapidly. The whole corner has been leveled to the ground, and the construction work will commence in the very near future.

All the members of Des Moines' F. I. L. M. Club went to Omaha over Sunday the 4th of March, to visit with the Omaha exhibitors and to—well, Omaha is not the desert that Des Moines happens to be.

Messrs Fife and Yerkes, of the Idle Hour in Tama, and P. C. Smith, formerly of the Amuzu theater in Fonda, and W. E. Roby, of the Strand theater in Truro, were Pathe visitors last week.

J. Miloslawski, owner of the Palace and Family theaters in Des Moines, with his family left last week for Hot Springs.

Rose Tapley Visits Des Moines.

Des Moines, Ia.—Rose Tapley, of the Vitagraph, paid her visit to Des Moines on Wednesday the 21st of February. She arrived in Des Moines at six o'clock, Wednesday morning, and appeared at the Palace theater two times in the afternoon and once in evening, speaking about a half an hour on the responsibility of the public for the making of the pictures. The Palace gave "Oesper of the Mountains," the Vitagraph production starring Lillian Walker and in which Miss Tapley has a big role, on Tuesday and Wednesday. Miss Tapley left for Cedar Rapids at ten the following morning.

San Francisco Briefs.

Irving Lesser, manager of the Los Angeles branch of the All Star, was here for a short stay just before the departure of Sol. L. Lesser for New York.

Lloyd B. Willis, who has been in Australia for the past five months in the interests of Fox, arrived here a few days ago and left shortly afterward for New York.

Robert McNeil has taken over the Bell theater in the Mission district.

J. H. Knowles, of the New York Amusement Co. was here recently from Sonora, Cal., arranging bookings for his house in that city and for theaters at Jamestown and Tuolumne.

C. Mel. Simmonds, manager of the San Francisco office of Artcraft, is making a trip through the southern part of the state by auto.

Northern California Notes.

Vallejo, Cal.—P. J. Hanlon has returned from an extended eastern trip and is again devoting his attention to the Strand.

Oakland, Cal.—Phil Doll, formerly of San Francisco, is to open the Central theater.

San Mateo, Cal.—H. S. Levin, of the Peninsula theater, has taken over the Regent theater and will close his former house, except on Saturday and Sunday.

Marigold, Cal.—A new theater is to be opened by Thomas Hayes.

Merced, Cal.—A theater to cost $25,000 is being planned by C. H. Douglass and associates.

Napa, Cal.—Construction work will be commenced at once on the Imperial theater to be erected for John and Samuel Garibaldi. The house will have a seating capacity of about 800 and a $10,000 organ will be installed.

Oakland, Cal.—Jasperson & Dippe have had plans prepared for a one-story moving picture theater to be erected on San Pablo avenue, near 27th street, at an estimated cost of $12,000.

Newcastle, Cal.—The Castle theater has been reopened as a 15-cent house.

Stockton, Cal.—The Lyric theater is being remodeled by L. A. Irvine.

Operator Becomes Traveling Representative.

San Francisco, Cal.—W. L. Loudy, formerly a well known local operator, is now a traveling sales representative of the Enterprise Optical Manufacturing company and will travel out of the western office conducted by Edward H. Kemp. He recently spent some time at the factory and is now on the road. Among the late sales of Motiographs made by Mr. Kemp is one for the First Christian Church at Hanford, Cal.

Exchange Manager Turns Benedict.

San Francisco, Cal.—It has long been a matter of comment in the local film exchange field that with but one exception every exchange manager here was married. The exception, Ralph Burns Quive, manager of the Greater Vitagraph, long spurned the idea of joining the phalanx of married men and promised to be a rock in the road of the plan for a solid body of married film men, but while he resisted the pleas of his film associates his heart was being softened by another influence and on Feb. 27 he slipped away to Redwood City, where he was quietly married to Miss Selma Hill, a charming and talented young lady of this city.

Turns From Vaudeville to Films

San Francisco's Empress Theater Will Be Changed from Vaudeville to Pictures by Manager Sid Grauman—House Is Ideally Situated for Film Shows—Local Capital Building Theater in Los Angeles.

By T. A. Church, 1507 North Street, Berkeley, Cal.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.—The Empress theater, of which Sid Grauman is manager, is to be transformed shortly from a vaudeville house into one of the finest moving picture theaters in California. This house has a seating capacity of almost two thousand and is located in the very heart of the amusement district, there being several large houses within a block. A large Wurlitzer Hope-Jones pipe organ is being installed at a cost of more than $25,000 and the entire house is being renovated and redecorated. The decorations are to be in blue and gold, the California colors, with carpets to match. Three hundred lounging loge chairs are to be installed and many provisions will be made for the comfort of patrons. Vaudeville performances will be brought to an end on March 19 and the house will be dark until March 25 to enable workmen to make the desired changes.

It is expected that the Empress theater will make an ideal moving picture theater as it has a large capacity, a balcony without posts and needs no remodeling. In speaking of the reason for making the change from vaudeville to moving pictures Manager Grauman states that the central location of the house had much to do with this decision. At present but three performances are given daily, and while a very large business is being done, the best ever enjoyed by the house, it is believed that by putting in pictures and presenting them in the proper manner continuously from eleven o'clock to eleven, even better results will be secured.

In addition to superintending the changes at the local house and arranging for film service Mr. Grauman is devoting much of his attention to the splendid moving picture theater being erected at Third and Broadway, Los Angeles, a San Francisco enterprise. Mr. Grauman's partners in it are his father, D. J. Grauman, Irving Ackerman and Samuel Harris, all of this city. The Los Angeles house will be operated in conjunction with the Empress theater here and will not only make possible the securing of many fine photoplay attractions, but will make feasible the purchase of state-rights to productions.

The house in the southern city will represent an investment of about $700,000. Mr. Grauman states that it will have a cathedral effect. It will be lighted by searchlights from other buildings and by an indirect system, such as was used at the San Francisco Exposition.

On the interior will be mural paintings lighted by secret searchlights and an elaborate lobby and foyer. The lounging, nursery, smoking and reception rooms will be fitted up to vie with rooms of this kind in the finest hotels. On the roof will be an enclosed glass moving picture studio, one of the few downtown studios of that city, and patrons of the theater will be invited to witness the making of pictures. The theater will have a seating capacity of about 3,000 and will be ready for occupancy during the present year.

Music will be furnished by a $50,000 pipe organ and by an orchestra of twenty-four pieces. Mr. Grauman plans to use the big stages at both houses for putting on elaborate prologues to the pictures and promises features along this line different from any ever seen on the Pacific Coast.

Consider Film Shipments by Mail.

San Francisco, Cal.—The Film Exchange Board of Trade has been taking up the proposition of delivering films by parcel post with Charles Fay, the local postmaster, and if certain changes can be made in the present regulations members of this organization have signified their intention of sending shipments by mail. The chief drawback at the present time to making shipment of films by parcel post is the weight limit, which is considered too low, and the uncertainty of indemnity through loss of film or delay in delivery. Postmaster Fay has promised to ask the authorities in Washington to raise the weight limit to 100 pounds in the first zone and to 50 pounds or more in the second and third zones, throughout which deliveries are made from San Francisco, and to ask for larger indemnities for loss.

Raising Fund to Fight Censorship.

San Francisco, Cal.—The Film Exchange Board of San Francisco is raising a fund to fight censorship and other measures detrimental to the moving picture business introduced into the Legislature at Sacramento. Contributions of one hundred dollars each have been made by the Fox, Greater Vitagraph, Mutual, Progressive, All Star, Metro and the California Film Exchange. Walter Preddey, the supply man, has also made a substantial contribution. The work of the local Board of Trade is of great benefit to the industry and merits the moral and financial support of all interested in the moving picture business. Representatives will be sent to Sacramento as soon as any of the obnoxious measures are brought up for discussion.

Magner Buys Big Feature and Film Stock.

San Francisco, Cal.—Nat A. Magner, Pacific building, has bought the California, Arizona, Nevada and Hawaiian rights to the Selig production "Beware of Strangers," concerning which so many favorable reports have been heard. He has also purchased the stock of films of Charles Klopot, who has been conducting an exchange on Golden Gate avenue, and is completing arrangements for taking over the local stock of the United Film Service on Taylor street. Marked success is being met with in booking "The Dumb Girl of Portici," featuring Anna Pavlowa, and a road trip has been arranged with bookings completed for one hundred and fifty days.

Herman Wobber to Handle "Joan the Woman."

San Francisco, Cal.—Herman Wobber, with offices in the Pacific building, has secured the exhibition rights to "Joan the Woman" in California, Oregon, Washington, Arizona, Nevada, New Mexico, Alaska and the Hawaiian Islands. A publicity campaign is now being started, but definite bookings have not been made.

Local Man Winner in Contest.

San Francisco, Cal.—C. M. Hill, with the Progressive Motion Picture Company, which handles the Paramount releases in this territory, is the winner in the ninety-day sales contest recently held throughout the country by the Paramount for the greatest number of new contracts signed. He also won third prize in the contest for increase in business measured by money. These records are especially noteworthy when it is considered that he was in competition with exchange men in all parts of the United States. He has been with the Progressive exchange since last October and has been identified with the motion picture business since 1914.

Vaudeville to the Rescue

Willamette Valley, Oregon, Hitherto Famous for Poor Amusement Business, Comes to the Front—Introduction of Vaudeville Said to Be in Part the Reason—Prominent Valley Exhibitor Interviewed—Lack of Divers'ty.

By Abraham Nelson, 601 Journal Bldg., Portland, Ore.

PORTLAND, ORE.—Up until a short time ago travelling film men who intended making a trip south from Portland through the Willamette valley used to say they were bound for "Death Valley."

Today, as far as Oregon is concerned, "Death Valley" exists no more because the business in the Willamette valley has come back. C. A. Myers, who conducts the Globe and Rolfe theaters at Albany, in the heart of the territory, says the lean days are past and that the exhibitors in the neighboring towns are also enjoying prosperity.

While the good prices for farm products have undoubtedly put much new money into the valley, it is the opinion of Mr. Myers that the new addition of vaudeville to photoplay programs, not only in Albany but in all the other towns in the territory, is putting the valley show business back on its feet. Strange as it may seem, dyed-in-the-wool film men admit that it is the addition of vaudeville that is holding up the business in many of the smaller towns. They say there is not sufficient diversity in the present average so-called feature to put it over without the addition of vaudeville.

Wog Reports Success.

O. Wog, travelling representative for De Luxe, returned to Portland after a tour of Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana and also reports that the "Death Valley" south of Portland is a thing of the past. He showed a pocket full of contracts gathered in the territory to verify his statement.

Vaudeville and Photoplays in Portland.

Concerning the question of vaudeville and pictures, the recent experiences of the Peoples Amusement Company with variety acts in their Portland theaters is interesting. At the Crystal theater, a suburban house, they found that more business was had by omitting vaudeville entirely. At the Peoples theater, showing the best class of pictures and catering to the highest class of patrons, the management says that vaudeville acts are entirely out of the question. At the Star, also owned by the company, musical acts are big drawing cards. The Star is an in-between house.

A moving picture theater manager admitted that the tendency of the Portland people is back to vaudeville, citing the success of the Strand and Hippodrome theaters as illustrations. These houses show vaudeville and pictures combined, in one instance at less prices than usually charged for a picture program alone. Lack of diversity in either form of amusement, particularly in the present type of so-called features, is undoubtedly the reason. The theater manager pointed out, however, that in combination theaters the photoplays were the support of the vaudeville as well as vice versa.

W. W. Kofeldt Promoted to Pathe Manager.

Portland, Ore.—B. J. Sperry, manager for Portland Pathe since Walter Wessling was promoted to Cincinnati, also resigned his position, the vacancy being filled by W. W. Kofeldt, who was formerly installed by F. C. Quimby, of Seattle. Mr. Kofeldt was formerly cashier, coming from San Francisco when Portland Pathe was made a full fledged exchange. He is very popular with the exhibitors in the territory.

W. S. Morris is filling the position of cashier made vacant by the promotion of Mr. Kofeldt. Mr. Morris came from Chicago where he was assistant cashier for Pathe. His home is in New York City.

Former Manager Sperry is keeping his future plans secret, awaiting advices from the East.

G. A. Reed, Manager of Mutual, Resigns

Portland, Ore.—Two important changes in exchange managers happened during the week beginning Feb. 24. G. A. Reed, manager for Mutual, resigned, leaving for Seattle, where it is rumored he will engage in other film pursuits. T. C. Malcolm, supervisor of exchanges for Mutual, and former manager of the General Film Company here, paid a short visit, arranging the affairs of the Mutual office. He left later for San Francisco.

Oregon Theater Changes.

McMinnville, Ore.—C. L. Dagg has sold the Star theater to a Mr. Morris, a local man. Mr. Dagg will return to Payette, Idaho, where he formerly operated the Emma theater.

The opera house in McMinnville has also been opened to pictures.

Portland, Ore.—Bennett & Thiele will open the Laurel theater Mar. 4.

Grants Pass, Ore.—J. B. Caldwell, formerly of Nez Perce, Ida., has purchased the Bijou theater.

La Grande, Ore., Lawsuit Settled.

La Grande, Ore.—Meyers and Leiter have withdrawn their lawsuit against S. A. Gardiner for breach of contract not to engage in the theater business under certain circumstances. The withdrawal of the action followed the transfer of the Colonial theater, concerned in the litigation, to the plaintiffs. Meyers and Leiter operate the Arcade theater, the building of which is also owned by Mr. Gardiner, and the firm will conduct both theaters.

Heard on Film Row.

Portland, Ore.—Lewis Moomaw, cameraman and producer, is back in Portland after a successful year in the Paramount service with the Burton Holmes pictures.

At Condon, Ore., an epidemic of scarlet fever has closed the shows and schools and at Roseburg, Ore., an epidemic of measles is cutting into the business.

H. H. Brownell, Universal traveller, has gone to Seattle territory to exploit "The Eagles Wings."

Indications are that "The Daughter of the Gods" will be delayed one month in reaching Oregon, having been booked for additional dates in California.

"The Birth of a Nation" is now playing the small towns in Montana to big money.

F. S. Fountain, Progressive Motion Picture Company, was a recent visitor in Portland, making preliminary arrangements for showing "Joan the Woman."

W. W. Armstrong, representing "The Seven Deadly Sins," was exploiting the pictures in the territory.

SPOKANE TO HAVE EXCHANGE. C. E. Stilwell Will Establish a Distributing Business for Unicorn and State Rights Pictures.

By S. Clark Patchin, E. 1811 11th Ave., Spokane, Wash.

SPOKANE, WASH.—For the purpose of distributing film service not already handled in the Northwest and engaging in the purchase and rental of state rights photoplays, C. E. Stilwell of the Stilwell theaters company will establish an exchange in Spokane.

One of the new services which will be handled exclusively by the exchange is the "Unicorn," a company which is making reissues of former Biograph pictures and other early productions. The pictures will be placed in theaters throughout the Northwest, including the large Coast cities, and all films in the service will be handled through the Spokane exchange.

"I expect Gus Hager from the east almost any day and after I have talked with him will be able to announce details of the new enterprise," said Mr. Stilwell. "He has been engaging some of the new service and completing other negotiations for me."

"The local exchange will be of considerable importance to the film industry in this part of the country. I will employ a corps of salesmen to take our service all over the Northwest and to exploit the state rights features which I handle."

National Air in Spokane Theaters.

Spokane, Wash.—In accordance with a resolution adopted by the Spokane Ad. Club, moving picture and other theaters of the city have decided to have the "Star Spangled Banner" played at the opening and closing of each program. This is as a matter of patriotism and those to whom it was mentioned after its adoption immediately pledged themselves to carry out the wish.

Spokane, Wash.—Live models from The Whitehouse, displaying bathing suits and sport goods suits, made a big hit at the Clemmer theater. Every seat in the house was taken; in fact, the theater was crowded to its capacity as there was not even standing room. Others were lined in front of the theater to the street waiting admission.

FILM NOTES FROM TEXAS.

By N. E. Flanagan.

Exchange Notes and Dallas Visitors.

Dallas, Tex.—E. C. Jensen, Southern district manager of the World Film, has been combining business with pleasure by visiting nearby towns. He has a friendly interest in a big motor car and this has been used as means of transportation. Good contracts have resulted from these trips and it is plainly evident that Mr. Jensen was accorded a hearty welcome by the exhibitors.

H. D. Price, manager of the Elk theater at Marshall, and later on the road for K-E-S-E, has gone to New Orleans, traveling out of there with the Vitagraph.

J. L. Olive of the Sugg theater, Chicki-saw, Okla., was in Dallas, Thursday.

J. G. Garret of the Mission theater at Santa Anna was in Dallas.

H. D. Naugle, Western division manager of the Vitagraph Co., with headquarters in Los Angeles, was to be in Dallas this week.

The Vitagraph exchange, Dallas, have handsomely remodeled quarters. There is new shelving, changed partitions, and an enlarged projection room.

"The Girl Phillipa," Vitagraph, will be shown at the Washington theater, Dallas, Mar. 4, and at the Queen theater, Houston, Feb. 28.

New Georgetown Theater.

Georgetown, Tex.—The Lyric Theater company, with Charles B. Atkinson as head, is erecting a new theater at Georgetown. It will be open in about ten days.

The World feature, "The Dancer's Peril," with Alice Brady and Alexis Kosloff, will be released at the Washington, Dallas, March 12.

Nashville, Tenn.—Mr. Brandon of Artcraft was in the city a few days ago dickering with Manager Wassman of the Knickerbocker for the new Douglas Fairbanks picture soon to be released in a new series by his company.

NOTES FROM THE MIDDLE WEST

Frank H. Madison, 678 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago.

Penny Admission for Children.

Omaha, Neb.—The penny moving picture show is one of the ideas of W. W. Cole, new manager of the Rohlf theater at 2559 Leavenworth street. This remarkable price is only to children under ten years of age, and applies only at matinees 3 to 6 p. m., for two weeks. Manager Cole announces that he will make the house a women's and children's theater, and that he has still other stunts up his sleeve. For regular shows the price will remain 10 cents for adults and 5 cents for children. Cole has been connected with Krug Park and Krug theater.

Two New Nebraska Houses.

Alliance, Neb.—A new fireproof theater 50x140 feet is being constructed here for the use of Harry DuBouque, who now operates the Imperial theater.

Davenport, Neb.—Plans have been drawn for the construction of a new opera house.

New Wisconsin Theater Company.

Madison, Wis.—The secretary of state has issued articles of incorporation to the following: The Super Attraction Film company, Milwaukee; capital, $5,000; incorporators: B. K. Fisher, Walter A. Bair and Vincent Le Lorenze.

Wisconsin Theaters Change Hands.

Hartford, Wis.—Nic Mertes has sold the Crystal theater building to James Day.

Kaukauna, Wis.—William Van Dyke, who formerly owned the Vaudette theater, has re-purchased it from Frank H. Ellsworth, of Green Bay, and will again operate the house.

Tomah, Wis.—Chris Maxwell and son have sold the Unique theater to Frank Smith and Mark Johnson.

River Falls, Wis.—The River Falls auditorium association has purchased a moving picture machine, and from time to time will book feature productions. The association does not intend to compete with the Princess theater.

SEATTLE EXCHANGE NOTES.

Seattle, Wash.—M. H. Hoffman, general manager of exchanges for Universal, with Mrs. Hoffman, was a visitor in Seattle.

Harry J. Cohen, special representative for Metro, spent a Sunday in Seattle. Mr. Cohen is touring the West in the interests of Metro's new serial, "The Great Secret."

Sol L. Lesser, owner of the All-Star feature company and the Golden Gate film exchange of San Francisco and Los Angeles, spent a day in Seattle visiting with his old friend, Mike Rosenberg, of the De Luxe feature film company.

Exhibitor Thinks Posters Could Be Bettered

In His Lobby Display Are Pictures Cut from Illustrated Newspapers to Draw Attention—Wants More Effective Paper.

By S. J. Anderson, East Seattle, Wash.

SEATTLE, WASH.—Passing the Imperial theater the other day, one of a group of small motion picture houses down near the wholesale district on First avenue, the World correspondent saw a crowd of men gathered about the large frame in front of the lobby. The attraction, I discovered upon peering over their shoulders, was a number of cartoons on the subject of the national crisis with Germany and several war pictures cut from the Illustrated London News. These practically covered the center of the large board, but all around them and scattered here and there among them were photographs of scenes from the plays comprising the program at the Imperial.

The walls on both sides of this board and the entire front above it were pasted with one, three and six-sheet posters of the drama and the comedy. Working men passing by during the lunch hour were first attracted by the cartoons and war illustrations, but eventually they looked at the photographs and then the posters, and many of them found them interesting enough to risk ten cents on a further investigation.

"Those pictures serve very well their purpose of getting people to stop and look during a time like this when everybody is more or less excited about the national situation," said Joseph Danz, the Imperial's manager. "It is one of my pet theories that the exhibitor should take advantage of the public interest in special events. Running a picture show which caters to a transient trade such as this does, is in many respects like running a department store. The store manager must see to it that there is something in his window to attract the attention of the passer-by."

Value of Good Lobby Advertising.

"The lobby-front is the show man's only window, and his first problem is to get the possible patron to stop and look at it. That done, more than half the battle's won, if his pictures are the kind that appeal to his class of patronage and he has good paper. Good paper is more important to the small exhibitor who does no outside advertising than the manufacturers seem to realize, judging from their carelessness in making it. The exhibitor relies on this alone to inform his patrons what kind of a show he is offering. If the paper does not attract attention the passer-by does not even stop, unless there are some special inducements such as these news cartoons and pictures. Once he has stopped, if the paper suggests lots of action, he goes in eventually."

"I don't mean that the poster ought to be of the 'blood and thunder' kind; but they ought to be taken from the most gripping scenes in the play, those that have the most action. It is only for the small houses which do not generally advertise that the manufacturers make paper. Then why not make the kind we need? If the picture is worth spending thousands of dollars and infinite pains to perfect, then surely to have paper that does it justice is worth spending a few dollars and a little pains."

"Westerns are the pictures that go best down here, and I find good ones increasingly hard to get. I always 'mop up' with the Hart features."

"Yes, I use the best service—Triangle, World, Pathe and states rights, not first run, of course."

"I find, too, that the shorter features are coming back into favor among my patrons, and these are also hard to get. It seems to me that the small theater deserves more consideration from the manufacturer, especially since eighty per cent. of the theaters in the country are of this class."

Mr. Danz runs another house, the Isjs, just across the street from the Imperial. He has just raised the admission price to the latter to ten cents, and is trying to get the other managers in the immediate vicinity to do likewise.

Flag and Anthem to Be Used Only with Greatest Respect in Seattle Theaters.

Seattle, Wash.—Two bills were passed by the city council of Seattle this week, at least one of which has some bearing on motion picture theaters. One of them prohibits the use of the American flag by performers for the purpose of drawing applause. The other prohibits the playing of the "Star-Spangled Banner" in medley. This last means that musicians in motion picture theaters, as well as those in any other public place, may not play the national air except as a separate and complete musical number.

Washington State Censor Bill Killed.

Seattle, Wash.—The Davis bill, introduced into the Washington state legislature several weeks ago, which provided for a state censorship board, was killed in committee, owing to the efforts of the exchange men of Seattle. F. S. Fountain, Northwest manager for Progressive, went to Olympia several times in the interests of the film men, and it is due to the arguments he put up against the bill that it never got farther than the committee.

Motiograph Representative on Long Swing Through West.

Seattle, Wash.—W. L. Loudy, special salesman, arrived in Seattle with a large shipment of Motiograph machines. He is making his headquarters with Waring & Finck, who have bought several machines from him. Mr. Loudy will remain in Seattle about thirty days, after which he will leave for San Francisco, Los Angeles and points in the Southwest. He is now on a tour, which includes all the states west of the Mississippi. It takes Mr. Loudy just eleven months from the time he leaves Chicago to cover his territory. He has already been over the greater part of the Northwest and reports the outlook for the film business better than it has been for several years.

L. J. Schlaifer Buys Rights for "Idle Wives."

Seattle, Wash.—L. J. Schlaifer announces that he has bought the states rights for "Idle Wives" for the four states of Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana. It has been booked at the Coliseum in Seattle for March 4.

Exhibitors Who Recently Visited Seattle.

Seattle, Wash.—Out-of-town exhibitors who were visitors on film row this week were: T. L. Tally, of Tally's Broadway theater, Los Angeles; Ed. James, Broadway theater, Portland; R. K. Dunham, Rex theater, Mt. Vernon; H. C. Stevens, American and Casino theaters, Portland; W. E. Wright, Fort Lapwai, Idaho.

Bellingham Theaters Raise Prices.

Bellingham, Wash.—Owing to the high cost of exhibiting, all the theaters in this city have raised admission prices. Those formerly charging 15 cents now charge 25 cents; while the 5-cent houses have gone up to ten.

A. W. Eden, manager of the local Fox office, has just returned from a trip to Butte, where he called a convention of the exhibitors of the surrounding territory, to talk over Fox news and plans with them.

F. S. Fountain, Northwest manager for Progressive, is spending this week in Portland looking after new Paramount bookings.

Calendar of Daily Program Releases

Releases for Weeks Ending March 24 and March 31

(For Extended Table of Current Releases See Pages 1996, 1998, 2000, 2002.)

Universal Film Mfg. Company

SUNDAY, MARCH 18, 1917.

POWERS—The Mystery of the Noiseless Soup (Comedy) and "Palaces of the Forbidden City" (Dorsey Edu.) 02254
BIG U—The Hidden Danger (Two Parts—Drama)..... 02255
UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE—The Purple Mask (Episode No. 12), The Vault of Mystery (Two Parts—Drama) 02256
UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE—The Voice on the Wire (Episode No. 1) The Oriental Death Punch (Two Parts—Drama) 02257

MONDAY, MARCH 19, 1917.

RED FEATHER—The Scarlet Crystal (Five Parts—Drama) 02258
NESTOR—When the Cat's Away (Comedy)..... 02259

TUESDAY, MARCH 20, 1917.

GOLD SEAL—The Raid (Three Parts—Drama).... 02260
VICTOR—Black Magic (Comedy) and Land Marks of France (Edu.) 02261

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 21, 1917.

L-KO—Defective Detectives (Two Parts—Comedy) 02262
UNIVERSAL—Animated Weekly No. 64 (Topical).. 02263
LAEMMLE—Old Faithful (Drama)..... 02264

THURSDAY, MARCH 22, 1917.

VICTOR—The Hash House Mystery (Two Parts—Comedy) 02265
POWERS—The Strangest Army in the World (War Special) 02266

FRIDAY, MARCH 23, 1917.

IMP—The Perils of the Secret Service (Episode No. 3) "The Dreaded Tube" (Two Parts—Drama) 02267
UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE—Issue No. 11 (Educational) 02268
NESTOR—In Again, Out Again (Comedy)..... 02269

SATURDAY, MARCH 24, 1917.

BISON—Goin' Straight (Two Parts—Drama)..... 02270
JOKER—Whose Baby? (Comedy) 02271
REX—The Boyhood He Forgot (Drama)..... 02272

SUNDAY, MARCH 25, 1917.

REX—The Grudge (Two parts—Drama) 02273
POWERS—The Love Affair of Ima Knutt (Cartoon Comedy) and "Artistic China and Japan" (Dorsey Edu.) 02274
BIG U—The Rebel's Net (Drama) 02275
UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE—The Purple Mask (Special No. 13), The Leap (Two Parts—Drama) 02276
UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE—The Voice on the Wire (Episode No. 13) The Mysterious Man in Black (Two parts—Drama) 02277

MONDAY, MARCH 26, 1917.

RED FEATHER—The Fighting Gringo (Five parts—Drama) 02278
NESTOR—Shot in the West (Comedy) 02279

TUESDAY, MARCH 27, 1917.

GOLD SEAL—A STARTLING CLIMAX (Three Parts—Drama) 02280
VICTOR—Never Too Old to Woo (Comedy)..... 02281

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 28, 1917.

LAEMMLE—Is Money All? (Drama)..... 02282
L-KO—Dippy Dan's Doings (Two Parts—Comedy)... 02283
UNIVERSAL—Animated Weekly No. 65 (Topical)... 02284

THURSDAY, MARCH 29, 1917.

IMP—David's Idol Dream (Two Parts—Drama)..... 02285
POWERS—The Grand Canyon of Arizona (Scenic Edu.) 02286
LAEMMLE—The Mask of Love (Drama) 02287

FRIDAY, MARCH 30, 1917.

IMP—The Perils of the Secret Service (Episode No. 4) The Crimson Blade (Two parts—Drama).... 02288
UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE—Issue No. 12 (Educational) 02289
VICTOR—Prodigal Papa (Comedy) 02290

SATURDAY, MARCH 31, 1917.

BISON—Steel Hearts (Two parts—Drama) 02291
JOKER—What the ...? (Comedy) 02292

Mutual Film Corporation

MONDAY, MARCH 19, 1917.

MONOGRAM—The Adventures of Shorty (No. 10, "Shorty Bags the Bullion Thieves") (Two Parts—Drama) 05378-79
MUTUAL CHAPLIN—The Cure (Two parts—Com.)

TUESDAY, MARCH 20, 1917.

GAUMONT—Tours Around the World, No. 20 (Subjects on Reel: Montenegro, Island of Guernsey, Cintra, Portugal) (Travel)..... 05380

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 21, 1917.

MUTUAL—Mutual Weekly No. 116 (Topical)..... 05381
AMERICAN—Cupid and a Button (Comedy)..... 05382
NIAGARA FILM STUDIOS—The Perils of Our Girl Reporters (No. 13, "The Schemers") (Two parts—Drama)

THURSDAY, MARCH 22, 1917.

CUB—Minding Baby 05383
GAUMONT—Reel Life No. 47 (Subjects on Reel: Making Food Cheaper; A Home-Made Motor Sled; Artificial Exercises; A Winter Pageant; Pineapples Under Glass; A Snail Race Under Water (Mutual Film Magazine)..... 05384

FRIDAY, MARCH 23, 1917.

MONMOUTH—Jimmy Dale, Alias the "Grey Seal" Chapter One—Two Parts—Drama)..... 05385-86

SATURDAY, MARCH 24, 1917.

VOGUE—A Studio Stampede (Two Parts—Comedy). 05387-88

MONDAY, MARCH 26, 1917.

MONOGRAM—The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton (No. 11, "Shorty Lands a Master Crook") (Two parts—Drama) 05389-90
MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTION—Motherhood (Five parts—Drama)
MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTION—Sunny Jane (Horkheimer—Five parts—Drama)

TUESDAY, MARCH 27, 1917.

GAUMONT—Tours Around the World, No. 21 (Subjects on Reel: Funchal, Madeira; Rostov-on-the-Don, Russia; Ajaccio, Corsica) (Travel) 05391

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 28, 1917.

MUTUAL—Mutual Weekly No. 117 (Topical)..... 05392
AMERICAN—The Bearded Fisherman (Drama)..... 05393
NIAGARA FILM STUDIOS—The Perils of Our Girl Reporters (No. 14, "The Counterfeiters—Two parts—Drama)

THURSDAY, MARCH 29, 1917.

CUB—Be Sure You're Right (Comedy)..... 05394
GAUMONT—Reel Life (Subjects on Reel: Weaving Indian Blankets; The Pulmotor; Swedish Gymnastics; The Famous Herald Clock; Winter Sports in Florida) (Mutual Film Magazine)..... 05395

FRIDAY, MARCH 30, 1917.

MONMOUTH—"Jimmy Dale, Alias The Grey Seal" Chapter 2, "The Stolen Rubies" (Two Parts—Drama) 05396-97

SATURDAY, MARCH 31, 1917.

VOGUE—Freed by Fido (Two parts—Comedy)..... 05398-99

SPEER HOLD-ARK NEGATIVE CARBONS

Unapproachable in Service—Incomparable in Results —Unsurpassed in Light Producing Qualities

The Ideal Lower Projector Carbon for Direct Current

The invaluable opinions of projection experts, exhibitors and operators are proof positive of the necessity of using a "Speer" upper carbon together with a "Speer" Hold-Ark in effecting the proper combination, where improved and perfected projection is desired.

Constructed with a hard core and metal coating, the Hold-Ark negative carbon permits the use of a smaller carbon in the lower holder—assures a permanent arc—gives longer life to the carbon—prevents wandering—produces a perfect crater—aids in securing a bright, flickerless light—and assists in many ways in eliminating projector troubles.

The Carbons with a Guarantee

FOR SALE BY THE FOLLOWING DISTRIBUTORS:

J. H. HALLBERG - - - - 727 7th Ave., New York, N. Y.
KLEINE OPTICAL CO. - - - 166 N. State St., Chicago, Ill.
SOUTHERN THEATRE EQUIPMENT CO.,
74 Marietta St., Atlanta, Ga.; 1815 Main St., Dallas, Tex.
E. E. FULTON CO. - - - - 154 W. Lake St., Chicago, Ill.
KANSAS CITY MACHINE & SUPPLY CO.,
813 Walnut St., Kansas City, Mo.

G. A. METCALFE, 117 Golden Gate Ave., San Francisco, Cal.; 1210 4th Ave., Seattle, Wash.
THE PERKINS ELECTRIC CO., 322 Craig St. W., Montreal, Can. (Sole Canadian Distributors)
INTEROCEAN FILM CORPORATION, 220 W. 42nd St., New York, N. Y. (Sole Export Representatives)

MANUFACTURED BY
SPEER CARBON COMPANY
ST. MARY'S, PA.

Stories of the Films

VIM.

WANTED—A BAD MAN.—The little town of Hicksville is proud of their new uniformed police force, and a wire comes that a desperate criminal is at large and that a reward of $500 is offered for his capture, dead or alive, great excitement prevails at the central police station. Bud and Slim, the two new additions to the force, are determined that they will capture the bad man.

Their search begins, but Miss Ethel comes between them, and for a time they almost forget that it is their duty to capture, dead or alive, the terrible "Giant George." When the "Giant" comes leisurely walking before them with six-shooters drawn, our two brave policemen desert their duty and flee for safety.

A riot call is sent in and the town police force finally locate the bad man in his room. When they attempt to arrest him, however, he quietly takes away their revolvers and orders them from his room. Bud and Miss Ethel find a huge mallet, and when the bad man attempts to leave his room it falls from Bud's hands and the bad man falls in his tracks. Bud receives the reward, and peace and quiet once more reign supreme.

KALEM.

BULLS OR BULLETS? (Ham and Bud Comedy).—The story opens with Ham and Bud caught between two fires. On the one hand a band of threatening cowpunchers wave them out of their town, and straight ahead loom up two Mexican bullfighters. They put the champ bullthrower and the blue ribboned matador to flight, and then invest themselves in their holiday regalia.

Proceeding across the desert, our valiants at last reach the Mexican settlement, where on the morrow there is to be held an exhibition of bull throwing. They are entertained like conquering heroes, and petted by the beautiful senorita for whose hand they shall contest as an added attraction.

While all the nobility looks on in fiendish glee, the great horned bull is turned loose in the arena. After a false start or two, Ham is about to ram his trusty blade home, when a voice coming from the bull pleads for mercy. After that the bull fight degenerates into a tango tea, with the bull doing the best tango of the three. And then—enter the dethroned bull fighters. Exit Ham and Bud. Ah, well, 'tis nice to serenade black eyed senoritas, but this matador stunt—'tis not the life for our merry friends.

THE PHANTOM MINE (An Episode of "The American Girl" Series—Two Parts).—The cast: Madge King (Marin Sais); Roger King, her father (Frank Jonasson); Larry Kerwin (Edward Hearn); Jake Barstow (Ronald Bradbury). Written by Frederick R. Bechdolt. Directed by James W. Horne.

Jake Barstow returns to the West after a spree in New York and Chicago. He meets Chuck Peters and Piute Charley, two of his old cronies, and hoastingly shows them clippings that relate the stories of his exploits in the metropolitan centers. Tapping his pocketbook significantly, Barstow says it's time to get some more of the easy money to be had thereabouts.

On the day following his return, Barstow visits the San Remo ranch and endeavors to interest Roger King, its millionaire owner, in his Greenback mine. King instructs his youthful superintendent, Larry Kerwin, to visit the mine, and if it proves to be the bonanza that Barstow says it is, to pay him $10,000 for a half interest.

Barstow figures that Larry will draw the money and carry it on his person. Shortly before the two are to meet, Larry is held up by two masked men in his hotel room. They get nothing; the money is held in trust by the local bank, and instructions have been given not to pay it to Barstow except upon Larry's written order.

Barstow and Larry start for the mine back in the hills. At a point where the trail divides, Larry takes out his knife, and, unobserved by Barstow, slits the oats sack carried by their pack burro. Proceeding to the secret mine, Barstow trusses Larry up and compels him to sign an order for the $10,000.

Meanwhile King and his daughter, Madge, alarmed for Larry's safety, have secured a guide in the town and follow as fast as their horses can travel. The guide is Chuck, and he has had orders to prevent the Kings from reaching the mine. If necessary Piute Charley is to resort to extreme measures in assisting Chuck to carry out Barstow's orders.

At the fork in the trail, Madge discovers the oats strewn along the ground in the opposite direction from that taken by their guide. Following up this clue they reach the entrance to the mine, and are fired upon by Chuck and Piute Charley. Barstow also takes a hand in the game. After King has done for his confederates, Madge gets the drop on Barstow and disarms him. Barstow then boasts that they will never see Larry alive, because he has lighted a fuse leading to a box of explosives back in the mine. Madge rescues Larry not more than ten seconds before the whole country rocks with the force of the explosion.

THE FATE OF JUAN GARCIA (An Episode of "The American Girl" Two Parts).—The cast: Madge King (Marin Sais); Roger King (Frank Jonasson); Larry Kerwin (Edward Hearn); Colonel Sarka (Ronald Bradbury); Juan Garcia (Edward Clisbee).

"—we're just crazy for a picture of you riding one of those wild Western horses." So read Madge King to her father, the millionaire owner of the San Remo ranch, as she mentioned the name of her Eastern chum. "We'll have old Manship bring out his best cameras," smilingly replied her father. And so it came about that Madge, dressed in one of her smartest riding habits, was ready to be photographed with the ranch house for a background.

Juan Garcia, one of the helpers, is instructed to bring Miss King's horse. He is about to comply, when he happens to glance down the road and see an old Mexican woman hearing a jar of water on her head fall in a faint. He helps her out to the road, where a rig is waiting screened from the view of those about the ranch house. Suddenly Garcia is confronted by an armed Mexican. A few seconds later a shot rings out, and when the Kings come to investigate they find a pistol, one chamber discharged, lying in the roadway, but not a trace of their ranch hand.

Now Juan Garcia is in reality a revolutionary leader of importance in his own country, and his death is greatly desired by Colonel Sarka, a Slav, and the agent of a Continental clique with large Mexican mining interests. If Colonel Sarka can furnish indisputable proof that Juan Garcia will never lead another raid upon their mining camps they will reward him handsomely.

At a point not far distant from the San Remo ranch, the photographer, who is returning to the village after obtaining the picture of Madge on her white horse, is held up by masked men and compelled to bring his cameras in Colonel Sarka's home.

The following day Madge rides into the village to get her finished pictures. Having cut his finger the photographer hasn't developed the plates. Madge offers to do it for him. When she holds the developed plate up to the light she is startled to find thereon the face of a dead man. Then the photographer relates his holdup of the previous day; how he had taken a picture in Colonel Sarka's house blindfolded, and had evidently given the Colonel the plate of Madge by mistake.

That afternoon, Colonel Sarka's spy holds up the Kings in their home, and makes a clean getaway with the negative plate that Madge had developed. Madge manages to find the trail, and enters Colonel Sarka's headquarters. She is made a prisoner and locked in a cupboard.

Roger King and Larry, his superintendent, follow. Larry lets King go on alone, while he rides to the village to get the sheriff. King sets a signal fire going as soon as he discovers Madge's horse. He, too, is knocked out by the conspirators. When Larry and the sheriff arrive there is a battle royal before the Colonel's aides are subdued. Madge bursts out of her stuffy prison in time to wing the Colonel as he leaps off the porch roof with the telltale plate under his arm. The band is rounded up, and Madge returns home with her own picture.

THE VEILED THUNDERBOLT (An Adventure of "Grant, Police Reporter").—The cast: Grant (George Larkin); Margarita Morales, a nurse (Ollie Kirkby); The "Spider" (Robert Ellis); "Doctor" Baldwin (Harry Gordon); Blanchard, a millionaire (Cyril Courtney); His wife (Mary Taylor-Ross). Written by Robert Welles Ritchie. Directed by Robert Ellis.

Grant is sent out by his city editor to get a statement from Mrs. Blanchard, the widow of a stock operator. It has been intimated in the stories of the millionaire's sudden demise that his enemies cashed in heavily on short sales of stocks just a few hours before his death.

One of the first things that Mrs. Blanchard shows Grant is her late husband's personal diary. It contains a reference to the "spider," and intimates that "if the 'Spider' is behind this, I'm done for."

Grant insists that the widow accompany him to the private hospital where her husband's death occurred. He interviews the doctor and the nurse, but they attribute the broker's death to congestion caused by their patient taking a bath against orders. When the doctor leaves the room for a moment Grant, who has already formed his own theory, investigates. Beneath the bath tub where the stricken man had been found, he unearths some electric light cord, a socket connection and a rubber glove.

Later, when Grant returns to the hospital to investigate further he is denied admittance. He has Mrs. Blanchard telephone the detectives to come at once and burst in the door if necessary, while he starts up the side of the building in an effort to gain admittance through a trap in the roof.

Meantime the hocus doctor and his equally hocus nurse have been frantically working to clear away the last vestige of incriminating evidence. They have even ripped out the wiring in the cellar, but they know that Grant must have the tell-tale wire and glove in his possession. Grant finally gains an entrance into the room where the tragedy had occurred, and is set upon by the doctor and an assistant. In the struggle the wire and glove fall from his pocket, and Margarita, the "Spider's" trusted agent, uses it with telling effect upon the intrepid reporter. When the detectives burst into the room, Margarita escapes by sliding down a rope ladder, but the "doctor" and his assistant are led away.

Grant soon recovers from the shock administered to him, and is able to proceed to the Chronicle office and write his story.

IN THE WEB OF THE SPIDER (An Episode of "Grant, Police Reporter").—The cast: Grant (George Larkin); The Spider, master criminal (Robert Ellis); Margarita Morales (Ollie Kirkby); George Brule (Harry Gordon); Harry, his weak-kneed son (A. B. Foreman).

George Brule, owner of the New York Chronicle, instructs Tom Grant, his star police reporter, to investigate a series of thefts of bonds reported by the president of the Merrimac Trust Co. Brule's son, Harry, is an employee in this bank.

Grant is taken on as a clerk in the Merrimac's bond department, and notices that Harry Brule acts as though he had a load on his mind. Confident that his employer's son knows something about the thefts, Grant watches him with the aid of a pocket mirror. He sees him take some bonds, stuff them in an inner pocket and hurry out of the office.

Grant follows. The trail leads to a flashy restaurant. Brule is evidently in the toils of a dark haired demi-monde. He sends her to the telephone. As they leave the restaurant in a taxi, Grant follows in another one. Entering a mean looking alleyway, Grant sees that the girl has blindfolded young Brule. Before he has gone more than a few paces into this entrance court, Grant is engaged by two hurly negroes who fight so viciously that the pair he is trailing have disappeared when he is again free.

Inside the shabby looking house Brule comes face to face with the Spider, a master criminal, and the man who is swinging the stock deals that are to make everybody rich. Brule turns over his bonds to the Spider to be used as collateral for additional speculating.

Grant, by a series of almost impossible roof climbing, gains entrance to the Spider's quarters. The birds have flown. But he has the proofs, and they involve a well-known bucket shop proprietor who undoubtedly has all the stolen bonds.

After a spectacular exit out of the Spider's retreat by means of the gutter pipes, Grant confronts this broker and obtains the bonds. It is now his painful duty to report to his employer that his own son has been the indiscreet thief. The story is hushed up and young Brule promises his father to make what amends he can for his wrongdoing.

THE REGISTERED POUCH (An Episode of "A Daughter of Daring").—The cast: Helen (Helen Gibson); Kinney (G. A. Williams); Jimmy (Marion Emmons); Jose, a track hand (George Routh). Written by Edward W. Matlack. Directed by Walter Morton.

Kinney, the old section boss, is delighted when Helen agrees to take his boy, Jimmie, in hand and teach him telegraphy. The boy proves an apt pupil and soon masters the code, but is heart-broken when the Chief says he is too young to take a regular shift. Jimmy swallows his sorrow and helps Helen and the linemen construct a "loop" over to her house, and often remains in the station while she slips home for her meals.

Jose, a Mexican track hand, reports for section work much the worse for liquor. Kinney fires him. He hangs around and learns that a registered pouch has been lost off the mail train. While Jose plans a search for it, Jimmy shows up from a fishing trip with the lost sack. Helen locks it in the safe and leaves Jimmy in charge of the station. Jose and his gang bind up Jimmy and leave him in the lueman's room above the station office, where Helen's private wire terminates. By some good contortion work Jimmy reaches the key and telegraphs the alarm to Helen. A hobo has seen the gang board a passing freight and helps Helen put a gasoline hand car in commission for giving chase.

Running down the siding, Helen leaps from the handcar to the freight. Seeing a switch, she tumbles off, but recovers in time to throw it and cause the rear of the freight to side-swipe the handcar on which the Mexicans are attempting a getaway. The bandits are completely done up, the pouch is recovered, and Helen makes sure that Jimmy earns the reward of a job.

THE BORROWED ENGINE (An Episode of "A Daughter of Daring").—The cast: Helen (Helen Gibson); Dick Patterson (L. T. Whitlock); John Cummings (G. A. Williams); Grace, his daughter (Lillian Clarke); Jason Graves (George Routh).

Dick Patterson, the "dude" engineer of the Midland, saves the superintendent's daughter, Grace, and one of her chums from drowning when their boat capsizes on the lake that parallels the railroad. Helen, the operator at Lone Point, in answering Grace's questions about her rescuer, lauds him to the skies. Dick accordingly receives an invitation to a lawn party to be given by Grace. Having been suspended for two weeks for some slight inattention to duty, he is at liberty to attend.

On the day of the party, the Midland plans to run an important test train to clinch a big freight contract. Graves, business agent of a rival road, plans to delay the test train and thereby garner the contract. Graves, arriving early at the Cummings affair, calls one of his lieutenants aside and instructs him to see that the water tank near Lone Point is emptied. Grace overhears the plot and immediately 'phones to Helen just as she is about to be relieved, so that she too can come over to the lawn fete.

In the meantime Dick, dressed in his afternoon togs, is impressed into service to run the test train, the regular engineer having been taken sick. Helen, ever loyal to her 'cad, rushes off to the water tank after receiving Grace's message. There she is set upon by Graves' hirelings and made a prisoner on top of the tank. Dick brings his train under the spout to take on water and assists Helen to the ground. In their hurry to get away the crooks have left their auto on the nearby road. Using it to good advantage, Helen and Dick overtake a special on the rival line and by a ruse they persuade the engineer and firemen to climb out of the cab. Without further ado, Dick takes a crossover switch and is soon proceeding on his test run with a "borrowed" engine.

SELIG.

SELIG-TRIBUNE NO. 18.

New York, N. Y.—Protesting against the high cost of food, thousands of woman and children invade City Hall Park and clamor to see the Mayor. Police reserves are called out.

New Orleans, La.—The seven-mile young men's gymnastic cross-country race is won by Alex Norman, in 44 minutes and 15 seconds.

Goose Creek, Tex.—Prospectors are rewarded when the first "deep pay" gusher is struck at a depth of 4,000 feet.

New York, N. Y.—Three hundred thousand dollars' worth of dogs are benched at the forty-first annual show of the Westminster Kennel Club.

San Francisco, Cal.—"Death Valley Bill," driving 20 mules by voice and one line to the lead mule, leaves on a cross-country trip to New York.

Lake Bluff, Ill.—One thousand public school teachers visit the Great Lakes Naval Training Station and witness the largest maneuver of naval recruits.

Palm Beach, Fla.—Miss Elaine V. Rosenthal, the former Western women's golf champion, wins the Florida women's championship.

New Orleans, La.—With the arrival of King Rex and his Royal Suite, this city is given over to the fun-loving patrons of the Mardi Gras celebration.

New York, N. Y.—Germany's U-boat policy results in tying up thousands of loaded freight cars in Eastern yards.

Oakland, Cal.—Oakland's fair sex don overalls and begin growing potatoes with the view of attacking the high cost of living.

Columbus, N. M.—Our punitive expedition into Mexico is photographed in a government aeroplane near Columbus, N. M. Possibilities of motion photography from an aeroplane are shown with the permission of the War Department.

Omaha, Neb.—The business section of this city is visited by a fire which destroys many buildings.

SELIG-TRIBUNE NO. 19.

Palm Beach, Fla.—Miss Gladys Ballard, or New York, and Miss Elizabeth McNaughton, of Chicago, have an exciting gallop on their sea horses.

Waverly, Mass.—Many interested spectators find much amusement in the push ball contest at the annual game of the Belmont Springs Country Club.

New Bedford, Mass.—The steamer Sankaty goes ashore off the end of Sciticut Neck.

Camden, N. J.—Chief Bender, one of the world's greatest pitchers, proves his versatility by winning the clay pigeon match against Grover Alexander, making 99 kills out of a possible 100.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Strike-breakers on their way to work in the Franklin Sugar Refineries have a series of exciting encounters with the strikers.

New York, N. Y.—The American liner Philadelphia, first American passenger steamer to leave England after Germany's blockade notice, reaches port safely.

San Francisco, Cal.—General Funston's body arrives in San Francisco and is taken to the City Hall. The body lying in state with the guard of honor.

New York, N. Y.—The New York Giants leave for spring practice at Marlin, Tex.

New York, N. Y.—The sculptor Joe Davidson finishes his bust of President Wilson, which is to occupy a permanent place in the White House.

San Francisco, Cal.—Ten thousand school children assemble in a novel flag drill.

Palm Beach, Fla.—Society finds great sport in whiching the annual Mid-winter Field Day event.

A PEARL OF GREATER PRICE (Two parts).

—The cast: Robert Armitage (Fred Eckhart); Constance Armitage (Byrdine Zuber); Virginia, their little daughter (Virginia Waller); Frederick Mandeville (M. C. Von Betz); Mrs. Mandeville (Edna Van Buren); M. Bouet (Casson Ferguson). Written by Arthur Leeds. Directed by Otis B. Thayer.

Constance, wife of Robert Armitage, neglects her daughter, Virginia. She is extravagant and refuses to aid her husband to live within their income. The Armitages are friendly with the Mandevilles. Frederick Mandeville is a jeweler, and has given his wife a beautiful string of pearls. Constance sees the pearls and desires a similar necklace, and Frederick Mandeville tells Constance that he will show her a magnificent pearl necklace.

Constance meets M. Bouet, a famous artist, who asks her to pose for him. Later, Constance visits the jewelry store and is heartbroken because she is unable to buy the necklace. Before her husband leaves on his business trip, he gives her money with which to pay the servants. She succumbs to temptation and decides to use the servants' money as first payment on the necklace.

There has been a mysterious succession of pearl robberies in society circles. M. Bouet is an expert judge of pearls and offers to aid in an endeavor to detect the thief.

As time passes, Constance finds that she is unable to meet the payments on the pearl necklace, and she writes to Mandeville to come to her home and get the necklace. When she searches for the pearls, however, she finds them gone. Then she remembers that Bouet had visited her home that afternoon, and she suspects him as being the thief. She rushes to the man's studio and a few minutes later her husband returns from his business trip, and discovers the string of pearls on the ground.

Armitage discovers his wife and the artist together and denounces them. As he returns home, he meets Mandeville, who explains matters and shows him Constance's letter. Bouet is apprehended and Constance is forgiven by her husband, and she decides to devote more of her time to home and less to society.

OVER THE GARDEN WALL.—The cast: John Jones (John Lancaster); Mary Brown (Lillian Leighton); Tom (Wm. Scott); Alice (Elsie Greeson). Written by John M. Barber. Produced by Norval MacGregor.

John Jones, a widower, and his son, Tom, move into a suburban home. A stone wall separates the garden from that of their neighbor, Mary Brown, a maiden lady, and her niece, Alice. It is a case of love at first sight for Tom and Alice, and the garden wall is utilized by them as a trysting place.

John Jones, on his way to business, encounters Mary Brown, whom he recognizes as his boyhood sweetheart. His thoughts revert to the days of long ago. Mary Brown has also recognized John Jones, and she, too, thinks of the old days, and of their courtship.

Alice and Tom each discover the romance and they plot to bring John and Mary together once again, and the garden wall figures importantly in the carrying out of their purpose.

NO PLACE LIKE HOME.—The cast: Dad (John Lancaster); Mother (Lillian Leighton); Emily (Elsie Greeson); Lillian (Lillian Wade); The Cook (Lillian Hayward); The Dude (Sidney Smith). Written by W. E. Wing. Produced by Norval MacGregor.

Baby Lillian makes a tour of discovery upstairs. She sees big sister's perfume atomizer and also a bottle of "Eternal Glue." One drop of this glue mixed with a gallon of water would cement nations together. Baby Lillian mixes the terrible glue with the perfume and proceeds to spray everyone and everything in the house.

Father seemingly waltzes a pretty maid hugged tightly in his arms, while mother with grim features tugs at his coat tails. The cook wildly bounces about with a huge pan attached to her foot. The duds young fellow with a bouquet for big sister, who has just entered, is caught fast. Big sister's curiosity has led her to pick up Dad's revolvers, and she cannot shake them out of her unwilling hands. Bullets fly and a tramp, who has endeavored to sneak a lunch, gets away from there leaving his coat glued to a chair.

How peace is restored to this "gluesome" home and what happens to baby Lillian furnishes a proper climax to this comedy.

FORTUNE PHOTOPLAYS.

MENTIONED IN CONFIDENCE (4 Parts).

—The cast: Gordon Leigh (R. Henry Grey); Mr. Leigh (Frank Brownlee); Robert Manning (Melvin Mayo); Marjorie Manning (Vola Vale); Perda Brentane (Lcan Gibbs); Father Daly (Bruce Smith); Capitalist (Gordon Sackville). Directed by Edgar Jones.

Father Daly, seeing a capitalist and working man having a quarrel over their children, decides to interfere. He does so, and tells them a story of his early life as chaplain of a prison.

Two children, Gordon Leigh and Marjorie Manning, are pretending they are doctor and nurse, burying a doll which has died following an operation. As the doll is buried the fathers of the children, Leigh, a wealthy man, and Manning, a poor florist, fight over their children's associating. Manning, angry, shouts, "Some day my girl will own that fine house of yours." Action shifts 15 years, about. Manning has become a rich florist. His daughter is his business assistant and very happy. Enters Perla, cabaret singer, to buy flowers.

Manning falls in love with her. He marries her and she makes a mean step-mother, finally forcing Marjorie to leave home and strike out for herself. She becomes a nurse in the hospital where Gordon is chief surgeon. They fall in love, neither remembering their childhood friendship. They visit the scene of the doll's grave and remember, digging up the doll. Perla meets Gordon, buying flowers for Marjorie, and recognizes a youthful love. She becomes jealous of Gordon's new sweetheart, though she does not know who she is. She decides to follow him home to discover who the girl is. Manning, who has seen her with Gordon, is inflamed with jealousy and follows also.

Gordon has arranged to have Marjorie come and superintend alterations at the house preparatory to the wedding. Gordon comes home and soon Perla confronts him in his room. She tries to win back his love, and failing, cries "Then no other woman shall have you." Gordon tries to take the gun from her, but fails, and is badly wounded in the head. Manning rushes in, and, in trying to disarm Perla, she is shot dead in the struggle. An officer, attracted by the shots, finds Marjorie, who has come in, bending over Gordon, holding Perla's gun in her hand. He arrests her and Manning to save his daughter, declares he did it. He is tried and convicted. Gordon, the

PRESENT LAWS

are sufficient to deal with objectionable pictures

CENSORSHIP

is an unnecessary burden upon the taxpayer

VOTE AGAINST IT

Theater managers see page 1944 of Moving Picture World, March 24th issue.

only one alive who knows who shot Perla, has lost his memory as a result of the wound.

The day for the execution draws near and Father Daly learns the true story in the confessional from Manning. He begs Manning to tell, but he refuses because he is afraid that his daughter will be accused of the crime. He is being made ready for execution when Gordon awakes from his trance. He immediately declares that Perla shot herself and that he saw it. Marjorie has an exciting chase to the Governor's house for delay in the execution. The Governor telephones to the prison, but lazy telephone girls delay the message by giving the wrong number. At last he gets the prison too late to countermand the order for Manning's execution. The quick-witted warden reaches over to a wall-box and tears the wires from the wall just as the executioner throws the switch that will kill Manning. Manning is saved by a hair and there is a general happy reunion.

After his story Father Daly leaves the two quarrelers so moved that they become friends and their children continue to play together.

ESSANAY.

ALADDIN UP-TO-DATE (Black Cat Feature (2 Parts).—The cast: James Wilbur Scovill (Bryant Washburn); Blaney (Patrick Calhoun).

James Wilbur Scovill has a mine, but no capital with which to operate it. He comes East in search of backing, but finds that capital doesn't grow on trees. Soon the miner is among the city's down-and-outers. Then Scovill learns of a capitalist willing to listen to argument. Without clothes, however, he realizes he has little chance to impress a rich man. He returns to his room in despair, and, lo and behold! there is a complete outfit of high-priced clothing awaiting him. Scovill puts over the deal and immediately is arrested, charged with passing bogus checks on clothiers. It happens, though, that a youth is run down by a motor car, and makes a dying confession that he is a swindler who had passed the bogus checks.

THE LUCKY ONE.—The cast: The Fakir (Billy Mason); The Girl (Ruth Hennessy).

A $500 reward is offered for a lost ring and scores join the search. The corner fakir drops his ring near each searcher, and, pretending to be unaware of the reward, sells the fake rings to them for high amounts. He trades one for a horse and huggy and wins the girl away from her sweetheart. But the latter finds the real ring and the fakir is driven out of town. "In the Beef and Butter Country" (western Canada) shares the reel.

THE PALLID DAWN ("Is Marriage Sacred?" 2 Parts).—The cast: Grace Temple (Marguerite Clayton); Ralph Goodwin (Edward Arnold); Frank Bartlett (Sydney Ainsworth); Benjamin Goodwin (Ernest Maupain).

Ralph Goodwin, sowing his wild oats, weds Grace Temple, a chorus girl, during a "high time" one night. The realization of what he had done followed the next morning when Ralph's father casts him out. Grace, however, instead of proving a butterfly, leaped into the crisis, and, by her encouragement, Ralph proved a success in Wall Street. In a big financial deal Ralph threatens to wipe out his father's fortune. The old man is forced to visit his son and plea for mercy. During this visit he sees that Grace is responsible largely for Ralph's success and forthwith forgives the couple.

Universal Film Mfg. Co. VICTOR.

DOROTHY DARES (Two Parts—March 15).—The cast: Dorothy Worth (Ruth Stonehouse); Mr. Worth (Mr. Witting); Mrs. Worth (Mrs. Witting); Abigail Winthrop (Martha Maddox); Janitor of Seminary (Jack Dill). Scenario by Fred Myton. Produced by Ruth Stonehouse.

The end of the summer brought the parting of Dorothy Worth, a daughter of a wealthy man, and Harold Mason, a clerk in a haberdashery store. When Harold told Mr. Worth of his love for Dorothy, the father inquired how much money he earned. Harold said that his salary amounted to ten dollars a week. Dorothy and her parents left the town for a girl's seminary.

Too love-sick to study, Dorothy mooned away her time, and once, when especially lonely, wrote a letter to her parents, telling them that she felt she could not live any longer. She had no intention of mailing the letter and tossed it into the wastepaper basket, but Miss Abigail Winthrop, the principal of the seminary, found and mailed it.

Harold, having read a novel description of a knight of old rescuing his sweetheart from a convent, decided to try his luck at the same game and hastened to the seminary. He managed to get the janitor of the seminary intoxicated and took his place, leaving a note for

Dorothy that he would be in her room at ten that night. Dorothy and her roommates were greatly enthused with this thrilling romance, but when they received word that they were to be initiated into the Sigma Phi Sorority that night at ten, they were all at sea as to what they could do with Harold.

Harold arrived in the room first and when they heard the Sorority girls at the door, Dorothy pushed him into the bedroom. He hid under the bed, where one of the girls, swinging her bare foot, hit him in the face. She motioned the other girls to follow her into the hall and there she told them. Harold concealed himself in the closet and Dorothy put a piece of fur under the bed so that the girls thought that was what the girl's foot had struck.

Dorothy and her room-mates lowered Harold out the window. Just then Miss Abigail and Dorothy's parents rushed into the room and found her with flour all over her face, for she had been through a part of her initiation. Seeing such a sight, Mrs. Worth proceeded to faint and her husband dashed to open the window. Harold was dropped from quite a height and was stunned by the fall. Mr. Worth asked Dorothy what she had on her face, and, learning that it was flour, threw the sack containing the rest of it from the window. It landed on Harold's head.

The fatal letter was produced. Dorothy was inspired to say that she must have had a nightmare and have written the letter in her sleep. All was peace again.

BLACK MAGIC (March 20).—Parson Johnson is preaching to a colored congregation, when they become distracted by the watermelons which are on a wagon near the church. Parson Johnson becomes inspired and he puts one of the darkies in a hag and the parson asks the owner of the wagon kindly to run the hag over to the postoffice. On the way over the kid gets out of the hag and throws melon after melon off the wagon to his dark comrades, and when he thinks they have enough he jumps off himself and they have a real party.

LANDMARKS OF FRANCE (On Same Reel as Foregoing).—We see a panorama of the beautiful town of La Beaume, in the Rhine Valley. The houses at the foot of the hills are very old and built of stone. The gate and fountain of the old abbey are shown. In this part of the country oxen are still used as beasts of burden. There are picturesque grottoes and cascades in the neighborhood.

THE HASH HOUSE MYSTERY (Two Parts—March 22).—The cast: Rufe Eldridge (Harry C. Myers); Susie Summers (Rosemary Theby); the Princess Pashio (???); Adam Lollypop, the landlord (Jerry Hever). Produced by Harry Myers.

Rufe Eldridge, flat broke, is taken from his dinner by the landlord, who propels him out of the dining-room into the office. He discovers a letter informing him that his aunt, Priscilla Ware, has died and left him an inheritance.

This turns out to be her boarding-house, "The Broken Shutter." Though ignorant of the ways of managing a boarding house, Rufe decides to take a chance. Susie Summers is accepted as a waitress. She tells him of a fortune teller who predicted many happy things for her. This gives Rufe an idea.

Rufe dresses himself in Oriental costume, and, presenting himself at his former lodging house, tells them that he is the Princess Pashio, finder of lost heirs and heiresses. He walks through the streets of Circleville blindfolded, the entire town at his heels, until he arrives at his house.

Rufe tells them that this is the place. He opens a fortune-telling parlor and does a land office business. The boarding-house is filled to overflowing with the curious, who all pay him money for information as to who the heiress is.

To the men he says that she is a sleenwalker, who wanders around in the dead of night. The women feel that they are slighted, so he explains to them that he meant an heir instead of an heiress. That night the women lie in wait for the sleep-walking heir and the men do likewise. Rufe, meanwhile, does a little courting with Susie.

Susie, to carry out her end of the plot, walks down the hallway and is seen by Old Lollypop, Rufe's former landlord. He thinks that she is the heiress and he pushes his suit and asks her hand in marriage. She replies evasively, but finally promises to marry him if he will buy the hash house from Rufe. The landlord is undecided about this, but the pseudo fortune-teller advises him to buy it at Rufe's price, as his fortune depends on it.

The landlord finally draws $10,000 out of the bank and gives it to Rufe, who gets Susie and the two are about to leave to get married when the landlord and the other boarders overtake them. They are received with the information that Susie is the heiress, that the money received from the landlord and boarders constitutes the fortune.

BISON.

GOIN' STRAIGHT (Two Parts—March 24).—The cast: "Cheyenne" Harry (Harry Carey); "Pinnacle" Bill (Vesta Pegg); Billy Carter (Teddy Brooks); Mary Carter (Priscilla Deau); Dan Beckham, sheriff (Wm. Gettinger); "Tuscon" Tom (Ed Jones); Wong Lee (Charles Bryden). Scenario by Fred Kelsey and Harry Carey. Produced by Fred Kelsey.

Billy Carter and two Mexicans, Cutoo and Estaban, are smugglers of opium which they bring across the border from Mexico into the United States. The authorities are unable to apprehend them, so "Pinnacle" Bill and "Cheyenne" Harry of the Arizona Ranger Service are sent to assist the sheriff, Dan Beckham, and the inspectors in their search.

"Cheyenne" and "Pinnacle" put up at a Chinese restaurant. "Cheyenne" becoming suspicious of Wong Lee, the proprietor, and the Mexicans, shoots a hole in the floor of his room, apparently by accident. His room is directly above the kitchen in which Wong Lee, Cutoo, Estaban and Billy are conversing and plotting. Enlarging the bullet hole, "Cheyenne" is able to confirm his suspicions. However, he and "Pinnacle" wish to catch the smugglers red-handed and wait until that night when the law-breakers intend to make a trip across the border.

Late in the night, as the smugglers are about to cross the river intersecting the two countries, "Cheyenne" and "Pinnacle" as well as the sheriff's party, begin to fire. Billy attempts to get away and is pursued by "Cheyenne." Harry overtakes the boy and when he discovers who it is, he allows him to escape across the line. Billy is the brother of Mary Carter, whom "Cheyenne" has always loved. "Pinnacle" then arrests "Cheyenne," but gamblers by nature, they toss up a coin to decide if the prisoner shall be jailed or freed. The coin, fortunately for "Cheyenne," falls "heads" up. He hands his Ranger badge to "Pinnacle" and rides across the boundary with Billy.

L-KO.

DEFECTIVE DETECTIVES (Two Parts—March 21).—The cast: Head detective (Charles Inslee); his pupil (Phil Dunham); bride (Lucille Hutton); another bride (Merta Sterling). Directed by J. A. Howe.

Phil is about to graduate at the "School of Detectatufs," and he and the chief are trying the effect of various disguises on each other. A suspicious party is registered at the hotel, and the detectatufs are called in. They disguise themselves as porters and busy themselves with the baggage, in order to divert the attention of the guests. The bride, Lucille, and groom arrive and register at the desk. Soon after another pair, with Merta as the bride, also appear and ask for rooms. Their trunks are delivered and Phil is told to take them upstairs. He takes up Lucille's and leaves it outside her door, going down for Merta's.

Charles comes along and take Lucille's down on the elevator, under the impression that it was left there to be taken away. When Phil staggers up the stairs with Merta's, he is horrified to find Lucille's gone. In the confusion the trunks are delivered to the wrong rooms, and Merta nearly has a fit when she opens the one in her room and finds clothes much too small for her in it.

Phil and Charles, meantime, have made many changes in make-up and succeeded in deceiving no one but each other. Each thinks the other a suspicious character, until his disguise is removed. The trunks become hopelessly confused, each taking the wrong one into the hall. For some unknown reason, they find themselves on the roof, where they do stunts with the trunks over the edge. One trunk is landed on the telegraph wires, with the detectives and guests after it. There is a battle for the possession of the trunk high up above the city. At last trunk, detective and guests fall together in one heap.

NESTOR.

WHEN THE CAT'S AWAY (March 19).—The cast: Butler (Lee Moran); Eddie (Eddie Lyons); Edith (Edith Roberts); "Drunk" (Harry Nolan); "Rheumatic" (Fred Gamble). Scenario by C. H. Hoadley. Produced by Louis Chaudet.

Eddie's auto cuts off his allowance and asks him to take care of her house while she is away. Eddie and Lee, the butler, put a sign on the house reading, "Dr. Lyon, Specialist in all diseases."

Several patients appear and then an auto accident occurs in which Edith's ankle is injured. Eddie insists upon taking entire charge of her, to their mutual joy. But Eddie is worn out with the exertion of keeping the patients from the halls and from each other.

Beware of Strangers

Eddie's aunt arrives and Lee tells the patients the house is afire and sends them down a chute. Lee takes down the sign and enters the house just as Edith and her mother are talking with aunt. Eddie is introduced and all become friendly.

IN AGAIN, OUT AGAIN (March 23).—The editor of the "Clarion" sends his star reporter to investigate conditions in the State Asylum. The star fails, and the job is given to a "cub." The young fellow pretends to be insane and is admitted to the asylum. He falls in love with the warden's niece, though he deplores the fact that she is weak-minded. His watch and wallet are taken away from him, and he is allowed to roam the grounds with the other inmates. After a talk with the steward and after a secret inspection of the books, he determines to escape. He is pursued by guards to the doors of the newspaper office, where his editor protects him. The next day the warden's niece calls on him and returns his possessions, all except his heart, which is permanently lost.

IMP.

THE PERILS OF THE SECRET SERVICE (Adventure No. 3—"The Dreaded Tube"—Two Parts—March 23).—The cast: Yorke Norroy (Kingsley Benedict); Carson Huntley (Jay Belasco); Ferrand Boissevan (L. C. Shumway); Giovanni (Francis McDonald); Rose Lee (Elsie Jane Wilson). Written and produced by George Bronson Howard.

Michael Xabra, an anarchist, has been condemned to death for a dynamiting outrage in which four people perished. The Red Brotherhood, an anarchist society, the leader of which is Ferrand Boissevan, the keeper of a curio shop and an opium smuggler, have determined that if Xabra is executed they will spread germs of the bubonic plague throughout New York. Rose Lee, secretary to the Governor of New York, goes to Chinatown for her weekly supply of opium, but is unable to procure her supply due to new laws.

During her days as a free-lance stenographer, Rose had done some work for Boissevan. He was greatly attracted to her, but she had repulsed him. He sees her in Chinatown, and promises to give her opium, on the condition that she report daily what the Governor intends doing about the case of Xabra. She consents.

Carson Huntley sees Rose sink into the curio show. Following he hides behind a curtain, hears of the plot discussed by Boissevan and his accomplice, Giovanni. Huntley telegraphs to Yorke Norroy that the Red Brotherhood is to be called together. He advises Norroy to disguise as a Russian and go to the meeting of the anarchists under the name of Jacobus of Wilmington. Norroy is on his way to New York.

Huntley learns that a test tube in the possession of Boissevan contains the culture of the bubonic plague and that it is to be thrown into the New York City reservoir. Yorke Norroy arrives. He goes to the Governor's office disguised as a Russian and puts Rose through a test to find out if she is one of the conspirators. Discovering that she is ignorant of the plot, he unfolds his plan to prevent the disaster. Realizing that her life has never been of any use to any one, she declares that she is glad to be of service.

Norroy instructs her to get Boissevan to her rooms and there manage to break the test tube. He will prevent the spread of the germs by a strong chemical, which will destroy himself as well as the girl and Boissevan, for it will burn the whole house. Rose entices Boissevan to her house and there gets him into a large closet which has a spring lock. Deciding that two lives will be sufficient sacrifice, she follows him into the closet and huris the lamp at him. The flames catch the clothes hanging about, and soon the forms of the girl and man are seen still struggling. Norroy rushes into the room too late to save Rose, although he makes so great an effort to do so, that he is finally carried unconscious by Huntley from the burning house.

POWERS.

THE STRANGEST ARMY IN THE WORLD (War Special—March 22).—The ski army, fighting in the mountains between Austria and Italy, have earned the title of the strangest army in the world. We see them in maneuvers, maintaining a discipline as strict as that in any other body of troops. They ascend and descend the icy mountain slopes. The men are picked for their hardihood, but they sometimes succumb to the intense cold of the Alpine heights. Sometimes they use snowshoes similar to those of the Indians in our country. The sudden snowstorms are more to be feared than an attack by the enemy.

ARTISTIC CHINA AND JAPAN (Dorsey Educational—March 25).—The palaces of the imperial family in Peking are shown, with the

STAR CARBONS MADE IN FRANCE

The carbons
you have been looking for

THE following letter was recently received from a theatre using
Star Carbons:—

"After trying out sample carbons which you gave me, I find that they gave me very good satisfaction, both as to light and cleanliness. Kindly enter my order for 100 5/8 cored."

The following dealers stock
Star Carbons and you can obtain from them the carbons you have been looking for. Try them with a trial order.

S. B. LELAND,
97 State St., Montpelier, Vt.
M. P. MACHINE CO.,
129 Pleasant St., Boston, Mass.
STERN MFG. CO.,
1023 Race St., Philadelphia, Pa.
PALMORE & HOMAND,
412 E. Lexington St., Baltimore, Md.
A. N. FELDSTEIN,
294 Theodore St., Detroit, Mich.
THE H. LIEBER CO.,
24 W. Washington St., Indianapolis, Ind.
KANSAS CITY MACHINE & SUPPLY CO.,
813 Walnut St., Kansas City, Mo.
SWANSON & NOLAN SUPPLY CO.,
1744 Curtis St., Denver, Colo.
WARING & FINCK,
1014 Third Ave., Seattle, Wash.
BRECK PHOTOPLAY SUPPLY CO.,
70 Turk St., San Francisco, Cal.
EASTERN NEW MEXICO THEATRE
SUPPLY CO.,
Clovis, New Mexico.
QUEEN FEATURE SERVICE,
Potter Bldg., Birmingham, Alabama.

If you cannot obtain sizes you desire from these dealers, send us your order direct, and we will ship you trial order in lots of not less than fifty to a size, by express, C.O.D. All prices f.o.b. New York.

1"x12 plain cored.....Prices on application
3/4"x12 plain cored.....Prices on application
3/4"x12 plain cored.....$11.00 per 100
3/4"x12 plain cored.....$8.40 per 100

JONES & CAMMACK
SOLE IMPORTERS
Cor. Bridge and Whitehall Sts.
New York City

entrance to the throne-room of the "Son of Heaven," as the Emperor was called. We pass then to views of Japanese craftsmen at their delicate tasks—damascene work, transferring design, inserting the fine wire into the prepared grooves, and tapping it into place. The specimens shown in the picture were later exhibited at the San Francisco Fair.

THE LOVE AFFAIR OF IMA KNUTT (On Same Reel as Forgoing).—Ima Knutt falls in love with a fat woman, and does everything he can think of to make her thin. But the more she exercises the fatter she grows. At last he finds some wonderful patent medicine and induces her to try it. She becomes so thin, that when he calls her up on the telephone she comes right through the machine and into his room over the wire. That is too much for Ima, who is converted to bachelor joys.

JOKER.

WHOSE BABY (March 24).—The cast: William, the Conquered (Wm. Franey); the Conqueror, his wife (Gale Henry); Milton (Milton Morant); His Spouse (Lillian Peacock). Written by Jack Cunningham. Produced by W. W. Beaudine.

While his wife is away, Bill sees Lillian and wishes to flirt with her. But he has been left in charge of the baby in its carriage. So he takes the baby to a checking station and leaves it. Then he goes off to a park bench with Lillian. The forgotten carriage starts to run down hill. Gale sees it and gives chase. It runs into a sleeping tramp, who steals it. Milt has also checked his baby. Gale comes upon her husband and Lillian. Bill rushes back to the station for his child, leaving Lillian to the tender mercies of his wife. He grabs Milt's baby while the attendant is not looking. Many complications ensue, including the arrest of the tramp. Finally the babies are restored to their respective owners.

LAEMMLE.

OLD FAITHFUL (March 21).—Gertrude, living with her father, the keeper of the light, loves Ned, but is betrothed to John, who has just returned from a long absence. John is bitten by a mad dog and hydrophobia develops. Ned's ship is on the way to the island, and John, knowing this, fails to turn on the light.

Gertrude and her father are away. They return and John fights the old man to prevent his turning on the light. They struggle on the stairs and John falls and is killed. Gertrude is trying to light the lamp. She calls her father to her aid. Duty prevails over his grief and he responds. Ned's ship is saved.

BIG U.

THE REBEL'S NET (March 25).—Curtis, commander of the American forces in a Philippine village, saves a native girl, who is attacked in her cabin. Later, Dolores, sweetheart of the leader of a revolution then brewing, lures Curtis to her home with a view to keeping him away from his troops as the first blow of the revolution is struck. To Curtis' astonishment he finds the native girl a servant in Dolores' home, and she repays her savior by warning him when Orelli, the rebel chief, drugs his drink. Curtis escapes in time to marshal his forces and quell the uprising. From his prison cell Orelli directs an attack on Curtis, but the American is saved by the native girl, this time at the cost of her own life.

REX.

THE BOYHOOD HE FORGOT (March 24).—Phillips is wrapped up in business and neglects his two motherless boys, except to punish them when they make the slightest slip. George, the leader, determines to run away, leaving an explanatory note for his father. This causes the father to reflect upon his own boyhood with its many faults. When a policeman returns with his son, he forgives him instead of punishing him, and they resolve to try to understand each other better.

THE GRUDGE (Two Parts—March 25).—The cast: Judge Thurman (William V. Mong); Dora Flynn (Irene Hunt); Thos. Hardy (Alfred Allen); Alan Hardy (Willard Wayne); Bessie (Zoe Rae); Butler (Harry M. Hoiden). Written by Harvey Gates. Produced by William V. Mong.

Judge Thurman begrudges the small amount necessary to send his niece, Dora Flynn, to college. He is absolutely heartless in his business associations and refuses to help Thos. Hardy, who is president of a bank, and this causes Hardy to kill himself.

Beware of Strangers

Attending the same college with Dora is Thos. Hardy's son, Alan, and the two have married secretly. Alan is summoned home by the death of his father and wires Dora of this. She is unable to keep her secret, and it reaches the ears of the principal, who dismisses her. She is afraid to return to her uncle, and obtains employment in the city. Alan learns of the part the judge played in the death of his father and vows to break the old man. He is successful, and it is a bitter effort for the judge to seek favor from the younger man.

Meantime, Dora is unable to win a livelihood for herself and baby, and places it on her uncle's doorstep. Later she asks him to allow her to return home in the role of servant. The child, Bessie, has secured a place for herself in the heart of the judge.

Alan comes to make a proposition to the judge regarding his financial position, and for the first time sees Dora. The judge is astounded at this revelation and pleads with the two to allow the child to remain. Alan is obdurate, and the three leave, but have only gone a short distance when Dora persuades Alan to return.

UNIVERSAL.

ANIMATED WEEKLY, NO. 62 (March 7). Teachers for Preparedness.—Seventeen hundred school ma'ams visit students at naval training station—Lake Bluff, Ill. Subtitles: Drilling in giant hall. Teachers sample sailors' food.

Eighteen Die in Train Wreck.—Rear-end crash in fog results in death horror in telescoped cars—Mount Union, Pa. Subtitle: The telescoped sleepers.

Giving Away Wealth.—Storekeeper presents "costly" onion to every purchaser—New York City. Subtitle: Potato or onion pays for box seat at movies.

Wrecking Huge Wall.—Hard job to demolish old city building to be replaced by recreation center—San Francisco, Cal.

To Scatter Death.—Great Britain bending every effort to rush ammunition to front—Somewhere in England. Subtitles: Ammunition leaving factory. Taking powder to cannon. Boom!! Torpedoes ready for warships.

"Fighting Fred" Funston Buried.—Captor of Aguinaldo and Army hero is honored by thousands—San Francisco, Cal. Subtitles: State and city officials receive the body from the Mexican border. Carrying the body into the new City Hall, where it lay in state. To the final resting place. The cortege leaving for the Presidio, famous Pacific coast military post.

German's Prison Ship.—Japanese steamer "Hudson Maru," taken by sea raider and used to carry ashore prisoners from other ships—New York City. Subtitles: The officers and crew. Broadsword practice. A member of the crew in native dress. Corns never trouble him.

Wilson Renews Oath as President.—Chief Executive of nation is inaugurated with impressive ceremonies—Washington, D. C.

Let's All Be Americans Now.—Subtitles: Are you physically prepared to do your bit? Can you ride? Dispatch bearers are important factors in warfare. We must protect our coast. Ships need men. Can you help man them? A war dog with a deadly bite.

Cartoons by Hy Mayer.

GOLD SEAL.

THE RAID (Three Parts—March 20).—The cast: Neal Lawton (Neal Hart); Henry Arthur (Raymond Whitaker); Evelyn, his daughter (Janet Eastman); Pedro (Joe Rickson); Pete (Pedro Leon). Written and produced by George Marshall.

Neal Lawton, the foreman of the Circle W Ranch in Texas, is visited by the owner, Henry Arthur, and his daughter, Evelyn. At the ranch, in the guise of a servant, is a Mexican called Pedro, who is the leader of a band of Mexican outlaws. He sees a chance to gain money by kidnapping Arthur and his daughter. He informs his band. Some days later, Neal and the cowboys go to the round-up, leaving Evelyn and her father at the camp. During their absence Pedro gives the signal to his gang. Meanwhile, Neal has fallen in love with the girl, but she refuses to listen to him. She realizes he could not give her any of the things to which she has been used. Neal is despondent. The outlaws take Evelyn and Arthur, prisoners, and carry them to the Mexican camp. Neal and the boys return and find traces of the raid. They start on the trail and soon arrive in the Mexican camp, where Neal knocks the sentry on the head, and, exchanging clothes with him, sneaks into the camp alone. As he passes one of the huts, he hears a scream and, recognizing the girl's voice, enters and saves her from Pedro. He then hurries away with the two prisoners. Pedro rushes from the hut, calling his followers, but the cowboys begin to shoot, hitting him and causing the band to run for cover. Neal, Evelyn and Arthur ride away on their horses and the two visitors are soon on the trail going East.

The next morning at Lone Dog, Evelyn disappears from the train, and word is sent to Neal. He promptly sends the boys out in all directions to search for her, and starts across the country in the direction of the station where she was last seen. Later, he finds her on the desert and she tells him about leaving the train and buying a horse upon which she started back to the ranch. The horse ran away and she had been forced to struggle on as best she could. Neal is puzzled as to her reason for returning and she says, "I was coming back to you. Isn't it a woman's privilege to change her mind?"

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE.

THE PURPLE MASK (Episode No. 13—"The Leap"—Two Parts—March 25).—Phil Kelly and his men release themselves from the room where Pat has trapped them by shooting the lock from the door with their revolvers. When Kelly searches the house he finds the disreputable Johnson bound hand and foot with a purple mask thrown over his face and a note pinned to his coat reading: "Sorry to trouble you, but the poor need the money more than you do."

The house being shaken by a violent explosion, Kelly goes to investigate, after releasing Johnson, and finds that the sunken vault has been blown up, and the money removed. Further investigation proves that the Apaches have tunneled underground from the yard, drilled their way to the vault by working up from the bottom, and then exploded a heavy charge of dynamite, completely destroying Johnson's strong room.

When Kelly persists in his effort to capture "The Purple Mask," she leads him over roofs and house-tops, keeping just far enough ahead of the detective to tantalize him by her activities. When she is ready to make good her escape, Pat drops into her machine while it passes under an archway at the entrance of an alley. Foiled again, Kelly is forced to confess his defeat to his superior officers.

Later one of Pat's men, who gains the friendship of a band of anarchists, learns that the promptings of revenge, and the fulfillment of their mad ideas, have made the anarchists determined to wreck New York's financial district. They propose to ascend in dirigibles and drop bombs on Wall Street in the hope of wrecking as much of the financial district as possible.

Determined to thwart the anarchists, Pat makes arrangements for an aeroplane in which she proposes to rise above the anarchists' dirigibles and drop bombs upon them before they can do any serious damage to the city. The episode closes with Pat entering her aeroplane just at the instant the anarchists rise from the ground in another part of New York.

THE VOICE OF THE WIRE (Episode No. 2. "The Mysterious Man in Black"—Two Parts—March 25).—The cast: John Shirley (Ben Wilson); Howard Van Cleft (Ernie Shields); William Grimsby (Wm. Canfield); Polly Marion (Neva Gerber); Red Warren (Francis MacDonald); Dr. Renolds (Joseph Girard). Scenario by J. Grubb Alexander. Produced by Stuart Paton.

As Howard Van Cleft is sitting in his library he receives a telephone call warning him that if he does not desist in attempting to find the murderer of his father, he also will be a victim. Howard acquaints his friend, John Shirley, with the news.

William Grimsby, an aged financier and roue, receives a warning of death. Shirley approaches him with a scheme to save his life, to which Grimsby consents. In accordance with Shirley's plan he visits the latter's apartments. Shirley there makes up to resemble the aged financier and departs, leaving Grimsby ensconced in his rooms.

Some time previously, Shirley had visited the office of Dick Holloway, a theatrical manager, where he was fired upon by some unknown person. He tells Dick that he wants an actress who is beautiful and at the same time fearless. Dick promises to get this sort of a girl, and sends Polly Marion, whom Shirley thinks is just the type he wants.

Shirley, dressed as Grimsby, calls upon Polly and takes her to a cafe where the two dine. She introduces Red Warren, a cafe hanger-on, and a somewhat mysterious individual. When Shirley and Polly leave, they cannot find their own taxi and are forced to take another. As they ride along, the two begin to grow drowsy. Shirley finds the windows securely fastened. With Polly's diamonds he cuts the glass. On the road he is attacked by a muffled figure, which springs to the side of his car. He tries to detain the figure, but he escapes. Then gagging and binding the chauffeur, whom he puts into the machine so that Polly can keep guard over him, Shirley drives home, where he finds Grimsby dead.

Polly gets a mysterious phone call telling her to beware or she will be the next victim. Shirley likewise receives the same warning, but it only makes him more determined to solve the mystery.

Mutual Film Corporation GAUMONT.

TOURS AROUND THE WORLD NO. 21 (March 27).—The scene which dominates this number is that which depicts the birthplace of Napoleon Bonaparte at Ajaccio, Corsica. The reel is divided into three sections. The first is Ajaccio, the capital of Corsica. The grotto in which as a lad Napoleon dreamed of the future is shown, as well as the monument which has been erected in memory of the great Emperor and his four brothers. The harbor, capable of welcoming the largest ships, is picturesque, as is the road begun in 312 B. C., a driveway lined with many beautiful tombs. With its narrow streets and dilapidated buildings, Ajaccio has a deserted appearance.

Funchal, capital of the Madeira Islands, provides pictures for the second reel. With its whitewashed houses, Funchal presents an attractive appearance against a background of mountains 4,000 feet high. The streets are so steep and narrow that wheeled traffic is impossible. There are illuminating pictures of the natives, of Portuguese and Moorish descent. Undeniably beautiful is the scenery along the funicular railway which leads to the mountain top.

The third section of this issue pictures Rostov-on-the-Don. This city is a seaport of southeastern Russia and in times of peace exports great quantities of grain. Fishing is another great industry. Among the interesting sights of the city are the bridge over the River Don, the cathedral of pure Russian type, the monument to Alexander II, the Liberator, and the statue of Catherine the Great. Another picture in this series shows preparations for the resumption of navigation with the thawing of the ice.

REEL LIFE NO. 48. (April 1).—To the millions of people who have read of the almost superhuman work of the pulmotor, the pictures of this machine shown in this number will prove a most welcome explanation of how it works in bringing back to life those who have been suffocated. An experienced operator demonstrates how to fit the apparatus over the mouth of the victim, and also how to furnish "first aid" until the pulmotor arrives.

A second section of this reel makes the spectator acquainted with the Indian method of

Beware of Strangers

"ARGONAUTS OF CALIFORNIA" DAYS OF '49

A Thrilling Historical Masterpiece
in 10 Reels

Grafton Publishing Film Company
LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA
STATE RIGHTS NOW SELLING

CLUNE FILM PRODUCING COMPANY Los Angeles, California

Producers of "RAMONA" (10 reels) and
"THE EYES OF THE WORLD" (10 reels)
Harold Bell Wright's famous love story of adventure, of which nearly 2,000,000 copies
have been sold, magnificently reproduced.
Available for state rights.

NATIONAL DRAMA CORP.

1465 BROADWAY
NEW YORK CITY

weaving the deservedly famous Navajo blankets. The pictures were taken in Arizona and show the various processes followed by the squaws in completing their work. A number of ceremonial blankets are also pictured.

A sight familiar to all New Yorkers is the clock which is the crowning ornament of the Herald Building at Herald Square. It is unique not only because of its interesting composition as a work of art, but also because the two figures on either side the bell strike the hours with their heavy hammers. The picture was taken just as these heroic bronze figures are beating the hours.

Swedish gymnastics are so much a part of the athletic life of that nation that their inclusion in this issue will bring to American spectators pictures of physical preparedness that all should seek to emulate. The pictures show some of the work of a class highly developed, although some of the exercises are elemental.

The reel concludes with entertaining views of winter sports in Florida, aquaplaning, aeroplaning and motorboating.

CUB.

MINDING THE BABY (March 22).—The cast: Jerry (George Ovey); The Husband (George George); His Wife (Claire Alexander); Sam, a colored man (Ray Lincoln); Sadie, his wife (J. Williams); A nurse (Rita Dempsey).

Jerry is seated in the railway station waiting for his train, when a woman approaches him and asks that he hold her baby for a few minutes. Jerry does her the favor. The minutes, however, stretch into a long period of time, and getting tired of his job, Jerry places the baby in a basket which has been placed on the bench beside him by two crooks.

Thinking his troubles are over Jerry starts to leave, when a colored woman asks him if he would mind her baby for a few minutes while she goes in search of her husband. Again Jerry hasn't the heart to refuse.

The first mother returns and takes the colored baby from Jerry believing it to be her own. It is wrapped in covers, and she does not open them. The train on which this mother's husband is due to arrive pulls into the station. The husband knows Jerry, and urges him to come along to his home. Jerry refuses the invitation and thanks him, but the husband insists, and Jerry is forcibly carried away.

Meantime the crooks have taken away the basket containing the white baby, and are now out on the high road on their way to the scene of their next job.

The colored woman returns to the station to claim her baby, and finds Jerry and her baby gone. She screams, bringing a policeman to her side. She explains her plight to him, and he advises her to go to the police station.

Arriving home, the husband lifts the cover from the baby's face. Consternation reigns when he discovers that they have the wrong baby. The mother explains that Jerry had been entrusted with their baby, and that any mistake is due to his carelessness. The father starts after Jerry, but he is nimble of foot and gets out of harm's way. A lively chase follows, Jerry is finally caught and led to the police station.

The two couples meet at the station, and while they are trying to thrash out matters the crooks enter with the white baby. They had discovered the nature of their burden, and have returned to turn it over to the police. Matters are then adjusted, and the picture closes with Jerry crooning to the mite of humanity he is permitted to hold in his arms, this time under the watchful eye of the baby's parents.

MONOGRAM STUDIOS.

THE ADVENTURES OF SHORTY HAMILTON (No. 10—"Shorty Bags the Bullion Thieves"—Two Parts—March 19).—Shorty and Anita are completing plans for their wedding

ADVERTISE
YOUR FILM ATTRACTIONS WITH A DEAGAN ELECTRIC
UNA-FON
Your Regular Pianist Plays It. Write for Particulars
J. C. DEAGAN MUSICAL BELLS, Inc.
1776 BERTEAU AVE., CHICAGO

For Perfect Laboratory Results
INSTALL
CORCORAN TANKS
A. J. CORCORAN, Inc. 11½ JOHN STREET
NEW YORK CITY

Westinghouse-Cooper Hewitt
 Rectifier Outfit
Westinghouse Electric & Mfg. Co
East Pittsburgh, Pa.

A M E R I C A N
Photoplayer
(Trade Mark Registered)
The Musical Marvel Write for Catalogue
AMERICAN PHOTO PLAYER CO.
62 West 45th St. New York City

THE CATALOGUE OF
Brush Electric Lighting Sets
contains much that is valuable about electric lighting in general, and moving picture work in particular. Send for it.
THE CHAS. A. STRELINGER CO.,
Box MP-2, Detroit, Mich., U. S. A.

MENGER & RING, Inc.
MANUFACTURERS OF
Poster and Lobby
Display Frames
304-6 W. 42d St., NEW YORK
Phone: Bryant 6621-22

Willis & Inglis
Wright and Callender Building
LOS ANGELES, CAL.
AFFILIATIONS
Roehm & Richards, Strand Bldg., New York
Edward A. Wheeler, Schiller Bldg., Chicago
Lyall Willis, London, England

MANAGEMENT
ENGAGEMENTS
FINANCING
BOOKS AND PLAYS
STUDIO LIGHTING
PUBLICITY

when they receive word from a jewelry firm that they are mystified over thefts of bullion bars from their vaults. Shorty and Anita leave for San Francisco and are there confronted with one of the most mysterious crimes they have ever handled. The gold bullion bars are kept in a vault, which cannot be entered any way at all. Shorty conceives a plan to catch the thieves. He has a fake gold bar made and it has a death dealing machine hidden. Anita thinks she has discovered the thieves and sends word to Shorty, and then follows her prey. She is discovered and held captive. Later Shorty rescues the girl and just as they escape from the thieves' den, the machine, which has been stolen, in the supposed gold bar explodes and blows up the thieves.

VOGUE.

A STUDIO STAMPEDE (Two Parts—March 24).—The cast: The Boob (Ben Turpin); Dora Darling (Gypsy Abbott); The Director (Ed Laurie); Demon Desmonde (Arthur Carrier).

Ben falls in love with Dora Darling, the star in a motion picture. He "finds" some money and starts for the studios. He is followed by the crooks, whose money he has appropriated. He is put to work in the studio as assistant property man, after giving them some of his money. Ben cannot make any progress with Dora because she and Demon Desmonde are already in love with each other. After many funny situations Ben is blown up by the crooks, but manages to escape alive; the crooks are arrested.

MUTUAL-CHAPLIN.

THE CURE (Two Parts—March).—Charlie goes to a health resort to overcome his liking for liquor. His baggage consists of a trunk full of booze, a collar, toothbrush and shirt. He meets Edna and falls in love with her. The hotel proprietor discovers the trunk full of booze and throws it out of the window, the contents landing in the well. Chaplin finds all of the hotel patrons at the well, drinking freely of the water and feeling very gay. He and Edna join the crowd and the result is that all of the hotel guests become intoxicated and a fine time ensues.

NIAGARA FILM STUDIOS.

THE PERILS OF OUR GIRL REPORTERS (No. 13—"The Scabners"—Two Parts—March 21).—Palmer, a newspaper reporter, is assigned to get an interview with Richard Hunt, reform politician. Unable to get an appointment with him the girl climbs through the window one night and awaits his arrival. While

A BARGAIN
THE BIGGEST VALUE TO MANUFACTURERS, EXHIBITORS, EXCHANGE MEN AND OPERATORS IS THE
MOVING PICTURE WORLD
SEND YOUR SUBSCRIPTIONS TO-DAY
DIRECT TO 17 MADISON AVENUE,
NEW YORK CITY
DOMESTIC - $3.00 PER YEAR
CANADA - $3.50 PER YEAR
FOREIGN - $4.00 PER YEAR

CONDENSER
BREAKAGE STOPPED
by using the Preddey Mount:
fits any lamp in a moment.
Very simple and rugged. Pays
for itself in a week. Lasts forever.
Get circular. Positively stops breakage. Price $4.50.
Used everywhere. Condenser expenses ended or money back.
W. G. PREDEY
669 Haight Street
San Francisco, Cal.

Beware of Strangers

SPECIAL ROLL TICKETS

S	Five Thousand.....	$1.25
E	Ten Thousand	2.50
S	Fifteen Thousand.....	3.75
P	Twenty-five Thousand.....	5.50
R	Fifty Thousand	7.50
I	One Hundred Thousand.....	10.00

Your own special Ticket, any printing, any colors, accurately numbered; every roll guaranteed. Coupon tickets for Prize Drawings, 5,000 $2.50. Prompt shipments. Cash with the order. Get the samples. Send diagram for Reserved Seat Coupon Tickets, serial or dated. Stock tickets 5,000 to 25,000 fifteen cents per thousand, 50,000 ten cents, 100,000 nine cents.

NATIONAL TICKET CO.
Shamokin, Pa.

there she sees one of the rival candidate's tools try to steal some important papers. She attempts to thwart the theft and is struggling with the man when Hunt arrives. Later the girl saves Hunt's life and then he asks her to marry him. Because she felt that he was innocent of an attempt to poison his rival candidate, and because the evidence seems to be against him, the girl promises to marry Hunt, rather than have to testify against him. Later everything is cleared up satisfactorily.

MUTUAL.

MUTUAL WEEKLY, NO. 15 (March 14). South African Artillery Fighting in East Africa. Subtitle: Testing fuses.

Pasadena, Cal.—Chicago Cubs arrive here for spring training. Windy City boys have first work-out. Subtitles: Douglas, Hendricks and Vaughn. Larry Doyle, formerly a Giant. Fred Mitchell, the "Cubs" new manager.

San Francisco, Cal.—Taps sounded for Major General Frederick Funston. Thousands bare heads as warrior's cortege passes.

Washington, D. C.—President Wilson renews oath of office. Inaugural ceremonies are brilliant pageant of military splendor with official Washington on dress parade.

Union, S. C.—Broken rail causes wreck. Two men killed when engine turns turtle.

Cambridge, Mass.—Harvard students believe in preparedness. Regiment receives rifles and will hold daily drills.

St. Croix, D. W. I.—The Atlantic Squadron winter-cruising off our new island possessions in the Danish West Indies.

San Antonio, Tex.—N. Y. Division Supply Train reaches camp. Genl. Pershing and high army officials review progress of only unit of kind in army.

Havana, Cuba.—Gasoline explosion causes fire. Largest garage in this city destroyed with $1,000,000 worth of motor cars.

MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTIONS.

The PAINTED LIE (Horsley, Five Parts, March 19).—The cast: A lieutenant of the National Guard (Crane Wilbur), a famous portrait painter (Harrish Ingraham), a social favorite (Mae Gaston), the lieutenant's mother (Ida Lewis), the artist's model (Marie Cortaux). Note—This is the first of a series of pictures entitled "The Morals of Men."

Against the advice of her fiancé a social favorite permits a famous artist to paint her portrait. When the sitting is over the artist attempts to embrace her. She repulses him, and angered, he conceives the idea of painting the undraped figure to the portrait. By showing his picture the girl's reputation will be blasted and his work of revenge complete.

The visits of the girl to the artist's studio cause a separation between her and the young lieutenant, so when the painting is put on exhibition by the artist he believes his sweetheart has been the model. He is, however, enraged at the liberty the artist has taken and challenges the painter to a duel. The latter is wounded.

The model who has posed for the figure had been cast aside by the artist, and on the day of the duel she calls at the studio to plead with the artist to take her back. A heated argument follows, the artist attempts to strangle the girl, and in defense she kills him.

The lieutenant is arrested on suspicion for the murder because of his duel with the artist. Overcome with the torture of the guilty the model attempts to end her life. When she recovers consciousness and realizes that her end is near she confesses that she posed for the figure and that she had killed the artist in self-defense. The confession frees the lieutenant and brings about a reconciliation between the estranged lovers.

Miscellaneous Subjects

PARAMOUNT PICTURES CORP.

PARAMOUNT-BRAY PICTOGRAPHS (57th Edition—March 5).

An Industrial Paradise.—Everyone has read of Elbert Hubbard, who went down with the ill-fated Lusitania. A great many people know of the Roycroft Shops at East Aurora, New

Managers—Notice

Can you use first-class operator? Just finishing long engagement with SHERMAN & ELIOTT'S "BIRTH OF A NATION" CO. Road or locate. Best references. Will invest in a good proposition. "Operator," 1193 Sixth Ave., Des Moines, Ia.

HIGHEST GRADE

Developing and Printing

FILM TITLES

We guarantee all work, give prompt delivery, at lowest prices. Can furnish Expert Camera Man on short notice.

STANDARD MOTION PICTURE COMPANY

R. 1620, 5 S. Wabash Ave. Chicago

Phone: Randolph 6692

HALLBERG

Complete Picture Theatre Equipments

CARBONS AND SUPPLIES

J. H. HALLBERG, 7th Ave. at 49th St., New York

THE Automatic TICKET SELLING AND CASH REGISTER CO.
MANUFACTURERS OF
AUTOMATIC TICKET MACHINES
and all kinds of Theatre Tickets
USED UNIVERSALLY
1735 BROADWAY N. Y. CITY

EVERYTHING FOR YOUR PLAYHOUSE MACHINES

SUPPLIES—REPAIR PARTS

All makes of machines carried in stock. We equip theatres completely.

"The Exhibitors Mail Order House"

HOMMEL'S

947 PENN AVE.

PITTSBURGH, PA.

NOW READY!

MOTION PICTURE ACCESSORIES

Our new 1917 illustrated supply catalogue. 150 pages. The most complete, elaborate and up to date ever issued by any concern. It's FREE on receipt of ten cents covering parcel post.

LUCAS THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY
106 MARKET ST.
ATLANTA—GEORGIA.

York, where beautiful productions in hammered brass and silver, the remarkable hand tooling of leather; the printing presses, great and small, which are busily engaged in printing the beautiful books that this community is noted for, and gives us something of an idea of the spirit of joint effort which pervades the place. Elbert Hubbard's famous community is shown in this issue of the Pictograph.

A Birdland Romance is one of those rare catches of the cameraman and shows our old friends of Broadway restaurant fame, Mr. and Mrs. Canvasback. Mrs. Canvasback has a violent flirtation with the gorgeous Mr. Mailard. It's an interesting and touching domestic scene from Birdland.

Bobby Bumps adopts a Turtle in the Bray Comedy section of this reel, Bobby being as amusing and as entertaining for the children, old and young, as intended he always is.

SAPHO (Famous Players—Five Parts—March 12).—Cast of Characters: Pauline Frederick, Frank Losee, John Sainpolis, Pedro de Cordoba, Thomas Meighan.

Sapho, whose real name is Fanny Legrand, is the daughter of poor people, her father being a coachman, and her early home is little more than a hovel in the slums of Paris. She is one of the quaint girl flower-sellers on the streets of Paris, earning a few sous daily, which she is compelled to give toward the support of the family. It was while selling her wares in one of the big restaurants that she is first seen by Caoudal, the famous sculptor, who recognizes her wonderful beauty and persuades her to pose for him.

The luxury of his studio awakens in her an unsuspected love for the beautiful things of life. One step leads to another, and it is not long before she becomes the most talked of and sought after model of Paris.

She is content to live in this way, reveling in beauty and the admiration of her friends and Caoudal himself, until Dejoie, the poet, moved by her beauty, writes verses to her which make both himself and her still more famous, winning her away from Caoudal. The poet is too old to hold the attention of the young girl, who craves young society and admiration, so when she meets handsome young Flamant, she lightly tells Dejoie that he is "too old" and gains the friendship of the younger man.

Flamant is an engraver and finds himself hard put to it to gratify the expensive whims of Sapho, but as he is really very fond of the handsome model, he manages to forge a name and obtain money under false pretenses. His ruse is discovered, and as the gendarmes come to lead him away to prison Sapho receives an invitation to a ball to take place that very evening.

At the ball she appears as "Sapho" and there meets for the first time the student, Jean Gaussin, with whom she falls in love. It is a case of love at first sight on both sides and the two are very happy, and Sapho is learning to express the better side of her nature when Jean is shocked by accidentally learning of her past life. It is the "beginning of the end."

Jean finally weds a little country girl, and Sapho, rather than return to her old life, turns Red Cross nurse and consecrates the rest of her life to that noble work.

THE PRISON WITHOUT WALLS (Lasky—Five Parts—March 15).—The cast: Wallace Reid, Myrtle Stedman, William Conklin, Billy Elmer.

Helen Ainsworth, a young philanthropist, who is interested in a prison reform movement, is engaged to Norman Morris, administrator of the Ainsworth millions and the undiscovered "man higher up," trafficking through his influence with prison wardens. He is also having an "affair" with Felice, Helen's maid, an ex-convict.

Beware of Strangers

If It's Saleable Among Motion Picture People

The Quickest and Easiest Way to Find a Buyer Is to

ADVERTISE IN THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

Circulation Plus the Confidence and Esteem of Those Among Whom It Circulates

Makes the Moving Picture World the Best Advertising "Buy" in Its Field

Rates and Detailed Information Cheerfully Sent Upon Request

Governor Havens sends for Huntington Babbs, prison expert, who enters the prison as a convict, is discovered by Helen and made her secretary upon his release. Morris is jealous of the good-looking secretary and he makes Felice "plant" a necklace which he has presented to Helen, in Babbs' room. Babbs discovers the plot, and Morris, overhearing his plan to visit a certain place in the rough part of the city, for Helen, plans to get him. He orders the gang to murder him. Helen accompanies Babbs (or Conroy, as he is known). Morris learns Helen has gone and reaches the place just as the men have nearly overpowered Conroy. Morris allows the men to escape, but Helen refuses his offer to take her home, preferring Conroy.

Infuriated, Morris plans to have the Ainsworth safe burglarized the night of Helen's party. Conroy discovers the burglar and that he is Gilligan, whom he befriended in prison. Conroy sends a note to the Governor by Gilligan. Just as the burglar leaves, the guests of the house enter the library. Conroy is accused, but Helen allows no arrests. She orders Conroy to leave the house. Morris betrays the girl Felice by suggesting her arrest as an accomplice.

Morris accompanies Helen to the Governor's office. The Governor requests an interview with Morris and accuses him of being the "man higher up." Morris asks for his witnesses and a door is opened, disclosing Gilligan and the gang—and Felice. Conroy is introduced as Huntington Babbs, prison expert. Morris is staggered, Helen overjoyed. Morris is arrested, but just as he is leaving Felice shoots him. Unconsciously, Helen goes into the arms of the man she loves.

METRO PICTURES CORP.

THE GREAT SECRET (Chapter XI, A SHOT IN THE DARK, 2 Parts, March 19).—After Beverly has returned to her home with her mother, Strong, in ignorance of her visit, succeeds in reviving the adventuress. She asks him to telephone to her physician. Zulph answers the call. Then he appears at the studio carrying a small satchel and wearing a disguise.

Telling Strong he is the woman's family physician, he asks him to retire from the room with Wee See, and, alone with Sara Loring, a search for the treasure is begun. Zulph finds the securities, puts them in his satchel, summons Strong to the room, tells him the patient is able to leave and then he departs. The arch conspirator has told Sara Loring to meet him in a downtown tearoom. After she has left the studio Strong discovers that the securities are gone.

Meantime Rodman Sears has escaped from the headquarters of The Secret Seven by drugging Hadji Mahal, the East Indian servant. Strong gets Sears on the wire and tells him of the theft. Sears obtains information that Zulph is wearing a disguise, and, with Detective Cochran, trails him to the tearoom. Sears, too, is wearing a disguise, and Zulph, who has not heard of his escape, does not suspect him.

Strong, after reporting the theft, receives a letter containing four $1,000 bills and a note, reading: "From one who knows and hopes the enclosed may be a little help." He is mystified and goes to visit Beverly. He shows her the money and asks her if she is the generous and mysterious friend who sent him the cash. She at once shows jealousy and pride, suggesting that he might thank his "interesting friend" who was having her portrait painted. She tells him of her visit to the studio, and then Strong understands her attitude. He explains satisfactorily and a reconciliation takes place.

Then there appears at a window of the Clarke home, The Spider, a hireling of The Secret Seven, who has sworn to "get even" for punishment received at the hands of Strong. He draws a revolver, but decides to wait until Strong leaves the house alone. But now that Beverly and Strong have again come to an understanding, they have much to talk about. The Spider is patient and intends wreaking his own revenge. Strong is about to say good-bye when Beverly tells him she has promised her friends to attend the Charity Bazaar that evening and asks him to go there with her. They leave the house together. The Spider aims at Strong and there is a shot in the dark.

HIS FATHER'S SON (Rolfe Photoplays, Inc.—Five Parts—March 19).—The cast: J. Dabney Barron (Lionel Barrymore); Betty Arden (Irene Howley); John Ardon (Frank Currier); Adam Barron (Charles Eldridge); Perkins, Dabney's valet (George A. Wright); Jim Foley (Phil Sanford); Lord Lawrence ("London Larry") (Walter Horton). Scenario by June Mathis. Directed by George D. Baker.

J. Dabney Barron, a college youth, regularly falls in his examinations. His father, in disgust, deprives him of money, and tells him to go to work, betting him $6,000 that he cannot hold a $60 a month position for that period of time. J. Dabney takes him up, and, with Perkins' valet, goes to look for a job. In a park he meets Betty Arden, an heiress, whose car has broken down. Her guest, Lord Lawrence, is incapable of helping her. Dabney hastens to her assistance. She hurries away as soon as her car is repaired.

Installing himself and his valet in a room in a lodging house, Dabney reads the want ads. Answering an advertisement for a hookkeeper, he stands in a long line of applicants until he grows tired. His valet, who has taken his place, gets the job. Finally Dabney obtains work through his friend Jim Foley of a detective agency.

John Arden millionaire gem collector has a priceless emerald called "The Lady of the Sea." He fears it may be stolen and as a matter of fact his guest Lord Lawrence better known to the English police as "London Larry" is planning to steal the emerald. Foley tells Dabney that to guard the emerald he must pose as butler in the Arden home.

No sooner does Dabney enter upon his new work than he discovers Betty Arden his employer's daughter to be the girl he helped in the park. In an attempt to retain his dignity in her eyes he tells her he and his sister inherited an enormous fortune from an uncle; that the uncle had a secretary a villainous chap named Slime who forced him to make a will disinheriting Dabney and his sister; that Slime and his accomplices made the old man drink nitroglycerine but unfortunately for them permitted him to fall down when he exploded burning up the will; that the villainous secretary had then overpowered Dabney and run away with the girl, whom Dabney had ever since been seeking. Hence his presence in the Arden household as butler.

Betty pretends to believe the story, although she has been aware of Dabney's identity all along. Dabney continues to attend to his duties as butler and to guard the jewel from "London Larry." Finally the month is up, and Dabney, in great glee at having won the bet from his father, dares to make known his love to Betty. She returns his affection, and they are discovered in a fond embrace by John Arden, who instantly discharges Dabney.

That night he is about to take his departure when he surprises "London Larry" opening the safe in Arden's library. He overpowers the would-be jewel thief, and throws him into the safe. Arden, coming downstairs, liberates Lord Lawrence, who tells him Dabney is the real culprit, and together they overpower him and tie him to a chair. Dabney urges them to send for Foley, to identify him, and the detective, arriving, makes haste to free Dabney and arrest "London Larry." Dabney, cheered by Betty's promise to marry him, goes home to collect his $6,000, having proved himself his father's son.

FOX FILM CORP.

HER FATHER'S STATION (Two Parts—March 5)—Foxfilm.—The cast: Station Agent's Daughter (Anna Luther); Station Agent (Harry M. O'Connor); Master Crook (Charles Arling); Assistant Crooks (Bill Hauber and Lee Morris); Sheriff (Frank Alexander).

A station agent's daughter has two lovers. The first is a villainous telegraph operator; the second is a poor but honest switchman. The girl is torn between her two loves.

A telegram conveys the information that a shipment of gold has been consigned to the station presided over by the father of the station agent's daughter. The villainous telegraph operator learns of it and thinks up a plot. He summons to his assistance a highly unsuccessful crook who has just been released from prison, and, with a pair of assistant crooks, the gang is complete.

The station agent, a simple-minded old per-

Beware of Strangers

Get acquainted with the
ERBOGRAPH WAY
of Developing and Printing
ERBOGRAPH COMPANY
203-11 West 146th St., New York City

PAINTINGS OF FILM STARS

And Feature Lobby Displays
for State Right Buyers
That are works of art.

PAINTED BY
M. KASSEL
ARTIST

220 West 42nd St., New York

FOR SALE

Mailing Lists MOVING PICTURE THEATRES

Every State — Total 24,000
Price, $3.50 per M.
1400 Film Exchanges..... $4.00
206 Manufacturers and Studios..... $1.50
235 Picture Machine and Supply
Dealers..... $1.50
Particulars.

A. F. WILLIAMS, 166 W. Adams St., Chicago

Are You Tired

of playing waltzes and popular songs for all your pictures? Try "bringing out" the dramatic scenes with dramatic music. The

Orpheum Collection

contains the best music of this kind published. Issued in Three Series:

No. 1, No. 2 and No. 3

Piano (24 pages each), 58 cts. for each series; $1.15 for any two; $1.70 for all three. Violin, 40 cts. each; 75 cts. for any two; $1.05 for all three. Cornet, 35 cts. each; 65 cts. any two; 95 cts. all three. First and second series have parts for Cello, Flute, Clarinet, Trombone and Drums. Practical for Piano alone, or in combination with any above instruments. Discounts on orders for four or more parts. Send for free sample pages. Note new address.

CLARENCE E. SINN

1163 Grace Street Chicago, Ill.

EVERETT TRUE COMEDIES

Featuring BOBBIE BOLDER as the Champion Pest Squelcher. Single reels that are really funny—you can purchase one or all. Beat your competitor to it. Write us for particulars.

OUR STUDIOS CAN BE RENTED BY THE DAY OR WEEK

AMERICAN BIOSCOPE COMPANY

J. E. WILLIS, Vice-President and General Manager

Broadway at Granville Ave., Chicago

SWAAB

Complete
Picture Theatre Equipment
CARBONS AND SUPPLIES

Dept. M., 1327 Vine Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

son, is bound to a chair and the crooks take refuge behind him, so that when the door of the safe is blown off he may protect them from it. He does. At that moment his daughter enters, but the crooks flee with the gold.

Then begins a chase. The crooks on a hand-car are pursued by the sheriff's posse on a locomotive, the police force in a launch, the switchman in an automobile and the station agent's daughter on a motorcycle. One must see the picture to know how it ends; the action is too swift for description.

THE BLUE STREAK (Five Parts—March 19).—The story tells of the reformation of a millionaire's son, who later develops such consistent speed on the "draw" and on a horse that it wins for him the title of "The Blue Streak." Driven from home, the "Streak" changes his mode of living entirely.

News of his adventurous spirit penetrates even into the town of Sterling, beyond the Rockies, where he one day finds himself. He strolls into the common meeting-place there, the saloon, and proceeds to prevent a forced marriage between the proprietor's daughter, "The Fledgling," and a gambler by the simple expedient of covering all with his revolver while preparing to make her captive himself.

A short time after they reach his retreat in the hills, the "Streak" is almost overcome by what occurs to him. The gambler must have wronged the girl, and he, the "Streak," has interfered with retribution. He leaves "The Fledgling" in his partner's care and rides furiously back to the town for the "miscreant."

He makes him prisoner, after a hard fight, and with a parson, brings him to the hut. The girl protests that the gambler has not harmed her, but the "Streak" will not listen. In desperation, "The Fledgling" goes through with a fake marriage ceremony.

Miles away on the horizon the "Streak" sees a posse approaching to arrest him for his escapades. He bids "The Fledgling" good-bye and prepares for surrender. She begs him to flee. When he refuses she rushes to his arms, crying out her explanation. He mounts his horse, lifts her behind him, and dashes off—to begin life anew in his old home.

K-E-S-E, Inc.

BURNING THE CANDLE (Essanay—Five Parts—March 5).—The cast: James Maxwell (Henry B. Walthall); Molly Carrington (Mary Charleson); Judge Carrington (Julien Barton); Mrs. Carrington (Frankie Raymond); Alfred Lewis (Thurlow Brewer); Merrit Cole (Patrick Calhoun). Directed by Harry Beaumont.

Beneath the moonlight of the southern skies Molly Carrington, daughter of the south, pledges her heart and hand to "Jimmie" Maxwell. It is on the eve of the young man's departure to New York, where his knowledge of cotton has won him a good position in a cotton broker's office. They are married and depart for the metropolis. Due to Maxwell's transition from his calm and uneventful home life to the maelstrom of worldly battle, he succumbs to liquor's lure, and from a stalwart husband is dragged to the depths of Demon Rum's depravity. He loses his position and Molly leaves him, returning to her southern home. As a "down-and-outer" Maxwell sees in a Mobile paper a rumor that his wife plans to divorce him and marry his former rival, Alfred Lewis. His smoldering love for Molly flares up to expose vividly the curse which drink has placed upon him. Maxwell throws off his alcoholic yoke, becomes a man again and wins back his position. He finds Molly waiting for him the first day he enters the office.

BLUEBIRD PHOTOPLAYS, INC.

MUTINY (Five Parts—March 12).—The cast: Esther Whitaker (Myrtle Gonzalez); Aaron Whitaker (Jack Curtis); Grandfather Whitaker (George Hernandez); Caleb Tilden (Fred Harrington); Jacob Babcock (Val Paul); Eben Wiggs (E. J. Brady). Written and produced by Lynn F. Reynolds.

Aaron Whitaker is a seafaring man, owner of the sailing ship Alden Besse. He has promised Jacob Babcock, his first mate, that his daughter, Esther, shall become Babcock's wife. But Esther is in love with Caleb Tilden, her childhood sweetheart, and her grandfather, in sympathetic interest, advises her to marry Caleb and run the chance of gaining her father's forgiveness.

The Alden Besse is at sea when Esther's marriage to Tilden takes place. At about the same

Non-Break-
able and Sanitary STEEL

LOW
Price and CAST
IRON

Opera Chairs

immediate shipment on many styles; Second Hand Chairs; out-of-door seating; Send measurements for FREE SEATING PLAN. Mention this paper.

STEEL FURNITURE CO.

Grand Rapids, Mich.; New York, 150 Fifth Ave.

ADJUSTABLE OPERA CHAIR
Can be changed from adult's chair to child's chair by pressing catch and raising.
Write for booklet.
Family Opera Chair St. Louis, Mo.

New Improvements of The Motion Picture Camera

Send postal. Know how Universal Motion Picture Camera gives greater Permanence, Speed, Accuracy, Light Weight, Results. A dozen great advantages. Address Burke & James, Inc., 240 E. Ontario St., Chicago. Sole Wholesale Agents.

Write for Announcement

Operators:

Do you know exhibitors who have STANDARD motion picture machines? It does not matter what model they possessed or whether the STANDARDS are in use or discarded. Send the names of STANDARD owners to address below and you will receive in return a useful souvenir.

AMERICAN STANDARD M. P. CO.
110 West 40th Street, New York

The Original and Leading Moving Picture
Journal in Europe

The Kinematograph Weekly

The reliable Trade organ of Great Britain; covering the whole of the British Film market, including the American imported films. Read by everyone in the industry. Specialist writers for Finance, Technical Matters, Legal, Musical, Foreign Trading (correspondents throughout the world)—and every section devoted to the Kinematograph. Specimen copy on application to:—

The Kinematograph Weekly, Ltd.

9-11 Tottenham Street, London, W., Eng.

time Grandfather Whitaker dies. Jacob Babcock has remained ashore for the purpose of marrying Esther, and when the Alden Besse returns and her skipper finds that his daughter has not married Babcock, his anger is intense. Accidentally he discovers, in Esther's sewing basket, a baby's stocking, and divines the truth.

He compels Esther to board the Alden Besse, locking her in a cabin. Then he seeks out Caleb Tilden, and in a fight believes he has killed him. Tilden, however, has simply been stunned and when Whitaker throws him from the wharf his sudden immersion in the cold water revives Tilden and he manages to crawl to a string-piece under the dock.

At that moment the Alden Besse is sailing, and Tilden watches her with frenzied interest. He sees Esther as she runs to the stern and attempts to jump overboard. Esther's father drags the girl back to her cabin and there she is securely imprisoned. The cook of the craft, Eben Wiggs, is the only man on board who has any sympathy for the girl. The cook cares for her, even when her child is subsequently born.

Babcock is sailing on the Alden Besse, and when Whitaker tries to compel his daughter to marry the mate, Esther declares that she will throw herself into the sea before allowing her father to conclude the marriage ceremony. Whitaker, in disgust, abandons his purpose. Later the seamen join in mutiny and kill Whitaker, their leader being Jacob Babcock.

In the meantime, Tilden has tried to come upon the Alden Besse by shipping as a sailor in a craft that sailed the same sea the Besse usually did, and has found her lying in Panama Bay. When he attempts to board the Besse, Captain Whitaker thinks he sees the ghost of the man he believes he has killed, and drives Tilden from the ship.

Tilden returns home and waits for the return of the Alden Besse. The mutiny has broken out as the ship is approaching her home port. There is a fierce storm approaching at the time, and when it breaks the Besse is wrecked. Tilden heads the villagers who go to the rescue, and is the one who wades into the water and secures a raft upon which Esther and her baby have been lashed by the cook. The reunion follows and the final cruise of the Alden Besse becomes tradition.

POLLY REDHEAD (Five Parts—March 19).

—The cast: Pollyooly (Ella Hall); Lady Caroline (Gertrude Aster); Lady Osterley (Gretchen Lederer); Mrs. Sarah Brown (Helen Wright); Mrs. Meekin (Mrs. L. A. Emmons); Duke of Osterley (Charles Mailles); John Ruffin (George Webb); Hon. Gedge-Tompkins (Richard Le Reno); Lord Ronald (James McCandless); Edgar, the "Lump" (William Worthington, Jr.). Directed by Jack Conway.

Aside from the fact that Polly had red hair, in abundance, she was not otherwise an exceptional child—save for one thing. She was willing to work and slave, if need be, to keep her baby brother, affectionately termed "The Lump," from being sent to the poor house. So she did housework and prepared breakfasts for John Ruffin, an attorney, and Hon. Gedge-Tompkins.

John Ruffin's sister, Lady Osterly, has separated from her husband, and he holds their child. When Lady Osterly calls on Ruffin she is struck with the remarkable resemblance Polly bears to her own child. Ruffin and Lady Osterly formulate a plan to come into possession of her daughter, by using Polly as a substitute.

When they offer Polly twenty sovereigns to go to the Duke of Osterly's home and impersonate the other child, the amount of money fairly staggers Polly and she accepts. By changing the children when the child of the Osterly's is out riding with her nurse, Polly gains access to the Duke's home and the Osterly child comes to John Ruffin's apartments to stay until her mother can get her ticketed to the continent and travel away with her.

Polly does the best she can under strange conditions, but despite her resemblance to the Osterly child, the servants are suspicious and

Beware of Strangers

TransVerteR

Automatically supplies only such voltage as arc requires. No waste of current in ballast.
HERTNER ELECTRIC & MFG. CO.
431 Prospect Ave., Cleveland, Ohio, U. S. A.

You Need Our Service and We Need Your Business To Maintain That Service To You

Our stock of picture theatre merchandise is unexcelled in volume and variety; our prices are right and your orders receive immediate attention.

E. E. FULTON CO., 152 W. Lake St., Chicago
DEPARTMENT STORE OF THE MOVING PICTURE TRADE

ONE OF THE MANY ACCOMPLISHMENTS OF

Simplex PROJECTORS

At least Seventy-five Per Cent. of the Installations of SIMPLEX PROJECTORS during the last five years have replaced other makes of motion picture machines.

THINK what this MEANS as an ASSURANCE of the SUPERIORITY of

Simplex Projectors

This is CONCLUSIVE EVIDENCE of MERIT and clearly shows that

Simplex Projectors

are winning on points, uniting all the elements of perfect projection.

BE YOUR OWN JUDGE.

WE INVITE COMPARISON.

Put a SIMPLEX alongside of your present machine and you will see why SIMPLEX attained such remarkable results.

THE PRECISION MACHINE CO. INC.

317 East 34th St... New York

THE OWNER'S PROSPERITY

depends on his ability to give his patrons what they want for the price they will pay.

If you can give your patrons a better quality of picture for the same price without increasing your expenses, your prosperity is insured.

Use a Wagner WHITE LIGHT Converter and guarantee the quality of your pictures. Bulletin 10923.

Wagner Electric

Manufacturing Company, St. Louis, Mo.

A large number of important theatres throughout the country have adopted the White Light Converter. In the one here shown there are two 70-ampere White Light Converters used; also Wagner Motors are here used to drive the air washers, ventilating system, etc.

the Duke falls to wondering what has happened. Young Lord Ronald, visiting the Duke, is above all suspicious of Polly.

The Osterly girl is under similar suspicion at Ruffin's home. "The Lump" positively declines to have anything to do with her. There is a blunder in the preparations Lady Osterly and John Ruffin make for the European trip. Polly disregards positive instructions and leaves the Osterly mansion before plans can be worked out.

The Duke follows Polly in his automobile, searching for her in a nearby park where she has liked to go with young Lord Ronald to play. Finding Polly where he thought he would the Duke carries her back to his home. Here John Ruffin directly arrives, to tell the Duke that his wife and child must, by that time, be well on their way across the channel.

Lady Osterly, through miscalculation, has become worried because Ruffin does not arrive with the tickets and telephones him at the Duke's (her husband's) home. The servants call the Duke in answer to the summons and thus husband and wife find themselves talking to each other—much to their mutual surprise, as well as secret delight. As a result of this accidental phone call, a reconciliation is effected and everything ends happily for everybody—including Polly Redhead, who has made a great conquest of young Lord Ronald's heart.

CHRISTIE FILM CORP.

HIS FLIRTING WAYS (March 12).—Neal is a flirt. Billie, his wife, gets a delayed telegram from a girl friend, Ethel, that she will arrive for a visit. Hubby, on his way downtown, sees a pretty girl and starts a flirtation. This girl happens to be Ethel, who does not know Neal. Billie tells Ethel that Neal is a gay dog, showing Ethel his picture. "Yes," says Ethel, "he tried to flirt with me." So the two girls plan to teach the wayward one a lesson.

Ethel continues the flirtation without letting Neal know she is his wife's friend. Ethel goes to dinner with Neal, while Billie gets herself up as a "bad man," with a big mustache and a six-shooter. Going to the cafe, she appears suddenly in the private booth. Ethel gasps, "My husband!" as Billie fires and chases Neal out. The girls hurry home and Billie, properly dressed, receives Neal when he comes in breathless.

When she goes out, Ethel comes in and blackmails Neal. He gives her a hundred to get her out before Billie comes in. Ethel goes out in the hall and there she and Billie divide the money and have a big laugh. Neal hears them, comes out and sees the joke is on him. "But who was the little gun-fighter?" he asks. "That was your wife," says Ethel. This flabbergasts Neal completely.

WORLD PICTURES.

THE DANCER'S PERIL (Five Parts—March 12).—The Grand Duke Alexis has been happy with his wife, Lola, formerly the queen of the St. Petersburg ballet, and their baby daughter, Vasta. But the lowering cloud that has always hung over them through the refusal of the Russian Court to recognize their marriage breaks when the Duke learns there is an intrigue against his wife's life. She makes her escape at midnight and, powerless to do anything, Alexis is forced to see his wife pass out of his life. The baby is given to Marta Antonovitch, in charge of the girls at the Imperial Ballet School.

Years later Vasta is the most apt pupil at the school. Her father comes to see her often and is deeply affected by her resemblance to her mother. The relationship is kept secret, but when he is ordered to the South for his health he gives last instructions that she be well cared for.

Michael Pavloff, the impresario for the Russian Ballet, who has discovered the duke's secret, goes to the school to choose the dancers to be sent by the government to Paris. He takes a liking to Vasta, but Marta refuses to allow the girl to go when he chooses her for deportation. The girl frets over the refusal, disguises herself as a boy and changes places with a youth who had not wanted to go.

In Paris Lola, despite the sorrow of the changing years, holds sway over men's hearts. Pavloff is an ardent admirer of her's, but lately he has been thinking more of Vasta. Richard Moraino, a young artist commissioned to paint the portraits of the Russian Ballet, is attracted

FAC-SIMILE PAINTING

In a beautiful gilt 3-inch width frame—size over all 25x22 inches. Pictures are painted in oils and water colors of every popular player, all made from poses to appropriately fit this style of frame. Complete with brass name plate$5.00 each

New
Colored
Catalogue
Now
Ready

New Colored
Catalogue
Now
Ready

LARGE HAND COLORED PICTURES

Size 22x28 inches. Every prominent player 75c. each

FAC-SIMILE OIL PAINTINGS, all sizes, from $2.50 to $35 framed. Quotations submitted on any size, framed or unframed.

THE SEMI-PHOTO POST CARDS, $3.00 per thousand, of over 600 players. Made by a process that has the appearance of a real photograph. The indispensable article for your mailing list.

PHOTOGRAPHS, size 8x10, of all the prominent players, 600 different names, 20c. each.

LARGE PICTURES, HAND COLORED, size 11x14, all the prominent players, 20c.; in aluminum frames, 50c. each.

GRAVURE FOLDER, containing pictures of the prominent players, including stars from the stage, $10 per thousand.

SINGLE COLUMN CUTS of every prominent player, 50c. each.

KRAUS MFG. CO.

220 West 42nd Street, NEW YORK
12th Floor, Candler Building

Send for Catalogue of over 600 players and samples, free. Write us, giving details of your dull nights, and we will send you a remedy.

STATE RIGHTS

Bought—Sold—Released

California and Arizona

ROBERT A. BRACKETT

Knickerbocker Bldg. LOS ANGELES

In Answering Advertisements, Please Mention
the MOVING PICTURE WORLD.

by Vasta. Their courtship progresses and one afternoon while they are having tea together, Lola and Pavloff are seated at the next table. Both women feel an interest in the other and Lola is startled when Pavloff tells her he has discovered she is the daughter of the Grand Duke Alexis and that he intends to get her for his own.

One night during the performance the electrician is killed and the stage darkened. When the lights are turned on again they discover Vasta has disappeared. Pavloff has taken the girl and locks her in his apartment. To divert suspicion he gives a dinner party. During the revelry Lola, who is a member of the party, hears a half-smothered cry and, guided by it, comes to the locked door behind which Vasta is concealed. She stays until the last guest has departed and then appeals to the liquor-dazed Pavloff. She secures the key to the room and hurries back, cautioning Vasta to make haste, but Pavloff comes upon them and seizes Vasta in his arms. Lola then shoots him. Then Lola reveals her identity.

Alexis, who is passing through Paris, stops to see Pavloff. He discovers Lola and the dead man and accuses her of having been his mistress, but when Vasta comes forward and tells all, Alexis begs her forgiveness. He says he will take the responsibility of the killing, knowing he will be vindicated when he says it was to save the honor of his wife.

Richard and Vasta are once more brought together and Alexis asks his wife if she is willing to brave the Russian Court with him after all these years. Her happy smile is sufficient answer.

THE SOCIAL LEPER (Five Parts—March 19).—The cast: John Dean (Carlyle Blackwell); Robert Warren (Arthur Ashley); Adrienne Van Couver (June Elvidge); Henry Armstrong (George MacQuarrie); Mrs. Stephen Barkley (Isabelle Berwin); Lorraine Barkley (Evelyn Greeley); Mrs. Dean (Mrs. Eugenie Woodward); Mme. Melvina (Edna Whistler). Directed by Harley Knoles.

Adrienne Van Couver, a divorcee, visited Mme. Melvina, a clairvoyant, who tells her that a tall dark man, Robert Warren, is excited over a letter he has just received from her, telling him she does not love him. The fortune teller bids her beware of him, then goes on to tell her that Henry Armstrong, the man she loves, will never love her. The clairvoyant then tells Adrienne of a young girl, Lorraine, whose eyes are dim with the tears that she has wept.

In another part of the city, Lorraine greets her fiance, Henry Armstrong, with ill-concealed dejection and he tells her she fears she still loves John Dean, but she dispels his suspicions. John Dean shares the secret of his silent love for Lorraine with his mother. Robert Warren goes out into the night—it is then he meets John.

In the other's haggard face, John Dean sees traces of his own sorrow and trying to make it easier for this man who has been his friend for five years, he tells Robert Warren his story.

Eight years ago he and Adrienne were married. For two years they lived on the money inherited from his father. It was then the baby came and the father found happiness in the touch of baby hands, but to his wife it made no difference. Then the baby became ill, and while its mother was away, dancing, the little life slipped away. Six months later Adrienne was given a divorce. Then he and his mother came to New York and a few years later he met and loved Lorraine Barkley.

Although Henry Armstrong was a dangerous rival, Lorraine loved him and he did not fear until the day when the Barkley's gave a reception. It was then he met Adrienne again and she taunted him with his love for the young girl. When she demanded money, he gave it to her. Lorraine sees this and misconstrues the situation. It is then her engagement to Henry Armstrong is announced. John finishes his story and Robert is maddened by the de-

Beware of Strangers

TYPHOONS COOL & VENTILATE
TYPHOON FAN COMPANY 1544 B'WAY NEW YORK CITY

Manufacturers want me to send them patents on useful inventions. Send me at once drawing and description of your invention and I will give you an honest report as to securing a patent and whether I can assist you in selling the patent. Highest references. Established 25 years. Personal attention in all cases. WM. N. MOORE, Loan and Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

ize me to supply our merchant ships with defensive arms to protect our ships and our people. Secretary Lansing reveals a secret plot by Germany to form an alliance with Mexico and Japan to war on America. Olympia, Wash. (Seattle only).—The last remnants of the State's Militia returning from the border are enthusiastically welcomed back. Subtitle: Governor Lister greets the commanders.

HEARST-PATHE NEWS NO. 20 (March 7).—Washington, D. C.—The Japanese Ambassador, Viscount Sato, who vigorously denies any alliance of his country with Germany against America. Subtitle: General Carranza, Mexican de facto President, to whom Germany promised American land for his aid.

Rochester, N. Y.—A huge trenching machine, similar to those employed by the Russian Armies, is now to be used by the United States. Subtitles: The machine can dig an eighteen-foot trench at the rate of one foot a minute. The dirt is automatically removed to the side.

San Francisco, Cal.—The body of General Funston is fittingly honored by the city which he aided so nobly during the earthquake. Subtitles: The casket is taken to the City Hall, where it lies in state for one day. On to its last resting place—draped in the colors for which he fearlessly fought.

On the Italian Front.—The steady advance of the Italians on the Carso has netted many thousands of Austrian prisoners. Subtitles: Celebrating an Allied victory with an elaborate feast. Their favorite dish is in demand. Impressive field services are held in prayer for further victory.

In France.—The British armies establish their dugout barracks on the hillsides, while they wait to resume their offensive. Subtitles: Heavy rains convert the roads into marshes, which must be repaired before the troops can advance. The Allies have mounted aerial guns on autos to better pursue enemy airplanes.

New York City.—Daring steeplejacks brave the dizzy heights to untangle the National flag on the Municipal Building. Subtitle: Quite at home twenty-one stories above Park Row.

Washington, D. C.—An inspiring panorama unfolds before the Capitol as the stage is set for the inauguration of President Wilson. Subtitles: He leaves the White House in the time-honored carriage for the ceremonies, accompanied by Vice-President Marshall. The arrival of the Supreme Court Justices, Cabinet Officials and foreign envoys. I do solemnly swear that I will faithfully execute the office of President of the United States—and will, to the best of my ability, preserve, protect and defend the constitution of the United States. Delivering the Inaugural Address. After the ceremonies the President leads the great military procession. The West Point Cadets and Annapolis Midshipmen. We greet the President and Vice-President of the United States.

POTS AND PANS PEGGY (Gold Roster-Thanouser (5 Parts, March 18)).—The cast: Peggy McGraw (Gladys Hulette); Taxi Barney (Wayne Arey); Rah-Rah Arthur (George Mario); Drawing Room Marian (Kathryn Adams); Society Mrs. Stuyvesant (Grace Henderson); Million-Dollar Deane (Arthur Bauer); Eighteen-per-Week Jack (Lord McCackill). Directed by W. Eugene Moore.

"A lady wants a good, honest girl!" the matron of the employment agency spoke to a room full of them, for they all rose to their feet and crowded about her. She continued,

"to cook, and wait on table, and mend and sweep and wash and —," but the place was empty of all aspirants save little Peggy McGraw. "Pots and Pans Peggy" she was called—and Peggy got the job. And she needed it, for four reasons—her four little orphan brothers and sisters.

When she arrived at the Caldwell home and found the mother trying to marry off the unwilling daughter, Marian, who was in love with Jack, to a horrid millionaire, her sympathetic Irish heart revolted, and she ran Marian's affair for her to Jack's everlasting joy. The son of the house, Arthur, a rah-rah boy and a n'er-do-well, fell in love with Peggy, but Peggy's heart was carted around the city under the jacket of Taxi Barney, who worked for his living.

The millionaire, William Deane, got Arthur a job in the War Department, and then the fun began, for Deane was a thief and planned to use the guileless Arthur as his tool in a deal to sell some valuable plans to another country.

The scheme worked—that is, half way—until Peggy stepped in. How she, with the aid of Barney, a broomstick and a vacuum cleaner—the implements of her trade—outwitted the villains, saved Robert and the Caldwell name, and straightened out things generally, and how she became Taxi Barney's "fare" for life make a delicious tale of thrills and foolery.

MYSTERY OF THE DOUBLE CROSS (Episode No. 2—"The Masked Stranger"—Two parts—Astra—March 25).—The cast: Philippa Brewster (Mollie King); Peter Hale (Leon Barry); Bridge Bentley (Ralph Stuart); Dick Annessley (Gladden James); The Masked Stranger (? ? ? ?). Directed by William Parke.

Peter Hale, wealthy young man of leisure, while returning to America received a mysterious message referring to the Double Cross, and also on the same ship met with a mysterious but beautiful young lady who bore on her arm the sign of the Double Cross. On landing he repaired immediately to the hotel, where he read his father's will, which left to him the entire estate contingent on his marrying a woman especially selected and who would appear to him and show upon her right arm, just below the shoulder, the mark of the Double Cross.

Through his lawyer, Peter receives an invitation to the Brewster country home, where he frustrates the scheme of Bridge Bentley, social pet and pirate, to get Brewster's property. There Peter meets the Mysterious Lady, who introduces herself as Philippa Brewster. That night followed a series of events which set Peter's head in a whirl. Peter tried to tell Philippa of his love, but she pulled away from him in surprise, denying that she had ever kissed him. Growing desperate, Peter seized her and tried to discover the mark of the Double Cross, but before he could do so he was confronted by a Masked Stranger.

"You must never do that again, Peter," said the stranger. "Philippa Brewster is not she whom you seek. Go."

Philippa fled and Peter, puzzled and greatly disturbed, wandered back to the house. In the hallway he discovered the Stranger enter Philippa's room. Crazed with jealousy, he broke in the room, to find—Next episode—"An Hour to Live."

TOLD AT THE TWILIGHT (Balboa—Gold Rooster—Five Parts—March 25).—The cast: Little Mary Sunshine (Baby Marie Osborne);

Daniel Graham (Daniel Giffether); the Father (Henry King).

A child, Mary Sunshine, filled with a desire to play with other youngsters, was forbidden to do so by her mother. But one day Piggy, a young negro child, appeared over the top of the fence and the temptation was too great. From that day on, Mary was given to running off with Piggy. As punishment for her first offense, she was sent to bed without supper, but neither her father nor mother could sleep when they realized that Mary was hungry, so they caught each other bringing food to the youngster.

On a nearby estate lived Daniel Graham, rich, alone and grouchy. To him came the awakening when he heard the laugh of a child. Looking over the fence to locate the laugh, he found Mary and Piggy encouraging a chicken fight. From then on, day after day, the child visited him and brought cheer to the big mansion, which had never known the sound of childish laughter.

On the off days, when not at the big house, Mary and Piggy ran wild for ways in which to make passersby lose their seriousness and smile. Not aware of the friendship of the child for the rich man, Mary's father, in order to make up for foolish ventures on the stock market, attempted to rob the big house. This same evening, Mary remained at the house after her birthday party given her by Daniel Graham. Being restless in her sleep from so many good things to eat, Mary started down stairs to frighten her friend, but instead she walked in the big room just as her father was in the midst of his attempted wrongdoing.

EDUCATIONAL FILM CORP.

THE LIVING BOOK OF NATURE ("Foreign-Deer"—Feb. 26).—Scenes of some of the most beautiful animals in the world, showing the care of the young, the antics of the fawns and the majestic bravery of the antlered stags.

THE LIVING BOOK OF NATURE ("The Beaver Prepares for Winter"—March 5).—This story of animal intelligence is a veritable playlet of the wilds. It shows well-laid plans for winter in the woods.

THE LIVING BOOK OF NATURE ("Jungle Vaudeville"—March 12).—Untrained animals demonstrate the comedies of Nature.

THE LIVING BOOK OF NATURE ("Feeding the Fish Eaters"—March 19).—An intimate study of the seals and other aquatic animals. The various animal actors are astonishing jugglers at dinner time.

THE LIVING BOOK OF NATURE ("Feeding the Bears"—March 26).—This subject shows the droll capers of these huge and voracious, but good-natured carnivores, are extremely amusing.

Beware of Strangers

RADIUM GOLD FIBRE SCREEN

When a carefully prepared history of the Motion Picture Industry is compiled credit will be given the RADIUM GOLD FIBRE SCREEN for the part it has played in bringing the photoplay entertainment to its highest development.

The RADIUM GOLD FIBRE SCREEN banished the flicker.

The RADIUM GOLD FIBRE SCREEN made possible the really HUMAN representation of animated figures.

You ought to have a Radium GOLD FIBRE SCREEN in your theatre.

RADIUM GOLD FIBRE SCREEN, Inc.

LEON SCHLESINGER, Gen. Mgr.

220 W. 42d Street, New York City

Canadian Distributors—J. T. Malone Films, Inc., Rialto Theatre Bldg., Montreal; Allfeatures, Ltd.,
56 King St., W., Toronto.

Classified Advertisements

NOTE TERMS CAREFULLY

Remittances must accompany all orders for classified advertisements as follows: One dollar per insertion for copy containing twenty words or less. Five cents per word on copy containing over twenty words. Each word to be counted including names and addresses.

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS:—The Publishers expect that all statements made in every advertisement will bear the strictest investigation.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

SUPERINTENDENT of film factory, at present unemployed, desires engagement with reliable firm. Thorough laboratory man. C., care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

CAPABLE theater manager at liberty. F. E. Chapman, through loss by fire, of his uninsured theater, the New Colonial, at South Bend, Ind., see page 1567 of this paper for Feb. 17, is in the market for a position. He is capable, has had 18 years' experience and can furnish references. Address F. E. Chapman, 421 N. Wood St., So. Bend, Ind.

PHOTOGRAPHIC chemist and technical director of laboratory, excellent reference. Address Chemist, care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

AT LIBERTY—Capable picture theater manager, twelve years' experience, go any place, salary or percentage. Address Christian, 30 Covert St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

THEATERS WANTED.

WILL LEASE picture theater, state population, number seats, rent, what opposition. Address Christian, 30 Covert St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

THEATERS FOR SALE OR RENT.

MOTION PICTURE theater, long lease, doing good business, capable of further development, 800 seats, everything new. Address Morgan House, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

BEAUTIFUL moving picture theater in one of Ohio's best towns. Doing a fine business. Bear close investigation. Address T. V. T., care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

FOR SALE—Up-to-date picture theater with stage and dressing rooms. Two Simplex machines, 390 seats, hour from N. Y. Discontinuing business on account of health. Price attractive. No triflers. Address M., care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

FOR SALE—Beautiful theater in the prettiest city in the Middle West, seating capacity 300, fully equipped with modern equipment, playing only the finest pictures, 10c admission, built for Theater, not a made-over store and fire proof throughout, beautiful front, will sell at a sacrifice, as I am in the automobile business and cannot give it the time it requires; profits big for the investment. This is a Sunday town, run as long as you like. Will sell one-half down, balance to be paid out of profits; running now. Wire appointment; will go to the first one to investigate. Address George T. Scully, Kalamazoo, Mich.

EQUIPMENT WANTED.

WE BUY all makes of moving picture machines. What have you? Monarch Film Service, 228 Union Ave., Memphis, Tenn.

EQUIPMENT FOR SALE.

FOR SALE—Slightly used Simplex projectors, guaranteed perfect and good as new, at reasonable prices. Second-hand Motiograph in good condition, cheap. Room, 206, 1482 Broadway, N. Y. City.

BARGAINS—Slightly used Simplex, Power's and Motiograph machine. Lowest prices—fully guaranteed. Hallberg, 729 Seventh Ave., N. Y. City.

WHY DOES Richardson recommend "Amberlux" lens filters? Write and find out particulars. Price, with slide, $3.50. W. D. Warner, 8 E. Broad St., Columbus, Ohio.

POWER'S 6B, 6A, 6. Simplex type B and type S. Edison Exhibition model B, model D. Motiograph and three master model standard machines. All in perfect condition, can be obtained at low prices. National Carbons, 5/8x12 in., $6.00 per hundred; 3/4x12 in., $7.76 per hundred. Call or write to-day. Picture Theater Equipment Co., 1604 Broadway, N. Y. City.

3,000 OPERA CHAIRS, steel and cast frames, 60c. up. All serviceable goods, cut prices on new chairs. Six standard asbestos booths. Send for weekly list of close outs and save half. J. P. Redington, Scranton, Pa.

FOR SALE—476 green colored, veneered, picture show chairs with ball-bearing hinge. Cost $2.75 each. Will sell for $1.00 each. Also ozone machine and side light fixtures. J. B. Elliott, Mgr., Strand Theater, Lexington, Ky.

REAL BARGAINS in used projectors, Motiograph, complete outfit, fine lamp house rheostat and lens. Cast iron stand, our price $110.00. Peerless portable projector. Complete outfit with lens and rheostat, price $55.00. Latest type Victor Animatograph, motor or hand driven. Motor attached, fireproof and very new. Extremely portable, price $110.00. Each machine guaranteed. David Stern Co., 1047 S. Madison St., Chicago, Ill.

MOVING PICTURE outfit, Standard No. 4 machine, slightly used; other accessories. For particulars call mornings between 10 and 12, M. Birnbaum, 2329 3d Ave., N. Y. City.

FORT WAYNE compensarc, DC to DC 220 volt, 35 ampere. Al condition, $150.00. Theater Supply Co., 405 Nantucket Bldg., Akron, Ohio.

CAMERAS, ETC., FOR SALE.

PROFESSIONAL CAMERAS, tripods, perforators, printers, developing outfits, rewinders, Tessars, effects, devices, novelties, experimental workshop, repair, expert film work, titles. Eberhard Schneider, 14th St. & Second Ave., N. Y.

BE PREPARED! NOW IS THE TIME TO GET YOUR MOTION PICTURE CAMERA. DAVID STERN COMPANY OFFER BEST VALUES. SERVICE AND VARIETY. EVERY

STYLE FROM 100 FT. MODELS TO STUDIO CAMERAS. TRADE IN YOUR OLD CAMERA FOR THE NEWEST MODEL. A PARTIAL LIST OF CAMERAS ON HAND—PATHE, 400 ft. capacity, old model, HELIAR F:4.5 lens, fine mechanism, two extra magazines. PRICE COMPLETE, $85.00—EBERHARD SCHNEIDER M. P. CAMERA, 200 ft. capacity, Zeiss Tessar lens, F:3.5. PRICE, $95.00—U. S. CINEMATOGRAPH M. P. CAMERA, 400 ft. capacity, all adjustments, ideal for studio work, tricks and illusions. Zeiss Tessar lens, and extra magazines. PRICE COMPLETE, $250.00—LATEST MODEL PATHE NO. 2, INSIDE MAGAZINES, TESSAR LENS, F:3.5, two extra magazines. PRICE, $450.00—

LATEST MODEL UNIVERSAL, THE CAMERA FOR ALL PURPOSES. LIST $300.00. WRITE FOR SPECIAL PROPOSITION ON THE UNIVERSAL—THE LATEST MODEL DAVSCO, 200 ft. capacity, standard film, weight 10 1/2 lbs., MECHANISM EQUAL TO ANY CAMERA, TESSAR LENS F:3.5, ALUMINUM MAGAZINES. PRICE, $110.00—$375.00 U. S. ELECTRIC PRINTER, COMPLETE, OUR PRICE, $150.00—TALBOT'S PRACTICAL CINEMATOGRAPHY; THE HANDBOOK for the beginner. Postpaid, $1.35—ADVERTISING BY MOTION PICTURES; full of money-making ideas. Postpaid, $1.60. ANY CAMERA SHIPPED C. O. D. PRIVILEGE OF EXAMINATION ON RECEIPT OF $10.00 DEPOSIT. YOUR MONEY REFUNDED IN FULL IF NOT SATISFACTORY. TELEGRAPHIC ORDERS SHIPPED SAME DAY IF DEPOSIT IS WIRED. WRITE FOR OUR COMPLETE CATALOGUE, JUST OFF THE PRESS. YOURS FOR THE ASKING. DAVID STERN COMPANY, "EVERYTHING IN CAMERAS," 1047 R, MADISON ST., CHICAGO, ILL.

FILMS, ETC., WANTED.

"PILGRIM'S PROGRESS," "Parsifal" and other classic films. State condition, lowest price, paper, cuts, photos. Ray, 25 Clinton St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

FILMS, ETC., FOR SALE.

PENDLETON ROUND-UP—Typical frontier days show. New and used prints. Hauck Feature Film Co., 294 East 56th St., Portland, Oreg.

FOR SALE—One thousand reels, singles and features, sacrificed prices. Peerless Feature Attractions, Seattle, Wash.

MISCELLANEOUS.

MR. EXHIBITOR, for 15c a square foot we renovate old screens with Silvertone, made to equal any new screen. Perfect stereopticon projection guaranteed. Work done in your theatre. Write us for particulars. McDonnell & Crawford, 453 Fourth Ave., N. Y., or 2388 Jamaica Ave., Richmond Hill, L. I.

A Welcome Visitor Each Week in Every Business Home Where Moving Pictures Are of Interest

The Moving Picture World

Is Admirably Adapted to Carry Any Little Message Which You May Wish to Send

Our Classified Advertisements at Five Cents Per Word

Will Produce Remarkable Results—One Dollar for Twenty Words or Less

Send Copy, with remittance, to CHALMERS PUBLISHING CO., 17 Madison Avenue, New York City

INDEX

TO CONTENTS

Actors' Fund Fair May 12 to 21.....1936
Advertising for Exhibitors.....1911
"Aladdin from Broadway" (Vitagraph).....1949
Anti-Censorship Slides.....1944
Arbuckle Finishes Transcontinental Trip.....1930
At Leading Picture Theatres.....1933
Australian Notes.....1931
Australian Showman Visits Seattle.....1924

British Notes.....1922
Brooklyn's Triangle Shifts to Paramount.....1943

Calendar of Daily Program Releases.....1978
Capital's New Building Rules.....1964
Censor Advertising in Illinois.....1968
Champaign, Miss., Exhibitor Extraordinary.....1905
Chicago Muddle Cleared.....1938
Chicago News Letter.....1939
Children's Matinees.....1925
Cleveland's New Exchange Club.....1966
"Cloud, The" (Van Dyke).....1946
"College Boys' Special, The" (Kalem).....1947
Colorado Censor Bills Protest.....1973
Comments on the Films.....1950
Cropper, R. C., Heads Standard.....1970
Crimes Committed in Name of Morality.....1923

"Daughter of the Poor, A" (Triangle).....1949
Denver to Have a New 3,500-Seat Theater.....1973

Exchange Efficiency.....1920

Facts and Comments.....1903
Fairbanks Announces Future Plans.....1928

Garden, Mary, in "Thais".....1943
Goldwyn's World-Wide Publicity.....1937

Higher Admission, Working for.....1974
Hodkinson, President, on Tour.....1938

Indiana Legalizes Sunday Picture Shows.....1907
Indiana May Have Sunday Pictures.....1934
Industry Responds to Charity Ball Appeals.....1940
Is the Public Educated to Expect Too Much?.....1907

Jaxon Film Corporation Enters Field.....1934

Kansas City Screen Club Ball.....1935
Kerrigan Blows Into New York.....1935
Kunsky New Theater Opens.....1969

Legislative Fund.....1932
List of Current Film Release Dates.....1916

1996, 1998, 2000, 2002
"Little Lost Sister" (Selig).....1946
Lloyd, Harold, as "Lonesome Luke".....1928
"Lost Legion of the Border, The" (Kalem).....1947
Louisville Has Fewer Five-Cent Houses.....1967

Macnamara, Walter, Off for Keystoneville.....1938
Manufacturers' Advance Notes.....1953
Maryland League Ball a Certainty.....1933
"Masked Stranger, The" (Pathe).....1948
May Tax Film Distributors.....1934
Minneapolis F. I. L. M. Club's Banquet.....1971
"Mortal Sin, The" (Metro).....1948
Motion Picture Educator.....1926
Motion Picture Exhibitor, The.....1932
Motion Picture Photography.....1918
Music for the Picture.....1919

New Express Rules.....1928
New Officers of Chicago Local Installed.....1932
New Orleans Exchange Men Join Association.....1972
News of Los Angeles and Vicinity.....1941
New York May Have Film Commission.....1907
Notes of the Trade.....1961

"Out of the Wreck" (Morooco).....1947

Park, William.....1937
Pearce Will Boost Program.....1972
Pennsylvania Censors Give Date.....1902
Photoplaywright, The.....1914
Picture Situation in Germany.....1922
Picture Theater in Germany.....1921
Pictures for Children.....1925
Pine Tree State Fildom News.....1962
Popular Picture Personalities.....1929
Posters, Exhibitors Think They Could Be Better.....1977
Projection Department.....1915

Reviews of Current Productions.....1945
Richardson Has Tussle With Jupiter Pluvius.....1909

Saenger Theater Co. Opens Lafayette.....1972
"Sapho" (Famous Players).....1945
Sheehan Escapes U-Boats.....1938
"Sister Against Sister" (Fox).....1947
"Social Leper, The" (World).....1945
"Square Deal Man, The" (Triangle).....1949
Status of Business in Tropical Regions.....1925
Stories of the Films.....1980
"Susan's Gentleman" (Bluebird).....1946

"Told at Twilight" (Pathe).....1948
Toronto Exhibitors Meet.....1933

Unique Making Films for Catholics.....1924

Vaudeville to the Rescue.....1976
Vaudeville, Turns from, to Films.....1975
"Vicar of Wakefield, The" (Thanhouser).....1927
"Voice on the Wire, The" (Universal).....1948

We Are Just Beginning.....1904
Will This Merger Ever Come to Pass.....1905
Woods, Al., Forms Picture Company.....1944

Zukor Back From Coast.....1936

TO ADVERTISERS

CARBONS AND CARBON ACCESSORIES.
Jones & Cammack.....1983
National Carbon Co.....1997
Speer Carbon Co.....1979

CHAIR AND SEATING MANUFACTURERS.
Foco Chair Co.....1988
Steel Furniture Co.....1988

ELECTRICAL & MECHANICAL EQUIP.
Amusement Supply Co.....2001
Bell & Howell.....1999
Calebuff Supply Co.....2005
Fulton, E. E.....1988
Globe Ventilator Co.....1999
Hallberg, J. H.....1986
Hertner Elec. & Mfg. Co.....1988
Hommel, Ludwig, Co.....1986
Langstadt-Meyer Co.....2004
Lucas Theater Supply Co.....1986
Northwestern Elec. Co.....2001
Porter, B. F.....2004
Strelinger, Chas. A.....1985
Swabb, Lewis M.....1987
Typhoon Fan Co.....1990
Wagner Elec. Mfg. Co.....1989
Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co.....1985

FILM EXCHANGES.
Bradenburgh, G. W.....1960

LENS MANUFACTURERS.
Bausch & Lomb Opt. Co.....2001

MANUFACTURERS OF MOVING PICTURES.
Art Dramas, Inc.....1891-2-3
Artercraft Pictures Corp.....1858-59
Benjamin Chapin Studios.....1846
Bernstein Film Productions.....1876-77
Brockliss, J. Frank.....1854
Christie Film Co.....1855
Clune Producing Co.....1984
Cosmofotofilm Co.....1884-5
E. I. S. Feature Film Co.....1879
Enlightenment Photo Play Corp.....1860-61
Essanay Film Mfg. Co.....1847, 1897

Forum Films, Inc.....1896
Fox Film Corp.....1869
Friedman Enterprises, Inc.....1887
Gaumont Co.....1862
Gold Medal Photo Players, Inc.....1886
Goldwyn Pictures Corp.....1852-53
Grafton Film Pub. Co.....1984
Grand Feature Film Co.....1882-3
Horsley, David, Productions.....1868
Ince, Thos.....Colored Insert
Ivan Film Productions.....1890
Kalem Co.....1902
K-E-S-E Service.....1898-9
La Salle Film Co.....1895
Mabel Normand Feature Film Co.....1874
Mack Sennett—Keystones.....1875
Metro Pictures Corp.....Colored Insert
"Mothers of France".....1878
Mutual Film Corp.....Colored Insert, 1863-65, 1867
National Drama Corp.....1984
101 Ranch M. P. Co.....1991
Paragon Films.....1880-1
Paramount Pictures Corp.....1856-57
Pathe Exchange, Inc.....Colored Insert
Rex Beach Pictures.....1901
Selig Polyscope Co.....1900
Selznick, Lewis J., Enterprises.....1888-9
Triangle Distributing Corp.....1871-73
Universal Film Mfg. Co.....1848-51
Ultra Pictures Corp.....1804
Vogue Films, Inc.....1866
World Film Corp.....1870

MISCELLANEOUS.
American Bioscope Co.....1987
Automatic Ticket & C. R. Co.....1986
Bioscope, The.....2003
Brackett, Robt. A.....1990
Cine Mundial.....1995
Corcoran, A. J.....1985
Duhem M. P. Mfg. Co.....2005
Eastman Kodak Co.....2005
Erbograph Co.....1987
Evans Film Mfg. Co.....2005
Gumby Bros.....2003
Holcomb & Hoke Mfg. Co.....1997

Il Tirso Cinematografo.....2003
Kassell, M.....1987
Kinematograph Weekly, The.....1988
Kraus Mfg. Co.....1990
Marion, Louise M.....2001
Moore, William N.....1991
M. P. Directory Co.....2004
M. P. Electricity.....2004
National Ticket Co.....1985
"Operator".....1986
Pacific Tank & Pipe Co.....1991
Preddy, W. G.....1985
Richardson, F. H.....2003
Richardson's M. P. Handbook.....1999
Rothacker Film Mfg. Co.....2007
Standard M. P. Co.....1986
Williams, A. F.....1987
Willis & Inglis.....1985

MOVING PICTURE CAMERAS.
Burke & James.....1988

MUSIC AND MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.
American Photo Player Co.....1985
Deagan, J. C., Musical Bells.....1985
Sinn, Clarence E.....1987

POSTERS AND FRAMES.
Menger & Ring.....1985
Newman Mfg. Co.....2004

PROJECTION MACHINE MANUFACTURERS.
American Standard M. P. Mch. Co.....1988
Enterprise Opt. Mfg. Co.....1995
Power, Nicholas, Co.....2008
Precision Mch. Co.....1989

PROJECTION SCREEN MANUFACTURERS.
Castle & Rowley.....2001
Genter, J. H., Co., Inc.....2003
Gold King Screen Co.....2004
Minusa Cine Products Co.....2003
Radium Gold Fibre Screen Co.....1992

THEATRICAL ARCHITECTS.
Decorators' Supply Co.....1999

Ask the Men Who Know

Hand-driven
Equipment
$255.00

Motor-driven
Equipment
$305.00

If you have tried a thing under exacting conditions and FOUND IT STOOD THE TEST, then you know what you are talking about.

Read what the Bronx Amusement Co. says about the MOTIOGRAPH—

THE BRONX AMUSEMENT CO.

Cleveland, O., Feb. 13, 1917.

Enterprise Optical Mfg. Co.,
Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen:

It is with extreme pleasure that I take this opportunity of advising you of the exceptional results and satisfaction which we have received from the two Motiograph machines which we installed in our Bronx Theatre over eighteen months ago.

Altho our theatre opens at eight o'clock in the morning and runs continuously till eleven at night, being reputed to be the hardest grind in the city, yet we have not had a particle of trouble of any nature with your machines and they have never failed to produce perfect results in a most satisfactory manner.

Thanking you for the many courtesies extended us, we are,

Yours very truly,

BRONX AMUSEMENT CO.

By A. K. Trakas, Pres.

This is only one of the many endorsements of the IMPROVED MODEL MOTIOGRAPH.

Then profit by the experience of others by saving several hundred dollars on the original cost and at the same time get a perfect projector.

The Enterprise Optical Mfg. Co.

574 W. Randolph St., CHICAGO, ILL.

Western Office: 833 Market St., San Francisco, Cal.

You Need Cine Mundial Now

Film importation into England has been stopped.

Therefore, to secure wider distribution on your releases, take the advantages that you are offered in Latin America through the Spanish Edition of the Moving Picture World —CINE MUNDIAL.

Reaching over 5,000 of your most likely prospects throughout Latin America, Spain and Portugal.

The Medium of the Hour!

Get full information by addressing
SPANISH DEPARTMENT

CHALMERS PUBLISHING CO.

17 Madison Avenue, New York City

List of Current Film Release Dates

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Page 1978.)

BROADWAY STAR FEATURE.

The Buickette Blackmalters (6th of "The Dangers of Doris" Comedy) Drama—Broadway Star Feature).... 21666
His Little Spirit Girl (Comedy)..... 21673-74-75
The Valley of Lost Hope (Three parts—Drama) 21673-74-75
The Gang (No. 7 of "The Dangers of Doris"—Comedy—Drama—Broadway Star Feature)
The Seventh Son (Drama).
The Footlight Lure (No. 6 of the "Dangers of Doris"—Comedy—Drama).
Missing (Two parts—Drama).
The Meeting (Drama).
The Gang (No. 7 of the "Dangers of Doris"—Comedy—Drama).
Up and Down (No. 8 of "The Dangers of Doris"—Comedy—Drama).
Dimples Baby (Two parts—Comedy—Drama)
The Dangers of Doris (No. 9, "The Old Fourth Ward"—Comedy—Drama).
Dimples, the Diplomat (Two parts—Drama).
The Dangers of Doris (No. 10, "The Road to Eternity"—Comedy—Drama).
Past One at Rooney's (Two parts—Drama).

BSSANAY.

The Sinful Marriage (Sixth of "Is Marriage Sacred?"—Two parts—Drama) 21651-52
What Would You Do? "Black Cat Feature"—Two parts—Drama)..... 21660-61
Animated Nooz Pictorial, No. 23 (Cartoon Comedy), and Alaskan Scenic on same reel. 21663
The Magic Mirror (Seventh of "Is Marriage Sacred?"—Two parts—Dr.).... 21671-72
Three Ways Out ("Black Cat Feature"—Two parts—Drama). 21682-83
Mr. Wright in Wrong (Comedy)..... 21685
Is Marriage Sacred? (No. 8, "Shifting Shadows"—Two parts—Drama)..... 21696-97
The Hooded Story ("Black Cat Feature"—Two parts—Drama) 21706-7
Animated Nooz Pictorial No. 24 (Cartoon Comedy) 21709
Alaskan Scenic on Same Reel..... 21709
Is Marriage Sacred? (No. 9, "Desertion and Non-Support"—Two parts—Drama) 21715-16
The Lighted Lamp (Black Cat Feature—Two parts—Drama).
All in a Day (Cartoon Comedy), and an Alaskan Scenic on same reel.
Is Marriage Sacred? (No. 10, "Ashes on the Hearthstone"—Two parts—Drama).
A Four-Cent Courtship (Black Cat Feature—Two parts—Drama).
Animated Nooz Pictorial, No. 25 (Cartoon Comedy), and British Columbia (Scenic).
The Extravagant Bride (No. 11 of "Is Marriage Sacred?"—Two parts—Drama).
The Invisible Web (Black Cat Feature—Two parts—Drama).
Tiny, Slim and Fat (Cartoon Comedy), and British Columbia Scenic on same reel.
Is Marriage Sacred? (No. 12, "The Vanishing Woman"—Two parts—Drama).
The Five Dollar Bill (Black Cat Feature—Two parts—Drama).
Animated Nooz Pictorial No. 26 (Cartoon Comedy) and Educational on same reel.
The Pulse of Madness (No. 13 of "Is Marriage Sacred"—Two parts—Drama).
Aladdin Up-to-Date (Black Cat Feature—Two parts—Drama).
The Lucky One (Comedy). On same reel an Educational entitled "In the Beef and Butter Country."
The Pallid Dawn ("Is Marriage Sacred?"—Two parts—Drama).

FORTUNE PHOTOPLAYS.

"Inspiration of Harry Larrabee" (Four parts—Drama).
"Mentioned in Confidence" (Four parts—Dr.).

KALEM.

The Railroad Claim Intrigue (No. 116 of "The Hazards of Helen"—Dr.)... 21676
The Safety Pin Smugglers (Comedy). 21684
The Dominion of Fernandez (No. 25 of "The Girl from Frisco"—Two parts—Drama) 21686-87
The Net of Intrigue (No. 16 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama) 21693
The Death Siding (No. 117 of "The Hazards of Helen"—Drama)..... 21700

Ghost Hounds (Comedy)..... 21708
The Trap (No. 17 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama) 21712
The Prima Donna's Special (Drama).. 21717
The Model Janitor (Comedy).
Winged Diamonds (No. 18 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama).
The Sidetracked Sleeper (No. 119 of "The Hazards of Helen"—Drama).
A Flyer in Flapjacks (Comedy).
The Screened Vault (No. 19 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama).
The Black Rider of Tasajara (an episode of "The American Girl"—Two parts—Drama).
In the Path of Peril (an episode of "A Daughter of Daring"—Drama).
The Mirror of Fear (an episode of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama).
Efficiency Experts (Comedy).
Bulls or Bullets (Comedy).
The Phantom Mine (an episode of "The American Girl"—Two parts—Drama).
The Fate of Juan Garcia (an episode of "The American Girl"—Two parts—Drama).
The Veiled Thunderbolt (an adventure of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama).
In the Web of the Spider (an adventure of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama).
The Registered Pouch (an episode of "A Daughter of Daring"—Drama).
The Borrowed Engine (an episode of "A Daughter of Daring"—Drama).

KNICKERBOCKER STAR FEATURE.

The Room of Mystery (Three parts—Drama) 21648-49-50
Crossed Trail (Three parts—Dr.)... 21690-91-92
The Beloved Vampires (Three parts—Drama).

SELIG.

Cupid's Touchdown (Comedy)..... 21654
On Italy's Firing Line (Three parts—Drama) 21655-56-57
Selig-Tribune No. 7 (Topical)..... 21659
Selig-Tribune No. 8 (Topical)..... 21666
The Luck That Jealousy Brought (Dr.) 21677
Lost and Found (Two parts—Dr.).... 21678-79
Selig-Tribune No. 9 (Topical)..... 21681
Selig-Tribune No. 10 (Topical)..... 21688
The Saddle Girth (Drama)..... 21701
Cupid's Thumb Print (Two parts—Drama) 21702-3
Selig-Tribune No. 11 (Topical)..... 21705
Selig-Tribune No. 12 (Topical)..... 21710
A Strange Adventure (Drama)..... 21718
The Redemption of Red Mullin (Two parts—Drama).
Selig-Tribune No. 13 (Topical).
Selig-Tribune No. 14 (Topical).
For Reward of Service (Comedy—Drama).
The Great Treasure (Two parts—Drama).
Selig-Tribune No. 15 (Topical).
Selig-Tribune No. 16 (Topical).
A Brother's Sacrifice (Drama).
Selig Tribune No. 16 (Topical).
Selig Tribune No. 17 (Topical).
An Actress' Romance (Two parts—Drama).
No Place Like Home (Comedy).
Selig-Tribune No. 18 (Topical).
Selig-Tribune No. 19 (Topical).
A Pearl of Greater Price (Two parts—Drama).
Over the Garden Wall (Comedy).

VIM FEATURE COMEDY.

It's All Wrong (Comedy)..... 21670
The Other Girl (Comedy)..... 21680
A Job for Life (Comedy)..... 21694
Nora Declares War (Comedy).
The Newlyweds' Mistake (Comedy).
Happy Nat's Dilemma (Comedy).
Art and Paint (Comedy).
Harry's Pig (Comedy).
Seeing Double (Comedy).
This Is Not My Room (Comedy).
A Deal in Furniture (Comedy).
Deep Stuff (Comedy).
Willie Walrus Pays Alimony (Comedy).
In Stump Land (Comedy).
Wanted, a Bad Man (Comedy).
Somewhere in Mexico (Comedy).
Nellie's Nifty Necklace (Comedy).

OFFICIAL WAR FILMS, INC.

February—The War (A Weekly Release).

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

ASTRA.

Feb. 25—Pearl of the Army (Episode No. 13—"Modern Buccaneers"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 4—Pearl of the Army (No. 14, "Flag Despoiler"—Two parts—Astra—Dr.).
Mar. 11—Pearl of the Army, No. 15 ("Colonel's Orderly"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 18—The Mystery of the Double Cross (Episode No. 1, "The Lady in No. 7"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 25—The Mystery of the Double Cross ("Episode No. 2, "The Masked Stranger"—Two parts—Drama).

GOLD ROOSTER.

Feb. 25—Crime and Punishment (Arrow—Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 4—Her Beloved Enemy (Thanhouer—Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 11—The Empress (Popular Plays and Players—Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 18—Pots and Pans, Peggie (Thanhouer—Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 25—Told at Twilight (Five parts—Balboa—Drama).

PATHE.

Mar. 4—Florence Rose Fashions, No. 21 (Morning Hours) (Fashions).
—Picturesque Catalonia (Spain) (Colored Scenic).
Mar. 11—Florence Rose Fashions, No. 22, "As the Day Wanes" (Fashions), and "Birds of Gay Plumage" (Parakeets) (Colored Educational).
Mar. 11—Max in a Difficult Position (Max Linder Comedy) and Skinny Routs a Robber (Rolin—Comedy—Split Reel).
Mar. 18—Florence Rose Fashions, No. 23 (Fashions), and Nomads of the North (Lapland) (Educational).
Mar. 25—Florence Rose Fashions No. 24 ("Fads and Fancies") (Fashions) and The Gardener's Feathered Friends (Colored—Edu.—Split Reel).
Mar. 25—Max's Feet are Pinched (Max Linder Comedy) and Skinny Gets a Goat (Rolin Comedy—Split Reel).

COMBITONE.

Mar. 18—Know America, the Land We Love—Southern California (Scenic).

HEARST-PATHE NEWS.

Mar. 17—Number 23 (Topical).
Mar. 21—Number 24 (Topical).
Mar. 24—Number 25 (Topical).
Mar. 28—Number 26 (Topical).
Mar. 31—Number 27 (Topical).

INTERNATIONAL.

Mar. 4—Bringing Up Father, "A Hot Time in the Gym" (Cartoon Comedy).
—Winter in Yellowstone Park (Scenic).
Mar. 4—Patria (Episode No. 8—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 11—Patria No. 9 (Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 11—Krazy Kat—Roses and Thorns (Cartoon Comedy) and In the Heart of the Cascades (Scenic—Split Reel).
Mar. 18—Patria (Episode No. 10, "War in the Dooryard"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 18—Jerry on the Job—He Takes a Day Off (Cartoon Comedy) and Artificial Flower Making (Industrial—Split Reel).
Mar. 25—Happy Hooligan—The Double Crossed Nurse (Cartoon Comedy) and Rope Making (Industrial—Split Reel).
Mar. 25—Patria No. 11 ("Sunset Falls"—Two parts—Drama).

MITTENTHAL.

Mar. 4—Deep-Dyed Villainy (Comedy).
Mar. 11—Hokey Heroes (Comedy).

ROLIN.

Feb. 18—Lonesome Luke-Lawyer (Comedy).
Feb. 25—Luke Wins Ye Ladye Faire (Comedy).
Mar. 18—Lonesome Luke's Lively Life (Two parts—Comedy).

FOR DIRECT CURRENT

SILVERTIP

Negative

Projector Carbon

As great an improvement over former projection methods as the modern "twin-six" is over the "one-lunger" of twenty years ago.

Write for booklets describing "Silver-tip" and "National" projector carbons.

Sent free on request.

National Carbon Company

CLEVELAND, OHIO

$600 to $3120
Extra Profits Yearly

Big Rewards

For Theatre Managers

Yes! $600.00 to $3120.00 per year is the record of the famous Butter-Kist Pop Corn Machine in extra profits for hundreds of theatres, stores, stands and concessions.

Crowds come from all directions to buy delicious Butter-Kist Pop Corn, crackling, white and toasty-flavored. Made only by the famous Butter-Kist Machine.

BUTTER-KIST
POP CORN—TOASTY FLAVOR

Automatic, runs itself—stands anywhere, occupies only 26 x 32 inches of floor space. Beautifully built—lifetime construction—visible action. Increases theatre attendance.

Picture play house in Staunton, Va., sold $4.00 to $12.00 per day.

Scores of signed sales records like this from theatre managers and store owners, even in the smallest towns. Let us send them.

Pay From Your Profits

A small cash payment starts the Butter-Kist Pop Corn Machine bringing in a tide of nickels, dimes and quarters. Balance soon paid out of Butter-Kist sales.

"The Little Gold Mine"—FREE

Our valuable book gives full details, photos, and proof of profits. Sent free to any theatre manager or store-keeper. Mail your address on the coupon, or write to-day, without fail.

HOLCOMB & HOKE MFG. CO.
550-566 Van Buren St., Indianapolis, Indiana

This Brings Profit Book FREE

HOLCOMB & HOKE MFG. COMPANY

550-566 Van Buren Street, Indianapolis, Ind.

Without obligation, send your profit-making book, free, postpaid—"THE LITTLE GOLD MINE."

Name.....

Business.....

Address.....

(242)

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON UNIVERSAL AND MUTUAL PROGRAMS

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Page 1978.)

Universal Film Mfg. Co.

ANIMATED WEEKLY

Feb. 28—Number 61 (Topical).
Mar. 7—Number 62 (Topical).
Mar. 14—Number 63 (Topical).
Mar. 21—Number 64 (Topical).
Mar. 28—Number 65 (Topical).

BIG U.

Feb. 23—Heroes of the Plains (Drama).
Mar. 2—A Battle of Wits (Two parts—Dr.).
Mar. 4—Buried Alive (Drama).
Mar. 7—A Soldier's Dream (Drama).
Mar. 8—Good for Nothing Gallagher (Drama).
Mar. 15—For Honor's Sake (Drama).
Mar. 18—The Hidden Danger (Two parts—Dr.).
Mar. 25—The Rebel's Net (Drama).

BISON.

Feb. 17—John Osborn's Triumph (Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 24—The Come Back (Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 3—The Tornado (Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 10—The Drifter (Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 17—Roped In (Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 24—Goin' Straight (Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 31—Steel Hearts (Two parts—Drama).

GOLD SEAL.

Feb. 13—The Indian's Lament (Three parts—Drama).
Feb. 20—The Great Torpedo Secret (Three parts—Drama).
Feb. 27—Mary from America (Three parts—Comedy—Drama).
Mar. 6—Desperation (Three parts—Drama).
Mar. 13—The Common Sin (Three parts—Dr.).
Mar. 20—The Raid (Three parts—Drama).
Mar. 27—A Startling Climax (Three parts—Drama).

IMP.

Mar. 1—An Hour of Terror (Drama).
Mar. 2—Evil Hands (Drama).
Mar. 4—Tangled Threads (Two parts—Dr.).
Mar. 9—The Perils of the Secret Service (Episode No. 1, "The Last Cigarette"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 11—The Man of Mystery (Two parts—Dr.).
Mar. 14—Sins of a Brother (Drama).
Mar. 16—The Perils of the Secret Service (Episode No. 2, "The Clash of Steel"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 23—The Perils of the Secret Service (No. 3, "The Dreaded Tube."—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 29—David's Idol Dream (Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 29—The Perils of the Secret Service (Episode No. 4, "The Crimson Blade"—Two parts—Drama).

JOKER.

Feb. 10—Out for the Dough (Comedy).
Feb. 17—Mule Mates (Comedy).
Feb. 24—Rosie's Rancho (Comedy).
Mar. 3—Passing the Grip (Comedy).
Mar. 10—Wanta Make a Dollar (Comedy).
Mar. 17—Art Acres (Comedy).
Mar. 24—Whose Baby? (Comedy).
Mar. 31—What the —? (Comedy).

LAEMMLE.

Mar. 8—Undoing Evil (Drama).
Mar. 8—The Human Flame (Drama).
Mar. 14—Where Glory Waits (Two parts—Dr.).
Mar. 17—Racing Death (Drama).
Mar. 21—Old Faithful (Drama).
Mar. 28—Is Money All? (Drama).
Mar. 29—The Mask of Love (Drama).

L-KO.

Feb. 14—The End of a Perfect Day (Comedy).
Feb. 16—Brave Little Waldo (Comedy).
Feb. 21—After the Balled Up Ball (Two parts—Comedy).
Feb. 28—Spike's Blizzy Bike (Two parts—Com.).
Mar. 7—Fatty's Feature Fillum (Two parts—Comedy).
Mar. 14—Summer Boarders (Comedy).

Mar. 16—Love on Crutches (Comedy).
Mar. 21—Defective Detectives (Two parts—Comedy).
Mar. 28—Dippy Dan's Dolms (Two parts—Comedy).

NESTOR.

Feb. 5—His Wife's Relatives (Comedy).
Feb. 12—A Hasty Hazing (Comedy).
Feb. 19—Down Went the Key (Comedy).
Feb. 26—A Million in Sight (Comedy).
Mar. 5—A Bundle of Trouble (Comedy).
Mar. 12—Some Specimens (Comedy).
Mar. 19—When the Cat's Away (Comedy).
Mar. 23—In Again, Out Again (Comedy).
Mar. 26—Shot in the West (Comedy).

POWERS.

Mar. 4—Mr. Fuller Pep—An Old Bird Pays Him a Visit (Cartoon Comedy).
—The Land of Buddha (Dorsey Edu.).
Mar. 11—Mr. Fuller Pep—His Day of Rest (Cartoon Comedy).
—The Mysterious City (Dorsey Educational).
Mar. 18—The Tail of Thomas Kat (Cartoon Comedy) and Foreign Legations in China (Dorsey Educational).
Mar. 22—The Stranest Army in the World (War Special).
Mar. 25—The Love Affair of Ima Knutt (Cartoon-Comedy), and Artistic China and Japan (Dorsey Educational).
Mar. 29—The Grand Canyon of Arizona (Scenic—Edu.).
April 1—Inbad the Sailor (Cartoon Comedy) and The Brightest Jewel on the British Crown (Dorsey Edu.).

RED FEATHER.

Feb. 5—Me and M' Pal (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 12—The Terror (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 19—The War of the Tongs (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 26—The Girl and the Crisis (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 5—The Gates of Doom (Five parts—Dr.).
Mar. 12—The Girl Who Lnst (Drama) and Border Wolves (Five parts—Dr.).
Mar. 19—The Scarlet Crystal (Five parts—Dr.).
Mar. 26—The Fighting Gringo (Five parts—Drama).

REX.

Feb. 11—In the Shadows of Night (Drama).
Feb. 22—The Keeper of the Gate (Drama).
Feb. 25—Lnst in the Streets of Paris (Drama).
Mar. 1—The Rented Man (Two parts—Dr.).
—The Funicular Railway of the Niesen (Edu.).
Mar. 8—The Amazing Adventure (Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 11—It Makes a Difference (Drama).
Mar. 24—The Royhood He Forent (Drama).
Mar. 25—The Grudge (Two parts—Drama).
April 1—Snow White (Three parts—Drama).

VICTOR.

Feb. 27—A Novel Romance (Comedy-Drama).
Mar. 1—They Were Four (Comedy).
Mar. 6—Good Morning Nurse (Comedy).
Mar. 9—The Beauty Doctor (Comedy).
Mar. 13—A Woman in the Case (Comedy).
Mar. 15—Drothy Dares (Two parts—Comedy).
Mar. 20—Black Magic (Comedy), and Landmarks of France (Scenic).
Mar. 22—The Hash House Mystery (Two parts—Comedy).
Mar. 27—Never too Old to Woo (Comedy).
Mar. 30—Prodigal Papa (Comedy).

UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE.

Mar. 2—Number 8.
Mar. 9—Number 9.
Mar. 16—Issue No. 10 (Educational).
Mar. 23—Issue No. 11 (Educational).
Mar. 30—Issue No. 12 (Educational).

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE.

Mar. 11—The Purple Mask (Episode No. 11, "The Garden of Surprise"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 18—The Purple Mask (Episode No. 12, "The Vault of Mystery"—Two parts—Drama).

Mar. 18—The Voice on the Wire (Episode No. 1, "The Oriental Death Punch"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 25—The Purple Mask (Episode No. 13, "The Leap"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 25—The Voice on the Wire (Episode No. 2, "The Mysterious Man in Black"—Two parts—Drama).
April 1—The Purple Mask (Episode No. 14, "The Sky Monsters"—Two parts—Drama).
April 1—The Voice on the Wire (Episode No. 3, "The Spider's Web"—Two parts—Drama).

Mutual Film Corp.

AMERICAN.

Mar. 8—Cupid and a Brick (Comedy—Drama).
Mar. 10—The Tell Tale Arm (Drama).
Mar. 10—The Homicide's Weapon (Drama).
Mar. 17—The Lonesome Mariner (Drama).
Mar. 17—A Ram-Bunctious Endeavour (Comedy).
Mar. 21—Cupid and a Button (Comedy).

CUB.

Feb. 15—Jerry's Big Mystery (Comedy).
Feb. 22—Jerry's Brilliant Scheme (Comedy).
Mar. 1—Jerry's Romance (Comedy).
Mar. 8—The Flying Target (Comedy).
Mar. 15—Jerry's Triple Alliance (Comedy).
Mar. 22—Minding Baby (Comedy).

NIAGARA FILM STUDIOS.

Feb. 28—The Peril of Our Girl Reporters (No. 10, "Taking Chances"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 7—The Peril of Our Girl Reporters (No. 11, "The Meeting"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 14—The Perils of Our Girl Reporters (No. 12, "Outwitted"—Two parts—Dr.).
Mar. 21—The Perils of Our Girl Reporters (No. 13, "The Schemers"—Two parts—Drama).

GAUMONT.

Mar. 8—Reel Life, No. 45 (Subjects on Reel: From Trapper to Weaner; Stimulating the Appetite of the Tired Business Man; Artistic Vases; The Pelican Mutual—Film Magazine).
Mar. 13—Tours Around the World, No. 19 (Subjects on reel: The Oasis of Gades, Sahara Desert; Koursk, Siberia (Travel)).
Mar. 14—See America First, No. 80 (Subjects on reel: On the Mississippi River from New Orleans to Baton Rouge (Scenic), and "They Say Pigs Is Pigs" (Cartoon Comic)).
Mar. 15—Reel Life, No. 46 (Subjects on reel: A Club-Rifle for the Police; The Fluid of Life (hood under microscope); Making the Cactus Useful; Gold Mining in Alaska; Sprites of the Moonlight (Dance)).
Mar. 20—Tours Around the World, No. 20 (Subjects on Reel: Montenegro Island of Guerny, Cintra, Portugal—Travel).
Mar. 22—Reel Life No. 47 (Subjects on Reel: Making Food Cheaper: A Home Made Motor Sled; Artificial Exercises; A Winter Pageant; Pineapples Under Glass; A Snail Race Under Water—Mutual Film Magazine).

MONOGRAM

Feb. 19—The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton, No. 6 (Shorty Promotes His Love Affair—Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 26—The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton (No. 7, "Shorty Hooks a Loan Shark"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 5—The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton (No. 8, "Shorty Traps a Lottery King"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 12—The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton (No. 9, "Shorty Tralls the Moonshiners"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 19—The Adventures of Shorty (No. 10, "Shorty Bags the Bullion Thieves"—Two parts—Drama).

(Mutual Releases continued on page 2000.)

Our Continuous Feed Printer

Produces prints of the finest "Screen Quality" at the minimum of cost.

In Design—
In Durability
of Construction — In Quantity of Output — In General Efficiency, it has no equal.

BELL & HOWELL COMPANY

Manufacturers Standard Cinemachinery—Perforators—Cameras—Printers,

1807 Larchmont Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

New York Office and Display Rooms
614-15 Candler Building, 220 West 42d Street

Ornamental Theatres

Plaster Relief Decorations

Theatres Designed Everywhere

Write for Illustrated Theatre Catalog. Send Us Sizes of Theatre for Special Designs

THE DECORATORS SUPPLY CO.

Archer Avenue and Leo Street
CHICAGO, ILL.

What does
VENTILATION
mean to you—in your Theatre?

Does it mean simply "opening up" to let in drafts for a few minutes—then letting the theatre fill up again with stale, musty odors?

Or does it mean a theatre full of fresh, clean, wholesome air—cool in summer, and well ventilated WITHOUT DRAFTS the year 'round?

If you are in favor of the latter, at the cost of but a few dollars, write for information regarding "GLOBE" Ventilators. Address Dept. M.

GLOBE VENTILATOR CO.
TROY, N. Y.

RICHARDSON'S

MOTION PICTURE

HAND BOOK

FOR MANAGERS and OPERATORS

Published by

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

RICHARDSON'S MOTION PICTURE HAND BOOK is a carefully prepared guide to perfect projection.

It is an invaluable help to every single individual in the trade who has to do with the mechanical handling of motion picture film or the management of a moving picture theatre.

There are over 680 Pages of Text and the illustrations include detail diagrams of all the leading makes of projection machines.

Substantially Bound in Red Cloth $4.00

Sent Postpaid on Receipt of Price by

MOVING PICTURE WORLD, 17 Madison Ave., New York City
MOVING PICTURE WORLD, 917 Schiller Bldg Chicago, Ill.
MOVING PICTURE WORLD, 305 Haas Bldg., Los Angeles, Cal.

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON FEATURES AND MISCELLANEOUS PROGRAMS

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Page 1978.)

(Mutual Releases continued from page 1988.)

MUTUAL.

Jan. 26—Uncle Sam's Defenders, No. 4 "Aboard and Ashore" (Topical).
Feb. 2—Scouts of the Sea and Sky (No. 3 of "Uncle Sam's Defenders" (Top.)).
Feb. 9—Uncle Sam's Defenders, (No. 6, "Build-dogs of the Deep" (Topical).

MUTUAL WEEKLY.

Feb. 14—Number 111 (Topical).
Feb. 21—Number 112 (Topical).
Feb. 23—Number 113 (Topical).
Mar. 7—Number 114 (Topical).
Mar. 14—Number 115 (Topical).
Mar. 21—Number 116 (Topical).
Mar. 28—Number 117 (Topical).

MUTUAL CHAPLIN.

Jan.—The Rink (Two parts—Comedy).
Feb.—Easy Street (Two parts—Comedy).
Mar.—The Cure (Two parts—Comedy).

MONMOUTH.

Mar. 23—Jimmy Dale, Alias the "Grey Seal" (Chapter One—Two parts—Drama).

MUTUAL SPECIAL.

Dec.—Charity (Seven parts—Drama).
Feb. 12—Damaged Goods (American—Revised Edition—Seven parts—Drama).

MUTUAL STAR COMEDY.

Jan. 6—The Girl Who Can Cook (Comedy).
Jan. 13—The Honeymooners (Comedy).

MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTIONS.

Feb. 5—Where Love Is (Five parts—Drama) (No. 168).
Feb. 19—The Gentle Intruder (American—Five parts—Drama) (No. 170).
Feb. 26—The Greater Woman (Powell—Five parts—Drama) (No. 151).
Mar. 5—The Girl from Rector's (Five parts—Drama—No. 172).
Mar. 12—My Fighting Gentleman (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 19—The Morals of Men (No. 1, "The Painted Lie—Five parts—Drama).

VOGUE.

Feb. 18—Lured and Cured (Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 25—The Butcher's Nightmare (Two parts—Comedy).
Mar. 4—A Rummy Romance (Two parts—Comedy).
Mar. 10—His Bogus Boast (Two parts—Com.).
Mar. 17—A Matrimonial Shock (Two parts—Comedy).
Mar. 24—A Studio Stampede (Two parts—Comedy).

Metro Pictures Corporation.

POPULAR PLAYS AND PLAYERS.

Jan. 29—Bridges Burned (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 26—The Secret of Eve (Five parts—Dr.).

COLUMBIA PICTURES CORP.

Jan. 8—A Wife by Proxy (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 22—Threads of Fate (Five parts—Dr.).
Feb. 5—The End of the Tour (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 12—The Mortal Sin (Five parts—Drama).

ARTHUR JAMES.

Feb. 12—One of the Many (Five parts—Dr.).

YORKE FILM CORP.

Mar. 26—The Hidden Children (Five parts—Drama).

ROLFE.

Dec. 19—The Awakening of Helena Richie (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 15—The White Raven (Five parts—Dr.).
Mar. 5—The Barricade (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 19—His Father's Son (Five parts—Dr.).

SERIAL PRODUCING CO.

Feb. 12—The Great Secret (Episode No. 6—"The Dragon's Den"—Two parts—Dr.).
Feb. 19—The Great Secret (Episode No. 7—"The Yellow Claw"—Two parts—Drama).

Feb. 26—The Great Secret (Episode No. 8—"A Clue from the Klondike" (Drama).
Mar. 5—The Great Secret (Episode No. 9, "Cupid's Puzzle"—Two parts—Dr.).
Mar. 12—The Great Secret (Episode, No. 10—"The Woman and the Game"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 19—The Great Secret (Episode No. 11, "A Shot in the Dark"—Two parts—Drama).

METRO COMEDIES.

Feb. 12—Winning an Heiress (Rolma—Comedy).
Feb. 19—Her Obsession (Drew—Comedy).
Feb. 26—Reliable Henry (Drew—Comedy).
Mar. 5—Modern Romance (Rolma—Comedy).
Mar. 12—Locked Out (Drew—Comedy).
Mar. 19—The High Cost of Living (Drew Comedy).
Mar. 26—Awakening of Helene Minor (Drew—Comedy).

Paramount Pictures Corp.

BLACK DIAMOND COMEDY.

Jan. 8—Braving Blazes (Comedy).
Jan. 22—He Did It Himself (Comedy).
Feb. 19—Her Scrambled Ambition (Comedy).
Mar. 5—Speed (Comedy).

FAMOUS PLAYERS.

Jan. 18—A Girl Like That (Five parts—Dr.).
Feb. 26—The Fortunes of Fifi (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 12—Sappho (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 19—The Dummy (Five parts—Drama).

KLEVER COMEDY.

Jan. 1—He Meant Well (Comedy).
Jan. 15—Did It Ever Happen to You (Comedy).
Jan. 29—The Honeyless Honeymoon (Comedy).
Feb. 5—The Sleep Waker (Comedy).
Feb. 12—He Got There After All (Comedy).
Feb. 26—Some Doctor (Comedy).
Mar. 12—Flivvering (Comedy).

LASKY.

Feb. 15—The American Consul (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 19—Winning of Sally Temple (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 22—On Record (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 1—Those Without Sin (Five parts—Dr.).
Mar. 5—Castles for Two (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 15—The Prison Without Walls (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 26—The Bottle Imp (Five parts—Drama).

MOROSCO AND PALLAS.

Jan. 11—The Happiness of Three Women (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 29—His Sweetheart (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 1—The Wax Model (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 8—Her Own People (Five parts—Dr.).
Mar. 8—Out of the Wreck (Five parts—Dr.).
Mar. 22—The Spirit of Romance (Five parts—Drama).

PARAMOUNT-BURTON HOLMES.

Feb. 26—Exquisite Lake Louise (Scenic).
Mar. 5—The Yoko Valley (Scenic).
Mar. 12—On the Great Glacier (Scenic).
Mar. 19—Through Canadian Canyons (Scenic).
Mar. 26—Vancouver and Victoria (Scenic).

PARAMOUNT-BRAY PICTOGRAPHS.

Feb. 26—56th Edition (Subjects on reel: Colonel Heeza Liar, Detective—Cartoon Comedy); Swapping Foundations Under Sky-Scrapers; Experiments With Light Rays (Educational).
Mar. 5—57th Edition (Subjects on reel: Bobby Bumps Adopts a Turtle—Cartoon Comedy); Industrial Paradise; Flitting Heads to Hats; Birdland Romance (Educational).

Triangle Film Corporation.

FINE ARTS.

Feb. 4—Jim Bludso (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 11—The Girl of the Timber Claims (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 18—The Bad Boy (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 25—Stage Struck (Five parts—Drama).

Mar. 4—Betsy's Burglar (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 11—A Love Sublime (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 18—A Daughter of the Poor (Five parts—Drama).

KAY-BEE.

Feb. 4—The Crab (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 11—The Gunfighter (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 18—A Princess of the Dark (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 25—The Last of the Ingrahams (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 4—Back of the Man (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 11—The Little Brother (Five parts—Dr.).
Mar. 18—Blood Will Tell (Five parts—Drama).

TRIANGLE KOMEDY.

Feb. 11—His Deadly Undertaking (Comedy).
Feb. 18—The Telephone Belle (Comedy).
Feb. 18—When Hearts Collide (Comedy).
Feb. 25—A Bachelor's Finish (Comedy).
Feb. 25—Done in Oil (Comedy).
Mar. 4—Her Cave Man (Comedy).
Mar. 4—A Film Exposure (Comedy).
Mar. 11—Caught With the Goods (Comedy).
Mar. 11—Hobbled Hearts (Comedy).

MACK-SENNETT KEYSTONES.

Feb. 18—Stars and Bars (Two parts—Comedy).
Feb. 25—Maggie's First False Step (Two parts—Comedy).
Mar. 4—Her Circus Knight (Two parts—Com.).
Mar. 11—Villa of the Movies (Two parts—Com.).
Mar. 18—Dodging His Doom (Two parts—Com.).
Mar. 25—Her Fame and Shame (Two parts—Comedy).

SUPERPICTURES, INC.

Feb. 5—Seven Deadly Sins—"Pride" (Five parts—McClure Pictures—Drama).
Feb. 12—Seven Deadly Sins—"Greed" (McClure Pictures—Five parts—Dr.).
Feb. 19—Seven Deadly Sins—"Sloth" (McClure Pictures—Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 26—Seven Deadly Sins, "Passion" (McClure—Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 5—Seven Deadly Sins—"Wrath" (McClure—Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 12—Seven Deadly Sins—"The Seventh Sin" (McClure—Seven parts—Drama).

Feature Releases

ART DRAMAS, INC.

Feb. 15—The Adventurer (U. S. Amusement Co.—Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 22—The Moral Code (Erbograph—Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 1—Pride and the Devil (Apollo Pictures, Inc.—Drama).
Mar. 8—The Cloud (Van Dyke—Drama).

ARTCRAFT PICTURES CORP.

Mar. 5—A Poor Little Rich Girl (Drama).

BIOGRAPH COMPANY.

Jan.—Her Condoned Sin (Six parts—Drama).

BLUEBIRD PHOTOPLAY, INC.

Feb. 19—The Man Who Took a Chance (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 26—The Saintly Sinner (Five parts—Dr.).
Mar. 5—The Boy Girl (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 5—Hell Morgan's Girl (Five parts—Drama—Special Release).
Mar. 12—Mutiny (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 19—Polly Redhead (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 26—The Gift Girl (Five parts—Drama).

CARDINAL FILM CORP.

December—Joan, the Woman (Eleven parts).

CHRISTIE FILM CO.

Feb. 19—Hubby's Night Out (Comedy).
Feb. 15—Bride and Gloom (Two parts—Special Release—Comedy).
Feb. 26—Kidding Sister (Comedy).
Mar. 1—Out for the Coin (Two parts—Com.).
Mar. 5—As Luck Would Have It (Comedy).
Mar. 12—His Flirting Ways (Comedy).
Mar. 19—Sauce for the Goose (Comedy).

DIXIE FILM CORP.

December—Just a Song at Twilight (Five parts—Drama).
Dec.—Tempest and Sunshine (Five parts—Dr.).
Drama).

The Box Office That Turns Them Away

Look into the big successes of the "Movie" theatre field. You'll find every one of them due to good pictures clearly and vividly screened. Even the best of picture stories are dull and uninteresting if the images are flat and indistinct.

Bausch and Lomb Projection Lenses

Show every detail in the picture to wonderful advantage— even those at the edge of the screen. Brilliant illumination with strong contrasts and sharp, even definition are characteristic.

Bausch & Lomb Lenses are regular equipment in Edison and Nicholas Power machines. Also procurable at all exchanges.

Bausch & Lomb Optical Co.

566 ST. PAUL STREET ROCHESTER, N.Y.

New York Washington Chicago San Francisco

Leading American Makers of Photographic and Ophthalmic Lenses, Microscopes, Projection Lanterns (Balopticons), and Other High-Grade Optical Products.

STATE-RIGHT BUYERS

Send us a list of your features and the territory in which you are booking. This will enable us to refer all inquiries from your vicinity direct to you.

Address "Information Dept.,"

Moving Picture World

17 Madison Ave., N. Y. C.

GOLDENLITE

hasn't a drop of silver in its manufacture. Made with a Mineral. Shines like a mirror without any glare. It's Gold in color. No Flicker, no eye strain. Brings out all the natural colors of the film, saves you Juice and Carbon.

Once up, always up. Unchangeable in color. Not a drop of paint in GOLDENLITE Gold Fibre.

Goldenlite

The Screen De Luxe

Washable
Pliable

Ask the Dealer who has one.
Write us.

CASTLE & ROWLEY

MANUFACTURERS

1113 Chestnut St., St. Louis, Mo.

"MARTIN" ROTARY CONVERTER

FOR REAL
SUN-LIT PICTURES

PERFECT REEL DISSOLVING

The voltage of the "MARTIN" poly-phase converter is maintained constant, so that the starting of the second arc does not disturb the light given by the first, making the dissolving of the reels as simple as if the arcs were operated in a Direct Current district. Our emergency panel does away with expensive compensating arcs and cuts the wiring and installation cost in half.

Write for further information.

NORTHWESTERN ELECTRIC CO.

609 W. Adams St., Chicago

1010 Brokaw Bldg., New York

ADVANCED PROJECTION

When you place your order for a machine, do you realize the importance of GETTING the PROPER LENSES?

Our engineers are in a position to advise you as to the proper lenses for your requirements.

Write us today in regard to your PROJECTION PROBLEMS and we will help you out. No charge is made for this service.

Amusement Supply Company

Largest Exclusive Dealers to the Moving Picture Trade

Dealers in Motograph, Simplex, Powers, Edison and Standard Machines, Transverters, Motor Generators, Rectifiers and Everything pertaining to the Moving Picture Theatres.

3rd Floor, Maller's Building

Cor. Madison St. and Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

WE SELL ON THE INSTALMENT PLAN

Peace Pictures

and

European War Pictures
(Neutral)

New Stereopticon Lectures and Poems presented by
L. M. Marion.

Terms
Moderate

Accompanied by violinist, pianist, operator, lantern, etc. (when desired), for theatres, lyceums and clubs. Music for dances.

LOUISE M. MARION

445 W. 23rd St., New York

Phone, 10396 Chelsea

I do not sell motion pictures.

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON FEATURES AND MISCELLANEOUS PROGRAMS

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Page 1978.)

EDUCATIONAL FILM CORPORATION.

Feb. 19—The Living Book of Nature ("American Bears"—Educational).
Feb. 26—The Living Book of Nature ("Foreign Deer"—Educational).
Mar. 5—The Living Book of Nature ("The Beaver Prepares for Winter"—Educational).
Mar. 12—The Living Book of Nature ("Jungle Vaudeville"—Educational).
Mar. 19—The Living Book of Nature ("Feeding the Fish-Eaters"—Edu.).
Mar. 26—The Living Book of Nature ("Feeding the Bears"—Edu.).
March—Ascent of the Matterhorn (Scenic).
March—Austrian Ski-School (Scenic).
March—Sea Lions (Edu.).

FOX FILM CORPORATION.

Feb. 12—The Scarlet Letter (Five parts—Dr.).
Feb. 19—The Tiger Woman (Five parts—Dr.).
Feb. 19—Melting Millions (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 26—A Child of the Wild (Five parts—Dr.).
February—The Honor System (Special Release—Drama).

Mar. 5—Sister Against Sister (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 12—A Tale of Two Cities (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 12—Love's Law (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 19—The Blue Streak (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 26—North of Fifty-Three (Five parts—Drama).

FOXFILM COMEDY.

Mar. 5—Her Father's Station (Two parts—Comedy).
Mar. 12—Hearts and Saddles (Two parts—Comedy).
Mar. 19—The House of Terrible Scandals (Two parts—Comedy).
Mar. 26—His Merry Mix-Up (Two parts—Comedy).

GREATER VITAGRAPH (V-L-S-E, INC.).

Feb. 26—Intrigue (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 26—Dubs and Drygoods (Com.).
Feb. 26—Captain Jinks' Explosive Temper (Comedy).
Feb. 26—The Secret Kingdom (Episode No. 9, "The Swamp Adder"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 5—The Money Mill (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 5—Masks and Mishaps (Comedy).
Mar. 5—Captain Jinks' Kids (Comedy).
Mar. 5—The Secret Kingdom (Episode No. 10—"A Goat Without Horns"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 12—Arsene Lupin (Six parts—Drama).
Mar. 12—Footlights and Fakers (Comedy).
Mar. 12—Captain Jinks' Alibi (Comedy).
Mar. 12—The Secret Kingdom (Episode No. 11, "The White Witch"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 19—Aladdin from Broadway (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 19—Bombs and Blunders (Comedy).
Mar. 19—Captain Jinks, the Plumber (Comedy).
Mar. 19—The Secret Kingdom (Episode No. 12, "The Shark's Nest"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 26—The More Excellent Way (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 26—Turks and Troubles (Comedy).
Mar. 26—Captain Jinks' Great Expectations (Comedy).
Mar. 26—The Secret Kingdom (Episode No. 13, "The Tragic Masque"—Two parts—Drama).

IVAN FILM PRODUCTIONS.

Dec. 1—Enlighten Thy Daughter (Seven parts—Drama).
February—Two Men and a Woman (Five parts—Drama).

KEEN CARTOON CORP.

Feb. 19—Dr. Zippy Opens a Sanatorium (Cartoon Comedy).
Feb. 26—The Fighting Blood of Jerry McDub (Cartoon Comedy).

KLEINE-EDISON-SELIG-ESSANAY.

Feb. 19—The Royal Pauper (Edison—Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 26—The Heart of Texas Ryan (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 26—Max Comes Across (Two parts—Com.).
Mar. 5—Burning the Candle (Essanay—Five parts—Drama).

Mar. 12—Little Lost Sister (Selig—Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 19—Satan's Private Door (Essanay—Five parts—Drama).

SELZNICK PICTURES.

January—Panthea (Five parts—Drama).
February—The Argyle Case (Seven parts—Dr.).

THE TRIUMPH CORPORATION.

December—The Libertine (Six parts—Drama).

WORLD PICTURES.

Feb. 12—The Red Woman (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 19—A Square Deal (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 26—A Girl's Folly (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 5—The Web of Desire (Five parts—Dr.).
Mar. 12—The Dancer's Peril (Five parts—Dr.).
Mar. 19—The Social Leper (Five parts—Drama).

States Right Features

ARGOSY FILM, INC.

December—The People vs. John Doe (Six parts—Drama).
December—Where D'ye Get That Stuff (Five parts—Comedy).

ARROW FILM CORP.

Jan.—The Demster (Nine parts—Drama).

BELMONT FILM CO.

Feb. 26—A Hotel Mix-Up (Comedy).

BIOGRAPH COMPANY.

December—One Round O'Brien (Comedy).

G. M. BAYNES.

Nov.—Kitchener's Great Army in the Battle of the Somme (Five parts—Dr.).

HENRY J. BROCK.

March—The Mothers of France.

CALIFORNIA MOTION PICTURE CORP.

Nov.—The Woman Who Dared (Seven parts—Drama).
December—The Passion Flower (Drama).

CORONA CINEMA CO.

April—The Curse of Eve (Seven parts—Drama).

CREATIVE FILM CORP.

Jan.—The Girl Who Didn't Think (Six parts—Drama).

CLUNE FILM MFG. CO.

January—The Eyes of the World (Ten parts—Drama).

DEFENSE OR TRIBUTE FILM CO.

February—Defense or Tribute (Five parts—Drama).

EBONY FILM CORP.

Feb. 26—A Natural Born Shooter (Drama).

ENLIGHTENMENT PHOTOPLAYS CORP.

February—Enlighten Thy Daughter (Seven parts—Drama).

EXCLUSIVE FEATURES, INC.

Dec.—Pamela's Past (Five parts—Drama).

EUROPEAN FILM CO.

November—Fighting for Verdun (Five parts—Topical).

FRIEDMAN ENTERPRISES.

February—A Mormon Maid (Five parts—Dr.).

FROHMAN AMUSEMENT CORP.

March—God's Man (Nine parts—Drama).

GERMANY'S OFFICIAL WAR FILMS, INC.

January—Germany and Its Armies of Today (Topical).

GOLD MEDAL PHOTOPLAYERS.

March—The Web of Life (Five parts—Drama).

GRAFTON PUB. FILM CO.

January—Argonauts of California (Ten parts—Historical).

HARPER FILM CORPORATION.

Nov.—Civilization (Drama).

HAWK FILM COMPANY.

March—The Monster of Fate (Drama).

JOHN W. HEANEY.

Jan.—The Valley of Fear (Six parts—Drama).

KESSEL & BAUMAN.

Jan.—Mickey.

KING BAGGOT.

Dec.—Absinthe (Drama).

LEA-BEL CO.

February—Modern Mother Goose (Five parts).

LINCOLN M. P. COMPANY.

Jan.—Trooper of Troop K (Three parts—Dr.).

S. B. JUST, INC.

Jan.—The Porter (Two parts—Comedy—Drama—All Colored Performers).

MAJOR FILM CORP.

Feb.—Will You Marry Me (Drama).

M-C FILM CO.

March—America Is Ready (Five parts—Top.).

B. S. MOSS MOTION PICTURE CORP.

January—The Girl Who Doesn't Know (Five parts—Drama).
January—In the Hands of the Law (Drama).

MOORE'S FEATURE FILM CO.

Jan. 10—Uncle Sam (This Production in One and in Two Reels).

PARAGON FILMS, INC.

February—The Whipl (Eight parts—Drama).

PHAX PICTURES CO.

December—Race Suicide (Six parts—Drama).

PICTURE PRODUCING CO.

Feb.—Safari (Educational).

PIONEER FEATURE FILM CORP.

October—The Soul of a Child (Five parts—Dr.).

REX BEACH PICTURES CO.

March—The Barrier (Nine parts—Drama).

ROTHACKER FILM MFG. CO.

February—Ranch Life in the Big Horn Mountains (Two parts—Descriptive).

SHERMAN ELLIOTT, INC.

October—The Crisis (Selig—Seven parts—Dr.).

SIGNET FILM CORPORATION.

Nov.—The Masque of Life (Seven parts—Dr.).

A. STONE.

February—If We Should Go to War (Two parts).

THE FILM EXCHANGE.

January—The Golden Rosary (Five Parts—Dr.).

THOMPSON FILM CO., INC.

December—War as It Really Is (Seven Parts—Topical).

ULTRA PICTURES CORP.

March—The Woman Who Dared (Seven parts—Drama).

UNITY SALES CORP.

January—Glory (Six parts—Drama).

UNIVERSAL (STATE RIGHTS).

December—The People vs. John Doe (Six parts—Drama).
January—20,000 Leagues Under the Sea (Eight Parts).

WARNER BROS.

December—Robinson Crusoe (Five parts—Dr.).

WARRENTON PHOTOPLAYS.

Mar. 15—The Birds' Christmas Carol.

IT'S HERE! FIVE YEARS AHEAD OF ITS TIME

The Only Screen on earth that will Eliminate all Haze, Glare Eye-Strain, Fade-Away and Out-of-Focus Effect, regardless of where picture is viewed from.

Every Seat in Your Theatre Is of Value. Do You Get It?

As the Oldest, the Largest, Manufacturers of Metalized Cloth in the World, we stand back of our claims and are more than ready to substantiate any statement we make.

Why not be guided by the judgment of that great army of 9,836 exhibitors who know and who are using our previous product?

WELL, let us send you our large Free Samples—12"x14"—of our New 1918 Lineal Metalized Surfaced Screen in Pale Gold, Silver Flesh and Silver White.

Let us prove to you with your own eyes and the brains God gave you that we can and will give you Real Projection Contentment by installing the Screen of No Regrets—

MIRROROID

The 1918 Mirroroid Lineal Finish will be sold at 36 cents a square foot—$3.24 a square yard. Let us advise you as to our nearest-to-you dealer. Shipments one hour after order is received.

THE J. H. GENTER COMPANY, INC., NEWBURGH, N. Y.
VISITORS AND EXHIBITORS ALWAYS WELCOME AT OUR FACTORY

IL TIRSO AL CINEMATOGRAFO

The most important Film Journal in Italy.

Published every Monday at Rome. Excellent staff, special bureau of information. Correspondents in all parts of the world. Yearly subscription for foreign countries: $3.00.

Business Offices: Via del Tritone 183, Rome, Italy.

Perfect Developing and Printing

Negatives Developed . 1c ft.

TITLES in Any Language
5c complete per foot

Positive Printing 4c ft.

Cards Free Tinting Free

Satisfaction guaranteed by our fifteen years' experience. Special price on quantity order.

GUNBY BROS., Inc., 145 West 45th Street, New York City

Projection Engineer

Is your screen result unsatisfactory?

Is your projection current costing too much?

Are you planning a new theatre?

Are you contemplating the purchase of new Equipment?

Theatre plans examined and suggestions made as to operating room location. Operating rooms planned, etc., etc. Will personally visit theatres in New York City or within 300 miles thereof. Fees moderate.

(YOU ALL KNOW HIM) F. H. RICHARDSON (YOU ALL KNOW HIM)

Room 1434, 22 E. 17th St., New York City

MINUSA

"SCREEN LIGHT THAT NEVER FAILS"

The "ORIGINAL GOLD FIBRE SCREEN"—Perfected.

MINUSA CINÉ PRODUCTS COMPANY

SAINT LOUIS CHICAGO PITTSBURGH NEW YORK
CINCINNATI CLEVELAND ALBANY

SCREENS BUILT BY BRAINS

For the fullest and latest news of the moving picture industry in Great Britain and Europe.

For authoritative articles by leading British technical men.

For brilliant and strictly impartial criticisms of all films, read

THE BIOSCOPE

The Leading British Trade Journal with an International Circulation
American Correspondence by W. Stephen Bush

of
"Moving Picture World"

85 Shaftesbury Avenue, London, W.

Specimen on Application

$4.80 A Big Saving Each Year $4.80

On account of the greatly increased cost of paper, engraving, etc., we have been compelled to make the single copy price fifteen cents. For the present direct subscription prices will remain the same. This means a saving of four dollars and eighty cents yearly on direct subscriptions. In addition you get your paper earlier.

It will pay you to fill out this blank and mail at once with your remittance.

ONE YEAR.....$3.00

SIX MONTHS.....$1.50

See title page for rates Canada and Foreign

MOVING PICTURE WORLD

17 Madison Avenue, New York

Cut out and mail

Please Fill in the Name of Your Theatre.....

MOTION PICTURE ELECTRICITY

By J. H. HALLBERG

THIS WORK COVERS

ELECTRICITY
ELECTRIC SERVICE
ELECTRICAL EQUIPMENT
PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS
REFERENCE TABLES, ETC.

An up-to-date treatment of Moving Picture Theater Electric Installation and Projection, by a practical, experienced, electrical expert.

Illustrated and Substantially Bound. 230 Pages
$2.50 per Copy. Postage Paid.

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
17 Madison Avenue New York

TEN DAYS
FREE TRIAL

GOLD KING SCREENS

ARE BEST

GOLD KING SCREEN CO., ALTUS, OKLA.

Electric Current
for THEATERS
PORTABLE UNITS
for
Traveling Circuit Shows
Write for Bulletin M10
Storage Batteries not required

Progressive Agents Wanted

LANGSTADT-MEYER CO., Appleton, Wis., U. S. A.

"NEWMAN" BRASS FRAMES AND RAILS

Corner Unit Hinged Frames

Mr. Exhibitor:

Don't you realize that not alone does "NEWMAN" stand for QUALITY, but also ORIGINALITY?

We are Originators of every conceivable style of frame, in which to properly display POSTERS AND PICTURES.

YOU will eventually use brass frames. WHY not now?

Get our Latest Catalogue. It is yours for the asking.

The Newman Mfg. Co.

717-19 Sycamore St., Cincinnati, O.
68 W. Washington St., Chicago, Ill.

Established 1882

Canadian Representative—J. T. Malone, Rialto Theatre Bldg., Montreal, Canada.

Pacific Coast—G. A. Metcalfe, San Francisco, Cal.
Frames, Easels, Rails, Grilles, Signs, Choppers, Kick Plates, Door Bars

A Dependable Mailing List Service

Saves you from 30% to 50% in postage, etc. Reaches all or selected list of theatres in any territory. Includes name of exhibitor as well as the theatre in address. A list of publicity mediums desiring motion picture news. Unaffiliated exchanges looking for features. Supply houses that are properly characterized as such. Producers with address of studios, laboratories and offices. Information in advance of theatres being or to be built.

MOTION PICTURE DIRECTORY COMPANY

80 Fifth Avenue, New York
425 Ashland Block, Chicago

Phone—3227 Chelsea
Phone—2003 Randolph

Addressing Multigraphing Printing Typewriting

PORTER EQUIPS BIG THEATRE FOR CRISIS

PORTER installs Two TYPE S SIMPLEX PROJECTORS and Special Accessories at the PARK THEATRE, Broadway, for the Premiere Presentation of Selig's Big Photo-Spectacle, "The Crisis." Porter leads all for Big Installations—"The Birth of a Nation," "Intolerance," "The Fall of a Nation," "Civilization," and "The Crisis."

B. F. PORTER, - - 1482 BROADWAY, AT TIMES SQUARE, - - NEW YORK

CENSORSHIP

of moving pictures places a brand on the industry that is unjust, discriminating and against the spirit of our free institutions

Anti-Censorship Slides

Exhibitors:—This is the most convincing method of crystallizing public sentiment against the idea of "legalized" Censorship of moving pictures either Federal, State or Local. Sets of nine slides, all different, see page 1944 of issue of March 24th for complete text of each slide. We will mail sets for $1.00 per set of nine, postage paid.

MOVING PICTURE WORLD,
17 Madison Avenue, New York

STATE-RIGHT SELLERS

Send us the name and address of each buyer of your feature pictures so that we may refer all inquiries for bookings direct to the proper exchange.

To co-operate address
"Information Dept."
Moving Picture World
17 Madison Ave., N. Y. C.

The audience is always right.

They want not only a good picture play but a clear picture. Because of its basic qualities, the clearest pictures are on

Eastman Film

Identifiable by the stencil mark in the margin.

EASTMAN KODAK COMPANY,
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

BARGAINS IN MACHINES

Twenty-two machines slightly used, first class condition, Simplex, Power's 6 A's, Power's 6's, Edison B's, and Edison D's. Low prices, quick sales.

CHAS. A. CALEHUFF, 1233 Vine Street, Philadelphia

Duhem Motion Picture Mfg. Co.

RAW STOCK SUPPLIED
EXPERT LABORATORY
—FINISHING—
DEVELOPING—PRINTING

700 HAYES STREET
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

We assume full responsibility the moment your films are delivered to us for DEVELOPING and PRINTING and the results are always satisfactory.

Our experience and responsibility will prove dependable allies to your production department—always.

EVANS FILM MFG. CO., 416-24 West 216th St., N. Y. City.

Telephone
Audubon 6881-2

Exhibitors—Theatre Managers

These slides and arguments will work wonders with your patrons in convincing them of the useless and needless expense, and the un-American principles underlying Censorship. Use them regularly and persistently. Show one or two to every audience. Set of nine, all different, $1.00. Postage paid.

Moving Picture World, 17 Madison Ave.,
New York City

KEEP THE PICTURES CLEAN AND KEEP THEM OUT OF POLITICS

WE DO NOT BELIEVE
THE AMERICAN PEOPLE WANT CENSORSHIP

WE WILL NOT SHOW
OBJECTIONABLE FILMS
IN THIS THEATRE

THE REASONS

Why the MOVING PICTURE WORLD, as an advertising medium, stands out so distinctly in a class by itself, can be given easily and quickly.

It has only one price for advertising.

Every user of space pays the same price for advertising as his competitor, in proportion to the amount of space used.

On the basis of guaranteed trade circulation and reader confidence our advertising rates are by far the lowest in the trade.

We positively do not finance your competition by extending unlimited credit.

Only legitimate advertising from substantial organizations accepted.

To the best of our knowledge, every picture advertised in the Moving Picture World has a clean, legitimate box office value.

We do not accept advertising promoting stock sales.

We do not accept advertising on films the showing of which in our estimation would be detrimental to the industry. We have refused thousand of dollars' worth of this that has greatly added to the showing of other trade papers.

For circulation, for reader confidence, for results, use the paper with the highest standing in the trade from every point of view.

The Price He Paid!

A collage of Western Union Telegram forms and advertisements. The forms include "CLASS OF SERVICE DESIRED" with options for Fast Day Message, Day Letter, Night Message, and Night Letter. There are also "POSTAL TELEGRAPH - COMMERCIAL CABLES" and "WESTERN UNION TELEGRAM" logos. Handwritten notes and stamps are scattered throughout, such as "Whatell Print rotten Colors spotted and streaked Biggest scene missing Come at once and bring new print" and "Picture all bawled up and dirty Assembled so bad story lost entirely Send print like sample quick". A large "TELEGRAM" stamp is visible in the center.

It amounted to a substantial sum in real coin, and what it will cost to regain the confidence and good will which was disturbed and, perhaps, destroyed forever, cannot be estimated in mere money.

The trouble and loss was caused by taking a chance on the developing and printing of a good subject for the sake of a fraction of a cent per foot.

These seemingly slightly lower first-costs usually turn out to be the rankest sort of extravagance.

Why take a chance when you know that you can secure Perfect Developing and Printing, properly priced, and delivered right, by doing business with

Rothacker

FILM MFG. CO. CHICAGO, U.S.A.

There are reasons—
Come and see them.

PERFECT DEVELOPING & PRINTING

*There are reasons—
Come and see them.*

"SEVENTEEN YEARS OF KNOWING HOW"

ANOTHER POWER'S ACHIEVEMENT

A DEVICE GUARANTEED TO "TAKE-UP" 3,000 FEET OF FILM, MAINTAINING AN EASY AND EVEN TENSION
THROUGHOUT.

SIMPLE, EFFECTIVE, CONSISTING OF FEW PARTS AND OPERATING ON BALL BEARINGS, IT REQUIRES ABSO-LUTELY NO ATTENTION.

EXAMINE IT IN OPERATION ON POWER'S CAMERAGRAPH NO. 6B.

CATALOG G
Mailed Upon Request

NICHOLAS POWER COMPANY
NINETY GOLD STREET NEW YORK

H. C. HOFFMAN

MOVING PICTURE WORLD

THE FILM
INDEX

EXHIBITORS'
GUIDE

HELEN HOLMES in a scene from "THE RAILROAD RAIDERS"
Signal-Mutual Serial

Post Office Box 226
Madison Square Station

NEW YORK

17 Madison Avenue
Telephone Madison Square 3510

Abe,
His Father,
Mother
and Sister

From—Benjamin
Chapin's
LINCOLN CYCLE

Benjamin Chapin Studios

Ridgefield Park, N. J.
Tel.: Hackensack 583

"George Washington gave us thirteen stars and we have added many more. Not one of those stars shall be lost!"

MAX LINDER IS A REAL MINT

He coins money for you through his tremendous drawing power.

"MAX WANTS A DIVORCE"

his second American made comedy, is now ready for your booking, for YOU, the exhibitor who has the foresight to see a GOOD THING.

W. C. Lamoreaux, manager of Ascher
Brothers Lakeside Theatre, Chicago, says:
" 'Max Comes Across' went with a whoop in this theatre. The audience screamed with laughter. He drew big crowds and pleased all. I have booked his second comedy."

Martin Saxe, Knickerbocker Theatre, Chicago:
"Linder is a great drawing card. My patrons were highly pleased with 'Max Comes Across.'"

George D. Hopkinson, Hamlin Theatre,
Chicago: " 'Max Comes Across' went over fine. It was very good."

J. C. Bittman, Strand Theatre, Freeport, Ill.:
"Max pleased everyone."

TRADEMARK
Reg. U. S. Pat. 1907

ESSANAY

GEORGE K. SPOOR, PRESIDENT

1333 Argyle St., Chicago

TRADEMARK
Reg. U. S. Pat. 1907

Read these Pages
Every Week for
Your Own Benefit and Profit

Universal

UNIVERSAL FILM MFG. CO., Carl Laemmle, Pres.

"The Largest Film

A Double Opportunity

The Progressive Universal Releases a Great Serial and a Great Two Reel Series at the Same Time

THOUSANDS of Exhibitors throughout the United States have come to look forward to the announcements of the Universal as their sure guide to successful bookings. The Universal has never failed them. When other programs seemed thin and stale they knew they could turn to the Universal with the comforting assurance that there could be found the very latest thing in screen progress; that on the Universal Program or among the Universal specials or serials they could find the strong subject in any required length that would strengthen their show and which could be booked at a living price—at a rental that would enable them to show a NET profit on the booking.

A Great One Reel Feature

Universal Screen Magazine Conceded to Have Set New Place in One Reel Subjects

THE Universal Screen Magazine is the remarkable one-reeler that made good over night. Immediately upon its first release (announced as appearing every two weeks), there came a deluge of letters from fans, Exhibitors and Exchange men, to release it every week. Such immediate appreciation and popularity was unlooked for, but such are the resources of the Universal that in three weeks the announcement was made that the Universal Screen Magazine would be released every week.

Now it is in such demand that it overshadows all the feeble attempts that have followed in its wake. It is like a great popular magazine of wide circulation in that it contains something to interest every man, woman and child who sees it. The subjects treated cover every field of human activity.

It shows your audiences things they might never see in any other way. It teaches, amuses and informs. It broadens the mind and provides fascinating entertainment at the same time. It is different from any other one-reel subject in the world. It cannot be duplicated. There is nothing like it in the world. It is today, after less than three months' existence, the most popular one-reel subject obtainable. It is bolstering up weak program shows and weak features all over the land. It is something every Exhibitor needs for the profits it will bring. You can get it on the complete Universal Program Service, or you can book it separately from any Universal Exchange. Get full particulars today.

$200,000 Safety Deposit Vault.

Ben Wilson.

Again the Universal comes to the front with an opportunity rarely equaled. Exhibitors now have the choice of booking the great mystery serial, "The Voice on the Wire," a serial that is already drawing capacity houses—or "The Perils of the Secret Service," a series of seven two-reel dramas, based on that remarkable group of stories published under the title of "Yorke Norroy—Diplomatic Agent," written by George Bronson Howard, read by millions, and produced under the direction of their talented author.

"The Voice on the Wire" depicts the story of a series of baffling events, each preceded by a mysterious warning from a weird "voice on the wire."

The story is adapted from the famous novel of the same name by Eustace Hale Ball, who wrote the ever-popular "Traffic in Souls" and many other successes. Ben Wilson, popular Universal star, plays the lead, supported by beautiful Neva Gerber and a large cast.

Kingsley Benedict.

"The Perils of the Secret Service," featuring Kingsley Benedict and seven women stars, will prove popular with these Exhibitors who do not care to run serials, yet who would like to get the benefit of repeated attendance and that cumulative interest which a continuance of a story always brings. This great series is in seven parts, each complete in itself, and has already proven itself a huge winner from the box-office standpoint.

Women in War Time.

For further details of the Universal Program see the Moving Picture Weekly.

Bulletin

The FILM NEWS
Printed here will Lead any Exhibitor
to Sure Success

Manufacturing Concern in the Universe."

1600 Broadway, NEW YORK

Beyond Competition

Specials on the Universal Program Give Exhibitors Opportunity to Book a Feature Show at Very Little Extra Cost

UNIVERSAL SPECIALTIES The magic money getters for Exhibitors all over the world—and what are Universal Specialties, please? They are the very cream of the entire Universal Program. They consist of 1, 2 and 3-reel features that can be advertised independently—that can be boosted the same as any 5 reeler—that are the equal of most 5 reelers and better than the majority of them. YOU'VE GOT TO PAY MORE TO GET 'EM BECAUSE IT COSTS AS MUCH TO MAKE THEM AS THE AVERAGE 5 REELER. BUT—if you book the entire Universal Program you get 'em without extra cost.

SPECIAL RELEASES ON THE UNIVERSAL PROGRAM FOR THE WEEK OF APRIL 9th, 1917

RED FEATHER—"MR. DOLAN OF NEW YORK" (Five Reels)—Jack Mulhall.
NESTOR—"UNDER THE BED" (One-Reel Comedy)—Eddie Lyons, Lee Moran and Edith Roberts.
L-KO—"TOM'S TRAMPING TROUPE" (Two-Reel Comedy)—Phil Dunham.
BIG U—"THE DESERT GHOST" (One-Reel Drama)—Neal Hart.
IMP—"THE PERILS OF THE SECRET SERVICE"—No. 6, "THE SIGNET RING" (Two Reels)—Kingsley Benedict.
UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE—Issue No. 14.
JOKER—"THE CARELESS COP" (One-Reel Comedy)—Gale Henry and Wm. Franey.
POWERS—"BOOMER BILL GOES TO SEA" (Comedy Cartoon) and "ON THE STREETS OF INDIA" (Dorsey Educational)—Split Reel.
GOLD SEAL—"HAIR TRIGGER BURK" (Three-Reel Western Drama)—Harry Carey and Claire Du Bray.

REGULAR RELEASES on the UNIVERSAL PROGRAM

Shown below may also be booked separately if desired. Their quality is fully as high as the specials listed above, but they are in the main straight dramatic subjects and have not that element of novelty which characterizes the specials. The two lists are made up not for comparison, but to aid the Exhibitor in booking. Write or wire your nearest Universal Exchange today for full particulars.

REGULAR RELEASES ON THE UNIVERSAL PROGRAM FOR THE WEEK OF APRIL 9th, 1917

VICTOR—"HIS FAMILY TREE" (One-Reel Comedy)—Eileen Sedgwick.
UNIVERSAL ANIMATED WEEKLY—No. 67.
BIG U—"THE BUGLER" (One-Reel Drama).
REX—"UNCLE JOHN'S MONEY" (Two-Reel Human Interest Drama)—Malcolm Blevins and Marjorie Ellison.
LAEMMLE—"THE SILENT PRISONER" (One-Reel Sea Drama)—Ethel Grandin.
VICTOR—"STOP YOUR SKIDDING" (One-Reel Comedy).
BISON—"THE KIDNAPPED BRIDE" (Two-Reel Drama)—Marie Walcamp.
REX—"HER PRIMITIVE MAN" (One-Reel Drama)—Jack Mulhall.
IMP—"THE EYES IN THE DARK" (Two-Reel Drama)—Leah Baird.

The two lists of releases given above constitute the complete Universal Program Service of twenty-nine reels a week. They may be booked as a complete weekly service, or any release may be booked separately. It is a significant fact that the Universal Program exceeds in number of reels as it does in quality, the releases of all competitive programs combined. Think it over.

Preparedness

Universal Animated Weekly
Proves Its Belief
Every Week

THE greatest newspaper in the world is not so closely in touch with the popular demand as is the Universal Animated Weekly. World news flashed first on the screen has brought the U. A. W. a following such as is not accorded to any other disseminator of news, pictorial or published, in the world. Right now, when preparedness is the talk of the whole country, the Animated is again to the front with pictures from every section of the United States showing what is being done along these lines. Show the Universal Animated Weekly. Book through your nearest Universal Exchange.

"When Johnny Comes Marching Home."

Funniest Female Found

Gale Henry in Joker Comedies
Wins Title in Universal Laugh Getters

GALE HENRY admits it. She's the funniest woman in the world and a million fans second the motion.

The Joker Comedies, the L-KO Comedies and the Nestor Comedies constitute the backbone of film fun in the United States. And, judging by the increased weekly bookings, there is nothing like them to be had anywhere. Don't forget that they are released on the regular Universal Program, and that at a slight additional cost they may be booked separately. That is simply because they are the most expensively produced comedies in the world. They do not base their popularity on any one thing. They are genuinely good, with stars galore in every company. Get full particulars from your nearest Universal Exchange.

Gale Henry,
Joker Comedies.

If you are not on the mailing list of the Moving Picture Weekly—GET ON!

Sold!

All the State Rights Territory on the Universal's greatest of all feature spectacle, "20,000 LEAGUES UNDER THE SEA," has been sold with the exception of the few States shown in white on the map. They are Wash., Ore., Idaho, Neb., Kan., Okla., Iowa, Mo., Ind. and Kentucky. These remaining States constitute choice territory. Every succeeding day puts this production on a more valuable basis. The war situation has made millions anxious to view the feats of the famous undersea boats. All this is wonderfully shown in which for nine straight weeks played capacity on Broadway, N. Y.—that played to over $1300 in one single day in Portland, Ore.—that played to immense profits in Detroit—that is now playing to packed houses wherever it is being shown. There is no feature spectacle on earth like "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea." It stands supreme and alone in the world of tremendous Photo spectacle winners.

20,000 LEAGUES UNDER THE SEA

State Rights for the entire State of New York bo't by Selznick. Other territories bo't by the shrewdest men in the film business. THEY know what a money maker they've secured in "20,000 LEAGUES UNDER THE SEA." Send for the complete elaborate advertising campaign book that tells all, and write or wire for terms, prices and anything else you wish immediately to the STATE RIGHTS DEPARTMENT of the UNIVERSAL FILM MANUFACTURING CO., 1600 Broadway, New York City. Whether by mail or wire, your communication will be given attention.

RED FEATHER
PHOTO PLAYS Present

"The BRONZE BRIDE"

WITH

CLAIRE McDOWELL, EDDIE POLO

AND CHARLES MAILLES

DIRECTED BY HENRY McRAE

BOOK THROUGH ANY UNIVERSAL
EXCHANGE.

BLUEBIRDS HAVE ARRIVED

BLUEBIRD Photoplays (Inc.)

Current Release

"THE PULSE OF LIFE"

with

Wedgewood Nowell and Gypsy Hart

One of the Greatest Human Interest Dramas Ever Filmed.

Directed by Rex Ingram

"HELL MORGAN'S GIRL"

Purchased Outright By
BLUEBIRD Photoplays (Inc.)

This was a big State Rights Production on which some choice territory had been sold, but not released, when the Executives of BLUEBIRD saw it and succeeded in purchasing it outright. They were so impressed with the unusual quality of the production as to be desirous of releasing it under the BLUEBIRD Brand. Their judgment is your assurance. You now have the opportunity of showing this great photodrama as a BLUEBIRD. SEE it and you'll know why it is a BLUEBIRD. At your nearest BLUEBIRD Exchange, or BLUEBIRD Photoplays (Inc.), 1600 Broadway, New York.

"THE EAGLE'S WINGS"

A BLUEBIRD Extraordinary—
Not on the Regular Program.

This patriotic and thrilling BLUEBIRD Extraordinary received the warmest praise and unqualified endorsement from the high government officials in Washington to whom it was shown on request. Through their National President, 1500 Chapters of the Daughters of the American Revolution have pledged it their loyal and hearty support wherever shown. This is a unique opportunity for BLUEBIRD Exhibitors and others. Communicate with your nearest BLUEBIRD Exchange and learn how you can take advantage of this awaiting patronage, or write BLUEBIRD Photoplays (Inc.), 1600 Broadway, New York.

CHRISTIE COMEDIES

Sometime!

— SOONER OR LATER —
YOU WILL DISCOVER THAT CHRISTIE COMEDIES
CAN MAKE BIG MONEY
FOR YOU — SO
WHY DELAY?

WHY postpone your investigation of a brand of comedies that are daily proving big business builders and profit yielders to the hundreds of exhibitors who are booking them regularly?

NOW'S THE TIME!

Give your theatre a chance to show GREATER profits—begin exhibiting CHRISTIE COM-
EDIES at once.

Start now by booking the latest release—
“Clothes and the Man.”

CHRISTIE COMEDIES

Open market release for week of
MARCH 26th.

“CLOTHES AND THE MAN”

CHRISTIE COMEDIES “CLOTHES AND THE MAN”

Featuring
BILLIE RHODES, NEAL BURNS and ETHEL LYNNE

Coming Releases
“Suspended Sentence”
“Twice in the Same Place”

CHRISTIE FILM CO. RETURNS

AL E. CHRISTIE • DIRECTOR GENERAL
SUNSET BLVD. AT GOWER ST.
LOS ANGELES • CALIFORNIA

EXHIB-ITOR

THE DEEMSTER

J. Frank Brockliss
of London Engl. announces that he exclusively controls the world's rights (United States excepted)
of the film interpretation of
HALL CAINE'S
stupendous drama

HALL CAINE
The Author of
THE DEEMSTER,
The Christian
The Eternal City,
The Woman thou
gavest me etc.-

DERWENT HALL CAINE
in the great romantic role of
DAN MYLREA

PRODUCED IN UNITED STATES BY ARROW FILM CORP'N

9 reels of thrilling production which will compel the enthusiasm and admiration of
The World's
Theatre-going Public

WILL FOREIGN BUYERS
KINDLY

Communicate immediately with
J. Frank Brockliss

New York Office -
729 Seventh Ave., New York
Room 705 • Phone, Bryant 8296

POPULAR
PLAYS & PLAYERS^{INC} present

Mme.
PETROVA
in Marion Short's
The WAITING SOUL

*A METRO wonderplay of the woman redeemed.
Supervision by Aaron Hoffman and Direction by Burton L. King.*

By arrangement with Snappy Stories

RELEASED
ON THE METRO PROGRAM
APRIL 2.

Regardless of the program you are using-

You can book
Wm. Christy Cabanne's master serial of supreme thrills

The Great Secret

WITH Story by Fred de Gresac
FRANCIS X. BUSHMAN
and BEVERLY BAYNE

Produced by SERIAL
Producing Co.

Presented by QUALITY
Pictures Corp'n

AT ANY
METRO EXCHANGE

METRO-DREW COMEDIES

The one reel feature attractions that make regular patrons out of casual visitors is the story of a typist with "one thought per week"--regularly who is increased to two per by aid of a speed powder manufactured in self defense by a long suffering inventor. She takes the powder and the race starts—

Paramount

Announces

"SPEED"

A Single Reel

Black Diamond Comedy

Released March 5th

United States Motion Picture Corp.

J. O. WALSH, President
F. W. HERMANN, Vice-President
D. L. HART, Treasurer

Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Week after Week

Paramount Pictures have—as in the case of the two released this week—variety of subject, strength of story, and virility of plot, to say nothing of the attracting value of the star. It is the rule rather than the exception.

Paramount Pictures

shown in your theatre, week after week, induce more people to form the habit of coming to your theatre.

This isn't bunk—ask the Paramount exhibitor.

Remember, only one exhibitor can show Paramount Pictures in each territory.

For instance, compare the two Paramount Pictures advertised on the opposite page, with any other two advertised in this book, this week or any week.

Paramount Pictures Corporation
FOUR EIGHTY FIVE FIFTH AVENUE 27 FORTY FIRST ST.
NEW YORK, N.Y.

Controlled by Famous Players-Lasky Corporation
Adolph Zukor, Pres.; Jesse L. Lasky, Vice-Pres.;
Cecil B. DeMille, Dir. Gen.

Member of National Association Motion Picture Industry

Paramount Pictures

started out to be the best pictures—that's why they were called Paramount.

This week, Jesse L. Lasky presents Sessue Hayakawa in "The Bottle Imp" by Robert Louis Stevenson.

Picturesque Hawaii for a background, an erupting volcano, and a wild struggle in the clear Hawaiian waters, introduced in Stevenson's charming, mystical tale, puts punch into a great story. This Lasky triumph will rival "The Cheat" for longer runs, rebookings, and other box office features.

Pallas Pictures presents House Peters and Myrtle Stedman in "As Men Love", by Lois Zellner. The author of many Paramount successes has contributed a rare human interest story of the torn friendship of two men and a fickle woman. Pallas Pictures has produced a delight for the large following of these stars.

You get better pictures week-in and week-out, from Paramount, and you get a "yes, sir" and "thank you" with them.

Paramount Pictures Corporation
FOUR EIGHTY FIVE FIFTH AVENUE at FORTY FIRST ST.
NEW YORK, N.Y.

Controlled by Famous Players-Lasky Corporation
Adolph Zukor, Pres.; Jesse L. Lasky, Vice-Pres.;
Cecil B. DeMille, Dir. Gen.

Member of National Association Motion Picture Industry

Exclusive Distribution Rights in

GERALDINE FARRAR

These great territories are empires in thriving cities and busy manufacturing centers.

Pennsylvania and West Virginia
—Total Population 9,990,349;
Total Theatres 1,832.

Missouri, Iowa, Nebraska and Kansas — Total Population
8,763,371; Total Theatres 2,971.

Minnesota, Wisconsin, North Dakota,
South Dakota — Total Population
6,269,782; Total Theatres 1,842.

Great Territories Yet Unsold For in "JOAN THE WOMAN" themselves. They are studded with great

In these territories millions of persons are eager to see the greatest photoplay production of our time

Geraldine Farrar

in

Cecil B. de Mille's

"Joan the Woman"

Presented by JESSE L. LASKY

This magnificent picture is now in the fourteenth capacity week of its long run at the 44th St. Theatre,
New York City.

Address Inquiries to

CARDINAL FILM CORPORATION

485 FIFTH AVENUE

NEW YORK CITY.

ANNOUNCING
DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS'
First Artcraft Production
IN AGAIN-OUT AGAIN'

By Anita Loos

Directed by John Emerson

ARTCRAFT PICTURES CORPORATION
729 Seventh Ave. New York City

"A POOR LITTLE RICH GIRL"

Acclaimed MARY'S BEST By Trade Paper Criticisms

"Exhibitor's Trade Review" said:

Had not Mary Pickford already attained world-wide reputation in filmdom her part of "Gwen" in a "Poor Little Rich Girl" would in one public showing establish her firmly as a stellar attraction of the silent drama.

"Motion Picture News" said:

"A Poor Little Rich Girl" is a striking argument for longer runs, for higher prices—for more better pictures. In advertising it the exhibitor has his Mary Pickford to display in the usual capitals, and in addition he has the title of the play, its author, and its Broadway run to boost to the skies. It ranks a hundred per cent in artistic value and another hundred in commercial value, which at least makes it a release of twofold worth.

New York "Telegraph" said:

The production is a genuine credit to Mary Pickford, Maurice Tourneur and its authors, and the work of a well-chosen cast also deserves comment. The lavish settings, fine photography, lighting and tinting effects, combined with a story that is novel, full of humor and pathos and subtly instructive, make it one of Mary Pickford's best—perhaps the most satisfactory picture, every detail considered, in which she has ever appeared.

"Moving Picture World" said:

A great deal of credit is due the star for her splendid portrayal of the eleven-year-old "Gwen." Entirely free from the ordinary stock tricks of the ordinary child impersonator, she looks the part amazingly well, especially in the close-ups and acts with a skillful blending of her own personality and that of a bright and winsome "kiddie" that makes the illusion perfect. Her Gwendolyn will rank as one of her best screen creations.

Released by

ARTCRAFT PICTURES CORPORATION
729 Seventh Ave. New York City

If you're tired of the Humdrum in Photoplay Stories

If you're yearning for something New in Motion Picture ideas

You will be interested in

The MONSTER OF FATE

STATE RIGHTS SELLING

WIRE OR WRITE TO DAY
FOR YOUR TERRITORY
We have every Advertising and Publicity Aid you need

A real mystery story.
A novel idea splendidly handled. A big problem worked out. Interesting to the last flash on the screen. "THE MONSTER OF FATE" is relish for the palate of a jaded motion picture public.

Hawk Film Company
1600 Broadway New York City

Thos. H. Ince
present
Dorothy Dalton
in
"The Dark Road"
A new Triangle-Kay-Bee play Released April First

"The DARK ROAD"

is a sky-rocket drama-----a startling story of today--of men and women who stumble and fall in the old way--to which the wisdom of centuries offers no solution--- a vibrant echo of the song of passion--the song that for ages has wrought havoc with the ambitions of man...

MACK SENNETT PRESENTS

MISS
MABEL
NORMAND
AND HER OWN COMPANY
" IN " MICKEY

THE LITTLE GIRL
YOU WILL NEVER FORGET

METHOD AND DATE OF RELEASE LATER
MABEL NORMAND FEATURE FILM

LONGACRE BLDG., NEW YORK CITY.

CINEMA
SERVICE

CONDEMNATION

Page 34

Our Enemy— The Motion Picture

The motion picture, champion corrupter of the child, is in the midst of everything in New York. Just how and why it has flourished like the green bay tree, no one seems to know. We are all quite powerless, we are without power, in the presence of this gigantic force which boasts of being the fifth greatest industry in these United States. Like the saloon it counteracts all the home influences, and flourishes. But there will come an end; just as there came an end to the bicycle craze, the roller skating craze, the dancing "craze, this also must either adjust itself to correct standards, or go. As it is too important to pass out it will in time adjust itself. Legislation has thus far not corrected the evils, New York law forbids the theater to admit children alone, and that is well, but does not meet the evil. The best picture companies are producing fine pictures, and that is progress. But the theater manager may off set the normal tone of one reel in his program by an objectionable reel that follows it. So what are we to do? Thoughtful mothers are now keeping their children at home from the motion picture theater. Accompanying the child is no protection. Censorship, national, legalized or complimentary, does not meet the issue. So our four-year-old babies witness killings, saloon rows, hangings, all sorts of exaggerated melodrama, and dramatize their play according to that particular school of acting. As soon as we get the vote, when we shall do more responsible thinking, and have season tickets to the Legislature, we shall hold the motion picture theater owner responsible for the reels to which he admits our children. The mothers shall become transformed to lynx-eyed Anthony Comstocks, and like trained, vigilant Pinkertons we shall descend upon these corrupters of the minds of our children, and force them to keep within the law, or perish.

THESE TWO EDITORIALS APPEARED IN MARCH ISSUE OF

OFFICIAL ORGAN OF THE GENERAL
OFFICIAL ORGAN

ENLIGHTMENT PHOTO
220 WEST 42ND ST., NEW YORK CITY

RECOMMENDATION

Page 34

"Enlighten
Thy Daughter"

With such marvelous opportunities at hand for serving the public on the highest plane of thought, the wonder is that the thought of scenario writers must ever be dragged to the limit of melodrama. The public is weary of Wild West flights over stretches of prairie; tired of target practice; tired of ugly, stupid people whom no one wants to know, their problems and their pernicious mental attitude. There is a picture play called "Enlighten Thy Daughter," which should suggest to the scenario writer method and construction that will please the audience, and at the same time convey a valuable lesson to mothers and fathers. Here the writer, Mr. Ivan Abramson, has presented the domestic life of four families. Part of the time some of them are wise, and some foolish. The motives are human, and from the indulged son of the wealthy mother, who has never heard of principle; the ruin he brings down around the heads of three families; the wise mother, the unwise mother; the scene shifts from one group to the other, till the "audience knows and understands them all. Even though you come away from this earnest picture with a heavy heart, you know that what has been presented has involved a great problem with which many parents are battling today. "Enlighten Thy Children" would be a better title than "Enlighten Thy Daughter," for the son was far from being the villain he seemed to be, the victim of self-indulgence and a doting mother. Any picture that makes us think of a vital subject is worth while. This particular picture presents a delicate theme with adroitness. The author is to be congratulated.

AND IS READ BY
2,500,000
MEMBERS COMPOSED OF
THE LEADING WOMEN IN THE LAND

FEDERATION OF WOMEN'S CLUBS
OF 9,000 CLUBS

PLAYS CORPORATION

HENRY J. BROCK PRESIDENT

SELZNICK  PICTURES

Harry Rapf
Presents

ROBERT WARWICK

In

"THE ARGYLE CASE"

A DETECTIVE DRAMA THAT HOLDS THE SPECTATORS
SPELLBOUND

Adapted By Arrangement with Klaw & Erlanger from
The Great Stage Success
By Harvey J. O'Higgins, Harriet Ford,
and William J. Burns.

Directed By
RALPH W. INCE

SOLE DISTRIBUTORS

LEWIS
J.
SELZNICK

EXCHANGES
BRANCHES
EVERYWHERE

JOSEPH M. SCHENCK
Presents
The National Favorite

NORMA TALMADGE

In

"THE LAW of COMPENSATION"

By Wilson Mizner.

THE TENSE STORY OF
A GIRL SAVED FROM PRESENT DANGER AND FUTURE DISGRACE BY A VISION OF THE PAST

SELZNICK  PICTURES

CLARA
KIMBALL YOUNG

In
"THE PRICE SHE PAID"

By David Graham Phillips

Has Captured Chicago just As She Took By Storm New York and Every City or Village Where This Wonderful Picture Has Been Shown.

LEWIS J. SELZNICK,
New York City

Chicago, Ill.

Price she paid opened at the Studebaker
Theatre this City Sunday March 11 at minimum admission of twenty-five cents doing a wonderful business and patrons are expressing great satisfaction with this production. All Chicago newspaper critics give excellent reports.

JONES, LINICK & SCHAEFER

Directed By

CHARLES GIBLYN
Albert Capellani Director Gen'l

SOLE DISTRIBUTORS
LEWIS
J.
SELZNICK
EXCHANGES
BRANCHES
EVERYWHERE

HERBERT BRENON'S

Screen Masterpiece
Presenting

FLORENCE REED

In
"THE ETERNAL SIN"

It is now playing a two-weeks engagement at the Broadway Theatre
New York, where it was hailed by Press and Public as one of the greatest Pictures Ever Produced.

♦ ♦ ♦

TRIANGLE

Dorothy Dalton in "THE DARK ROAD."

TRIANGLE PROGRAM

April 1st

"HER FATHER'S KEEPER" Triangle Production
 "THE DARK ROAD" Ince-Kay Bee
 with DOROTHY DALTON

April 8th

"HER OFFICIAL FATHERS" Fine Arts
 "SWEETHEART OF THE DOOMED" Ince-Kay Bee
 with LOUISE GLAUM

April 15th

"AN OLD FASHIONED YOUNG MAN" Fine Arts
 "PADDY O'HARA" Ince-Kay Bee
 with WILLIAM DESMOND

April 22nd

"CHEERFUL GIVERS" Fine Arts
 with BESSIE LOVE
 "THE DESERT MAN" Ince-Kay Bee
 with W.M. S. HART

TRIANGLE KOMEDIES

TWO A WEEK
 ONE WITH EACH
 DRAMA RELEASE

RELEASED ONLY BY TRIANGLE DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

TRIANGLE

TRIANGLE PROGRAM

Mr. Exhibitor: You know that "Wid's" reports are not controlled or influenced by any manufacturer or distributor.

We reproduce the "batting averages" (tabulated percentage reports from exhibitors) as published in the last issue of Wid's Magazine, March 8, 1917

THE BATTING AVERAGES

These are the averages of the companies having 200 reports or more.

Re- ports		% P. P.	% B. O.	Re- peat
1525	Triangle.....	74.1	67.0	317
587	Fox.....	72.0	69.0	81
435	Metro.....	71.5	67.8	42
326	Vitagraph.....	71.1	67.7	63
1683	Paramount.....	71.9	66.1	293
395	World.....	67.0	61.1	36

The number before the brand name indicates the number of reports received and tabulated on pictures of that brand, according to the following scale: Exceptional 100%, Excellent 80%, Good 60%, Fair 40%, Poor 20%, Bad 0%.

The first column ("P. P.") carries the percentage of pleased patrons. The second column ("B. O.") shows the box office percentage. The figures in the third column ("Repeat") indicate the number of reports which recommend pictures as worthy of return dates.

You will note that Triangle leads in pleased patrons and that there are 317 Triangle repeat recommendations, out of a total of 1525 reports, a higher percentage than is shown by any competitor. Draw your own conclusions.

TRIANGLE DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION
1457 Broadway New York City

RELEASED ONLY BY TRIANGLE DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

MACK SENNETT-KEYSTONE

NING LEDGER—PHILADELPHIA, FEBRUARY 28, 1917

and respected by thousands

ld. like to see educational de-teacher would which would problems of
be a sort of ideas, start-intelligent cial attempt problems of dealing with y very hard uality of the
on the part (king) would difference in school.
should be de-

S OF WO-place. I think er more thori-ts of woman's s with promographs and s now ap-or an ining somese interocational who has ractical disad-
at par-qualifi-reason-

vs might n's clubs, time to should be ails of its ated and men would thropic or-o get into department

Philadel-
g "the ward
for en.

SENNETT SENDS US THREE FINE FARCES

New Keystones Are Hilarious, Especially "Maggie's First False Step"

By the Photoplay Editor

KEYSTONE COMEDIES—"Maggie's First False Step," "The Nick-of-Time Baby," "Stars and Bars." Supervised in direction by Mack Sennett. Private screening.

Exhibitors and film critics privileged to see three new two-reel farces from the Sennett foundry at a private midnight display must have wondered why the output of the Keystone firm hasn't been reaching Philadelphia with its usual regularity of late. One really good Keystone is always better than half a dozen features. Three in succession are apt to leave the reviewer delirious, gasping, but unsatiated.

The new comedies have most of the tricks and traps that made the older ones lively. Alcoholic gentlemen still sup "doctored" soup with avidity and bury their faces in plates of dough; the "chase" is not despised; trained dogs do wonderful rescues, floor walkers snatch dresses from shopping ladies under the impression that they are wax models; revolvers discharge their baking-powder shot with as much punctuality as in the days when Sennett was unknown; white mice invade striped (and feminine) hosiery.

But aside from these ancient and oh-so-honorably funny dodges, there are a dozen novel ones in this trio of celluloid assemblings. A scrub-girl unravels a complete pair of trousers under the impression that she is "tidying up" the floor of a department store. Trains and motor cars race and collide in a manner to turn "Intolerance" intolerably green. Ducks leap into punch-bowls and become mildly "stewed." It is possible to say that all this nonsense is common and absurd; but who will dare to add that it is not tremendously royally rib-shaking?

Not he who has witnessed that supreme family of Keystoners—the Fazenda-Booker-Murray bunch—evolve a cameo of drollery from the original rough granite of "Tillie's Punctured Romance," one-third as long and three times-as funny. Miss Fazenda, the only really comic female of the screen, has done nothing better than "Maggie's First False Step." And almost equally high praise must go to the rest of the acrobatic persons who risk life and legs (for comfortable salaries) on Mack's ranch. Some may not care to see a baby nearly drowned, and others (including the censors) will avert the eye of modesty at various pranks that are "shot." But better a cycle of "Maggies" than a summer of insipidity, ingenuities and "drip." Call again, Mack!

Undeterred by t- "nt injuries, co no por

by an Spencer comedi pictur
the C sort,
Eric
title sma na Me
R.

H
v

Not what
We say, but
What a Newspaper
Critic says
Of the new
MACK SENNETT
KEYSTONES

OPEN TO ALL EXHIBITORS
SEPARATELY FROM PROGRAM

RELEASED ONLY BY TRIANGLE DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

MUTUAL NEWS

"What's Going On In The Mutual"

WEEKLY NEWS OF THE MUTUAL FILM CORPORATION AND ITS EXCHANGES

MARCH 31, 1917

"MOTHERHOOD," SECOND MARJORIE RAMBEAU PICTURE, NOW READY

THE second of the Marjorie Rambeau Mutual Pictures is ready. "Motherhood" is its title. It is from the pen of Frederick Arnold Kummer, the famous novelist who wrote "The Ivory Snuff Box," "The Other Woman" and numerous other successes. It was directed by Frank Powell of the Frank Powell Producing Company. It is in five acts. It is released the week of March 26 through all Mutual Exchanges.

A Story of Heart Throbs.

"Motherhood" is a picture that will make a tremendous impression. It is a story of real heart throbs. It pictures the great European conflict in all its horror—limning the grim scenes boldly—pointing a moral, and its main theme is based on a subject of universal appeal. An American mother and father sit down to peruse a recently published novel and the story they read is vividly pictured on the screen. Opportunities aplenty are afforded Miss Rambeau for artistic expression. She rises to tremendous dramatic heights. As the big climax fades from the sheet, the readers finish the story, close the book and steal silently upstairs to the crib of their baby daughter, where they kneel in reverent thanks that their own home is spared from the horrors of war.

Superbly Enacted.

A cast of wonderful strength assists the star in "Motherhood." Paul Everton, one of Broadway's best known "heavies," has a powerful role, and Anne Sutherland, the noted character woman, who scored such triumphs in "The Deep Purple" and "Via Wireless," is also seen to advantage. In even the minor roles artists of prominence appear. Mutual's "Big Stars Only" policy was never better illustrated than in the casting of this production. Bookings can be made now at all Mutual Exchanges.

"The Cure," Chaplin's Next, Now Completed

Charlie Chaplin, the inimitable, and his associates have completed the last scenes of "The Cure," his next Mutual-Chaplin Special. It is a hilarious story laid amid the grounds of a health resort, whither Charlie goes to imbibe "the waters," and laughs come so fast that an audience will find itself gasping for breath before it is over, Monday, April 16, is the release date. While booking "The Cure," exhibitors will find it a good plan to arrange for repeat showings on the other nine Mutual-Chaplin Specials, now being booked at all Mutual Exchanges.

Mutual Star Productions For March

Week Beginning March 5th.	Lead.
Title.
The Girl From Rector's.....
.....Ruth MacTammany
Week Beginning March 12th.
Title.
My Fighting Gentleman.....
.....William Russell
Week Beginning March 19th.
Title.
The Painted Lie.....Crane Wilbur
Week Beginning March 26th.
Title.
Motherhood.....Marjorie Rambeau
Sunny Jane.....Jackie Saunders

STRAND COMEDIES

Starring Pretty Billie Rhodes
Supported by Jay Belasco

NEW FEATURETTES

A brand new series of Mutual Featurettes is ready. Strand Comedies is the title by which they will be known. There are fifty-two of them. One a week for every week in the year—each one reel in length—cramped from announcement title to end trailer with fun of a fast and spontaneous sort. It isn't slapstick comedy—the biff, bang kind—but polite "situation" comedy—subtle, clever, keen. It is a kind of comedy that the children can safely see, that father will chuckle over and mother enjoy without a blush. Strand Comedies are produced by one of the foremost comedy directors in the land. Billie Rhodes is the star, and the supporting cast is headed by Jay Belasco. Strand Comedies are in a class all by themselves. There's nothing just like them on the market today. They are clean, refined, wholesome, full of pep and snap and action, and just cramped with laughter. Strand Comedies are booking now at all Mutual Exchanges. "Her Hero" is the title of the first. It's released on April 11. Reservations for all fifty-two of them should be made now.

As a special service to exhibitors, Mutual Film Corporation has employed Joseph O' Sullivan, a composer and operatic expert of note, to prepare music cues for each of the "Big Stars Only" Mutual Pictures. It enables any theatre in the country to play Mutual Pictures in big city style. Practically all of the numbers suggested are available in any reasonably well equipped orchestra library. And every exhibitor knows proper music is responsible for a share of the success of any screen production. The Mutual music cues are obtainable at all Mutual Exchanges.

JACKIE SAUNDERS IN "SUNNY JANE" RELEASED MARCH 26

"SUNNY JANE," the first of the Jackie Saunders pictures for release through the Mutual Exchanges, is issued this week. It is the first of a series of six five-reel productions. E. D. Horkheimer, who presents this series through special arrangement with Mutual, is authority for the statement that all the resources of his gigantic studios are behind this series and that, consequently, photography, direction, stage settings, costuming and enactment will be of the very best. Mr. Horkheimer himself terms the series "The Pictures Beautiful."

A Popular Favorite.

Jackie Saunders is one of filmdom's best known players. She has been starred in serials, features and single reel productions. She is equally capable of playing strongly dramatic or light comedy roles. In "Sunny Jane" she has a role exactly suited to her winsome personality. She appears as a country maid whose very soul is wrapped up in the books she reads. She lives the life of all her favorite characters. At one moment she is Catherine de Medici and the next Cleopatra, while a half hour later she imagines she is still another personage. Miss Saunders' impersonation of these various characters is truly remarkable.

Excellent Cast.

A cast of an evenly balanced sort—each player especially selected for his or her fitness for the role assigned— aids the star in making "Sunny Jane" a picture long to be remembered. Exhibitors can arrange bookings now on the entire Jackie Saunders series at any Mutual Exchange.

"Reputation" Will Be First Goodrich Film

After months of diligent search, the first of the Edna Goodrich vehicles has been chosen. Miss Goodrich will make her debut as a Mutual player in "Reputation." She is already at work on the first scenes of this production at the new Mutual studios in Glendale, L. I. John B. Clymer, author of "Ashes of Embers," "The White Raven," "The Diplomatic Romance," and other successes, wrote "Reputation." John B. O'Brien, who has directed such stars as Mae Marsh, Lillian Gish, Blanche Sweet, Bessie Love and Robert Harron, will direct Miss Goodrich. Reservations can be made at any Mutual Exchange for the entire series of Mutual Pictures starring Edna Goodrich.

MUTUAL

E. D. HORKHEIMER
Presents

Jackie Saunders
in
"Sunny Jane"

The first of the Jackie Saunders Series of Mutual Pictures. In five acts. A cheerful, sprightly tale, carefully produced, skillfully enacted. Released week of Mar. 26th

Booking
NOW AT ALL
MUTUAL
EXCHANGES

MUTUAL

FRANK POWELL

Presents

Marjorie Rambeau
in
"Motherhood"

By Frederick Arnold Kummer

Second of the Marjorie Rambeau Series of Mutual Pictures. A story of heart-throbs with the European war as a background. Its theme is one of universal appeal. In five acts. Directed by Frank Powell. Released week of March 26th.

Now Playing: "THE GREATER WOMAN"

Available At All
MUTUAL EXCHANGES

Produced by
FRANK POWELL PRODUCING CORPORATION

MUTUAL

Announcing

A new Series of One Reel
MUTUAL FEATURETTES

To be known as Strand Comedies

Starring

Billie Rhodes

Supported by JAY BELASCO

Beginning April 11th, The Mutual Film Corporation will release a series of 52 Strand Comedies—one each week—each one reel in length. These are polite comedies, enacted by young people—fresh—lively—clean—free from suggestiveness.

Booking NOW At All
MUTUAL EXCHANGES

Produced by
CAULFIELD PHOTOPLAY COMPANY

Distributed by MUTUAL FILM CORPORATION

MUTUAL

Monmouth Film Corporation

Presents

The nationally advertised series of mystery stories—released for the first time, beginning March 23rd—as Mutual Featurettes.

Jimmie Dale

alias "The Grey Seal"

starring

E-K. LINCOLN EDNA HUNTER
DORIS MITCHELL PAUL PANZER

Fascinating stories—absorbingly interesting—intensely dramatic—cramped with breathless suspense. Sixteen stories—each complete in itself—each two reels in length. Based on the novel by Frank L. Packard.
Never before released. First episode issued March 23rd.

Booking NOW At All
MUTUAL EXCHANGES

Produced by
Monmouth Film Corporation
HARRY MCRAE WEBSTER President
JULES BURNSTEIN Gen'l Manager
Directed by
HARRY MCRAE WEBSTER

MUTUAL

The Star:

HELEN HOLMES

The Director: J·P·M·GOWAN

RELEASE DATE

Daring deeds—tremendous thrills—hairbreadth escapes—all add to the drawing power of this third, big Helen Holmes Success. Fifteen chapters of amazing railroad adventure, mile-a-minute action. Punch—pep—ginger! Star—director—supporting cast—all are top notchers! And a tremendous campaign of national advertising is back of "THE RAILROAD RAIDERS".

Produced by
SIGNAL FILM CORPORATION
SAMUEL S. HUTCHINSON Pres.

MUTUAL

The Story:
THE RAILROAD RAIDERS

The Author: Frank H. Spearman

APRIL 9th

Huge locomotives crash—whole freight trains are shattered—thrills abound in every chapter of "The Railroad Raiders". Dashing, daring Helen Holmes was never seen to better advantage. Today she is the idol of motion picture fans everywhere. Capitalize on her popularity! Bring the fans to YOUR theatre to see her latest and greatest photo-novel—"The Railroad Raiders". Wire or write your nearest Mutual Exchange at once!

Distributed by
MUTUAL FILM CORPORATION

JOHN R. FREULER Pres.

GAUMONT'S
"REEL LIFE"
No. 49
Released
April - 5th

MUTUAL

CULTIVATING RUBBER PLANTS

MAKING BREAD THE MODERN WAY

ONE-MAN SUBMARINE

MAGNETISM

"Give us the Same and Tell the Boys in the Back Room That's What They Want, Too."

You don't hear anybody answer, "No, thank you, Charlie, I'll lay off this round." Why? Because he's ordering a Gaumont "Reel Life" with a Gaumont "Tours Around the World" on the side. No, siree, pop! There is pos-i-tive-ly no Gaumont "chaser." The spectator is glued to his seat to the end of every Gaumont reel. When the smiling man says to you, "What's your pleasure, gentlemen?" Come back strong at him with, "All the Gaumont Single-Reels—and I'll pass the pleasure on to my patrons." Take a slant up at what "Reel Life" No. 49 offers you.

Gaumont Co.

FLUSHING. N. Y.

Making Good

Up to this writing seventy-five Cub Comedies have been released. This may be a record. Whether it is or not is beside the point.

The point is this: If Cub Comedies did not make good for exhibitors seventy-five subjects would not have been produced; if Cub Comedies did not satisfy a want the brand could not have existed.

But Cub Comedies have made their mark. Seventy-five is a splendid total to reach. Many exhibitors have played these seventy-five to their profit. There are those who haven't played Cub Comedies and to these we say: It's not too late—other releases are coming.

The next subject is "Be Sure You're Right," featuring George Ovey, released March 29. Following is another corking Cub, "The Lady Detective," featuring George Ovey, released April 5.

Cub Comedies are single reel features, released Thursdays through the Mutual Film Corporation.

David Horsley Productions

The Triumph of the Year
World Film Corporation
Scores Sensational Success

Bought for Franchise
Holders of
World Pictures
Brady-Made

SARAH
BERNHARDT
in her Greatest Triumph
"Mothers of France"

Announcement

Against the determined competition of leading special feature producers, spurred by the knowledge that this was and is the most powerful and distinguished feature ever filmed, we have bought "Mothers of France." This extremely important transaction was closed so late that we have not been able to prepare an announcement of the details of distribution.

WORLD FILM CORPORATION 130 West 46th Street, N. Y. City

THIS SPECIAL
Greater Than Any

The Sensation of the Season at The Rialto

New York's
First Run

Sarah Bernhardt

THE WORLD'S GREATEST ACTRESS

in

"Mothers of France"

Written by

Jean Richepin

Member of the French Academy

Directed by

Louis Mercanton

Read These Reproductions from the Great Dailies of New York

MOVES RIALTO AUDIENCES

(N. Y. Times, March 12th.)

"MOTHERS OF FRANCE" ATONES FOR MOST OF THE SINS OF THE MOVIES: TO SEE IT IS RECOMPENSE FOR HAVING SAT THROUGH A SERIES OF ATROCIOUS AND BANAL WAR FILMS PURPORTING TO POINT A MORAL. IT IS SUBTLE AND POWERFUL AND MUST MOVE EVEN THE MOST CALLOUSED OBSERVER.

THUNDEROUS APPLAUSE

(N. Y. Tribune, March 12th.)

THE GREAT, THROBBING, BLEEDING HEART OF FRANCE WAS LAID BARE AT THE RIALTO THEATRE YESTERDAY IN MME. SARAH BERNHARDT'S WONDERFUL PICTURE, "MOTHERS OF FRANCE." * * * Every man forgot that he was in the theatre. * * * The applause became so thunderous that the music was drowned and people stood up and waved their programs. * * * IT IS HARD TO TELL JUST WHY THIS WAR PICTURE HAD SUCH A GREAT APPEAL TO THE HEART AND TO PATRIOTISM; BUT THE FACT REMAINS THAT THERE WAS ON THE SCREEN YESTERDAY THAT WHICH BROUGHT MEN TO THEIR FEET AND WAS BOUND TO GIVE THE MOST CARELESS OBSERVER PAUSE.

WOMEN OF UNITED STATES OUGHT TO SEE MOTHER FILM

("Zit." In N. Y. Evening Journal, March 13th.)

Probably no greater lesson has been shown since the war began than the heart-rending five reel feature film "Mothers of France." It will give to American mothers an opportunity to see what is happening to their sisters abroad. * * * "Mothers of France" is a work of art.

ONE OF THE FINEST THINGS EVER DONE

(N Y Herald, March 12th.)

"Mothers of France," with Mme. Sarah Bernhardt in the chief role, attracted throngs yesterday to the Rialto Theatre. In this picture art and good taste are combined and it fairly breathes patriotism. IT IS ONE OF THE FINEST THINGS THAT HAS BEEN DONE IN FILMS. * * * Mme. Bernhardt gives a notable portrayal of the bereaved and patriotic mother.

FILM A TRIUMPH

(Morning World, March 12th.)

Spectators in the big moving picture theatres as a rule do not applaud, but the crowds at the Rialto Theatre yesterday afternoon and last night received "Mothers of France," a new patriotic film for which Sarah Bernhardt posed shortly before coming to America, with great bursts of hand-clapping. * * * The part that Mme. Bernhardt acted serves to increase the marvel of her wonderful vitality and youthfulness.

CAPACITY CROWDS GREET PICTURE

(Evening Telegram, March 12th.)

Mme. Sarah Bernhardt in "Mothers of France," as presented this week at the Rialto, amply fulfills the expectations aroused by the announcement that she had posed for a photodrama which was to typify the spirit pervading and upholding the French Republic of today. * * * THE CAPACITY CROWDS WHICH GREETED THE PICTURE'S FIRST PRESENTATION ON SUNDAY JUSTIFIED THE WISDOM OF THE MANAGEMENT IN ITS DECISION TO OPEN THE DOORS OF THE THEATRE AT TEN O'CLOCK EACH MORNING THROUGHOUT THE WEEK

A TRIUMPH

(Evening World, March 3rd.)

"Mothers of France," a new patriotic film in which Sarah Bernhardt acts the principal role, is the feature at the Rialto Theatre this week. * * * It is a really great picture, one which evokes applause from the crowds which see it. * * * The picture has created so much interest that the Rialto management is throwing the theatre's doors open at 10 A. M. daily in order to accommodate all who would see it.

ENTHUSIASTICALLY RECEIVED

(New York Sun, March 12th.)

"Mothers of France" was received with enthusiastic appreciation. The crowds yesterday which attempted to see the picture were the equal of any in the history of the house and the waiting lines outside reached half way down the block. * * * MOTHERS OF FRANCE" GIVES A MORE GRAPHIC PICTURE OF FIGHTING FRANCE THAN ANY OF THE SO-CALLED "WAR PICTURES" BECAUSE THE CIVIL AND MILITARY AUTHORITIES COOPERATED WITH THE MAKERS OF THE PICTURE AND THE BATTLE SCENES WERE MADE IN FRANCE WITH "POILUS" IN THE TRENCH STAINED UNIFORMS.

A THRILLING FILM

(N. Y. Evening Mail, March 12th.)

That tragedy that is war and the glory that is courage are the dominant notes of "Mothers of France," the master picture shown at the Rialto. * * * IT IS A STIRRING PICTURE. MOST OF IT YOU SEE THROUGH A MIST OF TEARS, BECAUSE IT REACHES DOWN TO THE SIMPLE EMOTIONS STIRRED UP BY HUMAN SUFFERING AND UP TO THE GREATER EMOTIONS WHICH ARE THE HERITAGE OF A COURAGEOUS PEOPLE. * * * Sarah Bernhardt so wonderfully typifies the indomitable courage of her country-women that there could not conceivably be another choice for the role.

"TROOPER 44"

GEO. SOULÉ SPENCER

JUNE DAYE

STATE RIGHT BUYERS

MUST ACT IMMEDIATELY TO SECURE FRANCHISES FOR THIS SMASHING FIVE REEL PICTURE, FEATURING

THE BLACK HUSSARS

(THE MOUNTED STATE POLICE OF PENNSYLVANIA)

IN THEIR

FIRST SCREEN APPEARANCE

AND A REMARKABLE CAST INCLUDING

GEORGE SOULÉ SPENCER AND JUNE DAYE

APPLY TO

E.I.S. MOTION PICTURE CORPORATION

203 WEST 40TH ST., NEW YORK CITY, TELEPHONE BRYANT 8155

OR THE SALES AGENT

JOS. R. MILES - 220 W. 42d ST., N. Y. CITY

E.I.S.

E.I.S.

A serial so good that that it is being shown by leading vaudeville houses in 75 of the important cities of the country, many of them showing a serial for the first time -

PATRIA
with
MRS. VERNON CASTLE

Written by
Louis J. Vance

Produced by
Wharton, Inc. for

INTERNATIONAL

Released by
Pathé

Pathe

MYSTERY
OF THE DOUBLE
CROSS

Reasons why you should book

MYSTERY OF THE DOUBLE CROSS

Reason No. 1: Advertising

32,000,000 persons will be reached by the newspaper and magazine advertising on this serial.

The great Hearst chain of newspapers and leading papers in many of the largest cities of the country will publish the stories.

The Cosmopolitan, Hearst's, Harper's Bazaar and Good Housekeeping magazines as well as the Hearst Sunday magazines will carry full page spreads.

In addition there is a complete line of novelties to help the exhibitors.

See future advertisements for other reasons.

Produced by Astra

Featuring
MOLLIE
KING
and LEON BARY

Pathé

MYSTERY
OF THE
DOUBLE CROSS

MOLLIE
KING

Star of Pathe's
MYSTERY OF THE DOUBLE CROSS

Pathé

Announcing a production of noteworthy merit

Mary Lawson's Secret

A Gold Rooster Play in five parts with the eminent star

Charlotte Walker

Produced by Thanhouser

Released
April 1

Pathé Gold Rooster Plays please patrons and exhibitors

"Pathe's 'Her New York' with Gladys Hulette is a very good picture which brought good business. The star is always well received and is becoming very popular."

M.J.Weil.Lake Shore Theatre,Chicago.

Pathé

Harold Lloyd
the funniest of funny men.

"Lonesome Luke Comedies

are the best we receive and certainly deserve praise."

G. Kotzin, Mgr.,
Lyric Theatre
Covington, Ky.

Two reel comedies only,
once a month

Produced by
Rolin

Pathé

Announcing the phenomenal child
Little Mary Sunshine

(Baby Helen Marie Osborne)
in the five part Gold Rooster Play

Told at Twilight

Produced by Balboa

Released March 25

"After showing Baby Osborne in 'Shadows and Sunshine' to a very pleased audience, I want to tell you that it is as good a feature as I have ever seen. At least a hundred persons told me it was the best picture they had ever seen."

STRAND THEATRE, FLINT, MICH.

Pathe-Thanhouser present the world famous actor

Frederick Warde

in the dramatization of Goldsmith's immortal work

The Vicar of Wakefield

Hailed by the New York papers as a truly great picture. Shown by the Rialto.

Book exclusively through

The Pathe Exchange, Inc.

Super-Feature Dept.

Executive Offices

25 West 45th St. New York

Pathé

"It is a pleasure to boost Pathé serials as they are the goods that stand behind the guarantee of a manager and leave no chance for a complaint from patrons.

Pearl of the Army is going great and promises to duplicate the success of the 'Iron Claw' which I believe stands as a record under all conditions."

Allen Jenkins, Bijou Theatre,
Roanoke, Va.

Featuring Pearl White

Produced by Astra

Directed by Edward José

REX BEACH Himself

and

MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

First and Only Time in Pictures

Features entirely different.

The kind that get exhibitors the money.

State Rights now selling.

One 6 and two 5 reel thrillers.

Greatest box office attraction of the day.

Booked with Rialto Theatre for 8 weeks' run.

Now showing to capacity business.

REX BEACH

ON THE SPANISH MAIN
IN PIRATE HAUNTS
IN THE FOOTSTEPS OF CAPTAIN KIDD

Grand Feature Film Co.

Room 1606 Candler Building.

220 West 42d Street, New York City, N. Y.

STATE RIGHT BUYERS!

LOOK at this CAREFUL-LY SELECTED CAST

"The CURSE of EVE"

—by WYCLIFFE A. HILL

Is Now In the Cutting Room

Jack Standing

Ed Coxen
Marian Warner

Wm Quinn
Elsie
Greeson

Enid Markey
Clarissa
Selwynne

A Powerful Drama in Seven
Parts
A Real Story of Today, Which
Had Its Beginning With the Curse of The First Woman In The Garden of Eden

Directed by, FRANK BEAL
Photography by, Wm. C. THOMPSON
Scenario by, JOSEPH A. ROACH

OVER ONE THOUSAND
EXHIBITORS IN EVERY STATE In The UNION
HAVE ALREADY APPLIED
FOR THIS PRODUCTION.
ARE YOU INTERESTED?

ILLUSTRATED PROSPECTUS AND DETAILED SYNOPSIS SENT ON REQUEST

CORONA CINEMA COMPANY, PRODUCERS
LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA

Member Nat'l Association Motion Picture Industry

He puts one over on Father!

He wins the girl and the money and shows "the governor" there's more fight in him than any one suspected

WILLIAM FOX
Presents
GEORGE WALSH
in High Finance

*A Transcontinental Love Story
Directed by Otis Turner - Story by Larry Evans Scenario by Anthony F. McGrew Willis.*

FOXFILM COMEDY SERVICE

RELEASE FOR WEEK OF MARCH 26th

"HIS MERRY MIX-UP"

TWO REELS, WITH

CHARLES CONKLIN

A RIOTOUS STORY OF THE THINGS THEY DO THE MORNING AFTER

NOW MOVING CROWDED
TEARS - CHEERS -

Second Month at Lyric Theatre

WILLIAM
R.A. WALSH'S

The HONOR

New York
Evening World:

"A masterpiece of film drama. Comes up to the characterization of 'greatest human story ever told' from beginning to end."

New York Evening Sun:

"William Fox has done a service in producing it."

New York American:

"'The Birth of a Nation' at last eclipsed. Made new history in the film business. The most vital story ever put on the screen."

New York Times:

"'The Honor System' is the motion picture at its best. You must certainly see the new picture at the Lyric."

Controlled Exclusively by the FOX

HOUSES TO LAUGHTER- THRILLS and THOUGHTS

42nd St. and Broadway-New York City

FOX Presents
MASTER DRAMA

SYSTEM

New York
Evening Journal:

"If you don't sit in your chair and hold on tight, you are not human."

New York Herald:

"A motion picture play of stirring appeal."

New York Evening Mail:

"'The Honor System' has biggest theme of any screen production thus far."

New York Tribune:

"Every one who sees it will send all his friends to see it, and by that time it will be time for him to see it again."

FILM CORPORATION

Cosmofotofilm Co Inc.

"Where the Real Features Come From"

GEORGE LOANE TUCKER

Presents

"The Manx-Man"

By HALL CAINE

Running Time Two Hours

Produced on The Isle of Man in cooperation with

The Government of the Isle of Man and by special permission of

The English Home Office

and the British Board of Admiralty

Directed by an AMERICAN DIRECTOR

GEORGE LOANE TUCKER

Photographed by an American

ERNEST PALMER

of International repute.

The Scenario is a work of direct collaboration between HALL CAINE and GEO. TUCKER.

The Cast was selected by the Author and Producer with no other consideration in view than their physical and temperamental fitness to typify and visualize the characters in the great novel.

Every Part, However Small, is Played by An Artist of Repute

9000 Manx-Men Appear in the Ensemble Scenes

Every BACKGROUND is the actual locality written about in Hall Caine's Tenderest and Most Human Story

"The Manx-Man"

Look Back
for a Minute!

*George Loane Tucker has directed some of the best money-getting features that have ever been made.
His past performances are your guarantee for
"The Manx-man"*

"The Manx-Man"

The Author

HALL CAINE

Writes:

"No Work of Mine has made me more friends and to none of my books do I owe more gratitude—

"PETE, The Manx-Man, has won more love for me than any other of the children of my fancy except perhaps one Woman."

KATE, The Girl and Woman of
THE MANX-MAN

—Kate, the desirous and desired—erring, sorrowing little maid—wife and mother. She pays the price of her glorious sex as do none other of Hall Caine's heroines.

"PHILIP"—one of the finest studies of strength and weakness ever drawn.

These Are the Three Principal Characters of

"The Manx-Man"

Cosmofotofilm Co. Inc.

110 W. 40th Street, New York City

Think This Over!

*If one person in every ten who swear by Hall Caine
and his books,
go to see this picture,
"The Manx-man" will make a fortune for Exhibitors!*

Goldwyn Pictures

How Goldwyn is Buying Your Confidence

ONE MILLION DOLLARS is really a small price to pay for the confidence of the exhibitors of America. Goldwyn is spending that much and perhaps will spend even more.

Twelve completed Goldwyn Pictures will be shown to the nation's exhibitors before they are invited to make a single booking.

It is possible to make this vast expenditure for exhibitor confidence because of the tremendous popularity and value of Mae Marsh, Mary Garden, Maxine Elliott, Jane Cowl and Madge Kennedy.

And also because these great stars have first call on the stories and plays of the ablest group of authors ever enlisted in the service of any one company.

Two Goldwyn Pictures have been completed. A third is in the making. Nine more will be ready by September.

ADVISORY BOARD

SAMUEL GOLDFISH
Chairman
EDGAR SELWYN
IRVIN S. COBB
ARTHUR HOPKINS
MARGARET MAYO
ROI COOPER MEGRUE
ARCHIBALD SELWYN
CROSBY GAIGE

Goldwyn Pictures Corporation

16 East 42d Street, New York City
Telephone: Vanderbilt 11

MARY GARDEN

A supreme artist, wholly without an equal; one of the world's greatest dramatic actresses; a magnificent, vital, regal woman with fire, spirit and zest. She, too, is exclusively a star of Goldwyn Pictures. About what other artist have such things as these been said:

PHILA. EVENING LEDGER: Always she is "Mary the Magnificent"—a favorite everywhere.

BOSTON RECORD: 60,000 persons wrote to Goldwyn in two weeks naming plays in which they preferred to see Mary Garden starred. . . . There's a fine test of her wonderful popularity.

MOVING PICTURE WORLD: Mary Garden has been regarded by all producers as the highest woman star holding out against the screen.

LOS ANGELES HERALD: Mary Garden's genius is revealed in her first act for Goldwyn. "Tell me what you wish me to play," she asked the people of America and 60,000 persons wrote her in two weeks. Mary Garden understands the people.

NEW YORK HERALD: Mary Garden is a heroine of the opera and of the first pages of all newspapers, . . . a vital artist with a genius for keeping before the public.

SALT LAKE TELEGRAM: Mary Garden is the best advertised woman on earth. She is a perfume; a candy bears her name; she is on musical records in hundreds of thousands of homes, thanks to the phonograph; she is a pre-eminent favorite of the opera in three countries, and now Goldwyn gets her to introduce her pictorially to the world's millions.

WINNIPEG FREE PRESS: Truly, she is Mary, the ever-interesting. A genius, a wonder and a great artist.

CINCINNATI ENQUIRER: And Mary Garden, too. What a colossal ambition Goldwyn seems to have for cornering the big-star market.

MOTION PICTURE NEWS: Mary Garden has been more widely exploited than any woman in modern history.

LOS ANGELES TIMES: Miss Garden will have tremendous drawing power as a screen star.

Exhibitors may care to know that Goldwyn has several thousand comments like these from every important country in the world.

Goldwyn Pictures Corporation

16 EAST 42D ST., NEW YORK CITY

Telephone: Vanderbilt 11

13 MILLION PEOPLE READ THIS STORY
AND
MANY MORE MILLIONS
WILL BE CLAMORING TO SEE IT ON THE SCREEN

WITH
BETTY BRIGE

SUPPORTED BY
CHARLES ARLING
EDNA MAE WILSON and DOROTHY LOVE CLARK

IT MAKES ONE OF THE BEST - FEATURE PRODUCTIONS
ON THE MARKET

Direction JACK PRATT

Adaptation by ROSALIE ASHTON & BEATRICE MORSE

SATURDAY AUGUST 5 TEN CENTS

ALL-STORY WEEKLY

MR. STATE RIGHT BUYER -

BE THE FIRST IN YOUR TERRITORY
TO EXPLOIT OUR POWERFUL PRODUCTIONS
BEFORE - THE CLEAN MINDED MILLIONS
IN WORK

THE SEVEN CARDINAL VIRTUES

BERNSTEIN FILM PRODUCTIONS
BOYLE & STEVENSON AVE'S. LOS ANGELES, CAL.

PICTURES
FOR THE CLEAN-MINDED MILLIONS

ROBERT GOLDSTEIN

wishes to announce the completion of his

TWELVE REEL PRODUCTION

Entitled

THE SPIRIT OF '76

A HISTORICAL ROMANCE

Dealing with the
AMERICAN REVOLUTION AND ITS CAUSES

This film has been in production for over a year and is happily completed at this time to help rouse the patriotism of the country.

Continental Producing Co.

650 SOUTH BROADWAY
Los Angeles, California

Lewis J. Selznick, genius of the film industry, realizing its enormous drawing power, proves his wisdom in securing New York and New Jersey Rights to

◇ SELIG'S STUPENDOUS MASTERPIECE ◇

"THE NE'ER-DO-WELL"

by REX
BEACH

With KATHLYN WILLIAMS
WHEELER OAKLAND and an ALL STAR CAST.

This play is Selig's greatest masterpiece since "The Spoilers."
The profits that were made on "The Spoilers" are being duplicated on "The Ne'er-Do-Well"
= 8 Thrilling Acts =

Exhibitors' book through the following exchanges

GREATER NEW YORK, NEW YORK STATE AND NORTHERN N. J.
Lewis J. Selznick, 729 7th Avenue, New York

ILLINOIS, INDIANA AND LOWER WISCONSIN
Lewis J. Selznick, 110 South State Street, Chicago, Ill.

OREGON, WASHINGTON, IDAHO AND MONTANA
De Luxe Feature Film Co., 1216 3rd Ave., Seattle Wash.

CALIFORNIA, ARIZONA AND NEVADA
All Star Feature Distb., 234 Eddy St., San Francisco, Cal.

WESTERN PENNA., OHIO, WEST VIRGINIA AND KENTUCKY
Masterpiece Film Attraction, 1201 Liberty Ave., Pitts., Pa.

MINNESOTA, IOWA, NO. & SO. DAKOTA AND UPPER WISCONSIN
Supreme Film Attraction, 16 North 4th St., Minn., Minn.

MASS., RHODE ISLAND, CONN., VT., NEW HAMPSHIRE & MAINE
Metro Pictures of New Eng., 60 Church St., Boston, Mass.

SOL. L. LESSER
SOLE OWNER & DISTRIBUTOR
523 LONGACRE BUILDING
NEW YORK, N. Y.

ART DRAMAS

Harry Raver

Announces

A notable combination.

Fascinating

Alma Hanlon

and the famous Author-Actor

Edward Ellis

*with a splendid supporting company
in a powerful drama*

"The Law That Failed"

by Louis Reeves Harrison

Art Dramas Program

116 WEST 39TH STREET NEW YORK CITY

When this wonderful thousand foot bridge that now spans the famous HELL GATE section of the East River was first proposed, engineering wiseacres shook their heads gloomily and said in doleful chorus, "It can't be done." As time proved, the wiseacres were all wrong.

When ART DRAMAS, Inc., first announced the policy of presenting a new type of story that would solve the question of the $15,000 a week star and at the same time keep the box office consistently busy, film wiseacres likewise declared, "It can't be done."

Once again the wiseacres were wrong.

The fact that no new theatres were built for the express purpose of housing ART DRAMAS and that the tremendous growth of the ART DRAMAS exchanges is now the talk of the industry proves unquestionably that the ART DRAMAS idea fills a long felt want.

For full particulars regarding ART DRAMAS service of one high grade feature a week at a sane price to the exhibitor get in touch with any of the following exchanges

NEW YORK—MODERN FEATURE PHOTOPLAYS, INC., 729 Seventh Avenue.
 BOSTON—BOSTON PHOTOPLAY COMPANY, 205 Pleasant Avenue.
 PHILADELPHIA—ELECTRIC THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY, 1321 Vine Street.
 PITTSBURGH—LIBERTY FILM RENTING COMPANY, 938 Penn Avenue.
 DETROIT—TRI-STATE FILM EXCHANGE, 120 Broadway.
 CLEVELAND—TRI-STATE FILM EXCHANGE, Sincere Building.
 CINCINNATI—TRI-STATE FILM EXCHANGE, 23 Opera Place.
 CHICAGO—ART DRAMAS SERVICE, 207 South Wabash Avenue.
 DALLAS—SOUTHERN ART DRAMAS CORPORATION, 1911 Commerce Street.
 SALT LAKE CITY—PHOTOPLAY EXCHANGE, 137 East 2nd Street South.
 DENVER—PHOTOPLAY EXCHANGE, Welton Street.
 KANSAS CITY—STANDARD FILM CORPORATION, 1305 Walnut Street.
 ST. LOUIS—STANDARD FILM CORPORATION, 304 Empress Theatre Building.
 DES MOINES—STANDARD FILM CORPORATION.
 SAN FRANCISCO—SOL. L. LESSER, 234 Eddy Street.
 LOS ANGELES—SOL. L. LESSER, 514 West 8th Street.

OR ADDRESS

ART DRAMAS INCORPORATED

116 WEST 39TH STREET NEW YORK CITY

ART DRAMASSOL LESSER

Secures

ART DRAMAS

"I have contracted for the entire ART DRAMA program, after a thorough investigation and because I have faith in the men behind the organization. I believe in the ART DRAMAS policy because it means star stories without the inflated star.

"Both Exhibitor and Exchange Man have a chance to live with ART DRAMAS because the producer is content with a small but sure profit."

(Signed) SOL LESSER.

CALIFORNIA — ARIZONA — NEVADA

FOR COMPLETE INFORMATION ABOUT ART DRAMAS ADDRESS

SOL LESSER

234 Eddy Street
San Francisco, California

514 West 8th Street
Los Angeles, California

116 WEST 39TH STREET NEW YORK CITY

THE MESSAGE THAT IS MAKING
THE WIRES OF A NATION HUM:

Buy

MORMON MAID

PRESENTING
MAE MURRAY

CONTROLLED BY
FRIEDMAN ENTERPRISES
Benjamin Friedman, President
HILLER & WILK, SELLING AGENTS
SUITE 924 LONGACRE BLDG. NEW YORK

THE DERWENT HALL MASTER

PUBLICITY FOR STATE RIGHTS MEN
AND EXHIBITORS ALREADY ESTABLISHED.
WITH THE EXCEPTION OF ROBINSON
CRUSOE AND UNCLE TOM'S CABIN, THIS STORY
HAS HAD A WIDER CIRCLE OF READERS THAN ANY OTHER WORK OF ROMANTIC FICTION

DERWENT HALL
CAINE

IN HALL CAINE'S GREAT STORY, PRESENTED IN NINE REELS OF THRILLING
DRAMATIC PICTURES.

A PREDICTION

BEFORE THE EXPIRATION OF THE CURRENT YEAR, THIS PHOTO-DRAMA WILL BE ACKNOWLEDGED THE BIGGEST MONEY PROPOSITION FOR STATE RIGHTS MEN AND EXHIBITORS AMONG ALL CONTEMPORANEOUS RELEASES

WORLD PICTURES BRADY-MADE

The Only
SPECIAL
Pictures
On A Regular Program

—

THE PICTURES
THAT SELL YOUR SEATS

ROBERT
WARWICK
June Elvidge

—IN—

"A GIRL'S FOLLY"

RELEASED
FEBRUARY 26

ETHEL CLAYTON

—IN—

"THE WEB OF DESIRE"

RELEASED
MARCH 5

All are
WORLD-PICTURES

ALICE
BRADY

—IN—

"THE
DANCER'S PERIL"

RELEASED
MARCH 12

CARLYLE BLACKWELL

June Elvidge, Arthur Ashley and Evelyn Greeley

—IN—

"THE SOCIAL LEPER"

RELEASED
MARCH 19

GAIL KANE

—IN—

"AS MAN MADE HER"

RELEASED
MARCH 26

BRADY—MADE

All in Keys Regular Service

SKINNER Smashes

Box office records in "SKINNER'S DRESS SUIT"

More SKINNER Smashes coming!

Second big SKINNER feature:

"SKINNER'S BIG IDEA"

Third big SKINNER feature:

"SKINNER'S BABY"

Fourth big SKINNER feature:

"SKINNER'S WATERLOO"

A great Essanay feature:

"SATAN'S PRIVATE DOOR"

Just out, Selig's great feature:

"LITTLE LOST SISTER"

What other Service gives such consistent value as K.-E.-S.-E.?

||||||| 52 IN A YEAR |||||

KLEINE-EDISON-SELIG-ESSANAY

80 Fifth Avenue, New York City

Branches Everywhere

THE MISHAPS of MUSTY SUFFER

(Third series; one a week, beginning April 1)

You make walking, talking advertisements for your theatre every time you show one of these snappy one-reel comedies.

Harry Watson, Jr., fairly sizzles with fun.
Appealing to grown-up persons and juveniles

He Makes 'em Laugh.

You Make the Money.

Release dates

April 1. The Fried Egg Hero.	May 6. Pure and Simple.
April 8. The Soda Jerker.	May 13. Spliced and Iced.
April 15. Wet and Dry.	May 20. Starlight Sleep.
April 22. Truly Rural.	May 27. Musty B. Young.
April 29. The Ladder of Fame.	June 3. Musty's Vacation.

Communicate at once with

KLEINE-EDISON-SELIG-ESSANAY

80 Fifth Avenue, New York City

Branches Everywhere

Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay Service

By special arrangement with F. Ziegfeld Jr.
GEORGE KLEINE Presents

Miss

Billie Burke
in
GLORIA'S ROMANCE

Supported by HENRY KOLKER

A Motion Picture Novel by Mr. and Mrs. RUPERT HUGHES

The most beautiful and fascinating of all screen stars—a story far above the average photo-novel—stage settings of a de luxe sort—magnificent costumes—all these things united to make "Gloria's Romance" the serial supreme. It is pronounced by exhibitors everywhere superior to all others. Why book any other serial when you can play THE BEST? Billie Burke in "Gloria's Romance" means turn-away business for your theatre for twenty weeks. This unusual motion picture novel will bring prosperity to YOUR house. It can be obtained now at a low rental price. Get in touch TO-DAY with the nearest Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay exchange, or write

GEORGE KLEINE

80 Fifth Avenue

New York City

Stamped as Money Makers!

And so stamped by exhibitors who have TRIED and PROVED the worth of these Essanay features.

Read their comments:

The Chicago Exhibitors' Own Reviewing Service Says:

"'BURNING THE CANDLE'—Essanay human interest drama featuring HENRY B. WALTHALL and Mary Charleson. The acting of Mr. Walthall and Miss Charleson is very good. It is an interesting story and well told. Will go over good. Photography and scenery good. Rated 90."

E. [C. Bostwick, Merrill Theatre, Milwaukee, Wis., Says:

"'SKINNER'S DRESS SUIT' drew 8,490 admissions, 2,000 more than the previous house record. It is without doubt the best picture we have shown, and will please every man, woman and child. We are repeating it for a three-day run. BRYANT WASHBURN is wonderful."

"'LITTLE SHOES' shows HENRY WALTHALL in an entirely new role. I played to capacity business with it. Walthall's acting was great, and our patrons were greatly pleased."

TRADEMARK
Reg. U. S. Pat. 1907

ESSANAY

GEORGE K. SPOOR, PRESIDENT

1333 ARGYLE STREET, CHICAGO

PRODUCERS OF PICTURES FOR THE FAMILY

TRADEMARK
Reg. U. S. Pat. 1907

Aaron J. Jones, Pres.Peter J. Schaefer, Vice Pres.Adolph Linick, Secy. Treas.

Jones Linick & Schaefer Co.

Amusement Enterprises

General Offices
Cyphersum Theater Building
Telephones
Randolph 4420-4421-4422

110-112 S State St.Chicago191

February 27, 1917.

Selig Polyscope Co.,
58 E. Washington St.,
Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen:-

"Beware of Strangers" is completing its third week at the La Salle Opera House where the crowds have been numerous at performance;

READ THIS

every in fact, upon two occasions we have had to ask for police reserves to keep them in order.

While the picture is an intensely interesting one, the box-office is conclusive evidence that it is a sound success.

Very truly yours,

JONES, LINICK & SCHAEFER COMPANY.

Per

Wesph. Betting

General Representative.

General Film Service

"THE BOOB"

He lived in Pleasant Valley, did "The Boob," and he yearned to be a detective. When the gentlemanly stranger arrived on "secret service," well, "The Boob" parted with his egg and butter money—one hundred bones in all—for a bright shield and a "diploma." The Pleasant Valley post-office was robbed. "The Boob" confronted the cracksman. There in the dead of night they struggled—the crook and the boy. And what happened? Well, "The Boob" proved in the end a "boob" no longer! He brought a shrewd criminal to justice and he won the enduring love of the girl.

"The Boob" is the latest of Selig multiple reel releases in General Film service. It is a comedy-drama with laughs and tears.

Among single reel dramas, "The Greater Punishment" will be found exceptionally good. Visit the nearest General Film exchange and see these film dramas.

The staff of The Selig-Tribune, the World's Greatest News Reel, were appointed official photographers for the Presidential inauguration at Washington. Inauguration scenes in the Selig-Tribune become official archives of the U. S. Senate. A tribute to the worth of Filmland's most popular news film!

SELIG POLYSCOPE CO.
CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

Two SERIES With But a Single Purpose —To MAKE MONEY for Exhibitors!

Let's get down to facts. You are an Exhibitor of motion pictures. You know a good picture when you see it. Seeing is believing. Ask your nearest General Film Exchange to screen an episode of

"THE AMERICAN GIRL"

Featuring MARIN SAIS

for you, then we are sure that you will do the only thing left for you to do—Book the entire SERIES. And if that isn't the fairest, squarest proposition you ever considered, we're through.

Directed by James W. Horne.

Isn't it worth the little time it will take to sit through an episode of this de luxe SERIES of Railroad stories, to prove our claims for it? Your nearest General Film Exchange is anxious to show you

"A DAUGHTER OF DARING"

Featuring HELEN GIBSON

Can you do a more sensible thing than follow in the footsteps of hundreds of your fellow exhibitors who are literally coining money with these unmatched thrillers? It is certainly up to you. Now directed by James Davis.

"HAM" Comedies

It would take reams of paper to hold all the happy things we might say about "HAM" Comedies, but no—you must see one of the new SERIES for yourself. Right away you'll want every one that comes along. They're money makers, too. Directed by Al Santell.

KALEM COMPANY
235 West 23rd St., New York City

"GRANT, POLICE REPORTER"

If ever there was a happy thought for a SERIES, it finds expression in these weekly stories of adventure written by Robert Welles Ritchie. Featuring George Larkin and Ollie Kirkby. Directed by Robert Ellis.

"FROM THE MANGER TO THE CROSS"

The Easter Season approaches and our supply of prints of this Biblical Masterpiece is very limited. We again urge you to write us direct for open dates. Splendid advertising aids available.

Entered at the General Post Office, New York City, as Second Class Matter
J. P. CHALMERS, Founder.
 Published Weekly by the

CHALMERS PUBLISHING COMPANY

17 MADISON AVENUE, NEW YORK CITY.
 (Telephone, 3510 Madison Square)

J. P. Chalmers, Sr. President
 J. F. Chalmers. Vice-President
 E. J. Chalmers. Secretary and Treasurer
 John Wylie. General Manager

The office of the company is the address of the officers.

CHICAGO OFFICE—Suite 917-919 Schiller Building, 64 West Randolph St., Chicago, Ill. Telephone, Central 5099.

PACIFIC COAST OFFICE—Haas Building, Seventh St. and Broadway, Los Angeles, Cal. Telephone, Broadway 4649.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

United States, Mexico, Hawaii, Porto Rico and
 Philippine Islands$3.00 per year
 Canada 3.50 per year
 Foreign Countries (Postpaid)..... 4.00 per year

Changes of address should give both old and new addresses in full and be clearly written. Two weeks' time may be required to effect the alteration.

ADVERTISING RATES.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING—One dollar for twenty words or less;
 over twenty words, five cents per word.

DISPLAY ADVERTISING RATES made known on application.

NOTE—Address all correspondence, remittances and subscriptions to MOVING PICTURE WORLD, P. O. Box 226, Madison Square Station, New York, and not to individuals.

(Index to this issue will be found on page 2168.)

"CINE-MUNDIAL," the monthly Spanish edition of the Moving Picture World, is published at 17 Madison Avenue by the Chalmers Publishing Company. It reaches the South American market. Yearly subscription, $1.50. Advertising rates on application.

Saturday, March 31, 1917

Facts and Comments

AS FORECAST in last week's issue of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD, the Wheeler Legislative Committee, whose report as submitted to the New York State Legislative is printed in full in this issue, recommends legislation creating "some means whereby the production, distribution and exhibition in this state of that class of pictures [improper and indecent sex and vice pictures] could be prohibited and prevented without serious industry to the reputable concerns in the industry." The report states that "The Committee believes that the public welfare demands the immediate creation in this State of a department or bureau which shall take and have charge of the licensing of the various persons, firms, corporations and associations engaged in this State in the production, distribution or exhibition of motion pictures, and the operation of the machines used in such exhibitions, and to regulate, as is done in the City of New York, the character of pictures so to be exhibited; and that a suitable license tax or fee be imposed, to be fixed at a graduated rate or calculated in whole or in part upon the extent of business done or the quantity and amount of films handled."

*

Another important conclusion drawn by the committee and submitted to the lawmaking body is "That while in the past enormous profits have been made . . . and while some are doing well now, yet the conditions due to the European War, and the transformation which is now going on in the business, make it inadvisable at the present time to single out that particular industry as a subject for special taxation. The Committee, however, is of the opinion that upon the return of normal conditions, that industry as well as the whole amusement field may well be brought within such a scheme of taxation in this State." In this connection the Committee reports that "taken as a whole the condition of the industry is not as spectacularly prosperous as it was a few years ago. This is due in part to wastefulness in management, to reckless cut-throat competition, to the incapacity of many of those who have sought quick profits and also very largely to the European War."

*

Exhibitors all over the country should take especial interest in the paragraph in the report which states:

"The Committee is satisfied from its investigation that as a rule the proprietor or owner of the small motion picture theater, wherever located, is making an exceedingly small profit from his business, and in many cases none whatever, and that it would be an injustice to him to attempt to impose any substantial additional burden."

* * *

ATENTION is called by a producing company to the fact that when its cameraman attempted to film the execution of the whipping post punishment in force in Delaware against a certain class of malefactors the authorities postponed the execution until the cameraman had left town. Referring to this incident the Philadelphia North American took occasion to remark: "What is not proper for the movies to film is certainly not proper for the populace of Delaware State." Both are wrong: There is no place in the movies for scenes attending the execution of any sentence of the law of a corporal nature. The action of the Delaware authorities in waiting for the cameraman to leave town before fulfilling the law's decree was most considerate; they should have warned him away or taken over the custody of his camera for the time being.

* * *

THE salaries of the proposed "itinerant" Michigan board of state moving picture censors are not large, points out the Saginaw News, but they are ample on the obtaining system. And consider the "aisiness" of it. Nothing to do but travel about from place to place, and go to the moving picture shows; a regular dream if not a nightmare of a life. For this proposed board is to be an itinerant one, and of course "expenses" have to be allowed in addition to the salaries. It is quite evident a moving picture censor would develop wit enough to make that "expenses" account cover a multitude of salary deficiencies. And that the censors may not be subject to undue strain, they are not to rely on their own judgment entirely, "but are to take the judgment of the community in which the picture is shown." Which of course infers that to be an official censor the possession of good judgment is by no means requisite. Also it seems to imply that some means must be devised to get the community which is to judge to attend the exhibition. Altogether, this proposition seems to have delightful features all its own, and is funnier than anything yet shown in pictures, Charlie not barred."

Shall Stylists Write Scenarios? By Louis Reeves Harrison

AUTHORS usually possess decided individualities, and their distinctive characteristics have quite as much to do with their financial mishaps as their artistic success, though many of them are as keen on getting just reward for service rendered as their more cautious and calculating brothers of the market place. Sincere and courageous explorers of the unknown, pioneers of human thought, they rarely accomplish their high purposes because of the tremendous sacrifices involved and because it is necessary for each one to combine within himself a large number of exceptionally well-developed human qualities.

Each must start with an almost exhaustless font of creative imagination most carefully nurtured under favorable circumstances and acquire accurate constructive imagination during the growth of native genius, but all this, even including the study of noted examples in literature, is a source of pleasure, while mastery of that most complicated of all medium, written language, is not accomplished without great pains. It is extremely difficult for most of us to say clearly and convincingly what we mean.

Now an author no sooner reaches a point where he can give adequate and satisfactory expression to his thoughts and feelings than he discovers that there is a vague beyond, which I confess never to have penetrated, known as "style," a beautiful and intangible rainbow which the rest of us are permitted to contemplate at a distance with a new sense of joy that we are alive. That "style" is a very precious thing no one could doubt after reading what Ellis Parker Butler has to say in the Bulletin of the Author's League for February on "Wasting Time." That he is a man of strong convictions is not here questioned.

"I want to say," Mr. Butler opens, "in a very loud voice, that the writer of short stories should waste mighty little time doing motion picture scenarios." He continues later, "It is not his business, it wastes his time, it takes his mind off his proper work, it injures his style—if he has one—and it is unprofitable in the extreme." * * * "The short story writer who can sell short stories regularly is, today, a craftsman of a very high order." * * * "When he takes up scenario writing he is entering the field of another group of specialists who are, or are rapidly becoming, masters of an entirely separate craft." * * * "I have had my fill of scenario writing and for me it is—never again!"

In this last sentence we find the source of Mr. Parker's decided conviction. In a frank and manly way he acknowledges that he has failed as a writer of scenarios. So have millions of others, including quite a number of successful short story writers. There is a ring of truth in Mr. Parker's statements that there is a decided difference in the application of general principles to the making of a short story and the formulation of a scenario. That he is writing sincerely from the fullness of personal experience no one need doubt. That he is reasoning correctly from his premises is entirely another matter.

From novelists, from dramatists, even from short story writers motion picture producers may eventually obtain their best scripts. The craft of writing for screen production requires study, and it could be more easily acquired by authors than by any other class—they are men of trained minds already familiar with general principles of construction—but it begins to look as though the writers who make a specialty of presenting their stories in scenario form will have the field to themselves for a while.

In the same number of the Bulletin is a calculation by Channing Pollock, who has done his fellow authors more than one great service in helping them to solve their vexatious problems. Under the title of "Some Bookkeeping," Mr. Pollock makes a frank statement of what he received for fifteen scenarios sold in the "fruitful autumn" of 1916. Some of them brought sixteen hundred dollars apiece, and none less than one thousand dollars. Probably because the work was new to him he collaborated, but the fact remains that the autumn season brought in over fifteen thousand dollars. Mr. Butler may have been hasty in assuming that no other author could succeed in a new field where he had failed.

In the same number of the Bulletin is a report of the Motion Picture Committee: Rex Beach, chairman; Rupert Hughes, Channing Pollock, George Barr McCutcheon, Irvin S. Cobb, Mrs. Anna Steese Richardson, Louis Joseph Vance and Mrs. Wilson Woodrow. After careful consideration of the experiences of authors with motion picture producers the committee agreed that organized piracy is common enough to be a menace, that mutilation of stories is a universal practice, that the author's compensation bears an absurd ratio to the ultimate profit of production, and much else, including a statement that authors are largely responsible for their own unpleasant experiences.

During many years I have set forth the larger part of these facts where they would reach the attention of producers, and when I began authors were not receiving anything like present rates of compensation—they were not recognized on the screen at all. I have foreseen that authorship would eventually become a big factor in production and have constantly urged greater justice to those who create the story, but there is another side.

Long after people were attending the picture shows to the extent of twelve or fifteen million a day authors refused to recognize that there was such a thing as art in production or craftsmanship in writing scenarios. Many of them are just as bigoted today, unable to perceive that here is a new medium of expression which addresses itself directly and powerfully to story-loving people. Just as producers were first attracted by the amount of profit to be made, so authors descended from their lofty ideals to pick up a little easy money by marketing rejected scripts.

Some of those scripts have come to my attention. In comparison with the thorough work done by men who know how to write for visualization on the screen they were ridiculous. An occasional one was copied in a scenario department and preserved as a joke. No member of the Motion Picture Committee feels more deeply than I do the injustice done authors, but it is just as well for those who seek equity to present themselves in equity. There is a mass of evidence existing to show that authors have not been scrupulous in their dealings with producers. The shortest route to better understanding is through sincerity on both sides.

Mr. Butler is right—it is doubtful whether the author who has a style to spoil will ever succeed in this new art. The ingredients of verbal cocktails are appetizing, but those who go to the picture show are not afflicted with jaded appetites—they are ready to eat. There must be something served beside the cocktail. The stylist provides a relish for what is to come except when he makes the stimulant so strong that we forget whether we have read a story or not. Stripped of its beautiful verbiage, the average short story of style will not fill a split reel. It serves, however, to make us enjoy a good story when we happen to find one.

PRESENT STAFF OF THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

Editorial D

CHAS. S.
SEWELL

E.T. KEYSER

JOHN A.
ARCHER

MARGARET I.
Mac DONALD

GEORGE
BLAISDELL

JAMES L.
HOFF

CLARENCE
E. SINN

LOUIS REEVES
HARRISON

EPES WINTHROP
SARGENT

JOHN A.
BELL

WENDELL
P. MILLIGAN

A. MAC
ARTHUR

ADVERTISING
DEPARTMENT

Department

SAM S.
SPEDON

JOHN J.
ROTCHFORD

BEN H.
GRIMM

H. C. JUDSON

ROBERT M'ELRAVY

EDWARD WEITZEL

F. H. RICHARDSON

REV. W. H.
JACKSON

CARL LOUIS
GREGORY

RANDALL M.
WHITE

GUSTAV FAUSEL

THORNTON
FISHER
CARTOONIST

SING-ENT

CHICAGO OFFICE

LOS ANGELES OFFICE

SPANISH EDITION

CINE MUNDIAL

MOVING PICTURE
WORLD

Sunday Opening Protests By Sam Spedon

FROM the Utica, N. Y., Daily Press, of March 5 we reprint for the benefit of our readers a number of heated protests from several opponents of Sunday motion pictures at a meeting held in Westminster Church, Utica, on the previous evening. To these protests we give answers from the viewpoint of a layman who is an advocate of Sunday pictures and begs to differ with the gentlemen and their published protests:

Seward A. Miller, attorney-at-law, appeared as a representative of the laymen. He said in part: "The Sabbath is a sacred institution, and its observance has been made a law by the canons of every Christian church. From the time our fathers landed on Plymouth Rock, the observance of Sunday has been woven into our life. The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court says it is essential to the rest all need. It is upheld by the dictates of public policy. In effect it says that the Sabbath is part of our institutions, a fundamental part of our life and government."

There is labor in the production of a moving picture show. The speaker commended the present administration of the city of Utica in standing against Sunday moving picture shows. Such a show is only a theatrical performance on a smaller scale, and it certainly is a matter of labor which is forbidden by the statutes. "Are Sunday movies inherently right or inherently wrong? The purpose behind them is simply avarice. We should not make the almighty dollar the chief factor on Sunday. Such pictures are not necessary on Sunday, for all can attend them during the week. The Sabbath was made for man, but he should use it for mental moral and spiritual development, and moving pictures do not contribute to either of these. The statute should be strengthened in such a way that there will be left no loophole by which Sunday movies could be shown."

How about the sexton, Mr. Miller? He has to make the church fires, trim the lights as well as keep the sidewalks clean. How about the servants at home who are preparing the meals for bodily sustenance while the rest of the folks at church are partaking of spiritual refreshment. Sunday the pastor does his hardest work of the week, and claims the laborer is worthy of his hire.

Decent, wholesome Sunday "movies" are just as essential for recreation and rest on Sundays as books and music, and more so than long-winded and prosaic dissertations. The picturization of books, classic, standard, historic and popular in moving pictures are sufficient to supply a choice library every Sunday, just as essential to our moral and mental consideration as stereopticon pictures used by churches.

Dr. J. Howard Hobbs spoke of the quality of films concerning children. He said: "I have seen some films that no child can look upon with benefit. They are bad enough for adults. But there are some very deadly seeds that may be sown in young minds. I wish to commend the movement in this city for better films for children. I have seen children coming away from moving picture shows at 10:30 or 11 o'clock at night, whose parents did not know where they were. For the sake of the children let us ask for better films. Provision is being made for better manners and better morals, and a cleaner type of pictures. Children will go where other children go. We owe a duty to say that there shall be better films for children's eyes."

Mr. Hobbs, we have known youngsters to go to church at night and after service take their sweethearts home, the longest way 'round, and spend their contributions for sweets, while their parents waited up for them in fear and trembling, not knowing whether they had gone astray or what had happened to them. On other nights they were kept up 'till all hours rehearsing for some entertainment or at church fairs.

We have heard passages of scriptures read in church and Sunday schools that no child or adult could listen to without a blush and a shudder, and in some instances they were positively shocking.

Rev. A. G. Judd, of the South Street M. E. Church, said: "I feel righteous indignation when commercialized vice tries to rob us of our Christian Sabbath, and to debauch our manhood, womanhood and childhood. It is more than shocking when we know what men will do for the sake of their pockets. I have seen on screens pictures not fit for any child to look upon. Now they demand that they shall have the privilege of showing the same things on Sunday, for the sake of increasing their own wad. This meeting tonight is a healthy indication of our protest. It is a good sign that we gather here and are willing to wait. It is a sign of a church militant. We are confronted with the questions: Shall Sunday be other than a day of recreation and amusement? We demand that the laws of the state shall protect us from these evils. This question is wrapped up with our flag, with the question of prosperity. The Stars and Stripes stand for a Christian country and a Christian people."

Mr. Judd, we live in close proximity to a church that gives stereopticon lectures Sunday nights and takes up a silver collection, nothing less than ten cents. Isn't this commercializing the church? Can you tell me the difference between a motion picture news reel and stereopticon pictures? We appreciate your flag peroration; the Stars and Stripes always makes a strong finish.

Rev. O. R. Miller, of Albany, state superintendent of the New York Civic League, was the principal speaker, and said in part: "There is great interest in this question all over the State. We are opposed to the bill for Sunday movies, because they are not needed. They can be shown six days a week when all can go. In many residential districts, these shows have become a great nuisance. It makes a noisy crowd and a great disturbance on Sunday. It commercializes the Christian Sabbath. It is God's day, and a day of rest and worship. It is no more right to open moving pictures on Sunday than to open saloons on Sunday. Sunday movies would demoralize church services Sunday evening. Where there is no Christian Sabbath, there is no Christian morality. It is against the interests of labor. It is wrong to work a man seven days a week, especially when he gets pay for only six days. When men lose their respect for the Sabbath, manufacturers will compel them to work on Sunday. Many of these pictures are immoral, and should not be appropriate for Sunday. As it will injure public morals, such a law would be unconstitutional. If New York State should pass such a bill, it would be quoted on the floor of every Legislature in this country."

Perhaps, Mr. Miller, you can recall the time when revivalists held revival meetings which were nothing short of orgies. The godly participants became so wrought up with religion they shouted and groaned like coyotes, jumped and rolled about in paroxysms of spiritual fervor. All hours of night and morning the churches tolled bells, disturbed the sick and robbed people of their rest on the Sabbath day. These revival meetings were demoralizing and the clanging of bells was a decided nuisance. You know that the Sabbath is a legal holiday, and all legal holidays are fixed by law; no man can be forced to work on Sunday, and no man can be forced to go to church on Sunday. It would be unconstitutional to make him go. As a matter of information, let us tell you that Indiana has passed a bill permitting the showing of motion pictures on Sunday, with certain restrictions, and that is all that is asked. You may not need moving pictures on Sunday; there are others who do, they cannot afford time and money to take their whole family more than once a week, and Sunday is their preference.

Dr. Pratt was frequently interrupted by applause as he talked of this Nation as peculiarly a Christian Nation, and called the democracy a political aspect of Christianity as the church, school and hospital are other aspects of Christianity.

We doubt, Dr. Pratt, that any class of citizens has contributed and done more for charity than theatrical people and the moving picture theaters, within the short time of their existence, and more willing to co-operate with schools and churches for the welfare and education of the masses.

Why, under the proper supervision and restrictions, there should be such an outburst of protest and so much holy horror expressed against the showing of moving pictures on Sunday is a matter that arouses much speculation.

We do not wish to discount the good intentions of those who are fearful of the prostitution of any institution of restraint, but we do question their knowledge of the subject and the wisdom of the views they express. We have laws, police and license supervision to protect us against the violation of decency and order. We should show confidence in these provisions and we should not condemn innocent amusement on any day of the week nor accredit to the vast majority a desire to demoralize and violate their privileges.

The church is an institution supported by its patrons. It must in many ways procure the money necessary to maintain it. No one would think of going to any church without giving some money towards its support. In many instances churches rent pews and get their members to subscribe certain amounts of money and they are told this money must be collected to pay the minister, sexton, taxes and other upkeep. Churches frankly admit they cannot keep open without the necessary revenue. Is not all this a commercialization of the church? Is it not a contradiction of the invitation to come partake of the waters of life without money, without price? We do not denounce the church because it asks for money to carry on the business of the church. We do not denounce the church because it employs different methods to attract to its services, whether it be the Billy Sunday or the more ritualistic method. You say the church is for the moral and spiritual uplift of people. We claim that moving pictures can be employed to the same end and we can prove that people have been benefited by them morally and spiritually; they have kept them away from the saloons and other dissipation. We will concede that some persons, through thought suggestions of moving pictures, have done things they ought not to have done. You must admit that the church by its zealousness and fanaticism, has led people to commit crimes in the name of religion that have steeped municipalities and nations in blood, and there has been much spiritual wickedness in high places. Aye more, it has obsessed zealots with such extreme bigotry they have made life an abiding hell, and religious parents have made the home a place to be shunned by their children or have cast such a gloom over their lives they grow to be morbid and distrustful of themselves and everybody else.

"You'll all admit that there's various kinds of cheatin'
And religion's as good for every day as it is to bring to meetin'.

I don't give much for the man who says the loud amens at the pastor's preachin'

And spends his time the rest of the week in cheating and over-reachin'.

If the Sabbath was made for man, it was made for decent and orderly rest and recreation. Why, then, try to impress upon his mind that it is more sacred than the other six days of the week and that God is confined within the four walls of a church. Why emphasize the fourth commandment and neglect to teach and enforce the other nine. Teach the young and practice yourselves all the commandments all the time and you need not fear that they or you will depart therefrom.

MRS. CHARLES K. FRENCH DEAD.

The friends of Charles K. French will regret to learn that Helen, his wife, beloved by all who knew her, died Monday, March 12, in Edendale, Los Angeles, Cal., from the effects of severe burns she received about three weeks ago.

Patriotism and Nature

PATRIOTISM is running high in the leading New York theaters at this time, each week sees something distinctly encouraging to the enthusiasm which abounds. A good series of slides was used recently for the purpose of showing "Men of the Hour" in American history. Beginning with Washington of course, the others included Lincoln, Grant, McKinley and, of course, Wilson as the deserver of an undivided support. A large picture of Uncle Sam is shown with his finger pointed toward the audience while the inscription, "Young men, we want you," is there to be read; the applause would denote entire approval of the demand.

The inaugural ceremonies at Washington are given a large place, a fairly close picture of the President taking the oath as administered by Chief Justice White is a good thing to show young America everywhere; we wish that in these important "close ups" the photographer would give a little longer time, and a little more detail; too often such an important scene is so hurried and abbreviated that just enough is shown to make everyone annoyed that at least another half was not given. Various uses of the American flag are so frequently made upon the screen during each exhibition of topical subjects, that it is beginning to seem as though the moving picture houses will be the greatest sources of patriotic enthusiasm throughout the country, if all other cities and towns follow the good example of New York.

The Prizma pictures at the Strand are filling the predictions made of them, and answering to all expectations; some good pictures of the American troops on the Mexican border are shown, the natural colors greatly increasing the interest and attractiveness of the picture. It would seem, however, that this class of picture does not afford occasion to do full justice the powers of Prizma. Too much of a sameness detracts from the qualities which are without doubt enfolded within Prizma's possibilities; the great welcome which is manifest shows that these pictures are deservedly growing in popularity, indeed nothing else was to be expected.

The Salisbury pictures at the Rialto are evidences of a wide application of the moving picture in so far that some 65,000 feet of film were used upon this now famous 12,000-mile trip. Rex Beach was also one of those on this extended hunt. The waters of Central and South America, the San Blas Islands and the Spanish Main were the "hunting grounds" visited. The hunting of wild ducks and geese from specially constructed raft-like floats, which conceal the hunters and affords occasion for some large "bags," is at once a sporting and natural history picture, as it must by this time be well known that any pictures which have any connection with the name of Salisbury must be of the very highest product in the realm of unrevealed natural history. The film contains some interesting coast scenery, that given at this time being the coast of Cuba, particularly Havana, with its harbors and famous Morro Castle or forts. A brief series of sea lion pictures is included. While to see a few sea lions is not new, to see what seems to be hundreds of them climbing upon high rocks and diving in great crowds in the deep sea is certainly more thrilling, and presents the great contrast between a few animals in captivity and hundreds of them in their native surroundings; it is these "at home" pictures of all kinds of animals, birds and fishes, that make this class of picture at once thrilling, entertaining, and especially instructive.

Some very pretty spring flower pictures in natural colors were also seen at this theater. Under the attractive title of "Opening Buds," the beautiful Cyclamen and Jonquils with others of their class were shown singularly appropriate at this time of the year.

Raving Preachers and Moving Pictures By the Rev. W. H. Jackson

A LETTER from a Texas subscriber asks us to deal with a situation of importance to him and, as he also rightly believes, of importance to many others under similar circumstances. The situation as revealed through a newspaper clipping is that of an evangelist severely berating the moving pictures in the course of his evidently very wild preaching. Before dealing with the subject matter of which our subscriber justly complains, it may perhaps be better to deal with the evangelist personally, as the majority of people do not know just how to measure these men or to distinguish between the good and bad of them.

About twenty-five years ago when the justly famous Evangelist Dwight L. Moody was at the zenith of his power, the country was flooded with a host of imitators who wrought sad havoc by their ignorant aspirations and their more ignorant methods of simulating a man of special gifts, to the great disgust of well-meaning and good-thinking people everywhere. In like manner today, there are a number of men whose only capital is their ability to imitate the speech, manners, and methods of "Billy" Sunday; it was and is anticipated that the country will be full of them. From the newspaper before us we cannot but feel that the man who has been annoying the city where our subscriber writes from must be one of these imitators, whose lack of judgment and bad manners, together with an ignorant violence of speech (which he probably flatters himself is as incisive as "Billy" Sunday's), and whose criticisms are as baseless as they are senseless, stamp him with the mark of imitator.

In his wild charge this man's ravings against moving pictures include the five greatest crimes under the law, declaring that they are committed "without number," at the same time proudly boasting that if he could not prove his charges he would "surrender his position." What a pity that it was not possible to take him at his word on the spot. If this could have been done the world would have been rid of another member of that little army of satellites who, being without personal power or merit, must needs follow a greater one.

It is the easiest possible thing in the world to criticise and to hold up the false and the base. To do so is the chief asset of those of such low gifts, and in doing that sort of thing they are like that class of animal which revels in mud, but, being human, they become mud-slingers. It is well known that there have been improper pictures, it is also equally well known to all but the willfully ignorant that the picture trade has been the means of preventing the development of this unwelcome class of trade. The enemies of the moving pictures are only those like this pseudo-preacher, who can only emphasize their weak cause by a violent outburst about the evils of a thing rather than the good. The writer has often wished that he might follow one of this class of defamers by an address on "The Great Good of the Moving Pictures"; the differences would be astonishing to the average audience.

Is it worth while calling attention to the fact that what these defamers of moving pictures say can equally be applied to almost anything else that feeds the public mind. Among newspapers there are the despised "yellow journals," but for that reason we do not call upon people to abolish the good papers. Let one stand before the great bookstands in our large railroad stations; he will find a larger assortment of indecent magazines than of any other kind; we do not therefore despise all the good magazines. Take for instance the large stationery stores where picture postal cards are made a specialty. The proportion of improper ones is astonishingly large; for this reason we do not despise the good postals. Furthermore, although it is possible to trace crime to "yellow journalism," to improper books and pictures, yet we do not make a demand upon people to fight against all these things "to save their souls from hell," as per this notorious evangelist. On the contrary we direct their attention to that which is good and beneficial among the very things criticised. Read the news in the papers, read all the good books you can, make as fine a collection of picture postals as possible—they are splendid reminders of both travel and friends; also, see all the good moving pictures you possibly can—there is nothing can give such intelligent entertainment, there is nothing so educating; they are at once the poor man's entertainer and educator.

Looking at results it is easy to compute that the minimum amount of good that moving pictures have done is of far greater importance than the maximum amount of evil that their abuse has provoked, so that at their least estimate they have proved beneficial. This being so, what shall be said of their highest attainments? Churches, schools and colleges are using them to the greatest possible advantage, acknowledging that they are at once the greatest educators and entertainers of the age, and, as an invention, rank second only to printing in their value to the world.

As a contrast it is worth while looking into the opposition which the pictures meet with at the present day. They have outlived the early opposition of the church at large, which at first did not understand them, but are now realizing that the more they know them the more they like them, and the more they use them. The chief opposition they meet with today comes from saloonkeepers and raving preachers; the former because he finds he is losing his trade, the latter because he is looking for something to rave about and seizes upon that which is most popular, hoping thereby to increase his own popularity; anything else would do just as well if it were popular, because such must be the food upon which these people feed to make them great; they are wily enough to know that to assail that which most people know about will set the greatest number of people talking, and that cheap popularity is what they want.

We trust our Texan subscribers will feel that we have come to their assistance, also that our answer will fill their requirements, and further hope that by all means this answer may obtain the same publicity in their local papers as did the unbridled and evil charges of the wild talker they have complained about. We would further encourage our subscribers with the assurance that their moving picture houses will be giving the people good entertainments, and that moving pictures generally will be educating their children, long after these violent defamers are forgotten.

If there was ever anything discovered or invented that was destined to have a permanent place in the development of the people at large it is the moving picture. It has the blending of the best in the arts and sciences for the good of all within its composition. It is neither whim, nor fancy, or toy, but a power—a power which has already become the fifth industry in the world, the world's universal entertainer, and, judging from present indications, will inevitably become identified very largely with the world's future education.

Perhaps before dismissing the matter it might be well, seeing that the cause for this defense originates in an attack from a supposedly religious movement, to draw attention to the religious uses of the pictures. For the first time in history we are indebted to the moving pictures for a series of views of every part of the Holy Land made sacred by the life of the Saviour; we are indebted to them for detailed views of "Egypt in the Time of Moses"; the Bible has been made clearer and brought nearer to the people by these means, and Sunday schools are enriched as never before; finally, in a truly evangelistic sense they are doing more than wandering, raving evangelists for the permanent religious good of the people, if we can take some of the New York Churches as proofs—here we have services with moving pictures crowding the edifices as nothing else can do; they have solved the problem of the empty church, they are the greatest and best friend of both pastor and people and the results are beyond expectations; the friend of the moving picture is the friend of the people, and the opponent of the pictures, he who would limit their rapidly growing sphere of usefulness, is the people's greatest enemy.

Griffith to Contribute to Artcraft

Famous Director Severs All Connection with Triangle and Fine Arts and Will Produce a Series of Pictures for Artcraft

CLOSELY following the announcement that David W. Griffith had formally severed all connection with the Triangle Fine-Arts producing forces comes the important information that he will produce a series of larger productions for the Artcraft Pictures Corporation, the concluding formalities of which transaction were settled on Saturday, March 17. The details of the contract have not been made public, but Mr. Griffith has authorized this statement:

"The demand on the part of the exhibitors and public throughout the world for a series of productions along the lines I traced in 'The Birth of a Nation' and 'Intolerance' had become so insistent that I would feel almost remiss in duty if I did not pay it heed. In determining upon the purpose of producing such an annual schedule of important cinema offerings, the essential consideration was the choice of distribution which would in the greatest degree respond to this demand. After a very careful analysis of the various distributing organizations operating in the film industry, I came to the conclusion that Artcraft, because of the exalted artistic standard of the productions it has already offered the public, because of its tremendous source of distribution and its equitable and comprehensive policies, was the one organization through which to circulate my productions through the world. I am convinced that I have never had such an opportunity to reach the great heart of mankind with my screen messages. I feel that the degree of success which has been meted out to 'The Birth of a Nation' and 'Intolerance' placed me in the debt of the public which can only be equalized by bending every effort to surpass all my former efforts."

David W. Griffith.

Mr. Griffith intends to concentrate his time and energy in such a manner as to create a number of subjects of wide dramatic and scenic scope in order to comply with the insistent public demand for more Griffith productions than it has recently been receiving. Mr. Griffith's producing force will operate wherever necessary to obtain the scenic investitures of the stories which he selects for production. The devotion to startling realism, for which this noted director is famous will prompt him to ignore every makeshift of environment and induce him to traverse the globe, going to its farthest points if necessary, in search of the exact atmosphere required by the productions he contemplates.

Walter E. Greene, president of the Artcraft Pictures Corporation, in commenting upon this notable producing affiliation, said:

"The alliance between Artcraft and D. W. Griffith, the greatest producing genius that the motion picture art has yet developed, is in accordance with Artcraft's determination to secure the foremost factors, directorial, stellar and technical, in the production of the greatest photoplays the world has yet seen. The policy of presenting several Griffith productions a year will undoubtedly be enthusiastically endorsed by the photoplay public, who have, during the past few years, clearly indicated their fascination for Griffith's tremendous screen masterpieces by flocking by the hundreds of thousands to the regular $2 theaters which have presented his recent successes.

"The affiliation with the man who has given the screen a new significance and who has broadened the powers of the silent drama to an extent never before contemplated will also carry great import to exhibitors throughout the country who have during the past few years been deprived of Mr. Griffith's master screen creations to the advantage of the regular $2 theaters. By this important arrangement Artcraft restores the great Griffith to the picture theaters."

TOM INCE IN CHARGE OF FINE ARTS.

Regarding the withdrawal of D. W. Griffith from Triangle, W. N. Seligsberg, secretary of Triangle Film Corporation, said: "The principal executives of this company are at the present moment at the studios in Los Angeles and are completing plans for unique and larger production. The California production, both at the Culver City (Kay Bee) and Hollywood (Fine Arts) studios will be under the personal supervision of Thomas H. Ince. The new construction work at the Yonkers studio is rapidly being completed and within the next few days production will commence there under Allan Dwan. Details as to the plans will be published to the trade as soon as they are in final shape, but in the meanwhile mention of the two supervising directors is sufficient guaranty of the quality of production."

ALDERMEN TO ATTEND HEARING.

The members of the special committee appointed by the New York Board of Aldermen to go to Albany are the following: Harry Robitzek, chairman; Samuel Friedlander, William T. Collins, Isaac Guttman and Charles H. Haubert. The committee will appear before both houses of the State Legislature, and endeavor as well to see the Governor and advocate immediate passage by the State Legislature of the bill commonly known as the "Sunday Opening Bill," which, in the opinion of the Board of Aldermen, is of great importance to the people of the City of New York.

EDGAR LEWIS PRODUCED "THE BARRIER."

"The Barrier," of which Rex Beach is the author, was directed entirely by Edgar Lewis. Some papers, through error, gave credit for the production to Mr. Beach, who was not even present when the picture was being made and had nothing to do with its direction or the selection of the cast. In fact, Rex Beach wired Mr. Lewis his congratulations on the skill and effort displayed in the production. In all justice and fairness to Mr. Lewis, will you kindly announce this fact in the columns of your paper, that credit may go to whom it belongs.

A FRIEND.

DR. BAMBERGER BACK IN THE GAME.

Dr. Oscar I. Bamberger, who has not figured largely in the motion picture business for some time, is announced as the new director of publicity and advertising of the Ivan Film Productions, Inc. The doctor is an old hand at the film game.

Wheeler Committee Reports By C. L. Grant

Is Against Special Taxation Under Present Trade Conditions, But Recommends Regulation

CONTAINING three important suggestions which will later on be embodied in a bill that will be presented to the New York Legislature, the Wheeler investigating committee has completed its work and made its report. Senator James Walker, a member of the committee, did not sign the report, his action being taken on political grounds rather than to any objections to the report itself. Mr. Walker is a Democrat. In view of the fact that both Senator Elon R. Brown, leader of the upper house, and Assemblyman Thaddeus Sweet, speaker of this body, are openly behind the bill which is about to be drafted as the result of the work of the Wheeler committee, there seems to be little doubt as to the outcome. The following suggestions have been made by the committee in its report:

It is not advisable at the present time to single out the motion picture industry as a subject for special taxation, despite the fact that while in the past many of the concerns have made enormous profits and have not been paying their just share and proportion to the burdens of government, conditions today due to the European War and transformation now going on in the business are such as to exempt the industry for the present.

That there is a demand for the immediate creation in this state of a department or bureau which shall take and have charge of the licensing of the various persons, firms, corporations and associations engaged in this state in the production, distribution or exhibition of motion pictures, and the operation of the machines used in such exhibitions and to regulate, as is done in New York City, the character of pictures exhibited; and that a suitable license tax be imposed.

That legislation be enacted making the theft or intentional mutilation or destruction of, or injury to, any motion picture film, apparatus, or device, cause for the cancellation of the license of the person guilty of the act.

The committee's report covers twenty-five typewritten pages. At the outset the committee calls attention to the fact that since January 18th it has taken testimony covering about 2,000 typewritten pages. The report gives considerable space to the development of the motion picture industry along the producing, distributing and the exhibition ends. The statement is made that from three to five positive prints are used in the state of New York, made from each negative. The manner of handling the positive print in its distribution is gone into.

Continuing, the committee's report says: "Some of the best and most representative men connected with the industry have testified that the motion picture industry, which they believe to be capable of accomplishing great good, is being substantially injured by a certain class of pictures, and that while, in comparison with the total output, the percentage of such pictures is small, the evil effects on the industry and also the public, particularly the young, is deplorable. In some instances the producers and distributors of these smutty, immoral and indecent pictures have even been able to obtain the support of so-called purists, reformers and up-lifters on the ground that such pictures teach great moral lessons. Careful investigation proves that the audiences who witnessed them have not gone to see the exhibitions for the purposes of being taught any great moral lesson, and that the effect of these pictures instead of being beneficial was baneful. The necessity for the creation of some means whereby the production, distribution and exhibition in this state of that class of pictures could be prohibited and prevented is so great, both from the standpoint of the industry and the public, that the committee has given it particular attention with the idea of devising a system of regulation by license and license taxes."

The committee takes up the form of contracts used by various concerns, particularly in the distribution of the moral pictures. The report says: "Among such contracts is one used by a concern notorious for the immoral character of its pictures. The following paragraph was taken from that contract:

"The exhibitor shall not be relieved of the obligation to pay for any feature by reason of any act or action done, performed, passed or provided by any board of censors, committee, public official, bureau, department, legislature, assembly, public act, ordinance or act of any official in any state, county, city, borough, township, town, village or other community that shall prohibit or prevent the exhibition of such feature, and the exchange shall not be liable for any damage of any kind, nature or description that may be suffered by the exhibitor by reason thereof."

When it is considered that the average exhibitor does not have any opportunity to inspect or know the character of a large majority of pictures which he has advertised to exhibit until he has seen them as they are shown to his audiences, the strangle hold which such a producer or distributor has upon the exhibitor will be understood. It also shows the lack of decency on the part of the concern putting out such pictures and its utter disregard for the public welfare."

The committee in its treatment of the motion picture industry deals with the probable life of a film saying that as a result of the investigation it believes that about 90 percent of the total earnings are received within the first year. Reference is made to the growth and development of the motion picture industry in all its branches, the committee embodying in its report a portion of a conference between President Wilson and a committee representing the industry.

The average daily attendance at motion picture theaters in this state is about 1,000,000, one-half being made up of persons under 21 years of age. The average price of admission is slightly less than 10 cents, although the price is now advancing owing to the constantly increasing cost to the exhibitor for positive films and better surroundings.

"The cost to the exhibitor of pictures has increased much more rapidly proportionately than has the price of admission," says Assemblyman Wheeler in his report. Continuing, he says: "The committee is satisfied that as a rule the proprietor of the small motion picture house, wherever located, is making an exceedingly small profit these days and that it would be an injustice to attempt to impose any substantial additional burden.

"The cost of production in the last two or three years, particularly in the special features, has increased enormously, due to the ridiculously high salaries of the so-called star actors and actresses; to the exceedingly large salaries of directors, of officers of various producing corporations and to large amounts paid for royalties and rake-offs to writers of the plays.

"At least one of these so-called star performers gets an annual salary of nearly three-quarters of a million, ten times that of the president of the United States. Some of the corporations are paying salaries to presidents, officers and directors of from forty to fifty-two thousand dollars annually.

"Taken as a whole the condition of the industry at present is not as spectacularly prosperous as a few years ago. This is due in part to wastefulness in management, to reckless cut-throat competition, to the incapacity of many who have sought quick profits and also very largely to the European War. The latter has been responsible for several companies not being able to pay a dividend since 1915."

The committee calls attention to the fact that while the business has been exceedingly profitable in the past, that very small amounts have been paid by many of these companies to the state in the way of taxes. The committee refers to the cost of producing pictures, saying that while the negative cost runs from $1.50 a foot to as high as $100, the cost of making a positive print is about 4 cents a foot. The total footage of positive prints of pictures released each week for exhibition in this state during last January was 742,000.

"Information was brought to the committee," says Mr. Wheeler in his report, "that there was apparently a firm putting out a stock jobbing proposition with advertising of a fraudulent character in regard to moving picture machines and the profits in the business. Testimony was given that this stock jobbing was being done by a corporation of precisely the same name, incorporated under the laws of this state, with a capital stock of $1,000, occupying the same rooms as the firm of the same name and using the same stationery, there being nothing to indicate that this petty corporation had anything to do or was in any way connected with the scheme, while it was being handled so as to make it, as a matter of law, a corporate enterprise solely. It appears that there are a number of corporations formed solely to unload stocks of little or no value on the public."

It is recommended that it might be well for a committee from the Legislature to investigate stock jobbing enterprises of this sort.

In conclusion, Assemblyman Wheeler's committee expresses its gratitude to the Universal Film Manufacturing Company, to Wharton, Inc., Thanhouser Film Corporation, Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, Vitagraph Company of America, the Triangle Film Corporation, Joseph W. Engel and Charles K. Stern.

Report of the Joint Legislative Committee in Full

To the Senate and Assembly of the State of New York:

Under concurrent resolution of the Senate and Assembly adopted January 3d, 1917, a joint committee of the Senate and Assembly was appointed "to investigate whether the moving picture industry is a proper subject of state taxation, and if the committee so deem, the kind and amount of taxes to be imposed."

The Committee met in the City of New York January 18th, 1917, since which time it has been proceeding with the work for which it was created, examining many witnesses, among them being some of the most prominent men connected with the motion picture industry. In connection with this work, the committee has taken upward of two thousand typewritten pages of testimony, and has examined or caused to be examined exhibits consisting of many thousands of sheets and pages relating to the subject under investigation. From such records the following facts appear:

The motion picture industry is one of comparatively recent development. It has divided itself into three main divisions or branches, namely, producing, distributing and exhibiting.

The producing branch of the industry in the main is carried on by corporations, practically all of them having offices in the City of New York, from which offices the business is directed. The same is true, to a considerable extent, of the concerns engaged in the distributing branch.

The operation of obtaining scenarios, picturing scenes and producing negatives is usually called "production." After the negative has been produced, numerous prints are then made for the purpose of enabling the picture to be exhibited. It is the usual but not the universal practice for the "producing" concern to retain title to the negative and to the prints made therefrom.

Speaking generally, the negatives, as well as the prints therefrom termed "positives," all of which are on celluloid film, are made and perfected at studios and laboratories outside of the State of New York, most of them in the States of California, Florida and New Jersey. The number of positives ordinarily required to be made of a given picture in order to serve the territory included in the United States, varies from about twenty-five to forty.

On the average from one-eighth to one-tenth of the total number of positive prints made from a negative for use in the United States are used in exhibiting a picture throughout the entire State of New York; in other words, from three to five positive prints are so used in the State of New York.

The positives are usually sent to exchanges located in the various parts of the United States for renting to exhibitors. This part of the business is termed "distributing," and is usually conducted by Corporations. In some instances the distributing company owns or controls the company or concern which produces the pictures to be distributed. In other instances, the company or concern which produces the pictures owns or controls its distributing agencies or exchanges. Sometimes there is merely a contractual relation between the producer and the distributor, by which the producer furnishes the distributor with a definite or specified number of pictures at definite times or during a definite period, the distributor paying the producer either an agreed price for the pictures or a percentage of the rentals obtained, or both. Generally speaking, the distributor determines its own policies or methods of distribution. Its books are usually kept at its main office and the business is directed from such office. Nearly all of such main offices seem to be located in the City of New York.

Sometimes the pictures are sold outright, with the restricted privilege of exhibiting them in certain prescribed limits, which system, with variations, is known as the "State Rights System."

The arrangement or contract between the distributor, or "exchange," and the exhibitor, provides for the payment of an agreed rental by the exhibitor for the exhibition by him of the pictures handled by such distributing agency.

Quite generally the exhibitor is required to make deposits with the distributor or "exchange" as a guarantee of the fulfillment on his part of the terms of the contract, and upon which deposits no interest is paid or allowed. These deposits in the aggregate amount to a very substantial sum. It would appear that in some instances at least, these deposits are used to a considerable extent in financing the business of the concerns holding the deposits.

Generally the exhibitor is required to bear the expense of the transportation of the positive between the exchange and the theater.

Early in our investigation it developed that one comparatively large concern and one or two lesser concerns were engaged quite largely in the production and distribution of improper and indecent sex and vice pictures. Some of the best and most representative men connected with the industry testified that the motion picture industry, which they believed to be capable of accomplishing great good, was being substantially injured by that class of pictures and that while, in comparison with the total output, the percentage of such pictures were small, the evil effects on the industry and upon the public, particularly upon the young, were deplorable. In some instances, the producers and distributors of these improper and indecent sex and vice pictures have been able to obtain the support of so-called purists, reformers and uplifters on the ground that such pictures "teach great moral lessons." Careful investigation proves that the audiences who witness them have not gone to see the exhibitions of those pictures for the purpose of being taught a "great moral lesson," and that the effect of such pictures instead of being beneficial is baneful. The necessity for the creation of some means whereby the production, distribution and exhibition in this State of that class of pictures could be prohibited and prevented without serious injury to the respectable concerns engaged in the industry was so great, both from the standpoint of the industry and of the public, that the Committee has given particular attention to that branch of the investigation, in which it was particularly aided by representative men connected with the industry, with a view to devising a system of regulation by licenses and license taxes as hereinafter particularly set forth.

There were produced before the Committee forms of contracts used by different concerns engaged in the production and distribution of pictures. Among such contracts is one used by a concern which is notorious for the immoral character of its pictures. Such contract illustrates the attitude and moral conception of the men engaged in the production, distribution and exhibition of indecent and improper pictures. The following paragraph is taken from that contract:

"The exhibitor shall not be relieved of the obligation to pay for any feature by reason of any act or action done, performed, passed or provided by any board of censors, committee, public official, bureau, department, legislature, assembly, public act, ordinance or act of any official in any state, county, city, borough, township, town, village or other community that shall prohibit or prevent the exhibition of such feature, and the exchange shall not be liable to the exhibitor for any damage of any kind, nature or description that may be suffered by the exhibitor by reason thereof."

When it is considered that the average exhibitor does not have any opportunity to inspect or to know the character of the great majority of pictures which he has advertised to exhibit until he sees them as they are exhibited to audiences in his theater, the strangle hold which such a producer or distributor of motion pictures has upon the exhibitor under a clause like the one above quoted will be understood. It also shows the lack of decency on the part of the concern putting out such pictures, and its utter disregard for the public welfare.

Motion pictures are not only exhibited in theaters and other places for profit, but they are also used, to some extent, at least, in churches, clubs and educational and other institutions. In some theaters the entertainment consists entirely of the exhibition of pictures, while in other theaters the exhibition of pictures constitutes but part of the program.

Pictures are exhibited by means of a projecting machine and a screen. The positive is passed through a projecting machine at a high rate of speed, and under such conditions, as to cause serious damage to the film unless the machine itself is kept in proper condition, and unless the operator is not only skilled but careful in the operation thereof. Leading men in the industry pointed out that there was a very large loss to the business in the mutilation of, and other damage to, the film in this operation, and which loss they believed could be very substantially lessened by proper supervision of the business of exhibiting motion pictures.

With proper care and treatment of the film the period during which the prints of a given picture ordinarily continue to earn income from being exhibited varies from one to two years, the income therefrom being much larger immediately after the prints are released, and gradually lessening, until the picture has covered the territory and exhausted its ability to earn any substantial sum, and is, therefore, withdrawn from exhibition. It is probably fair to say that about 90 per cent. of the total earnings from a given picture will be received within the first year after its release, although, according to the testimony, very substantial income is received from some pictures after the expiration of more than a year after the first release. On the other hand, many pictures have but little, if any, earning power after a few months.

The industry is practically on a cash basis, as between the exhibitor and distributor.

The method of dividing between the producer and the distributor the gross rentals received from pictures varies, but it is usually on a percentage basis.

The growth and development of the motion picture industry in all its branches has been phenomenal. Such development has been within the last twenty years, more particularly within the last ten years.

In a brief filed on behalf of the National Organization of the Motion Picture Industry with the Committee on Education of the House of Representatives, on December 6, 1915, in opposition to the Federal Censorship Bill, is the statement that the industry was then "the fifth largest in the country."

A circular recently issued by the "National Association of the Motion Picture Industry, Inc.," sets forth in a stenographic report of a conference between a Committee representing the industry and President Wilson at Shadow Lawn, New Jersey, in the presidential campaign of 1916, the speech of the Chairman of the Executive Committee of the association, wherein, among other things, he said:

"In behalf of the motion picture industry, permit me to express our appreciation of your consideration and courtesy in granting to us this privilege. The picture in motion has become one of the most, if not the most, important mediums of thought transmission.

"Twenty millions of people in the United States daily view the motion picture. To them it has become the chief means of entertainment and education. Five hundred millions of dollars are invested in this industry, and our employes number nearly a million."

In another circular recently issued, the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry, Inc., over the name of its executive secretary, and under the heading, "The Biggest Thing in the World's Progress," in referring to the motion picture industry, it is stated:

"It combines in one entity a marvelous art, an intellectual medium which has outstripped prophecy; a mode of diversion served by the creative faculty of the wizards of romance, and having the entire earth for its varied settings, and a gigantic industry, the rapid development and expansion of which marks one of the wonders of modern attainment. The motion picture industry, wisely knit together, and with a sure provision of gigantic achievement now actually in sight, has grown to conscious strength only through cohesion of its fifty-odd divisions, all aiming at the same end. It is big in financial power, big in its political potentialities, big in its imperial business, but biggest in the shaping of the thought and character of a nation. As eminent a voice as Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States, has thus declared."

"Are you concerned in the welfare of the motion picture? Have you joined the vast, organized, industrial army? If not, you should be awake to its protection, its aids, its counsels, directed by the most capable minds in law, in organization and commerce and industry."

The average daily attendance at motion picture theaters in the State of New York is about one million. About one-half of this attendance consists of persons under the age of twenty-one years. The average price of admission to such exhibitions is slightly less than 10 cents. Such prices have steadily advanced, and are still advancing. This advance in price charged by exhibitors has been made necessary by the constantly increasing cost to him of the positive films and the better surroundings required in connection with the exhibition of these pictures. The cost to the exhibitor of the pictures has increased much more rapidly and to a greater extent proportionately than he has been able to increase his price of admission. The Committee is satisfied from its investigation that as a rule the proprietor or owner of the small motion picture theater, wherever located, is making an exceedingly small profit from his business, and in many cases none whatever, and that it would be an injustice to him to attempt to impose any substantial additional burden. The cost of production of motion pictures in the last two or three years, particularly the so-called special feature pictures has increased enormously, due to the ridiculously high salaries of the so-called "star" actors and actresses who are engaged in the production of these pictures; to the exceedingly large salaries of the direction of production of such pictures; of officers of the various producing corporations, and to the large amounts being paid in the way of royalties to the writers of the plays.

At least one of these so-called "star" performers is shown to receive an annual salary of nearly three-quarters of a million dollars, or ten times that of the President of the United States. Some of the corporations engaged in this industry are paying salaries to their presidents, officers and directors of production of from forty to fifty-two thousand dollars annually. Many of the men connected with the industry are receiving enormous sums annually in the way of royalties, commissions and salaries, not only from the main company with which they are associated, but with subsidiary companies in which they are interested, or with which they have some connection.

Concerns engaged in the production and distribution of motion pictures for several years made enormous profits. Taken as a whole, the condition of the industry at present, however, is not as spectacularly prosperous as it was a few years ago. This is due in part to wastefulness in management, to reckless cut-throat competition, to the incapacity of many of those who have sought quick profits, and also very largely to the European War. The foreign trade of these companies, which, with many of them, had become extensive, has been crippled, and to such an extent that the war has materially affected their profits, several of the companies having paid no dividends since 1915. The termination of the European War and the establishment of sounder financial methods should bring a return of prosperity.

While there are innumerable corporations engaged in the producing and distributing branches of this industry, and while the par value of their capitalization runs into the millions, almost none of them own any real estate in the State of New York. While their business is largely directed from their offices in the City of New York, practically none of them has any tangible assets within the state except office furniture and the positive prints which have been, or are being, used in the State of New York.

While this business has been exceptionally profitable in the past, and while enormous salaries, royalties and commissions are now being paid several of these concerns, and while, in addition to such salaries, royalties and commissions, substantial dividends are still being paid by some of the companies, the fact is that but very small amounts have been, or are being, paid by these companies to the State of New York in the way of taxes.

In dealing with the cost of any given picture, it is figured by the trade on this basis of negative cost. This negative cost appears to vary from about $1.50 per foot up to as high as $100 per negative foot, if some of the advertising put out by these various companies is to be believed. The cost of making a positive print from such negative, including the cost of the raw film and of printing, is about 4 cents per foot. The cost of the negatives of the pictures exhibited in the State of New York will average $1.50 to $2 per foot. The total footage of positive prints of pictures released each week for exhibition in the State of New York in January, 1917, was 742,000, or at the annual rate of 38,584,000 feet. The estimated weekly average for January, 1917, of the total output for North America was 5,506,000 feet, or at the rate of 286,312,000 feet per year.

While the average price of admission to motion picture theaters is slightly less than 10 cents, the price of admission charged at the exhibitions of the special feature pictures, as, for instance, in the case of "The Birth of a Nation" and other similar productions, varies from 25 cents to $2.

The cost per foot of the negative of pictures in which the present day high-paid "stars" are actors is enormously large. It is a fair deduction from the testimony that, notwithstanding this fact, the production and distribution of these pictures is profitable.

As already pointed out, the proper care and operation of the mechanism used in connection with the projection of motion pictures is important to the owner of the film. It is also important to the persons who witness such exhibitions. It is a well known fact that there is more or less strain on the eyes of those who witness these exhibitions. The extent of this strain depends, to a considerable degree, upon the condition of the mechanism used in the projection of such pictures; in the manner in which such mechanism is operated, and in the condition of the film. These matters are largely under the control of the proprietors of the theaters and the machine operators. Persons familiar with this phase of the subject maintain, and, it would seem, with reason, that for general welfare there ought to be some means provided for proper supervision over the condition and operation of this mechanism.

In the City of New York this need has been recognized and met, to some extent, by statutory enactment providing for the examination and licensing of operators of these machines. So far as known, such requirement does not exist in other parts of the state. It is urged that, even in the City of New York, the examination is not sufficiently strict and thorough. This is not under the control of the Department of Licenses.

In the handling of the film in these theaters, as well as in the operation of a projecting machine, there is a considerable fire hazard, and skill and care in that regard are at all times necessary. It has come to the notice of the Committee that some motion picture theaters, particularly in localities outside the larger cities, are neither properly constructed nor safeguarded against these dangers necessarily incident to the conduct of the business. Manifestly, because of such conditions, the safety of persons attending these exhibitions is endangered.

These various matters having been brought to the attention of the Committee, it felt that it would not be discharging its obligation to the State if it did not endeavor to ascertain if there is not some way in which the abuses and evils which have crept into, and become a part of, the conduct of this business, some of which have been referred to and outlined in this report, can be corrected or minimized.

Not only has the City of New York recognized the necessity for public supervision of the conduct of this class of theaters and the operation of the machinery in projecting motion pictures, but also the necessity for dealing with and regulating the class or kind of pictures which may be exhibited in such theaters.

The charter of that city creates a Department of Licenses, and vests in it jurisdiction over the licenses of motion picture theaters.

Section 5 of Article 1 of Chapter 14 of the Code of Ordinances of the City of New York authorizes the Commissioner of Licenses "to hear and determine complaints against licensees, and to suspend or revoke any license or permit issued by him under any provision" of the ordinance.

Section 31 of Article 2 of Chapter 3 of the Code of Ordinances of the City of New York provides: "The Commissioner of Licenses shall regulate and control all motion picture theaters and open-air motion picture theaters. The commissioner shall appoint such inspectors as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this article."

Section 41 of the same Chapter provides: "The inspectors of the Department of Licenses shall investigate the character of exhibitions in motion picture theaters, and open air motion picture theaters, and shall report to the commissioner any offence against morality, decency or public welfare committed in said exhibitions."

Acting under the authority thus granted by Charter and Ordinance, the Commissioner of Licenses in the City of New York has assumed to, and does, exercise jurisdiction over the class and character of motion pictures which may be exhibited in that city. To such extent has this power been exercised by the Commissioner that he has acted without prior complaint being made to him concerning the character of any given picture, where, in advance of its public exhibition, he has acquired knowledge of its vicious character. In such cases he notifies each theater proprietor in that city that if he exhibits such picture his license will be canceled. In most instances the warning so conveyed has been complied with. In isolated cases, however, application to the court has been made to enjoin the Commissioner from the exercise of such power. In nearly every one of those cases the action of the Commissioner has been upheld. As a result of the existence of these regulations and their operation in the City of New York, pictures have been excluded from exhibition in that city, because of their impropriety and indecency, although exhibited in other parts of the state where no such statutory provision exists.

This law in the City of New York, and the work thereunder of the Commissioner has met with the commendation and approval of the public and of the representative, reputable men engaged in the production, distribution and exhibition of motion pictures.

As to the manner in which Commissioner of Licenses, George H. Bell, has conducted the New York City bureau, one representative of the industry said: "It is very wholesome; that is, it is a benefit to the public, and, second, it is a benefit to the motion picture industry. As you have probably gone into this thing, and very likely know more about it than I do—but I think you will find that the exhibitors in this town, strangely enough, have grown very fond of the power that is ruling them. I have talked to them, and they feel—they are almost unanimous in feeling—that the way the thing is being handled—the situation is being handled in New York—is very good for everybody, and I hear nothing but praise for Commissioner Bell. In fact, they, all of them—I won't say all—you will find a fellow once in a while who wants to run something that is out of the way, but take it by and large, the decent fellows that are running the family houses, they feel the situation is in very good shape and good hands."

The same witness further testified:

"The majority of the motion picture industry would be willing to come before this committee and earnestly recommend and offer to co-operate with this committee—let me put it that way—to the end that a department or commission in this state might be created, or commission in this state might be created to license the various branches of this industry. Now, of course, no one likes to pay license fees, and no one likes to pay taxes. I guess human nature runs pretty much the same along that line, but there are several things that a department or a commission of that sort might properly do—you have just touched on the very important matter of regulation; that is, regulation by the police power of the pictures. Now, that is very important, and there isn't any doubt in the world that 99 per cent. of the motion picture people would go out and fight for that as opposed to censorship. They are afraid of censorship, and justly afraid of it."

This view, so expressed, was concurred generally in by at least three other men prominent in the production and distribution of motion pictures, who appeared and testified before the Committee, including the president of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry, Inc., and the chairman of the Executive Committee of that association.

From the foregoing facts the Committee has drawn the following conclusions:

First—That, while in the past enormous profits have been made by concerns engaged in the production and distribution of motion pictures, and while such concerns have not been paying their just share and proportion of the burdens of government, and while some are doing well now, yet the conditions due to the present European War, and the transformation which is now going on in the business, make it inadvisable at the present time to single out that particular industry as a subject for special taxation. The Committee, however, is of the opinion that, upon the return of normal conditions, that industry, as well as the whole amusement field, may well be brought within such a scheme of taxation in this state.

The Committee has heard testimony upon the desirability of immediately subjecting the more expensive amusement field to taxation. This testimony was volunteered by amusement men, one of them a great theatrical manager. Upon the desirability of immediately including the more expensive theatrical and operatic entertainments within the field of taxation, this committee, by reason of the limits imposed upon it by the resolution which created it, refrains from expressing an opinion.

Second—The Committee believes that the public welfare demands the immediate creation in this state of a department or bureau which shall take and have charge of the licensing of the various persons, firms, corporations and associations engaged in this state in the production, distribution, or exhibition of motion pictures, and the operation of the machines used in such exhibitions, and to regulate, as is done in the City of New York, the character of pictures so to be exhibited; and that a suitable license tax or fee be imposed, to be fixed at a flat or graduated rate, and calculated in whole or in part upon the extent of business done or the quantity and amount of film handled.

Third—The Committee also recommends legislation making the theft or intentional mutilation or destruction of, or reckless or careless injury to, any motion picture film, apparatus or device, cause for the cancellation of the license of the person guilty of such act.

In addition to the foregoing matters, the Committee calls the attention of the Legislature and the people of the state to certain conditions which have been disclosed during the course of the investigation. Information was brought to the Committee that what was apparently a firm was putting out a stock jobbing proposition with advertising of a fraudulent character, with relation to moving picture machines and the profits in the business. Testimony developed that this stock jobbing was being done by a corporation of precisely the same name, incorporated under the laws of the State of New York, with a capital stock of $1,000, and which occupied the same rooms as the firm of the same name, and used the same stationery, there being at no point anything to indicate that this petty corporation had anything to do or was in any connected with the scheme, while it was being handled so as to make it, as a matter of law, if possible, a corporate enterprise solely.

It further appears that a number of the corporations formed in connection with the motion picture industry are stock jobbing enterprises, formed to unload stocks of little or no value upon the public, a number of these corporations being formed under the laws of other states.

Any committee of the Legislature hereafter appointed to investigate as to general corporate abuses might well look into these stock jobbing enterprises.

The Committee expresses to the many persons connected with the industry its appreciation of the attitude which they have assumed toward, and the assistance which they have rendered to, the committee in the discharge of its duties. Many of these men have gone to large expense and considerable trouble in rendering such assistance.

The Universal Film Manufacturing Company furnished most elaborate statistics, and in a wealth of detail, which has been of incalculable assistance to the Committee.

We also desire to specifically mention in this connection Warton, Inc.; Thanhouser Film Corporation; Famous Players-Lasky Corporation; Vitagraph Company of America, and the Triangle Film Corporation and its subordinate companies.

The Committee also desires to mention the assistance rendered by Mr. Joseph W. Engel and Mr. Charles K. Stern.

The Committee regrets to state that this has not been the attitude of all those connected with the industry.

The Committee will later submit a bill embodying the foregoing recommendations.

Dated March 14, 1917.

National Association Directors Meet

Routine Business Transacted at Quarter's Meeting—Several New Committees Appointed—Reports Submitted.

THE QUARTERLY meeting of the Board of Directors of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry was held Thursday, March 15, at the headquarters, Times Building, New York, with President William A. Brady presiding. The following directors were present: William A. Brady, World Film Corp.; Carl Laemmle, Universal Film Mfg. Co., represented by George Kann; William L. Sherrill, Frohman Amusement Corp.; Louis Blumenthal, Auditorium theater, Jersey City, N. J.; Maurice A. Choynski, Newberry theater, Chicago, Ill.; Frederick J. Herrington, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Louis L. Levine, Regent theater, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Frank J. Rembusch, Shelbyville, Ind.; Samuel H. Trigger, Tremont theater, New York; A. P. Tugwell, Los Angeles, Cal.; Walter J. Moore, H. C. Miner Litho. Co.; Walter W. Irwin, V-L-S-E; Fred J. Beecroft, Dramatic Mirror; Paul Gulick, Universal Film Mfg. Co.; F. C. Gunning, "Wid's"; Arthur James, Metro Pictures Corp.; Arthur S. Friend, representing Famous Players-Lasky Corp., and Frederick H. Elliott, Executive Secretary.

A large volume of routine business was transacted, much of which had accumulated since the last meeting of the board in November. Reports were presented from the officers showing the activities of the various committees during the period intervening since the last meeting, including the report of the Executive Committee, also the committees on Transportation, Fire Prevention Regulations and Insurance; Children's Pictures and All Star Review. President Brady referred to the action which had been taken by the National Association on the questions of censorship, Sunday closing and taxation, and stated that in his opinion the most important occurrence during the past three months had been the victory of the Indiana exhibitors in securing the passage of the Sunday law in that state. He emphasized the importance of the industry being represented at the hearing on the Sunday bills before the codes committee at Albany on March 21 in the belief that a favorable report, coupled with the victory in Indiana, would prove of inestimable value to the industry in many other states.

The report of Executive Secretary Frederick H. Elliott showed that the membership of the Association comprised the following: Producers, twenty-seven; Distributors, ten; Supply and Equipment, fifteen; Publications, four; Individuals, eighty-seven. Various plans were discussed for increasing the membership, and the following committee was appointed to co-operate with the officers in securing new applications: President Brady, ex-officio; William L. Sherrill, Arthur James, Arthur S. Friend and J. E. Brulatour.

The following divisions in the supply and equipment class No. 3 were reported as organized: manufacturers of carbons, manufacturers of slides and lithograph and poster manufacturers. The organization of other divisions, comprising manufacturers of musical instruments, projecting machines and screens was reported as under way.

A conference committee of five is to be appointed by President Brady for the purpose of co-operating with other national organizations representing great business interests. The establishing of a bureau for handling and investigating stolen films was approved, reference being made to the co-operation between the association and the Fox Film Corporation, resulting in the conviction and indictment of a leader of a band which had been successfully operating in New York and other localities.

The resignation of Peter E. Jeup as a director was received and accepted with regret, and Louis H. Frank, of Chicago, was elected to fill the vacancy. It was voted to hold the annual meeting in Chicago on July 18th, 1917.

The All Star Film Committee reported the two first reels, "How the Great Stars Make Love" and "Great Fights of the Great Stars," had been assembled, and that good progress is being made in securing the scenes for the other three reels, with the Funny Stars, Daredevil Stunts and Great Moments in Great Plays. Consideration was given to the best plan for marketing and distributing the All Star Review, and it was decided to incorporate the committee in charge of this enterprise, which would have exclusive right to exhibit and distribute the picture, the committee to hold the stock in trust for the benefit of the association. The opinion prevailed that the best financial results for the association would be secured through releasing the review on the state rights basis, the policy, however, being left for the determination of the committee, consisting of William A. Brady, P. A. Powers, Arthur James, Samuel H. Trigger and Louis L. Levine.

A communication was presented from R. H. Cochrane, vice-president of the Universal Film Mfg. Co., suggesting a plan for assisting the National Association by securing the financial co-operation of the various national advertisers. The suggestion met with immediate approval, and President Brady was authorized to appoint a committee to work out the proposition and report back to the Executive Committee for instructions. The committee appointed consists of Mr. Cochrane, chairman; Arthur James, Fred J. Beecroft, Harry Reichenbach and "Wid" Gunning, the chairman having power to increase the committee if he so desires. Charles C. Pettijohn, attorney for the Exhibitors' Protective Association of Indiana, was invited to address the board at the request of Frank J. Rembusch, a director and President of the Indiana organization. A similar courtesy was extended to Dr. Charles J. Hespe, president of the Exhibitors' League of New Jersey, at the request of Director Louis L. Blumenthal, who reported in regard to the legislative situation in New Jersey.

BRILANT NOW SCENARIO EDITOR.

Arthur M. Brilant, general editorial and publicity representative of Consolidated Film Co. since its formation, has resigned to become chief of the scenario department of the Erbo-graph studios at 203-211 West 146th street. The Erbo-graph company is producing five-reel photoplays for the Art Dramas program. Mr. Brilant announces that his company is in the market for first class scenarios. Only stories of unusual merit and novelty of theme are desired.

HARRY F. CRANE IN METRO PICTURE.

Harry F. Crane, familiarly known as "Doc," has been engaged to play Daniel Kersten in "The Secret Spring," the picture version of Clarence B. Kelland's novel, "The Hidden Spring," starring Harold Lockwood and May Allison. This five-part feature production will be directed by E. Mason Hopper for the Yorke Film Corporation and released on the Metro program.

Richardson Received With Enthusiasm

Spirits Raised With the Appearance of Good Weather and Consequent Increase in Attendance at Meetings—Has Both Criticism and Praise for Projection Rooms

Charlotte, S. C.

SOMEWHERE between Winston-Salem and Charlotte we lost the rain, and old Sol came forth in all his glory to shine upon a wet, soggy, sodden, half-drowned country. I was not expected at Charlotte until 9 p. m., but took the 6 a. m. instead of the 5 p. m. train out of Winston-Salem. Arriving at 9 a. m., and, not being expected, secured to myself one perfectly good day of rest.

R. D. Craver, owner of the Craver Film Supply Company and a chain of theaters in North Carolina and Virginia, and L. G. Scofield, manager of the Piedmont theater, had made the arrangements for the lecture. At 11 p. m. a surprisingly large number of operators, managers and exchange men gathered in the Piedmont theater, where a bountiful lunch was served on the stage. What the boys did to that lunch would be a shame to tell.

There were many operators and managers from Gastonia, Concord, Kings Mountain and other surrounding towns; also three operators who had journeyed from Asheville, N. C., an eight hour ride (almost 175 miles) by rail, on purpose to attend the lecture. Of these A. H. Cobb came of his own initiative and two, whose names I do not at the moment recall, were sent by their employers, one from the Strand and one from the Star, Asheville N. C. I desire to compliment Brother Cobb, as well as the Strand and Star theaters. It shows very much more than ordinary enterprise for the operator to make a round trip of nearly 350 miles to hear a lecture on projection, and to have theater managers send their men that distance is as extraordinary as it is encouraging. Contrast this with the "I-should-worry" policy of theater managers who are so utterly indifferent that they fail to attend when the lecture is given in their own town. Oh yes, there are a few of that brand of "enterprising" (?) managers, and even an occasional operator (?) as well. They are, however, a very decided minority. For the most part operators turn out practically 100 per cent. strong, and the managers are at least very well represented; also be it noted that not one manager or operator has, up to date, expressed anything but unqualified approval of the lecture.

The lecture closed at 1:15, and as I was obliged to take a train for Wilmington at the unseemly hour of 5.05 A. M., no time was lost in wrinkling up the sheets of one of the Hotel Selwyn's beds.

Wilmington, N. C.

Leaving Charlotte R. V. Anderson, Pathe Exchange man for Charlotte, came along with me, and at Lumberton we picked up A. B. Cheatham of the Universal Exchange, Charlotte, and C. J. Kilian, owner of the Lyric theater of Lumberton, also W. S. Wishart, owner of the Pastime theater, Lumberton, and James Williamson, his operator, came to the train to shake hands. Friend Wishart has been quite ill, and was unable to attend the lecture in Wilmington, as he had intended. On the train friend Anderson showed me an interesting example of as foolish a proposed piece of legislation as it has been my fortune to observe. A Mr. Withrow, member North Carolina Legislature, actually had the nerve to introduce the following, which, however, we are glad to say was promptly killed in committee due to the efforts of the North Carolina Exhibitors' League:

"THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF NORTH CAROLINA DO ENACT: Section 1. That any person, firm or corporation engaged in the business of exhibiting moving pictures who shall, within the State of North Carolina, exhibit a picture in which there is a scene showing any person or persons indulging in the drinking of spirituous, vinous or malt liquors, or intoxicating bitters shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and for each offense shall be punished by a fine of not more than $5.00, or imprisonment not more than thirty days."

In this connection I might add that the North Carolina State Exhibitors' League has succeeded in having enacted legislation which will operate to materially reduce the taxation of North Carolina moving picture theaters, which has heretofore been excessive and burdensome. The bill, which passed, prohibits the county from taxing theaters, although it allows the state and city tax to stand as formerly. This, Percy Wells told me, will, in Wilmington, effect a reduction of about $150 per year per theater, which means to the Howard-Wells Amusement Co., of which friend Wells is President, a saving of $600 annually. Verily the North Carolina Exhibitors League is a paying proposition, though as a matter of fact those exhibitors who were not enterprising enough to join the league and do their part in securing this highly valuable piece of legislation, will share equally in its benefits with those who did. One would suppose they would not be particularly proud of the fact that they have not actively supported an organization which has already done much for them.

At Wilmington the smiling countenance of friend Wells vied with North Carolina's brilliant sunshine in illuminating the depot entrance. The Howard-Wells Amusement Company owns the Royal, Grand, Bijou, Victoria and Academy of Music, all in Wilmington; the three first named running pictures, and the Victoria and Academy vaudeville and legitimate. Mr. Wells was originally a vaudeville man. He started in the picture business in a tent on the site of what is now the Bijou theater on Front street, Wilmington. The five before mentioned houses speak for the success he has made out of the amusement business in that city. As a matter of fact Messrs. Howard & Wells literally are the whole thing, so far as theatrical enterprises go in that city, but, be it said to their credit, they do not take advantage of this by giving the people the least possible return for their money. Rather, if all reports be true, the policy of the company is to keep out competition by putting on shows which place them beyond fear of that particular article.

Gathering of Managers and Operators at Charlotte, N. C., to Hear the Lecture.

At the Royal both vaudeville and moving pictures are run. The operating room is in charge of T. A. Byrd, who, 'tis said, is a bird of an operator. The equipment consists of two Power 6-A machines taking current through economizers. With all due respect to Friend Wells, I would humbly suggest that he heave those economizers out of the window, and install a motor generator set. I am quite sure it will pay the Howard & Wells people, in the long run, to do this. The projection of pictures with A. C. is an out-of-date proposition. The operating room is of ample dimensions, with observation ports of goodly width, though located a little too high. The walls are black; the ventilation is ample, and everything is as it should be, except those notations I have made, and the further fact that there are three large windows in the room, which lets in altogether too much light. Paint those windows black, Brother Wells, and nail them shut. It will not be quite so pleasant for the operator, but the operator is not there on a pink lemonade picnic, but to engage in the rather serious business of projecting photoplays, which cost thousands of dollars, in the best possible manner. In order to do that he must have a room which is as nearly completely dark as it can be made.

The Bijou is managed by Harry Cooley, who is himself a practical operator. Lee Watters now presides over the projection machines, and I am told that his work is very good indeed. If what I saw today is a fair sample he is entitled to throw out his chest and swell up all he wants to, because the screen results during the time I was in the theater was certainly very good indeed. He is running two Power 6-B machines, using 38 amperes of current through a Hallberg motor generator set, with a fifty-five volt arc. The ports of the Bijou operating room are good, the room is dark and has ample ventilation. The room is rather small, but has sufficient size to allow the operator to move around his machines freely.

At the Grand Earl Langenberg is manager and C. H. Smith is operator. Friend Langenberg also is a moving picture machine operator. The equipment consists of two Power 6-A machines and a Western Electric motor generator set. The observation ports are all good size and properly located, but the room itself is considerably smaller than it should be.

The walls of all of the Howard-Wells Amusement Company operating rooms are painted black; also in each instance the top of the lamp house is piped up to the ventilation flue, which not only carries away much heat, and keeps down the temperature on the interior of the lamp house and is exceedingly beneficial to the health of the operator in that it removes all the carbon gas.

One peculiarity of the Howard & Wells theaters is that the seats are 36 inches from chair back to chair back, something I have never seen up to this time. This, while rather prodigal of space, makes for comfort on the part of the audience. The theaters are all neat and quite creditable to a city of the size of Wilmington.

It is a pleasure to be able to say good things about the Howard & Wells Company, because both Mr. Howard and Mr. Wells are live wires, and capable theatrical men. Operators' wages in North Carolina are low, and in some instances absurdly low, but Messrs. Howard and Wells pay their men $18 per week, which is more than double the wages paid in many North Carolina towns, and I believe considerably higher than is paid in any other North Carolina city, except in isolated cases of single theatre. Eighteen dollars in Wilmington would easily be equal to $25 in New York City. Therefore, we cannot say that under all the circumstances the Wilmington men are underpaid. Their hours of labor are, however, decidedly too long. And now let me point this moral: It is up to the Wilmington operators to demonstrate to the Howard-Wells Company the fact that they appreciate such treatment by studying the technical and practical end of their profession and putting the best possible result on the Howard & Wells screens.

Florence, S. C.

We had received an urgent request from J. M. O'Dowd, owner and manager O'Dowd's theater, Florence, S. C., to stop and inspect his theater, and had written saying it would be impossible. J. Claude Reville, his operator, together with his apprentice, and a theater manager of Florence whose name I cannot at the moment recall, attended the lecture in Wilmington and Brother Reville informed me that I was due to inspect his operating room. "Can't be did!" said I. "Can't be —" and then stopped, for Reville declaimed thusly: "The train stops in Florence twenty minutes for breakfast. I've arranged to have a breakfast sent on the train for you; my apprentice will transfer your baggage; Mr. O'Dowd will be on the job with a brand new Paige car." So what was a poor editor to do? The O'Dowd theater, Florence, S. C., has what is in many ways the best equipped operating room I have ever examined. My inspection was of necessity hasty. Would have liked to have had an hour in that room, but in the scant few minutes at my disposal the following was noted:

In the first place, the fire shutter system was installed as it ought to be installed. The fuse link was not stuck away up against the ceiling, but the cord was brought down, and the fuse link was right over the machine aperture, where it would be melted instantly should a fire occur. On the end of the take-up spindle, Friend Reville had installed an old flywheel, which acts as a balance and relieves the friction on the bearing caused by the upward pull of the belt. On the back of the lamp house was a sheet metal guard covering the lamp controls, forming a sort of a back-porch, intended to prevent draughts from the fan blowing into the lamphouse and there setting up tendency to condenser breakage. The operating room is lighted by an indirect light fixture placed right up close to the ceiling. The ceiling itself being quite light in color, the effect of this lighting system, which is turned off while the picture is being projected, is distinctly good. The re-winder is run by a motor, and is geared down to low speed, as it ought to be; also there is an automatic control which stops the motor when the film is re-wound, and a tension which can be instantly adjusted to give the re-winder any desired tension. Under the lamp house of the Power 6-A machines is an upright metal post, which helps to steady the apparatus. Friend Reville has himself constructed a condenser mount which acts something the same as does the Elbert & Freddy mount. The tools are in a neat rack. By a clever system of wiring Brother Reville has it arranged so that the instant a ground appears a lamp is lighted, showing which side the ground is on, and approximately where it is located. All conduit is built into the operating room walls, so that the walls are entirely clear, and all wiring thoroughly concealed. There is a Hallberg 20th Century motor generator set, and, for emergency, an AC to AC compensator.

All these things I noted hastily during my brief visit. There are other interesting things in connection with Brother Reville's plant, which I am sorry I did not have time to examine—one being a framing lamp placed inside the mechanism, and another the multiple clutch, of which he is the inventor. This device is described and illustrated on page 278 of the Handbook. It works like a charm and enables the operator to handle both machines perfectly on the change-over.

The theater itself is of goodly size, has a $4,500 Seabury piano, and a home-made metallic surface screen, which I am told gives very good results. The dowers in the projection machines are connected for dissolving one picture into the next.

Charleston, South Carolina.

At Charleston Albert Sottile, president of the Pastime Amusement Co., and his manager, Fred Martin, extended the glad hand of welcome at the depot, and gasolined me over to the Hotel Charleston.

Charleston is a quaint, old-fashioned, thoroughly charming city, which holds much of historic interest. The Hotel Charleston is one of the old time "befo'-de-wah" institutions, which has been well preserved, and is now pretty thoroughly modernized. As a temporary home for the weary traveler, it possesses charm beyond anything I have, up to date, viewed.

After lunch Mr. Martin and I visited the Princess Theater. This house is equipped with two Simplex machines and has an operating room which is reached by making a tour over the roof of the building. It is hung from the ceiling of the theater and hard to get at, but once inside it is an excellent room, 18 ft. wide by 9 ft. deep, with a 12-foot ceiling. P. E. Ruff and Stewart Easterby are in charge. The observation ports are very badly located, but Friend Martin agreed to change that. There is ample ventilation.

Fifty-five amperes of current are used, coming from a Hallberg 20th Century motor generator set. The front wall of the operating room is light in color, and the rear wall black, which is reversing the usual order. Friends Easterby and Ruff have quite some picture gallery, the walls being pretty well papered with cut-out pictures of various good-looking members of the "Votes for Women" tribe.

At the Majestic, C. L. Sherrill, operator, I found an operating room which is quite cramped as to space. The walls were black and the ventilation is good, but, as I said, the room is too small and the ports badly located, though under the conditions I do not see how they could be made much better. The equipment consists of two Powers 6-A machines and a mercury arc rectifier. I asked Brother Sherrill whether the rectifier was a General Electric or a Westinghouse, and after a trip out somewhere to look he informed me it was a General Electric.

After inspecting these two theaters, Friend Martin and I took a bubble trip out to the Navy Yard, but Uncle Sam suspected us of being germs, and we could not get in.

At 6 P. M. the editor was tendered a dinner by Albert Sottile, president Pastime Amusement Company, at which the following were present: Albert Sottile, president Pastime Amusement Company; Fred Martin, manager Pastime Amusement Company; J. R. Graham, theater manager Pastime Amusement Company; A. W. Petit, Elco theater; C. K. Howell, architect New Garden theater; John Hardin, manager Dixieland theater; J. J. Miller, Dixieland theater; John K. Gorven, Jr., managing editor Charleston American, and J. C. Sherrill, manager Academy of Music. It was a meeting of good fellows and was thoroughly enjoyed.

But the surprise came when John Hardin put in an appearance. I looked and looked again. Yes, it was Hardin all right, though a vastly changed man from the one we knew at the Edison office in Chicago years ago, and later at the Edison offices in East Orange. John has lost twenty pounds at least. But he is now a fixture in Charleston, where he is part owner and manager of a paying picture-vaudeville house, the Dixieland. May good luck attend him, for John Hardin was, is and always will be a prince of good fellows.

At 11:30 a banquet was spread in the main dining room of the Hotel Charleston and around the board gathered every operator and theater manager in Charleston. After a two-hour lecture they all shook hands and said many kind things. The president of the Operators' Union said the local was thoroughly satisfied and both managers and operators voiced belief that much good had been accomplished.

I certainly will have many pleasant memories of the quaint old city. Several managers insisted that I remain over another day, but it could not be done. I shall wish for the time when I may again visit Charleston.

Emily Stevens for Four Metro Features

EMILY STEVENS, one of the greatest emotional stars of the screen or stage, has just signed a new contract under which she will be paid $75,000 for appearing in four big picture plays which will be released by Metro Pictures Corporation. This important announcement was made by President Richard A. Rowland of Metro. The pictures will be made under the supervision of B. A. Rolfe, president of Rolfe Photoplays, Inc., and Maxwell Karger, general manager of the Rolfe and Columbia studios.

Emily Stevens.

An unusual feature of the important deal by which Miss Stevens is transferred from the speaking stage to the screen is that simultaneously with the release of her first production, the story of the play will appear in fiction form in a big magazine, with illustrations taken from the production. Such a co-operative arrangement between motion picture producer and magazine editor never before has been carried out, and the result will be watched with keen interest.

The first production in which Miss Stevens is to appear will be "Opportunity," by Edgar Franklyn. On the release date of the play the story will be published in Munsey's magazine. George D. Baker, one of the greatest of motion picture directors, will direct Miss Stevens. Negotiations for the screening of "Opportunity" were made by Mr. Rolfe and Mr. Karger, with Robert H. Davis of the Frank A. Munsey Company.

Richardson's Trip Appreciated

Managers and Operators Are Enthusiastic as to Benefits of Lectures on Projection.

STATE BOARD OF HEALTH.

Bureau of Engineering and Education.

Raleigh, N. C., March 10, 1917.

Moving Picture World,
New York City.

Dear Sirs:—I am taking this opportunity of thanking your organization for the courtesy of sending your F. H. Richardson to this city to lecture before the motion picture operators and managers.

Mr. Richardson's lecture in this city was greatly appreciated and I feel it should be conducive of very much good along the lines which it was directed. We take this means of thanking you and, through you Mr. Richardson, for his courtesy in coming to lecture to us at this time. We trust we may have the pleasure of having Mr. Richardson with us again at some near future date.

Very respectfully yours,
WARREN H. BOOKER,
Chief of Bureau.

SAVANNAH PICTURE PLAYS COMPANY.

Savannah, Ga., March 13, 1917.

Chalmers Publishing Co.,
New York City.

Gentlemen:—On behalf of Ernest Morrison, manager of the Bijou Theater, Max L. Wolff, manager of the Odeon and Colonial Theaters and myself (manager of the Arcadia and Star Theaters), I desire to extend to you our thanks and appreciation for the visit paid us on last Saturday by your F. H. Richardson.

I might also add that the same sentiments are expressed by the members of Local 320, I. A. T. S. E. and M. P. M. O.

We consider Mr. Richardson's lecture on Practical Projection one that is certain to prove of great value to managers and operators wherever they are fortunate enough to have him deliver same. I assure you that the managers here (none of whom profess to have any technical knowledge on the matter of projection), felt very much benefitted by having had the privilege of listening to this lecture; we know that the operators have had many very valuable points given them.

The efforts of your company and of Mr. Richardson deserve the heartiest commendation at the hands of the exhibitors in cities that Mr. Richardson will visit on his present trip, and on behalf of those above named I cheerfully and thankfully proffer ours.

Aside from the business or professional end we have found Mr. Richardson a thorough gentleman in every sense of the word and have been much pleased at his visit. We remain,

Yours very truly,
SAVANNAH PICTURE PLAYS CO.
By A. S. Guckenheimer, Pres.

HOWARD-WELLS AMUSEMENT COMPANY.

Wilmington, N. C., March 14, 1917.

Managing Editor,
The Moving Picture World,
New York City.

Dear Sir:—I wish to take this belated opportunity of acknowledging your kindness in allowing Mr. Richardson to stop in Wilmington to deliver an address on "Projection" and to assure you that the work that Mr. Richardson is doing on his tour, to my mind, is the greatest work that has ever been undertaken to better the motion picture industry.

Speaking strictly from a local and selfish standpoint, his visit to Wilmington was worth hundreds of dollars to our corporation. It is simply wonderful the amount of enthusiasm and pride that he can inject into the mind of the average operator—and manager, too. My operators since his visit have been working night and day trying to put into practice some of the ideas he gave them. I succeeded in getting together a very good audience from nearby towns and I am sure that everyone was benefitted very much.

I sincerely trust that, though indirect, you may be well repaid for the work you are doing in our behalf through Mr. Richardson's tour.

Very sincerely,
NORTH CAROLINA MOTION PICTURE
EXHIBITORS' LEAGUE.
Percy W. Wells, President.

The Motion Picture Exhibitor

WRITE US EARLY AND OFTEN

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD carries the most complete record of Exhibitors' News. This department aims at being the fullest and fairest chronicle of all the important doings in the ranks of organized exhibitors. To keep the department as complete and as useful as it is now we request the secretaries of all organizations to favor us with reports of all the news. Coming events in the ranks of the organized exhibitors are best advertised in this department of the Moving Picture World.

EXHIBITORS' LEAGUE ORGANIZER.

In answer to recent inquiries in regard to the Exhibitors' League Organizations and for the information of exhibitors in any of the States, readers will kindly note that Fred J. Herrington is National Organizer for the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America. All correspondence on the subject may be addressed to him at 310 McCance Building, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Manitoba Exhibitors' Meeting

Have to Contend With Many Vexatious Censorship Regulations—Exhibitors Urged to Join.

THE newly-formed Provincial Motion Picture Exhibitors' Association, Manitoba, is now meeting at luncheon at the St. Regis Hotel, Winnipeg, twice each month, for discussion of the problems which affect the exhibitors of the city and the province. It is expected that this organization will develop into a force of real benefit to its members, and plans are now being made to take an active part in preventing the enactment of any legislation which would be detrimental to the industry as a whole.

Manitoba is threatened with some particularly objectionable legislation with regard to the film business, one proposal providing for the reconsideration of any film already passed by the censors, on petition of twenty-five citizens. With the active opposition to moving picture theaters which exist in some quarters, it would probably not be difficult to secure twenty-five objectors to almost any picture that might be mentioned, so that the possibilities of such a measure are unlimited. In this connection Rev. W. J. Hindley, a local minister, pointed out that he could probably secure a hundred signatures to a petition calling for the immediate execution of the mayor of the city, as many people were always ready to sign a petition without even ascertaining its contents.

Another proposal of the government calls for the censorship of all moving picture advertising, and still another provides against the display of a poster depicting any scenes which may have been deleted by the censors.

It is pointed out by Winnipeg managers that exhibitors throughout the province would do well to join the new organization, and share in the benefits for which it is working. The dues for Manitoba theaters outside of Winnipeg are 50 cents per month, with the same dues for Winnipeg houses seating less than 500. Larger theaters in the city pay $1.00 per month.

The following officers have been elected: President, F. R. Hyde, manager of the Crescent theater; vice-president, W. C. Kershaw, manager of the Wonderland theater; secretary, W. P. Wilson of the Lyceum theater; treasurer, Manager Jones of the Columbia. Mr. Hyde informs the World correspondent that hereafter the greater part of the work of the organization will be concentrated in the executive committee of four, and that with this policy in effect good results are expected.

Managers Named for the Northwest Convention

Hamlin and Van Duzee Will Be in Charge—Resolutions on Deposit Question.

THE coming convention was the main topic of discussion at the last weekly meeting of members of the Northwest branch of the National League in Minneapolis, March 6. Thomas J. Hamlin and C. E. Van Duzee, who had charge of the convention and exposition last year, were selected to arrange for the displays at this year's gathering at the West Hotel. It was reported that a committee was looking for new headquarters for the exhibitors' body and that the school committee had made some ground in fighting the displaying of films in public schools. The Minneapolis Central high school has abolished the practice and others are expected to follow this lead soon.

The action of one of the members of the organization in advertising St. Paul carnival films he had secured so as to make people believe Winnipeg-St. Paul Dog Derby drivers were appearing in person with his show instead of with the Friedman-Sailer-Hays combination. It was voted that attention of out-of-town exhibitors be called to this discussion.

New members added to the body were Manager Carrisch, Third Ward theater, North Minneapolis; Odell & Harris, Royal theater, Hopkins, Minn., and Aspin Larson, New Home theater, Minneapolis. Applications for membership were received from several others. The Friedman Film Corp. was given a vote of thanks for its assistance to the organization.

D. G. Rodgers, chairman, advance deposit committee, offered his drafted proposition regarding deposits and it was ordered sent to all exchange managers of the Northwest. The draft provides for the following: Exhibitors must pay for all film booked ahead unless ten days' notice is given exchange; exhibitors must not cancel a serial unless it "dies down" to such an extent as to make cancellation imperative; ten days' notice must be given exchanges in canceling; exhibitors shall not have to pay for films barred by police, censors or mayors; exhibitors, members of the Northwest body in good standing at their respective banks, should be given credit by exchanges and those not in good standing be entitled to furnish a surety bond or cash; all money now held by exchanges as deposits should be returned to exhibitors.

MARYLAND BALL MOMENTUM INCREASES.

As the holding of the "Dance of the Motion Picture Stars" draws nearer, the momentum of the Maryland League is gradually increasing in a proportionate ratio. The action on the part of the several committees seems to promise that the affair will be the largest of its kind ever held in Baltimore. Tickets are now on sale by all the exhibitors who are members of the League and at the ticket offices of their theaters. At this writing, it is planned to hold an informal luncheon for the Maryland exhibitors on Sunday, March 18, at the Hotel Emerson. Several features of the ball, it is understood, would be taken up at this meeting and a few film stars invited to attend.

As soon as the public has voiced its desires in regard to the stars they wish present, negotiations will be put under way to make arrangements for their appearance on the night of April 28. It is quite probable that one of the guests will be Alice Brady of the World Film, as special efforts will be made to bring her to Baltimore.

The ball committee has now been enlarged by the names of E. C. Sandell and William Tyler. L. A. DeHoff, as chairman of the publicity, states that he has appointed as his committee J. G. Nelson, A. F. Gillespie and John Wilbur Jenkins. F. A. Hoernig will attend to satisfying the appetites of those who attend the banquet which will be given to the visiting stars after the dance, as he has charge of the arrangements.

Kansas Has New Censor Bill

Establishes Headquarters Near Base of Supplies and Provides for a Refund.

GOVERNOR CAPPER, of Kansas, has signed the new censorship bill, and it will go into effect immediately upon its publication in the state paper. Plans are already complete for moving the office of the censors to Kansas City, Kansas, where quarters have been provided, without cost to the state, in the basement of the city hall.

The governor has not yet signified to anybody, so far as known, the personnel of the board under the new bill. Most of the guesses lie between Miss Carrie Simpson, who is widely known to be a real judge of pictures and a critic of no mean ability, and the Rev. Festus Foster, who is also widely known as a judge of pictures but for entirely different reasons. Maybe, though, the governor will pick an entirely new board. It is said to be unlikely that Mrs. C. J. Evans, the third member, a resident of Topeka, will be reappointed.

The chief feature of the new bill consists in the removal of the headquarters of the board to Kansas City, Kan., where it will be possible for exchanges to send their films for review by street car in a few minutes. The cost of review remains the same, two dollars a reel; but at the end of each month the expenses of the board are to be figured, and refunds are to be made proportionately to all exchanges, so that the real cost may be reduced to $1.50 or $1.65 a reel.

The new bill also provides for the censoring of all posters and advertising by the censors, without additional cost. They are to have exactly the same authority over them as over the films.

The salaries of the censors are to be readjusted. The new bill provides for a chairman of the board, who shall receive $2,000 a year, the other members receiving $1,800 a year. The appointments to the board are to be made by the governor, and the board shall be directly responsible to him—its activities are entirely removed from the department of public instruction. The governor this week will appoint a chairman and two members of the board, one to serve one year, one two, and one three; thereafter, each member is to be appointed for three years.

There are two or three odd features of the bill, which may cause confusion. For instance, the board of review, as it is now to be called, will be the supreme court of films, the previous board of appeals having been abolished; but any aggrieved exchange man or exhibitor may appeal from the censors to any district court of the state.

While the word of the censors goes, injunctions may lie against its acts—but the board's orders shall prevail until the final decision on any suit.

Perhaps the queerest section is that relating to the power of the board to consider again any picture that has been passed. The bill says that the board may order a re-examination of any film approved by it, upon giving 30 days' written notice to the owner of the film; and the board may then make such order as would be proper under the original examination.

The board is also given power to grant a special permit, without examination fee, for a film for purely educational, charitable or religious purposes.

The board has the power to stop any exhibition of a picture or display of advertising matter that has not been "duly approved" by the board.

There is no doubt that the new system will be vastly less expensive to the Kansas City exchange men, and quite convenient. There also probably will be a saving in the actual fees, also. How some of the other features will work, and especially what sort of a board the governor will appoint, are still speculative matters.

There is considerable speculation as to whether Miss Carrie Simpson will continue as a member of the board. Miss Simpson has become widely recognized, in Kansas and the surrounding states, for her keen judgment on the kind of pictures Kansans want, and her suggestions and criticisms have been valuable to exchange men and exhibitors. It is known to a few who have watched her work, that she has been the chief factor in making the censorship at all bearable. There are hopes that, if she does not continue on the board, the parent-teachers' organizations, or some other agencies, may find a place for her in educating the public, and in securing cooperation of film men, in the direction of better pictures, and in giving the public a clearer understanding of what the moving picture industry really stands for.

Two appointments recently made in the Western branches of the Mutual Film Corporation are those of Mr. Merrick as manager of the Seattle, Washington, exchange, and A. S. Kirkwood as manager of the Portland, Oregon, office.

Massachusetts Censor Bill Opposed

Arguments Against Its Passage Made by Many Interests—the Petitioner for It.

AT THE hearing before the Committee on Mercantile Affairs of the Massachusetts Legislature at Boston, March 13th, several persons representing various interests appeared against the proposed censorship board. They were representatives of the city government, the Boston picture houses and real estate interests opposing the legislation, while M. A. O'Brien, petitioner seeking the proposed legislation, was the sole person appearing in favor. The arguments made against it included the difficulty of making a profit in many houses, the unnecessary expense involved, the constant demand for political jobs, and the general cleanness of the pictures. One of the chief arguments against it was made by John M. Casey, license clerk for the city of Boston, and a member of the advisory committee of the National Board of Review. He opposed the bill by direction of the mayor.

"We have what we feel is the proper supervision," he said. "Since the Board of Censorship consisting of the mayor, the police commissioner and the chief justice of the Municipal Court was organized, it has been necessary to adjudge the films only four or five times."

He pointed out the practice of the National Board in sending their weekly reports to city and town officials who ask for them. "These reports are in my office before the films are ready to be shown in Boston. They indicate just what the National Board has eliminated and these eliminations must be made in Boston." It was brought out that other communities in the state are using this service.

He was asked, "If this state board plan went through, standards of morals would vary over the state, would they not?"

"That is true," Mr. Casey replied.

Another of the speakers, Mrs. Alice R. Carroll, said that the selection of films for children is the real problem in the industry, like that of the selection of books for a library, and all political movements like the creation of a state board of censorship retard it. Furthermore, no state board of censorship has been successful.

At Leading Picture Theaters

Programs for the Week of March 18 at New York's Best Motion Picture Houses.

"The Dummy" at the Strand.

AT THE Strand Theater Jack Pickford was seen in a proto-dramatic adaptation of "The Dummy," during the week of March 18. In this play the youthful star portrays real boy-life, of which he is past master. Max Linder, the French comedian, in his latest American-made farce-comedy entitled "Max Wants a Divorce." The Prizma pictures in natural colors, showing Saranac Lake and Palm Beach; a new chapter of Ditmar's "Living Book of Nature," and the Strand Topical Review were also on the program.

The soloists were Lydia Lindgren, Knud Dalgaard, Grace Hoffman, Arthur Depew and Ralph Brigham.

"Babette" at the Rialto.

"Babette," a romance of provincial France and Bohemian Paris, was the dramatic feature of the program at the Rialto. F. Berkley Smith, who wrote the story, knows his Paris as O. Henry knew Manhattan, and has provided an unusually happy stellar role for Peggy Hyland, the little English actress. Marc MacDermott is featured with Miss Hyland. The picture is a Vitagraph Blue Ribbon Feature.

Rex Beach and his fellow explorers were shown in the tropic wilds of Nicaragua and Costa Rica. This is the third installment of the pictures taken by the Salisbury expedition and includes as its most impressive feature the only motion picture ever secured of a total solar eclipse.

"THE ETERNAL SIN" AT THE BROADWAY.

The Herbert Brenon production of Victor Hugo's drama, "Lucretia Borgia," under the title of "The Eternal Sin," began an engagement at the Broadway Theater the week of March 18. Florence Reed is the featured player. The picture will be reviewed in the next issue.

EIGHTY-FIRST STREET BILL.

At the Eighty-first Street Theater a series of four new pictures were shown Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Bessie Love in "A Daughter of the Poor," and a Triangle Comedy, "A Self-Made Hero," were the selections.

Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, John Emerson in "The Flying Torpedo," and a Keystone comedy, "Villa of the Movies," were on the bill.

Bradenburgh Indicted for "Duping"

Mutual Film Corporation Instigates Action by Federal Grand Jury—Pirated Chaplin's "The Floorwalker" is Allegation.

GEORGE W. BRADBENBURGH, of Philadelphia, a former alderman of that city and in his way nationally known in the film business, is under federal indictment for "duping" a Mutual-Chaplin comedy film. The indictment was returned by the United States grand jury sitting at Philadelphia on March 8. The specific charge is violation of the copyright law by the making of a "duplicate" print of the Mutual-Chaplin comedy entitled "The Floorwalker," and offering it for sale in England.

The indictment of Bradenburgh is the fruit of a ten month campaign by the legal and secret service departments of the Mutual Film Corporation, in cooperation with the federal authorities and the forces of the office of United States District Attorney Sterrett in Philadelphia.

Linked with this prosecution are indictments and cases in the state courts involving about twenty other individuals in various parts of the United States. Other phases of the prosecution extend to foreign parts, where representatives of the Mutual are seeking action under the criminal laws.

It is expected that the case against Bradenburgh will be brought to trial at an early date. The charge involves Section 28 of the copyright law which provides:

"Any person who wilfully and for profit shall infringe any copyright secured by this act, or who shall knowingly and wilfully aid or abet such infringement, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment for not exceeding one year or by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars, or both in the discretion of the court."

The government charges that Bradenburgh, in the months of May and June in 1916 made a "dupe" copy of "The Floorwalker" at his place of business on Vine street in Philadelphia and thereafter attempted to sell copies of the picture.

Bradenburgh was taken into custody in Philadelphia on March 8 and arraigned before the United States Commissioner and held to the grand jury prior to the indictment.

"The Floorwalker" was the first of the comedies made for the Mutual by Charles Chaplin after he signed his now famous $670,000 contract with John R. Freuler, president of the Mutual Film Corporation. It is of interest to recall at that time Mr. Freuler announced the appropriation of a large sum for the protection of his copyrights on Chaplin comedies.

"This is a good start," observed Mr. Freuler, on receiving a report from the Mutual's legal department, "but there will be many another prosecution to come. The efforts of our investigation department are beginning to pull in a flood of evidence against the pirates who have so long preyed on the film trade. Most of these pirates have escaped serious prosecution and punishment because the film men have been too busy. Now that the industry is beginning to get something of the form of definite organization and a code of practice it is to be hoped that every reputable concern in the business will protect its rights and property in the courts."

DORIS KENYON ENGAGED BY WHARTONS.

Doris Kenyon, whose latest release is the Pathe feature, "The Empress," has been engaged for the star part in the first production to be made by Wharton, Inc., under their new regime as independent producers. The Whartons have but recently completed the International's photoplay serial supreme, "Patria," and are now turning their attention to the production of the highest class features it is possible to produce.

The first of these features in which Miss Kenyon will be starred is entitled "The Great White Trail." It is a story of life in Alaska. The scenario was written by Leo D. Wharton, who is also director.

Miss Kenyon, who is one of the youngest and most popular stars in motion pictures, will be supported in "The Great White Trail" by Thomas Holding, Paul Gordon, Hans Roberts and a large cast. Miss Kenyon was the star in the International feature, "The Ocean Waif."

EVA TANGUAY TO PRODUCE.

Paul Arlington, the scenario writer, formerly of Essanay, has returned to New York, and is busily engaged preparing scenarios for Miss Eva Tanguay, the vaudeville star, who is going to promote her own company as soon as the present season is over. Miss Tanguay will produce two-reel comedies of a refined order, and will rely on plot and ludicrous situations in lieu of slapstick methods.

Hilda Nord

MISS HILDA NORD, who plays the role of Kitty Trent, "a daughter of the people" in "The Web of Life," the initial release of the Gold Medal Photoplayers, is a most attractive young Norwegian who has lately come to this country to continue her career before the camera.

Hilda Nord.

"The Web of Life" represents Miss Nord's first appearance before American audiences and her careful and well thought-out handling of the role of the young unsuspecting country maid who knows nothing of the ways of men or the world, gives evidence of much natural talent possessed by Miss Nord.

To impersonate a character throughout the course of a five-reel picture, which calls for a continuous display of childish innocence and trustfulness, requires much ability or the audience soon grows tired. In this picture, however, Miss Nord seems so sincerely true to life that your interest in her trials is sustained to the end and one wonders that there is a man so mean as to cause suffering to a girl who so strongly believes in and trusts him.

Since her appearance in this picture Miss Nord has had numerous offers from producers who have seen her work and within a short time Miss Nord will be featured in a new picture, the scenario of which has already been prepared.

AUTHOR APPEARS IN PERSON.

Edward Sachs, manager of the Morningside theater at 2139 Eighth avenue, New York, originated a novel stunt that packed his theater last week when he announced the personal appearance of a photoplaywright as an added attraction.

Just before running the feature play, "The Royal Pauper," the author of the play, Henry Albert Phillips, appeared and made a few remarks that gave the audience some idea of the author's problems. When and how the story originated and how it was produced proved to be interesting to the audience, judging from their profound attention and enthusiastic applause. Mr. Phillips may be remembered for his one-act plays that appeared in the Proctor and Keith houses and his magazine stories. Current photoplays by the same author are "The Royal Pauper," "A Dream or Two Ago," "Just a Song at Twilight" and "A Builder of Castles."

TWO FAMOUS DIRECTORS JOIN THANHOUSER.

The Thanhouser Film Corporation announces that it has secured the services of Emile Chautard and Van Dyke Brooke in directorial capacity. Mr. Chautard was recently with the World Film and has many successful productions to his credit. He will direct Frederick Warde.

Mr. Brooke is one of the best directors of the old Vitagraph Company and a pioneer in the business. Many Vitagraph favorites owe their prominence to his guiding hand. Mr. Brooke's first work with Thanhouser will be the direction of "An Amateur Orphan" with Gladys Leslie in the leading part.

FITZMAURICE AND COMPANY AT SARANAC.

George Fitzmaurice of the Astra is at Saranac Lake in the Adirondacks with Mollie King and a company of twelve players. Mr. Fitzmaurice is engaged in the production of a five-part Pathe Gold Rooster play called "Fifth Avenue."

Chicago News Letter

By JAS. S. McQUADE

Chicago Censorship Preferable to Illinois State Censorship.

By James S. McQuade.

THE Chicago Herald, in the issue of March 11, stands for local censorship in preference to state censorship in the following editorial which appeared under the heading "Our Own Censor":

Chicago has no violent objection to state censorship of its moving pictures. But it decidedly prefers to do its own censoring, as it has been done heretofore by Second Deputy Funkhouser and his staff.

If there is any reason for revolutionizing the system and giving its direction to a state body, such reason has not been made plain. But there are many plain reasons why this worrisome business, locally conducted to the satisfaction of the people generally, should be let alone.

Chicago is firm for home rule. The recent state election was held forth as a victory for that policy. Moving pictures are a matter these days of intimate communal importance. There is no scandal, no outburst of criticism, nothing in the air at all to justify such a serious step as removing from competent Chicago hands a function primarily individual to the municipality.

There is much that needs changing and reforming. Why "pick on" one institution which has made good, which has worked out tangled problems and solved them, and which is peacefully running along and giving efficient service?

While looking forward eagerly to the time when the producers and directors of moving pictures shall have become their own censors and thus remove all reason for censorship of any kind, it is far preferable under prevailing conditions that Chicago censorship should continue rather than that state censorship should take its place.

Why?

Chicago censors are uncontrolled by politics, and the head of the board is guided by ordinance and by careful judgment in his rulings. This does not mean that mistakes have not been made; but it does mean that the desire to do right and not a sense of might has been the governing principle. The very fact that any man becomes a censor of the morals of his fellows implies that he cannot avoid mistakes.

A state censor board, as exhibitors can testify who have lived under such rule, is always arbitrary and at times eminently unfair.

In a recent letter written by the secretary of the Ohio Northwestern League of Exhibitors to the secretary of Motion Picture Exhibitors' Corporation of the Northwest (warning him against proposed state censorship), both organizations being included in the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America, the following paragraph appears:

"Forget the exchanges, but arouse your sleeping exhibitors. The exchanges simply don't care, because they will pro rate the increased expense on the exhibitors just as they have in Ohio—and then some. And, in addition, your pictures will be mutilated and chopped with never a protest from the exchangemen; because if the exchangemen protests at a chopping of his Monday releases, his following releases will be murdered—killed dead. This has been, and is yet, the bitter experience of Ohio exhibitors, whose little family programs of one, two and three reels are mutilated until they become uninteresting, and patrons are disgusted."

At present, therefore, as matters stand, while holding all forms of censorship of moving pictures unconstitutional, it is best that Chicago censorship shall be retained, and that the proposed state censorship bill for Illinois should be defeated.

"Kitty Kelly" Appointed to Conduct the Moving Picture Department of the Chicago Examiner.

"Kitty Kelly," the pen name of the Chicago Tribune's first photoplay editor, who, while on the staff of that paper, centered wide attention on her column from the general reading public and the trade, has been selected by the Chicago Examiner to conduct the moving picture department of that paper. Miss Kelly had been transferred from the film department of the Tribune to another important branch of that daily, but evidently her heart and her talent were with the "movies"; so, yielding to the call, she again assumes the familiar sobriquet under the standard of the Examiner.

"Kitty Kelly's" new position will afford a broader field and greater opportunity than she had had heretofore as a writer in the moving picture field. Plans have been already made for a tour of the Eastern studios in the near future, when a daily story will be wired to her paper. A trip to the California studios will follow, and next a visit to the Gulf coast plants.

"Kitty Kelly" is well known throughout the trade, and she is personally acquainted with nearly all the important producers, directors and players. She treasures the numerous tributes received from them on her work, and hopes she will continue to deserve them as the years pass.

David Wark Griffith has said of "Kitty Kelly": "You have the most remarkable memory of any person I have ever met."

Regarding her criticism of moving pictures Jame. R. Quirk, of Photoplay Magazine, wrote in a letter: "Your viewpoint is wonderfully clear and sane, and you always reflect the feelings of the average intelligent movie patron."

William S. Hart has written as follows: "I want to tell you how easy it makes it all when we know our efforts are being reviewed and appreciated by such a clever, brainy, little lady as you are."

And so I might continue to reproduce many other flattering tributes to the subject of this sketch, but I shall add only that of Aaron J. Jones, of Jones, Linick & Schaefer, this city: "I only wish that all critics were like you and would criticise the picture exactly as it is, regardless of who the manufacturer may be, or in whose theater shown."

The Moving Picture World welcomes "Kitty Kelly" back to the fold, as her attainments and attitude are a distinct acquisition to the forces that make for the betterment of the moving picture business.

Impoverished Adult Life.

It is refreshing to read an editorial on censorship of moving pictures that differs so widely from other contributions on that topic as does an editorial which appeared recently in the Chicago Tribune, and which makes us smile in sympathy because this honest outpouring of the heart is so clearly indicative of the goodnatured American gentleman who seeks to adjust himself to every condition that confronts him, even to that of being "dressed up morally—with no place to go and nothing interesting to do."

These stern women reformers, who go about seeking what they may devour in order to make life still more intolerable for mere man Americans, would better hesitate before they drive us to seek death by falling from on high on the front sidewalk, because there is no chance to drop quietly in the back yard. The editorial follows:

The need of censorship is directly traceable to the manner of life which has created the need of apartment houses. When most of us lived in houses the children played in the back yard with the dog. Now that we live in apartment houses there is no back yard and the dog is a lap dog. The children are on the community and the community has to be regulated for them. It is sufficiently obvious.

But the necessity of interference with the private amusement of adults for the benefit of the children is, nevertheless, irksome. It is infuriating to many an adult to read of three or four public spirited women and several preachers pronouncing on the morality or immorality of a motion picture; forbidding any one to look at it.

It is because the adult realizes that life is being impoverished for him by censorship, necessary or not, that he opposes censorship of anything which he enjoys. He cannot see why even if cities are becoming nurseries his diet should be modified milk. In a community which offers no interest to any one over fourteen years old, where every enjoyment is surrounded with prohibitions for the benefit of morons and epileptics, there is no use growing up.

Adults will some time rebel against a system which offers no rewards for self-restraint and does not open up a wider life for wisdom and sophistication. If we have to destroy adult life in order to bring children safely to it we shall have failed stupidly, for our sacrifices will have gained us nothing. We shall be all dressed up morally—with no place to go and with nothing interesting to do.

Chicago Film Brevities.

"Joan the Woman," in eleven parts, will succeed "Intolerance" at the Colonial on Wednesday, March 28. The Griffith spectacle will give its closing presentation at this theater on Saturday, March 24, after a run of 16 weeks. It opened Tuesday evening, Nov. 28. As every reader already knows, Geraldine Farrar plays the part of Joan in this Lasky feature, the picture having been produced under the direction of Cecil DeMille. The presentations at the Colonial will be given under the direction of Jones, Linick & Schaefer, who have purchased the rights for Illinois and Indiana. E. Q. Cordner, who is now director of presentations of Mary Pickford in "A Poor Little Rich Girl" at the Auditorium, will fill a similar position at the Colonial during the run of the Lasky picture. The prices for "Joan the Woman" will be 25, 50, 75 cents and $1.

* * *

"A Poor Little Rich Girl" is showing to full houses at the Auditorium at 25 and 50 cents. The critics of the daily press gave the picture a big send-off without a dissenting voice. The contract at the Auditorium runs for nine days only, and that would close the engagement on Sunday evening, March 18. Max Goldstine, Chicago manager of Artcraft, is doing his best to extend the run for another week.

* * *

W. W. Hodkinson, president of the Triangle Distributing Corporation, was in Chicago Monday and Tuesday, March 12 and 13, consulting with the Chicago representative on business connected with the Triangle service. He proceeded to Denver from this point, and will then visit Salt Lake and San Francisco on his way to Los Angeles.

* * *

Henry B. Walthall, the well known Essanay star, Harry Beaumont, a director for Essanay, and Charles McGuirk, a photoplay writer on the Essanay staff, were in an automobile collision in this city Sunday evening, March 11. Mr. Walthall and Mr. Beaumont escaped with slight bruises, but Mr. McGuirk suffered a deep scalp wound. None, however, was seriously injured.

* * *

Ike Van Ronkel informs me that the Bluebird Photoplays offices, at 109 N. Dearborn street, and the Universal exchange, at 128 W. Lake street, will be moved to the 15th and 4th floors of the Consumers Building, 220 S. State street, about April 15. Mr. Van Ronkel will still remain in charge of the Bluebird product, while C. R. Plough will have charge of the Universal exchange. The executive offices of both exchanges will occupy the 15th floor, while the shipping, inspection and projecting rooms will be used in common.

* * *

I. P. Rosenberg, formerly branch manager of the St. Louis office of the Lewis J. Selznick Productions, has been added to the Chicago sales force.

Jones, Linick & Schaefer recently purchased the state rights to "The Ne'er Do Well" for Illinois and Indiana from Sol L. Lesser, and the feature will be handled in the Chicago office of the Lewis J. Selznick Productions. Other releases now being handled by the Chicago office are Florence Reed in "The Eternal Sin," Clara Kimball Young in "The Price She Paid," Selig's "Beware of Strangers," Norma Talmadge in "The Law of Compensation," and Robert Warwick in "The Court of St. Simon."

* * *

Julius Singer, special representative of L-Ko Motion Picture Company, 1600 Broadway, New York, made a pleasant call at this office Tuesday, March 13, during a stop-over on his way from Los Angeles to New York. Mr. Singer left for New York about two months ago, and spent a month at the company's studios at Los Angeles, one month being spent on the return trip, during which he stopped over at Salt Lake, Denver, Kansas City, Omaha and other points. He reported good business for the L-Ko comedies, and informed me that exhibitors and exchangers in the cities visited by him are looking brightly on the future.

* * *

Alfred Hamburger has arranged with George Kleine's K-E-S-E office, this city, for the booking of two prints of the Max Linder comedies as they are released for his neighborhood theater circuit in Chicago immediately following the premier showing in the "Loop." Mr. Hamburger has already booked all Fox and Keystone (Mack Sennett) comedies for a presentation on his circuit in advance of other theaters.

Mr. Hamburger's attraction at the Ziegfeld for the week of Saturday, March 17, will be "Intrigue" (Vitaphone), with Marc MacDermott, Peggy Hyland and little Bobbie Connelly, and "The Secret Kingdom" (Vitaphone).

The Actors' Fund benefit performance at the Auditorium, Friday afternoon, March 9, proved a big success, $7,000 for the fund having been realized.

* * *

Nathan Schaffner, of the Big Feature Rights Corporation, which is exploiting "The Crisis" in Indiana, was in Newcastle, that state, when the recent cyclone struck the town. He reports that "The Crisis" orchestra kept the audience from stampeding in the midst of the terrific wind storm which demolished houses on its course through the city. All lights in the theater were put out and a panic was averted only by the presence of mind of the director of the orchestra.

* * *

According to advices recently received at his Chicago offices, Wm. N. Selig is of the opinion that the Selig-Tribune news reel may be instrumental in making an important reform in the state of Delaware. It appears that a Selig-Tribune cameraman was recently assigned to Dover, Del., to obtain for the screen details in connection with the whipping post, which is still a legalized form of punishment in that state. When the authorities learned that the cameraman was present they immediately postponed the execution of the sentence.

The Philadelphia Evening Ledger considered this action of sufficient importance for the following editorial comment: "If the performances of the Delaware authorities about their whipping post are so terrible a spectacle that they have to be postponed because a motion picture man is on the job in Dover, we can thank our stars for the 'movies.' What is too lurid for the motion picture public in Philadelphia theaters should be too lurid for the Delaware populace. The motion picture man should be on the scene of the next lynching. The reforming influence of moving pictures should not stop there. There are many abuses which will not stand the light of day. Moving pictures of congested districts in slums, of the inadequate methods of distributing food, of injurious conditions in factories and of child labor, if shown on screens, would be a forceful propaganda of reform."

* * *

An additional series of one-reel farce comedies that will be released shortly through the General Film Service is announced by Wm. N. Selig, president of the Selig Polyscope Company. This course was found necessary owing to the high favor with which the previous group was received. The first release of the latest group of comedies will be announced early in April.

Goldstein Brothers in New Company

Forms Big State Right Corporation With Headquarters at Springfield, Mass.

THE Goldstein Brothers, who have long been known most favorably not only in Springfield, Mass., theatrical circles, where are located the general offices of the Broadway Theater Co., Goldstein Bros. Amusement Co. and Theater Amusement Co., corporations controlled by them, but also in the theatrical business at large, and who commenced their career as theatrical managers in this city in 1905, have formed a new corporation capitalized at $50,000 for the purchase of state rights to many of the big super-feature photoplay productions.

In the past the Goldstein Brothers have directed their energies exclusively to the building, and the operating of their circuit of theaters and the forming of a new corporation to purchase the exclusive state rights for the big super-productions is an entirely new field and one that is expected to grow rapidly and be financially a big success.

The name of the new company will be the Natsam Features Co. Natsam is a compound word which represents the names of the two popular theater owners who have become known to their many friends throughout theatrical circles as Nat and Sam Goldstein. Nathan E. Goldstein, president, Samuel Goldstein, treasurer, and Henry Lasker, clerk, will make up the board of directors of the new company. The main office of the Natsam Features Co. will be on the top floor of the Broadway Theater Building, Springfield, Mass., with branch offices in Boston.

The first feature that the new corporation has purchased is "Idle Wives." This feature was made in the studios of the Universal Film Company and stars Lois Weber, Philips Smalley and Mary McLaren in the principal roles. It is in seven acts and requires 1¾ hours to screen. Arrangements have already been made to present it at the Broadway Theater during the entire week of March 19th, which will be the first time it has been shown in the New England states. Immediately after its being shown at the Broadway it will be booked to other exhibitors in New England and the company's representative has already made arrangements in Boston for its showing early in April.

News of Los Angeles and Vicinity

By G. P. VON HARLEMAN

Griffith Leaves Fine Arts

Producer Disposes of His Stock in Majestic Motion Picture Company—His New Studio Soon to Be Built in Los Angeles.

D. W. GRIFFITH has severed his connections with the Fine Arts Film Company and the Triangle Film Corporation. This announcement has been expected for some time, but it was not until Sunday, March 11, that definite news was received here by wire from New York. We immediately called up the Fine Arts Film Company to ascertain all the facts in this matter, and were informed that it was true that Mr. Griffith had left the Fine Arts and relinquished his stock in the Majestic Motion Picture Company, but that they did not know themselves as yet, all the particulars of the transaction and suggested that we should wait with our story until next week, when they were able to give us a more complete statement.

Mr. Griffith, we are informed, will arrive in Los Angeles some time this week. It is said among the trade that the producer contemplates building a magnificent studio here of his own, where he will put on six and eight-reel pictures of the type that made him famous in the old Biograph days. He will probably rent a studio pending the erection of his own plant. It is said that Griffith will not affiliate with any corporation and that he has a lot of his own money as well as an immense amount of Eastern capital back of his new enterprise. Griffith will write as well as personally direct all of his pictures. It is not known which of the players will remain with the Fine Arts or go with Mr. Griffith in his new company. It is said that with Mr. Griffith's resignation from the Triangle, contracts of several heads of the departments as well as many of the stars may become void.

Whether these people will remain with the Fine Arts Film Company or go to some other studio is not known at the present time. Harry Aitken, president of the Triangle Film Corporation, is in the city and stopping at the Beverly Hills Hotel, but we were unable to reach him by telephone or otherwise in time to get his statement for this issue.

MAX LINDER COMPANY ARRIVES ON THE COAST.
Celebrated Comedian to Stay in Los Angeles for Several Months.

MAX LINDER, famous Essanay comedian, is here. His coming was quite a surprise. V. R. Day, who looks after Mr. Spoor's interests on the coast, called us up and said he wanted us to meet a friend of his at the Santa Fe Depot Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The friend was Max Linder, and with him his entire company of players, assistant directors, cameramen and personal business staff, among them E. M. Dezaive, Linder's manager; Martha Ehrlich, leading woman; Mattie Comont, character woman; M. Rashelli, character man, and Fred Malatesta, assistant director. Mr. Linder will produce several two-reel comedies at the Culver City Studios of the Essanay Company, the first of which will be titled "Max Wants a Divorce." The company expects to stay at least three months on the west coast, and then will return to Chicago to finish the rest of the Linder comedy series.

Among the distinguished people who met Linder at the door of his private car was W. H. Clune, Blair Coan and V. R. Day of the Essanay forces, as well as many prominent photoplayers from the various Los Angeles studios.

A Visit to Selig's

Two Companies at Work Producing Multiple Reel Features.

AT THE attractive studio at the Selig Zoo, a representative of the Moving Picture World recently spent a most interesting afternoon being shown over the lot by Mr. Thomas Nash, the producing manager of Colonel Selig's Los Angeles studios. Mr. Nash took us to the stage, where Colin Campbell was directing scenes for his feature production of Albert Payson Terhune's novel "Caleb Conover," in which George Fawcett, Thomas Santschi, Fritz Brunette, Will Machin and Eugenie Bessner will have the most prominent roles. This story, which is a capital and labor drama, promises to be one of the best that Mr. Campbell has yet produced.

Director Alfred E. Green is about to commence a production entitled "The Lad and the Lion," an animal story featuring Vivian Reed and Will Machin, which will probably run more than five reels. Since our last visit to the studio James S. McGee, the general manager of Mr. Selig's west coast interests, has considerably augmented the valuable collection of animals at the Zoo by a carload shipment containing fifty different specimens of animals from the Antipodes, as well as further beautifying the already attractive grounds which constitute the studio proper.

Mr. Nash informs us that Colonel Selig is expected shortly from his Chicago headquarters to pay his annual winter visit to the center of his producing activities.

M. E. M. GIBSONE JOINS MABEL CONDON EXCHANGE.

Miss M. E. M. Gibsone, for the past three years manager of the Kalem Studio in Hollywood, has amicably severed her connection with that company to affiliate with the Mabel Condon Exchange.

Born in Canada and a product of the University of Toronto, Miss Gibsone for seven years was connected with the banking firms of Toronto, four years of which time she was manager of the Woman's Department of that city's biggest bank.

Then she chose New York City as a workshop and became secretary to the president of the General Electric Company. Her responsibilities in this capacity were many, and after doing special work in the suit of the United States Government against the electrical trust she suffered a breakdown which took her out of the business world for two years. During these two years she became interested in the growing art of motion pictures and four years ago she came to California, considering it the center of picture making, and determining to find for herself a place in its colony and to learn every detail of the business.

The Kalem Company offered Miss Gibsone her first opportunity in a picture way. She accepted as assistant to Colonel Price, who was then managing the studio. In less than a year Miss Gibsone had taken over the management of the studio's every department, and as studio manager has looked after its very activity, writing a great many of the stories, personally overseeing the production of the "Ham Comedies," and having the supervision of a light-comedy and of the "Hazards of Helen" stories. Until recently the publicity of both the Hollywood and Glendale studios was handled by Miss Gibsone, who, during her Kalem affiliation, also was connected, in a business way, with the affairs of Blanche Sweet, Ruth Roland, Marshall Neilan, and others of note of the west coast film colony.

In affiliating with The Mabel Condon Exchange, Miss Gibsone will be most concerned with the engagement end of this firm, but in addition will put into practice some original ideas in the establishment of other departments to be conducted by this concern.

Miss M. E. M. Gibsone.

CAUFIELD PHOTOPLAY COMPANY TO PRODUCE FOR MUTUAL.

Announcement has been made this week of a new comedy producing company in Los Angeles, organized by H. P. Caufield, formerly manager of the Lone Star Film Company, popularly known as the Charlie Chaplin studios. The company will produce a series of one-reel comedy features for the Mutual program; one to be released each week under the name of Strand-Mutual Comedies. The Caufield Photoplay Company has acquired as their featured star Billie Rhodes, formerly leading lady of Christie Comedies and from Universal, Jay Belasco to play opposite Miss Rhodes in these comedies. Scott Sydney, for a long time with Thomas H. Ince and more lately of the Morosco-Palace Photoplay Company, will be the director. The company will be located at the Christie studios and production on the first release will be started this week.

STATIC CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS.

The Static Club of America, the organization of the cameramen of the Pacific Coast, held their annual election on Tuesday night, March 6, when the following officers were elected: President, Al Cawood; vice-president, E. G. Ullman; secretary, G. F. Schoedsack; treasurer, S. S. Norton; directors, Homer Scott, G. Rosher, Eugene Gaudio, Al Cawood, Roy Klafki, Wm. Peltz, D. D. Littell.

On March 31 the Static Club will hold their Fourth Annual Ball, at the Hotel Alexandria. There will be present many of the cameramen, the directors and the photoplayers. The affair is expected even to eclipse others held in the past.

Los Angeles Film Brevities.

William Desmond and Clara Williams are making preparations to depart for San Francisco, where a week will be spent in the filming of scenes for a new Ince-Triangle play, on which work has just commenced. Under the direction of Reginald Barker, a large company of players, headed by Desmond and Miss Williams, will make the trip to the Bay City. On the return trip a stop will be made at Merced, California. Among those who will make the trip are Robert McKim, Jerome Storm, Wallace Worsley, Thomas S. Guise and Alfred Hollingsworth. The play was written by J. G. Hawks.

Bobby Vernon, the Keystone comedian, has just joined the ranks of the benedicts. Mrs. Bobby's name is Repetto and her first name is Angeline. She is the sister of Mrs. Morris, wife of Keystone Director Reggie Morris. Father Kane performed the ceremony at the Immaculate Heart in Hollywood, Thursday, March 1.

Bobby had planned an elopement, but the gang got wise, so the ceremony was hastened by several days. The certificate shows the bride to be eighteen and the groom twenty. Well, here are our very best wishes, Bobby.

Sam Rork, the publicity director of the Keystone Film Company, has gone to New York to attend to some business for Mr. Sennet. Don't forget to come back, Sam!

Work on the filming of a new Triangle-Kay Bee play in which Thomas H. Ince will present Bessie Barriscale as star has begun at the Ince studios, under the direction of Raymond B. West. This is an elaborate comedy-drama with a Holland locale, and in which Miss Barriscale plays the part of a Dutch maid.

Monroe Salisbury returned last week to the William Fox fold to appear in a production now being made by Director R. A. Walsh. Mr. Salisbury was in a recent Gladys Rockwell picture, but has done no other work under the Fox banner.

The photoplay will star Miriam Cooper, who will be supported by Ralph Lewis, Charles Clary, Henry C. Barrow, Monroe Salisbury, Howard Davies and William Eagle Shirt.

Several well known players have been added to the cast of "The Curse of Eve," the seven-reel feature written by Wycliffe A. Hill, which is being produced by the Corona Cinema Company at the Selig Zoo studio. Among them are Eugenie Besserer, Marion Warner and William Nye. Miss Besserer is on a contract with the Selig Company and is appearing in a Colin-Campbell production at the same time.

Miss Warner has just finished with the Selig Company and Mr. Nye with the International.

At the Essanay studios in Culver City a large ball-room scene was staged last week for the big Japanese feature drama now being produced under supervision of J. R. Day and Blair Coan for Mr. Spoor. Frank Bozarge and W. H. Kerr are directing the production.

Francis Ford and Grace Cunard are at present working on a special feature for Carl Laemmle. This will take a little over two weeks, when we are informed both Miss Cunard and Mr. Ford will make other affiliations.

Lena Baskette, the clever little child actress dancer at Universal City, was the sensation of the hour at the fashionable Beverly Hills Hotel one night this week when she danced before 400 guests of the popular caravansary.

Lena was expected to dance only once, but the audience clamored for more and the clever little girl gave three encores.

Frederick Palmer is now supplying comedies for Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran, stars of the Universal Nestor Company, in collaboration with C. B. ("Pop") Hoadley. Palmer joined the Universal scenario staff after nearly three years with the Keystone Film Company, where he held the position of assistant managing editor. Previously to this Mr. Palmer wrote many film comedies and dramas as a freelance while located in Los Angeles as editor and publisher of the Rounder, a theatrical journal.

The other night we happened to drop in at the lobby of the Lankershim Hotel. We were attracted from the outside by a truck load of Klieg lights being unloaded on the sidewalk. We found Director Stuart Paton and Assistant Director Murphy rehearsing a scene in the eighth episode of the Universal serial "The Voice on the Wire," featuring Ben Wilson and Neva Gerber with Howard Crampton, Joseph Girard and Francis McDonald in the supporting cast.

Kalem's Glendale studio is humming with activity, now that "The American Girl," "Stingaree," Ham comedies and "The Daughter of Daring" companies have been combined.

Al Cantell, directing the Ham comedies, put on extra efforts last week, because of delays due to recent rains. At Kalem's new interior studio Santell kept his company on the job for twenty-four continuous hours and it was a tired party of fun-makers who went home at 8 a. m.

Helen Gibson, featured in Kalem's new railroad series, "The Daughter of Daring," believes that her latest "stunt" eclipses all her former efforts to thrill. In the episode just completed Miss Gibson on her motorcycle rides through and shatters a wooden gate, going at full speed. Pursuing a runaway freight train she rides up a station platform, through the open doors of a box-car on a siding, her machine traveling through the air until it lights on a flat-car in the speeding train.

Scott Sidney, who was engaged temporarily to direct Kalem's railroad series, "The Daughter of Daring," has left the company, and James Davis, who formerly directed "The Hazards of Helen," is now directing the new series. A. C. Gage, who has had many years in the Kalem school, is assistant director. O. Zangrelli, one of the most expert cameramen in the industry, has been brought from Jacksonville, Florida, to photograph the railroad series.

The "Stingaree" company, featuring True Boardman and directed by Paul Hurst, has completed episode seven, which presents a diversity of picturesque locations. Two days were spent on the Mojave Desert, and a day in the Big Te Junga Canyon.

The Mexican street at Kalem's Glendale studio has been entirely rebuilt for the episode of "The American Girl," "Border Requisition," now under direction by James W. Horne.

Lillian Hayward, character actress, was engaged this week by Thomas H. Ince to appear in support of his stars in Triangle-Kay Bee plays. Miss Hayward has enjoyed a long and varied association with the stage and screen, having appeared to advantage during the past few years in a number of popular successes. She had been assigned an important role, in support of Dorothy Dalton, in the new play in which Miss Dalton is appearing, under the direction of Charles Miller.

Alfred Hollingsworth, who served more than a year under the Ince banner, until he severed his connection to direct for another company, was re-engaged this week by Thomas

H. Ince to appear in Triangle-Kay Bee plays. He has been cast in support of Clara Williams and William Desmond, in their current vehicle.

* * *

At the Signal Studios, the Helen Holmes Company, under the direction of J. P. McGowan, this week completed the fifth episode of their latest serial, "The Railroad Raiders," which is to be released under the title of "A Watery Grave."

For the sixth episode, a warehouse set is being built at the end of a spur-track on the Salt Lake railroad near Pico, Cal. The building when completed will be between seventy-five and a hundred feet long. For purposes of production, it is built at the end of the spur so that a runaway train may be sent down the track and straight through the side of it. This is to appear in the sixth chapter of "The Railroad Raiders."

F. L. Hemphill, who has been in the hospital for ten days as the result of an accident in the production of the fourth installment of "The Railroad Raiders," has returned to his work at the Signal studios, although it will be some time before he is able to walk without the aid of a cane.

Director McGowan bought a Pullman car this week, which will be wrecked in the eighth episode of this serial.

* * *

Production of Charles Ray's second feature under his new contract with Thomas H. Ince, was commenced this week at the Culver City studios by Director Victor L. Schertzinger. The story is a capital and labor drama from a scenario by J. C. Hawks. Sylvia Bremer, the lately acquired Australian beauty, who has recently joined the Thomas Ince forces, will make her screen debut as Mr. Ray's leading woman in this vehicle. J. Barney Sherry and Jack Gilbert are included in the cast.

* * *

J. G. Blystone, Director General of the L-Ko and director of Alice Howell, the featured comedienne, has been working at Long Beach for the past week putting the finishing touches to a picture that has a working title, "The Worshipers of the Cuckoo Clock." As far as sensationalism is concerned, Mr. Blystone has had the technical department working day and night building a lighthouse, which is to be blown from its base.

* * *

The newest Christie Comedy is expected to ring "Those Wedding Bells." It has just been started by Director Horace Davey and the cast will include Betty Compson, Neal Burns and Eddie Barry in congenial roles, with Stella Adams as an old maid and George French as his customary minister. Two important, though unnamed, members of this cast are a pair of Boston bull-terriers, "Pal" and "Runt."

* * *

At the Triangle Fine Arts Studio, Paul Powell is busily engaged in the production of "Cheerful Givers," featuring Bessie Love with the Fine Arts Kiddies. The story was written especially for Miss Love, by Mary H. O'Connor, Scenario Editor of the Fine Art Studios. Miss Love appears in this picture for the first time in her screen career in the role of a boy. The Fine Arts Kiddies, including Thelma and Beulah Burns, Tina Rossi and Georgie Stone, are featured in the production, others in the cast include Josephine Crowell, Spottiswoode Aitken, Bessie Buskirk, Pauline Starke, Winifred Westover, Loyola O'Connor, and Wm. H. Brown. Lohn Leezur is handling the camera.

* * *

A number of dare-devil riding scenes were filmed this week in a Triangle Fine Arts Western drama, "Hands Up," directed by Wilfred Lucas and Tod Browning and featuring Wilfred Lucas. Colleen Moore, who plays the leading feminine role opposite to Mr. Lucas, is kidnapped and rushed down a mountain side on the back of a broncho in truly Western style. These scenes were staged in Santa Ynez Canyon and one of the steepest parts of the canyon was utilized for staging this scene. Monte Blue, who plays the heavy, rides along at full speed and leaning from his saddle grasps Colleen Moore and swings her bodily in front of him on the saddle. He then gallops up this steep hill with the utmost speed, performing one of the most thrilling scenes of its kind ever staged. Colleen Moore is a new addition to the Fine Arts Studios, recently coming here from Chicago.

Margaret Loomis, a daughter of C. C. Loomis, who with his brother is the proprietor of the Angelus Hotel in Los Angeles, has joined the Lasky Company. Miss Loomis is a professional dancer, a student of the customs of different countries, having toured them all, and his dramatic talent that fits her well for either stage or screen. She is a Ruth St.

Denis find and worked with Miss St. Denis' company for two seasons. She makes her screen debut opposite Sessue Hayakawa in a Lasky Company just completed feature, which will have an early release.

* * *

George Fawcett and Fritzie Brunette and others of the Colin Campbell Company are at work at the Selig Studio after several days in San Francisco, where they took street and courthouse scenes for the multiple-reel feature, "Cable Conover."

* * *

Milton Fahrney and his company of Cub Comedies, headed by George Ovey, last week celebrated the completion of their seventy-fifth Cub Comedy for the Mutual Program at the David Horsley studios. This total number of subjects was written and directed by Mr. Fahrney and featured George Ovey in each case.

* * *

With the tearing down of the wardrobe building at the Lasky studio, the big star dressing room building, housing eight of the Lasky stars, will be moved over into its place on Vine street. A private entrance will be made into the building and a porte cochere extended over the sidewalk so that during the rainy season the artists may alight from their limousines and enter the dressing rooms without contact with the weather.

A new building for the photographers is being erected at the Lasky studio between stages 2 and 3. This building will be of concrete construction and each photographer will have a dark room. Each room will be equipped with the latest devices for their use.

Plans have been completed for the erection of a new scenario building, extending from the end of the new administration building down to Sunset Boulevard. This building will have accommodations for 40 scenario writers and it was reported that Wm. C. De Mille, head of the department, will have an office which in beauty of decoration will outshine that of his brother, Cecil B. De Mille, director general of the Lasky Company.

* * *

Wm. V. Mong, the director, is producing a special feature at Monrovia. A large cast is being selected and the studio being added to. Colorado capital is at the back of the enterprise, but the object and subject of the feature have not as yet been announced.

* * *

Studio Flickers.

The last time we saw Charlie Murray he was hanging by one hand from the second story of the Haas Building, while with the other hand he was putting out a fire in a cigar store awning underneath him. Unfortunately there was no camera handy to catch him in the act.

* * *

March sixteenth is George Walsh's birthday. We understand the entire Fox studio has united to give him a smile for his present. The Los Angeles office of the Moving Picture World also wishes to extend its felicitations, for he is a regular fellow.

* * *

Countess Rosita Marstini, the Western Fox vampire, was forced by Director Otis Turner the other day to descend the shaft of a mine clad in trousers and rubber boots.

* * *

Ruth Stonehouse has started the production of her first five reel drama for which she alone will be responsible for the direction as well as the leading role. Universal is very proud of its little new directress.

* * *

Colin Campbell is the proud possessor of a new auto. As yet we haven't had a ride, but here's hoping.

* * *

We had the pleasure of a jitney ride to the Keystone studio with Alice Lake the other day. Miss Lake is the little comedienne discovered by Roscoe Arbuckle when he was producing pictures for the Keystone in New York. We have seen a recent picture in which Miss Lake played the lead and therefore can testify to Roscoe's discernment.

* * *

H. O. Davis has recently proved his versatility by writing a five-reel comedy-drama for Franklyn Farnum and Agnes Vernon. We believe that a few remarks from Mr. Davis on "Efficiency as Applied to Scenarios" would be most interesting to the vast army of "are and near" photodramatists.

* * *

We saw Nicholas Dunaew near the Alexandria yesterday and was delighted to know that he has forsaken the hospital which housed him for nearly a month as a result of an accident while enacting a fight scene at Universal City.

Richard Stanton was disporting at Levy's the other night, so were we, and were mighty glad to have Dick tell us that he is going to direct Dustin Farnum in his next production.

* * *

Franklyn Farnum when last seen was on a wild chase for a comedy-drama. We suggested Joe Roach, the fellow that wrote "Melting Millions." Hope that Joe had another corker on file.

* * *

Louise Fazenda nearly got married this week. She and Noel Smith, the new L-Ko director, took out a license and arrived before the minister, only to have Miss Fazenda lose her nerve and return to her mother. Better luck next time, Noel.

* * *

Florence Vidor is rejoicing over the assignment of her first big role in Frank Lloyd's next William Farnum production.

* * *

Someone told us that Nellie Morey is to be featured in a "home-life" drama by a new company now being organized by a well-known local film man. Perhaps that means another advertising account for this office.

* * *

Betty Schade was to send in a picture of herself. The picture didn't materialize, but we saw the living image of it with Ernie Shields breaking all speed laws on Wilshire Boulevard.

* * *

Father Jack Blystone is now being directed by a little one-reeler entitled Francine, who paid her first visit to the L-Ko lot this week. Wonder if Jack will be able to think of comedy gags while walking the floor in the wee small hours. Maybe Alice Howell will teach the youngster the fine art of laughing at all times.

* * *

Leota Lorraine cannot get away from sister parts, the latest being with the Balboa Company. Miss Lorraine is a Chicago girl who has won considerable success since coming to the coast, having been with Metro, Lasky and Mutual.

* * *

Frank Borzage introduced us to his wife, Rena Rogers, the other night at Levy's as well as to Blair Coan, who is the author of the Essanay special feature which Borzage is producing at Culver City.

* * *

Betty Brice has discovered that, with the aid of California sunlight, her titian hair will "high-light" when photographed. This discovery was made at the instigation of our good friend Isadore Bernstein.

COLLINS LOOKING FOR LOS ANGELES PLANT.

Frederick L. Collins, president of McClure Pictures, is now in Los Angeles perfecting plans for the production of the next McClure series of five-reel features that will follow Seven Deadly Sins.

If the proper arrangements can be made, Mr. Collins immediately will open a studio in Los Angeles and begin producing the first plays in the new series. Shirley Mason, who has triumphed in Seven Deadly Sins, is to be one of the many stars in the next McClure productions, and as soon as the Los Angeles studio is ready Miss Mason and a number of other players will go to Los Angeles.

As soon as the weather in the East becomes mild the Los Angeles plant will be abandoned and the McClure people will return to New York to complete the remainder of the series.

Mr. Collins telegraphs that he finds the Pacific coast studios unusually active, but that he expects to be able to lease within the next week or two a plant suitable for making the McClure pictures.

MICHIGANDERS WARM UP TO BAGGOT.

In a letter to a friend on the Moving Picture World King Baggot tells of the receptions he has been receiving from the photoplaygoers of Michigan. Mr. Baggot has been making personal appearances in connection with the showing of his five-part "Absinthe." He has talked to audiences in Ann Arbor, Bay City, Battle Creek, Flint, Kalamazoo, Ypsilanti, Saginaw, Jackson, Pontiac, Lansing and Grand Rapids, in the latter city March 15, 16 and 17. Before returning to New York Mr. Baggot will visit Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky. He reports the picture business booming, and says that in the warmth of its greeting every town is a small Boston, the townspeople and officials going the limit to make things pleasant for the player.

C. J. Fitch Joins Paramount's Sales Forces

C. J. FITCH, a well-known salesman, has joined the sales forces of the Wm. L. Sherry Feature Film Company of New York, distributors of Paramount Pictures in this district, and will take complete charge of the Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle comedies, which will be released through Paramount to all exhibitors very shortly.

C. J. Fitch.

The company surrounding Mr. Arbuckle for his first picture is being chosen at the present time, and work on the first two-reel comedy will be released during the early part of April. Mr. Arbuckle, who has always directed his own comedies, will continue to be the director of the Paramount Arbuckle Comedies despite rumors to other effects.

Mr. Fitch, who will have charge of the Arbuckle Comedies in the Sherry Exchange, has held many prominent sales positions in the motion picture industry prior to his having joined the Paramount forces. He is particularly well known in

New York State, which he will cover during the coming months, in the interest of the two-reel pictures.

FIELDING WITH WORLD FILM.

Romaine Fielding has just joined the directorial staff of the World Film Corporation. Mr. Fielding is now at the World Fort Lee studios, supervising the production of "The Crimson Dove," in which Carlyle Blackwell and June Elvidge are starred, with Marie La Varre, Edward N. Hoyt, Dion Titheradge, Julia Stewart and Norman Hackett in the foremost roles.

World Film Director Harley Knoles has just returned from Lakewood, where he made the final scenes of "The Price of Pride," starring Carlyle Blackwell, with a featured cast including June Elvidge, Frank Mills and Evelyn Greeley.

The last scenes of the World Film's "Pretty Polly Polard," with Ethel Clayton as star and Montague Love featured, were staged at the Fort Lee studios on Sunday by Director George Archainbaud.

IRENE HOWLEY'S FIRST TRIANGLE.

Irene Howley has just completed her first picture, "Her Father's Keeper," with the Triangle Film. The story of the screen play is based upon a strong constructive theme, which brings about a number of unusual situations. Miss Howley plays the strong-willed daughter of a strong-willed father. Backed up by an equal amount of brain power these two, united by the strongest ties of affection, wage a battle of supremacy, which carries them swiftly through a series of stirring situations. Frank Currier plays the role of the father in masterful fashion, bringing as he does to the role of a hard old money king, whose word is law unto itself, a strong undercurrent of parental love, which no flinty resolves can crush out. Jack Devereux as an ardent lover and youthful financier has a role of almost equal importance. The release date is fixed for April 1.

DIRECTOR GEORGE COX HAS BEEN ILL.

George L. Cox, formerly director for the Selig Polyscope Company, and more recently director and general manager of the Advance Motion Picture Company, is convalescing at one of the residential hotels in Chicago. Following a tonsillectomy performed in December Mr. Cox's condition rapidly became worse and specialists from New York were obtained, who pronounced the malady Post operative infection. Naturally, the work Mr. Cox was doing for the Rockefeller Institute has been assigned to another director, although it is understood that the picture will be cut and edited when Mr. Cox returns to a state of good health.

News From the Film Exporters By F. G. Ortega

Madrid Newspapers Open Campaign Against American Films—Serials Going Strong in Cuba.—Notes on Film Export

FIVE daily papers, published in Madrid, Spain, with an aggregate circulation of about 400,000 copies each issue, have started a particularly virulent campaign against American films. The Spanish trade papers and other Madrid and Barcelona dailies of wider circulation and higher standing have taken up the cudgels in defense of our production. Cine-Mundial, holding the center of the stage from the beginning, is "doing its bit." The uproar was caused by an innocent article in our Spanish organ, which gave rise to as many interpretations as some of the latest diplomatic notes. The American manufacturers should take advantage of this unprecedented free publicity to introduce their brands in the old Peninsula on a firm basis. We give the import duty on film in Spain:

Three pesetas per kilo, assessed not only on the film itself, but also on the wrapping and tin box. A peseta is worth about 20 cents. Film should be shipped as freight, not by parcel post. Shipments by registered mail or as printed matter are liable to a fine equal to six times the amount of duty. The best way is to ship by freight in lots of not less than eighteen reels at a time.

"Civilization" in Porto Rico.

"Civilization" was shown simultaneously in the two largest moving picture theaters in San Juan, Porto Rico. Our local correspondent states that the picture was as successful as "Quo Vadis" and "Cabiria." All tickets were sold out hours before the opening of the doors. The film will make a tour of the island, playing on a percentage basis, under the auspices of the Medal Film Company, an enterprising concern with headquarters in New York and branches in San Juan and other Latin-American cities.

News from Argentina.

Many of the moving picture theaters of Buenos Aires are combining films with vaudeville acts—a departure in the southern metropolis. The change has taken well with the public.

Martinez & Gunche, producers of "Nobleza Gaucha," the first moving picture made in Argentina, are preparing ten new subjects to be released during the next few months.

The South American Film Service Corporation, with headquarters in New York, has just established a branch in Buenos Aires. It is handling Metro, World, Universal, Bluebird, Red Feather and other American brands, as well as Mutt and Jeff cartoons, several special features and a line of educational subjects. We understand that Andrés Cordero, owner of the Teatro de la Princesa and president of the Buenos Aires Exhibitors' Association, is a member of the Buenos Aires branch.

Serials in Cuba.

"The Broken Coin," "Peg o' the Ring," "Graft" and "The Mysteries of New York" are playing to capacity houses throughout the island. About a year ago one of the best known exchange men of Havana, talking about the Cuban market in the office of Cine-Mundial, stated that serials were bound to fail and that he would not buy them at any price. "You see," he said, "there is a Chinese theater in Havana and the public claims these pictures are made on the Chinese method—they never end. There would be a riot if I attempted to show one of these 'endless' subjects in any of the big theaters." Well, we suppose he has changed his opinion by this time. The Cubans are serial-crazy; and much of the credit is due to the Universal.

News of the Week.

James L. Sheldon, president of the Randolph Film Corporation, producers of Billie Burke in "Gloria's Romance," has recently closed the rights on this picture for the island of Porto Rico.

* * *

Domingo Rafols, representative in New York of the Studio Film Company of Spain, is leaving on March 8 for Barcelona. He is taking several proposition of the worth-while American manufacturers for the further distribution of their films in Spain. Mr. Rafols also is taking the Chaplin-Mutuals, "Joan the Woman" and the Williamson submarine pictures.

* * *

Stephen T. King, special representative for the Submarine Film Corporation for Latin-America, arrived in Buenos Aires on February 25 and is arranging for the exhibition and republic rights on the picture "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea."

* * *

Julian Ajuria, president of the Sociedad General Cinematografica, one of the largest exchanges in Argentine, is leaving on the Lamport & Holt line on March 5. Mr. Ajuria has appointed as his personal representative in New York Mr. Garfinkel, formerly with the Universal, and is now located in the Godfrey Building.

* * *

The Precision Machine Company has recently made connections with the Central American Film Service to act as general sales representative for its machines in Venezuela, Ecuador, Colombia, Peru, Panama and Central America.

* * *

The Radium Gold Fibre Screen has appointed Morris Winik as general representative in Brazil, with headquarters at Rio de Janeiro.

* * *

Frederick H. Knocke, formerly export manager of Pathe, is now buying American film for Max Gluckman, of Argentina.

* * *

J. C. Graham, special representative of Paramount, has recently closed the sale of "Joan the Woman" for Argentine and Brazil to Carle E. Carlton, who will book this feature in the largest theaters in these countries.

* * *

The Triangle Company has appointed Carle Vasseur as general representative in Spain, and he is now actively engaged in the distribution of their films in Barcelona.

Business Increased in Newcastle, N. S. W.

Newest Photoplay House There Built on Plan of American Theaters Takes High Rank—Our Productions Popular.

THE nine film theaters in the Newcastle district have an average seating capacity of about 1,200, according to American Consul Lucien N. Sullivan, stationed there. The customary price of admission is 12 cents or 24 cents, although one or two of the smaller houses charge 6 cents for some of the seats. In one theater 36 cents is paid for a reserved seat.

Five-act feature films are usually shown. Some of the theatres have two star plays for one show in addition to war pictures and one or two comic acts. A show usually lasts 2 hours or more. Only one theater gives continuous performances. The dramatic type of picture is most in favor.

A film combination exists in Australia with headquarters at Sydney. Several of the exchanges, however, are independent.

Films from well-known American companies are in general use. The duty on dramatic films is 4 cents a foot, but other films are free of duty. Newcastle has no film buyers. All of the exchanges have their headquarters in Sydney, which supplies the Newcastle district.

The motion-picture business here has developed very rapidly within the past 18 months, and the number of theaters has about doubled. The audiences represent the best class of people. The newest picture theater in Newcastle takes high rank because of its size, convenience, appointments, and decorations. It was designed by an architect who had inspected many of the houses in the United States.

NOBLE DIRECTING SECOND MAE MARSH PICTURE

John W. Noble, one of the ablest of the younger directors of motion pictures, has signed with Goldwyn Pictures and commencing Monday, March 21, will direct Mae Marsh in her second Goldwyn production. Miss Marsh's first picture was completed in less than six weeks and now that Goldwyn has its big Fort Lee studio plant standardized and working efficiently, the company will be enabled to reduce the amount of time on productions. Ending her work in a story by Irvin Cobb on Friday, Miss Marsh was all ready to begin the new picture with Director Noble three days later.

Picture Situation in Spain

Growth of Motion Picture Business in Barcelona Makes It Chief Importing City in Peninsula for Films and Apparatus—American Serials and Comic Subjects Well Liked

VICE-CONSUL Harris N. Cookingham, Barcelona, writes in "Commerce Reports" that throughout the Barcelona district of Spain motion picture exhibitions in the smaller towns are held perhaps only two evenings a week, but in the larger towns and cities pictures are shown at several halls both afternoon and evening daily. In the smaller places a program frequently consists of 2,000 to 2,500 meters of films, of which one subject may have about 1,500 meters, and the remainder of the program may be made up of pictures of 200 to 500 meters. The average program in Barcelona comprise some 5,000 meters in which one new subject is presented each day. Each picture is exhibited for three days.

Greater Barcelona has 54 motion picture theaters, with an average capacity of probably 1,500 persons. Some of these houses have vaudeville performances in addition to the pictures, but in the greater number only motion pictures are given.

The admission fees for the exhibitions, which often last three or more hours, vary from 0.10 to 0.60 peseta (approximately $0.02 to $0.12), according to the class of the theater and the location of the seat. The "preferred" seats in the best theaters cost 0.60 peseta and other seats 0.30 peseta. In the cheaper halls the preferred seats cost 0.30 or 0.25 peseta (about $0.04 or $0.05) and the general admission is 0.10 or 0.15 peseta.

The programs usually are made up of four or five unrelated films, of which one is a dramatic subject of three or more reels and the others, miscellaneous subjects, of about 300 meters each. Where serial pictures are shown, two numbers of the series are exhibited in an evening in addition to the shorter films of varied subjects.

The types of pictures especially favored here are dramatic subjects of four or five reels with intrigue and plenty of action. The Nordisk films are popular. So also are various Italian and French dramatic films and American comic pictures of one reel. Scenic offerings are not as popular as those having either dramatic or farcical plot, although scientific films and picture reviews of current events are shown.

In addition to the French and Italian products mentioned, pictures of British and German origin are occasionally exhibited, as well as more recently those of Spanish manufacture. American serials are shown here profitably, but the shorter films except those of a humorous character can not, it is stated, be handled here as extensively as those of other origin because of their high prices. European pictures frequently are sold to dealers in Spain at 1 to 1.25 pesetas a meter. In special instances, where the film is of particularly high class, better prices are obtained.

Spanish dealers rent the films to exhibitors for terms of three days at an average rental of 0.20 to 0.25 peseta a meter for the term. In Spain it is not considered sound business ethics for importers to purchase films already used, and accordingly no specific prices are established for films not entirely new. Those which are no longer available for exhibition purposes in Spain have no local market value as material.

As the motion picture is such a popular form of amusement here, the proportions of the business have developed considerably until Barcelona is rated as the chief importing city in the peninsula for films and apparatus. One disadvantage to be overcome in the importation of American pictures is the sale by American exporters of used films of which new copies are afterwards sold to other Spanish importers. The high prices at which most of the American products are sold to these importers also tend to create an obstacle to the unlimited development of the market, inasmuch as the Spanish dealers find it more profitable to handle European products. Under present circumstances the shorter American films are not considered profitable unless they embody some special feature, such as the appearance of a well-known motion-picture actor.

It would be well to offer prospective customers in Spain the most attractive terms of sale, which should compare favorably with those granted under normal conditions by European manufacturers. These are generally credits of 60 to 90 days, or cash 30 days after receipt of merchandise.

While the average rental for films, covering terms of three days, is 0.20 to 0.25 peseta a meter to the exhibitors, it should be explained that these prices are for motion pictures which have not previously been exhibited here. After the first exhibitions the theaters pay lower prices until at last the films are sent to the smaller towns for display during two days of the week at rental prices of 0.03 to 0.04 peseta a meter.

The posters of films to be exhibited in Spain are extremely important as a means of insuring the success of the picture play. As a general rule a good film depends for a large part of its popularity upon skilful advertising. In addition to the very essential photographic views of the play, which are often displayed not only in the theater lobbies but also in prominent shop windows throughout the city, and accordingly should be attractive and composed of numerous scenes, the importers and exhibitors desire large posters of 12-sheet and 18-sheet sizes, as well as the quad crown and 6-sheet size. (A list of importers of motion-picture films at Barcelona may be obtained from the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, its district or cooperative offices. Refer to file No. 81927.)

Valencia, Spain, has about fifteen regular film theaters, with an average seating capacity of 350, including approximately 90 "preferencia" or reserved seats, according to U. S. Consul John R. Putnam in that city. In addition, two large theaters are devoted, except during short periods, to film productions, and are the principal ones for such attractions. One of these has a seating capacity of 250 box seats, 852 preference seats, and 700 general admission seats. The other theater seats 180 in the boxes, 442 in the preference, and has a capacity for 800 general admissions. Six other important theaters have some film performances.

Admission prices, although often raised when important films are shown, are usually as follows: Boxes, with five admissions, from 40 to 80 cents; preferencia, from 5 to 7 cents; and general admission, from 2 to 3 cents. In certain houses reductions are made for children and for the purchase of a number of tickets for different performances.

A film performance lasts from one and a half to three hours, and is shown from two to four times daily. It includes a long four-part or five-part film, a shorter one in lighter vein, and, at the end, a comic film. All types are to be seen, but dramatic pictures seem to be most popular. Those showing comic celebrities, or having a detective plot, or presenting cowboy scenes, draw large audiences. Films of current events are shown regularly in Valencia.

During the heat of the summer the people here seek the seashore and country, and many of the theaters are closed, but during the rest of the year picture shows constitute the principal form of amusement for all classes. It is doubtful if unused films are shown in Valencia, for practically all first runs are exhibited in Barcelona or Madrid. The only used films purchased, however, are those which have not previously been shown in Spain and which are in good condition.

DAVID STERN COMPANY ISSUES CATALOG.

The David Stern Company, of 1047 Madison street, Chicago, has issued a sixty-eight-page catalog, "Everything in Cameras." Added to a wide line of still photographic materials the company carries many motion picture cameras, including, among others, Davsco professional Kino, Universal, Pathe, Urban, Williamson, Ernemann, Kinograph, Frestwich, Bell & Howell, De Brie, Parvo, U. S. Cine, Ensign and Vista. A special department is devoted to these latter. Listed also are accessories, papers, chemicals and photographic supplies.

WILLIAM MARR JOINS FOX.

William Marr has been added to the cast of the new George Walsh feature, which Otis Turner is screening in the William Fox studios. This will be Mr. Marr's first appearance in a Fox drama. He has been in motion pictures for the last year, associated mainly with the Lasky and Universal companies. Previously, he played with the Alcazar Stock Company in San Francisco, where he received his original training for a dramatic career.

Picture Conditions in the Orient

American Consuls at Shanghai and Canton Give Interesting Data on Film Business in China.

FILM theaters in Shanghai catering to foreigners include three open the year round and one outdoor resort for summer programs, says the American Consul General Thomas Sammons, in that city, in an article published in "Commerce Reports." The Victoria and Olympic Theaters are managed by the Ramos Amusement Co., Victoria Hall, Haining Road. These theaters are situated in different sections of the city and show the same films successively. The Apollo Theater is under different management.

The average seating capacity of these theaters is about 700, and the equivalent of 25 to 60 cents is charged for admission, according to the location of the seats. A show generally consists of a feature film of several reels and a few short-length films, the performance lasting 2½ to 3 hours.

The foreign patrons seem to appreciate the feature films or any films which show good acting, for high-class theatrical companies do not visit Shanghai. These theaters also are patronized by the better class of Chinese, who prefer comic films, Wild West shows, or something sensational or exciting.

A few Chinese film theaters charge 5, 10 and 15 cents admission and show imported films rented from the other theaters. Such theaters are visited regularly by some foreigners and by many Chinese.

The Ramos Amusement Co. imports most of its films but the limited field does not allow the importation of new films. It has heretofore procured a good many used films through a company in London, and also has imported direct from New York, sometimes through a local commission house. The Apollo Theater obtains most of its films through a Shanghai house.

Canton has six motion-picture theaters with an average seating capacity of about 500, according to U. S. Vice Consul P. R. Josselyn, stationed in that city. Another is in course of reconstruction and when completed will seat 1,100. The show is usually made up of films in two or three parts, each part being about 300 meters long. Occasionally special-feature films are screened, and these are most in favor among the Chinese. The length of performance is two hours. Two performances are given in the afternoon and two in the evening.

The type of picture most in favor with the Chinese is the detective drama, although films of adventure are also in large demand. American productions depicting cowboy and other features little understood by the Chinese, with which the market has been oversupplied, are not popular. Brands generally shown comprise French, Italian and American makes. Feature films are sold on their merits regardless of length. No film buyers are in business at Canton. Hongkong is the distributing center, and the local theaters obtain their supplies from that port.

As regards the duty on new and used films, it is stated that the proprietors of the local motion-picture theaters deposit a certain sum with the Chinese maritime customs, and the amount is refunded on the return of the films to Hongkong. The duty on films imported into China is on the basis of 5 per cent. ad valorem.

Film Industry New in Madras

Although a Recent Development It Is Growing in Popularity—Other Towns in British-India Taking to Pictures.

THE motion picture business, says Consul Lucien Memminger, Madras, India, is a recent development in that city, but the popularity of this form of entertainment is rapidly growing. Of the four theaters now being conducted two have just been opened and a third has been in operation only a year. It is believed that numerous other towns in South India will soon have picture houses. Bangalore, the principal city in the native State of Mysore, already has one such theater.

Despite the fact that South India has more than 60,000,000 inhabitants, few towns of importance are located here, as most of the people live in villages or in the country. Madras, with a population of 518,000, is by far the largest city of the region, and by reason of its port facilities, railroad connections, etc., is the center of trade and industry for all of South India. It is one of the oldest English establishments in India, and probably a higher percentage of the native population here read and write English than in any other part of India. This is a factor in the growing popularity of the pictures, since a large proportion of the audience thus understands the explanatory phrases in English.

Other towns of importance in this part of India, which are said not to be equipped with picture theaters at present are: Madura, South India, 263,780 inhabitants; Trichinopoly, South India, 419,027 inhabitants; Coimbatore, South India, 261,474 inhabitants; Tinnevely, South India, 211,517 inhabitants; Secunderabad, Deccan, India, 85,165 inhabitants; Kumbakonam, Tanjore District, South India, 279,178 inhabitants.

The type of picture most appreciated by Indian spectators is the ultra sensational. American detective photoplays have proved very popular. It is doubtful, however, if the various types have been tested systematically. Audiences are made up largely of natives, occupying seats that cost about 4 cents. To these, strongly melodramatic films are of the greatest interest. The more expensive seats are occupied by well-to-do East Indians, Eurasians and a small percentage of European residents. The last mentioned are representative of the British official or mercantile community. To many of these possibly films of a more conservative type than those most in favor with the masses of the people would be acceptable, but the programs now being offered are evidently popular. Complete changes are made at least once a week.

The proprietors of the picture theaters in Madras do not at present purchase films direct from the producers. Venkiah Bros., proprietors of two of the houses, obtain theirs from Bombay, and the manager of the Elphinstone theater obtains his entire program from headquarters in Calcutta. Many of the pictures shown at the Elphinstone are Pathe Freres films and are furnished by the Pathe agent in Calcutta. The Elphinstone is one of the largest of the motion picture theaters in Madras.

Picture Shows in Southern Brazil

Only the Houses That Give American Films Have Any Crowds.

Porto Alegre, Brazil, February 10.

THE people of this city who like moving pictures—and they are numerous—are entitled to better service than that dealt out by the managers of local houses. It seems to be the prevailing idea that anything that can be thrown on the screen is good enough. The price of admission, generally 25 cents, is surely high enough. This price is charged for shows that would die in a day elsewhere. Porto Alegre suffers the fate of being one of the last towns served by the agencies in Rio de Janeiro, and what films do reach here are not fit for projection.

As a matter of fact, the one film that draws houses any time was so badly worn that the agency sent a newer one to replace it. That film was "The Mysteries of New York," the famous "Exploits of Elaine." It reached here by way of Paris, with the names changed just enough to give a French tinge to them. This film is occupying a place all its own. It is run and re-run, and always gets crowds.

The Recreio theater closed up, reason not known, in the midst of a successful run of the Universal's "The Broken Coin." The rights to the picture seem to have gone with the theater.

The Guarany is announcing the coming of "An American's Home," which had a long run in Rio de Janeiro.

The most beautiful theater in the city, the Petit Casino, gets very little business. If the managers would ask themselves a question or two, they might know the reason. The operator is a chap who requires a little elementary instruction in the art of projection. His machine is so loose on its base and he runs so rapidly that no one can stand the pain of sitting through a show. Another annoyance that does not seem to be noticed is that caused by the seats. Everything is on the outside of the building. The seats are made by local carpenters, imitating the real thing so as to be cheap. The seats are pivoted so near the center that a slight touch causes them to fall, making a noise loud enough to startle the average person if the film happens to be interesting. It is not uncommon to hear half a dozen rackets from this cause every five minutes. If it were not for an occasional season of opera this house would have to close up entirely.

The Selecta shows almost exclusively pictures of Italian origin, and its business is never very heavy.

The Garibaldi shows almost nothing but Universal, its price of admission is half that of other houses, yet it manages to keep good crowds every day.

The Coliseo runs all makes of pictures, its price is low, and it always has a fair crowd. Its location is bad, otherwise it would certainly do better business.

The famous "Vampire" series (Gaumont) does good business, but the sections arrive so far apart that interest is lost.

J. H. C.

Motion Picture Educator

Conducted by REV. W. H. JACKSON and MARGARET I. MacDONALD

Modern Educational and Its Makers

Branch of the Business Relying Upon Co-operative Ability of a High Order for Its Successful Screening.

By Margaret I. MacDonald.

WHETHER by competition or actual demand the fact has established itself as firmly as the pyramids that the educational film has become a necessity to the average moving picture program, and that the making of an educational moving picture has become an artistic profession—a profession different from any other. Unlike the painter, whose hand labors alone, to make his creation of oils or water colors the masterpiece that it finally becomes, the maker of the educational film is often obliged to rely on helpers in order to carry his scheme to a successful finish.

The maker of the topical film, for instance, employs large numbers of cameramen, spread practically over the face of the entire globe, whose duty it is to follow the instructions of their leader as nearly as possible, and who "shoot the film in" to the editor as fast as the pic-of the telephone to a realization that the most important event of the week has been inconsiderate enough to happen at the stroke of midnight, or in the "wee sma' hours" of the morning.

Next in topical interest is the newest form of educational, the screen magazine or magazine in film. The making up of this class of periodical or weekly, while hardly as strenuous a task requires the same skill and insight into public taste that the making of the news weekly necessitates. And as in the presentation to the public of anything of an instructional character, the "pill" as it were, must be put through its process of sugar coating, the editor must precede each separate side of the question with a subtitle entertaining as well as descriptive, and he must pay quite as much attention to the arrangement and choice of his subjects, in fact, as the maker of the printed magazine.

The periodicals which answer to this class are "Reel Life," made by the Gaumont company, and issued by the Mutual Film Corporation, the "Universal Screen Magazine," made and released by the Universal Film

Burton Holmes.

Dressed for Semi-Tropics.

tures are taken. It is then that the intelligence and good judgment of the editor gets a chance to assert itself, when the thousands of feet of film which have been snapped on current events are looked over and tactfully assorted, subtitled and arranged into the form of news weeklies, such as the Animated Weekly, the Hearst-Pathe News, the Mutual Weekly, or the Selig-Trubine.

E. Cohen, Editor Hearst-Pathe News.

The position of editor of one of these weeklies is not what might be termed a "soft snap." On the contrary, he must be ever on the alert for subjects of current interest, he must see to it that his cameramen are "on the job" at the first thunder of a terrific explosion or the first glare of a million-dollar fire. He maintains a telephone connection with the big newspapers, through which he is apprised of events that are of interest to the news weekly; and at that moment when sleep is the sweetest of all morsels to the tired brain, he is frequently aroused by the ting-a-ling

Edward S. Curtis.

Film Historian of the American Indian.

Manufacturing Company, and the Paramount-Bray "Pictograph." In the making of the screen magazine considerably more scope for a differentiation of ideas is possible. For instance, the "Universal Screen Magazine" works in conjunction with the Board of Health.

Herbert T. Cowling.

13,200 Feet Above the Sea in New Mexico.

Robert C. Bruce.

A Poet of the Screen.

It has in its employ an expert cook, whose duty it is to teach the public the proper methods of preparing various kinds of food; it has an eagle eye on the newest inventions, and makes a specialty of the Willie Hopkins animated clay cartoons. "Reel Life" has thus far concerned itself largely with industries, science, the latest dances, slightly with fashions, and picks up at random artistic novelties. The "Pictograph" covers a variety of subjects, often including sports, and at the present time uses as a finish an amusing Bray cartoon.

Then there is another class of educational film, the product of the poet of the screen. This class consists of scenic pictures, the photographing of which is done by men who love God's out-of-doors, who are able through absolute poesy of soul to bring to the screen true revelations of Dame Nature in her various moods, and to harmonize groups of scenes with subtitles of literary beauty and premeditated excellence.

Raymond L. Ditmars,
"Animal Wizard."

who gains little of the satisfaction of appreciation other than his wages or that self-satisfaction which comes of a realization that he has surpassed in daring or accomplishment others of his profession. This is the man behind the camera. The name of this important factor of the educational moving picture industry is Legion. He is everywhere, and one of his most necessary attributes is the capacity to fight, to be able to "bag" the choicest bits in spite of obstacles. To this man we should feel most truly thankful; for while we sit comfortably in our theater chairs calmly surveying the latest film catch, he is breathlessly scurrying about from place to place in order that our news appetite may be continually gratified.

Jack Cohen.
Editor Animated Weekly and
Universal Screen Magazine.
"Always on the Job."

most insignificant member of the profession, an eternal debt of gratitude. The educational film in its most modern form, and the man who makes it, have come to stay; they are rapidly becoming universal necessities that will not be denied. On them is largely dependent that wonder window through which the masses are today privileged to view the greatest of the earth's marvels.

And it may be truthfully stated that no phase of motion picture photography more faithfully portrays the mind of the man at the helm than does the landscape picture of the screen; the negative, positive, practical or poetic quality of the mind shines forth in this type of educational picture more eloquently than in any other.

We have also the historian, the scientist and the man of daring of the screen. These men contribute in an inestimable degree to the general education of the masses, the majority of whom would have little or no knowledge of the graver branches of study, but for the educational wealth and facilities of the screen. And last, but not by any means least, is the man whose work lies principally with the mechanical side of the picture, whose task it is to risk his life if need be in the service of the industry;

Donald O. Thompson.
Official War Photographer and Man of Daring.

The maker of the modern educational film, which, by the way, bears a widely different complexion than the said educational of former days, previous to the general recognition of its entertainment value, lives much of his time in the field of adventure. He climbs through the eternal snows of the highest mountain peaks side by side with his cameraman; or perhaps he is his own photographer. He searches with delight in the remotest nooks of "no man's land" for rare treasures of scenic beauty or revelations of natural phenomena. He hobbles with the scientist and with men of varied professions, and becomes of necessity a student of many things.

We owe to the maker of the educational film, even to the

Interesting Educational

Six Travel Subjects, Two Topical, One Culinary, Four Industrial, and Three Zoological.

Reviewed by Margaret I. MacDonald.

"Oregon's Rocky Coast" (Mutual-Gaumont).

SOME of the most delightful spots on the Pacific are to be found on the coast of Oregon. "See America First No. 78" contains a number of lovely scenes photographed along the Oregon coast, among them the Giant Steps, Ecola Point, the Needles, Tillmook Rock and lighthouse, summer cottages along the coast, Camel Rock, Hug Point, where a roadway has been cut for the accommodation of automobiles, and Castle Rock. Other scenes of interest and beauty are in the vicinity of Elk Creek which, with its waterfalls, affords some delightful views; also trails through the woods and the beautiful Woodland Falls. Wonderful surf scenes are also a part of this subject, sunlight ripples before a storm being one of the closing pictures. The reel ends with an amusing animated cartoon entitled "Rastus Runs Amuck."

"Rustchuk, Bulgaria" (Mutual-Gaumont).

The ancient city of Rustchuk, Bulgaria, is one of the subjects chosen for "Mutual Tours Around the World No. 18." We learn through this picture that the city has a population of 40,000 and has been fortified since the time of the Romans. We learn also that it is situated on the Danube which separates Bulgaria from Roumania on the north. A panoramic view of the city is shown, and also closeups of some of the principal buildings such as the Prince Boris Lyceum. The minaret of a mosque from which the Turks, of whom a goodly number are among the population, are called to prayer, Alexandrowska street, Rustchuk's principal thoroughfare, and a group of Bulgarian types are interesting sights.

"Munich, Germany" (Mutual-Gaumont).

An excellent idea of the city of Munich can be gained from "Mutual Tours Around the World No. 18." One of the most interesting sights is the Karlsplatz, a street in Munich where we learn how life goes along in the commercial center of the city. The Town Hall of Munich is an imposing building. Then there is the Frauenkirche or women's church, the Bavaria Monument, and the famous Hofbrau, where Germany's national drink accompanied by dried fish, cheese of various kinds and other favorite German delicacies is served in the crowded gardens. A street festival and novelty vendors are also interesting sights.

"Schonbrunn Castle, Austria" (Mutual-Gaumont).

Schonbrunn Castle, situated in Austria not far from Vienna is the summer home of the royal family of Austria; so we learn in "Mutual Tours Around the World No. 18." We also are reminded that Napoleon had used this castle as his headquarters. Among the things of interest which are presented in this subject are the Gloriette, a pillared edifice overlooking the gardens, a favorite resort of the Empress Maria Theresa, the beautiful fountain of Neptune with close-ups of the wonderful statuary surrounding it, the hot houses filled with tropical plants, and the impressive Roman ruins that have been reconstructed in the castle grounds.

"The Land of Silence" (Educational Films Corporation of America).

"The Land of Silence," although not a current release, is one well worthy of mention. It is unusually beautiful in subject and photography, and pictures a man and his dog wandering off into a land of mountains and snow, of mirrored lakes, and silence, and peace. Not a single living thing is seen to enter the picture from beginning to end save the man and his companion, except once when they are represented as sighting from the edge of a cliff two travelers on a trail below them hurrying away from the winter to their narrow streets. The picture is truly delightful, and represents one of the artistic efforts of Robert C. Bruce who has subtitled it with numerous charming and appropriate quotations.

"In the West Indies" (Paramount-Bray).

A brief look-in at that portion of the West Indies in the vicinity of Jamaica is given us in the Paramount-Bray-Pictograph No. 59. We see as we approach the docks, the diving boys waiting for the incoming ship, and we see the passengers on the ship as it approaches throwing pennies into the water and watching with interest while the boys dive for them. Other interesting sights show the coal heavers, native women as well as the men, carrying huge baskets of coal to the steamer, and also the spinning of rope tobacco.

"How to Make Money Last" (Universal).

An interesting short length inserted in the "Universal Screen Magazine No. 12" shows us Uncle Sam's laundry where soiled paper money is put through a cleansing process that makes it like new. This illustrates a neat bit of the government's economy, and saves in the printing of new bills.

"Guarding Our Shores" (Universal).

The "Universal Screen Magazine No. 12" contains interesting and instructive views of some of the life-saving stations that dot the coast line of the United States. In this number we see the coast guards at drill and learn that the roughest water holds no terrors for them. We see them practicing rescue methods, launching a life boat and shooting a life line to a dummy ship's mast. We are also given a demonstration of the breeches buoy method by which shipwrecked sailors are saved in rough weather.

"How to Make Apple Snow" (Universal).

Mrs. A. Louise Andrea's demonstration of how to make the delicious dessert, Apple Snow, in the "Universal Screen Magazine No. 12," will, no doubt, be appreciated by thousands of housekeepers throughout the land. She shows us how we must first pare and then grate the apple, after which the whites of two eggs are to be added. We learn that constant whipping increases the quantity and improves the quality of the dessert. As the mixture rises powdered sugar is added slowly, also one level teaspoonful of salt and a teaspoonful of vanilla. When finished we are told to serve it cold with whipped cream. The cooking lessons presented in the Universal Screen Magazine are of inestimable value when we remember what well-prepared food means to the human system.

"Artistic Vases" (Mutual-Gaumont).

In this subject contained in "Reel Life No. 45" we are privileged to watch the fashioning of the beautiful vases which are manufactured on the Jouan Gulf in Southern France. We see the clay placed in molds and also the removal of the molds when the composition has returned from the firing oven. We are given glimpses into the decorating studios where the artists are at work with brush and paints; and finally we are shown exquisite designs in their finished condition.

"Furs—From Trapper to Wearer" (Mutual Gaumont).

"Reel Life No. 45" contains a well illustrated series on the preparation of furs for the market. The opening scenes in the trappers' domain are purported to have been taken at Cape Prince of Wales, Alaska. We learn that the best furs are obtained in the far north and that those trapped in the winter are the best for the reason that they do not shed the hair. We learn also that the raw furs are turned wrong side out and scraped on fleshers or sharp knives, after which they are placed in saw-dust and then beaten to thoroughly remove it again. A special pickle is then prepared into which the skins are placed for the purpose of preservation. Small skins are cut into strips and dexterously joined together to form long skins. After all preliminary treatment have been given the skins are dampened and stretched on a board by nailing. They are then lined, or made into coats, etc., for the market. An exhibition of furs in a Fifth Avenue salesroom closes the subject.

"Rivalling Nature's Flowers" (Paramount-Bray).

The manufacture of artificial flowers as illustrated in the Paramount-Bray-Pictograph No. 59 presents a delightfully artistic subject. Here we see the artist copying the natural flower, showing in detail the making of rose petals. First the impress is taken of the individual petal, after which the paper or whatever material is used is cut the proper size and shaped in a mold. The flower is constructed by hand and each individual petal receives an equal share of attention. The manufacture of artificial fruit is also included in this subject, and so perfect are the samples held up for comparison with the real article that it is difficult to distinguish the difference.

"Manufacturing Unbreakable Dolls" (Universal).

The necessity of increasing the home manufacture of certain articles of which the European war has caused a scarcity, has driven the inventive brains of Americans to work. The manufacture of unbreakable dolls is evidently an outcome of this condition, and the illustration photographed for the "Universal Screen Magazine No. 12" shows the putting into practice of the discovery of a Baltimore chemist of a composition which is said to be the most ideal yet invented for the manufacture of dolls, which when cooled is absolutely unbreakable. We see in the picture the mixing of the composition and the pouring of it into moulds. The removal of the moulds from the cooled substance displays a perfect head on which varnish and paint, with the assistance of an eye specialist puts the finishing touches. We then are taken to where the bodies of the dolls are being stuffed, and are also shown the garment makers at work making doll's clothes. These clothes are handed over to experts who dress the dolls, which are then ready for the retail store.

"An Alligator Farm." (Universal).

The scenes taken on a Southern California alligator farm and shown in the "Universal Screen Magazine No. 12" are interesting. Three hundred young alligators ranging from three to five years of age are shown, and in addition to these, five hundred baby alligators. Our attention is also drawn to the difference between a crocodile and an alligator. This is a short bit, but interesting in substance.

"The Wonderful Pelican." (Mutual-Gaumont).

An interesting study of the pelican as he exists on the pelican islands off the coast of Florida, which islands are retained by the United States as a home for these birds, will be found in "Reel Life No. 45." One of these islands is low and sandy while the other is covered with grass, so we are told in subtitle. Views showing large flocks of pelicans are shown, also an individual nest and eggs, and later the young pelicans whose color before their white feather dresses materialize, is steel blue. Another fact concerning the pelican which we learn through this picture is that the beak of the pelican with its underhanging pouch is capable of holding a three pound fish.

"Jungle Vaudeville." (Educational Films Corporation of America).

This is an unusual animal picture prepared by Raymond L. Ditmars introducing various small animals performing amusing tricks. It is easy to guess that the clever photographer snapped these little creatures at various times in their existence when they themselves felt most secure in solitude. The opening of the picture tells us of the jungle vaudeville show which is to be held, following which we see a group of toads hurrying along in hopes of gaining the best seats. This we find they are successful in doing when in the next scene we see them comfortably seated on an assemblage of spotless white toad stools. The African jerboa appears in the arena and makes his bow before performing a jumping feat; the armadillo does a strong man act; the common house fly comfortably seated in an arm chair on the back of a beetle does a juggling act; a monkey "skins the cat"; the premier appearance of a pair of Japanese whirling mice makes a "hit"; the grinning salamander does his part to amuse the audience, as do also the spider, the chameleon and the lemur whose flying leaps are second to none. Two of the most interesting of these jungle performers are the beetle who by front-foot manipulations beckons his friends to "come over to the other side," and the diving frog whose preparations for the supreme effort are a mixture of grace and grotesqueness. Views of the frog swimming under the water also included.

Edison Special Program Ready

The Long Looked for Specially Prepared Program of Weekly Release at Last a Reality.

IN THE Motion Picture Educator of our issue of Dec. 9th, 1916 there appeared a reference to the lock-reel program specially prepared for the family group, which was at that time expected to be placed on the market by the Edison Company at the beginning of the New Year. But as all good things require time for proper development, it has only now arrived at a state of maturity, and a company has been formed, known as the Forum Films, Inc. Information regarding the distribution of this weekly program appeared in our issue of Mar. 17. Exchanges are being established in all parts of the country for the distribution of what will be known as "Conquest Pictures" which are to consist of the most wholesome and entertaining types of film.

The first program of the Forum Films, Inc., will be as follows:

"Puss in Boots"—approximately 400 feet. (The well-known fairy tale in silhouette).

"A Vanishing Race"—approximately 500 feet. (A short scenic made on the reservation of the Black-foot Indians).

"The Sea Horse"—approximately 250 feet. (A short study of an interesting and little known fish).

"The Half Back"—approximately 3,000 feet. (A picturization of Ralph Henry Barbour's well-known story of school life and football).

"The Dinosaur and the Missing Link"—approximately 500 feet. (The first public presentation of a new group of animated manikins).

"Captains of Tomorrow"—approximately 400 feet. (A dress parade at West Point).

While we are not yet in a position to speak from the angle of the reviewer we must admit that this program is interesting in appearance. We learn that Robert Louis Stevenson's "Kidnapped" will be the feature of program No. 2, and Albert Stearns' "Chris and the Wonderful Lamp" of No. 3. Other stories of which the picture rights have been acquired for future production are:

"The Little Chevalier," by M. E. M. Davis.

"The Star Spangled Banner," by Mary Shipman Andrews.

"The Crimson Sweater," by Ralph Henry Barbour.

"Jack Ballister's Fortunes," by Howard Pyle.

"Billy and the Big Stick," by Richard Harding Davis.

"T Haviland Hicks, Freshman," by J. R. Elderdice.

"Philip Kent in the Lower School," by T. Truxton Hare.

"The Boy Who Cried Wolf," by Richard Harding Davis.

"Scouting for Washington," by J. P. True.

"Barnaby Lee," by John Bennett.

"Hugh Gwyeth," by Bulah Marie Dix.

Educational Alliance Forum

Discusses Better Film Movement and Listens to Enlightening Addresses on the Subject.

ON Wednesday, March 7, the Young People's Branch of the Educational Alliance, at their regular meeting at 9th Street and Stuyvesant, New York City, discussed at length the problem presented in the Better Film Movement. The meeting was an interesting one, not different, however, from the many other gatherings for a like purpose that have recently been held in the metropolis.

The chief speakers of the evening were Richard Welling, former Civil Service Commissioner of New York, and chairman of the meeting, who reviewed the early use of static pictures in teaching backward children, and spoke of the wonderful educational possibilities of the moving picture and also of its abuses; Herbert F. Sherwood, Assistant Secretary of the National Board of Review, who presented facts and figures pertaining to the growth of the industry and exhibited the Vitagraph film "From Script to Screen"; E. M. Barrows, whose subject covered the question of legalized censorship and the right of the public to expression which might be made possible through nation-wide organization; and Mary Gray Peck of the Motion Picture Committee of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. Miss Peck in speaking of the rut into which many of the producers have fallen stated that it is time that the public broke into the theatrical circle to let manufacturers know that something closer to life is wanted than that type of melodramatic picture of which the public is growing weary.

At the close of the scheduled addresses the audience joined in an enthusiastic discussion of the subject to which Mr. Sherwood gave enlightening answers.

The Children's Program

How M. B. Thompson, Pioneer Worker in the Field Conducts Entertainments and Selects Programs.

THE selecting and management of children's programs is approaching the plane of the fine art. The antipathy of children to any form of segregation which holds them aloof from places and things frequented and enjoyed by their elders makes it necessary to use considerable tact in dealing with the moving picture question as it concerns the child. This of course involves the selection of the pictures suitable for the child to see, and the presentation of them in a fashion pleasing to the child.

With regard to this problem the lines followed by Miss M. B. Thompson of Springfield, Ohio, who five years ago started the ball rolling in her home town, may be interesting to many. Miss Thompson after gaining the co-operation of the exhibitor, does the "shopping" as she calls it. She visits the manufacturer or the exchange man, views the pictures, or chooses from lists of recommended films, selecting those which she believes will suit the particular occasion for which she wants them. Before selecting a program for a certain theater she takes the trouble to find out what special subject is being studied by the children of that neighborhood at school; and in choosing the educational adjuncts of her program she keeps this in mind. The result is that what might otherwise be looked upon by the children merely as a dry educational assumes an attractive appearance because of the interest stimulated in the subject at school.

Another interesting point about Miss Thompson's method is the fact that she prefaces her feature picture with an insert appropriate to the occasion. For instance a fairy picture is presented as being "for those who believe in fairies." In addition to this a little girl is asked to come to the entertainment dressed as a fairy, and some sort of a frame or bower is arranged in the corner of the stage in which stands the fairy under the enhancement of a spotlight. Naturally the children are delighted; and as each day's program is planned by Miss Thompson on just such individual lines, the children always feel that there is going to be something new and pleasant in store for them. On "Bird" day the introduction to the picture on bird study consists of an appeal to the children to help to feed the wild birds in the cold weather when their natural food is scarce, by throwing them daily a few crumbs from their windows. Her program always closes with the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner," when all stand and join in the singing.

The work which Miss Thompson began in a small way has continued to grow, and in Springfield and Urbana, Ohio, these programs are moving in a successful way. She is about to make a tour of North and South Carolina, Georgia and Virginia with a view to opening up her work there.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

At a meeting of the Religious Education Association held in Boston on February 28, the subject of the moving picture was among those discussed. The Committee on Social Relations of the Church and Young People met in the afternoon in the Old South Church, where a report was presented by Herbert W. Gates of the Brick Church Institute. Following the reading of the report Mr. Gates recommended that a special moving picture commission be appointed to decide what the policy and work of the Association should be regarding the moving picture. Addresses were delivered by Mr. Foster of the Community Motion Picture Bureau and Orrin G. Cocks of the National Board of Review; and it was noted that the point of view of the Association seemed to favor moving pictures and leaned toward the the constructive rather than critical and reactionary methods. Bishop Francis J. McConnell of the Methodist Church is president, and Henry S. Pritchett president of the Carnegie Foundation, is vice-president.

* * *

It is learned that the women of New Jersey are not likely to take any action regarding the censorship bill which has been introduced in that state. They are deeply interested in the Better Film movement which is sweeping through the country at the present time and realize that it is not likely to be helped by legalized censorship. Representatives of the legislative departments of the Federated Women's Clubs of New Jersey listened with interest to an address on the subject delivered by Mary Gray Peck at the Robert Treat Hotel, Newark, recently, and heartily indorsed Miss Peck's views.

* * *

Cranston Brenton, Chairman of the National Board of Review recently addressed a meeting of the Women's Civic Club of Cleveland, Ohio, the Association of Commerce of Grand Rapids, Mich., and the Drama League, also of Grand Rapids. At all of these meetings Mr. Brenton emphasized the fact that from whatever point of view the question of better pictures and their influence is approached, whether social, artistic or moral, the greatest menace to efficient development, next to the possibility of the production and exhibition of evil pictures, is the matter of legal pre-publicity censorship, which is unwarranted and unjust, and prevents the free development of a great industry and a great art.

* * *

A surgical film containing some remarkable demonstrations was recently exhibited in the auditorium of the Hutchinson High School, Buffalo. Among these demonstrations were methods of operation pursued by Dr. Alexis Carrell of the Rockefeller Institute in his clinic at the hospital at Compiegne, France, and American methods of bone grafting as performed in the European war hospitals by Dr. Fred H. Albee of New York. One of the reels exhibited the removal of a shrapnel ball from the heart of a soldier. The use of the Daken antiseptic solution was also demonstrated in another part of the film, the victim used for purposes of illustration having three shot wounds in the leg. Another interesting subject was the placing of artificial noses and ears on men who had lost these organs.

Advertising for Exhibitors

Conducted by EPES WINTHROP SARGENT

Mailing Lists.

EVIDENTLY exhibitors in the Salt Lake City section are a bit careless. It will be remembered that not long ago Paramount offered to circularize the patrons of exhibitors taking Paramount service, if they would supply the addresses. These lists were sent out under two-cent postage, and with the imprint of the exchange. Mr. Carpenter says a surprising proportion of some lists were returned "not found." Under the postal regulations only first-class matter is returned to the writer if found to be undeliverable, nor may such matter be forwarded to a second address save under additional postage. According to the Carpenter disclosures many exhibitors in his territory are working with lists from 50 to 80 per cent dead. In other words they are getting from one-half to but one-fifth of the advertising they are paying for. There are three ways of overcoming this condition. Either an occasional piece of matter may be sent out under the first-class rate, the return imprint may be used, or subscribers may be required to renew their subscription.

The return imprint is the simplest form and this can be used every time at no additional cost save where an address has gone dead. Simply print up your envelopes with this card:

NOTICE TO POSTMASTER
If undelivered, please return to Gem Theater,
Hometown, N. Y.
Return postage is guaranteed.

With this card in use any matter not delivered is returned under a one cent due stamp, and for the investment of this penny the information is acquired that saves further stamps and circulars.

The renewal blank has been shown in many forms in this department. In the simplest form it looks something like this.

We are revising our mailing list.
If you wish to continue to receive our bulletins, please fill in this blank and leave at the box office or mail to us.

Name.....
Address.....
Remarks.....

A better form is to send out a return postal card printed up, but almost any scheme will work. The mailing list should be edited at least every three months to weed out the deadwood. The return imprint is better in that it is always at work. If you desire, you can have this put on a rubber stamp and print the envelopes yourself. It is useless to send out matter that reaches no one, yet hundreds of dollars are wasted every week because exhibitors fail to keep their lists checked up.

Valedictory.

There will be no more Stillman theater program stuff, we are sorry to say. C. L. Medden retired from the press department some time ago and now the program has been reduced to a four-pager with no house text at all. Lacking the touch Mr. Madden gave his stuff, the change is for the better, but we are sorry to see the end of one of the snappiest programs coming to this desk.

Even If It Rhymes.

Even if the latest effusion on behalf of the Keystone comedies is done in Waltmanian it carries point to it. We quote a paragraph from the supposed monologue of a rural exhibitor:

Si Green, who runs our plecter show (the only place where folks kin go), fer quite a stretch lost right erlong and couldn't figger what wuz wrong. Now I ain't one who likes ter boast, but I know plecters good as most, and I know why I stayed away, and 'twant the dime I had ter pay. 'Twas jest becuz his show warn't right, all sad and mournful stid of bright. Why, gosh, his plecters made yer think the whole derned world wuz on the blink. Of course, a drayma usually is purty sad, and oughter be; but, as I sed to Si, says I, "Gim 'em a laff ter drown the sigh." Gee whiz, I like ter laff and shout (don't keer a cus what it's erbout). 'Nd I told Si, "You make 'em roar 'nd they'll keep coming back fer more." 'Nd Si, he says, "I will, by gum, if they want laffs I'll give 'em sum." 'Nd, say, HE DID, and done it right, 'nd now he PACKS 'em in each night.

Most programs are far too heavy. No one wants to sit through a lot of serious stuff with never a gleam of a smile. Mix the laughs and the tears and each will gain contrast. Some day we'll tell you the name of the poet (most of you know him) and meantime we warn George Editor Carpenter to look to his laurels.

A Good Layout.

The Princess, Clarksville, Tex., uses a very good layout for the inside pages of its colored covers. The impression is very poor and the cuts are blotchy, but the idea is so good that we reproduce it for the benefit

When Better Pictures Are Made You Will Find Them At The Princess

Monday, February 5 Metro Pictures "The Awakening of Helena Richie" A Metro Wonder—NOT an ordinary picture—METRO's Extraordinary Super Feature Production EXTRA TODAY—DREW COMEDY	Tuesday, February 6 Norma Talmadge "GOING STRAIGHT" and "Ambrose's Cup Of Woe" A Wonderful Keystone Comedy	Wednesday, February 7 Paramount Pictures Present PAULINE FREDERICK In "The Woman In The Case" Clide Fark's Complete Dramatic Triumph—WINE and WHISKY also CALICO and THE ORVIS Also "WAT" CARTOON Today	Thursday, February 8 Mary MacClaren "In 'Wanted, A Home'" Produced by the Broadway Miss MacClaren scored a great success in "SHOES", which was shown at The Princess several weeks ago	Friday, February 9 JESSE L. LASKY PRESENTS BLANCHETTE SWIFT In "The Dupe" A picture that has been shown in the most famous and also the greatest "LIBERTY" On Time, Sure Serial on Earth And the Ford Weekly	Saturday, February 10 MOULDER FAIRBANKS In "The Good Bad Man" A Women Production That Keeps Any Show You Ever Had Also an Extra Good Keystone Comedy: "MARBLE HEART" of others who use this form. The cover is the usual six by nine. About the only suggestion to be offered is that a two point rule for the panels would be better than the hairline used. It would help, too, to cut the rule under the dates.
---	--	---	---	--	---

The Princess, Where Quality Kingles!

All in Red.

The Columbia, Columbus, Ohio, gets out a striking invitation for "The Scarlet Letter." It is a red sheet, a vivid red sheet, the usual 8½ by 11 inches, folded once and then printed the long way in black with an announcement of the film in script. Some of the type, because of the high ascenders and descenders, is too small. A better effect could have been had from Engraver's Shaded or any of the constantly growing family of shaded letters. The envelope matches, and where the stamp should be is the "A," but in black instead of red. The stamp is moved over to the left, to display it, but the machine cancellation obscures it; a matter evidently not taken into consideration. The advertisement is well carried out save in the choice of type, which is not easy to read, and an advertisement, above all things, should be inviting to the eye.

Paramount Programs.

Here are three good program examples from a recent issue of Paramount Progress. The first is a double middle page from the Star and Queen, Chillicothe, Ohio. The division is made by means of the Paramount trade-mark and the book-mark cut. Oddly enough, the "Marks the place" on the book-mark works all right directly under the trade-mark, which may be taken as marking the place. Either the Star Theatre MONDAY and TUESDAY, MAY 14 (Continued from) Also continue in "The House of the Dead." This story is shown with dramatic intensity and a most surprising finale and features Miss Gledhill's wonderful ability and delicate every day. "The House of the Dead" is the best of the year and is a most interesting and dramatic story. WEDNESDAY, MAY 15 (Continued from) "The House of the Dead" is a most interesting and dramatic story. It is a most interesting and dramatic story. It is a most interesting and dramatic story. THURSDAY, MAY 16 (Continued from) "The House of the Dead" is a most interesting and dramatic story. It is a most interesting and dramatic story. It is a most interesting and dramatic story. FRIDAY and SATURDAY, MAY 17 (Continued from) "The House of the Dead" is a most interesting and dramatic story. It is a most interesting and dramatic story. It is a most interesting and dramatic story. Coming Next Week Pauline Frederick in "The House of the Dead" is a most interesting and dramatic story. It is a most interesting and dramatic story. It is a most interesting and dramatic story.	Queen Theatre MONDAY, MAY 14 "The House of the Dead" is a most interesting and dramatic story. It is a most interesting and dramatic story. It is a most interesting and dramatic story. TUESDAY and WEDNESDAY, MAY 15 "The House of the Dead" is a most interesting and dramatic story. It is a most interesting and dramatic story. It is a most interesting and dramatic story. THURSDAY and FRIDAY, MAY 16 "The House of the Dead" is a most interesting and dramatic story. It is a most interesting and dramatic story. It is a most interesting and dramatic story. SATURDAY, MAY 17 "The House of the Dead" is a most interesting and dramatic story. It is a most interesting and dramatic story. It is a most interesting and dramatic story. Coming Next Week "The House of the Dead" is a most interesting and dramatic story. It is a most interesting and dramatic story. It is a most interesting and dramatic story.

--	--

two-house program with a page to house, or the one house, three days to a page, works best if the two pages are set as a whole. The cut makes a better division than would rule work and the utilization of

The book-mark is decidedly ingenious. The second cut shows The Dreamland, Kewanee, Ill. This shows an effective front page and a by using a small display face for the chief title and not trying to get the same prominence for the two or three additional titles. It is a decidedly neat job throughout and both house and printer are to be complimented. Study this and then show it to your own printer. He may be able to get the idea. One trouble is that few offices in

Dreamland Daily Program, Dec. 1916, Jan. 1917
THE LITTLE HOUSE WITH THE BIG AND GREAT PROGRAM

Monday, Dec. 18: The Road Back (Short Story)
Tuesday, Dec. 19: The Road Back (Short Story)
Wednesday, Dec. 20: The Road Back (Short Story)
Thursday, Dec. 21: The Road Back (Short Story)
Friday, Dec. 22: The Road Back (Short Story)
Saturday, Dec. 23: The Road Back (Short Story)
Sunday, Dec. 24: The Road Back (Short Story)

DR. ROBERT RODDY
DENTIST
100 N. Main St.
Kewanee, Ill.

ROTH STORE
100 N. Main St.
Kewanee, Ill.

calendar program on the back. Note the use of double rule work on the back page, which is unusual and effective. The third example is a page, evidently from a folder program, showing the use of trade advertising along with the program. There is absolutely no objection to the use of trade announcements where they do not intrude upon the exhibitor's space more than does this simple announcement. The program in which the house is given but a small third of a page defeats its own ends, but those exhibitors who take a holier-than-thou attitude because they use no outside advertising are all wrong. They are seldom clever and still more seldom to be commended. As a rule they use no outside stuff, merely because they do not know how to get it or to handle it once they get the order. This seems to give a page to a day, with at least six outside advertisements. These will probably pay the cost of the program, and the program is just as good for the use of the exhibitor as though no outside stuff were carried. He says all he has to say and he does not obscure it in the least by the foreign announcement, and still the local merchant gets the best possible position; far better than the local paper can give him

WE use safety my without loss of contradiction that our picture are the best on the island

THURSDAY, MARCH 30

Paramount

James L. Lasky presents LAURA HOPE
CREWS in a picturization of BLACKBIRDS

A great drama based on the play in which Miss Crews starred a whole season in New York. She will also be remembered in "Fighting Hope." Leonie Sabatky (Laura Hope Crews) is a young American woman of adventurous inclinations who is a member of a band of smugglers and who successfully, for many years, evades the law. Later a greater law dawns upon the young woman through the circumstance of coming into unlawful possession of a famous Oriental prayer-rug with mysterious powers.

W. G. SMITH
REGAL SHOES
23 E. Main Street Kewanee for double price. It works well all the way around.

Colored Covers.

The Oracle, Rock Springs, Wyo., uses a colored cover 3½ by 6 inches for its four-pager, setting the program on the inner pages and using the back for seven trade advertisements, which probably pay the cost of stock and printing. Evidently there is a printer in Rock Springs—a printer instead of a ham typesetter, for he gets a good display on all four pages, and to back that up he is given good copy to work from; not too much, and yet enough to get the interest, even in the small space permitted by the size of the sheet. He gets a real display in an inch and a half of space, and this is something many printers fail to do, no matter what their opportunity. It is done merely small towns have the proper display faces in eight, ten and twelve point. Here are several twelve-point display faces. It would be worth while, if you care anything about the attractiveness of your advertising—and attractive advertising alone will make business—to buy a few fonts yourself if the printer will not spend a few dollars on equipment. Note that the border is in light yellow. This should show stronger in the cut than it does on the paper, since it photographs blacker than it looks.

Cut Outs.

Ralph Ruffner has been getting a lot of space lately, but he has been paying for it in ideas. The bottom cut shows the lobby of his Liberty, Spokane, Wash., decorated for Fairbanks in The Americano. The cutout at the right is the face from a six sheet of the Matrimonial, with real clothes supplied by the management. The cutout on the left is a three-sheet, with enough text left on at the bottom to carry the necessary information. The heads on the small signs to right and left of the entrance were cut from Americano one-sheets and merely lettered "Try to get in." In front of the box office the small frame lettered "Tears of Grief" shows a page from a magazine with the famous Chaplin-Fairbanks visit. These ideas are good for The Americano, but they can be adapted to other stunts.

The H. C. of L.

J. H. Michael, of the Academy, Buffalo, is trying to help along the high cost of living. In connection with The Perils of Our Girl Reports series he is giving away 5,000 cases of the food products of a certain concern, the invoice consisting of soups, beans, catsups, jams, pickles and similar merchandise. He sends in a photograph of the

Monday, February 19
Lasky Paramount Presents
THEODORE ROBERTS and ANITA KING
The Accomplished Screen Favorites in "Anton, the Terrible"
The Story is told in Russia at the present time and is a mixture of political intrigue, love, and a People's Fight for Freedom
REMEMBER Anita King as the Paramount Girl who drove the Paramount Car through Rock Springs a year ago last August

Tuesday, February 20
FOX FILM COMEDIES
The Greatest of all Screen Laughs
"The Social Pirates"
A Two Reeler chuck full of action and laugh provoking situations featuring Charles Arling
THE ANIMATED WEEKLY
All the Latest News
One Other Universal Comedy

Wednesday, February 21
Wm. Fox Presents VALESKA SURATT
The Celebrated Star in
"The Straight Way"
A Story of Throbbing Interest around the life of a Woman who seeks vengeance for her wrongs
Don't fail to see Valeska Suratt and you are sure to learn to love her

Thursday, February 22
The Wonderful Serial 2nd Episode of
"The Iron Claw"
Featuring Pearl White. One continuous thrill
"SIBERIA, THE VAST UNKNOWN" No. 6
A Pathé Scenic in Colors
"AN AWFUL ROMANCE"
Pathe Comedy featuring Ford Sterling

Friday, February 23
Lasky Paramount Presents the Incomparable
MARIE DORO
In a Modern Screen Melodrama
"The Lash"
A Drama of Social Contrasts in which Miss Doro as a Fisher Maid of Brittany is introduced to Modern World Society and its Temptations

Saturday, February 24
"Sammy Johnson and His Wonderful Lamp"
Powerful Cartoon Comedy
2-Reel "101" Bison
"The Taint of Fear"
A Thrilling Story with plenty of action
Gale Henry in
"Barred from the Bar"
Joker Comedy

Sunday, February 25
The 12th Installment of
"Liberty"
Many New Stunts from Marie Walcamp and Eddie Pale
"You Want Something"
2-Reel Victor Comedy
Matinee 2:30 Night 6:30
SEE! FOX COMEDIES Every Thursday

Monday, Wednesday and Friday
3 Shows Starting 7:00, 8:20, 9:40
Children Under 12 years 10c All Others 15c
ALL OTHER NIGHTS
Continuous Show 6:45 to 10:45 Admission 10c to all.

freight car in which they traveled, but the photo was folded in the letter and now it is in three parts, like a three-reel film, and it will not reproduce. They made much advertising capital of the car, with huge banners, but it seems to us that the perils of our girl reporters should be taken with a grain of salt rather than so much catsup and tobasco. Most of the girl reporters we've seen would be in no peril, even from a blind man.

Fairbanks Publicity.

Bennie Ziedman, personal representative for Douglas Fairbanks, is doing good work for his star. We are proud of Bennie, for we started him going when he was assistant stock boy at the Lubin plant and we were editing.

But Bennie is pretty much of a self-starter, and he has been keeping right on. One of his recent stunts is a letter to all exhibitors, which reads:

I understand that recently you exhibited in your theater American Aristocracy, and I am very anxious to know, for Mr. Douglas Fairbanks, just how your patrons received this picture.

I would appreciate a letter from you telling me what sort of a drawing card Douglas Fairbanks is for your theater, some of the plays they have enjoyed him in better than others, and any suggestions that you would care to volunteer concerning the future productions of Mr. Fairbanks.

I feel that I am asking a great deal of you, but Mr. Fairbanks is very anxious to make pictures that will please the public, and if the proper co-operation is evidenced between the exhibitor, the exchange man and himself, there is no reason in the world why the Fairbanks plays cannot be even more successful than they have been in the past months.

And the funny part of it is that they really intend to be guided by the suggestions they receive. They do not feel that they know it all, but want all the advice they can get. Somewhat different from the attitude in the old days when an exhibitor was made to feel that he should be grateful being permitted to hire film.

Ruffner, Please Note.

Gordon M. (100%) Fullerton, of the Greater Theaters Co., Seattle, takes issue with Ralph Ruffner on the latter's assertion that his Liberty, Spokane, uses the greatest amount of newspaper space. Mr. Fullerton writes:

Although we have always admired Ralph Ruffner's live wire methods of advertising, we cannot let his claim to being the largest exhibitor user of advertising space in the United States go unchallenged.

The Greater Theaters Company of Seattle, Jensen & Von Herberg, managers, have been the pioneer exhibitor users of large newspaper advertising—in fact we were the first to use large space, full pages, etc. It has been my privilege to be associated with them for the past five years, first as representative of one of the Seattle newspapers and the last two years as their advertising manager.

Our newspaper advertising space for the past ten weeks totaled 5,983 column inches for the Liberty and Coliseum theaters, or an average of 376 inches per house per week. This

LIBERTY
TODAY UNTIL WEDNESDAY NIGHT
SUNDAY NOON CONCERT
Organist: Arthur Bennett. Soloist: Miss Helen. Soprano: Miss Helen. Tenor: Miss Helen. Bass: Miss Helen.
OLIVER S. WALLACE ON OUR $35,000 WIRELESS UNIT ORCHESTRA
First Time Show-Off Come!
THE ICED BULLET
In "The Iced Bullet," C. Gordon Wallace, had the honor of being a willing and ready guard over the liberty and security of the city. He is a big, strong, and brave man, and he is the only one who can protect the city from the danger of the "Iced Bullet."
"WHEN DAMON FELL FOR PYTHIAS"
"LIBERTY—Where Seattle Goes to See Good Shows!"
FIRST AT FREE—Continued in 10
BETWEEN 10:00
CHILDREN 5c

LIBERTY
There is no place in the world where the "Americano" is so popular as in Seattle. It is the most popular picture in the city, and it is the only picture that has been shown in the city for over a year.
DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS IN THE AMERICANO
WALLACE REAL MOVIE THEATRE
FIRST AT FREE—Continued in 10
BETWEEN 10:00
CHILDREN 5c

is a trifle less than 54 inches per house per day. Understand this is only our regular newspaper advertising and is used in addition to 100 28 sheet billboard posters each week, 400 to 500 window cards each house and 100 to 200 sheets of pictorial paper for each show by each house.

Reverting to newspaper advertising, we believe this will cinch our claim to being the largest exhibitor newspaper advertiser in the States! Our figures for the year 1916 totaled 153,818 column inches, which at an average rate of over $1 per column inch, make a sizable sum both in figures and money.

How about it Ruff? What is your batting average? In another letter Mr. Fullerton writes:

Yesterday in looking at the show, I noticed your name as the author of "Free Speech." Let me congratulate you on a most entertaining, really funny comedy. It proved a fit running mate for Fairbanks' "Americano" as a laugh producer, and Fairbanks is some popular here, and the "Americano" proved a big hit.

In the musical interpretation for the comedy, Mr. Wallace, our organist, took the liberty (by musicians' licenses) to supply Sidney Drew's costly relapses. Always musical, this interpretation of Drew's cuss-words, never failed to bring the house down, for the audiences could all supply what they thought Drew said.

The story largely hinges upon Mr. Drew's suppressed remarks and we can see the chances in this musical interruption. Perhaps it will help other organists. Two recent advertisements are shown. That for "The Iced Bullet" is page length, five columns wide, and the other four fifteens. Mr. Fullerton writes that the picture of Seattle with Liberty in the wrong harbor is used whenever a suitable special cut is not suggested by the title. The shadow block letter at the top is always used.

New Again.

The Lehigh Orpheum, South Bethlehem, Pa., has a new wrinkle. Most always someone in that bunch has a new idea. It keeps us busy between the Orpheum, the Third Street and the Lorenz. This latest is a script house name for the program. Just how it works on the page headings is shown in the cut. It looks much better in the full

Lehigh Orpheum
SOUTH BETHLEHEM, PA.
MONDAY, FEBRUARY 19
WILLIAM DESMOND and MARGARET THOMPSON

Lehigh Orpheum
SOUTH BETHLEHEM, PA.
WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 21
DOROTHY GISH
in a story that's different
"The Little Vamp"

size and should have been enlarged to serve on the front page as well. It is not particularly elaborate, but it is neat—which is far better. It will be noted that the heading is cut into the panel rule. This gives a better effect than would a solid panel with the heading above or below.

The Linder Book.

The campaign book for the Max Linder comedies, put out by the Gossanay, is decidedly practical. Perhaps the most interesting feature is the offer of the company to pay half your newspaper advertising, under certain reasonable restrictions. This is a better and more directly helpful way of launching the comedian than by telling the exhibitor to tie up to the national campaign. It gives him direct help. Most of the stunts are thoroughly practical, which cannot always be said of campaign stunts, and most of them are new. There is a mail list idea that if worked nicely will bring a list of addresses and a lot of direct advertising as well. Also they use a new version of the Blueatis circular, first run in this department some years ago. It has been changed over to "Maxillarity," but the idea is the same. There is a large line of paper and cuts advertised and two styles of Kraus paintings. It is all there but the energy to put it into practice.

Hustling.

W. H. Wassman, of the Knickerbocker, Nashville, Tenn., spread himself advertising "The Fall of a Nation." He not only took a full newspaper page, but he ran it in two colors and black. To the right of the space hung a pennant in the national colors and to the left was a spirited drawing of a soldier, carrying a flag and drawn sword. The drawing is well done and the text is properly circusy without being too extravagant. Color work costs on daily papers, but it certainly does attract attention, and this two color work is exceptionally good both as to blending and register.

A NEW HELP FOR MANAGERS

Picture Theatre Advertising

By EPES WINTHROP SARGENT (Conductor of Advertising for Exhibitors in the Moving Picture World)

A TEXT BOOK AND A HAND BOOK, a compendium and a guide. It tells all about advertising, about type and type-setting, printing and paper, how to run a house program, how to frame your newspaper advertisements, how to write form letters, posters or throwaways, how to make your house an advertisement, how to get matinee business, special schemes for hot weather and rainy days. All practical because it has helped others. It will help you. By mail, postpaid, $2.00. Order from nearest office.

Moving Picture World, 17 Madison Ave., New York

Schiller Building
Chicago, Ill.

Haas Building
Los Angeles, Cal.

The Photoplaywright

Conducted by EPES WINTHROP SARGENT

INQUIRIES.

Questions concerning photoplay writing addressed to this department will be replied to by mail if a fully addressed and stamped envelope accompanies the letter, which should be addressed to this department. Questions should be stated clearly and should be typewritten or written with pen and ink. Under no circumstances will manuscripts or synopses be criticised, whether or not a fee is sent therefor.

A list of companies will be sent if the request is made to the paper direct and not to this department, and a return stamped envelope is inclosed.

Per—haps.

CHARLES GIBLYN, producing the Clara Kimball Young features, is made to talk by the Selznick press agent. He is made to say that so much has been said against the way directors maltreat stories that it is time that one of them spoke in favor of the director, so he remarks:

The trouble with the great majority of people who think they can write for the screen is their utter lack of technical training and their inability to visualize their stories in the terms of the motion picture. They seem to think that any story that reads well or any play that makes a deep impression on the stage is suited to the screen. Such an idea is utterly ridiculous.

The discussion does not apply to "the great majority of people." They are the boobs. Some of them might learn technique if they were encouraged, but the fat-headed, self-content director distinctly says he does not want technique but merely the bare idea, and when he gets the bare idea he yells because he does not get technique—not that most directors would use technical scripts if they had them because they know it all and no one else knows anything and they cut and slash just to show that they alone can fix it up, and yet, again Mr. Giblyn says:

No one can write a successful motion picture scenario who has not made a conscientious study of the art or has not had actual studio experience. The author who writhes in his chair at the picture theatre when he sees the child of his brain "maltreated" by one of us directors, would do well to attend the studio during the production of one of his pictures and let the director explain to him the necessity for the changes he is making in the original script.

Where we are going to get our big picture stories in future I don't know. It is the greatest problem the industry has to face today. In the past two months I have read eighty-four books myself and looked over reports on a hundred others and out of the lot there were not more than two or three that could even be considered as Clara Kimball Young productions.

The only hope I can see lies in serious consideration of the art of motion picture writing by the literary people of prominence who now look upon the films as a by-product of their work for the publishers and the theatrical producers. Of course there may be any number of unknown authors who are capable of writing great motion picture stories but until they begin to think in terms of the screen the great percentage of their output will be useless to us. It isn't so much the question of originality of plot. This cannot be expected. There are only about a dozen original themes in literature. What we are looking for is originality in treatment, fresh ideas in character development and above all else action, action, and then, more action.

This is plain rot. Few directors would tell an author anything about production and fewer still would condescend to explain why they make this change or that, because they do not know themselves. There are any number of "unknown" authors who are capable of writing good stuff, but they get no hearing, and most well known authors who have tried to write for the screen have quit because of the assinine stupidity of the directors. We have talked with many and we know. Not many literary lights have carefully studied photoplay technique and those few quit when they saw the difference between real technique and what the average director wants.

Of course many authors claim that they are abused when in reality their scripts are impossible, but the few who really have tried are the ones who make the greatest outcry because they know best that the average script is killed by the director and the cutter in combination. The thing to do is to take what ideas the authors have and try and help him do better work. If originality of treatment is desired, the director must know that originality of treatment cannot be shown in a two-thousand word synopsis. It must be written into the continuity and once there it must be followed.

No experienced author would send a script to the Selznick company, because he knows that the feature concerns do not buy. What Mr. Giblyn sees, in all probability, is boob stuff.

And Bernard McConville, of the Triangle, is made to say:

A new school of scenario writers is springing up who will ply their profession not alone for money but to raise the standard of screen writing to the highest possible level. The scarcity of good screen stories is growing more pronounced all the time, and this fact will soon give the author a tremendous chance to strike out along original lines.

It is my personal opinion that leaders in the new school will to a large extent be developed from within the studios. Because such authors will have learned the rudiments of scenario construction through close association with directors, actors and the varying conditions under which screen productions are manufactured.

I am one of those who hold that "the play's the thing," but at the same time, effective plays must fit the star, as nearly as possible.

Also to attain the highest results one must study directors, settings, and all eligible members of a cast. A plot may be ever so strong, but it can be completely spoiled and its effect entirely lost if it does not fit the personality of the actors or the director does not enter into the spirit of the story, as conceived by the author.

New stuff must come, if the business is to endure, but the new authors will NOT be studio men, steeped in all the antique traditions of the studio and the dramatic stage. They must be new men, preferably young men, who are able to realize that photoplay is not made over drama but something wholly different. The trouble with the business right now is that 90 per cent. of the stuff is turned out in the studio and is the same junk that was made last week, last month, last year, and will be made next week, next month and next year, if the studios are still looked to for material. Stories were never at so low a level and never before were so many written in the studio since the first break in 1909. It is the studio writer who is killing the business with his banality, and yet one of them has the nerve to look still deeper into the studios for new writers.

Stop paying ten dollars a reel for synopses only, stop taking synopses and demand the working scripts. Pay for them on a fair basis and the scripts will be forthcoming in time. Unless this is done there is going to be a sudden switch to high priced writers. The leading authors will be getting the same fancy payments that now go to the stars and the stories will be no better. It will be better to offer and pay $100 a reel now for stuff that can be done practically as written, than to pay $1,000 a reel and more presently for stuff that is plain botch.

Another.

Recently there has appeared an advertisement in certain New York papers for members to join a club for the free criticism of their scripts. Response to the advertisement brings a reply on the letter-head of the Screen Authors' League, signed by I. Taylor, explaining that the league meets weekly in "one of the best-known studios in the city, where members have the usual privilege of seeing a picture put on, which is an opportunity not granted to anyone not members of this club." A "competent writer and director" criticizes the scripts and to join you have to hustle $10 to Mr. Taylor. We wonder what studio it is that makes this surprising offer.

The Reason Why.

Among the varied comments on a recent paragraph, in which we suggested that some script departments were untrustworthy, was one in which the writer asks why he should continue to write stories if all script editors are thieves. In the first place, we did not say that all script editors were robber barons, and, in the second place, we think it worth while keeping on because the free lances will be selling when the present crop of dishonest script handlers are either in jail or on their uppers. The time must come when even the blindest of producers must realize that honesty is the best business policy. The free lances alone can supply a properly varied program and only the varied program can endure.

Please Don't.

Please do not write in and ask for a list of "reliable" companies. This department is not a financial rating bureau, nor is it a branch of the police department. We cannot name some companies as "reliable" without leaving the others free to sue, and to name all as reliable would not be strictly within the bounds of truth, for some employees are not reliable, even though the companies may be, and undoubtedly some hardly pressed staff writers do derive inspiration from the work of others passing through their hands.

The THIRD Edition of Technique of the Photoplay IS NOW READY

This is virtually a new book under the old title. More than double the text and with an arrangement especially adapting it for the student. The most complete book ever written on the subject of scenario or photoplay construction.

By Mail, Postpaid

Three Dollars

Address all orders direct to nearest office

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

17 Madison Ave., New York City

Schiller Building,
Chicago, Ill.

Haas Building,
Los Angeles, Cal.

Projection Department

Conducted by F. H. RICHARDSON

Manufacturers' Notice.

IT IS an established rule of this department that no apparatus or other goods will be endorsed or recommended editorially until the excellence of such articles has been demonstrated to its editor.

Important Notice.

Owing to the mass of matter awaiting publication, it is impossible to reply through the department in less than two to three weeks. In order to give prompt service, those sending four cents, stamps (less than actual cost), will receive carbon copy of the department reply, by mail, without delay. Special replies by mail on matters which cannot be replied to in the department, one dollar.

Both the first and second set of questions are now ready and printed in neat booklet form, the second half being seventy-six in number. Either booklet may be had by remitting 25 cents, money or stamps, to the editor, or both for 40 cents. Cannot use Canadian stamps. Every live, progressive operator should get a copy of these questions. You may be surprised at the number you cannot answer without a lot of study.

Roll of Honor on Question No. 172.

The Roll of Honor on question 172 consists of C. E. Linstruth, Carthage, N. Y.; A. M. Malley, Edmonton, Canada; Michael Capobianco, Roseto, Pa.; J. H. Anderson, Fort Dodge, Ia.; W. A. Labarthe, Port Arthur, Texas; L. Pagenhardt, Westernport, Ind.

Again Brother Linstruth seems to have swiped the plum, or, in other words, given the best answer to question 172.

Reply to Question No. 172.

By C. E. Linstruth, Carthage, N. Y.

The Question:

Explain, in detail, the various items of danger which are brought about by over-speeding the film. Be careful and get them all.

The Answer:

The dangers of over-speeding the film are: Loss of patronage to the theater; possible loss of position for the operator; increased danger of spattering oil on the film; tearing out weak sprocket holes; straining the eyes of the audience in attempting to read short titles and follow the quick action of the actors; loosening adjustments of the mechanism which would stand normal strain; increasing tendency to lose upper or lower loop; increased tendency to run off sprocket at thick patches; increased tendency to pull apart weak joints; unsteady presentation due to excessive vibration; danger of synchronism with three-wing shutter blades and the alternations of 60 cycle current; excessive noise, particularly if the mechanism be worn, and danger to the soul of the operator through possible language used as he views the utter ruination of his work on the screen.

Film Trouble.

Indianapolis, Ind., says:

Unless the upper loop of my machine is set just exactly so the film either breaks or there is an awful jump in the picture; also at times, while machine is running, the upper loop gets longer, the picture jumps considerably, and sometimes quivers until I have to stop and readjust the film. The carbon holders I have been using are very thin and give me a great deal of trouble, but I cannot get the manager to renew them. However, I made a pattern for a pair of carbon jaws myself, had the thing cast and put it in. They worked fine. And what do you think happened? Why the manager balled me out, although I had a much better light. Said he did not want any "experimenting" on his machines.

Well, Indianapolis, I should say if the manager does not want experimenting on his machines he had better get you some new ones. According to your description of your present equipment you certainly need them badly.

From what you say in regard to the film, I should say that the aperture plate is badly worn and that the film is buckling in and out over the aperture, though I don't really see how that could happen in the make of machine you have, unless it has been in use ever since Noah came out of the ark. It is also possible that your gate tension is too loose, and I believe the idler of your upper sprocket needs adjusting and needs it badly. Possibly too the teeth of the upper sprocket are very much worn. From your letter I should say that the only way to repair your present equipment would be to take off the crank and put it on a new machine.

An Appreciation from Martin.

Brother Ralph W. Martin, Los Angeles, Cal., says:

I would like to express my appreciation to Friend Griffiths for his views in December 16 issue. I feel assured that none of us have ever tossed the iron for any other purpose than to harpoon a whale which might be passing at the time, to the end that we secure its oil and blubber. With regard to my drawing, issue December 16, Griffiths should stick to his first statement and regard the light beam, as there shown, as being merely a diagram to illustrate the mode of experiment. However, he is still a little bit confused with regard to the meaning of the different spot positions I there show. To make this point more clear: The white spot is the position where the crater is observed to be in sharp focus when the front condenser is covered with a mask 3 inches in diameter, as set forth in issue of August 19. On the other hand the actual image is the position where the crater is observed to be in sharp focus when the condenser is covered with a diaphragm which exposes only about one-half inch at the center of the lens. Because the mask shown in the drawing is a mean between these two extreme positions, it must focus the crater at a mean longitudinal position. I am pretty sure Griffiths has never fully grasped my meaning of the terms "white spot," "mean spot" and "actual image." If he should care to perform the actual experiments I have indicated above, the full meaning of my drawing and table, issue December 16, would become more clear. I was myself considerably surprised when I found the results of my experiments were running right smack into Table No. 2 of the third edition of the Handbook, and I still cannot reconcile the two different methods of arriving at the same results as being anything more than a coincidence. I can only explain it by the assumption that the formulas used in calculating Table 2 were only approximate (i. e., mean), and I later fell into the same line by adopting a mean position for the aperture. This would account for the general agreement of the two methods. Griffiths wholly underestimates his ability to find the principal points and other theoretical functions of a lens when he despairs of ever being able to do so. The study is deep enough to be sure, but not quite so impossible as he seems to think.

For the present, at least, I am going to leave the old style condenser system, pronouncing it inefficient, incompetent, irreconcilable, and pass on to something else.

Since I sent in my "Long Y" condenser design, I have tried to improve upon it by using a three lens combination. The three lenses gain a little Y distance, but require a great separation of the factors, and have other objections, therefore I am sticking to my original Long Y distance. With 50 amperes D. C. this design should give a Y distance of 28 to 30 inches (a longer distance being of little gain) with a separation of the two condensers of about 11 inches (13 inches for $\frac{1}{2}$ inch crater). My only concern is loss of light between the condensers, but I don't think it will amount to very much.

No, that is not the most serious point, Brother Martin. I think I have already commented on that proposition. It is impossible from the practical point of view. You would have a machine something like six feet long from the revolving shutter to the back lamp control, and this would require the reconstruction of fully four-fifths of the operating rooms, besides compelling the operator to stand on a soap box to trim his lamp where the projection is at a steep angle, as it is in altogether too many instances—either that or make the operating room floor in steps. Such a system might, and I believe would, be very efficient, but due to the aforesaid and other reasons it would be mechanically impossible.

From an Assistant Operator.

Peter Lewis, New York City, says:

I read our department with great interest, and cut out and make into book form. I am an assistant operator at the Franklin theater, and would be obliged to you, as would also the chief operator, if you would answer the following: (A) Why do fuses blow on a new trim; that is to say when you put in new carbons and strike the arc? The fuses are then cold and show no sign of overload. The lamp is in good condition, with no grounds, and the rheostat is supposed to be in good shape. (B) Do the fuses blow because of a too great rush of current over them? (C) Is the resistance of carbon greater when cold than when hot, the same as in carbon filament of an incandescent lamp?

Proceeding backwards I will answer C first. Yes, the resistance of carbons is higher when cold than when hot, the same as in the filament of a carbon filament of an incandescent lamp. (B) Fuses may blow through overload caused by a sudden rush of current, but either this would have to last for at least three or four seconds, or it would have to represent a very heavy overload. (A) It is possible that your fuses are working right up to the limit of capacity. When you bring the carbons together to strike the arc this cuts out the resistance of the arc and thus lowers the total resistance of the circuit by considerable more than one ohm; also when your rheostat is cold its resistance is comparatively low and these things together cause a decidedly larger flow of current than normal. Now if your fuses are working right up to the limit anyhow, it would be quite within the range of possibilities that they would let go under these circumstances, particularly if you held the carbons together for two or three seconds. This is especially true when a new trim is put in, because of the fact that the fresh carbon points make very good contact. There is a decidedly less resistance when two fresh carbons are brought together than when two burned ones come into contact. I think on the whole you will find this is the explanation. Your fuses are running quite close to the limit of their capacity. Five amperes additional fuse capacity would probably eliminate the trouble.

Will Hear the Lecture.

G. W. Hathaway, Leavenworth, Washington, sends for a Handbook and says:

I have just received a set of Hawkins' Electrical Guides, and say, they are some books. I have been having trouble with one of my motors sparking, but inside an hour after I had the Guides I had Mr. Trouble by the neck and choked to death. I am glad to see that you are going to stop at Spokane on that trip West. We are only a little more than two hundred miles west of Spokane, and I guess that will be as near as you will get to this place. I am therefore planning a trip to Spokane at that time. I am something of an amateur photographer and some day I am going to take a few pictures around here and show you what this country looks like. I don't believe you would ride the Go-devil of yours around here very much.

Huh! Evidently you have not formed the acquaintance of Miss Nancy Hanks. Why, man, that Go-devil is the very last word in mountain climbers, and the country she could not navigate would have Dante's Inferno backed clear off the map. After having negotiated six hundred miles of Canadian roads I know whereof I speak.

Yes, the Hawkins' Guides are good; also I think you could have choked that trouble to death by consulting "General Instructions No. 8," pages 372, 373, 374, 375, 376, 377, 378, 379 and 380 of the Handbook, all of which deals with the care of the commutator.

I think, Brother Hathaway, you must be considerably nearer to Seattle than Spokane. It is also possible that I may stop in Everett, though up to date the silence from that city has been so dense you could hear your hair grow. Seattle, Tacoma, Portland, Vancouver, Victoria and Aberdeen, however, have all asked me to stop, but neither Bellingham or Everett have, up to this time, been heard from.

$12.00 Per Week.

Vermont sends in the following, names being suppressed because if I gave the name the man might lose the perfectly splendid position he holds, and that would, of course, be regrettable. He says:

I am an operator of eight years' experience, at present working in the ——— theater of this city. Am only receiving only $12.00 per week, as this is not a union state, therefore wages are not high. Have always worked in Vermont, but recently I took unto myself a better half, who hails from the Keystone state. Now we want to go down into Pennsylvania to live, and I would like to know if Pennsylvania is a union state, and how I could get into the union if I go there. I refer particularly to Scranton and Wilkes-Barre.

I have your Handbook and Hawkins' Electrical Guide. I have worked and studied very hard to master my profession, and believe I can give as nearly perfect projection as the next man, both of us working under similar conditions. Am now anxious to get located where I can get at least a decent remuneration in return for skillful work. If you can give me any information on this subject, particularly with regard to the section named, I would be most grateful, or would be quite willing to pay you for your trouble.

No, Vermont, you could not pay me. I am not in that kind of business. If I could help you I would be only too glad to do so, but I do not see how I can give you any direct aid. As to Wilkes-Barre and Scranton, why I don't believe you could work there. Those towns are controlled by unions, and under the "home rule" law, you would have to reside there for a period of six months before being eligible to membership in the union, and during that time I suppose there would be nothing doing in the way of a job, at least until all the home men were supplied. In other words, they would only let you work in positions which they could not fill with their own men, and, after all, you cannot blame them very much for that, always provided they are able to supply competent operators, who can and will deliver results on the screen which will be creditable, taking into consideration the conditions under which they work, both to themselves and the union, and which will be delivered without excessive cost.

The only thing I can suggest would be that you go down into Pennsylvania and secure a position in one of the smaller, unorganized cities, and then after working there for six months make application to the local under whose jurisdiction the town you are working in lies. It is a roundabout process and one not at all sure of success, so far as the membership is concerned, but it is the only one I can suggest.

And now, gentlemen, what do you think of that anyhow? A man of eight years' experience, who has studied hard to perfect himself in his chosen calling, IS PAID THE SUM OF TWELVE DOLLARS PER WEEK FOR REPRODUCING UPON THE SCREEN THE ART OF THE GREATEST ARTISTS IN THE WORLD—for reproducing upon the screen photoplays which cost thousands upon thousands of dollars to produce. There is placed in the hands of this twelve dollar a week man fragile property (films) to the value of anywhere from five hundred to one thousand dollars, to say nothing of from six hundred to one thousand worth of projection machinery, some parts of which are very delicate, and require careful, intelligent adjustment.

Really, away down in the bottom of your heart, friend manager, what do YOU think of that kind of proposition? DO YOU THINK TWELVE DOLLARS A WEEK OFFERS ANY ENCOURAGEMENT TO HIGH CLASS MEN TO ENTER THE FIELD OF OPERATING? Do you believe you are going to get the best possible results on your screen and get them at a reasonable cost by holding out as an inducement the sum of twelve dollars a week, remembering that, particularly in summer time, the work of the operator is very trying, and none too healthy; also he must forego many of the ordinary pleasures of life, because in the evening when other men go out with their families, he is working, and on holidays when other men take their wives on pleasure trips, it is nothing doing for Mr. Operator—that is his big day. Really, Mr. Vermont Manager, it would seem to a man up a tree that you, as a good business man, ought to demand in your operating room a higher grade of talent than is likely to be attracted by a twelve dollar a week salary; also if you only pay twelve dollars a week to a man of eight years' experience, what in the name of God do you offer the new man? Mind you this operator works in a good-sized little city—not a small village.

The Next Big Step.

The editor is often asked what will be the next big step in improvement in projection. The reply is not easy. There are several avenues which may possibly lead to big results, viz.: substitution of incandescent for arc light for projection; continuous running film instead of intermittent projection; fireproof film and stereoscopic projection.

Up to date only the first named has given much promise of tangible results, and even it has yet to prove its claim to recognition as a really practical proposition, capable of delivering equally good results and doing it with greater economy than can the electric arc. The editor has, however, witnessed some very encouraging demonstrations of the practicability of the low voltage, high amperage incandescent lamp built especially for the projection of moving pictures.

As to non-intermittent projectors, up to date nothing tangible has been accomplished. True, a Chicago inventor evolved a machine known as the "Vaniscope" which was hugely advertised and was for a time very much talked about. This department, however, was not napping. Its editor examined the plans of the machine and promptly pronounced it to be impractical for theatrical projection. Many efforts were made by the sponsors of this machine to secure a recommendation for it from the department and its editor, but we felt that the thing could never succeed, except possibly under conditions where only a very small picture at a very short throw might be required. Under those conditions, and those only, the machine might work fairly well.

Aside from this there has been, as far as we know, no serious effort to put forth a non-intermittent projector.

Non-inflammable film was at one time placed on the market in quantities, but it was unsatisfactory and was withdrawn. It seems that the chemicals used to render it non-inflammable also made it brittle and set up a tendency to split, particularly along the sprocket holes. Non-inflammable film is still put out, to a limited extent only, in the form of special films for home use. They are not now, so far as we know, used at all for theatrical work. Inventors are still wrestling with the problem, and may finally provide us with an acceptable non-burnable stock.

Stereoscopic projection has been the hobby of many inventors, but up to date it has only been obtained by the use of specially made spectacles which must be worn by each spectator, which is, of course, impractical as applied to theatrical audiences. At this time the outlook for stereoscopic projection is decidedly dubious, but, as with non-inflammable film, we shall see what we shall see.

Good Work.

J. P. Smithe, New York City, says:

Although I am an old time operator I am not just at present connected with the game. Had to give it up on account of my health, and anyhow I think that it is about time for a man to quit after he has shot pictures at a screen for eleven years.

But although not now in an operating room, I still follow the work of the department with much pleasure. Recently I was invited over to Jersey City, and while there visited the Danforth theater, where the operator showed a single reel drama and a five-reel Bluebird, the latter entitled "The Bugler of Algiers." The watching of this show was indeed a rare treat. The projection was magnificent; the light was well handled, and the speed such that the action of the picture was absolutely life-like. The theater itself is beautiful, and although I had always understood Jersey to be the last place to go to find good work (Fireworks from Jersey.—Ed.), at the Danforth there was certainly nothing to criticize in the projection.

We are glad to have this good report of the work of the operator at the Danforth theater. Am sorry I have not the address of the theater. My compliments to its operator. Presumably he is a member of Hudson County Local Union No. 384, which is itself a live-wire organization, composed of good men who, for the most part, produce excellent screen results.

Back Lash in Sprocket.

The operator at the Bijou theater, Hastings, Mich., whose signature looks like a cross between a rather poorly made turkey track and the path left by an intoxicated snake, (Oh, yes, it's some signature all right, all right), says:

Will you please tell me what causes the back lash in the intermittent sprocket of my Power's Six A? The machine is four years old. I don't believe it is the film, because, we run Paramount, Triangle, and Metro, and the film is always in A1 condition. Our house is small, seating capacity 250, but the boss is very particular about the projection.

Yes, Brother (see above) he seems to be very particular. Your description of the trouble is rather indefinite. Presumably, however, the film is over-shooting, due to lack of sufficient tension. If you have the third edition of the Handbook, turn to page 493, Plate 1, and you will there find a screw-head marked 734. This is the screw which adjusts the tension of the spring controlling the shoes which bear on the film. It probably wants a little tightening. This screw

If the machine has been run four years without repairs (I don't think the Six A has been out that long, though I am not sure as to is immediately below the aperture. that) you in all human probability stand in urgent need of a new intermittent movement, and will hardly be able to get perfect projection until you secure one. You can, of course, hold the over-shoot out of the film by means of tension, but with a badly worn intermittent the tension would have to be excessive, and this is extremely bad for the sprocket holes of the film.

Visitor Lights a Match.

The wisdom of excluding visitors from the operation room was, according to the Macomb Daily Journal of December 27, 1916, proven when a visitor in an operating room in a Carthage, Ill., moving picture theater, lit a match in an endeavor to help locate the trouble when something went wrong with the projection machine. Result: a lot of film burned, the operator and his visitor painfully burned, and a narrow escape from death by the cashier in the ticket office directly underneath.

The rule excluding visitors from the operating room is a very good one indeed, partly by reason of the fact that the operator is apt to have his attention distracted from the work in hand, with consequent damage to results on the screen, or even more serious results, as in this case.

When the picture is running there should be no one inside the operating room except the operator and his assistant. Visitors should be absolutely barred.

Aperture Lens and the Objective.

The more I look at the matter, the harder it is for me to understand why an aperture lens is not a practical proposition. I don't make any pretense of being an optician, but up to date I am unable to understand why it would be either impossible, or even impractical to establish an aperture lens which would parallel the light ray beyond the aperture, and then secure an objective of the proper E. F. to give the size picture we want at a given distance, receiving a parallel, instead of a diverging or converging light ray. Of course we do run up against the proposition that varying amperage requires varying condenser combinations, and different distance from condenser to film, but I do not see why this presents any insurmountable objection. And it does seem to me that it is about the only way in which we are to get around the tremendous inefficiency of the present optical system used for the projection of moving pictures.

The Sabo lens, of which I wrote some time ago, partially utilizes this particular plan, but the extra lens is not really an aperture lens, because it is carried in the same mount with the objective.

Now what I want to see done, and what I believe can be done, is to establish an aperture lens right up close to the aperture, on the screen side, which will receive the converging ray of the condenser and send it forward to the objective as a parallel ray. There has been some discussion on this particular point, but I do not remember any one having pointed out any insurmountable objection to the plan. Martin's Long Y Distance I am compelled to reject as impractical. It would, perhaps, be the ideal from the optical standpoint, but, as I have already pointed out, for other reasons we cannot use it.

If it is impossible to parallel the light ray beyond the aperture by means of a lens established at the aperture, let's have the exact reason or reasons why it is impracticable.

Connecting Motor Generator.

Illinois says:

Am running two Power's Six A motor driven projectors with three-wing shutters of my own design, which gives me an absolutely flickerless picture at normal speed, that is to say, absolutely flickerless so far as the human eye is able to detect. I also dissolve my slides with the well-known home-made dissolver, made by connecting the two downers. It gives a very pleasing effect. Until recently we were using D. C., generated by the city, but the voltage was not steady and, without my knowledge, the manager bought two Hallberg A. C. to D. C. 20 to 40 ampere economizers. These machines are running fine. My only objection to them is they have not sufficient capacity to suit me, and also to suit the manager, as he has lately admitted. Now, what I want to know is, can I throw the current of the idle generator into the arc, thus using the output of both generators, and getting 80 amperes at the arc? And what about the arc? And what about the more than one dozen short wires on the side of the generator? When the electricians did the installing they disregarded my advice to solder these wires together, and I was compelled to splice them over again because they got hot. However, I can solder them myself, but, while I own very valuable tools, including a one-inch $7.50 micrometer, I don't like to buy a torch.

And right here let me come out in the open. I took this position at $18.00 per week, ten hours' work, less one and one-half hours off for supper, seven days per week. Later I was raised, without any request on my part, to $20.00, and still later on to $22.50, yet my conscience tells me that, considering my experience, time, health, confinement and responsibility, I should have at least $25.00.

What do you think of the piece of film I am sending? It explains my method in repairing titles, especially the very short ones. Please do not publish my name.

As to connecting the two generators so as to use their combined output in one arc, I took the matter up with Mr. Hallberg, who says:

In response to yours of December 29th, yes, it is perfectly practical to operate two of the Hallberg 20th Century Motor Generators, either the 20-40 or 30-70 ampere types in parallel, so that you may secure any combination in amperes, ranging from the minimum to maximum combined output of both machines, at one arc; or you may operate two independent arcs, each having any amperage from the minimum to the maximum of either machine. This is one of the ideal methods of operating, because it supplies emergency equipment, and at the same time permits of the absolutely independent control of each one of the arcs; also it enables the operator to secure almost any desired amount of current for an especially dense picture. We have made several installations of this kind, but do not know that all users of two machines of the 20-40 ampere type are aware of the fact that it is possible to run them in multiple, and it would, no doubt, be of interest to operators and managers to learn, through the projection department, that by merely connecting the D. C. wires in parallel, using a double-pole, single-throw switch between the two machines, the object may be accomplished.

You will thus see, Illinois, that merely by connecting the negative and positive of one machine with the negative and positive of the other, through a suitable switch, you can run the two machines in what amounts to multiple or parallel, and secure any desired amperage from 40 to 80, although I think you will find that, after you pass the 50 mark, there won't be any considerable additional gain of light, because your crater will become too large to work economically in conjunction with the lens system. Personally, I regard 60 amperes D. C. as the absolute limit of current which can be used at the arc with any reasonable degree of economy. Under the heading "Limit of Amperage," page 292, third edition of the Handbook, you will find a further and more detailed explanation of this matter.

As to the loose wires, why, I don't know what you are talking about. However, if there is any joining to be done, the joints certainly ought to be soldered, or else made with a first-class wire connector. Soldering is to be preferred if they are to be permanent joints. As to a torch for soldering, it strikes me the theater itself ought to own one.

As to the salary, why in a town the size you are in I should say you are correct, and that $25.00 is not at all unreasonable. It is no more than a conscientious, first-class operator ought to receive in a city of that size, but inasmuch as your employer has twice raised your salary voluntarily, perhaps if you have patience you will get the other $2.50, and then feel satisfied. But even at $22.50 you are better paid than the New York operator is at $25.00, and I tell you there are a world of them working in this town for considerably less than $25.00.

Your plan for repairing short titles is excellent. It shows care and consideration on your part, both for the property entrusted to your care and for your audiences. What the brother has done is to piece in bits of film track taken from other film where the film track of a short title has been torn.

When You're in Trouble

RICHARDSON'S MOTION PICTURE HANDBOOK FOR MANAGERS AND OPERATORS

Is the Doctor That Can Unfailingly Prescribe
for Your Ailments.

There isn't an operator's booth in the universe in which this carefully compiled book will not save ten times its purchase price each month.

BUY IT TODAY! $4.00 THE COPY, POSTPAID

Your bookseller can supply you or the nearest Moving Picture
World office will promptly fill your orders.

MOVING PICTURE WORLD

Schiller Bldg. 17 Madison Ave., Haas Bldg.
Chicago, Ill. New York City. Los Angeles, Cal.

This paper has never been published except in a Union shop, so it makes no difference whether we print the Union Label or not, but at the request of a few of our readers to the editor of this department it is printed herewith.

Motion Picture Photography*

Conducted by CARL LOUIS GREGORY, F. R. P. S.

Inquiries.

QUESTIONS in cinematography addressed to this department will receive carbon copy of the department's reply by mail when four cents in stamps are inclosed. Special replies by mail on matters which cannot be replied to in this department, $1.

Manufacturers' Notice.

It is an established rule of this department that no apparatus or other goods will be endorsed or recommended editorially until the excellence of such articles has been demonstrated to its editor.

Recent Motion Picture Patents.

U. S. Patents (Continued).

1205772. A. Mehfelder, assigned to Elizabeth Mehfelder. A mechanism for producing an intermittent feed motion in motion picture apparatus.

1204272. F. A. Hardyman. A lamp house for a motion picture projector.

1204425. A. F. Gall. A device for holding the "stereopticon" lens which is unusually furnished with a motion picture machine to project lantern slides.

1207298. W. W. Kircher. A reeling arrangement for motion picture apparatus.

1205548. W. H. H. Knight. A motion picture machine which, when used as a projector, does not need to employ a shutter.

1204771. M. C. Hopkins. A motion picture apparatus in which the pictures are projected upon a screen from a continuously and uniformly moving film without the use of a shutter, so that the screen is never in darkness.

1204001. K. Von Madaler, assigned to Projectophone Co., Inc. An apparatus for preparing combined motion picture and phonographic records, so as to produce absolute synchronism. Motion pictures and a photographic record are taken simultaneously of a scene in the usual way. The motion picture positive is then run through the present apparatus and a phonographic record is made in the edge thereof from the original phonographic record. As the original phonographic record is turned it oscillates a needle which actuates a lever carrying heated platinum wire which bears against the moving picture strip so that for every wave in the original phonographic record a corresponding wave will be burned or melted into the edge of the motion picture strip.

1204775. A. T. Jacobson. A motion picture screen coated with fine glass beads of a fire-proofed canvas base coated a pure white with French zinc. The surface is covered with a layer of minute glass globules, for example, Ballontino pearls, which are treated with hydrofluoric acid to remove their polish.

1206287. L. J. Auerbacher, assigned to The Federal Screen Corporation of New York. A process of making projection screens. It consists of facing a fabric or wire cloth with a layer of pyroxylin on each face, the layer upon one of the faces being given a series of minute lenticular formations.

1206286. H. V. Ashby. A toy motion picture machine.

1204424. A. F. Gall. A motion picture projector for exhibiting films upon which the pictures are arranged in three or more parallel rows.

1205096. E. A. Ivatts, assigned to Compagnie Generale de Phonographes Cinematographiques et Appareils de Precision.

A motion picture projection apparatus which is provided with its own illuminating means. The crank which drives the film feed is connected to also drive an electric generator.

1205632. L. J. R. Hoist, assigned to Lubin Film Co. A printing machine for motion pictures in which the intensity of the printing light is varied to correspond with the changes in density in the negative film, thereby obtaining uniformity in the positive.

1205582. J. Tessier, assigned to Lubin Film Co.

A printing machine for motion pictures, so arranged that the printing light is varied in accordance with the printing density of the different portions of negative film.

1205030. J. E. Singleton and S. T. White.

A machine for cleaning film.

1205583. J. Tessier, assigned to Lubin Mfg. Co.

A machine for cleaning and polishing film.

BRITISH PATENTS.

B4938-1915. J. T. Parker. Submarine photography and observation.

B-9331-1915.

Film developer.

B5398-1915.

Projection screen, giving stereoscopic effect.

B-4842-1915.

F. W. Golby (Adfilm Co., Chicago).

Kinematograph apparatus, using film with double row of pictures.

B5571-1915.

F. B. Griffin and E. C. Wallace.

Kinematograph shutter fastening.

B4919-1915.

C. Kearton. Film magazine with light traps which open automatically when camera is closed.

B5795-1915.

Pathe Freres. Mechanism for drying kinematograph films. Continuous drying apparatus in which the film on rollers passes through a series of compartments.

B3430-1915.

J. C. Capstaff. Two color cinematography. A method of preparing photographic reproductions in color consisting in taking side by side duplicate or substantially duplicate negatives through separate color screens upon a single coated color sensitive film or support, producing a positive master record from the negatives, projecting simultaneously the duplicate images from the master record on to the opposite sides of a film or support sensitized upon each side and coloring differently the respective records thus obtained, the final product film alone being colored, and the only emulsion which is necessarily color-sensitive being that upon which the negatives are originally taken.

B100082-1915. P. D. Brewster.

Three-color camera. This describes a splitting mirror arranged to reflect part of the light and transmit part.

B7690-1915.

H. R. Evans. Two color cinematography. Relates to cine projectors in which the two pictures are adjacent and prisms or reflectors are used for separating the axes in projection.

B4910-1915.

C. Kearton. Cine Cameras. The claim is for a spool box, one wall of which has a relatively wide opening for the film and a shutter normally pressed into position to close the slit. On the outside of the box there is a device whereby the shutter is automatically opened when the door of the camera is closed

B11868-1915.

E. R. Clathrop. Cine Hand Cameras. The camera is fitted with supports in the form of metal shoulder pieces by which it can be held at the eye level without undue fatigue, and pointed in any direction.

B9951-1915.

Hess-Ives Corp. Color Cinematography. Single color photographs or stips for cinematographs are made by taking the usual color select on negatives and producing therefrom photographically in a layer such as gelatine an insoluble color image, and subsequently introducing into the body of the same layer another image of different color. The later image may be introduced by absorption of suitable dye, which may be done by sensitizing the gelatine layer after the first image has been produced, photographically exposing the same, and afterwards bathing in a dye solution to absorb the color selectively. The first image may consist of a metallic deposit, which, further, may be produced by first forming a silver image and then converting it to the desired color, which may be green or blue, while the subsequent dye image is red.

B15446-1915.

A. C. Remington and R. Dewsbury. Cinematograph Printing. The apparatus is for estimating the exposure to be given throughout different parts of a film band in consequence of different density of the latter, and consists of a mechanism for rapidly taking a number of prints, say 12, from a given section of the film, giving a different exposure to each of the twelve. Thus the mechanism may vary the resistance in the lighting circuit in twelve successive steps and stop automatically on completion of a set of prints. From the prints the operator can tell which exposure is best and set the apparatus accordingly.

B12337-1914.

E. M. Stoffels. Plate Cinematographs. The invention relates to mechanism for cinematography with glass plates in which exposures are made in rows.

B14225-1915.

Pancromotion Inc., Assignees of C. R. and W. van D. Kelly. Color Cinematography. Modification of the two color successive additive process in which in order to cut down the exposure, each exposure is made first through a color taking filter and then with a subsequent exposure to white or yellow light, the rotating filter disk being provided with slots which can be either clear or filled with a yellow color filter so that each of the color separation negatives is partly exposed for its own color and partly to white light.

B8201-1915.

E. E. Press. Automatic Shutter Dissolve.

Music for the Picture

Conducted by CLARENCE E. SINN and NORMAN STUCKEY.

ANY questions concerning music for the film, suitable instrumentation for motion picture theaters, questions relating to the pipe organ; in fact, any questions, criticisms or suggestions dealing with musical interpretation for moving pictures will be answered by Mr. Stuckey through this department. Inquiries should be addressed to Musical Editor, Moving Picture World, 17 Madison avenue, New York City.

Selecting the Music.

By Clarence E. Sinn.

AT PRESENT a majority of the medium sized picture theaters—and some of the larger as well—pursue a policy of changing programs daily. These programs usually include a "feature" consisting of five or six reels, which, taken with the single reels, make a longer show and fewer performances than the exhibition of a few years ago. These conditions make the musicians' task more difficult for the reason that he sees but a few presentations of the picture, and by the time he has a reasonable idea of the musical requirements of the pictures, the show is ended. If it was a difficult proposition in the past to lay out fitting musical accompaniments to the one and two-reelers when we often played the same program from six to fourteen times a day, how much more difficult to select music for a show which runs nearly twice as long and which we can only see about half as many times. One must of necessity see a picture through before he really knows what it is about and exactly what music he needs for its accompaniment. I am referring, of course, to performers who play entirely from notes and who must have those notes ready at hand before the show begins. A great many simply pick out as good a concert number as is available—regardless of its relationship to the picture—and let it go at that. His idea being that if he has given a good musical program, he has done all that is required. While it is true that the first requirement of picture music is that it shall be good music, another—quite as urgent, but often overlooked—is that it shall be appropriate music.

Many performers memorize a stock of standard musical numbers which permits them to watch the pictures unhampered by the necessity of watching their notes, for the first run, at least. It seems to me this is a safe rule to follow. Later, having decided on the proper music for its accompaniment, he can select his program to fit the picture. Sometimes his selection includes memorized numbers—often they include improvisations, though these last usually take the form of connecting links between numbers of contrasting character. I have always contended that the performer who combines these three processes (i. e.: reading, playing from memory and improvising) will—if he uses discretion—get better results than from any other method.

It is understood, of course, that we are referring to the performer who plays for the same picture but one day. A "run" of any length with its attending rehearsals is another proposition entirely.

The orchestra leader who cares enough for the show to try to help it would do well to have a goodly number of things memorized, and to have his musicians learn them too. He could thus watch the picture on its first run in his theater, change instantly, if necessary, from one fairly appropriate number to another, and after the picture was shown take enough time off to select other numbers which in his opinion will fit the picture, at least approximately. If you are making a feature of the orchestra, you want to make your best showing in the "feature" picture, and surely your manager will not begrudge you the necessary time off to select fitting music for that feature. He wants the orchestra to make a good showing. But you cannot make a really good showing if you pick out your program hap-hazard before the show (as so many are accustomed to doing) for in this way nothing could be appropriate except through accident. But having seen the picture the first show without being hampered with reading music, you all have a fair idea of its character, and with a flexible orchestra used to "following the leader," you should be able to accompany your picture intelligently. In selecting fitting music, the important thing to bear in mind is that you need not go to extremes. If your music does not oppose the picture—if it doesn't disagree with the picture—if it doesn't "kid" or swear at it, there is a possibility that you can make it almost fit. And that is something. Remember, it isn't always what you play so much as how you play it, that counts. You know you don't want to play fast stuff in the slow scenes, nor noisy music in the quiet scenes. Likewise, you know that slow, sentimental or pathetic music will kill a gay and lively scene. It shouldn't be difficult to avoid the glaringly inappropriate in your music, and when you have done this you have won more than half the battle. All the intelligent part of your audience will recognize inappropriate or incongruous music. Very few—even among musicians —will agree on what is exactly appropriate. Some will favor a certain number for a certain scene, others may prefer another. These are merely personal opinions, and their value depends upon the holder's experience in this particular line of business. But the glaring faults can be discerned by any one and should be corrected.

Carl Edouarde, Strand Theater, New York City.

Carl Edouarde, the musical director of the Strand Theater Concert Orchestra, is a pioneer in the art of setting music to moving pictures and was the first man in the business to study the various themes of the pictures and interpret them musically.

Mr. Edouarde has conducted the Concert Orchestra at the Strand theater ever since the opening of the house nearly three years ago. He first entered the moving picture field in November, 1913, when he took charge of the orchestra at the Regent theater. It was at this house that Mr. Edouarde gave the music to moving pictures real serious consideration, and the first time a picture with a musical setting was shown at this house it was hailed with delight by the audience and the news of the new method of presenting music to the pictures soon spread over New York and the Regent was considered the best picture house in New York.

Mr. Edouarde is primarily a musician of the highest rank and no business man. He was not given credit for his work nor indeed did he seek any. The credit went to another man who could not read a note of music. This man saw the importance of appropriate music to moving pictures and had the good judgment and bad taste to claim the credit.

When the Strand opened in April, 1914, Mr. Edouarde had better facilities to carry out his ideas. Chief among the things that have distinguished the Strand from any other moving picture theaters is the musical program. The fitting of music to a feature picture has become an industry almost, since the inception of the idea of the Strand. Selection from an average of fifty compositions a week is necessary for the incidental music played during the showing of a five reel feature picture. This phase of the work has been under Mr. Edouarde, who has built up a library which is the largest of its kind in the United States. The orchestra has gradually been enlarged to a surprising extent. When the Strand was first opened to the public there were sixteen musicians in the orchestra—today there are thirty-three.

Before entering the moving picture field, Mr. Edouarde gained a solid musical foundation from a variety of studies and positions. He was born in Cleveland, Ohio. As a young man he began the study of the violin, later going to Europe to complete his musical education. He graduated from the Royal Conservatory in Leipzig, in 1900. Returning to this country he made a tour with Liherati's Band, as violin virtuoso.

Following his tour Mr. Edouarde assumed the professorship of harmony and theory in the Cleveland Conservatory of Music. He resigned this chair several years later to become conductor of Knapp's Millionaire Band, after which he organized the Carl Edouarde Concert Band. During his leadership of his band, Mr. Edouarde was the author of many popular compositions. He established an office in New York City to direct the bookings of his band. When the Strand was opened its owner offered the post of musical director to Mr. Edouarde, and he abandoned his organization to accept the position.

Music Every Musician Should Know.

Polish Dance—Scharwenka.

There are two Scharwenkas who are celebrated composers, Xaver Scharwenka, who composed this piece, and his brother, Ludwig Philipp Scharwenka. Both have written much music, but Xaver has achieved the greater number of successes.

His opera "Mataswintha" is highly spoken of, but his Polish Dance is known all over the world.

The work is somewhat in the Mazurka vein, with its many syncopations and accented structure of accompaniment. As a rule the musician should not take liberties with form, though he may vary it, within judicious limits, and obtain excellent effects thereby. Many musicians disregard rules, but in such cases the results justify their action.

Poupee Valsante—Poldini.

The Waltzing Doll, (which is a translation of the title of this piece), is a dainty tone picture which might be a companion piece to Liadow's "Musical Box." Like the latter, it represents automatic motion and it should be played in a mechanical and rhythmic style.

The automatic character of the dance is well indicated by the staccato phrases in the chief theme. The tempo must be rather quick throughout, and at times a legato style must be used in phrasing. The use of the pedal should help to give expression.

Exchange Efficiency

Conducted by John J. Rotchford

THIS department aims to discuss and, thereby, remedy some of the difficulties experienced by exhibitors in their dealings with exchanges. It is believed that progressives among the latter have devised methods benefiting their end of the business and they will take advantage of this channel to promote its general welfare.

Schedules.

THE most successful branch managers are those who never make promise regarding the fulfillment of which there is the slightest doubt. Although the question of the age of a subject or a service is gradually being eliminated there are many exhibitors who still insist upon this information being supplied at the time contracts are signed and, furthermore, want definite information relative to the shipping point of the reels. It has generally been found that exchanges scheduling their customers for a subject at a given age for a certain day of the week are the ones about which a complaint of misrepresentation is seldom heard. The method is so simple and systematic that it permits the traveling solicitor to settle definitely all important points when the deal is consummated. Neither party can later claim that verbal promises were made as is the case when service is simply sold and the details of same left indefinite until they are supplied by the branch for which the solicitor is traveling.

In the case of serials and topical releases, schedules are almost imperative. In fact, when one considers the labor that is saved and the orderly manner in which a schedule permits the booking and shipping to be done, it might be stated that the term applies to all kinds of film.

The schedule itself is simply a list of customers arranged numerically according to the age of service. To be effective open ages must be shown and time lost in transit noted. The following sample will explain the form:

Age	Day	Theater	City
64	M.	Star	New Decatur, Ala.
65	T.	(In Transit)
66	W.	Electric	Stuttgart, Ark.
67	Th.	(In Transit)
68	F.	(Open)
69	S.	(Open)
70	Su.	(Open)
71	M.	Dixie	Newbern, Tenn.
72	T.	Dixie	Obion, Tenn.

To facilitate posting from the schedule to the booking sheet it is desirable to have a simple method of determining the age of a subject on any particular date. This can be accomplished by a consecutive series of numbers appearing upon bank calendars which are used in figuring the maturity of notes, etc. The first number is immaterial; all that is necessary is to preserve the continuity. Each subject is assigned a number which must be the same as that given the day upon which it is released. If this method is used the age of a subject on a specified date is arrived at as follows:

Reference number of given date plus one minus

Reference number of release date, equals the age of the subject.

Under this rule, if December 18, 1916, had been assigned number 83, the reference number of April 2, 1917, would be 188. The age, on the latter date of a subject released on the former, would be $(188 + 1) - 83 = 106$ days.

In posting the sample schedule given above for programs for the week beginning April 2, the booking clerk would subtract 64 from $(188 + 1)$, which would show that the release of the date assigned number 125, i. e., the subject released January 29, would be the one to be booked. In like manner a stenographer may automatically write the shipping orders, if supplied with a list showing the age of each customer's service and the reference numbers of the subjects.

To ascertain when a given subject will be a certain age, subtract 1 from the age and add that result to the reference number assigned to the release day of the subject. For example, to find out when release of January 29 will be 64 days old:

$$(64 - 1) + 125 = 188 \text{ or April 2.}$$

Comparing Exchange Results.

We have always been obsessed with the idea that a control could be evolved which would demonstrate whither a proportionate amount of business was being secured in any particular territory.

One method devised which compared the ratio of urban population in a section to that of the total business secured in the United States fell short of being a complete success because of the difference in the minimum population which would support a theater in the various sections of the country.

With this idea in mind, a great many works of reference have been examined in the hope of discovering statistics that would furnish the correct percentages. Recently, in looking through the World Almanac, we were attracted by the table of Comparative Revenue Receipts of the various States. It seemed to us that that these figures would furnish a good index for comparative purposes, since, like possible film rentals, the amount depends, to a great extent, upon population, industries and the prosperity of the inhabitants. Whether or not this reasoning is correct, the proportion of the total revenue in various States came so near equaling the proportion of the total earnings of several concerns in the same section that it was thought worth while calling attention to the subject. Worked out in percentages, the Revenue Receipts showed up as follows:

Maine, .0126.	West Virginia, .0071.
New Hampshire, .0052.	North Carolina, .0102.
Vermont, .0037.	South Carolina, .0059.
Massachusetts, .0524.	Georgia, .0139.
Rhode Island, .0070.	Florida, .0068.
Connecticut, .0163.	Kentucky, .0175.
New York, .1173.	Tennessee, .0112.
New Jersey, .0392.	Alabama, .0156.
Pennsylvania, .0724.	Mississippi, .0107.
Ohio, .0454.	Arkansas, .0082.
Indiana, .0233.	Louisiana, .0190.
Illinois, .0372.	Oklahoma, .0115.
Michigan, .0386.	Texas, .0408.
Wisconsin, .0346.	Montana, .0071.
Minnesota, .0124.	Idaho, .0045.
Iowa, .0207.	Wyoming, .0027.
Missouri, .0218.	Colorado, .0079.
North Dakota, .0082.	New Mexico, .0042.
South Dakota, .0069.	Arizona, .0049.
Nebraska, .0111.	Utah, .0081.
Kansas, .0126.	Nevada, .0020.
Delaware, .0018.	Washington, .0248.
Maryland, .0163.	Oregon, .0099.
Virginia, .0204.	California, .0537.

Unfortunately, no ratio is obtainable for the District of Columbia because it is considered a municipality.

Although population affords a poor criterion as regards the entire country, it may be that the proportion of the population of any one State embraced within an exchange's territory, would be sufficient to enable one to divide that State's ratio between two or more exchanges.

For Exchange Bookkeepers.

Under the conditions that exist at the present time in the film business, bookkeepers in exchanges are probably the hardest worked employees. Since most of the many reports which they are obliged to compile weekly must necessarily be balanced, we are giving below a table that will tend to save time and trouble in finding errors caused by transposing figures. This information was obtained some time ago from "System":

Difference.		Possible Transpositions.
9	01 10	12 21	23 32	34 43	45 54	56 65	67 76	78 87	89 98
18	02 20	13 31	24 42	35 53	46 64	57 75	68 86	79 97
27	03 30	14 41	25 52	36 63	47 74	58 85	69 96
36	04 40	15 51	26 62	37 73	48 84	59 95
45	05 50	16 61	27 72	38 83	49 94
54	06 60	17 71	28 82	39 93
63	07 70	18 81	29 92
72	08 80	19 91
81	09 90

Mounting Posters on Paper.

Small exchanges and owners of a circuit of theaters may be interested in the following notes on paper mounting:

It is feasible to mount your own posters by means of swinging boards, even if your office space be comparatively limited. The boards should slightly exceed the size of a six-sheet poster. Each side will thus accommodate one six-sheet or two three-sheets.

Ordinary brown wrapping paper, forty-four inches wide and averaging about 260 lbs to the roll, should be used.

Both three-sheet and six-sheet posters should be reinforced at the four corners and the latter should also be strengthened in the centre with an extra thickness of paper.

One roll of the paper described and one hundred pounds of paste will suffice to mount a quantity of three's and six's equivalent to about one thousand one-sheets.

Popular Picture Personalities

WHO'S WHO IN THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

COMPILED BY THE STATISTICAL DEPARTMENT

CAREW, Ora. Born in Salt Lake City, Utah. Scotch-Irish parentage. Is five feet two inches tall and weighs 118 pounds. Black hair, blue eyes. Olive complexion. She made her stage debut in 1900 and has had a varied experience in vaudeville, musical comedy and drama. Her last stage appearance was an engagement with the Gaiety Theater Stock Company in San Francisco, where she played the soubrette parts in a round of well-known musical comedies. Her debut in pictures occurred in May, 1915, and her first picture was Martyrs of the Alamo. She has been connected with the Fine Arts and Kay-Bee companies and at present is starring in Keystone comedies under the direction of Walter Wright. In Dollars and Sense she had a dual role of a boy and girl and had a disguise as a boy in A la Cabaret. She is fond of driving her own car, but likes horseback riding, swimming, dancing, vocal music and the violin.

Ora Carew

McKEE, Raymond. Born in Keokuk, Iowa. Is five feet seven and one-half inches tall and weighs 130 pounds. Dark brown hair and green eyes. He played in A Fool There Was, and with the Singer musical comedy productions at the Princess theater, Chicago, and has filled stock engagements. About 1912 he turned to pictures and became a member of the Lubin comedy company, playing with that organization for several years. He has also played with Reliance, Vim, Metro, Rolfe, and is now with the Edison company for a second time, playing in the Conquest pictures. He has played a wide range of parts from leads in five-reel features to three or four bits in a single comedy, but it is as a juvenile comedy lead that he has made his greatest success. He has been seen in the support of Ann Murdock, Emily Stevens, Mabel Taliaferro and others. He admits that he plays the ukelelee. But he has no other vices.

Raymond McKee

CHARLESON, Mary. Born in Dungannon, Ireland. Irish parentage. Is five feet two and one-half inches tall and weighs 110 pounds. Dark brown hair and Irish-gray eyes. She has had a varied stage experience in stock, vaudeville and musical comedy, making her debut in child characters. In 1911 she made her camera debut in the Vitagraph, playing with both the eastern and western sections. She has also played with the World, Lubin, Selig and other companies, and is at present one of the Essanay stars, supporting Henry Walthall. She is noted for her sympathetic handling of emotional parts and in studio slang is a "good weeper." Some notable parts were in Mr. Barnes of New York, the Prince Chap, Passers By, Sealed Lips, The Truant Soul, Little Shoes. She is fond of outdoors, especially automobiling, and is an interpretive dancer of no mean merit.

Mary Charleson

KELLARD, Ralph. Born in New York City. Irish-American parentage. Is six feet tall, weighs 160 pounds, has reddish brown hair and brown eyes. For three years Mr. Kellard played under Belasco, for one of these in The Music Master and for two in The Warrens of Virginia. He was leading man with Virginia Harned in The Land of Hope, and leading man in the New York production of Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm. For three years he was owner and leading man of the Ralph Kellard Stock company in Syracuse and has played leads at the Auditorium, Kansas City; Alcazar, San Francisco; Shubert, Milwaukee; Poli's, Springfield, Mass.; Olympic, Cincinnati, and Belasco, Washington. Turning to pictures he has been starred by William Fox in "Her Mother's Secret," by Pathe in "The Precious Packet," and was featured in "The Shielding Shadow" and "Pearl of the Army."

Ralph Kellard

NILSSON, ANNA Q. Born in Ystad, Sweden. Swedish parentage. Is five feet seven inches tall and weighs 135 pounds. Fair complexion, ash-blond hair and dark blue eyes. She made her debut with the Kalem company in October, 1911, playing in Molly Pitcher. Other notable parts were Mamie Rose in Regeneration; the screen adaptation of Owen Kildare's My Mamie Rose, and scores of the Kalem war plays. She has also played with Fox, Arrow, Pathe, Ivan, and is now with Erbograp. Miss Nilsson is something of a book worm and spends much of her time reading, and in the study of French, instead of the "all outdoor sports" most photoplayers confess a fondness for. Miss Nilsson is one of the stars of the pre-star day when stardom was not a matter of three sheets, but of the impression made by hard work and personality. She has played everything from ones to serials and from romance to comedy.

Anna Q. Nilsson

ENTWISTLE, Harold. Born in London, English parentage. Five feet, eleven inches tall. Weight 185 pounds. White hair, gray eyes. Mr. Entwistle was for years a house and road manager in England, and for four years directed Van Biene, was stage manager for Mrs. Pat Campbell and for six years was under the management of Charles Frohman. He made his stage debut in 1888 and in January, 1914, he made his screen debut with the Vitagraph, playing Wally Van's father in Cutey's Bride. Some notable parts have been the Colonel in The Beggar of Cawnpore, Molly King's father in The Summer Girl, and the heavy in One of Many. He has had a varied career for he has played with the Vitagraph, California, N. Y. M. P. World, Peerless and Metro. Although well known as a stage manager, he has never directed pictures, preferring to play in them. He has also been an operatic impressario in South America.

Harold Entwistle

Film Men Dine As Guests of World

In Celebration of Tenth Anniversary Two Hundred Witness Presentation of Topical Skits by Screeners

AS THE guests of the Moving Picture World 200 film men sat down to dinner in the north ballroom of the Hotel Astor on the evening of Saturday, March 17. The occasion was in celebration of the recent publication of the tenth anniversary number of this journal. The gathering was generally representative of the producing manufacturers and their publicity men and of other notables in the industry, including officers of the Exhibitors' League and members of the staffs of the trade press. The event was a bit out of the usual in a film way in that there were no speeches, with the exception of a few words from C. C. Pettijohn, of Indiana, and also for the introduction for the first time in banquets of motion picture men in formally staged skits with a more or less direct application to matters of moment and interest in the industry.

A score of members of the Screen Club volunteered to enact the roles prepared by Epes W. Sargent and Edward Weitzel, of the Moving Picture World. The players seemed to enjoy the unusual experience of getting back to "lines" almost as much as did their audience the plain allusions to men prominent in the trade. The work of Messrs. Weitzel and Sargent and their associates was the subject of praise on the part of the diners. It was all the more commendable by reason of the fact that the first rehearsal had been held but six days before and that necessarily the opportunities for getting together had been few.

For an hour before sitting down to dinner there was a general fraternization in the rooms adjoining the north ballroom. There were hearty handshakes between friends who had not met in a long time. One guest was heard to remark he had greeted face to face for the first time four men he had "known over the 'phone" for several years. From out of town came Frank J. Howard and Sam Grant, Boston; J. S. Speer, St. Marys, Pa.; L. A. Buettner, president New York State Exhibitors, Cohoes; F. J. Herrington, Pittsburgh; A. P. Tugwell, Los Angeles; Paul C. Hinz, of the Chicago office of the Moving Picture World; George Blair, Rochester; Dr. Charles Hespe, president New Jersey State Exhibitors; C. C. Pettijohn, of Indiana, and Theodore W. Wharton, of Ithaca.

It was a few minutes after 8 o'clock when John Wylie, general manager of the Chalmers Publishing Company, formally welcomed the guests of the Moving Picture World and expressed the appreciation of the Chalmers Company and the members of the staff at the honor conferred by the presence of so many friends from every branch of the industry. Mr. Wylie further expressed the appreciation of himself and his associates for the confidence and esteem that had been reposed in the Moving Picture World by the trade during the past ten years and said that nothing better could be desired than that the same measure of confidence might be extended during the coming years.

At each guest's plate was a souvenir menu consisting of eight pages and cover. On the front was a large photograph of James P. Chalmers, Jr., the founder of the Moving Picture World, together with a miniature of the front cover of the paper. On the first inside page was a poem, "To James Petrie Chalmers, Jr.," from the pen of Hanford C. Judson. On the second page appeared "From the Tiny Acorn, a Sturdy Oak," a résumé of ten years, by Randall M. White, who also supervised the preparation of the souvenir. The third page contained the photographs of the executive and business departments. The two following pages were devoted to photographs of the twenty-three men and one woman in the editorial and advertising departments. The sixth page was devoted to the Chicago and Los Angeles offices and to Cine Mundial, the Spanish edition of the Moving Picture World. Page 7 was the menu and on page 8 were short paragraphs of fact and fancy. The numerous pen decorations were the work of Cartoonist Thornton Fisher. The faces that appear in the supplement in this issue will be recognized by the trade. A description of their activities and duties was fully set forth in the Tenth Anniversary Number dated March 10 on Pages 1481-2-3.

Enter the Players.

The dinner was scarcely under way when the entertainment began. In an ante-room these members of the Screen Club had been awaiting the "call" to enter upon the stage at the east end of the big room: John Charles, William H. Cavanaugh, Jim Cunningham, John J. Dunn, Louis Haines, Bill Bailey, Bill Harvey, Fred Hearn, Judson La'gill, Raymond McKee, Joe Phillips, Lee M. Walker, Re. al Byron, William Shea, Buckley Starkey and George S. Trimble.

Reproduction of First Cover Page of Souvenir Program.

The first to appear was the Censor, who, led by a policeman, made the circuit of the room. There was a halo around his head; he was dressed in white; he bore wings; he dragged a ball and chain; he was gagged, and seemed much cut up generally. The music was "In the Sweet Bye and Bye." At intervals there was a similar parade by Charlie, Mary and Doug. All were heavily loaded with money bags and all seemed to be "getting the coin."

"The Moving Picture Man" was announced. Dr. Bill Shea was disturbed in his office by the hasty entrance of several men bearing a seemingly lifeless figure. It was gathered from the excited comments of the body bearers that a safe had fallen on the victim. The safe had been broken and the man stunned. Dr. Shea tapped the man's skull with a hammer and came to the conclusion it was a case of a broken skull. An attempt to open the skull resulted in a badly bent knifeblade. When a brace and bit were brought into play there was a copious flow of sawdust.

"The man is a woodenhead," said the doctor in disgust. "Search him and find out who he is."

Examination revealed the victim to be the president of the Fifty Features Film Company.

"Set him on the front steps until he comes to," said the doctor, really angry now. "I can't bother with him. I'm a brain specialist, and it's a matter of court record that motion picture promoters have no brains."

The resulting yell of laughter centered squarely on Lewis J. Selznick and continued for several minutes. Mr. Selznick laughed too—at least as much as any one else.

"Belling the Film" was next. Commissioner George H. Bell, of the Bureau of Licenses, arrived too late to sit in on the fun, but he heard about it when he came in. A caller at the office of a film company notified the officials that the name that had been given to a picture could not be used. "Myrtle, the Hash Slinger; or, The Romance of a Restaurant," would not do. The fact that the subject had passed every censorship in the United States made no difference.

"Are you a censor?" the visitor was asked.

"I am better than that," he declared. "I am commissioner of licenses, and I can make it stick. I don't stop the film. I stop the houses."

After much colloquy—and there were many laughs in the lines—the commissioner showed them what would have to be cut out—the data covered about three yards of paper. Asked as to what might be retained he brought forth a slip of paper about two inches in length. The picture men fainted.

Shakespeare Unrecognized by "The Editor."

"The Editor" provided a bunch of fun. Jake Milk had called at the scenario sanctum with a bunch of scripts.

Editor—Say, whaddye mean leaving stuff by second-raters? I read that dope Kipling pulled—they're writing better thrillers out at the Keystone plant. There wasn't a train wreck or an airship in the entire lot. What lemon you got now?

Milk—Some plays by Shakespeare—William Shakespeare.

Editor—Take it away. That guy isn't on the level. He sold a play—I think he called it "Romeo and Juliet"—to Metro and to Fox. The darned crook should have had sense enough to change the title on the second sale.

Milk—The title is well known.

Editor—That's where he's foolish. Now we're doing it this week, but we're going to call it "The Curse of the Capulets." That's SOME title, boy. Anyhow, Miss De Koltay wouldn't stand for Romeo being named ahead of her in the title. I wonder how Fox managed to put it over on Bara.

"The Comedy of Errors," "Julius Caesar," "Hamlet," "Midsummer Night's Dream" and "King Lear" all went into the discard by editorial mandate—for the Editor's own unique reasons there was nothing doing. "The Lady of Lyons" caused him to sit up.

"Now you're talking something! We can use that. How many lions do you need? I know where we can hire three—nice tame ones, but you run electric wires on the floor and they walk on their tails. Why didn't you tell about that first?"

"This uses no lions. Lyons is a place in France."

"Nix on that! Nix! Nix! We can't make war plays."

"This was long before the war—hundreds of years ago."

"Too old. Miss De Koltay wants stuff she can wear dresses in or nothing at all."

"I'm afraid we can't give you that. We have only the classics."

"Jake, we ain't selling classics. We're selling film. Give us good, snappy titles and some scenes for the eight sheets or we can't do business."

The announcement of a peach outside breaks off all further conference. The result of it is that the young woman sells a script—and she is so anxious. The Editor makes a note of her address and promises to call the following evening. Holding up the script, the Editor tells the office boy to return a second document to Tony Kelley. "We can't buy more than one script a month and I gotta take this," he says.

"The New Corporation."

In "The New Corporation" were outlined the difficulties surrounding the acquisition by promoters of sufficient capital to get a film business fairly going. An "angel," finely played by Mr. Byron, was led steadily along until he was willing to put up a lot of money, but the promoters overplayed their hands and the angel walked out on them. Mr. Green had just had his heart set on making films, the others on making money. The diners enjoyed to the full the many allusions to high finance in the picture field.

"The Director" a Real Hit.

One of the big hits of the night was "The Director." George Trimble was cast in the title role, Joe Phillips was the cameraman and Buckley Starkey the leading woman. The leading woman was somewhat temperamental and manifested a lively inclination to jump to the telephone and call up the president of the company whenever things were not to her exact liking. There seemed to be a readiness on the part of the audience to identify this president, which added materially to the hilarity. There were a couple of thousand words in the "act," and when the guests were not laughing there was a most pronounced silence. Not a bit of the dialogue was allowed to get away. It all went to show that the director was not so slow, after all.

Pettijohn Talks of Indiana.

C. C. Pettijohn, of Indiana, an attorney who has taken a great deal of interest in matters pertaining to motion picture legislation, spoke briefly on recent legislative history in his State. There was a deal of interest in the statement by Mr. Pettijohn that the Senator who introduced the prohibition bill was also the man who introduced the measure making legal the exhibition of motion pictures on Sunday. There was applause when the speaker said that all three of the minister-members of the Legislature had, after carefully examining the provisions of the bill, given it their support, "because they believed it was an amusement that was right and clean and wholesome for the people."

"If there is anything we can do in Indiana to help our big brother of the East we want to do it," he said in conclusion. He was heartily applauded.

Sam Spedon and Thornton Fisher entertained the party with cartoons.

"Throwing the Harpoon" Winds Up.

"Throwing the Harpoon" was designed to renew to memory the recent prominence of jellyfish reviewers. Mr. Shea was shown as magistrate on a St. Patrick's Day. Mr. Byron looked a policeman. It became his duty to arraign a Jellyfish, portrayed by Mr. Starkey, and a Whale, impersonated by Mr. Trimble. The Whale, saying he was something of a lawyer himself, declined the aid of counsel. The magistrate compromised the difficulties, the antagonists departing arm in arm.

All in all, it had been an enjoyable evening, if one may be permitted to form his estimate from the many kind things said by the guests. The Moving Picture World, speaking for itself and for those guests, desires to express its gratitude to the Screeners who so kindly volunteered their services and who played so skillfully and worked so faithfully and hard to make the occasion one that may be looked back upon with deep pleasure.

Many telegrams and letters of regret had been received during the day and evening. Among these was one from Thomas A. Edison, in which the famous inventor said it would be utterly impossible for him to be present, as he is busily engaged day and night on experiments for the Government. Among the messages received were the following:

Philadelphia, March 17.
Regret exceedingly my inability to be with you this evening. The Moving Picture World has been a pillar of strength in the development of the moving picture industry, and I extend to you my best wishes for continuous success of your publication.
POP LUBIN.

New York, March 17.
Laid up with severe cold. Hoped until last moment to participate in your celebration tonight and to congratulate you on your splendid, dignified journalistic standards and gratifying achievements.
DANIEL FROHMAN.

Chicago, March 17.
Regret exceedingly that I cannot be with you this day to extend personally congratulations and to say to you and your entire staff that you have every reason to be proud of your accomplishments. Your publication stands today strong as Gibraltar and as a monument and bulwark of the entire industry. It is a great pity that J. P. Chalmers could not have lived to see this day. I take pride in your glory and success and I am happy if in my own small way I have helped to place you on top of the ladder. Please accept this handshake over the wire and if your ears ring tonight you will know that somewhere in the Windy City one friend is drinking to the continued health and prosperity of all those who have made and helped to make the Moving Picture World what it is today.
CARL LAEMMLE.

New York, March 17.
Congratulations upon your passing your tenth milestone. During the past ten years you have contributed vastly to the integrity, solidity and permanency of the motion picture industry. I am sure that during the next ten years you will exert a still greater influence in the further development of the art. It is my earnest wish that you have many more decades to continue and broaden your constantly manifested efforts for a clean screen.
ADOLPH ZUKOR.

Philadelphia, March 17.
Regret that I cannot be with you tonight. Congratulations on your anniversary. Best wishes for your future.
HARRY SCHWALBE.

Banquet at the Hotel Astor, New York, Saturday Evening March 17, Celebrating the Tenth Anniversary of the founding of
The Moving Picture World

Associated Motion Picture Advertisers, Inc., extends to the Moving Picture World its heartiest congratulations upon its completion of ten years of fruitful service in the motion picture industry and its heartiest good wishes for continued prosperity and increased service in the future.
E. L. Masters, Secretary.

Los Angeles, March 17.

The members of the Los Angeles office sincerely regret that time and distance will not permit them to be present at the tenth anniversary dinner of the Moving Picture World. We wish to express our kindest regards to the members of the Chalmers Publishing Company, the New York and the Chicago staff and the many friends of the paper present at the banquet tonight.

G. P. VAN HARLEMAN, SAM H. COMLY, RUTH EHLEMAN.

Chicago, March 17.

Sorry physical condition prohibits attending anniversary dinner. The railroad journey and the changing weather would be an ordeal that would prevent me from being my real self. Best wishes for a successful, happy time.

JAMES S. McQUADE.

Congratulations to Chalmers Publishing Company and the boys behind the works. Here's hoping that the Moving Picture World continues on its brilliant path of success. May your twentieth anniversary find the same fair editorial policy and the same good fellowship which is characteristic of your present staff. Kindest personal regards.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS.

Those present at the dinner were:

Abrams, Charles
Alexander, T. M.
Archer, J. A.
Atwater, L. W.

Barrell, Chas. W.
Barry, William
Bates, Wilbur F.
Eauer, William J.
Beecroft, Chester
Beecroft, Fred
Beecroft James
Beecroft, W. G.
Bell, G. H.
Bell, John A.
Binerd, M.
Bird, F. J.
Elair, George
Blaisdell, George
Bohan, W.
Bowman, E. S.
Brady, Richard
Brady, William A.
Brandt, Joe
Brenton, Cranston
Erlant, A. M.
Brock, H. J.
Bruenner, H. H.
Brulattour, J. E.
Buck, J. W.
Buettnier, L. A.
Burr, C. C.

Cassard, Dick
Cavanaugh, R.
Chadwick, I. E.
Chalmers, J. F.
Chalmers, J. P.
Cohen, Harry.
Cole, Henry.
Coles, H. B.
Condon, Charles
Crawford, Merritt

Deitrich, T. C.
DeLacy, Jack
Denig, Lynde
DeRoy, S. H.
Diaz, N.

Earl, Edward
Edwards, H. T.
Emmert, S. B.
Ennis, Harry
Evans, Tom
Fausel, G.
Feinman, B. C.
Feist, Felix
Fisher, Thornton
Fleming, Carroll
Forrest, Fred
France, R. W.
Friand, Arthur S.
Frolich, J. H.

Golden, Jos. A.
Goodman, S.
Grant, Samuel
Gray, John W.
Greenland, A. K.
Grimm, B. H.
Gulick, Paul.
Gunning, Wild.

Hadfield, R. H.
Hallberg, J. H.
Hallett, H. A.
Hammons, E. W.
Harrison, L. R.
Hatrick, E. B.
Havens, Harry
Hawley, Fred
Hedden, E. G.
Henderson, D. M.
Herrington, F. J.
Hespe, Dr. Charles
Hickey, J. C.
Hill, W. K.
Hiller, L.
Hinz, Paul C.
Hirsh, Nathan
Hodkinson, K.
Hoff, James L.
Hornstein, Joe
Howard, F. J.

Jackson, Edward
Jackson, Rev. W. H.
James, Arthur
Jeffery, W. I.
Johnson, Vic.
Johnston, W. A.
Judson, H. C.
Justice, Ewan

Kann, Geo. E.
Kessel, A.
Keyser, E. T.
Kimball, Capt. Chas.
Kinsila, E. E.
Kopfstein, Jacques.
Kraus, M. A.

Lang, A. J.
Lasky, Jesse L.
Lee, Joe
Levine, H. Z.
Levino, A. S.
Lichtman, Al.

MacArthur, Jr., A.
MacCormack, J. E.
McGuire, W. D.
McDermott, J. J.
McElravy, Robert L.
MacHugh, A. E.
MacMahon, H.
MacManus, E. A.
Magovern, E. T.
Manheimer, E. S.
Manheimer, J.
Mazur, M. E.
Meaney, Don
Meegan, C. J.
Miles Herbert
Miles, Joseph R.
Milligan, J. A.
Milligan, W. P.
Moss, B. S.
Moss, Paul
Murphy, Fred

Nulty, Vic.

O'Brien, C. J.
O'Donnell, E. J.
Ortega, F. G.

Palmer, Harry
Parsons, P. A.
Pawley, Raymond
Pearce, Gene
Pierce, Carl H.
Pittjohn, C. C.
Post, John F.

Quirk, Billy

Raver, Harry
Raynor, W. C.
Reichenbach, H. L.
Reynolds, L. J.
Rohbiate, Baron
Rock, John E.
Rosenbluh, L.
Rothapel, S. L.
Rothstein, Nat.
Ruhenstein, L. J.

Sargent, E. W.
Schayer, Dick
Schlesinger, Leon
Schmid, Pete
Schulberg, B. P.
Scippio, G.
Selznick, L. J.
Sewell, Charles S.
Shea, D. J.
Sheehan, W. R.
Sheer, William Sherman, Harry
Sherrill, W. L.
Shipman, Ernest
Skerritt, J. F.
Small, Warren H.
Smith, W. C.
Sohrada de Onega, Jose
Solomon, J. M.
Spedon, Sam
Speer, J. S.
Stevenson, George U.
Streimer, Moe

Tassi, A.
Thanhouser, Edwin
Tietjen, H.
Tootle, H. K.
Trigger, Sam
Tugwell, Judge
Twist, Stanley

Urban, Charles
Van Loan, H. H.

Watkins, W. J.
Warren, F. B.
Weitzel, Edward
Welsh, Robert
Wharton, T. W.
White, C. M.
White, R. G.
Whyte, A. G.
Wiley, G. H.
Wiley, T. G.
Wilk, J.
Wilson, J. Vic.
Winchester, Tarleton
Wittman, J. J.
Wright, William
Wylie, John

Zeidman, B.

huff, G. A. Gray, Ernest H. Horstmann, Ben Goetz, Tom North, Leander Richardson, W. C. Toomey, Ormsby A. Court, Terry Ramsaye, John C. Flinn, S. Cheer, Jack Weaver, Edward Warren, William W. Hines, Lee A. Ochs, Carl L. Gregory, Paul R. Kuhn, Charles A. Swartz, J. K. Burger, Whitman Bennett, Horace G. Plimpton, J. L. Kempner, Waterson R. Rothacker, H. N. Holde, S. B. Van Horn, Ricord Gradwell, Theodore Mitchell, Addison B. Parker, S. Van Ronkel, Harold Bolster, Charles A. Du Bosch, F. G. Bradford, E. Lanning Masters, Wells Hawks, Ike Schlank and others.

The World Girls Celebrate, Too.

The young women of the Moving Picture World had a celebration all their own in another part of the Astor. There were present, under the chaperonage of Miss E. J. Chalmers, Miss Margaret I. MacDonald, Miss Florence Hanssen, Miss Catherine Carmody, Miss Grace Bredello, Miss Julia Downey and Miss Regina Gellman. Also present was Mrs. Florence Golden, nee Bredello, who retired from the World at the first of the year to take unto herself a husband. The girls do declare they had just as much fun as did the men.

PARAMOUNT HAS NEW PUBLICITY MAN IN PITTSBURGH, PA.

Claude E. Moorhouse, well known in newspaper and advertising circles, has joined the Pittsburgh branch of the Famous Players Film Service, Inc., distributors of Paramount Pictures in that district, as advertising and publicity manager.

Mr. Moorhouse has had an extensive experience in newspaper and publicity work, as well as in advertising, covering a period of about twelve years. He began his career in Rochester, N. Y., on the Rochester Herald, as office boy, developing later into a reporter. Later he became connected with the Rochester Evening Times as a reporter, leaving this position to go to Pittsburgh, where he joined the Pittsburgh Dispatch as a writer.

WALLACE THOMPSON WITH ARGUS.

Wallace Thompson, assistant secretary and director of publicity of the National Association, severed his connections there last week and is now associated with Horace D. Ashton in the Argus laboratories. Their plan is to develop the work which Mr. Ashton has been doing for a year, in the production of short, scientific, educational, art and humorous subjects for screen magazines and split reels, to meet a growing demand for this class of material.

Before going to the National Association, Mr. Thompson was with the Paramount Pictures Corporation, in executive charge of publicity, advertising, house organs and the Pictographs.

BEATRIZ MICHELENA ARRIVES.

Some time ago it was rumored that Beatriz Michelena, until recently connected with the California Motion Picture Corporation, was on her way to New York. We are glad to be able to state that Miss Michelena has at last arrived among us and is now stopping at the Hotel Astor. We are also under the impression that her stay in New York will be of short duration. What her plans are for the future is not definitely known, although report has it that she intends returning to her musical work.

E. W. HAMMONS GOES WEST.

On business bent, E. W. Hammons left New York on Saturday, March 17, for Los Angeles. It is rumored that something big is about to be pulled off for the Educational Films Corporation of America, of which Mr. Hammons is vice-president and general manager. Mr. Hammons has only recently returned from a boosting campaign for the Ditmars films, which are being handled most successfully by this concern. They report receiving daily commendations of these remarkable animal films.

NELL SHIPMAN SAILS FOR WEST INDIES.

Braving submarines and revolutions, Nell Shipman sailed for Cuba on the S.S. "Mexico" on Thursday of last week. Her itinerary will include most of the islands of the Caribbean Sea and she will sojourn at St. Thomas long enough to absorb enough local color to work into a romance of the Danish West Indies which is already bespoken by one of the well known New York publishers. Williamson Brothers are financing the trip.

Words of congratulation and cheer came also from:

J. A. Berst, George Kleine, O. F. Spahr, J. Stuart Blackton, F. H. Elliott, J. Frank Brockliss, Schuyler Colfax, Frederick L. Collins, R. H. Cochrane, Mark M. Dintenfuss, W. H. Donaldson, John R. Freuler, D. W. Griffith, W. W. Hodkinson, J. J. Kennedy, Charles Kessel, F. J. Marion, Nicholas Power, P. A. Powers, Edgar Selwyn, Albert E. Smith, Guy Crosswell Smith, L. C. McChesney, C. R. Seelye, William L. Sherry, Thomas Bedding, Ernst Glantzberg, Briton N. Busch, Don W. Bartlett, R. R. Nehls, Harold Edel, Charles A. Cale-

Tenth Anniversary Recollections

Memories of the Days When Owners Were Managers, Door-men and Operators.

By Mark M. Dintenfass.

TO ME it hardly seems possible that The Moving Picture World has just celebrated its tenth anniversary. Time has fairly flown. When I review conditions past and present, it is amazing to note those who in the early days were a power and dominated the industry, but who are rarely heard of today.

I remember during the early part of 1907 the late J. P. Chalmers visited the Fairyland Theater on Market street, Philadelphia, Pa., and I was presented to him. The Fairyland was my house and I might add the first moving picture theater on Market street. From the first day I met him to the day of his demise Mr. Chalmers and myself were the closest of friends. We were together on that never-to-be-forgotten day in Dayton, Ohio.

Mark M. Dintenfass.

In January, 1908, I was passed by the Department of Public Safety of Philadelphia as an operator, for in those days one had to be owner, manager, doorman and operator to be a successful exhibitor. My operator's certificate is still a valued possession.

Early in the year of 1908 I acquired a camera and, after practicing on a few local subjects, decided to cross over to New York and enter the manufacturing business in earnest. I became interested in the Camera-phone Company, with offices and studio in the Daley building on Broadway and which later moved to Eleventh avenue and 43d street. Owing to the activities of the Patents Company, the Cameraphone existence was a short one. Between injunctions and contempt proceedings they were forced out of business. The Actophone Company, which succeeded it, experienced the same short life for the same reasons.

The more litigation they fed me, the more I became determined to do something worthy of mention in the picture game, so I organized the Champion Film Company in 1909 and moved my factory over to Coytesville, N. J. The move to the other side of the river was not for convenience' sake or lower rental, but a mad desire to keep as far as possible from injunction suits, etc., The independent manufacturer of those days devised every scheme imaginable to disguise his camera, even to making them look like scare crows. The Champion Film Company made good picking and, though it cost me a lot of money fighting back in the courts, we continued making pictures until I finally won and through the decision of Judge Lacombe was spared a visit on the "Island."

In recognition of the fight I put up I was cartooned in The Moving Picture World as a gladiator with a bent sword in my hand, over the caption "To the Victor Belongs the Spoils." This was in June, 1911.

The hardships I endured during the early days of picture making taught me many lessons. My advice was heeded by those who immediately followed. Having blazed the trail, my experiences were of value when David Horsley, Messrs. Kessel and Baumann, Carl Laemmle and Edwin Thanhouser launched in the independent field the Nestor, New York Motion Picture, The Imp, and Thanhouser Film Companies respectively.

Shortly after the formation of these companies, the Motion Picture Distributing and Sales Company was formed, with myself as one of the organizers. I feel confident in saying that this association was formed to keep me out of jail, as I had been doing a lot of fighting for the independent cause and spent most of my time in the courts stalling injunctions and contempt proceedings.

When the fighting was done and litigation had ceased the sales company had served its purpose. I at this point became one of the organizers of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company and the Universal Exchange. In the latter company I served in the capacity of managing director, secretary and treasurer until a year ago.

During this period handsome office suites and hotel lunches were an unknown quantity. We were content to gather in some back room, order our "beef and" and each man would pay his quarter, including tip, to the waiter with the cauliflower ear, discuss ways and means until the early hours of the morning, then go back to work and wait till Sunday afternoon to take our week's sleep and rest.

Those strenuous days have passed—the days of fighting and hardships—and with a grain of satisfaction I recall the part I played in developing the industry, the friendships and comrades of those early struggles and the fact that I am still in the game. I now own the Harry Meyer-Rosemary Theby Refined Comedy Film Corporation and in the winter months go to my own studio in Jacksonville, Florida, to make pictures, which will shortly be released on the Pathe program.

Robert Harron Joins Goldwyn

ROBERT HARRON, a favorite of screen audiences throughout the world, has left the Triangle and signed with Goldwyn Pictures Corporation to become Mae Marsh's leading man in her second Goldwyn production. Desiring to give Miss Marsh and her pictures every possible advantage with the American public with whom she is such a favorite, Goldwyn realized the value of bringing this well-known pair together again.

Robert Harron.

Picture fans will welcome this reunion of Mae Marsh and the best leading man who has ever played opposite her on the screen. Since Miss Marsh signed her long contract and was announced as the first star of Goldwyn she has received thousands of inquiries about her leading man.

Two days after signing with Goldwyn "Bobbie" Harron faces the camera with Miss Marsh under the direction of John W. Noble, who also has just come to this new organization.

The principal pictures in which Mae Marsh and Bobbie Harron have teamed are "The Escape," "Judith of Bethulia," "Home, Sweet Home," "The Birth of a Nation," "Intolerance," "Hoodoo Ann," "The Wild Girl of the Sierras," "A Child of the Paris Streets" and "The Marriage of Molly-O."

Few young men have ever been so popular on the screen as Bobbie Harron and almost no one at his age has ever been able to point to such a successful screen lineage. Harron was born in New York City on April 12, 1894, and left school at the age of fourteen to become an errand boy in the Biograph studio. There he attracted the attention of D. W. Griffith and soon had become one of that famous director's best known players.

EDNA FLUGRATH WEDS HAROLD SHAW.

Shirley Mason, one of the stars of McClure's Seven Deadly Sins, just received word from Johannesburg, South Africa, of the marriage of her sister, Edna Flugrath, to Harold Shaw. Mr. Shaw is well known in the United States as an actor and motion picture director. He has just completed for London Films a huge motion picture production in twelve reels, with a cast of nearly 10,000 persons, headed by Miss Flugrath.

The picture is a story of South African life called "De Voortrekkers" and will be shown in the United States under the title of "The Pioneers."

Miss Flugrath and Mr. Shaw were married in January and star and director are soon to sail for India to produce another important picture. A third feature will be made in China and Mrs. Shaw hopes to get home to see her sisters. Shirley Mason and Viola Dana, in about three years.

Pictures to Aid Mobilization

Associated Motion Picture Advertisers Work Out Elaborate Plan to Stimulate Preparedness.

NOW that everybody is talking of preparation for war it would be strange if the motion picture interests did not come to the front with an offer of services to Uncle Sam when he most needs help. Knowing the power of appeal, which lies in the picture on the screen, the men whose job it is to devise publicity for pictures have framed up a big picture campaign to aid the mobilization of men and resources in the event that the country may need such expert and efficient aid as they are fitted to give. Here is what the Associated Advertisers propose to do:

1—Motion Pictures. The organization of a quick acting, easily handled, full responsible bureau in New York City, which shall immediately prepare two feature motion pictures to be shown before twenty million people in the twenty thousand motion picture theaters in the United States. The immediate use of smaller reels, picturing army manoeuvres, navy manoeuvres, battleships with their crews, views of the West Point and Annapolis Cadets on review and other patriotic subjects, which are now available from the libraries of the motion picture companies. The idea is to secure these without cost and to secure their exhibition with the co-operation of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry and the Exhibitors' League of America and all its locals in various States of the Union.

2—Screen Slides. The preparation of fourteen slides with proper slogans and patriotic appeal which will induce recruiting. These slides to be changed daily and two to be used each day.

3—Posters. The preparation of 24-sheets, 6-sheets, 3-sheets and 1-sheet by poster artists of exceptional ability, and this art service to be voluntary. The securing of the co-operation of bill posting companies throughout the United States, so that such posters should be given the right of way over all commercial and theatrical posters. This to reach into every State, city and town of the United States.

4—Newspaper and Magazine Advertising. The preparation of page, half-page and quarter-page advertisements by expert advertising men. This service also to be voluntary in behalf of recruiting. The drawing up of a full schedule for the placing of these advertisements so that they can be published on the receipt of a telegram from New York simultaneously with the opening of special recruiting stations in the various sections.

5—Newspaper Publicity Co-operation. Immediately getting in touch with the editors of the newspapers in the United States and arranging for the publication on notice of material to crystalize public sentiment on the subject of recruiting. Also there will be secured the co-operation of such news agencies as the Associated Press, the Publishers' Press, the American Press Association, the Western Newspaper Union and all the larger advertising agencies of the country.

This plan of action was first submitted to an official high in the councils of the war department, and who has rendered America signal service on several memorable occasions, but whose name, for political reasons, it is necessary to withhold. His comment was that the plan was the most practical and valuable for the purposes in view, that he ever had encountered. With this encouragement the enthusiasm of the members of the organization was redoubled, particularly upon receiving letters of endorsement from the following named film men: Adolph Zukor, Walter W. Irwin, J. A. Berst, F. B. Bradford, R. A. Rowland, Hiram Abrams and Ben B. Hampton. President Wilson was thereupon notified by letter, which was signed by the members of the National Duty Committee, Arthur James of Metro, president; E. Lanning Masters of Vitagraph, P. A. Parsons of Pathe, A. S. LeVino of Rolfe, Victor B. Johnson of Kalem, Paul Gulick of Universal and Charles E. Moyer of Paramount.

The following sub-committees have been organized and are working rapidly in their respective departments of activity:

Trade Paper Committee: Charles Burr, Paul Gulick, Randolph Bartlett, Jacques Kopfstein, P. A. Parsons.

Posters and Cartoons: Charles E. Moyer, Paul Lazarus.

Newspaper and Magazine Publicity: Paul Gulick, Randolph Lewis, A. S. LeVino, Randolph Bartlett, E. Richard Schayer, Peter J. Schmid.

Display Advertising: E. Lanning Masters, P. A. Parsons, Arthur James, Charles Burr.

Slides: Jacques Kopfstein, Julian Solomon.

Finance: Ben Schulberg, A. S. LeVino, Nat. Rothstein, Jacques Kopfstein.

Emblem Committee: Ben Zeidman, E. J. O'Donnell, Bernard Fineman.

Organizations: Carl Pierce, Wallace Thompson, Harry Tootle, Victor B. Johnson, Theodore S. Dietrich, S. B. Van Horn.

Harris P. Wolfberg

THE CRISIS," Winston Churchill's famous drama of the Civil War, is having a remarkably successful run at the Pitt theater, Pittsburgh. The Pitt theater is the place where all the big things in a film way are done in Pittsburgh, and the consensus of opinion seems to be that in

Harris P. Wolfberg.

in the matter of presentation "The Crisis" surpasses all the productions that have preceded it here.

Much of the credit of this is due Harris P. Wolfberg, who owns the rights for "The Crisis" in Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, Virginia, Delaware, Maryland and the District of Columbia. Mr. Wolfberg, though young in years, has had considerable experience in the film business, having served the General Film Company for a long period of continuous service, having been with that company for eleven years, the greater part of which was spent as manager of the Chicago office.

Born in Kansas City, Mr. Wolfberg has the aggressive spirit characteristic of Westerners and with his astuteness, knowledge of the film game, initiative and courage, is paving the way for a position of considerable prominence among the men who "do things" in the motion picture business. With a symphony orchestra of forty men, under Carl Bernthaler, the well-known conductor, beautiful settings, plantation singers and the fine use of mechanical effects, "The Crisis," in addition to its excellence as a photoplay, has taken Pittsburgh by storm and has won for Mr. Wolfberg the admiration of the film men in that territory.

METRO OPENS CANADIAN OFFICES.

In line with its general policy of expansion, Metro Pictures Corporation is opening a chain of offices in Eastern Canada, in order to give the motion picture exhibitors of that territory the same complete, effective and high class service that is now supplied exhibitors in the United States.

The first of these offices already has been put in operation at No. 8 McGill College Avenue, Montreal, and within a few days magnificent headquarters will be opened in Toronto. It is in response to a persistent demand for exclusive Metro features in Canada that the new chain is being formed.

Francis X. Bushman, Beverly Bayne, Mabel Taliaferro, Ethel Barrymore, Viola Dana, Emmy Wehlen, Emily Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew, Frances Nelson, Harold Lockwood and May Allison are among the Metro stars who are especially popular in Canada, and the features in which they appear now will be released directly under the famous Metro parrot emblem.

"WHY I LEFT MY HUSBAND." BY CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG.

The brilliant woman novelist, Virginia Terhune Van De Water, has furnished Clara Kimball Young with the story for her next Selznick-Picture, following Eugene Walter's "The Easiest Way." The title is "Why I Left My Husband," and it reveals financial difficulties as a frequent cause for domestic infelicity. Miss Young has just returned from Virginia, where the outdoor scenes were made for "The Easiest Way," and will begin work in a few days on the new picture. Charles Giblyn, who directed "The Price She Paid," is making the photodrama adaptation from Mrs. Van De Water's story.

More Trouble for Griffith Picture

Negro Politicians Start Opposition to "Birth of a Nation" —Strong Bill Passed.

BY THE time this article appears in print there will be waging in the state of Ohio the greatest fight against a single picture in the history of that state.

The picture is "The Birth of a Nation." All over the state the negro political element has been lining up within the last three weeks to prevent showing of the picture. The opening performances were scheduled for March 19, at Dayton, in the Victoria theater, and on the same date in Cincinnati at the Grand opera house. In both cities a determined effort was being made to stop the picture before it started, and the negroes have promised that they will fight all the harder if the picture opens. In Dayton, as noted in the Cincinnati letter, authorities said they were inclined to heed the plea of the colored politicians. In Cincinnati, with prices from 25 cents to $1.50, the advance sale was heavy.

In Cleveland "The Birth of a Nation" is scheduled for the opera house, to start within a few weeks. Mayor Davis has already gone on record as being against the exhibition of the picture, but he will do nothing until the picture is advertised.

In Youngstown the authorities have requested large theater owners not to book the picture, after a delegation of colored people called on them. The same is true of Springfield.

But the blow that can stop this picture is the action of the Ohio legislature last week, when a vote was taken on a bill by Representative A. Lee Beatty, colored member, aimed directly at "The Birth of a Nation." The bill passed by a unanimous vote and the governor has ten days during which to sign or veto it.

If Governor Cox vetoes it the issue will no doubt be dead, for the legislature is now adjourned. If he signs it, this bill will be a law within thirty days and that will mark the demise of "The Birth of a Nation" in Ohio.

Myron Selznick Makes Important Deal

A TRANSACTION of interest to all exchanges and exhibitors handling Selznick-Pictures was consummated this week between Myron Selznick, purchasing agent of the Lewis J. Selznick Enterprises, and the National Printing & Engraving Co., through its representative, E. J. Doolittle.

This is the firm responsible for the recent output of extremely attractive posters for the various Selznick productions and under the terms of the deal the National has contracted to take over the entire production of the posters for all future Selznick releases.

Myron Selznick.

This contract involves about $700,000 and will prove of great benefit to the Selznick exhibitors and exchanges both as to the quality and price of the posters and facilities afforded for prompt shipment and delivery. The credit for the deal goes to Mr. Selznick's son, who, although not yet of age, has held the important position of purchasing agent since the formation of the Clara Kimball Young Film Corporation, a year ago. Myron Selznick is probably the youngest film executive in the industry. Judging by the record of his performances during the past year he has inherited in a great measure his father's business acumen and that he will make his mark in the film industry is confidently expected by all who know him.

The poster output to be handled by the National Printing & Engraving Co. comprises for each production a 24 sheet, a 6 sheet, two 3 sheets, two 1 sheets and a "cutout." The "cutouts" are a unique feature of the Selznick advertising, this firm having the exclusive right to these unusually attractive window display cards, the patent for which is held by the National Co.

General Film Appointments

Announces a Number of Changes in Branch Managers and Others on Selling Force.

G. T. AMES, who has been branch manager for the General Film Company in Philadelphia, was last week promoted to the position of Supervisor of Sales with jurisdiction over the following General Film Exchanges—Philadelphia, Pa., Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Scranton, Pa., Washington, D. C., Charlotte, N. C., and Baltimore, Md. Mr. Ames has been with the General for five years in various capacities and his promotion is a deserved one. He will make his headquarters at the Philadelphia office of the General.

H. L. Knappen has been appointed Sales Manager of the Atlanta, Ga., division of the General and assumed his new duties Monday, March 5. Mr. Knappen previously represented the International at San Francisco.

P. A. Bloch will succeed Mr. Ames as Sales Manager of the Philadelphia division. Mr. Bloch is a new employe of the General Film Company, having previously represented the World Film Corporation at Cleveland, Ohio.

C. C. Ezell has been made Supervisor of the following General Film Exchanges—Atlanta, Ga., New Orleans, La., Memphis, Tenn., Jacksonville, Fla., Dallas, Texas, and Houston, Texas. Mr. Ezell will make his headquarters care of the New Orleans office of the General. Mr. Ezell is well qualified for his new duties as he served in a similar capacity some years ago. Mr. Ezell's most recent position with the General was that of Branch Manager at the Dallas office.

On account of increased business the General Film Company has moved to more commodious quarters in New Haven, Conn., and the branch is now located at 126 Meadow street, where Branch Manager Morris Rabinus is waiting to expatiate on the merits of General Film subjects to all comers.

MILDRED MANNING FEATURED IN O. HENRY SERIES.

Mildred Manning, who is featured in the Broadway Star Features of the O. Henry stories, which will be distributed by the General Film Company, commenced her career in musical comedy and like so many other favorite movie actresses decided that the screen offered a better outlet for her talents than the speaking stage. Miss Manning appeared in such musical successes as "Little Nemo," "Over the River," "Oh, Oh, Delphine," and "Dancing Around" during her career in the Merry Merry. It was while playing in "Oh, Oh, Delphine" at the New Amsterdam Theatre that D. W. Griffith saw her and offered her the engagement with his Biograph Company which started this film beauty on her way to screen fame. Among the features in which Miss Manning has appeared are "The Charity Ball," "Poor Relations," "Concentration," "My Man's Law," "The Chieftain's Sons," "Unjust Suspicions," "Her Old Teacher," and "A Chance Deception." Miss Manning is now playing the feminine leads in the O. Henry series, the first of which is "Past One at Rooney's."

NAOMI CHILDERS WITH ART DRAMAS.

Naomi Childers, for some time a leading woman for Vitagraph and other companies, has been signed by the U. S. Amusement Company, releasing through Art Dramas, Inc. The title of Miss Childers' picture, which will be a huge and expensive production, has not yet been disclosed. All that is known is that it was written especially for Miss Childers, and that it abounds in strong and unusual situations.

The acquisition of Miss Childers to the already distinguished roster of the U. S. Amusement Company is considered significant in that it is an expression of the big strides toward the front the Art Dramas program is making. Exhibitors using Art Dramas will now have pictures starring no less than five leading women of international reputation: Jean Sothern, Alma Hanlon, Anna Q. Nilsson, Gertrude McCoy and Naomi Childers.

COHAN TRADE SHOWING POSTPONED.

The trade showing of George M. Cohan's initial Artcraft picture, "Broadway Jones," originally scheduled for Thursday of this week, took place at the 44th Street theater Tuesday, March 20th, at 11 A. M. The showing had to be postponed a few days owing to the fact that a print could not have been finished in time. Every member of the trade was invited to attend this presentation of George M.'s initial screen work and the famous actor-author-producer personally attended with many of his theatrical friends.

Paramount Program

Sessue Hayakawa, House Peters and Myrtle Stedman, Stars for the Week of March 26th.

TWO sensational productions, "The Bottle Imp," from the Lasky studio, and "As Men Love," from the Pallas Pictures, in which Sessue Hayakawa and House Peters and Myrtle Stedman, respectively, are starred, hold the feature position on the Paramount program for the week of March 26, surrounded by three "little features," the 59th edition of the Paramount Pictographs, the magazine-on-the-screen; the 60th of the series of weekly trips around the world, personally conducted by Burton Holmes, in which he takes his fellow travelers to Vancouver and Victoria, and a Klever Comedy in which Victor Moore is starred in "Rough and Ready Reggie."

Not since his wonderful success in "The Cheat" has Sessue Hayakawa accomplished such sensational success on the screen as in "The Bottle Imp," a production made in the Hawaiian Islands, in which three Hawaiian players are included in the important roles of the cast. The production is a wonderful one from every standpoint, and is in every particular one of the most sensational pictures the Lasky studio ever turned out.

In the cast supporting Sessue Hayakawa are Lehua Wai-pahe as Kokua, H. Konshi as Keano, George Kuwa as Makale, Guy Oliver as Rollins, and James Neill as a priest.

Following the great success that was obtained by House Peters and Myrtle Stedman in "The Happiness of Three Women" they are again to co-star in "As Men Love" which is released this week. It is a society drama, written especially for them by Lois Zellner, and directed by E. Mason Hopper. The stars are supported by Jack W. Johnston and Helen Jerome Eddy.

Sam Loyd, whose name has been associated with brain teasing puzzles farther back than anybody can remember, has been engaged by the Bray Studios, Inc., to concoct puzzles which will be animated and included in the 59th edition of the Paramount-Bray Pictographs, the magazine-on-the-screen.

The name Sam Loyd is so well known that it needs no introduction. His puzzles have appeared in magazines and newspapers the world over, but the idea of showing them on the screen is a new one. The methods by which they have been picturized are unique and sure to prove popular and interesting with motion picture audiences of every age. Every whole-souled American, according to the late P. T. Barnum, hugely enjoys being fooled, and Sam Loyd's puzzles surely must have given the old circus man good reason to father this statement.

Other subjects which will appear in the same release are "Rivaling Nature's Flowers," a picturization of the manufacture of artificial flowers so closely resembling the real flowers that they almost seem to exhale the natural perfumes. Scenes "In the West Indies" form a third subject, and here are shown interesting intimate touches of native life in the islands first discovered by Columbus. The diving boys of Kingston, the coaling of ships by women, the vast banana groves and other picturesque scenes are depicted.

The cartoon section is a most timely one, for it shows the famous Col. Heeza Liar as a spy dodger, and is based on the startling discovery that there are 10,000 alien spies in the United States at this time.

How the Colonel is called in by President Wilson on the suggestion of the Secret Service, and is put on the trail of the 10,000 spies, and how he puts them to rout, form an excruciatingly funny cartoon.

Burton Holmes, the world's greatest traveler, pictures some exceptionally interesting points in and around Vancouver and Victoria in his 60th series of weekly trips around the world, which he has been personally conducting each week for Paramount travelers.

Victor Moore in his entire comedy career has never made a more screamingly funny farce than "Rough and Ready Reggie," a single-reel comedy to be released this week.

HORSLEY RE-ENGAGES OVEY.

David Horsley and George Ovey have signed a new agreement whereby the latter will continue to be featured in Cub comedies. Ovey's old contract with Mr. Horsley expired the first of March and the new one dates from then for a long period of time.

The salary Ovey is to receive under his new contract is not made public, but it is said to be a sum which makes the first salary check which he drew as the featured comedian in Cub Comedies seem singularly small in comparison.

Emmett Hall With Goldwyn

Veteran Photoplay Writer Joins the New Organization as Special Writer.

EMMETT CAMPBELL HALL, one of the earliest and most continuously successful writers of photoplays, has joined the script staff of the Goldwyn Company. Mr. Hall is a Georgian by birth, but came to Washington to study law and is a graduate of the National Law School. During his student days his fondness for writing manifested itself, and for a time he made a nice income from writing what is technically known as "filler," short material always prized by make-up men. The Congressional Library offers a mine of material, and as there are too many "sundown" physicans and lawyers in Washington to make the practice of those professions profitable he took a position in the Diplomatic Bureau of the State Department.

Up to 1910 he did considerable fiction writing, but he was among the very first to perceive the possibilities of photoplay and he was one of the star writers of 1909 and 1910. His first work was done for the Lubin Company, which gave him his first production, "Indian Blood," but the Lubin stock company was not then equal to the work his scripts demanded, and on the advice of its editor he sought to sell to the Biograph and soon became one of the star writers of that organization, twice refusing the position as its editor, as he preferred to live in Washington, where he had a home at Glen Echo, Md. While writing for the Biograph he turned out the first two-part story, then released as a single reel and a sequel, but lately reissued as a two-part, "His Trust" and "His Trust Fulfilled."

Later he resumed his activities with Lubin, and when Lawrence S. McCloskey formed his famous staff of writers Mr. Hall was a member of the group and remained with them until just before the end. He wrote "The Beloved Adventurer," a fifteen-part story, and then wrote the story in fiction form, which was published in cloth and sold in connection with the showing of the film. From this idea apparently sprang the present cheap editions issued in connection with the filming of popular novels.

He also wrote "The Road o' Strife," probably the most elaborately prepared script ever turned out, a copy of which now forms a part of the Columbia University Museum of Photoplay, and was one of the first to use the page-to-a-scene idea, inventing his own form of page. He writes only full continuities, even to the cut-backs, and his work is unusually careful and exact, for he is an adept at employing the various tricks and effects and makes them help the story instead of confuse it. He is also the inventor of the superimposed leader, which shows over the action; the forerunner of the pictorial leader of today.

He has more than seven hundred produced pictures to his credit, ranging from one to thirty reels in length, and many of the present Biograph reissues are from his pen.

WALLACE REID AND MYRTLE STEDMAN CO-STAR.

Wallace Reid and Myrtle Stedman, popular Lasky stars, appear together on the screen for the first time in the Lasky-Paramount production, "The Prison Without Walls," which was written by Robert E. MacAlarney, and prepared for the screen by Beulah Marie Dix, the well known playwright. The production was staged by E. Mason Hopper, who was transferred from the Morosco studio to Lasky especially for the purpose of directing this picture. James Neill, Billy Elmer, William Conklin, and Camille Ainkerwich are important members of the supporting cast. "The Prison Without Walls" is a story of prison reform which is thrilling in the extreme, and gives a remarkable insight into municipal politics. It is a story of Huntington Babbs, a young prison reformer, who poses as a convict for the purpose of running down "the mysterious man higher up" who is the head of a powerful ring of crooks and grafters.

O'SULLIVAN WRITES MUTUAL CUE SHEETS.

The Mutual's music cue sheets, the first of which was issued in connection with the release of "The Greater Woman," are prepared by Joseph O'Sullivan, a composer and operatic expert who has been added to the staff for the purpose.

The Mutual's music cues have no strings tied to them—that is, they are not a part of the promotion of any music publisher, and the cues are so indicated that the picture can be presented with the numbers available in any reasonably well equipped orchestra library.

Mr. O'Sullivan has written for orchestra, piano and voice. His compositions include symphonic poems for orchestra, cantatas and upwards of fifty songs which have been used in concerts by leading artists with success.

Reviews of Current Productions

EXCLUSIVELY BY OUR OWN STAFF

"Satan's Private Door"

An Essanay Photoplay of Powerful Interest, Showing How the Faith and Guileless Character of a Noble Girl Redeems a Home of Discord—Mary Charleson Appears as the Girl.

Reviewed by James S. McQuade.

WHEN an author has a girl of such sterling character and goodness of heart as Edith Conway, in the story of "Satan's Private Door," by Sam W. Small, Jr., he may be permitted wide latitude in assigning her tasks that would be extremely risky for the customary type of girl.

Scene from "Satan's Private Door" (Essanay).

More especially would this be true when Edith Conway sees fit to marry a young man who has been a wastrel and a drunkard, and whose homicidal tendencies when in his cups are exceedingly dangerous. Not only so, but the young man in this case has succumbed to the temptation of strong drink after he has given promise of fine reform to Edith Conway, and is actually saved by her from attacking his own father with a deadly weapon. In all such cases it is most advisable that no girl should put her chances of married happiness to such a test, as very few, if any, girls reform a man by marrying him.

This foreword, however, does not detract from the powerful appeal of Mr. Small's story, as adapted to picture service by J. Charles Haydon, who has also directed the production, and as acted by Mary Charleson and a strong supporting company.

Edith Conway is a decidedly unique character. Quiet, unemotional, absorbed, she takes her place as a member of the family of Thomas Chatterton, the closest friend of her dead father. Joseph Chatterton, his son, Anne Vance and Richard Vance, his daughter and son-in-law, all view Edith with disfavor, and unite in making her life as uncomfortable as possible.

In the midst of this unfriendliness, Mary Charleson's Edith wins the spectator by her gentleness and a brave bearing of her burden. When opportunity offers she is every ready to render a service of the heart, in such unpretentious fashion as to still in time the venom of tongues and the malice of slander.

She shocks the young reprobate Joseph Chatterton into a wholesome respect by deliberately knocking him down when he attempts an unpardonable liberty, and then revives him by applying cold water to his bruised temple. And, strange to say, this incident marks the beginning of his love for her and of her increased interest in him. Webster Campbell plays the part of the young renegade very fittingly.

Thomas Chatterton, "The Lion of the Wheat Pit," but not the respected head of his household, is given fine characterization by John Cossar. The extreme loneliness of the magnate in his home, until Edith Conway comes, is shown in a way that excites deep sympathy.

Anne Vance (formerly Chatterton), a very unlovable type of daughter and a still more unlovely type of mother, is impersonated to the life by Hazel Daly. This clever actress will be recognized at once as the vivacious "Honey" (Mrs. Skinner) in "Skinner's Dress Suit," which is still in high vogue.

Richard Vance (W. K. Houpt), Anne's husband, Mrs. Ordway (Alice McChesney), a society butterfly, June Rose (Virginia Valli), a cabaret dancer, and Harvey Beauchamp, a man who lives by his wits on the mistakes of the rich, are all capably represented.

The release was made March 19, through K-E-S-E service.

"The Great Secret," Episodes 11 and 12

Bushman and Bayne Serial Begins Last Five Episodes with Weaving of Incidents That Keeps Excitement Alive.

Reviewed by Hanford C. Judson.

EPISODE 11 opens with Dr. Zulph's ruse to get possession of Beverly's fortune in the keeping of William, now a portrait painter. He sends a girl who finds where the heroine's papers are kept and who then faints. William sends for Dr. Zulph. In the meanwhile, Beverly looks in at the door and sees William trying to revive the girl. She goes home much disturbed. The Doctor comes and is told where the papers are hid and secures them.

The Great Master has a detective in safe keeping, but he drugs the Oriental servant and escapes in time to see Zulph, who is still carrying the papers, meet the girl in a tea room. William goes to Beverly's home and explains his actions. As the two are about to leave the house, the Spider takes a shot at William and the episode ends.

At the opening of episode 12 we see that the Spider has missed killing William, but he escapes. In the tea room, Dr. Zulph is frightened, and leaves, followed by the detective, who sets the Shadow and Wee See on the trail. In a very acceptable bit of picture making these two cleverly manage to get the papers away from Zulph while he is not looking. William and Beverly go to a charity bazaar. A band of crooks at the bazaar steal a diamond necklace and William orders the doors closed while detectives search. The crook who has the gems slips them into the pocket of William, where the detective finds them, but he is saved by one of the guests, who saw the act, and tells of it.

Scene from "The Great Secret" (Metro).

At the close of the episode we leave William holding up his hands at the point of a revolver in an empty room, and it looks as though he were about to be robbed.

Pathe Releases

"Mary Lawson's Secret," Five-Reel Mystery Drama Featuring Charlotte Walker, Tenth Instalment of "Patria," Closing Episode of "Pearl of the Army" and No. 3 of "Mystery of the Double Cross."

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

A MYSTERY story in which the secret is kept until the end, may be said to fulfill its mission. Such a story is to be found in "Mary Lawson's Secret," a five-reel photoplay produced by Thanhouser, and featuring Charlotte Walker. An unexplained murder in the early part of the drama sustains the interest, and, as in all crime stories, it is just as well not to scan too closely the use of coincidence made by the author. Lloyd Lonergan, who wrote the scenario for "Mary Lawson's Secret," has used the expedient freely and constructed a photoplay that catches the attention quickly and holds it firmly until the end of the picture.

Scene from "Mary Lawson's Secret" (Pathe).

A young girl living in a small place is convicted of murdering a young doctor, who lured her into his office and insulted her. This doctor had a rival in town, an elderly man that had practiced there for many years. While on her way to serve a life sentence, Mary Lawson escapes and, eventually, becomes the wife of a wealthy man. She does not tell her husband her secret until the officers of the law get on her track. Just as they are about to arrest her again, the real murderer confesses. The variety of incident and the expert handling it receives, give the drama its chief claims to consideration.

On the production side, skilful use of his material by director John B. O'Brien and excellent playing by the cast, insure a favorable impression for the drama. Charlotte Walker, although somewhat mature for the part, plays Mary Lawson with earnestness and wins sympathy for her at each stage of the plot. J. H. Gilmour, William Davidson, N. S. Wood, Inda Palmer and Robert Vaughn are the members of the supporting cast. Several waterscapes showing an approaching storm are worthy of note.

Tenth Instalment of "Patria."

"War in the Dooryards" is the name of the tenth instalment of the International serial in which Mrs. Vernon Castle has the title role. It teaches a lesson in preparedness. The men in Patria's employ are formed into a company of well drilled soldiers and when a body of men under the leadership of the Japs attack the works Patria's troops give them battle and drive them off. The battle scenes are thrilling and the entire instalment is full of excitement.

Closing Chapter of "Pearl of the Army."

Number fifteen of "Pearl of the Army" is called "The Colonel's Orderly." Besides clearing up the mystery connected with the Silent Menace, it also restores Captain Ralph to his rightful position and brings about the proper understanding between him and Pearl Dare. Major Brent also profits by the turn of events, and so does the faithful Bertha, but not until the Silent Menace gives another exhibition of his ability to trick everyone with whom he comes in contact. The followers of the picture will find the ending to their liking and will, no doubt, wait impatiently for the next serial headed by Pearl White and Ralph Kellard.

"An Hour to Live."

The third number of the "Mystery of the Double Cross" serial shows Peter Hale in deadly peril. He is captured by Bridget Bentley, and a clock is set to fire off a revolver and end his earthly career. Before this is accomplished, the Masked Stranger steps out of the clock and upsets the scheme. Other exciting episodes take place during the number, and "An Hour to Live" closes with another cleverly devised situation which will not be explained until the next instalment. Mollie King, Leon Bary and Ralph Stuart see to it that the acting is of the right quality.

"A Tale of Two Cities"

Finely Produced Screen Version of Charles Dickens' Famous Story of the French Revolution, Made by Fox and Featuring William Farnum.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

THE keen sense of the theater possessed by Charles Dickens—a sense that put the grip and the steady onward march of events into his plots—is strongly evinced in the screen version made by William Fox of "A Tale of Two Cities"—to many of the novelist's admirers his most powerful work. As a picture of the French Revolution, told in fictional form, it is unrivaled. The human interest of the story stands out clearly in the midst of that epoch-making historical period, when the streets of Paris were red with the blood of the guilty and the innocent, and the day of reckoning had come when man's inhumanity to man was canceling its debt according to the old Mosaic law, "An eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth," and France, starved, beaten and betrayed, was receiving the first taste of that political freedom for which she is fighting so valiantly today.

Out of the vast amount of material to be found in the novel, Frank Lloyd, who made the scenario and directed the Fox production, has taken the incidents and characters best calculated to transfer to the screen the spirit and intent of the Dickens masterpiece. Starting with the scenes in Paris that foreshadow the fall of the Bastille, he carries the story forward with but slight use of the cut-back, and directs with much skill the onrush of events, in the whirl of which the lives of Sydney Carton and Charles Darnay, together with that of the woman they both love, are caught up and hurried along to the moment of Carton's supreme sacrifice—when he mounts the steps of the guillotine and gives his life that the husband of Lucie may live. Who that has read the story of Carton's death in Dickens' final chapter can ever forget it!

There are many impressive moments before this last and greatest one. The storming of the Bastille, the freeing of Doctor Manette, the trial of Charles Darnay in England, for high treason, and his second trial in France under his real name of Evremonde—these are the outstanding situations, but the interest never slackens, the spell of the world tragedy and the master's skill in bringing it to life again never relax their grip.

For the most part, the adaptor has been mindful of the respect due the work. His changes from the original plot are slight and make for clearness in the screen version. Aside from the character of Miss Pross, the well-known portraits drawn by Dickens have been preserved with conscientious fidelity. Defarge, Madame Defarge, The Vengeance, Stryver—all are here; but Lucie's faithful hand-maiden is not the woman found in the pages of the novel.

William Farnum plays both Charles Darnay and Sydney Carton. His performance of the first character is thoroughly adequate. He has the polish, charm of manner and fineness of nature required of the young Frenchman. His Sydney Carton is well contrasted with Darnay. Mr. Farnum brings out the man of good instincts, chained to an overmastering passion, clearly and effectively; the double exposure scenes have never been better done. But the soul of Sydney Carton, when put to the final test, eludes the actor. Technically he is beyond criticism. The art of acting is strongly influenced by personality, however, and the spiritual exaltation which Martin Har vey, the English actor, gives to the part is lacking in Mr. Farnum's portrayal.

Scene from "A Tale of Two Cities" (Fox).

The supporting company is one of exceptional merit, and the individual efforts of Jewel Carmen as Lucie Manette, Charles Clary as Marquis Evremonde, Hershel Mayall as Jacques Defarge, Rosita Marstini as Madame Defarge, and Josef Swickard as Dr. Manette, are particularly in evidence. The correctness of detail in the settings for Paris and London at the close of the Eighteenth Century, and the impressive mob scenes, are important factors in a production that for even excellence has never been surpassed by the Fox company.

Two Kalems

"The Golden Eagle Trail," Episode of "The American Girl" Series, and "The Missing Financier," a Number of the "Grant, Police Reporter," Series.

Reviewed by Ben H. Grimm.

CONSISTENT with the foregoing releases of "The American Girl" series is "The Golden Eagle Trail," the latest two-reel episode. In this number Director James W. Horne has set Frederick R. Bechdolt's story in some very good Western backgrounds—backgrounds that exactly fit the story, which is melodramatic and brings into view on the screen much riding and fighting. Marin Sais as Madge King performs a hazardous feat when she climbs hand over hand on a rope that has been thrown across a deep-cut opening between two cliffs.

The story tells how Madge King and her followers round up a gang of bandits and a man who stole the bandits' loot, which consisted of two bags of twenty-dollar gold pieces. Madge and her father find the hoard by a trail of Golden Scene from "The Golden Eagle Trail" (Kalem).

Eagles that have leaked from one of the bags. An exciting and interesting Western. In the cast with Miss Sais are Frank Jonasson, Edward Hearne, Ronald Bradbury and Edward Clisbee.

"The Vanishing Financier."

George Larkin, in the role of the reporter, is up to his old tricks in this one-reel number of the "Grant, Police Reporter" series. This time he obtains entrance to a room by climbing up between the walls forming a narrow alleyway. He does this by bracing his hands against one wall and his feet against the other. This is a difficult stunt and registers well. In this manner he rescues the daughter of a financier who has been kidnapped and brought aboard a yacht. After he rescues the girl the reporter forms a bridge over the alley with his body. The girl walks over him to an adjoining roof. The financier is finally rescued by the crew of a U. S. Monitor. The story was written by Robert Welles Ritchie. Ollie Kirkby, Director Robert Ellis and Cyril Courtney are in the cast with Mr. Larkin.

"Babette"

Five-Reel Vitagraph Production Featuring Marc MacDermott and Peggy Hyland Is Thoroughly Entertaining.

Reviewed by Ben H. Grimm.

IF EVERY five-reel picture produced were as good as "Babette," a Vitagraph Blue Ribbon Feature, there would be little need of ever asking an exhibitor to sign a contract—he would be only too glad to pay his program rentals far in advance. "Babette," with Marc MacDermott and Peggy Hyland in the featured roles, is a thoroughly entertaining photoplay and distinctly worth while. In it has been visualized a charming tale that is given added power to please and satisfy by the work and personality of the players and the manner in which the film was produced. F. Berkely Smith, the author, has given us a story that is quite "different," and Charles Brabin, the director, has given Mr. Smith's story a production that accentuates the story's good points and makes a very few weak points plausible.

Scene from "Babette" (Vitagraph).

Set in the romantic province of Normandy and the Quartier Latin of Paris, "Babette" is primarily a love story; but not "mushily" so. It tells of a youth who, by instinct a gentleman, in soul an artist, is by choice a clever thief; and who is finally moulded into the man he should always have been by the pure, wholesome love of the young daughter of the keeper of a "comic opera" jail. To the main motif there have been added seasonings of humor, pathos, expatiated crime and other factors that go into the making of a photoplay whose appeal is not limited to any one particular class or type of audience.

Mr. MacDermott is both masterful and sympathetic. He never overplays. Miss Hyland is beautifully appealing, and her charm is compelling. Templar Saxe is a fitting choice for his part, as is also William Dunn.

Deserving of especial mention are the lightings in the interior scenes. They are effective, as are also several other directorial touches, all of which help the production.

"The Pulse of Life"

Wedgewood Nowell and Gypsy Harte Featured in Mediocre Five-Reel Bluebird—Released April 2.

Reviewed by Ben H. Grimm.

FITFULLY beating for about four and one-half reels, accelerating somewhat toward the last, "The Pulse of Life," a five-reel Bluebird screen drama featuring Wedgewood Nowell and Gypsy Harte, is stilled in the final fadeout without having once made the pulse of the viewer beat faster than normal. It is a mediocre picture. It might be likened to a hobo dressed up in a hundred-dollar suit of evening clothes. Magnus Ingleton's story has been extravagantly dressed for the screen by Rex Ingraham, but under the cloak of beautiful presentation there is little of the real goods to be found. Clothes do not make the man any more than beautiful photography, lightings and other production details make a good picture. The story is not "there." The cast is good and some of the sunset sea scenes are worthy of a place in an art gallery.

Scene from "The Pulse of Life" (Bluebird).

There are touches in the picture that may well have been left out. It is our opinion, for instance, that it is neither interesting nor dramatic to show a small hunchback being beaten up by a burly drunkard, especially when the occurrence is not needed to advance the story. Much extraneous matter has been figuratively dragged by the heels into the story, and once more we see our old friend the electric chair.

The story tells of a girl who leaves her fisherman-father's home in Italy with a wealthy artist. In New York he gets tired of her, and she finds her way to a low-class dance hall, where she meets Dago Joe. She is found there by a young sculptor who, as usual, gets her to pose for him. They fall mutually in love. The girl's brother kills the wealthy artist, and the young sculptor is convicted of the crime on circumstantial evidence. Quite an element of suspense is introduced here, but the sculptor escapes the chair. The girl goes back to Italy and the sculptor makes up with his former fiancé.

Mr. Nowell and Miss Harte are capable in the leading roles. They are supported by Nicholas Duneaw, William Dyer, Millard K. Wilson and Dorothy Barrett. Released April 2.

"Sunny Jane"

Five-Reel Production of Wholesome Type Made by E. D. Horkheimer for the Mutual Program Featuring Jackie Saunders.

Reviewed by Margaret I. MacDonald.

"SUNNY JANE" is a production that will be welcomed in the making up of the better class program. It does not impress one as being a faultless one as regards construction, but the characterization of the story has been well carried out and the human interest is well sustained.

The story centers around an eccentric young girl with an abnormal imagination. She tells the most romantic tales in which she herself is always the central figure, without the slightest intention of committing the sin of falsehood. She capers in the most comical fashion with a young donkey and incidentally with her father's helper, who is also an eccentric character and in love with her. The fact that oil has been discovered on her father's farm opens an opportunity for the entry of the hero of the story, who in an endeavor to purchase the farm; meets Jane and decides, with the consent of her parents, to pay for her tuition at a boarding school. Jane's homecoming after a year at school is somewhat of a shock to all concerned, especially as she, under the spell of one of her imaginary conditions, and is posing as the young woman who she believes to be the ideal of the man who has given her her schooling and whom she loves. The story ends by Jane attiring herself in the clothes she used to wear and hiding in her benefactor's automobile. The discovery of the girl in the automobile brings about the climax when Jane becomes the wife of her benefactor.

Jackie Saunders does excellent work as Jane. The other members of the cast are also to be commended for their support.

"The Prison Without Walls"

Wallace Reid Does Superior Work in a Lasky Story of Criminal Grafters and Reformers.

Reviewed by George Blaisdell.

THE Lasky company released on March 15 "The Prison Without Walls," a subject dealing with prison reformers and prison grafters. Beulah Marie Dix has written the script from the story by Robert Emmet MacAlarney. E. Mason Hopper is the director. It is a good story and a well-made picture. Wallace Reid has the male lead, that of a prison reform expert who dons prison garb a la Tom Brown of Auburn, as Thomas Mott Osborne was known when he made his famous week's sojourn behind bars in New York's up-state prison. Mr. Reid does splendid work—restrained, convincing, the antithesis of the melodramatic.

Opposite Mr. Reid is Myrtle Stedman, in the role of Helen Ainsworth, a Lady Bountiful, with leanings to prison reform, too. Her characterization is a worthy one. William Conklin is given the "heavy" role, that of Morris, the Man Higher Up, who is engaged to Helen. Billy Elmer is "Horse" Gilligan, a convict, who tries to go straight on his release, is "drafted" by the old gang and when he finds opposed to him in his efforts to rob the family safe none other than his former prison mate, the young reformer, transfers his activities to the side of the state. There is another player, not listed, whose work is worthy of remark, the young woman who plays the ex-convict taken into the Ainsworth home as a servant—and speedily brought under the sinister influence of Morris.

The course of the intrigue is clearly established—the forces of order on one side seeking for the one individual who most profits from crooked contracts and on the other the Man Higher Up and his many subordinates. There is woven into the fabric a pretty love story. A bit of humor attaches to the solicitation of Helen that the young man she has met in prison and to whom she gives secretarial employment shall "go straight," the fact that he is straight not being revealed to her until the denouement.

There are many moments of good drama, some of the more notable of these being the "cracking" expedition of Gilligan, in which he discovers in the man who has interrupted him none other than the one who had in prison saved him from the attack of the "coke fiend." The picture will hold all the way.

"The Dummy"

Jack Pickford Makes Good in Juvenile "Detecttuff" Story, an Adaptation from the Stage.

Reviewed by George Blaisdell.

EVER UNSELL has written a script for "The Dummy" that is worth while. For a basis she used the stage story of Harvey J. O'Higgins and Harriet Ford. She has given us a tale that in its telling carries bits of comedy as well as moments of drama and melodrama. Francis Grandon is the director. The story is staged around and in New York City. For a background there is a kidnapping of the child of an incompatible pair, a former messenger boy employed in a detective's office, and the proper assortment of kidnapers and detectives.

Scene from "The Dummy" (Famous Players).

Jack Pickford has the role of Barney, the discharged messenger boy much fed up on nickel detective literature. He takes speedily to his new employment of aid to the great detective Babbings, skillfully portrayed by Frank Losee. Young Barney has adventures aplenty. He becomes in the flesh the actor of the roles which in calmer days had, when described in print, so stirred his fancy.

One of the factors in the story is little Ethelmary Oakland, who as Beryl is deprived of her liberty by the kidnapers in the hope of large reward from her parents. Ethelmary does well; she fits into her part. Edwin Stanley and Helen Greene are the quarreling father and mother of the six-year-old Ruby Hoffman is the accomplice of the kidnapers.

"The Dummy" may be described as a cleverly devised story. It provides good entertainment and at times supplies a thrill. One of the points of large interest is in the exposition of the detective's work, the uncovering of the codes, and the trapping of the kidnapers. The action is fast.

Triangle Shows Two Subjects

"The Dark Road" Is a Strong But Repellant Subject, "Her Father's Keeper" Weak But Harmless.

Reviewed by George Blaisdell.

WHEN the country has more than the word of the Secretary of State that it is on the "verge of war" it is difficult to understand the mental processes of a director who would put on the market such a subject as we find in Kay-Bee's "The Dark Road." True it is Mr. Ince does not make Dorothy Dalton the wife of an American army officer, but in the minds of a multitude there is a close bond of sympathy these days between Americans and the men and women of the battling nations. Miss Dalton portrays a woman about as despicable as any one would care to contemplate. Her Cleo Murison, the trusted wife of an English captain called to service, suffers by comparison with the most degraded creature who along side streets drags one weary foot after another in search of the price of her morning's breakfast.

Vampire as a term, as we are led to understand it on the screen, is a mild and meaningless expression when employed to designate the manner of woman we find in this Cleo Murison. She is Lust personified. We can say in a couple of lines that the picture is powerful, that it tightly holds the attention.

It is on the ethical side even more than on the moral, however, that exhibitors may find their major interest.

The picture cannot fail to be repugnant in any community where ordinary regard for country obtains; it is not necessary to include one where ordinary patriotism prevails. A soldier or prospective soldier, not to mention the average citizen, who could look upon "The Dark Road" without boiling would be less than a man. What will be the state of mind of those women who now are making sacrifices and the thousands of others who in fear and trembling are preparing for them may be left to the imagination.

Scene from "The Dark Road" (Triangle).

The synopsis supplied by the company may be found in another column. It speaks for itself.

"Her Father's Keeper."

In "Her Father's Keeper" we find a story of Wall street, of a business feud between an old man and a young man in love with the daughter of the former. The picture in interest hardly matches up to the high Triangle average. Frank Currier has the role of William Masters, the financier of strong will, who is determined to put down and out Ralph Burnham, the son of his former antagonist. Burnham is portrayed by Jack Devereux. Irene Howley is the daughter, who by her mother's will is enjoined to keep her father out of trouble—to prevent him from overstepping legal bounds in the carrying out of his business wars. It is on this latter phase that the story chiefly turns.

Great Stories are O. Henry's

General Film Company Has an Undoubted Find in These Vitagraph Two-Reelers.

Reviewed by George Blaisdell.

GREAT pictures indeed are these two-reelers the Vitagraph company has made from the stories of O. Henry, the first of which, "Past One at Rooney's," is already being released on the General Film program. If those yet to be shown match in quality the three displayed to the trade on March 16 exhibitors and their patrons have got a genuine treat coming to them. In spite of the size of the material—perhaps really it was because of it—the Vitagraph has included in its cast none of its headliners. But the pictures stand out nevertheless just as well as any good story when competently directed and played.

Scene from "Past One at Rooney's" (General Film).

The secret of it all lies in the magic touch of O. Henry—the wonderful heart interest with which he imbued his tales. He clung close to ordinary human beings, to the men and women whose names do not figure in those restricted columns "opposite the editorial page"; Montagus and Capulets there may be, but they are not of the species Romeo knew. As we find the partisans in "Past One at Rooney's" they are the gun and knife fighters of the east side, bandits fiercer than or at least as fierce as anything on the frontier.

The first three subjects shown were the one already named and "Friends in San Rosario" and "The Third Ingredient." Thomas R. Mills, a well-known Vitagraph player, is responsible for the capable direction of the three stories. Mildred Manning has a role in each of the trio, in the first that of the girl. As the young woman who drops into the back room of Rooney's at 1 in the morning she fills her part. There is a finely assumed timidity as she tells "Cork" she has worked overtime at the bindery; but when the policeman attempts to take away her new-found friend the mask falls. She is the lion-hearted Magdalene, true to type, ready to cut the ground from under anybody who threatens the welfare of one who has given her a kind word.

The whole story is ripping, gripping drama. There is present always the touch of nature, that touch of the master that makes the whole world kin. The colloquy in the saloon, the pinning down by "Cork" of the young woman as to her life, his admission that he really had cut up a man in a square fight, the denunciation of the grafting policeman by the young woman, her insistence that "Cork" let her go her way, the way which she had resolved should be straight, and his equal insistence that she should accompany him to the minister's—all these incidents go to make up a composite whole that moves the spectator. Gordon Gray is "Cork"—a good performance.

"Friends in San Rosario" is an adaptation of one of the better known of O. Henry's stories. It is a tale of the friendship of two men—two honest Texans. It is complicated by no sex theme, but it holds just the same. Mr. Norcouse is Major Kingman, the banker of the soil who detains the bank examiner while he tells a story of his deputy and enables the latter meanwhile to send into the next county and raise the money to get him by the examiner. Mr. Ellis is the deputy and Frank Glendon the examiner.

"The Third Ingredient" is one of the best, perhaps the best of the trio. It is all about an onion, the third ingredient of a beef stew, which was to keep from being hungry for twenty-four hours the young woman who has just been discharged from a department store because she could not "see" the overseer. There is throughout the two reels a delightful bit of comedy, and there is, too, drama that digs in. Miss Manning as the unsentimental shopgirl shines in this role as she did in the first story. The others in the cast are Alice Mann and Frank Glendon.

"His Father's Son"

Lionel Barrymore and Irene Howley Featured in Amusing Five-Reel Farce Comedy Produced by Rolfe for Metro.

Reviewed by Ben H. Grimm.

AN UTTERLY impossible but thoroughly amusing and entertaining story has been screened in "His Father's Son," a five-reel farce comedy produced by Rolfe Photoplays, Inc., and released by Metro on March 19. Lionel Barrymore and Irene Howley are the featured players. The story was written by Channing Pollock and Rennold Wolf. It was scenarioized by June Mathis and directed by George D. Baker. This combination has resulted in bringing to the screen a photoplay that keeps one amused from the start to the finish. The humor of the piece is sometimes subtle, sometimes broad, but never crude. Some slapstick has been introduced, but nothing else would have fitted where that means has been employed for registering a laugh. Many of the titles get a laugh too.

The buoyant Barrymore is responsible in a large measure for the undoubted success of the picture, and he is ably aided and abetted by Miss Howley. The supporting cast is good, especially so in the persons of Charles Eldridge and Frank Currier.

Director Baker has put into the five reels many touches that make for the better entertaining value of the picture.

The story concerns a wealthy youth who takes up his father's wager that he cannot keep a job for six months. The youth gets a job as a butler in the home of a wealthy man, who is the youth's bitterest enemy when it comes to collecting gems. Of course, there is a daughter in the house, and she, knowing who the butler really is, falls in love with him. Complications come to a climax when the youth is accused of attempting to steal a precious gem. But things are straightened out to the satisfaction of everyone.

Besides those already mentioned, there are in the supporting cast George A. Wright, Phil Sanford and Walter Horton. Photographed by John Arnold.

Cast for "One Law for Both."

For the enactment of principal roles in "One Law For Both," the next production to be made by Ivan Abramson, nine stars of the stage and screen have been assembled into a cast which will rank as one of the most notable of the year. In support of Miss Jolivet are such sterling performers as Paul Capellani, Pedro de Cordoba, Anders Randolph and James Morrison. The feminine roles have been assigned to such capable artists as Leah Baird, Helen Arnold and Caroline White.

"As Man Made Her"

Gale Kane Starred in Five-Reel Peerless Photoplay That Has Sordid and Unpleasant Theme—Released by World Pictures Brady Made.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

STRICT moralists will find little to commend in the heroine of "As Man Made Her," a five-reel Peerless photoplay with Gale Kane in the leading role. The story is sordid, put together with a keen eye to theatric effect, and does not leave a pleasant aftertaste. A young girl, intelligent and refined, after going through a finishing school falls into the hands of a wealthy rake and is forcibly deprived of her virtue. Whereupon, she accepts the situation and lives with her despoiler as his mistress until she is informed that the young man intends to marry another woman. As a novel means of revenge, she marries the man's younger brother, and the two families become inmates of the same house. The married rake attempts to renew the old relation and is repulsed. After she has become a mother, she allows her brother-in-law to take her to the scene of their former gayeties, while her husband stays home with his sick child. The big situation comes when the younger man finds out that his wife was once his brother's mistress. By this time the heroine has learned to love her husband and to care for her child, the story finishing with a reconciliation and the wicked brother started on a quick trip to perdition, via the whiskey route.

To those tolerant souls that can find extenuating circumstances for the weakness of character displayed by Claire Scene from "As Man Made Her" (World).

Wilson and are satisfied with merely skimming the surface of things, "As Man Made Her" will prove a drama of more virtues than vices, and vastly entertaining. A master would have fashioned such a subject into a tragedy for the clearing of our moral vision and the cleansing of our souls. Helen Beare has been content to people her work with characters of limited moral or mental attributes, and never rises above the commonplace. Neither is her portrait of her heroine a true one. The woman she draws, before her meeting with Mason Forbes, would never have accepted the life offered her after her debasement or had her conscience lulled to sleep by its questionable pleasures. Gale Kane's impersonation of Claire emphasized this point, and the pity her fall might have engendered is offset by the conviction that she would have risen above the tragedy which overtakes her, and fought her way to happiness along a road paved only with honesty and truth.

In the playing of "As Man Made Her" the star has the assistance of Frank Mills and his finished art. Gerda Holmes does all that is possible with a limp role, and Edward Langford achieves the same result with the character of the younger brother. The direction by George Archainbaud and the production of the picture are up to the Brady-made standard.

Selznick Takes "Ne'er-Do-Well" Rights.

Lewis J. Selznick added another special feature film to his states' rights purchases this week by a deal with Sol Lesser, of San Francisco, for the New York state and northern New Jersey rights to the "Ne'er-do-Well," Selig's famous picturization of the popular novel by Rex Beach.

Greater New York City will be handled through the New York Selznick exchange, in charge of Sol J. Berman, while the rest of New York state will be booked through the Lewis J. Selznick Productions, Inc., of Buffalo.

Scene from "Rough and Ready Reggie" (Paramount).

"The Barrier" for Picture Houses.

Some surprise has been expressed that "The Barrier," which has been doing such a tremendous business at the Broadway theater, should remain only three weeks. In this connection Benj. B. Hampton issues the following explanation:

"The fact that we were able to secure time at the Broadway theater at all was due to the generosity and courtesy of Lewis J. Selznick, who very kindly gave the Rex Beach Pictures Company three week of time allotted to his productions, setting his own interest aside to do so. We could not ask him for an extension of this time because he has too many valuable productions of his own demanding Broadway showing.

"Our plan now is to book 'The Barrier' in the big picture houses. Immediately bookings in New York City aggregating more than $60,000 have been offered us, and it is likely that within the next few weeks this great picture will be shown in the leading New York picture houses."

"The Deemster" in New England.

Louis Mayer, of Boston, who exploited "The Birth of a Nation" in the East, has purchased the New England exhibition rights to the Arrow Corporation's production of "The Deemster" and will give the picture a run at a leading Boston theater prior to its booking with exhibitors. Mr. Mayer paid a record price for this picture—$35,000.

Speaking of his purchase, Mr. Mayer said: "While the price asked for this territory was a stiff one, I am confident I made a good business bargain. New England is a sort of Hall Caine territory. His books are widely read in that section of the country and his plays have always drawn remarkably well."

Marjorie Rambeau Completes "The Debt."

Marjorie Rambeau has completed work on her third production for Mutual, entitled "The Debt." This feature has been filmed at the Frank Powell studios under the direction of Frank Powell. "The Debt," in locale and development, is entirely different from Miss Rambeau's first two pictures, "The Greater Woman" and "Motherhood."

Practically the same company supported Miss Rambeau in this production as in the other two. Those appearing in the cast include Robert Elliott, Paul Everton, Anne Sutherland, T. Jerome Lawlor, Agnes Eyre and Naida Gary, a child actress.

Scene from "As Men Rove" (Morosco).

Comments on the Films

EXCLUSIVELY BY OUR OWN STAFF

General Film Company.

THE LUCKY ONE (Essanay).—A split reel combining a comedy and educational-scenic. In the comedy section Billy Mason and Ruth Hennessy are seen in an ordinary comedy with a little fast action. The scenic shows beautiful views of Western Canada, and is titled "In the Beef and Butter Country."

THE MISSING FINANCIER (Kalem).—A number of the "Grant, Police Reporter" series. George Larking shows us a difficult feat when he climbs up between the walls forming an alleyway. He does this by bracing his hands against one wall and his feet against the other. He rescues the daughter of a financier, who has been locked in the room, and is instrumental in causing a U. S. Monitor to overtake the band who have kidnapped the girl's father. A thrilling reel.

A MISFIT MILLIONAIRE (Kalem).—A quite good comedy number with Ham and Bud doing most of the work. Ham becomes a fake mining promoter and Bud becomes his office boy. There is considerably more plot to this comedy than there has been in the Ham reels. A sponge that has to be shot will cause a laugh. Henry Murdoch is also seen in the reel. Directed by Al. Santell.

THE VANISHING BISHOP (Kalem).—A number of the "Grant, Police Reporter" series. George Larking gets over several thrills in this reel. He does some very good acrobatic stunts when he leaps into a speeding motorboat and when he jumps from the motorboat to the jib of a schooner, on which The Spider's henchmen are holding a real bishop while other accomplices are endeavoring to get a contribution through a bogus bishop. Mr. Larkin performs several other stunts in this reel. With him are Ollie Kirkby, Director Robert Ellis, Cyril Courtney and Harry Gordon.

OVER THE GARDEN WALL (Selig).—A one-reel "parlor" comedy that affords considerable amusement without resorting to slapstick. A widower and his son, moving to the suburbs, find romance on the other side of a stone wall. The son and the girl on the other side of the wall successfully plot to bring their elders, who were old sweethearts, together. John Lancaster, Lyllian Leighton, William Scott and Elsie Greeson are in the cast. A fairly entertaining number.

General Film Company Specials.

A PEARL OF GREATER PRICE (Selig).—A two-reel drama with a fairly well-sustained element of mystery and a few good situations. A wife covets a pearl necklace. She purchases it, but cannot meet the payments. She finds that the necklace has disappeared. Her husband discovers her in the company of an artist, who, it later develops, stole the necklace. Matters are explained by a jeweler, and the wife realizes that her husband, child and home are the pearls of greater price. In the cast are Fred Eckhart, Byrdine Zuber, Virginia Waller, M. C. Von Betz, Edna Van Buren and Casson Ferguson.

ALADDIN UP-TO-DATE (Essanay).—One of the "Black Cat" Features. Bryant Washburn is the featured player in this two-reel offering, which is quite entertaining. There is considerable humor in the piece. A young man comes to the city to get capital to operate a mine. He goes broke and is down and out. He has a chance to put through a big deal, but has no good clothes. He goes to his room and finds there a complete outfit. That is the Aladdin part, but in the film it is done plausibly and well. With Mr. Washburn on the screen is seen Patrick Calhoun.

THE GOLDEN EAGLE TRAIL (Kalem).—Consistent with the foregoing releases of "The American Girl" series is the two-reel release. It is a Western, set in good backgrounds, bringing into view much riding and fighting. Judge King (Marin Sais) performs a thrilling stunt when she climbs across a chasm on a rope. She and her father track down a gang of bandits and a man who stole the bandits' loot. A longer review is printed in the review columns of this issue.

THE PALLID DAWN (Essanay).—A unit of the "Is Marriage Sacred?" series. The Essanay stock company are seen in a two-reel drama that interestingly tells how a chorus girl marries and makes a man of the profligate young scion of a wealthy family, thus reversing the usual outcome of such a marriage. This is a worth-while offering. In the cast are Marguerite Clayton, Edward Arnold, Sydney Ainsworth and Ernest Maupain.

A QUESTION OF HONESTY (Selig).—A two-reel drama of fair interest. The human-interest element is played up quite strongly. The story concerns a young married man and his trials and tribulations in getting a job, and the machinations against him. Honesty and good prevail over a plotting clerk and adverse circumstances. The story was written by J. Edward Hungerford and is capably acted in its screen presentation.

Bluebird Photoplays, Inc.

SUSAN'S GENTLEMAN (April 2).—Violet Mersereau is starred in this five-reel romantic comedy-drama. The tone of the production is light, and tells of the romance of the daughter of an Englishman who is a child of New York's tenements. As a whole the production is pleasing—especially so to the admirers of Violet Mersereau. A full review is printed in the review columns of last week's issue.

Fox Film Corporation.

A TALE OF TWO CITIES (Fox), March 12. A seven-reel screen version of the immortal novel by Charles Dickens, this picture is of great merit. It is reviewed at length on another page of this issue.

Greater Vitaphone, Inc.

BABETTE, April 2.—This five-reel Blue Ribbon Feature is a thoroughly entertaining photoplay and not limited in its appeal. Marc MacDermott and Peggy Hyland are seen in the featured roles. The story tells of the romance of a youth, who, a gentleman and artist by instinct, is a thief by choice, and of the sweet and wholesome daughter of the keeper of a "comic opera" jail in Normandy. The production ranks far above the average. A longer review is printed in the review columns of this issue.

Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay, Inc.

SATAN'S PRIVATE DOOR (Essanay), March 19.—This is a photoplay of strong appeal and heart interest. It shows how an entire family is reformed by the quiet efforts of a homeless girl, who sees the good in every human being and in the world at large. Mary Charleson plays this role with great power, and is supported by clever players, including John Cossar, Webster Campbell, Hazel Daly, etc. An extended review is given on another page in this issue.

Metro Pictures Corporation

HIS FATHER'S SON (Rolle), March 19.—An amusing five-reel farce-comedy with Lionel Barrymore and Irene Howley in the stellar roles. The story tells of a wealthy youth who becomes a butler to win a wager from his father. Reviewed at greater length in another column of this issue.

MODERN ROMANCE (Rolma), March 19.—A comedy reel with Max Figman and Lolita Robinson. There is not much humor in this reel. It tells of a romantic girl who wanted to elope. Her suitor is a practical man. But they elope anyhow, only to find the willing father waiting at the minister's house.

A SHOT IN THE DARK, Episode 11 of "The Great Secret" (Signal Producing Co.), March 19.—The eleventh installment of this serial keeps up the speed and excitement of incident that marked the earlier parts of the picture. A longer review will be found on another page of this issue. We wait to see what is to follow.

CAUGHT IN THE WEB, Episode 12 of "The Great Secret" (Signal Producing Co.), March 26.—There is no lack of excitement in this installment and it has an especially clever bit in the over-reaching of the crook doctor who has stolen the papers representing Beverly's fortune. The end leaves the spectator in the mood to come in for the continuation. A longer review will be found in another part of this issue.

Mutual Film Corporation

MUTUAL TOURS AROUND THE WORLD NO. 19 (Gaumont), March 13.—This is an unusually attractive number of the series opening with numerous views on the beautiful oasis of Gades on the edge of the Sahara Desert. The frontier town of Koursk, Siberia, is also well illustrated in this film, closing with a short flash of the fish market of Oursk, a nearby Siberian town.

SEE AMERICA FIRST NO. 79 (Gaumont), March 14.—The subject of this issue is "On the Mississippi River." The views contained in the film are entertaining and instructive and follow the river from New Orleans to Baton Rouge, the capital of Louisiana. The reels ends with a clever Palmer cartoon entitled "They Say Pigs Is Pigs."

JERRY'S TRIPLE ALLIANCE (Cub), March 15.—George Ovey has some diverting adventures in this number, assisted by his sweetheart, a trained dog and two clever elephants. The latter give an interesting fencing contest. This number will be of particular interest to children, as the animals are very clever, and older people will also enjoy it.

REEL LIFE NO. 46 (Gaumont), March 15.—This issue of "Reel Life" contains the following interesting subjects: "A Club-Rifle for the Police," "The Fluid of Life," consisting of microscopic studies of the circulation of the blood, "Making the Cactus Useful," and "Gold Mining in Alaska." This reel, which is of special attraction, ends with a dance done by a half dozen young girls.

Mutual Film Corporation Specials.

A MATRIMONIAL SMOCK, (Vogue), March 17.—A two-reel farce-comedy, featuring Lillian Hamilton, Owen Evans and John Oaker. The setting is an attractive summer hotel, where a young lady guest plays havoc with the hearts of male admirers. She claims to have a twin brother and attires herself in boy's clothing to play the part. The plot has no particular strength, but the action is light and diverting. The photography is clear and pleasing.

ADVENTURES OF SHORTY HAMILTON NO. 10 (Monogram), March 19.—In this number of the series Shorty's adventure includes the employment of a magnet by a gang of bullion thieves in confiscating a certain shipment of gold bricks. The discovery by one of the feminine members of the secret service of what is really happening opens an opportunity for Shorty to use his wits. The "bagging" of the thieves is accomplished by the use of a fake gold brick into which is placed an infernal machine. The rescue of the girl, who has been caught eavesdropping by the thieves, opens the way for the employment of another thrill.

SUNNY JANE (Mutual Star Production), March 26.—A five-part production made by E. D. Horkheimer, and featuring Jackie Saunders. The picture is wholesome in type and will be found a safe adjunct for the better class program. The story deals with the fortunes of a young country girl, who is endowed with a remarkable imagination which causes her to tell romantic tales in which she herself is always the central figure. The hero of the story pays her way at boarding school and eventually marries her. The characterization of the story is very good. A full review of the production will be found elsewhere.

Paramount Pictures Corporation

THE PRISON WITHOUT WALLS (Lasky), March 15.—Wallace Reid does fine work in this story of prison reformers and prison grafters. He is well supported by Myrtle Stedman, William Conklin and Billy Elmer. It is a good picture, and is reviewed at length on another page.

THE DUMMY (Famous Players), March 19.—Jack Pickford is featured in this adaptation of the well-known stage play. The result is a picture containing strong situations, with touches that are deft as well as light. In his support are Frank Losee, Edwin Stanley, Helen Grecne, Ruby Hoffman and Ethelmary Oakland. The subject is reviewed on another page.

PARAMOUNT-BRAY-PICTOGRAPH NO. 59, March 19.—The subjects covered in this number of the Paramount-Bray-Pictograph are "Rivalling Nature's Flowers," showing the making of artificial flowers, and incidentally, artificial fruit; "Picto Puzzles," which present certain animated pictures and ask us to tell what sea food each of these pictures reminds us of; and "In the West Indies." The reel closes with an amusing animated cartoon.

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

PEARL OF THE ARMY (Astra), March 11.—The final episode of the "Pearl of the Army" serial, with Pearl White, is called "The Colonel's Orderly." It winds up the picture in a very satisfactory manner and shows the Silent Menace busy plotting against the United States to the last.

PATRIA (International), March 18.—The tenth episode of the International serial featuring Mrs. Vernon Castle shows the value of preparedness. Another review is printed in this issue.

HE TAKES A DAY OFF (International), March 18.—Another number of "Jerry on the Job" pictures, this example of cartoon humor is quite as amusing as the preceding instalments. "Artificial Flower Making" is on the same reel.

HAPPY HOOLIGAN, DOUBLE CROSS NURSE (International), March 25.—The creator of Happy Hooligan finds a job for him in this half reel as a nurse, and the experiment ends unhappily for the patient. Rope making in Mexico is on the same reel.

HANS AND FRITZ (International), April 1.—A scene showing interesting views of native life in Manila on the same reel with a "Hans and Fritz" cartoon make up this picture. The famous twins are still up to their old tricks.

MYSTERY OF THE DOUBLE CROSS (Astra), April 1.—The third instalment of the newest Pathe serial, featuring Mollie King and Leon Bary, has a number of real thrills. It is reviewed on another page of this issue.

MARY LAWSON'S SECRET (Thanhouser), April 1.—This five-reel mystery play, in which Charlotte Walker has the title role, is a well-made picture and holds the interest to the end. It is given a longer review on another page of this issue.

SKINNY'S FALSE ALARM (Rolin), April 1.—There are two "Skinny" comedies on this reel, "Skinny's Shipwrecked Sandwich" being the name of the other. They are both filled with the brand of knock-about humor common to these releases, the scenes of the latter picture taking place on a cannibal island.

FLORENCE ROSE FASHIONS, NO. 25 (Pathe), April 1.—"A Glance Ahead," the title of this number of the Florence Rose Fashions, explains the nature of this half-reel. New spring creations of interest to the ladies are shown. A Pathecolor, "Childish, Carefree Days," is on the same reel.

NEW MEXICO (Combitone), April 1.—This picture is reviewed in Motion Picture Educator, same issue.

Universal Film Mfg. Company

ANIMATED WEEKLY NO. 63 (Universal), March 12.—Strike of janitors in Chicago, United States troops returning from Mexico, suffragettes in Washington, baseball leagues in spring training, and interesting war sidelights are among the features of this number.

NEVER TOO OLD TO WOO (Victor), March 27.—A comedy number, based on a story by John Fleming Wilson. Jack Nelson, L. M. Wells, Marjorie Ellison, Burton Law and Anna Dodge appear. The chief action centers about the rivalry of the village "grouch" and justice of the peace for a widow's affections. There is a double wedding at the close. The number is one of fair strength.

IS MONEY ALL? (Laemmle), March 28.—This number, by E. H. Ingleton, features Irene Hunt, Leo Pierson, Roberta Wilson and Richard Ryan. It shows the way in which an unhappy girl comes into contact with a rich woman of her own age, and learns to find happiness in her own lot through the tragedy that overtakes the latter. The tragedy, is well-suggested, without being pictured in the usual gruesome manner. A good one-reel subject.

THE GRAND CANYON OF ARIZONA (Powers), March 29.—An educational, or scenic, number, picturing comprehensively the famous canyon, from sunrise to sunset. The photos by Claude Cook are excellent, and convey a splendid idea of the great natural wonder.

UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE NO. 12, March 30.—The subjects contained in this number of the Universal Screen Magazine are "Guarding Our Shores," "How to Make Money Last," "How to Make Apple Snow," "Manufacturing Unbreakable Dolls," and a clay cartoon, entitled "Joe Martin."

WHAT THE—? (Joker), March 31.—A burlesque comedy, by Jack Cunningham, featuring Gale Henry and William Franey. The latter, a henpecked husband, sits by the kitchen stove and dreams that the devil comes to see him. He exchanges places with his satanic majesty. The scenes in hades are unusual, and staged without offence. The humor is not so strong as in certain offerings by this company, but as a novelty this is enjoyable in its way.

Universal Film Mfg. Company Special

RED SAUNDERS PLAYS CUPID (Red Feather), March 26.—A five-reel feature, based on a story by Henry Wallace Phillips. This runs along in a light, rather amusing way. The action occurs first on board a steamer and later in a Mexican town. Harry Carey plays Red Saunders and restores the love of a quarreling couple. A revolution occurs in the latter part of the story. There is not a great deal of suspense in this. Its chief strength is in its atmosphere and the humor is fairly strong at times. Claire Du Bray, George Webb, Rex Roselli and T. D. Crittenden are also in the cast. A number of average strength.

THE PURPLE MASK, No. 14 (Universal Special), March 26.—This is by far the best of recent instalments. Patsy's ride in her aeroplane and her clash with the dirigibles attacking New York City is well put on. The illusion is quite pleasing and realistic. Several of the dirigibles are seen falling in flames. She then turns her attention to the newly-invented submarine train and the efforts to raise the sunken treasure. This is preposterous in places, but in a diverting and amusing way.

A DIFFERENT ENDING (Gold Seal), March 27.—A three-reel number, by Karl R. Coolidge, featuring Val Paul, Fred Church, Daniel Leighton and Gertrude Astor. The plot is enjoyable, presenting scenes from a story as the young author is writing it. In this respect it is similar to "Seven Keys to Baldpate," a well-known play, but the resemblance is simply one of form and not of plot. The story has some vague moments, but works out clearly and makes a rather unusual offering.

DAVID'S IDOL DREAM (Imp), March 29.—A two-reel subject, by Adele Farrington, featuring Jay Belasco, Madge Kirby, Rex De Roselli and Lillian Shelby. An art connoisseur buys an idol and takes it home. His child sticks a pearl necklace in its mouth. The mother, thinking the idol is unlucky, has it sent back. It falls into the hands of a poor, young artist, about to be married, and the return of the pearls to the owner brings him happiness and wealth. This has no great novelty of plot, but runs along entertainingly, and makes a bright, pleasing subject.

THE CRIMSON BLADE (Imp), March 30.—This two-reel subject is No. 6 of the "Yorke Norroy" series, featuring Kingsley Benedict, Jay Belasco, Roberta Wilson and others. This instalment contains numerous elements of popular appeal, and is enacted in a quite effective melodramatic style. Norroy, in this adventure, visits the harem of Hassen Bey, and holds that graceless ruler up at the point of a poisoned dagger while his assistant aids the American girl to escape. The Turkish settings are pleasing, and the number well constructed.

THE SPIDER'S WEB (Universal Special), April 1.—No. 3 of "The Voice on the Wire" series. This continues in an entertaining way the efforts of Montague Shirley to solve the mystery of the disembodied hand which delivers the fatal "Japanese heart punch." Polly Marian, his girl friend, is threatened with death, and he saves her in the nick of time. Young Van Cleft is also warned by the voice, and Shirley assists him in escaping death. No fatalities occur in this number, but interest in the mystery continues very well.

Triangle Film Corporation

THE SQUARE DEAL MAN (Ince-Kay Bee), March 25.—A vigorous story with some strong truths clearly stated, and presented with great skill; William Hart effective in the title role.

World Pictures.

AS MAN MADE HER (Peerless), March 26.—Gail Kane has the leading role in this five-reel Peerless photoplay, which has a dramatic but rather unpleasant plot. The picture is well acted. A longer review is printed on another page of this issue.

Manufacturers' Advance Notes

SEENA OWEN IN "A WOMAN'S AWAKENING."

When Seena Owen returns to the Triangle program this month in the Fine Arts production, "A Woman's Awakening," several of the scenes in which she appears will show her mounted upon "Butterfly," the favorite sorrel mare of the late Jim Kidd, dean of American cowboy actors, whose death preceded that of his former trail-mate, "Buffalo Bill," by only a few weeks.

There is an interesting little story attached to Miss Owen's ownership of "Butterfly."

The Fine Arts actress and the veteran scout became staunch Scene from "A Woman's Awakening" (Triangle).

friends when they appeared together in "The Lamb" and other western features. Later on Kidd began to fail rapidly in health, and knowing that his end was near, he sent for Seena Owen and told her that it would be a great relief to him if he could know that his pet would be well cared for when he had gone. The old man had seen many faithful ponies end their careers as dray-nags after years of faithful service on the range, and he wanted an absolute assurance that "Butterfly" would be spared such a fate. For this reason, he said, he had already turned down two tempting offers for her.

Miss Owen put Kidd's fears to rest by purchasing the sorrel for a nominal sum, and advance notices say that "Butterfly" and her new mistress have made so pleasing an impression in "A Woman's Awakening" that they will appear together in other Triangle productions.

GAUMONT OUTPUT FOR WEEK OF APRIL 8.

It is difficult to choose between Gaumont's "Tours Around the World" and "Reel Life" for the week of April 8. These two entertaining reels released through Mutual are of such interest that both will hold the spectator for every foot of the film. First to reach the screen is No. 23 of "Tours," being released April 10. It takes spectators on a trip through the parks and gardens of Paris, to Lisbon, capital of Portugal, and to Volendam, one of the quaintest towns of Holland. While all are entertaining, perhaps the Parisian views will be best known, because of the frequency with which they are mentioned in fiction, books on France and current news.

The second release of the week is the Mutual Weekly, edited at the Gaumont studios. Needless to say, no forecast can be made of its contents, since no one can tell what the news will be during the week preceding its release, April 11.

"Reel Life No. 50" will reach the screen April 12. As in the case of the "Tours," it is hard to choose the leading section of this reel. Perhaps from a pictorial point of view first place should be assigned the graceful girls at the California school of Ruth St. Denis, "Denishawn." These beautiful young creatures are seen at work and play in the scanty and comfortable garb of the aesthetic dancer. "Making Wine in France" and "Indian Basketry" are entertaining. An important section is an animated exposition of how a torpedo could be launched from an aeroplane.

CHARLOTTE WALKER IN PATHE RELEASE.

"Mary Lawson's Secret," the Thanhouser-made Gold Rooster play which is to be released April 1, signalizes not only the first appearance of the famous Charlotte Walker on the Pathe program, but also represents the first picture ever put out with the rooster trademark which was directed by John O'Brien.

Miss Walker is an artist in the very "front rank" of her profession. She is now starring in Washington in the new play, "The Small Town Girl," which has not yet had its New York premiere. Among the successful plays in which she has recently starred were "The Easiest Way" and "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine." She was born in Galveston, Texas, and began her theatrical career in Richard Mansfield's company. Later she was James K. Hackett's leading woman for four years.

"Mary Lawson's Secret" was written by Lloyd Lonergan, and represents that well-known scenario writer at his best. It is strongly dramatic, and has been beautifully produced by Director O'Brien. It tells the story of a small town girl who becomes the innocent victim of the intense rivalry existing between two doctors, the one an old practitioner of the town, and the other a young man, a recent arrival.

The Pathe film committee considered this picture one of the strongest, best acted and best produced offerings of the season. Certainly the fine art of Charlotte Walker, the excellent support given by J. H. Gilmour and Robert Vaughn, and the uniformly intelligent treatment of Director O'Brien make it a "preferred" feature.

"A JEWEL IN PAWN" (Bluebird).

Ella Hall makes her next Bluebird appearance April 16, in "A Jewel in Pawn," based on a story by Constance Crawley and Arthur Maude. This is asserted to be a remarkably interesting and enjoyable five-reeler, carrying a homely theme, depicting incidents in the life of a little girl who has been left in pawn for money her mother intends to use in securing a happy future for herself and child. Incidental to the story will be the remarkable character study presented by Walter Belasco, as a kindly old pawnbroker; the skillful juvenile interpretation Antrim Short gives to the part of a newsboy, and Ella Hall's entirely consistent reflection of a little girl blessed with the faculty of doing the right and logical thing at just the right time. Jack Conway made the production, and among the supporting players will be Ella Hall's mother, who is cast to play the little girl's screen mother. Here is a play without a villain, without a crime being committed and without a forced "sensational" in evidence, the appeal of the story coming entirely from its naturalness, plus an exceedingly trenchant "heart interest."

Scene from "A Jewel in Pawn" (Bluebird).

Pathe Gets Dintenfass Comedies

Company Featuring Harry Myers and Rosemary Theby
Now Working in Jacksonville.

FURTHER strengthening of the Pathe program is seen in the announcement that, by the terms of a contract just consummated, by J. A. Berst, vice-president and general manager of Pathe Exchange, Inc., and Mark M. Dintenfass, the latter will start at once on the production of a new brand of comedies for the Pathe program, which will be known as the Myers-Theby comedies, and will feature the very popular Harry Myers and Rosemary Theby. The new comedies will strengthen the Pathe program with a weekly one-reel comedy release of distinct merit, and at the right time, since it was recently announced that the "Lonesome Luke" comedies will in the future be in two reels only, and released at the rate of one a month.

Mr. Dintenfass has made a success of comedy production. His comedies are not of the slapstick kind, but are full of what is known as "legitimate comedy." The story is always clean, always refined and original. His sets are real creations and show a high sense of the artistic.

Harry Myers, like his co-star, Miss Theby, is known and very well liked wherever pictures are shown. He is a true comedian, getting his "business across" quietly and effectively without the aid of facial distortion or grotesque posture. He started his film career about seven years ago as a leading man with the Universal under Mr. Dintenfass. Later he was with Lubin. Two years ago Mr. Dintenfass secured him for Vim comedies. He was born in New Haven, in 1882, and for ten years was in stock, repertoire and road attractions.

Rosemary Theby, the charming little comedienne who, with Mr. Myers, gives name to these new Pathe comedies, is a true screen favorite, since her entire career has been in motion pictures. She started in 1912 with the Vitagraph, and later was with Reliance, Lubin and Universal. Two years ago Mr. Dintenfass, who greatly admired her work, signed her for Vim. Miss Theby was born in St. Louis, in 1892. Her comedy work is dashing and clever, and she is greatly liked.

The stories of the new comedies will depict the laughable adventures of a newly married couple. One week's offering will show the young wife making her first attempts at cooking, another the couple meeting with various adventures while on a little trip, another the purchase of a new house, etc. The opportunities in such a series of stories for true comedy situations are many, and Mr. Dintenfass is an adept at bringing them out in the most effective manner. Furthermore, exhibitors are assured of the uniform excellence of the comedies by reason of the fact that each one released will have received the approval of the Pathe Film Committee, which passes upon the merits of each picture on the Pathe program before it can be issued.

The release date of the first of the Myers-Theby comedies will probably be in the early Spring.

AMBASSADOR GERARD IN THE MUTUAL WEEKLY.

Overshadowing all other news events of current interest is the return of James W. Gerard, ex-ambassador to Germany, from his post at Berlin. Naturally, the Gaumont company turned loose a battery of cameramen to photograph the distinguished diplomat. These pictures are shown in Gaumont's news reel, the Mutual Weekly No. 116. The Gerard party was photographed at Havana, Cuba, upon the arrival of the Infanta Isabel, the Spanish steamship upon which the trip from Europe was made. It is interesting to note that the film was taken by special messenger from Havana to the Gaumont studios at Flushing, N. Y., where the Mutual Weekly is produced and edited, arriving before Mr. Gerard had reached Washington. The finish of the devious trip from Berlin is pictured by the Washington cameraman.

HART TO STAY WITH TRIANGLE.

In reply to a rumor published in the news section of a New York theatrical paper last week, to the effect that William S. Hart intended to withdraw from the Triangle-Ince management upon the fulfillment of his present contract, R. W. France, General Manager of the Triangle Distributing Corporation has issued the following statement: "A rumor appeared in one of the theatrical papers last week to the effect that William S. Hart was about to leave the employ of Triangle. We wish emphatically to deny this rumor. We have confirmed the fact by telegraphic communications with the Ince Studio that there is no truth in it whatsoever."

GRAUMAN WILL HANDLE "THE WOMAN WHO DARED."

D. W. Grauman of the Grauman Feature Film Company of San Francisco has purchased the rights for California, Arizona and New Mexico on the initial release of the Ultra Pictures Corp., "The Woman Who Dared," featuring the well known prima donna and dramatic star Beatriz Michelena. Mr. Grauman says that the easiest way to describe the production is "seven reels of pep."

At the Fox Studios

"High Finance" Advanced—New Productions Under Way—
Howard Davies Joins the Staff.

FOX FILM CORPORATION announces that it has been found necessary to make a sudden change in the release schedule for March. On the 26th of the month George Walsh's newest production, "High Finance," which Otis Turner directed, will be offered instead of "North of Fifty-three," in which Dustin Farnum is starred. The scenario for "High Finance" was written by A. F. McGrew Willis from a short story by Larry Evans, the well-known young author.

The principals in the picture include Doris Pawn, Charles Clary, Rosita Marstini, who played Madame de Farge in "A Tale of Two Cities"; William Marr, a newcomer to Fox Films; and the ever-good Willard Louis.

R. A. Walsh, brother of the athletic George, has started another splendid production with Miriam Cooper as the star. The players are now in Truckee, Cal., "shooting" snow scenes, and some magnificent effects are reported already. The company will spend several weeks at Truckee before returning to the Fox studios in Hollywood, Cal., for interior work.

A notable cast has been gathered together by Director Walsh for the photoplay. Chief in Miss Cooper's support will appear Monroe Salisbury, Charles Clary, Ralph Lewis, Henry C. Barron, Howard Davies and William Eagle Shirt.

Monroe Salisbury had a long stage career before entering the silent drama. He was for two years with Katherine Kidder, for three with Mrs. Fiske, two with William Farnum and one with Nance O'Neil. He made his film debut in 1914.

Howard Davies, who has just allied himself with the Fox forces, received his early training on the English stage. He was also in vaudeville and in the legitimate in the United States for many years. Mr. Davies has been with many moving picture companies since he entered the photoplay.

Sedley Brown, for three years a teacher in the Sargent School of Dramatic Art, in New York City, who was in "The Mediator" and "One Touch of Sin" for Fox plays, has been cast for a part in the next George Walsh production.

Director Richard Stanton, who made "One Touch of Sin," is wearing his right hand in a sling now. The cause is an act of heroism which probably kept the William Fox studios in Hollywood, Cal., from suffering again a fire as disastrous as that of last November.

WILLIAM HINCKLEY TO SUPPORT EDNA GOODRICH.

William Hinckley has been signed as leading man to play opposite Edna Goodrich in "Reputation," by John B. Clymer, her first picture under her contract with the Mutual Film Corporation, on which the talented star will immediately commence work at the studios of the Empire All-Star Corporation, at Glendale, Long Island.

Mr. Hinckley is well known, both on the stage and screen. He was once a member of the famous Suburban Garden Stock Company, at St. Louis, where Marguerite Clarke gained much of her popularity, and he has supported Miss Clarke, Charlotte Walker, Amelia Bingham, and other stars of equal prominence on the stage.

Mr. Hinckley comes to the Mutual from Triangle, where he played opposite Norma Talmadge in "Children in the House" and in "Martha's Vindication," and Lillian Gish in "The Lily and the Rose."

PARAGON STUDIO FOR FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY.

The Famous Players-Lasky corporation has taken possession of the Paragon studio in Fort Lee, New Jersey, one of the largest and most completely equipped daylight studios in the world, which will henceforth be used for the production of Paramount pictures. The structure is to be renamed the Famous Players-Lasky studio, because of the fact that both the Famous Players and Lasky pictures will be produced in it.

When Madame Petrova returns from Jacksonville, where she has gone to do the exterior scenes in her first Lasky-Paramount production, she will proceed immediately to the newly acquired studio at Fort Lee, where Maurice Tourneur will complete the production. At the present time Marie Doro is finishing the Famous Players production, "Heart's Desire," at Fort Lee, and other productions starring these two distinguished stars will be staged there from time to time.

RAINBOWS CAUGHT BY PRIZMA CAMERA.

Rainbows, in natural colors, shot through the gray mist of Niagara Falls, will be an exceptional feature included in the showing of Prizma pictures at the Strand theater in the near future.

These are some of the few rainbows ever to be caught and held by a color camera, and will be the first of their kind that have been seen in New York.

The rainbow, which is due to refraction, reflection and dispersion of light in drops of water falling through the air, cannot, of course, be registered in black-and-white cinematography. The Prizma natural color process, capable of exhibiting the spectrum colors in their order, has brought the iridescent rainbows of Niagara Falls in addition to the majestic beauty of the falls itself to the motion picture screen.

World Film Reviews Year

Notable Record of the "Brady-Made" Productions Which Began with "The Closed Road."

THE first year of Brady-Made World Film productions concludes with the release, on April 16, of "Forget-Me-Not," starring Kitty Gordon. This offering, based on the play in which Rose Coghlan formerly starred, was produced in Cuba by Emile Chautard, Miss Gordon's company including Montagu Love, Alec B. Francis, George MacQuarrie, Lillian Herbert and Norma Phillips. "Forget-Me-Not" is said to be a drama with remarkably picturesque qualities.

The list of 52 photodramas released during the year by World Film is a notable one. The advance during the twelve months has been entirely remarkable. The World pictures Brady-Made now represent a most dependable and consistent program.

"The Closed Road," with House Peters and Barbara Tennant, was the first offering released by the World Film after William A. Brady became director general. During the year Alice Brady has starred in such brilliant screen plays as "The Dancer's Peril," in which she portrayed a danseuse of the Imperial Russian Ballet, "The Hungry Heart," adapted from the stage success, "Frou-Frou," "A Woman Alone," "Bought and Paid For," based on the successful George Broadhurst drama, "The Gilded Cage," "Miss Petticoats," "La Vie De Boheme" and "Tangled Fates."

Miss Brady's characterizations, of unusual variety, have been marked by an ever growing charm and versatility. Miss Brady now has a nation wide popularity. This was exemplified by the fan enthusiasm shown during her recent trips around the country.

Kitty Gordon is one of the foremost World Film stars. She has been accorded the honor of rounding out the first twelve-month of World-Brady productions. Earlier in the year Miss Gordon was seen in "The Crucial Test" and "Her Maternal Right." Other Kitty Gordon productions are in preparation.

Ethel Clayton during the year has become one of America's best known screen actresses. Among her prominent offerings of the period mentioned were "The Web of Desire" and "Man's Woman," in which Rockcliffe Fellowes was principal support. She appeared in "The Bondage of Fear," with Carlyle Blackwell in four productions, and with Holbrook Blinn in three more.

The World Film recently signed a new contract with Carlyle Blackwell, who is to be starred in a number of big productions during the coming twelve months. In the year just closing Mr. Blackwell added to his followers by his appearance in "The Social Leper," "On Dangerous Ground," with Gail Kane, "A Square Deal," "Sally in Our Alley" and in several offerings as co-star with Ethel Clayton.

During the year Clara Kimball Young, Gail Kane and Robert Warwick made frequent appearances on the World Film program. Mr. Warwick was seen in "The Family Honor," with June Elvidge and Henry Hull, "The Man Who Forgot," "A Girl's Folly," with Doris Kenyon, "All Man," "The Heart of a Hero," founded on the late Clyde Fitch's "Nathan Hale," "Friday the Thirteenth," and "Sudden Riches." Miss Young was seen in "The Rise of Susan," "The Dark Silence" and "The Feast of Life." Miss Kane has appeared in "As Man Made Her," "The Red Woman," "On Dangerous Ground," "The Men She Married," "The Scarlet Oath," "Paying the Price" and "The Velvet Paw," with House Peters.

Marie Dressler's appearance in the comedy, "Tillie Wakes Up," was the first entirely farcical contribution to the World program. It was so successful that Mr. Brady decided to make comedy a distinct part of next year's program.

Muriel Ostriche, Holbrook Blinn, Edna Wallace Hopper, E. K. Lincoln, Montagu Love, June Elvidge, Arthur Ashley, Mollie King, Evelyn Greeley, Gerda Holmes and Frances Nelson have been prominent in the year's releases.

The releases of the next few months, inaugurating the second World-Brady year, promise many interesting things. Alice Brady will be seen in "Darkest Russia," Carlyle Blackwell, June Elvidge and Arthur Ashley in "The Page Mystery," Muriel Ostriche and Arthur Ashley in "The Wit of a Woman," Ethel Clayton and Montagu Love in "Pretty Polly Pollard," Alice Brady in "Maternity" and Carlyle Blackwell, June Elvidge and Evelyn Greeley in "The Price of Pride."

RALPH KOHN ON INVESTIGATING TOUR.

Ralph Kohn, attorney for the Famous Players-Lasky corporation, left New York on Tuesday for an extended tour of the country for the purpose of making a detailed investigation of film conditions. The leading cities included in his itinerary are Toronto, Denver, Salt Lake City, and San Francisco. Mr. Kohn's first stop will be Toronto, where he will conduct a similar analytical study of conditions as they obtain across the border.

Mr. Kohn made a similar journey to Europe about three years ago, and is an authority upon motion picture conditions. It will be remembered that Mr. Kohn was the man who played such an important part in the investigation of motion picture insurance in New York, which ultimately resulted in the adoption by the New Jersey insurance people of several of his recommendations for the handling of motion pictures in that state. It is expected that Mr. Kohn's trip will extend over a period of several weeks.

"BEWARE OF STRANGERS" (Selig).

"Beware of Strangers" is now on its fifth straight week in the Chicago "loop," three weeks at the LaSalle and two weeks at the Bijou Dream, State street. The drama has also been seen and endorsed by Maclay Hoyne, State's attorney of Chicago, and other distinguished men.

Territorial rights for "Beware of Strangers" are selling fast according to the Selig company. Among territory already sold there is announced Indiana and Illinois, Central Film Co.,

Scene from "Beware of Strangers" (Selig).

Chicago; New Jersey, J. Frank Hatch; California, Arizona, Nevada, Hawaiian Islands, James Barton; New York State, New York Metro Film service; New England States, L. B. Mayer, Boston; Delaware, Virginia, Maryland, District of Columbia, Jos. F. Lee, New York City.

A fine line of publicity matter is announced for "Beware of Strangers" including one sheets, three sheets, six sheets and twenty sheet stands in various designs. Press sheets, cuts, slides, lobby display photographs of various designs, window cards, lobby display frame and picture for lobby in all colors.

"Beware of Strangers" was written by Gilson Willets from inspiration gained from newspaper stories of a blackmailing syndicate. There is an all-star cast which includes Thomas Santschi, Fritz Brunette, Jack Richardson, Bessie Eyton, Ed Coxen, Eugenie Besserer, Vivian Rich and others.

LINDER ON THIRD COMEDY.

In salubrious California Max Linder is now concocting his Essanay "Barrel of Fun No. 3." Max has not chosen a title for the comedy as yet. However, it is to do largely with two pretty girls, a taxicab, an irate chauffeur and himself.

Pausing only to express a sigh of relief at the end of his transcontinental journey—to European Max it seemed as if he had circled the globe—the noted comedian lost no time in getting down to work. In the extensive studio previously prepared for him at Culver City Max marshaled his forces and outlined the preliminary scenes. Part of the scenario had been written en route.

Max took most of his Chicago company with him. Emis-saries were sent out immediately on his arrival to recruit what more was needed.

Linder likes California, though no better than he did Chicago. His only difficulty, he explained, was in understanding how it could be zero weather at the beginning of his journey and straw-hat weather at the end—and still be the same country. It is probable he will fulfill the remainder of his contract with Essanay on the Pacific coast.

PLAYWRIGHT'S WIDOW IN MUTUAL SUBJECT.

Among the interesting artists who will appear in support of Miss Ann Murdock in her first Empire All-Star Corporation picture, "The Outcast," the Frohman stage success being produced for Mutual release, will be Miss Kathryn Calvert, the wife of the late playwright, Paul Armstrong. Miss Calvert, a dark-haired young woman with striking beauty, will appear as Valentine, a society girl, who represents the other end of the social scale from that in which Miriam (Miss Murdock) starts out.

Besides Miss Calvert will appear Kate Sargentson, the noted actress who has already been chosen for the next Frohman stage production; Jules Raucourt, the noted French actor who appeared with Miss Murdock in her production of "Please Help Emily"; Herbert Auling, who has played in many of the Frohman stage hits; Richard Hatteras, Reginald Corrington, Zola Tolma, Gertrude Andrews and Frank Goldsmith.

David Powell, the talented player whose most recent appearance was with Clara Kimball Young in "The Price She Paid," will play Miss Murdock's leading support.

STIRRING CLIMAX FOR "THE SINGLE CODE."

A climax that is both stirring and forceful is reached in "The Single Code," David Horsley's latest feature photodrama presenting the popular star, Crane Wilbur.

The story of "The Single Code" revolves around Hugh Carrington and Lorrie Stuart, the two principal characters played by Crane Wilbur and Florence Printy, respectively. Carrington and Lorrie have a cloud over their past though neither has made it known to the other. They are married and shortly after Lorrie learns of her husband's past relations with an adventuress. With true woman's heart she forgives.

Scene from "The Single Code" (Horsley).

Later Carrington discovers the ghost of his wife's earlier days and confronts Lorrie with his information.

The action that takes place at this point is of unusual dramatic interest and gives a convincing answer to the question on which the story is based, namely, is the double standard of morals just and fair.

"The Single Code" is produced in five reels and is released April 16. It is the second picture of the series of six Crane Wilbur features which David Horsley is distributing through the Mutual Film Corporation.

MUTUAL EXCHANGE MEN IN NEW YORK.

F. A. Leroy, of the Mutual office in Dallas, Texas, who has just been made manager of the El Paso office of the Mutual, is visiting his home in New York, after a two years' absence in the Lone Star State. Mr. Leroy dropped off to see Fred A. Keller, of the Mutual's St. Louis office, and Manager Kinson, of the Pittsburgh office, on his way East, and found both men enthusiastic about the increase in Mutual business since the "Big Star Only" policy was inaugurated. After a few more days in New York, Manager Leroy will visit the Mutual Main Office in Chicago before taking up his new duties in El Paso.

Hunter Bennett, traveling representative of the Mutual, spent a few days in New York last week, while making his usual swing around the circuit of Mutual exchanges. He reports business as excellent in all localities, with the "Big Star Only" policy of the Mutual showing splendid increases in new business.

SELZNICK CLOSES BIG POSTER CONTRACT.

A transaction of interest to all exchanges and exhibitors handling Selznick Pictures was consummated this week between Myron Selznick, purchasing agent of the Lewis J. Selznick Enterprises, and the National Printing & Engraving Co., through its representative, E. J. Doolittle. This contract involves about $700,000 and will prove of great benefit to the Selznick exhibitors and exchanges both as to the quality and price of the posters and facilities afforded for prompt shipment and delivery.

The poster output to be handled by the National Printing & Engraving Co. comprises for each production, a 24-sheet, a 6-sheet, two 3-sheets, two 1-sheets and a "cutout." The "cutouts" are a unique feature of the Selznick advertising, this firm having the exclusive right to these unusually attractive window display cards, the patent for which is held by the National Co.

"THE SINGLE CODE" RELEASE DATE IS APRIL 16.

Through an error April 19 was announced as the release date of "The Single Code." The correct date of release is April 16. "The Single Code" is a five-reel drama starring Crane Wilbur and is the second picture of the series of six Crane Wilbur features which David Horsley is releasing through the Mutual Film Corporation.

"EAGLE'S WINGS" FIRES PATRIOTISM.

That the West and the South have caught the fire of national preparedness as well as the Eastern states is evidenced by motion picture exhibitors and patriotic societies, including the Daughters of the American Revolution, in their correspondence with Bluebird Photoplays, Inc., seeking immediate bookings of the constructive patriotism photoplay, "The Eagle's Wings."

Just as motion picture exhibitors in New York City are co-operating with the Mayor's committee on national defense in keeping the declaration of loyalty to President Wilson before the public, so are the thousands of exhibitors throughout the land contributing their share of service and effort.

From Oklahoma, Texas, Mississippi, Georgia, Idaho and other remote states regents of D. A. R. chapters have written to Bluebird Photoplays, Inc., asking for open dates on "The Eagle's Wings." This national demand for the preparedness film based on the story by Rufus Steele seems to be unanimous on the part of the D. A. R., which by vote of its congress is pledged to preparedness.

Exhibitors appreciating the timeliness of the picture which exposes foreign intriguers and the sinister influences preying at the doors of congress, as well as emphasizing the industrial mobilization of this country's enormous manufacturing and producing resources for war uses, are giving the noted patriotic society hearty co-operation.

LESSER SECURES ART DRAMAS FOR WEST.

Contracts were signed this week by which the Art Dramas program will be controlled by Sol Lesser for the states of California, Arizona and Nevada. After a thorough investigation of the men and methods of the company, Mr. Lesser became convinced of the excellence of the program and of the reliability of its service.

In a statement regarding this important transaction, Mr. Lesser said: "I have contracted for Art Drama for the western territory after a thorough investigation. I have faith in the men behind the organization."

"I believe in the Art Dramas policy because it means Star Stories without the inflated star. Exhibitors are beginning to see the uselessness of paying exorbitant rates for a picture with a poor story, a poor cast and a poor production, redeemed only by the name of a fifty thousand dollar star. The excellence of the Art Drama program, on which there is no picture that is not distinguished by a splendid story, competent cast and artistic production, will, I am sure, prove a gigantic force toward putting the motion picture industry on a business-like basis."

MARGUERITE CLARK TO STAR IN "THE AMAZONS."

Arrangements have just been completed by cable with Sir Arthur Wing Pinero by the Famous Players Film company for the starring of Marguerite Clark in an adaptation of the celebrated English author's famous comedy, "The Amazons." This will follow "The Valentine Girl," in which Marguerite Clark will star on April 16. The release date for "The Amazons" has not yet been determined.

"The Amazons" is the most famous of Pinero's earlier plays, and had its first presentation in New York under the management of Charles Frohman, who introduced Pinero's greatest plays in this country, a fact which has caused the British playwright to be known in this country as one of the Charles Frohman authors. This comedy, which created such a sensation in 1894, and which enjoyed a long run, has been twice revived since then—in April, 1901, and in 1913.

GEORGE BEBAN PLAYS FRENCH CHARACTER.

In every production that George Beban has starred upon the screen, the celebrated character actor has appeared in the role of an Italian, his "Pasquale," "The Italian" and "His Sweetheart" having proven him one of the greatest Italian character actors on the screen. In his forthcoming Pallas-Paramount picture, "The Bond Between," Mr. Beban breaks his long standing record—it will be remembered that he had been appearing on the stage as the Italian in "The Sign of the Rose" for several years before entering into the motion picture field—and plays the role of a French musician.

The story was written by Mr. Beban himself, and work has just been begun on it under the direction of Donald Crisp, who has supervised Mr. Beban's most recent screen successes.

"THE DEEMSTER" AT BROADWAY SOON.

The Arrow Corporation's production of "The Deemster," the rights to which in New York State are controlled by Lewis J. Selznick, will receive its first public presentation in New York City on Sunday, April 8, in the Broadway theater. It will be staged with an elaborate score requiring an augmented orchestra and with special effects, which will greatly enhance its interest and value as an entertainment.

The run at the Broadway will be continued indefinitely. This will give state rights men in control of territory, especially in nearby states, an opportunity to demonstrate to exhibitors in their territories the real value of "The Deemster," as shown by its reception by large audiences.

Kalem Series "The American Girl"

Lavish Productions Are the Direct Result of a Country-Wide Demand for Open Air Dramas.

IN SPEAKING of the extraordinary success that "The American Girl" series, produced at the rate of a two-reel episode per week, is achieving, the Kalem Company draws attention to the renewed interest of the amusement going public in Western dramas.

There was a time, not so very long ago, when the demand for Western subjects slumped noticeably. This was probably due to the hackneyed plots that were called into existence in order to utilize Nature's picturesque backgrounds which are to be had for the asking in our Western states, particularly in Southern California.

Realizing that the dying interest in Western pictures could be revived by employing celebrated authors to prepare their stories, the Kalem Company secured Robert Welles Ritchie to write a series of twenty-five suitable for producing in two reels each. This series, "The Girl from Frisco," won so many new customers for Kalem and for the General Film Company that early this year arrangements were made to follow it with another series along similar lines, but with a new author.

Frederick R. Becholdt was thereupon engaged to outline the plots for "The American Girl." The first episode was entitled "The Black Rider of Tasajara," and it has broken all booking records for series pictures to date. Two other episodes have been released, and they are repeating the success of the initial release.

The Kalem organization contends, and undoubtedly they are right, that it costs them more proportionately to produce six reels of series pictures—that is, three complete story episodes—than it would to make one six reel production; and that, because of the extreme care bestowed upon each two-part episode, and the goodly sums spent for the stories and for players' salaries, exhibitors have accepted them as the short length features that they are, and are reaping a golden harvest whenever they show an "American Girl."

Speaking from the altruistic standpoint, the Kalem Company is to be commended for its enterprise in securing the services of Mr. Becholdt, an author who knows his West as well, if not better, than any other living author. The mighty influences for good, the healthy desires aroused in the breasts of those who are enjoying these clean stories of the rugged West can never be calculated, but they exist just the same. The entire industry is benefited and upheld by such productions.

Future Bluebirds

Some Are Ready for Release, Others Are in Preparation—All Hit a Good Average.

ALTHOUGH the releases on Bluebirds are definitely scheduled only as far as April 23, when Dorothy Phillips will make her regular appearance in "The Girl in the Checkered Coat," ten other features are either entirely finished or in forward stages of completion. To give exhibitors advance information on what they may expect before mid-summer, there are listed below the essential details of attractions from which the program will be formed.

Lynn Reynolds' newest production, "The Code of the Klondyke," was made at Truckee, Lake Huntington, Cal., where Alaskan "atmosphere" was available. Myrtle Gonzales, Lawrence Peyton and George Hernandez will be principals in the Charles N. Wilson, Jr., story. Mr. Reynolds has vividly reflected.

H. O. Davis, general manager of Universal City, has provided the story for an Ella Hall feature entitled "The Little Belgian," and a light comedy for Franklyn Farnum and Agnes Vernon called "Bringing Home Father." Miss Hall was directed, as usual, by Jack Conway, and the Farnum picture was made under the management of Wm. Worthington.

"The Clock," based on a story by Aaron Hoffman, also produced by Mr. Worthington, will be another Farnum-Vernon feature. "The Plow Woman," in which Mary MacLaren will be the star, was directed by Charles Swickard from a screen adaptation of Eleanor Gates' story.

Rex Ingram will furnish "The Flower of Doom," in which Wedgewood Nowell and Gypsy Hart will be the featured ones, with Goro Kino, a Chinese actor, and Frank Tokonaga, a Japanese player, doing prominent roles. Yvette Mitchell in this piece will give another of her extremely clever impersonations of a Chinese woman, and Nicholas Dunaew will also appear.

Dorothy Phillips will have an attraction exactly suited to awaken the enthusiasm of her admirers in "The Flash-Light Girl," based on Albert M. Treynor's story appearing in a popular magazine. Lon Chaney and Wm. Stowell will as usual be featured in Miss Phillips' support. Rupert Julian's production of "A Dime's Worth of Philosophy" will bring Little Zoe Rae back to Bluebirds for her second venture as a child star.

Charles Swickard has directed "The Great Adventure," in which Hignon Anderson will be featured, and there has been prepared a strong military subject directed by Allen Holubar, which will probably be called "His Country's Reward." In this feature Mr. Holubar will be featured with Lois Wilson his leading lady.

Three More "Skinner" Scenarios From Dodge

Success of "Skinner's Dress Suit" Moves the Author to Do More of the Same Kind.

KLEINE-Edison-Selig-Essanay has announced that there will be three more features along the lines of "Skinner's Dress Suit"; that is, they will be written by the same author, Henry Irving Dodge, and naturally will have many of the characteristics that made "Skinner's Dress Suit" the most talked about feature of this year.

Mr. Dodge recently visited George K. Spoor, president of the Essanay Film Mfg. Co., and arrangements were made for these three forthcoming features under the titles: "Skinner's Big Idea," "Skinner's Baby" and "Skinner's Waterloo."

Bryant Washburn will be featured in all of them, and will be supported by the identical cast which helped make him such a hit in "Skinner's Dress Suit." Harry Beaumont, who directed the first, will direct the three forthcoming plays.

"Skinner's Big Idea" will be the first produced of the three new features, and the Essanay studio folks have gone on record as saying that the subject matter of this play indicates that it will have even more human interest in the picture than "Skinner's Dress Suit," and that was the one big factor in that most successful picture.

Mr. Dodge appears to have the extraordinary faculty of making commonplace happenings in life really important. In "Skinner's Big Idea" it will be found that what has been passing before our eyes for many years without attracting especial attention, is indeed, one of the vital questions of our lives.

"The Whip" a State Right Example

Has the Elements of Success in Its Long Runs in Great Houses and the Accompanying Publicity.

THE box office values of great motion pictures are nowadays matters of actuarial calculation. "The Whip," the Paragon Film's production filmed by Maurice Tourneur on William A. Brady's colossal stage success of the same name is a case in point. Given a dual production on two of the greatest stages on the globe, Drury Lane, London, and the Manhattan Opera House, New York, with long and successful runs, the publicity accruing to the drama was enormous. "The Whip" thus became one of the best known dramas. The popularity of its title was insured. It assumed a fixed and permanent place in the catalogue of world's successes.

"The Whip" is too big for any program. It is a dramatic production which can only be handled in a spectacular way. It is a big-time picture appealing to dollar, 75-cent and 50-cent audiences.

Recent experience proves that given the picture having these publicity and production values, success in state right appropriations carries little risk. "The Whip" is a show which in virtue of its theme and the manner in which it is presented should make good everywhere.

NEWS OF THE WORLD DEMANDED BY THEATER PATRONS.

In these stirring times, when every day develops a crisis, patrons of motion picture theaters are demanding views on the screen of the events of world importance. It is imperative for the proprietor of every theater to satisfy the demand created by the general desire to know how the world is changing from week to week. The Gaumont company has appreciated this, and in its Mutual Weekly has ably satisfied this demand of the American public.

From abroad come pictures from the firing line and views of more peaceful activities of belligerent nations. The organization in the United States is without question unsurpassed as a news gathering agency. It is picturing events as they happen, and at present enlightening this country upon the work being done in preparing for war. The current issue of the Mutual Weekly shows, as one method of preparedness, the great aviation school maintained by the government near San Diego, Cal. The Gaumont company is fulfilling a patriotic duty in acquainting the public with such activities.

Aviation School, San Diego (Gaumont).

Mutual Features "Motherhood"

Second Marjorie Rambeau Subject Heads Program for Week of March 26.

MOTHERHOOD," the second of the Powell-Mutual productions starring Marjorie Rambeau, is scheduled for release March 26. This is a five-part picture with strong war color. Frederick Arnold Kummer, a writer of distinction and a record of successes, is the author. "Motherhood," according to the Mutual Film Corporation, is an even stronger production than Miss Rambeau's first picture, "The Greater Woman." "Motherhood" presents some unusual opportunities for effective advertising by the exhibitor, in addition to the box office value of the name of Miss Rambeau.

War—lurid, desperate war—is the theme. The picture is drawn in broad sweeps and in strong colors, yet Mr. Powell is said to have achieved a rare realism. A number of battle scenes of high authentic character appear in the course of the picture. But the essential war elements of the picture are not presented in scenes of battle and wholesale slaughter, but rather in the powerfully dramatic effect of war in the home and the family in the battle zones. "Motherhood" may be advertised from most any side of the war question the exhibitor chooses. It depends on the way you turn the argument. It is a preaching for the pacifist, and an argument for armament and protection for the fighters.

"Sunny Jane," a five-reel feature starring Jackie Saunders, is the first of six productions for Mutual in which Miss Saunders will appear. The interest of the patrons is always aroused by the statement that the first of a series of pictures is being shown, for they like to see it and judge for themselves whether the other features released from time to time in which this same star appears are worth coming to see. These Jackie Saunders features are comedy dramas full of good, clean fun, and will appeal to all the family.

"Shorty Lands a Master Crook," the eleventh story of the Mutual "Adventures of Shorty Hamilton" series, ready March 26, deals with the attempt to steal from a museum statues of "Psyche" and "The Dying Gladiator." Anita Keller and Shorty Hamilton pose as these statues and so foil the band of robbers. This is a subject which will appeal to all school children, and a facetious line asking them what they think "Psyche" and "The Dying Gladiator" would look like in real life and in a fist fight with undoubtedly arouse their interest, as well as that of the older people, in this Shorty picture.

On March 30 comes the second of the Jimmie Dale stories, entitled "The Stolen Rubies."

The Cub comedy for the week, with George Ovey to create the fun, is "Be Sure You're Right." This is available for booking on March 29. The Vogue comic production is "Freed by Fido," and features Lillian Hamilton, Owen Evans, Larry Bowes, John Oaker and George Monberg. Many of the scenes of this comedy are taken in Chinatown, and give an insight into the Chinese slums of San Francisco, with their underground passages and fantastic restaurants.

Mutual Tours Around the World No. 21, which comes on March 27, contains subjects this week which will be of especial interest to teachers and students of history. In the film are shown views of Ajaccio, Corsica, the birthplace of Napoleon Bonaparte, the grotto in which as a lad Napoleon dreamed of the future is shown, as well as the monument which has been erected in memory of the great emperor and his four brothers. Other places visited in this travelogue are Funchal, capital of the Madeira Islands, which, with its whitewashed houses against a background of mountains 4,000 feet high, presents a most attractive appearance. There are illuminating pictures of the natives, of Portuguese and Moorish descent. Another section shows Rostov-on-the-Don, a seaport of southeastern Russia. Among the interesting sights of the city are the bridge over the River Don, the cathedral of pure Russian type, the monument of Alexander II, the Liberator, and the statue of Catherine the Great.

The Mutual Weekly comes as usual on Wednesday of each week with its news of the hour and scenes from the history making of the week.

The third educational reel, "Reel Life No. 48," scheduled for March 29, depicts the almost superhuman work on the pulmotor in its mission of bringing back to life those who have been suffocated. An experienced operator demonstrates how to fit the apparatus over the mouth of the victim, and also how to furnish "first aid" until the pulmotor arrives.

A second section of this reel illustrates the Indian method of weaving the famous Navajo blankets. A number of ceremonial blankets are also pictured.

The big clock ornamenting the Herald building, a familiar sight to all New Yorkers, is next shown. This is unique, not only because of its interesting composition as a work of art, but also because the two figures on either side the bell strike the hours with their heavy hammers.

The next topic, Swedish gymnastics, give the elemental and also highly developed work of the classes.

The reel concludes with views of winter sports in Florida. aquaplaning, areoplaning and motor boating.

Fox Has New Comedy Company

Joins Lehrman in the Sunshine Comedy Company to Make Two-Reel Subjects.

WILLIAM FOX has added to his already huge motion picture enterprises by the formation of a new comedy producing organization. In addition to the regular Fox-film Comedy releases, the Fox Program will now offer the entire output of "The Sunshine Comedy Company." Mr. Fox is the president of the new organization and Henry "Pathe" Lehrman is the vice-president and general manager.

News of this project was made public this week on the return of Mr. Lehrman to Los Angeles for a conference with Mr. Fox who is now visiting the West Coast studios at Hollywood. The new company will have its producing studios in Hollywood, where, within the next week or ten days, four companies will be put to work, making comedies, under the direction and supervision of Mr. Lehrman for the Fox program. Present plans contemplate the production of a two-reel comedy every other week.

Mr. Lehrman has announced that three companies have already been organized. Billie Ritchie who was taken to the coast by Mr. Lehrman two years ago, together with Gertrude Selby who was one of the first players of the original Lehrman comedy company, will be the leads of one company to be directed by David Kirkland who has been affiliated with Lehrman for more than a year.

In addition to supervising the production of all comedies, Mr. Lehrman will direct one company and play leads himself. Opposite him will be Mildred Lee who accompanied him from New York. H. I. Symonds and Noel Smith who were formerly directors for a Lehrman comedy enterprise, will direct the third company. The players for this company have not yet been selected.

Lehrman has already produced and starred in one comedy for the Foxfilm Program. This picture is "The House of Terrible Scandals." Billie Ritchie and Gertrude Selby appear in the picture with Mr. Lehrman.

Flora Finch Comedy Ready

The H. Grossman Distributing Company Announces the Completion of the First Production.

THE famous funny woman will be seen in a surprise offering for which purpose the title of the picture will not be announced until the release day. Sales of the two a month output are a tremendous tribute to the popularity of the star. Without a sample print or a line of literature, Mr. Grossman completed a tour of all the territories in the United States and sold everyone of them for a year in advance on the state right basis at what is considered a high market price.

The display matter on the Flora Finch comedies will include feature lithographs, sepia photo sets and from time to time novelty souvenirs for the fans. Besides this, a publicity campaign is in operation in conjunction with the leading newspapers in every territory, which is made possible only by the enormous popularity of Flora Finch.

BRIEF STORIES OF TRIANGLE APRIL 8 RELEASES.

Dorothy Gish and Louise Glaum are the stars of the Triangle feature releases for April 8. Miss Gish will appear in a Fine Arts comedy of whimsical interest entitled "Her Official Fathers" by Roy Somerville, directed by Elmer Clifton and Joseph Henabery. Louise Glaum will be starred in a strong Kay Bee production of Paris war days, known as "Sweetheart of the Doomed," written by Jerome N. Wilson and directed by Reginald Barker under the supervision of Thomas H. Ince.

As the star of "Her Official Fathers," Dorothy Gish takes the part of Janice Webster, daughter of the late president of the Webster Trust Company, who is compelled to appeal to the executors of her estate for every penny that she has inherited by her parent's death. So stringent have been the provisions of her fond parents' last will and testament that she is not given an allowance for pin money. Many ludicrous complications ensue when Janice is obliged to interrupt directors' meetings to debate with the bank executives whether or not she shall have a new pair of stockings and other necessities of the feminine wardrobe. She even starts a run on the bank while arguing with the cashier over the price of her Easter bonnet. Miss Gish is supported by a strong cast, including Frank Bennett, Sam de Grasse, F. A. Turner and Fred Warren.

"Sweetheart of the Doomed" is hailed as the most dramatic and unique story that Louise Glaum has yet appeared in. It is a swiftly moving and colorful series of chapters in the life of Honore Zonlay, a siren of the Parisian "half-world," who nurses a bitter hatred for all mankind for the treachery dealt her in her youth and lives to exact revenge from all who linger on her path. How this cold and sinister charmer finally falls under the spell of a great love which leads her to devote herself with unselfish heroism to the stricken sons of France makes a screen production of remarkable box office possibilities.

"The Fighting Gringo" Leads Universal

Well-Balanced Program for Week of March 26—Drama, Comedy, Scenic and Educational Well Divided.

THE Universal Film Manufacturing Company offers a varied and interesting program of releases for the week of March 26. The program is exceptionally well balanced with drama, comedy, scenic and educational and sets a high mark in picture programs. The leading offering is the Red Feather five act drama of adventure, "The Fighting Gringo," starring Harry Carey, the popular delineator of Western characters.

The story is a gripping tale of love, intrigue and daring. It was written by Henry Wallace Phillips, put in scenario form by Maud George, and produced by Fred Kelsey. The settings of the picture are unusually attractive. In the cast supporting the star are such well known actors as Claire Du Brey, George Webb, Bill Gettlinger, T. Du Crow, T. D. Crittendum, Rex De Rosselli, and Vesta Pegg.

"The Fighting Gringo" will be released on Monday, March 26. On the same day will appear the Nestor comedy, "Shot in The West," written by C. B. Hoadley and produced under the direction of Louis Chaudet with Eddie Lyons and Edith Roberts in the leading roles.

A powerful human interest drama is offered Tuesday, March 27 under the Gold Seal brand entitled "The Startling Climax." It is a three part drama written by Karl Coolidge and produced by George Sargent with Val Paul, Fred Church, Gertrude Astor and other noted players. The most blasé picturegoer will find this a novel and unusual photoplay. The Victor comedy, "Never Too Old To Woo," with Marjorie Wilson and Jack Nelson is another Tuesday release.

Chief among the releases of Wednesday, March 28, is the L-Ko two-part comedy, "Dan's Dippy Doings," featuring funny fellow Dan Russell. This is a different type of film comedy which is sure to be a great laugh getter.

The Laemmle one-act drama, "Is Money All?" written by E. Magnus Ingleton and produced by Ruth Ann Baldwin with Irene Hunt in the leading role and the regular issue of the Universal Animated Weekly with all the latest events in pictorial form are the other offerings of this date.

The Powers of Thursday, March 29, is an extraordinary scenic entitled, "The Grand Canyon of Arizona." These pictures of that wonderful work of nature are the most comprehensive views ever taken of the Grand Canyon, and the tinting and toning of the film show the remarkable colorings of the walls of the canyon as nearly as it is possible to reproduce them. "David's Idol Dream," under the Imp brand, a two-act drama featuring Jay Belasco and Madge Kirby and the Laemmle one-act drama "The Mask of Love," with Pauline Bush and Lon Chaney, will also be released Tuesday.

"The Crimson Blade," the fourth of the adventure series, "The Perils of the Secret Service," written and produced by George Bronson Howard, will appear Friday, March 30. Other releases of this date are the Victor one-act comedy, "Prodigal Papa," with Jane Gail and the twelfth issue of the Universal Screen Magazine.

"Steel Hearts," a two-part drama of railroad life, featuring Marie Walcamp and Lee Hill, will be released under the Bison brand on Saturday, March 31. The Joker comedy, "What The —?" with Gale Henry and William Franey is the other offering for this date.

"Faw White," a three-part screen fantasy especially fitting for children's performances, starring dainty Elsie Alberts will be presented Sunday, April 1. The Powers split reel, "Inbad The Sailor," a comedy cartoon, and an educational subject will complete the program.

"The Spider's Web," the third episode of "The Voice On The Wire," with Ben Wilson and Neva Gerber, and the fourteenth episode of the popular serial, "The Purple Mask," with Grace Cunard and Francis Ford will be released during the week.

FANNIE WARD AND SESSUE HAYAKAWA TO CO-STAR.

Arrangements have been completed by Jesse L. Lasky to co-star Fannie Ward and Sessue Hayakawa in a forthcoming production for Paramount pictures. This will be the second time that the celebrated Lasky stars have appeared together on the screen, as it will be remembered that they created a sensation in Hector Turnbull's "The Cheat," which was released by Paramount December 13. This picture made such a hit at the time of its release that it has since been adapted as a play, and is now in process of being prepared for operatic presentation.

"THE SCHEMERS" THIRTEENTH "GIRL REPORTER."

"The Schemers," the thirteenth unit of the Mutual "Perils of Our Girl Reporters" series, is a tale of love, political intrigue and newspaper enterprise in which one girl foils a band of murderers, upholds the hands of civic reformers, brings a murder plotter to justice and fulfills her newspaper mission. Zena Keefe is the successful newspaper woman in this story; Earl Metcalfe portrays the reform politician, and William Turner is the villain.

World Gets "Mothers of France"

Patriotic Picture Production Featuring Sarah Bernhardt Secured for America.

THE keen competition for the American rights of "Mothers of France," the Sarah Bernhardt motion picture play which had such a sensational reception last week at the Rialto Theatre, New York, has been concluded in favor of the World Film Corporation, of which William A. Brady is director general.

When Louis Mercanton, who organized and directed this picture, first visited New York to dispose of the rights he was so overwhelmed with competitive offers that he concluded not to close immediately with any of the bidders, and returned to Paris for further consideration. He explained at the time that the mere disposal of the rights for the highest obtainable price was not the whole object.

"The making of the photoplay," continued Mr. Mercanton, "would have been impossible but for the patriotic significance attached to every part of the undertaking. In the first place Madame Bernhardt had not been enraptured with acting before the camera in her previous experience, and only her passionate love of country induced her to consider my proposition. Then, too, Jean Richepin never could have been induced to write a moving picture scenario upon any other subject or for any other artist. And finally, but for the spirit of the occasion and the distinguished character of actress and author, the government would have refused its participation and protection in making the military and hospital scenes.

"So, you see, it was necessary in placing 'Mothers of France' for America that we should think of something above and beyond getting the last possible dollar out of it, and we will take our time, by way of being sure we are making the right choice."

The World Corporation on the other hand experienced no difficulty in demonstrating the efficiency of its distributing machinery, and for that and other reasons the decision finally fell in this direction. The deal was closed and the contracts were signed on Wednesday.

Meanwhile the photoplay was produced at the Rialto Theatre with results of an entirely extraordinary character. Before the first morning showing had fairly started, the large audience room was densely packed, and frequently during the afternoon and night the box office line stretched along Seventh Avenue for three fourths of a block. So great was the rush that the management arranged to open the doors at 10 a. m. through the week.

Inside the theater wild scenes of emotion and patriotic fervor were enacted. Nearly all the women and girls and many of the men were in tears. From the opening of the first mobilization scene in the little village of Meurcy the applause was practically continuous. At frequent intervals it arose to the cheering point, and spectators sprang to their feet, waving their programs and shouting "vive la France."

WILLIAM DESMOND IN "PADDY O'HARA."

William Desmond will make his sixth stellar appearance on the Triangle program early in April when Thomas H. Ince will present him in a brisk Kay Bee comedy-drama by J. G. Hawks, entitled "Paddy O'Hara."

The scenes of this story are laid in London, Ireland and two imaginary Balkan principalities. Desmond takes the part of a versatile Irish war correspondent, representing a big London newspaper, and his adventures are said to be pictured with vivid and colorful humor.

Mary McIvor, who make a strong impression in her leading part with William S. Hart in "The Square Deal Man," portrays the character of Princess Maryska, and advance notices credit her with a performance of youthful charm and naturalness.

Other well known Ince players having prominent parts in the cast are Robert McKim, J. J. Dowling and Walt Whitman. Walter Edwards, who handled most of the Keenan successes, directed the production.

LESSER COMPLETES NATIONAL ORGANIZATION.

Sol L. Lesser, the young exchange man of the Pacific Coast, whose meteoric career in the West has attracted considerable attention, and whose purchase of "The Ne'er-Do-Well" for the United States electrified the film world, has so extended his activities that he is now able to handle this subject through his own offices.

When interviewed, Mr. Lesser said: "I am greatly pleased with the success of the V-L-S-E organization with 'The Ne'er-Do-Well' and they have more than justified my actions in placing the picture for distribution through their offices, as I did not have the organization to handle a high-class production at that time. At the present time, however, I am in a position to handle 'The Ne'er-Do-Well' through my own offices and affiliations. In a few territories where I have received flattering offers, I will sell outright."

The branch managers of the V-L-S-E are turning over to Mr. Lesser many requests for return bookings from delighted exhibitors, who have played the picture, as well as hundreds of requests for bookings from towns that they have not been able to fill.

Grossman Completes Coast to Coast Swing Speaks for the "Seal of the Square Deal"—Discusses Trade Conditions.

LEAVING New York with no advance announcement whatsoever H. Grossman, head of the H. Grossman Distributing Co., of 729 Seventh Ave., New York City, returns this week from the Pacific coast. Having said nothing when he went, he has a great deal to say on returning.

The head of the house that trades under the seal of the square deal, announces his trip as very successful, and he will soon issue a list of the exchanges which he has signed up for a year's purchases in advance. Besides "Will You Marry Me?", "Mutt & Jeff," and "Hans & Fritz" cartoons Mr. Grossman's stock contains the first releases on the Flora Finch comedies. While he refuses to divulge what these first releases are he simply points significantly to a batch of papers which are the said contracts.

"I want even newspaper men to get this right: That when I say something in an advertisement I mean it. My last announcement stated positively that I would not go into rhapsodies of glorifications of my goods. This goes now the same as it will later. If you want to know anything about the Flora Finch comedies ask the exchange men throughout the country to whom I showed them, or better still wait until after April first, when the first release is issued, and you will get the truth from a source that you cannot accuse of exaggerating.

"I found conditions throughout the country very robust in the open market. In my swing to the South I saw quickly that there was rapid development in that territory and that the making of open market features is keeping the territory alive and fertile. You know the South has been thought the most difficult in the country. I tell you it is very healthy now. In California I found new concerns entering with all the elements of responsibility which some of the old concerns lack. I signed a contract for our product with one of these new exchanges known as the M. & R. Film Exchange in San Francisco. Here are two gentlemen, Messrs. Mayer & Rosenthal, who will be heard from in this industry. They follow exactly a creed that I laid out for myself when I first came into this business which was this: They do not pretend to know the film business, but they do know business. That is the basis upon which I believe they will become, together with the string of theaters they now control, one of the most vital features in the Pacific coast's activities.

"Washington and Oregon show a healthy state of conditions—that the public is rapidly learning to pay from fifty cents to one dollar for big features. I found similar conditions in other territories and no man can travel over this distance without feeling the thought uppermost in his mind that the term 'movie' is a terrifically sad misnomer. It is only in comparatively few sections that the one dollar film is unknown and I for one am very anxious to take steps immediately in starting a movement which may give the film-loving public a more elevating term by which to characterize our form of amusement. Comparing my observations on this trip it is a towering fact that motion pictures are not getting a square deal.

"Now that I have returned here, my full energy will be devoted to open wider the open market. There is no question in the world but that the fittest have already survived in so far as quality is concerned. A man with a product of merit finds not trouble selling his goods, but there is still a great difference in opinion as to price. It is difficult to arrive at a definite figure as to what a given production can bring in a given territory. The result is that neither the producer nor the exchange man is standing on safe ground during the negotiation of a sale. I mean that the returns are still too problematical. This is, of course, influenced greatly by the varying character of the productions offered, but I think it only a question of time when some sort of trade council will place limitations on figures that can be asked or offered. Under such circumstances, we will have reached the commercial basis which every business man in motion pictures is striving for."

"GOD'S MAN" NEARING COMPLETION.

The Frohman's Amusement Corporation's ten-reel super photograph production of Anthony P. Kelly's adaptation of George Bronson Howard's remarkable novel of New York's elite underworld, its night life and wild old Broadway, which the author has most comprehensively entitled, "God's Man," is rapidly nearing completion under the direction of George Irving, the Frohman supervising director, who was also at the helm of promotion of "The Witching Hour."

For more than the past nine weeks, Director Irving with his army of technical assistants, has been working with a marked precision at the Frohman Corporation, Flushing, L. I., studios, and at various points on the north shore of Long Island and the Atlantic Coast and at the intimate points along Broadway, where the scenes of the story have been laid by the author.

With his return last week from a sea trip off the Virginia Capes, where he has been laying in wait for a real storm, Director Irving has about completed the taking of his picture and begun the work of cutting of his subject. It is probable that God's Man will have a special showing prior to its release, in New York City.

Taking of Fashion Pictures Hard Work

Miss Florence Rose Describes the Multitude of Detail Entering Into Pathe Feature.

THE Pathe Florence Rose Fashion Films now released in five hundred foot lengths every week and shown in many of the leading theaters of the country, represent real completeness of service to the public and therefore to the exhibitor. To see some of the prettiest girls in New York walking through handsome sets in beautiful clothes as if life is all sunshine and roses is pleasant to men and women alike, but only women can begin to realize the amount of work necessary before the completed picture can be presented on the screen of the big theater which is their favorite motion picture house, because it caters to their taste and gives them what they want.

Miss Florence Rose, the directing genius of these successful fashion films, is a real, wideawake woman who is working all the time in a field she knows through experience, to stimulate a larger interest in American fashions for American women. Through her films and newspaper articles she has a large following.

"Much thought must be given to what types of garments will be most interesting to the women at the time the film is released," said Miss Rose. "These cannot be all suits nor all dancing dresses, but a variety of costumes to fill the wants of all women.

"After this has been thought out comes the plan of scenario—what are the correct settings for the costumes, as well as what the girls are to do. Then conferences with the head carpenter, artist and property man, working out the detail for the sets.

"The manufacturers come next on the program, and if any one thinks that to gather clothes for a fashion film is child's play, let them spend one morning doing it. Hats, bags, parasols and all accessories each from a different manufacturer are then procured.

"Next comes the selecting of the girls to fit the clothes and the scenario. Right here is one of the most difficult phases of the work. The morning of photographing means getting up at 5:30 or 6 o'clock to pack the clothes and going to the studio by motor at 8 with from nine to eighteen boxes. Arriving at the studio all the things are again unpacked and hung in the stock room.

"After all the waiting is over, and the stills made, the girls can then put on their makeup, and the work of taking the motion picture of fashion begins.

"The taking of a fashion film is quite different from other motion picture filming as all of the photographing must be done as close as possible, that the value of the clothes can be brought out during the long shot. Far more important are the close-ups, which must be as large as the lens can frame, and each garment studied so that the style and especially interesting part of the garment be shown.

"Quite often it is necessary to cut the close-up to show the entire costume properly; this means showing first the hat, then the figure to the waist, afterward from the waist to the lower edge of the frock. For this reason I stand all day beside the cameraman looking in the camera each time to see that the object appears large and clear enough.

"Generally by 8 o'clock at night the work for the day is finished, the costumes gathered together, checked and packed ready for the trip home."

HEARST-PATHE NEWS SHOWS GREAT QUESTIONS OF THE DAY.

The three subjects that command the most mention in the newspapers of today are preparedness for the war which seems to be imminent, legislation at Washington, and the high cost of living. The Hearst-Pathe News strongly reflects public interest in these matters, and in Number 19 one half of the issue is given up to them.

Preparedness is the theme of a number of scenes, among them some of bellboys drilling on the roof of one of New York's biggest hotels and students of Norwich University going through their manoeuvres in deep snow.

The high cost of living is brought to mind by views of great storehouses of food in Chicago and Kentucky burning to the ground, thus lessening the supply of available food materials and increasing the cost of those remaining. Views are also shown of the unloading in Boston of shiploads of potatoes rushed there in the endeavor to break that city's potato famine.

The centering of public interest in the national capital is illustrated by scenes of the President about to make his famous speech to Congress on breaking with Germany, and of Secretary Lansing as he reveals the secret plot by which Germany sought to ally Mexico and Japan with her against the United States.

FROM SLIDES TO FILM.

So many requests have been received for announcement cartoon trailers, that the Novelty Slide Company of New York have inaugurated a motion picture department and have prepared an attractive line of striking announcements in cartoon film. These include "Welcome," "Good Night," "One Minute, Please," "Ladies Kindly Remove Your Hats" and other screen announcements. The trailers run in fifteen-foot lengths and the cartoons are the work of recognized artists in this line.

"The Honor System" Great Success

Fox's Big Photomelodrama Awakens Human Emotion and Patriotism to Wonderful Degree.

THE message of "The Honor System," R. A. Walsh's master-drama, now in the sixth week of its successful run at the Lyric theater, New York, has been taken, by one single movement, into the homes of a million good Americans. That number denotes the extent of a country-wide canvass that William Fox has made in the interest of the big picture—one million sets of questions—concerning the story and its purpose, with pictures, specially designed folders and interesting data. Mr. Fox sought to present to the entire country a visualization of the big story, with its powerful lesson, and get the critical expression of the million. By appealing to two of the strongest factors, human emotion and patriotism, he calculated that he could make a man see the picture in the silent sanctuary of his own consciousness. How well he succeeded was attested by more than 50,000 replies from every state in Uncle Sam's realm. And the newspaper and trade press have given it the highest praise.

Mr. Fox, in California, has received word that the ten-reel cinemelodrama has swung into a banner success at the theater which housed "A Daughter of the Gods," and that the new feature had fallen heir to even more of the same patronage and popularity that had marked the long run of the Kellermann picture. He is gratified at the long lists of names of distinguished guests who had attended "The Honor System," and have written their appreciation of it to press and to producer in most glowing terms.

He is proud of the fact that within a month the tremendous emotional pull of the drama had drawn more than 100,000 spectators to the Lyric; this throng included 75,000 women—practically every progressive club woman in New York city—1,500 of them attended a special performance. No similar gathering of well-known and influential women of national reputation ever attended a staged or screened performance and gave such enthusiastic testimony for the play as happened when the gathering of them which included all of the presidents of the allied clubs of the Women's Federation attended the special showing. They unanimously indorsed "The Honor System" as the highest achievement of melodrama, an inspiration to fervent patriotism and a great object lesson as to its humanitarian theme. They had laughed and wept under its spell, and readily conceded its characterization as "the greatest human story ever told."

There has been developing in this country during the last twenty years what is known as a "public conscience," and, perhaps unwittingly, William Fox has proved its existence to the satisfaction of himself and all others, and has put it to the test. He has found it is a real conscience, subject to deep, underlying disturbances, just like individual consciences—that it is neither hypocritical or cowardly, although jealous of its owner's reputation.

For that reason a delegation of the most prominent club-women of New York and Washington, D. C., have written a letter to the Fox Film corporation sponsored by over 400 signatures of those who have awakened to the fact that the motion picture, like the book of Truth, is a stupendous factor in our national development, and must be taken seriously.

Scene from "The Honor System" (Fox).

NOT TO SHOW IN CHURCHES.

Some misunderstanding was caused by the first announcement of the Unique Film Corporation regarding its production of the "Catholic Truth Film" series. It was then stated that they were to be shown in parish halls and churches, but Norman W. McLeod, president of the corporation, denies this intention, stating that the plan of distribution is on state rights basis after a number of the leading cities have been played under Catholic auspices in regular theaters only.

In each of the principal cities of the country committees are now being formed to facilitate the showing of the films, and to arrange local presentation under the auspices of the most powerful local societies or combination of Catholic clubs. Preliminary work is being done now on Bishop Anderson's play, "A Dream of Empire," and this will be put into actual production upon the arrival of Signor Camilleri, the director-in-chief, who is now on his way from Europe.

"THE BOOB" (Selig).

General Film Co. is calling special attention to the merits of "The Boob," the latest of the Selig multiple-reel productions to be released in General Film Service. "The Boob" is a comedy-drama produced by Otis B. Thayer from the story by Roland Ashford Phillips. The picture has to do with the consuming ambition of Don Whipple of Pleasant Valley, to become a Sherlock Holmes. His butter and egg money amounting to $100.00 is cheerfully handed over to a gentleman stranger, who furnishes Don with a bright shield and a diploma. Don works overtime at the detective business, and his industry is rewarded when he encounters a masked man robbing the post-office. How the country youth, classed as a "boob" effects the capture of the notorious crook, wins a thousand dollar reward and incidentally the love of a pretty country girl, combine to make this comedy-drama very entertaining. It is one of the few productions which contains both a laugh and a tear. The acting and scenic effects are all that can be desired. The photography is of the usual excellent standard set by the Selig company.

Scene from "The Boob" (Selig).

"LIGHT IN DARKNESS" (Edison).

A five-reel production of "Light in Darkness," a story of the West by Peter B. Kyne in which Shirley Mason, the latest star in the motion picture firmament, will be featured, is being made at the studios of Thomas A. Edison, Inc., in New York. This story, laid in California, appeared in the Saturday Evening Post and it is constructed in the best style of the noted author who wrote it. Hilary Kenyon and Ramsey Latham, the former unjustly convicted for an assault she committed in self-defense and the latter "railroaded" to prison as the result of the failure of a bank by which he was employed, see each other while they are being taken to the penitentiary. Five years later they both are released and, meeting again, they marry and start life over again on a ranch owned by Latham.

In this production Miss Mason is surrounded by a particularly strong supporting cast. The part of Latham is taken by Frank Morgan while William Tucker fills the role of Sheriff Milligan. Among the other members of the cast are Bigelow Cooper, William Wadsworth, Charles Martin, Sam Niblack, Nellie Grant and Betty Young.

TRIANGLE WINS INJUNCTION SUIT.

An injunction suit brought by the Philadelphia Booking Company, H. Schwalbe, president, against Triangle Film Corporation and Triangle Distributing Corporation, to procure an injunction restraining the defendants from cancelling the plaintiff's franchise of Triangle films in Philadelphia, came up for hearing in the Court of Common Pleas before Judge H. N. Wessel on Friday, March 9 and Saturday, March 10. After hearing the testimony of Mr. Schwalbe, president of the plaintiff, and the argument of counsel for both plaintiff and defendants, Judge Wessel denied the plaintiff's motion for a preliminary injunction for want of equity. Morris Wolf and Judge Gordon of Philadelphia were counsel for the plaintiff and Mr. William B. Linn of Philadelphia and Messrs. R. W. France and W. N. Seligsberg of New York, represented the defendants.

Bluebird Manager Back

M. H. Hoffman Returns from an Extended Tour of Bluebird Branches.

M. H. HOFFMAN, general manager of Bluebird Photoplays, Inc., returned last Thursday from a swing around the circle of Bluebird branches that extended from Coast to Coast. Mrs. Hoffman accompanied her husband, making the trip a celebration of the fifteenth anniversary of their marriage.

Mr. Hoffman made it a point to not alone see the managers of various exchanges, but mingled with the exhibitors to gather their views and opinion on Bluebirds and to learn for himself, through the theater managers, how the general public in various cities visited had been influenced by Bluebird's National advertising campaign.

"The father of Bluebirds," as one of the Portland, Ore., papers referred to Mr. Hoffman, was entirely satisfied with conditions as he found them except in a few instances, where some branches were not using enough prints to handle their trade in a completely satisfactory manner. As a result, eighteen additional prints were ordered for territory west of Chicago.

While he was in Denver contracts for full-week runs of Bluebirds were approved by Mr. Hoffman for the Paris theater, and in San Francisco for the St. Francis. In Butte, Bluebirds were established in the Rialto. Starting from Chicago the route followed led to Denver, Salt Lake, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland, Seattle, Vancouver, Spokane, Butte, Minneapolis, Chicago, Detroit and home.

Mr. Hoffman spent two weeks in Los Angeles, where Bluebirds are made, and states that when the equipment there of man and woman power, the stages and environments, are considered, there is no mystery in the reason for Bluebirds being Bluebirds. He was surprised at the improvements in methods of picture production, which have arrived close to perfection.

"What most impressed me as a healthful sign of the time, in view of the high salary situation, now engaging the thoughtful attention of 'star system' producers," says Mr. Hoffman, "was the concurrence in Bluebird's policy that exhibitors everywhere expressed. In the twelve months we have been about it, Bluebird seems to have convinced the exhibitor of our features that the play is, indeed 'the thing.'"

"Bluebird's purpose in basing its success upon the play and production, as well as the abilities of the players, was at the outset forced upon the exhibitor and the result has worked like administering cough medicine to a child. At first the kiddies object to taking the nostrums, but in the end they have no cough. So with the exhibitors of Bluebird; our policy has cured their complaint."

"THE SINGLE CODE," NEW HORSLEY SUBJECT.

April 19 has been set as the release date for the second picture of the series of six features starring Crane Wilbur which David Horsley has produced and which the Mutual Film Corporation is distributing. The title of this second picture is "The Single Code."

As the title suggests, "The Single Code" has a morality theme. It treats of the so-called double standard of morals. While it is true that the play teaches a powerful lesson it is by no means a ponderous preachment. The manner in which the plot is unfolded and the moral achieved make it possible for the play to gain not only its point but at the same time to provide five reels of interesting subject matter.

Scene from "The Single Code" (Horsley).

Crane Wilbur is the author of the story and also plays the featured role. He is assisted by a big cast of well known players, including Harriah Ingraham, Florence Printy, Nan Christy, John Oaker, Olive Stokes, Ernesto Garcia and F. A. Johnston.

Buyers for "Enlighten Thy Daughter"

Ivan Feature Being Placed With Strong Promoters by Mr. Brock.

TERRITORIAL rights for Ivan Abramson's dramatic production "Enlighten Thy Daughter" are being disposed of at a rapid rate. Henry J. Brock, president of the Enlightenment Photoplays Corporation, announced early this week the following territories allotted: Greater New York, Lewis J. Selznick. Mr. Selznick will handle the production through his Metropolitan exchange. New York state outside the greater city, Louis T. Rogers, who maintains his distributing channel at Buffalo and who, in addition, controls the Selznick pictures for the same zones of exhibition.

John H. Kunsky, one of the foremost of the old-line exchange men, with offices at Detroit, secured the Michigan rights to the picture while William Sievers of St. Louis procured the rights of the film in Missouri. Joseph M. Galtes acting for the Fontana Film Corporation of Pennsylvania, purchased the rights to the feature for the entire state, in which territory he also controls Civilization and other productions and Frank Hall of the New Jersey Civilization Company with branches throughout the state of New Jersey, secured the rights in that field from Mr. Brock.

N. H. Gordon of Boston, acting for the Globe Feature Film Corporation with offices in the New England metropolis, bought the New England franchise and will release through the offices bearing the Globe name. Canada was sold to Harry Kaufman and has already passed the somewhat critical censors in certain communities and will be submitted to others this week. No trouble is anticipated from censor sources, however, for the picture has been endorsed by various civic and national organizations and was this week given an unusually commendatory editorial in the official organ of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Other territory will be sold this week. The transactions for same having been held up because of other business necessitating Mr. Brock's absence from the city.

"THE MAGIC VEST" (Black Diamond).

Filled with comedy punch from start to finish, in which there are to be found hundreds of laughs, "The Magic Vest," which will be released by Paramount Pictures Corporation on March 19, is the best single reel comedy that has ever come from the Black Diamond studio.

The story tells of two wandering sons of rest, thoroughly discouraged, who are about to leave the highway and seek seclusion, when they discover coming down the road, a runaway team attached to a gypsy wagon. A passenger train is approaching, and in a moment the wagon will be upon the track; they hurriedly grasp the horses within two feet of the track, just as the train shoots by.

The old gypsy whose life they saved, in gratitude gives them a vest which had been given to his grandfather by a great prophet. This vest was guaranteed to bring great luck to the wearer. This is proved, for Journeying Jim had scarcely donned the vest when an automobile halts, and they are requested to ride. The luck continues, bringing them many meals, drinks, etc.

Finally they meet a discouraged young man who tells them that he has lost his position as cashier of a bank, and they conclude to apply for same. They secure it, and their efforts to run the bank, produces comedy of a good, wholesome sort. There is a run on the bank, which they meet. Restored confidence brings deposits of millions, with comedy complications.

Two wild west burglars shoot up the institution, but are finally captured by the new managers. Business is so rushing, that Journeying Jim, seeking relief from the heat, removes the vest. His luck departs. With his partner, he is thrown from the bank, and a street washer uses his hose to send them on their "no longer merry" way.

TRIANGLE CANCELS PHILADELPHIA EXCHANGE CONTRACT.

R. W. France, the general manager of the Triangle Distributing Corporation, gives out a statement to this effect: "The Triangle Distributing Corporation has cancelled the contract with the Philadelphia Booking Company for distribution of Triangle films in Philadelphia. We have taken this action because we believe that it is to the interest of our exhibitors that we should deal with them directly through our own exchange. Hereafter exhibitors in Philadelphia who desire to do business with us will have the opportunity to do so without the intervention of any intermediary whose methods of booking and general methods of conducting their business we are unable to control."

HEARST-PATHE NEWS CLAIMS "BEAT."

The Hearst-Pathe News claims a clean beat on pictures of the inauguration ceremonies at Washington. President Wilson was inaugurated in the morning and pictures taken of him at this time by the Hearst-Pathe News cameraman were issued locally and shown in Washington theaters that same night to very enthusiastic and appreciative audiences. The negative was rushed to the factory by special messenger and prints were shown in the New York theaters on Tuesday, the day following the event.

Trade News of the Week

GATHERED BY OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS

Working on Booking Plan to Get Big Films

Walter H. Golding of the Imperial at St. John May Get a Big Special Feature Each Month in Conjunction with Canadian Keith Houses.

From F. F. Sully, the La Tour, St. John, New Brunswick.

ST. JOHN, N. B.—The gradual elevation of picture entertainment, in which expensive royalties, exclusive stars and high rental rates are necessarily involved, is bringing about an upward tendency in prices, and Walter H. Golding, manager of the Imperial theater, in conjunction with the Keith interests in Canada and the adjoining territory, is endeavoring to formulate a system whereby the choicest of the high-priced productions may be introduced at monthly intervals at a 25-cent scale.

In Boston, New York and the larger American cities prices range from 25 cents to $2 for the same pictures that the Imperial hopes to introduce for 25 cents. As far as traveling shows are concerned, as well as stock companies, St. John seems to be figuratively wiped off the map, because of the permanent policies of the various theaters. The Imperial manager has expressed his willingness to introduce the most exclusive qualities of metropolitan successes if the St. John theatergoers are willing to give the necessary support to the venture.

Entertainment matters in St. John are in a process of evolution at the present time. With the conclusion of the war and a happy readjustment of household and business affairs, the Keith interests will carry out long-prepared plans for linking St. John with Portland, Boston, Montreal and New York in a manner quite in keeping with their policies in this continent and in England.

Mitchell Bernstein Expects to Stay in St. John.

St. John, N. B.—When asked what preparations had been made for his taking over the managership of the Montreal office of the Famous Players, a change that was announced in one of the trade papers, Mitchell S. Bernstein, manager of the St. John exchange, said that he had received no advices of his appointment as successor to Harry Kaufmann.

Palace Is Using Kitchen Chairs.

Pictou, N. S.—Solomon Soffe, proprietor of the Palace theater, has just returned from a business visit to St. John. His theater is now open and doing a good business. In lieu of the regular orchestra chairs, which he has not yet installed, he is using a supply of kitchen chairs, which he claims fill the bill for the present.

People's Theater Raises Prices.

Yarmouth, N. S.—J. Kelty, proprietor of the People's theater, has joined the ranks of those who have been obliged to boost the admission charges in this section. Mr. Kelty has changed his 5 and 10 cent scale of prices to 10 and 15.

Ralph Thorne Goes to Mutual.

St. John, N. B.—Ralph Thorne, formerly with the local office of the Specialty Film, has resigned and joined the Mutual forces as shipper, succeeding Roy Kerr, who went to the Regal office, just opened here.

Give Crawford and Silberstein a Send-off.

St. John, N. B.—When Carl M. Crawford and Bert Silberstein left for Montreal to assume their new duties, the former at the Fox office, and the later with Famous Players forces, a bunch of the exchange and theater men gave them a regular serenade at the station. Showers of rice, confetti, and almost everything that would mark the send-off for newly-weds came their way. Their luggage was "loaded," and some one annexed a general invitation on Carl's back, bearing the touching inscription, "Will you marry me?"

Four-Reel General Film Offerings Coming.

St. John, N. B.—A new feature in releases is to be introduced in this territory by H. H. McArthur, General Film manager, with the fifty-two four-reel Horkheimer productions. The four reels will be an innovation in this territory. The releasers claim that five reels are too much to adequately tell a story, and two and three too short. The pictures will come here, it is said, about April 1.

Dreamland at Moncton Doing Good Business.

Moncton, N. B.—Mrs. E. A. Davidson, proprietor of the Dreamland theater, does not intend to close down for the remainder of the winter, as previously announced. The coal shortage, which compelled many exhibitors to curtail their business, did not affect Mrs. Davidson, who heats her theater with gas. During the past week she has been playing to capacity houses, with a return engagement of "The Battle Cry of Peace." At 25 cents a head she did a remarkable business, especially so when the picture was given its first run only three weeks ago.

C. F. Givan Improves the Lyric.

Sussex, N. B.—C. F. Givan, proprietor of the Lyric theater, is making improvements to the interior of the theater, including the remodeling and enlarging of the stage, which will be of ample size to stage road shows that tour New Brunswick. The recent withdrawal from the city of 1,000 Canadian troops that had been making their headquarters here during the winter naturally resulted in a falling off of business at the picture houses, and this, coupled with the usual dullness of the Lenten season, has noticeably reduced all box office receipts.

Craig and Fraser May Build in Bridgewater.

Bridgewater, N. S.—It is reported that Craig & Fraser, owners of the Bridgewater Bulletin, the local weekly, are to purchase land and build a new theater. Mr. Fraser has had considerable experience as a showman, having been manager of the Orpheum theater until early last year. How large the new theater will be has not been definitely stated, but it is understood that it will be on a par with other houses recently built in this section.

Daly & Lutz Building New Theater.

Sussex, N. B.—Daly & Lutz, formerly partners of C. F. Givan, in the old opera house which burned down, are now running in a large temporarily built hall, and have a new 800-seat theater under construction. The new theater is directly opposite the station. They expect to open some time in May. Mr. Lutz is in the contracting business, and Dr. Daly has a large practice as a dentist.

New England Notes

New Haven Drop Fight for Sunday Shows.

New Haven, Conn.—The crusade for Sunday opening recently started by the New Haven exhibitors seems to have been abandoned. There are about twenty-one theaters in the city and its immediate suburbs. About six of that number may be classed as first run houses. Poli's two theaters and Gordon's Olympia comprise the picture and vaudeville contingent. Poli's Bijou up to the first of the year had been running Triangles exclusively, and after the first they were discontinued, but have since then been taken up again. Poli's theater usually runs Fox films, and this week they are winding up with Universal's "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea." The Olympia plays Paramount and Metros with little interruption.

When the matter of Sunday opening began to be taken with any degree of seriousness by the exhibitors, the Olympia blazed the way with a slide and vote program. Some of the other exhibitors followed. The Poli interests, however, did not seem to concern themselves in the matter, and made no apparent efforts to further the movement. That the Sunday opening argument was received with favor by the New Haven public was manifested in the lively interest they took in voting. The ballot box was filled at every performance, and the overwhelming majority demanded Sunday shows. That the movement so well begun had to die in its infancy is strange, and to a certain extent discouraging to those who favor a bill championing an open show Sabbath.

The town of Orange, about two miles from New Haven, permits Sunday shows at Savin Rock. There were two theaters, the Orpheum and Wilcox's, both of about 1,500 capacity, running to a 5,000 a day house. A fire, however, destroyed Wilcox's a short time before Christmas, and the Orpheum has since then been handling the crowds alone. The admission is fifteen cents, with a double feature bill, a weekly and an installment of "Patria." Despite the recent snows which have made traveling unpleasant the crowds continue to flock to Savin Rock on Sunday, thereby indicating their strong desire for Sunday shows.

Business in New Haven at present is more than excellent. Every house from the feature theaters to the one reel program shows is playing to capacity audiences. The smaller houses open at ten in the morning, while the larger ones begin their performance at one-thirty o'clock.

Says Competition Hurts Village Film Trade

Manager Grafton Corbett of the Bangor Pathe Deplores Cutthroat Methods Between Small Town Exhibitors—Cost of Film Rising.

By John P. Flanagan, 151 Park View Ave., Bangor, Maine.

BANGOR, ME.—"It is about time for the exhibitors of Maine to call a halt to the cut-throat competition that is threatening to ruin their business," said Manager Grafton Corbett of the Bangor office of the Pathe to the Moving Picture World correspondent on Wednesday, March 14.

"Conditions are far from satisfactory. Two theaters in the same town. Both offer a good five-reel show, say. Manager Jones decides he will offer more than his competitor, Brown, and gives a six-reel show. Brown goes him one better and gives a seven-reel show. Smith bids bids still higher by reducing his price of admission to five cents. Then both go down to a nickel.

"First thing they know, their profits shrink. They go to the exchange manager and they say to him: 'We've got to have films at lower rates.' The exchange manager is sorry, but he can't do it. Dissatisfaction all around then. I venture to say that there isn't a small town in Maine, say about right size for one theater that hasn't at least two houses.

"Exchange managers have put service down about as low as it will go, and I wish to say right here that the price of service is going to go up in order that the exchanges may make a decent profit. The Pathe rule is that the minimum price for one reel is one dollar. Yet there are exhibitors that try to beat us down lower than that, and I happen to know that some exchanges will go as low as 35 cents. But none of that with the Pathe.

"Co-operation between exhibitors and less murderous competition are remedies for the trouble with the moving picture business in Maine," said Manager Corbett.

Manager Harry Smith Promoted.

Bangor, Me.—John H. Curran of Bangor, who has been with the Bangor office of Boston Film News—Massachusetts Items

Business Notes of the Week—Close of the Sunday Opening Fight in New Haven, Conn.—Harvard Lampoon Withdraws Edition.

From J. J. Phillips, Photoplay Editor, Boston Journal.

Lampoon's Edition Recalled.

CAMBRIDGE, MASS.—The Harvard Lampoon's satire on the screen stars and the moving picture industry passed into its third stage Tuesday, March 13th, when more than 200 copies of the second edition were suppressed on orders from the business management and a third edition supplied instead. The threatened libel action of one of the leading film actors of Fort Lee, N. J., was responsible for the double-barreled suppression of the Harvard comic magazine. The recalled copies were burned.

Herman Rifkin Gets Ivan Films.

Boston, Mass.—Herman Rifkin, the president of the Eastern Feature Film company of Boston, has just returned from New York and announces his purchase of the Ivan films for New England. The Ivan people are releasing one feature a month and among the pictures Mr. Rifkin has secured are "The City of Illusion," "Her Surrender," "The Immortal Flame," "His Wives," "The Faded Flower," "The Sex Lure," and the March release, "Two Men and a Woman," which has been booked first run at the Beacon theater, Boston.

Film Ball Beauty to Begin Pictures.

Boston, Mass.—The Atlas Film company of Boston will start producing a picture featuring Beatrice Roberts, the local beauty, who won the Boston Moving Picture Ball contest this year. This company will start to work on the picture the latter part of March. As yet the name of the piece has not been announced, but in all probability it will be selected from one of the prize winning scenarios in the contest conducted by a Boston newspaper last year.

Dadmun to Release a Collier Cartoon.

Boston, Mass.—Franklin P. Collier, the Boston Journal's sporting cartoonist, now with the Red Sox team at Hot Springs, has just finished an animated cartoon entitled "With the Red Sox in Hot Springs." It will be released by the Dadmun Film company of Boston and will be awaited with much interest by fans who are following Collier's work in the sport pages of the Journal.

Boston Business Notices.

Advance bookings on Pathe's latest serial, "The Double Cross," are coming in rapid succession says Manager Edward Farrell.

"The Seven Deadly Sins" are still packing them in at both Gordon's Olympia theaters at each end of Boston. The first run of this McClure series is being shown at the Washington street Olympia and the second run at the Scollay Square theater.

"The War," actual pictures of fighting in Europe, were shown to a capacity house at the Boston Opera house in Boston, Monday, March 12th. A very fashionable audience was in attendance and over $8,000 was raised for the French Wounded Fund among those present. Part of the receipts from this performance will be sent to the French Wounded Fund. This picture will be shown exclusively at Gordon's Olympia March 26th.

Boston, Mass.—R. D. Marson of the Boston K-E-S-E office reports that the new Max Linder films are being booked heavily. He has secured bookings for the first Linder comedy in Boston at three of the Loew houses, namely, the Orpheum, the St. James and the Globe.

"The Price She Paid," the Clara Kimball Young Selznick feature, is playing to its second successful week at the Modern theater. Manager Pinansky is more than pleased with the results of trying this two-week run on both the Selznick and the Arcraft features.

"A Daughter of the Gods" is playing to its seventh capacity week at the Majestic theater here. "The Honor System," another stupendous Fox feature, is expected to be booked at this house after the run of the Kellermann film.

Stanley W. Hand, manager of the Boston World Film office, was visited by H. C. Wales, who is a personal representative of the sales manager of the World forces in New York. Manager Hand has just closed contracts for Gordon's Scollay Square and the New Lancaster theater in Boston. He also has renewed the Bijou theater in Springfield, Mass., for another year's run of World Brady-made films.

Louis B. Mayer, president of the Metro Pictures, is thoroughly satisfied with the way in which the Blue Bird features are going over in New England. They are seen at many of the Sunday night shows in Boston and are playing first run at the St. James theater, one of Loew's best play houses here.

Herman Rifkin, president of the Eastern Feature Film Co. of Boston, is booking "Glory," featuring Jaunita Nelson and Kolb and Dill, to a great extent in this territory. Satan and Are Passions Inherited are meeting with favor and are being booked quite heavily.

Star Theater, Bar Harbor, Me., one of the best and prettiest houses in Pine Tree State. Jos. Emery is proprietor.

To Begin Building New Waterville Theater.

Waterville, Me.—Former Governor William T. Haines plans to start work on his new $50,000 motion picture house at the corner of Maine and Appleton streets, Waterville, as soon as the frost is out of the ground. The house, which will be leased by the Maine Theater Co. of Rockland, will be one of the largest and finest in Maine. It will be an ornament to the city and one that will be appreciated by the people of the Elm City. It is hoped that the theater will be ready for occupancy early in the summer.

Virginia Tax on Admissions

Exhibitors Must Pay Higher Rates If, Even Occasionally, They Charge More Than Ten Cents for Shows Unless a Singing, Dancing or Vaudeville Act Is Also Given—State's Schedule of License Rates for Shows.

By Clarence L. Linz, 622 Riggs Bldg., Washington, D. C.

RICHMOND, VA.—Motion picture exhibitors who are charging more than ten cents for some of their shows, although doing so on certain occasions only, will be assessed with higher taxes than they would otherwise pay, according to an announcement just made by C. Lee Moore, auditor of public accounts of Virginia.

The Virginia state law makes a graduated license tax for entertainments based on the population of the places in which the theaters are located and further upon the seating capacities of the houses. Mr. Moore has directed the commissioners of revenue to make a close inspection of the theaters in their respective jurisdictions to see that the proper license fee is paid. In his letter to the commissioners Auditor Moore says:

"It has become a practice of many moving picture shows to charge a price of admission greater than ten cents. Some picture shows charge an admission of ten cents for performances during part of the day and a sum greater than ten cents during part of the day. Others make a charge of admission greater than ten cents for the exhibition of certain pictures, and for the exhibition of any pictures on holidays, etc.

"In all cases where the price of admission exceeds ten cents (unless singing, dancing, or a vaudeville act is given in connection with the moving picture) the license for the moving picture show cannot be issued under the provisions of section 106½ of the state tax laws, page 88, but the license for the theater, public performance, exhibition, etc., provided for in sections 105 and 106, tax laws, pages 87 and 88, must be taken out, and the tax prescribed in those sections must be paid."

The classification of the moving picture theaters in the State of Virginia and the license fees are as follows:

"Where the admission fee exceeds ten cents and no singing, dancing, or vaudeville act is given in connection with the moving picture—per performance, $5; per week, $15. In towns of less than 4,000—per performance, $2; per week, $6. Where the price of admission does not exceed ten cents—in cities of 20,000 or over (for seating capacity of 350 or less), per week or less, $5; per year, $90 and $2 for every ten seats or fraction thereof in excess of 350. In towns of less than 20,000—per week, $3; per year, $60 (with seating capacity of 350, and $1 for each ten additional seats in excess of $350. In cities and towns of 1,000 and less than 4,000—per week or less, $3; per year, $50, and where less than 1,000 population, per day, $1; per week, $2.50; three months, $10, and one year, $40."

Defer Action on Children Patrons.

Portsmouth, Va.—The local exhibitors and members of the Housewives' League of Portsmouth were given a hearing last week in the council chamber by the law department on the subject of the proposed ordinance for the regulation of children at motion picture shows. The Housewives' League recently asked the city council to adopt an ordinance which would prohibit the attendance of children of less than twelve years of age at any theater unless accompanied by an adult, except in cases where censored pictures were shown.

There was a general discussion of the proposition during which the exhibitors indicated a willingness to render all the assistance possible in meeting the desires of the league. It is believed that for the purpose of observing the conditions that will obtain for a brief period definite action on the proposed ordinance will be deferred for thirty days.

Theater at Newport News Burns.

Newport News, Va.—The Onyx theater, of which L. M. Day, of the Washington Metro is the president, was completely ruined by a fire which visited the structure on March 8. The entire interior, to use the phrase of Mr. Day when he saw the place, was practically "baked." Everything that was not burned up was scorched and warped and badly damaged and of the whole equipment the only things within the theater that were not ruined were the machines, which were saved because of having been inclosed in a concrete fireproof booth. It seems that the art metal ceiling held the heat inside the theater, making it like a furnace. The cause of the fire is unknown. It is said that there was no fire in the furnace when the conflagration broke out. It is held to be barely possible that a lighted cigarette or cigar or defective wiring started the blaze.

The property loss is placed at $4,000. It covers three pianos worth about $600, a mirror screen valued at $750, said to be the largest in the state, which required the removal of one side of the building to enable its being carried into the interior.

Virginia Jottings.

Buena Vista, Va.—E. D. Lloyd, owner of the Casino theater in Luray, Va., is opening up the Dixie theater here with Paramount service.

Hinton, W. Va.—A. Lilly has been appointed manager of the Masonic theater in Hinton, replacing C. H. Pumphrey. Mr. Pumphrey, with Mr. McClung, has been operating the house.

Film News of the Week in Philadelphia

Exhibitors in Wilmington, Del., Persuade Local Censorship Advocates That No Board Is Needed—Business and Personal Notes.

By F. V. Armato, 144 N. Salford St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Masterpiece Film Attractions Move.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—B. Amsterdam and L. Corson of the Masterpiece film attractions have moved from 125 Vine street to larger quarters at 1225 Vine street.

Exhibitors are careful not to show either obscene or immoral pictures, and that their reputations depended on giving clean programs, and that they themselves censored the pictures offered them with the utmost care.

Wilmington Exhibitors Persuade Against Censorship.

Wilmington, Del.—Theodore Jelenk, vice president and general manager of the Victoria Amusement company, also the active manager of the Victoria theater here, has successfully defeated a movement launched by the members of the Century Club to establish a board of censors here. Mr. Jelenk, supported by James Ginn, of the Queen and Majestic theaters, and C. L. Bradfield of the Opera house, succeeded in convincing the committee of the club that Wilmington ex-

A. G. Buck Now K-E-S-E Manager.

Philadelphia, Pa.—A. G. Buck, formerly of the Fox office in Chicago, has succeeded H. A. Bugie as manager of the K-E-S-E. Mr. Bugie has gone over to the Mammoth Film company, and will take care of the New Jersey territory.

Local 553 Plans Entertainment.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Projection Union Local 553 has completed plans for its first grand get-together entertainment to be held on Sunday, March 25th, at 8 P. M., in Eagles' hall, 1218 South Eighth street. In addition to the members a large contingent of prospective members is expected. The committee in charge is President W. J. Symms, Philip Quigley, C. L. Martin and Herbert Fox.

Scene from "Broadway Jones" (Artcraft).

Sunday School and Bible Class Patronize Picture Shows.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Sunday school and Bible classes have been invading the better sort of theaters to reserve boxes for special performances of certain films. At the Strand there has been ample evidence that this sort of clean amusement is popular and though reservations can be made at any time there seems to be a tendency to favor matinees. Automobile parties are finding that this theater really has a commodious garage for parking cars and that special boxes are reserved for automobile parties.

Manager J. M. Graver Pleases Patrons.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Manager J. M. Graver of the Liberty is being congratulated upon the extremely courteous attention given to patrons of his theater. The house has grown so popular that many out-of-town patrons find opportunity to attend the shows here at least once a week. The policy of making everybody welcome and encouraging a feeling of cheerfulness is the constant aim of the management in addition to showing first-run photoplays.

Business Notes.

Philadelphia, Pa.—P. Glenn, of the Electric Theater Supply company, has made considerable progress in booking the motion picture serials released through his office.

Philadelphia, Pa.—The Kline Poster company distributed over 2,000 beautifully colored post cards of Fatty Arbuckle on the occasion of his late visit here.

Philadelphia, Pa.—M. Milder of the Selznick offices has established a big clientele here and reports excellent business.

Philadelphia, Pa.—General Manager Columbus Stamper has secured "Civilization," the $1,000,000 photoplay produced by Thomas H. Ince, to be shown during the entire week at the New Coliseum.

Philadelphia, Pa.—H. Osborne, of the Pathe exchange here, gave a private showing last week of the new two-reel Lonesome Luke comedy, entitled "Luke's Lively Life." A large number of exhibitors and several newspaper men who were present pronounced it a scream. It really made the exhibitors roar with laughter—and that's going some.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Robert J. Lynch, of the Bluebird exchange, has taken the initial step in a local film advertising campaign. Some of the ads have headlines such as "$100 in Prizes to Exhibitors," "Don't Forget Bluebird Night."

TO EXHIBITORS.

If you are doing something new and interesting at your theatre let our correspondent know about it. It may help others and help you as well.
Helpfully yours,
THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD.

Hits and Pictures.

Baltimore, Md.—From all sections of Baltimore come the reports that Chaplin's "Easy Street" is playing to crowded houses. Charles E. Anderson of the Grand at Highlandtown states that on the day he ran it the people were lined up for half a square, two deep.

Thomas Dixon's "The Fall of a Nation" played to such fine houses at the Great Wizard theater, 30 West Lexington street, during the week of February 19, that Bohannon, Lewy and Fuld considered it worth while to run it for another full week.

With Baltimore Exhibitors Last Week

Theaters Aid Patriotic Movement—Personal Notes and Items of Business Interest—Items from a Few Nearby Cities.

From J. M. Shellman, 1902 Mt. Royal Ter., Baltimore, Md.

Theaters Aid Flag Sunday Movement.

BALTIMORE, MD.—All during last week, the moving picture theaters of Baltimore aided very materially the patriotic Flag Sunday idea movement, in which nearly all the churches of this city took part on Sunday, March 18. Slides announcing the Go To Church Flag Sunday were made and distributed to the theater managers and thousands of people were reached through the moving picture medium. The managers of the theaters listed below were only too glad to co-operate with the churches in lending their aid to the cause: Wilson, Palace, New Pickwick, Parkway, Dixie, Picture Garden, Hampden, Brodie, Blue Mouse, Crescent, Crystal, Gem, Cluster, Plaza, Wizard, Horn, Idle Hour, New, Pimlico, Schanze's, West End, Strand, Edmondson, Lafayette, Red Mill, Walbrook, Broadway, Rialto, Garden, Little Pickwick, Loew's Hippodrome, Gertrude McCoy, Aurora, Peabody, Belnord and Princess.

Honor to Guy L. Wonders.

Another very great honor has just fallen upon Guy L. Wonders, manager of the Wilson theater, 418 East Baltimore street, in being elected to the office of exalted ruler of the local lodge of Elks. Mr. Wonders is only 32 years of age and it is understood that he is the youngest man ever elected to that office in the Baltimore lodge.

Use of Paper in Local Exchange.

Baltimore, Md.—As this writer walked into the Mutual exchange the other day, he was confronted by three new poster boards on which some lobby display photographs were artistically thumb-tacked. They stand just back of the counter in full view. Another surprise greeted us as we entered the door to the general office, for a large three-sheet poster had been tacked to the floor in such a position that it attracts the attention of every one the moment they enter. The unusual position immediately gains the attention.

Harry Cluster Opens the Waverly.

Baltimore, Md.—On Monday, March 19, the Waverly theater, 3211 Greenmount avenue, opened under the new management of Harry Cluster, and an entire change of policy has taken place. Mr. Cluster has had wide experience in the film business in this city and at present is also managing the Crystal theater, 528 North Gay street. He will not give up the latter position, however, but will manage this in conjunction with the former, probably placing a house manager at the Waverly.

Orpheum Theater Burns.

Evansville, Ind.—The Orpheum theater, in this city, which is the oldest, having been built in 1872, was destroyed by fire on Friday morning, March 9. The total loss is estimated to be about $40,000.

Business Notes and Personal Mention.

Harry A. Henkel, manager of the New Academy of Music, Baltimore, Md., with Mrs. Henkel and their two daughters, spent Sunday, March 11, at Atlantic City, as the guests of Samuel F. Nixon, who controls the Academy.

Francis X. Bushman, the Metro star, went to Mount St. Agnes College, Baltimore, Md., on the morning of March 12, to pay a visit to his daughter, Virginia, who is a pupil there.

On Sunday night, March 11, through the courtesy of L. A. DeHoff, manager of the New theater, 210 West Lexington street, Baltimore, Md., a premiere screening of the first three chapters of "The Mystery of the Double Cross" and "Her Life and His" took place under the auspices of Frank B. Spurrier.

Guy E. Brandt and William A. Busch, representatives of the K-E-S-E feature service, were both present at the initial public presentation of the Max Linder comedy, "Max Comes Across," at the Parkway theater, 3-9 West North avenue, Baltimore, Md., on Monday night, March 12.

Vegetable Matinee a Success.

Baltimore, Md.—On Thursday, March 8, a vegetable matinee was held at the Nixon-Victoria theater, 415 East Baltimore street and several thousand people took advantage of the occasion to present a vegetable to see the performance. Manager Charles E. Thropp was truly delighted with the results, for the gains consisted of two large barrels of potatoes, half a barrel of onions and a miscellaneous assortment of cabbages, oranges, lemons, carrots and lima beans. A member of the Federated Charities took the collection to the hospitals to be used for the poor patients. Another matinee of the same kind was held on March 15.

Benefit at Parkway Theater.

Baltimore, Md.—One of the largest and most patriotic demonstrations, we believe, that has ever been held in Baltimore, was witnessed on the afternoon and evening of Sunday, March 11, when the showing of the war pictures under the auspices of the American Circus of the Allied Bazar was held at the Parkway theater, 3-9 West North avenue. This house was donated for the occasion, and special decorations were made.

S. B. Tall Is Acting Manager at Walbrook.

Baltimore, Md.—The latest from the Walbrook theater, North avenue and Rosedale street, informs us that E. R. Beveridge, who has been managing this theater for some months, has resigned and that S. B. Tall is now acting as manager of that theater.

Benefit at Maryland Theater.

Baltimore, Md.—Through the courtesy of F. C. Schanberger, manager of the Maryland theater, this house was donated for the use of the Purim Gift Society for the holding of the twelfth annual entertainment on Sunday, March 11, for over 2,000 poor Jewish children including about 40 cripples who attended the affair. A vaudeville and motion picture performance delighted the little ones and during the performance each child was presented with a bag containing a pair of stockings, a handkerchief, a box of candy and several books.

Rialto Entertains Orphans.

Baltimore, Md.—On the morning of Washington's birthday, Myer Fox, president of the Linden company, entertained several hundred orphans from one of Baltimore's institutions with a very appropriate program, and as each child left the theater a surprise was sprung by presenting each with a box of candy. A. B. Price, who manages this house in conjunction with the Mt. Royal, announces that both houses will run the same pictures each day, and in this way they will be able to take care of all their patrons without overcrowding. These theaters are situated only about three squares from each other and are owned by the same interests.

Film Building to Be Begun in Capital City

Exchange Managers' Association Sees Plans for the New Six-Story Building for Film Offices—Weak Points in Proposed Fire Regulations.

By Clarence L. Linz, 622 Riggs Building, Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The members of the Washington Exchange Managers' Association who attended the meeting of the association held in the Flemish rooms of the National Press Club, were very much elated when J. A. Costello, a member of the firm of Costello Brothers, made the announcement that work would be commenced on April 1 on the demolition of the building on the proposed site of the new film exchange building. Mr. Costello assured the managers that this structure would conform in every respect with the proposed new motion picture firm regulations, a report of which appeared in the last issue of the Moving Picture World.

Mr. Costello showed a finished floor plan. The building is to be six stories in height. The lower floors are to be divided into two model exchanges, one on either side of a central hall. The fifth and sixth floors are to be divided so as to offer four exchanges. The building will be 60 feet wide and 101 feet in depth, and the plans show a height of ten feet for each floor. The managers pointed out that this would not be sufficient in taking care of posters and suggested that the height of each floor be increased to twelve feet. It was also pointed out that the ten ft. by ten ft. vaults would not be large enough to meet the requirements of the exchanges.

Mr. Costello stated that in all probability the building will be fully completed within five months after the work of tearing down the dwelling houses now occupying the land began. The basement will contain public toilets, express office, heating room, and probably a projection and club room. E. G. Evans, Earle E. Reese and C. R. Millman were appointed by President Butner as a committee of three to confer with Mr. Costello and B. Stanley Simmons, the architect of the building.

Weak Points in New Fire Regulations.

A further discussion was held concerning the new regulations, the managers voicing their opposition to certain of the sections. This was particularly true with respect to that portion of the regulations which states that no person shall transport or carry films on any thoroughfares on any street car or any other conveyance of any kind in the District of Columbia unless each reel or film shall be separately inclosed in a tightly closed metal box properly reinforced at the joints and corners fastened with metal and subject to the approval of the chief engineer and the fire marshal, and that not more than twelve reels or films so inclosed shall be carried or transported by any one person at any one time. A particular disadvantage of such a ruling as this would be in the transportation of films from the exchanges to the express offices and railroad and the terminal for shipment to other cities and there would come a clash between the district and federal authorities when it came to applying the law to the parcel post service. Another bad feature of the regulations is the requirement that not more than ten reels of film shall be under examination or repair at one time. The disadvantage of this is that in the exchanges employing several examiners it would be impossible for each person so employed to take charge of a full show at the one time. In order to accomplish the work a multiple reel feature would have to be divided up among these employees and there would result some little confusion and double handling of films deemed unnecessary.

President Butner suggested that the entire membership of the organization attend the hearing to be given by the District Commissioners on the proposed regulations some time during the month of March, the date as yet not having been definitely set.

After some little discussion as to the future activities of the association an adjournment was taken.

Cardinal Co. Formed to Exploit "Joan."

Washington, D. C.—The Cardinal Film company, of Washington, D. C., has just been formed to take over the exhibiting rights to the feature picture, "Joan the Woman." George M. Mann, manager of the Famous Players exchange in this city, is president of the company. With him are associated Charles M. Case, proprietor of the Isis and Belvidere theaters in Lynchburg, Va., vice president; Alexander Wolf, prominent local attorney, secretary, and Anson T. Babcock, treasurer. These gentlemen, together with L. M. Day, president of the Washington Metro, also comprise the board of directors. No information is available as to when or where the picture will be given the first showing. The territory secured by the new company includes the District of Columbia, Maryland, Virginia and Delaware.

John Mann on Road for Famous.

Washington, D. C.—John Mann, son of George M. Mann, manager of the Famous Players exchange in this city, has been added to the sales force of that company. He is being introduced to the exhibitors of Virginia by E. R. Carr, road representative of the Washington office. Mr. Mann has been with his father for quite some period of time, getting a line on the business from the shipping room up.

Crandall's Big Electric Clock.

Washington, D. C.—A Western Union clock erected just above the entrance to Crandall's theater at Ninth and E streets, northwest, is attracting a great deal of attention. The clock is electrically illuminated at night and its 24-inch dial is visible for quite a distance up the street. It is located just beneath the sign bearing the name of the theater and serves as a good reminder. Washington is not so well equipped with clocks as are some of the other cities and the people soon learn where the correct time is obtainable.

J. G. Bodine, Jr., to Manage American Theater.

Washington, D. C.—Joel G. Bodine has just taken over the management of the American theater in this city. Manager Bodine is one of the popular young exhibitors of the Capital City. He has been connected with the Stanto theater, from which he went to the Empire theater on H. street. He has the good wishes of the trade and patrons generally.

Making Plans for Summer Shows.

Washington, D. C.—March came in like a lion, and it is the hope of all of the local exhibitors that it will retire from the calendar in a lamblike way. April is the commencement of the paint-up, clean-up period, and already many of the theater men are making plans for improvements, especially with respect to the airdomes. The most ambitious of the later will be found at Crandall's Savoy theater, where Manager Joseph P. Morgan is preparing to erect an arbor nearly 150 feet long and about 14 feet wide. The arched way is to be covered for its entire length with vines within which will be electric lights. This arbor will run from Fourteenth street along the side and to the rear of the Savoy, where the Savoy Park is located. This is to be a very elaborate decoration.

This park has a seating capacity of about 1,200. It is well laid out in much the same manner as the floor space of the theater proper. All of the wood and metal work is to be repainted and refinished and a new radium gold screen is shortly to be put in place.

Messrs. Crandall and Morgan are planning to open the park with the first real warm weather of May. They will engage a separate orchestra, operators and attendants, and will operate the park as well as the house until the weather becomes too hot to be comfortable indoors. Then the Savoy theater will be closed for the usual summer overhauling, and the park run in full swing.

Invited Guardsmen to See "Crisis."

Washington, D. C.—While in Washington last week for the purpose of witnessing the inaugural parade, H. M. Warner personally extended an invitation to the officers and men of the Twelfth and Sixty-ninth New York regiments to witness the production of "The Crisis," showing at the Park theater, New York City.

Operators' Union Hold Sixth Annual Ball.

Washington, D. C.—The sixth annual reunion and ball of the Moving Picture Machine Operators' Protective Union, Local No. 224, held last week at the Old Masonic Temple, at Ninth and F streets, northwest, was the most successful event of its kind ever held here, and those who attended are still talking of the good time that they had. "Fatty" Arbuckle was one of the guests of honor, and he jumped right into the fun of things by picking out a very attractive young lady and proceeded to do a little dancing himself. The committee in charge of the affair was headed by M. Morris and B. A. Spellbring.

Jacob Wheeler Shows "Crisis" to Press Club.

Washington, D. C.—A record breaking audience turned out to see the showing of "The Crisis" last Thursday night, when shown to the members of the National Press Club. A large orchestra was provided and the whole performance given in the same manner as though the large assembly room of the club was a really, truly theater.

The film was exhibited before the newspaper men through the courtesy of "Jack" Wheeler, who served at the White House during the Roosevelt and Taft administrations as a secret service man. He is now the representative of the film company. He displayed the films before President and Mrs. Wilson, and their guests, at the White House on Tuesday evening. The newspaper men and their guests, numbering three hundred or more, were very well pleased with the production, showing their appreciation by the applause given Mr. Wheeler for his kindness of making the exhibition.

Buffalo News Letter

By Joseph A. McGuire, 152 North Elmwood Avenue, Buffalo, N. Y.

J. A. Cumming Managing the Regent Theater.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—James A. Cumming has succeeded Harry Murray as manager of the Regent moving picture theater, Buffalo. Mr. Murray went to Arizona with his brother, who is ill. J. H. Michaels is general manager of the Regent and the Academy theaters, this city. "The Seven Deadly Sins" is being featured at the first named house. "Buffalo Bill pictures" and "Alice in Wonderland" have delighted the kiddies who attend the children's matinee at the Regent.

Buffalo Newspaper Film Shown.

Buffalo, N. Y.—The Buffalo Evening News film, "The Press and the Spoilsman," was recently shown at the Family,

Columbia and Colonial theaters, this city. The extra attractions which Manager Isenberg of the Columbia offered included Cleo Madison in "The Chalice of Sorrow." Manager Higgins of the Colonial presented these additional features: "The Mummy and the Humming Bird" and Victor Moore in "A Troublesome Trip."

Protest Against Sabbath Shows.

Tonawanda, N. Y.—A petition protesting against moving pictures on Sunday has been signed by several residents of Tonawanda, N. Y. Answering the protest, Assemblyman Zimmerman, of that city, has gone on record as opposed to any legislation legalizing the opening of picture houses on the Sabbath.

Message to Public in Every Good Film.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Mrs. W. H. Foster, of Boston, Mass., representing the community motion picture bureau, called on G. H. Christoffers, manager of the Mutual, Buffalo. Mrs. Foster is seeking appropriate films to be presented at schools, colleges, libraries, etc.

"Mrs. Foster proved that she is a keen student of films," said Mr. Christoffers.

Hear Anti-Sunday Opening Sentiment.

Buffalo, N. Y.—"The Buffalo Senators and Assemblymen are all in favor of Sunday pictures," said a representative of the Buffalo Theatrical Managers' association. "We are constantly keeping in touch with the legislature. We note that in Albany a strong sentiment against Sunday shows has developed."

Mischievous Wretch Is About.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Moving picture theaters and other downtown places in Buffalo have been visited by a man whose mania is to cut off the braids of young girls. Chief of Police Martin says this is the first case of hair-snipping reported in years. A 12-year-old girl told the police that a man cut off her two long braids and escaped.

Street Shows May Be Banned During Conventions.

Buffalo, N. Y.—During national conventions, when hundreds of thousands of visitors are attracted to Buffalo, the moving picture theaters here will probably have less competition in the amusement line than formerly. Downtown street shows are likely to be prohibited during these conventions, if the Buffalo councilmen take favorable action on the request of the local Retail Merchants' association. The merchants want these shows and other midway attractions excluded from the principal streets, parks and public squares.

Manager Lowry Did Literary Work While Sick.

Buffalo, N. Y.—A long period of illness did not dull the active brain of Manager Lowry of the Allendale moving picture theater, Buffalo. In fact, it was during this time that Mr. Lowry managed to indulge a literary bent. He, therefore, has to his credit several meritorious verses, songs and short stories. Now that he is busy with his theatrical work again it may be some time before he has an opportunity to continue his writing. Years ago Mr. Lowry showed his versatility as a vaudeville performer and bandmaster.

Victor Zebil with Merit.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Frank Wycoff, who resigned from the Merit Film, Buffalo, has gone to New York. His successor here is Victor Zebil, formerly with the Exclusive Features in this city.

Buffalo, N. Y.—"We are working two copies of 'Purity' and several of the theaters are playing return dates on this production," said J. M. Sitterly of the Popular Cinema exchange, Buffalo.

Week's Doings in Pittsburgh's Filmdom

New Faces at the Local Exchanges and Business Notes of Interest—Items Pertaining to Exhibitors and Theaters—Jean Southern Coming.

From Pittsburgh News Service, 6016 Jenkins Arcade, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Office for "Crisis" in Lyceum Building.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Harris P. Wolfberg, general manager controlling the state rights on "The Crisis," the notable Selig production, for Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky, Maryland and the District of Columbia, has established offices in the Lyceum building and this city will be his headquarters. Mr. Wolfberg is putting on the production in an elaborate and striking manner. The highly successful run of "The Crisis" at the Pitt theater was brought to a close Mar. 17, having been shown to capacity business for four weeks.

Censors Ignore Order to Pass on Posters.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—The Pittsburgh film trade notes with considerable satisfaction that the Pennsylvania State Board of Censors has modified the rules so as to exempt posters from examination. While no official ruling has been made on the question, the board has decided to ignore the recent order requiring that all paper issued in connection with the films be submitted for approval. A great hardship resulted from the rejection of posters on many subjects, as the value of the films was reduced and a considerable loss sustained because they were not accompanied by a full line of paper. The exchanges feel that the members of the board are to be commended for their stand in revoking the order.

R. & C. Theaters Get Aircraft Pictures.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Managing Director James B. Clark, of the Rowland and Clark theaters, has just announced that he has closed negotiations with the Aircraft whereby all the productions featuring Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks and George M. Cohan are to be shown at the Rowland and Clark chain of houses in Pittsburgh. This important acquisition, it is announced, is in furtherance of the guiding policy of the Rowland and Clark theaters—"Built up to a standard, not down to a price."

Thornton Eckert Comes to Local Pathe.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—The Pittsburgh Pathe office, Film Exchange building, has added to its force Thornton Eckert, formerly for several years with the St. Louis branch of the General Film. Mr. Eckert has had wide experience in the film business and is regarded as a valuable acquisition. He will look after the Virginia, West Virginia and Southeastern Pennsylvania territory. Manager Fuller says that his staff is now complete and that he considers it the strongest and most efficient in the entire country.

The Pathe exchange has issued invitations to the trade and to literary clubs societies and students for a private showing of "Crime and Punishment," featuring Derwent Hall Caine, at the Moose Temple, March 18. The first official trade showing of the first three episodes of the "Mystery of the Double Cross," the new Pathe serial featuring Mollie King, will also be given at that time. There is wide interest being displayed in these subjects, Manager Fuller states, and a large attendance is expected.

E. H. Goldstein Here to Boost New Serial.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—E. H. Goldstein, assistant general manager of Universal exchanges, is spending several weeks at the Independence exchange. An aggressive advertising and publicity campaign has been under way for the new Universal serial "The Voice on the Wire," released

March 12, and the large number of bookings received indicate that it will be one of the most successful ever put out by the company.

J. B. Buchanan, the active cameraman of the Universal in the Pittsburgh district, is making a ten-day trip through Ohio in behalf of the Screen Magazine, visiting Cleveland, Toledo and other points, and concluding the trip at Wheeling, W. Va.

Jean Sothorn Will Appear in Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—The Liberty film renting company has concluded arrangements whereby Jean Sothorn, the beautiful Art Dramas star, will soon appear personally at all theaters showing the Art Dramas in the Pittsburgh section. Manager Mayer Silverman states that the recent appearance here of Frankie Mann, of the Ivan productions, proved the experiment so successful that it will be repeated with other notable stars from time to time.

The Liberty company has added to its road force Edward Libby, an experienced film salesman, who is devoting his time exclusively to the Art Dramas department of the exchange.

Local Fox Office Gets Three Prints.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—In order to handle the rapidly increasing business of the Pittsburgh Fox exchange, Manager Eckart states that the home office has allotted to the local branch an additional print of every release, making this a three-print office. The extra print will also improve the physical condition of the film, which is so solidly baked it could not be given sufficient attention.

Schenley to Drop Pictures.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—The Schenley theater, Forbes street, Pittsburgh, has been discontinued as a moving picture house by the owners, the Commonwealth trust company. About two years ago the Schenley was relinquished by the Harry Davis interests and has since been conducted by the owners, first with vaudeville and later with films. The manager is Paul Collins. The house is to be let for various dramatic productions.

Wm. Finkel Sole Owner of the Colonial.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—William Finkel has purchased the interest of his brother, Morris Finkel, in the Colonial theater, South Side, Pittsburgh, and will continue the house as sole owner. A number of improvements are contemplated this spring, Mr. Finkel states, that will make the Colonial one of the finest theaters in its locality.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—The National film booking company, 804 Penn avenue, Pittsburgh, has concluded negotiations with the Ebony film corporation whereby the exchange will release one comedy a week, beginning March 19. E. J. McGurty, of the National, has just returned from New York, where he contracted for a number of big subjects to be announced soon for this territory, and the firm will enter the film business on a larger scale in the near future.

The largest staff of experts in all departments makes the MOVING PICTURE WORLD the one paper in the trade that fully fills the requirements of every reader.

L. Rogers Lytton Works for Preparedness

Picture Player Now Touring the South Organizing for the National Security League—Is a Louisianian—Had Role in "Panthea."

By A. M. Beatty, 43 Copenhill Avenue. Atlanta, Ga.

ATLANTA, GA.—Captain L. Rogers Lytton, of Summit, N. J., representative of the National Security league, an organization putting before the people of the United States better plans for an effective military preparedness, is in Atlanta for the purpose of stimulating interest in the league here.

Captain Lytton is making a tour of the South, having recently organized sections in New Orleans and Kansas City.

"The National Security league doesn't advocate any special bill to favor compulsory military service, but what we believe is that at least 500,000 young men of the country should be trained every year for military service," Captain Lytton said, in discussing the principles of the organization.

"We are convincing people that for the youth of the state to serve a period of obligatory service is a blessing and not a curse. It stimulates patriotism, unifies various divergent sections of the country, and conserves democracy."

Captain Lytton is the commanding officer of the Rifle club, of Summit, N. J., which is indorsed as a model of practical patriotic effort by the National Defence organization, of New York. Captain Lytton has had a varied career. He has been in motion pictures with the Vitagraph company, and will be remembered here as the Russian in "Panthea."

Captain Lytton appeared at two theaters Friday night, the Savoy and the Alamo No. 2.

Besides his work in "Panthea," Captain Lytton is remembered most pleasantly for his characterization of the German ambassador in "The Battle Cry of Peace."

Captain Lytton is a Southerner, a native of Louisiana.

Sabbatarian Ordinance Introduced.

Atlanta, Ga.—An ordinance by Councilman W. F. Buchanan was introduced in council Tuesday afternoon, to prohibit the opening of motion picture theaters on Sunday for any purpose or under any circumstances. The ordinance was referred to the ordinance committee, who will take action on it at their next regular meeting.

Southern Paramount Office Nearly Ready.

Atlanta, Ga.—The new fireproof building being erected on Luckie street near Cone for the Southern Paramount is nearing completion and will be occupied April 1. Manager Freeman of the Southern Paramount is to be congratulated on the comfortable, as well as roomy, arrangement of the building.

O. P. Hall Will Run Two Macon Houses.

Macon, Ga.—O. P. Hall, well known theater manager of Atlanta, has been made manager of the Palace and Princess theaters in Macon, Ga., now controlled by the Empire amusement company.

Interesting Bits of Local News.

Atlanta, Ga.—W. T. Murray, road man for the Arcraft, left Atlanta for the Carolinas Thursday. Mr. Murray reports a splendid business with "The Pride of the Clan."

L. T. Leftwich, manager of the Triangle theater, Birmingham, was in Atlanta Tuesday.

John Snyder, manager of the Grand theater, Bessemer, Ala., was in Atlanta Tuesday.

A. H. LaBelle, manager of the Grand,

Tampa, Fla., was in Atlanta this week.

Hugh L. Cardoza, who has been down in Florida for "The Crisis," is back in Atlanta.

Louisville News Letter

Ohio Valley News Service, Correspondents, 1404 Starks Bldg., Louisville, Ky.

Lightning Sets Fire to, and Damages, Film Exchange Stock.

LOUISVILLE, KY.—Lightning traveling along electric wires during a heavy storm on Sunday evening, March 11, is said to have caused a blaze which broke out in the Onyx film company, in the Wayne building, 414 West Jefferson street, and which spread to the Owl film exchange. Other offices and two stores in the lower part of the building were also badly damaged, the entire loss being placed at between $5,000 and $7,000. Luckily the films in both offices were in fire-proof safes, and this prevented the flames from spreading to any great extent. Posters, supplies, machinery, etc., in both offices were badly damaged.

Kunzman on Missionary Trip.

Louisville, Ky.—W. C. Kunzman, representing the National carbon company, has been in Louisville for several days, doing a little missionary work for the company, and showing machine operators the proper size carbons to use, and how best to get results. Mr. Kunzman is merely demonstrating the carbons, which are handled by the Tafel electric company. His work is said to have shown results from the start.

Dates for State Convention Not Set.

Louisville, Ky.—Fred Dolle, secretary of the Kentucky Branch No. 7, Moving Picture Exhibitors' league of Kentucky, reports that dates for the annual convention have not been set as yet, but that the exhibitors will meet, probably in Louisville, during the latter part of April. L. J. Dittmar, of the Majestic amusement company, is president, and H. B. Stroube, of the Empire theater, Louisville, is treasurer, while J. H. Stamper, Jr., of Lexington is vice-president.

Leading Theaters All Playing National Airs.

Louisville, Ky.—Suggestions of prominent women of Louisville, asking that the national airs be played at each film performance, and at each performance in the other theaters, have been carried out by the managers. A few people pay little heed and show practically no patriotism, but it has been really surprising to note how people have taken the matter up. A number of the smaller theaters and outskirt houses are following the lead of the downtown houses.

Gayety Theater Makes Money.

Louisville, Ky.—Judge Kirby has sustained the motion of the Louisville Gayety theater company to require the receiver for the Adger amusement company to turn over the keys of the house to the owners. The latter alleged that the receiver had not paid any rent for the use of the house since the Adger company was placed in his hands. The receiver showed that business had picked up since he took charge, his last week showing receipts of $7,974.42 and disbursements of $7,620.90, while his cash balance was $353.52. A motion to have this balance turned over to the property owners to apply on the rent has been held up.

Harry Bilger With Keith Interests.

Louisville, Ky.—Harry Bilger, former manager of the old Hopkins theater, and of Fontaine Perry park, is now connected with the Keith interests, which manage the Mary Anderson, Strand and Keith vaudeville house in Louisville.

Casino Operator German Prisoner of War.

Louisville, Ky.—A postal card was received in Louisville a few days ago from Charles H. Porter, formerly an operator at the Casino. Porter is a prisoner of war at Dullmen, Westphalia, Germany, where he has been in prison several months, following his capture at Ypres on June 2, 1916. He enlisted in Company A, Thirty-third Battalion, No. 3 Platoon, Canadian Volunteers, early in June, 1915. A brother, Colton Porter, is in the United States Engineering Service, having been transferred from Louisville to New York in the fall.

Children Free If With Parents.

Louisville, Ky.—The Strand theater, in an effort to make its morning children's shows on Saturdays more popular, has announced that children accompanied by their parents will be admitted free of charge. The admission for the adult is placed at 10 cents. When children are not accompanied by their parents the admission is 5 cents for each child. Children's shows are doing well in a number of the smaller towns in the state, which are now arranging special performances for the juveniles, the Empress at Owensboro being one of the leaders.

Colored Folks See Good Pictures.

Louisville, Ky.—Strong competition between the Palace theater and the Pythian theater, two negro show houses, has resulted in the colored population obtaining some excellent features during the past few weeks. Feature productions are taking better all the time with the dusky race. These houses charge 10 cents on Sunday and 5 cents during the greater portion of the week, generally staging some big feature attraction on Wednesday, at which the admission is advanced to 10 cents.

Orpheum Theater Burns.

Evansville, Ind.—The Orpheum theater, of this city, valued at $40,000, and the oldest and first theater of the city, was burned on March 9. The building was erected in 1872. The blaze started on the stage.

Cherokee Theater Taken Over By M. Switow.

Louisville, Ky.—M. Switow, prominent exhibitor of Louisville, who has been connected with many of the moving picture enterprises, has secured control of a lease on the Cherokee theater, on the Bardstown road, which is owned and which has been operated by the Cherokee amusement company, of which Carl Zang is the head.

Johnny and Emma Ray in Florida.

Cleveland, O.—Johnny and Emma Ray, Cleveland comedians who made some comedies last year in Cleveland, are now in Florida making pictures. E. M. Reynolds, cameraman, is with them, doing the grinding.

Favors Park Photoplays.

Cleveland, O.—Recreation Commissioner Potts has advocated outdoor moving pictures for this summer, as an amusement for the children in the parks.

Joseph Grossman Ill.

Cleveland, O.—Joseph Grossman, the popular manager of the Standard theater, one of Cleveland's first-run houses, is seriously ill with typhoid.

More Pittsburgh Notes

Milo Studio in Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Plans are under way for the establishment of a studio in the vicinity of Pittsburgh in the near future by the Milo film corporation, of New York. George F. Carson, president of the company, is in the city negotiating for a producing plant and a 500-acre site suitable for his needs, and expects to close the deal within the next few days. Mr. Carson is accompanied by several members of his comedy staff, intending to begin work as soon as arrangements can be made.

T. J. Davidson in Poster Co.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—T. J. Davidson has purchased an interest in the Poster Company, 804 Penn. avenue, and will assist H. C. Berger in the management of the concern. Mr. Davidson is the son of James Davidson, owner of the St. Clair theater, Sterling and Arlington avenues, and is thoroughly familiar with the needs of the exhibitor.

The American theater, one of the most attractive picture houses on the South Side, Pittsburgh, has engaged an orchestra to furnish music daily and Manager H. J. Lax reports that his receipts already show it is proving quite an added attraction. Paramount productions and other features are shown at the American and business is uniformly good.

Three Marion, Ind., Theaters Consolidated

Washington Theaters Company Buys the Royal Grand and the Indiana—May Lower Prices—The Indiana to Show Only Big Attractions.

From the Indiana Trade News Service,

316 State Life Building, Indianapolis, Ind.

MARION, IND.—The Washington theater company, which owns and operates the Lyric theater in this city, completed a real estate deal last week by which it becomes the owner of the Royal Grand and Indiana theater buildings here. The total amount involved in the transactions is said to be about $65,000.

The Indiana theater will be taken over at once by the new owners, and, with a few changes and alterations in the interior, will open up high class motion picture and legitimate attractions. Manager R. F. Parks of the Lyric theater will also have charge of the Indiana. The Royal Grand will continue under the management of Dolly Spurr until September 16, at which date her lease expires.

The officers of the Washington theater company are Jess Beaver, president; Ira Schildmyer, vice-president, and Charles Goldhait, secretary and treasurer. They announced, following the deal, that the purpose of the company in purchasing the two playhouses was for the betterment of the motion picture and theatrical business in Marion, and to give Marion such shows as she once enjoyed.

Manager Parks said that statements to the effect that the "combine" was formed with a view to raising prices was without foundation. He added that if any change was made in prices it would be downward.

It is the intention of the company to open the Indiana only two or three nights a week, and then with only the best attractions. No vaudeville will be played, and only the biggest motion picture shows, "Intolerance," "The Libertine" and "Mickey" have been booked.

The Indiana theater was purchased by the Washington theater company from the Rex realty company. The Royal Grand was purchased from the Crossland-Gillmore Co., of which H. A. Crossland, of Marion, now at San Diego, Cal., is a member.

Miss Dolly Spurr, who has been operat-

Ontario Theaters Decrease in Number

Bigger and Better Houses Are Driving Out the Little Picture Shows—New Theaters Are Many—Some Examples.

W. M. Gladish, 1263 Gerard St., E. Toronto, Ontario.

TORONTO, ONT.—While there are approximately one hundred less moving picture theaters in Canada now than in 1915, building activities in the film world, particularly in Ontario, are pronounced. Existing houses are being improved generally, extensive additions are being built to structures which are already high class in many respects, while a number of new theaters have been built to replace various time-worn store-shows.

In 1915 the number of picture theaters in Canada, according to the best available figures, was 950. The latest list shows a total of 853. It is therefore apparent that a comparatively large number of small places have been eliminated and the trend of the industry is toward the wide establishment of perfected theaters of capacious size, built for the special purpose of picture exhibiting. Not one week during the past few months has passed but the Toronto correspondent of Moving Picture World has received notice of the completion or starting of a fine new theater somewhere—sometimes two or three. Others are being improved and enlarged, while the "little uns" are dropping out.

A recent announcement indicates that the Canadian Theaters, Limited, of London, Ontario, will shortly erect a $100,000 moving picture theater at Montreal, Que. This company controls a string of theaters in Eastern Canada and the chief officer of the syndicate is James C. Duffield, 518 Queen's avenue, London, Ont.

Manager H. Guest, of the Strand theater, 756 King street East, Hamilton, has also arranged for the expenditure of $10,000 on his house to provide for extensive interior alterations and an increase in seating.

At Guelph, Ontario, George Reinhart, proprietor of a well-known local hotel, has called for final tenders for the remodeling of large premises into a picture theater, the cost of the rebuilding to be $16,000. Colwill, Booth & Company, of Guelph, are the architects.

The erection of Toronto's new big theater at Richmond and Victoria streets is proceeding. Both the name of this theater and the name of the owner are being withheld for future announcement. This house will cost $300,000 and will probably seat about 2,500.

Jerry Shea Resigns as Head of Canadian National.

Toronto, Ont.—Announcement has been made that Jerry Shea, the well known theatrical man, has resigned from the presidency of the Canadian National Features, Limited, whose studio at Trenton, Ontario, was opened in March. The reason given for this action on the part of Mr. Shea is that his active interest in the picture field interfered with other business interests.

Death of Frank Riley.

Toronto, Ont.—Frank Riley, one of the best liked young men of the Toronto picture business, died at St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto, from inflammatory rheumatism. He was only 27 years of age. He had been connected with the Vitagraph, Universal and General Film offices before his illness.

Harry Kauffman Feature Film Co. Starts in Montreal.

Toronto, Ont.—According to word received in Toronto, Harry Kauffman, formerly Montreal manager of the Famous Feature Film company, with headquarters in Montreal, to deal in state right propositions, etc. Harry is widely known in Canadian film circles.

Branch of Metro Opened Here.

Toronto, Ont.—A branch office of the Metro has been opened in the Cosgrove building, Yonge street, Toronto, to look after Metro business in Ontario. This is a direct branch of the Metro pictures corporation, New York, as the decision was reached not to release Metro subjects in Canada through the Specialty Film Import, Limited, the Canadian Pathe distributors, as intended.

Red Mill Theater Burns.

Toronto, Ont.—Toronto's first moving picture theater fire in many months occurred on Monday, March 12, when the Red Mill theater, Yonge street, owned by Bert Applegarth, was partially destroyed through the ignition of film in the operating booth soon after the start of the matinee performance. Charles Spofford, an old and reliable operator, was in the box at the time, and he was severely burned about the neck, head and arms in endeavoring to extinguish the flames. The people in the house escaped without difficulty, but the firemen experienced some difficulty in extinguishing the blaze.

Tad L. Johnson Reopens the Cozy.

Rockville, Ind.—The Cozy theater, recently purchased from Tad L. Johnson, of Terre Haute, by Roy Whitesell, and which has been closed for the last few weeks because of repairs and redecorations, was reopened Saturday with a matinee and evening show. A large crowd attended the opening.

E. R. Steel Buys Star Theater.

Owensville, Ind.—A. L. Biddle has sold the Star theater here to E. R. Steele, of Kentland, Ind. Mr. Biddle recently bought the Empress theater at Princeton and has moved there with his family.

Cincinnati Exchanges Under One Roof

Much Interest Shown in Plan to Localize the Distributing Business at Seventh and Main Streets—Pathe and World Film Already Have Space.

From Kenneth C. Crain, 307 1st Nat. Bank, Cincinnati, O.

CINCINNATI, O.—The extent to which interest has been shown in the plan for grouping a number of leading Cincinnati film exchanges in a single building, that at Seventh and Main streets, indicates that the entire building, five floors above the ground floor, will shortly be occupied by moving picture concerns.

It has already been announced that the Pathe exchange has secured the fourth floor, Manager Wessling's organization being probably the first to close arrangements; while the World Film exchange, headed by Manager Harris Hurst, has completed arrangements to vacate its quarters at 17 East Sixth street and take the fifth floor of the building, possibly with some smaller exchange occupying part of the floor.

The Vitagraph is still endeavoring to make some plans for getting into the building, contingent on disposing of its present lease; but it is willing to make such substantial concessions that it is practically certain the move will be made. With these three leading exchanges as a nucleus, and others certain to follow, Cincinnati's first exchange building will be filled with ease.

The structure is comparatively new, of concrete and brick, and alterations are now being made to meet the requirements of the city authorities for buildings occupied by film exchanges. The stairways and elevators will be inclosed, and fireproof vaults will be built on each floor for the storage of films. This work will hardly be completed before April 1, but by May 1 it is believed that the exchanges will be settled in their new quarters.

Work for More Expeditious Censoring.

Cincinnati, O.—The two local organizations of moving-picture interests, the Moving Picture Exhibitors' League and the Associated Film Exchanges, both of which are affiliated with the Chamber of Commerce, have taken a decided position in the matter of the budget of the Ohio Board of Censors, H. Serkovich, who is secretary of both organizations, traveling to Columbus to urge the approval of the budget. The amount involves $29,274 a year, which covers salaries and traveling expenses.

The interest of the film men and exhibitors lies in their desire to expedite the work of the Board, which has occasionally in the past been hampered by lack of sufficient employees. W. C. Bachmeyer, president of the Exchanges, and Andrew Hettesheimer, president of the Exhibitors' League, both sent telegrams to Gov. Cox and the chairman of the committee in charge of the matter, urging the approval of the item. The point is made that the Board has been turning in from $8,000 to $10,000 a year to the state over expenses, and that the moving picture business is entitled to good service in return for this revenue.

Getting Ready for "Birth of a Nation."

Cincinnati, O.—Preliminary arrangements for the run of "The Birth of a Nation" in Cincinnati have been completed at the Grand opera house, where the film will begin an engagement on March 19. The importance attached to it is indicated by the fact that it is being handled precisely like an unusual stage attraction. The advance sale of seats, heretofore unknown for a film attraction in Cincinnati, is set to begin March 15, and special attention is promised mail orders. The scale of prices is also the highest yet known for a picture, ranging from 25 cents to $1.00 at the matinees, and from 25 cents to $1.50 at night.

Manager Aylward, of the Grand, is confident that there will be no serious attempt made to interfere with the exhibition of the picture, notwithstanding the large negro element in Cincinnati and its political power, as indicated by the fact that there is a colored representative from the Queen City in the legislature. His bill for the prohibition of the picture is in committee, and will probably die there, according to Joseph Heintzman, representing the owners of the picture.

Wants Big Cincinnati Theater.

Cincinnati, O.—A new theater for Cincinnati is proposed under an arrangement of an unusual character, advanced by the Associated Theatrical Enterprise Co. of New York. The concern has submitted through the Chamber of Commerce a plan under which it will agree to lease such a theater, if constructed, suggesting that local capital be given an opportunity to come into the project under attractive terms. Several Cincinnati capitalists have indicated interest in the plan, and the undoubted fact that there is room for another big theater in the downtown district, for moving pictures, the stage or both, lends it some promise of success.

Dayton May Oppose Showing "Nation" Film.

Dayton, O.—The public and moving picture exhibitors have been astonished by the promise of the city commission to do all it can to prevent the exhibition in Dayton of "The Birth of a Nation" in spite of the belated approval of the picture by the censors of Ohio. In response to protests by colored citizens, however, the commission took the action indicated, and it is stated that the city attorney has been instructed to draft an ordinance which will prevent the picture from being shown. The measure will be taken into court, if adopted, as the owners of the picture are determined to fight to the last ditch any attempt to prevent them from reaping the harvest of their long fight in Ohio.

Youngstown Exhibitors Thanked for Aiding Red Cross.

Youngstown, O.—Moving picture exhibitors of Youngstown have received the warm thanks of the Youngstown branch of the American Red Cross for their assistance in the recent campaign to raise funds for the work of the organization. The exhibitors showed free of charge a slide briefly outlining the purposes of the society, and showing what a small sum subscribed by each citizen will do. One of the chief objects of the campaign was to secure permanent members and workers for the organization, and the assistance given by the moving picture houses is credited with much of the success of the work.

T. A. Stumbaugh Dies.

Columbus Grove, O.—Thomas A. Stumbaugh, proprietor of the Grove moving picture house and the Grove hotel, died at his home recently at the age of 45 years, of a complication of diseases. Before coming to the town to take charge of the theater and hotel Mr. Stumbaugh lived in Lima.

Bill Paves Way for Nuisance Charges

Illinois Lower House Has Measure to Facilitate the Handling of Objectionable Shows of Any Kind—Introduced by Carter of Evanston.

By Frank H. Madison, 628 South Wabash Avenue, Chicago.

SPRINGFIELD, ILL.—A new bill aimed at motion picture theaters has been introduced into the lower house of the Illinois legislature by Representative A. J. Carter, of Evanston. The bill would make it possible to condemn and close motion picture houses, theaters, gardens, or any other place used for the presentation of any obscene or indecent show or performance. The measure provides machinery for declaring such places a nuisance similar to that provided in the act adopted by the last general assembly providing for the abatement of prostitution. By giving bond, the owner of the place may reopen it on condition that the nuisance is abated.

Among Michigan Exhibitors.

Blissfield, Mich.—Sidney Rall is now sole proprietor of the Temple theater, the firm of Rall & Veont having been dissolved.

Houghton, Mich.—Joseph Thibodeau has sold the Lyric theater to Joseph and Alvin Bourbonnais. Joseph Bourbonnais will act as manager.

St. John, Mich.—E. C. Cooper has sold the Vaudeville theater to E. G. Wilson, of Saginaw, and Carl Atkinson. Atkinson is owner of the Gem theater, which will be operated under the new management on Saturday nights and for special features.

Gaastra, Mich.—A moving picture theater will be erected by Charles Hanold.

Rockford Council Again Passes Sunday Opening.

Rockford, Ill.—The Sunday show issue has not died. The city council has again put it squarely up to Mayor W. W. Bennett by passing the Gallagher amendment permitting Sunday night shows. This amendment was carried by a vote of 8 to 7, but it is expected the mayor will again veto it.

The Orpheum, Palm and Grand theaters have decided to restore the old scale of prices for Sunday shows, and will operate at 5 and 10 cents, except in the case of very unusual features. Inasmuch as the run is limited from 1 to 6 o'clock, they have asked the patrons to come early and help distribute the patronage over the five hours.

Socialists of Rockford have gone on record as indorsing Sunday picture shows.

Illinois Theaters Change Hands—New Houses.

Orangeville, Ill.—W. G. Bryant has sold the Orangeville opera house to Mr. Gunter, of Palmyra, Wis.

Crystal Lake, Ill.—R. W. Gracy is now sole proprietor of the moving picture business of this city, having bought out his partner, G. E. Prickett, and closed one house.

Wenona, Ill.—Harry Axline has purchased the Scope theater from Mr. Luning.

Weldon, Ill.—Wyatt Haleom has bought a site and will erect a moving picture theater, 80 by 26 feet.

Macomb, Ill.—Bert David has sold the Princess theater to Esther Pennington and Fred Miller. Miss Pennington, who has been organist at the Princess, will continue in charge of the musical programs, also assisting in the management. The bookings will be made by M. W. Stults, of Monmouth, in connection with his house in that city.

Wood River, Ill.—The Antlers theater, which has been conducted by Mrs. Clara Summers, of St. Louis, has been closed because of lack of business.

Nashville News Letter

By J. L. Ray, 1014 Stahlman Building,
Nashville, Tenn.

Anti-Picketing Bill for Tennessee.

NASHVILLE, TENN.—A bill which will prevent the picketing of theaters in this state has been introduced by the Tennessee Manufacturers' association, and referred to the labor committees of both houses in the legislature. Recalling the recent trouble at the Majestic in Knoxville, when striking operators created such a disturbance on picket duty as to necessitate the interference of police reserves, and the Nashville walkout of some months ago, it can be readily seen that this measure, which was drafted primarily in the interest of manufacturers and industrial establishments in the state will react beneficially to the moving picture managers. Many strong endorsements have been placed in the interest of this bill, and it stands a good chance of becoming a law before adjournment of the session.

The measure is entitled "An act to prohibit picketing, unfair lists, or other interference with the lawful business or occupation of others, and to provide a penalty therefor." The various sections of the Act provide for stringent observance of the rules set forth, and the bill undoubtedly will solve the problem of the theater men when future differences with employees arise, as the penalties set forth provide a cash fine of from $50 to $500.

Sunday Shows for Cleveland.

Cleveland, Tenn.—Moving pictures will be offered on Sunday afternoons in this town, the hours having been so arranged as to not conflict with church services. Under the law no admission can be charged, but contributions will be taken up during each performance. The films will be of an entertaining nature, and not confined to historical and educational subjects as with Sunday shows in other towns, according to an announcement, and some high class entertainment has been promised the public.

Staub's Theater Entertains Troops.

Knoxville, Tenn.—Guardsmen returning from the Border were royally entertained by the chamber of commerce at Staub's theater on March 15, out of appreciation for their services in behalf of the United States in the Mexican crisis.

"Intolerance" Reaches Tennessee.

Memphis, Tenn.—Griffith's spectacle, "Intolerance," has been booked for an eight-day run at the Lyric beginning Monday, March 18, at prices ranging from 25 cents to $1.50. A symphony orchestra and chorus will accompany the picture. This picture has also been booked for a two-day run in Chattanooga at the Lyric, but no announcement of a booking in Nashville, the capital city, has been received.

Loew's Memphis House Uses S. R. O.

Memphis, Tenn.—The Lyceum, being operated on the Loew circuit since its reopening a few weeks ago, has been doing capacity business notwithstanding much snow and rain during the month. This harbinger of steady patronage forecasts a successful opening of the new Loew house in the next few months, and work is being rapidly shaped up in order to hold the opening of the new house in time for fall business.

M. H. Hoffman, general manager of Universal and Bluebird, was a recent Detroit visitor, conferring with George W. Weeks, division manager, and M. S. Bailey, district manager. Mr. Hoffman was well pleased with the situation in Michigan, and especially the way the Bluebird features are taking all over the state.

Censorship Sentiment Speaks

Michigan Advocates of Censorship Load Legislators with Pleas Favoring the New Censor Bill—Exhibitors and Their Friends Remain Silent—Need of a Strong, Well-Backed Organization in the State.

By Jacob Smith, 503 Free Press Building, Detroit, Mich.

DETROIT, MICH.—Up to the time of writing there have been no new developments on the state censorship bill in Michigan. As previously noted, the State Affairs committee has reported favorably on the bill and recommended that it pass, but the Finance committee must also pass on the bill, and then it must go to a vote before the house and senate.

A member of the State Affairs committee in speaking of the Eaton Censorship bill said: "I was opposed to this bill from the very start, but the number of letters we have received from women all over the state favoring the bill is far greater than those from the opposition side. This has convinced me that there is a need for censorship inasmuch as there is greater sentiment for it."

If those who favor the bill can wage such a successful campaign what about those who are opposed to the bill? Any exhibitor you meet will tell you he doesn't want state censorship and that honestly it would be a detriment to the industry, and yet they would not go one bit out of their way to show to the members of the state legislature that they don't want the bill passed. There are dozens of exhibitors in Michigan who have not written their congressmen as yet, nor have they sent in a single petition from their patrons.

There is most certainly a crying need for a strong organization in Michigan of moving picture exhibitors. Frankly the present administration has failed to take advantage of its many possibilities, but in that they are not to be blamed because they in turn failed to get the proper assistance and co-operation from the members. Maybe some day Michigan exhibitors will wake up and then we will see a real organization that will be devoid of all jealousies and will work only for the betterment, uplift and development of the motion picture industry.

H. A. Ross Manager of Detroit Paramount.

Detroit, Mich.—S. J. Stoughton, district manager of the central west for the Paramount, while in Detroit the early part of the week, announced the appointment of H. A. Ross as manager of the local exchange, and J. E. Ryder, as salesman, who will specialize for the present on the new Roscoe Arbuckle comedies. Mr. Ross succeeds Jack W. Loranger, who has been Detroit manager for the past four months. He was formerly manager of the Mutual exchange in Cleveland, and has been with the Mutual since it started business. While he has been manager at Cleveland for the past year, he has previously managed other Mutual exchanges, and at one time was in charge of the Mutual's feature department for six states. He has a likeable personality and comes well recommended from the Cuyahoga city, so that he is sure to be just as successful in Detroit.

Mr. Ryder for the past two years has been working in Michigan for the Essanay Company, and was previously with the General and Universal exchanges.

The above changes were effective Monday, March 12.

Bert Graham Will Run Palace Theater.

Detroit, Mich.—Bert Graham, formerly manager of the Tri-State film exchange in Detroit, and previously with the Universal exchange in Detroit, has been appointed manager of the Palace theater, in Saginaw, which is to be reopened following its financial difficulties.

Among State Rights Companies.

Detroit, Mich.—"Civilization" has been held over for another week at the Washington theater, Detroit, where each day the business is increasing. This feature is controlled in Michigan by the State Film company, of which Col. W. S. Butterfield is president, and Charles Muehlman manager. "The Barrier" will start an indefinite run at the Washington on Sunday, March 25.

B. Barnett, of the Barnett Film Attractions, Detroit and Cleveland, controlling "Joan, the Woman," and "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea," expects to have four "Joan, the Woman," companies in Ohio. No decision has been reached so far as Detroit is concerned on this feature, Mr. Barnett preferring to wait until the right house can be secured. Mr. Barnett looks for a record run with this picture in Detroit.

Sabbaterians Active in Sault.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.—A campaign is under way to stop all Sunday shows at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich. The local ministerial association is behind the campaign and has asked the assistance of the prosecutor in the movement.

New Empress at Lansing Begins.

Lansing, Mich.—The New Empress theater, in Lansing, formerly the Theatorium, and operated by J. M. Neal, was opened March 7. The theater will play a combination of vaudeville and pictures.

Enterprise Equipment Opens Grand Rapids Branch.

Grand Rapids, Mich.—The Enterprise Theater Equipment company, main offices in the Peter Smith building, Detroit, has opened a branch at 48 South Division street, Grand Rapids, the formal opening having taken place March 15. Ray Branch, proprietor, was in Grand Rapids for the opening. This concern handles Motiograph machines, Hertner transverters, Gold King screens and American auto arc controls.

Mutual Closes Grand Rapids Office.

Grand Rapids, Mich.—The Mutual has closed its offices in Grand Rapids and hereafter will handle all Western Michigan bookings from the Detroit exchange.

The Universal announces that it has moved to larger quarters at 48 South Division avenue, Grand Rapids, with A. F. Coleman in charge. At the opening, held March 15, King Baggott, who is touring Michigan with "Absinthe," was at the Grand Rapids exchange.

Owosso's Lincoln Theater Opens.

Owosso, Mich.—The Lincoln theater, Owosso, held its opening this week. This house is very beautiful, seating about 800, and is operated by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Patterson. A Motiograph projector is part of the equipment in the projection booth.

Manager J. M. Duncan, of the Vitagraph exchange, in Detroit, is having many inquiries and is taking many bookings on the new Mrs. Paula Blackton series of country life stories.

The actual paid admissions at the Majestic theater, Detroit, the week it played Douglas Fairbanks in "The Americano" was 26,498.

Ask for Censorship Only on Complaint

Nebraska Exhibitors Confer with House Committee of Legislature on Bill to Provide for Viewing of Objectionable Films.

By Frank H. Madison, 628 South Wabash Avenue, Chicago.

LINCOLN, NEB.—Censorship of moving pictures in Nebraska is to be placed in the hands of the Nebraska Conservation and Welfare commission, if a bill recommended for passage goes through the state legislature. It was decided at a conference between a number of exhibitors and the house committee on miscellaneous subjects that the measure should provide that upon the complaint of ten persons the Conservation and Welfare commission should censor all pictures, no matter by what national body they have been approved. Without complaint, it may act on all films not censored by the National Board of Review. After a hearing, it may destroy the films.

F. A. Van Husan to Manage Universal.

Omaha, Neb.—F. A. Van Husan is again manager of the local exchange of the Universal. He is succeeded as general manager of the Western Supply company by George A. Rogers.

Picture Theater Notes in Nebraska.

O'Neill, Neb.—Huge Coyne has purchased the interest of Manager Beckart of the Star theater.

Wymore, Neb.—The Lyric theater is now under the management of H. H. Dimmitt, who has taken over the interest of Mr. Small.

Junction City, Neb.—The Crescent theater has been leased by Will S. Trites, for the last three years manager of the St. John theater at Sutherland.

Norfolk, Neb.—The Auditorium has installed an automatic ticket seller, the first in a local motion picture house.

Columbus, Neb.—Homer Rothleitner, a moving picture operator, was badly burned in trying to throw a blazing film out of the window.

Omaha, Neb.—"The Adventures of a Boy Scout" was given at the Strand theater under the auspices of the Omaha Woman's club and the Boy Scouts.

Lincoln, Neb.—Prof. G. E. Condra, of the state conservation commission, has made moving pictures of the state legislature at work.

Kansas City News Service

By Kansas City News Service, 205 Corn Belt Building, Kansas City, Mo.

D. O. Reese Heads Kansas City Universal.

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—D. O. Reese has been made manager of the Universal office at Kansas City, although he has practically been manager of the office for the last nine months, as Mr. Cropper, owing to his heavy duties as district manager, was unable to spend much time here. Mr. Reese says his slogan will be "Greater Efficiency." Regardless of salaries, he will have the most efficient workers; he says his assistants must be the kind that, when a mistake is made once, it never happens again. He also intends to personally take care of the exhibitors; every complaint, no matter how small, will have his own attention.

Key Service Jottings.

Kansas City, Mo.—R. G. Churchill, salesman in the Iowa and Nebraska territory of the Key service, has resigned. C. S. Vaughan, formerly assistant manager in the Mutual office in Omaha, Neb., now holds the same position in the Kansas City office of the Key service. Mr. Vaughan says that, although he is impressed with the way things are booming in the business here, it does not quite come up to the way money was made on the border while he was there with the Fifth Nebraska infantry.

The Key service, instead of releasing three pictures a month, will now release four—one each week. L. A. Cahill, formerly with the Mutual company in Omaha, Neb., is now a traveler for the Kansas City office of the Key service. His territory will cover Iowa and Nebraska.

E. E. Heller Transferred to Charlotte, N. C.

Kansas City, Mo.—E. E. Heller, who for two years has been a booker with the Kansas City office of the Pathe, has been transferred to Charlotte, N. C., where he will hold the same position. Mr. Heller has a host of friends here, who deeply regret his departure.

Showmanship Snap Shots and Theater Notes.

Oregon, Mo.—R. S. Keeves, Royal theater, has closed for spring remodeling.

Fort Scott, Kan.—Miss Marie Smith, manager of the Pictureland, states that the picture that has brought her the most money this year was "Stillwaters," featuring Marguerite Clarke. This picture proved unusually popular with the people of that vicinity, having to be returned several times.

Ottawa, Kan.—The Crystal theater, owned by Mrs. W. A. Millington, recently burned to the ground. Mrs. Millington intends to rebuild at once.

Ellis, Kan.—R. G. Markel, Princess theater, has been obliged to close on account of contagious diseases being prevalent in that town.

Odessa, Mo.—J. E. Lighm, manager of the Garden theater, is an all-round business man. Besides his picture show, he handles Victrolas and Fords. His caliber as a hustler is illustrated by the fact that he was shipped 175 Fords to sell at the beginning of the year and has already sold 147. Needless to add that this picture show is one of the most lucrative in that part of the country.

Osawatomie, Kan.—T. M. Henneberry, who is manager of the Empress theater, Paola, Kan., has opened a picture show here.

Syracuse, Kan.—M. C. Cleary, superintendent of the Syracuse high school, recently installed in the school auditorium a motion picture equipment. He gives two shows a week, mostly the Paramount educational features.

Benefits Every Wednesday Night.

Salina, Kan.—Donmeyer & Keefer, of the Palace theater, although having the best of business, had one dull night each week, Wednesday. They hit upon the idea of making that night "benefit night," and it has brought big results. Lodges, civic bodies, etc., are co-operated with. For instance, on the first night, the Twentieth Century club gave a benefit performance of "Cinderella." The actual paid admissions were $1,741. The next week the ladies of the Eastern Star gave "The Martyrdom of Philip Strong," which met with even greater success.

Theater Jottings in Missouri.

Albany, Mo.—Chas. E. Littlewood recently purchased a new machine for his picture show.

Neosho, Mo.—Work is progressing rapidly on the new theater building on Wood street.

Pierce City, Mo.—Charles L. Martin, manager of the Princess theater, has secured a lease on the corner room of the new brick building now in course of construction, where he will put up a modern moving picture show with a seating capacity of 400.

Cushing, Okla.—The Wigwam theater is being repaired and remodeled.

Pauls Valley, Okla.—The Itel theater changed hands March 1, when Tom P. Grant assumes charge, having purchased same from Bert Hilburn. Mr. Grant has been remodeling the building.

Stroud, Okla.—E. E. Middle of the Killarney theater at Shamrock will succeed Mr. Russell, manager of the Cozy.

New Theater in Hobart, Okla.

Hobart, Okla.—Thompson & Kizzlar, of Hobart, are erecting a $10,000 motion picture theater in this city. It is to be a strictly modern building, and will be ready for opening about the first of May, this year. F. C. Thompson, head of the firm, is now managing the Palace theater at Fourth and Washington streets.

Prints Program on Calendar.

Ponca City, Okla.—F. R. Powell, Jr., has utilized an advertising scheme which has met with success other places, thereby bringing capacity audiences to his theater, the Mission. He has had printed and distributed from door to door large calendars, the numbers in red on yellow paper and in big, black type, over each date, is the program at the Mission theater for that particular night.

Two New Members of Lair.

Kansas City, Mo.—Sam B. Stall and C. A. Nichols are new salesmen with the Fox exchange.

Paramount Bracelets Popular.

Kansas City, Mo.—The bracelet of miniatures which the Paramount company is using as an advertising scheme is going big at the Kansas City office, particularly with the exhibitors in the small towns. Every country town high school girl seems bent on getting a full bracelet if she has to bankrupt her father in the attempt. Consequently, business for Paramount exhibitors is booming.

Visitors to Local Exchange.

Visitors in Kansas City recently were: Miss Marie Smith, Pictureland theater, Fort Scott, Kan.; Mr. and Mrs. Reefer and Mr. and Mrs. Donmeyer, Salina, Kan.; Mrs. Viola Brown, Royal theater, O'Neill, Neb.; Joe Mogler, Mogler theater, St. Louis, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Kerr, Little Sue, Iowa, en route to Brownsville, Texas, because of sickness in the family; J. E. Lighm, Garden theater, Odessa, Mo.; J. Crafton, Grand, Mulberry, Kan.; Fraser, Fraser & Nuttman, Palace, Pittsburg, Kan.; L. R. Taylor, Tarkio, Mo.; E. M. Hackett, Fairfax, Mo.

NEW ORLEANS NOTES.

World Man Back from Border.

New Orleans, La.—When Uncle Sam called for his likely boys of the different state organizations to guard his Mexican door last summer, one of the readiest was George M. Cheney, citizen-soldier in a New Orleans artillery company. Cheney has done his tour, and, we rejoice to say, is back on the job for this paper again. We have kept his place open for him with the good help of N. E. Thatcher, a newspaper man of marked ability, and worthy photoplay editor of the Times-Picayune. From this date, Mr. Cheney will represent us as formerly in the important New Orleans territory, and in giving godspeed to Mr. Thatcher we want to thank him for his appreciated services.

New Pfiel Theater Well Under Way.

Clarksville, Miss.—The Pfiel theater is well under way in this city and when completed is expected to be one of the most pretentious motion picture theaters in any of the interior towns in this section of the country. Its ultimate cost is estimated at $150,000 and every appliance for the pleasure and convenience of the patrons is being provided.

A. J. Xydias Buys Lomo Theater.

Hattiesburg, Miss.—The Lomo theater at this place has been purchased by A. J. Xydias of New Orleans, and it is to be opened and operated under the management of James Harvey, an experienced manager of New Orleans. The best feature service is to be run and every requirement for the proper projection of pictures is being provided.

Manager J. C. Landen of the Istrione Theater, of Jackson, Miss.

Gulf State Exhibitors.

Natchez, Miss.—C. H. Newell has resumed the charge of the Princess theater at Natchez, and is making a great success of the enterprise.

New Orleans, La.—The Princess theater in this city has added a six-piece orchestra to the regular attractions of the house and the effect on business is at once apparent.

Lake Charles, La.—Bert Tiller is again at the head of the Southern Amusement company at Lake Charles, La., having been induced to relinquish his holdings in Monroe, La., and return to manage the motion picture houses operated by this company.

Mr. Exhibitor:—You will get more helpful information by carefully reading one trade paper weekly than by skimming over three or four. The MOVING PICTURE WORLD is the one paper you need.

MINNEAPOLIS NOTES.

Supply Companies Are Busy.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Minneapolis' three theater supply houses, the Rialto theater supply, Theater equipment, and Northwestern motion picture equipment companies, are reporting big demand for new machines and accessories. Simplex machines have enjoyed a remarkable demand during the last three weeks, according to J. George Feinberg, of the Theater equipment company.

Midnight Matinee Tickets In Demand.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Tickets for the special midnight matinee to be staged at the Pantages theater here, March 27, for the benefit of the convention fund of the Northwest Exhibitors' corporation are selling rapidly, and some good acts donated by various local theaters to the bill are expected to draw capacity house.

Minneapolis Convention Nears

Local Talk Turns to the Possible Candidates for the Presidency of the Northwest Exhibitors—Some of the Possibilities Who Are Mentioned—Preparations for the Convention Go on Apace.

By John L. Johnston, 704 Film Exchange Building, Minneapolis, Minn.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.—With the annual convention of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' Corporation of the Northwest a trifle over six weeks distant, and the F. I. L. M. club stirring up things and getting the exhibitors' real ideas to the fore, the wheels of Minneapolis' film row are running along at a rapid clip at the present writing.

Exchange men are keeping the mails busy with letters to headquarters regarding displays at the convention, and exhibitors are beginning to wonder who the new officers will be, and just what will be the result of the gathering. Last year, because of the exposition in connection with the meetings, the convention was poorly attended, but this year, with no exposition, a lively gathering of exhibitors is anticipated. As to who the new officers of the corporation will be, it would be folly to attempt the selection of all of them just now, but there are exhibitors who have already wagered that this or that candidate will be elected.

It is not known whether James G. Gilosky, St. Paul, president for the last two years, will run again, but if he does he will not lack support. It is doubted that Thomas Furniss, Duluth, will run. Mr. Furniss refused to accept the national presidency, and has twice refused office in the Northwest body. As Minneapolis is the headquarters of the Northwest branch, many believe David G. Rodgers, H. P. Greene or Charles Hitchcock will be leaders in the presidential race, while the St. Paul contingent appears strong in its support of Charles W. Campbell, a candidate last year, and president of the St. Paul exhibitors' association.

Preparations for the convention are progressing rapidly, and if promised support develops into reality a tornado will not keep the gathering from being a whooping big success.

The Bijou Charging 10 Cents Again.

Minneapolis, Minn.—The Bijou theater here, for some time a 5-cent house, has returned to the 10-cent admission policy, and has started off with three superior productions, "The Common Law," "The Truant Soul," and "Panthea." Manager Al G. Kells has completed the first part of a big billboard advertising campaign, and, judging from the attendance at the theater Sunday, March 11, this form of advertising is valuable.

Theaters Packed at Children's Matinees.

Minneapolis, Minn.—James A. Keough, spurred on by the success of J. B. Reisman, L. V. Calvert and George Granstrom, staged a special matinee for children at the Strand Saturday morning, March 10, and a packed house of youngsters was the result. Mary Pickford's "A Poor Little Rich Girl" and a Keystone comedy were offered, and the laughter and applause drowned out the music. George Granstrom staged his third "kiddie" matinee at the New Franklin here on Saturday morning, also, and offered "Little Sunset" to a packed house. On March 17 "Robinson Crusoe" will be shown the children.

Programs and Special Films.

St. Paul, Minn.—The Hamline theater here, managed by Henry P. Greene, has booked Paramount pictures for two days a week.

Duluth, Minn.—The Princess theater at Superior, Wis., and the Rex theater here have booked "The Witching Hour."

Minneapolis, Minn.—"War as It Really Is" has begun a week's run at the local Auditorium under the direction of W. B. Tearse, of Winona, Minn.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Manager Lowell V. Calvert of the New Garrick has booked "King Lear," featuring Frederick Warde. The New Princess, St. Paul, has done likewise.

In the Releasing Exchanges.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Newton S. Davis, for over six months assistant manager of the Universal-Laemmle exchange, resigned Saturday, March 10. Mr. Davis did not announce his future plans, but it is expected he will enter some other exchange shortly.

Manager Ralph Bradford of the Universal exchange has returned to his desk after a week's business visit in Chicago. Julius Bernheim, manager of the Bluebird exchange, is now in Chicago conferring with Carl Laemmle regarding future work of his exchange.

Fred S. Meyer, manager of the local General exchange, has been appointed special representative for the North Mississippi valley district, comprising several exchanges, according to reports from the East. Mr. Meyer is well known in Milwaukee, Des Moines and Omaha.

Lee A. Horn, manager of the Selznick exchange, has booked his features in Leo Peterson's Iris theater, Belle Fourche, S. D.; A. J. Rose's theater at Rapid City, S. D.; Latts Brothers' theater, Ashland, Wis., and Axel Nielson's theater, Red Wing, Minn. Mr. Horn reports a big business with "War Brides" at the St. Paul Strand.

Samuel N. Robinson, manager of the Fox exchanges, has sent out to all exhibitors using his service instructions on how to keep films in perfect conditions, and suggestions for patching, cutting and projecting features.

Benjamin Judell, former Minneapolis Mutual manager, and at present Chicago district manager, spent several days of his vacation here visiting friends the week of March 4.

At the State Rights Exchanges.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Sol Lesser, Frisco film magnate, spent an hour visiting local exchange men here last week on his way from New York to the Golden Gate.

The Lochren film corporation has offered "The New Dante's Inferno" at a reduced rate, beginning March 10, and is now bidding for several new feature productions.

Daniel C. McClellan, former Universal and Westcott film corporation road salesman, has been added to the "Civilization" staff of the Supreme feature film company exchange.

The Minneapolis Elks' club has selected M. A. Hoppenrath to secure bookings on the Minnesota national guard film, "Our Own First Regiment." Mr. Hoppenrath got six bookings the first day.

L. E. Dawson, Shakopee, Minn., exhibitor, has secured Minnesota rights on the film feature, "Satan," and has already begun bookings for the feature.

Edward Brehaney, formerly with Elliott & Sherman, has been secured to look after the interests of the road companies James V. Bryson is putting out with "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea."

Clarence Cuthbert, Loeb Arcade, reports a brisk demand for his feature, "Victory," which includes many patriotic scenes and shows government officers at work.

Duluth, Minn.—The Progress feature film company here has secured territorial rights on "Are Passions Inherited?" a seven-reel feature.

Texas State Censor Bill Dies

Matter of State Board of Censors Settled for This Session of the Legislature—Gross Receipts Bill Also Out—Picture Shows, as Theaters, Under Ban of Sunday Law—The Dallas Censor Case Appeal Rebuffed.

By N. E. Flanagan, 516 North Ervay St., Dallas, Tex.

DALLAS, Texas.—Censorship for Texas is dead so far as this session of the legislature is concerned. A bill had been prepared, and it was supposed to have the backing of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs. But in a printed interview in "The Austin American," Mrs. Fred Fleming, president of the States Federation, expressed herself as convinced that the work of the federation was not so much in favor of censorship as it was toward creating a wholesome public taste for the right kind of pictures. This settled the censorship matter for this session of the legislature. The sensible statement of the president of the federation, who is recognized as the real leader of the progressive thought of Texas Women clubdom, should be appreciated by the exhibitors, and in the coming year an effort should be made to have only those pictures shown which will popularize the screen and not invite censorship.

Gross Receipts Tax Killed.

The two per cent. gross receipts tax advocated by one of the Texas state departments has been killed. It was thought for a while that this measure was sure to go through. It had, it was reported, the backing of the governor and the revenue department. But when the amusement men took a hand and prepared statements to show that during the past year there had been little or no money made in the show business in Texas all effort was withdrawn to pass the bill. It was due solely to the organization of the amusement interests that this bill was defeated.

A Motion Picture Show Is a Theater.

The Court of Criminal Appeals in Texas has finally decided that a motion picture theater is a theater in fact, and that it comes under the ban against running on Sunday. There is not a leg left for the shows to stand on now if the people desire to close them up Sunday. The case was carried up from Tarrant county in the face of most certain defeat. Had it been left in the lower courts where it had rested, there is no doubt but that the shows would have run along in most of the cities without being molested. It is a singular fact that in most all of the cases taken up from Fort Worth not a favorable decision has been obtained.

Dallas Censorship Case.

The appeal of Kulp Bros., who carried up their case to test local censorship in Dallas, was dismissed by the Court of Criminal Appeals. The case was not tried upon its merits because the court denied itself jurisdiction, setting forth its reason that the fine assessed was not sufficient to give it jurisdiction. The fine was $50, when to get it properly before the court it should have been at least $100. It is hardly possible that a case will get to that court again very soon.

Texas Theater Jottings—Changes.

San Antonio, Tex.—Dr. W. D. Box, of San Antonio, will begin at once to remodel his theater, the Peteclere and make it up-to-date in every way. Most of the San Antonio theaters have undergone extensive repairs this year and have greatly improved conditions.

Austin, Tex.—J. J. Hegman opened the Queen theater at Austin, March 8, with Anita Stewart in "The Girl Philippa." All showings were made to capacity houses, the last one at night when the people were not able to get in who were ten minutes late. Hegman operates the New Crescent at Temple. His Austin house is on Congress and Seventh street.

Ennis, Tex.—John Sayeg, Ennis, Texas, has remodeled his Jewel theater, turning it around so that the screen is next to the street. Sayeg also owns the Grand Corsicana, Tex.—M. L. Levine, Corsicana, has remodeled his Ideal theater, making it a 1,200 seat house.

Victoria, Tex.—The Princess theater, Victoria, Tex., has changed hands. Miss Grace Faubion is the new manager.

Jacksonville, Tex.—The Johns theater, Jacksonville, has been sold to Dorbant Bros. of Athens.

Trunk Made for Film Salesmen.

Dallas, Tex.—The Vitagraph Co. of Dallas also has a sample trunk about 2x3 ft. for salesmen. Various sizes of cuts and a reel of films can be carried in it. Fifty subjects can be covered. This cuts out the sidewalk salesmen and the dignified salesman can invite the exhibitor to the sample room of a hotel and display his samples to fine advantage. The last four salesmen traveling from the Vitagraph have been equipped with these handy cases.

"The Secret Kingdom," Vitagraph serial, is scoring a big success in Texas. Since it was released Jan. 22, it has been booked in 25 per cent. of the towns in the Vitagraph territory.

New State Rights Company Formed.

Dallas, Tex.—Albert Russell, one of the former owners of the Metro of Dallas, has opened the Arco picture service at 1911½ Commerce street. He got the name for his new concern by a novel method. He took his initials and added co for company. (This was not intended for a pun.) Mr. Russell says he intends to handle only big pictures and on the state right plan. He is now handling "The Fall of a Nation" and "The Crimson Stain Mystery."

Thanks Due Management of Majestic at Austin.

Austin, Tex.—The amusement managers of the entire state should feel greatly indebted to the management of the Majestic theater in Austin and especially to Gale Wallace. During the recent session of the Texas State Legislature, the Majestic theater turned over one of its commodious offices with all conveniences to the representatives of the association and at all times they were accorded every courtesy and accommodation possible for Manager Wallace to render. It might be well to add that the timely efforts of the Majestic management were of valuable assistance to the theater interests in defending their business against the encroachments of those who would destroy it.

L. B. Reamy, of the Triangle Dallas exchange, was in Austin, March 8, in the interest of his house. Uncle Lou, as he is familiarly called, is always welcome wherever he goes.

Iowa State Film Letter

By Dorothy Day, Register-Tribune, Des Moines, Ia.

Luncheon to Exchange Men by Exhibitors.

DES MOINES, IA.—The exhibitors of Des Moines who are striving to get together on the admission prices for the smaller downtown houses and suburban theaters, gave a luncheon at the Commercial club, Saturday the 19th, to the exchange men, who are in every sense "with them." The result of the meeting was a committee formed of one or two exchange men and one or two of the exhibitors for the purpose of more definite ideas for the betterment of conditions on the East side. Until the final agreement is arranged, the exhibitors have come to a kind of an agreement on a sliding scale of prices.

F. I. L. M. Club Visits Omaha.

When the F. I. L. M. club of Des Moines went to Omaha for over Sunday, the secretary informs us that the little organization seemed to inject real "pep" into the larger organization. The Des Moines club claims to have gained real benefit from the trip, as well as lots of enjoyment.

Exhibitors' Notes Over the State.

Webster City, Ia.—Colonel Hiatt, of the Iowa Second Regiment, has returned home from the Mexican border, and will again take up the managership of the Orpheum theater in Webster City. Mrs. Hiatt has been managing the theater in his absence.

Mason City, Ia.—The Mid West photoplay company of Des Moines has been trying to convince the exhibitors of Mason City that the people would willingly pay twenty-five cents for a big picture. But after repeated failures they decided to "show 'em." So the Mid West company rented the Cecil theater, one of the largest in Mason City, for two days, and put on Clara Kimball Young in "The Common Law" at twenty-five cents admission. Needless to say they packed them in and gave substantial proof to the Mason City exhibitors that their patrons would pay twenty-five cents for the right kind of a picture.

Mason City, Ia.—Captain Jay McKee Heffner, manager of the Bijou theater in Mason City, has returned from the border and will assume control of the Bijou, which theater his wife has been successfully managing in his long absence.

Cedar Rapids, Ia.—Arthur J. Stolte, formerly a newspaper man in Waterloo, has been managing the Palace theater in Vinton for the past year. Just recently, as a due reward for his capable services, the owners of the Palace in Vinton promoted him to the managership of the Strand theater in Cedar Rapids, one of the largest theaters there. Mr. Stolte will take charge of the Strand the 19th of March, taking full charge of the booking and management of the big house. Mr. Stolte is considered one of the ablest young men in the Iowa motion picture trade.

Hedrick, Ia.—J. H. Ward has sold his Gem theater in Hedrick, Ia., to J. Shaw.

Ft. Dodge, Ia.—H. J. Lego, of the Majestic theater in Ft. Dodge, decided his new pipe organ Sunday the 11th of March. Arthur Hayes, the organist at the Garden theater in Des Moines, played the Majestic organ at the opening.

Waterloo, Ia.—W. L. Myers, of the Palace theater in Waterloo, is meeting with great success in the noon day evangelistic services which he gives his theater over to every day.

Mr. Dodge, of Dodge and Baker of the Dodge theater in Keokuk, made the rounds of the Des Moines exchanges last week.

C. H. Cookinham, of the Odd Fellows' opera house in Ayrshire, was in Des Moines last week. He is the manager of one of the most successful theaters in the state in that it has but 300 people in his town. Manager Cookinham uses the Paramount service, and it is not ages old when he shows it, and recently he signed up for the Selznick.

Oelwein, Ia.—Wm. Laramore, better known to the Iowa film men by the name of "Tubby," has secured the lease on the Orpheum theater in Oelwein, and will open it the 29th of this month with the Paramount's "Miss George Washington," with Marguerite Clark. Wm. Laramore has renamed the Orpheum the Plaza.

R. E. Carson, of the Lyric theater in Osceola, and Cliff Olmstead, of the Ellsworth Amusement Company of Ellsworth, were callers at the Pathe Exchange last week.

Duhem Company Moving Downtown.

San Francisco, Cal.—The Duhem motion picture manufacturing company, for the past few years located at 700 Hayes street, has secured a lease on large quarters on the fifth floor of the Easton building at 985 Market street, adjoining the exchange of the Greater Vitagraph, and is fitting up a laboratory, manufacturing plant and salesroom. A line of cameras and accessories will be carried, and light manufacturing will be done in a specially equipped machine shop. This concern now has a fine microscopic outfit, and has been turning out some unusually interesting scientific work of late. It has made 6,000 feet of film for the California-Hawaiian sugar company, and is doing considerable industrial work. It recently made four prints of the Ben Brodsky production, "A Trip Through China," now being shown throughout the country. The new location is greatly superior to the former one, being in the very heart of the film district, and easily reached.

New Exchange on Film Row.

San Francisco, Cal.—The M. & R. feature film exchange, recently formed by E. Mayer, of the Alcazar theater, and Charles Rosenthal, Jr., until recently with the Theater St. Francis, has taken over the quarters at 107 Golden Gate avenue, formerly occupied by the Fox Film, and will shortly commence releasing Flora Finch comedies.

San Francisco News Briefs.

J. H. ("Doc") Hart, representing the California film exchange, is making a very successful tour of the San Joaquin valley. The recent rains have improved business conditions there materially.

Ed N. Kaiser, of the El Monterey theater, San Luis Obispo, was a recent visitor here, and selected a new projection machine and a photoplayer for this house, Walter Preddey furnishing the machine.

The demand for Fox comedies has been such that the first releases have been booked solid until well into April. Three men are now traveling out of the local office.

W. O. Edmonds, manager of the Pacific Coast interests of the K-E-S-E, is making a brief business trip to the Los Angeles branch. Charles Goddard, of Sacramento, enjoys the distinction of being the first exhibitor to sign a yearly contract for the new weekly releases of this concern.

E. H. Emmick, of the Peerless film service, came up from Los Angeles a short time ago, making the trip by boat, for a change. He will return shortly to move the Los Angeles branch to new quarters at 802 South Olive street, but will travel by train this time.

Mr. Henning, of the New Empire theater, Red Bluff, Cal., was a recent visitor, purchasing a motor-generator set from Walter Preddey.

The R. N. Burgess company, a real estate concern, has had moving pictures taken showing some of the wonders of San Francisco and vicinity, and recently showed these at the St. Francis hotel.

Northern California Notes.

Santa Rosa, Cal.—The Cline theater company recently held its annual meeting and chose a new board of directors as follows: T. C. Reavis, president and manager; C. W. Reavis, secretary; Frank P. Markwell, treasurer; Mrs. Lucy A. Reavis and Mrs. Frances Reavis.

Visalia, Cal.—The Visalia theater, W. R. Spalding, proprietor, has installed a Minusa gold fiber screen and made other improvements.

Bakersfield, Cal.—Charles Gross, of Grogg's theater, has taken over the Bakersfield opera house and will conduct both places.

Exeter, Cal.—The Una theater is to be reopened soon by E. D. Cook.

Monterey, Cal.—William Von Protz has purchased the Bagby theater.

Governor Helps Open Theater

Governor of California Is Present at the First Show at Charles Goddard's New J Street Theater—Many Brother Exhibitors and Exchange Men Travel Far to Honor the Event—Some Interesting Items.

From T. A. Church, 1507 North Street, Berkeley, Cal.

SACRAMENTO, CAL.—On the evening of March 1 the splendid new moving picture house of Charles Goddard, known as Goddard's J Street theater, was formally opened to the public, the event being one of the most noteworthy affairs of its kind ever held in northern California. Governor Hiram Johnson, who takes a keen delight in moving pictures, and who has proved himself a friend to exhibitors and producers in many ways in the past, attended the opening and made the principal address. Lieutenant Governor Stephens, who is soon to become governor, was also present, together with many other state, county and city officials and men and women prominent in many walks of life.

The wide popularity of Charles Goddard was attested by the number of exchange men and exhibitors who made the 150-mile trip from San Francisco to attend the opening and personally extend their wishes for the success of the new theater. The delegation from the Bay made the journey up the river on one of the fine boats plying between San Francisco and the Capital City, leaving this craft at Walnut Grove and completing the trip by train in order to arrive in ample time.

Among those making the trip were: W. O. Edmonds, with the K-E-S-E, and wife; H. H. Hicks, with the General Film; R. Quive, with the Greater Vitagraph, and wife; Ben F. Simpson, with the Triangle, and wife; O. E. Childs, with the McClure, and wife; Louis Reichert, with the Metro, wife and daughter; Louis Greenfield and Joseph Levin, with the Kahn & Greenfield circuit; Eugene Roth, of the Portola theater, and wife; James Beatty, of the Liberty theater, San Jose, and wife. The California Film exchange was represented by Abe Markowitz.

The trip up the river was a delightful one, and was made especially pleasant and lively by a luncheon tendered to Mr. and Mrs. R. Quive, who were on their honeymoon.

Preceding the opening of the theater an elaborate street parade was held under the auspices of the merchants in the J street district, and an immense crowd congregated. The lobby was filled with flowers and plants, the tokens of admiring friends, the floral display being one of the largest ever seen at the opening of a theater in the West. Following the opening ceremonies, those fortunate enough to secure admission to the house enjoyed a fine program, consisting of the Essanay feature, "Skinner's Dress Suit," and a Triangle production. At the close of the entertainment a banquet was tendered the visiting film men, and speech-making extended into the wee, small hours.

A Beautiful House.

The new theater is acclaimed to be one of the finest to be found anywhere, no expense having been spared in its equipment, construction or decoration. It has a seating capacity of about 1,600. Music is furnished by a fine Wurlitzer Hope-Jones unit orchestra, and this will be strongly featured. The operating room equipment was installed complete by the Breck photoplay supply company, and includes two Type S Simplex machines, with arc controllers, a Bosch & Lomb dissolver and a Westinghouse motor-generator set.

Charles Goddard is one of the pioneer exhibitors in the northern part of the state, and has served as president of the Exhibitors' league of California, being a firm believer in organization. He has an unusually wide circle of acquaintances in the trade, and is very popular, as was evidenced at this opening event.

Turner & Dahnken Happenings.

San Francisco, Cal.—Rapid progress is being made by Architects Cunningham & Politeo on the new 6,000-seat house to be erected at Eighth and Market streets, and bids for construction will be invited at an early date. E. B. Johnson, secretary of the Turner & Dahnken circuit, is sending many suggestions from the East to be incorporated in this house, which is to be the last word in moving picture theater construction.

This concern has taken over the Hanford opera house at Hanford, Cal., and work is now under way on the remodeling, redecorating and general renovating of this house, which will be opened some time in March.

The great increase in business of the Turner & Dahnken circuit, with the early addition of other houses, has led to the establishment of a central publicity bureau, to have supervision of all publicity work done throughout the circuit. This bureau has been placed in charge of William H. Joblemann, who has been handling the publicity work for the magnificent new T. & D. theater at Oakland since its opening last fall, and who achieved such splendid results that he has been promoted to the new office, with headquarters at San Francisco.

Plans for new houses at Richmond and Sacramento are rapidly assuming form, and it will be but a short time until actual construction work is commenced on these. The new theater at Stockton will be ready for use within a few weeks.

Selig Company Visits San Francisco.

San Francisco, Cal.—The rotunda of the new City Hall, said to be the finest civic building in America, was the scene of much activity this week when it was taken over for a time by a company of Selig players from Los Angeles, under the direction of Colin M. Campbell, scenes being made for a finalization of the drama, "Cabel Conover." Thirty-nine actors were brought up from the Southern studio, including George Fawcett, William T. Sant-schi and Tom D. Bates, together with two carloads of furniture and fixtures. Mrs. Selig motored up from Los Angeles to witness the making of the local scenes.

Casino Theater to Open Soon.

San Francisco, Cal.—The Casino theater at Ellis and Mason streets is near completion, and will be opened on Easter Sunday as a vaudeville and moving picture house, under the direction of Charles H. Brown. This fine, new house has a seating capacity of 3,200.

St. Francis Featuring Bluebirds.

San Francisco, Cal.—The Theater St. Francis, recently reopened under new management, has signed a contract for Bluebird features for a period of one year. The house opened with the production, "The Man Who Took a Chance," followed by "The Eagle's Wings" and Joe Knowles in "Alone in the Wilderness."

"Motherhood" Shown in City Hall.

San Francisco, Cal.—As a compliment to the members of the Baby Hygiene Committee of the Women's Collegiate Alumnae, the Board of Supervisors allowed the use of the rotunda of the City Hall recently for a special performance of "Motherhood." This film will be shown publicly at the Theater St. Francis for one week, commencing March 18.

Portland Censors Come to Life

Portland, Oregon, Prepublicity Inspectors Demand Withdrawal of Serial "Patria"—Present International Uncertainty Given as the Reason—Censors Ask United States Official to View the Picture.

By Abraham Nelson, 601 Journal Building, Portland, Ore.

PORTLAND, ORE.—The newest episode in international complications was enacted in Portland on March 9. The Portland censor board demanded that W. W. Kofeldt, manager for Pathe, withdraw the serial, "Patria," temporarily, at least, until the international turbulence, now at a critical stage, quiets down. Manager Kofeldt failed to see the exigency of so doing. Result: More excitement on Film Row than a Gernate note would create.

Mrs. E. B. Colwell, secretary of the censor board, says that numerous complaints have been received by the censor board from people who have called at the City Hall in person and by telephone, commenting upon the fact that the serial depicted intrigue involving Mexicans and Japanese, and that it was an inopportune time to show a picture of that character.

Upon Manager Kofeldt's refusal to withdraw the picture a reviewing by the official censor board was ordered, the specific charge against the picture that would cause it to be banned under the ordinance being that it would tend to disturb the public peace. The aid of a Mr. Rankin, reputed to be in the government service, and evidently Robert R. Rankin, assistant United States district attorney, was enlisted. Hesar with the board on the evening of March 9, and five episodes were viewed. These episodes had been previously passed by regular viewers of the censor board, and most of them had been shown in Portland theaters. Mr. Rankin stated to Mr. Kofeldt that he was attending the viewing entirely unofficially, and asked questions concerning the contracts that had already been closed for the picture.

The board did not give a decision immediately after the viewing, evidently taking the matter under advisement.

"Patria" publicity has been the cause of some misunderstanding between government authorities in Portland and the newspapers, the last occasion being when a paper ran a quarter page ad of Mrs. Vernon Castle with the flag, without the copy being O. K'd by the local exchange.

Secretary Not Censor.

Portland, Ore.—Mrs. E. B. Colwell, secretary of the censor board, is no longer a film censor. Her position is now merely clerical. Under the ordinance recently passed, and reported in these columns, the office of secretary was made nonappointive, and placed under civil service when the ordinance went into effect March 7. The date of the civil service examination has not yet been announced. Mrs. Colwell will take the examination with the other applicants, and, by reason of her experience, stands an excellent chance of passing highest.

Exhibitors Complain of Cancellations.

Portland, Ore.—Another instance of hardships worked on Portland exhibitors by Seattle exchanges attempting to do business here showed itself when a Puget Sound feature company summarily canceled the bookings of two downtown Portland theaters without apparent reason. The road man for the feature concern solicited the business of the two theaters, named his price, claimed a deposit, which the theater men put up, and signed the contract. The day before the first picture of the newly contracted service was to show, one of the theaters received a wire from the feature company, in substance as follows: "Don't expect films booked by Blank" (road man). And the films did not come.

The action of the feature company was clearly a breach of the contract, the theater men claim, but a lawsuit for damages for the cancellation is impracticable, because it must be maintained in Seattle, the head office of the feature company.

Portland exhibitors are taking exception to being placed in the tail end of Seattle territory, and it is rumored that one large feature company has already come to appreciate the effect of the Portlanders' attitude, and is contemplating placing as agent in Portland a man well known on Film Row.

Picture Shows Quit Vaudeville.

Portland, Ore.—The American and Casino theaters, managed by H. C. Stevens, have discontinued vaudeville and musical comedies, and hereafter will show straight pictures. I. Leaser Cohen, secretary of the Portland amusement company, which owns these theaters, reports business in both houses to be excellent.

Mr. Cohen, who managed the Globe theater when it was owned by the Portland amusement company, is now actively engaged in the theatrical producing game, heading the Adelphia amusement enterprises.

Kofeldt Entertains Exhibitors.

Portland, Ore.—Pathe's "Mystery of the Double Cross" was the attraction at a special show at the Hippodrome theater when W. W. Kofeldt, new manager for Pathe, acted as host to Portland exhibitors March 9.

A New Film Company.

Portland, Ore.—W. A. Stone is back in the film rental game. He has organized the Empire film service, and the location of his office is 14 North Ninth street, the same as the Reliable film service. He has contracted for a line of comedies, and will buy his features on the open market.

Chet Alderman on the Road.

Portland, Ore.—Chet Alderman, booker at the General Film, has been appointed traveling representative for that concern, and Frank Markell, shipper, has been promoted to booker. Jack Tillman, formerly with Mutual, is the new G. F. booker.

A special screening of the new General Film features was held at the Globe theater, March 6, the viewing being invitational to exhibitors.

C. E. Waite Weds.

Portland, Ore.—C. E. Waite, road man for Pathe and International, has returned from California bringing with him his bride, formerly Miss Marjorie N. Knapen of Hollywood, Cal. They were married in Berkeley Feb. 26, Mr. Waite making a combined business and pleasure trip South for the occasion.

Wisconsin News Letter

By Frank H. Madison, 628 South Wabash Avenue, Chicago.

Theaters Help Boost Milwaukee.

MILWAUKEE, WIS.—The work of the Milwaukee Forward league, which has started a campaign to advertise Milwaukee, has been indorsed by a resolution passed by the Motion Picture Exhibitors' league of Milwaukee. Not only has the league approved the work, but it has tendered the services of seventy-five theaters for the purpose of running slides to further the campaign.

"There certainly is plenty of room for educational work in Milwaukee on what she has to offer," said George Fisher, manager of the Alhambra theater.

Milwaukee Exhibitors Commended.

Milwaukee, Wis.—The Parent-Teachers' association has expressed confidence that exhibitors in Milwaukee are striving to get the best in motion pictures.

This expression was made after a list of questions had been submitted to the managers of local houses. The replies indicated that the exhibitors were trying to get the sort of pictures parents wanted for children.

Free Shows to Combat Objectionable Films.

Monroe, Wis.—Free moving picture shows in the new Lincoln school three nights a week are backed by representatives of various churches, and are declared to be "for the purpose of combating the present type of films" which were shown in local theaters, and which they "believe to have a demoralizing effect upon youth."

About Wisconsin Exhibitors and Theaters.

Delavan, Wis.—L. H. Guhl, of Sauk City, Wis., who has been manager of the Jackson theater in Milwaukee, has purchased the Pastime theater from H. O. Gardner.

Madison, Wis.—Frank Perlman will manage the Varsity and the Pastime theaters, Harry Chapple having gone to Oshkosh, where he has leased the Rex theater. Chapple has changed the name of the Oshkosh theater to the Palace.

Berlin, Wis.—J. D. McWilliams has closed both the Gem and Atlas theaters.

Waupaca, Wis.—C. W. Porter has sold the new Grand theater to J. P. Walter Nelson and William Craig.

Chippewa Falls, Wis.—The new Rex opera house has been leased to Clair M. Waterbury, who since last April has been manager of the Palace theater. Moving pictures probably will be used in the Rex.

Algoma, Wis.—The construction of an opera house is under consideration by business men of the village.

Superior, Wis.—The opening of the Palace theater, erected by the Cook amusement company at a cost of $100,000, was slated for March 19. The plan is to use four acts of vaudeville and two or more reels of pictures at 10 cents for matinees and 20 cents for evenings.

Seattle News Letter

S. J. Anderson, East Seattle, Wash.

Two Alaskan Exhibitors Buy Equipment for New Theaters.

SEATTLE, WASH.—A. E. Lathrop, owner of a string of theaters in Alaska, is in Seattle making plans for two new houses, one to be built in Valdez and another in Cordova. Both buildings are to be of concrete and are to have space for offices, as well as the theater. The one in Cordova is to be five stories high, the largest building in the city. Mr. Lathrop has bought a $12,000 organ for his theater in Anchorage, and is making arrangements for the purchase of the equipment for his new houses.

Another Alaskan exhibitor who is spending a few weeks in Seattle is Sylvester Howell, of Nenana. Mr. Howell's theater in Nenana has just been finished, and he came down to buy the equipment for it. One thousand theater chairs is part of the complete outfit which he purchased from the H. A. Johnson Co.

Mutual's Northwest Force Resigns.

Seattle, Wash.—Owing to the resignation of J. S. Woody, Northwest Mutual manager, O. F. Woody, traveling representative out of the Seattle office; R. R. Nave, booker in the Seattle office; G. A. Reid, Portland's Mutual representative, and J. Harrington, Mutual's representative in the Spokane territory, there has been quite a number of new names added to Mutual's payroll in the Northwest. T. C. Malcolm, Coast supervisor, who has been in Seattle for the past week, announces the following successors to the old force: J. L. Merrick, Northwest manager; A. S. Kirkpatrick, to take over the Portland territory, and C. P. Merwin, as booker.

Roadsho Film Corp. Has Exposition Romance.

Seattle, Wash.—Manager L. Sussman of the Roadsho film corporation, 218 Seneca street, is advertising a brand new and unusual picture showing the San Francisco fair from the Tower of Jewels to the Zone. The story is pictured by Miller Bros.' 101 Ranch, one of the biggest wild west companies in the United States. Two thousand performers are in the cast, and the picture is said to be every foot a knockout. The Roadsho has the Northwest rights to the picture.

Dan Donnellan Goes With Triangle.

Seattle, Wash.—Dan Donnellan, one-time newspaper man, then editor of V-L-S-E Pals, which position he gave up to go on the road for Vitagraph, has now sworn allegiance to Triangle. Mr. Donnellan is one of the best known and most popular film men in the Northwest, and Manager Hill is very much pleased with his catch.

Seattle Exchange Notes.

Seattle, Wash.—An advance showing of "Patria" in the New Washington hotel on February 16 was very well attended. The entertainment was concluded by a dance.

E. R. Redlich, Coast representative for the Max Linder comedies, left Seattle last week on a tour of the Oregon territory.

Al Rosenberg left Seattle last week for a trip through Idaho, and got held up by the snows.

Manitoba Exchange Association Formed

Will Provide Co-Operation on Any Matter Affecting the Film Business in the Province—Officers Elected for the First Year.

By E. C. Thomas, 821 Rogers Bldg., Vancouver, B. C.

WINNIPEG, MAN.—For co-operating in any matter affecting film exchanges in the Manitoba territory, the exchange managers of this city recently formed a body to be known as the Manitoba Film Exchange Managers' Association, and the following officers have been elected: J. H. Boothe, of the Mutual, president; Ben Bloom, of the Famous Players, vice-president; Ralph Millar, of the Specialty, secretary and treasurer. The members of the association, including the managers of all the exchanges in this city, meet once every week at luncheon, when questions affecting the exchange business are discussed.

President Boothe informs the correspondent of the Moving Picture World that while they are not anticipating any particular trouble on account of unfavorable legislation such a thing is of course always a possibility. Various restrictive measures directed against the business have been discussed in Winnipeg, and any legislative action will find the exchange managers, as well as the exhibitors, well prepared for united action.

Mr. Boothe states that the Exchange Managers' Association would be glad to hear from any similar organization in the United States or Canada.

E. A. Langley Heads Vancouver Universal.

Vancouver, B. C.—E. A. Langley, formerly connected with the Canadian Pathe distributors in the Eastern provinces, has arrived in Vancouver to take charge of the local branch of the Universal, relieving Jules Levine, who has been in command for the past few months. Mr. Levine will now return to his previous berth as special representative for Western Canada, and is scheduled to start eastward within a short time.

M. H. Hoffman, general manager of the Universal company, accompanied by Mrs. Hoffman, was a recent visitor to Vancouver, stopping over in the city for a few hours. During their short stay Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman were entertained by Mr. Langley and Mr. Levine and S. B. Taube, the former Universalite now with Regal Films, Ltd., World distributors for Canada.

Temporary Decision in Metro Tangle.

Winnipeg, Man.—Putting at least a temporary end to the Metro squabble, as far as Manitoba is concerned, Chief Justice Mathers, of the Supreme Court, recently set aside the injunction and replevin order which had been obtained by Metro Pictures, Ltd., against the Standard Film Service, Ltd. Supplementing his order to this effect, however, Justice Mathers granted a further injunction conditional upon the furnishing of identity of some responsible party in the jurisdiction of the court to answer to any damage that may result.

Herbert Lubin Back in Vancouver.

Vancouver, B. C.—Herbert Lubin, the head of the Standard Film Service, erstwhile Canadian Metro distributors, has returned to Vancouver after a trip taken to New York to confer with the Metro heads there. H. J. Cohen, special representative of the Metro corporation, is also in town, and a definite announcement regarding the future western distribution rights is expected within a few days.

St. Andrew's Day Celebrated by Scottish Picture.

Edmonton, Alberta.—The Artcraft company's Mary Pickford subject, "The Pride of the Clan," recently played a very successful engagement at the Monarch theater here, and on one of the days during the run the entire membership of the local St. Andrew's Society attended the theater to enjoy a real touch of Scottish atmosphere. The idea of setting aside a special St. Andrew's Day originated with Hon. A. C. Rutherford, who decided that the best way to hold a get-together meeting of the organization was by all going to the show.

Seven Theaters in Wash. Close Sundays

All Others in State Are Open—Pullman Exhibitors Petition for Right to Open Out of Church Hours—Public Hearing Arranged.

By S. Clarke Patchen, E. 1811 Eleventh Avenue, Spokane, Wash.

PULLMAN, WASH.—Proponents and opponents of Sunday motion picture shows will be given an opportunity to exercise their persuasion over the members of the council at the next meeting of that body, Tuesday evening, March 20, when the members will meet to take action on a petition asking permission to open the moving picture houses from 2 to 6 o'clock Sunday. The meeting will be open to the public, and the council invites participation in the discussion by all who have views on the subject.

The matter was presented to the council by E. F. Emmick, manager of the Grand theater, who stated that the Sunday closing of the theaters here costs each of the houses at least $1,000 a year. He stated that the establishments have no desire to interfere with church hours, but ask permission to open only during the afternoon and early evening. Manager Emmick presented figures to show that of the 368 motion picture houses in the state only seven are closed on Sunday, two of those being the Pullman establishments.

Sentiment in the council at present is divided, some of the city fathers being opposed to the proposition and others favoring the granting of the petition. Citizens also are divided on the question, and considerable interest is expected to be developed before the meeting of the council.

Among Spokane Exhibitors.

Spokane, Wash.—More than 500 Chronicle juniors were guests of Manager C. E. Stilwell at the four theaters of his company, the Casino, Class A, Rex and Unique. The children showed no partiality, and all four of the houses were attended by crowds.

Spokane, Wash.—After three different announcements to the effect that the Strand theater would be reopened, none of which materialized, George Blakeslee has taken a year's lease on the house, and will offer a regular program of vaudeville and moving pictures there, beginning Saturday, March 10.

Spokane, Wash.—A few guests of Manager Ruffner of the Liberty theater witnessed a private showing of the Alla Nazimova photoplay, "War Brides," Sunday, March 16. Mr. Ruffner has also booked "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea."

Spokane, Wash.—Captain F. E. Kleinschmidt presented his "The War on Three Fronts" at the Auditorium theater for three days, beginning Saturday, March 10.

Silent Sid Taube disguised as a feather mattress, forcing Benny Cronk of the Allen Theater to read some press dope on World Films. The lad with cold hands is H. Nathanson.

Wm. Hanscher Heads Local Regal Staff.

Vancouver, B. C.—S. B. Taube, who recently opened the Vancouver office of Regal Films, Ltd., World distributors, has engaged as head of his local staff William Hanscher, who has for the past few months been acting as assistant to W. P. Nichols, managing director of the National Amusement Company. Mr. Hanscher takes over his new position within a few days. Another Regal recruit is Danny Freeman, for 10-these-many-years the ubiquitous shipper for Universal.

NOW!

as the

RUSSIAN REVOLUTION

is gripping the world's attention

"DARKEST RUSSIA"

Is released by the World Film Corporation at the psychological moment.

Before-revolution conditions in Russia are shown in this picture with startling fidelity.

The liberty-loving groups are shown fighting the "dark powers" of the empire.

The old regime police are seen combatting the forces of light and progress.

ALICE BRADY is the star

The wonderful timeliness of this feature—its vividness, the immense scale on which it is produced, its strength and its tremendous news value—make this a record-breaking business-getter.

Released on the regular World program

Are YOU cashing in on the immensity, timeliness, strength and business-getting force of the World Program by the use of longer runs?

Increase your runs of World-Pictures Brady-Made NOW!

Calendar of Daily Program Releases

Releases for Weeks Ending March 31 and April 1

(For Extended Table of Current Releases See Pages 2170, 2172, 2174, 2176.)

Universal Film Mfg. Company

SUNDAY, MARCH 25, 1917.

REX—The Grudge (Two parts—Drama).....	02273
POWERS—The Love Affair of Ima Knutt (Cartoon Comedy) and "Artistic China and Japan" (Dorsey Edu)	02274
BIG U—The Rebel's Net (Drama)	02275
UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE—The Purple Mask (Special No. 13), The Leap (Two Parts—Drama)	02276
UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE—The Voice on the Wire (Episode No. 13) The Mysterious Man in Black (Two parts—Drama)	02277

MONDAY, MARCH 26, 1917.

RED FEATHER—The Fighting Gringo (Five parts—Drama)	02278
NESTOR—Shot in the West (Comedy)	02279

TUESDAY, MARCH 27, 1917.

GOLD SEAL—A STARTLING CLIMAX (Three Parts—Drama)	02280
VICTOR—Never Too Old to Woo (Comedy).....	02281

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 28, 1917.

LAEMMLE—Is Money All? (Drama).....	02282
L-KO—Dippy Dan's Doings (Two Parts—Comedy)...	02283
UNIVERSAL—Animated Weekly No. 65 (Topical)...	02284

THURSDAY, MARCH 29, 1917.

IMP—David's Idol Dream (Two Parts—Drama).....	02285
POWERS—The Grand Canyon of Arizona (Scenic Edu.)	02286
LAEMMLE—The Mask of Love (Drama)	02287

FRIDAY, MARCH 30, 1917.

IMP—The Perils of the Secret Service (Episode No. 4) The Crimson Blade (Two parts—Drama)....	02288
UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE—Issue No. 12 (Educational)	02289
VICTOR—Prodigal Papa (Comedy)	02290

SATURDAY, MARCH 31, 1917.

BISON—Steel Hearts (Two parts—Drama)	02291
JOKER—What the ...? (Comedy)	02292

SUNDAY, APRIL 1, 1917.

POWERS—Inbad the Sailor (Cartoon Comedy) and The Brightest Jewel on the British Crown (Dorsey Edu.)	02293
REX—Snow White (Three Parts—Drama).....	02294
UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE—The Purple Mask (Episode No. 14, "Sky Monsters"—Two parts—Drama)	02295
UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE—The Voice on the Wire (Episode No. 3, "The Spider's Web"—Two parts—Drama)	02296

MONDAY, APRIL 2, 1917.

RED FEATHER—The Bronze Bride (Five parts—Drama)	02297
NESTOR—Mixed Matrimony (Comedy).....	02298

TUESDAY, APRIL 3, 1917.

GOLD SEAL—The Magpie (Three parts—Drama)...	02299
VICTOR—Please Be My Wife (Comedy).....	02300

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 4, 1917.

LAEMMLE—The Star Witness (Two parts—Drama)	02301
L-KO—Nabbing a Noble (Comedy).....	02302
UNIVERSAL—Animated Weekly No. 66 (Topical)...	02303

THURSDAY, APRIL 5, 1917.

VICTOR—Somebody Lied (Two parts—Comedy—Dr.)	02304
POWERS—Hagenbeck's Wild Animals (Educational)	02305
BIG U—The Dawn of Decency (Drama)	02306

FRIDAY, APRIL 6, 1917.

IMP—The Perils of the Secret Service (Episode No. 5, "The Man in the Trunk"—Two parts—Drama)	02307
UNIVERSAL—Screen Magazine No. 13 (Educational)	02308

SATURDAY, APRIL 7, 1917.

BISON—The Burning Silence (Two parts—Drama)...	02309
JOKER—A Boob for Luck (Comedy).....	02310
LAEMMLE—The Blue Print Mystery (Drama).....	02311

Mutual Film Corporation

MONDAY, MARCH 26, 1917.

MONOGRAM—The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton (No. 11, "Shorty Lands a Master Crook") (Two parts—Drama)	05389-90
MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTION—Motherhood (Five parts—Drama).....
MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTION—Sunny Jane (Horkheimer) (Five parts—Drama).....

TUESDAY, MARCH 27, 1917.

GAUMONT—Tours Around the World, No. 21 (Subjects on Reel: Funchal, Madeira; Rostov-on-the-Don, Russia; Ajaccio, Corsica) (Travel).....	05391
--	-------

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 28, 1917.

MUTUAL—Mutual Weekly No. 117 (Topical).....	05392
AMERICAN—The Bearded Fisherman (Drama)....	05393
NIAGARA FILM STUDIOS—The Perils of Our Girl Reporters (No. 14, "The Counterfeiters—Two parts—Drama).....

THURSDAY, MARCH 29, 1917.

CUB—Be Sure You're Right (Comedy).....	05394
GAUMONT—Reel Life (Subjects on Reel: Weaving Indian Blankets; The Pulmotor; Swedish Gymnastics; The Famous Herald Clock; Winter Sports in Florida) (Mutual Film Magazine)....	05395

FRIDAY, MARCH 30, 1917.

MONMOUTH—"Jimmy Dale, Alias The Grey Seal" Chapter 2, "The Stolen Rubies" (Two Parts—Drama)	05396-97
---	----------

SATURDAY, MARCH 31, 1917.

VOGUE—Freed by Fido (Two parts—Comedy).....	05398-99
---	----------

MONDAY, APRIL 2, 1917.

MONOGRAM—The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton (Episode No. 12, "Shorty Solves a Wireless Mystery") (Two parts—Drama).....	05400-01
MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTION—The Devil's Assistant (Fisher—Six parts—Drama).....

TUESDAY, APRIL 3, 1917.

GAUMONT—Tours Around the World No. 22 (Subjects on Reel: Our New Islands in the West Indies—St. Thomas, St. Croix (Travel).....	05402
---	-------

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 4, 1917.

MUTUAL—Mutual Weekly No. 118 (Topical).....	05403
AMERICAN—An Artist's Intrigue (Drama).....	05404
NIAGARA FILM STUDIOS—The Perils of Our Girl Reporters (No. 15, "Kidnapped"—Two parts—Drama)

THURSDAY, APRIL 5, 1917.

CUB—The Lady Detective (Comedy).....	05405
GAUMONT—Reel Life No. 49 (Subjects on Reel: Cultivating Rubber Plants in Northern Brazil; A One-Man Submarine; Magnetism—The Property of Attraction; Making Bread the Modern Way) (Mutual Film Magazine).....	05406

FRIDAY, APRIL 6, 1917.

MONMOUTH—Jimmie Dale, Alias The Grey Seal (Chapter No. 3—"The Counterfeit Five"—Two Parts—Drama)	05407-08
--	----------

SATURDAY, APRIL 7, 1917.

VOGUE—Why Ben Bolted (Two parts—Comedy)....	05409-10
---	----------

Wid Gunning's Advice:

Wid Gunning is famous throughout the world as a motion picture critic. Several thousand of the leading theatre owners of America depend upon Mr. Gunning's weekly service for information regarding new pictures. Mr. Gunning says:

"'The Barrier' is surely the greatest human drama without spectacle ever presented in fitting lengths for an evening's entertainment.

"It is the best nine-reel dramatic story produced in the film with the possible exception of 'The Spoilers,' also by Mr. Beach, and I think that for heart interest the character of 'Poleon has a much bigger appeal than any single element in 'The Spoilers.' It will be a tremendous winner both from the viewpoint of possible business and repeat business. I would be willing to bank upon the success of 'The Barrier' everywhere, principally because it has such a tremendous audience appeal. It will stir any community and cause those who see it to recommend it enthusiastically to their friends."

"THE BARRIER"

By REX BEACH

From its first showing at the Broadway Theatre this wonderful photo-drama has captured and swayed audiences as no other picture ever did. It made them realize that here is something new—something bigger and better and stronger—in motion pictures. It called forth waves of applause as the thrilling climaxes were reached.

And all because "The Barrier" is a great picture greatly produced—the highest development of the photo-drama.

REX BEACH PICTURES CO., Inc.

440 Fourth Avenue, New York

Stories of the Films

SELIG.

SELIG-TRIBUNE No. 20.—Poland Springs, Me.—Over the snow clad hills on snow shoes, horse racing on the frozen lakes, and tobogganing, these make Maine winters worth while. Palm Beach, Fla.—Two items of interest loom large on the local horizon. Mrs. Octyen's turtle catch weighing 600 pounds, and Fred Woodman, who tips the scales at 530 pounds.

Boston, Mass.—Mile. Nile Devi and Mile. Madricme dancing in the snow their own conception of the "Awakening of Spring."

New Orleans, La.—Harry Gardiner, known as the "human fly," climbs the outside of a 15-story building.

Washington, D. C.—Dr. Paul Ritter, Swiss ambassador to the United States, whose task of looking after the German interests grows daily more difficult.

El Paso, Tex.—Taking advantage of the sudden increase in emotional patriotism the local Red Cross unit does some intensive recruiting for dollars.

SELIG-TRIBUNE No. 21.—New York, N. Y.—Steeple jack crawls along horizontal flag staff of the Municipal Building, 300 feet above the ground to untwist halyards.

Houston, Tex.—A typical Hawaiian scene is enacted in the palm bedecked forest of the sunny south, when pretty Myrtle Vail gives her original interpretation of the hula hula.

Boston, Mass.—Handcuff king crawls out of a straitjacket to the amazement of spectators. Washington, D. C.—Suffragists parade around White House, which is carefully guarded by police.

New York, N. Y.—Onions are accepted as an admission fee to a movie show.

Washington, D. C.—President Wilson is inaugurated a second term before an impressing assemblage.

A QUESTION OF HONESTY (Two Parts).—The cast: Jim Wilson (Casson Ferguson); Mrs. Wilson (Byrdine Zuber); Martin Burns (Fred Eckhart); Jared Keeney (M. C. Von Botz); "Flinty" O'Neal (R. H. Kelly). Written by J. Edward Hungerford. Otis B. Thayer, director.

Jim Wilson, searching for work, sees "Flinty" O'Neal, a crook, take a dollar bill away from Pierre, a crippled beggar. Wilson, after a struggle with O'Neal, rescues the beggar's stolen bill. Burns, a wealthy contractor, has seen Wilson rush to the rescue of the cripple, and rewards Wilson with a position in the Burns company.

Jared Keeney, head clerk for Burns, and a sneak, resolves to plot against Wilson and secure his discharge, for he is jealous of the young man, and of the advancement Wilson wins for himself in Burns' office. He tells Burns that he suspects Jim Wilson of being a crook. Burns is confident that Jim is straight. However, he marks several bills and placing them in the safe awaits developments.

Keeney abstracts several of the bills for his own use, not knowing they are marked. He places the balance in Wilson's coat pocket, denounces him as a thief, and has the satisfaction of seeing Burns convinced that Jim Wilson is crooked.

En route home that night, Keeney purchases a cigar and pays for it with one of the marked bills. Burns, entering the cigar store at that juncture, recognizes the money as some that he marked, and has Keeney jailed for the real thief.

Jim Wilson is exonerated and made chief clerk, and the little ones at the Wilson home and his wife are rewarded for many hardships that they have encountered.

TO EXHIBITORS

If you are doing something new and interesting at your theatre let our correspondent know about it. It may help others and help you as well.

Helpfully yours,

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD.

EVERYBODY WAS SATISFIED. The cast: Weary Hikes (John Lancaster); John McKnutt (Wm. Scott); Professor Astro (Wm. Hutchinson); Sara (Irene Wallace); Goldie Lox (Lillian Leighton). Written by O. A. Nelson. Produced by Norval MacGregor.

John McKnutt, a wealthy and eccentric bachelor, plays the good Samaritan to Weary Hikes, a hobo, bestowing upon the tramp some of his old clothing, neglecting, however, to remove a wallet and some valuable papers. Professor Astro, a fortune teller, is assisted by his sister, Sara. Business is bad and when they read in the papers that McKnutt intends selecting a wife in a novel way, Astro curses his luck in not being able to corral such a "sucker."

Weary visits Astro, and Sara, examining the hat, believes that the hobo is John McKnutt. Astro, put wise, tells Weary that the first woman he meets on leaving the house will be found to be wealthy and willing to marry him. Sara plans to meet Weary, but the plan miscarries, and Goldie Lox, a wealthy but exceedingly homely maiden lady, is encountered by Weary.

John McKnutt has missed his wallet, and following the hobo, arrives at Astro's parlor. He falls in love with Sara at first sight. He wins her in a card game, while Goldie Lox bestows her affections on Weary Hikes.

VIM.

SOMEWHERE IN MEXICO.—Harry and Slat, two ambitious farm hands, after causing their employers much grief, decide to depart for a more exciting field of endeavor, and by chance learn that their employer, Hieks, and his brother, John, are preparing to leave for Mexico to locate a lost treasure.

Harry and Slat, bent upon getting there first, start out immediately. They arrive at the border line, but as they are not permitted to pass they decide to submarine their way across, their baggage serving as the submarines. They succeed in getting on the other side but learn that Hicks and John have reached the treasure ahead of them. After maneuvering for some time they discover where the treasure is hidden.

They array themselves in all kinds of jewels and pose as bull fighters; and soon they are the prides of the town. They enter an arena to fight a bull, but when a burro enters disguised as a Spanish bull the crowd leaves in disgust. The little town is then attacked by bandits and our heroes sustain their reputation, but when Hicks and John discover that the balance of the treasure is missing they soon find the robbers and a panic ensues.

IN STUMPLAND.—Doctor Stork leaves a little stranger at Chip's home. Chip tells his little friend, Nell, all about the baby sister, and Nell wants a little sister, too, so Chip and she ask the doctor where he gets his babies. He tells them in the stumps of trees and they both determine to go baby hunting.

On their way they pass the doctor's house, and, seeing his baby carriage, take the baby out and run away with the carriage. They hide the doctor's baby under a clump of bushes, where it falls asleep. After looking in a number of stumps and finding nothing, Chip exclaims "there must have been somebody here before us." Nell is disappointed and starts to cry. At last Chip comes to a large stump, and, looking into it calls to Nell, saying, "There's lots of babies here." He pulls out three little rabbits, and they put them into the baby carriage and start homeward.

In the meanwhile the doctor and his wife have missed their child. Giving up the search they return home, just in time to see Chip and Nell coming through the fields with their missing baby carriage. They are horrified to see Chip and Nell give the carriage a push over an embankment, and it rolls to the bottom. Thinking their baby is in it they rush up to the carriage and drag out the rabbits. The doctor administers a spanking to Chip and all ends happily when the children lead the doctor and his wife to where the baby is hidden.

ESSANAY.

THE FINISH (Black Cat Feature—Two Parts). The cast: Rene Jarret (Mabel Bardine); Norman Jarret (Ernest Maupain).

It might have fared bad for Rene Jarret had it not been for the finish. Her husband, Norman, employed detectives to track her. They reported she was entirely too intimate with Robert Travis, a wealthy young clubman. Norman pretends he has suddenly been called out of town, departs, then returns home about midnight. He surprises Rene and Travis embracing in his library. Covering the pair with his revolver, Jarret summons a reporter and gives him a front-page story of his wife's perfidy. Travis, released, goes home and ends his life. Rene is just reaching for a revolver to end hers, when two property men, getting into a fight over a crap game, knock down the scene. Sure, it is just a moving picture being filmed.

ANIMATED NOOZ PICTORIAL No. 27 (Cartoon Comedy).—Miss Lotta Spuds, the belle of Palm Beach, is caught by the Animated camera rejecting the proposals of a bunch of poor millionaires whose only wealth consists of dollars. Miss Spuds recently inherited 1,000,000 potatoes from her late uncle Peck O. Spuds. At Hard Tack, Minn., is shown Algernon Percival Van Roquefort, champion baggage smasher of the world. He carries 1,000 trunks on his back at a time. The only thing he cannot handle is his wife. Jacques de Tripe, the famous chef, shows how eggs can be boiled in five ways—provided they are fresh eggs. Loading cotton on a "land scow" for shipment is pictured at Snowball, Ala. The High Cost of Living getting higher and higher in the Jinks family concludes the cartoon. How the arid plains of Alberta, Canada, produce luxuriant vegetation forms the other half of the reel.

THE WIFELESS HUSBAND ("Is Marriage Sacred?")—Two Parts. The cast: Minerva Stratton Booth (Marguerite Clayton); Milton Footh (Edward Arnold); Virginia Stratton (Lillian Drew); James Stratton (Thomas Commerford); Raymond Bronson (Sydney Ainsworth).

A husband, in Minerva Booth's opinion, is a necessary evil—like a boil. After her marriage to Milton she straightaway forgets him in a real estate business she and her mother Virginia Stratton have started. Milton, Stratton, another henpecked husband, and Raymond Bronson, a mutual friend, picket the women's office. By intercepting prospective purchasers and buying them off, the men finally cause the budding real estate women to go bankrupt. The latter then turn to their husbands fearfully with pleas for forgiveness, and apologies for losing so much money. Booth and Stratton think the money well spent, however, for it has brought them back their wives.

KALEM.

THE BOGUS BRIDE (Ham and Bud Comedy).—Feeling much out of place in Pottsville, the most married place under the sun, Ham and Bud decide on a little team work as the best means of attaining the free eats, the free homestead and the other free things offered to every couple embarking upon the sea of matrimony.

After a twice-over shave and the use of cosmetics, Bud qualifies for the job of posing as Ham's better half. Now for the parson. It requires all of Ham's ingenuity to produce a ring, but he does it, and the twain are made one. Amid cheers, the schemers set off for the home donated by the Anti-Single League of Pottsville, Crocodile County.

Ham objects to his "wife" using tobacco in any form and a fight ensues. It is reported to the constable and poor Ham is thrown into the village lock-up. By flirting with the sheriff, Bud manages to get Ham out of jail. As Ham makes a flying leap for the passing freight he pulls Bud's dresses off, but it is too late for the chagrined Pottsvillians to do more than shake their fists at the fast fading figures of our intrepid explorers.

THE COLLEGE BOYS' SPECIAL (An Episode of "A Daughter of Darling").—The cast: Helen (Helen Gibson); Bob Cotter (L. T. Whitlock); Lineman (G. A. Williams). Directed by Scott Sidney.

Bob Cotter and his chums from college are en route for Lone Point on a camping expedition. Helen, the telegraph operator and station agent at Lone Point, is warned of the boys' fondness for playing pranks, but she promises

ROLL TICKETS

SAVE MONEY

on Special and Stock
Tickets by Ordering from

KEYSTONE TICKET CO.

SHAMOKIN, PA.

Our Samples and Prices Tell the Story

the conductor to set them down hard if they start tampering with any of the railroad's property.

Bob, impressed with Helen's beauty, tries to steal a kiss and gets a bucket of water thrown in his face. As the boys start off a little child's ball rolls under Bob's feet. He thoughtlessly kicks it down the tracks. The next instant Helen is running toward the child and reaches it just in time to leap out of the path of the onrushing freight with the baby clasped in her arms.

The following week Bob has Helen send a telegram for a freezer of ice cream to be delivered by the down passenger in time for a celebration at camp to which a crowd of girls has been invited. The freezer fails to arrive and the boys start by auto for the next town for it. Their car breaks an axle on the return trip. The boys steal a box car, release the brakes, and start to coast toward Lone Point. Bob has volunteered to act as guardian of the brakes, but the overhanging beam of a bridge knocks him senseless.

Helen gets a telephone message that a runaway freight car has just passed. Helen sees a saddled horse tied to the platform and mounting rides down the track. As the car comes in sight she wheels around and vaults into the open door, where Bob's chums are standing, unconscious of their peril. Helen crawls to the roof of the car and sets the brakes. Bob comes to in time to see Helen disappear down the tracks on her horse. She beats the car to the switch and sidetracks it, not more than two minutes before the limited thunders by.

The story closes with the boys eating humble pie before Helen and Bob presenting her with his frat pin, the highest honor he could confer.

THE LOST LEGION OF THE BORDER (An Episode of "The American Girl"—Two Parts).—The cast: Madge King (Marin Sais); Roger King (Frank Jonasson); Larry Kerwin (Edward Hearn); Montana Jack Logan (Ronald Bradbury); A wily half-breed (Edward Clisbee). Written by Frederick R. Becholdt. Directed by James W. Horne.

Madge King, the carefree daughter of Roger King, millionaire land owner and cattle baron, bids her father and her father's superintendent, Larry Kerwin, good-by, and rides over the hills in search of a stray colt, while the men continue to examine the proposed site of a new dam. As Madge draws near a creek she is overtaken by Pecos Pete, an old time bandit. She is struggling with him as a strange man rescues her.

Madge rides after her father and Larry and overtakes them in the town of Malapi. Madge's father is able to place the rescuer of his daughter as Montana Jack Logan, an old time bandit and one of the squarrest outlaws. Unafraid, Madge rides off alone to continue the hunt for the straying colt. Logan and Pete hold a conference at the canyon mouth. Logan provides Pete with a list of names of "all the boys" and orders him to see that no others get by him. There is mysterious business afoot.

Madge finally overtakes the colt. At this moment she hears a rifle shot and through her field glasses is able to make out that Pete has shot one of her father's steers and is now skinning it. With him is the half-breed. Hurrying forward Madge hides in the underbrush and sees Logan's anger when he finds that Pete has killed one of King's steers. Rough looking men, each with a sack of provisions, are arriving every minute. From her place of concealment Madge cannot make out what it is all about, but as the last of them rides off she follows.

Meantime the advance guard has captured King and Larry and tied them up in Malapi, the deserted town. Madge is also captured and taken before Montana Jack. He orders her not to go near the jail. That is the first thing she does and she manages to drop her pocket knife down the chimney so that Larry can pick it up with his feet. In a few minutes the men are free, but Peter has given the alarm and the three outsiders are again brought before Logan for judgment.

Madge slaps Pete's face and tells of his killing her father's steer. Logan favors turning the Kings loose, but Pete objects. The outlaws take sides and demand action. While some hold the arms of King and Larry, Madge and Pete fight. The sheriff's posse, summoned by the half-breed, comes into town. Madge pleads with the sheriff to let the bandits proceed across the border to establish their own republic, where they hope to live the rest of their days in peace. He yields and the cavalcade, in reality the lost legion of the border, passes forever out of Uncle Sam's dominions.

"As good as gold." "As white as snow." "As fine as silk." Why do other papers in this field invariably try to compare with the standard of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD? There's a reason.

Universal Film Mfg. Co.

UNIVERSAL FILM MFG. CO.

THE VOICE ON THE WIRE (Episode No. 3, "The Spider's Web"—Two Parts—April 1).—The cast: John Shirley (Ben Willson); Polly Marion (Neva Gerber); Red Warren (Francis McDonald); Howard Van Cleft (Ernie Shields); Dr. Reynolds (Joseph Glard); Jap Valet (Frank Tokonaga); Capt. Cronin (Howard Crampton). Scenario by J. T. Alexander. Produced by Stuart Paton.

John Shirley, detective, arrives at his apartment in time to receive a telephone from the voice on the wire that his colleague, Polly Marion, is in danger. He is about to start to her apartment when he finds that his car has been stolen.

He reports the theft to the police, but finds his car with a note of warning in it. He starts on his mission, but the car explodes from a bomb, and he goes to the police station and explains. He is delayed, but arrives in time to save Polly from being killed by a mysterious hand.

That night he and Polly go to a party at the rooms of the mysterious Red Warren. Red forces Polly to ask Shirley to meet her there. Shirley notices that Warren's hand bears a resemblance to the hand of the morning's adventure. The fact is noticed as Warren is showing him an old family coat-of-arms, telling him that an ancestor of his had a grafted hand.

They leave the party at a late hour, and Shirley is attacked on his homeward journey, succeeding, however, in overpowering his assailants.

Arriving home he finds that Howard Van Cleft, the young millionaire, has sent a note telling him of a contemplated yachting cruise, as he fears to remain in the city longer. Shirley phones for assistance and hurries to the deck, where, in a running fight on the river, he saves the life of Howard and sees him safely started on his journey.

He arrives home after his day's adventure and accidentally reads in a medical journal of a wonderful operation in which a human hand has been grafted upon an arm. He thinks of Warren and recalls the coat-of-arms. He cannot fathom the fact that the mysterious hand was disembodied. The mystery is now deeper than ever.

THE PURPLE MASK (Episode No. 14, "Sky Monsters"—Two Parts—April 1).—The cast: Patricia Montez (Grace Cunard); Phil Kelly (Francis Ford); his assistants (Peter Gerald, Jerry Ash); Pat's aunt (Jean Hathaway).

In the preceding episode Pat had thwarted the purpose of a band of anarchists who had designed to drop incendiary bombs on Wall Street. When the anarchists approached New York in their airship Pat was ready in a biplane to approach them before they reached lower New York, and to attack their aircraft from above. In this she succeeded, and the criminals were glad to escape with their lives.

The exploit of the anarchists attracted the attention of the Government, and when investigation pointed to the "Purple Mask" as having participated in the raid, orders were issued from Washington that the girl must be apprehended. Phil Kelly was called in by Secret Service operatives to assist in the capture.

While Pat was walking through the grounds surrounding her home, the officers captured her, but she was immediately rescued by the Apaches. In a few moments Pat was again at the mercy of the officers who forced their way into a room where the Apaches were in session. The girl refused to submit, and when an opportunity came she smashed the officers over the head with a heavy vase and started a mix-up that permitted her to escape through the window.

Secret Service men went in pursuit of Pat. She led them over roofs and housetops, until she attempted to slide to the earth and safety by using the branches of a tree. When she reached the ground there was an officer waiting to handcuff her. The men led Pat to their automobile, but as they were about to drive away the Apaches again attacked them.

With one handcuff attached securely to Pat's wrist, the officers fastened the other bracelet to the framework of the automobile, while they engaged in a fight with the Apaches. Pat's men were overcome, and the episode ends with Secret Service men driving away from the scene in their automobile, with Pat their prisoner.

THE GRAND CANYON OF ARIZONA (March 29).—Views of the Grand Canyon of Arizona were secured by Clyde R. Cook and are released as a Powers educational. We see the sun rise over the rim of the canyon near El Tovar. The opposite wall of the canyon is fourteen miles away. We overlook Bright Angel trail, and then follow the Hermit trail, one of the live known trails into the canyon. The end of the latter is 5,000 feet below the rim. We see the true canyon on the Colorado River from a point 1,400 feet above the waters. Later we see the rapids of the same river, from a point 6,000 feet below the rim of the canyon. It is this river which has hewn out the wonderful cleft.

INDIA, THE BRIGHTEST JEWEL IN THE BRITISH CROWN (Dorsey Edu.—April 1).—Rice is the staff of life in the Orient, and it is the women who cultivate it. The work is difficult and takes many hours each day. Field laborers on the Malba Coast are scrfs, and go with the land. We see their primitive irrigating wheel, and a still more primitive device for transferring water from one field to another. The water buffalo is used for plowing. A threshing scene, when the rice is ready for harvesting, is seen in a rich farmer's yard. Finally the rice reaches the household of a poor man, and is pounded into flour by the woman in a primitive hand mortar.

INBAD THE SAILOR (On Same Reel as Forgoing).—Inbad is telling the story of his adventures. He tells how he was wrecked and awoke on a desert island. He has wonderful adventures, but finds it difficult to make his hearers believe what he tells them.

VICTOR.

NEVER TOO OLD TO WOO (March 27).—The cast: Harry Thompson (Jack Nelson); Mary Hull (Marjorie Ellison); Henry Thompson (L. M. Wells); Justice Higgins (Bert Law); Widow Hull (Mrs. George Hernandez). Scenario by Calder Johnstone. Produced by George Cochrane.

Henry Thompson is a miserly old fellow, and does not approve of his son's wooing of the Widow Hull's daughter. The widow is a gay old lady herself, and is admired not only by Mr. Thompson but by Justice Higgins. A duel between the two for her favor is started by Harry and Mary. Higgins buys a buggy, and Thompson follows suit. Then Higgins gets a Ford, and Thompson a touring car. The widow goes out in the Ford with the justice, but they break down, and she is rescued by Thompson.

Mary and Harry are out in his machine, and see their mother and father coming after them in Thompson's car. They think that they are being pursued and determine to be married. Higgins fixes his car, and the police commander it in order to arrest Thompson for speeding. All arrive together at the justice's, and there are two marriages, and many fines for speeding to appease the justice for the loss of the widow.

PRODIGAL PAPA (March 30).—Jane's father goes to the city with his savings amounting to $1,000 in a satchel in response to a letter from two crooks, who promise to increase it to four thousand for him. His daughter finds the letter and shows it to Harry, whom she loves. He determines to follow the old man.

In the city the crooks have prepared a satchel just like the old man's, with counterfeit money in it. Harry traces them, and obtains the satchel containing the real money, by giving a signal which the crooks mistake for that of their pal. Then he leaves for home with the money. When the old man returns with the counterfeit, Henry tells him that it is worthless. He is much broken up until the young man explains what he has done, and then the old man says that such a clever fellow may be his son-in-law.

Theater managers see page 1944 of Moving Picture World, March 24th issue.

NESTOR.

SHOT IN THE WEST (March 26).—The cast: Edith (Edith Roberts); Sheriff (Lee Moran); His Deputy (Harry Nolan); Mayor (Fred Gamble); Parson's Son (Eddie Lyons). Written by C. B. Hoadley. Produced by Louis Chaudet.

Edith, a Boston novelist in search of local color, arrives at Grizzly Gulch. The boys hear of her coming, and though the town has long since reformed, determine to return to the "bad old days" during the time of her visit, so that she shall not be disappointed. They meet her and the sheriff starts things by shooting a man who steps in front of her. Then he tells of a desperate bandit, "Rattlesnake Ike," who is in the neighborhood. This is none other than Eddie, the parson's son, dressed up for the occasion. He appears and holds up the gang, giving the money to Edith.

She deposits it with her own in the bank, and then "Rattlesnake Ike" holds up the bank. They capture Ike and prepare to hang him, but Edith shoots the rope in two, and forces Ike, at the point of her revolver, to board the train with her. She tells him that she is going to reform him in Boston, and the boys have to watch the disappearance of Eddie, with all their available funds.

JOKER.

WHAT THE ———? (March 31).—The cast: Gale (Gale Henry); Bill (William Franey); The Queen (Lillian Peacock); Milt, the devil (Milburn Moranti); Iceman ("Kewpie" Morgan); Book Agent (Bobbie Mack); Mother-in-law (Martha Mattox). Produced by William Beaudine.

Bill has brought in the wood for the fire, gets it started and sits down in a rocker, where he drops off to sleep. Gale sees his foot-prints on the floor, picks up the rolling pin and goes after him.

Bill dreams that the devil appears and changes jobs with him. Bill, in Hades, sees the Queen, who smiles at him and invites him to sit on the throne with her.

The Devil, as Bill, has to walk the floor with the baby while Gale sleeps. He returns to Hades, confronting Bill and the Queen. Bill refuses to give up his place and chases the Devil away. The Devil returns to the earth and touches Gale with his fork, causing her to disappear below.

Gale rushes to Bill, who jumps into a red-hot furnace. Bill wakes and finds Gale standing over him with the rolling-pin.

IMP.

DAVID'S IDOL DREAM (Two Parts—March 29).—The cast: Dave (Jay Belasco); Letty (Madge Kirby); Paul Steward (Rex Rosselli); Mrs. Steward (Miriam Shelby); their daughter (Elizabeth Janes). Scenario by Malcolm Strong. Produced by Walter Morion.

Dave is a struggling young artist who has a great penchant for heathen idols. He and Letty, who is an illustrator, are engaged. Dave finishes a painting and takes it to the art dealer's, who that day has had returned to him a hideous-looking idol. Paul Steward had purchased it, but his wife insisted upon its return. While it was in the possession of the Stewards, their small daughter amused herself with stuffing its gaping mouth with everything she could discover, including her mother's valuable string of pearls. The art dealer offers to exchange the idol for the painting, and Dave takes it home.

Letty is angered and breaks their engagement. Dave, disconsolate, falls asleep and has a dream in which he thinks some strange man is trying to take Letty from him. In his excitement he knocks over the idol and the string of pearls falls from the open mouth. Letty, in her room below, hears the thud and hurries upstairs. The lovers become so much engrossed with each other that they forget all about the idol.

Meantime the loss of the pearls is discovered and the Steward chauffeur is arrested for the theft. Detectives trace his movements and find that Steward sent him with the idol to the art dealer's. The detectives deduce that the art dealer is the fence. He disclaims having the jewels. They visit Dave's apartments and there

'ARGONAUTS OF CALIFORNIA'

DAYS OF '49

A Thrilling Historical Masterpiece
in 10 Reels

Grafton Publishing Film Company

LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA
STATE RIGHTS NOW SELLING

NATIONAL DRAMA CORP.

1465 BROADWAY

NEW YORK CITY

CLUNE FILM PRODUCING COMPANY

Los Angeles, California

Producers of "RAMONA" (10 reels) and
"THE EYES OF THE WORLD" (10 reels)

Harold Bell Wright's famous love story of adventure, of which nearly 2,000,000 copies
have been sold, magnificently reproduced.
Available for state rights.

F I L M DEVELOPING PRINTING TITLES TINTING and TONING

GUNBY BROS., Inc.

145 West 45th St. New York

The Original and Leading Moving Picture
Journal in Europe

The Kinematograph Weekly

The reliable Trade organ of Great Britain; covering the whole of the British Film market, including the American imported films. Read by everyone in the industry. Specialist writers for Finance, Technical Matters, Legal, Musical, Foreign Trading (correspondents throughout the world)—and every section devoted to the Kinematograph. Specimen copy on application to:—

The Kinematograph Weekly, Ltd.

9-11 Tottenham Street, London, W., Eng.

discover the jewels banging out of the mouth of the idol. They remember that the little girl found enjoyment in feeding the idol and the mystery is solved. Happiness comes to the lovers, for Paul gives Dave an order for several paintings.

PERILS OF THE SECRET SERVICE (Adventure No. 4—"The Crimson Blade"—Two Parts—March 29).—The cast: Yorke Norroy (Kingsley Benedict); Carson Huntley (Jay Belasco); Hassan Bey (Frank Whitson); Von Ladenburg (Harry Mann); Cecilia Reginald (Roberta Wilson); Mesrour (C. G. Briden); American Consul (Harry Archer). Written and produced by Bronson Howard.

Herman Von Ladenburg, ostensibly the agent of a Saxonian gun factory, had orders to supply the Filipino rebels with the munitions of war. Yorke Norroy, Secret Agent of the Department of State, was delegated to see that nothing of the sort was done. Von Ladenburg was to start for Hong Kong the following day, but for some reason unknown to Norroy, he was going to stop off in Neropa, Turkey. Norroy told his confidant, Carson Huntley, that it was their business to see he stopped there permanently.

Meanwhile, Miss Cecilia Reginald, an American girl, arrived in the Turkish town of Neropa. Hassan Bey, the assistant Minister of War and autocrat of Neropa, determined to get Cecilia. He ordered his Chief Eunuch Mesrour, to kidnap her that night. Von Ladenburg, Norroy and Huntley arrive at the town where Norroy registered their names as Ludwig Fulda, a Saxonian, and his secretary, Hoffman.

When Von Ladenburg went to see Hassan Bey the guard told him to come that evening, and though there would be a different gate-keeper then, he would leave orders for him to be admitted. Huntley, hidden nearby, heard these words. After Von Ladenburg left, Huntley, waiting for a chance to move on, was noticed by Cecilia. She threw a note to Huntley informing him who she was and that she was held a prisoner unless she consented to marry Hassan Bey.

Norroy determined to keep Von Ladenburg's appointment with Hassan Bey. He managed to get the Saxonian in a drunken stupor and hastened to the palace. There Hassan Bey, thinking Norroy was Von Ladenburg, for he had never met the man, showed him firearms and finally brought forth a poisoned dagger.

Huntley had gone to the palace to rescue Cecilia and had been taken captive by Hassan Bey. The guards had taken him to the court where they had begun to torture him. Norroy had found the note left by Huntley saying that he had gone to the palace. While the Turk's back was turned, Norroy snatched up the poisoned dagger and told the man to bring out his prisoners. Though Hassan called his guards, they were appalled at the sight of the dagger and refused to go near Norroy. When the captives were brought into the room, Norroy forced Hassan to phone the American Consul to hasten to the palace. By use of the dagger, they all escaped from the place. The Turk, crazy with anger, ordered Mesrour to follow Norroy and either to kill him or lose his own life.

At the hotel, Mesrour, climbing through the window and mistaking Von Dandenburg, who sat in a stupor at the table, for Norroy, stabbed him in the back. He was just going to kill Huntley, when Norroy entered the room, causing him to flee. Norroy, about to shoot the Turk, lets him go when Huntley says that Hassan will kill him anyway.

GOLD SEAL.

THE STARTLING CLIMAX—(Three Parts—March 27).—The cast: George Telford (Val Paul); Gould Hunter (Fred Church); Harvey Reed (Dan Leighton); Margy Summers (Gertrude Aster); Ormsy (Charles G. Briden). Written by Karl Coolidge. Produced by Geo. Sargent.

George Telford is a short story writer. His friend and critic, Gould Hunter, in discussing one of Telford's stories says that platonic friendship is a rare thing, and that few men would give up their wives without a fight. In his opinion, the public looks for the "different ending."

Margy Summers, an orphan, weary from a day's vain search for employment, enters her rooming-house and is seen by Ormsy, a barbarian of the underworld.

Margy reads an advertisement for a sten-

Duhem Motion Picture Mfg. Co.

RAW STOCK SUPPLIED
EXPERT LABORATORY
—FINISHING—
DEVELOPING—PRINTING

700 HAYES STREET
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

TEN DAYS
FREE TRIAL
GOLD KING SCREENS
ARE BEST
GOLD KING SCREEN CO., ALTUS, OKLA.

ographer, wanted by George Telford. She goes to his house and finds him out, but is allowed to wait. Telford engages her and it is not long before both he and Hunter are interested in her. Telford finally proposes, and they are soon married.

Telford begins to suspect that Margy has married him for his wealth. She is constantly in the company of Hunter. The doctor warns Telford that a violent quarrel might cause his death, as Telford has a weak heart. One night, Hunter and Margy return from the opera and Telford sees the stain of crushed violets on Hunter's shirt front. Margy and her husband have a quarrel; he retires to his den. When she enters later she finds him dead.

Telford had a twin brother whose heart also was weak. They heard he had died in South America, but really he had been in prison for fifteen years. The shock of meeting proved too much for him. He died in the room, and Telford exchanged clothes with him and left the house.

Telford stays away for six months. When he returns Margy tells him he is too late, she has come to love Hunter. Telford, confronting Hunter, tells him that he is going to fight for Margy.

The husband does fight to get his wife back, but Hunter declares that it all depends on the sort of a woman you marry.

BISON.

STEEL HEARTS.—(Two Parts—March 31).—The cast: David Driscoll (E. C. Wallack); Lucille Lawton (Marie Walcamp); George Belmont (L. C. Shumway); Jack Belmont (Lee Hill); Lucille's Maid (Gypsy Sontoris).

Lucille Lawton is a ward of David Driscoll, superintendent of the Belmont Iron Works. George Belmont, the head in the industry, is the pampered pet of society. His younger brother Jack is just the opposite. Jack inherited a big block of railroad stock; got a job as a worker on the railroad and is now engineer.

Jack on one of his regular runs is horrified to see a horse dashing toward the train with Lucille dragging from the saddle. Jack calls the fireman to take his place and leaping from the train, succeeds in bringing the horse to a stop. His brother drives up in an auto and Jack surrenders the unconscious girl to him to be taken to a hospital.

It is two months before Lucille fully recovers. She goes to the railroad yard to thank the engineer. Jack comes to his engine and is greeted by Lucille. He promises the girl to call on her the following evening. George has fallen in love with Lucille and promises Driscoll that if he will use his influence to favor his suit, that he will receive a large compensation.

Lucille has become more and more interested in Jack. When Jack calls at the house he finds George there. Driscoll monopolizes Jack's time, leaving the girl to George.

George comes to the office half drunk. Driscoll tells him Lucille will be alone that night and suggests that he call. Lucille has retired when George arrives and forces his way through the door. The maid tries to keep him out and a struggle takes place between them in which the maid is knocked unconscious. Lucille tries to get Jack on the phone and leaves word at the office for him to hurry. She barricades her door, but George, in his drunken frenzy, breaks the door down and attacks her. Jack gets the message. Hastily cutting off the engine, he and the fireman make a dash for the house. Driscoll's auto is wrecked and he is pinned under it. The maid has revived and attacks Belmont again. He throws her down the stairs. Jack breaks in and they have a fight. George is knocked down the steps. Driscoll is found to be only bruised. Learning George's real nature, he is glad that he has received such a good lesson.

LAEMMLE.

IS MONEY AL.—(March 28).—The cast: Mary Ellen (Irene Hunt); Billy (Leo Pierson); Mrs. Sardon (Roberta Wilson); her husband (Richard Ryan). Scenario and production by Ruth Ann Baldwin.

Mary Ellen worked in a store. Bill, who walked to the store with her every morning, was a good man but he was only a boiler maker. Today was Mary Ellen's birthday. She was hoping that Billy had brought her a wrist watch. But when he met her and displayed the bouquet of violets she rather bitterly replied that she had become used to not having the things she wanted.

Mary Ellen was sent to take a box to Mrs. Sardon, a wealthy woman. The maid led her to the lady's boudoir. The maid brought in a large box of pink roses with a man's card in them. Mary Ellen thought this was most romantic and envied the lady.

Soon Norman Sardon, who was made of the stuff of which Mary Ellen's dream heroes were made, entered and saw the flowers. He scowled, while his wife was quite embarrassed. Mrs. Sardon then looked at the gorgeous dress which had come in the box and told Mary Ellen to return it as it would not do at all. Mary Ellen dreamed all day while at work of such a man as Sardon, of a house like his and of clothes like his wife's.

Billy took her to a picture show that evening, but she sat through it unseeing. In the home of which she dreamed, strange things were happening. Sardon pieced together the torn bits of the card sent with the roses and read the words written by Reggie, a clubman. Hurrying home, he found that the man had been in his wife's boudoir. Reggie had heard his approach and had escaped through the window, leaving his hat. Sardon threw the bits of the card into his wife's face. Then he drew a revolver and fired straight at her.

When Mary Ellen and Billy were coming from the show she was startled to hear "Extry! All about Norman Sardon shooting his wife!" Billy bought a paper for her, and sitting down on a park bench she read about Norman Sardon shooting his wife and then killing himself because of a young clubman. She thought of the pink roses and pictured the whole affair. Unconsciously her hand touched the violets and she told Billy that she didn't want to be rich but just happy. Mary Ellen was through with dreaming.

THE MASK OF LOVE.—(March 29).—Carlotta and her old father, struggling for an existence, are befriended by Marino, a hardened character of the underworld. Marino, under the guise of friendship, misleads Carlotta, who puts up a brave fight. She is rescued by Peter, an old friend who happens to come on the scene. In the meantime Carlotta's father, learning of Marino's perfidy, swears vengeance. He soon finds Marino and a fight follows. Marino is about to stab Carlotta's father when he is subdued by Peter. Peter and Carlotta are now happily married and lay plans for a happy future.

RED FEATHER.

THE SCARLET CRYSTAL.—(Five parts—March 19).—The cast: Priscilla Worth (Betty Schade); Vincent Morgan (Herbert Rawlinson); Marie Delys (Dorothy Davenport); Maxfield Durant (Raymond Whitaker); Peggy Lovel (Marie Hazelton); Helen Forbes (Gertrude Astor); Billy Van Duyn (Richard Ryan). Written by J. G. Alexander. Produced by Charles Swickard.

Priscilla Worth, an innocent country girl, goes to the city to visit her aunt, a typical society butterfly, who has sent for her, thinking her childlike simplicity will afford a welcome relief to Vincent Morgan, a wealthy bachelor and man-about-town. The plan works well. Vincent marries Priscilla, and takes her on a tour around the world. In Egypt a fortune-teller says Priscilla is the kind of person who can see the inner meaning of things and Vincent buys her a crystal.

On their return Durant, an artist who painted Priscilla's portrait before she married Vincent, lets her know he still loves her, but she does not at once repulse him. Vincent's friends besiege him to return to the gay life, and Marie Delys, an actress, is particularly insistent, for she has never forgiven Priscilla for marrying Vincent and longs to get Vincent back into her power. Vincent, however, will not listen. He goes to the studio of Durant to get the portrait of Priscilla and meets Peggy, Durant's model. Her innocence appeals to him, and he promises to befriend her if she ever needs assistance. Priscilla arrives and looking through the curtains sees her husband and leaves.

The next day Durant delivers the portrait. Vincent arrives and is angry at finding the artist with his wife. Later he upbraids his wife for receiving the man, whom gossip declares to be still in love with her. The next day he yields to the invitations of his old friends. He reads that Durant has left town, and that a woman is said to be the cause of his going. He jumps to the conclusion that the woman is his wife, and rushes to his friends. Marie prevails upon him to call upon her.

In a cafe one night, where Vincent has been drinking more than is good for him, he sees an old friend, Billy Van Duyn, escorting Peggy and about to enter a taxi with her. He remembers his promise; goes after the pair and sends Peggy home alone. He returns to the cafe and merrily goes home intoxicated. Priscilla has been consulting her crystal and has seen Vincent's condition. When he comes in she rushes upstairs and locks her door. The servant helps Vincent to bed and he dreams that Peggy sacrifices herself to him, and then returns home to find her mother dead.

She then takes drugs to still her conscience, and becomes a drug addict; seeks out the cafe where he is in the habit of going with Marie and make a scene. Marie, in jealous rage, stabs him and herself. As he falls over her body he awakens. Thankfully he rises and dresses to meet his wife. There is a mutual explanation and they determine to begin again with a better understanding.

THE FIGHTING GRINGO.—(Five parts—March 26).—The cast: Mary Smith (Claire Du Bray); "Red" Saunders (Larry Carey); Arthur Saxon (George Webb); Jim (Elliott Gittinger); Perez (T. Du Crow); Belknap (T. D. Crittenden); Orine (Rex de Rosselli); Pedro (Vesta Pegg). Scenario by Maud George. Produced by Fred A. Kelsey.

On their way to Panama "Red" Saunders, a youth, meets Mary Smith and Arthur Saxon. They become friends and he learns Mary is on her way to do missionary work with a Mr. Belknap. Arthur and Mary quarrel frequently and Mary tells him though she loves him, he must prove himself to be a man. Arthur loathes Belknap and denounces him, but Mary is loyal.

At the dock Jim, a rancher, asks the captain for a husky white man who can be trusted. The captain recommends Red. Through his grit Red wins out. Thrown from his horse, he is hurled into the lap of Orine, a little fat Spaniard, head of the Government party and the ablest man in Panama. Red saves him from three bandits one night and the two men become good friends.

Red goes to see Mary, who demands that he never speak to Arthur. Red goes to the store of Perez where Arthur is working, and finds him in a deplorable condition. Arthur tells him why he has been drinking hard.

From the time they were children he and Mary had been sweethearts. They met Belknap, and Mary became interested in missionary work. One night he had been accosted by a woman who fainted in his arms. He carried her to the store, fed her and then takes her to his room to rest, after which he left. Belknap nastened to tell Mary. When Arthur next saw her she told him that his presence was an insult.

Red goes with Perez to his home. Orine rushes into the room and tells them he had seen Belknap meet Zampeto, the leader of the revolution, and heard him promise to make the converts join the revolution, if Zampeto would endow his mission.

Red hears the revolutionists on their way to the ranch, so with the help of three men he barricades the store and hurls cans of tomatoes at the crowd, but is wounded severely by the time a troop of soldiers come to their rescue.

Orine, Perez and Jim arrange to trap the revolutionists that night. When Red finds out about their plans, in spite of his helpless arm, he joins Arthur and the other men; fires at Arthur, wounds him in the arm, and states he wants to tell Mary he is wounded and he couldn't tell a lie to her.

The revolutionists are caught and Red with Orine and Perez goes to the mission. Belknap enters and lunges at Red with a knife, but Red thrusts his revolver in his face and gives Belknap an hour to make his escape. Mary rushes into the room. He tells her Arthur is wounded. She demands to be taken to him. When Belknap tries to follow them, Perez and Orine remind him he has only an hour.

Though Mary refuses to listen Red insists upon telling her the whole story. They hurry to the hut. Arthur puts his good arm about her as she hugs her arms about his neck. Red turns away and goes alone toward the town.

UNIVERSAL.

ANIMATED WEEKLY No. 63 (March 14).
Janitors Go on Strike.—Hundreds of flat

HALLBERG

Complete
Picture Theatre Equipments
CARBONS AND SUPPLIES

J. H. HALLBERG, 7th Ave. at 49th St., New York

A VERITABLE GOLD MINE OF SELECTED, HELPFUL INFORMATION

Is contained in each weekly issue of the

MOVING PICTURE WORLD

Your Name Ought to Appear on Our Subscription List.

house "czars" throw down brooms and mops, demanding more pay.—Chicago, Ill.

After 8 Months' "War"—12th and 69th Regiments give warm greetings on return from Mexican border.—New York City. Subtitles: 12th's armored motor cars. Fighting 6th.

"Sufts" Make Last Appeal.—Seekers of "Votes for Women" march around White House on day before Wilson is inaugurated.—Washington, D. C.

Preparing for '17's Battle.—Chicago National Leaguers arriving at coast for spring training.—Pasadena, Cal. Subtitle: First time in '17's uniform.

Germans' Prison Ship.—Japanese steamer Huusou Maru, taken by sea raider and used to carry ashore prisoners from other ships.—New York City. Subtitles: The officers and crew. Broadsword practice. A member of the crew in native dress. Corns never trouble him.

To Scatter Death.—Great Britain beuding every effort to rush ammunition to front.—Somewhere in England. Subtitles: Ammunition leaving factory. Taking powder to cannon. Boom! Torpedoes ready for warships.

Teachers for Preparedness.—1,700 school ma'ams visit students at aual training station.—Lake Bluff, Ill. Subtitles: Drilling in giant hall. Teachers sample sailors' food.

Playing War in Air.—Men studying to be airmen in U. S. Army pursue "euemy's" scouts.—Mineaola, L. I. Subtitles: Starting armed biplanes. Trying new incendiary rocket. Battle in air. These rockets are controlled by aviator's foot while in air. Airmen fall to earth. No one hurt.

Women Can Aid in War.—Films show "weaker sex" at some of the occupations that would free men for fighting.—New York City. (Courtesy New York Hippodrome.) Subtitles: Hundreds can drive autos. Could carry mail easily. Sympathetic to injured. Some could handle freight. Fine looking traffic cops!

Cartoons by Hy. Mayer.

UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE (Issue No. 12—March 30).—This issue starts with views of the Life Saving Station, many of which dot the entire coast line of the United States to guard our shores.

We then visit the alligator farm in Southern California. Then comes a cooking lesson, by Mrs. A. Louise Andrea. She shows us how to make apple snow. The reel then gives us interesting views of the process of making unbreakable dolls for the kiddies. It ends with a few moments with Willie Hopkins, who models a study of Joe Martin, the Universal ape, which seems to come to life as we watch it.

UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE No. 13. (April 6).—This animated reel brings to you in motion pictures the activities of the world's work.

What we eat: A modern hotel's kitchen. Preparations of food in these establishments is under the constant supervision of inspectors detailed by the Department of Health. Subtitles: Health Department inspector demands medical cards. Each employe is manicured daily. Each order given to the steward is transmitted to the kitchen by a telautograph, an automatic writing machine. The chef receives the order. The kitchen receives meat for cooking. A squad of cooks is continually at work. Bread and butter served without handling. The dish washing machine is a time saver. It cleans hundreds of utensils a minute.

Industries: Porpoise fishers. These huge fish are taken by the thousands each day off the Atlantic coast. Subtitles: Off for the daily net planting. A porpoise at play. Oil extracted from this fish, a member of the whale family, sells for 40 cents an ounce. It is used to lubricate the works of chronometers and fine watches. Hauling in the nets. The full grown porpoise weighs about 200 pounds. The hide of the porpoise makes an excellent leather.

Preparedness: Making of shells. In this mill old junk, gathered from the four corners of the earth, is transformed into the death dealing missiles of war. Subtitles: Some of the junk utilized by the plant. The junk is handled by a huge magnet. The blast furnaces in which the metal is melted. A vat of the molten steel. The molds are filled with the molten steel. The finished casings leaving the mill.

Beauty hints: Be your own manicure. The proper care of finger nails, illustrated by Miss Justine Johnstone, Broadway musical comedy star. Subtitles: First the nails are properly shaped with a flexible steel file. Cuticle must not be cut. It is removed with an orange stick tipped with absorbent cotton. The nails are rounded with emery board. Whiteners are applied under the nails with the pointed end of

SWAAB
Complete
Picture Theatre Equipment
CARBONS AND SUPPLIES
Dept. M., 1327 Vine Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Dependable Terminals
at a reasonable price. At your exchange—or write the manufacturers.

Bell & Howell Co.
1801 Larchmont Ave.
Chicago, Ill.

TITLES CLEAR, CLEAN AND BRILLIANT
ON EASTMAN STOCK
Wording Perfectly Balanced
With or Without Borders
ROTHACKER
FILM MANUFACTURING CO.
1339-51 Diversey Parkway, Chicago, U. S. A.

PAINTINGS
OF
FILM STARS
And Feature Lobby Displays
for State Right Buyers
That are works of art.
PAINTED BY
M. KASSEL
ARTIST
220 West 42nd St., New York

FOR SALE
Mailing Lists
MOVING PICTURE THEATRES
Every State — Total 24,000
Price, $3.50 per M.
1400 Film Exchanges..... $4.00
206 Manufacturers and Studios..... $1.50
235 Picture Machine and Supply
Dealers..... $1.50
Particulars.
A. F. WILLIAMS, 166 W. Adams St., Chicago

THE Automatic TICKET SELLING AND CASH REGISTER CO.
MANUFACTURERS OF
AUTOMATIC TICKET MACHINES
and all kinds of Theatre Tickets
USED UNIVERSALLY
1735 BROADWAY N. Y. CITY

the orange stick. The finishing touches are made with both paste and cake polish. A small quantity of each gives a brilliant and lasting luster.

Art: Miracles In mud, produced by Willie Hopkins, noted sculptor. "America, May She Always Be Right."

REX.

SNOW WHITE (Three Parts—April 1).—The story opens in the ante-room of the royal bed-chamber. The queen dies. She was the mother of Snow White. A year later the king brings home a wicked queen. Snow White is presented to her stepmother. The queen sees in her magic mirror a message that Snow White will be prettier than she. The king leaves the country for a short period. No sooner is the king gone, than the queen compels a hunter to carry Snow White to the woods and slay her. The hunter weakens and sets Snow White free. He kills a rabbit, and in the blood of the slaughtered animal dips his handkerchief, which he shows to the queen as proof that he has carried out his mission.

Snow White sees a cottage in the distance, and goes to it. Finding it apparently vacant, she enters and searches through the rooms. In the fireplace a pot is boiling. The table is spread. The beds are made. She lies on one of the beds and falls asleep.

Seven little men are at work in a mine. At the close of the day they stop their labor and march home in military fashion. The leader finds Snow White. He summons his mates and they awaken the sleeper. Snow White agrees to keep house for the little folks.

The queen, through her mirror, has learned that the hunter has played her false. The next day she goes in disguise to the hut. She gives Snow White a poisoned comb. Snow White falls unconscious. When the dwarfs return they soon discover the trouble and remove the comb, restoring Snow White.

The next day the queen returns. In spite of the warnings of the dwarfs the queen is admitted by Snow White. The queen induces her to eat of a poisoned apple. Snow White falls dead. The dwarfs bemoan the loss of their princess. The queen learns of the death of Snow White. The glass tells her: "Oh, queen, there is none in the land so beautiful as thou."

A prince now comes upon the scene. From a hill he sees a strange sight. He dismounts and approaches a casket of glass, surrounded by seven mourning little men. He leans over the casket and kisses the face of the still figure within. Immediately Snow White comes to life.

The king and queen are at the head of the court assembling to greet a new prince and his bride. It is the prince and Snow White. The queen is exposed and turned out. The king welcomes his restored daughter and her prince and gives the two his blessing.

L-KO.

"DIPPY DAN'S DOINGS" (Two parts—March 28).—The cast: Speedometer Bill (Dan Russell); The Judge (Vin Moore); The Manicure (Marjorie Ray); The Judge's wife (Jean Hathaway).

The cops put a rope across the street to discourage speeders, but all they could catch was a cow. Later they were more successful, when Dan, the chauffeur, came along with the manicure in his machine. They were taken to the police station. Dan and the judge were interested in the manicure, but the judge had the disadvantage of possessing a jealous wife. She hired Dan's car, and he ran her over a rough road, and then was arrested for speeding again, and taken before the judge again.

As they have already encountered each other over the manicure, Dan is afraid that he will get a long sentence. But the little manicure comes into the court room, carrying the hat which the judge has forgotten and left with her. The judge is in terror, because his wife is in the courtroom. Dan thinks he is going to get off after all, but the judge creates a disturbance by pulling a gun, and Dan crawls on a board from the window of the courtroom to that of the opposite hotel. He is not aware that he has entered the judge's rooms.

The judge goes to his room. Dan hears him coming, and disguises himself in the sheet, putting on a pillow-case for a cap. He takes up a feather duster, and pretends to be the housemaid. The judge enters, and happens to step on the sheet. It is pulled off, and the judge recognizes the chauffeur. Dan beats it hastily and hides in the mail-bag in the office of the hotel.

The judge and his wife decide to leave town.

ATTENTION, PATRIOTIC EXHIBITORS

CLOSE EVERY SHOW WITH THE STARS AND STRIPES

A 60-foot strip (or longer) of a waving flag tinted red, white and blue, at 5-foot intervals showing our three greatest Presidents, and closing with the most intense lines of our National Anthem, can be purchased from us at 10c. per foot.

AMERICAN BIOSCOPE CO., Inc.

J. E. WILLIS Pres. & Gen. Mgr. 6242 Broadway, Chicago

Chicago exhibitors and those who come to the city for their shows can purchase these flags at the Regal Film Company, Room 315, Mollers Bldg., 5 South Wabash Ave.

For Perfect Laboratory Results

INSTALL

CORCORAN TANKS

A. J. CORCORAN, Inc. 114 JOHN STREET NEW YORK CITY

Dan, in the mail-bag, is loaded onto the same train which they take. The clerk finds him, but allows him to take refuge in a Pullman. The judge and his wife are seated in the drawing-room. A man tries to flirt with the wife, and the judge angrily sends her back to their compartment. She leaves her coat, and when Dan comes into the car, he disguises in it.

The judge takes him for his wife, and sends him into the compartment, too. Dan and Mrs. Judge confront each other, and hearing the judge returning, they hide Dan in the berth. The porter comes in to make it up and Dan is discovered. The chase leads to the top of the car, and they race back and forth over the roofs of the cars. An engine full of police is pursuing them, and Dan finally is forced to dive from a bridge into the river below.

Mutual Film Corporation CUB.

"BE SURE YOU'RE RIGHT" (March 29).—The cast: Jerry (George Ovey); His Sweetheart (Claire Alexander); Her Father (E. E. Browne); The Lieutenant (George George); The Colonel (C. E. Horn).

Jerry and Tiny are in love, but Tiny's father will not consent to his daughter's marriage to anyone but a military man. He therefore favors a lieutenant as a fine husband for his daughter.

A happy idea strikes Jerry. He will become a military man and win the consent of Tiny's father. Accordingly he visits a second hand shop and buys a complete outfit of military regalia. Dressed in it he visits Tiny's home, but father and the lieutenant, noticing the deception, drive him from the place.

Tiny's father is booked to make an address in the town hall of a nearby village. His car is waiting outside of his home to take him on his journey. Jerry commands the use of the car and starts for the distant town.

When Tiny's father is ready to leave he finds his car gone. The Colonel loans him the use of his own machine, and the two, accompanied by privates, proceed in it to the nearby village. As they arrive they spy father's car and hear the band playing and the crowd cheering, and immediately conclude that Jerry has been up to one of his tricks. They enter the town hall just as Jerry is in the midst of making a romantic talk in which he recounts his heroic deeds on the front.

When the party enters Jerry sees he is doomed. At the Colonel's command Jerry is seized and placed in charge of the constable who takes his prisoner to the jail to lock him up. But Tiny will not stand by and see her lover imprisoned, and stealing the constable's gun she holds up the officer of the law, obtains Jerry's release, and before the amazed officer knows what has happened the loving pair make their way down the road in a machine safe from the law's arm.

MUTUAL

MUTUAL WEEKLY 116 (March 21).

Havana, Cuba.—Government troops off to the front. Leave here to quell revolution in the provinces.

New Orleans, La.—Forest giants for ship masts. These two logs are valued at $100 per foot.

West Palm Beach, Fla.—Sun dance celebration. Seminole Indians arrive here for annual festivities.

Havana, Cuba.—Ambassador Gerard arrives at this port, after perilous voyage, from Germany, Spain. Subtitle: Going aboard the steamer for Key West.

Washington, D. C.—Mr. Gerard and his party arrive here.

Somewhere-in-France.—Monster balloons are used for observing movements of the enemy. Gas-making machines for inflating the bags are mounted on wheels.

Somewhere-in-France.—British offensive delayed. Spring thaw and deep mud delay drive on the Somme.

Los Angeles, Cal.—Auto racing season opens. Earl Cooper wins sweepstakes in 100-mile speed duel.

Washington, D. C.—Autopeds displace bicycles. Postoffice here equips messengers with speedier machines.

San Francisco, Cal.—First unit in United States auxiliary fleet. The "Great Northern" will be used as converted cruiser in the event of war.

San Diego, Cal.—Uncle Sam adopts new sea sled. It will be used for rescuing aviators at sea and transporting officers from forts in time of war. Subtitle: It has a 200-horsepower engine, and can make sixty miles an hour.

Washington, D. C.—Father and son are national legislators. Senator John Bankhead and his son, William Bankhead, are returned to same Congress from Alabama.

San Diego, Cal.—Greatest radio station placed under guard. Every precaution taken to protect wireless towers, which are 600 feet high.

New York City.—Medically trained young women will fight for Uncle Sam. Pledge selves to hospital service if war comes.

Long Beach, Cal.—Uncle Sam's newest sub-sea boat, the L-6, has successful trial trip.

Paris, France.—A section of American ambulances leaving for the front.

Cincinnati, Ohio.—Tornado hits Middle West. Many dead; hundreds injured. Two million dollars in property loss.

Newcastle, Ind.—Cyclone wrecks this city.

MONMOUTH.

JIMMY DALE, ALIAS "THE GREY SEAL," THE GREY SEAL (Episode No. 1).—Two parts—March 23).—Henry La Salle, uncle of Marie La Salle, plots with Travers, a lawyer, to gain control of Marie's fortune. While this is going on, Jimmy Dale, a wealthy young bachelor, who has taken to all manners of erratic crimes, plans to rob the safe of Goldweather & Frost, the fashionable jewelers. Henry La Salle organizes a band of unscrupulous society blackmailers and crooks into "The Crime Club." "The Crime Club" decides that Marie must die in order that her uncle may obtain her fortune. Jimmy succeeds in robbing the jewelers' safe, and escapes with his booty despite the efforts of the police to arrest him. As always, he leaves as a mark that it is his work, "The Grey Seal" upon the cracked door of the safe.

JIMMY DALE, ALIAS "THE GREY SEAL," THE GREY SEAL (Episode No. 2, "The Stolen Rubies").—Two parts—March 30).—Marie having learned of the plot against her life, has left the home of her uncle and taken refuge with a society matron. At a reception at the latter's home, Jimmy, in his character of the society man, meets Marie and falls in love with her. He is half determined to abandon his exciting secret life, but is urged on by a note from a mysterious influence, which signs itself "Tocsin." He is persuaded to go to the aid of a victim of Perly, a gambler. The victim has been persuaded by Perly first to gamble away his money, and then to steal some priceless rubies. Jimmy breaks into Perly's den, and compels Perly to hand back the rubies. They are then mailed to their rightful owners, and Perly's dupe is set upon the right path by the persuasion of Jimmy Dale, who thus once more shows that his depredations while they may have had variances with the laws of society, still work for good in the end.

PATHE EXCHANGE, INC.

HEARST-PATHE NEWS No. 21 (March 10). Jersey City, N. J.—The last of the Empire State regiments, the fighting 69th and the gallant 12th, return from the border. Subtitles: A familiar vision. Welcome home again—ready and able for further service.

Poultney, Vt.—The Vermont quarries are supplying a large quantity of the slate used by the Allies in placing their huge guns. Subtitles: Blasting the thick strata. The rock is also cut for school slates.

New York City.—Potatoes are accepted for admission to a juvenile movie show, the valuable collection to be given to the needy. Subtitles: Guarding the day's receipts. The members of the Bronx Woman's Club who arranged for the benefit.

Seattle, Wash.—The call for national preparedness is answered by Washington University, whose students organize a battalion. Subtitle: Getting some real experience in trench digging.

On the Somme.—The use of the aerial observation sentinel grows ever more important as the armies mass for the final drive. Subtitles: Up high above the smoke and din of battle the enemy's positions are carefully noted. The secret artillery posts located by the observer are then bombarded.

Mineola, N. Y.—The army aviation held is a busy place as the daring birdmen prepare to patrol the coast in case of need. Subtitles:

One airplane meets with a slight mishap in the deep snow. Testing a new incendiary rocket.

Scluate, Mass.—The three-masted schooner Henry Withington is buried on the sands of Peggotty Beach by the gale driven seas. Subtitle: The vessel is constantly pounded by the heavy surf.

San Antonio, Tex.—The supply train of the New York division, the only complete unit on the border, ends its 300-mile desert journey. Subtitles: Pack trains, which are used for remote sections or difficult roads. General Pershing, now commander of the Southern Army, directs the movement.

New York City.—The American liners still lie idle as President Wilson's call for arming ships is held up by the Senate's filibuster. Subtitles: Even as Congress denies protection to American citizens, a German spy, Hans Schwartz, is arrested in Hoboken, N. J. Senator La Follette, leader of the wilful twelve, against whom the nation rises in indignant wrath for failing to uphold its immemorial rights.

Freedom of the seas.—A cartoon by T. E. Powers. Animated by Will Powers.

HEARST-PATHE NEWS, NO. 22 (March 14).

Los Angeles, Cal.—Many noted drivers enter their dashing autos in the opening race of the season at the Ascot Park Speedway. Subtitles: Changing a tire in 30 seconds. Earl Cooper wins the first trial of daredevil speed.

New York City.—The S. S. Adriatic, the largest liner in present transatlantic service, arrives safely from the U-boat zone. Subtitle: Mrs. Vernon Castle, one of America's foremost actresses now starring in "Patria," is one of the passengers.

Venice, Cal.—Open air schools keep open in this sunny climate even while Eastern tots master R's in steam heated rooms. Subtitles: The facilities for study are inspiring indeed. Class dismissed.

In France.—Alpine Chasseurs honor the memory of their famous chief, General Serret, on the anniversary of his heroic death. Subtitles: The regiment which brought glory and honor to France and her cause. The end of the French Front on the Swiss border.

In the Trentino.—The Italians get ready large powerful battleplanes of the latest type, as all strive for the supremacy of the air. Subtitles: The wounded are not forgotten. It is not all shot and shell on the battlefield, and some moments are found for quiet repose. Their step is light and quick—animated by the soul—stirring "La Marcia Reale."

Washington, D. C.—Senator J. H. Bankhead and Representative W. Bankhead, as all father and son serve in the same Congress.

San Diego, Cal.—Uncle Sam's fastest sea-sled, capable of making fifty miles an hour, is tested for quick patrol service on the Pacific. Subtitle: Elaborate precautions are taken to guard the world's greatest radio station at Cholles Heights.

Marlin Springs, Tex.—The National pastime comes into its own again, and the N. Y. Giants train zealously to make a pennant-winning team. Subtitles: Manager McGraw watches the work of his promising players. The hope of New York—the Giants' pitching staff. Chicago Cubs eagerly begin their spring training at Pasadena, Cal.

Barneget, N. J.—After months of stubborn resistance, the U. S. Transport Summer succumbs completely to the might of the sea. Subtitles: Rescuing a windlass from the forecastle: Sinking gradually to its watery grave.

Brownsville, Texas. Mexican strife is happily ended, and General Pershing and staff pay a friendly visit across the Rio Grande. Subtitles: They are warmly greeted by the authorities at the International Bridge. Peace at last on the Mexican boundary line.

PEARL OF THE ARMY (Episode No. 15, "The Colonel's Orderly"—Astra—March 11).—The cast: Pearl Dare (Pearl White); C. D. Adams (Ralph Kellard); Major Brent (Theodore Friebus); The Silent Menace (? ? ?).

Pearl has at last unmasked the Silent Menace as he lay unconscious on the ground. Major Brent, Pearl's fiancé, who was suspected of being the Silent Menace, is cleared of all suspicion and his manhood getting the better of his desire for money, he goes to Bertha and the lovers of former days are finally united again.

Adams, also being clear of suspicion, recalls to Colonel Dare and the other officers the wreck of the Southwestern Limited in the second episode, while Captain Ralph, who was convicted of treason, was being taken to prison to

SPECIAL ROLL TICKETS

PRICES	Five Thousand.....	$1.25
	Ten Thousand	2.50
	Fifteen Thousand.....	3.75
	Twenty-five Thousand.....	5.50
	Fifty Thousand	7.50
	One Hundred Thousand.....	10.00

Your own special Ticket, any printing, any colors, accurately numbered; every roll guaranteed. Coupon tickets for Prize Drawings, 5,000 $2.50. Prompt shipments. Cash with the order. Get the samples. Send diagram for Reserved Seat Coupon Tickets, serial or dated. Stock tickets 5,000 to 25,000 fifteen cents per thousand, 50,000 ten cents, 100,000 nine cents.

NATIONAL TICKET CO.

Shamokin, Pa.

serve a life sentence. It was immediately after this wreck that Adams mysteriously appeared on the scene. Payne was generally believed to have been killed.

All this clears the way for the marriage of Pearl to the mau she really loves. It also shows the nation roused to wakefulness by the exposure of the Silent Menace, preparing to maintain peace and prosperity.

PATRIA (Episode 10, "War in the Door-yard"—Astra—Two Parts—March 18).—The cast: Patria Channing (Mrs. Vernon Castle); Donald Parr (Milton Sills); Baron Huroki (Warner Oland); Bess Morgan (Marie Walcamp).

Huroki, the foreign intriguer who is in hiding to escape arrest on account of the Black Tom disaster, resolves to frustrate Patria's plans and thus deter other great manufacturers from following her example in putting the country in a state of "preparedness." He has long been organizing and drilling military units composed of all foreign employes within a wide radius of every great industrial center, and he orders all of those in striking distance of Channing's to assemble there at night and cause a riot. They do so, and begin to shoot up the town.

The Channing military organization being prepared to repel the attack under the leadership of Captain Parr. The rioters are routed and flee, hotly pursued by the Channing forces. Meanwhile, Huroki has informed Patria in New York that the riot is in progress, and she rushes to the scene. Huroki has torn up a rail on a high trestle and the train is wrecked, but Patria being on the rear platform of her car is thrown clear of the wreck and her fall is broken by the telegraph wires.

Captain Parr, in an automobile pursuing the fleeing tools of Huroki, arrives and rescues her. Together they continue the pursuit, singling out Huroki's car, he having determined to escape the country. The chase is hot and furious, until Huroki, in desperation, deliberately drives his car off a cliff and falls with it to the water below.

WORLD-PICTURES.

AS MAN MADE HER (Five Parts—March 26).—The cast: Claire Wilson (Gail Kane); Mason Forbes (Frank Mills); Grace Hughes (Gerda Holmes); Harold Forbes (Edward Langford); Claire's maid (Miss Layton); Nurse (Miss McDonald). Directed by George Archambaud.

After working her way through finishing school, Claire Wilson goes out into the world to make her way. While at school she attracted the attention of Mason Forbes. With the aid of an unprincipled woman, Mason gets Claire into his power, and forces his attentions on her. Her promising career blighted, Claire lives with Mason as his mistress. After a few years Mason tells Claire he is going to leave her—that his duty to society demands that he marry and have a home and family. She begs him to marry her, but he laughs at her pleas. Mason's young brother, Harold, home from college to attend the marriage ceremony, meets Claire, now one of life's derelicts. Harold is much attracted to the still beautiful woman, and, after college days are over, he pursues the friendship. Although she cares nothing for the unsophisticated youth, Claire decides to marry him, so as to obtain a position in society. Mason is now a disappointed married man, his wife thinking only of her dresses and dog, and caring nothing for him.

Harold announces to this disillusioned couple that he is married and wants them to meet his wife. Mason is amazed to meet in Harold's wife Claire. Anxious to save his younger brother, he tries to buy her off, but she scorns his offer of money. He tells her he knows she does not love Harold, and if she will give the boy up he will come back to her, but she still refuses.

Motherhood brings no joy to Claire's unregenerated soul, and she leaves the care of the child to its nurse and its father. As time goes on, realizing her power over Mason, Claire determines to use it to punish him for the wrong he had done her. One night, after celebrating with Mason at a gay cafe, Claire returns home to find her baby at the point of death. At last her mother love is awakened, and she prays earnestly for her child's recovery. Her prayers are answered, and over the baby's bed husband and wife are happily reunited.

The awakened love for husband and baby causes Claire to realize the baseness of the game she is playing with Mason. She tells him she was

CONDENSER
BREAKAGE STOPPED
by using the P'rededy Mount;
fits any lamp in a moment.
Very simple and rugged. Pays for itself in a week. Lasts forever. Get circular. Positively stops breaking. Price $4.50.
Used everywhere. Condenser expenses ended or money back.
W. G. PREDDEY
669 Haight Street
San Francisco, Cal.

STATE RIGHTS
Bought—Sold—Released
California and Arizona
ROBERT A. BRACKETT
Knickerbocker Bldg. LOS ANGELES

Willis & Inglis
Wright and Callender Building
LOS ANGELES, CAL.

AFFILIATIONS

Roehm & Richards, Strand Bldg., New York
Edward A. Wheeler, Schiller Bldg., Chicago
Lyal Willis, London, England

MANAGEMENT
ENGAGEMENTS
FINANCING
BOOKS AND PLAYS
STUDIO LIGHTING
PUBLICITY

Save Your Carbons

Burn them this short

It is possible for every Exhibitor to cut his Carbon Costs 1/3. Save the short ends and buy a pair of Hommel's and use up these short ends. FOR ONE WEEK.

Carbon Savers

PRICE, per pair $1.50

Postage Paid to Anywhere

EVERYTHING-FOR-YOUR-PLAYHOUSE
HOMMEL'S
947 PENN. AVE.
PITTSBURGH, PA.

done with the old life. Declaring that he will not live without her, Mason threatens if she refuses to go with him he will kill her and himself. Just as he prepares to put his threat into execution, the door is burst open and Harold stays the madman's hands. Enraged at being overpowered, Mason tells Harold that Claire belonged to him before she married. Harold springs upon him. Claire tries in vain to hold Harold back. Finally throwing herself upon him, she cries "It is true—it is true." Harold releases his hold, his head bowed in shame, but after listening to his wife's story of a wrecked girlhood he clasps her to his heart in tender forgiveness. Driven out by his wife, Mason

BLUEBIRD PHOTOPLAYS, INC.

THE GIFT GIRL (5 Parts, March 26).—The cast: Rokaia (Louise Lovely); Marcel (Emory Johnson); Malec (Rupert Julian); Marquis De Tonquin (Wadsworth Harris); Dr. D'Eglantine (Frederick Montague); Usun Hassan (Winter Hall); Major Abercrombie (Rex Roselli). Scenario by E. J. Clawson. Directed by Rupert Julian.

While Major Abercrombie and wife were hurrying through a Persian forest, in order that Mrs. Abercrombie might reach an English settlement to bear her child, a tent was hurriedly pitched, and there a little girl was born. The mother surrendered her life and Major Abercrombie went mad with grief. He ran into the forest and was killed by lions.

Usun Hassan, while passing with his huntsmen, discovered the tent and sent Malec, his secretary, to investigate. Malec found the dead body of Mrs. Abercrombie and heard the faint cry of her baby. The body of the woman was buried and the babe was carried to Hassan's harem. There she grew to become a beautiful girl, with Malec acting as her tutor. They called her Rokaia.

Hassan having decided she should marry a merchant whom she loathed, Rokaia readily listened to Malec's proposal that she go with him to France. Having provided her with clothes, money and tickets, Malec was detected while helping the girl escape. Malec hid himself away to save his head, while Rokaia proceeded to France.

Arriving at Marseilles the girl was robbed of her purse, thus becoming easy prey for a young gallant who made her acquaintance and started to take her to his apartments. Rokaia was struck by an automobile and her admirer found safety in flight.

The motor was owned by Marquis De Tonquin, who helped Rokaia into the tonneau and drove her to his home. There she was found to be little hurt. The Marquis about this time received a letter from the Parisian college where his son, Marcel, was being educated, stating that the boy was incorrigible. Believing that there must be a "woman in the case," the Marquis prevailed upon Rokaia to go to Paris as his son's companion.

Marcel did not look upon the girl as his father would have him, but secured separate lodgings for her, where he lived, and treated her with utmost respect. The day Rokaia arrived in Paris she halted before a Persian bird-vendor and asked the directions to Marcel's lodgings.

It so happened that Malec had just arrived from Persia and lived at the Asiatic lodgings where the bird-vendor stopped. He heard the man's gossip about the girl who spoke in his own tongue and bought his birds. Malec believed he was on the trail of the girl he sought, and went to the address the bird-vendor gave him, and there found Rokaia. Through hypnotic influence he controlled the girl so far as to cause her to go away with him.

Marcel was informed by his fellow students, when he returned, after a brief absence from his lodgings, that Rokaia had just departed, and the note she left for him confirmed the story. When a drayman called for Rokaia's trunk, Marcel learned her address, and, leading a party of students, went to her rescue. The happy ending was attained when Marcel and Rokaia were married.

PARAMOUNT-BURTON HOLMES.—On the Great Glacier—March 12).—The great glacier of the Selkirks in the Canadian Switzerland is equivalent to thirty Switzerlands of the Overseas. In this picture you are accompanied by genuine Swiss guides up the face and into the crevasses of a giant glacier which has pushed its way across the shoulder of the Canadian Rockies.

The big question in film DEVELOPMENT and PRINTING is:
"Ability."

This covers quality of work, responsibility and promptness in observing an agreement.
On every point EVANS' SERVICE is paramount.

EVANS FILM MFG. CO., 416-24 West 216th St., N. Y. City.

Telephone
Audubon 6881-2

The Illecillewaet glacier and the Asulkan glacier are also shown with their peculiar and charming surroundings.

Many interesting moments are shown with Mr. Holmes and his guides on the famous ice peaks. The party finally turns westward past Kamloops lake and through the canyon of the Thompson river which is an excellent introduction to the travel route which is to follow when Mr. Holmes takes you through the Canadian Rockies and along the famous Fraser river.

PARAMOUNT-BRAY PICTOGRAPHS, No. 58 (March 12).

Safeguarding the City's Health.—The answer to the popular song, "How Do You Like Your Oysters?" would never be given as raw, raw, raw, were it not for the watchful eye of the Health Department of the city of New York where eight billion oysters are consumed yearly, and by far the greatest bulk of them right off the shell.

Farming for Feathers.—The United States is no longer dependent upon Australia for fine feathers. California is taking the place of the desert of Sahara or the burning sands of Arabia for the ostrich industry. This picture not only shows where the feathers for the ladies' hats come from but brings in an amusing incident in showing the proverbial ostrich's appetite. An ostrich will eat most anything that is not nailed to the ground, whether it be a ten-penny nail, a careless bullfrog or a chunk out of the sidewalk. In order to remove the feathers from the ostrich's tail it is necessary to slip a black cap over his head, then the bird is entirely manageable.

Reviving the Weaver's Craft.—One of New York's most interesting little shops is the studio of Lorenz Criser, where the weaver's craft has been revived. This tapestry designing will be of greatest interest to schools and women's clubs.

Quacky Doodles Food Crisis.—An amusing picture for the children. Shows how the food crisis affects Duckland and how father Doodles is turned out of doors because he doesn't provide the proper morsels for his starving family and how Danny Doodles finally finds a way which will have to be seen to be appreciated.

THE DUMMY—(Famous Players—Five parts—March 19).—The cast: Barney Cook (Jack Pickford); Babbings (Frank Losee); Mr. Meredith (Edwin Stanley); Mrs. Meredith (Helen Greene); Beryl Meredith (Ethelmary Oakland); Rosie Hart (Ruby Hoffman).

The Merediths, in reality much in love, have quarreled and agreed to separate but cannot agree as to the disposition of their little daughter Beryl. All this is opportune for the plans of Spider, a notorious kidnapper and his gang, who plot to steal Beryl while her nurse naps in the park with one of their pals. The scheme works out as they plan and the child is taken to a deserted gambling den. The father and mother, in desperation, each apply to Babbings, a celebrated detective, although each accuses the other of having kidnapped the child.

Babbings privately suspects Spider's gang, whom he knows to be in town, but intends to make sure, so he has Spider shadowed. His men discover that Spider is receiving telegrams in code. It is necessary to get this code, so Babbings and one of his trusted men go to the hotel where Spider is stopping.

Here they are at a loss until Barney, one time messenger boy, comes whistling into their office to apply for a position with "reglar detectives," and carries Babbings' bag to the hotel. Babbings has noticed the boy's shrewdness and asks him what he can do. Barney replies that he can "hold his tongue and talk deaf and dumb." This appears to please Babbings, who hires the boy at once and starts him to work by telling him to get the code book from Spider's room. The lad, disguised as a bell hop, accomplishes this and Babbings tells him the real plan, which is for Barney to masquerade as a wealthy deaf and dumb boy going to a sanatorium with an attendant. Spider will undoubtedly think this is a rich morsel for himself and will take Barney to the spot where he is hiding little Beryl, thinking to receive still another big ransom.

This happens as Babbings has foreseen and Barney finds himself in the deserted house with little Beryl and Spider's gang. He manages to phone his information to Babbings in means pleased patrons; pleased patrons means increased profits.

Better Projection

Are you always satisfied with the results you get on the screen? Does your light flicker? Any trouble keeping it focused? Do your dense films always come up clear and bright? How about the colored ones?

You've been using alternating current. Perhaps it's the only kind available in your town. Then change it over to direct current with a

Westinghouse-Cooper Hewitt Rectifier Outfit

Direct current doesn't flicker. It's easier to keep in focus because one of the carbons burns very slowly. These Rectifier Outfits give complete regulation of light for the dense and colored films. Operation is simple and noiseless, and your current will cost less than it does now.

Want to know more about them? Ask us for folder 4205-B.

Westinghouse Electric & Mfg. Co.
East Pittsburgh, Pa.

the night and the latter comes to the house disguised as a member of the gang. He gives the password and all would have been well had not Mrs. Meredith, summoned by the gang for the purpose of wringing money from her, entered and exclaimed his name, warning the crooks.

They succeeded in making a get-away, but take Beryl and Barney with them. Barney is nearly discovered in his efforts to speak to Babbings but manages to disarm their suspicions and later signals to a small town sheriff whom he sees reading the notice of the thousand dollar reward offered by the Merediths.

The sheriff, however, objects to sharing the reward with Barney and locks him and Beryl in a room while he goes to town to get it. Barney escapes, however, and an automobile race to town follows in which Barney is the victor by a few seconds.

THE SPIRIT OF ROMANCE—(Pallas—Five parts—March 22). The cast: Vivian Martin, Herbert Standing, Colin Chase, Elinor Hancock, George Fisher, Percy Challenger, Daisy Robinson, Beatrice Burnham, Dr. H. F. Crane, John Burton.

Abby Lou is the niece of the crabbled old antique dealer, Richard Cobb. Old Richard Cobb has a son who possesses all the qualities that his father seemingly was born without. This son, Tom Cobb, loves Abby Lou and is working on his great invention a kettle that will not boil over. Finances are the only drawback to its successful achievement. Tom approaches wealthy old Joseph Snow for assistance but is turned down. Snow, though a hard man in money matters, in private life is also an unsuspected follower of Romance. In his home he has a secret chamber from which through the eyes of his portrait he can observe what goes on in his absence.

Snow sees Abby in the antique shop and his charity offering of money to the ragged little girl is scorned. It amazes him—for the first time in his life his money is refused. It puzzles him and that night he decides on an eccentric test. The next day Abby Lou is notified that she is the heiress to deceased Snow's wealth. The lawyer takes her away to the mansion and she is surrounded by the parasitical Mrs. Rollins and her son Percival, relatives of Snow. Percival is in love with Marguerite D'Arcy but is as poor as a church mouse.

Snow from his point of observation through the eyes of his picture watches Abby set up Percival in business, secretly finance Tom's invention to success, reinstate his old and faithful employee Mace, and seemingly make everyone happy—with his money.

A new understanding of Life and its meaning comes to Snow and the night of the mask ball Snow steps through the secret panel in costume, masked and apparently a guest. Then the denouement happens in a marvelously happy way and the Spirit of Romance, her mission finished, disappears forever.

ROUGH AND READY REGGIE (Klever Comedy—March 26).—Reggie Travers is a wealthy mollycoddle. Despite his manner, Reggie is in love with Vera Goode, who is athletic and revels in out-door sports. Reggie conceals his love and is tortured by jealousy at Vera's apparent regard for "Boots" Martin, an athlete. Reggie despises "Boots," who nicknames him "Sweet Evening Breezes."

"Boots" and a couple of others are rivals for the hand of Vera. To settle this matter, Vera tells him that she will marry the man who defeats the others in a boxing contest of three rounds. Reggie in despair realizes that he hasn't a chance in the boxing stunt and drowns his sorrows in ice cream sodas. At a bazaar given for the benefit of the Red Cross Society, an incident happens which changes the whole course of Reggie's life. At one of the booths in the bazaar is a collection of western and Indian curios for sale. Reggie, Vera, "Boots" and others are interested in the articles. The man selling the curios hands "Boots" a large bloodstained Bowie knife and explains that it belonged to a western sheriff. Reggie shudders at the sight of blood. "Boots" snatches the knife from Reggie's hand and in so doing the knife makes a cut in Reggie's wrist. He faints. Vera binds up the wound with her handkerchief. "Boots" buys the knife and finds that the blood stains have disappeared.

That night Reggie, in a suit of pale pink

New Improvements of The Motion Picture Camera

Send postal. Know how Universal Motion Picture Camera gives greater Permanence, Speed, Accuracy, Light Weight, Results. A dozen great advantages. Address Burke & James, Inc., 240 E. Ontario St., Chicago. Sole Wholesale Agents.

Write for Announcement

MAKE YOUR OWN CURRENT WITH A Brush Electric Lighting Set

Send for 125-page catalogue with very complete information about electrical matters.

THE CHAS. A. STRELINGER CO.,
Box MP-2, Detroit, Mich., U. S. A.

pajamas, and wearing a boudoir cap, is lying in bed asleep with his bandaged wrist lying outside the coverlet. The spirit of "Black Hart" appears beside the bed, and, taking Reggie's wrist, tells the sleeping man that he has been inoculated with his blood from the knife blade and from now on he will be a red-blooded fighting man.

Reggie is transformed by the action of the desperado's wild blood in his veins. He determines to win Vera and even up with "Boots" in true western style. One night at the country club he throws his lariat over "Boots" and drags him behind his horse to a tree on the bank of a swamp, suspending "Boots" to a limb. He goes back and orders the girls to kiss him and orders the men to kiss each other, and finally, ordering all of them to stand on their heads, leaves.

The night of the boxing stunt, for Vera's hand, arrives, and she and her girl friends crowd the hall. "Boots" has knocked out all the men and is about to claim Vera when Reggie enters in a boxing costume half masked. The announcer tells the crowd that the unknown is a gentleman who will fight, masked, for Vera's hand, and at the finish of the bout will reveal his identity, win or lose.

Reggie takes off his bathrobe, and his costume is seen to be decorated with ribbons, even to the gloves. The fight starts and Reggie wallops "Boots" proper in the different rounds, between which his seconds perfume him and give him chocolates to eat. Reggie finally knocks "Boots" out and then bounds over the ropes to Vera, kisses her and then takes off the mask as he stands with one foot on the body of "Boots." Vera gets in the ring and throws her arms around Reggie and the spirit of "Black Hart" is seen waving his hat and cheering as the scene fades out.

FOX FILM CORPORATION.

A TALE OF TWO CITIES (Five Parts—March 12).—The cast: Charles Darnay and Sidney Carton (William Farnum); Lucie Manette (Jewel Carmen); Marquis St. Evremonde (Charles Clary); Jacques De Farge (Herschel Mayall); Madame De Farge (Rosita Marstini); Dr. Alexandre Manette (Josef Swickard); Roger Cly (Ralph Lewis); Gabelle (William Clifford); Mr. Jarvis Lorry (Marc Robbins); Miss Pross (Olive White); Mr. Stryver (Willard Louis); Gaspard (Harry De Vere). Directed by Frank Lloyd.

For years preceding the French Revolution, the people of France were the serfs of the aristocracy. Famine stalked throughout the land. Dr. Alexandre Manette, a physician, was separated from his wife and baby daughter, and taken to the Bastille, because he was in possession of a secret involving the Marquis Evremonde. For ten years he was kept in solitary confinement, until rescued by Jacques De Farge, a former servant.

De Farge communicated with Jarvis Lorry, of Tellson's International Bank, with headquarters in London. Lorry had taken care of the doctor's daughter, Lucie, after the death of the doctor's wife. Lorry, with Lucie, now started for Paris. The meeting of the daughter with her father was one of pathos. Preparations are made to remove the old man to England. On board the ship they met Charles Darnay, son of Marquis Evremonde, who had renounced his titles, and was on his way to England to earn his living as a teacher of the French language.

Darnay, in England, betrayed as a spy, is tried in Old Bailey. Lucie and her father were summoned as witnesses. During the progress of the trial, Sidney Carton, a barrister, and a clerk working for Mr. Stryver, who was defending Darnay, saved the prisoner's life through the former's remarkable resemblance to the accused. Thereafter, a friendship between Lucie, Carton and Darnay was formed, and the two men, alike as twins, became frequent visitors to the young lady's home.

Darnay later asked her hand, and was accepted. Carton, who secretly worshipped the girl, continued to revere Lucie. After the wedding Carton begged the right to still visit as before. Lucie overcame the opposition of her husband, and granted Carton's request.

In France, meanwhile, the populace revolted. Members of the nobility were imprisoned and beheaded. Mr. Lorry was sent to Paris to look after the interests of Tellson's Bank. He was followed by Darnay, who had been apprised by letter of the arrest of the Evremonde caretaker, who begged the young man's assistance. Dar-

STAR CARBONS MADE IN FRANCE

The carbons you have been looking for

THE following letter
was recently received from a theatre using
Star Carbons:—

"After trying out sample carbons which you gave me, I find that they gave me very good satisfaction, both as to light and cleanliness. Kindly enter my order for 100 5/8 cored."

The following dealers stock
Star Carbons and you can obtain from them the carbons you have been looking for. Try them with a trial order.

S. B. LELAND,
97 State St., Montpelier, Vt.
M. P. MACHINE CO.,
129 Pleasant St., Boston, Mass.
STERN MFG. CO.,
1023 Race St., Philadelphia, Pa.
PALMORE & HOMAND,
412 E. Lexington St., Baltimore, Md.
A. N. FELDSTEIN,
294 Theodore St., Detroit, Mich.
THE H. LIEBER CO.,
24 W. Washington St., Indianapolis, Ind.
KANSAS CITY MACHINE & SUPPLY CO.,
813 Walnut St., Kansas City, Mo.
SWANSON & NOLAN SUPPLY CO.,
1744 Curtis St., Denver, Colo.
WARING & FINCK,
1014 Third Ave., Seattle, Wash.
BRECK PHOTOPLAY SUPPLY CO.,
70 Turk St., San Francisco, Cal.
EASTERN NEW MEXICO THEATRE
SUPPLY CO.,
Clovis, New Mexico.
QUEEN FEATURE SERVICE,
Potter Bldg., Birmingham, Alabama.

If you cannot obtain sizes you desire from these dealers, send us your order direct, and we will ship you trial order in lots of not less than fifty to a size, by express, C.O.D. All prices f.o.b. New York.

1"x12 plain cored.....Prices on application
¾"x12 plain cored.....Prices on application
¾"x12 plain cored.....$11.00 per 100
¾"x12 plain cored.....$8.40 per 100

JONES & CAMMACK
SOLE IMPORTERS
Cor. Bridge and Whitehall Sts.
New York City

nay left a letter telling his wife of his purpose, and promising a quick return.

On his arrival in France Darnay was placed under arrest by the Republican Guards, and taken to La Force prison in Paris, and there Lucie learns through Mr. Lorry that her husband is in prison and in danger of being guillotined. Through De Farge, who had become one of the Revolutionary leaders, Dr. Manette became a hero. Darnay is tried, and through Dr. Manette's zeal is acquitted and returns to a happy family. But their joy is short-lived, as Darnay is soon rearrested.

Sidney Carton, learning of Lucie's trip to Paris, followed. He hears of Darnay's plight. In trying to help Lucie, he runs across an English spy, Barsard, who had been instrumental in having Darnay arrested in England. Barsard was one of the Revolutionists and an official at La Force prison. Under threats of exposure Carton unfolds a plan, and elicits a promise of aid. This plan Carton confides to Mr. Lorry the day before Darnay is to be retried. The Tribunal declared Charles Darnay guilty, and sentenced him to death. The wife is carried out of the courtroom by Carton.

The morning set for Darnay's execution Carton gained admission to Darnay's cell, through the connivance of Barsard. He prevails upon the prisoner to change clothes with him. Carton overpowers Darnay, chloroforms the prisoner, and has him removed to a waiting coach, while Carton remains a prisoner in the cell.

A coach containing Lucie, her daughter and Doctor Manette awaited the arrival of Darnay. The fugitives were safely on their way to England. Carton answered to the name of Darnay, and was driven to the guillotine, and made the supreme sacrifice for the woman he loved.

HEARTS AND SADDLES—Two parts—Fox-film—March 12).—The cast: A Sagebrush lover (Tom Mix); his rival (Sid Jordan); the girl (Victoria Forde); her father (Pat Chrisman); express agent (Victor Potel).

Out in the land where the cactus flourishes there dwelt a sweet young girl whose father owned a ranch. Two of father's cowboys fell in love with her.

One of them bought her a box of flowers and the other substituted a pair of corsets for the bouquet, so that when the presentation was made, the presenter was forthwith out of the running. The fight that followed resulted in the discharge of the rivals.

One got a job as bartender and bouncer in a saloon. He was unsuccessful as a bartender for his first ambition seemed to be to decorate the bar and those who had been admitted thereto with a fresco of "Tom and Jerry." Then a keg of beer got beyond his control and nearly drowned fourteen regular saloon attendants. So he was discharged. He entered a stage driving contest in which his competitor was his rival for the hand of the ranch owner's daughter. At the same time the two leading burglars of the town stole $10,000 from the express office and secreted themselves in his stage coach.

The race started, the Sagebrush lover inadvertently driving off with his sweetheart's father tied by the feet to the rear axle. This piece of villainy was pulled by the narrow-gauge express agent. After both coaches had been wrecked, the Sagebrush lover was declared the winner. The bandits were captured and the express agent was foiled.

HIGH FINANCE (Five Parts—March 26).—"High Finance" has to do with the adventures of Preston Platt and Patricia West. Platt is a rich young blood whose allowance is cut off by his millionaire father. Preston becomes a valet in an effort to earn his own living. He is employed by Ethelbert Vanderpool, whose mother hires Patricia West as a secretary.

Patricia is endeavoring to show her wealthy uncle of what mettle she is made. When Mrs. Vanderpool travels westward to do some archaeological researching in a deserted mine, she takes Ethelbert and her two newly employed servants with her.

Preston salts the deserted mine, and has Pringle disguise himself as a mining expert and call upon both T. Morgan Jenks, Miss West's uncle, and Jonathan Platt, Preston's father. Both men hasten west, each hoping to outdo the other and get possession of the mine.

Pringle gets $100,000 from old Platt. From Jenks, he takes the niece, with whom, of course, he has long since fallen in love.

MENGER & RING, Inc.
MANUFACTURERS OF
Poster and Lobby
Display Frames

304-6 W. 42d St., NEW YORK
Phone: Bryant 6621-22

Operators:

Do you know exhibitors who have STANDARD motion picture machines? It does not matter what model they possess or whether the STANDARDS are in use or discarded. Send the names of STANDARD owners to address below and you will receive in return a useful souvenir.

AMERICAN STANDARD M. P. CO.
110 West 40th Street, New York

THE

SIMPLEX

Durability of Construction
Lowest Cost of Upkeep
Flickerless
Steadiness of Operation

Send for Catalog "A"

The Precision Machine Co., Inc.

317 East 34th Street, New York

$239 and up.

Gives best light at lowest cost.
Ask for Free Bulletin No. 1.
Gasoline Engine Generators save two-thirds on cost of power. Free Bulletin No. 2.

DON'T EXPERIMENT!!!
GET BUSY AND PUT IN THE HALLBERG
20th CENTURY Motor-Generator

WHICH IS THE RESULT OF MORE THAN

10 YEARS OF EXPERIENCE

In Designing, Constructing and Operating Electric Economizers and Motor-Generators for M. P. Machines—It Is the Last Word in Perfect ProjectionLight—Is Recommended by All Users!

BROADWAY THEATRE.

Hopewell, Va., May 20th, 1916.

J. H. HALLBERG, New York City.

Dear Sir:

I have had your HALLBERG 20TH CENTURY MOTOR GENERATOR installed and it is better than I expected; everybody who has been in my theatre has remarked about it. One of the head men of the Du Pont Company's Electric Power Plant, here, said it was the best machine he had ever seen. I would not sell it for twice what I paid for it.

Yours very truly,

BROADWAY THEATRE.

(Signed) W. F. Harris.

DON'T DELAY! WRITE ABOUT IT NOW!

I am distributor of all makes of moving picture machines and furnish everything complete for the theatre and studio, new and used apparatus. Complete stock of "SPEER" and other carbons.

Send for Free Circulars and Catalogues, but for Hallberg's Big 100-page Catalogue send 25 cents.

Keep your moving picture machine in first class condition. Let me overhaul your mechanisms once a year. Repair parts on rush or telegraph order shipped at once.

Send for prices on miniature Portable and Advertising Projectors.

Send $2.50 for latest Operator's Book, "MOTION PICTURE ELECTRICITY"

Send $4.00 for Richardson's M. P. Handbook

Send $1.50 for Hallberg's Carbon Saver

J. H. HALLBERG, The House of Quality Established 1904 7th Avenue at 49th St., NEW YORK

Member National Association of the Motion Picture Industry, Inc.

TRIANGLE FILM CORP.

DODGING HIS DOOM (Mack-Sennett Key-stone—Two Parts—March 11).—The cast includes: Chester Conklin, Dora Rodgers, Dale Fuller, Guy Woodward.

Conklin and Dora, his wife, own a millinery store. Guy Woodward makes love to Dora and Chester threatens him. Later Woodward places clothes along the river bank to give the impression that he is dead—first having shown a threatening note from Conklin to the chief of police.

In the meantime Conklin's twin brother arrives and while arguing about the settlement of his estate, Conklin is arrested, tried for murder, found guilty and placed in jail.

Later Woodward returns, finds Conklin's twin brother and Dora running the store. He becomes a partner and makes love to Dora.

Conklin escapes from jail and the guards arrest his brother and put him in. Conklin returns to the store, sees Woodward making love to Dora, and a shooting occurs.

Conklin's twin back in jail is about to be hanged. Conklin's wife rushes to the rescue and after a chase between Conklin and Woodward the latter loses his disguise and both Conklin and his twin are cleared—just in the nick of time.

A WOMAN'S AWAKENING—(Fine Arts—Five parts—March 25).—The cast: Paula Letchworth (Seena Owen); Paula's mother (Kate Bruce); Allen Cotter (A. D. Sears); Judge Cotter, his father (Spottiswoode Aitken); Lawrence Topham (Charles Gerrard); Cousin Kate (Alma Reuben); Mammy (Jennie Lee).

Paula Letchworth, a girl of 18 or 20, has grown up in an atmosphere where no hint of a new womanhood has ever entered. The men are of the chivalrous, protecting kind; the women, wonderful beings to be cherished, loved and protected. The only shadow in Paula's life is that her mother is an invalid.

The trustee of the estate is Allen Cotter, a rising young lawyer. Allen has come to love Paula. She is not wholly indifferent to him. She meets Lawrence Topham, a crafty society man, who with facile talk of the new world of woman's equality with man, charms her. Blinded by the glitter of the new life, Paula weds him.

Once married, Lawrence gains control of the estate and begins to tread the primrose path. At home Lawrence taunts Paula about Allen and flies into an apparently jealous rage, accusing her of being false to him in order to blind her to his own ways of life. So bitter become their quarrels that Paula half confesses to Allen.

A short time later a crisis comes, as Lawrence has hypothecated all the remaining stock and bonds of the estate, and placed the money in one big gamble in Wall Street. A pinca comes and he cannot recover himself. In a drunken frenzy he tells Paula that everything is gone. She tells her husband that she will go to Allen.

During the night an idea comes to Lawrence—perhaps Paula can get money from Allen sufficient to cover the margins on his gamble. He goes to her, and though she listens disdainfully, she tells him, "Don't worry, I will get the money from Allen for you." Allen, who has come in response to Paula's appeal, enters just in time to hear this, and supposes that Paula has betrayed him in the interests of Lawrence. He asks how much they want, and after writing a check leaves the apartment.

That evening, sure of a great fortune, Lawrence determines to desert Paula. He writes a note to her. As he writes, a shot is fired and Lawrence slips from his chair dead. Allen arrives as the shot is fired. Paula rushes in just as Allen enters, and seeing a pistol near the door of the library, where it has fallen from the hand of the assassin, each thinks that the other has done the deed.

In another room, as others rush into the library, Allen and Paula stand by the wheel chair of the mother. He tells Paula that he will always love and care for her. She is horrified that this slayer of her husband, as she supposes, should talk of marrying her. He notices her reluctance and says, "I know you were driven to it, but no one shall ever know." By a superhuman effort the mother makes them understand that it was she who did it.

Allen says, "No, it was suicide." And as suicide it is entered upon the police blotter.

Non-Break-
able and Sanitary STEEL

LOW Price and
CAST IRON

Opera Chairs

immediate shipment on many styles; Second Hand Chairs; out-of-door seating. Send measurements for FREE SEATING PLAN. Mention this paper.

STEEL FURNITURE CO.

Grand Rapids, Mich.; New York, 150 Fifth Ave.

ADJUSTABLE OPERA CHAIR

Can be changed from adult's chair to child's chair by pressing catch and raising. Write for booklet.

Family Opera Chair St. Louis, Mo.

PATENTS

Manufacturers want me to send them patents on useful inventions. Send me at once drawing and description of your invention and I will give you an honest report as to securing a patent and whether I can assist you in selling the patent. Highest references. Established 25 years. Personal attention in all cases. WM. N. MOORE, Loan and Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

Get acquainted with the
ERBOGRAPH WAY
of Developing and Printing
ERBOGRAPH COMPANY
203-11 West 146th St., New York City

Are You Tired

of playing waltzes and popular songs for all your pictures? Try "bringing out" the dramatic scenes with dramatic music. The

Orpheum Collection

contains the best music of this kind published. Issued in Three Series:

No. 1, No. 2 and No. 3

Piano (24 pages each), 58 cts. for each series; $1.15 for any two; $1.70 for all three. Violin, 40 cts. each; 75 cts. for any two; $1.05 for all three. Cornet, 35 cts. each; 65 cts. any two; 95 cts. all three. First and second series have parts for Cello, Flute, Clarinet, Trombone and Drums. Practical for Piano alone, or in combination with any above instruments. Discounts on orders for four or more parts. Send for free sample pages. Note new address.

CLARENCE E. SINN

1163 Grace Street

Chicago, Ill.

And now comes womanhood's real awakening. Paula no longer yearns for a new freedom. Her thoughts turn longingly to the old homestead, where the daughters of the Letchworths have ever been the objects of the tender care of true men. She goes to Allen's arms.

THE SQUARE DEAL MAN.—Ince-Kay Bee—Five parts—March 25).—The cast: Jack O'Diamonds (William S. Hart); Virginia Ransome (Mary MacIvor); Two Spot (Joseph J. Dowling); Blossom (Mary Jane Irving); Colonel Ransome (J. Frank Burke); Pedro (Darrell Foss); Anastacio (Thomas Kurthara); Preaching Dan (Milton Ross); Broadway Hammersley (Charles O. Rush).

Jack O'Diamonds and his partner, Two Spot Hargis, are known as square sports in the desert town of Oxide. Jack gives liberally to all charities, and is surprised when one day a pioneer missionary refuses to take his money as he considers it ill-gotten. About this time Col. Ransome enters Jack's gambling place. The colonel, a big ranch owner, intoxicated and loaded down with money received in a cattle deal, insists on a game for the highest stakes. Jack consents, wins the colonel's money and also a deed to the ranch. In the fight that follows Colonel Ransome is shot by one of his own foremen, Anastacio, who has previously planned to rob his master and hates to see the money get away from him. The onlookers think that Jack killed the colonel, but as there is a general shooting no fuss is made about the matter.

Jack becomes disgusted with his present mode of life and quits the gambling game. He takes up the ranch that has been deeded to him by the dead colonel. When Jack and his partner, Two Spot, arrive at the ranch they discover that the colonel has left an only daughter, Virginia Ransome, who is being educated in New York. Jack determines to put the ranch in order and hand it over to the rightful heiress. When things are in shape he writes to Virginia to come West.

When Virginia arrives she treats Jack as a hired servant. He still keeps on with the work around the ranch, but is hampered by Virginia's attitude, as this encourages Anastacio and the hands to almost open mutiny. After plotting to dethrone Jack and secure both the ranch and Virginia for himself, Anastacio tells Virginia that Jack Diamond is the murderer of her father. Virginia dismisses Jack and makes Anastacio her foreman. Jack and Two Spot leave the ranch, but determine not to leave "the little lady" to the mercy of Anastacio.

Jack dispatches Two Spot to the nearest fort for the rangers and returns in time to rescue Virginia from Anastacio and the rangers arrive in time to clear up the ranch. One of Anastacio's associates tells Virginia that her father was shot by Anastacio and not by Jack. Virginia apologizes to Jack for her past unkindnesses and offers to turn over the ranch to him as rightful owner. Jack will only entertain a proposition that involves a half ownership, and eventually wins Virginia as his wife.

THE DARK ROAD (Ince-Kay Bee—Five Parts—April 2).—The cast: Cleo Murison (Dorothy Dalton); Carlos Costa (Robert McKim); Capt. James Murison (Jack Livingston); Cedric Constable (Jack Gilbert); Sir John Constable (Walt Whitman); Lady Mary Constable (Lydia Knott).

Jim Murison, an English army officer, and a man of ancient lineage, marries Cleo, a woman of doubtful parentage. Cleo is a woman of startling beauty and strange fascination, utterly unscrupulous, devoid of conscience, and uses her charms recklessly to secure luxuries that her husband, a poor man, cannot provide. Murison is infatuated with his wife, believing her to be all that is beautiful, pure and noble.

The European war breaks on the world like a thunderbolt from a clear sky, and Jim is ordered to the front with his regiment. Before leaving he places his wife in the custody of his kinsfolk, Sir John and Lady Constable, who live in an old family manor house, and are the great people in their own county. They live quiet lives, saddened by the memory of two sons who have given their lives for their country in earlier wars. One son is left to them, Cedric, their youngest, and Lady Mary is loath to let him enter the army.

Jim leaves his wife amid these placid surroundings, and joins his regiment in France. Cleo, quickly tiring of the quiet country life, for sheer devilry makes a play for Cedric, who is

PORTER EQUIPS BIG THEATRE FOR CRISIS

PORTER installs Two TYPE S SIMPLEX PROJECTORS and Special Accessories at the PARK THEATRE, Broadway, for the Premiere Presentation of Selig's Big Photo-Spectacle, "The Crisis." Porter leads all for Big Installations—"The Birth of a Nation," "Intolerance," "The Fall of a Nation," "Civilization," and "The Crisis."

B. F. PORTER,

- - 1482 BROADWAY, AT TIMES SQUARE,

- - NEW YORK

an unsophisticated youth and quickly falls for her lures. The call of king and country sounding through the land, however, proves irresistible, and Cedric, tearing himself from the embraces of his charmer, enlists in the army. Before leaving, Cleo gives him a note of passionate declaration that he, only, has her love, and then forgets all about him and her passing diversion. She, at the same time, sends an identical note to her husband, now in the trenches.

Shortly after Cedric's departure, the manor house is visited by a great art connoisseur, who wishes to see the far-famed contents of the Constable gallery. This man, Carlos Costa, occupies a commanding place in the art world. His judgment on pictures is infallible, and a certain mystery about the man adds piquancy to his criticisms. Posing as a Spaniard, and moving in the highest social circles, by means of forged credentials, he is really the illegitimate son of a great Teuton prince and a Moorish woman, and he is also one of the most powerful agents in the German secret service.

On his visit to the Constables', Cleo, who is bored to extinction, uses all her arts to entrap Costa. This time, however, she is dealing with no callow youth, but with a dominant personality, who soon makes the enchantress his fascinated slave. Costa and Cleo leave the country house at different dates and on divers excuses, and meet in London, where Costa establishes his mistress in a luxurious apartment, and Cleo, madly in love, throws discretion to the winds, and braves the opinion of the world. A letter from her husband in France gives, under secrecy, the movements of the British troops, and is taken from her by Costa and forwarded by him to the German authorities. During the fighting in France, Murison meets his cousin, Cedric. Cedric is killed by a chance bullet, and Jim, in going over his effects, finds Cleo's letter, and, for the first time, becomes aware of her intrigues.

At this time a surprise attack is made on the outpost commanded by Jim, and, when the German troops are repulsed, a note is found on a captured Prussian colonel. It is Jim's letter to his wife, giving her the information of the intended movement of the British troops. Summoned by his colonel to explain the matter, Jim is given an opportunity to go to London and track down Costa, whose name has been revealed in the transaction. Jim hurries to London, and, with the aid of detectives, breaks into Costa's apartment, to find his wife in the spy's arms. Costa is led away to face a firing squad, in the Tower, and Jim faces his wife alone. A long struggle ends in the death of Cleo, but Jim, disillusioned and weary of life, throws himself from the window of the room, his mangled corpse being the third and last tribute to a soulless siren.

EDUCATIONAL FILM CORP.

THE LIVING BOOK OF NATURE—(Foreign Deer—Feb. 26).—Few except the naturalist understand that the deer family is made up of a large number of species ranging in size from small and extremely delicate creatures to big and dangerous animals. This picture relates to deer that live in South America, Europe and Asia. It is surprising to note the variety of forms in antlers among the large and small kinds of deer. Only the males are provided with branching bead weapons, and the use of the antlers in fighting is illustrated by a furious series of attacks on the part of a majestic stag.

THE LIVING BOOK OF NATURE—(The Beaver Prepares for Winter—March 5).—A story of animal intelligence. The portrayal commences during the heat of midsummer, but the animal workers are steadily making plans for the time when the woods and streams will be ice-bound during the winter's cold and food can no longer be obtained without fighting a way through the snow. The beaver attains a weight of about forty pounds and has chisel-like teeth. Its food consists of bark. It lives in houses built of masses of sticks, placed in mid-stream. The entrance of the house is hidden below the water level, and to keep this entrance submerged the members of the colony dam the stream below the house, thus regulating the height of the water.

The scenes show the animals cutting down small trees to store branches near the house as winter food. Close views of these wilderness "engineers" show the form of the animal that furnishes the fur so much in vogue of late. The beavers are seen towing six-foot saplings and attaching them to the food levee, diving

FAC-SIMILE PAINTING

In a beautiful gilt 3-inch width frame—size over all 25x22 inches. Pictures are painted in oils and water colors of every popular player, all made from poses to appropriately fit this style of frame. Complete with brass name plate$5.00 each

New
Colored
Catalogue
Now
Ready

New Colored
Catalogue
Now
Ready

LARGE HAND COLORED PICTURES

Size 22x28 inches. Every prominent player 75c. each

FAC-SIMILE OIL PAINTINGS, all sizes, from $2.50 to $35 framed. Quotations submitted on any size, framed or unframed.

THE SEMI-PHOTO POST CARDS, $3.00 per thousand, of over 600 players. Made by a process that has the appearance of a real photograph. The indispensable article for your mailing list.

PHOTOGRAPHS, size 8x10, of all the prominent players, 600 different names, 20c. each.

LARGE PICTURES, HAND COLORED, size 11x14, all the prominent players, 20c.; in aluminum frames, 50c. each.

GRAVURE FOLDER, containing pictures of the prominent players, including stars from the stage, $10 per thousand.

SINGLE COLUMN CUTS of every prominent player, 50c. each.

KRAUS MFG. CO.

220 West 42nd Street, NEW YORK
12th Floor, Candler Building

Send for Catalogue of over 600 players and samples, free. Write us, giving details of your dull nights, and we will send you a remedy.

HIGHEST GRADE

Developing and Printing

FILM TITLES

We guarantee all work, give prompt delivery, at lowest prices. Can furnish Expert Camera Man on short notice.
STANDARD MOTION PICTURE COMPANY
R. 1620, 5 S. Wabash Ave. Chicago
Phone: Randolph 6693

In Answering Advertisements, Please Mention
the MOVING PICTURE WORLD.

with branches that these may be later reached beneath the ice and carrying more portable food into the house. The foliage changes as the work progresses and autumn comes on, and the final scene portrays the silent winter woods with the beavers' house buried under a foot of snow.

THE LIVING BOOK OF NATURE—(Jungle Vaudeville—March 11).—The scenes are arranged as if the animals were giving a jungle entertainment and the aggregation of performers appears from all parts of the world. There are leaping and diving contests, acrobatic exhibitions and drolleries among the animals assembled to look on.

GREATER VITAGRAPH.

THE SECRET KINGDOM ("The Portrait of a King").—Fourteenth Episode—Two Parts—April 2).—Phillip and Juan reach Paris, where they read in Le Temps of the situation in Albania and receive a message from Paul Barreto, who has escaped from prison, recommending an immediate visit to Albania by Phillip, for Simon's rule is oppressive to the people and Phillip, the lost Prince of Albania, as he is now referred to, would be wildly and gladly hailed as the rightful king. So they start for Albania at once.

Count Ramon and Savatz arrive in Albania with Princess Julia in their custody. Princess Julia accuses her father of assassinating Phillip's parents, but he feigns sudden heart failure and in her distraction she forgets the matter for the moment. Count Ramon, with a plan in mind, wants to get hold of the papers proving Phillip's claim which Madame Savatz holds. But she is suspicious of her lover's anxiety and withholds them.

Ramon is received by Simond, who demands the proofs. Ramon tells him he cannot have them until he agrees to force Princess Julia to marry him (Count Ramon). Simond is enraged at this, but when Ramon threatens to make public the proofs of Phillip's right to the throne, he is forced to give in.

While Ramon has made Simond think he has the proofs in his possession, Madame Savatz has, in reality, possession of them. To her Ramon goes and tries to induce her to give him the proofs. "You can have them the day you marry me," she spits at him venomously.

Simond, in the palace, finds Julia gazing at a large portrait of King Phillip II, Phillip's father, which hangs in the great hallway. She notes the resemblance and again accuses her father, who evades the matter by telling her that reasons of state dictate her immediate marriage to Count Ramon. Horrified, she refuses. Just then the large picture falls and Simond, seeing in this a "hostly manifestation," is moved to confess his crime to his daughter.

Ramon meanwhile has laughed to scorn Savatz's proposal that he marry her, and he attacks her in an effort to get the papers. But she has craftily hidden them. Surprising him as he searches, she disarms him and forces him to retire from the palace in discomfiture.

CHRISTIE FILM CORP.

SAUCE FOR THE GOOSE (March 19).—The cast: Mrs. Newlywed (Betty Compson); Mr. Newlywed (Neal Burus); Swami Bumba (Eddie Barry); Kitty Isis (Ethel Lynne). Scenario by Epes Winthrop Sargent. Directed by Al. Christie.

Neal and Betty, young and happy though married, have no clouds on their horizon until the Swami Bumba appears and Betty embraces his strange religion—the mysteries of the sacred word "O-o-o-m." Neal's house is the meeting place for all the "cutters" and the Swami drinks up all his liquor. Then Betty begins feeding Neal exclusively on rice, as the Swami recommends. Neal rebels, but it does no good.

Neal has an idea and offers Betty an agreement providing "complete liberty of religious observance" for both parties, which Betty gladly signs. Then Neal goes to an agency, gets a bunch of chorus girls in Egyptian costume, takes them home and installs there the worship of Isis. The noise of the kettle-drums interrupts the ceremony of Bumba, and Betty rushes into the living room to find Isis being honored by tinkling cymbals and sinuous dances. She is horrified and indignant, but Neal recalls the agreement.

Bumba, seeing the jig is up, decamps with the silver, but a policeman brings him back and one of the Isis priestesses recognizes him.

You Need Our Service and We Need Your Business To Maintain That Service To You

Our stock of picture theatre merchandise is unexcelled in volume and variety; our prices are right and your orders receive immediate attention.

E. E. FULTON CO., 152 W. Lake St., Chicago
DEPARTMENT STORE OF THE MOVING PICTURE TRADE

TransVerter

Automatically supplies only such voltage as arc requires. No waste of current in ballast.

HERTNER ELECTRIC & MFG. CO.
431 Prospect Ave., Cleveland, Ohio, U. S. A.

as a former husband, who owes her back all money. Betty is disillusioned and when Neal proposes that Isis and Bumha be fired out together, Betty is more than willing and the agreement is torn up.

K-E-S-E.

SATAN'S PRIVATE DOOR (Essanay—Five Parts—March 19). The Cast: Edith Conway (Mary Charleson); Joseph Chatterton (Webster Campbell); Thomas Chatterton (John Cosar); Anne Vance (Mazel Daly); Richard Vance (U. K. Hout); Mrs. Ordway (Alice M. Chesney); June Rose (Virginia Vail). Directed by Charles Hayden.

The house of Thomas Chatterton is divided against itself. Joseph, the son, is an inebriate, and Anne, his sister, a social butterfly, neglectful of her babe and husband. The old man lives in solitude.

Edith Conway comes to visit the Chattertons and finds herself distinctly out of place. She is of a different type. Thomas Chatterton finds in Edith a long-wished-for companion. Joseph accuses the girl of designs on his father's wealth. The boy, in a delirium, attempts to stab his father, but Edith stops him. From then on the girl exercises a peculiar influence over the entire family. Slowly she spreads the gospel of love and kindness hitherto unknown there.

Anne is drawn back to her babe and husband on the eve of becoming entangled with a designing young society man. Joseph renounces his alcoholic yoke and weds Edith, and the house of Chatterton is no longer divided against itself.

MAX WANTS A DIVORCE (Essanay—Two Parts).—Max gets into trouble at the altar. He has just kissed his bride when he spies over her shoulder a pretty girl sitting in a front pew. Max cannot help giving her a wink. His bride sees him. What—she lands on him—right before the preacher and congregation.

They continue the battle in their honeymoon apartment. After all the furniture is broken up they decide to break up housekeeping—even before they have started. Mrs. Max feels that her flirtatious spouse shall compromise himself with the girl in the pew so she can get a divorce.

Max leases an apartment, invites the girl to meet him there, then tips off Mrs. Max to raid them with detectives. But Max and the girl mistake the apartment and get into a private sanitarium for lunatics. The professor chucks them into padded cell No. 89 with a dozen crazy people. Mrs. Max and her detectives make the same mistake. All of them come face to face in No. 89. The girl berates Max for getting her into such a mess. Max and his bride look at each other, then at the crazy people. They decide life might be worse and fall into each other's arms. Max doesn't want a divorce, after all.

METRO PICTURES.

THE GREAT SECRET (Chapter XII, "Caught in the Web"—Two Parts—March 26).—After The Spider has shot at Strong and missed, he flees. Strong and Beverly dart back to the house. A policeman who gave chase returns and reassures them, and they resume their way to the Charity Bazaar.

In a tea-room Dr. Zulp and Sara Loring are having refreshments and congratulating themselves on stealing the papers from Strong's desk. Detective Rodman Sears and his assistant, Cochran, are watching Zulp and his partner, and suspect that the papers are in the black bag on Zulp's table. Sears orders his assistant to turn out the lights and see what Zulp will do. The moment the lights are out Zulp grabs his bag and rushes into the street. But the keen eyes of Sears have seen him and he follows. He meets The Shadow, and together they trail Zulp. Wee See happens along, and they ask him to join them.

In the meantime, at the Charity Bazaar, Strong and Beverly are sightseeing and purchasing. They come face to face with Eunice Morton, Strong's former fiancée, who has charge of one of the booths. It proves an embarrassing moment, and Miss Morton turns aside with scorn.

Dr. Zulp, closely followed by Sears, The Shadow and Wee See, enters a deserted mansion in a secluded part of the city, which was a favorite haunt of his. The Shadow and Wee See look through a window and see him remove his disguise, and place the black bag on a table. With difficulty The Shadow climbs to the roof preparatory to going down the chimney and entering Zulp's room. Wee See enters a room adjoining Zulp's and seeks to distract his attention by imitating the cries of a cat. Cats have always been the pet aversion of Zulp, and immediately he rushes to the outer room to discover the annoying animal. While he is searching for the supposed cat, The Shadow enters and opening the bag, recovers the valuable papers. He re-closes the bag and escapes through a window. Zulp returns to the room, lights a cigar and sits down to gloat over his triumph. Becoming curious, he opens the bag to look once more at the treasure, but is astounded to find it is gone. He becomes excited and departs for his home.

At the Bazaar Strong and Beverly are enjoying themselves. Eunice Morton, with true vanity, is carelessly flashing a diamond necklace that attracts the attention of a band of crooks who determine to get it. They succeed. An alarm is given, and Strong asks everybody to remain quiet as there is a thief in the room, and no one must escape. An excited crowd gathers, and in the mix-up the crook who had stolen the necklace slips it into the pocket of Strong. The crooks are searched and demand that Strong, too, be searched. Strong does the searching himself. He puts his hand in his pocket, and much to his amazement finds the diamond necklace. But a girl absolves him from guilt and points out the real thief. In pulling the necklace from his pocket Strong displays the $4,000 that had come to him in the morning mail. This the thieves are quick to see, and they at once make plans to get the money.

Strong, having become separated from Beverly, is searching for her when two men tell him she has just entered a room. He goes there, but finds it vacant. The two men follow him, close the door, and demand his money. With a blow he knocks one of the robbers down, but the other draws a pistol and compels him to throw up his hands.

THE HIDDEN CHILDREN (Yorke Film Corp.—Five parts—March 26).—The cast: Euan Loskiel (Harold Lockwood); Lois de Contrecoeur (May Allison); Jeanne de Contrecoeur (Lillian West); Mayara (Henry Herbert); Amochol (George MacDaniel).

Two women unknown to each other, in the early history of the nation, decide to make of their babies "hidden children," in accordance with the Indian custom of giving children to foster-parents until maturity. A girl and a boy thus "hidden," when informed of the truth, returned to their people and were expected by marrying to bring a fresh spirit into the tribe.

Marie Loskiel, hard beset by the St. Regis Indians, gives her child, Euan, before she dies, to Guy Johnson, an English Colonial officer. He and Mayara, a Sagamore of the Mohicans, who is Johnson's chief scout, take charge of the child. Jeanne de Contrecoeur, wife of the commandant of the French garrison at Lake George, amuses the officers and their wives by her gift of clairvoyance. She implores her husband not to go out to battle with the Indians, as she has a premonition that he will be killed, and that the child to be born will never know a father. But duty calls Capt. de Contrecoeur, and he is slain by the Iroquois.

Jeanne herself is captured by them, and taken to the stronghold of the Six Nations at Catherines-town. The Erie sorcerer Amochol is about to sacrifice Jeanne's new-born daughter, Lois, to the Moon Witch, but she makes of Lois a "hidden child," sending her to a colonist named Calvert. Jeanne is about to be killed by Amochol when she correctly interprets a dream for him, and she becomes the White Sorceress of the Iroquois.

Each year Jeanne sends secretly to little Lois a pair of moccasins, embroidered with a symbol indicating that she is a hidden child. Calvert cannot read the inscription, but when he dies he tells Lois of her origin, and it becomes the girl's one thought to find the trail to Catherines-town where her mother is held captive. Euan Loskiel, grown to manhood, is given a commission in Morgan's rifles as Lieutenant and Chief of Indian Scouts. General Sullivan wishes to crush the tribes of the Six Nations in the "Long House" of the Iroquois Confederacy, and the only man who can lead him to Catherines-town is Mayara the Sagamore, whom Euan brings to the General, and the Sagamore becomes the trusted messenger of the northern Colonial army.

Lois disguises herself as a camp-follower in rags to follow Euan, Mayara and Lieut. Boyd to Catherines-town. Mayara saves her from the insults of a drunken officer, and though she has thus far distrusted all men, she has complete faith in the Sagamore. He reads the message of the moccasins, discovering that she is a hidden child, and protects her from all the mischances of the journey.

Euan Loskiel falls in love with this strange girl in rags, but it is with difficulty that he wins her confidence, since, wandering alone since Calvert's death, she has seen nothing but the baser side of men's natures. Finally, however, her fears are stilled by Euan's nobility of character, and she, Euan and Mayara, become close friends, the red man and Euan going through the sacred ceremonial of the blood brotherhood. Lois at last confesses her love for Euan, but will not permit his caresses until she has found her mother. She undertakes the perilous journey into the heart of the Iroquois empire, following the army secretly, since they will not consent to her accompanying them on such a dangerous mission. Mayara, who shares the secret, blazes the trail so that she may find the way. When she overtakes them, the Indians insist that the ceremony of the White Bridal be performed over these two sacred "hidden children," Lois and Euan.

They reach Catherines-town in time to witness the Feast of the Dreams. Amochol is about to put the White Sorceress of the Iroquois (Jeanne de Contrecoeur) to death for interpreting ill fortune. Her prediction comes true when the warriors of the Six Nations defeated by Sullivan's men return. The executioner is about to strike her when his arm is transfixed by a shaft from Mayara's bow. The priests take Jeanne prisoner, but Euan and Mayara, following them to the Vale Yndaia, kill them and rescue her, and Mayara slays Amochol in hand-to-hand combat. Lois is at last folded in the arms of the mother who has watched and waited for her all these years, and then Jeanne de Contrecoeur, having been reunited with her "hidden child," puts her hand in that of the gallant scout, Euan Loskiel, and their White Bridal is completed.

RADIUM GOLD FIBRE SCREEN

You need it in your business. It is the only sure way to get perfect projection. It makes the best pictures better!

Leading theatres everywhere attribute much of their success to the use of our carefully prepared product.

RADIUM GOLD FIBRE SCREEN, Inc. Leon Schlesinger, Gen. Mgr. 220 W. 42d St., New York

Canadian Distributors—J. T. Malone Films, Inc., Rialto Theatre Bldg., Montreal; Allfeatures, Ltd., 56 King St., W., Toronto.

Classified Advertisements

NOTE TERMS CAREFULLY

Remittances must accompany all orders for classified advertisements as follows: One dollar per insertion for copy containing twenty words or less. Five cents per word on copy containing over twenty words. Each word to be counted including names and addresses.

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS:—The Publishers expect that all statements made in every advertisement will bear the strictest investigation.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

SUPERINTENDENT of film factory, at present unemployed, desires engagement with reliable firm. Thorough laboratory man. C., care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

CAPABLE theater manager at liberty. F. E. Chapman, through loss by fire, of his uninsured theater, the New Colonial, at South Bend, Ind., see page 1567 of this paper for Feb. 17, is in the market for a position. He is capable, has had 18 years' experience and can furnish references. Address F. E. Chapman, 421 N. Wood St., So. Bend, Ind.

AT LIBERTY—Capable picture theater manager, twelve years' experience, go any place, salary or percentage. Address Christian, 30 Covert St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

BOOKKEEPER—Capable and efficient, excellent references, seeks situation. Seven years' experience in Moving Picture Business. L., care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

ASSISTANT CAMERAMAN, also experienced film printer and perforator. Wishes position, salary moderate, go anywhere. Address Printer, care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

EXPERIENCED concert organist wants good theater position. Will consider only large first class house with big pipe organ. References, programs, press notices submitted. Organist, 127 South Main St., Dayton, Ohio.

AT LIBERTY A-1 organist, Seeburg Photo Players. Reference Automatic Player Piano Co., Atlanta, Ga. Play drums. Address M. Craddock, Lyric Theater, Huntsville, Ala.

CAMERAMAN five years' experience. Reliable, sober, married. Have own Moy outfit. Al Palumbo, 55 Park Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

LABORATORY SUPERINTENDENT and technical director, practical man in all departments. Address Practical, care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

HELP WANTED.

MUSICIANS wanted, pianist, violinist and drummer for first class combination house. Must read music and be able to play for pictures. State lowest salary to start. Box 560, Bristol, Tenn.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES.

FOR SALE or lease large plots, suitable for studio, within easy distance of New York City. Abe Miers, 155 West 47th St., N. Y. City.

THEATERS WANTED.

WILL LEASE picture theater, state population, number seats, rent, what opposition. Address Christian, 30 Covert St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

THEATERS FOR SALE OR RENT.

FOR SALE—Beautiful theater in the prettiest city in the Middle West, seating capacity 300, fully equipped with modern equipment, playing only the finest pictures, 10c admission, built for Theater, not a made-over store and fire proof throughout, beautiful front, will sell at a sacrifice, as I am in the automobile business and cannot give it the time it requires; profits big for the investment. This is a Sunday town, run as long as you like. Will sell one-half down, balance to be paid out of profits; running now. Wire appointment; will go to the first one to investigate. Address George T. Scully, Kalamazoo, Mich.

PICTURE THEATER for sale, new equipment, 270 seats, Mirroroid screen, two new American Standard motor driven machines. Rent $65.00 per month, long lease, in city forty thousand, now running. Buckeye Motion Picture Co., Wapakoneta, Ohio.

EXCEPTIONAL BARGAIN moving picture theater in progressive western Pennsylvania, good location, big sacrifice, write Kelley & Martin, Jeanette, Pennsylvania, for full particulars.

EQUIPMENT WANTED.

WE BUY all makes of moving picture machines. What have you? Monarch Film Service, 228 Union Ave., Memphis, Tenn.

EQUIPMENT FOR SALE.

FOR SALE—Slightly used Simplex projectors, guaranteed perfect and good as new, at reasonable prices. Second-hand Motiograph in good condition, cheap. Room, 206, 1482 Broadway, N. Y. City.

BARGAINS—Slightly used Simplex, Power's and Motiograph machine. Lowest prices—fully guaranteed. Hallberg, 729 Seventh Ave., N. Y. City.

POWER'S 6B, 6A, 6, Simplex type B and type S. Edison Exhibition model B, model D. Motiograph and three master model standard machines. All in perfect condition, can be obtained at low prices. National Carbons, 3/4x12 in., $6.00 per hundred; 3/4x12 in., $7.76 per hundred. Call or write to-day. Picture Theater Equipment Co., 1604 Broadway, N. Y. City.

3,000 OPERA CHAIRS, steel and cast frames, 60c. up. All serviceable goods, cut prices on new chairs. Six standard asbestos booths. Send for weekly list of close outs and save half. J. P. Redington, Scranton, Pa.

FOR SALE—176 green colored, veneered, picture show chairs with ball-bearing hinge. Cost $2.75 each. Will sell for $1.00 each. Also ozone machine and side light fixtures. J. B. Elliott, Mgr., Strand Theater, Lexington, Ky.

FOR SALE 550 veneered folding opera chairs in first class condition at a bargain. Ready for delivery about July 1st. Address N. Appell, Orpheum, York, Pa.

FOR SALE 800 good five ply, 18 inch green colored opera chairs, extra heavy backs and seats, price 55c. each, cost new $1.70 each; Power's complete No. 6 moving picture machine good as new $85.00; Power's 6A moving picture machine everything new but mechanism $150.00; Edison complete improved exhibition model moving picture machine $40.00; Fort Wayne 110 volt, 60 cycle compensator $28.00. Power's 110 volt $18.00 rheostat used once $9.00. Power's upper magazine $5.00; Power's lower magazine with take up $6.00. H. D. Theater Supply House, 711 So. Kedzie Ave., Chicago, Ill.

FOR SALE—Power's 6A, mercury arc rectifier, new 50 ampere tube, used thirty days. H. L. S., care M. P. World, Chicago, Ill.

OPERA CHAIRS—6,000 slightly used perfect condition shipped subject to inspection, 60c. each. Atlas Seating Co., 10 East 43d St., N. Y. City.

OPERATORS! Richardson says "Install 'Amberlux' Lens Filters." Improve projection 100%. Price, including business-bringing slide, $3.50. W. D. Warner, 8 E. Broad St., Columbus, Ohio.

CAMERAS, ETC., FOR SALE.

PROFESSIONAL CAMERAS, tripods, perforators, printers, developing outfits, rewinders, Tessars, effects, devices, novelties, experimental workshop, repair, expert film work, titles. Eberhard Schneider, 14th St. & Second Ave., N. Y. City.

BELL & HOWELL Camera, brand new, perfectly complete outfit, including full set of lenses and extra magazines, field and studio tripods, vignettes, dissolves, double exposure shutters, carrying cases, trunk, etc., $1,400.00. Rm. 602 220 West 42d St., N. Y. City.

SAVE MONEY—Write for bargain lists, cameras, tripods, projectors, electric lights, chemicals, dyes, Camera instruction. Ray, 326 Fifth Ave., N. Y. City.

BE PREPARED! NOW IS THE TIME TO GET YOUR MOTION PICTURE CAMERA. DAVID STERN COMPANY OFFER BEST VALUES. SERVICE AND VARIETY. EVERY STYLE FROM 100 FT. MODELS TO STUDIO CAMERAS. TRADE IN YOUR OLD CAMERA FOR THE NEWEST MODELS. A PARTIAL LIST OF CAMERAS ON HAND. 200 ft. capacity ERNEMANN MODEL A PROFESSIONAL. ERNON F3.5 LENS AND EXTRA magazines. PRICE, $135.00—200 FT. CAPACITY MENTOR PROFESSIONAL CAMERA. REGULAR AND TRICK CRANK. FINE MECHANISM. 50 M. M. TESSAR F3.5 LENS. TWO EXTRA MAGAZINES. PRICE, $140.00—EBERHARD SCHNEIDER M. P. CAMERA. 200 FT. capacity, Zeiss Tessar lens. F3.5. Price, $95.00—U. S. CINEMATOGRAPII M. P. CAMERA, 400 FT. capacity, all adjustments, ideal for studio work, trick and illusions. Zeiss Tessar lens and extra magazines. PRICE COMPLETE, $250.00—LATEST MODEL PATHE NO. 2. INSIDE MAGAZINES, TESSAR LENS. F3.5, two extra magazines. PRICE, $150.00—LATEST MODEL UNIVERSAL. THE CAMERA FOR ALL PURPOSES. LIST $300.00. WRITE FOR SPECIAL PROPOSITION ON THE UNIVERSAL—THE LATEST MODEL DAVSCO. 200 ft. capacity, standard film, weight 10 1/2 lbs. MECHANISM EQUAL TO ANY CAMERA. TESSAR LENS F3.5. ALUMINUM MAGAZINES. PRICE, $110.00—$75.00 U. S. ELECTRIC PRINTER. COMPLETE. OUR PRICE, $150.00—TALBOT'S PRACTICAL CINEMATOGRAPHY: THE HANDBOOK FOR THE BEGINNER. Postpaid $1.10—ADVERTISING BY MOTION PICTURES; full of money-making ideas, postpaid $1.00 ANY CAMERA SHIPPED C. O. D. PRIVILEGE OF EXAMINATION ON RECEIPT OF $10.00 DEPOSIT. YOUR MONEY REFUNDED IN FULL IF NOT SATISFACTORY. TELEGRAPHIC ORDERS SHIPPED SAME DAY IF DEPOSIT IS WIRED. WRITE FOR OUR COMPLETE CATALOG JUST OFF THE PRESS. YOURS FOR THE ASKING. DAVID STERN COMPANY, "EVERYTHING IN CAMERAS," 1047 R. MADISON ST., CHICAGO, ILL.

FILMS, ETC., WANTED.

SLIDES and films with advertising and lectures showing Palestine with Holy Land, Babylonia, Egypt, and Constantinople. R. A. Root, Jasper, Ala.

FILMS, ETC., FOR SALE.

FOR SALE—One thousand reels, slugs and features, sacrificed prices. Peerless Feature Attractions, Seattle, Wash.

THREE and four reels Passion films for rent. 5 Power's machine perfect, $50.00. Luback, 1109 Manhattan Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

WANTED exchange to book four-reel feature on commission, bond required. Write for particulars. Ward Enterprises, Turners Falls, Mass.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS FOR SALE.

FOR SALE—$5,000.00 Phonoplayer for $2,500.00. Changing moving picture theater to vaudeville. Instrument in good condition, has given excellent satisfaction. Address Swanson Theater Circuit, Salt Lake City, Utah.

MISCELLANEOUS.

MR. EXHIBITOR, for 15c a square foot we renovate old screens with Silvertone, made to equal any new screen. Perfect stereomicon projection guaranteed. Work done in your theater. Write us for particulars. Will send sample upon request. McDonnell & Crawford, 455 Fourth Ave., N. Y. City.

In answering advertisements please mention The Moving Picture World

INDEX

TO CONTENTS

Advertising for Exhibitors 2098
 "As Man Made Her" (World).....2122
 At Leading Picture Theaters.....2083

"Babbette" (Vitagraph) 2119
 Baltimore, With Exhibitors in.....2138
 Boston Film News.....2136
 Bradenburgh Indicted for "Duping".....2084
 Brazil, Southern, Picture Shows in.....2093

Calendar of Daily Program Releases.....2152
 Censorship Only on Complaint, Ask for.....2145
 Censorship Sentiment Speaks 2144
 Chicago News Letter 2085
 Cincinnati Exchanges Under One Roof.....2143
 "Colonel's Orderly, The" (Pathe).....2118
 Comments on the Films.....2123
 Competition Hurts Village Film Trade.....2136

"Dark Road, The" (Triangle).....2120
 "Dummy, The" (Famous Players).....2120

Exchange Efficiency 2107

Facts and Comments.....2069
 Film Exporters, News from the.....2091
 Film Industry New in Madras.....2093
 Film Men Dine as Guests of World.....2109
 Fitch, C. J., Joins Paramount's Sales
 Forces 2090

General Film Appointments.....2115
 "Golden Eagle Trail, The" (Kalem).....2119
 Goldstein Brothers in New Company.....2086
 "Great Secret, The" (Metro).....2117
 Griffith to Contribute to Artercraft.....2074

Hall, Emmett, With Goldwyn.....2116
 Harron, Robert, Joins Goldwyn.....2113
 "Her Father's Keeper" (Triangle).....2120

"His Father's Son" (Metro).....2121
 "Hour to Live, An" (Pathe).....2118

Illinois Bill Paves Way for Nuisance
 Charges.....2143

Kansas Has New Censor Bill.....2083

List of Current Film Release Dates,
 2170, 2172, 2174, 2176
 Lytton, L. Rogers, Works for Preparedness.....2141

Managers for the Northwest Convention.....2082
 Manitoba Exchange Association Formed.....2150
 Manitoba Exhibitors' Meeting 2082
 Manufacturers' Advance Notes.....2125
 Marion, Ind., Three Theaters Consolidated.....2142
 "Mary Lawson's Secret" (Pathe).....2118
 Massachusetts Censor Bill Opposed.....2083
 Minneapolis Convention Nears.....2146
 More Trouble for Griffith Pictures.....2115
 Motion Picture Educator 2094
 Motion Picture Exhibitor, The.....2082
 Motion Picture Photography 2105
 Music for the Picture 2106

National Association Directors Meet.....2078
 Newcastle, N. S. W., Business Increased in.....2091
 News of Los Angeles and Vicinity.....2087
 Nord, Hilda 2084

Ontario Theaters Decrease in Number.....2142
 Orient, Picture Conditions in.....2043

Paramount Program 2116
 "Past One at Rooney's" (General Film).....2121
 Patriotism and Nature.....2072
 Philadelphia, Film Week in.....2137
 Photoplaywright, The 2101
 Picture Shows in Southern Brazil.....2093

Pictures to Aid Mobilization.....2114
 Pittsburgh, Film News of Week in.....2140
 Popular Picture Personalities.....2108
 Portland Censor Comes to Life.....2149
 "Prison Without Walls, The" (Lasky).....2120
 Projection Department.....2102
 "Pulse of Life, The" (Bluebird).....2119

Rawling Preachers and Moving Pictures.....2073
 Reviews of Current Productions.....2117
 Richardson Received With Enthusiasm.....2079
 Richardson's Trip Appreciated.....2081

St. John N. B. Booking Plan for Big Pictures 2135

San Francisco, Governor Helps Open Theater 2148
 "Satan's Private Door" (Essanay).....2117
 Selznick, Myron Makes Important Deal.....2115
 Shall Stylists Write Scenarios?.....2070
 Spain, Picture Situation in.....2092
 Stevens, Emily, for Four Metro Features.....2081
 Stories of the Films.....2154
 Sunday Closing, Seven Theaters in Washington 2150
 Sunday Opening Protests 2071
 "Sunny Jane" (Mutual).....2120

"Tale of Two Cities, A" (Fox).....2118
 Tax on Admissions in Virginia.....2137
 Tenth Anniversary Recollection.....2113
 Texas State Censor Bill Dies.....2147

"Vanishing Financier, The" (Kalem).....2119
 Virginia Tax on Admissions.....2137

"War in the Dooryards" (Pathe).....2118
 Washington, D. C., Film Building for.....2139
 Wheeler Committee Reports.....2075
 Wolfberg, Harris P.....2114

TO ADVERTISERS

CARBONS AND CARBON ACCESSORIES.
 Jones & Cammack.....2162

CHAIR AND SEATING MANUFACTUR-ERS.
 Foco Chair Co.....2164
 Steel Furniture Co.....2161

ELECTRICAL & MECHANICAL EQUIP.
 Amusement Supply Co.....2171
 Bell & Howell Co.....2158
 Cahuff Supply Co.....2173
 Fulton, E. E.....2165
 Hallberg, J. H.....2163
 Hertner Electric & Mfg. Co.....2167
 Hommel, Ludwig & Co.....2160
 Langstadt-Meyer Co.....2173
 Porter, B. F.....2164
 Strelinger, Chas. A.....2161
 Swabb, Lewis M.....2158
 Typhoon Fan Co.....2175
 Universal Motor Co.....2175
 Westinghouse Electric & Mfg. Co.....2161

FILM EXCHANGES.
 Bradenburgh, G. W.....2175

LENS MANUFACTURERS.
 Crown Optical Co.....2171

MANUFACTURERS OF MOVING PIC-TURES.
 Arrow Film Corp.....2059
 Artercraft Pictures Corp.....2024-25
 Art Dramas, Inc.....2055-57
 Benjamin Chapin Studios.....2010
 Bernstein Film Productions.....2052
 Bluebird Photoplays, Inc.....2016
 Brockliss, J. Frank.....2018
 Cardinal Film Co.....2022-23
 Christie Film Co.....2017
 Clune Producing Co.....2156
 Continental Producing Co.....2053
 Corona Cinema Co.....2044

Cosmofotofilm Co., Inc.....2048-49
 E. I. S. Motion Picture Co.....2042
 Enlightenment Photoplay Corp.....2028-29
 Essanay Film Mfg. Co.....2011, 2065
 Fox Film Corp.....2045-47
 Friedman Enterprises, Inc.....2058
 Gaumont Co.....2038
 Goldwyn Pictures Corp.....2050-51
 Grafton Film Publishing Co.....2156
 Grand Feature Film Co.....2043
 Hawk Film Co.....2026
 Horsley, David, Productions.....2039
 Ince, Thos. H.....Colored Insert
 Kalem Co.....2068
 K-E-S-E Service.....2062-63
 Kleine, George.....2034
 Lesser, Sol.....2054
 Mable Normand Feature Film Co.....2027
 Metro Pictures Corp.....Colored Insert
 "Mothers of France".....2040-41
 Mutual Film Corp.....Colored Insert, 2035-37
 National Drama Corp.....2156
 Paramount Pictures Corp.....2020-21
 Rex Beach Pictures Co., Inc.....2153
 Selig Polyscope Co.....2066-67
 Selznick, Lewis J., Enterprises.....2030-31
 Triangle Distributing Corp.....2032-34
 United States Mot. Pict. Corp.....2019
 Universal Film Mfg. Co.....2012-15
 World Film Corp.....2060-61, 2151

MISCELLANEOUS.
 American Bioscope Co.....2158
 Anti-Censorship Slides.....2171, 2173
 Automatic Ticket & C. R. Co.....2158
 Cahill-Igloe Co.....2171
 Chicago Examiner.....2169
 Corcoran, A. J.....2158
 Duhem Mot. Pict. Mfg. Co.....2156
 Eastman Kodak Co.....2169
 Erbograp Co.....2164
 Evans Film Mfg. Co.....2160
 Gunby Bros.....2156
 Il Tirso Cinematografo.....2175
 Information Dept., M. P. World.....2171, 2177
 Kassell, M.....2158

Keystone Ticket Co.....2154
 Kinematograph Weekly, The.....2156
 Kraus Mfg. Co.....2165
 Marion, Louise M.....2173
 Moore, Wm. N.....2164
 Motion Picture Directory Co.....2173
 M. P. Electricity.....2173
 National Ticket Co.....2159
 Preddey, W. G.....2160
 Richardson, F. H.....2175
 Richardson's M. P. Handbook.....2177
 Rothacker Film Mfg. Co.....2158
 Standard Motion Picture Co.....2165
 Superior Films, Inc.....2160
 Williams, A. F.....2158
 Willis & Inglis.....2160

MOVING PICTURE CAMERAS.
 Burke & James, Inc.....2161

MUSIC AND MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.
 American Photo Player Co.....2178
 J. C. Deagan Musical Bells, Inc.....2179
 Sinn, Clarence E.....2164

POSTERS AND FRAMES.
 Menger & Ring.....2162

PROJECTION MACHINE MANUFACTUR-ERS.
 American Standard M. P. Machine Co.....2158
 Enterprise Optical Mfg. Co.....2169
 Power, Nicholas, Co.....2180
 Precision Machine Co.....2163

PROJECTION SCREEN MANUFACTUR-ERS.
 Genter, J. H., Co., Inc.....2175
 Gold King Screen Co.....2156
 Minusa Cine Products Co.....2173
 Radium Gold Fibre Screen, Inc.....2166

THEATRICAL ARCHITECTS.
 Decorators Supply Co.....2177

In Answering Advertisements, Please Mention THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

The audience is always right.

They want not only a good picture play but a clear picture.

Because of its basic qualities, the clearest pictures are on

Eastman Film

Identifiable by the stencil mark in the margin.

EASTMAN KODAK COMPANY,
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

KITTY KELLY

now Conducts the Motion Picture Department
of the

Chicago Examiner

Read what foremost figures in the industry have to say about Kitty Kelly

Aaron J. Jones, of Jones, Linick & Schaefer, says:

"I only wish that all critics were like you and would criticize the picture exactly as it is, regardless of who the manufacturer may be, or in whose theater shown."

David Wark Griffith says:

"You have the most remarkable memory of any person I ever met."

J. R. Quirk, of Photo Play, says:

"Your viewpoint is wonderfully clear and sane, and you always reflect the feelings of the average intelligent movie patron."

Wm. S. Hart says:

"I want to tell you how easy it makes it all when we know our efforts are being reviewed and appreciated by such a clever, brainy little lady as you are."

The Chicago Examiner should be in your hands every day

Chicago Examiner

Hearst Building,
Chicago

Eastern Office:
1834 Broadway,
New York

To the "Show-Me" Exhibitor

We have always claimed that the material used in the MOTIOGRAPH Projector is of the highest quality; that the final touch as regards Mechanical Workmanship was superior; that you will get Steady and Flickerless Projection from the MOTIOGRAPH.

Here is proof—

EMPRESS
Moving Pictures
ST. JOSEPH, MO.

Mr. H. G. GILL, Selling Agent for the MOTIOGRAPH.

Dear Sir:

It has always been my policy to give everything and everyone all of the credit that is due. The credit that is due you personally is in consideration of the fact that you so faithfully handled a machine situation for me that has proven to be entirely satisfactory in every respect. The credit due the MOTIOGRAPH machine that I am now using is due them because of their actual value to me.

For many years I used other makes of machines, which I will not mention, and found that even though they gave me fairly good results they lacked the final touch of mechanical workmanship which the MOTIOGRAPH machine possesses. My operator, Mr. R. J. Clark, has demonstrated to me the fact that it is actually possible to project a more steady and nearer flickerless picture with these machines than with other machines that I have heretofore used. To my relief, the material used in these machines is of the highest quality, and with our all day grind we are almost in a position to know by this time that there is practically no wear out to this machine.

Trusting that all of your other customers are as well satisfied as I am, and wishing you continued success, I am,

Yours very truly,
W. W. WERTENBERGER.

To the Exhibitor Who Wants the Best for himself and his patrons—Do not overlook the IMPROVED MODEL MOTIOGRAPH, it is giving results and is spoken of by every user.

Prices: Hand-driven Equipment.....$265.00
Motor-driven Equipment.....305.00

Write for Literature

THE ENTERPRISE OPTICAL MFG. CO. 574 W. Randolph St.
CHICAGO, ILL.

Western Office: 833 Market St., San Francisco, Cal.

List of Current Film Release Dates

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Page 2152.)

BROADWAY STAR FEATURE.

The Burlesque Blackmalters (8th of "The Dangers of Doris" Comedy) Drama—Broadway Star Feature)... 21609
His Little Spirit Girl (Comedy)..... 21673-74-75
The Valley of Lost Hope (Three parts—Drama) 21673-74-75
The Gang (No. 7 of "The Dangers of Doris"—Comedy—Drama—Broadway Star Feature)
The Seventh Son (Drama).
The Footlight Lure (No. 6 of the "Dangers of Doris"—Comedy—Drama).
Missing (Two parts—Drama).
The Meeting (Drama).
The Gang (No. 7 of the "Dangers of Doris"—Comedy—Drama).
Up and Down (No. 8 of "The Dangers of Doris"—Comedy—Drama).
Dimple's Baby (Two parts—Comedy—Drama).
The Dangers of Doris (No. 9, "The Old Fourth Ward"—Comedy—Drama).
Dimples, the Diplomat (Two parts—Drama).
The Dangers of Doris (No. 10, "The Road to Eternity"—Comedy—Drama).
Post One at Rooney's (First of O. Henry Series—Two parts—Drama).

ESSANAY.

The Hooded Story ("Black Cat Feature"—Two parts—Drama) 21706-7
Animated Nooz Pictorial No. 24 (Cartoon Comedy) 21709
Alaskan Scenic on Same Reel 21709
Is Marriage Sacred? (No. 9, "Desertion and Non-Support"—Two parts—Drama) 21715-16
The Lighted Lamp (Black Cat Feature—Two parts—Drama).
All in a Day (Cartoon Comedy), and an Alaskan Scenic on same reel.
Is Marriage Sacred? (No. 10, "Ashes on the Heartstone"—Two parts—Drama).
A Four-Cent Courtship (Black Cat Feature—Two parts—Drama).
Animated Nooz Pictorial, No. 25 (Cartoon Comedy), and British Columbia (Scenic).
The Extravagant Bride (No. 11 of "Is Marriage Sacred"—Two parts—Drama).
The Invisible Web (Black Cat Feature—Two parts—Drama).
Tiny, Slim and Fat (Cartoon Comedy), and British Columbia Scenic on same reel.
Is Marriage Sacred? (No. 12, "The Vanishing Woman"—Two parts—Drama).
The Five Dollar Bill (Black Cat Feature—Two parts—Drama).
Animated Nooz Pictorial No. 26 (Cartoon Comedy) and Educational on same reel.
The Pulse of Madness (No. 13 of "Is Marriage Sacred"—Two parts—Drama).
Aladdin Up-to-Date (Black Cat Feature—Two parts—Drama).
The Lucky One (Comedy). On same reel an Educational entitled "In the Beef and Butter Country."
The Pallid Dawn ("Is Marriage Sacred?—Two parts—Drama).
The Finish (Black Cat Feature—Two parts—Drama).
Animated Nooz Pictorial No. 27 (Cartoon Comedy) and Educational on Same Reel).
The Wifeless Husband (Is Marriage Sacred?—Two parts—Drama).
The Ham What Was (Black Cat Feature—Two parts—Drama).
The Shooting Star (Comedy), and Harvesting in Alberta, Canada (Educational).
Meddling With Marriage (Is Marriage Sacred?—Two parts—Drama).

FORTUNE PHOTOPLAYS.

"Inspiration of Harry Larrabee" (Four parts—Drama).
"Mentioned in Confidence" (Four parts—Dr.).

KALEM.

The Net of Intrigue (No. 16 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama) 21693
The Death Siding (No. 117 of "The Hazards of Helen"—Drama)..... 21700
Ghost Hounds (Comedy)..... 21708
The Tenth of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama) 21712
The Prima Donna's Special (Drama)..... 21717
The Model Janitor (Comedy).

Winged Diamonds (No. 18 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama).

The Sidetracked Sleeper (No. 119 of "The Hazards of Helen"—Drama).

A Flyer in Flapjacks (Comedy).

The Screened Vault (No. 19 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama).

The Black Rider of Tasajara (an episode of "The American Girl"—Two parts—Drama).

In the Path of Peril (an episode of "A Daughter of Darling"—Drama).

The Mirror of Fear (an episode of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama).

Efficiency Experts (Comedy).

Bulls or Bullets (Comedy).

The Phantom Mine (an episode of "The American Girl"—Two parts—Drama).

The Fate of Juan Garcia (an episode of "The American Girl"—Two parts—Drama).

The Veiled Thunderbolt (an adventure of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama).

In the Web of the Spider (an adventure of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama).

The Registered Pouch (an episode of "A Daughter of Darling"—Drama).

The Borrowed Engine (an episode of "A Daughter of Darling"—Drama).

The Bogus Bride (Ham and Bud Comedy).

The College Boy's Specials (An Episode of "A Daughter of Darling"—Drama).

The Lost Legion of the Border (An Episode of "The American Girl"—Two parts—Drama).

KNICKERBOCKER STAR FEATURE.

The Room of Mystery (Three parts—Drama) 21648-49-50
Crossed Trail (Three parts—Dr.)... 21690-91-92
The Beloved Vampires (Three parts—Drama).

SELIG.

The Luck That Jealousy Brought (Dr.) 21677
Lost and Found (Two parts—Dr.).... 21678-79
Selig-Tribune No. 9 (Topical)..... 21681
Selig-Tribune No. 10 (Topical)..... 21688
The Saddle Girth (Drama)..... 21701
Cupid's Thumb Print (Two parts—Drama) 21702-3
Selig-Tribune No. 11 (Topical)..... 21706
Selig-Tribune No. 12 (Topical)..... 21710
A Strange Adventure (Drama)..... 21718
The Redemption of Red Mullin (Two parts—Drama).
Selig-Tribune No. 13 (Topical).
Selig-Tribune No. 14 (Topical).
For Reward of Service (Comedy—Drama).
The Great Treasure (Two parts—Drama).
Selig-Tribune No. 15 (Topical).
Selig-Tribune No. 16 (Topical).
A Brother's Sacrifice (Drama).
Selig-Tribune No. 16 (Topical).
Selig-Tribune No. 17 (Topical).
An Actress' Romance (Two parts—Drama).
No Place Like Home (Comedy).
Selig-Tribune No. 18 (Topical).
Selig-Tribune No. 19 (Topical).
A Pearl of Greater Price (Two parts—Drama).
Over the Garden Wall (Comedy).
Selig-Tribune No. 20 (Topical).
Selig-Tribune No. 21 (Topical).
A Question of Honesty (Two parts—Drama).
Everybody Was Satisfied (Comedy).

VIM FEATURE COMEDY.

It's All Wrong (Comedy)..... 21670
The Other Girl (Comedy)..... 21689
A Job for Life (Comedy)..... 21694
Nora Declares War (Comedy).
The Newlyweds' Mistake (Comedy).
Happy Nat's Dilemma (Comedy).
Art and Paint (Comedy).
Harry's Pig (Comedy).
Seeing Double (Comedy).
This Is Not My Room (Comedy).
A Deal in Furniture (Comedy).
Deep Stuff (Comedy).
Willie Walrus Pays Alimony (Comedy).
In Stump Land (Comedy).
Wanted, a Bad Man (Comedy).
Somewhere in Mexico (Comedy).
Nellie's Nifty Necklace (Comedy).

OFFICIAL WAR FILMS, INC.

February—The War (A Weekly Release).

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

ASTRA.

Mar. 11—Pearl of the Army, No. 15 ("Colonel's Orderly"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 18—The Mystery of the Double Cross (Episode No. 1, "The Lady in No. 7"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 25—The Mystery of the Double Cross (Episode No. 2, "The Masked Stranger"—Two parts—Drama).
Apr. 1—The Mystery of the Double Cross (Episode No. 3, "An Hour to Live"—Astra—Two parts—Drama).

GOLD ROOSTER.

Mar. 4—Her Beloved Enemy (Thanhouer—Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 11—The Empress (Popular Playa and Players—Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 18—Pots and Pans, Peggie (Thanhouer—Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 25—Told at Twilight (Five parts—Balboa—Drama).
Apr. 1—Mary Lawson's Secret (Thanhouer—Five parts—Drama).

PATHE.

Mar. 11—Florence Rose Fashions, No. 22, "As the Day Wanes" (Fashions), and "Birds of Gay Plumage" (Parakeets) (Colored Educational).
Mar. 11—Max in a Difficult Position (Max Linder Comedy) and Skinny Routs a Robber (Rollin—Comedy—Split Reel).
Mar. 18—Florence Rose Fashions, No. 23 (Fashions), and Nomads of the North (Lapland) (Educational).
Mar. 25—Florence Rose Fashions No. 24 ("Fads and Fancies") (Fashions) and The Gardener's Feathered Friends (Colored—Edu.—Split Reel).
Mar. 25—Max's Feet are Pinched (Max Linder Comedy) and Skinny Gets a Goat (Rollin Comedy—Split Reel).
Apr. 1—Florence Rose Fashions (No. 25, "A Glance Ahead"—Fashions) and Childish Carefree Days (Colored—Juvenile) (Split reel).

COMBITONE.

Mar. 18—Know America, the Land We Love—Southern California (Scenic).
Apr. 1—Know America, the Land We Love No. 3, "New Mexico"—Scenic).

HEARST-PATHE NEWS.

Mar. 17—Number 23 (Topical).
Mar. 21—Number 24 (Topical).
Mar. 24—Number 25 (Topical).
Mar. 28—Number 26 (Topical).
Mar. 31—Number 27 (Topical).
Apr. 4—Number 28 (Topical).
Apr. 7—Number 29 (Topical).

INTERNATIONAL.

Mar. 11—Patricia No. 9 (Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 11—Krazy Kat—Roses and Thorns (Cartoon Comedy) and In the Heart of the Cascades (Scenic—Split Reel).
Mar. 18—Patricia (Episode No. 10, "War in the Dooryard"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 18—Jerry on the Job—He Takes a Day Off (Cartoon Comedy) and Artificial Flower Making (Industrial—Split Reel).
Mar. 25—Happy Hooligan—The Double Crossed Nurse (Cartoon Comedy) and Rope Making (Industrial—Split Reel).
Mar. 25—Patricia No. 11 ("Sunset Falls"—Two parts—Drama).
Apr. 1—Katzenhammer Kids—The Captain Goes a-Flying (Cartoon Comedy) and From Baguio to Manila (Scenic) (Split reel).

MITTENTHAL.

Mar. 4—Deep-Deed Villainy (Comedy).
Mar. 11—Hokey Heroes (Comedy).

ROLIN.

Mar. 18—Lonesome Luke's Lively Life (Two parts—Comedy).
Apr. 1—Skinny's False Alarm (Comedy) and Skinny's Shipwrecked Sand-Witch (Comedy).

From Pictures to Pitchers

there are producers and middlemen who sell the best. You sell the best entertainment in your neighborhood. You have the best appointed theatre and the best film service hut how about your program? That ought to be as good as the best. Our was created just to fill one of your vital needs. It is an exquisite piece of art craft in twelve beautiful designs and printed in three colors. You devote the two inside pages to your week's program.

4-Page Program De Luxe

It Pays for Itself

if you'll let the back page be sold to some first-class advertiser. We guarantee territorial protection. If your patrons throw away your program, you throw away your money! Ask for samples of the rare DeLux programs on the next mail.

Cahill-Igou Company "Direct Advertising Specialists"
117 W. Harrison St., Chicago, Ill.

NATIONAL CARBONS

We carry a complete stock of National Carbons and can fill your order immediately.

1/2x12 Cored.....	$37.50	per 1000	Silver Tip D. C. Negative
5/8x12 ".....	50.00	" "	Carbons
3/4x12 ".....	66.00	" "	5/16x6.....	$40.00 per 1000
1/2x12 Solid.....	35.00	" "	11/32x6.....	41.50 " "
1/2x6 ".....	16.80	" "	3/8x6.....	43.00 " "

10% added in less than 1000 lots.

Amusement Supply Company

Largest Exclusive Dealers to the Moving Picture Trade

Dealers in Motograph, Simplex, Powers, Edison and Standard Machines, Transverters, Motor Generators, Rectifiers and Everything pertaining to the Moving Picture Theatres.

3rd Floor, Maller's Building

Cor. Madison St. and Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

The Biggest Profits

in moving picture theatres go to the men who show the best pictures by means of the best apparatus and equipment.

If you want your theatre to be the recognized leader in your vicinity remember that the public appreciates quality.

Insure perfectly illuminated pictures by using a lens in your projecting machine.

Marlux

The small difference between the price of a Marlux and that of an inferior lens will make a big difference in your box office receipts.

See your Dealer or write direct to

CROWN OPTICAL COMPANY
Rochester, N. Y.

STATE-RIGHT SELLERS

Send us the name and address of each buyer of your feature pictures so that we may refer all inquiries for bookings direct to the proper exchange.

To co-operate address

"Information Dept."

Moving Picture World

17 Madison Ave., N. Y. C.

CENSORSHIP

of moving pictures places a brand on the industry that is unjust, discriminating and against the spirit of our free institutions

Anti-Censorship Slides

Exhibitors:—This is the most convincing method of crystallizing public sentiment against the idea of "legalized" Censorship of moving pictures either Federal, State or Local. Sets of nine slides, all different, see page 1944 of issue of March 24th for complete text of each slide. We will mail sets for $1.00 per set of nine, postage paid.

MOVING PICTURE WORLD,
17 Madison Avenue, New York

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON UNIVERSAL AND MUTUAL PROGRAMS

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Page 2152.)

Universal Film Mfg. Co.

ANIMATED WEEKLY

Mar. 7—Number 62 (Topical).
Mar. 14—Number 63 (Topical).
Mar. 21—Number 64 (Topical).
Mar. 28—Number 65 (Topical).
Apr. 1—No. 66 (Topical).

BIG U.

Mar. 7—A Soldier's Dream (Drama).
Mar. 8—Good for Nothing Gallagher (Drama).
Mar. 16—For Honor's Sake (Drama).
Mar. 18—The Hidden Danger (Two parts—Dr.).
Mar. 25—The Rebel's Net (Drama).
Apr. 5—The Dawn of Decency (Drama).
Apr. 8—The Terrors of War (Two parts—Drama).

BISON.

Feb. 24—The Come Back (Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 3—The Tornado (Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 10—The Drifter (Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 17—Roped In (Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 24—Coin' Straight (Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 31—Steel Hearts (Two parts—Drama).
Apr. 7—The Burning Silence (Two parts—Drama).

GOLD SEAL.

Feb. 27—Mary from America (Three parts—Comedy-Drama).
Mar. 6—Desperation (Three parts—Drama).
Mar. 13—The Common Sin (Three parts—Dr.).
Mar. 20—The Raid (Three parts—Drama).
Mar. 27—A Startling Climax (Three parts—Drama).
Apr. 3—The Magpie (Three parts—Drama).

IMP.

Mar. 1—An Hour of Terror (Drama).
Mar. 2—Evil Hands (Drama).
Mar. 4—Tangled Threads (Two parts—Dr.).
Mar. 9—The Perils of the Secret Service (Episode No. 1, "The Last Cigarette"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 11—The Man of Mystery (Two parts—Dr.).
Mar. 14—Sins of a Brother (Drama).
Mar. 16—The Perils of the Secret Service (Episode No. 2, "The Clash of Steel"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 23—The Perils of the Secret Service (No. 3, "The Dreaded Tube,"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 29—David's Idol Dream (Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 29—The Perils of the Secret Service (Episode No. 4, "The Crimson Blade"—Two parts—Drama).
Apr. 6—The Perils of the Secret Service (Episode No. 5, "The Man in the Trunk"—Two parts—Drama).

JOKER.

Mar. 3—Passing the Grip (Comedy).
Mar. 10—Wanta Make a Dollar (Comedy).
Mar. 17—Art Aches (Comedy).
Mar. 24—Whose Baby? (Comedy).
Mar. 31—What the —? (Comedy).
Apr. 7—A Boob for Luck (Comedy).

LAEMMLE.

Mar. 3—Undoing Evil (Drama).
Mar. 8—The Human Flame (Drama).
Mar. 14—Where Glory Waits (Two parts—Dr.).
Mar. 17—Racing Death (Drama).
Mar. 21—Old Faithful (Drama).
Mar. 28—Is Money All? (Drama).
Mar. 29—The Mask of Love (Drama).
Apr. 4—The Star Witness (Two parts—Drama).
Apr. 7—The Blue Print Mystery (Drama).

L-KO.

Feb. 21—After the Balled Up Ball (Two parts—Comedy).
Feb. 28—Spike's Bizzy Bike (Two parts—Com.).
Mar. 7—Fatty's Feature Fillum (Two parts—Comedy).
Mar. 14—Summer Boarders (Comedy).
Mar. 16—Love on Crutches (Comedy).
Mar. 21—Defective Detectives (Two parts—Comedy).

Mar. 23—Dippy Dan's Doings (Two parts—Comedy).
Apr. 4—Nabbing a Noble (Comedy).
Apr. 8—Crooks and Crocodiles (Comedy).

NESTOR.

Mar. 5—A Bundle of Trouble (Comedy).
Mar. 12—Some Specimens (Comedy).
Mar. 19—When the Cat's Away (Comedy).
Mar. 23—In Again, Out Again (Comedy).
Mar. 26—Shot in the West (Comedy).
Apr. 2—Mixed Matrimony (Comedy).

POWERS.

Mar. 11—Mr. Fuller Pep—His Day of Rest (Cartoon Comedy).
—The Mysterious City (Dorsey Educational).
Mar. 18—The Tail of Thomas Kat (Cartoon Comedy) and Foreign Legations in China (Dorsey Educational).
Mar. 22—The Strangest Army in the World (War Special).
Mar. 25—The Love Affair of Ima Knutt (Cartoon-Comedy), and Artistic China and Japan (Dorsey Educational).
Mar. 29—The Grand Canyon of Arizona (Scenic—Edu.).
April 1—Inbad the Sailor (Cartoon Comedy) and India, The Brightest Jewel on the British Crown (Dorsey Edu.).
Apr. 5—Hagenbeck's Wild Animals (Educational).
Apr. 8—The Ups and Downs of Mr. Phool Phan (Cartoon Comedy) and Dorsey Educational. (Title not yet decided.)

RED FEATHER.

Feb. 26—The Girl and the Crisis (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 5—The Gates of Doom (Five parts—Dr.).
Mar. 12—The Girl Who Lost (Drama) and Border Wolves (Five parts—Dr.).
Mar. 19—The Scarlet Crystal (Five parts—Dr.).
Mar. 26—The Fighting Gringo (Five parts—Drama).
Apr. 2—The Bronze Bride (Five parts—Drama).

REX.

Feb. 25—Lost in the Streets of Paris (Drama).
Mar. 1—The Rented Man (Two parts—Dr.).
—The Funicular Railway of the Niesen (Edu.).
Mar. 8—The Amazing Adventure (Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 11—It Makes a Difference (Drama).
Mar. 24—The Boyhood He Forgot (Drama).
Mar. 25—The Grudge (Two parts—Drama).
April 1—Snow White (Three parts—Drama).

VICTOR.

Mar. 1—They Were Four (Comedy).
Mar. 6—Good Morning Nurse (Comedy).
Mar. 9—The Beauty Doctor (Comedy).
Mar. 13—A Woman in the Case (Comedy).
Mar. 15—Dorothy Dares (Two parts—Comedy).
Mar. 20—Black Magic (Comedy), and Landmarks of France (Scenic).
Mar. 22—The Hash House Mystery (Two parts—Comedy).
Mar. 27—Never too Old to Woo (Comedy).
Mar. 30—Prodigal Papa (Comedy).
Apr. 3—Please Be My Wife (Comedy).
Apr. 5—Somebody Lied (Two parts—Comedy—Drama).

UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE.

Mar. 9—Number 9.
Mar. 16—Issue No. 10 (Educational).
Mar. 23—Issue No. 11 (Educational).
Mar. 30—Issue No. 12 (Educational).
Apr. 6—Issue No. 13 (Educational).

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE.

Mar. 18—The Purple Mask (Episode No. 12, "The Vault of Mystery"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 18—The Voice on the Wire (Episode No. 1, "The Oriental Death Punch"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 25—The Purple Mask (Episode No. 13, "The Leap"—Two parts—Drama).

Mar. 25—The Voice on the Wire (Episode No. 2, "The Mysterious Man in Black"—Two parts—Drama).
April 1—The Purple Mask (Episode No. 14, "The Sky Monsters"—Two parts—Drama).
April 1—The Voice on the Wire (Episode No. 3, "The Spider's Web"—Two parts—Drama).
Apr. 8—The Purple Mask (Episode No. 15—Two parts—Drama).
Apr. 8—The Voice on the Wire (Episode No. 4, "The Next Victim"—Two parts—Drama).

Mutual Film Corp.

AMERICAN.

Mar. 3—Cupid and a Brick (Comedy—Drama).
Mar. 10—The Tell Tale Arm (Drama).
Mar. 10—The Homicide's Weapon (Drama).
Mar. 17—The Lonesome Mariner (Drama).
Mar. 17—A Ram-Bunctious Endeavor (Comedy).
Mar. 21—Cupid and a Button (Comedy).
Mar. 28—The Bearded Fisherman (Drama).

CUB.

Mar. 1—Jerry's Romance (Comedy).
Mar. 8—The Flying Target (Comedy).
Mar. 15—Jerry's Triple Alliance (Comedy).
Mar. 22—Minding Baby (Comedy).
Mar. 29—Be Sure You're Right (Comedy).

NIAGARA FILM STUDIOS.

Mar. 7—The Peril of Our Girl Reporters (No. 11, "The Meeting"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 14—The Perils of Our Girl Reporters (No. 12, "Outwitted"—Two parts—Dr.).
Mar. 21—The Perils of Our Girl Reporters (No. 13, "The Schemers"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 28—The Perils of Our Girl Reporters (No. 14, "The Counterfeiters"—Two parts—Drama).

GAUMONT.

Mar. 14—See America First, No. 80 (Subjects on reel: On the Mississippi River from New Orleans to Baton Rouge (Scenic), and "They Say Pigs Is Pigs" (Kartoon Komic).
Mar. 15—Reel Life, No. 46 (Subjects on reel: A Club-Rifle for the Police; The Fluid of Life (blood under microscope); Making the Cactus Useful; Gold Mining in Alaska; Sprites of the Moonlight (Dance).
Mar. 20—Tours Around the World, No. 20 (Subjects on Reel: Montenegro Island of Guernsey, Cintra, Portugal—Travel).
Mar. 22—Reel Life No. 47 (Subjects on Reel: Making Food Cheaper; A Home Made Motor Sled; Artificial Exercises; A Winter Pageant; Pineapples Under Glass; A Snail Race Under Water—Mutual Film Magazine).
Mar. 27—Tours Around the World No. 21 (Subjects on reel: Funchal, Madeira; Rostov-on-the-Don, Russia; Ajaccio, Corsica—Travel).
Mar. 29—Reel Life (Subjects on reel: Weaving Indian Blankets; The Pulmotor; Swedish Gymnastics; The Famous Herald Clock; Winter Sports in Florida—Mutual Film Magazine).

MONOGRAM

Feb. 26—The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton (No. 7, "Shorty Hooks a Loan Shark"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 5—The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton (No. 8, "Shorty Traps a Lottery King"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 12—The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton (No. 9, "Shorty Trails the Moonshiners"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 19—The Adventures of Shorty (No. 10, "Shorty Bags the Bullion Thieves"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 26—The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton (No. 11, "Shorty Lands a Master Crook"—Two parts—Drama).

(Mutual Releases continued on page 2174.)

MOTION PICTURE ELECTRICITY

By J. H. HALLBERG

THIS WORK COVERS

ELECTRICITY
ELECTRIC SERVICE
ELECTRICAL EQUIPMENT
PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS
REFERENCE TABLES, ETC.

An up-to-date treatment of Moving Picture Theater Electric Installation and Projection, by a practical, experienced, electrical expert.

Illustrated and Substantially Bound. 230 Pages
$2.50 per Copy. Postage Paid.

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
17 Madison Avenue New York

PORTABLE Electric Units
for ROAD SHOWS
Batteries not required
Slow speed—Quiet

Write for Bulletin M-10
Langstadt-Meyer Co.
Appleton, Wis., U. S. A.

BARGAINS IN MACHINES

Twenty-two machines slightly used, first class condition, Simplex, Power's 6 A's, Power's 6's, Edison B's, and Edison D's. Low prices, quick sales.

CHAS. A. CALEHUFF, 1233 Vine Street, Philadelphia

A Dependable Mailing List Service

Saves you from 30% to 50% in postage, etc. Reaches all or selected list of theatres in any territory. Includes name of exhibitor as well as the theatre in address. A list of publicity mediums desiring motion picture news. Unaffiliated exchanges looking for features. Supply houses that are properly characterized as such. Producers with address of studios, laboratories and offices. Information in advance of theatres being or to be built. W74.

MOTION PICTURE DIRECTORY COMPANY

80 Fifth Avenue, New York
425 Ashland Block, Chicago

Phone—3227 Chelsea
Phone—2003 Randolph

Addressing Multigraphing Printing Typewriting

Peace Pictures

and
European War Pictures
(Neutral)

New Stereopticon Lectures
and Poems presented by
L. M. Marion.

Terms Moderate Accompanied by violinist, pianist, operator, lantern, etc. (when desired), for theatres, lyceums and clubs. Music for dances.

LOUISE M. MARION
445 W. 23rd St., New York
Phone, 10396 Chelsea

I do not sell motion pictures.

"SCREEN LIGHT THAT NEVER FAILS"

The "ORIGINAL GOLD FIBRE SCREEN"—Perfected.

MINUSA CINÉ PRODUCTS COMPANY

SAINT LOUIS CHICAGO PITTSBURGH NEW YORK
BIRMINGHAM CLEVELAND SAN FRANCISCO CALIFORNIA

SCREENS BUILT BY BRAINS

Exhibitors—Theatre Managers

These slides and arguments will work wonders with your patrons in convincing them of the useless and needless expense, and the un-American principles underlying Censorship. Use them regularly and persistently. Show one or two to every audience. Set of nine, all different, $1.00. Postage paid.

Moving Picture World, 17 Madison Ave.,
New York City

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON FEATURES AND MISCELLANEOUS PROGRAMS

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Page 2152.)

(Mutual Releases continued from page 2172.)

MUTUAL.

Feb. 2—Scouts of the Sea and Sky (No. 5 of "Uncle Sam's Defenders" (Top.).
Feb. 9—Uncle Sam's Defenders, (No. 6, "Bulldogs of the Deep" (Topical).

MUTUAL WEEKLY.

Feb. 21—Number 112 (Topical).
Feb. 28—Number 113 (Topical).
Mar. 7—Number 114 (Topical).
Mar. 14—Number 115 (Topical).
Mar. 21—Number 116 (Topical).
Mar. 28—Number 117 (Topical).

MUTUAL CHAPLIN.

Jan.—The Rink (Two parts—Comedy).
Feb.—Easy Street (Two parts—Comedy).
Mar.—The Cure (Two parts—Comedy).

MONMOUTH.

Mar. 23—Jimmy Dale, Alias the "Grey Seal" (Chapter One—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 30—Jimmy Dale, Alias "The Gray Seal" (Chapter 2, "The Stolen Rubies"—Two parts—Drama).

MUTUAL SPECIAL.

Dec.—Charity (Seven parts—Drama).
Feb. 12—Damaged Goods (American—Revised Edition—Seven parts—Drama).

MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTIONS.

Feb. 19—The Gentle Intruder (American—Five parts—Drama) (No. 170).
Feb. 26—The Greater Woman (Powell—Five parts—Drama) (No. 171).
Mar. 5—The Girl from Rector's (Five parts—Drama—No. 172).
Mar. 12—My Fighting Gentleman (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 19—The Morals of Men (No. 1, "The Painted Lie—Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 26—Motherhood (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 26—Sunny Jane (Horkheimer—Five parts—Drama).

VOGUE.

Feb. 18—Lured and Cured (Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 25—The Butcher's Nightmare (Two parts—Comedy).
Mar. 4—A Rummy Romance (Two parts—Comedy).
Mar. 10—His Bogus Boast (Two parts—Com.).
Mar. 17—A Matrimonial Shock (Two parts—Comedy).
Mar. 24—A Studio Stampede (Two parts—Comedy).
Mar. 31—Freed by Fido (Two parts—Comedy).

Metro Pictures Corporation.

POPULAR PLAYS AND PLAYERS.

Jan. 29—Bridges Burned (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 26—The Secret of Eve (Five parts—Dr.).

COLUMBIA PICTURES CORP.

Jan. 8—A Wife by Proxy (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 22—Threads of Fate (Five parts—Dr.).
Feb. 5—The End of the Tour (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 12—The Mortal Sin (Five parts—Drama).

ARTHUR JAMES.

Feb. 12—One of the Many (Five parts—Dr.).

YORKE FILM CORP.

Mar. 26—The Hidden Children (Five parts—Drama).

ROLFE.

Dec. 19—The Awakening of Helena Richie (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 15—The White Raven (Five parts—Dr.).
Mar. 5—The Barricade (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 19—His Father's Son (Five parts—Dr.).

SERIAL PRODUCING CO.

Feb. 12—The Great Secret (Episode No. 6—"The Dragon's Den"—Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 19—The Great Secret (Episode No. 7—"The Yellow Claw"—Two parts—Drama).

Feb. 26—The Great Secret (Episode No. 8—"A Clue from the Klondike (Drama).
Mar. 5—The Great Secret (Episode No. 9, "Cupid's Puzzle"—Two parts—Dr.).
Mar. 12—The Great Secret (Episode No. 10—"The Woman and the Game"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 19—The Great Secret (Episode No. 11, "A Shot in the Dark"—Two parts—Drama).

METRO COMEDIES.

Feb. 12—Winning an Heiress (Rolma—Comedy).
Feb. 19—Her Obsession (Drew—Comedy).
Feb. 26—Reliable Henry (Drew—Comedy).
Mar. 5—Modern Romance (Rolma—Comedy).
Mar. 12—Locked Out (Drew—Comedy).
Mar. 19—The High Cost of Living (Drew Comedy).
Mar. 26—Awakening of Helene Minor (Drew—Comedy).

Paramount Pictures Corp.

BLACK DIAMOND COMEDY.

Jan. 22—He Did It Himself (Comedy).
Feb. 19—Her Scrambled Ambition (Comedy).
Mar. 5—Speed (Comedy).
Mar. 19—The Magic Vest (Comedy).

FAMOUS PLAYERS.

Jan. 18—A Girl Like That (Five parts—Dr.).
Feb. 26—The Fortunes of Flit (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 12—Sapho (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 19—The Dummy (Five parts—Drama).

KLEVER COMEDY.

Jan. 15—Did It Ever Happen to You (Comedy).
Jan. 29—The Honeyless Honeymoon (Comedy).
Feb. 5—The Sleep Walker (Comedy).
Feb. 12—He Got There After All (Comedy).
Feb. 26—Some Doctor (Comedy).
Mar. 12—Flivvering (Comedy).
Mar. 26—Rough and Ready Reggle (Comedy).

LASKY.

Feb. 15—The American Consul (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 19—Winning of Sally Temple (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 22—On Record (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 1—Those Without Sin (Five parts—Dr.).
Mar. 5—Castles for Two (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 15—The Prison Without Walls (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 26—The Bottle Imp (Five parts—Drama).

MOROSCO AND PALLAS.

Jan. 29—His Sweetheart (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 1—The Wax Model (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 8—Her Own People (Five parts—Dr.).
Mar. 8—Out of the Wreck (Five parts—Dr.).
Mar. 22—The Spirit of Romance (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 29—As Men Love (Five parts—Drama).

PARAMOUNT-BURTON HOLMES.

Mar. 5—The Yoko Valley (Scenic).
Mar. 12—On the Great Glacier (Scenic).
Mar. 19—Through Canadian Canyons (Scenic).
Mar. 26—Vancouver and Victoria (Scenic).
Apr. 2—Mid-Winter Sports in Quebec (Scenic).

PARAMOUNT-BRAY PICTOGRAPHS.

Feb. 26—56th Edition (Subjects on reel: Colonel Heeza Liar, Detective—Cartoon Comedy); Swapping Foundations Under Sky-Scrapers; Experiments With Light Rays (Educational).
Mar. 5—57th Edition (Subjects on reel: Bobby Bumps Adopts a Turtle—Cartoon Comedy); Industrial Paradise; Fitting Heads to Hats; Birdland Romance (Educational).

Triangle Film Corporation.

FINE ARTS.

Feb. 11—The Girl of the Timber Claims (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 18—The Bad Boy (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 25—Stage Struck (Five parts—Drama).

Mar. 4—Betsy's Burglar (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 11—A Love Sublime (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 18—A Daughter of the Poor (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 25—A Woman's Awakening (Five parts—Drama).

KAY-BEE.

Feb. 18—A Princess of the Dark (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 25—The Last of the Ingrahams (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 4—Back of the Man (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 11—The Little Brother (Five parts—Dr.).
Mar. 18—Blood Will Tell (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 25—The Square Deal Man (Five parts—Drama).

TRIANGLE KOMEDY.

Feb. 25—Done in Oil (Comedy).
Mar. 4—Her Cave Man (Comedy).
Mar. 11—Caught With the Goods (Comedy).
Mar. 18—Hobbled Hearts (Comedy).
Mar. 25—His Rise and Tumble (Comedy).
Mar. 18—A Self-Made Hero (Comedy).
Mar. 25—Her Candy Kid (Comedy).
Mar. 25—A Tuner of Notes (Comedy).

MACK-SENNETT KEYSTONES.

Feb. 18—Stars and Bars (Two parts—Comedy).
Feb. 25—Maggie's First False Step (Two parts—Comedy).
Mar. 4—Dodging His Doom (Two parts—Com.).
Mar. 11—Her Circus Knight (Two parts—Com.).
Mar. 18—Villa of the Movies (Two parts—Com.).
Mar. 25—Her Fame and Shame (Two parts—Comedy).

SUPERPICTURES, INC.

Feb. 5—Seven Deadly Sins—"Pride" (Five parts—McClure Pictures—Drama).
Feb. 12—Seven Deadly Sins—"Greed" (McClure Pictures—Five parts—Dr.).
Feb. 19—Seven Deadly Sins—"Sloth" (McClure Pictures—Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 26—Seven Deadly Sins—"Passion" (McClure—Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 5—Seven Deadly Sins—"Wrath" (McClure—Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 12—Seven Deadly Sins—"The Seventh Sin" (McClure—Seven parts—Drama).

Feature Releases

ART DRAMAS, INC.

Mar. 1—Pride and the Devil (Apollo Pictures, Inc.—Drama).
Mar. 8—The Cloud (Van Dyke—Drama).
Mar. 22—A Man and a Woman (U. S. Amusement Co.—Drama).
Mar. 29—The Law That Failed (Apollo Pictures, Inc.—Drama).

ARTCRAFT PICTURES CORP.

Mar. 5—A Poor Little Rich Girl (Drama).
Mar. 26—Broadway Jones.

BIOGRAPH COMPANY.

Jan.—Her Condoned Sin (Six parts—Drama).

BLUEBIRD MOTOPLAY, INC.

Feb. 26—The Saintly Sinner (Five parts—Dr.).
Mar. 5—The Boy Girl (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 5—Hell Morgan's Girl (Five parts—Drama—Special Release).
Mar. 12—Mutiny (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 19—Polly Redhead (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 26—The Gift Girl (Five parts—Drama).

CARDINAL FILM CORP.

December—Joan, the Woman (Eleven parts).

CHRISTIE FILM CO.

Feb. 19—Hubby's Night Out (Comedy).
Feb. 15—Bride and Gloom (Two parts—Special Release—Comedy).
Feb. 26—Kidding Slater (Comedy).
Mar. 1—Out for the Coin (Two parts—Com.).
Mar. 5—As Luck Would Have It (Comedy).
Mar. 12—His Flirting Ways (Comedy).
Mar. 19—Sauce for the Goose (Comedy).

DIXIE FILM CORP.

December—Just a Song at Twilight (Five parts—Drama).
Dec.—Tempest and Sunshine (Five parts—Dr.).
Drama).

IT'S HERE! FIVE YEARS AHEAD OF ITS TIME

The Only Screen on earth that will Eliminate all Haze, Glare Eye-Strain, Fade-Away and Out-of-Focus Effect, regardless of where picture is viewed from.

Every Seat in Your Theatre Is of Value. Do You Get It?

As the Oldest, the Largest, Manufacturers of Metalized Cloth in the World, we stand back of our claims and are more than ready to substantiate any statement we make.

Why not be guided by the judgment of that great army of 9,836 exhibitors who know and who are using our previous product?

WELL, let us send you our large Free Samples—12"x14"—of our New 1918 Lineal Metalized Surfaced Screen in Pale Gold, Silver Flesh and Silver White.

Let us prove to you with your own eyes and the brains God gave you that we can and will give you Real Projection Contentment by installing the Screen of No Regrets—

THE J. H. GENTER COMPANY, INC., NEWBURGH, N. Y.

VISITORS AND EXHIBITORS ALWAYS WELCOME AT OUR FACTORY

MIRROROID

The 1918 Mirroroid Lineal Finish will be sold at 36 cents a square foot—$3.24 a square yard. Let us advise you as to our nearest-to-you dealer. Shipments one hour after order is received.

RECEIVER'S SALE Court Common Pleas No. 2, March, 1916—No. 1386

"For $5,000 a Year," five reels, featuring Louise Huff; negative and one brand new positive. $500.
 "An American Gentleman," five reels, featuring Wm. Bonelli; negative and one brand new positive. $400.
 "Hearts United," four reels, featuring May Wooley; negative and one brand new positive. $300.
 "A Hero of the North," two reels, featuring Edith Pierce; negative and one positive. $150.

If interested in any of the above films, advise

G. W. BRADENBURGH 802 Vine Street PHILADELPHIA

IL TIRSO AL CINEMATOGRAFO

The most important Film Journal in Italy.

Published every Monday at Rome. Excellent staff, special bureau of information. Correspondents in all parts of the world. Yearly subscription for foreign countries: $3.00.

Business Offices: Via del Tritone 183, Rome, Italy.

Projection Engineer

Is your screen result unsatisfactory?

Is your projection current costing too much?

Are you planning a new theatre?

Are you contemplating the purchase of new Equipment?

Theatre plans examined and suggestions made as to operating room location. Operating rooms planned, etc., etc. Will personally visit theatres in New York City or within 300 miles thereof. Fees moderate.

(YOU ALL KNOW HIM) F. H. RICHARDSON (YOU ALL KNOW HIM)

Room 1434, 22 E. 17th St., New York City

UNIVERSAL ELECTRIC GENERATOR SET

4 K.W., 60 or 110 Volt. Dependable and Efficient. Smooth. Direct Current, and consequent Flickerless Light. Direct connected to 4 Cylinder, 4 Cycle Engine of unquestioned reliability. By all odds the best for Moving or Permanent Picture work.

Write for Bulletin 20.

UNIVERSAL MOTOR CO.
Oshkosh, Wis.

TYPHOONS COOL & VENTILATE

TYPHOON FAN COMPANY 1544 B'WAY NEW YORK CITY

$4.80 A Big Saving Each Year $4.80

On account of the greatly increased cost of paper, engraving, etc., we have been compelled to make the single copy price fifteen cents. For the present direct subscription prices will remain the same. This means a saving of four dollars and eighty cents yearly on direct subscriptions. In addition you get your paper earlier. It will pay you to fill out this blank and mail at once with your remittance.

ONE YEAR.....$3.00
 SIX MONTHS.....$1.50

See title page for rates Canada and Foreign

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
 17 Madison Avenue, New York

Cut out and mail

Please Fill in the Name of Your Theatre.....

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON FEATURES AND MISCELLANEOUS PROGRAMS

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Page 2152.)

EDUCATIONAL FILM CORPORATION.

Mar. 12—The Living Book of Nature ("Jungle Vaudeville"—Educational).
Mar. 19—The Living Book of Nature ("Feeding the Fish-Eaters"—Edu.).
Mar. 26—The Living Book of Nature ("Feeding the Bears"—Edu.).
March—Ascent of the Matterhorn (Scenic).
March—Austrian Ski-School (Scenic).
March—Sea Lions (Edu.).

FOX FILM CORPORATION.

Feb. 19—The Tiger Woman (Five parts—Dr.).
Feb. 19—Melting Millions (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 26—A Child of the Wild (Five parts—Dr.).
February—The Honor System (Special Release—Drama).
Mar. 5—Sister Against Sister (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 12—A Tale of Two Cities (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 12—Love's Law (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 19—The Blue Streak (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 26—High Finance (Five parts—Drama).

FOXFILM COMEDY.

Mar. 5—Her Father's Station (Two parts—Comedy).
Mar. 12—Hearts and Saddles (Two parts—Comedy).
Mar. 19—The House of Terrible Scandals (Two parts—Comedy).
Mar. 26—His Merry Mix-Up (Two parts—Comedy).

GREATER VITAGRAPH (V-L-S-E, INC.).

Mar. 12—Arsene Lupin (Six parts—Drama).
Mar. 12—Footlights and Fakers (Comedy).
Mar. 12—Captain Jinks' Alibi (Comedy).
Mar. 12—The Secret Kingdom (Episode No. 11, "The White Witch"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 19—Aladdin from Broadway (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 19—Bombs and Blunders (Comedy).
Mar. 19—Captain Jinks, the Plumber (Comedy).
Mar. 19—The Secret Kingdom (Episode No. 12, "The Shark's Nest"—Two parts—Drama).
Mar. 26—The More Excellent Way (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 26—Turks and Troubles (Comedy).
Mar. 26—Captain Jinks' Great Expectations (Comedy).
Mar. 26—The Secret Kingdom (Episode No. 13, "The Tragic Masque"—Two parts—Drama).

IVAN FILM PRODUCTIONS.

Dec. 1—Enlighten Thy Daughter (Seven parts—Drama).
February—Two Men and a Woman (Five parts—Drama).

KEEN CARTOON CORP.

Feb. 19—Dr. Zipzy Opens a Sanatorium (Cartoon Comedy).
Feb. 26—The Fighting Blood of Jerry McDub (Cartoon Comedy).

KLEINE-EDISON-SELIG-ESSANAY.

Feb. 19—The Royal Pauper (Edison—Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 26—The Heart of Texas Ryan (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 26—Max Comes Across (Two parts—Com.).
Mar. 5—Burning the Candle (Essanay—Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 12—Little Lost Sister (Selig—Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 19—Satan's Private Door (Essanay—Five parts—Drama).

SELZNICK PICTURES.

January—Panthea (Five parts—Drama).
February—The Argyle Case (Seven parts—Dr.).

THE TRIUMPH CORPORATION.

December—The Libertine (Six parts—Drama).

WORLD PICTURES.

Feb. 12—The Red Woman (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 19—A Square Deal (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 26—A Girl's Folly (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 5—The Web of Desire (Five parts—Dr.).
Mar. 12—The Dancer's Peril (Five parts—Dr.).
Mar. 19—The Social Leper (Five parts—Drama).
Mar. 26—As Man Made Her (Five parts—Drama).

States Right Features

ARGOSY FILM, INC.

December—The People vs. John Doe (Six parts—Drama).
December—Where D'ye Get That Stuff (Five parts—Comedy).

ARROW FILM CORP.

Jan.—The Deemster (Nine parts—Drama).

BELMONT FILM CO.

Feb. 26—A Hotel Mix-Up (Comedy).

BIOGRAPH COMPANY.

December—One Round O'Brien (Comedy).

G. M. BAYNES.

Nov.—Kitchener's Great Army in the Battle of the Somme (Five parts—Dr.).

HENRY J. BROCK.

March—The Mothers of France.

CORONA CINEMA CO.

April—The Curse of Eve (Seven parts—Drama).

COSMOFOTOFILM CO.

Mar. —The Manx-Man (Eight parts—Drama).

CREATIVE FILM CORP.

Jan.—The Girl Who Didn't Think (Six parts—Drama).

CLUNE FILM MFG. CO.

January—The Eyes of the World (Ten parts—Drama).

DEFENSE OR TRIBUTE FILM CO.

February—Defense or Tribute (Five parts—Drama).

EBONY FILM CORP.

Feb. 26—A Natural Born Shooter (Drama).

E. I. S. MOTION PICTURE CORP.

Mar. —Trooper 44 (Five parts—Drama).

ENLIGHTENMENT PHOTOPLAYS CORP.

February—Enlighten Thy Daughter (Seven parts—Drama).

EXCLUSIVE FEATURES, INC.

Dec.—Pamela's Past (Five parts—Drama).

EUROPEAN FILM CO.

November—Fighting for Verdun (Five parts—Topical).

FRIEDMAN ENTERPRISES.

February—A Mormon Maid (Five parts—Dr.).

FROHMAN AMUSEMENT CORP.

March—God's Man (Nine parts—Drama).

GERMANY'S OFFICIAL WAR FILMS, INC.

January—Germany and Its Armies of Today (Topical).

GOLD MEDAL PHOTOPLAYERS.

March—The Web of Life (Five parts—Drama).

GRAFTON PUB. FILM CO.

January—Argonauts of California (Ten parts—Historical).

GRAND FEATURE FILM CORP.

Mar. —Rex Beach in The Spanish Main (Five parts—Educational).
Mar. —Rex Beach in Pirate Haunts (Five parts—Educational).
Mar. —Rex Beach in The Footsteps of Captain Kidd (Five parts—Educational).

HARPER FILM CORPORATION.

Nov.—Civilization (Drama).

HAWK FILM COMPANY.

March—The Monster of Fate (Drama).

JOHN W. HEANEY.

Jan.—The Valley of Fear (Six parts—Drama).

KESSEL & BAUMAN.

Jan. —Mickey.

KING BAGGOT.

Dec.—Absinthe (Drama).

LEA-BEL CO.

February—Modern Mother Goose (Five parts).

LINCOLN M. P. COMPANY.

Jan.—Trooper of Troop K (Three parts—Dr.).

S. B. JUST, INC.

Jan.—The Porter (Two parts—Comedy—Drama—All Colored Performers)

MAJOR FILM CORP.

Feb.—Will You Marry Me (Drama).

M-C FILM CO.

March—America Is Ready (Five parts—Top.).

B. S. MOSS MOTION PICTURE CORP.

January—The Girl Who Doesn't Know (Five parts—Drama).
January—In the Hands of the Law (Drama).

MOORE'S FEATURE FILM CO.

Jan. 10—Uncle Sam (This Production in One and in Two Reels).

PARAGON FILMS, INC.

February—The Whip (Eight parts—Drama).

PHAX PICTURES CO.

December—Race Suicide (Six parts—Drama).

PICTURE PRODUCING CO.

Feb.—Safari (Educational).

PIONEER FEATURE FILM CORP.

October—The Soul of a Child (Five parts—Dr.).

REX BEACH PICTURES CO.

March—The Barrier (Nine parts—Drama).

ROTHACKER FILM MFG. CO.

February—Ranch Life in the Big Horn Mountains (Two parts—Descriptive).

SHERMAN ELLIOTT, INC.

October—The Crisis (Selig—Seven parts—Dr.).

SIGNET FILM CORPORATION.

Nov.—The Masque of Life (Seven parts—Dr.).

A. STONE.

February—If We Should Go to War (Two parts).

THE FILM EXCHANGE.

January—The Golden Rosary (Five Parts—Dr.).

THOMPSON FILM CO., INC.

December—War as It Really Is (Seven Parts—Topical).

ULTRA PICTURES CORP.

March—The Woman Who Dared (Seven parts—Drama).

UNITY SALES CORP.

January—Glory (Six parts—Drama).

UNIVERSAL (STATE RIGHTS).

December—The People vs. John Doe (Six parts—Drama).
January—20,000 Leagues Under the Sea (Eight Parts).

WARNER BROS.

December—Robinson Crusoe (Five parts—Dr.).

WARRENTON PHOTOPLAYS.

Mar. 15—The Birds' Christmas Carol.

For the fullest and latest news of the moving picture industry in Great Britain and Europe.

For authoritative articles by leading British technical men.

For brilliant and strictly impartial criticisms of all films, read

THE BIOSCOPE

The Leading British Trade Journal with an International Circulation
American Correspondence by W. Stephen Bush
of

"Moving Picture World"

85 Shaftesbury Avenue, London, W.

Specimen on Application

STATE - RIGHT BUYERS

Send us a list of your features and the territory in which you are booking. This will enable us to refer all inquiries from your vicinity direct to you. Your careful attention to this matter from time to time will help increase your business.

Address "Information Dept.,"
Moving Picture World
17 Madison Ave., N. Y. C.

Ornamental Theatres

Plaster Relief Decorations
Theatres Designed Everywhere

Write for Illustrated Theatre Catalog. Send Us Sizes of Theatre for Special Designs

THE DECORATORS SUPPLY CO.

Archer Avenue and Leo Street
CHICAGO, ILL.

RICHARDSON'S MOTION PICTURE HAND BOOK FOR MANAGERS and OPERATORS

Published by

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

RICHARDSON'S MOTION PICTURE HAND BOOK is a carefully prepared guide to perfect projection.

It is an invaluable help to every single individual in the trade who has to do with the mechanical handling of motion picture film or the management of a moving picture theatre.

There are over 680 Pages of Text and the illustrations include detail diagrams of all the leading makes of projection machines.

Substantially Bound in Red Cloth $4.00

Sent Postpaid on Receipt of Price by

MOVING PICTURE WORLD, 17 Madison Ave., New York City
MOVING PICTURE WORLD, 917 Schiller Bldg Chicago, Ill.
MOVING PICTURE WORLD, 305 Haas Bldg., Los Angeles, Cal.

What's The Matter With Your Music

EVERYBODY now agrees that good pictures are made better by good music.

Is your music good?

There is no longer any question now as to what is good music.

Good music is music that follows the picture; that intensifies the action.

Of course a large orchestra with a good leader should bring out the picture, but many exhibitors object to the continuous expense.

An orchestral pipe organ is a wonderful help to a good picture; an organ may be used in conjunction with a small or large orchestra or alone.

Our organs are designed and built especially for motion picture theatres; our instruments are voiced for this purpose and have the punch that is required. The musician may play by hand or use the hand cut rolls of the world's famous composers and musicians, traps are also added.

THE Fotoplayer is really an orchestral organ that may be placed in your theatre pit without any change in your house.

The Name and Fame of the Fotoplayer is now world-wide.

Our new models contain a new and more than beautiful tone—Vox Mystica—celestial voices that penetrate the very depths of your soul.

The wonderful feature about our pipe organ as well as the Fotoplayer is the feature of our two rolls, which places the exhibitor as master of his music. Any musician of ordinary ability can follow the picture with our rolls or by playing by hand.

We have placed instruments in some of the country's best and most beautiful houses.

We have also models for houses that have fewer seats and need good music with the least expense.

Write us immediately about your music.

Send for latest information

AMERICAN PHOTO PLAYER CO.

for better music

NEW YORK

SAN FRANCISCO

CHICAGO

62 West 45th St., New York.
101 John R. St., Detroit.
109 Golden Gate Ave., San Francisco.
40 Luckie St., Atlanta.
737 So. Olive St., Los Angeles.
1210 G St., N. W., Washington, D. C.
Belmont Building, Cleveland.
Park Way Building, Philadelphia.
Lytton Building, Chicago.
1818 Main St., Dallas.
100 Boylston St., Boston.

FOTOPLAYER

-----TEAR OFF HERE AND MAIL-----

American Photo Player Co.,

62 West 45th St., New York City. Please send me full information about the Fotoplayer.

Name.....

Theatre.....

M. P. W.

Address.....

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

VOLUME XXXI

January—March, 1917

J. P. CHALMERS

Founder

PUBLISHED BY

CHALMERS PUBLISHING CO.

17 Madison Avenue, New York

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

VOLUME XXXI January—March, 1917

INDEX TO CONTENTS

A
Abrams Pays Respect to Open Booking....	1584
Action of Industry Fast and Furious.....	1500
Actor in the Early Days, The.....	1509
Actors' Fund Fair May 12 to 21.....	1836
Advance in Theater Decoration.....	1512
Advancing the Industry.....	222
Advance Deposits to Guarantee Film Contracts	671
Advertising by Motion Pictures.....	238
Advertising for Exhibitors, by Epes Winthrop Sargent	67, 223, 363, 511
675, 831, 995, 1167, 1339, 1559, 1763, 1911, 2098
African Pictures Brought to New York.....	860
Agitation in Connecticut	56
Allied Printers Against Film Tax.....	826
Allison, George R.....	95
All Set for Brooklyn Ball.....	1836
American Forces Reorganized.....	212
American's President Talks of Ten Years.....	1502
Amusement Statistics	1776
Another Move Toward Cleansing.....	1356
Anti-Censorship Slides.....	1944
Appeal to Jersey Exhibitors, An.....	54
Arbuckle, "Fatty," Allied with Paramount	500
Arbuckle Warmly Received in Philadelphia	1801
Arbuckle Finishes Transcontinental Trip.....	1930
Are American Producers Provincial?.....	343
Arkansas Exhibitors Organize.....	1836
Arrangements Completed for Brooklyn Ball	670
Arrested for Showing "Purity".....	1056
Ascher Brothers' Chicago Circuit, The.....	1572
As High as His Brow.....	984
Atlanta Reel Fellows Take Over Screen Club	1060
Auditorium at Bala-Cynwid, Pa., Opens.....	1383
Australian Showman Visits Seattle.....	1924
Author Manages Theater Chain.....	1797
Avoid Suspicion of Graft.....	1542
B
Baltimore Censors Take Time.....	720
Baltimore Grand Jury Scores Theaters.....	883
Baltimore Movie Club Dances.....	719
Baltimore's New Traffic Rules.....	254
Baltimore, Taxes on Signs in.....	393
Bartholomae, Philip, with Pathe.....	1199
Basic Business Principles Should Govern.....	1499
Baumann Retires from N. Y. M. P.....	1020
Barker-Swan Co. in Bankruptcy.....	728
Beecroft Buys Picture Rights.....	1200
Bell, Commissioner, Talks to Exhibitors.....	1184
Bennett, Enid, and Margery; Hostesses.....	673
Besserer, Eugene	1639
Bidding Active for "The Whip".....	1202
Big Linder Comedy Campaign.....	1016
Big Profits Ten Years Ago.....	1511
Bilho, Governor, Seeks Revenue.....	1748
Billy Sunday, Picture Shows Prepare for.....	563
Billy the Exhibitor.....	1017
Birmingham Makes Trial of Censorship.....	887
Blank, A. H., Theater Manager.....	857
Blue Law Exhibitor Acquitted.....	120
Boston, Film Week in.....	718
Boston's First Film Benefit.....	559
Boston's Big Community Theater Opens.....	1641
Bradenburgh Indicted for Duping.....	2084
Bradfield, C. L., Resigns from Family Theater	393
Brand New Ordinances Discovered.....	1066
Brandt Discusses Chain Theaters.....	52
Brazil, Southern, Picture Shows in.....	2093
Breitinger Gets a Compliment.....	561
Breitinger Quits as Chief Keystone Censor	346
Brock Forms Corporation.....	505
Brooklyn Exhibitors to Celebrate.....	1548
Brooklyn Ball a Winner.....	1185
Brooklyn Exhibitors' Ball.....	509
Brooklyn Meeting	1133
Brooklyn Triangle Shifts to Paramount.....	537
Bryson in Big State Deal.....	1155
Buettner, L. A., State President.....	1385
Buffalo, Cold Weather, Little Coal.....	1646
Buffalo, Co-operation Keynote in.....	390
Buffalo Screen Ball, Preparing for.....	990
Buffalo's Second Annual Ball a Success.....	1161
Bull, Bunk and Bluster.....	1161
C
Cahill, Marie, Mutual's Latest.....	504
California Bill Waits for Attention.....	1394
California Exhibitors Busy.....	1751
California Exhibitors Elect Officers.....	548
California Exhibitors Hold Mass Meeting.....	892
California Exhibitors to Organize.....	667
California Sunday Closing in.....	751
Campbell, Webster, in "Truth Triumphant".....	1558
Canada Has New Producing Company.....	538
Canada, General Change About in.....	565
Canada's First Exhibitor.....	1498
Canadian Exhibitors in Jam.....	115
Canadian Exhibitors' League Proposed.....	54
Capital City Film Matters.....	112
Capital's New Building Rules.....	1964
Carbon Makers Confer with N. A. M. P. I.....	52
Care of Film, Experts to Teach.....	1391
Carlhou, Me., Has New Theater.....	256
Catalogue of Educational Pictures.....	1005
Censor Advertising in Illinois.....	1968
Censorship Advocates Strike a Snag.....	1189
Censorship Discussed in Lansing.....	1647
Censorship Methods Abroad.....	525
Censorship Fight in West Virginia.....	992
Censorship, Still More Rigid.....	405
Censorship Talk in Louisville.....	1648
Censorship Threatens West Virginia.....	668
Censorship Unintelligent, Says Editor.....	398
Chadwick, Helen	217
Chamberlin, Riley C., Dead.....	852
Champagne, Miss., Exhibitor Extraordinary	1905
Changes in Ten Years, Some Notable.....	1488
Chaplin-Mutual Sold to Japan.....	1197
Chaplin Scandinavian Rights.....	91
Chattanooga's Majestic Leased by Signal.....	833
Chattanooga's New Theater Plans.....	722
Chicago Exhibitors Elect Officers.....	994
Chicago Muddle Cleared.....	1938
Children's Matinees	1925
Christie, George Stewart.....	1337
Chronological Record for 1916.....	58
Cincinnati Exchanges Form New Bureau.....	114
Cinema Club Ball at Plaza.....	1200
City Exhibitors Urged to Join League.....	348
Clemmer Theater Celebrates Birthday.....	1810
City Fathers Take Up Sunday Fight.....	56
Cleveland Exchanges, Changes Among.....	1646
Cleveland Survey Questions Are Curious.....	1227
Cleveland's New Exchange Club.....	1966
Closing Question Will Not Down.....	574
Cohan, George M., Is a Real Screen Actor	1187
Coleman, Cherie	1785
Color Process, New, Capitalized.....	262
Colorado and Censorship.....	1752
Colorado Censor Eills Protest.....	1973
Colorado Has New Censor Bill.....	1064
Commercialized or Subsidized.....	1541
Couldn't Get Film, Opens Exchange.....	1501
Covington Picture House Burns.....	724
Covington, Ky., Accepts Ohio Censorship.....	889
Covington Ministers Ask for Censorship.....	724
Cowl, Jane, to Come to the Screen.....	207
Craftsmen Needed	342
Crawford, O. T., St. Louis Pioneer, Dead.....	857
Crimes Committed in Name of Morality.....	1923
Cropper, R. C., Heads Standard.....	1970
Cummins, Samuel, of the Phax Pictures.....	384
D
Dallas, Gertrude, With Thanouser.....	1558
Dallas Will Test Censorship Ordinance.....	1064
Davenport, Harry, Joins Metro Forces.....	1028
David Will Rebuild Grand.....	1055
Dayton's New Strand.....	262
Days of Worry, Those of a Decade Ago.....	1503
Deadly Silent Vote, That.....	200
Delves, James, Dead.....	507
Death Toll for the Decade.....	1528
Decade of Educational Advancement, A.....	1536
Denver Ball Put Off Again.....	118
Denver Exchanges Open, Two New.....	894
Denver Film Men Commend Censor.....	266
Denver Organization Makes Good.....	572
Denver Screen Club Ball February 3.....	406
Denver Screen Club Ball.....	572
Denver's Newest Downtown Theater Opens.....	1653
Denver's Newest Neighborhood House Opens.....	1234
Denver's Paris Theater Sold.....	730
Denver Theaters, Two About to Open.....	730
Denver to Have a New 3,500-Seat Theater	1973
Deposits or No Deposits, That's the Question	986
Des Moines, Exchange Association Formed.....	728
Des Moines Exchanges, New Credit Rules.....	893
Des Moines Majestic Reopens for Features	118

Desmond to be Starred by Ince.....	698
Detroit Exhibitors to Meet Monthly.....	348
Detroit, Higher Admission in.....	264
Detroit's Minutes of the Year.....	399
Development of Exhibition.....	1497
Development of the Gaumont Company.....	1532
Didn't Vote on Sunday Shows.....	1661
Directing in Other Days Was No Snap.....	1522
District of Columbia Vault Fees Are Due.....	1053
Do Your Bit for Sunday Opening.....	344
Discuss Child Problem.....	862
Doro, Marie, Arrives in New York.....	857
Dreams and Visions.....	1747
Du Pre, Louise.....	987

E

Edel, in Office, Keeps Tabs on Show.....	1187
Edison Announces Titles.....	207
Educational Pictures in Regular Shows.....	1806
Election Now Safe, "Nation" Film Can Show.....	397
Elliot, Maxine, Begins Work.....	1357
Elliott, Maxine, Joins Goldwyn.....	384
Enlightenment Corporation Launched.....	697
Entwistle, Harold.....	1186
Essany to Film "The Truifers".....	385
Evangelists in Cincinnati Advertise "Purity".....	1228
Evans, Thomas, An Early Bird.....	1544
Every Year Like Ten, Says Universal Man.....	1533
Exchange Efficiency, by John J. Rotchford.....	1779, 1920, 2107
Exchange Falls, Ties Up Deposits.....	1542
Exchange Men Attacked.....	1188
Excise Law, Buffalo Exhibitors Welcome.....	1801
Exhibiting in Closed Sunday Cities.....	84
Exhibitor Guts Order Against Exchange.....	115
Exhibitors' Ball Assured Success.....	507
Exhibitors Complain of Sex Stuff.....	1022
Exhibitor's Interesting Rambler.....	1511
Exhibitors Take Charge of New Year's Eve.....	574
Expensive to Censor in West Virginia.....	1053
Expressage Both Ways.....	1651
Express Company Loses Appeal.....	392
Express Men and Film Men Meet.....	562

F

Fairbanks Retires from Triangle.....	527
Fairbanks Enjoys Wild Brooklyn Night.....	826
Fairbanks, Douglas, Signs with Arcraft.....	1166
Fairbanks Begins Work.....	1783
Fairbanks Announces Future Plans.....	1928
Famous-Players Lasky Invades So. America.....	674
Famous-Players Lasky Stockholders Meet.....	346
Farnham, Joe, with Sherrill.....	1028
"Fatty" Arbuckle on Way East.....	1550
Fealy, Maud, with Lasky.....	209
Federal Censorship Sentiment Not Growing.....	57
Fifteen "Brady-Mades".....	1785
Fight Is On.....	985
Fight for an American Film.....	1754
Filling the Raw Film Demand.....	1513
Film Building in Washington.....	1359
F. I. L. M. Club Completes Delivery Plans.....	345
F. I. L. M. Clubs Growing.....	56
Film Exporter, News from the.....	2091
Film Junkies.....	1331
Films Cannot Stand Tax, Is Testimony.....	693
Film Industry New in Madras.....	2093
Film Shippers Should Take Care.....	407
Films May Now Be Shipped by Mail.....	203
Film Men Dine as Guests of the World.....	2109
Film Transportation Question.....	1187
Fire Destroys Metro Studios.....	361
Fire Regulations at Washington, D. C.....	1199
Fitch, C. J., Joins Paramount's Sales Forces.....	2090
Forbis' Gaslights or Matches.....	887
Forman Renews Lasky Contract.....	537
For Sale and To Let Signs.....	669
"Fortune Photoplays" Under Way.....	1360
Forum Films to Open Exchanges.....	1749
Fox Ambassador Returns from Abroad.....	347
Fox Art Contest Decided.....	353
Fox Man Gets Married.....	674
France Is General Manager.....	1552
Friedman Interests Incorporated.....	571
Friend, Nathan H.....	84
From a Penny Barroom to the Rialto.....	1512
From Flickers to Steady-as-a-Rock.....	1495
Fuller, Mary, to Support Lou-Tellegen.....	534
Fuster, Louis R., Missing.....	1334

G

Garden, Mary, in "Thais".....	1943
Garden, Mary, Sings with Goldwyn.....	1016
"Garden of Allah" Sold.....	90
Gayety at Fairville Changes Hands.....	1386
General Film Cuts Out Release Dates.....	1018
General Film to Make Four Reelers.....	1010
General Film's New Series.....	1786
Get-Together Luncheon Held.....	562
Giles, George A.....	63
Give Us Both and More of One Than the Other.....	344
Glanzberg Returns from Trip South.....	1021
Glimpse Into the Past, The.....	1527
Golden Age, A.....	1160
Goldstein Brothers in New Company.....	2086

Goldwyn Pictures Working Fast.....	698
Goldwyn Starts Production.....	1016
Goldwyn's World-wide Publicity.....	1937
Goodwin (Nat) Company Files Papers.....	890
Government Films, to Make Available.....	1198
Graham, J. C., Completes First Tour.....	1191
Graham with Famous Players-Lasky.....	501
Grant Just Won't Feel the Cold.....	56
Greatest Force in World for Progress.....	1508
Great Works of Pathe Freres.....	1529
Great Year for Mary MacLaren.....	672
Greensberg New Strand Theater to Open.....	395
Griffith to Contribute to Arcraft.....	2074
Griffith Is Guest of Honor at Pittsburgh.....	335
Griffith Plans to Clean the Screen.....	536
Grilling the Promoters.....	1332
Gussing the Motion Picture Business.....	533
Gunn, Charles, New Leading Man for Essanay.....	215

H

Hall, Emmett, With Goldwyn.....	2116
Hammerstein, Elaine, in the Argye Case.....	850
Hansen, Juanita.....	215
Harron, Robert, Joins Goldwyn.....	2113
Harron, Robert, to Be Starred.....	210
Haslan, Kenneth D., Joins Fine Arts.....	1554
Heavy Bookings for Cohan Pictures.....	860
Henley, Hobart, Again in East.....	849
Henry's, O., Stories.....	1196
Higher Admission, Working for.....	1974
Higher Rates Get as Good Houses.....	1808
Hitchcock, Walter, Engaged by Erbograp.....	1192
Hodkinson, President, On Tour.....	1938
Holubar, Allen.....	222
Horkheimer to Make Mutual Series.....	1786
House Divided, A.....	1331
How a Film Exchange Started.....	1534
How One Exchange Worked.....	1186
How One Exhibitor Made Marked Success.....	1060
How "Snow White" Was Put On.....	1180
How the First Independent Started.....	1518
How the World Has Grown.....	1538
Hume, Ilean, Metro Ingenue.....	350

I

If You See That Film, We'll Tell Your Wife.....	1649
J. A. T. S. E. Meets in Cleveland.....	1802
Illington, Margaret, a Lasky Star.....	208
Ince and Sennett Continue in Triangle.....	827
Independent Production Made Balboa.....	1526
Indiana Convention.....	669
Indiana Exhibitors Post Joint Fund.....	849
Indiana Favors Sunday Pictures.....	1532
Indiana May Have Sunday Pictures.....	1934
Indiana Gets Strange Censorship Bill.....	859
Indiana Legalizes Sunday Picture Shows.....	1907
Indianapolis Alhambra to Seat 1,400.....	1804
Indianapolis Schools Advertise Good Films.....	121
Indiana's Sunday Opening Bill.....	1340
Industry Menace by Proposed Taxation.....	828
Industry Owes Much to Good Selection.....	1493
Industry Responds to Charity Ball Appeals.....	1940
Indianapolis Exhibitor's Election.....	993
Indianapolis Has Endorsed Film Matinees.....	744
Intermountain Managers Organize.....	94
Iowa, Pretty Girls Are Picturing History of.....	560
Is the Public Educated to Expect Too Much?.....	1907

J

Jacksonville Screen Club Ball.....	1366
James, Edwin F., Gets Big Theater.....	123
Japan Likes American Pictures.....	845
Jaxon Film Corporation Enters Field.....	1934
Jersey Movie Ball Huge Success.....	993
Jerseyman on Edge for Coming Ball.....	849
"Joan, The Woman," at National Press Club.....	259
"Joan" Emphasizes Sunday Opening.....	859

K

Kalem's Achievements as Pioneer.....	1504
Kalem Signs Another Big Author.....	62
Kalem Signs Ham and Bud.....	1554
Kansas City Entertains "Fatty".....	1750
Kansas City Film Men Progress.....	117
Kansas City Movie Ball Is Shaping Up.....	1633
Kansas City Screen Club Ball.....	1935
Kansas City Screen Club to Hold Ball.....	1230
Kansas City Star Show a Success.....	1065
Kansas Commissioner Calls on Film Men.....	117
Kansas Has New Censor Bill.....	2083
Kansas May Lower Censor Fees.....	893
Kansas, Starts Suit Over Censor Fees Paid.....	1064
Kaufman to Direct George M. Cohan.....	385
Keefe, Zena, in Moss Pictures.....	1166
Kennedy, Madge, Signs With Goldwyn.....	830
Kerrian Flows Into New York.....	1935
Kerrian Has His Own Company.....	210
K-E-S-E Feature Every Week.....	1781
Klek on the Deposit System, A.....	343
King Goes to South America.....	1584
Kleine, George, Talks on Trade Outlook.....	214
Kleinschmidt Shows War Pictures.....	1198
Knack in Naming Picture, The.....	1198
Kunsky New Theater Opens.....	1969

L

Labor Rebukes Rockford Mayor.....	1389
Land Show, Picture Men and, The.....	568
Lee, Jennie, Character Actress.....	534
Legislative Fund.....	1932
Legislative Investigators Get Busy.....	665
Legislators Divided on Tax Question.....	1162
Lehrman, Henry.....	85
Legislative Committee Still Nosing Around.....	988
Le Guere, George—McClure Pictures.....	91
Leslie, Gladys, The Girl With the Million Dollar Smile.....	1783
Levy, Col. Fred.....	62
Lillian's Dimples.....	1753
Lincoln, E. K., Wins Trophies.....	1337
Linger Finishing First Comedy.....	211
Linger Finishes First Comedy.....	355
Lindsey, Vachel, on the Photoplay.....	1583
Livingston, Jack, New Ince Leading Man.....	1197
Lloyd, Harold, as "Lonesome Luke".....	1928
Local International Turns Over.....	578
Local Number One Meeting a Hummer.....	506
Loew Circuit Offices Come to Atlanta.....	886
Looking Back.....	1500
Looking Over the Files of the World.....	1484
Lopsided Journalism.....	1022
Louisville Has Fewer Five-Cent Houses.....	1967
Louisville Keith Chain Grows.....	567
Louisville, Putting "Crisis" on In.....	889
Loyal Picture Stories Wanted.....	1227

M

Macauley to Make Peace Pictures.....	352
Macnamara, Walter, Off for Keystoneville.....	1938
Malls, How to Take Advantage of.....	886
Making a Hit.....	1330
Manitoba Censors Make Mistake.....	733
Manitoba Exchange Association Formed.....	2150
Manitoba Exhibitors' Meeting.....	2092
Mann, Frankie, Visits Pennsylvanians.....	101
Mace, Fred, Dead.....	1550
Maritime Exhibitors Meet.....	1035
Maritime Exhibitors Protest.....	505
Maryland Censors Feel Oats.....	883
Maryland Effects Permanent Organization.....	848
Maryland Exhibitors Organizing.....	505
Maryland League Ball a Certainty.....	1933
Massachusetts Censor Bill Opposed.....	2093
Massachusetts Exhibitors Elect Officers.....	206
Mastbaum in Million Dollar Deal.....	350
Master Company Buys Site.....	1200
Masterpiece of Modern Drama.....	490
May Tax Film Distributors.....	1934
McClure Pictures Selling Force.....	63
McClure Preparing New Series.....	1180
Maine College Town, Censorship Flurry In.....	111
Meeting of Electrical Committee.....	1360
Metro Films Concealed in Canada.....	1811
Metro Planning Special Productions.....	803
Metro Suit in Maritime Provinces.....	1054
Michigan Censorship, Second Hearing On.....	1805
Michigan Exhibitors Get Busy.....	1336
Michigan Faces State Censorship.....	725
Michigan Film Men Condemn Censorship.....	857
Michigan Theaters, Coal Shortage Hits.....	1388
Michigan, Two Problems in.....	1059
Michigan, Watch Censorship in.....	569
Menon Feature Co. to Exploit "Civilization".....	729
Millions Lost to Exhibitors.....	50
Milwaukee, Modern Film Building Proposed.....	725
Minneapolis F.I.L.M. Club.....	1063
Minneapolis F.I.L.M. Club Banquet.....	1971
Minneapolis Filmdom Last Week.....	1233
Minneapolis Filmdom News of Holiday Week.....	403
Minneapolis Permanent Association.....	727
Minister Denounces Sunday Pictures.....	352
Missouri Censorship Fight Warms.....	1230
Missouri Censorship Hanes Fire.....	1650
Missouri Faces Censorship.....	1061
Mitchell, Rhoda, New Company for.....	210
Mix, Tom, Joins Fox Film.....	91
Mock, Edgar, J., Death of.....	83
Moore, John Edward (Jack), Death of.....	90
Moore's (Victor) Comedies.....	66
More Censorship Craft.....	1022
More Trouble for Griffith Picture.....	2115
Motion Picture Educator, by Rev. W. H. Jackson and Margaret J. Macdonald.....	79, 235, 344, 523, 686, 842, 1007, 1178, 1349, 1569, 1722, 1926, 2094
Motion Picture Exhibitor, The, 53, 205, 348, 505, 667, 848, 991, 118, 1335, 1546, 1932.....	1932
Motion Picture Men Discuss Defense Measures.....	345
Motion Picture Photography, by Carl Louis Gregory, 6, 231, 371, 543, 683, 849, 1003, 1178, 1347, 1567, 1770, 1918, 2105.....	1599
Motion Picture Studios in California.....	673
"Motion Picture Trust" Again Sued.....	822
Move in the Right Direction, A.....	1009
Murdoch, Ann, of Mutual.....	1009
Murdoch Judge Moves for Sunday Closing.....	1057
Murray, Mae, Marries Jay O'Brien.....	242
Music for the Picture, by Clarence E. Sinn and Norman Stuckey, 77, 232, 372, 520, 684, 840, 1004, 1177, 1348, 1568, 1771, 1919, 2106.....	264
Music, Kansas Exhibitor Wants Special.....	504
Mutual Secures Charles Frohman Stars and Plays.....	64
Mutual's New Series.....	64

N

Nashville Producing Co. Releases Films.	462
National Association Directors Meet.	2078
Newark, N. J., Exhibitors Prosperous.	539
Newcastle, N. S. W., Business Increased in.	2091
New Edison Production.	93
New Express Rules.	1923
New General Film Policy.	61
New Glasgow Roseland Theater Opens.	565
New Jersey Insurance Question.	351
New Kalem Studio.	52
New License Schedule in Spokane.	208
New Officers of Chicago Local Installed.	1932
New Orleans Charity Hospital Tax.	561
New Orleans Considers Sunday Closing.	1391
New Orleans, Distinctive Picture in.	1352
New Orleans Exchange Men Join Association.	1972
New Orleans, Feature Looking in.	1030
New Orleans Globe Theater Opens.	404
New Orleans, Roundabout Near.	116
New Orleans Strand Opening Delayed.	1391
New Orleans, Suburban Exhibitors' Luncheon.	116
News From the Black Hills.	508
New Pathe Serial.	1334
New Theater Will Seat 6,000.	1642
New State Rights Company Opens Office.	1034
New Theaters in Gulf States.	892
New Victoria's Children's Matinees.	884
New York Exhibitors Meet at Albany.	823
New York F. I. L. M. Club Dines.	8
New York Hearing Continues.	1162
New York Inquisitors Will Go Slowly.	860
New York Legislative Hearing.	1754
New York Local Gives Dinner.	668
New York May Have Film Commission.	1907
Night at Teatro Delicias, A.	237
No Additional Tax on Exhibitors.	1749
No Censors for Indiana.	137
No Longer Unhonored and Unsung.	1519
Nord, Hilda.	2084
Normand, Mabel, in "Mickey."	66
No Other Business Would Stand Censorship.	1543
North Carolina Convention.	53
North Carolina Exhibitors' Convention.	204
Northrup, H. S., in Metro Pictures.	1165

O

Objectionable Slides, Refusing.	1393
Objection to the Denosit System, An.	497
Ohio Censors Becoming Liberal.	1357
Ohio Censors, Circular Warning From.	880
Ohio Censors Pass "Elrth of a Nation."	990
Old Cooper-Hewitt Light.	1574
Oklahoma Convention.	1547
Oklahoma Meeting Called.	1184
Old Rut and New Ideas in Film Business.	54
Olive Branch at Albany.	500
One Decade of Picture Acting.	1510
Ontario Exhibitors' Association.	508
Ontario Exhibitors to Hold Convention.	507
Ontario, New Theater in.	1386
Ontario Picture Men Organize.	849
Ontario Ticket Tax Nets Half Million.	1803
Ontario Will Not Change Licenses.	1558
Operators to Meet in Cleveland.	827
Optimistic Mechanical Outlook.	1514
Organizations in Buffalo Are Active.	114
Oregon Exhibitors Need Organization.	732
Orient, Picture Conditions in.	2093
Ontario May Rescind Recall Rule.	1227
Oregon Has Its Exchange-Exhibitor Question.	1013
Our Exchange Department and Its Editor.	1748
Outlook in Albany, The.	1334

P

Paramount Buys Minneapolis Exchange.	81
Paramount Pictures 1916-1917.	90
Paris as Seen by a New Yorker.	1015
Parke, William.	1937
Paterson, N. J., Has Too Many Shows.	1019
Pathe and International Join Forces.	202
Pathe Gets "Luke" Comedies.	1187
Pathe Serial Plans.	65
Pathe to Show No Hearst Films in Canada.	1058
"Patricia" Thrills Spokane Society Audience.	1236
"Patsey Collivers" of the High Cost Pictures.	1161
Pearce Will Boost Program.	1072
Pennsylvania Censors Give Data.	1092
Perfect Organization, No Small Task.	604
Perrut, Leonce, Famous Frenchman, Here.	1014
Persuading Actors Into Pictures.	1516
Philadelphia Exhibitors Entertain.	1335
Philadelphia's Clean Streets.	258
Philadelphia Exhibitors Will Entertain.	991
Philadelphia Film Denials.	885
Philadelphia Film Denials.	121
Philadelphia Film Hennings.	1224
Photoplay League at Rialto.	696
Photoplay League Sees Vicar of Wakefield.	1358
Photoplaywright, The; by Fpes Winthrop Sargent.	70, 226, 366, 514, 678, 834, 998, 1170, 1342, 1562, 1760, 1914, 2101
Photoplay Writing Then and Now.	1491
Pickford, Mary, to Go to Los Angeles.	1018
Picture Business in Java, The.	1190
Picture House Near Boston Slum.	391

Picture Houses in Roseville and Orange,

N. J.	816
Picture Materials at War Prices.	209
Picture Men Try Baseball.	1166
Pictures for the Children.	667, 1925
Pictures for Children, Meeting Discusses.	563
Picture Shows in Southern Brazil.	2093
Picture Situation in Germany.	1921
Pictures to Aid Mobilization.	2114
Pittsburgh Film Denial Notes.	1614
Pine Tree State Film Denial News.	1962
Pittsburg Has New Looking Company.	721
Pittsburgh News Letter, Week of March 1.	1799
Pittsburgh Screen Club Has Social Meeting.	335
Pittsburgh Screen Club Holds Meeting.	1226
Pittsburgh Screen Club Stares a Smoker.	563
Plans for Albany Convention.	668
Playing Petty Politics.	498
Popular Picture Personalities, 78, 234, 373, 522, 691, 847, 1010, 1183, 1355, 1571, 1778, 1929, 2108
Portland, Another Censorship Seizure in.	174
Portland's Local Censors Meet.	268
Portland, Me., Theaters Raise Admissions.	1052
Portland, Ore.: Two Rits Admission in.	1810
Portland's New Years Prospects.	403
Posters, Exhibitors Think They Could Be Better.	1977
Predicts Big Year for Mutual.	65
President Attends Picture Show.	61
President cbs vs. Universal Company.	663
Pretty, Arline, Leading Lady to Fairbanks.	1750
Prevent Loss of Film, To.	1751
Prizma-Color Demonstration.	1201
Program of Variety Will Come Back Again.	1516
Programs and Features.	1359
Prohibition Picture Seen at Press Club.	720
Projection Department, by F. H. Richardson, 71, 227, 367, 515, 879, 935, 999, 1171, 1343, 1563, 1767, 1915, 2102
Projection Light.	1537
Protection, Past and Present.	1494
Province, Not City, Should Watch Operators.	1396
Province Uses Shows to Urge Recruiting.	1643
Pueblo Has New Commission, Will Censor.	118
Puyallup, Wash., Needed a Ten Cent Show.	1395

Q

Questions on Sunday Pictures.	822
-------------------------------	-----

R

Random Shots About Export.	145
Raving Preachers and Moving Pictures.	2073
Rav, Charles, Triangle-Kay Bee Star.	519
Regarding "An Unfair Condition."	538
Regina, A Censorship Conference in.	575
Reminiscences of Pictures Bahhood Days.	1525
Report of Wheeler Legislative Committee in Full.	2076
Return Entry Question Decided.	139
Rialto Books Metro's "White Raven."	535
Richardson Has Tussle With Jupiter Pluvius.	1509
Richardson Received With Enthusiasm.	2079
Richardson's Trip Appreciated.	2081
Richmond, Va., Jake Wells to Build New Theater in.	1225
Rivalry of Churches and Picture Shows.	567
Riley, Edna G.	1188
Rockford Has Sunday Shows as Formerly.	1349
Rockford's Mayor Closes Shows.	265
Rockford's Mayor Wants No Sunday Shows.	1804
Rockford Thinks of Censorship.	1062
Rocky Mountain Screen Club Roll.	1165
Rocky Mountain Screen Club Rewards.	1655
Rotary Club Out for Censorship.	1062
Ruffner, Ralph, Analyzes His Year's Business.	733
Rumored Sale of Universal.	353

S

St. John Film Men Honor Jules Wolfe.	1222
St. Louis Association Growing.	348
St. Louis Exhibitors' Meeting.	106
St. Louis Exhibitors in New Home.	992
St. Louis, Mo., Croakers in.	726
St. Louis Operators Dance.	1088
Spencer Theater Co. Opens Lafayette.	1072
Salisbury Back After Remarkable Trip.	502
Salisbury Shows Some of His New Pictures.	1021
Salter, Thelma, in "The Crab."	95
San Francisco's Film Board's Year.	267
San Francisco, Long Runs in.	1066
San Francisco, More Seats in.	1809
San Francisco Sees "Patricia."	896
San Francisco Fox Exchange's New Operators.	1235
Says the New York Globe.	1746
Schlesinger, Leon, With Radium.	844
Schools Advertise Good Films.	1232
Schulberg is Paramount's General Manager.	1196
Screen to Aid the Government.	1748
Seattle Exchange in Sunday Closing Fight.	896
Seattle, Parent-Teacher Matinees Start.	732
Seattle Exchange Men's Club.	192
Seattle Exhibitor Jones Appeals.	400
Second Run Pictures in Western Theaters.	116
Secret of Big Profits, The.	692
Selig Predicts a Good Year.	93

Selznick, Myron, Makes Important Deal.	2115
Senate Passes Radical Bill.	1223
Send Out Slides on Sunday Closing.	55
Shear, Mrs., Building a Theater.	568
Sheehan Escapes U-Boats.	2038
Shelbyville, Ind., Managers to Open Sundays.	570
Shall Stylists Write Scenarios.	2070
Short Story of Large Contracts, A.	1521
Showing Pictures Under "Fire" Conditions.	1406
Signal Company Re-opens the Majestic.	1387
Signs of Co-operation.	1650
Some Days in Keystone Beginnings.	1355
Slimm Now Chief of Northwestern Ohio.	850
Small Exhibitors Safe From Tax.	1333
Small Town Exhibitor, The.	1331
Smoky City Film Denial Doings.	269
Snow Demoralizes Mountain Business.	406
Snow, Marguerite, Opposite George M. Coban.	221
Song Side, The Little Father of Photodrama.	1520
Southern Exhibitors Organize.	1548
Southerners Organize Exchange.	1554
Spain, Picture Situation in.	2092
Spokane, Hope for Admission Raise in.	1655
State League Gets Into Sunday Campaign.	55
Status of Business in Tropical Regions.	1925
Steger to Direct Norma Talmadge.	510
Stevens Director for Bluebird.	501
Stevens, Emily, for Four Metro Features.	2081
Story of the Beginning.	1481
Suggestions for the New Year, A Few.	201
Sunday Local Option in Wisconsin.	1231
Sullivan, Lillian, in "The Great Secret."	859
Sunday Opening Protest.	2071
Summing Up the Industry.	861
Sunway Closing Issue in Three States.	827
Sunday Movies, The.	498
Sunday Opening and the Church.	499
Sunday Opening Bill in Nebraska Senate.	1390
Sunday Shows Win.	55
Sun Theater's Newspaper Is Different.	850
Supercensors Make a Visitation.	113
Swanson-Noland Theater Newspaper a Hit.	406

T

Taking a Chance.	1747
Tapley, Rose, Reaches Capital City.	259
Temperance Film, Prohibitionists See.	722
Tennessee Women Draft Bill.	506
Tenth Anniversary Recollections.	2113
Ten Years of Film Advertising.	1189
Ten Years of Film Publicity.	1530
Texas Amusement Bills, Two New.	1807
Texas Managers' Association Grows.	1302
Theater Tax, Change in Federal.	259
Thoughts of a Jellyfish.	1541
Toast to Those Who Made Mistakes.	1525
To Open Studio in Month.	1785
To Organize the West Coast.	52
Toronto, Congestion Troubles Film Men.	1645
Toronto Exhibitors Meet.	1933
Toronto Promised a 2,500 Seat Theater.	724
Toronto's Regent, Week Runs at.	1065
Toronto, Week Runs in.	261
To Tax Excess Profits.	605
Trailers.	509
Triangle Official Clears "Big T" Situation.	1753
Triangle Takes Over Producing Interests.	1784
Tri-City League Meets.	1185
Trigger Not a Candidate.	991
Trigger, Sam, Heads Manhattan Exhibitors.	208
Trigger Protests Against Deposits.	892
Troublesome Changes in New Orleans.	892
Tucker, George, in New York.	353
Turning of the Ways, The.	1515
Twelve Years in One Studio.	1507
Twenty-four Years in the Picture Business.	1522
Twenty States Have Censorship Bills.	861
Twin City Exchange Changes.	891
Twin City Price Rise Flutters.	571
Two Metro Companies Joining South.	538
Two New Kalem's Under Way.	830

U

Unadulterated Graft.	821
Uncle Sam Going After Film Business.	987
Unfair.	51
Unique Making Films for Catholics.	1924
Universal Employees Celebrate.	504
Upstate Man Champions Sunday Shows.	1544
Utah Censorship Discussion.	1237

V

Vancouver Considers Tax on Show Tickets.	575
Vancouver Operators, Many, Fall to Pass.	1069
Vancouver Supports Week Runs of Features.	897
Vanderbilt, W. K., Heads Film Company.	500
Van Der Voer Going to South America.	207
Varian, Miss, Wins Fox Art Prizes.	524
Varnier Secretary in Legislation Fight.	991
Vaudeville to the Rescue.	1976
Vaudeville, Turns From, to Films.	19
Vaughn Thanhouse Leading Man.	510
Vice Pictures, To Bar.	993
Victory for Chicago Local 110, 1. A. T. S. E.	1011

View of Trade Conditions, A.....	535
Volare, Baby Lorna	526

W

Waking Up in Idaho.....	668
Warning to Michigan Exhibitors.....	206
Warren Edward, Starts Company.....	1197
Washington Children's Shows Begin.....	394
Washington, D. C., More Children's Shows In	1384
Washington Club Women Appeal to Public.....	720
Washington State Censor Measure.....	1223
Washington Wants No State Censor Board.....	1236
We Are Facing Facts, Not Theories.....	1542
We Are Just Beginning.....	1904
We Are Now in Society.....	986

We Have "Flashed Our Roll".....	497
We Have Troubles Enough of Our Own.....	821
Wells, Jake, Buys More Theater Interests.....	566
We're at the Dawn.....	1540
We Should Be a Law unto Ourselves.....	498
Wharton to Establish Exchanges.....	1188
What Fox Is Doing.....	697
What State Censorship Would Cost.....	664
What to Say to Your Lawmakers.....	1546
What Theater Men Are Doing.....	1497
What the World's Initial Number Con- tained	1483
Wheeler Committee Reports.....	2075
Wheeler Committee Report in Full.....	2076
When the Field Was Fresh.....	1523
Why Not Boost Good Films?.....	572
Will Have Auto Pick Up Films.....	1800
Williamson Brothers to Make Films.....	1013

Willis Wood Damaged by Fire.....	533
Will This Merger Ever Come to Pass?.....	19905
Wisconsin Senate Passes Option Bill.....	1651
With the N. A. M. P. I.....	1753
Wolfberg, Harris P.....	2114
Woods, Al., Forms Picture Company.....	1944
Word From the Far East.....	210
World Film to the Trade.....	94

Y

Your Home Town Paper.....	820
---------------------------	-----

Z

Zukor Back From Coast.....	1336
----------------------------	------

Index to Reviews, Comments, and Stories of the Films

Appended is a list of subjects covered by our reviews and comments and the synopses furnished by the manufacturers released for the three months ending March 31, 1917. This list of releases with dates is as accurate as it is possible to make it with the information that we have received from the companies whose productions are included. Should any of our readers detect errors, we shall be pleased to have our attention called to them so that we may correct our card index. The letter before the folio indicates the page where the reviews, comment, or synopsis can be found. "R" stands for review; "C" for comment; and "S" for synopsis. Where reference letter is omitted to either review or comment it signifies that none was published, and the omission of reference letter "S" indicates that synopsis was not furnished by the manufacturer. Of the later releases where any or all reference letters are omitted it may be said that the missing information, or part of it, will probably be published in the next volume.

(N. B.)—Synopsis, comments, or reviews of episodes of serials or series, are indexed in connection with general title of such serial or series, and not under title of each episode.

A

Ablaze in Mid Air (No. 5 of the Purple Mask) 2 parts) (Universal Special Feature)—Jan. 28.
Absent Minded Willie (Cartoon) and See America First, No. 72 (Mutual Gaumont)— Jan. 24.
Accomplish, The (5 parts) (Art Dramas—Sher- rill)—Feb. 8—C-1212; R-1206.
Ace High (No. 3 of Perils of Our Girl Report- ers) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Jan. 10.
Actress' Romance, An (2 parts) (Gen. Film- Selig)—S-1819; C-1787.
Adventurer, The (5 parts); (Art Dramas—U. S. Amusement)—Feb. 15—C-1374; R-1208.
Adventures of Buffalo Bill (5 parts) (K-E-S-E —Essanay)—Jan. 29—S-910.
Adventures of Shorty Hamilton, No. 1 (Shorty and the Yellow Ring) (2 parts) (Mutual- Monogram)—Jan. 15—S-418; C-707.
Adventures of Shorty Hamilton, No. 2 (Shorty in the Tiger's Den) (2 parts) (Mutual- Monogram)—Jan. 22—S-585; C-707.
Adventures of Shorty Hamilton, No. 3 (Shorty Goes to College) (2 parts) (Mutual-Mono- gram)—Jan. 29—S-742; C-873.
Adventures of Shorty Hamilton, No. 4 (Shorty Joins the Secret Service) (2 parts) (Mutual- Monogram)—Feb. 5—S-1078; C-1213.
Adventures of Shorty Hamilton, No. 5 (Shorty Turns Wild Man) (2 parts); (Mutual-Mono- gram)—Feb. 12—S-1078; C-1375.
Adventures of Shorty Hamilton, No. 6 (Shorty Promotes His Love Affairs) (2 parts) (Mutual- Monogram)—Feb. 19—S-1249; C-1593.
Adventures of Shorty Hamilton, No. 7 (Shorty Hooks a Loan Shark) (2 parts) (Mutual- Monogram)—Feb. 26—S-1406; C-1593.
Adventures of Shorty Hamilton, No. 8 (Shorty Traps a Lottery King) (2 parts) (Mutual- Monogram)—Mar. 5—S-1668; C-1788.
Adventures of Shorty Hamilton, No. 9 (Shorty Trails the Moonshiners) (2 parts) (Mutual- Monogram)—Mar. 12—S-1823; C-1951.
Adventures of Shorty Hamilton, No. 10 (Shorty Bags the Bullion Thieves) (2 parts) (Mutual- Monogram)—Mar. 19—S-1985; C-2124.
Adventures of Shorty Hamilton, No. 11 (Shorty Lands a Master Crook) (2 parts) (Mutual- Monogram)—Mar. 26.
Afloat and Ashore (No. 4 of Uncle Sam's De- fenders) (Mutual)—Jan. 26.
After the Balled Up Ball (Universal—L-KO)— Feb. 21—S-1404; C-1213.
Aladdin From Broadway (5 parts) Greater Vitagraph)—Mar. 19—S-1991; C-1950; R- 1949.
Aladdin Up-to-Date (2 parts) (General Film— Black Cat—S. & A.)—S-1982; C-2123.
Alaskan Scenic, and All in a Day (Comedy) (General Film—Essanay).
Alaskan Scenic, and Animated, No. 23 Cartoon) (General Film—Essanay)—Jan. 24.
Algeria, Picturesque, and Florence Rose Fash- ions No. 19 (Pathe)—Feb. 18.

Algerian Harem, An, and Florence Rose Fash- ions No. 17 (Pathe)—Feb. 4.
Alias Nemesis (No. 6 of Patria) (2 parts) (Pathe-International)—Feb. 18.
All at Sea (Paramount—Black Diamond)—Feb. 6—S-748.
All in a Day, and Alaskan Scenic (General Film —Essanay)—S-1244; C-1374.
Alone in the World (Universal—Laemmle)— Jan. 3—S-275.
Almost a Friar (Mutual—American)—Jan. 20— S-586.
Amazing Adventure, An (2 parts) (Universal— Rex)—Mar. 8—S-1664; C-1594.
America is Ready (5 parts) (M-C Film Co.)— March—C-1594; R-1588.
America, Know: The Land We Love (Pathe- Combitone)—Mar. 18.
American Consul, The (5 parts) (Paramount— Lasky)—Feb. 15—S-1252; C-1375; R-1370.
American Girl, No. 1 (Black Rider of Tasajara) (2 parts) (General Film—Kalem)—S-1660; C-1374; R-1368.
American Girl, No. 2 (The Phantom Mine) (2 parts) (General Film—Kalem)—C-1392; R- 1588; S-1980.
American Girl, The (The Fate of Juan Garcia) (2 parts) (General Film—Kalem)—C-1787; R-1758; S-1980.
American Girl, The (The Lost Legion of the Border) (2 parts) (General Film—Kalem) —C-1950; R-1947; S-2155.
American Girl, The (The Golden Eagle Trail) (2 parts) (General Film—Kalem)—R-2119.
Americano, The (5 parts) (Triangle—Fine Arts) —Feb. 1.
Among Those Present (2 parts) (General Film —Essanay—Black Cat Feature Comedy)— Jan. 9—S-414; C-546.
Animated Weekly No. 51 (Universal)—Dec. 20— S-276; C-102.
Animated Weekly No. 52 (Universal)—Dec. 27— S-276.
Animated Weekly No. 53 (Universal)—Jan. 3— S-417; C-361.
Animated Weekly No. 54 (Universal)—Jan. 10— S-584; C-547.
Animated Weekly No. 55 (Universal)—Jan. 17— S-739; C-707.
Animated Weekly No. 56 (Universal)—Jan. 24— S-905; C-873.
Animated Weekly No. 57 (Universal)—Jan. 31— S-1077; C-1040.
Animated Weekly No. 58 (Universal)—Feb. 7— S-1247; C-1213.
Animated Weekly No. 59 (Universal)—Feb. 14— S-1405; C-1375.
Animated Weekly No. 60 (Universal)—Feb. 21— S-1661; C-1593.
Animated Weekly No. 61 (Universal)—Feb. 28— S-1822; C-1788.
Animated Weekly No. 62 (Universal)—Mar. 7— S-1984; C-1951.
Animated Weekly No. 63 (Universal)—Mar. 14; S-2157; C-2124.
Animated Weekly No. 64 (Universal)—Mar. 21.
Animated Weekly No. 65 (Universal)—Mar. 28.

Argonauts of California (10 parts) (Grafton Film Pub. Co.)—Jan.
Argyle Case, The (7 parts) (Selznick Pictures) —January—S-139; C-1213; R-1205.
Arizona, Grand Canyon of (Universal—Powers) —Mar. 28; S-2155; C-2124.
Arsene Lupin (5 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Mar. 12—S-1409; C-1374; R-1369.
Art Aches (Universal—Joker)—Mar. 17—S- 1821; C-1788.
Art and Paint (General Film—Vim)—S-1402.
Ascent of the Matterhorn (Educational Films Corp.)—R-1772.
Ashes on the Hearthstone (No. 10 of Is Mar- riage Sacred?) (2 parts) (General Film— Essanay)—Feb. 17.
As Luck Would Have It (Christie)—Mar. 5— S-1824.
As Man Made Her (5 parts) (World)—Mar. 26 —S-2160; C-2124.
As Men Love (5 parts) (Paramount—Pallas— Morosco)—Mar. 29.
Austrian Ski-School (Educational Film Corp.)— R-1772.
Avarice (Universal—Imp)—Feb. 9—S-904; C- 1040.
Awakening of Helen Minor (Metro—Drew)— Mar. 26.

B

Babette (5 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Apr. 2— C-2123; R-2119.
Bachelor's Finish, A (Triangle Comedy)—Feb. 25.
Back of the Man (5 parts) (Triangle—Kay-Bee) —Mar. 4—C-1593; R-1387.
Bad Boy, The (5 parts) (Triangle—Fine Arts) —Feb. 18—S-1250; C-1213; R-1209.
Bad Man of Cheyenne, The (2 parts) (Uni- versal—Bison)—Jan. 13—S-275; C-246.
Bare Living, A (Universal—Victor)—Feb. 23— S-1246.
Barred from the Bar (Universal—Joker)—Jan. 20—S-416; C-361.
Barriade, The (5 parts) (Metro—Rolf)—Mar. 5—S-1670; R-1761.
Barrier, The (9 parts) (Rex Beach Producing Co.)—Feb. C-548; R-545.
Battle Hymn of the Republic (General Film— Vitagraph)—Jan. 29.
Battle of Lets Go (2 parts) (Universal—L-KO) —Jan. 24—S-584; C-547; R-358.
Battle of Wits (2 parts) (Universal—Big U)— Mar. 2—S-1403.
Bay of Fundy to the St. Lawrence (Paramount —Burton Holmes)—Jan. 1.
Bearded Fisherman, The (Mutual—American) —Mar. 28.
Bears, American (No. 3 of Living Book of Nature) (Educational Films Corp.—Dit- mars)—Feb. 19.
Beauty Doctor, The (Universal—Victor)—Mar. 9—S-1664; C-1593.
Beaver, The, Prepares for Winter (No. 5 of the Living Book of Nature) (Educational Films Corp.—Ditmars)—Mar. 5.

Bees and Butterflies, and Florence Rose Fashions No. 16 (Pathe)—Jan. 28.
 Behind the Great Wall of China, and Boomer Bill's Awakening (Universal—Powers)—Jan. 28—S-584.
 Beloved Vampire, The (3 parts) (General Film—Knickerbocker Star)—Feb. 16—S-1075.
 Beloved Rogues (5 parts) (Mutual Star Production)—Jan. 15—S-586.
 Be Sure You're Right (Mutual—Cub)—Mar. 29—S-2159.
 Betsy's Burglar (5 parts) (Triangle—Fine Arts)—Mar. 4—C-1593; R-1587.
 Betty to the Rescue (5 parts) (Paramount—Lasky)—Jan. 15—S-590; C-547; R-541.
 Big Bluffs and Bowling Balls (Greater Vitagraph)—Jan. 22.
 Billy the Bandit (Universal—Victor)—Dec. 12, 1916—C-102.
 Billy Smoke (3 parts) (General Film—Broadway Star—Vit.)—Jan. 6.
 Bird's Christmas Carol, The (Warrenton Photographs)—Mar. 15.
 Birds of a Feather (3 parts) (Universal—Gold Seal)—Dec. 26, 1916—C-103.
 Birds of Prey (No. 8 of Perils of Our Girl Reporters) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Jan. 21.
 Birds of Warm Climates, Small, and Florence Rose Fashions No. 15 (Pathe)—Jan. 21—C-361.
 Bitter Truth, The (5 parts) (Fox)—Jan. 15—S-421; C-546; R-544.
 Black Circle, The (No. 14 of Grant, Police Reporter) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 19.
 Black Door, The (No. 2 of Perils of Our Girl Reporters) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Jan. 3—S-419.
 Black Evidence (Universal—Imp)—Jan. 25—S-582; C-547.
 Black Hands and Soapsuds (Christie)—Jan. 15—S-421.
 Black Magic, and Landmarks of France (Universal—Victor)—Mar. 20—S-1982.
 Blackmail (Metro—Drew)—Feb. 5—C-1039.
 Black Nine, The (Universal—Victor)—Jan. 25—S-584.
 Black Orchids (5 parts) (Bluebird)—Jan. 1—S-136; C-101; R-98.
 Black Rider of Tasajara, The (No. 1 of The American Girl) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—S-1660.
 Black Wolf, The (5 parts) (Paramount—Lasky)—Feb. 12—S-1252; C-1375; R-1208.
 Blind Justice (5 parts) (Greater Vitagraph)—Jan. 29.
 Bloodhounds of the North (2 parts) (Universal—Big U)—Jan. 18—S-416.
 Blood Money (2 parts) (Universal—Bison)—Jan. 6—S-132; C-103.
 Blood-Stained Hand, The (Universal—Laemmle)—Jan. 27—S-585.
 Blood Will Tell (5 parts) (Triangle—Kay Bee)—Mar. 18—C-1951; R-1760.
 Blue Streak (5 parts) (Fox)—Mar. 19—S-1988.
 Blundering Blacksmiths, The (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 23—S-738; C-706.
 Bobby Bumps in the Great Divide, and Paramount Bray Pictographs (Paramount—Bray)—Feb. 11—S-1411.
 Bogus Bride, The (General Film—Kalem)—C-1950; S-2154.
 Bon Bon Riot, A (Fox—Foxfilm Comedy)—Feb. 26—S-1672.
 Bombs and Banknotes (Universal—Victor)—Jan. 2—S-133.
 Bombs and Blunders (Greater Vitagraph)—Mar. 19.
 Bondage of Fear (5 parts) (World)—Jan. 22—S-591; C-548; R-540.
 Boomer Bill's Awakening, and Behind the Great Wall of China (Universal—Powers)—Jan. 28—S-584.
 Boonton Affair, The (2 parts) (Universal—Bison)—Feb. 3—C-708; S-739.
 Border Wolves (2 parts), and The Girl Who Lost (3 parts) (Universal—Red Feather)—Mar. 12—C-1594; S-1820; R-1761.
 Borrowed Engine, The (No. 3 of A Daughter of Daring) (General Film—Kalem)—C-1787.
 Bottle Imp, The (5 parts) (Paramount—Lasky)—Mar. 26.
 Boycotted Baby, The (Gen. Film—Vim)—Jan. 4—S-415; C-546.
 Boy Girl, The (5 parts) (Bluebird)—Mar. 6—S-1668; C-1374; R-1372.
 Boyhood He Forgot (Universal—Rex)—Mar. 24—S-1983.
 Brainstorm (Fox—Foxfilm Comedy)—Feb. 22—S-1081.
 Brave Little Waldo (Universal—L-KO)—Feb. 16—S-1077.
 Braving Blazes (Paramount—Black Diamond)—Jan. 8—S-140.
 Bride of Hate, The (5 parts) (Triangle—Kay-Bee)—Jan. 14—S-580; C-246; R-99.
 Bride and Gloom (2 parts) (Christie Special)—Feb. 15—R-1184.
 Bridges Burned (5 parts) (Metro—Popular P. & P.)—Jan. 29—S-744; C-872; R-871.
 Bringing Up Father (Cartoon), and Winter in Yellowstone Park (Pathe—International)—Mar. 4—C-1788.
 British Columbia, and Tinv. Slim and Fat (Cartoon) (General Film—Essanay).

Broadway Jones (Artercraft)—Mar. 26.
 Broken Hearted (Universal—Laemmle)—Feb. 17—S-1076.
 Brother's Sacrifice, A (Gen. Film—Selig)—Feb. 24—S-1661; C-1787.
 Brute Force (2 parts) (Universal—Bison)—Jan. 20—S-415; C-361.
 Bubble of Love (2 parts) (Universal—Rex)—Jan. 21—S-416; C-362.
 Bulldogs of the Deep (No. 6 of Uncle Sam's Defenders) (Mutual)—Feb. 9.
 Bullies and Bullets (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 8.
 Bulls or Bullets (General Film—Kalem)—C-1787; S-1980.
 Bundle of Trouble, A (Universal—Nestor)—Mar. 5—S-1662; C-1375.
 Buried Alive (Universal—Big U)—Mar. 4—S-1404.
 Burlesque Blackmailers (No. 6 of Dangers of Doris) (Gen. Film Vitagraph)—Jan. 26.
 Burning Band, The (No. 1 of Is Marriage Sacred?) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Dec. 16, 1916—C-101.
 Burning the Candle (5 parts) (K-E-S-E-Essanay)—Mar. 5—C-1787; R-1755; S-1988.
 Bursting Buds and Florence Rose Fashions No. 20 (Pathe)—Feb. 25—R-1927.
 Butcher's Nightmare, The (2 parts) (Mutual—Vogue)—Feb. 25—S-1249; C-1593.
 Butterflies and Bees, and Florence Rose Fashions No. 16 (Pathe)—Jan. 28.
 Butterfly Girl, The (5 parts) (Mutual Star)—Jan. 8—C-547.

C

California, Southern—Know America, The Land We Love (Pathe—Combitone)—Mar. 18.
 Calamity Anne's Legacy (Mutual—American)—Feb. 16.
 Calamity Anne's New Job (Mutual—American)—Feb. 23—S-1249.
 Calamity Anne's Protege (Mutual—American)—Mar. 2—S-1407.
 Call for Help (2 parts) (Universal—Big U)—Jan. 14—S-416.
 Canada, Beautiful Baniff (Paramount—Burton Holmes)—Feb. 12—S-1251.
 Canada; British Columbia and Animated Nooz No. 25 (Cartoon) (Gen. Film—Essanay).
 Canada, Exquisite Lake Louise (Paramount—Burton Holmes)—Feb. 26—S-1674.
 Canada, Harvesting in Alberta, and The Shooting Star (General Film—Essanay).
 Canada, Vancouver and Victoria (Paramount—Burton Holmes)—Mar. 26.
 Animated Nooz Pictorial No. 21, and Lake Tahoe, Cal. (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Dec. 27, 1916—C-245.
 Animated Nooz Pictorial No. 22, and Yosemite Valley No. 2 (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Jan. 10—S-414; C-546.
 Animated Nooz Pictorial No. 23, and Alaskan Scenic (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Jan. 24—S-738; C-872.
 Animated Nooz Pictorial No. 24, and Alaskan Scenic (Gen. Film—Essanay)—S-902; C-1212.
 Animated Nooz Pictorial No. 25, and British Columbia Scenic (Gen. Film—Essanay)—S-1403; C-1592.
 Animated Nooz Pictorial No. 26, and How Cars and Locomotive Are Made (Gen. Film—Essanay)—S-1819; C-1950.
 Animated Nooz Pictorial No. 27 (General Film—Essanay)—S-2154.
 Capt. Jinks' Alibi (Greater Vitagraph)—Mar. 12.
 Capt. Jink's Baby (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 22.
 Capt. Jink's Better Half (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 29.
 Capt. Jink's Cure (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Feb. 19.
 Capt. Jink's Explosive Temper (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Feb. 26.
 Capt. Jink's Great Expectations (Greater Vitagraph)—Mar. 26.
 Capt. Jink's Kids (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Mar. 5.
 Capt. Jink's Love Insurance (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 1.
 Capt. Jink's Partner (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 8.
 Capt. Jink's Love Letters (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Feb. 12.
 Capt. Jink's Stingy Spirit (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 15.
 Capt. Jink's Trial Balance (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 22.
 Capt. Jink's Wife's Husband (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Feb. 5.
 Capt. Jinks the Plumber (Greater Vitagraph)—Mar. 19.
 Capture, The (No. 3 of the Purple Mask) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Jan. 14—S-275.
 Carriage Call No. 101 (No. 5 of the Secret Kingdom) (2 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 29; S-789.
 Cascades, in the Heart of, and Cartoon (Pathe—International)—Mar. 11.
 Casket of Tainted Treasure, The (No. 2 of The Great Secret) (2 parts) (Metro—Serial)—Jan. 15.
 Castles For Two (5 parts) (Paramount—Lasky)—Mar. 5—S-1827; C-1788; R-1757.
 Caught With the Goods (Triangle—Komedie)—Mar. 11.
 Caught in the Web (No. 12 of The Great Secret) (2 parts) (Metro—Serial)—Mar. 26.

Cave Man's Buff (Metro—Drew)—Jan. 8—C-546; R-358.
 Ceylon, Buried Treasure, and A Day in the Life of a Dog (Universal—Powers)—Feb. 24—S-1246.
 Chased into Love (2 parts) (Fox)—Feb. 12—S-1253; R-1818.
 Chicken Cussy (5 parts) (Triangle—Fine Arts)—Jan. 28—S-745; C-707; R-701.
 Child of the Wild (5 parts) (Fox)—Feb. 26—S-1253.
 Childish Delights and Florence Rose Fashions No. 18 (Pathe)—Feb. 11.
 China, Foreign Legations In, and The Tale of a Thomas Kat (Cartoon) (Universal—Powers)—Mar. 18.
 China, North, and Cartoon Comedy (Universal—Powers)—Feb. 4—S-740.
 China and Japan, Artistic, and Cartoon Comedy (Universal—Powers)—Mar. 25.
 Circus Cyclone, A (2 parts) (Mutual—Vogue)—Jan. 28—S-742; C-873.
 Clash of Steel, The (No. 2 of Perils of the Secret Service) (Universal—Imp)—Mar. 16.
 Cliff Dwellers of New Mexico (Pathe)—Mar. 25—C-1788.
 Cloud, The (5 parts) (Art Dramas, Inc.—Van Dyke)—Mar. 8—C-1950; R-1946.
 Cloud Puncher, The (2 parts) (Fox—Foxfilm Comedy)—Feb. 5—S-1981.
 Clue from the Klondike, A (No. 8 of the Great Secret) (2 parts) (Metro—Serial)—Feb. 26.
 College Boys Special (Episode of A Daughter of Daring) (General Film—Kalem).
 Collie Market, The (One of Paula Blackton's Country Life Stories) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—March.
 Colonel's Orderly, The (No. 15 of Pearl of the Army) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Mar. 11.
 Comeback, The (2 parts) (Universal—Bison)—Feb. 24—S-1246; C-1213.
 Common Sin, The (3 parts) (Universal—Gold Seal)—Mar. 13—S-1820; C-1788.
 Cops and Cussedness (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Feb. 19.
 Country Life Stories, Paula Blackton's (Gtr. Vitagraph)—March—C-1039; R-1037 (Six separate stories).
 Counterfeiters, The (No. 14 of Perils of Our Girl Reporters) (2 parts) (Metro—Niagara)—Mar. 28.
 Courage of Silence, The (5 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Feb. 12—S-1080; C-1039; R-1036.
 Crab, The (5 parts) (Triangle—Kay-Bee)—Feb. 4—S-1082; C-707; R-543.
 Crime and Punishment (5 parts) (Pathe—Gold Rooster)—Feb. 25—S-1408; C-1213.
 Crimson Arrow, The (2 parts) (Universal—Big U)—Feb. 9—S-1076.
 Crimson Blade, The (No. 4 of Perils of the Secret Service) (2 parts) (Universal—Imp)—Mar. 30.
 Crossed Trails (Gen. Film—Knickerbocker Star)—Feb. 2—S-1074.
 Crystallization, Mysteries of (Educational Films Corp.)—R-524.
 Cupid and a Brick (Mutual—American)—Mar. 3—S-1407.
 Cupid and a Button (Mutual—American)—Mar. 21.
 Cupid's Caddies (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 16—S-581; C-360.
 Cupid's Thumbprint (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Selig)—S-1244; C-1212.
 Cupid's Touchdown (Gen. Film—Selig)—Jan. 20—S-739.
 Cupid's Puzzle (No. 9 of The Great Secret) (2 parts) (Metro—Serial)—Mar. 5.
 Cure, The (2 parts) (Mutual—Chaplin)—Mar. 19—S-1985.

D

Damaged Goods (New Edition) (7 parts) (Mutual—American)—Feb. 12—S-1078.
 Dancer's Peril, The (5 parts) (World)—Mar. 12—R-1755; C-1788; S-1990.
 Dangerous Double, A (2 parts) (Universal—Imp)—Feb. 25—S-1246; C-1213.
 Dangerous Girl, A (Keen Cartoon Corp.)—Feb. 12.
 Dangers of Doris No. 2 (The Luck Charm) (Gen. Film—Broadway Star—Vita.)—Dec. 29, 1916.
 Dangers of Doris, No. 3 (The Twin Fedoras) (Gen. Film—Broadway Stars—Vita.)—Jan. 5—C-360.
 Dangers of Doris No. 4 (One Good Turn) (Gen. Film—Broadway Star—Vita.)—Jan. 12.
 Dangers of Doris No. 5 (The Suitor of Slam) (Gen. Film—Broadway Star—Vita.)—Jan. 19.
 Dangers of Doris No. 6 (The Burlesque Blackmailers) (Gen. Film—Broadway Star—Vita.)—Jan. 26.
 Dangers of Doris No. 7 (The Gang) (Gen. Film—Broadway Star—Vita.).
 Dangers of Doris, No. 8 (Up and Down) (Gen. Film—Broadway Star—Vita.).
 Dangers of Doris, No. 9 (The Old Fourth Ward) (General Film—Broadway Star—Vitagraph).
 Dangers of Doris, No. 10 (The Road to Eternity) (General Film—Broadway Star).
 Darling Chance, The (2 parts) (Universal—Bison)—Jan. 27—S-582; C-548.
 Dark Road, The (5 parts) (Triangle—Kay-Bee)—Apr. 2—S-2164; R-2120.

Darling of Paris, The (5 parts) (Fox)—Jan. 22—S-391; C-572; R-863.
 Daughter of Daring, A, No. 1 (In the Path of Peril) (Gen. Film—Kalem) S-1660; C-1922.
 Daughter of Daring, A, No. 2 (The Registered Pouch) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—C-1932; S-1981.
 Daughter of Daring, A, No. 3 (The Borrowed Engine) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—C-1787; S-1981.
 Daughter of Daring (The College Boy's Special) (General Film—Kalem)—C-1950; R-1947; S-2154.
 Daughter of the Poor, A (5 parts) (Triangle—Fine Arts)—Mar. 18—C-1951; R-1949.
 David's Idol Dream (2 parts) (Universal—Imp) Mar. 29—S-2156; C-2124.
 Day at West Point, A (Ultra Films Inc.)—Jan.
 Day in the Life of a Dog, and Buried Treasures of Ceylon (Universal—Powers)—Feb. 25—S-1246.
 Deal in Furniture, A (Gen. Film—Vim)—S-1819.
 Death Siding, The (No. 117 of The Hazards of Helen) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Feb. 3.
 Defective Detectives (2 parts) (Universal—L-KO)—Mar. 21—S-1982; C-1951.
 Deemster, The (9 parts) (Arrow Film Corp.)—Mar.—S-1249; C-1212; R-1210.
 Deep-Dyed Villainy (Pathe-Mittenthal)—Mar. 4—C-1375.
 Deep Stunt (Gen. Film—Vim)—S-1819.
 Deer, Foreign (No. 4 of Living Book of Nature) (Educational Films Corp. Ditmars)—Feb. 26.
 Defense or Tribute? (5 parts) (Defense or Tribute Film Co.)—February.
 Delayed in Transit (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Sellg)—Jan. 15—S-739.
 Der Captain is Examined for Insurance (Cartoon), and In the Southern Highlands (Pathe—International)—Jan. 28—C-873.
 Desertion and Non-Support (No. 9 of Is Marriage Sacred?) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Feb. 10.
 Desperation (3 parts) (Universal—Gold Seal)—Mar. 6—S-1661; C-1594.
 Devils Pay-Day (5 parts) (Bluebird)—Jan. 29—S-742; C-703; R-704.
 Diary of a Puppy (One of Paula Blackton's Country Life Stories) (Gtr. Vitagraph).
 Diamonds of Destiny (Universal—Imp)—Feb. 4; S-740; C-873.
 Diamond Thieves, The (Universal—Imp)—Feb. 1—S-739.
 Did It Ever Happen to You? (Paramount—Klever Comedy)—Jan. 15—S-140.
 Different Ending (3 parts) (Universal—Gold Seal)—Mar. 27—C-2124.
 Dimple's Baby (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Vitagraph)—C-1950.
 Dimples, The Diplomat (2 parts) (General Film—Vitagraph).
 Dippy Dan's Doings (2 parts) (Universal—L-KO)—Mar. 28—S-2158.
 Dr. Zippy Opens a Sanatorium (Keen Cartoon Corp.)—Feb. 19.
 Dodging His Doom (2 parts) (Triangle—Mack Sennett Keystone)—Mar. 11—S-2164.
 Dollar Down, A; and Yosemite Valley Scenic (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Jan. 3—S-130; C-360.
 Dominion of Fernandez (No. 25 of The Girl from Frisco) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 31.
 Done in Oil (Triangle—Komedv)—Feb. 25.
 Dorothy Dares (2 parts) (Universal—Victor)—Mar. 15—S-1082.
 Double Crossed (No. 4 of Patrla) (2 parts) (Pathe—International)—Feb. 4—C-1040.
 Double Revenge (Mutual—American)—Jan. 27—S-586.
 Double Room Mystery, The (5 parts) (Bluebird)—Jan. 15—S-416; C-361.
 Down Went the Key (Universal—Nestor)—Feb. 19—S-1246; C-1213.
 Drama's Dreadful Deal (Pathe—Rolin)—Jan. 28—C-547.
 Dragon's Den, The (No. 6 of the Great Secret) (2 parts) (Metro—Serial)—Feb. 12.
 Dreaded Tube, The (No. 3 of Perils of The Secret Service) (2 parts) (Universal—Imp)—Mar. 23.
 Drifter, The (2 parts) (Universal—Bison)—Mar. 10—S-1662; C-1594.
 Dubs and Dry Goods (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Feb. 26.
 Dummy, The (5 parts) (Paramount—Famous Players)—Mar. 10—S-2161; C-2124; R-2120.
 E
 Each to His Kind (5 parts) (Paramount—Lasky)—Feb. 5—S-1083; C-1010; R-1033.
 Easy Street (2 parts) (Mutual—Chaplin)—Feb. 5—C-1010; R-1037.
 Efficiency Experts (Gen. Film—Kalem)—S-1660; C-1594.
 Elusive Idea (Cartoon), and See America First, No. 77 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Feb. 28.
 Empress, The (5 parts) (Pathe—P. P. & P.)—Mar. 11—C-1593; R-1585.
 End of a Perfect Day, The (Universal—L-KO)—Feb. 14—S-1077.
 End of the Tour, The (5 parts) (Metro—Columbia)—Feb. 5—S-907; C-1039; R-1037.

Enlighten Thy Daughter (7 parts) (Enlightenment Photoplay Corp.—Ivan)—January—S-280; C-101; R-9.
 Envy (No. 1 of the Seven Deadly Sins) (5 parts) (Triangle—McClure)—Jan. 29—C-873.
 Eternal Sin, The (Selznick)—Mar.
 Eruption of Mt. Kilauea (Universal)—R-1350; R-1179.
 Everybody Was Satisfied (Gen. Film—Sellg)—S-2154.
 Evil Love, The (5 parts) (Paramount—Lasky)—Jan. 4—S-419; C-361.
 Evil Hands (Universal—Imp)—Mar. 2—S-1404; C-1375.
 Extravagant Bride, The (No. 11 of Is Marriage Sacred?) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Feb. 24.
 Eyes of the World (10 parts) (Clune Film Mfg. Co.)—Jan.—S-392.

F

Face Down Stairs (Universal—Laemmle)—Jan. 10—S-417.
 Facing Death (No. 4 of the Purple Mask) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Jan. 21—S-417.
 Fairy Godmother, A (One of Paula Blackton's Country Life Stories) (Gtr. Vitagraph).
 Faking Fakers (2 parts) (Universal—L-KO)—Jan. 31—S-740; C-548.
 False Prophet, The (No. 21 of The Girl from Frisco) (2 parts) (General Film—Kalem)—Jan. 3—S-130.
 Fate of Juan Garcia (Episode of "The American Girl") (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Kalem).
 Fatty's Feature Film (2 parts) (Universal—L-KO)—Mar. 7—S-1611; C-1594.
 Fearless Freddy in the Woolly West and Joys and Tears of China (Universal—Powers)—Feb. 11—S-903.
 Feeding the Bears (Episode of the Living Book of Nature) (Educational Film Corp.—Ditmars)—Mar. 26.
 Feeding the Fish Eaters (Episode of the Living Book of Nature) (Educational Films Corp.—Ditmars)—Mar. 19.
 Fighting Blood of Jerry McDuh (Keen Cartoon Corp.)—Feb. 19.
 Fighting for Love (5 parts) (Universal—Red Feather)—Jan. 9—S-271; C-246; R-213.
 Fighting Gringo, The (5 parts) (Universal—Red Feather)—Mar. 26—R-1758; S-2157.
 Film Exposure, A (Triangle—Komedv)—Mar. 4.
 Final Chapter, The (No. 15 of The Shielding Shadow) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Jan. 7—S-112; C-102; R-66.
 Finish, The (2 parts) (General Film—Black Cat—S. & A.)—S-2154.
 Fire on His Pride (Universal—Victor)—Feb. 20—S-1245.
 Fireman's Nemesis, The (No. 114 of the Hazards of Helen) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 13.
 Fishing Off Sandy Hook Banks (Educational Film Corp.)—R-1927.
 Fishing Trip through Uncle Sam's Wonderland, and A Tankless Job (Cartoon) (Pathe—International)—Jan. 21.
 Five Dollar Bill (Gen. Film—Essanay)—S-1819; C-1950.
 Flag Despoller (No. 4 of Pearl of the Army) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Mar. 4.
 Flivvering (Paramount—Klever Comedy)—Mar. 12—S-1827.
 Florence Rose Fashions No. 13 and Lion Cubs (Pathe)—Jan. 7—S-282; C-102.
 Florence Rose Fashions No. 14 and Little Feathered Songsters (Pathe)—Jan. 14—C-226.
 Florence Rose Fashions (No. 15) (Pathe)—Jan. 21—C-261.
 Florence Rose Fashions No. 16 and Butterflies and Bees (Pathe)—Jan. 20—C-547.
 Florence Rose Fashions No. 17 and An Algerian Harem (Pathe)—Feb. 4—C-873.
 Florence Rose Fashions No. 18 and Childish Delights (Pathe)—Feb. 11—C-873.
 Florence Rose Fashions No. 19 and Picturesque Algeria (Pathe)—Feb. 18—C-1040.
 Florence Rose Fashions No. 20 and Bursting Buds (Pathe)—Feb. 25.
 Florence Rose Fashions No. 21 and Picturesque Catalonia, Spain (Pathe)—Mar. 4—C-1375.
 Florence Rose Fashions No. 22 and Birds of Gay Plumage (Pathe)—Mar. 11—C-1592.
 Florence Rose Fashions No. 23 and Nomads of the North (Pathe)—Mar. 18—C-1788.
 Florence Rose Fashions No. 24 and The Gardeners' Feathered Friends (Pathe)—Mar. 25—C-1951.
 Florence Rose Fashions No. 25 (Pathe)—Apr. 1—C-2194.
 Flower Making, Artificial, and Jerry on the Job, cartoon (Pathe—International)—Mar. 18.
 Flyer in Flanlocks, A (Gen. Film—Kalem)—S-1402; C-1374.
 Flying Target A (Mutual—Cuh)—Mar. 8—S-1663; C-1051.
 Folly of Fanchette (2 parts) (Universal—Imp)—Feb. 22—S-1246; C-1213.
 Foolish Virgin, The (5 parts) (Selznick)—December 1916—S-139.
 Footlights and Fakers (Greater Vitagraph)—Mar. 12.

Forbidden City and The Trials of Willy Winks (Universal—Powers)—Jan. 7.
 Forbidden Game, The (2 parts) (Universal—Imp)—Feb. 2—S-739; C-707.
 Foreign Alliance, The (No. 12 of Pearl of the Army) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Feb. 18.
 For Honor's Sake (Universal—Big U)—Mar. 15—S-1821.
 For Reward of Service (Gen. Film—Sellg)—S-1403; C-1374; R-866.
 For the Stars and Stripes (No. 7 of Pearl of the Army) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Jan. 14—S-426.
 Fortunes of Fif, The (5 parts) (Paramount—Famous Players)—Feb. 26—S-1674; C-1593; R-1590.
 Four Cent Courtship (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Black Cat—S&A)—S-1403; C-1592.
 Fourth Witness, The (2 parts) (Universal—Laemmle)—Feb. 16—S-1076; C-1010.
 France, Landmarks of, and Black Magic (Universal—Victor)—Mar. 20.
 Freed by Fido (2 parts) (Mutual—Vogue)—Mar. 31.
 Friends in San Rosario (2nd of O. Henry Series) (2 parts); (Broadway Star Feature)—R-2121.
 From Civilian to Soldier (No. 1 of Uncle Sam's Defenders) (Mutual)—Jan. 5.
 From Sunshine to Shadow (No. 4 of the Great Secret) (2 parts) (Metro—Serial)—Jan. 29—S-424.
 Fugitive, The (2 parts) (Universal—Imp)—Jan. 26—S-582; C-548.
 Funicular Railway of Niesen and The Rented Man (2 parts) (Universal—Rex)—Mar. 1—S-1406.

G

Gang, The (No. 7 of Dangers of Doris) (Gen.—Broadway Star—Vita.).
 Garden of Allah (10 parts) (Sellg).
 Garden of Sorrow (No. 1 of The Purple Mask) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Mar. 11.
 Gardeners' Feathered Friends, and Florence Rose Fashions No. 24 (Pathe)—Mar. 25.
 Gates of Doom (5 parts) (Universal—Red Feather)—Mar. 5—S-1664; C-1593; R-1589.
 Gay Deceiver, A (Christie)—Jan. 29—S-744.
 Gentle Intruder, The (5 parts) (Mutual Star)—Jan. 19—S-1248.
 Gentleman of Nerve, A (Universal—Victor)—Jan. 9—S-275; C-246.
 Georgian Bay to Winnipeg (Paramount—Burton Holmes)—Jan. 29—S-910.
 Germany and Its Armies of Today (10 parts) (Germanic Official War Films, Inc.)—January.
 C-872; R-686; R-701; R-843.
 Ghost Hounds (Gen. Film—Kalem)—S-1074; C-1212; R-1035.
 Ghost Ship (No. 7 of the Secret Kingdom) (2 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Feb. 12.
 Giants of the American Forest (Universal—Powers)—Feb. 8—S-903.
 Gift Girl, The (5 parts) (Bluebird)—Mar. 26—C-1787; R-1758; S-2160.
 Gild Youth, A (5 parts) (Mutual Star)—Jan. 1—C-547; R-542.
 Girl and the Crisis, The (5 parts) (Universal—Red Feather)—Feb. 29—S-1405; C-1375; R-1372.
 Girl from Frisco No. 21 (The False Prophet) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 3—S-130; S-414; C-360; R-243.
 Girl from Frisco No. 22 Resurrection of Gold Bar (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 10—S-414; C-546; R-356.
 Girl from Frisco No. 23 (The Homesteader's Feud) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 17—S-581; C-706; R-543.
 Girl from Frisco No. 24 (Wolf of Los Alamos) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 24—S-738; C-872; R-702.
 Girl from Frisco No. 25 (The Dominion of Fernandez) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 31—S-902; C-1039; R-870.
 Girl from Rectors, The (5 parts) (Mutual Star)—Mar. 5—S-1666.
 Girl God Made for Jones (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Black Cat—S&A)—Jan. 2—S-130; C-360.
 Girl Like That, A (5 parts) (Paramount—Famous Players)—Jan. 18—S-748; C-707; R-701.
 Girl of the Hour (Universal—Victor)—Feb. 13—S-1076.
 Girl of the Timberclaims (5 parts) (Triangle—Fine Arts)—Feb. 11—S-1082; C-873; R-704.
 Girl Reporter's Scoop, The (2 parts) (Universal—Imp)—Feb. 14—S-1076.
 Girl's Folly, A (5 parts) (World)—Feb. 26—S-1410; C-1375; R-1369.
 Girl Who Can Cook, The (Mutual)—Jan. 6—S-277; C-547.
 Girl Who Didn't Think (6 parts) (Creative Film Corp.)—February—C-1039; R-870.
 Girl Who Doesn't Know, The (5 parts) (B. S. Moss)—January—R-1815; C-1821.
 Girl Who Lost, The (3 parts) and Border Wolves (2 parts) (Universal—Red Feather)—Mar. 12—C-1594; S-1820; R-1761.
 Girl in Number 7 (No. 1 of Mystery of The Double Cross) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Mar. 18.
 Girl Philippa (8 parts) (Greater Vitagraph)—S-589; C-360; R-356.

Glory of Yolando (5 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 20—S-744; C-706; R-703.
 Glory (6 parts) (Unity)—Jan. 15—S-743; C-708; R-704.
 God of Little Children (5 parts) (Art Dramas—Apollo)—Jan. 18; S-422; C-546; R-543.
 God's Crucible (5 parts) (Bluebird)—Jan. 22—S-591; C-546; R-542.
 God's Man (9 parts) (Frohman Amusement Co.)—Mar.
 Goin' Straight (2 parts) (Universal—Bison)—Mar. 24—S-1982; C-195.
 Golden Eagle Trail (Gen. Film—Kalem)—C-2123.
 Golden Fetter, The (5 parts)—Jan. 25—S-910; C-873; R-868.
 Golden Rosary, The (5 parts) (Film Exchange)—Jan.
 Gold Dust, The (Universal—Big U)—Jan. 31—S-740.
 Good for Nothing Gallagher (Universal—Big U)—Mar. 8—S-1661; C-1593.
 Good Mornin', Nurse (Universal—Victor)—Mar. 6—S-1664.
 Grab Bag Bride, A (Triangle—Keystone)—Feb. 1.
 Grant, Police Reporter, No. 12 (The House of Secrets) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 5—S-414; C-360; R-243.
 Grant, Police Reporter, No. 13 (The Trail of Graft) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 12—S-581; C-546.
 Grant, Police Reporter, No. 14 (The Black Circle) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 19—S-581; C-706; R-544.
 Grant, Police Reporter, No. 15 (The Violet Ray) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 26—S-738; C-872; R-702.
 Grant, Police Reporter, No. 16 (The Net of Intrigue) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Feb. 2—S-1074; C-1039; R-870.
 Grant, Police Reporter, No. 17 (The Trap) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—S-1074; C-1212; R-1035.
 Grant, Police Reporter, No. 18 (Winged Diamonds) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—S-1402.
 Grant, Police Reporter, No. 19 (The Screened Vault) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—S-1402; C-1374; R-1368.
 Grant, Police Reporter, No. 20 (The Mirror of Fear) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—S-1660; C-1592; R-1588.
 Grant, Police Reporter (In the Web of the Spider) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—C-1787; R-1759.
 Grant, Police Reporter (The Veiled Thunderbolt) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—C-1787; S-1981.
 Grant, Police Reporter (The Vanishing Financier) (2 parts) (General Film—Kalem)—C-2123; R-2119.
 Great Expectations (5 parts) (Paramount—Famous Players)—Jan. 8—S-420; C-547; R-357.
 Great Secret, The, No. 1 (The Secret Seven) (3 parts) (Metro—Serial)—Jan. 8—S-136; C-361; R-355.
 Great Secret, The, No. 2 (Casket of Tainted Treasure) (2 parts) (Metro—Serial)—Jan. 15—S-355.
 Great Secret, The, No. 3 (The Hidden Hand) (2 parts) (Metro—Serial)—Jan. 22—S-281; R-355.
 Great Secret, The, No. 4 (From Sunshine to Shadow) (2 parts) (Metro—Serial)—Jan. 29—S-424; R-355.
 Great Secret, The, No. 5 (The Trap) (2 parts) (Metro—Serial)—Feb. 5—S-589; R-355.
 Great Secret, The, No. 6 (The Dragon's Den) (2 parts) (Metro—Serial)—Feb. 12—S-908; C-1212; R-1206.
 Great Secret, The, No. 7 (The Yellow Claw) (2 parts) (Metro—Serial)—Feb. 19—S-1080; C-1212; R-1206.
 Great Secret, The, No. 8 (A Clue from the Klondike) (2 parts) (Metro—Serial)—Feb. 26—S-1252; C-1212; R-1207.
 Great Secret, The, No. 9 (Cupid's Puzzle) (2 parts) (Metro—Serial)—Mar. 5—S-1411; C-1787; R-1757.
 Great Secret, The, No. 10 (The Woman and the Gnome) (2 parts) (Metro—Serial)—Mar. 12—S-1825; C-1787; R-1757.
 Great Secret, The, No. 11 (A Shot in the Dark) (2 parts) (Metro—Serial)—Mar. 19—S-1987; C-2123; R-2117.
 Great Secret, The, No. 12 (Caught in the Web) (2 parts) (Metro—Serial)—Mar. 26—S-2166; C-2123; R-2117.
 Great Tornado Secret, The (3 parts) (Universal—Gold Seal)—Feb. 20—S-1245.
 Great Treasure (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Selig)—S-1660; C-1787.
 Greater Woman, The (5 parts) (Mutual Star—Powell)—Feb. 26—S-1406; C-1593.
 Greed (No. 3 of The Seven Deadly Sins) (5 parts) (Triangle—McClures)—Feb. 19—S-1083.
 Grey Seal, The (No. 1 of Jimmie Dale, Alias The Grey Seal) (2 parts) (Mutual—Monmouth)—Mar. 23.
 Grudge, The (2 parts) (Universal—Rex)—Mar. 25—S-1983; C-1951.
 Gun Fighter, The (5 parts) (Triangle—Kay-Bee)—Feb. 11—S-1082; C-873; R-869.

Half-Breed's Confession, The (Universal—Big U)—Feb. 15—S-1076.
 Hall Room Girls, The (Gen. Film—Vitagraph).
 Ham What Was, The (2 parts) (General Film—Black Cat—S. & A.).
 Hans and Fritz Cartoon (Pathe)—Apr. 1—C-2124.
 Happiness of Three Women, The (5 parts) (Paramount—Morosco—Pallas)—Jan. 11—S-590; C-547; R-511.
 Happy Hooligan Cartoon, and Blackfoot Indians (Pathe—International)—Feb. 11.
 Happy Hooligan Cartoon (The Double Crossed Nurse), and Rope Making (Pathe—International)—Mar. 25; C-2124.
 Happy Nat's Dilemma (Gen. Film—Vim)—S-1244; C-1374.
 Harry's Pig (Gen. Film—Vim)—S-1244; C-1374.
 Hash House Mystery, The (2 parts) (Universal—Victor)—Mar. 22—S-1982; C-1951.
 Hasty Hazing, A (Universal—Nestor)—Feb. 12—S-1077; C-1040.
 Hazards of Helen, No. 113 (The Mogul Mountain Mystery) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 6—S-414; C-101.
 Hazards of Helen, No. 114 (The Fireman's Nemesis) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 13—S-581; C-245.
 Hazards of Helen, No. 115 (The Wrecked Station) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 20—S-582; C-546.
 Hazards of Helen, No. 116 (The Railroad Claim Intrigue) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 27—S-738; C-546.
 Hazards of Helen, No. 117 (The Death Siding) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Feb. 3—S-1074; C-706.
 Hazards of Helen, No. 118 (The Prima Donna's Special) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—S-1074; C-1039.
 Hazards of Helen, No. 119 (The Slide Tracked Sleeper) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—S-1244; C-1212; R-1035.
 Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 1—Jan. 2—C-360.
 Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 2—Jan. 5—C-360.
 Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 3—Jan. 8.
 Hearst-Pathe News No. 4—Jan. 10—S-588.
 Hearst-Pathe News No. 5—Jan. 13—S-746.
 Hearst-Pathe News No. 6—Jan. 17—S-746.
 Hearst-Pathe News No. 7—Jan. 20—S-912.
 Hearst-Pathe News No. 8—Jan. 21—S-912.
 Hearst-Pathe News No. 9—Jan. 27—S-1084.
 Hearst-Pathe News No. 10—Jan. 31—S-1084.
 Hearst-Pathe News No. 11—Feb. 3—S-1249.
 Hearst-Pathe News No. 12—Feb. 7—S-1249.
 Hearst-Pathe News No. 13—Feb. 10—S-1407.
 Hearst-Pathe News No. 14—Feb. 14—S-1408.
 Hearst-Pathe News No. 15—Feb. 17—S-1674.
 Hearst-Pathe News No. 16—Feb. 21—S-1674.
 Hearst-Pathe News No. 17—Feb. 24—S-1826.
 Hearst-Pathe News No. 18—Feb. 28—S-1826.
 Hearst-Pathe News No. 19 (Pathe—International)—Mar. 3—S-1941.
 Hearst-Pathe News No. 20 (Pathe—International)—Mar. 7—S-1992.
 Hearst-Pathe News No. 21 (Pathe—International)—Mar. 10—S-2159.
 Hearst-Pathe News No. 22 (Pathe—International)—Mar. 14.
 Hearst-Pathe News No. 23 (Pathe—International)—Mar. 17.
 Hearst-Pathe News No. 24 (Pathe—International)—Mar. 21.
 Hearst-Pathe News No. 25 (Pathe—International)—Mar. 24.
 Hearst-Pathe News No. 26 (Pathe—International)—Mar. 28.
 Hearst-Pathe News No. 27 (Pathe—International)—Mar. 31.
 Hearts and Saddles (2 parts) (Fox—Foxfilm Comedy)—Mar. 12—S-2162.
 Heart of Mary Ann (Universal—Victor)—Feb. 22—S-1946; C-1913.
 Heart of Texas Ryan (5 parts) (K-E-S-E—Selig)—Feb. 26—S-1253; C-1374; R-1369.
 Heartsick at Sea (Universal—L-KO)—Jan. 17—S-415; C-361.
 Heart Strategy (Triangle—Keystone)—Jan. 28.
 Heart Springs (5 parts) (Universal—Red Feather)—Jan. 22—S-582; C-547; R-544.
 He Did It Himself (Paramount—Black Diamond)—Jan. 22—S-420.
 He Got There After All (Paramount—Klever Comedy)—Feb. 12—S-1083.
 Hell by the Enemy (Universal—Victor)—Jan. 26—S-584; C-547.
 Hell Morgan's Girl (5 parts) (Bluebird Special)—Mar. 5—S-1668; C-1592; R-1590.
 He Meant Well (Paramount—Klever Comedy)—Jan. 1—S-140.
 He Never Touched Me (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Feb. 12.
 Henry W. Zimny Buys a Pet (Keen Cartoon Corn)—Jan. 29.
 Her Beloved Enemy (5 parts) (Pathe—Gold Rooster)—Mar. 4—S-1876; R-1368.
 Her Candy Kid (Triangle—Komed)—Mar. 25.
 Her Cave Man (Triangle—Komed)—Mar. 4.
 Her Circus Knight (2 parts) (Triangle—Mack Sennet—Keystone)—Mar. 19—S-1670.

Her Condoned Sin (6 parts) (Biograph State Rights)—January—C-706; R-705.
 Her Fame and Shame (2 parts) (Triangle—Mack Sennet—Keystone)—Mar. 25.
 Her Father's Station (2 parts) (Fox—Foxfilm Comedy)—Mar. 12—S-1987.
 Her Friend, The Chaucer (Christie)—Jan. 22—S-391.
 Her Father's Keeper (Triangle)—R-2121.
 Her Good Name (5 parts) (Art Dramas—Van Dyke)—Jan. 25—C-872; R-867.
 Her Life and His (Pathe—Gold Rooster)—Feb. 18—S-1084; C-1040; R-1035.
 Hermit's Hoard, The (Mutual—American)—Feb. 17.
 Her New York (5 parts) (Pathe—Gold Rooster)—Jan. 7—S-142; C-102; R-56.
 Her Obsession (Metro—Drew)—Feb. 19.
 Hero of Junko Hill (Universal—Victor)—Feb. 2—S-739; C-707.
 Heroes of the Plains (Universal—Big U)—Feb. 23—S-1246.
 Her Own People (5 parts) (Paramount—Morosco and Pallas)—Feb. 8—S-1083; C-1375; R-1209.
 Her Right to Live (5 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 22—S-589; C-548; R-542.
 Her Scrambled Ambition (Paramount—Black Diamond)—Feb. 19—S-1251.
 Her Soul's Inspiration (5 parts) (Bluebird)—Jan. 15—S-590; C-360; R-356.
 Hidden Children, The (5 parts) (Metro—Yorke)—Mar. 26—S-2166.
 Hidden Danger, The (2 parts) (Universal—Big U)—Mar. 18—S-1821.
 Hidden Hand, The (No. 3 of The Great Secret) (2 parts) (Metro—Serial)—Jan. 22—S-281.
 High Cost of Living (Metro—Drew)—Mar. 19—C-1950.
 High Cost of Starving (Universal—Victor)—Feb. 9—S-904; C-873.
 High Finance (5 parts) (Fox)—Mar. 26—S-2162.
 Highlands, In the Southern; and Der Captain Is Examined for Life Insurance (Cartoon) (Pathe—International)—Jan. 28.
 High, Low and the Game (Educational Films Corp.—Bruce)—January—R-523.
 His Bogus Boast (2 parts) (Mutual—Vogue)—Mar. 10—S-1668; C-1951.
 His Coming Out Party (Universal—Joker)—Feb. 3—S-740; C-707.
 His Deadly Undertaking (Triangle—Keystone)—Feb. 11.
 His Father's Son (5 parts) (Metro—Rolle)—Mar. 19—S-1987; C-2123; R-2121.
 His Flirting Ways (Christie)—Mar. 12—S-1990.
 His Lesson (Gen. Film—Broadway Star)—Jan. 1.
 His Little Room Mate (2 parts) (Universal—Victor)—Jan. 19—S-415.
 His Little Spirit Girl (Gen. Film—Vitagraph)—Jan. 26—C-872.
 His Merry Mix-Up (2 parts) (Fox—Foxfilm Comedy)—Mar. 26.
 His Model Wife (Christie)—Jan. 1—S-137; C-101.
 His Movie Mustache (Gen. Film—Vim)—Jan. 11.
 His Perfect Day (Metro—Drew)—Jan. 15.
 His Rise and Tumble (Triangle—Komed)—Mar. 18.
 His Sweetheart (5 parts) (Paramount—Morosco)—Jan. 29—S-910; C-873; R-868.
 His Ticklish Job (2 parts) (Fox—Foxfilm Comedy)—Feb. 29—S-1081.
 His Wife's Relatives (Universal—Nestor)—Feb. 5—S-904; C-873.
 Hobbled Hearts (Triangle—Komed)—Mar. 11.
 Homeless (Universal—Laemmle)—Jan. 20—S-417.
 Homesteader's Feud, The (No. 23 of The Girl from Frisco) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 17.
 Homelike's Weapon, The (Mutual—American)—Mar. 10.
 Honeyless Honeymoon, The (Paramount—Klever Comedy)—Jan. 29—S-590.
 Honeymooners, The (Mutual Star Comedy)—Jan. 13—S-418; C-706.
 Honeymoon Surprise, The (Universal—Victor)—Jan. 23—S-584; C-547.
 Honest Thieves (Triangle—Keystone)—Jan. 25.
 Honorable Mr. Oxenham, The (No. 4 of The Secret Kingdom) (2 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 22—S-423.
 Honorably Discharged (Universal—Imp)—Jan. 12—S-274; C-246.
 Honor System, The (10 parts) (Fox Special)—February—C-1374; R-1370.
 Hoodooed Story, The (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Black Cat—S&A)—Feb. 10—S-902; C-1212.
 Hoovey Heroes (Pathe—Mittenthal)—Mar. 11—C-1593.
 Hotel Mix-Up, A (Belmont Film Co.)—Feb. 26.
 Hour of Terror, An (Universal—Imp)—Mar. 1—S-1404.
 House of Mystery, The (No. 10 of The Purple Mask) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Mar. 4.
 House Built Upon Sand (5 parts) (Triangle—Fine Arts)—Dec. 31—S-282; C-246; R-100.
 House of Secrets, The (No. 1 of Grant, Police Reporter) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 5.
 House of Terrible Scandals (2 parts) (Fox—film Comedy)—Feb. 26—S-1824.

How to Be Happy Though Married (Universal—Victor)—Jan. 5—S-133; C-102.
 Hubby's Night Out (Christie)—Feb. 19—S-1251.
 Human Flame, The (Universal—Laemmle)—Mar. 8—S-1660.
 Hungry Heart, A (5 parts) (World)—Feb. 5—S-909; C-874; R-866.
 Ice Bullet, The (5 parts) (Triangle—Kay-Bee)—Jan. 25—S-745; C-361; R-214.
 If We Should Go to War (2 parts) (A. Stone)—Feb. 14.
 Image Maker, Tho (5 parts) (Pathe—Gold Rooster)—Jan. 21—S-588; C-547; R-541.
 In Again, Out Again (Universal—Nestor)—Mar. 23—S-1983.
 India, the Brightest Jewel in the British Crown, and Inbad the Sailor (Universal—Powers)—Apr. 1—S-2155.
 Indians, Blackfoot, and Happy Hooligan Cartoon Comic (Pathe—International)—Feb. 11.
 Indian's Hand (No. 14 of Lass of the Lumberlands) (2 parts) (Mutual—Signal)—Jan. 21.
 Indian's Lament, The (3 parts) (Universal—Gold Seal)—Feb. 13—S-1075; C-1040.
 Indiscretion (5 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 15—S-138; C-245; R-98.
 Infidelity (5 parts) (Art Dramas—Erbograph)—Jan. 11—S-744; C-546; R-544.
 Innocence of Lizette, The (5 parts) (Mutual Star—American)—Dec. 25, 1916—S-278; C-361; R-358.
 Inspirations of Harry Larabee (4 parts) (Gen. Film—Fortune)—S-1819; C-1787; R-1759.
 International Split Reel—Dec. 25, 1916—S-137.
 International Split Reel—Jan. 1.
 In the Beef and Butter Country, and The Lucky One (General Film—S. & A.).
 In the Dead of Night (2 parts) (Universal—Imp)—Dec. 22, 1916—C-102.
 In the Hands of the Law (B. S. Moss)—Mar.
 In the Shadows of Night (Universal—Rex)—Feb. 11—S-904.
 In Payment of the Past (Gen. Film—Selig)—Jan. 6—S-131; C-546.
 In the Path of Peril (No. 1 of The Daughter of Daring (General Film—Kalem).
 International Diplomacy (No. 8 of Pearl of the Army) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Jan. 21.
 Intrigue (5 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Feb. 26—S-1670; C-1592; R-1586.
 Invisible Web, The (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Black Cat—Essanay)—S-1819; C-1787.
 Island of Desire (5 parts) (Fox)—Jan. 1—S-137; C-546; R-243.
 Is Marriage Sacred? No. 1 (The Burning Band) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Dec. 16—C-101.
 Is Marriage Sacred? No. 2 (Dancing With Folly) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Dec. 23—C-360.
 Is Marriage Sacred? No. 3 (Wife in Sunshine) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Dec. 30.
 Is Marriage Sacred? No. 4 (When the Man Speaks) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Jan. 6—S-130; C-546.
 Is Marriage Sacred? No. 5 (The Wide Wrong Way) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Jan. 13—S-414; C-706.
 Is Marriage Sacred? No. 6 (The Sinful Marriage) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Jan. 20—S-581; C-872.
 Is Marriage Sacred? No. 7 (The Magic Mirror) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Jan. 27—S-738; C-1039.
 Is Marriage Sacred? No. 8 (Shifting Shadows) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Feb. 3—S-738; C-1212.
 Is Marriage Sacred? No. 9 (Desertion and Non-Support) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Feb. 10—S-902; C-1374.
 Is Marriage Sacred? No. 10 (Ashes on the Hearthstone) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Essanay)—S-1244; C-1374.
 Is Marriage Sacred? No. 11 (The Extravagant Bride) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Essanay)—S-1403; C-1592.
 Is Marriage Sacred? No. 12 (The Vanishing Woman) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Mar. 3—S-1819; C-1950.
 Is Marriage Sacred? No. 13 (The Pulse of Madness) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Essanay)—S-1819.
 Is Marriage Sacred? (The Pallid Dawn) (2 parts) (General Film—Essanay)—S-1982; C-2123.
 Is Marriage Sacred? (The Wifeless Husband) (2 parts) (General Film—Essanay)—S-2154.
 Is Marriage Sacred? (Meddling With Marriage) (2 parts) (General Film—Essanay).
 Is Money Ali? (Universal—Laemmle)—Mar. 28—S-2157; C-2124.
 It Makes a Difference (Universal—Rex)—Mar. 11—S-1664; C-1593.
 It's All Wrong (Gen. Film—Vim)—S-902.
 It's Cheaper to Be Married (Universal—Victor)—Feb. 1—S-739; C-707.
 Ivy and the Oak, The (2 parts) (Universal—Rex)—Dec. 21, 1916—C-102.
 Jack Tar in the Making, A (No. 3 of Uncle Sam's Defenders) (Mutual)—Jan. 19—S-418.

Jade Necklace, The (No. 1 of Perils of Our Girl Reporters) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Dec. 28, 1916—C-102.
 Japan and China, Artistic, and Cartoon Comedy (Universal—Powers)—Mar. 25—S-1983.
 Jealous Jolts (2 parts) (Mutual—Vogue)—Dec. 31, 1916—S-134; C-361.
 Jeb Jenkins, The Village Genius (Keen Cartoon Corp.)—Jan. 15.
 Jerry's Romance (Mutual—Cub)—Mar. 1—S-1406; C-1787.
 Jerry's Triple Alliance (Mutual—Cub)—Mar. 15—S-1823; C-2123.
 Jerry's Winning Ways (Mutual—Cub)—Jan. 11—S-418; C-547.
 Jerry on the Job Cartoon, and Artificial Flower Making (Pathe—International)—Mar. 18; C-2124.
 Jerry and His Pal (Mutual—Cub)—Feb. 1—S-741; C-1039.
 Jerry and the Outlaws (Mutual—Cub)—Jan. 25—S-585; C-873.
 Jerry McDub Collects Some Accident Insurance (Keen Cartoon Corp.)—Jan. 22.
 Jerry Saves the Navy (Pathe—International)—Feb. 18.
 Jerry's Big Doings (Mutual—Cub)—Jan. 18—S-906; C-706.
 Jerry's Big Mystery (Mutual—Cub)—Feb. 15—S-1078; C-1374.
 Jerry's Big Raid (Mutual—Cub)—Feb. 8—S-906; C-1213.
 Jerry's Brilliant Scheme (Mutual—Cub)—Feb. 22—S-1247; C-1593.
 Jerry's Double Header (Mutual—Cub)—Jan. 4—C-361.
 Jewel of Death, The (2 parts) (Universal—Big U)—Jan. 7—S-416.
 Jim Bludso (5 parts) (Triangle—Fine Arts)—Feb. 4—S-1082; C-873; R-869.
 Jimmy Dale, Alias The Grey Seal, No. 1 (The Grey Seal) (2 parts) (Mutual—Monmouth)—Mar. 23—S-2159.
 Jimmy Dale, Alias The Grey Seal, No. 2 (The Stolen Rubies) (2 parts) (Mutual—Monmouth)—Mar. 30—S-2159.
 Joan, The Woman (11 parts) (Cardinal Film Corp.)—December, 1916—C-245; R-239.
 Job for Life, A (Gen. Film—Vim)—Feb. 2—S-903.
 John Bates' Secret (Universal—Imp)—Jan. 13—S-415.
 John Osborn's Triumph (2 parts) (Universal—Bison)—Feb. 17—S-1075; C-1040.
 Jolts and Jewelry (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 15.
 Jones Keeps House (Gen. Film—Vitagraph)—Jan. 8.
 Joys and Tears of China, and Fearless Freddy in The Woolly West (Universal—Powers)—Feb. 11—S-903.
 June Madness (3 parts) (Universal—Gold Seal)—Jan. 30—S-740; C-548.
 Jungle Tragedy, A (2 parts) (Universal—Big U)—Jan. 28—S-584.
 Jungle Vaudeville (One of the Living Books of Nature) (Educational Films Corp.—Ditmars)—Mar. 12.
 Just a Song at Twilight (5 parts) (Dixie Film Co.)—December, 1916—S-138.

K

Kartoon Komies and See America First, No. 70 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Jan. 10.
 Keeper of the Gate, The (Universal—Rex)—Feb. 22—S-1245; C-1213.
 Keys, The (5 parts) (K-E-S-E—Essanay)—Feb. 12.
 Kick In (5 parts) (Pathe—Gold Rooster)—Jan. 14—S-426; C-246; R-241.
 Kidding Sister (Christie)—Feb. 26—S-1670.
 King of the Rails (General Electric Co.)—R-842.
 Kitty Mackay (5 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Feb. 19—C-1374; R-1372.
 Know America, the Land We Love (Pathe—Combitone)—Mar. 18.
 Krazy Kat Cartoon, and In the Heart of the Cascades (Pathe—International)—Mar. 11—C-1951.

L

Lady in the Library, A (Gen. Film—Vitagraph)—Feb. 2.
 Lady in No. 7 (No. 1 of Mystery of The Double Cross) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Mar. 18.
 Lake Louise, Exquisite (Paramount—Burton Holmes)—Feb. 26.
 Land of Intrigue, The (No. 1 of the Secret Kingdom) (3 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 1—S-278.
 Land of Buddha and Mr. Fuller Pep, An Old Bird Pays Him a Visit (Universal—Powers)—Mar. 4—S-1403.
 Land of Nowhere, The (2 parts) (Mutual—Vogue)—Jan. 7—S-134.
 Land of the Son of Heaven and Cartoon Comedy (Universal—Powers)—Jan. 21—S-417.
 Landmarks of France, and Black Magic (Universal—Victor)—Mar. 20—S-1982.
 Lash of Destiny, The (Art Dramas—Van Dyke)—Dec. 21—C-101; R-96.
 Lass of the Lumberlands, No. 10 (2 parts) (Mutual—Signal)—Dec. 25, 1916—S-134; C-102.
 Lass of the Lumberlands, A, No. 11 (2 parts) (Mutual—Signal)—Dec. 31, 1916—S-278; C-361.

Lass of the Lumberlands, No. 12 (2 parts) (Mutual—Signal)—Jan. 7.
 Lass of the Lumberlands, No. 13 (2 parts) (Mutual—Signal)—Jan. 14.
 Lass of the Lumberlands, No. 14 (The Indian's Hand) (2 parts)—Jan. 21—C-707.
 Lass of the Lumberlands, No. 15 (2 parts)—Jan. 28—C-873.
 Last Cigarette, Tue (No. 1 of Perils of the Secret Service) (2 parts) (Universal—Imp)—Mar. 9.
 Last of the Fighting Channings (No. 1 of Patria) (3 parts) (Pathe—International)—Jan. 14.
 Last of the Ingrahams (5 parts) (Triangle—Kay-Bee)—Mar. 1—C-1375; R-1210.
 Last Sentence, The (5 parts) (K-E-S-E—Edison)—Jan. 1—S-120; C-546; R-243.
 Last Volunteer, The (3 parts) (Pathe)—Jan. 7—C-102.
 Law That Failed, The (Art Dramas—Apolla)—Mar. 29.
 Leap, The (No. 13 of The Purple Mask) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Mar. 25.
 Liberty, No. 20 (A Daughter of the U. S. A.) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Dec. 31, 1916—S-132; C-103.
 Life's Pendulum (2 parts) (Universal—Rex)—Feb. 4—S-904.
 Lighted Lamp, The (Gen. Film—Essanay)—S-1244; C-1374.
 Limberger Cyclone, A (2 parts) (Universal—L-KO)—Jan. 10—S-415; C-246.
 Lion Cubs and Florence Rose Fashions, No. 13 (Pathe)—Jan. 7—S-282; R-235.
 Lisle Bank, A (2 parts) (Mutual—Vogue)—Jan. 14—S-418.
 Little Brown Mole, The (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Black Cat—Essanay)—Dec. 19, 1916—C-101.
 Little Brother, The (5 parts) (Triangle—Kay-Bee)—Mar. 11—S-1828; R-1371; C-1951.
 Little Feathered Songsters and Florence Rose Fashions, No. 14 (Pathe)—Jan. 14.
 Little Lost Sister (5 parts) (K-E-S-E—Selig)—Mar. 12—C-1950; R-1946.
 Little Partner (3 parts) (Universal—Special)—Dec. 19, 1916—C-102.
 Little Rebel's Sacrifice (Universal—Eig U)—Jan. 19—S-416.
 Little Shoes (5 parts) (K-E-S-E—Essanay)—Jan. 15—S-281; C-706; R-700.
 Little Strategist (One of Paula Blackton's Country Life Stories (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Feb.
 Little Yank, The (5 parts) (Triangle—Fine Arts)—Jan. 14—S-589; C-246; R-244.
 Living Book of Nature, The, No. 1 (The Orang.) (Educational Films Corp.—Ditmars)—Feb. 5—S-1409.
 Living Book of Nature, No. 2 (Mammals of Strange Form) (Educational Film Corp.—Ditmars)—Feb. 12—S-1410.
 Living Book of Nature, No. 3 (American Bears) (Educational Films Corp.—Ditmars)—Feb. 19—S-1410.
 Living Book of Nature, No. 4 (Foreign Deer) (Educational Films Corp.—Ditmars)—Feb. 26—R-1772; S-1992; S-2165.
 Living Book of Nature, No. 5 (The Beaver Prepares for Winter) (Educational Film Corp.—Ditmars)—Mar. 5—S-1992; S-2165; R-1926.
 Living Book of Nature, No. 6 (Jungle Vaudeville) (Educational Films Corp.—Ditmars)—Mar. 12—S-1992; S-2165.
 Living Book of Nature, No. 7 (Feeding the Fish Eaters) (Educational Films Corp.—Ditmars)—Mar. 19—S-1992.
 Living Book of Nature, No. 8 (Feeding the Bears) (Educational Films Corp.—Ditmars)—Mar. 26—S-1992.
 Little Missionary (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Black Cat—S&A)—Jan. 16—S-581; C-706.
 Locked Out (Metro—Drew)—Mar. 12.
 Lonesome Luke, Lawyer (Pathe—Rolin)—Feb. 18—P-1040.
 Lonesome Mariner, The (Mutual—American)—Mar. 16—S-1823.
 Lonesome Luke's Lively Life (2 parts) (Pathe—Rolin)—Mar. 18—C-1788; R-1756.
 Long Lane, A (No. 6 of Perils of Our Girl Reporters) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Jan. 31.
 Losing Winner, The (2 parts) (Universal—Victor)—Feb. 15—S-1076; C-1040.
 Lost and Found (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Selig)—Jan. 29—S-1074; C-1039; R-866.
 Lost and Won (5 parts) (Paramount—Lasky)—Jan. 22—S-758; C-707; R-700.
 Lost in the Streets of Paris (Universal—Rex)—Feb. 25—S-1245.
 Lost Legion of the Border (Episode of The American Girl) (2 parts).
 Love Affairs of Ima Knutt (Cartoon; and Artistic China and Japan) (Universal—Powers)—Mar. 25—S-1983.
 Love Affair (5 parts) (Universal—Red Feather)—Jan. 29—S-905; C-707; R-702.
 Love Bugs (Gen. Film—Vim)—S-902.
 Love in Suspense (Universal—Joker)—Jan. 6—S-134.
 Love Me, Love My Blsuits (Universal—Joker)—Jan. 27—S-585; C-547.
 Love on Crutches (Universal—L-KO)—Mar. 16—S-1821.
 Love's Law (5 parts) (Fox)—Mar. 12—S-1825.

Love Sublime, A (5 parts) (Triangle—Fine Arts)—Mar. 11—S-1828; R-1760; C-1951.
 Love Thief, The (5 parts) (Fox)—Dec. 18—C-101.
 Love Under Cover (Triangle Comedy)—Jan. 14—C-547; R-543.
 Luck That Jealousy Brought (Gen. Film—Selig)—Jan. 27—S-902; C-1039.
 Lucky One, and in the Beef and Butter Country (Gen. Film—Essanay)—S-1932; C-2123.
 Luke's Busy Day (Pathe—Rolin)—Jan. 21.
 Luke's Lost Liberty (Pathe—Rolin)—Jan. 7—C-102.
 Luke's Shattered Sleep (Pathe—Rolin)—Dec. 31, 1916—C-141.
 Luke's Trolley Troubles (Pathe—Rolin)—Feb. 4—C-707.
 Luke Wins Ye Ladye Faire (Pathe—Rolin)—Feb. 25.
 Lured and Cured (2 parts) (Mutual—Vogue)—Feb. 18—S-1018; C-13-u.

M

Macaroni Sleuth, A (Universal—Nestor)—Jan. 22—S-584; C-547.
 Mad Hermit, The (Universal—Big U)—Dec. 31—S-133.
 Maggie's First False Step (2 parts) (Triangle—Mack Sennett—Keystone)—Feb. 25—S-1412.
 Magic Vest, The (Paramount—Black Diamond)—Mar. 19.
 Magic Mirror, The (No. 7 of Is Marriage Sacred?) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Jan. 27.
 Major Brent's Terfids (No. 6 of Pearl of the Army) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Jan. 7.
 Making of Bob Mason's Wife (Gen. Film—Selig)—Jan. 13—S-274; C-706.
 Making Raisins and Florence Rose Fashions, No. 12 (Pathe)—Dec. 31—S-141.
 Male Governor, The (Triangle—Keystone)—Feb. 4.
 Mammals of Strange Form (No. 2 of Living Book of Nature) (Educational Films Corp.—Ditmars)—Feb. 12.
 Man He Might Have Been, The (Gen. Film—Selig)—Dec. 23, 1916—C-245.
 Man of Mystery (5 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 8—S-423; C-360; R-244.
 Man of Mystery (2 parts) (Universal—Imp)—Mar. 11—S-1661.
 Man of Thunder, The (No. 7 of The Vampires) (3 parts) (Mutual—Gaumont)—Jan. 4—C-102.
 Man Who Forgot, The (5 parts) (World)—Jan. 15—S-422; C-362; R-1000.
 Man Who Saved the Day (2 parts) (Universal—Big U)—Feb. 22—S-1246.
 Man Who Took a Chance (5 parts) (Bluebird)—Feb. 19—S-1252; C-1039; R-1036.
 Man, A, and The Woman (Art Dramas—U. S. Amusement)—Mar. 22.
 Manx-Man, The (8 parts) (Cosomofotofilm Co.)—March.
 Many a Slip (No. 5 of Perils of Our Girl Reporters) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Jan. 24.
 Married But Single (Metro—Relma)—Jan. 22—C-706.
 Mary from America (3 parts) (Universal—Gold Seal)—Feb. 27—S-1404; C-1375.
 Mary Lawson's Secret (5 parts) (Pathe—Gold Rooster)—Apr. 1—C-2124; R-2118.
 Mask of Love (Universal—Laemmle)—Mar. 29—S-2157.
 Masked Cuid, The (Universal—Victor)—Jan. 16—S-415; C-361.
 Masked Stranger, The (No. 2 of Mystery of the Double Cross) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Mar. 25.
 Masks and Mishaps (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Mar. 5.
 Master Passion, The (5 parts) (K-E-S-E—Edison)—Jan. 8—S-421; C-360; R-355.
 Matinee Idol, The (Metro—Relma)—Jan. 1—C-245.
 Matrimonial Shock (2 parts) (Mutual—Vogue)—Mar. 17—S-1823; C-2124.
 Max Comes Across (2 parts) (K-E-S-E—Essanay)—Feb. 26—S-1253; R-1207.
 Max Wants a Divorce (2 parts) (K-E-S-E—Essanay)—S-2166.
 Max Feet are Pinched, and a Rolin Comedy (Pathe)—Mar. 25—C-1951.
 Max in a Difficult Position, and a Rolin Comedy (Pathe)—Mar. 11.
 Max's Vacation (Pathe)—Feb. 25.
 Me and My Pal (5 parts) (Universal—Red Feather)—Feb. 5—S-1075; C-1040; R-1036.
 Medicines, "Patent," How Made (Pathe)—Feb. 25.
 Meeting, The (No. 11 of the Perils of Our Girl Reporters) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Mar. 5.
 Meeting, The (Gen. Film—Broadway Star).
 Meddling with Marriage (Episode of Is Marriage Sacred) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Essanay).
 Melody of Death, The (2 parts) (Universal—Rex)—Feb. 8—S-904; C-874.
 Melting Millions (5 parts) (Fox)—Feb. 19—S-1409; C-1787; R-1760.
 Mentioned in Confidence (4 parts) (Gen. Film—Fortune)—C-1787; R-1759; S-1981.
 Midnight (Universal—Imp)—Jan. 14—S-275; C-246.

Million in Sight, A (Universal—Nestor)—Feb. 26—S-1403.
 Minding the Baby (Mutual—Cub)—Mar. 22—S-1985.
 Mines and Martimony (Universal—Joker)—Jan. 13.
 Mirror of Fear (No. 20 of Grant, Police Reporter) (Gen. Film—Kalem).
 Misfit Millionaire (Gen. Film—Kalem)—C-2123.
 Misjudged (No. 10 of Perils of Our Girl Reporters) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Feb. 21.
 Mr. Common Peepul Investigates, and See America First, No. 71 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Jan. 17.
 Mr. Fuller Pep, an Old Bird Pays Him a Visit; and The Land of Buddha (Universal—Powers)—Mar. 4—S-1403.
 Mr. Fuller Pep, He Celebrates His Wedding Anniversary; and Wonders of the Orient (Universal—Powers)—Jan. 14—S-275.
 Mr. Fuller Pep, He Does Some Quick Moving; and Drama of the Orient (Universal—Powers)—Feb. 18—S-1078.
 Mr. Fuller Pep, He Goes to the Country; and in the Land of the Son of Heaven (Universal—Powers)—Jan. 21—S-417.
 Mr. Fuller Pep, His Day of Rest; and the Mysterious City (Universal—Powers)—Mar. 11—S-1662.
 Mr. Fuller Pep, His Wife Goes for a Rest; and in Northern China (Universal—Powers)—Feb. 4—S-740.
 Mr. Wright in Wrong (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Jan. 31—S-738.
 Missing (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Vitagraph).
 Missing Financier (Episode of Grant, Police Reporter) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—C-2123.
 Mission of State, A (No. 11 of Grant, Police Reporter) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Dec. 29—R-100.
 Model Janitor, The (Gen. Film—Kalem)—S-1402; C-1212; R-1035.
 Modern Cinderella, A (5 parts) (Fox)—Jan. 8—C-546; R-357.
 Modern Buccaneers (No. 13 of Pearl of the Army) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Feb. 25.
 Modern Monte Cristo, A (5 parts) (Pathe—Gold Rooster)—Feb. 4—S-748; C-707; R-700.
 Modern Mother Goose (5 parts) (Lea Bel Co.)—February.
 Monster of Fate, The (Hawk Film Co.)—March.
 Modern Romance, A (Metro—Relma)—Mar. 5—C-2124.
 Mogul Mountain Mystery, The (No. 113 of The Hazards of Helen) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 6—C-101.
 Money Magic (5 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Feb. 5—S-909; C-872; R-867.
 Money Mill, The (5 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Mar. 5—S-1825; C-1787; R-1756.
 Monroe Doctrine (No. 9 of Pearl of the Army) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Jan. 28.
 Montreal, Old and New (Paramount—Burton Holmes)—Jan. 15.
 Moral Code, The (5 parts) (Art Dramas—Erubograph)—Feb. 22—R-1586.
 Moral Right, The (2 parts) (Universal—Imp)—Jan. 5—S-131.
 Mortal Sin, The (5 parts) (Metro—Columbia)—Mar. 12—S-1824.
 Morals of Men, No. 1 (The Painted Lie) (5 parts) (Mutual Star Horsley)—Mar. 19—S-1986.
 Mormon Maid, A (5 parts) (Friedman Enterprises)—February—S-1409; R-1372.
 Mortal Sin, The (5 parts) (Metro—Columbia)—Mar. 12—S-1824; C-1950; R-1948.
 Mose Is Cured (Keen Cartoon Corp.)—Jan. 1.
 Most Excellent Way, The (5 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Mar. 26.
 Motherhood (5 parts) (Mutual Star)—Mar. 26.
 Mothers of France (World).
 Mouth Organ Jack (2 parts) (Mutual—American)—Feb. 24—S-1249.
 Mule Mates (Universal—Joker)—Feb. 17—S-1077; C-1593.
 Musical Marvel, The (2 parts) (Mutual—Vogue)—Feb. 11—S-906; C-1213.
 Mutiny (5 parts) (Bluebird)—Mar. 12—S-1988.
 Mutual Weekly No. 103 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Dec. 20—S-135.
 Mutual Weekly No. 104 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Dec. 27—S-277.
 Mutual Weekly No. 105 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Jan. 3—S-419; C-361.
 Mutual Weekly No. 106 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Jan. 10—S-419; C-547.
 Mutual Weekly No. 107 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Jan. 17—S-587; C-706.
 Mutual Weekly No. 108 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Jan. 24—S-741; C-873.
 Mutual Weekly No. 109 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Jan. 31—S-907; C-1039.
 Mutual Weekly No. 110 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Feb. 7—S-1247; C-1212.
 Mutual Weekly No. 111 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Feb. 14—S-1248; C-1374.
 Mutual Weekly No. 112 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Feb. 21—S-1407; C-1592.
 Mutual Weekly No. 113 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Feb. 28—S-1668; C-1787.
 Mutual Weekly No. 114 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Mar. 7—S-1822; C-1950.

Mutual Weekly No. 115 (Mutual)—Mar. 14—S-1986.
 Mutual Weekly No. 116 (Mutual)—Mar. 21—S-2159.
 Mutual Weekly No. 117 (Mutual)—Mar. 28.
 My Fighting Gentleman (5 parts) (Mutual Star—American)—Mar. 1—S-1407; C-1593; R-1589.
 My Official Wife (5 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Dec. 11, 1916—S-138; C-101.
 Mysterious City, The; and Mr. Fuller Pep, His Day of Rest (Universal—Powers)—Mar. 11—S-1662.
 Mysterious Mrs. M. (5 parts) (Bluebird)—Feb. 5—S-908; C-706; R-703.
 Mysterious Man in Black, The (No. 2 of Voice on the Wire) (2 parts) (Universal—Special)—Mar. 25.
 Mystery of Lake Lethic (Gen. Film—Vitagraph)—Jan. 15.
 Mystery of My Lady's Boudoir (3 parts) (Universal—Gold Seal)—Jan. 9—S-275; C-246.
 Mystery of the Double Cross No. 1 (The Girl in Number 7) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Mar. 18—S-1826; C-1788; R-1756.
 Mystery of the Double Cross, No. 2 (The Masked Stranger) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Mar. 25—S-1992; R-1948.
 Mystery of the Double Cross No. 3 (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Apr. 1—C-2124; R-2118.
 Mystery of the North Case, The (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Vitagraph)—Feb. 3.

N

Natural Born Shooter, A (Ebony Film Corp.)—Feb. 26.
 Nature's Calling (Mutual—American)—Feb. 3—S-742.
 Nellie, the Fireman's Daughter; and Some Baby (Universal—Victor)—Jan. 30—S-739.
 Nellie's Nifty Necklace (Gen. Film—Vim)—S-2154.
 Net of Intrigue, The (No. 16 of Grant, Police Reporter) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Feb. 2.
 Newlyweds' Mistake (Gen. Film—Vim)—S-1402; C-1950.
 Never Again (Cartoon) and See America First No. 73 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Jan. 31.
 Never Too Old to Woo (Universal—Victor)—Mar. 27—S-2155; C-2124.
 New Mexico (Pathe—Combitone)—Apr. 1—C-2124.
 New York Peacock, The (5 parts) (Fox)—Feb. 5—S-1081; C-1212; R-1207.
 Nick of Time Baby (2 parts) (Triangle—Mack Sennett—Keystone)—Feb. 11—S-1412.
 Nina the Flower Girl (5 parts) (Triangle—Fine Arts)—Jan. 21—S-745.
 Noble Fraud, A (Triangle—Keystone)—Jan. 21.
 Nomads of the North, and Florence Rose Fashions No. 23 (Pathe)—March 18.
 No Place Like Home (Gen. Film—Selig)—C-1787; S-1981.
 Nora Declares War (Gen. Film—Vim)—S-1244.
 North of Fifty-three (5 parts) (Fox)—Mar. 26.
 Novel Romance, A (Universal—Victor)—Feb. 27—S-1404; C-1375.

O

Oh! For a Wife (Christie)—Feb. 12—S-1079.
 Old Faithful (Universal—Laemmle)—Mar. 21—S-1983.
 Old Forty-Niner (Keen Cartoon Corp.)—Jan. 8.
 Old Fourth Ward, The (No. 9 of The Dangers of Doris) (Gen. Film—Broadway Star—Vita).
 Old Glory in the Far East, and Jerry Saves the Navy (Pathe—International)—Feb. 18.
 Old Sheriff, The (Mutual—American)—Feb. 10—S-906.
 Old Soldier's Romance, An (3 parts) (Universal—Gold Seal)—Jan. 2—S-134; C-103.
 Old Toymaker, The (Universal—Rex)—Jan. 28—S-585; C-547.
 On Dangerous Ground (5 parts) (World)—Jan. 8—S-279; C-246; R-239.
 One Touch of Sin (5 parts) (Fox)—Jan. 29—S-744; C-872; R-871.
 One Good Turn (No. 4 of the Dangers of Doris) (Gen. Film—Broadway Star)—Jan. 12.
 One of Many (5 parts) (Metro—Arthur James)—Feb. 12—S-1080; C-1212; C-1374; R-1210.
 One on Him (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Jan. 17—C-796.
 One Thousand Miles an Hour (Universal—Nestor)—Jan. 8—S-275; C-246.
 On Italy's Firing Line (3 parts) (Gen. Film—Selig)—Jan. 22—S-131; C-360.
 On Record (5 parts) (Paramount—Lasky)—Feb. 22—S-1411; C-1593; R-1586.
 On the Brink of War (No. 20 of the Girl from Frisco) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Dec. 20, 1916—C-101.
 On the Great Glacier (Paramount—Burton Holmes)—Mar. 12—C-2160.
 On the Trail of the Lonesome Pill (Universal—L-KO)—Jan. 3—S-133; C-103.
 Orang, The (No. 1 of the Living Book of Nature) (Educational Films Corp.—Ditmars)—Feb. 5.
 Orient, Drama of the; and Cartoon Comedy (Universal—Powers)—Feb. 18—S-1078.
 Oriental Death Punch (No. 1 of The Voice on the Wire) (2 parts) (Universal—Special)—Mar. 18.

Other Girl, The (Gen. Film—Vim)—Feb. 1—S-903.
 Ottawa and Toronto (Paramount)—Burton Holmes—Jan. 22.
 Our Boys at the Border (No. 2 of Uncle Sam's Defenders (Mutual)—Jan. 12—S-1858.
 Out for the Dough (Universal—Joker)—Feb. 10—S-903; C-873.
 Out for the Coin (2 parts) (Christie)—Mar. 1—S-280; C-101.
 Outlaw and the Lady, The (2 parts) (Universal—Bison)—Feb. 10—S-904; C-874.
 Out of the Wreck (5 parts) (Paramount—Moro and Pallas)—Mar. 8—S-1827; C-1951; R-1947.
 Over the Garden Wall (Gen. Film—Selig)—S-1981; C-2123.

P

Painted Lie, The (No. 1 of the Morals of Men) (Mutual—Horsely)—Mar. 19.
 Pangs of Jealousy (2 parts) (Mutual)—Jan. 1.
 Pantuea (5 parts) (Selznick)—January—S-139; R-340.
 Paper; How It Is Made From Wood Pulp; and Throwing the Bull (Cartoon) (Pathe—International)—Feb. 4—C-1040.
 Paramount Pictographs No. 44 (Paramount—Bray)—Dec. 3—S-419.
 Paramount Pictographs No. 45 (Paramount—Bray)—Dec. 10—S-419.
 Paramount Pictographs No. 46 (Paramount—Bray)—Dec. 17—S-419.
 Paramount Pictographs No. 47 (Paramount—Bray)—Dec. 24—S-419.
 Paramount Pictographs No. 48 (Paramount—Bray)—Dec. 31—S-419.
 Paramount Pictographs No. 49 (Paramount—Bray)—Jan. 7—S-910.
 Paramount Pictographs No. 50 (Paramount—Bray)—Jan. 14—S-910.
 Paramount Pictographs No. 51 (Paramount—Bray)—Jan. 21—S-910.
 Paramount Pictographs No. 52 (Paramount—Bray)—Jan. 28—S-910; S-1083; C-873; R-812.
 Paramount Pictographs No. 53 (Paramount—Bray)—Feb. 4—S-1251.
 Paramount Pictographs No. 54 (Paramount—Bray)—Feb. 11—S-1111; R-1179.
 Paramount Pictographs No. 55 (Paramount—Bray)—Feb. 18—S-1672; C-1213; R-1569.
 Paramount Pictographs No. 56 (Paramount—Bray)—Feb. 25—S-1826; R-1349.
 Paramount-Pictograph No. 57 (Paramount—Bray)—Mar. 5—R-1772; S-1886; C-1951.
 Paramount-Pictograph No. 58 (Paramount—Bray)—Mar. 12—R-1926; S-2161.
 Paramount-Pictograph No. 59 (Paramount—Bray)—Mar. 19; C-2124.
 Paramount-Pictograph No. 60 (Paramount—Bray)—Mar. 26.
 Pardners (5 parts) (Mutual Star)—Jan. 29—S-906.
 Passing the Grip (Universal—Joker)—Mar. 3—S-1403; C-1593.
 Passion (No. 5 of The Seven Deadly Sins) (5 parts) (Triangle—McClure)—Feb. 26—S-1670.
 Past One at Rooney's (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Broadway Star)—R-2121.
 Pathe News No. 101—Dec. 16—S-141.
 Pathe News No. 102—Dec. 20—S-141.
 Pathe News No. 103—Dec. 23—S-281.
 Pathe News No. 104—Dec. 27—S-281.
 Pathe News No. 1—Jan. 3—S-424.
 Pathe News No. 2—Jan. 6—S-424.
 Pathe News No. 3—Jan. 10—S-587.
 Patria No. 1 (Last of the Fighting Channings) (3 parts) (Pathe—International)—Jan. 14—S-137; C-707.
 Patria No. 2 (Treasure) (2 parts) (Pathe—International)—Jan. 21—S-280; C-707.
 Patria No. 3 (Winged Millions) (2 parts) (Pathe—International)—Jan. 28—S-588; C-707.
 Patria No. 4 (Double Crossed) (2 parts) (Pathe—International)—Feb. 4—S-912; R-867.
 Patria No. 5 (The Island That God Forgot) (2 parts) (Pathe—International)—Feb. 11—S-1084; C-1213; R-1036.
 Patria No. 6 (Alias Nemesis) (2 parts) (Pathe—International)—Feb. 18—S-1616; C-1213; R-1211.
 Patria No. 7 (Red Dawn) (2 parts) (Pathe—International)—Feb. 25—S-1408; C-1374; R-1368.
 Patria No. 8 (Red Night) (2 parts) (Pathe—International)—Mar. 4—S-1676; C-1593; R-1585.
 Patria No. 9 (Cats Paw and Scapgoat) (2 parts) (Pathe—International)—Mar. 11—S-1826.
 Patria No. 10 (War in the Dooryard) (2 parts) (Pathe—International)—Mar. 18—S-2160; C-2124; R-2118.
 Patria No. 11 (Sunset Falls) (2 parts) (Pathe—International)—Mar. 25.
 Pearl of Greater Price (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Selig)—S-1981; C-2123.
 Pearl of the Army No. 6 (Major Brent's Perfidy) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Jan. 7—S-142; C-102; R-96.
 Pearl of the Army No. 7 (For the Stars and Stripes) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Jan. 14—S-426; R-242.

Pearl of the Army No. 8 (International Diplomacy) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Jan. 21—S-388; C-361; R-354.
 Pearl of the Army No. 9 (Monroe Doctrine) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Jan. 28—S-746; R-701.
 Pearl of the Army No. 10 (The Silent Army) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Feb. 4—S-1084; R-1006.
 Pearl of the Army No. 11 (A Million Volunteers) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Feb. 11—S-1676; C-1213; R-1211.
 Pearl of the Army No. 12 (The Foreign Alliance) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Feb. 18—S-1408; C-1375; R-1368.
 Pearl of the Army No. 13 (Modern Buccaneers) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Feb. 25.
 Pearl of the Army No. 14 (Flag Despoiler) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Mar. 4—S-1616; C-1788; R-1756.
 Pearl of the Army No. 15 (The Colonel's Orderly) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Mar. 11—C-2124; R-2118; S-2159.
 Perils of a Plumber, The (Universal—L-KO)—Dec. 27, 1916—C-102.
 Perils of Our Girl Reporters No. 1 (The Jade Necklace) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Dec. 28, 1916—S-418; C-102.
 Perils of Our Girl Reporters No. 2 (The Black Door) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Jan. 3—S-419.
 Perils of Our Girl Reporters No. 3 (Ace High) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Jan. 10—S-586.
 Perils of Our Girl Reporters No. 4 (The White Trail) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Jan. 17.
 Perils of Our Girl Reporters No. 5 (Many a Slip) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Jan. 24.
 Perils of Our Girl Reporters No. 6 (A Long Lane) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Jan. 31—S-1078.
 Perils of Our Girl Reporters No. 7 (The Smite of Conscience) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Feb. 7—S-1247.
 Perils of Our Girl Reporters No. 8 (Birds of Prey) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Feb. 14—S-1078.
 Perils of Our Girl Reporters No. 9 (Misjudged) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Feb. 19—S-1247.
 Perils of Our Girl Reporters No. 10 (Taking Chances) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Feb. 26—S-1406.
 Perils of Our Girl Reporters No. 11 (The Meeting) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Mar. 5—S-1668.
 Perils of Our Girl Reporters No. 12 (Outwitted) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Mar. 12—S-1823.
 Perils of Our Girl Reporters, No. 13 (The Schemers) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Mar. 21—S-1985.
 Perils of Our Girl Reporters, No. 14 (The Counterfeiters) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Mar. 28.
 Perils of the Secret Service No. 1 (The Last Cigarette) (2 parts) (Universal—Imp)—Mar. 9—S-1661; C-1594.
 Perils of the Secret Service No. 2 (Clash of Steel) (2 parts) (Universal—Imp)—Mar. 16—S-1820; C-1788.
 Perils of the Secret Service, No. 3 (The Dreaded Tube) (2 parts) (Universal—Imp)—Mar. 23—S-1983; C-1951.
 Perils of the Secret Service, No. 4 (The Crimson Blade) (2 parts) (Universal—Imp)—Mar. 30—S-2156; C-2124.
 Pest, The (Metro—Drew)—Jan. 29—C-872.
 Peter, The Comic Poet (Mutual—Novelty)—Dec. 16—C-245.
 Phantom Buccaneer, The (5 parts) (K E S E—Essanay)—Dec. 18—C-101; R-97.
 Phantom Mine (No. 2 of The American Girl) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—C-1592.
 Pidgin Island (5 parts) (Metro—Yorke)—Dec. 25, 1916—C-245; R-244.
 Pipe of Discontent (Triangle Comedy)—Jan. 14—C-547; R-543.
 Piper's Price, The (5 parts) (Bluebird)—Jan. 8—S-281; C-245; R-241.
 Poison Man, The (No. 8 of The Vampires) (3 parts) (Mutual—Gaumont)—Jan. 11—S-277.
 Polly Put the Kettle On (5 parts) (Universal—Red Feather)—Jan. 1—S-132; C-103; R-100.
 Polly Red Head (5 parts) (Bluebird)—Mar. 19—S-1988; C-1950.
 Polly's Day at Home (Mutual—Gaumont)—Feb. 21.
 Poor Little Rich Girl (6 parts) (Artercraft)—Mar. 5—S-1823; C-1787; R-1760.
 Porter, The (2 parts) (S. B. Lust).
 Portrait of a King (No. 4 of The Secret Kingdom) (2 parts) (Gr. Vitagraph)—Apr. 2.
 Pots and Pans Peggy (5 parts) (Pathe—Gold Rooster)—Mar. 18—R-1758; C-1951; S-1992.
 Practice What You Preach (Universal—Nestor)—Jan. 1—S-134; C-102.
 Price She Paid (7 parts) (Selznick Pictures)—February—C-1594; R-1588; S-1827.
 Price of Silence (5 parts) (Fox Special)—Jan. 8—C-546; R-357.
 Pride (No. 2 of the Seven Deadly Sins) (5 parts) (Triangle—McClures)—Feb. 5.

Pride and the Devil (5 parts) (Art Dramas—Apollo)—Feb. 22—C-1552; R-1590.
 Pride of the Clan (4 parts) (Artercraft)—Jan. 8—S-423; C-460; R-354.
 Prima Donna's Special (No. 118 of The Hazards of Helen) (Gen. Film—Kalem).
 Primitive Call, The (5 parts) (Fox)—Jan. 22—S-443; C-706; R-705.
 Princess of Patches (5 parts) (K E S E—Selig)—Jan. 22—S-592; C-546; R-542.
 Princess of the Dark, The (5 parts) (Triangle—Ray-Bee)—Feb. 18—S-1230; C-1040; R-1036.
 Prison Without Walls, The (5 parts) (Paramount—Lasky)—Mar. 15—S-1986; C-2124; R-2120.
 Prodigal Widow, The (3 parts) (Universal—Gold Seal)—Jan. 16—S-417; C-361.
 Prodigal Papa (Universal—Victor)—Mar. 30—S-2155.
 Professional Patient, The (Gen. Film—Vitagraph)—Jan. 19.
 Promise, The (5 parts) (Metro—Yorke)—Feb. 19—S-1252; C-1592; R-1589.
 Property Man, The (Gen. Film—Vim)—Jan. 12—S-130.
 Pulse of Madness (No. 13 of Is Marriage Sacred; (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Essanay).
 Pulse of Life, The (5 parts) (Bluebird)—Apr. 2—R-2119.
 Purple Mask, The, No. 1 (The Vanished Jewels) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Dec. 31—S-132; C-103.
 Purple Mask, The, No. 2 (Suspected) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Jan. 7—S-132; C-103.
 Purple Mask, The, No. 3 (The Capture) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Jan. 14—S-275.
 Purple Mask, The, No. 4 (Facing Death) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Jan. 21—S-417; C-361.
 Purple Mask, The, No. 5 (Ablaze in Mid-Air) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Jan. 28—S-582; C-707.
 Purple Mask, The, No. 6 (The Silent Feud) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Feb. 4—S-740; C-707.
 Purple Mask, The, No. 7 (The Race for Freedom) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Feb. 11—S-903; C-874.
 Purple Mask, The, No. 8 (The Secret Adventure) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Feb. 18—S-1075; C-1040.
 Purple Mask, The, No. 9 (A Strange Discovery) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Feb. 25; S-1245; C-1213.
 Purple Mask, The, No. 10 (The House of Mystery) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Mar. 4—S-1405; C-1375.
 Purple Mask, The, No. 11 (Garden of Surprise) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Mar. 11—S-1662; C-1375.
 Purple Mask, The, No. 12 (Vault of Mystery) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Mar. 18—S-1820.
 Purple Mask, The, No. 13 (The Leap) (2 parts) (Universal—Special)—Mar. 25—S-1984; C-1951.
 Purple Mask, The, No. 14 (Sky Monsters) (2 parts) (Universal—Special)—Apr. 1—S-2155; C-2124.
 Putting One Over on Ignatz (Universal—Victor)—Jan. 18—S-415; C-361.

Q

Quacky Doodle's Cartoon and Paramount Pictograph No. 55 (Paramount—Bray)—Feb. 18.
 Quaint Quebec (Paramount—Burton Holmes)—Jan. 8.
 Question of Honesty, A (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Selig)—S-2154; C-2123.

R

Race for Freedom (No. 7 of the Purple Mask) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Feb. 11.
 Racing Death (Universal—Laemmle)—Mar. 17—S-1821.
 Raid, The (3 parts) (Universal—Gold Seal)—Mar. 20—S-1984; C-1951.
 Railroad Claim Intrigue, The (No. 116 of The Hazards of Helen) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 27.
 Rainbow, The (5 parts) (Sherrill Feature Corp.)—Jan. 4—S-422; C-360; R-357.
 Ram-Bunctious Endeavor, A (Mutual—American)—Mar. 16—S-1823.
 Ranch Life in the Big Horn Mountains (2 parts) (Rothacker Film Mfg. Co.)—February—S-1252.
 Rastus Runs Amuck, and See America First No. 78 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Mar. 7.
 Rebel's Net, The (Universal—Big U)—Mar. 25—S-1983.
 Reckless Romeos (Gen. Film—Vim)—Jan. 5—C-101.
 Redeeming Love (5 parts) (Paramount—Moro)—Dec. 28, 1916—S-279; C-246; R-242.
 Redemption of Red Mullin (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Selig)—S-1403; C-1592.
 Red Dawn (No. 7 of Patria) (2 parts) (Pathe—International)—Feb. 25—S-1408.
 Red Goddess, The (Universal—Big U)—Jan. 24—S-582.
 Red Night (No. 8 of Patria) (2 parts) (Pathe—International)—Mar. 4.
 Red Saunders Plays Cupid (5 parts) (Universal—Red Feather)—Mar. 26—C-2124.

Red Stain (2 parts) (Universal—Rex)—Jan. 4—S-133; C-103.
 Red vengeance (Universal—Big U)—Feb. 7—S-904.
 Red Woman, The (5 parts) (World)—Feb. 12—S-1081; C-1040; R-1034.
 Reel Life No. 33 (Mutual—Gaugmont)—Dec. 17—C-102.
 Reel Life No. 34 (Mutual—Gaugmont)—Dec. 24—C-102; R-235.
 Reel Life No. 35 (Mutual—Gaugmont)—Dec. 31—C-245.
 Reel Life No. 36 (Mutual—Gaugmont)—Jan. 7—S-135; C-361; R-523.
 Reel Life No. 37 (Mutual—Gaugmont)—Jan. 14—S-277; C-547; R-686.
 Reel Life No. 38 (Mutual—Gaugmont)—Jan. 21—S-417; C-706.
 Reel Life No. 39 (Mutual—Gaugmont)—Jan. 28—S-587; C-873.
 Reel Life No. 40 (Mutual—Gaugmont)—Feb. 4—S-741; C-1039; R-1179.
 Reel Life No. 41 (Mutual—Gaugmont)—Feb. 11—S-907; C-1212; R-1319.
 Reel Life No. 42 (Mutual—Gaugmont)—Feb. 18—S-1079; C-1355; R-1569.
 Reel Life No. 43 (Mutual—Gaugmont)—Feb. 25—S-1248; C-1593; R-1772.
 Reel Life No. 44 (Mutual—Gaugmont)—Mar. 4—S-1666; C-1788; R-1927.
 Reel Life No. 45 (Mutual—Gaugmont)—Mar. 8—S-1666; C-1950.
 Reel Life No. 46 (Mutual—Gaugmont)—Mar. 15—S-1666; C-2124.
 Reel Life No. 47 (Mutual—Gaugmont)—Mar. 22—S-1823.
 Reel Life No. 48 (Mutual—Gaugmont)—Mar. 29—S-1984.
 Regina to the Rockies (Paramount—Burton Holmes)—Feb. 5—S-1083.
 Registered Pouch, The (No. 2 of The Daughter of Daring) (Gen. Film—Kalem).
 Rehabilitated (Mutual)—Dec. 8—S-419.
 Rehearsal, The (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Biograph Reissue)—Dec. 27—S-274.
 Reliable Henry (Metro—Drew)—Feb. 26—C-1592.
 Rented Man, The (2 parts) (Universal—Rex)—Mar. 1—S-1406; C-1375.
 Resurrection of Gold Bar, The (No. 22 of The Girl From Frisco) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 10.
 Rex Beach on the Spanish Main (5 parts) (Grand Feature Film Co.)—March—R-1927.
 Rex Beach in Pirate Haunts (5 parts) (Grand Feature Film Co.)—March.
 Rex Beach in the Footsteps of Captain Kidd (5 parts) (Grand Feature Film Co.)—March.
 Reward of the Faithless (5 parts) (Bluebird)—Feb. 12—S-1079; C-872; R-868.
 Rival Romeos (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 9—S-414; C-101.
 Right Hand Path, The (Gen. Film—Selig)—Dec. 30—S-131; C-360.
 Right to Be Happy, The (5 parts) (Bluebird)—Dec. 25, 1916—S-136.
 Road Agent, The (Triangle—Keystone)—Feb. 4.
 Road to Eternity (No. 10 of Dangers of Doris) (Gen. Film—Broadway Star).
 Road to Fame (Gen. Film—Selig)—Dec. 11, 1916—C-101.
 Robinson Crusoe (3 parts) (Universal Special)—Feb. 18—S-1075.
 Rods of Wrath (3 parts) (Pathe)—Feb. 4.
 Room of Mystery, The (3 parts) (Gen. Film—Knickerbocker Star)—Jan. 19—S-738; C-872.
 Rope Making, and Happy Hooligan Cartoon (Pathe—International)—Mar. 25.
 Roped In (2 parts) (Universal—Bison)—Mar. 17—S-1821; P-1788.
 Rosie O'Grady (5 parts) (Art Dramas—Apollo)—Feb. 1—R-1034.
 Rosie's Rancho (Universal—Joker)—Feb. 24—S-1245; C-1213.
 Rough and Ready Reggie (Paramount—Klever Comedy)—Mar. 26—S-2161.
 Royal Pauper, The (5 parts) (K E S E—Edison)—Feb. 19.
 Royalty at Red Wing (No. 2 of the Secret Kingdom) (2 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 8—S-279.
 Rum Cav (No. 8 of the Secret Kingdom) (2 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Feb. 19.
 Rummy Romance, A (2 parts) (Mutual—Vogue)—Mar. 4—S-1407; C-1788.

S

Saddle Girth, The (Gen. Film—Selig)—S-1074; C-1212.
 Safari (4 parts) (Picture Producing Co.)—February.
 Safety Pin Smugglers (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 30—S-902; C-872.
 Saintly Sinner, The (5 parts) (Bluebird)—Feb. 26—S-1410; C-1212; R-1208.
 Sapho (5 parts) (Paramount—Famous Players)—Mar. 12—S-1986; C-1951; R-1915.
 Satan's Private Door (5 parts) (K. E. S. E.—Essanay)—Mar. 19—S-2166; C-2123; R-2117.
 Satin & Calico (One of Paul's Blackton's Country Life Stories) (Gtr. Vitagraph).
 Sauce for the Goose (Christie)—Mar. 19—S-2165.

Scarlet Crystal, The (5 parts) (Universal—Red Feather)—Mar. 19—C-1951; S-2157.
 Scarlet Letter, The (5 parts) (Fox)—Feb. 12—S-908; C-1374; R-1371.
 Schemer Sklunny's Scandal (Pathe—Rolin)—Feb. 18.
 Schemer Sklunny's Schemes (Pathe—Rolin)—Jan. 14.
 Schemers, The (No. 13 of Perils of Our Girl Reporters) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Mar. 21.
 Scouts of the Sea and Sky (No. 4 of Uncle Sam's Defenders) (Mutual)—Feb. 2.
 Screened Vault, The (No. 19 of Grant, Police Reporter) (Gen. Film—Kalem).
 Sea Lions (Educational Films Corp.—Ditmars)—R-842.
 Scald Packet, The (No. 3 of the Secret Kingdom) (2 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 15—S-279.
 Secret Adventure, The (No. 8 of The Purple Mask) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Feb. 18.
 Secret Kingdom, The, No. 1 (The Land of Intrigue) (3 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 1—S-278.
 Secret Kingdom, The, No. 2 (Royalty at Red Wing) (3 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 8—S-279.
 Secret Kingdom, The, No. 4 (The Honorable Mr. Oxenham) (2 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 22—S-423.
 Secret Kingdom, The, No. 5 (Carriage Call No. 101) (2 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 29—S-589.
 Secret Kingdom, The, No. 6 (Human Flotsam) (2 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Feb. 5—S-755.
 Secret Kingdom, The, No. 7 (The Ghost Ship) (2 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Feb. 12—S-909.
 Secret Kingdom, The, No. 8 (Rum Cay) (2 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Feb. 19—S-1080.
 Secret Kingdom, The, No. 9 (The Swamp Adder) (2 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Feb. 26—S-1252.
 Secret Kingdom, The, No. 10 (A Goat Without Horns) (2 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Mar. 5—S-1409.
 Secret Kingdom, The, No. 11 (The White Witch) (2 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Mar. 12—S-1670.
 Secret Kingdom, The, No. 12 (Shark's Nest) (2 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Mar. 19—S-1825.
 Secret Kingdom, No. 13 (The Trazie Masque) (2 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Mar. 26—S-1991.
 Secret Kingdom, No. 14 (The Portrait of a King) (2 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Apr. 2—S-2165.
 Secret of Eve, The (5 parts) (Metro—P P & P)—Feb. 26—S-1410; C-1592; R-1589.
 Secret Seven, The (No. 1 of The Great Secret) (3 parts) (Metro—Serial)—Jan. 8.
 See America First No. 67 (Mutual—Gaugmont)—Dec. 20—S-135; C-102; R-235.
 See America First No. 68 (Mutual—Gaugmont)—Dec. 27—C-102; R-236.
 See America First No. 69 (Mutual—Gaugmont)—Jan. 3—C-361.
 See America First No. 70 (Mutual—Gaugmont)—Jan. 10—S-135; C-361.
 See America First No. 71 (Mutual—Gaugmont)—Jan. 17—S-277; C-547; R-686; R-842.
 See America First No. 72 (Mutual—Gaugmont)—Jan. 24—S-418; C-706; R-686.
 See America First No. 73 (Mutual—Gaugmont)—Jan. 31—S-587; C-873.
 See America First No. 74 (Mutual—Gaugmont)—Feb. 7—S-741; C-1039; R-1179.
 See America First No. 75 (Mutual—Gaugmont)—Feb. 14—S-907; C-1374; R-1569.
 See America First No. 76 (Mutual—Gaugmont)—Feb. 21—S-1079; C-1593; R-1772.
 See America First No. 77 (Mutual—Gaugmont)—Feb. 28—S-1248; C-1787; R-1926.
 See America First No. 78 (Mutual—Gaugmont)—Mar. 7—S-1666; C-1950.
 See America First No. 79 (Mutual—Gaugmont)—Mar. 14—S-1666; C-2123.
 See America First, No. 80 (Mutual—Gaugmont)—Mar. 14.
 See America First, No. 81 (Mutual—Gaugmont)—Mar. 21.
 See America First, No. 82 (Mutual—Gaugmont)—Mar. 28.
 Seeling Double (Gen. Film—Vim)—S-1274.
 Self-Made Hero, A (Triangle Comedy)—Mar. 18.
 Selig-Tribune No. 98 (Gen. Film—Selig)—Dec. 7—S-130; C-1819.
 Selig-Tribune No. 99 (Gen. Film—Selig)—Dec. 11—S-131.
 Selig-Tribune No. 100 (Gen. Film—Selig)—Dec. 14—S-131.
 Selig-Tribune No. 101 (Gen. Film—Selig)—Dec. 18—S-131.
 Selig-Tribune No. 102 (Gen. Film—Selig)—Dec. 21—S-274.
 Selig-Tribune No. 103 (Gen. Film—Selig)—Dec. 25—S-274.
 Selig-Tribune No. 104 (Gen. Film—Selig)—Dec. 29—S-580.
 Selig-Tribune No. 1 (Gen. Film—Selig)—Jan. 1—S-580; C-360.
 Selig-Tribune No. 2 (Gen. Film—Selig)—Jan. 4—S-580.

Selig-Tribune No. 3 (Gen. Film—Selig)—Jan. 8—S-580.
 Selig-Tribune No. 4 (Gen. Film—Selig)—Jan. 11—S-739.
 Selig-Tribune No. 5 (Gen. Film—Selig)—Jan. 15—S-739.
 Selig-Tribune No. 6 (Gen. Film—Selig)—Jan. 18—S-902.
 Selig-Tribune No. 7 (Gen. Film—Selig)—Jan. 22—S-902.
 Selig-Tribune No. 8 (Gen. Film—Selig)—Jan. 25—S-1074.
 Selig-Tribune No. 9 (Gen. Film—Selig)—Jan. 29—S-1074; C-1039.
 Selig-Tribune No. 10 (Gen. Film—Selig)—Feb. 1—S-1244.
 Selig-Tribune No. 11 (Gen. Film—Selig)—S-1244.
 Selig-Tribune No. 12 (Gen. Film—Selig)—S-1403.
 Selig-Tribune No. 13 (Gen. Film—Selig)—S-1403.
 Selig-Tribune No. 14 (Gen. Film—Selig)—S-1660.
 Selig-Tribune No. 15 (Gen. Film—Selig)—S-1660; C-1592.
 Selig-Tribune No. 16 (Gen. Film—Selig)—S-1819.
 Selig-Tribune No. 17 (Gen. Film—Selig)—S-1819.
 Selig-Tribune No. 18 (Gen. Film—Selig)—S-1981.
 Selig-Tribune No. 19 (Gen. Film—Selig)—S-1981; C-1950.
 Selig-Tribune No. 20 (Gen. Film—Selig)—S-2154.
 Selig-Tribune No. 21 (Gen. Film—Selig)—S-2154.
 Serene of Index (Educational Films Corp.—Bruce)—R-524.
 Seven Deadly Sins, The (No. 1, Envy) (5 parts) (Triangle—McClures)—Jan. 29—S-746; C-707; R-701.
 Seven Deadly Sins, The (No. 2, Pride) (5 parts) (Triangle—McClures)—Feb. 5—S-910; C-1040; R-866.
 Seven Deadly Sins, The (No. 3, Greed) (5 parts) (Triangle—McClures)—Feb. 12—C-1040; R-1034.
 Seven Deadly Sins, The (No. 4, Sloth) (5 parts) (Triangle—McClures)—Feb. 19—S-1412; C-1213; R-1205.
 Seven Deadly Sins, The (No. 5, Passion) (5 parts) (Triangle—McClures)—Feb. 26—S-1670; C-1593; R-1586.
 Seven Deadly Sins, The (No. 6, Wrath) (5 parts) (Triangle—McClures)—Mar. 5—S-1825; R-1757.
 Seven Deadly Sins, The (No. 7, The Seventh Sin) (7 parts) (Triangle—McClures)—Mar. 12.
 Seventh Sin, The (No. 7 of The Seven Deadly Sins) (Triangle—McClures)—Mar. 12.
 Seventh Son, The (Gen. Film—Vitagraph)—Feb. 11.
 Shadows of Shame (Pathe)—Jan. 14—C-246.
 Sharks Is Sharks, and Uncle Sam's Wards (Pathe)—Mar. 4.
 Shattered Ideals (Universal—Big U)—Jan. 11—S-416.
 Sheep of Chelan (Educational Films Corp.)
 Shielding Shadow, The, No. 15 (The Final Chapter) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Jan. 7—S-142; C-102; R-96.
 Shifting Shadows (No. 8 of Is Marriage Sacred?) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Feb. 3.
 Shooting Star, The, and Harvesting in Alberta, Canada (Gen. Film—Essanay).
 Shorty and the Yellow Ring (No. 1 of The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton) (2 parts) (Mutual—Monogram)—Jan. 15—S-418.
 Shorty in the Tiger's Den (No. 2 of The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton) (2 parts) (Mutual—Monogram)—Jan. 22.
 Shorty Goes to College (No. 3 of The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton) (2 parts) (Mutual—Monogram)—Jan. 29.
 Shorty Hooks a Lion Shark (No. 7 of The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton) (2 parts) (Mutual—Monogram)—Feb. 26.
 Shorty Joins the Secret Service (No. 4 of The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton) (2 parts) (Mutual—Monogram)—Feb. 5.
 Shorty Promotes His Love Affair (No. 6 of The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton) (2 parts) (Mutual—Monogram)—Feb. 19.
 Shorty Trans a Lottery King (No. 8 of The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton) (2 parts) (Mutual—Monogram)—Mar. 5.
 Shorty Turns Wild Man (No. 5 of The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton) (2 parts) (Mutual—Monogram)—Feb. 12.
 Shorty Becomes the Bullion Thief (No. 10 of The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton) (2 parts) (Mutual—Monogram)—Mar. 19.
 Shorty Lands a Master Crook (No. 11 of The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton) (2 parts) (Mutual—Monogram)—Mar. 26.
 Shorty Trails the Moonshiners (No. 9 of The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton) (2 parts) (Mutual—Monogram)—Mar. 12.
 Shot in the Dark, The (No. 11 of The Great Secret) (Metro—Serial)—Mar. 19.
 Shot in the West (Universal—Nestor)—Mar. 26—C-1951; S-2156.

Slide-Tracked Sleeper, The (No. 119 of The Hazards of Helen (Gen. Film—Kalem).
 Silent Army, The (No. 10 of Pearl of the Army) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Feb. 4.
 Silent Feud, The (No. 6 of The Purple Mask) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Feb. 4.
 Silk Industry (Pathe)—Dec. 31—S-141.
 Sin Unatoned (Universal—Laemmle)—Feb. 21—S-1244.
 Sinful Marriage, The (No. 6 of Is Marriage Sacred?) (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Jan. 20.
 Sins of a Brother, The (Universal—Imp)—Mar. 14—S-1820.
 Sister Against Sister (5 parts) (Fox)—Mar. 5—S-1672; C-1950; R-1947.
 Skinner's Dress Suit (5 parts) (K E S E—Essanay)—Feb. 5—S-744; C-1039; R-1033.
 Skinny's False Alarm (Pathe—Rollin)—Apr. 1—C-2124.
 Skinny's Love Tangle (Pathe—Rollin)—Feb. 11—C-873.
 Skinny Gets a Goat, and Max Linder Comedy (Pathe)—Mar. 25.
 Skinny Routs a Robber, and Max Linder Comedy (Pathe)—Mar. 11.
 Sky Monsters (No. 14 of The Purple Mask) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Apr. 1.
 Slave Market, The (5 parts) (Paramount—Famous Players)—Jan. 1—C-246; S-419; R-242.
 Slave of Fear, A (2 parts) (Universal—Imp)—Jan. 17—S-415; C-361.
 Sleepwalker, The (Paramount—Klever Comedy)—Feb. 12—S-910.
 Sloth (No. 4 of Seven Deadly Sins) (5 parts) (Triangle—McClures)—Feb. 19.
 Small Change (Christie)—Feb. 5—S-909.
 Smitte of Conscience (No. 7 of Perils of Our Girl Reporters) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Feb. 7.
 Snow White (5 parts) (Paramount—Famous Players)—Dec. 25, 1916—S-139; C-246; R-97.
 Snow White (3 parts) (Universal—Rex)—Apr. 1—S-2158.
 Social Leper, The (5 parts) (World)—Mar. 19—S-1990; C-1952; R-1945.
 Social Pirates (2 parts) (Fox—Foxfilm Comedy)—Jan. 15—R-1818.
 Sold at Auction (5 parts) (Pathe—Gold Rooster)—Feb. 11—S-912; C-873; R-867.
 Soldier's Dream, A (Universal—Big U)—Mar. 7—S-1661.
 Some Baby, and Nelly, the Fireman's Daughter (Universal—Victor)—Jan. 30—S-759.
 Some Doctor (Paramount—Klever Comedy)—Feb. 26—S-1412.
 Some Specimens (Universal—Nestor)—Mar. 12—C-1593; S-1821.
 Somewhere in Any Place (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 29.
 Somewhere in Mexico (Gen. Film—Vim)—S-2154.
 Soul Master, The (5 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 1.
 Souls United (3 parts) (Universal—Gold Seal)—Jan. 23—S-584; C-547.
 Spain, Picturesque Catalonia, and Florence Rose Fashions No. 21 (Pathe)—Mar. 4.
 Speed (Paramount—Black Diamond)—Mar. 5—S-1674.
 Speed and Spunk (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Jan. 1.
 Spike's Rusty Bike (2 parts) (Universal—L-KO)—Feb. 28—S-1405; C-1375.
 Spirit of Romance (5 parts) (Paramount—Moresco—Pallas)—Mar. 22—S-2161.
 Spring Idyl, A (One of Paula Blackton's Country Life Stories) (Gtr. Vitagraph).
 Square Deal, A (5 parts) (World)—Feb. 19—S-1250; C-1213; R-1206.
 Square Deal Man, The (5 parts) (Triangle—Kay Bee)—Mar. 25—R-1949; S-2164; C-2124.
 Stage Struck (5 parts) (Triangle—Fine Arts)—Feb. 25—C-1375; R-1371.
 Starring in Western Stuff (Gen. Film—Selig)—Jan. 8—S-274; C-546.
 Stars and Bars (2 parts) (Triangle—Mack Sennett—Kevstone)—Feb. 18—S-1412.
 Startling Climax, A (3 parts) (Universal—Gold Seal)—Mar. 27—S-2156.
 Steel Hearts (2 parts) (Universal—Bison)—Mar. 31—S-2157.
 Sticky Fingers (2 parts) (Mutual—Vogue)—Feb. 4—S-742; C-1040.
 Stolen Birthright (3 parts) (Pathe)—Jan. 21.
 Stolen Inheritance, The (Pathe)—Jan. 28—C-547.
 Stolen Rubies (No. 2 of Alias the Grey Seal) (2 parts) (Mutual—Monmouth)—Mar. 30.
 Strange Adventure, A (Gen. Film—Selig)—S-1402; C-1212.
 Strange Discovery, A (No. 9 of The Purple Mask) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Feb. 25.
 Strangest Army in the World (Universal—Powers)—Mar. 22—S-1983.
 Stronger Than Steel (2 parts) (Universal—Laemmle)—Dec. 27, 1916—C-103.
 Studio Cinderella, A (Universal—Laemmle)—Feb. 10—S-904.
 Studio Stampede, A (2 parts) (Mutual—Vogue)—Mar. 24—S-1955.
 Stumpland, In (Gen. Film—Vim)—S-2154.
 Sultor of Slam, The (No. 5 of Dangers of Doris) (Gen. Film—Broadway Star)—Jan. 19.
 Summer Boarders (Universal—L-KO)—Mar. 14—S-1821; C-1788.

Sunny Jane (5 parts) (Mutual Star—Horkheimer)—Mar. 6—C-2124; R-2120.
 Sunset Falls (No. 11 of Patria) (Pathe—International)—Mar. 25.
 Susons Gentlemen (5 parts) (Bluebird)—Apr. 2—C-2123.
 Suspected (No. 2 of The Purple Mask) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—S-132; C-103.
 Swamp Adder, The (No. 9 of The Secret Kingdom) (2 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Feb. 24.

T

Tail of a Thomas Kat, and Foreign Legations in China (Universal—Powers)—Mar. 18—S-1821.
 Tailor's Trimmings (2 parts) (Mutual—Vogue)—Jan. 21—S-585; C-707.
 Talo From the Decameron (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Dec. 26—C-245.
 Tale of Two Cities, The (5 parts) (Fox)—Mar. 12—S-2162; C-2125; R-2118.
 Taking Chances (No. 10 of Perils of Our Girl Reporters) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Feb. 26.
 Taking the Count (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Dec. 20—C-101.
 Tangled Threads (2 parts) (Universal—Imp)—Mar. 4—S-1404; C-1375.
 Tankless Job, A (Cartoon, and a Fishing Trip Through Uncle Sam's Wonderland) (Pathe—International)—Jan. 21—C-707.
 Telephone Belle, The (Triangle Comedy)—Feb. 18.
 Tell-Tale Arm, The (Mutual—American)—Mar. 9—S-1822.
 Temptation and the Girl (3 parts) (Gen. Film—Knickerbocker Star)—Jan. 5—S-415.
 Terrible Kate (Gen. Film—Vim)—Jan. 18—S-580.
 Terrible Wedding, The (No. 9 of The Vampires) (3 parts) (Mutual—Gaumont)—Jan. 18—S-417.
 Terror, The (5 parts) (Universal—Red Feather)—Feb. 12—S-1245; C-1040.
 That Dawgone Dog (2 parts) (Universal—L-KO)—Feb. 7—S-903; C-874.
 That Terrible Tenderfoot (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 2—S-414; C-101.
 There's Many a Fool (2 parts) (Fox—Foxfilm Comedy)—Feb. 19.
 They Practice Economy (Gen. Film—Vim)—Dec. 27—C-101.
 They Were Four (Universal—Victor)—Mar. 1—S-1404; C-1375.
 They Say Pigs Is Pigs, and See America First, No. 80 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Mar. 14.
 Third Ingredient, The (3rd of O. Henry Series) (Broadway Star Feature) (2 parts)—R-2121.
 This Is Not My Room (Gen. Film—Vim)—S-1819.
 Those Without Sin (5 parts) (Paramount—Lasky)—Mar. 1—S-1684; C-1788; R-1758.
 Threads of Fate (5 parts) (Metro—Columbia)—Jan. 22—S-589; C-706; R-705.
 Three of Many (5 parts) (Triangle—Kay-Bee)—Dec. 24, 1916—S-142; C-102.
 Three Ways Out (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Jan. 30—S-738; C-1039.
 Through Canadian Canyons (Paramount—Burton Holmes)—Mar. 19.
 Throwing the Bull (Cartoon and Paper; How It is Made from Wood Pulp) (Pathe—International)—Feb. 4.
 Tiger's Claw, The (No. 10 of Grant, Police Reporter) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Dec. 22—C-101.
 Tiger Woman, The (5 parts) (Fox)—Feb. 19—S-1672; C-1592; R-1585.
 Tillie Wakes Up (5 parts) (World)—Jan. 29—S-743; C-708; R-793; R-703.
 Tiny, Slim and Fat (Cartoon, and British Columbia) (Gen. Film—Essanay)—S-1819.
 Told at Twilight (5 parts) (Pathe—Gold Rooster)—Mar. 25—S-1992; C-1951; R-1948.
 Tornado, The (2 parts) (Universal—Bison)—Mar. 3—S-1404; C-1593.
 Tough Tony (Cartoon, and See America First No. 75) (Mutual Gaumont)—Feb. 14.
 Tours Around the World No. 7 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Dec. 19—S-134; C-102.
 Tours Around the World No. 8 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Dec. 26—S-132; R-236.
 Tours Around the World No. 9 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Jan. 2—C-245.
 Tours Around the World No. 10 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Jan. 9—C-361; R-523.
 Tours Around the World No. 11 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Jan. 16—C-547; R-686; C-873; S-277.
 Tours Around the World No. 12 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Jan. 23—S-417; C-707; R-842.
 Tours Around the World No. 13 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Jan. 30—S-587; C-873.
 Tours Around the World No. 14 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Feb. 6—S-741; C-1039; R-1179.
 Tours Around the World No. 15 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Feb. 13—S-907; C-1212; R-1349.
 Tours Around the World No. 16 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Feb. 20—S-1079.
 Tours Around the World No. 17 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Feb. 27—S-1248; C-1787; R-1928.
 Tours Around the World No. 18 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Mar. 6—S-1666; C-2150.

Tours Around the World No. 19 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Mar. 13—S-1666; C-2123.
 Tours Around the World No. 20 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Mar. 20—S-1823.
 Tours Around the World, No. 21 (Mutual—Bau-mont)—Mar. 27—S-1954.
 Tragic Masque, The (No. 13 of The Secret Kingdom) (2 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Mar. 26.
 Trail of Graft, The (No. 13 of Grant, Police Reporter) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 12.
 Trap, The (No. 17 of Grant, Police Reporter) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—S-1074.
 Trap, The (No. 5 of The Great Secret) (2 parts) (Metro—Serial)—Feb. 5—S-589.
 Treasure (No. 2 of Patria) (2 parts) (Pathe—International)—Jan. 21—S-281.
 Treat 'em Rough (Universal—Nestor)—Jan. 15—S-415.
 Trials of Willie Wink and The Forbidden City (Universal—Powers)—Jan. 7—S-131.
 Trip through China (10 parts) (China Film Co.)—March—R-1761; C-1932; R-1926.
 Trooper 44 (5 parts) (E. I. L. S. Co.)—March.
 Trooper of Troop K (3 parts) (Lincoln M. P. Co.)—January.
 Truant Soul, The (7 parts) (K-E-S-E—Essanay)—Dec. 25—S-281; R-1816.
 Truthful Tulliver (5 parts) (Triangle—Kay-Bee)—Jan. 7—S-426; C-102.
 Tuner of Notes, A (Triangle Comedy)—Mar. 25.
 Turks and Troubles (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Mar. 28.
 Turn of the Wheel (2 parts) (Mutual)—Dec. 11—C-361.
 Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea (2 parts) (Universal State Rights)—January—C-246; R-240; R-524 (Educ.).
 Twin Fedoras (No. 3 of The Dangers of Doris) (Gen. Film—Vitagraph)—Jan. 5.
 Twin Kiddies (5 parts) (Pathe—Gold Rooster)—Jan. 28—S-746; C-547; R-354.
 Two Men and a Woman (5 parts) (Ivan)—February—S-1409; C-1374.
 Two Men of the Desert (Gen. Film—Biograph Reissue)—Dec. 25—S-130.
 Two Small Town Romeos (Universal—Nestor)—Dec. 11.

U

Uncle Sam (1 of 2 parts) (Moore Feature Film Co.)—Jan. 10.
 Uncle Sam's Defenders, No. 1 (From Civilian to Soldier) (Mutual)—Jan. 5—C-547; R-686.
 Uncle Sam's Defenders, No. 2 (Our Boys at the Border) (Mutual)—Jan. 12—C-547; R-686.
 Uncle Sam's Defenders, No. 3 (A Jack Tar in the Making) (Mutual)—Jan. 19—S-418; C-706.
 Uncle Sam's Defenders, No. 4 (Afloat and Ashore) (Mutual)—Jan. 26—C-707; R-843.
 Uncle Sam's Defenders, No. 5 (Scouts of the Sea and Sky) (Mutual)—Feb. 2—S-742; C-873.
 Uncle Sam's Defenders, No. 6 (Bulldogs of the Deep) (Mutual)—Feb. 9—S-1078; C-873.
 Uncle Sam's Wards, and Sharks is Sharks (Pathe)—Mar. 4—C-1375.
 Undoing Evil (Universal—Laemmle)—Mar. 3—S-1403.
 Universal Screen Magazine, No. 4—Jan. 5—S-134; C-102.
 Universal Screen Magazine, No. 5—Jan. 19—S-417.
 Universal Screen Magazine, No. 6—Feb. 2—S-740; R-523.
 Universal Screen Magazine, No. 7—Feb. 16—S-1077; C-1040; R-842.
 Universal Screen Magazine, No. 8—Mar. 2—S-1403; C-1213; C-1375.
 Universal Screen Magazine, No. 9—Mar. 9—S-1662; C-1593; R-1349.
 Universal Screen Magazine, No. 10—Mar. 16—S-1821; R-1569.
 Universal Screen Magazine, No. 11—Mar. 23—S-1821; R-1926.
 Universal Screen Magazine, No. 12 (Universal)—Mar. 30—S-2158; C-2124.
 Universal Screen Magazine, No. 13 (Universal)—Apr. 6—S-2158.
 Up and Down (No. 8 of The Dangers of Doris) (Gen. Film—Vitagraph).
 Uprising, The (Universal—Big U Special)—Jan. 4—S-275.
 Up the Flue (Universal—L-KO)—Jan. 21; S-584; C-547; C-361.

V

Vagabond, The (Gen. Film—Vitagraph)—Jan. 22.
 Valley of Beautiful Things (Universal—Victor)—Feb. 6—S-904; C-1593.
 Valley of Fear (6 parts) (John W. Heanty)—January.
 Valley of Lost Hope (3 parts) (Gen. Film—Broadway Star)—Jan. 27.
 Valley of the Hob (Educational Films Corp.)—R-523.
 Vampires, No. 7 (The Man of Thunder) (3 parts) (Mutual—Gaumont)—Jan. 4—S-135; C-102; R-241.
 Vampires, No. 8 (The Poison Man) (3 parts) (Mutual—Gaumont)—Jan. 11—S-277; C-245; R-241.

Vampires, No. 9 (The Terrible Wedding) (3 parts) (Mutual—Gaumont)—Jan. 18—S-417; C-361; R-241.
 Vanished Jewels (No. 1 of The Purple Mask) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Dec. 31—S-132; C-103.
 Vanishing Bishop (Gen. Film—Kalem)—C-2123.
 Vanishing Woman, The (No. 12 of Is Marriage Sacred?) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Essanay).
 Vanity (5 parts) (Metro—P. P. & P)—Jan. 1—S-136; C-245; R-100.
 Vault of Mystery, The (No. 12 of The Purple Mask) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Mar. 18.
 Vicar of Wakefield (8 parts) (Pathe—Thanshouser)—R-1927.
 Victim, The (5 parts) (Fox)—Dec. 25—C-99.
 Villa of the Movies (2 parts) (Triangle—Mack Sennett—Keystone)—Mar. 4—S-1828.
 Violet Ray (No. 15 of Grant, Police Reporter) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 26.
 Voice on the Wire, No. 1 (Oriental Death Punch) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Mar. 18—S-1820; C-1788.
 Voice on the Wire, No. 2 (The Mysterious Man in Black) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Mar. 25—S-1984; C-1951; R-1948.
 Voice on the Wire (No. 3, The Spider's Web) (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Apr. 1—S-2155; C-2124.

W

Wall of Money, The (Universal—Rex)—Jan. 6—S-276.
 Wanta Make a Dollar? (Universal—Joker)—Mar. 10—S-1661; C-1593.
 Wanted, a Bad Man (Gen. Film—Vim)—S-1980.
 War Correspondents (Gen. Film—Vim)—Jan. 19—S-580; C-872.
 War of the Tongs (5 parts) (Universal—Red Feather)—Feb. 19—S-1245; C-1213; R-1209.
 War Wolf, The (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Feb. 1—S-740; C-707.
 War, The (Gen. Film—Official War Films, Inc.)—A Weekly Release.
 War in the Dooryard (No. 10 of Patria) (2 parts) (Pathe—International)—Mar. 18.
 Wax Model, The (Paramount—Morosco—Pallas)—Feb. 1—S-910; C-1040; R-1035.
 Weaker, Sex, The (5 parts) (Triangle—Kay-Bee)—Jan. 7—S-426; C-102.
 Web of Desire, The (5 parts) (World)—Mar. 5—S-1670; C-1594; R-1585.

Web of Life, The (5 parts) (Gold Medal Photoplays)—March.
 Wat's the Use? (Gen. Film—Vim)—Dec. 21, 1916—C-101.
 What the—? (Universal—Joker)—Mar. 31—S-2156; C-2124.
 What Would You Do? (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Black Cat—Essanay)—Jan. 23—S-738; C-872.
 Whelp, The (Universal—Imp)—Jan. 7—S-131; C-102.
 When Damon Fell for Pythias (2 parts) (Universal—Joker)—Jan. 11—S-416; C-246.
 When Hands are Idle (2 parts) (Mutual)—Jan. 8.
 When Hearts Collide (Triangle—Keystone)—Feb. 18.
 When the Cat's Away (Universal—Nestor)—Mar. 19—S-1982; C-1951.
 When the Man Speaks (No. 4 of Is Marriage Sacred?) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Jan. 6—S-130.
 When Thieves Fall Out (2 parts) (Universal—Imp)—Feb. 11—S-904; C-874.
 Where Glory Waits (2 parts) (Universal—Laemmle)—Mar. 14—S-1821; C-1788.
 Where Love Is (5 parts) (Mutual Star)—Feb. 5—C-1040; R-1037.
 Whip, The (8 parts) (Paragon Films, Inc.)—March.
 Whispered Name, The (2 parts) (Universal—Rex)—Jan. 12—S-276.
 White Raven, The (5 parts) (Metro—Rolle)—Jan. 15—S-423; C-872; R-870.
 White Trail, The (No. 4 of Perils of Our Girl Reporters) (2 parts) (Mutual—Niagara)—Jan. 17.
 White Witch, The (No. 11 of The Secret Kingdom) (2 parts) (Gtr. Vitagraph)—Mar. 12.
 Whose Baby? (Universal—Joker)—Mar. 24—S-1983; C-1951.
 Whoso Findeth a Wife (Art Dramas—U. S. Amusement Corp.)—Dec. 28—R-240.
 Why Uncle? (Universal—Nestor)—Jan. 29—S-740.
 Wide, Wrong Way, The (No. 5 of Is Marriage Sacred) (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Jan. 13—S-414.
 Wife by Proxy (5 parts) (Metro—Columbia)—Jan. 8—S-280; C-546; R-358.
 Wife's Folly, A (2 parts) (Universal—Big U)—Jan. 25—S-582; C-548.
 Wifeless Husband (Episode of Is Marriage Sacred?) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Essanay).
 Will You Marry Me? (Major Film Corp.)—February.

Willoo Walrus Pays Alimony (Gen. Film—Vim)—S-1820.
 Winged Diamonds (No. 18 of Grant, Police Reporter) (Gen. Film—Kalem).
 Winged Millions (No. 3 of Patria) (Pathe—International)—Jan. 28.
 Winning an Heiress (Metro—Rolma)—Feb. 12—C-1242.
 Winning of Sally Temple (5 parts) (Paramount—Lasky)—Feb. 19—S-1411; C-1375; R-1370.
 With the Stony Indians (Paramount—Burton Holmes)—Feb. 19.
 Wolf of Los Alamos (No. 24 of the Girl from Frisco) (2 parts) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 24.
 Woman Alone, A (5 parts) (World)—Jan. 1—S-133; C-103; R-98.
 Woman in the Case (Universal—Victor)—Mar. 13—S-1821; C-1788.
 Woman and the Game, The (No. 10 of The Great Secret) (2 parts) (Metro—Serial)—Mar. 12.
 Woman's Awakening, A (5 parts) (Triangle—Fine Arts)—Mar. 25—S-2164.
 Woman Who Dared, The (7 parts) (Ultra Pictures Corp.—California)—March.
 Won by a Foot (Triangle—Keystone)—Feb. 11.
 Won by Grit (3 parts) (Universal—Gold Seal)—Feb. 6—S-903; C-874.
 Wonders of the Orient, and Mr. Fuller Pep Celebrates His Wedding Anniversary (Universal—Powers)—Jan. 14—S-275.
 Wrath (No. 6 of The Seven Deadly Sins) (5 parts) (Triangle—McClure's)—Mar. 5.
 Wrecked Station, The (No. 115 of The Hazards of Helen) (Gen. Film—Kalem)—Jan. 20.
 Wrong Mary Wright, The (Universal—Victor)—Jan. 12—S-275; C-246.

Y

Yellow Claw, The (No. 7 of The Great Secret) (2 parts) (Metro—Serial)—Feb. 19—S-1080.
 Yellowstone Park, Winter in, and Bringing Up Father (Cartoon) (Pathe—International)—Mar. 4.
 Yoko Valley, The (Paramount—Burton Holmes)—Mar. 5.
 Yosemite Valley, The, and "A Dollar Down" (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Jan. 3.
 Yosemite Valley, The, and Animated Nooz No. 22 (Gen. Film—Essanay)—Jan. 10.

Z

Zoo-Illogical Studies (Keen Cartoon Corp.)—Feb. 5.

XHIBITORS

most consistently helpful dependable paper has always been the MOVING PICTURE
WORLD

Stampede A. S-904
Mar. 24 S-195
Stumpland, In (Gen.)
Sultor of Stam. The
(Gen. Film) Broadw.
Summer Readers (Univ.)
—S-1821; C-1789

ADVERTISERS

The paper with by far the largest circulation and the one enjoying to an exceptional degree "Reader Confidence" is the MOVING PICTURE WORLD

The MOVING PICTURE WORLD has always been free and independent of any trade connection, either manufacturing or exhibiting.

Its policies are founded on principle and consider only the best interests of all. Injustice to any one side can only mean ruin in the long run.

We offer, now or never, no bribe for your support or the endorsement of any special interest in the trade. With us no endorsement has been necessary outside of furnishing the best and most reliable paper that you can read.

We stand on no insecure foundation of false claims as to exhibitors representation, either organized or unorganized, nor any equally false intimations as to independence of advertising patronage.

We have, for nearly ten years, given the best value long odds to exhibitors and advertisers impartially and without special favor to any.

We thank you for your confidence and support heretofore and solicit a continuance of same, believing we are in position to give you even better value through our greater experience and understanding of all your problems.

For nearly ten years the representative paper of the industry, built on principle without the slightest MISREPRESENTATION at any time or of any sort.

Yearly subscriptions means less than a single admission to your theatre weekly. If not already a subscriber send your remittance NOW --- TODAY --- THIS MINUTE

CONSERPHASE

BRIDGEPORT NATIONAL
BINDERY INC.

Library

Title/Author/Call No.

Piece Number

Account No.

Lot No.

Date Sent

Please Check One

☐ CONSERPHASE™

☐ CONSERPHASE™ II

Measurements

Length (L) _____

Width (W) _____

Thickness (T) _____

Special Instructions

Buckram color

and stamping color to be filled in ONLY for

CONSERPHASE™ II

Buckram Color

Stamping Color

